Library funding increase pending

By Brian Pedersen Managing Editor

Providing a glimpse into the future of library funding throughout the state. Mountainside Mayor Robert Viglianti revealed news that another state-mandated library funding increase is planned for next year.

At the Borough Council work session on Tuesday, Viglianti explained the details of the mandate. This year, the borough will have to increase its budget for the public library from $49,000 to $60,000; a 35 to 40 percent budget increase within the next two years. This will mark the third year in a row that the borough has been faced with a major increase.

Whenever the public library needed work done, whether it be moving heavy objects, maintenance, or roof work, the borough would send its Department of Public Works staff to perform the tasks free of charge. Now, the borough plans to charge the library. for these costs. The amount will be "fair and reasonable," according to said Viglianti. Viglianti.

"We have no choice," said Councilman Glenn Mortimer, who serves on the library's Board of Trustees. "It has to do with our rapidly rising property taxes. Nobody's income is going up that fast."

Viglianti agreed, pointing out the more than $30 million worth of new homes recently being constructed in the borough.

Although the library has not requested any funding. Mortimer said the library is aware that they will now be charged for this work. He said the library has come to realize that they will also have to create a fund for large expenditures.

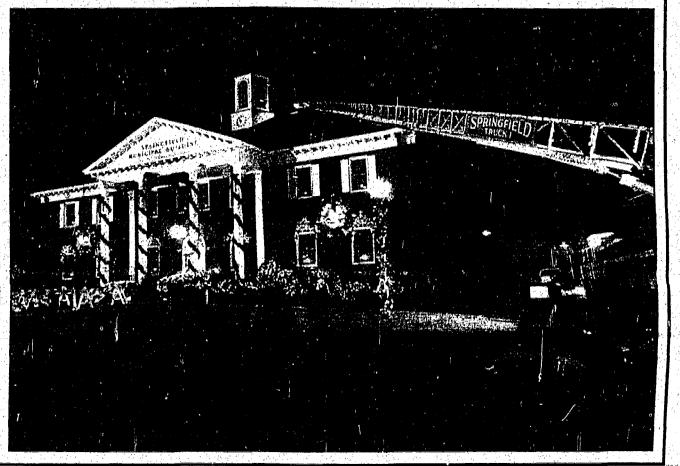

Viglianti directed the borough administrator to draw up a list of the costs that will be incurred, with the library being billed on a monthly basis.

The state funding mandate for libraries will most likely be a fixture for years to come.

"Next year, you will see it again."

Cell ti bid g.... rejected

By Rick Klittich Staff Writer

Due to what Township Attorney Bruce Bergen termed "language problems," Springfield's Township Committee rejected the lone bid Tuesday to lease the proposed cell tower that will be put up on the same property as the firehouse.

Bergen said that upon its advertisement the second time around, the wording of the bid will be changed. After that, there aren't any problems expected once it goes back out, he said

The bids will go out immediately after the language is adjusted, Bergen said.

Being that the sole rejected bid was made by AT&T/Cingular, the product of a recent merge, Bergen indicated that it is safe to assume that once certain terms and conditions are adjusted, the company will be part of the bidding process once again.

If AT&T/Cingular remains the sole bidder, the company should be awarded the bid.

The tower was proposed earlier in the year and is hoped to reach the construction process in the near future.

According to Mayor Clara Harelik, space at the top of the tower will be reserved for Springfield, giving residents the best quality of service and reception, Harelik said that on average, cell towers produce a revenue of about $24,000 each year.

Another advantage included in the tower is that the Fire Department, Police Department and Office of Emergency Management will benefit in that they will also receive highquality reception through their radio system, Harelik said.

Parent committee forms to study odor

By Joan M. Devlin Staff Writer

Although the odor at Beechwood School in Mountainside is, for the moment, completely gone, Gary Whyte, a concerned parent, was "shocked," he said, to receive a letter in the mail last week from Interim Chief School Administrator Walter Rusak, inviting concerned parents to form a committee about the situa-

"We have already had two meetings," he reported just before the Board of Education meeting officially began on Tuesday night.

Board member John Perrin gave his updated report. "Since our last meeting, LEW, the environmental consultant, is exploring the classrooms where we previously had the odor. They conducted their last investigation just last weekend," said Perrin, "and we are expecting their full report by Dec. 17."

Perrin also reported that the Board of Education was to have a large meeting the following day with Paul Otto Construction, the architect for the school. Perrin said they met on Nov. 30 with the Department of Health and Social Services, and said they were enthusiastic about all the efforts that were employed.

"Three teachers, two board members and seven parents have formed this citizen's committee, and there have been two meetings to date," said board member Gene Nagel. "The purpose was to get the committee's input into the situation. We are moving forward and trying to solve the problem, and we will continue to meet periodically."

Whyte and Richard Wurst, also a concerned parent, each thanked the board for forming the committee and continuing to try to find a cause to resolve the problem, once and for all.

space will be in charge of not only building the structure, but maintaining it, as well.

"This is strictly revenue." said Harelik, as there are no costs for the project on the township's end.

Often, cellular companies can rent space on a specific tower to compete for business.

Interim principal joins Walton School; Gaudineer VP now sought

By Rick Klittich Staff Writer

After being named interim principal of Springfield's Edward V. Walton School in mid-November, the Board of Education announced last week that Susie Hung will remain in the position until at least the end of this year.

"It's a good place," said Hung, who took over for Lisa Ferrare while she is away on maternity leave. "I'm happy here. I come to work looking forward to see the kids everyday."

While the appointment of Hung to the Walton position fills one void, it leaves her old position, vice principal of Florence M. Gaudineer Middle School, without a replacement. "This is a similar situation," said Superintendent Michael Davino, comparing the open Gaudineer position to that which Hung filled at Walton. "It's not a vacancy."

Davino said he will be talking to people with appropriate certification for the job and hopes to see somebody in place in early January, possibly right after winter break.

Considering the position is temporary, Davino said he wouldn't expect someone from out of the district to want to come in as vice principal and leave when Hung is ready to come back.

Asked if he would prefer someone within -the district to take Hung's place. Davino said, "I'd like to."

Current principal of Gaudineer Tim Kielty said everything's working fine without a vice principal at the middle school. "We're holding our own," he said. "Obviously, as soon as we can get someone here, it'll be good. But, we'll be okay."

Kielty said he got the impression from Davino that someone within the district will, in fact, be hired shortly after winter break.

"The staff and everyone here has been great," said Kielty of the extra help he's been getting when necessary. "Everybody's pitching in.'

Meanwhile, Hung is enjoying her time at Walton. "Everyone's been very supportive," she said. "Even the parents and the entire staff have been great."

Hung added that she would be willing to stay at Walton as long as it takes, including into next school year, if Ferrare does not return by September.

Davino, who did consider other candidates for the position, said that based on her administration experience and background in early childhood education, she would be the best choice for the job.

Both Hung and Davino were unaware of the amount of the exact pay raise the principal job at Walton would bring, though they confirmed there is one. i i je

Hung previously spent nine years in Paramus and Westfield teaching on the elementary level and has her doctorate in education administration.

Along with the shifting and hiring of new administration in the two schools, Davino said the situation will be analyzed again at the end of the year, as there will be many teachers and staff members retiring.

"I like to leave my options open," Davino said, "while at the same time, staying focused on the students."

The retirements of 10 teachers and staff members were accepted at the last Board of Education meeting. Davino said that with all the pending openings, appropriate measures will be taken.

"Once we have a pretty good idea on the areas that will be impacted," he said, we'll advertise for certified teachers accordingly."

Davino added that the advertisements will go out earlier than they normally would.

Washington project continues

By Rick Klittich Staff Writer

When Mountainside resident Bill Sanders decided to undertake a project that would honor the 200th anniversary of American war hero George Washington's death, he had no idea he was about to enter a battle of his own. In 1998, Sanders decided that in an effort to recognize the Dec. 14, 1999 anniversary, he would push for the hanging of at least one George Washington portrait in every New Jersev school. Willing to supply them himself, it seemed to be a task that would take only his hard work and an open arms welcoming by school districts around the state. The latter, he found, was hard to come by.

"Back in 1932," Sanders explained, "a congressional mandate said that every classroom in the country would have his picture. Since that time, there's been an erosion of American history."

Sanders said that while Washington's likeness was stripped from schools slowly but surely, the complexion of the National Education Association's leadership also changed. In fact, the New Jersey Department of Education initiated legislation to omit the words "Washington," "Jefferson," "Franklin," "war" and "pilgrim" from said. If the story hadn't come out from behind closed doors in Washington, Sanders felt, New Jersey could be the laughing stock of the country." "They wanted to take out the founders of our nation," said Sanders. "How can you do that?"

Sanders, who frames the reproduced portraits himself for a cost of $250 apiece, has succeeded in posting about 250 of them in close to 10 states, with the highest percentage in New Jersey. While momentum is building, he still searches for local support and donations to help fund and propel his plight. Needless to say, it's taken a more concerted effort than he ever thought would be necessary.

"We're already down to maybe 10 percent of what was in our history books about Washington since (1932)," Sanders said. "I just wanted this project to start in New Jersey, being that it's the crossroads of the Revolution, and set the example for the rest of the nation. This battle is just beginning."

Sanders has traveled to cities around the nation to present his idea and talk with schools, as well as do radio shows, such as the ones in Arkansas that led to each of the state's high school's displaying Washington's the state's core curriculum, Sanders portrait. Opponents of the idea. according to Sanders, are diminishing the nation's greatest leader.

> "I think it's due to a total lack of understanding who he was and is." Sanders said, "The portrait of Washington reminds us of what it means to be an American, and of the ideals, devotion and love of country that he so strongly exemplified."

One example of the misconceptions Sanders speaks about is that Washington promoted slavery, or did nothing to end it. At the time, Sanders explained, it was illegal to free slaves. Washington, who, singlehandedly, could only do so much about the problem of racism, freed his slaves upon his death. In his will, Washington revealed a bank account that had been set up for them and encouraged them to become educated and learn a trade. "It was a beautiful time," Sanders said of Washington's era. "He probably set every example we needed as a newly formed country."

While a bill was introduced in 2000 and reintroduced in 2001 to put a portrait in each of the state's 2.400 schools, the measure only made it beyond the Assembly. Knocked down by a Senate committee. Sanders says all he can do now, while still traveling to promote the idea, is wait for a more

Dayton students earn AP scholar designation

Thirteen students at Jonathan Dayton High School in Springfield have earned the designation of AP scholar by the College Board in recognition of their exceptional achievement on the college-level advanced placement program exams. The College Board's advanced placement program offers students the opportunity to take challenging college-level courses while still in high school and to receive college credit, advanced placement or both for successful performance on the AP exams. About 17 percent of the more than one million high school students in almost 15,000 secondary schools worldwide who took AP exams performed at a sufficiently high level to merit the recognition of AP scholar. Students took AP exams in May after completing challenging college-level courses at their high schools. The College Board recognizes several levels of achievement, based on student's performance on AP exams. At Jonathan Dayton High School, one student qualified for the National AP Scholar Award by earning an average grade of 4 or higher on a 5-point scale on all AP exams taken and grades of 4 or higher on eight or more of these exams. This student is Boris Pivtorak.

Five students qualified for the AP Scholar with Distinction Award by earning an average grade of at least 3.5 on all AP Exams taken, and grades of 3 or higher on five or more of these exams. These students are Theodore Chelis. Keith Dworkin, Michael Gleicher, Margaret Myslwiec and Boris Pivtorak. Three students qualified for the AP Scholar with Honor Award by earning an iverage grade of at least 3.25 on all AP exams taken, and grades of 3 or higher on four or more of these exams. These students are Alexander Peyser, Jonathan Rego and Ana Rodriguez.

Four students qualified for the AP Scholar Award by completing three or more AP examinations, with grades of 3 or higher. The AP scholars are Marc Cicchino, Adam Ross, Adam Shai and Allison Sharpe.

Most of the nation's colleges and universities award credit, advanced placement, or both based on successful performance on the AP exams. More than 1,400 institutions award a full year's credit - sophomore standing - to students presenting a sufficient number of qualifying grades. Thirty-four AP exams are offered in a wide variety of subject areas, each consisting of multiple-choice and free-response essay or problem-solving questions -- except for the studio art exam which evaluates students' original artwork. The College Board's mission is to connect students to college success and opportunity. They are a notfor-profit membership organization committed to excellence and equity in education. Founded in 1900, the association is composed of more than 4,500 schools, colleges, universities, and other educational organizations.

Each year, the College Board serves more than three million students and their parents, 23,000 high schools, and 3,500 colleges through major programs al band and Howard Toplansky, and cause. A true enhancement

With Children's Specialized Hospital's donation of a defibrillator to Mountainside's volunteer Fire Department, the borough stands to benefit from an increased ability of the department to handle medical emergencies.

Now that the Fire Department handles all sorts of incidents, ranging from hazardous material spills to motor vehicle accidents, it makes sense for them to have the equipment that will help them handle any emergency they encounter. This donation, which marks the first of possibly three defibrillators, will allow firefighters to work more closely with the borough's First Aid Squad during emergency medical situations

At a time when the borough's tight budget leaves little room for providing equipment to the Fire Department, the borough has been lucky to receive recent Homeland Security grants to fund improvements to their radio systems and purification equipment for the fire trucks. The defibrillator, which costs $2,000 and helps people survive sudden cardiac arrest, is a welcome addition, but there are still other ways. to help the department improve.

While an increase in donations of equipment and volunteers has helped the Fire Department thrive, now would be a good time for the borough to study the possibility of adding some full-time paid firefighters to create a department that's a mix of paid and volunteer firefighters.

As we have seen many times in the past, the Fire Department is unable to be the first responder at the scene of a fire within the borough because firefighters are not physically able to get to the area fast enough, since they are volunteers. The first responders are often fire departments outside of Mountainside. No one doubts the dedication and commitment that the borough's firefighters have shown to the community, simply by their decision to volunteer their time to serve others during life-threatening situations that put their own lives at stake.

While equipment is important, it's time for the borough to realize that the department needs paid members to truly help them enhance their response abilities.

A lasting impact

This holiday season, Springfield has a unique shopping experience that has far-reaching, positive benefits for people and animals suffering a variety of hardships.

It's unusual to think of holiday shopping as having any lasting positive impact beyond the purchase of the item and the receiving and unwrapping of the gift. In our materialistic-obsessed culture, which is often put into overdrive during the holiday season, it's easy to lose sight of what is really important: the simple act of reaching out to help others to provide some lasting, positive benefit to their lives.

That is exactly what the alternative holiday shopping fair offers at Springfield Emanuel United Methodist Church. The fair ends Tuesday, so there's still time to purchase an alternative or living gift for someone on your holiday shopping list.

This year, nine diverse charities have been selected for this year's fair, with donations beginning at $1. A holiday card and explanation for each recipient is given with every. donation made to a charity at the fair.

A donation to the seal adoption offered through the Marine Mammal Stranding Center in Brigatine rescues and rehabilitates stranded whales, dolphins, seals and sea turtles. An adoption program certificate and photo are provided as part of the $25 adoption. The fair also offers opportunities to help low income farmers in the United States and abroad.

Children and families in New Jersey affected by HIV/AIDS, children of parents who are in New Jersey prisons and people affected by the financial hardships of the 2004 hurricane season are also helped with monetary donations to the fair.

So when shopping, consider making a stop that will go far in making a positive contribution.

Christmas card season gets later every year

In the 1970 film, "Diary of a Mad Housewife," Richard Benjamin plays a husband who is as pretentious as he is insecure.

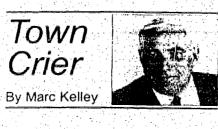

At one point he asks Carrie Snodgress, who plays his wife, how many Christmas cards have they received so far? She tells him 150. He seems miffed and says they sent 300 and he surely expects to receive as

That was 1970 when stamps cost 6 cents. Volume has steadily declined as postal rates have increased. He also said that the heavy volume during the holiday season has become compressed.

Years ago the Christmas mailing season started on the Friday after Thanksgiving and ran until the 18th or 19th of December, Now, it begins later and ends later with Monday, Dec. 20, expected to be the busiest day.

My earliest Christmas card memory isn't a card but a Christmas seal. My parents always put the Boys Town seal on the cards they sent.

The image on the seal was of a boy standing in the snow with another boy draped over his shoulders. The caption on the seal was, "He ain't heavy, he's my brother."

Film buffs may remember Spencer Tracy's portrayal of Father Flanagan in the 1938 classic, "Boys Town," Mickey Rooney plays a runaway, the movie ends happily and Boys Town is founded. Boys Town, renamed Boys and Girls Town, continues to serve troubled youth providing help, healing and hope to more than 40,000 children last year.

It's been years since I've seen a Boys Town Christmas seal. In fact, I don't see very many Christmas seals at

The seals were used to make the card more festive, to differentiate them from the rest of the mail.

Most people bought cards, stamps and Christmas seals and while there was a cost involved, it didn't put too much of a dent in the family budget.

As the price of stamps and the cost of Christmas cards continued to rise, people began to rethink the time, whole process The United States Postal Service certainly noticed that card senders were using seals and began to issue and holiday stamps this year. The way and market Christmas stamps. The this breaks down: Madonna and Child, first stamp, a wreath and candles, was 776 million; Santa Claus and reindeer. issued in 1961 and sold for 4 cents. In 201 million; and Hanukkah and 1966 the postal service issued its first Kwanzaa, 60 million each. If all the religious Christmas stamp, Madonna with Child, and it cost a nickel.

The Madonna and Child stamp has been a mainstay and is issued every year. The artwork is always from the Renaissance Period and the painting chosen bounces back and forth between several different artists as the cost of first-class postage changes.

Christmas is celebrated in our churches for its religious significance. Christmas is also a national holiday and the postal service appreciates that many who celebrate the season aren't necessarily religious. There's always a stamp featuring snowmen, sleighs, ornaments or as is the case this year, promise to do a better job of staying in Santa Clauses and reindeer.

Several years ago the postal service began to issue holiday stamps for Hanukkah and Kwanzaa. This could Marc Kelley can be reached at be indicative of the postal service's mkelley@eclipse.net: desire to be more inclusive, or perhaps

Plan gives railroads an advantage To the Edito

The New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection has proposed new rules making life easier for railroads. It seeks to delete the requirement "that all solid waste containers used to transport solid waste solely by rail to be registered. with the department" and grants "an exemption for rail carriers from related feesfor solid waste vehicles and containers."

Other carriers of solid waste, acknowledged to be the greater percentage, continue to be subject to those requirements. The proposal is awash in references to numbered regulations making it blindingly obscure to the layman However, enough evidence can be found to question the intent of the proposal Under "Economic Impact." the department "expects a slight positive economic benefit" for the rail carriers. It will give them a "slight economic advantage" over other solid waste carriers, which is "not expected to be significant enough" to negatively affect competition. Rail carriers are only a "small percentage" of the total number of solid waste transporters in the state. The state will experience a "small" decrease in revenues.

Under "Jobs Impact"... "while rail carriers will experience a slight economic benefit and burden reduction ... it is not expected to be significant enough ... to create many new jobs ... or cause jobs to be lost in other transportation industries that compete ...

The repeated emphasis on the miniscule effect of this proposal makes one wonder exactly what is expected. If the total effect is so negligible, what makes it worth the effort?: The rules have been on the books for years. Why change at this particular time?

A clue is found in the contrary speculation that "these reduced burdens" might "encourage rail carriers to begin or expand solid waste transportation by rail..." Note the word expand, implying that rails in New Jersey have already been carrying solid waste under present rules without offending any laws. Why change at this particular time?

As justification for the proposal, it is noted that state rules may not exceed federal standards. Yet, it is revealed that "there are no federal standards that specifically apply ..." Does common sense say that there is no conflict requiring this proposal? Or that an overly legalistic reading is being made to justify it?

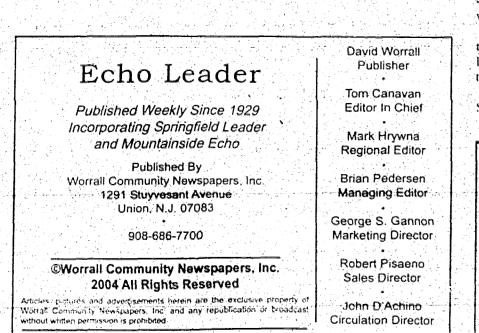

To find a reason for this proposal at this particular time it is necessary to look to New York City which is constructing a facility at the Fresh Kills site on Staten Island for "long term export of managed waste," a cuphemism for garbage, Shipments to and from the facility will be in 70 car diesel powered freight trains, 4,700 feet long, twice per week in each direction, into and through New Jersey, which would make them subject to present rules and fees.

Operations are scheduled to begin in the fall of 2005. Is it merely coincidence that Morristown and Eric Railway has scheduled completion of the Rahway Valley Railroad to Summit, for connection to the commuter line, at about the same time

The conclusion cannot be avoided that this proposal is designed to give the Staten Island and other railroads an operational and economic advantage over

The youngest of my daughters, Tierney Ann, told me she looks at a postage stamp as a miniature work of art. I agree. I think postage stamps are the best selling artwork in this country. I'll mail 30 to 40 Christmas cards this year.

Christmas can be celebrated by all

Ho, ho, ho, 'tis the season to be jolly! This is true for most people living inthe United States, but what about the dissenters who want all of us to ignore this happy time fostering peace and love in America and throughout the world? The original colonists, who landed at Plymouth Rock in Massachusetts and the Jamestown Colony in Virginia, were Christians who sought religious freedom from their home countries of England and The Netherlands. During the centuries, the overall ambiance has changed due to commercialization and differences in litestyles such as abundant gift giving, record-setting merchandise sales, and the influx of persons following all kinds of religion ... even the unusual one of a man in prison who said that his religion called for him to eat a filet

In today's communities, some traditions have become American customs, not intrinsically being religious. Those include the practices of a caring Santa Claus who remembers good - and probably some bad -- children with gifts, and the decorations for the snowmen, trains, wooden soldiers, mistletoe, reindeer, nutcrackers, candy canes, snowflakes, etc. These are not the glorification of anybody's specific religion. They are American traditions which tend to portray a "joyful holiday season" emphasizing good charitable deeds, remembering poor amilies, and an invitation to everyone to join in a spirit of happiness not just for Christians but for all to participate in this season as one calendar year ends, and

I will admit that Christmas is basically a religious day to observe the birth of Jesus Christ. However, over the years, it has become a season during which all peoples can celebrate in America, and also to remember our families and friends, and those less fortunate than we are. It is not a time to convert or denounce others of different faiths. If you do not wish to participate in any of these holiday festivities including a Memorial Day or Veteran Day's observance, a Valentine's Day party, a St. Patrick's Day parade, or a Thanksgiving Day parade or dinner. or donations of toys and cash for poor children at community collections places, that is your privilege. It is also your privilege to take an active or passive part in our All-American customs. However, if you wish to keep silent, and not join in this fabulous jubilation, that is all right too, but please do not try to enforce your prohibitions on me and others when we are expressing our happy and generous

Freedom of religion in America means that you can practice your own faith or lack of it as you please, but not that you can stop others from exercising their beliefs. So, let us now all join together, and offer more respect to those who are

The Summit High School boys' basketball team will be sparked by the talents of senior center Wellington Smith (No. 35). Smith's play helped Summit finish 24-5 overall last year as the Hilltoppers won North 2, Group 2 and reached the Group 2 final. Summit also won the Iron Hills Conference-Hills Division with a 17-1 record. Smith paced the team in rebounds with 259 and was second in scoring with 444 points for a 15.3 average. Summit is scheduled to open its season tomorrow night at 7 at home against Morris Hills.

Dayton boys' basketball is starting new with coach Nash Bulldogs working hard to improve their game

By Jeff Wolfrum

Staff Writer Not sure what to expect.

That's the dilemma facing Dayton High School boys' basketball first-year head coach Dave Nash this season. Taking over a squad that went 7-14 last season. Nash heads up a program with a new coaching staff. Nash, who served as the freshman and junior varsity coach two years ago at Dayton, played high school ball at St. Mary's in South Amboy (now Cardinal McCarrick) and one year at Middlesex Community College. He-then started out coaching the Spotswood freshman team in the early 1990s before moving on to coach at Montgomery High . School in Somerset County. He then ended up at Dayton. "It's been hard to gauge my team so far because we've played very inconsistent in our first few scrimmages," Nash said. "However, the guys are really working hard and starting to buy into what we want to accomplish." What Nash wants to do is run his offense through his defense. "I love defense," Nash said. "The game starts and ends with defense, so that's how we're going to win the majority of our games. We'll be looking for our defense to create things for our offense."

That defense comes in the form of man-to-man, with an occasional matchup zone. On offense, the Bulldogs will look to push the ball and score off transition. "We had five really talented players slated to start," Nash said. "Two of which rer ly like to run." However, one of those players - senior point guard

Michael Tiss - blew out his knee and will be lost for the sea- Peter's at 7 p.m. Looked to pick up the slack at the position will be senior point guard Eson Jenkins, a transfer from New Milford, and senior guard Jesse Weatherston.

"We were looking forward to having Michael and Eson playing together in the backcourt," Nash said. "Now, we'll and winning a couple games early in the season," Nash have to piece it together and take it on a game-to-game situation That could translate into the Bulldogs having one of their "big players" handling the ball. "Senior forward Mike Mason, who stands at 6-4, could handle the ball if needed to," Nash said. "The reasoning behind that move would be to keep our other big guys out of foul trouble. The other two "big guys" in the Dayton starting lineup include the sibling duo of 6-2 senior forward Raul Furnaguera and 6-3 junior forward Joe Furnaguera. "Our three big guys really like to rebound and push the ball upcourt," Nash said. "In our second scrimmage against Verona, they didn't have a good performance because they didn't' rebound and looked really flat on offense and defense."

However, in its two scrimmages against South Amboy, which were sandwiched around the Verona game, Dayton looked very competitive.

"We rebounded and did well scoring," Nash said. "We had real good energy. I hope that carries over." Dayton looked to have a nice carry over as it scrimmaged Carteret Tuesday.

"I have a quality bench, with some players having some varsity experience," Nash said. "However, we're going to need to stay healthy because we lack depth." Some of Dayton's goals include qualifying for the state playoffs and winning its conference title. "The players were telling me that they got off to a slow last season," Nash said. "One of our biggest aims is to get out of the gate strong this season." Last year, the Bulldogs opened their season 0-9 before going on to win seven of their next 10 to bring their record to 7-12. However, Dayton then dropped its final two games to finish 7-14. Dayton is scheduled to open its season Saturday at New Providence at 2 p.m. The Bulldogs are then scheduled to play at Johnson Tuesday night at 7. The Bulldogs will then participate in the St. Peter's of New Brunswick Holiday Tournament Dec. 28 and 29. The games on Dec. 28, according to Nash, include Dayton vs. Keyport at 2 p.m. and then Perth Amboy vs. St.

The Dec. 29 lineup, according to Nash, is the consolation game at 1 p.m. and the title game at 5:30 p.m. Dayton's first home game is scheduled against Manville on Jan. 7 at 7 p.m. "We want to turn up the interest in our team by going out said "I keep telling the guys if we go out and win a couple of games, people will come out and support us." Dayton roster 2004-2005

That's what Dayton High School girls' basketball coach Dave Rennic hopes will be the key factor in his team's success this season. Coming off its best season eve. Dayton posted a 21-6 record and reached the Central Jersey, Group 1 title game. In the final, the second-seeded Bulldogs dropped a 60-41 decision to topseeded Middlesex.

Dayton also captured its first conference championship since 1977, winning the Mountain Valley Conference-Valley Division title. "We lost four of our five starters from last year's team," Rennie said, "It's going to be tough replacing them, but I feel with the players we have coming back with experience that we should be just fine. The one returning starter for the Bulldogs is 5-7 senior point guard Cristin Zavocki. The Lafayette College-bound Zavocki garnered First Team All-Conference.

Second Team All-County and Second Team All Group 1 honors last season, while also capturing co-MVC MVP honors with Oak Knoll's Courtney Hubschmann Zavocki was also named to the Union County Top 15 list for the second consecutive season "Cristin is definitely the focal point around our offense, but I feel we also have other girls that can step up," Rennie said. "We know that we must get other girls involved in the scoring because peo ple will be keying on Cristin."

That scoring could come from the contributions of the other four starters. They include 5-8 senior center Amanda DiCocco, 5-6 senior guard Dara Poltrock, 5-8 junior forward Kaitelyn Viverito and 5-7 sophomore forward Valerie Upton.

."Amanda should play a big part for us because she has some nice post moves and can also handle the ball to get some open shots from the perimeter," Rennie

"Dara is our biggest three-point threat, while Kaitelyn and Valeric are good slashers toward the basket. The rest of the Dayton roster includes 5-6 senior guard DeAne DeCosta, 5-8 junior forward Nicole Corigliano, 5+7 junior forward Rita Huber, 5-2 junior guard Jennifer Santucci, 5-9 sophomore forward Alyssa Carioni, 5-9 sophomore forward Sami Kennedy, 5-5 sophomore guard Courtney Brahm and 5-4 sophomore guard Jeanine Kahoonei. "I have a couple of girls that can shoot from the outside," Rennic said, "That will help in running our flex offense because will be using a lot of guick hitting However, defense is what Rennie feels will create a host of scoring opportunities. "We're on the small size, so we must focus on rebounding by being quick," Rennie said.

"We need to be aggressive and play with smarts. That will help lead to some transition baskets for us." Dayton will implore a more zone defense style this season compared to the man-to-man scheme it used last year. "We'll be going to more zone defense this year," Rennie said. "It will be a big change for us, but I have always had good defensive teams in the past." Dayton is scheduled to open its season tomorrow night at 7 at home against Union Catholic, Zavocki, a four-year varsity performer, will begin the night with 992 career points The Bulldogs are then scheduled to host St. Mary's of Elizabeth Monday at 4 p.m. and Roselle Catholic Wednesday night at 7,

Dayton will then host its first-ever holiday tournament Dec. 27-30

The Joseph Pepe Memorial Tournament will feature teams that include Dayton, St. Patrick's of Elizabeth, Westfield, Manchester Regional, Bayley-Ellard and Matawan.

"Joseph Pepe was a player that starred at Dayton in the 1970s," Rennie said "He passed away last spring. We wanted to honor him because he was still a big part of the community." Goals for the Bulldogs include returning to the state playoffs, winning their holiday tournament and to just get better as the season goes on. "If your team can get back into the state tournament, anything can happen after that," Rennie said. "We want to be a fourth quarter team and be able to win the close games."

Registration opens for spring workshops

The educational department at Reeves-Reed Arboretum, 165 Hobart Ave, in Summit recently opened registration for the popular family fun winter/spring programs.

Family fun workshops are designed to educate young children about nature in a fun and exciting way. Workshops are for children, ages 3 to 7 years-old. Monday through Friday afternoons, from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. Children in the pre-kindergarten class enjoy a craft or planting and a short hike. Caregivers are required to attend and assist their child. Children in the kindergarten through 7-year-old class participate in hands-on activities as well but spend more time exploring the grounds. Caregivers are welcome but not required to stay. The hour-long classes allow caregivers of older children just enough time for a stroll through the grounds and/or a trip to The Garden Shop.

Winter Spring classes are Magic Rocks, January; Papermaking, February; Edible Nests; March and Terrific Trees; April, Pre-K offers two classes per session. The fee per workshop is $15 for members and $20 for non-members. Class sizes are limited and spots fill quickly.

For information, call 908-273-8787 and ask for ext. 14 or 25. Reeves-Reed Arboretum, a non-profit organization, is the only arboretum in Union County and is funded entirely by memberships, fund-raisers and dona-

Several bills in state Legislature would increase minimum wage

By A.E. Gualtieri and Mark Hrywna

New York may have done it first, but if legislators have their way, New Jersey might not be far behind. A halfdozen bills are working their way. through the state Senate and Assembly that seek to raise the minimum wage by as much as $3.85.

If you have a family of four and earn less than $18,556, you're considered poor by national standards. A full-time worker making minimum wage in New Jersey --- where the cost of living is estimated to be at least 20 percent higher than the national aver-

Adjusted for inflation, the federal minimum wage in 1973 would be $8.10 per hour in 2002 dollars. Only 11 states have higher minimum wages than the federal standard, mainly on the West Coast and upper Northeast. Nearby, Delaware at $6.15, and Connecticut at $7.10, have higher minimum wages.

minimum wage were intruduced as since.

Richard Codey, the acting governor and state Senate president, D-Essex, sponsored a bill, S-1000, that would increase the minimum wage 25 cents this year and 50 cents next year. Kelley Heck, a spokeswoman for Codey, said, "The governor supports not only a minimum wage, but a living wage," and stressed that the governor would continue to work toward that end.

Another bill, A-1252, sponsored by Assemblyman Craig Stanley, D-Essex, would instruct the state labor commissioner to set the minimum wage at 30 percent of the average Bill Sponsor

"Elves Can't Tackle" is the second in the "Elves" series, and Skead seems to be have a real knack for developing a character that children enjoy.

In this book, Sebastian the elf is pitted against his best friend, Ralphy the polar bear, placing the two friends in an awkward situation.

"When you're writing for children friendship is always important, so I talked about loyalty and friendship," said Skead. "Certainly, sports provide the best kind of drama for one guy versus another guy. And when they're friends, and something goes wrong, it adds good conflict, which is what every story needs."

Skead illustrated the need for Can't Tackle." that showed why it can going to happen." be beneficial to consult with other people about a story idea.

Abandoned factories could provide ideal space to facilitate arts efforts

By Jeff Cummins Associate Editor

Sure, there's art in Essex County, but if you're an artist, where do you find space that's appropriate and affordable?

Well, if you're walking along Scotland Road in Orange some day, you'll likely notice some old abandoned factories. Artists take note: Your opportu-nity for an ideal space may well come in the form of one of the loft spaces in one of these factories.
