Overseas Expert Column by Naohiro Goda

The performance of SERIFOS in the G1 Mile Championship at Hanshin on 20th November 2022 is one of the most impressive performances by Japanese milers that I have seen in the last ten years. SERIFOS with Damian Lane on saddle was still at rear of 17 runners' field at the top of homestretch and got ahead of 16 runners in single spurt, to win by 1.3 lengths. I thought a new star was born in Japan and was satisfied to see international handicappers gave him a rating of 122, which was higher than COROEBUS and MODERN GAMES who won the 2000 Guineas in UK and Poule d'Essai des Poulains in France separately.

First start of this season for SERIFOS was G1 Dubai Turf over 1,800m turf course at Meydan on 25th March and I selected SERIFOS as my favourite although SERIFOS had never run a race beyond 1,600m. SERIFOS, who was settled in the middle of the field, responded very well, when Damian Lane asked him to quicken at far turn, and started to make up ground. However, SERIFOS lost momentum suddenly and weakened at 200m pole. From this performance, I was convinced that SERIFOS is a pure miler. As the distance of Yasuda Kinen is 1,600m, it's the best stage for him to show his true ability.

My second favourite is SCHNELL MEISTER, who won G1 NHK Mile Cup over the same course and distance as Yasuda Kinen in 2021 and finished second in Yasuda Kinen in 2022. Since then, the 5YO colt by KINGMAN lost his form and failed to finish within the first three for four races in a row. Then, he bounced back at Kyoto on 23rd April, when he showed himself at his best and won G2 Yomiuri Milers' Cup, covering final 600m for 32.9 seconds, which is the quickest in 15 runners. Once it is confirmed that real SCHNELL MEISTER is back, he must be the strongest opponent for SERIFOS.

My third choice is SODASHI. The consistency of the white mare at 1,600m turf races is amazing. She started seven races, won four of them, finished second once, and third twice. SODASHI has been trained at Ritto Training Centre much sharper than she was in prior to G1 Victoria Mile at Tokyo on 14th May, which was her first start of season. I believe she is now ready to compete against colts and horses, and finishes within first three here on Sunday.

Interesting runner in the field is JACK D'OR, who has won eight races over 2,000m turf, including G1 Osaka Hai at Hanshin on 2nd April, and has never run the race shorter than 2,000m. It is reported Yutaka Take, who rode JACK D'OR in Osaka Hai, suggested Kenichi Fujioka that Yasuda Kinen is a suitable race for the winner of Osaka Hai. JACK D'OR in my fourth choice.

ELUSIVE PANTHER, beaten favourite in Yasuda Kinen twelve months ago, is my fifth choice. The tempo of the race was not suitable for this closer last year. As there is a few runners with speed in this year's field, I expect ELUSIVE PANTHER runs better this year.

Track Analysis by Naohiro Goda

Tokyo Racecourse

Tokyo Racecourse is an anti-clockwise oval track. Outer turf track is 2083.1m long, with 525.9m homestretch, which is the second longest in JRA's tracks after Niigata. Backstretch is 400m long. There are two chutes to set the stalls for races over 1800m and 2000m. The width of the course is the widest in JRA's tracks. The bend is gentle and it is described as "galloping course". While it is recognized in general that the true ability of runners reflects on the results, it is the tendency that the runners who are off the pace during former part of race and deliver strong challenge on homestretch make good showing at Tokyo Racecourse. Inner dirt track is 1899m long, with 501.6m homestretch, the last 200m to the finishing line on the homestretch is the highest point, and the middle of the far turn to the top of homestretch is the lowest point of the course.

G1 Yasuda Kinen is conducted at the 1600m turf course. Starting gate is set at the top of the backstretch and distance from the starting gate to the entrance of far turn is 550m. While it is analyzed there is no draw bias, statistics shows middle numbers are preferable. Tempo tends to be moderate at this course. The distance from the exit of far turn to winning post is 525.9m. 160m long sharp rise, with difference in height of 2m, begins at around 400m to 300m from home. Final 300m is flat. This is recognized as "tough mile", and is analyzed runners are required stamina to stay 2000m, even though the actual distance is 1600m.

Last year's Yasuda Kinen was conducted at firm going track. The pace was slower than standard, as the front runner clocked 46.7 seconds at 800m and 58.7 seconds at 1000m, ELUSIVE PANTHER with Hironobu Tanabe on saddle, was slowly into stride and left at rear of 18 runners' field. SCHNELL MEISTER, who was settled at mid pack, responded well when Christophe Lemaire started to drive at top of homestretch and showed a sharp turn of foot, cutting through middle of the herd. SONGLINE, who was also settled at middle of field by Kenichi Ikezoe on saddle, showed a sharper turn of foot at stand side of homestretch and passed Schnell Meister by neck at final stride. Though ELUSIVE PANTHER clocked 32.6 seconds for final 600m, the quickest in 18 runners, he was beaten eighth.

Spring meeting at Tokyo Racecourse started on 22nd April and 4th June is the 14th meeting. Turf surface at rail side on far turn has become rough. As temporary rail is set at 9m from inside rail on turf track after the meeting on 28th May, the turf track should be fresh and hold good cushion on the day of Yasuda Kinen. While weather in Tokyo is changeable at this time of year, there is possibility that amount of rain could affect the track condition on the raceday. Please be advised to pay attention on weather update during the week leading up to Yasuda Kinen.

Sodashi, Schnell Meister favoured for Yasuda success

Thursday, 1/6/2023

Japanese racing will celebrate its final big event of the spring with the running of the G1 Yasuda Kinen (1600m) at Tokyo Racecourse on Sunday (4 June) with the 73rd staging of the showcase.

Long a favourite target for Hong Kong horsemen, Fairy King Prawn captured the race in 2000 to become the first Hong Kong-trained horse to win a Group 1 overseas, while Bullish Luck landed the Yasuda Kinen in 2006.

This year sees no participants from abroad, but the 18 runners boast international-level talent, and include 10 Group 1 winners and many fan favourites.

Five horses feature prominently in the majority of discussions - Schnell Meister, Sodashi, Serifos, Jack d'Or and Songline. If the race plays out anything like it did last year, with only under two lengths separating the winner and the eighth-place finisher, it's going to be close again.

Schnell Meister, a Kingman five-year-old who has competed in three countries and at Grade 1 level in eight of his 14 starts, contests his third Yasuda Kinen. His first seven starts saw him securely in the top three. He captured the 2021 G1 NHK Mile Cup (the top mile event for three-year-olds and his only Group 1 win) over 1600m, then finished third in the Yasuda Kinen a month later.

Last year, Schnell Meister returned from Dubai to narrowly miss the Yasuda winner's circle by a neck under Christophe Lemaire and afterward failed to shine in his next three starts. This year, however, he is in improved form. His most recent win came in the G2 Yomiuri Milers Cup (1600m) six weeks ago at Kyoto. Paired again with Lemaire, who has ridden all but five of his 14 career starts, Schnell Meister is again a leading chance in the Yasuda Kinen.

Five-year-old Sodashi, a stunning pure white mare by Kurofune, returned after a six-month layoff to miss the G1 Victoria Mile (1600m) win by a head under Damian Lane. The mile specialist is back less than a month later for a chance at the 180-million yen (approx. HK$10.1 million) Yasuda winner's share. It's expected to be her last race and she has a new partner in Yuga Kawada, who tops the jockey standings only five wins ahead of Lemaire.

Songline, a five-year-old by Kizuna, beat Sodashi to the line in the Victoria Mile. Last year, she'd gone from a fifth in that race to winning the Yasuda Kinen. Given her hard run in the Victoria Mile, expectations are dampened. But, with a relaxed schedule of only two starts this year, she just may be able to score big again.

Maurice-sired Jack d'Or is a specialist over 2000 metres and returns from his G1 Osaka Hai (2000m) win at Hanshin on 2 April. He is taking on his first mile, but given his early speed and his 5-1-1-4 record over the Tokyo 2000m, the drop in distance at the highly demanding venue may help him land his second big win.

Damian Lane is set to pilot Serifos, fourth in last year's Yasuda Kinen. He's 2-4-4-1 in the G1 mile and bagged the G1 Mile Championship (1600m) in November at Hanshin. He's returning from Dubai and makes only his second start of the year. He's fresh and Lane is fresh off his Derby win aboard Tastiera. Together the two may be able to score another big victory.

Overseas Expert Column by Bill Esdaile

For once, the draw will be of less importance in the G1 Prix du Jockey Club, as only 11 horses are going to the start of the 2,100m Classic.

French trainer Pascal Bary, who has won the race six times, is saddling the unbeaten FEED THE FLAME, who is the least experienced horse in this small field as he has only had two starts. A big individual, the son of KINGMAN had to be supplemented for the race, as he hadn't even made his debut when entries were made for this race. Since then, he has progressed well, winning his first start, which was run over the same trip as the Prix du Jockey Club, by five and a half lengths. He was again impressive on his second start, a race over 2,150m, where the runner-up has since added a G3 race to his name. Hence, FEED THE FLAME's bid in the French Classic looks very promising.

The horse to beat is the Christopher Head-trained BIG ROCK, who is unbeaten in four starts this season and comes from a yard that only three weeks ago added the G1 Poule d'Essai des Poulaches by BLUE ROSE CEN to its growing number of high-profile victories. BIG ROCK, who came to Head at the beginning of the season, won the G3 Prix de Guiche over 1,800m by five lengths in heavy ground. The only question about this rapidly improving colt is if he can be equally effective on better ground and over the slightly longer trip.

The Andreas Schutz-trained MARHABA YA SANAFI will try to emulate ST MARK'S BASILICA when he attempts the Poule d'Essai des Poulains and Prix du Jockey Club double. The son of MUHAARAR sprung a surprise by winning the first French Classic Poule d'Essai des Poulains over 1,600m of the season in very soft conditions and the longer trip in the Prix du Jockey Club must be a concern for connections.

The Aidan O'Brien-trained horses were not competitive on their last trip to Prix du Jockey Club, but the G2 Dante Stakes over 2,051m third CONTINUOUS should have his word to say in the G1 race this year. Already a French G3 winner on his final start last season over 1,600m at Saint Cloud, he will have improved from his seasonal reappearance at York this year.

Jean-Claude Rouget saddles three colts, including ACE IMPACT who is unbeaten in three starts. A winner of the 2,000m Listed Prix de Suresnes, he might not have been as impressive as FEED THE FLAME, but he has all the right attributes to give his sire CRACKSMAN a Classic winner.

The French handicapper has him as the joint-lowest rated horse in the race. He is one of three runners to line up in this race who clearly could not handle the heavy ground in the Prix de Guiche.

Took a big step forward from finishing second to American Flag in the main Classic trial over 1600m to winning the Poule d'Essai des Poulains for trainer Andreas Schutz. On pedigree he looks more likely than not to stay. Leading player.

Another who hated the heavy going in the Prix de Guiche. Before that he was only just beaten for second in a Group 3 over 1600 metres. He should appreciate the fast track and has place claims.

Was beaten a long way in fourth by Big Rock in the Prix de Guiche on a day when heavy ground may have exaggerated the margins. Along with Rajapour he represents five-time winning trainer, Jean-Claude Rouget, but needs to step forward for a first try at 2100m.

Has been supplemented into the race at considerable cost and is the least experienced runner after just two starts. Both of those have resulted in extremely impressive wins. In contrast to Big Rock, he prefers to be held up, and the race could come down to whether he can run down that rival.

A pleasing win at Listed level last time out but that was over 2400 metres and so needs to prove that a step back in trip on appreciably faster ground is what he needs. Trainers saddled the runner-up in the Prix du Jockey Club in 2011.

Showed class and determination to win a G3 over 1600 metres at Saint-Cloud last September and could emerge as one of Aidan O'Brien's leading colts over middle distances this season. He showed he could handle good ground when finishing in a dead-heat for third in the G2 Dante Stakes against race-fit rivals.

Has reeled off an impressive four straight wins since moving stables, most recently when slamming three of these rivals in the Prix de Guiche. A big horse with a very long stride, he is likely to be ridden prominently in an effort to break his rivals from the front. Could be difficult to peg back if he gets rolling.

Track Analysis by Tim Carroll

Chantilly Racecourse

Chantilly racecourse is located approximately 50km from Paris, and is considered one of the most beautiful venues in the world. It consists of a network of three right-handed courses, plus a straight course, and includes the first All-Weather track to be installed on a Parisian racecourse, in 2011. The layout used for The Prix du Jockey Club, is The Jockey Club track, which has a circumference of 2400m and is a teardrop in shape. The home straight is 600m in length, rising approximately 10m to the winning post, which places emphasis on stamina.

The Prix du Jockey Club was originally run over 2500m and then 2400m, but was shortened to its current distance of 2100m in 2005. Over the 2100m they jump from the top of the back straight on the left hand side of the course. They have a straight run of approximately 800m before they hit the start of the bend, which has a sweeping aspect to it at first, but the final part of the turn, before they enter the 600m rising straight, is sharp. There is no cut-away rail in the straight at Chantilly, meaning horses need to be ridden prominently or look to sweep down the outside, as trying to thread through the field from the rear is a very difficult thing to do. More so than most French tracks, there is a high number of hard luck stories, especially for horses strung up in behind on the rail. As such, horses that draw low need to use up some of their early speed to hold a forward position if they can, or risk finding themselves trapped in a pocket on the rail.

There is a barrier bias over 2100m, which favours horses drawn low to middle. During the last 10 renewals of the Prix du Jockey Club the average field size has been 15.8, whilst the average winning barrier has been 5.5. During that time only two horses have won from double figure draws, the last of those being NEW BAY in 2015. Of the last ten winners, whilst no outright leader has won the race, eight have either tracked the speed or sat midfield, whilst only two have been late closers from the back.

Last year's Prix du Jockey Club was run on soft ground with a field of 15 going to post. EL BODEGON took it up from a low draw, whilst the favourite, MODERN GAMES, worked across from a high draw to sit on that one's outside, with YOOZUNA and VADENI in behind the two leaders. Not long afterwards, EL BODEGON handed the lead up to MODERN GAMES, with VADENI now back in fifth. As they approached the home bend, YOOZUNA served it up to MODERN GAMES, with the pair going three-lengths clear. However, as they approached the 400m mark, VADENI, who was travelling much better than his rivals, was pulled to the outside to launch a challenge, going straight by MODERN GAMES 300m out, strolling to victory in impressive style by five-lengths, whilst EL BODEGON got up to grab second, with MODERN GAMES third.

The last ten renewals of the Prix du Jockey Club has been run on varying ground, but good to soft is the most common description. The weather forecast sees the possibility of rain in the last few days leading up, and on race day itself. Thus if the forecasts are correct, and from a recent historically perspective, it is likely the ground will have soft in the going description.

Prix du Jockey Club shapes as a season highlight

Friday, 2/6/2023

The 2023 G1 Prix du Jockey Club (2100m) at Chantilly on Sunday (4 June) presents a fascinating contrast in styles between Big Rock, who trainer Christopher Head describes as a “steamroller” of a horse, and the rapier finishing speed of Feed The Flame, who will sit and hope to pounce under Christophe Soumillon.

Sitting in judgement somewhere between the two is Marhaba Ya Sanafi, who sprang a surprise in the G1 Poule d’Essai des Poulains (French 2000 Guineas) over a mile and who represents a resurgent Andreas Schutz.

Has the well-travelled German-born trainer found a new Good Ba Ba, his two-time winner of the G1 Hong Kong Mile (1600m) in 2007 and 2008?

In a sense, Schutz will hope the comparison is not too precise since, having won his Classic over 1600m, Marhaba Ya Sanafi must now stretch out over 2100m at Chantilly.

Mickael Barzalona was hard at work early in the straight at ParisLongchamp and Marhaba Ya Sanafi essentially outstayed the speedier Isaac Shelby.

“He has enough speed to put him where you like in a race, he doesn’t have to go forward or sit behind,” Schutz said. “I think he still has room to improve further and perhaps the step up in trip will help him.”

Unbeaten in four starts since joining Head, Big Rock has a huge stride and has relentlessly worn down his opponents from the front.

In his final preparation race, the G3 Prix de Guiche (1800m), he blew the field apart and, even allowing for several of his rivals not handling the heavy ground – Rajapour and Flight Leader were particularly inconvenienced and connections will try again here – the destructive power of Big Rock was impressive.

Now he has to show he can sustain that pace over an extra 300 metres.

Head said: “The only real debate is his aptitude for the task, because he is really a steamroller. He exhausts the others in a race. The question is whether he can prolong that style of running. The only way you can finally know is in the race itself.”

Feed The Flame is the least experienced horse in the field after only two starts but both have been settled with a withering turn of foot. The worry for his supporters will be whether the son of Kingman finds himself with too much ground to make up on Big Rock and Marhaba Ya Sanafi.

“This horse has his own style of running and if you try and put a horse under pressure earlier than he is used to, they aren’t able to sustain it to the finish,” said Pascal Bary, a six-time winning trainer of the Prix du Jockey Club – French Derby.

“Over 2100 metres at Chantilly the races tend to be truly run and that means there should be no problem coming from behind.”

There are also genuine reasons for optimism around the chances of American Flag, who blew his chances in the Poule d’Essai des Poulains at the start, while Ace Impact is unbeaten and represents the modern specialist in this race, Jean-Claude Rouget.

British hopes rest with Epictetus, the mount of Frankie Dettori, while Continuous could make a bold show for Aidan O’Brien, having dead-heated for third at York on his first start of 2023.
