College accepts governor's challenge

CF says it will offer $10,000 degree

PAT FAHERTY
Staff writer

LECANTO — New initiatives and ongoing programs in technical training and higher education were presented to the Economic Development Council.

At Thursday's EDC meeting, Dr. Vernon Lawter, College of Central Florida Citrus Campus vice president, announced CF had accepted the "Governor's $10,000 Degree Challenge."

"We will offer a Bachelor of Applied Science in Business and Organizational Management that would currently cost $13,000," Lawter said. "We've got some work to do to drive the cost down. We have made the commitment."

He said no details were available yet. A number of colleges have accepted the challenge, but not all of them. He said it is driven by efforts to keep students from coming out of college tens or hundreds of thousands of dollars in debt.

Scott issued the challenge in late November to provide affordable college degrees in fields that will offer graduates the best opportunity for employment

EDC chairman and County Commissioner Joe Meek said one of the primary goals in 2013 will be closing the skills gap between unemployed workers and available jobs, which led to a presentation by Denise Willis, director of Withlacoochee Technical Institute.

She explained the wide range of career and technical programs

Embrace life. Live life. Let go of the pressure and stress.

Exactly the inspiration of the single, middle-aged mother who gave up her home, business and possessions for a solo journey across the United States in a Winnebago motor home.

"I can't say there was a precise moment when I knew I needed a drastic change in my life, but for years I've been haunted with the feeling that we, as a society, are on the wrong track," Fran Reisner said. "We've lost our footing, our grounding with this Earth. That connection seems like it should be an innate part of the human spirit. It appears that our connection to nature — to our natural surroundings — has recessed a bit more with the passing of each generation. Life is a gift and we are all wasting it, scurrying around like little rats in a maze."

National award-winning photographer, author and speaker, Reisner has a passion for capturing the beauty of the world through her lens. Citrus County is among her discoveries in Florida, having made a month-long commitment at a local RV park in Homosassa.

"Do you have any idea how lucky you are to live in such a beautiful place?" she asked. "It's amazing. I think people surrounded by that all of the time don't really see it like I do. The wildlife here is pretty cool.

"I'm staying in the state for a few months," Reisner continued. "I don't have a plan. I'm letting life happen and just enjoying the days."

CHRIS FRITCHE/Special to the Chronicle

Fran Reisner, a national award-winning photographer from the Dallas, Texas, area, travels the world with her two dogs, Jazzy and Sadie, while capturing beauty through her lens.

In 2011, Reisner embarked on an adventure across the United States that she said many only dream about. She has also explored Paris, London and Italy. Italy's studies of light and shadows led to her first book, "A Personal Renaissance."

Honoring a promise she made to herself after her divorce six and a half years ago, she maintained her daughter's childhood 3,200-square-foot home until she graduated from high school and headed off to college. She knew her journey was fate as she went into contract on the sale of her home the week her daughter graduated and handed the keys off a week after college started.

What was her inspiration and focus?

"I developed a wonderful portrait and wedding business there (Texas)," Reisner said. "But technology changed it dramatically.

Attorney: Medical corridor increases value of CMHS

MIKE WRIGHT
Staff writer

INVERNESS — The way attorney Fred Busack sees it, Citrus County could be the center of a medical hub with top-scale university facilities now located in Gainesville, Orlando and Tampa.

And the center of Citrus County is the section of County Road 491 between C.R. 486 and State Road 44, which he said is perfect for a medical corridor.

And the center of that section is the Allen Ridge Family Care Facility complex operated by Citrus Memorial Health Foundation and owned by the Citrus County Hospital Board.

All of that, Busack said, makes that hospital

Biden, NRA clash over gun control proposals

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Despite fresh opposition from the National Rifle Association, the Obama administration is assembling proposals to curb gun violence that would include a ban on sales of assault weapons, limits on high-capacity ammunition magazines and universal background checks for gun buyers.

Sketching out details of the plan Thursday, Vice President Joe Biden said he would give President Barack Obama a set of recommendations by next Tuesday. The NRA, one of the pro-gun groups that met with Biden during the day, rejected the effort to limit ammunition and dug in on its opposition to an assault weapons ban, which Obama has previously said he will propose to Congress.

"The vice president made it clear, made it explicitly clear, that the president had already made up his mind on those issues," NRA president David Keene said following the meeting. "We made it clear that we disagree with them."

Opposition from the well-funded and politically powerful NRA underscores the challenges that await the White House if it seeks congressional approval for limiting guns and ammunition. Obama can use his

Tallahassee

Suspended search for UF president costly

The University of Florida's president is staying put, but the search for a successor still wound up costing the school.

UF President Bernie Machen, who has led the school since 2004, agreed this week to remain on the job at the urging of Gov. Rick Scott and the chairman of the university's board.

But the university — which began a search for a replacement last year — will pay at least $41,000 to the Miramar Beach firm hired to help find a new president.

UF's contract with Greenwood/Asher & Associates called for a total payment of $95,000 in three installments plus up to $9,500 in expenses.

ACLU: Civil liberties attack unprecedented

American Civil Liberties Union officials said Republican Gov. Rick Scott and the GOP-led Florida Legislature have mounted an unprecedented attack on civil liberties over the past two years.

The ACLU of Florida issued a report Thursday on actions by the group and others in the courts of law and public opinion and at the ballot box to protect voting, free speech and other rights.

TDC supports dragon boat festival

Twelve teams, 300 paddlers expected

PAT FAHERTY
Staff writer

The Tourist Development Council will help support the upcoming Nature Coast Dragon Boat Festival.

The annual event is scheduled for the weekend of March 16 in Homosassa. Organizers have been working for the past several months to attract support from the TDC and other sources. Last year, the event attracted 12 dragon boat teams and more than 500 people.

At least 12 teams and 300 paddlers are expected this year, the fourth time it has been held in Citrus County.

Organizers hope to expand it somewhat this year, with an eye on developing it into a major event for 2014. They will also consider moving it from the river up to the barge canal in northwest Citrus County next year to accommodate more boats and more people.

They asked the TDC to contribute $7,000 of the approximate $12,000 it will cost to put on the event.

But, for this year, the TDC expressed concern over the narrow timeframe for promoting the March race and following its own guidelines for funding specific events. In the past, it has provided seed money to events such as the October Bikes and Barbecue event in Floral City.

On Wednesday, Cathy Pearson, assistant county administrator, said Parks and Recreation has donated $500 and staff time to the 2013 event.

"The average age (of paddlers) is 60; this is a sport for all ages," Dieter Hollweck, sponsor chairman, said. "This year will be bigger than last year."

Hollweck detailed the growth of some of the past dragon boat races he has been involved with and is confident the festival will attract teams from out of the immediate area. A large portion of last year's teams came from The Villages, which some council members thought would preclude overnight stays in Citrus County.

After discussion, council member Rocky Hensley moved to commit, not contribute, $1,500 to help promote the 2013 event under the supervision of the Convention and Visitors Bureau. The motion passed unanimously.

The council was also informed the new version of the Visit Citrus website went live on Dec. 21. Marla Chancey, executive director of the Convention and Visitors Bureau, said they have about 650 visitors daily and are shooting for 1,000 a day. She said it includes a downloadable version of the visitors guide.

Eyesore ends

Charles Sipp, left, removes carpeting and other household debris Thursday morning from one of the many mobile homes set to be demolished at the former Citrus Mobile Home Park on U.S. 19 in Homosassa. Sipp and two other workers, Philip Hessinger, right, and Frank Ivanowski, from All Around Tractor Service, were present to begin the demolition process.

Demolition work, septic tank removal begins at Homosassa trailer park

CHRIS VAN ORMER
Staff writer

HOMOSASSA — An old eyesore finally is biting the dust.

"Hooray!" said Kristen King, co-owner of an adjacent business, The Downtown Diner. "It really is a beautiful piece of property without all of the garbage in it."

For decades, a mobile home park has occupied about 3 acres on the east side of U.S. 19 north of Old Homosassa Trail in Homosassa. Once popular with winter visitors, the property later fell into disrepair. Half the land was sold, cleared and developed as the Dollar General store that opened last year.

Following the eviction of the last tenants in August, the remainder of the land became the site of piles of trash and derelict mobile homes that were vandalized and stripped out by metal scavengers. Last month, ownership reverted to a bank, Fifth Third Bank of Cincinnati, which arranged to demolish the old trailers and to destroy the septic tanks.

"Individuals from the bank were very cooperative and they met with my staff and they've been doing what they said they were going to do," said Vincent Cautero, director of the county's Department of Planning and Development. "We're looking forward to having all this cleared. It's not a safe situation. It's an eyesore. The owner's going to get that taken care of as soon as possible and we appreciate that cooperation."

The bank that now owns the remaining parcels of the old trailer park property and is responsible to clear the land hired All Around Tractor Service. The land-clearing company must first remove trash from the site before demolishing the trailers and clearing them from the site. It also will crush the existing septic tanks.

Work is expected to continue for several days. The property is for sale and designated for commercial development.

State schools sixth in Education Week rankings

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — Florida's public schools have returned to the top 10 in a national ranking at sixth place due to high marks for coordinating kindergarten through 12th grade education with early learning, post-secondary education and the state's workforce.

Education Week on Thursday gave Florida an A for transitions and alignment, one of six categories that make up the publication's annual "Quality Counts" rankings for the 50 states and District of Columbia.

Florida's overall grade went up from C-plus to B-minus. This year's national average is C-plus.

The state had dropped from fifth to 11th last year largely due to weaker student performance and spending cuts. Last year's decline interrupted a rapid climb from 31st to fifth place in just four years.

"We obviously are very proud of the fact that we have made this rapid move up over the last number of years," said interim Education Commissioner Pam Stewart.

Stewart also criticized the methodology that resulted in Florida's lower school finance grade of D-plus and predicted its C-minus for student achievement would improve next year.

> "This is in large part a reflection of Florida's philosophy that what matters most is not how much we spend, but how we spend the dollars we allocate."
> Pam Stewart
> interim education commissioner.

Gov. Rick Scott, business leaders, lawmakers and State Board of Education members also hailed Florida's ranking as evidence the state's efforts to set high standards and hold schools accountable for reaching those goals are working. Florida's improvement in the rankings has coincided with those efforts spearheaded by former Gov. Jeb Bush as well as class size limits that were ordered by voters but opposed by Bush and most other Republican politicians.

Education Week updates three of the six categories every year. Florida's C-minus for student achievement, another A for standards assessments and accountability and a B for the quality of the state's teaching profession were carried over from 2012.

Florida this year improved its grade for transitions and alignment from B-minus and 14th nationally to A and fourth place.

The state's grades in the other two categories revised this year, though, remain unchanged with a C for chance of success — 34th nationally — and a D-plus for finance — 39th.

Florida's school spending had been in steady decline for several years, including a $1.3 billion cut in the 2011-12 budget year, which ended on June 30.

Scott, who had sought an even bigger reduction, has since reversed course. Lawmakers approved his request to restore $1 billion to public schools for the current budget year.

Florida ranks 49th in the number of students funded at or above the $11,824 national average and 40th in per student funding at $9,572. The dollar figures are adjusted to account for regional cost differences.

While the state gets high marks for equity in school spending, another drag on Florida's finance grade is that it devotes only 3 percent of its taxable resources to K-12 education — 42nd nationally.

Stewart, though, noted 17.3 percent of Florida's population was 65 or older in the 2010 census, the highest in the nation.

"That statistic alone could explain why Florida might spend a smaller proportion of state taxable revenues on the K-12 age population than other states do," Stewart said.

She also said Florida squeezes more out of the dollars it does spend on education.

"This is in large part a reflection of Florida's philosophy that what matters most is not how much we spend, but how we spend the dollars we allocate," Stewart said.

property very valuable to potential suitors.

"You're in the center of the center of the center," Busack told CCHB trustees Wednesday.

Busack, a Tampa attorney hired by the county to develop a right-of-way plan for widening C.R. 491, made a similar pitch to the hospital's foundation board of directors in September.

Much has changed since then. Feuding hospital boards are no longer feuding. And, most significantly, both boards are taking steps that potentially could result in Citrus Memorial Health System being sold or merged with another hospital.

Busack's point to the hospital board was simple: Talk of a medical corridor significantly increases the Allen Ridge property value to possible suitors.

The hospital board is following a state mandate that requires public hospitals to consider being sold or merged. The board hired an accountant to conduct an appraisal of hospital assets, and trustees are expected to decide by April whether to move forward with the process or stop it.

Meanwhile, both the foundation and CCHB agreed to jointly issue requests for information from companies interested in a sale or merger. Officials stress that no decision has been made to sell or merge the hospital.

The county has scheduled a community meeting for 5:30 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 31, at the Lecanto Government Building to seek public input for the C.R. 491 corridor plans.

Busack said medical facilities at the Universities of Florida, Central Florida and South Florida would likely be interested in expansion to Lecanto, particularly with the Suncoast Parkway corridor only a mile away.

While there has not been a decision yet whether to build the parkway through the county, the state is buying rights of way.

County officials say the medical corridor has huge potential.

"This is not just a road project, this is an economic development project," County Attorney Richard Wesch said.

CCHB trustee Mike Bays, whose wife Rebecca is a county commissioner, said the Allen Ridge value rises with the knowledge that a medical corridor would draw patients from a multicounty region.

While the C.R. 491 widening project is included in the county's five-year work program, it isn't yet funded for construction.

In her quest to connect with nature, Fran Reisner pulls her kayak along a boardwalk as she sets out on a journey.

Not just shooting digitally but the workflow and how we communicate with the clients. All of that changed to the point to where I wasn't happy with it anymore. I was spending more time at one of five computers than I was creating art from behind my camera."

She contemplated returning to the Northwest, where she was raised; however, being anchored to property did not sound inviting to her. Before she knew it, she was traveling on the road with her two companion dogs — Jazzy and Sadie. Together they have chased her dreams across the United States.

"I've always been filled with a sense of wanderlust, and completely enthralled by the beauty of our world," she said. "It's never ending, and I'd be happy spending the rest of my life taking it all in."

Before setting out on her journey, Reisner visited Central Park in New York City, which inspired her second book, "The Dogs of Central Park." While shooting for a commercial job, she wandered into Central Park and found dogs playing like "children on the playground running." She felt like a child in a candy store, as she kept snapping photos of the dogs, which — after seven trips and four seasons — resulted in the first book of a series.

"That book and the potential series is why I ended up in a motorhome," she said. "I never dreamed I would have been driving a motorhome around the country. But I thought of this series of books and that to me was like I had every reason to be mobile and not to be anchored."

Now, she is ringing in 2013 at a slower pace in Florida. She gave herself until the end of the year to travel at her own pace, meandering around the country.

In Homosassa she is working on projects she wants to complete while capturing landscape and wildlife. One of the many projects she wants to accomplish is her book regarding "Hog dogs" that she photographed at the Sturgis, S.D., motorcycle rally.

"I'm so open to whatever," she said. "I was here in the spring and it rained and stormed most of the time I was here. There is a lot of the state that I want to see again. My pace is going to slow down in 2013. I'll be revisiting places I really loved and dig deeper into them."

Discovering new places like Tarpon Springs and the Florida Keys are on her agenda. She said she has no set destination, as people are always recommending places for her to take a glimpse of nature — like the manatees.

"The focus of my journey is not just photography. It's a spiritual journey as well. It's about seeking peace and balance. It's about healing and rekindling a fire and passion for life. It's about letting go of stress, of things, of the burdens that keep us trapped, unable to truly enjoy this amazing gift of life. Mostly it's about living life fully and celebrating the blessing of each day."

offered by WTI, which is part of the school district. "We have 10 percent high school students and 90 percent post-secondary students," she said. "We have opportunities for students to earn industry credentials." Last year WTI students earned more than 400 certifications.

The school is a general equivalency diploma (GED) site and offers free child care for GED students. It also provides adult English for Speakers of Other Languages (ESOL) training and community education. She said WTI has articulation agreements for students to transfer to associate arts programs and works with specific employers to meet their training needs.

It also has financial aid available and partners with CLM Workforce Connection, which sponsors students needing tuition assistance.

"We have many eager students from 20 to 50 years old preparing for a second career," she said. "All employers have been satisfied with the caliber of our students."

Lawter said CF and WTI do not compete, but work together.

The council got an update on the new enterprise zone, which EDC Executive Director John Siefert described as "a watershed event that will produce jobs in Citrus County."

With Siefert soon to retire, Meek said the EDC is moving forward in the search for a new executive director. He said they have narrowed it down to three candidates and will make a recommendation at the next meeting for the entire board to consider.

GUNS

executive powers to act alone on some gun measures, but his options on the proposals opposed by the NRA are limited without Congress' cooperation.

Obama has pushed reducing gun violence to the top of his domestic agenda following last month's massacre of 20 children and six adults at a Connecticut elementary school. The president put Biden in charge of an administration-wide task force and set a late January deadline for proposals.

"I committed to him I'd have these recommendations to him by Tuesday," Biden said Thursday, during a separate White House meeting with sportsmen and wildlife groups. "It doesn't mean it's the end of the discussion, but the public wants us to act."

The vice president later huddled privately with the NRA and other gun owner groups for more than 90 minutes. Participants in the meeting described it as an open and frank discussion, but one that yielded little movement from either side on long-held positions.

Richard Feldman, the president of the Independent Firearm Owners Association, said all were in agreement on a need to keep guns out of the hands of criminals and people with mental health issues. But when the conversation turned to broad restrictions on high capacity magazines and assault weapons, Feldman said Biden suggested the president had already made up his mind to seek a ban.

"Is there wiggle room and give?" Feldman said. "I don't know."

White House officials said the vice president didn't expect to win over the NRA and other gun groups on those key issues. But the administration was hoping to soften their opposition in order to rally support from pro-gun lawmakers on Capitol Hill.

Biden's proposals are also expected to include recommendations to address mental health care and violence on television and in movies and video games. Those issues have wide support from gun rights groups and pro-gun lawmakers.

The vice president also met Thursday with representatives from the entertainment industry, including Comcast Corp. and the Motion Picture Association of America. He'll hold talks Friday with the video game industry.

During his meeting with sporting and wildlife groups, Biden said that while no recommendations would eliminate all future shootings, "there has got to be some common ground, to not solve every problem but diminish the probability that our children are at risk in their schools and diminish the probability that firearms will be used in violent behavior in our society."

Global Diabetes Rates Skyrocket: 347 Million Struggle with Blood Sugar and Insulin Woes

Doctor-recommended OPCs won't cure diabetes but may be the next best thing

Are you plagued by food cravings, high and low blood sugar levels, mood swings, low energy and constant fatigue, poor circulation, vision problems, frequent pain or aggravating bouts of brain fog or memory lapses? Doctor recommended OPCs maybe the natural relief you've been seeking.

Dr. Fred Vagnini, MD, FACS, Medical Director, Heart, Diabetes, & Weight Loss Centers of New York

Dr. Fred Vagnini, MD, a cardiovascular surgeon, and Medical Director of the Heart, Diabetes & Weight Loss Centers of New York is one of a growing number of healthcare professionals who recommend the daily use of oligomeric proanthocyanidins, or OPCs.

These high-powered, super antioxidants fight dangerous free radicals, the source of oxidative stress and a leading cause of premature aging.

50 Times More Powerful!

Doctors are taking a closer look at OPCs because they are an amazing 20 to 50 times more powerful than traditional antioxidants like vitamins A, E, and C.

Unlike single antioxidants which are quickly depleted in the body, OPCs have been shown to last as long as 24 hours, fully maximizing their health-boosting powers.

With daily use, OPC antioxidants can help support a healthy immune system, strong bones, youthful skin, and healthy blood pressure. Users report increased energy and vitality, fewer aches and pains, healthier blood sugar levels, a sharper mind and memory, and much more.

There's one OPC antioxidant based formulation in particular that is fast-gaining the favor of healthcare professionals. Dr. Vagnini calls the health breakthrough named OPC Factor™ — "a miracle."

Results That You Can Really Feel - In Minutes!

Each great tasting, effervescent serving of OPC Factor provides a potent dose of free radical-crushing powerhouses like grape seed, green tea, pine bark, and red wine extracts, along with lemon bioflavonoids, resveratrol, and 30 naturally occurring vitamins, minerals and enzymes. The effects can be felt almost immediately.

More doctors are recommending concentrated doses of high-powered antioxidants to relieve a host of health issues, including healthy blood sugar levels!

"If your body is functioning properly, it has an amazing ability to heal itself," says Dr. Vagnini. "Powerful OPC antioxidants like those found in OPC Factor can help maintain your body's natural balance - at the cellular level, where it counts."

Scientifically Formulated — No More Horse Pills To Swallow!

OPC Factor is the first all-natural formula powered by a revolutionary, high-speed Isotonic 'liquid' delivery system. The formula mimics the body's natural pH levels. In fact, when mixed with five ounces of water, OPC Factor has the same pH levels as your own blood and tears.

This means that OPC Factor's super-antioxidants and nutrients are quickly and easily absorbed with an amazing bio-availability rate of up to 97 percent. Dr. Vagnini sees this as a key factor in the formula's effectiveness. "Pills and tablets have absorption rates as low as 2 to 20 percent," says Dr. Vagnini.

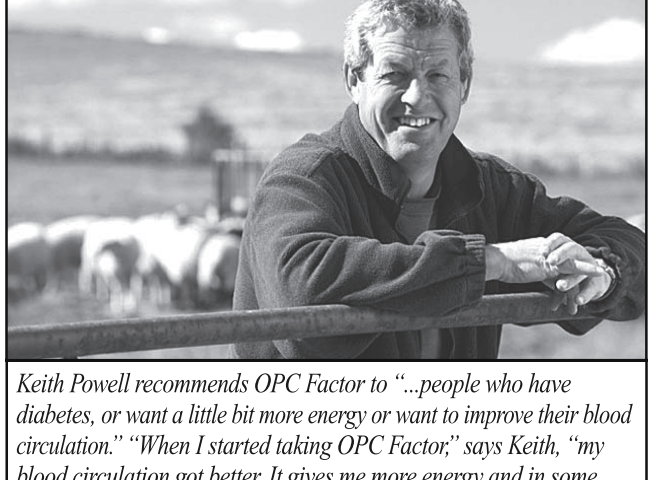
While doctors and consumers are praising the whole-body health benefits of this drug-free compound, it is the surprising results from a National Institutes of Health-funded clinical trial that has everyone talking.

Clinical Study Proves It

"I can feel it when I drink it. It gives a lot of energy." says Ken Murdock.

A landmark, double-blind research study funded by the prestigious National Institutes of Health found that the OPC antioxidant combination in OPC Factor boosts energy levels naturally. Researchers were surprised to discover that OPC Factor does this – without stimulants!

Antioxidants continue to surprise medical researchers.



Keith Powell recommends OPC Factor to "...people who have diabetes, or want a little bit more energy or want to improve their blood circulation." "When I started taking OPC Factor," says Keith, "my blood circulation got better. It gives me more energy and in some kind of way, my sugar levels are normal or close to being normal. It's working for me. I'm going to continue to take OPC Factor."

These natural free radical warriors help support a healthy anti-inflammatory response, maintain healthy cholesterol levels, joint flexibility, and cardiovascular health while supporting healthy circulation by strengthening capillaries, arteries and veins.

"With OPC Factor, I get this wonderful feeling of well-being. It is the best way to start your day," says Lilian B. of Atlanta.

Taking healthy daily doses of antioxidants is recommended by leading physicians like Dr. Vagnini. "OPC antioxidants help to support your natural energy levels and promote a feeling of youthfulness," says Dr. Vagnini. "When you drink these powerful antioxidants first thing in the morning, they rush through the bloodstream in just minutes."

Energize Your Mind

A surprising benefit of OPC Factor is the mental clarity and energy many users experience after just a few days.

Dr. Vagnini explains, "Our brain is the largest user of energy in our body and it makes sense that we need to nourish it with energizing nutrients to help it stay sharp and focused."

OPC Factor's invigorating feeling of wellness lasts throughout the day. No one knows this more than DeAnna C. from Ojai, California, who uses OPC Factor everyday. "My husband, Glenn, started taking OPC Factor in the fall of 2010. After a few weeks, he started telling me how good he felt and wanted me to take it too."

"I was skeptical at first," adds DeAnna, "but then I thought, why not? We've been taking vitamins for years so I didn't have anything to lose. I started taking it and... wow! We are true believers!"

Daniel B. from Richmond, Virginia had the same experience. "After taking OPC Factor for about two weeks, I began to notice a very distinct increase in my energy level. As the weeks and months progressed, I continued to see the benefits of taking it daily. I have friends and relatives who took my lead and have also experienced similarly remarkable results. Take it from a real skeptic: OPC Factor is good stuff!"

FDA requiring lower doses for sleep medications

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Food and Drug Administration is requiring makers of Ambien and similar sleeping pills to lower the dosage of their drugs, based on studies suggesting patients face a higher risk of injury due to morning drowsiness.

The agency said Thursday that new research shows that the drugs remain in the bloodstream at levels high enough to interfere with alertness and coordination, which increases the risk of car accidents.

Regulators are ordering drug manufacturers to cut the dose of the medications in half for women, who process the drug more slowly. Doses will be lowered from 10 milligrams to 5 milligrams for regular products, and 12.5 milligrams to 6.25 milligrams for extended-release formulations.

Regulators are ordering drug manufacturers to cut the dose of the medications in half for women, who process the drug more slowly.

The FDA is recommending that manufacturers apply these lower doses to men as well, though it is not making them a requirement.

The new doses apply to all insomnia treatments containing the drug zolpidem, which is sold under brands including Ambien, Edluar, Zolpimist and in generic forms.

FDA officials pointed out that all sleeping drugs carry warnings about drowsiness.

"All sleep drugs have the potential to cause this, so health professionals should prescribe — and patients should take — the lowest dose that is capable of preventing insomnia," said Dr. Ellis Unger, a director in FDA's Office of Drug Evaluation, on a teleconference with reporters.

Unger added that the FDA will begin requiring developers of sleep drugs to conduct driving simulation studies going forward.

The FDA has received more than 700 reports of driving-related problems connected to zolpidem over the years.

"But in most cases it was very difficult to determine if the driving impairment was actually related to zolpidem," Unger said. "Usually the reports did not contain information about when the accident happened or how much time had lapsed since taking the drug.

The agency decided to take action after recent driving simulation studies showed that, in some patients, drug levels remained high enough to cause difficulty driving. The data came from company studies of Intermezzo, a new form of zolpidem which was approved in 2011 for people who wake late at night and can't get back to sleep.

The data showed that 33 percent of women and 25 percent of men taking extended-release zolpidem had enough of the drug in their blood to interfere with driving as much as eight hours later.

When the dose was cut in half only 15 percent of women and 5 percent of men had those same drug levels.

FDA analysis was unable to determine why women metabolize zolpidem so much more slowly than men. According to FDA staff, the difference cannot be accounted for by usual factors like size and weight.

For now, patients should continue taking their currently prescribed dose until they can talk to their doctor about the best way to proceed.

"We really don't want people to change the dose they're on. We want them to talk to their health care provider," Unger said.

Ambien is marketed by Sanofi, Intermezzo by Purdue Pharma LP and Zolpimist by NovaDel Pharma Inc.

Drug companies forge partnerships

Big Pharma pursuing university research

Associated Press

ST. LOUIS — In their quest for the next big drug discovery, pharmaceutical companies are increasingly teaming up with some of the nation's top universities, recruiting campus scientists as partners and offering schools multimillion-dollar deals to work on experimental drugs in development.

Big Pharma has long sought to profit from academia's innovations in more limited arrangements. Now the two sides are often joining forces as equals. But the drug makers' aggressive pursuit of university research has drawn the ire of academic purists who question whether the partnerships put profits ahead of, or on equal footing with, science for science's sake.

"What it does is to blur the boundaries between academic medical centers and investor-owned companies," said Dr. Marcia Angell, former editor-in-chief of the New England Journal of Medicine and a prominent critic of the pharmaceutical industry's new coziness with major campuses.

Pfizer Inc., Astra Zeneca PLC and Eli Lilly and Co. are among the major international drug companies signing agreements with schools such as New York University, Harvard and the University of California at San Francisco.

Associated Press

Matt Drever, left, scrapes bacteria from an agar plate during an antibody phage experiment as Charlie Holst watches at the Pfizer laboratory at the University of California at San Francisco Mission Bay campus. Pfizer Inc., Astra Zeneca PLC and Eli Lilly and Co. are among the major international drug companies signing seven-figure, multi-year umbrella agreements with schools such as New York University, Harvard and the University of California-San Francisco. The deals cover a range of research projects and offer campus scientists access to once-proprietary experimental drug compounds owned by the corporate labs.

Driving the change is the expiration of patents for such lucrative name-brand drugs as Seroquel, Lipitor and Protonix, which industry observers say accounted for nearly $36 billion in U.S. sales in 2011 and 2012. More than ever, drug makers need new revenue to replace diminished profits from drugs that now have generic rivals.

"There's a real need on Big Pharma to be innovative in how it fills its pipeline," said Van Ellis, a Washington-based life-sciences lawyer and partner with the Morrison & Foerster firm. "And academia is incredibly concerned with how to support research."

A 2011 research report by the Biotechnology Industry Organization found that just 1 in 10 prospective drugs in clinical trials from late 2003 through 2010 ultimately received approval from the federal Food and Drug Administration, a testament to the low success rates of drugs still in the experimental phase. Previous reports showed an approval rate of 1 in 5 or 1 in 6.

One of the earliest campus collaborations was announced in 2010 between Washington University in St. Louis and Pfizer, which signed a five-year, $22.5 million deal to identify new uses for hundreds of drug compounds for which research had stalled during or on the verge of clinical trials.

At the time, Dr. Larry Shapiro, dean of the university's medical school, expressed his hope that the project would yield "many discoveries."

But Washington University's experience illustrates some of the industry's challenges. Scarcely two years later, Pfizer shut down the St. Louis lab to focus on partnerships at other schools.

A Washington University spokeswoman referred questions about that decision to the drug maker, which said in a statement the decision was a joint one that "evolved to reflect the mutual needs and strengths of both organizations."

Pfizer, based in New York, is continuing to fund its five initial research projects with the university, but has higher hopes for its five-year, $85 million partnership with the University of California at San Francisco, where two dozen Pfizer scientists are practically working side-by-side with their university counterparts in a 20,000-square-foot building on the school's sprawling Mission Bay campus.

Executive Vice Chancellor and Provost Jeffrey Bluestone, whose own research has focused on the body's immune response at the molecular level, said the university's Center for Therapeutic Innovation creates an open network of researchers that goes beyond the narrow focus on specific projects initially cultivated in campus labs on behalf of drug manufacturers.

Texas court asks: Is man's best friend priceless?

Associated Press

AUSTIN, Texas — They say all dogs go to heaven. But if they get there before their time, should someone pay up?

The Texas Supreme Court began mulling Thursday whether grieving dog owners should be able to sue for the "emotional value" of man's best friend. It comes after a Fort Worth animal shelter mistakenly euthanized a beloved — but essentially worthless, in terms of actual market value — family Labrador retriever named Avery who ran away from home in 2009.

Lining up in opposition are skittish veterinarians who say letting juries somehow calculate sentimental payouts would set a costly precedent that would ripple nationwide. Justices on Texas' highest civil court appeared skeptical, too, at times of whether dogs should be granted an emotional price tag that humans in many scenarios aren't even afforded under state law.

"Where do we draw the line?" Justice Jeffrey S. Boyd asked from the bench. "Cats? Fish? Birds?"

The court isn't expected to issue a ruling for several weeks.

Dogs are property under Texas law. Steal your neighbor's cocker spaniel, and you'll be jailed for theft. But Jeremy and Kathryn Medlen, Avery's owners, believe dogs deserve the same standing the law gives to truly irreplaceable objects — say a great-grandmother's wedding ring, or an old family photograph destroyed in a fire.

Juries in Texas are allowed to weigh sentimental value when it comes to that kind of one-of-a-kind, cherished property. So the Meldens asked: Why aren't dogs and their loyal, loving and faithful companionship classified the same?

"We're asking dogs to be treated like all other property," Randall Turner, the family's attorney, told the court.

From the start, justices of the nine-member panel peppered Turner with questions and wild hypotheticals, resulting in stifled laughs from the courtroom gallery more than once.

Justice Don Willett asked where a stuffed dog might fall under this new standard.

He later painted a difference scenario: a twin sister walking a dog down the street when both are run over by a distracted driver barreling around the curve while texting. Under the law, damages for mental anguish can be collected only for the death of a parent, spouse or child. So wouldn't it be strange, Willett asked, for the surviving sister to collect money for the dog, but not her twin?

"It might seem strange. But not really," Turner responded. "Let's change the hypothetical and say that instead of walking her dog, she's carrying a family heirloom. And there's a collision, the sister is killed, and also the cherished family heirloom is destroyed. Well, under existing Texas law handed down by this court, there is no dispute she couldn't recover a wrongful death case for (her) sister, but she could for the sentimental value of the heirloom. That would be a strange result, but that's the law."

John Cayce, an attorney for the shelter worker named in the lawsuit, argued that a victory for the Medlens would result in skyrocketing insurance premiums for veterinarians terrified of being sued.

He also said that sentient beings aren't like any other irreplaceable family memorabilia.

Student shot at Calif. high school

Associated Press

TAFT, Calif. — A 16-year-old student armed with a shotgun walked into class in a rural California high school on Thursday and shot one student, fired at another and missed, and then was talked into surrendering by a teacher and another staff member, officials said.

The teen victim was in critical but stable condition, Kern County Sheriff Donny Youngblood told a press conference. The sheriff said the teacher at Taft Union High School suffered a minor pellet wound to the head and declined treatment.

The gunman had as many as 20 rounds of ammunition in his pocket, the sheriff said.

When the shots were fired, the teacher tried to get the more than two dozen students out a back door and also engaged the shooter in conversation to distract him, Youngblood said. A campus supervisor responding to a call of shots fired also began talking to the gunman.

Investigators had not yet had a chance to interview the student and so had no immediate word on a motive or whether the attacker had a previous disciplinary record.

Bendable phone screen unveiled at gadget show

Associated Press

LAS VEGAS — By showing off a phone with a flexible screen, Samsung is hinting at a day when we might fold up our large phone or tablet screens as if they were maps.

The Korean electronics company provided a glimpse of such a device at a keynote speech Wednesday at the International CES gadget show in Las Vegas. It's an annual showcase of the latest TVs, computers and other consumer-electronic devices.

WHAT IT IS: Brian Berkeley, head of Samsung Electronics Co.'s display lab in San Jose, Calif., demonstrated a phone that consists of a matchbox-sized hard enclosure, with a paper-thin, flexible color screen attached to one end. The screen doesn't appear flexible enough to fold in half like a piece of paper, but it could bend into a tube.

The company also showed a video of a future concept, with a phone-sized device that opens up like a book, revealing a tablet-sized screen inside.

HOW IT WORKS: The screen uses organic light-emitting diodes, or OLEDs. Only a thin layer of these chemicals is needed to produce a bright, colorful screen. They're used in many Samsung phones already, though with glass screens. For the bendable phone, Samsung laid the chemicals over thin plastic instead of glass. That's a trick you can't pull off with liquid crystals in standard displays.

WHY YOU'D WANT IT: You could pack a bigger screen in your pocket. In a more conventional application, Berkeley demonstrated a phone with a display that's rigid, but bent around the edges of the device, so it can show incoming messages even with a cover over the main screen. In short, OLEDs free designers to make gadgets with curved screens.

WHY IT MIGHT NOT WORK: It's tough to use a touch screen if it bends away from your finger. Flexible OLED screens have been demonstrated for years, but the OLED chemicals are extremely sensitive to oxygen, so they need to be completely sealed off from the air. Volume production of flexible displays that remain airtight has so far stumped engineers. Samsung's screens aren't yet flexible enough to fold, just bend.

AVAILABILITY: Samsung didn't say anything about when flexible displays might be commercialized.

Associated Press

Eric Rudder, chief technical strategy officer of Microsoft, holds a prototype Windows smartphone with a flexible OLED display during Samsung's keynote address Wednesday at the International Consumer Electronics Show in Las Vegas.

S&P hits another high

Associated Press

NEW YORK — The Standard and Poor's 500 closed at another five-year high Thursday after the stock market got a boost from reports suggesting the outlook for economic growth may be improving.

The S&P 500 rose 11.10 points to 1,472.12, its highest close since December 2007, when the U.S. economy was entering the Great Recession. It also closed at a five-year high on Friday and is now 93 points off its record close of 1,565.15, logged in October 2007.

The Dow Jones industrial average closed up 80.71 points at 13,471.22. The Nasdaq composite rose 15.95 points to 3,121.76.

European Central Bank President Mario Draghi said the struggling euro zone should start growing again later this year, but he warned that the region has yet to reach a turning point in its struggle with recession and handling its government debt load. The comments bolstered expectations that the worst of the region's crisis may be behind it.

Investors were also cheered by a report that showed China may gradually be emerging from its worst economic downturn since the 2008 global crisis. Export growth for the world's second-largest economy rebounded strongly in December.

Stocks finished the day higher despite a U.S. government report that weekly applications for unemployment benefits ticked up last week. The Labor Department said applications rose 4,000 to 371,000, the most in five weeks. The previous week's total was revised lower.

Ford was among the gainers, rising 36 cents, or 2.7 percent, to $13.83 after the company doubled its quarterly dividend to 10 cents, just nine months after paying its first dividend in more than five years.

U.S. companies are sitting on record cash piles, having rebuilt their balance sheets following the financial crisis that started five years ago. Analysts at Deutsche Bank predict that corporations will stop adding to those cash piles this year and instead start returning more cash to shareholders, helping push the S&P 500 up to 1,575 by the end of the year. That would be a 10 percent increase from where it ended 2012.

Traders are also waiting for more indications on the health of U.S. companies from earnings reports.

Business HIGHLIGHTS

Lawmakers release documents on Walmart bribery

NEW YORK — Walmart Stores Inc.'s CEO Mike Duke found out in 2005 that the retailer's Mexico unit was handing out bribes to local officials, according to emails obtained by lawmakers.

The emails contradict earlier claims by senior executives that they weren't aware of bribes being made by the company.

Democratic Congressmen Elijah E. Cummings and Henry A. Waxman, who are investigating bribery charges at Walmart's Mexico division, on Thursday released emails that indicate Duke and other senior Walmart officials were informed multiple times starting in 2005 about bribes being made in the country. U.S. law forbids American companies from bribing foreign officials.

The lawmakers shared the emails, which they said they got from a confidential source, with Walmart on Wednesday, and sent a letter to Duke asking for a meeting to discuss them.

Ford's souped-up dividend could lure new investors

Ford may get a longer look from curious investors after rolling out a more muscular, souped-up dividend on Thursday.

The nation's No. 2 automaker is doubling its quarterly payout to 10 cents a share, just nine months after paying its first dividend in more than five years.

The dividend increase marks another milestone in Ford's comeback. It has strengthened its image with customers along with its balance sheet. Ford is expected to report its fourth consecutive annual profit when it releases earnings in a few weeks.

New federal rules aim to curb risky mortgages

WASHINGTON — Federal regulators for the first time are laying out rules aimed at ensuring that mortgage borrowers can afford to repay the loans they take out.

The rules unveiled Thursday by the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau impose a range of obligations and restrictions on lenders, including bans on the risky "interest-only" and "no documentation" loans that helped inflate the housing bubble.

Lenders will be required to verify and inspect borrowers' financial records. The rules discourage them from saddling borrowers with total debt payments totaling more than 43 percent of a person's annual income. That includes existing debts like credit cards and student loans.

Herbalife defends itself against Ackman's claims

NEW YORK — Herbalife came out swinging Thursday against claims made by hedge fund manager William Ackman that the business amounts to a pyramid scheme.

A series of Herbalife's executives looked to refute Ackman's allegations during an analyst and investor meeting earlier in the day. Critics have questioned the company's business model, which uses a network of distributors to sell its nutritional supplements and weight-loss products.

—From wire reports

For the baby boom generation, a lot has changed in a very short time. Where once many were perhaps more confident about reaching retirement goals, the economic crisis has left people wondering how long it could take to recover and if their retirement savings can fund the 20-30 year retirement they envision.

At this seminar, you will learn how retirement income planning can help to bring a sense of clarity to your financial life. After all, retirement is about doing what you want to do after decades of working hard, and a Merrill Lynch Financial Advisor can help you define your retirement income strategy. We'll discuss retirement questions including:

- How can I work toward rebuilding my portfolio after market losses?
- How do I prepare for unexpected and rising costs, especially health care costs?
- How can I prepare a tax minimization strategy against the prospect of rising taxes?
- How can I reduce the chances of outliving my savings?

Join us for a discussion which will tap into current thinking among retirees and can help you plan your way forward.

COMMUNITY FESTIVAL

Cheer, charm are heart of Manatee Fest

- WHAT: Florida Manatee Festival.
- WHEN: 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 19; 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 20.
- WHERE: Downtown Crystal River.
- COST: $3 per person; children 12 and younger admitted free.

Have a cow — the Florida Manatee Festival is back.

The 26th annual celebration of the Nature Coast's favorite animal — sorry, Lu — will transform the streets of downtown Crystal River next Saturday and Sunday, heralding the winter return of the manatees and luring thousands of people from near and far to share the cultural fruits of the community and catch a glimpse of the creatures that distinguish Citrus County from anyplace else in the world.

THE ISSUE:
The 26th annual Florida Manatee Festival.

OUR OPINION:
Take a day to celebrate what makes Citrus great.

The festival is an economic boon for the area, and local artists, crafters, restaurateurs and musicians will be on hand to give festival-goers a grand time.

If you've not yet been, take a day to see what all the buzz is about. It's a family-friendly event, and organizers promise plenty for kids to do while mom and dad mingle and swing. Those without tots in tow might want to avow themselves of the beer-and-wine garden, and sports fans fret not: The AFC and NFC Championship games will be televised at the event Sunday. You don't need to worry about traffic, either — shuttle service will be offered from the Crystal River Mall.

As always, boat tours of King's Bay will be offered. Even if you don't get to see a manatee in person, the bay is looking better than it's been in years thanks to the hard work of Art Jones and the One Rake at a Time project. Take the opportunity to take in the splendor of a local gem — you won't be disappointed.

Governor, drop scare tactics

Rick Outzen
OTHER VOICES

Gov. Rick Scott made a big deal out of his recent meeting with U.S. Health and Human Services Secretary Kathleen Sebelius to supposedly discuss the impact of the Affordable Care Act on our state's Medicaid budget.

Instead of a meaningful discussion, the meeting appears to have only been a backdrop for the governor to attack the Obama administration, play to Scott's conservative base and possibly help his 2014 re-election bid.

Scott told the media after the meeting his Agency for Health Care Administration had estimated the Medicaid expansion would cost Florida more than $26 billion.

Not so fast, Tricky Ricky.

Health News Florida has obtained and published a series of emails to the governor's staff that show analysts, including state economist Amy Baker, had warned the governor that ACHA's Medicaid estimates, which had tripled since August, were wrong. Staff at both the House Health Care Appropriations Subcommittee and the Legislature's Office of Economic & Demographic Research had pointed out the faulty assumptions.

There were better estimates available. The nonpartisan Urban Institute had conducted a study for Kaiser Family Foundation of the costs for states to expand Medicaid to cover the uninsured. For Florida, the estimated 10-year cost was around $1 billion. According to the report, when state expenditures of Medicaid costs were netted against the savings in previously uncompensated care, the incremental impact was only 3.4 percent.

Still Gov. Scott persisted and used the faulty estimates to further his political agenda.

After The Miami Herald and PolitiFact began to question the governor's $26 billion price tag, his handlers doubled down and defended the number that only he and ACHA believe is valid. However, they left some room for adjusting the figure.

"AHCA's report concluded that adding people to Medicaid under the new law would cost Florida $26 billion over 10 years," said his communications director, Melissa Sellers. "Others have asked AHCA to use different assumptions to calculate different cost estimates. We look forward to reviewing those cost estimates as well."

The Florida lawmakers need the best estimates possible to make intelligent decisions about the state's budget. The governor and his agencies have an obligation to do that. Blowing up the projection to such an exaggerated level does much more harm than good.

However, it may be Gov. Scott's ticket to re-election, or, at least, he seems to think so.

LETTERS to the Editor

Expensive investment

Sorry, but $80,000 is not going to buy a "new high-powered person." Think something starting at $150,000, plus a classy company car, generous family medical insurance benefits, etc.

The Tourism Development Commission folks might ruminate on the memory that we paid Gold Associates only around $60,000 annually for account management. The balance of $300,000-plus went to buying media space.

The push by Rebecca Bays and Cathy Pearson toward "in-house marketing" may sound all fine and dandy, but is it the mission of local government? Many of us prefer an approach which focuses on the delivery of the best core services at the lowest cost to the taxpayer.

Unions help U.S.

I am glad that Mrs. Cooper's cancer treatment was successful. I lost my mother to cancer when I was 12. Cancer hurts. But it didn't kill me, so I am stronger.

However, it sounds like Harry's rant against unions suffers from selective memory, and all with one summer's experience. Does he not remember how Andrew Carnegie brought armed guards to stop a strike in his steel mill after a worker was killed by an unsafe condition? And how many of those workers were killed? Or does he not remember how Pullman brought out armed guards in the rail car factory in Chicago?

As a former labor relations manager, now at age 71, I can say any organization that has a union probably deserves that union. I have worked as a union member. But as management, I also stopped those practices myself. It is all about good management practices. And what did you do to stop those guys from sleeping on the job? Did you report it? Or did you condone it by staying silent? As a 20-year-old E-5 squad leader in the Army, I learned to do the right thing.

There are three things that made America great in our lifetime: public schools, reasonable regulations and unions. These are the three things that right-wingers are now trying to kill. Where do you stand? Are you for or against the middle class?

And, let's consider the excesses of the top corporate, greed-driven 2 percent. Why are the top 2 percent like the Kochs or the Waltons getting richer while the other 98 percent are running flat earnings? They are exhibiting corporate greed, like the French during the revolution — "let them eat cake."

In my perfect world, the working class (the 98 percent) would vote to overthrow all "right-to-work" rules and get paid a livable wage. How many families can live on $20,000 per year? Employees at Walmart are getting fed up with their situation and are making preliminary steps toward organization. I support that move. Walmart has gotten so big and so entrenched that they cannot move away from where employees want to organize. Why do people at the top of corporations earn multimillions — power and greed?

Speaking of Walmart, what ever happened to their "buy American" program? We need to make and buy American. Why did the corporations take their plants offshore? Cheap labor driven by their greed. Profits are not the only motive for being in business. There used to be a "community responsibility." That is looking out for the welfare of the company's employees.

Call it socialism, but some of the most developed countries in the world are social democracies. They have high standards of living and high literacy rates. We keep trying to cut costs and try to do more with less. If we want a great America, we need to invest in public education, safe foods and drugs and a civil society. Those need to be our priorities, not wasting time on trying to legislate morality. Morality is an individual prerogative, not a civil justice question. We can all agree on stopping at a red light, but we don't all agree on moral issues.

Let's get back to making America's success a priority. Mr. Cooper, are you part of the solution or part of the problem? You can lead, follow or get out of the way. Sounds like you need to get out of the way.

Thanks officers

I would like to thank Officer Brand and Officer Vincent for helping my sister-in-law, Nora Roland, with my brother, who had not just Alzheimer's, but he is really very, very bad from the war. He is destroyed from the war and it's a shame that's the way he is. And my sister-in-law is an angel. She takes care of my brother, all his wants, his needs, and it's so hard on her ... It's a disgrace what's going on with our veterans. Thank you once again, Officer Brand and Officer Vincent, for helping Nora Roland out with my brother. His name is Richard Roger Roland, but his nickname is Bosco.

Wrong facts on gifts

I would like to just say the people from CUB did not give my child 10 gifts for Christmas. She got four and I highly appreciate what they did give me. But whoever told you 10 gifts is what their child got from CUB, that's a lie. They only get four. Thank you very much.

Pleased by bus service

I want to thank the county and the transportation department for the Orange Line bus service. It is a wonderful service for the county. The routes are on a fixed schedule and there is no calling ahead necessary. They make numerous stops throughout the county. An all-day pass is $2. You can get on or off at any stop. The drivers are very courteous and helpful. A schedule is available on the bus.

Call 352-527-7631 for more information. Again, thanks from a very pleased rider.

RIP Mr. Hamlisch

How could you have missed the passing of Marvin Hamlisch in 2012?

He was one of Broadway's greatest. He'll really be missed. Remember "A Chorus Line" and "The Way We Were"? Some of the best.

Snub to watering rules

On the bottom of page 4 of this morning's paper (Jan. 1) was "Watering rules." How about if I just give you $50 and I can use up to 28 million gallons a year. I hope that's OK. I don't want or accept your watering rules if you're giving away 28 million gallons a year.

Cut Christmas lights

Our Christmas lights decorating our house were cut twice this season, two different times, possibly by a disgruntled person.

We have reason to believe this was not done by children or young adults. Christmas lights cut — so sad for this person to do such a thing.

United Way needs your help

The United Way of Citrus County needs your help this holiday season. The Chronicle is asking readers to join in and support the countywide nonprofit agency by making a contribution of $31.12 (or whatever you can afford). The United Way helps fund 19 nonprofit agencies in the community and is leading the effort to impact important community concerns. Please send your contribution to Gerry Mulligan at the Chronicle/United Way, 1624 N. Meadowcrest Blvd., Crystal River, FL 34429.

Hot Corner: FENCE

Wrong fence builder

This is for "Build a fence," Jan. 3's Sound Off: Fences cost money. The people with the dogs invading this woman's property should build the fence or let the dogs out on a lead, not loose to run around. Or, better yet, you build her a fence or fine the owners of the dogs for not being on a leash.

Observe leash law

To the person that called in about building a fence to keep the dogs out of the lady's yard: If I'm not mistaken, there is a leash law and it should be obeyed.

Dogs shouldn't roam

Here it is Jan. 3 and people are complaining about telling the lady to build a fence in her yard while she's out there when she's feeding her birds and watering the water bath thing there and everything. Well, why should she have to go to the expense of building a fence in her yard when she's in her yard? The people who have dogs should build a fence around their yard because there's a leash law anyway. So what are they doing in her yard in the first place? They should take care of their own dogs and keep them in their own yard, I think. Put a fence on their yard if they want. Dogs shouldn't be roaming around.

Bad owners

In response to "Build a fence": It seems to me, the one to build a fence should be the irresponsible people who let their dogs run loose, which is a violation of law.

Keep dogs in yard

Why should the woman complaining about other people's dogs in her yard put a fence up in her yard? To make good neighbors — if you want to make good neighbors — the people with the dog should put a fence around their own yard to keep the dogs from going in other people's yards.

Take care of pets

The person who called in to tell the woman who feeds the squirrels and birds to fence her yard in so the neighbor dogs can't come over and bother them doesn't know too much about laws. It's not up to her to pay for a fence. It's up to the dog owners to put up a fence to keep them in his own yard. You want the dogs? Then do what you're supposed to do and don't shove it off onto your neighbor to do. As for the lady who doesn't want the dogs; just leave your hose laying across the lawn. When they come over, just turn the rotor on and spray them with full force. They'll learn not to come over. I'm not a person who hates dogs, but they don't belong on other people's lawns whether they're pooping or chasing squirrels. If you want the dogs, then you take care of them.

Keep nuisance away

I would like to make a comment on the Sound Off that said, "Build a fence," that there's an old saying, "Good fences make good neighbors." The person whose dogs is running loose is supposed to put up the fence — then he's being, or she, a good neighbor — not the person who's trying to keep the dogs out of their yard should have the expense of building a fence. A good neighbor is keeping the nuisance in your own yard. Also, that's the law.

Thanks volunteers!

I just wanted to call in and thank the volunteers at the Citrus County Animal Shelter who went in on Christmas Day to walk and bathroom the dogs.

I thought it was a very dedicated, kind thing to do and it's very appreciated. Thank you.

Rate hike bad

I'm a senior citizen and I think you commissioners, or whoever is in charge of Citrus County, should be ashamed of yourselves.

It's $6 now round trip to ride the bus. Shame on you.

Funny face law

I just withdrew some money from the ATM at my credit union and there was a sign on there that says, "Do not make faces at the ATM, there's a federal law against it." Well, I can only think of one thing that's sillier than making silly faces at the ATM: It's the silly fool that placed the silly sign on there in the first place. And I think the federal government has gone too far when you can't make a silly face anymore. I mean, man, it's just we have no freedoms left whatsoever. You can't even make a silly face anymore.

Pumping mess

This is concerning the Swiftmud water pumping in Crystal River. It's really weird. Now where is TOO FAR in this debacle and how in the world did they get by with getting this thing and pumping all this water that belongs to the citizens of Citrus County with only a $50 permit?

It sounds really, really weird to me.

Pull over

I was reading in the paper somebody called in about when the national anthem is played, you should stand up. I agree with her 100 percent. I've noticed in Citrus County when a funeral procession's coming up the road, if you can — I'm saying if you can — you should pull over to the side and pay your respects 'til it all goes by. That's what you should do, but not everybody knows this.

Bottle caps

I was wondering if anyone knows where I can get rid of some bottle tops for the Leukemia Foundation. There used to be a phone number somewhere.

We've collected them for quite some time, the bottle caps. Appreciate an answer.

No grandfathering

The issue is grandfathering in — a question that the public seems to misunderstand. I, too, like Pudgee's hot dogs and I hope the man is able to continue his business. But there is no grandfathering in when it comes to issues of public safety.

LETTERS to the Editor

Thank you!

Protect workers

A recent letter-writer to this newspaper declared that Social Security was a driver of and contributor to the deficit. The Social Security trust fund is paid into by employees and employers and kept separate from the general fund. It does not contribute to the deficit, and those of us who do pay attention are fed up with this argument.

In spite of the fund having been raided to pay for wars Social Security has a $2.7 trillion surplus, can pay all benefits owed to all retirees for the next 21 years, and because it is funded independently, doesn't contribute one cent to the deficit. To strengthen the trust fund, why not repay the "borrowed" amount and raise the cap? Raising the cap is logical since corporate interests, by way of their Congressional allies in both major parties, have created a huge economic divide between the working class and top income earners, by removing former protectionist policies. Implementation of NAFTA and other free-trade disasters, while creating true windfalls for corporate interests, have led to a hemorrhage of good-paying U.S. jobs to overseas workers, and have been followed by poverty and low-wage service jobs at home, in turn, leading to a severe decrease in revenues. No one will argue that legislators didn't know what they were doing: Benefiting the wealthy few at the expense of the U.S. middle class.

The current deficit was caused by: Two unpaid wars, the recession, high unemployment, and the Bush tax cuts to the wealthy, including on capital gains, carried interest, estates, dividends, and corporations. If legislators were serious about reducing deficits, they would allow tax cuts for the wealthy to expire, and reduce military spending. Apparently, honoring a pledge to lobbyist Grover Norquist is more important than deficit reduction. Where was the outrage during the Iraq war when Bush, Cheney, Rumsfeld, et al were busy raiding the public coffers to hand out no-bid contracts to their questionable buddies at our expense, not to mention Bush's giveaway to drug companies without bidding for Medicare beneficiaries?

Apparently, the deficit reduction crew has a very selective memory, or perhaps they are deficit hypocrites. Red ink is fine when the public's money is spent on their corporate welfare scams. The Center for Budget and Policy Priorities estimates the wars and tax cuts will all told contribute $7 trillion to deficits by 2019. As long as corporate interests are well-served, you won't hear a peep out of the deficit hawks. Once we protest our elected officials' collective willingness to cut Social Security, Medicare, Medicaid, and public education, instead of asking the wealthy to pay their share, the deficit whine follows.

To be serious about deficit reduction, our elected officials should allow the Bush tax cuts for the wealthy to expire, cut defense spending, eliminate waste in Medicare, use the revenues to fund jobs programs, education, clean energy programs, and amend the so-called free trade agreements, because without ample good-paying jobs, the economy will never get back to speed, and until the economy recovers, revenues will be scarce. Social Security, Medicare, and Medicaid are necessary programs that we pay into all our adult lives. Cutting these programs will damage the economy. I started a petition in Florida to Sen. Nelson on signon.org, asking him to protect the Big Three, and it currently has 7,150 signatures. There are many petitioners across the country asking their legislators to do the same. The one in Florida is called Protect the Working Class. You can go to signon.org and find it to add your signatures.

Necessary actions

It has come to my attention, based upon the latest FBI crime report, that we should take immediate actions to ban all hammers and clubs throughout the United States of America. Since 2005 up to the present, hammers and clubs have far exceeded rifles in the taking of human lives, therefore it only seems prudent that they should be banned completely. To allow these weapons to continue within our society is totally unacceptable. And I just doubt that registration of hammers and clubs would be very enforceable. Therefore we need immediate action to control their sale and use.

The FBI report of 2005 indicates 445 deaths from rifles, yet hammers and clubs took 605 lives. This trend continues right up through 2011, with 325 being killed by rifles and a horrible total of 496 killed by hammers and clubs. But another interesting fact is disclosed in the FBI report — two times as many are killed by hands and fists than rifles. That is even more stressful. However, one must consider the needs for hands and at times a fist, so it is doubtful we can outlaw these brutal items. I'm sure you understand my concern in this area. But when given full consideration, it is simple to see that we must do something to stop this carnage. So I'm requesting that you introduce legislation to ban all hammers and clubs, as they are much more dangerous to society than rifles. I hope you will take immediate action to stop this problem. As in the past, I trust you will do what's right for the people. Well in hindsight, maybe I need to ponder that trust part a tad more! Maybe just do what gets you votes, as that seems the whole package these days.

Waste of money

Let me see if I understand this Port Citrus spending situation correctly. We recently have been informed by Duke Energy that they are not going to pay their county tax bill of $36 million, and have only paid $19.3 million toward their bill, and are refusing to pay the balance of $16.7 million, which comes off of the bottom line of tax money that the county commissioners have available and are trying to budget to run the county.

Many years ago during the early discussions about the viability of the Port Citrus pipe dream, and with the encouragement of a large landowner with land around the Florida Barge Canal, a select few members of the BOCC appointed the County Administrator Brad Thorpe as their port director, who as I understand, has absolutely no prior experience as being a port director, and the County Attorney Richard Wesch as assistant port director, who also has no experience as being an assistant port director.

So in 2011 the county pays to join the "very exclusive" Florida Seaport Transportation & Economic Development Council (FSTED), and its advisory arm, the Florida Ports Council, at an annual yearly cost of $11,260, plus the cost of attendance for the port director and his assistant at the council's yearly meetings throughout the state.

Also to add insult to injury, we are now being faced with paying for an expensive feasibility study of Port Citrus as to whether it's a viable port or not, at a cost to the county which changes daily depending on who you ask.

So now we have a port director (along with his assistant) with no known experience being a port director, with no known existing and/or viable port that we know of, now being trained as a port director at the expense of the taxpayers, who are severely limited with available tax dollars to pay for a week's working vacation in New Orleans at a cost of $4,400, plus the cost of travel, overnight and meals. (Editor's Note: County Administrator Brad Thorpe recently announced he would pay the costs of the port training out of his own pocket.) It certainly doesn't sound like a well-thought-out and judicious use of our available declining tax dollars, plus the time it takes the county administrator away from his regularly scheduled duties.

It seems to me that some of the BOCC members are throwing good money after bad down a rat's hole.

Poles not crosses

After reading the letter on how power poles form Christian crosses, from Len Martin, I had to write this letter to him and readers like him.

Power poles do not have anything to do with Christianity; you did not see wires on the cross Christ was hung on. With the crossbar missing, the wires would have to be installed on the side of the pole — how high would the pole have to be to hold the wires away from the danger point?

Even if the power company changed the angle of the crossbar, it would still cast a straight shadow. How does the power company change that? I made a cross with an another angle to the crossbar 50 years ago and the shadow it casts is straight.

I think you and the ACLU need prayers from all the Christians who might read this letter.

Obama nominates Lew to Treasury

WASHINGTON — President Barack Obama is announcing Treasury secretary nominee Jack Lew, pointing to his past work of balancing budgets during the Clinton administration.

The president said he feels "bittersweet" about losing Lew as his White House chief of staff but said "my loss will be the nation's gain."

He noted Lew was budget director during the Clinton administration, when the budget ran a surplus for three years.

If confirmed, he will replace Treasury Secretary Timothy Geithner, who led the department through the economic turmoil of the first term.

Shifting sea ice frees whales

MONTREAL — A Canadian village leader said about a dozen killer whales that were trapped under sea ice appear to have reached safety after the floating ice shifted on Hudson Bay.

Tommy Palliser said Thursday that two hunters from Inukjuak village reported the water had opened up around the area where the cornered whales had been bobbing frantically for air.

Locals said the mammals had been trapped around a single, truck-sized breathing hole for at least two days.

Palliser said villagers had been planning to launch a rescue operation Thursday.

But he said the winds seemed to shift overnight, pushing the floating ice further away from shore to open up the water.

Cooperation urged in rape case

COLUMBUS, Ohio — School officials said students withholding information about an alleged rape in an eastern Ohio city last summer are thwarting investigators, as the FBI looks into threats to local authorities who are working on the case against two high school football players.

The local sheriff said Wednesday his family had received a death threat and the Steubenville police chief said an email he received shut down his computer.

School officials on Thursday encouraged students to contact police if they know something.

The district and city have been under scrutiny since the alleged attack over the summer and the arrests and charges against two players.

AG prescribes jail as protest

RICHMOND, Va. — Virginia's conservative Attorney General Ken Cuccinelli said going to jail may be an effective way to protest a federal mandate for employers to cover contraception in insurance plans.

On Iowa conservative radio host Steve Deace's Wednesday night show, the Republican gubernatorial candidate said civil disobedience is one way to attack the federal health care requirement being challenged in a federal lawsuit by Hobby Lobby stores.

Gas prices predicted to fall

Ample oil supply and weak US demand fuel energy savings

Associated Press

NEW YORK — At least gasoline should cost you less in 2013.

Hamburger, health care and taxes are all set to take a bigger bite out of the family budget this year. But drivers' annual gas bills are expected to drop for the first time in four years.

Forecasters said ample oil supplies and weak U.S. demand will keep a lid on prices. The lows will be lower and the highs won't be so high compared with a year ago. The average price of a gallon of gasoline will fall 5 percent to $3.44, according to the Energy Department.

"Everything is lining up to lead to softer prices this year," said Tom Kloza, chief oil analyst at the Oil Price Information Service.

That would still be the third-highest average price ever. But a discount of 19 cents per gallon from 2012 would save the typical household $205 this year and free up $25 billion that could go instead to restaurants, malls or movie theaters — the kind of consumer spending that accounts for 70 percent of American economic activity.

"It's a little benefit to the economy, and it's a little more reason the Fed doesn't have to worry about inflation," said James Hamilton, an economist at the University of California at San Diego who studies energy prices.

Forecasters caution that they can't predict other factors like Middle East tensions, refinery problems or hurricanes along the U.S. Gulf Coast — in other words, the same events that caused gasoline prices to spike in 2011 and 2012. Any or all of those troubles could crop up again in 2013 and push pump prices above last year's record average of $3.63 a gallon.

The government expected gas to average about $3 during 2011. Then came the Arab Spring, which included the shutdown of Libya's oil production. Oil prices shot up, and gasoline averaged $3.53 for the year. The government's forecast for last year also turned out to be too low, by 18 cents per gallon.

And, Hamilton said, consumer spending might not see a boost from lower gasoline prices because most Americans will be paying higher taxes. The expiration of last year's payroll tax reduction will cost an extra $579 for households making $40,000 to $50,000 in 2013, according to the Tax Policy Center, a non-partisan Washington research group.

But after average gas prices rose in 2010, 2011, and 2012, a little relief will be welcome in 2013.

Deadly day

Associated Press

Pakistani police officers and local residents gather Thursday at the site of a bomb blast that targeted paramilitary soldiers in a commercial area in Quetta, Pakistan, killing at least 12 people and wounding more than 40 others, according to police. A series of bombings in different parts of Pakistan killed 115 people on Thursday in one of the deadliest days in the country in recent years.

Radical Sunni bombings kill 115 people in Pakistan

Associated Press

QUETTA, Pakistan — A series of bombings killed 115 people across Pakistan on Thursday, including 81 who died in twin blasts on a bustling billiards hall in a Shiite area of the southwestern city of Quetta.

Pakistan's minority Shiite Muslims have increasingly been targeted by radical Sunnis who consider them heretics, and a militant Sunni group claimed responsibility for Thursday's deadliest attack — sending a suicide bomber into the packed pool hall and then detonating a car bomb five minutes later.

It was one of the deadliest days in recent years for a country that is no stranger to violence from radical Islamists, militant separatists and criminal gangs.

Violence has been especially intense in southwest Baluchistan province, where Quetta is the capital and the country's largest concentration of Shiites live. Many are ethnic Hazara who migrated from neighboring Afghanistan.

The billiards hall targeted Thursday was located in an area dominated by the minority sect. In addition to the 81 dead, more than 120 people were wounded in the double bombing, said police officer Zubair Mehmood. The dead included police officers, journalists and rescue workers who responded to the initial explosion.

Ghulam Abbas, a Shiite who lives about 150 yards from the billiards hall, said he was at home with his family when the first blast occurred. He was trying to decide whether to head to the scene when the second bomb went off.

"The second blast was a deafening one, and I fell down," he said. "I could hear cries and minutes later I saw ambulances taking the injured to the hospital."

Hospitals and a local mortuary were overwhelmed as the dead and wounded arrived throughout the evening. Weeping relatives gathered outside the emergency room at Quetta's Civil Hospital. Inside the morgue, bodies were laid out on the floor.

The bombs severely damaged the three-story building where the pool hall was located and set it on fire. They also damaged nearby shops, homes and offices.

Flu season strikes early, and in some places hard

Associated Press

NEW YORK — From the Rocky Mountains to New England, hospitals are swamped with people with flu symptoms. Some medical centers are turning away visitors or making them wear face masks, and one Pennsylvania hospital set up a tent outside its ER to deal with the feverish patients.

Flu season in the U.S. has struck early and, in many places, hard.

While flu normally doesn't blanket the country until late January or February, it is already widespread in more than 40 states, with about 30 of them reporting some major hot spots. On Thursday, health officials blamed the flu for the deaths of 20 children so far.

Associated Press

Stephanie Dugger, 20, of Apache Junction, gets a flu shot from nurse Bhagwati Bhakta Thursday at Mollen Immunization Clinics in Scottsdale, Ariz.

Whether this will be considered a bad season by the time it has run its course in the spring remains to be seen.

"Those of us with gray hair have seen worse," said Dr. William Schaffner, a flu expert at Vanderbilt University in Nashville.

The evidence so far points to a moderate season, Schaffner and others say. It looks bad in part because last year was unusually mild and because the main strain of influenza circulating this year tends to make people sicker and really lay them low.

David Smythe of New York City saw it happen to his 50-year-old girlfriend, who has been knocked out for about two weeks. "She's been in bed. She can't even get up," he said.

Also, the flu's early arrival coincided with spikes in a variety of other viruses, including a childhood malady that mimics flu and a new norovirus that causes vomiting and diarrhea, or what is commonly known as "stomach flu." So what people are calling the flu may, in fact, be something else.

Activists slam shark tournament

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico — A popular rum promoter is drawing the ire of environmentalists for his plan to hold a shark-hunting tournament in the Dominican Republic similar to one he organized after the release of the movie "Jaws."

Newton Rodriguez has said he is planning to hold the tournament in February following requests from supporters.

But the minister of the Dominican Republic's Natural Resources Department said Thursday he will not allow such a tournament to take place. Dr. Bautista Rojas Gomez also noted that the ministry has not received a permit application from Rodriguez.

The newspaper Listin Diario recently quoted Rodriguez as saying that the country's tourism industry suffered and people grew afraid of sharks after the blockbuster hit "Jaws" was released in 1975, leading him to organize a shark hunt a year later.

UK military switching to Glocks

LONDON — Britain's army is bidding goodbye to the Browning pistol it's used for more than 40 years, opting for faster and lighter Glock 17 pistols for its secondary sidearm.

The defense ministry said Friday that it has signed a $13.6 million contract for more than 25,000 of the Austrian-made pistols.

It joins a host of law enforcement agencies and other militaries, including the Dutch, Norwegian and Austrian armies, opting for a Glock 17, which has a larger magazine than the Browning currently in use by the U.K. armed forces.

Britain's defense ministry said the decision to abandon the Browning came after it became increasingly expensive to maintain.

The defense ministry said Glocks should be deployed in Afghanistan by the latter part of 2013.

Three guilty of glorifying Nazism

VIENNA — An Austrian court has convicted a leading neo-Nazi and two accomplices of glorifying Nazism through a website and sentenced them to prison terms of up to nine years.

Gottfried Kuessel was given a nine-year prison sentence Thursday for being the founder of the "Alpen-Donau" website. He already spent time in prison in the 1990s on conviction of trying to form a successor to the Nazi party.

The two others — Felix Binder and Wilhelm Anderle — were sentenced to seven and 4 1/2 years respectively.

The website is no longer active, but defied years of Austrian efforts to shut it down because it was housed on a U.S. server.

Girls soccer poised for postseason

JAMES BLEVINS
Correspondent

It has been a hectic week for local high school girls' soccer teams. After returning to the field after a long holiday break, local squads are asked to pick up where they left off as all three teams prepare for their respective district playoff games starting January 14.

One team is hoping to repeat as district champion against a very competitive field while another is looking forward to the return of its star player and the desire to claim a district title of its own. All three teams have success on their collective minds as the postseason approaches.

Postseason potential

The Lecanto Panthers head into their District 4A-4 playoffs seeded No. 1 with a 7-2-1 record against their fellow district teams. Having won last year's district championship, the Panthers are heavily favored to repeat, but must fare well against two formidable opponents — No. 2 Forest (who they beat last year in the finals) and No. 3 Springstead.

The Panthers have traded wins and losses with both teams through the regular season: winning the first match against Forest while losing by a goal in their second contest. Conversely Springstead took the first game against Lecanto, while the Panthers struck back in the second, decisively winning the game 5-1 before the holiday break on Dec. 18.

Lecanto first faces either No. 4 Gainesville or No. 5 Vanguard in the semifinals (which as the No. 1 seed, they automatically qualify for) on Jan. 16 depending on the quarterfinal victor.

Last year the Citrus Hurricanes were defeated in the District 3A-6 semifinals by Nature Coast after a stunning opening-round 8-0 shutout victory against Tavares.

With the return of star senior forward Deycasha Miller (who returned Thursday), the Lady 'Canes are hoping to gain back the offensive edge they have been missing since her late November exit from the team due to a six-week suspension.

Citrus enters the district playoffs seeded third and meets up against No. 6 Hernando in the quarterfinals Jan. 14 at home. The semifinals and final will be at Leesburg High School.

Lecanto rallies for 3-1 district win over West Port

DAVID PIEKLIK

LECANTO — Lecanto picked the right time to find the net Thursday in a 3-1 boys soccer win against visiting West Port of Ocala.

Entering with a three-game losing streak, the Panthers (8-7-1 overall; 5-4 district) found their stride and scoring touch against the Wolf Pack (2-11-1 overall, 0-6 district) in the District 4A-4 match. Struggling to net goals all season, the Panthers enjoyed a scoring outburst from three different players including senior midfielder Michael Summa, who scored his first goal of the season on a first-half header.

Panthers coach Doug Warren said his team was on the same page all game and doing what they're asked to do, and it was an all-around improvement. He was also relieved to see goals.

"When you get a goal," he finished, "it changes the outlook of the whole game."

Lecanto had been shut out its last two games, and just a few games remain on the season before district playoffs begin later this month. Teams will learn their playoff bracket next week.

"Feels great, especially after coming off three losses," Summa said of his goal.

Summa's goal came just shy of three minutes into the game, off a pass from Zeke Rice. Lecanto continued to control possession throughout the half, though they wouldn't add to their goal tally until the second half.

Midfielder Tristan Deem scored at the 28:23 mark of the second half off a Rice pass between defenders in front of Wolfpack goalkeeper James Dennis, who finished with 13 saves on 16 shots. Seven minutes later, Deem returned the favor on a through pass to Rice that beat Dennis left side.

West Port's Kyler Tiebout spoiled Lecanto keeper Josh Brown's shutout bid in the final minute of stoppage time with a top frame goal.

West Port's Jesus Flores executes a nice header in front of Lecanto's Josh Swander on Thursday night at Lecanto High School. The Panthers won 3-1.

Pirates boys drop below .500

The Crystal River High School boys soccer team lost a non-district road contest 3-1 to Belleview on Monday night, dropping below .500 on the season.

The Pirates' lone goal came from Travis Swanson, with an assist from John McAteer. Kyle Kidd was in goal for the Pirates, and came home with 10 saves.

The loss puts the Pirates' record at 6-7-5. They'll host Leesburg at 7:30 p.m. Monday.

Warriors boys rout Meadowbrook

Behind 21 points and 12 rebounds from junior guard Adam Gage, the Seven Rivers Christian boys basketball team picked up a 55-30 win at Meadowbrook Academy in Ocala on Thursday night.

Warriors sophomore Cory Weiand scored 20 points, hitting four 3-pointers.

Seven Rivers (6-6 overall) play tonight at First Academy of Leesburg.

Hurricanes flat in Sunlake tourney

The Citrus boys soccer team took a 4-0 loss against Wiregrass Ranch in the Sunlake tournament Thursday night.

We were flat," Citrus coach Phil Journey said. "In the second half, we stepped up and (Wiregrass Ranch) only scored once."

Citrus is now 6-4-2 overall.

Panthers blast past Wildwood

Powered by a 31-point first quarter, the Lecanto girls basketball team scored a 55-12 victory at Wildwood on Thursday night.

Panthers point guard Paige Richards netted a game-high 22 points and Megan Straight added 13 points.

For Lecanto, Marie Buckley (7 points) and Emily Havranek (5 points) also contributed.

The Panthers, now 8-9 overall, play at Central on Monday.

Azarenka, Williams in same part of draw

MELBOURNE, Australia — Defending champion Victoria Azarenka and title favorite Serena Williams are in the same half of the draw at the Australian Open, meaning they could meet in the semifinals.

Top-ranked Azarenka has lost 11 of her 12 matches against Williams, who increased her career haul to 15 Grand Slam titles last year by winning at Wimbledon and the U.S. Open.

No. 2-ranked Maria Sharapova, the French Open champion, is on the other half of the draw and could meet Venus Williams in the third round.

Novak Djokovic's bid for a third consecutive Australia Open title got a boost when No. 2-ranked Roger Federer and U.S. Open champion Andy Murray both landed in the other half when the official draw was made Friday.

Top-ranked Djokovic will face Paul-Henri Mathieu in the first round and also has fifth-seeded Tomas Berdych in his quarter of the draw and fourth-seeded David Ferrer in his half.

Ferrer is the highest-ranked Spaniard in the tournament in the absence of 11-time major winner Rafael Nadal, who hasn't played on the tour since Wimbledon due to a left knee injury.

Federer will play Benoit Paire of France in the first round and has a potential third-round match against local hope Bernard Tomic.

NFL's Seau had brain disease before suicide

Associated Press

When he ended his life last year by shooting himself in the chest, Junior Seau had a degenerative brain disease often linked with repeated blows to the head.

Researchers from the National Institutes of Health said Thursday the former NFL star's abnormalities are consistent with chronic traumatic encephalopathy, or CTE.

Junior Seau had a degenerative brain disease when he committed suicide last May, the National Institutes of Health told The Associated Press on Thursday.

Associated Press

The hard-hitting linebacker played for 20 NFL seasons with San Diego, Miami and New England before retiring in 2009. He died at age 43 of a self-inflicted gunshot in May, and his family requested the analysis of his brain.

"We saw changes in his behavior and things that didn't add up with him," his ex-wife, Gina, told The Associated Press. "But (CTE) was not something we considered or even were aware of. But pretty immediately (after the suicide) doctors were trying to get their hands on Junior's brain to examine it."

Jags fire Mularkey

Jacksonville axes coach after team's worst season

Associated Press

JACKSONVILLE — The Jacksonville Jaguars fired coach Mike Mularkey on Thursday after just one season, the worst in franchise history.

New general manager David Caldwell made the announcement two days after he was hired, giving him a clean slate heading into 2013. Caldwell said he wants to immediately explore every avenue possible to turn the Jaguars around.

"For that to happen as seamlessly as we want, and as quickly as our fans deserve, I feel it is in everyone's best interests for an immediate and clean restart," Caldwell said.

Mularkey, who went 2-14 this season, became the eighth head coach fired since the end of the regular season. He looked like he would be one and done when owner Shad Khan parted ways with general manager Gene Smith last week and gave Mularkey's assistants permission to seek other jobs. Even though Khan ultimately hired Mularkey, Smith directed the coaching search last January that started and ended with the former Atlanta Falcons offensive coordinator.

"Mike Mularkey is leaving our organization with my utmost respect," Khan said. "Mike gave the Jaguars everything he had on and off the field, and his efforts as our head coach will always be appreciated."

Associated Press

Jacksonville Jaguars head coach Mike Mularkey was fired after one season, the worst in franchise history. New general manager David Caldwell made the announcement Thursday.

Mularkey's brief tenure — he didn't even last a year — was filled with mistakes. His biggest one may have been his loyalty to Smith, who assembled a roster that lacked talent on both sides of the ball.

Mularkey probably stuck with Smith's franchise quarterback, Blaine Gabbert, longer than he should have. And the coach's insistence that the team was closer than outsiders thought and his strong stance that he had the roster to turn things around became comical as the losses mounted. The Jaguars lost eight games by at least 16 points, a staggering number of lopsided losses in a parity-filled league.

Mularkey would have been better served had he said publicly what he voiced privately: that the Jaguars didn't have enough playmakers or a starting-caliber quarterback.

Instead, he never conceded that Jacksonville was a rebuilding project that needed time.

Mularkey signed a three-year contract on Jan. 11, 2012, getting a second chance to be a head coach six years after resigning with the Buffalo Bills.

Tebow unwanted in Jacksonville

Jaguars moving in different direction

Associated Press

JACKSONVILLE — Tim Tebow won't be playing for his hometown team.

The Jacksonville Jaguars made it clear Thursday that they have no plans to pursue the popular and polarizing New York Jets backup quarterback.

Tim Tebow
New York Jets QB linked to move to Jax.

The Jets are likely to release the 2007 Heisman Trophy winner and Jacksonville native during the offseason, and many believed Tebow would land with the Jaguars.

But new general manager David Caldwell nixed that idea at his introductory news conference.

"I can't imagine a scenario in which he'll be a Jacksonville Jaguar — even if he's released," Caldwell said.

And Caldwell won't get any pushback from his new owner.

Shad Khan, who made a run at Tebow last year, said it was Caldwell's call.

"It's not my decision," Khan said. "I want to do whatever to help this team win. Who the players are is really the general manager's and coaches' — it's a football-side operation decision. It's really not my decision."

What has changed for Khan in the 10 months since he wanted Tebow?

"I'm telling them to take a look at Tebow and they're saying, 'We're going to go in a different direction,'" Khan said. "That's the difference."

Tebow starred at nearby Florida, helping the team win two national championships, and created buzz that he would be a huge hit with the Jaguars. He would sell tickets and merchandise, many said, and bring the small-market franchise national recognition and Super Bowl rings.

Despite all the hype, the Jaguars passed on drafting Tebow in 2010 because former general manager Gene Smith didn't view him as a franchise quarterback.

Here come the big boys

Associated Press

The Baltimore Ravens will have to go on the road and try to contain Denver Broncos wide receivers Demaryius Thomas, left, and Eric Decker, a pair of third-year players who've combined for 181 catches and 24 touchdowns in 2012.

Eight NFL teams left standing vie for AFC, NFC title berths Saturday, Sunday

Associated Press

The records are gaudy. The star power is high.

Here come the NFL's big boys.

Denver, Atlanta, New England and San Francisco host divisional playoff games this weekend. They're a combined 49-14-1, and their rosters are filled with such headline grabbers as Peyton Manning, Tom Brady, Tony Gonzalez and Patrick Willis.

Their home-field advantages could be formidable, too. The Broncos, who have won 11 straight games, and Falcons each went 7-1; the 49ers were 6-1-1 and the Patriots 6-2.

None of which makes the Ravens, Seahawks, Texans or Packers quake in their cleats.

"That's not in my mind at all going up to Denver," said the Ravens' Joe Flacco, the only quarterback to win a playoff game in his first five seasons. "We feel confident, and I think we should."

Baltimore at Denver opens the weekend's action, followed by Green Bay at San Francisco on Saturday night.

Sunday, Seattle is at Atlanta, then Houston goes to New England.

Packers (12-5) at 49ers (11-4-1)

Another rematch, but from so long ago: San Francisco won 30-22 in the opener, at Lambeau Field.

The Packers have the edge in this postseason series, 4-1. They would seem to have the edge on offense with top-rated passer Aaron Rodgers and a deep crew of receivers.

And the Niners would have the advantage on defense, having yielded 63 fewer points in the regular season.

A key will be whether Green Bay, which beat Minnesota 24-10 last week, can protect Rodgers after allowing 51 sacks. The 49ers' Aldon Smith had 19 1-2 himself.

"We understand that it's going to be up to us to keep Aaron clean, let him make some plays back there in the pocket," left guard T.J Lang said. "That's going to be a huge factor in how this game turns out."

Ravens (11-6) at Broncos (13-3)

For all those impressive numbers, here's a baffling one: four-time league MVP Manning is a mere 9-10 in postseason games. Those wins and losses were compiled with the Colts, with whom he never had a defense like the one the Broncos possess.

That defense made a big difference when Denver won 34-17 at Baltimore in Week 15. A 98-yard interception return by Chris Harris at the end of the first half turned it into a rout.

"I really haven't made a whole lot of comparisons, but our defense has been outstanding all year," Manning said. "Our offense has fed off of our defense. I think that's one of the best things this team has done. If the offense was in a rut, defense picked us up. The defense was bending a little bit, the offense picked them up. That's what you've got to have, to me, as a team."

The Manning-Ray Lewis matchups through the years have been intriguing, and this will be the final one. Baltimore's emotional leader announced his retirement days before he had 13 tackles in his last home game, a 24-9 wild-card victory over Indianapolis.

"They are always classic," Lewis said. "It's just one of those chess matches. He knows me very well. I know him very well. ... But at the end of the day, it's not about me and Peyton. It's about their team against our team. I love our team right now."

Seahawks (12-5) at Falcons (13-3)

Those road woes that plagued the Seahawks can be forgotten. They've won three in a row away from home, including the 24-14 wild-card victory at Washington that was their first on the road in the playoffs since 1983.

With six straight wins overall, they're a confident bunch as they head to the Georgia Dome.

"We've grown and become more together and more in tune with our QB and what he can do and all that," Carroll said, referring to rookie Russell Wilson. "We're a pretty hard team to beat right now."

Atlanta has been easy to beat in its last three playoff appearances, something quarterback Matt Ryan dismisses as a factor for this game.

"We've proven we can go out there and be successful. You have to buy into that. You have to believe in that. I feel more comfortable with the guys around me."

Texans (13-4) at Patriots (12-4)

Yet another rematch, this from Dec. 10 when the Texans flopped in Foxborough, 42-10. That was the beginning of a fade in which they dropped three of four and sank from top AFC seed to No. 3.

Houston recovered somewhat last week in a 19-13 wild-card victory over Cincinnati. This is a much tougher task.

"If you want to move on, you've got to bring a sense of attitude and nastiness with you to go out and dominate your opponent on every play," said QB Matt Schaub, who got his first postseason win last week.

Tom Brady has 16 postseason wins and needs one win to break a tie with Joe Montana.

"He's won a lot of regular-season games, won a lot of playoff games," coach Bill Belichick said. "What he does on a day-to-day basis, how he performs on the practice field, how he performs in games — whether they're preseason, regular season, postseason, whatever it is — he's pretty consistent. I think you see that during the week, so it shows up on Sunday."

PITTSBURGH — Rookie running back Chris Rainey has run out of chances with the Pittsburgh Steelers.

The Steelers cut the troubled 24-year-old following his arrest on a battery charge in Gainesville, Fla., on Thursday, the latest in a series of off-the-field incidents that have threatened his career.

Gainesville police officers charged Rainey with a single count of misdemeanor simple battery after an altercation with his girlfriend. Police said in a news release the two were arguing over Rainey's cellphone. When his girlfriend got into a vehicle, the former Florida Gator tried to pull her out.

Witnesses told detectives that Rainey slapped his girlfriend across the face and then chased her when she ran away with his phone in her purse.

The Steelers, who selected Rainey in the fifth round of the 2012 NFL Draft, waived him shortly after being made aware of his arrest.

"Chris Rainey's actions this morning were extremely disappointing," general manager Kevin Colbert said. "Under the circumstances and due to this conduct, Chris will no longer be a member of the Pittsburgh Steelers."

Rainey worked primarily on special teams during his rookie season. He averaged 26.5 yards on 39 kickoff returns. The Steelers used him occasionally as a change of pace in the backfield. Rainey finished with 102 yards rushing and two scores while also catching 14 passes for 60 yards.

FSU women upset by Wake Forest

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — Lakevia Boykin scored a career-high 34 points and Wake Forest used a 27-8 run in the second half to upset Florida State 80-72 for its fourth straight win.

Dearica Hamby added 23 points and Chelsea Douglas 14 for the Demon Deacons (9-6, 2-1 Atlantic Coast Conference), who led by 11 with 7:01 left before FSU closed to 69-67 with 2:56 to go.

Hamby answered with a layup and Wake Forest hit 9 for 14 from the line in the final 2:32.

Florida State (12-3, 2-2), coming off a 71-64 loss at then-No. 8 Maryland, closed the first half on a 12-3 run to lead 36-33 at the break

Chelsea Davis led the Seminoles with 25 points.

No. 10 Maryland 84, No. 24 Miami 62

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Freshman Chloe Pavlech scored a season-high 20 points, Tiana Hawkins had 18 points and 11 rebounds and Maryland pulled away to end Miami's five-game winning streak.

Alyssa Thomas added 18 points for the Terrapins (12-3, 3-1 Atlantic Coast Conference). Maryland led by six at halftime before Thomas fueled a 12-4 run by scoring the Terrapins' first nine points after the break.

Pavlech, a 5-foot-9 guard, had 14 points at halftime and finished 8 of 11 from the floor.

Morgan Stroman led Miami (12-3, 3-1) with 14 points, and Stefanie Yderstrom and Suriya McGuire each had 13. The Hurricanes had won four straight against Maryland.

No. 4 Duke 82, Clemson 45

DURHAM, N.C. — Elizabeth Williams scored 21 points to help No. 4 Duke beat Clemson 82-45 on Thursday night.

Tricia Liston and Haley Peters added 14 points each for the Blue Devils (14-0, 4-0 Atlantic Coast Conference), who never trailed en route to their 32nd consecutive home victory against league competition.

Chelsea Gray finished with eight points and a career-high 15 assists as Duke shot 58 percent from the floor. Chloe Wells added 10 points for the Blue Devils.

Duke blew open the game with a 22-0 run early in the second half. Gray scored or assisted on eight of Duke's 10 baskets during the stretch, which began with Duke ahead 36-30.

Aisha Turner scored 13 points to lead Clemson (4-11, 0-4) in its fourth consecutive loss. Nikki Dixon added 11 points for the Tigers, who shot 34 percent and committed 26 turnovers.

Clemson twice pulled within six early in the second half, but the Blue Devils answered with baskets assisted by Gray each time.

No. 6 Kentucky 65, No. 20 Texas A&M 62

LEXINGTON, Ky. — A'dia Mathies scored 23 points and Kentucky overcame a sluggish first half to rally past Texas A&M.

Jennifer O'Neill added 15 points as the Wildcats (15-1, 3-0 Southeastern Conference) extended school-record winning streaks of 14 games overall and 31 in a row at home.

Texas A&M shot 59 percent (17 of 29) in the first half behind a slew of layups from Kelsey Bone and Kristi Bellock for a 37-31 halftime lead. But Kentucky's improved defense wore down the Aggies and limited them to just 32 percent shooting (10 of 31) after that.

No. 11 UNC 70, N.C. State 66

RALEIGH, N.C. — Brittany Rountree scored 17 points, including two free throws with 12.5 seconds left, to help North Carolina beat North Carolina State.

Waltiea Rolle added 16 points for the Tar Heels (16-1, 4-0 Atlantic Coast Conference), who rallied from 10 down early in the second half to beat the Wolfpack for the 22nd time in 26 meetings.

Marissa Kastanek scored 20 points for the Wolfpack (8-8, 0-4), while Kody Burke added 17 points and eight rebounds.

No. 18 S. Carolina 64, Vanderbilt 48

COLUMBIA, S.C. — Aleighsa Welch scored 13 points, leasia Walker added 12 and South Carolina played its usual fierce defense to beat Vanderbilt.

The Gamecocks (14-2, 2-1 Southeastern Conference), who came in ranked third nationally in scoring defense at 47.4 points per game, held an opponent below 50 for the 12th time in 16 games.

No Indy 500 for her

Associated Press

Danica Patrick looks over her car in the garage during NASCAR testing Thursday at Daytona International Speedway in Daytona Beach.

Patrick concentrating on NASCAR in 2013, so no open wheel

Associated Press

DAYTONA BEACH — Danica Patrick's talking about challenges that lay ahead, Clint Bowyer and Jeff Gordon aren't saying whether they have patched their differences, and Brad Keselowski is eager to defend his Sprint Cup title.

That's right, the start of another NASCAR season is just around the corner.

Patrick said Thursday that she does not plan to race in this year's Indianapolis 500 because she wants to concentrate on her first full-time season on NASCAR's highest level of competition.

Bowyer brushed aside questions about whether he and Gordon have made up in the months that have passed since a fight between the two drivers' crews broke out after Gordon intentionally wrecked Bowyer the week before last season's finale.

"Who cares? Really, who cares?" Bowyer said, addressing the media on the first day of testing of NASCAR's new "Gen 6" cars at Daytona International Speedway. "Apparently, you guys do way more than we do. I can promise you that."

Keselowski is still riding high after capturing his first Sprint Cup championship in 2012. He was the first driver on the track for the start of three days of testing in preparation for next month's Daytona 500, even if he wound up running fairly low on the speed charts.

"I am not happy not being fast. I can tell you that, but you try to put it in perspective of how much work is yet to be done over the next month or month-and-a-half," Keselowski said. "Being first on the track ... is our little way of needling the competition to say that even if we aren't fastest we are going to be the first ones on it."

Patrick, who announced on her Facebook page in November that she and her husband, Paul Hospenthal, are divorcing after seven years of marriage, also skipped the Indy 500 last year.

Instead, she ran in the Coca-Cola 600 at Charlotte Motor Speedway on the same day, which is what she intends to do again.

Patrick is coming off her first full season in NASCAR, a year in which she ran full Nationwide schedule and 10 Sprint Cup Series races after leaving IndyCar.

"The team and I decided to focus on (Sprint) Cup. It's going to be plenty of work as it is, and it's going to be important for me running for the championship full-time for the first time to really keep myself focused with the Cup car," Patrick said. "'But If I do do the Indy 500 moving forward, it will be with Go Daddy."

She said her 2013 schedule also could include some Nationwide series events, although she has not yet signed a deal with a racing team or sponsor.

"I'm not sure if that's completely set. There have been some reports that have come out about running for Turner, and we're definitely talking to them trying to figure it out," Patrick said. "We're definitely working on that, but there's been nothing signed yet, and the exact dates and the sponsor has yet to be confirmed for all that."

Essentially, the Daytona testing marks the end of the offseason for drivers.

There's more testing next week in Charlotte of the cars NASCAR is counting to improve racing and rekindle fan interest, with Speedweeks at Daytona to follow. The Daytona 500 kicks off the Sprint Cup schedule on Feb. 24.

NHL players to begin voting

Associated Press

NEW YORK — NHL players will have 36 hours from Thursday night until Saturday morning to vote on the new labor deal that would end the four-month lockout.

The players' association announced that electronic voting will begin Thursday at 8 p.m. and will last until Saturday at 8 a.m. The union said it will announce the result after voting is finished.

If a majority of the more than 700 players choose to accept the deal that NHL owners unanimously ratified on Wednesday, training camps will open Sunday, and a 48-game regular season will begin Jan. 19.

A tentative agreement was reached early Sunday, the 113th day of the lockout, after a 16-hour negotiating session in New York.

The new deal is for 10 years, but either side can opt out after eight. The previous collective bargaining agreement was in effect for seven seasons.

The lockout began on Sept. 16, and forced the cancellation of 510 games, beginning with opening day on Oct. 11. The outdoor Winter Classic and the All-Star game were also wiped out this season.

The NHL says it will release a new schedule once the ratification process is completed.

A memorandum of understanding that has been in the drafting process by the two sides this week must be signed before training camps open.

The players' association wanted as much of the document as possible to be completed before voting began.

Leading up to Thursday's start time for voting, the union has been busy calling players and agents to educate them about the changes and additions to the tentative agreement.

Assuming the deal is approved by the players, as expected, there will be only six days between the opening of camps and the start of the season. No preseason games will be played.

No. 22 Spartans hold off Iowa

Miami deals UNC loss

Associated Press

IOWA CITY, Iowa — Branden Dawson scored a career-high 17 points, including a late steal and tiebreaking dunk that helped No. 22 Michigan State hold off Iowa 62-59 on Thursday night.

Gary Harris had 14 points for the Spartans (13-3, 2-1 Big Ten), who hung on late for their eighth win in nine games.

Dawson ripped the ball away from Iowa freshman Mike Gesell and gave Michigan State a 58-56 lead with 49 seconds left.

Anthony Clemmons missed a free throw that would have tied it with 12 seconds to go and airballed a 3-pointer at the buzzer as Iowa (11-5, 0-3) lost its third straight.

The Hawkeyes played without leading scorer Devyn Marble, who sprained his ankle in practice this week.

They led for most of the second half, shot 47 percent on 25-of-53 shooting and held the Tar Heels to one field goal during a critical seven-minute span late.

Miami won its third straight, claimed its first 2-0 start to ACC play since joining the conference in 2003-04 and beat North Carolina for just the third time and first since 2006.

James Michael McAdoo finished with 14 points and Reggie Bullock had 11 for North Carolina (10-5, 0-2).

Miami 68, North Carolina 59

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. — Kenny Kadji scored 18 points and Miami pulled away to beat North Carolina 68-59.

Julian Gamble had 14 points and Durand Scott and Shane Larkin each had 11 for the Hurricanes (11-3, 2-0 ACC).

Mercer 66, North Florida 47

JACKSONVILLE — Travis Smith scored 15 points as Mercer cruised to a 66-47 win over North Florida in Atlantic Sun Conference action.

The Bears (10-7, 3-1), coming off an 83-75 loss to Kennesaw State, have won four of their last five.

Bud Thomas added 14 points and Anthony White, Jr., a career-high 12.

White helped limit the Ospreys' Parker Smith, who came in averaging 16.4 points per game and with the second-most made 3-pointers in the nation (66) to six points on 2-of-4 shooting from long range.

Trailing 8-6, Mercer pulled ahead with a 16-2 spurt and held North Florida (7-11, 2-3) to one field goal in an 8:37 span.

Ray Rodriguez, who finished with 11 points, hit three straight 3-pointers within 65 seconds to help the Ospreys close to 47-41 with 9:29 left, but North Florida could get no closer.

Warriors rout Tigers

Joe Kornecki III

LECANTO — The Seven Rivers Christian girls basketball team won easily against the Trenton Tigers 53-30 on Thursday night. The Warriors got a great performance from center Andrea Zachar — who was a rebounding machine — had a double-double with 16 rebounds and 13 points on the evening.

"I'm really proud, and we worked hard on defense," Warriors head coach Gary Dreyer said. "We had good defensive play ... we beat them in overtime the last time we played them. I'm really proud of them."

After falling behind the Tigers 4-2 early in the first quarter, the Warriors (9-5) went on a 30-4 run to put the game out of reach. Zachar had nine points in the first half and recorded 10 rebounds, while adding a couple steals. Tiana Miele (11 points) had nine of her points in the first half during the run, as Seven Rivers took a 32-8 lead into the intermission.

In the second half, the Tigers (3-10) tried to mount a rally. A Shelby Stokes basket cut the Warriors' lead to 34-17, and they outscored the Warriors 11-9 in the third quarter, but the Tigers still were behind by a 41-19 score.

Alyssa Gage (12 points) led the Warriors with eight second-half points, including a trifecta that ripped the net giving Seven Rivers a 44-21 fourth-quarter cushion. Taylor Desmond (eight points, nine rebounds) had a nice contribution for the Warriors in the contest.

Stokes (15 points) led the Tigers in scoring and guard Keliel Kearson had seven points.

Seven Rivers got to the stripe 22 times, but only managed to make 10 free throws. Trenton was five out of 13 from the line.

"We are definitely gearing up for St. John," Zachar said.

Seven Rivers will travel to First Academy of Leesburg tonight in a district game.

Browns hire new coach

Chudzinkski at helm of team

Associated Press

CLEVELAND — Rob Chudzinski's first head coaching job will be with the team he loved as a kid.

Chudzinski, who spent the past two seasons as Carolina's offensive coordinator, has been hired by the Cleveland Browns as their sixth full-time coach since 1999.

The Browns are hoping the first-time head coach can end years of despair and constant losing and maybe resurrect a franchise that has made just one trip to the playoffs in the past 14 years.

A Browns spokesman confirmed Chudzinski's hiring Thursday night and said he will be introduced at a news conference on Friday.

Chudzinski will be the Browns' 14th coach in team history. For the past two years, the 44-year-old has worked with talented Panthers quarterback Cam Newton.

Chudzinski has had two previous stints with the Browns as an assistant coach. He coached tight ends for Butch Davis in 2004, and then came back to the Browns in 2007 and was Cleveland's offensive coordinator for two seasons under Romeo Crennel.

Chudzinski grew up in Toledo, Ohio, where he pulled for the Browns. Chudzinski interviewed with the team on Wednesday, and was viewed by many to be a longshot for the job.

However, he wowed owner Jimmy Haslam and CEO Joe Banner during his meeting and the team decided to give him the job after interviewing at least eight other candidates.

The Browns have been searching for a coach since firing Pat Shurmur on Dec. 31 following a 5-11 season.

Under Chudzinski, the Panthers finished fifth in total offense in 2011 and 12th last season.

Last year, Chudzinski interviewed for head coaching jobs with St. Louis, Jacksonville and Tampa Bay before returning to Carolina.

After his first stint on Cleveland's staff, Chudzinski spent two seasons as San Diego's tight ends coach, working with perennial Pro Bowl standout Antonio Gates.

Taking over the Browns offense in 2007, Chudzinski helped the Browns win 10 games — the most since their expansion rebirth in 1999 — and had four players make the Pro Bowl.

However, in 2008, the Browns struggled on offense and a six-game losing streak led to a 4-12 finish and Crennel's firing.

Chudzinski went back to the Chargers for two more seasons before he was hired in Carolina.

Before they settled on Chudzinski, the Browns interviewed several college coaches and other NFL assistants.

knocked out of their District 2A-6 semifinals last season by Mount Dora and have eagerly awaited a chance for reconciliation.

Seeded No. 2 (just like last year), the Lady Pirates meet No. 7 Taylor (Pierson) on Jan. 14 hoping to make it to the next round.

Gramer out, Miller back

Senior goalkeeper Paige Gramer will be unable to return to the net for the Lady 'Canes for the remainder of the season due to a leg injury she suffered in a November game against Lecanto.

On the other hand, senior striker Miller will return to play for Citrus just in time for the district playoffs. Miller has sidelined for six weeks due to a suspension for fighting during a Nov. 28 game against Belleview.

Miller currently leads the county in goals scored despite missing much of the season.

Citrus alumni return for charity soccer games

Ian Feldt, first-year head coach of the Citrus girls soccer team, envisioned a great way to get old teammates and former Citrus High graduates together to play some soccer while simultaneously raising money for local charities.

The inaugural Citrus Alumni Charity Soccer Game was born. Played at Hurricane Stadium on Dec. 21 between two teams of each gender, the event gathered several dozen former Citrus soccer players for one more night of soccer under the stadium lights. The night proved to be a special way for those hadn't played on the old high school pitch in many years to do so again in front of friends and family.

A few charities and the Citrus girls' soccer program benefitted from raised money during the game.

"We raised about $1,000 for charity," Feldt said. "We sent $100 to Sandy Hook (Elementary). We're going to send about $75 (to) $800 to CASA (Citrus Abuse Shelter Association). We also raised about 150 pounds of canned goods.

"We (rose) about another $375 for the (girls' soccer program)," Feldt continued. "Financially it was a win all the way around."

brains, one of which was Seau's, and said the findings on Seau were similar to autopsies of people "with exposure to repetitive head injuries."

"It was important to us to get to the bottom of this, the truth," Gina Seau added, "and now that it has been conclusively determined from every expert that he had obviously had CTE, we just hope it is taken more seriously. You can't deny it exists, and it is hard to deny there is a link between head trauma and CTE. There's such strong evidence correlating head trauma and collisions and CTE."

In the final years of his life, Seau had wild behavioral swings, according to Gina and to 23-year-old son, Tyler, along with signs of irrationality, forgetfulness, insomnia and depression.

"He emotionally detached himself and would kind of 'go away' for a little bit," Tyler Seau said. "And then the depression and things like that. It started to progressively get worse."

He hid it well in public, they said, but not when he was with family or close friends.

Seau joins a list of several dozen football players who were found to have CTE. Boston University's center for study of the disease reported last month that 34 former pro players and nine who played only college football suffered from CTE.

The NFL faces lawsuits by thousands of former players who say the league withheld information on the harmful effects of concussions. According to an AP review of 175 lawsuits, 3,818 players have sued. At least 26 Hall of Famer members are among the players who have done so.

The National Football League, in an email to the AP, said: "We appreciate the Seau family's cooperation with the National Institutes of Health. The finding underscores the recognized need for additional research to accelerate a fuller understanding of CTE.

"The NFL, both directly and in partnership with the NIH, Centers for Disease Control and other leading organizations, is committed to supporting a wide range of independent medical and scientific research that will both address CTE and promote the long-term health and safety of athletes at all levels."

NFL teams have given a $30 million research grant to the NIH.

The players' union called the NIH report on Seau "tragic."

"The only way we can improve the safety of players, restore the confidence of our fans and secure the future of our game is to insist on the same quality of medical care, informed consent and ethical standards that we expect for ourselves and for our family members," the NFLPA said in a statement.

"This is why the players have asked for things like independent sideline concussion experts, the certification and credentialing of all professional football medical staff and a fairer workers compensation system in professional football," it said.

Seau is not the first former NFL player who killed himself and later was found to have had CTE. Dave Duerson and Ray Easterling are the others.

Before shooting himself, Duerson, a former Chicago Bears defensive back, left a note asking that his brain be studied for signs of trauma. His family filed a wrongful-death suit against the NFL, claiming the league didn't do enough to prevent or treat the concussions that severely damaged his brain.

Easterling played safety for the Falcons in the 1970s. After his career, he suffered from dementia, depression and insomnia, according to his wife, Mary Ann. He committed suicide last April.

Mary Ann Easterling is among the plaintiffs who have sued the NFL.

Pacers down shorthanded Knicks

Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS — Paul George scored seven points in a 13-0 fourth-quarter run and finished with 24 points and 11 rebounds Thursday night to lead the Indiana Pacers to an 81-76 victory over the New York Knicks, who were without the suspended Carmelo Anthony.

The Pacers (22-14) have won 12 of 15 and have swept the other two Eastern Conference division leaders — Miami and the Knicks — this week.

New York (23-12) was led by J.R. Smith with 25 points and Tyson Chandler had 12 points and 15 rebounds, but they clearly missed Anthony's presence. The NBA's second-leading scorer was banned by the league for Monday's postgame confrontation with Boston's Kevin Garnett.

Without Anthony, one of the league's highest-scoring and best shooting teams, hardly resembled itself. New York finished with a season-low point total, nine fewer than its previous low, and shot just 34.8 percent from the field and 20 percent from 3-point range.

Cruise: Making movies is still fun

SEOUL, South Korea — Even though he's been a Hollywood star for three decades, Tom Cruise says he still has fun making movies.

Tom Cruise

Cruise was in Seoul on Thursday to promote "Jack Reacher," a thriller adapting Lee Child's novel "One Shot," part of the best-selling series about a mysterious ex-military investigator.

Appearing at a news conference with director Christopher McQuarrie and co-star Rosamund Pike, Cruise said, "It was so much fun making the film."

Pike, who played James Bond girl Miranda Frost in "Die Another Day" in 2002, said she and Cruise enjoyed good on-screen chemistry — something she said she "never thought" she'd say.

People's Choice Awards

LOS ANGELES — "The Hunger Games" devoured the competition at the People's Choice Awards, emerging the top victor with five trophies.

Jennifer Lawrence

Katy Perry won three awards at the Wednesday night ceremony in Los Angeles, where fans select the winners in categories spanning music, movies and television.

"Hunger Games" was named favorite movie, action movie and movie franchise and stars Jennifer Lawrence, Chris Hutcherson and Liam Hemsworth had fans' favorite on-screen chemistry. Lawrence also won favorite movie actress and "face of heroism."

Adele makes post-baby debut

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. — Adele is coming to the Golden Globes.

Adele

The executive producer of the show said the 24-year-old Grammy-winning pop star is set to make her first post-baby appearance at Sunday's ceremony, where she is nominated for original song for the James Bond theme "Skyfall."

Adele welcomed her first child, with boyfriend Simon Konecki, in October. The singer has kept a low profile since announcing her pregnancy in June after sweeping the Grammy Awards last February with six wins.

"Gangster Squad" packs a powerful punch of actions including, from left, Giovanni Ribisi as Officer Conwell Keeler, Josh Brolin, as Sgt. John O'Mara, Ryan Gosling as Sgt. Jerry Wooters, Anthony Mackie as Officer Coleman Harris, Michael Pena as Officer Navidad Ramirez and Robert Patrick as Officer Max Kennard.

One-note mob movie

Review: 'Gangster Squad' is a numbing barrage of violence

CHRISTY LEMIRE
AP Movie Critic

"Gangster Squad," a pulpy, violent tale of cops and mobsters in 1949 Los Angeles, rides an uncomfortable line between outlandishness and outright parody, and it's difficult to tell which is director Ruben Fleischer's intention. Which is a problem.

While the film wallows in period detail and has some sporadic moments of amusing banter, it's mostly flashy, empty and cacophonous, and it woefully wastes a strong cast led by Josh Brolin, Ryan Gosling and Emma Stone in barely developed, one-note roles.

At its center is a performance from Sean Penn as mob king Mickey Cohen in which he doesn't just chew up the scenery, he rolls it around in his mouth like a handful of marbles, then spits it back out again and blows it to bits with a Tommy gun for good measure. With his mashed-up boxer's mug, thick Brooklyn accent and volatile bursts of anger, he's as cartoony as a Dick Tracy villain. While "Gangster Squad" certainly has its intended moments of humor, the laughs Penn's performance prompts might not have been part of the plan. Or maybe they were — who knows?

The script from former Los Angeles police homicide detective Will Beall, based on the book "Gangster Squad" by ex-Los Angeles Times writer and editor Paul Lieberman, focuses on a time of flux in the city after World War II. Gang control of crime, cops and politicians had spread to the West Coast from places such as New York and Chicago. Cohen had everyone of importance in his pocket and was on the verge of expanding his reach even further with a power play that would give him a piece of every wire bet placed in the western half of the United States.

The gruff and grizzled police chief (a gruff and grizzled Nick Nolte) realizes the only way to conquer Cohen is to fight by his rules — that is, by no rules at all. So he asks Sgt. John O'Mara (Brolin), a principled, heroic war veteran, to put together a band of outsiders to destroy his empire without serving warrants or making arrests.

His sidekick is the initially reluctant Sgt. Jerry Wooters (Gosling, chain smoking and speaking in a weird, whispery voice), who prefers booze and women to trouble. Nevertheless, he makes the mistake of getting involved with Mickey's moll, the classy, wannabe-star Grace. Stone is gorgeous with her wavy red locks, glam makeup and sexy gowns, but there's not much to her besides looking good, which is a huge waste of Stone's vibrant presence (not to mention the "Crazy Stupid Love" reunion she shares with Gosling).

The rest of the team consists of tried-and-true types, each of whom gets a one-liner here or there: the folksy, old-school gunslinger (Robert Patrick), the nerdy tech guru (Giovanni Ribisi) and — most dismayingly — the token black and Hispanic members, played by Anthony Mackie and Michael Pena, respectively. Seriously, that's all they're given to work with, and these are charismatic actors ordinarily capable of great command. (If you want to see Pena in a far superior movie about LA police officers, check out last year's "End of Watch.")

"Gangster Squad" was supposed to have come out last year, as well, featuring a climactic shootout in which gangsters fire automatic weapons from behind a movie screen at Hollywood's historic Grauman's Chinese Theatre. After the July shooting at a showing of "The Dark Knight Rises" that left 12 people dead in Aurora. Colo., that scene clearly had to be removed, which required extensive reshoots and a release-date change from September until now.

Still, you shouldn't expect a kinder, gentler film. "Gangster Squad" is brutal, with a barrage of gunfire that becomes deafening and, ultimately, boring. The sheer volume of these gun battles, often depicted in stylized slo-mo or with quick blasts of light, undermines the significance of who's going down and what's at stake.

In the end, who lives and who dies doesn't really matter. It's all just noise disguised as entertainment.

"Gangster Squad," a Warner Bros. Pictures release, is rated R for strong violence and language. Running time: 113 minutes. One and a half stars out of four.

Today in HISTORY

Today is Friday, Jan. 11, the 11th day of 2013. There are 354 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight:

On Jan. 11, 1913, the first enclosed sedan-type automobile, a Hudson, went on display at the 13th National Automobile Show in New York.

On this date:

In 1805, the Michigan Territory was created by an act of Congress.

In 1861, Alabama became the fourth state to withdraw from the Union.

In 1908, President Theodore Roosevelt proclaimed the Grand Canyon National Monument (it became a national park in 1919).

In 1927, the creation of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences was proposed during a dinner of Hollywood luminaries at the Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles.

In 1935, aviator Amelia Earhart began an 18-hour trip from Honolulu to Oakland, Calif., that made her the first woman to fly solo across the Pacific Ocean.

Ten years ago: Calling the death penalty process "arbitrary and capricious, and therefore immoral," Illinois Gov. George Ryan commuted the sentences of 167 condemned inmates, clearing his state's death row two days before leaving office.

Five years ago: Bank of America said it would buy Countrywide Financial for $4.1 billion in stock in a deal rescuing the country's biggest mortgage lender.

One year ago: Joran van der Sloot, the longtime suspect in the still unsolved disappearance of American Natalee Holloway in Aruba, pleaded guilty in Lima to the 2010 murder of a Peruvian woman, Stephany Flores; he was sentenced to 28 years in prison.

Today's Birthdays: Producer Grant Tinker is 88. Actor Rod Taylor is 83. Actor Mitchell Ryan is 79. Actor Felix Silla is 76. Movie director Joel Zwick is 71. Country singer Naomi Judd is 67.

Thought for Today: "Finish each day and be done with it. You have done what you could." — Ralph Waldo Emerson, American essayist, poet and philosopher (1803-1882).

Today's HOROSCOPE

Birthday — From time to time in the year ahead, you are likely to be privy to some valuable information that won't be available to just anybody. If you're smart, you'll figure out how to use it to your advantage.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — A situation in which you're involved has been inhibiting your performance, though it was initially intended otherwise. Changes ahead will give you greater authority to remedy this.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) — A secret ambition you've been harboring for some time can be openly, if carefully, acted upon. It'll still pay to be very selective regarding persons to whom you make your revelations.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) — You are entering a cycle that bodes well for the establishment of new friendships. One particularly strong one might be with a person who was born in a distant land.

Aries (March 21-April 19) — Both circumstances and chance could serve to awaken some fresh ambitions in you, as long as you can adapt quickly to unexpected circumstances.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) — Your mind is open to fresh thinking and ideas, making this a better than average day to deal with unusual situations or unfamiliar ideas. Check out new people, places or things.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) — Be alert to the possibility of acquiring new income channels. It may require some innovative thinking as well as some optimism, but you can make it happen.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) — Improved conditions are indicated in a valued relationship that has been experiencing some ups and downs lately. Your counterpart is likely to be the one bearing the olive branch.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) — A project you inaugurate will have good chances of acceptance by the powers that be. However, once introduced, progress could be slow, so a lot of patience may be called for.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — A more intense bonding could begin to develop with a currently platonic friend. Where it leads will be up to you.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) — Much to your relief, you'll be able to walk away from an arrangement that has been causing a lot of frustration lately. Fortunately, the dissolution will be amicable.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — Important plans you formulate will have high chances of success, provided you don't wait too long to implement them. Time is not on your side.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) — Make a concerted effort to put your financial affairs in better order. If you take the time to systemize things properly, you could make or save yourself a lot of the green stuff.

Best of the best

'Lincoln' leads Oscars with 12 nominations

DAVID GERMAIN
AP movie writer

— BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. Steven Spielberg has matched his personal best at the Academy Awards: 12 nominations for his Civil War saga "Lincoln," including best picture, director and acting honors for Daniel Day-Lewis, Sally Field and Tommy Lee Jones.

That ties the 12 nominations for his 1993 drama "Schindler's List," which won seven Oscars, including best picture and director.

Also among the nine nominees for best picture Thursday: the old-age love story "Amour"; the Iran hostage thriller "Argo"; the independent hit "Beasts of the Southern Wild"; the slave-revenge narrative "Django Unchained"; the musical "Les Miserables"; the shipwreck story "Life of Pi"; the lost-souls romance "Silver Linings Playbook"; and the Osama bin Laden manhunt chronicle "Zero Dark Thirty."

"Life of Pi" surprisingly ran second with 11 nominations, ahead of "Zero Dark Thirty" and "Les Miserables," which had been considered potential front-runners.

"I thought we'd get a few, so this is really great for us," said "Life of Pi" director Ang Lee. "Eleven really surprised me. But it's a good surprise. I'm very happily surprised."

More surprising were snubs in the directing category, where three favorites missed out: Ben Affleck for "Argo" and past Oscar winners Kathryn Bigelow for "Zero Dark Thirty" and Tom Hooper for "Les Miserables." Bigelow was the first woman ever the win the directing Oscar for 2009's "The Hurt Locker," while Hooper won a year later for "The King's Speech."

The best-picture category also had surprising omissions. The acclaimed first-love tale "Moonrise Kingdom" was left out and only got one nomination, for original screenplay. Also snubbed for best-picture was "The Master," a critical favorite that managed three acting nominations, for Joaquin Phoenix, Amy Adams and Philip Seymour Hoffman.

Two-time winner Spielberg earned his seventh directing nomination, and in the mix are past winner Lee for "Life of Pi" and past nominee David O. Russell for "Silver Linings Playbook." The other slots went to surprise picks who are first-time nominees: Michael Haneke for his French-language "Amour" and Benh Zeitlin for "Beasts of the Southern Wild."

Oscar directing contenders often are identical or at least usually line up closely with those for the Directors Guild of America Awards. But only Spielberg and Lee made both lists this time. The Directors Guild also nominated Affleck, Bigelow and Hooper, but not Haneke, Russell or Zeitlin.

Haneke's "Amour" also was a best-picture surprise. The film, which won the top prize at last May's Cannes Film Festival, mainly had been considered a favorite in the foreign-language category, where it also was nominated. "Amour" had five nominations, including original screenplay and best-actress for Emmanuelle Riva.

"It is fulfilling to discover that a film has found the audience and critical acclaim that 'Amour' has garnered," Haneke said. "I have been very fortunate on both those fronts, but it is especially rewarding to discover that a film has found favor among one's industry peers who know, in particular, the effort that goes into getting a film — any film — made."

The year's second-biggest box-office hit, "The Dark Knight Rises," was shut out entirely, even for visual effects. The omission of its predecessor, "The Dark Knight," from best-picture consideration for 2008 was largely responsible for the expansion of the Oscar category from five nominees to 10 the following year. "The Dark Knight" had earned eight nominations and won two Oscars.

Chronicling Abraham Lincoln's final months as he engineers passage of the 13th Amendment abolishing slavery, "Lincoln" stars best-actor contender Day-Lewis in a monumental performance as the 16th president, supporting-actress nominee Field as the notoriously headstrong Mary Todd Lincoln and supporting-actor prospect Jones as abolitionist firebrand Thaddeus Stevens.

Joining Day-Lewis in the best-actor field are Bradley Cooper as a psychiatric patient trying to get his life back together in "Silver Linings Playbook"; Hugh Jackman as Victor Hugo's tragic hero Jean Valjean in "Les Miserables"; Phoenix as a

CAR CORNER

Meaning behind a MOPAR

I have mentioned the term MOPAR in previous articles, and although most car enthusiasts are familiar with the term, I should probably explain what it represents and its origin.

MOPAR is the parts and service organization within the Chrysler Group, derived from the words MOtor PARts. The term was first used by Chrysler in the 1920s and was introduced as a parts brand starting in 1937. MOPAR parts are original equipment manufactured parts for Chrysler vehicles. The term "MOPAR" eventually passed into broader usage among car enthusiasts as a reference to any Chrysler-built vehicle such as Dodge, Chrysler, Plymouth, Imperial or DeSoto and now RAM, plus Jeeps and sometimes Eagle vehicles built after Chrysler's 1987 buyout of AMC-Jeep. Thus, a car club for owners of any Chrysler Corporation vehicles might describe itself as a club for MOPAR enthusiasts.

After I acquired my 2006 Dodge Charger Daytona R/T in late 2009, I tried to locate a local MOPAR club to join, but I was surprised to find none in Citrus County. My friend Mike — a longtime MOPAR enthusiast and who owns too many classic MOPAR vehicles to mention — and I decided to start a local MOPAR club in February 2010 — Citrus MOPARS. The Crystal Chrysler Dodge dealership on State Road 44 in Inverness agreed to sponsor the club.

The club rapidly grew to more than 100 members who own some great MOPARs from the 1930s to 2012. Annual dues are $15 for a family membership. Monthly club meetings are the first Wednesday of each month at 6:30 p.m. at the sponsor's dealership. The club also meets for breakfast and car chat at 9 a.m. every Wednesday at Joe's Family Restaurant on S.R. 44 in Inverness. Club activities include cruise-ins, events and shows. Anyone interested in joining the club may contact me.

On a broader scale, the club has become a member of the Florida MOPAR Association (FMA) based near Tampa, which includes five other MOPAR clubs in Florida. The FMA and the Brat Pack member club run a great annual "All MOPAR" car show at the Don Garlits museum in Ocala the first weekend of November. They also run a MOPAR show at the Southern Georgia Motorsports Park drag race track near Valdosta, Ga., and starting in 2013, with the support of MOPAR Muscle magazine.

I attended the show in Georgia two years ago and the highlight was all of the show cars had an opportunity to take a free run down the track, with the light tree signaling when we should go with a green light. I was so excited at this being my first time on a drag strip that I jumped the green light and was disqualified for a time in the quarter-mile run. But it was fun anyway.

Inverness

Fort Cooper to have bird walk

Explore the trails in search of birds that call Fort Cooper State Park home. An approximate 2- to 2 1/2-hour bird walk will begin at 8 a.m. Saturday, Jan. 12.

The walk will be led by members of the local Audubon society and is open to all experience levels of birders. Bring binoculars, field guides, bug repellant and anything to enhance the experience on the outing at Fort Cooper State Park, 3100 S. Old Floral City Road in Inverness.

Normal park entrance fee of $3 per vehicle (up to eight people per vehicle) is required. For more information, call the park at 352-726-0315.

Special to the Chronicle

In the musical "Nunsense," Chris Venable portrays Mother Regina after she takes several sniffs of a drug called Rush and imitates Shelley Winters in the Poseidon Adventure.

COMING ATTRACTION

Concerts at the Courthouse featuring the Maine-based duo Castle Bay will begin at 7 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 17. Doors open at 6:15 p.m. The band will play a blend of Celtic and Maine folk tunes.

Tickets are $10 per person, including desserts, coffee, soda and water. Proceeds benefit the exhibition, program and operations at the Old Courthouse Heritage Museum.

The Honey Hole

Located south of Inverness on US 41, The Honey Hole features good, old-fashioned, home-style cooking in a family friendly atmosphere.

A great way to start your day is the Trash Hash - hash browns with onions, green peppers, mushrooms, olives and Cheddar cheese topped with sausage gravy. Don't forget a side of their melt in your mouth signature butter biscuits. They offer a wide range of breakfast meals to satisfy any taste: omelets, egg combinations, pancakes, French toast, breakfast sandwiches, and a great list of sides. And breakfast is served ALL DAY!

The featured item for lunch is the Stinger Club sandwich - piled high with turkey, roast beef, ham and American cheese. They also add bacon, lettuce and tomato - a meal by itself! Or build a burger with the items you select and French fries on the side. There is something for everyone on the menu from a Reuben piled high with corned beef, sauerkraut and Swiss to a robust Greek salad. A wide variety of other sandwiches, melts, salads and side dishes round out the selections. Everything is made to order, there are daily specials, and the desserts are homemade like the biscuits. They also serve beer and wine.

The Honey Hole is open Sunday-Thursday from 7 am to 2 pm; Friday and Saturday from 7 am to 8 pm. Their address is 5490 S. Florida Ave. (US 41), Inverness. For more information, call 352-341-2040.

BEST

Navy vet who falls in with a cult in "The Master"; and Denzel Washington as a boozy airline pilot in "Flight."

Cooper had been a bit of a longshot. John Hawkes, a potential best-actor favorite, missed out for his role as a man in an iron lung aiming to lose his virginity in "The Sessions."

Nominated for best actress are Jessica Chastain as a CIA operative hunting bin Laden in "Zero Dark Thirty"; Jennifer Lawrence as a troubled young widow struggling to heal in "Silver Linings Playbook"; Riva as an ailing woman tended by her husband in "Amour"; Quvenzhane Wallis as a spirited girl on the Louisiana delta in "Beasts of the Southern Wild"; and Naomi Watts as a mother caught up in a devastating tsunami in "The Impossible."

Best actress had a wild age range: Riva is the oldest nominee ever in the category at 85, while Wallis is the youngest ever at 9.

Along with Field, supporting-actress nominees are Adams as a cult leader's devoted wife in "The Master"; Anne Hathaway as an outcast mother reduced to prostitution in "Les Miserables"; Helen Hunt as a sex surrogate in "The Sessions"; and Jacki Weaver as an unstable man's doting mom in "Silver Linings Playbook."

Besides Jones, the supporting-actor contenders are Alan Arkin as a wily Hollywood producer in "Argo"; Robert De Niro as a football-obsessed patriarch in "Silver Linings Playbook"; Hoffman as a dynamic cult leader in "The Master"; and Christoph Waltz as a genteel bounty hunter in "Django Unchained."

"Family Guy" creator Seth MacFarlane, who will host the Feb. 24 Oscars, joined Emma Stone to announce the Oscar lineup, and he scored a nomination himself. He's up for original song for "Everybody Needs a Best Friend," the tune he co-wrote for his big-screen directing debut "Ted."

"That's kind of cool I got nominated," MacFarlane deadpanned at the announcement. "I get to go to the Oscars."

Walt Disney predictably dominated the animated-feature category with three of the five nominees: "Brave," "Frankenweenie" and "Wreck-It Ralph." Also nominated were "ParaNorman" and "The Pirates! Band of Misfits."

"I'm absolutely blown away," "Wreck-It Ralph" director Rich Moore said. "It is weird at 5:30 in the morning to hear Emma Stone say your name. It's surreal."

"Lincoln" is Spielberg's best awards prospect since his critical peak in the 1990s, when he won best-picture and directing Oscars for "Schindler's List" and a second directing Oscar for "Saving Private Ryan."

Spielberg's latest film could vault him, Day-Lewis and Field to new heights among Hollywood's super-elite of multiple Oscar winners.

A best-picture win for "Lincoln" would be Spielberg's second, while another directing win would be his third, a feat achieved only by Frank Capra and William Wyler, who each earned three directing Oscars, and John Ford, who received four.

"Lincoln" also was the ninth best-picture nominee Spielberg has directed, moving him into a tie for second-place with Ford. Only Wyler directed more best-picture nominees, with 13.

Day-Lewis and Field have two lead-acting Oscars already, he for "My Left Foot" and "There Will Be Blood" and she for "Norma Rae" and "Places in the Heart." A third Oscar for either would put them in rare company with previous triple winners Ingrid Bergman, Walter Brennan, Jack Nicholson and Meryl Streep. Katharine Hepburn is the record-holder with four acting Oscars.

An Oscar for Jones would be his second supporting-actor prize; he previously won for "The Fugitive."

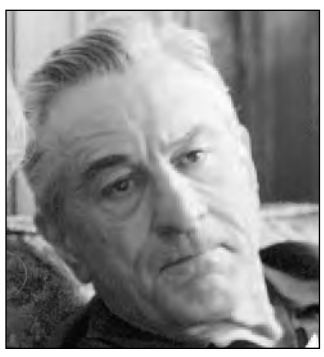
"Lincoln" composer John Williams — whose five Oscars include three for the music of three earlier Spielberg films, "Jaws," "E.T. the Extra-terrestrial" and "Schindler's List" — earned his 43rd nomination for best score, extending his all-time record in the category.

The Oscars feature a best-picture field that ranges from five to 10 films depending on a complex formula of ballots from the 5,856 voting members of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences.

Sally Field and Daniel Day-Lewis play Mary Todd and Abraham Lincoln in the film "Lincoln." Field was nominated for an Academy Award for best supporting actress and Day-Lewis was nominated for best actor on Thursday for their roles in "Lincoln."

Associated Press

Emmanuelle Riva, Top, Quvenzhane Wallis, center, and Jessica Chastain, bottom, were nominated for an Academy Award for best actress on Thursday for their respective roles in "Amour," "Beasts of the Southern Wild and "Zero Dark Thirty." All three films are nominated for best picture.



Robert De Niro, top, and Jacki Weaver, bottom, were nominated for an Academy Award for best supporting actor and actress for their roles in "Silver Linings Playbook," which is up for best picture.

'Looper' more than hunter versus hunted

Heather Foster

FOSTER ON FILM

To tell the truth, I was not too keen on seeing "Looper." Shoot 'em up movies can get monotonous for me.

Yet, my impressions were wrong. The bulk of "Looper's" bullets are directed at sedate, blindfolded detainees — not too flashy. The film itself critiques the assassin's repetitive, unsatisfying trade. "Looper's" interests are directed at a provocative time-travel plot with an awesome, human draw.

"Looper" takes place in 2044, about 30 years before the invention of time travel. Future criminal organizations find and hire young men from 2044 to kill and dispose of their hits' bodies. Since time travel is illegal, such organizations force assassins to kill their older selves to eliminate evidence. Hence, the trade's name: "looping."

Our looper protagonist, young Joe (Joseph Gordon-Levitt) grew up especially tough. When it is Joe's time to kill his old self (Bruce Willis), the man knocks him out and flees. Old Joe is seeking a child who will become the Rainmaker, an infamous criminal who will eventually destroy all loopers and old Joe's beloved wife. Meanwhile young Joe hides out at one of the homes his old self is targeting and grows close to its owners: Sara (Emily Blunt) and her little boy, Cid (Pierce Gagnon).

First off, I have to applaud the dinged-up futuristic setting. For the most part, "Looper's" world looks a lot like ours, minus some quirks. Recognizable cars are hooked up with what looks like medical tubing, an occasional motorbike levitates down the street, bullion is melded to look like motherboards and some characters have a slight telekinetic mutation. Seeing brick buildings and dust really grounds "Looper's" aesthetic for me. Understated as it is though, elements such as the cars' tubing are memorable in the sci-fi spectrum.

Moreover, the actors and story come together and snatch your emotions. More than a neat little plot device, "Looper's" time-traveling element presents characters in such a way you really get to know them.

For one, the way young Joe's interactions with Sara almost erase old Joe's memories about his wife are haunting. When it comes rescuing the wife he hasn't met, Gordon-Levitt underpins his role's pragmatic, technically selfless "I'll not marry her" proclamation with a cocky, uninvolved boyishness.

Meanwhile, Willis gives his desperate, brutal character a tragic side. You can't help but commiserate when Willis breaks down to tears as young Joe's new actions wipe out his real, soon to be imaginary past. Gordon-Levitt and Willis' emotive performances ensure "Looper's" narrative structure, amplifying character development.

By and large, "Looper" is clever, broody and has a lot of heart. I give it an A.

With a running time of 119 minutes, "Looper" is rated R for strong violence, language, some sexuality/nudity and drug content. "Looper" is available for rent at Redbox kiosks.

Homeless

Special to the Chronicle

Nine-year-old Shih Tzus Fluffy and Tubby and 13-year-old Shih Tzu and poodle mix Buster are looking for new homes. Each dog is very sweet, housebroken and in good health. They are good with other animals, but not children. The trio may be separated or kept together. Shih Tzus can live about 16 years; poodles can live to be 16 to 18 or longer. These middle-aged canines deserve good homes in which to live out their lives. Meet them and their friends at the weekly Saturday adoption event from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Pet Supermarket in Inverness. Visit Humane Society of Central Florida Pet Rescue at www.AHumaneSocietyPetRescue.com. Need to rehome a small dog? Call 352-527-9050 leave a message.

Learn about advance directives at free HPH Hospice presentation

Special to the Chronicle

If you would like help understanding what and why it is important for to have advance health care directives to ensure personal medical care and wishes are honored, HPH Hospice invites everyone to a free community presentation addressing these topics.

The presentation will be Wednesday, Jan. 23, at HPH Hospice administrative offices, 3545 N. Lecanto Highway (Winn Dixie Shopping Plaza), Beverly Hills. Registration begins at 9:30 a.m., the seminar will be from 10 a.m. until noon.

The presentation will be given by George Germann, PA, and David McGrew, MD. Germann is an attorney specializing in probate, estate planning, guardianships and elder law and a HPH Hospice Board of Directors member. McGrew is medical director for HPH Hospice.

They will discuss advance directives, choosing the right health care surrogate, who should have copies of an advance directive, pros and cons of CPR and more useful information; all explained in easy-to-understand terms.

Pre-registration is required. HPH Hospice at 352-527-4600.

'Outlaws' visit shelter

Special to the Chronicle

4-H Lecanto Outlaws Club made a recent trip/donation to the Citrus County Animal Shelter. The girls made about four dozen homemade dog treats to take with them, along with blankets and sheets for the shelter. Kelly Gills then gave the club a behind-the-scenes tour of the shelter and answered questions. This was just one of the recent activities the Lecanto Outlaws participated in; they have also made trail mix packets to take and pass out to the homeless in Hernando, twice, along with clothing donations. They also adopted eight children for the holiday season. Pictured, from left, are: Nicole Cassell, Logan Mantor, Rachel Ferguson, Kelly Gills, Tucker Mantor, Madyson Traum, Ashlyn Traum and Samantha Jenkins.

Fresh start with the new year

Marilyn Booth
NAMI CITRUS

What kind of an engine do nonprofit groups run on? The fuel has to be comprised of many parts: past successes, present plans and goals, and always a large measure of faith and hope that our groups' goals can be translated into more support of every kind in the future.

Rocket fuel! We plan on your support to accomplish big things for the many vulnerable folks who need our help in this community.

We are preparing a brochure for local attorneys so that they may have information to give their clients who may be planning their wills, as we are a nonprofit group and contributions are tax deductible, from the smallest to the largest. What a fitting way to honor the deceased; with a bequest that will make life better for the living.

Our first general meeting of the new year will be Monday, Jan. 14, at Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, County Road 486. Doors open at 6:30 p.m. and the speaker begins at 6:45. Our speaker will be Dr. Susan Reeder, psychologist with a practice in Inverness. Plan to be there, as she always has something timely to say!

Refreshments are served. All those with an interest in mental health issues are welcome.

Marilyn Booth is a member of the Board of Directors of NAMI Citrus, of the National Alliance on Mental Illness.

Enjoy plateful of music, comedy, drama

SPOTLIGHT ON THEATER

After the hectic pace of the recent holidays, aren't we ready for an entertaining stage production to ease the onset of the post-holiday doldrums?

What could be better than the rollicking musical comedy "Nunsense," with females in the starring roles? It will open this weekend at the Art Center Theatre for an extended weekend run. Because this is such a feel-good show, it is a popular one for community theaters. We are always uplifted by the escapades of those "little sisters of Hoboken."

Notice a common thread between "Nunsense" and the current show at Ocala Civic Theatre, "Six Women With Brain Death" (or "Inquiring Minds Want To Know"), revolving around females. Following this production is the large cast musical comedy "A Funny Thing Happened On The Way To The Forum," opening Feb. 7 and continuing until March 3. For fans who adore anything written by the renowned Stephen Sondheim, be aware that he wrote the music and lyrics for "Forum."

"Gypsy," the musical based loosely on the character of entertainer Gypsy Rose Lee's mother, appears on the Main Stage at Stage West Community Playhouse in Spring Hill from Jan. 10 to 20. Mama Rose has been designated as the original recipient of the title "stage mother." On the Forum Stage, a smaller facility with seating for only 150, adjacent to the main theater, is "The Miracle Worker," running from Feb. 7 to 17. In this sensitive drama about the relationship between student and teacher, you may remember the movie with Patty Duke as Helen Keller and Ann Bancroft as Annie Sullivan.

Encore Ensemble Theater will begin its musical benefit productions in the spring, as they have done previously. For later information on an upcoming production, check out the website at www.encoreensembletheater.webs.com.

How fortunate we are to be surrounded by these community theaters offering comedy, music and drama to lift our spirits and warm our hearts during these winter months. As audience members, you will be heartily welcomed in these facilities.

Jeri Augustine is a longtime participant in the local theater community as an actor, producer and director, an ongoing member of the Art Center Theater and founding member of Encore Ensemble Theater Inc.

News NOTES

New Age Thinkers to host intuitive

New Age Thinkers' next presentation will be at 2 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 12, at the Ellie Schiller Homosassa Springs Wildlife State Park, with guest speaker Carol Jo Garfinkel, intuitive medium.

Garfinkel has been doing trance medium work since 1974, has a Bachelor of Science degree in esoteric science and has appeared on many TV and radio programs throughout the country.

All are welcome at her presentation on "Predictions" for 2013. For more information, email miss-donna@tampabay.rr.com or call Donna at 352-628-3253.

Lounge to host Saturday poker run

On Saturday, Jan. 12, Heads & Tails Lounge, 9211 S. Florida Ave. in Floral City, will host a poker run fundraiser to benefit patients and families served by Hospice of Citrus County.

Registration for the run will begin at 10 a.m. at Heads & Tails Lounge. A registration fee of $10 per rider will cover an arm band (poker hand) and a barbecue dinner at the end of the run. Stops include Sleepy Hollow, Z Rox's Place, The Thunder Inn, IRRU Social Club and Heads & Tails Lounge.

"Kick stands up" will be at 11 a.m. The benefit will begin at Heads & Tails at noon. There will be raffle drawings, a silent auction, and a 50/50 drawing. Dinner will be offered for a $5 donation. All vehicles are welcome.

Wildlife Jeopardy to focus on otters

The Florida Department of Environmental Protection's Ellie Schiller Homosassa Springs Wildlife State Park will host a Wildlife Jeopardy program in the Education Center from noon to 12:30 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 12. The program will be on otters.

The Wildlife Jeopardy program is an educational program for all ages. Volunteer Barbara Cairns uses a Jeopardy-style format to present information on different Florida species monthly, complete with educational handouts.

The program is included at no additional charge with regular park admission. It is a 10-minute walk from the park's west entrance on Fishbowl Drive to the Education Center. The programs are usually offered monthly December through May.

Cairns works as a docent in the Children's Education Center and is a retired school principal in the overseas U.S. Department of Defense Schools in Labrador, Germany and Panama.

She is also a published author with articles and stories in books, magazines and newspapers. For more information, visit www.floridastateparks.org.

PHILLIP ALDER
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Alfred, Lord Tennyson said, "He makes no friends who never made a foe."

At the bridge table, a suit can be like a friend or foe, often depending on how the suit divides between your other foe, your opponents.

How is that relevant to this deal? South is in four hearts. West leads the diamond queen. Since this marks East with the ace, declarer plays low from the dummy at this trick and the next, when West continues the suit. However, East takes the third trick with his ace, then shifts to the club queen. How should South continue?

South rebid two spades in case he and his partner had a better fit there than in hearts. (North could have held five spades and three hearts. To respond one spade with that hand would have been wrong, in particular if South had rebid two clubs or two diamonds. Then North's preference to two hearts would have shown only a doubleton, and South would have misevaluated the fit.)

Having lost three tricks, South needed the trumps to break 3-2. But he also had a potential spade loser. If the missing cards were friends, breaking 3-3, there would not be a problem. But if they were foe, dividing 4-2, declarer would need some luck.

South drew two rounds of trumps using dummy's queen and his ace. Then he shifted to spades, cashing his ace, crossing to the king, and leading back to his queen.

If the suit had been 3-3, declarer would have drawn the last trump and claimed. Here, though, he ruffed his fourth spade on the board, led a club to his ace, removed West's last heart, and claimed.

ANNIE'S MAILBOX

Dear Annie: My husband and I recently moved to the city where my husband's family lives. One of his brothers has been married for two years. (It's his third wife.) "Pete" is a likable guy who often arranges fun activities.

Pete moved into his wife's house when they married. She had a teenage daughter, a dog and a cat. Pete got rid of all three. He is obsessive-compulsive and doesn't like to clean up after pets and couldn't tolerate his wife's daughter. The girl now lives with her father, who isn't a great parent, so she sometimes sleeps in the park. We don't know what he did with the animals. Pete also made his wife sign over her house because she wasn't paying her portion of the mortgage and bills.

Pete's wife confides in me, and while she accepts everything he does, she is miserable. My husband and I feel guilty hanging out with Mr. Good Times when he is creating so much pain for his wife and stepdaughter. How do we continue accepting fun invites when we know he is such a control freak? I realize I can't interfere in his marriage, but I don't want him to think we condone his treatment of his wife and stepdaughter. The fact that Pete sees nothing wrong with his actions is disturbing. What can we do? — Worried Sister-in-Law

Dear Worried: Abusers often come across as charming guys. But we don't know what's really going on. The pets could be fine, the daughter might be OK if her biological father stepped up, and if Pete's wife wasn't paying the mortgage, having the house in his name may have been justified. However, all of these things together make Pete's behavior questionable, if not pathological. If he is forcing these changes onto his wife and she feels trapped, please encourage her to call the Domestic Violence Hotline (the hotline.org) at 1-800-799-SAFE. And speak up. Tell Pete you find his behavior disturbing.

Dear Annie: My sister and I are trying to plan a nice dinner for our parents' 50th wedding anniversary. We would like to invite about 30 close family members and friends to a restaurant our parents like, but footing the bill for everyone's meal would be difficult. Would it be OK to add this sentence to the invitation: "We chose a restaurant that we think is affordable to all. Gifts are not required. Your presence will be gift enough." Or do you have another suggestion? — Want To Do the Right Thing

Dear Want: In other words, you want the guests to pay for their own meals. That necessitates rephrasing the entire invitation because you are asking them to host themselves. Try this: "Please join us in taking our parents out to their favorite restaurant."

Dear Annie: "A Guy in Virginia" asked whether it was OK to look at a woman's tattoo. I'd like to take this opportunity to clarify sexual harassment. It has a very strict legal meaning at the federal and state level to regulate how people behave in the workplace. It has nothing to do with a guy checking out some woman in the grocery.

It's sexual harassment if the person in authority said, "If you don't sleep with me, I will fire you" — or not give you a raise, flunk you, etc. It's sexual harassment if it creates a hostile work environment — a pattern of looking at pornography at work, making lewd comments or sexist jokes, or displaying suggestive calendars or photos. It is not sexual harassment to say, "I like your hair," although a pattern of personal remarks that make someone uncomfortable would eventually constitute a hostile work environment.

It is NOT about what happens outside the workplace. So if you don't want someone to stare at you, don't wear revealing clothes, get a tattoo or wear pink hair. — BTDT in the Northeast

BLUE
Blue is an approximately 8-y.o. neutered male Cattle Dog mix, Came to the shelter because his family lost their home. Blue is white and tan, weighs about 50 pounds, is a bit chubby for his size, which is medium. He is housebroken, very friendly and affectionate. The most striking thing about him is that he has very beautiful blue eyes, which catch your attention immediately. He loves people and wants to be by your side . Is very obedient and walks well on a leash. He is quite laid-back and would make a great companion for an older person.

WHISPER
Whisper is a beautiful chestnut brown female Staffordshire Terrier, 3 years old, weighs 55 pounds, housebroken. She loves to love her people and would make a great companion. Greets all with mirth and enthusiasm. Obedient, affectionate, and a sense of humor. You can see amusement on her face when she smiles. Has an easy-going personality, enjoys life and humankind. Very intelligent, easy to train. Spay, microchip, updated vaccines included in adoption fee.

WORDY GURDY®

BY TRICKY RICKY KANE

Every answer is a rhyming pair of words (like FAT CAT and DOUBLE TROUBLE), and they will fit in the letter squares. The number after the definition tells you how many syllables in each word.

1. Violently waved a chess castle (1)
2. Rudely toss a mated chess piece (1)
3. Cut-like-lumber minor chess piece (1)
4. Dust off a female chess piece (1)
5. Gleaming horse-headed chess piece (1)
6. Stockpiles chess game surfaces (1)
7. Chess competitions' gabfests with coffee (2)
