

Coed goes to Alaska with mission program for children

When Ruth Wood of Springfield completed her junior year at Newark State College last spring, she decided to join other students at summer jobs, but instead, "to get away and do something worthwhile."

Ruth, who lives at 50 Saller st., is a nurse's aide at Children's Specialized Hospital in Mountaineer during the school year, but during the summer it was children in southeastern Alaska who benefited from her work. As one of seven young members in the United Presbyterian Church's "Volunteers in Mission program," she traveled by plane and plane to five small towns conducting vacation Bible schools.

The 21-year-old member of Springfield's First Presbyterian Church spent two months working with the children from June 3 to Aug. 8. "Even though we called it 'Bible School,'" she explained, "it included more than religious instruction. We taught the children crafts, had singing programs and recreational games, and took them on nature hikes. We were not trying to convert the children. We just wanted to let them see how Christian people can be very loving, and by sharing with the children, maybe show them that the Christian way of life is good."

The work was done in five communities: "Auke Bay," "A town right outside Juneau. I guess you could call it a suburb, but the area is so open, it's hard to compare it with the suburbs in New Jersey. It was unusual in that we could travel to Juneau by road; the other places were accessible only by boat or plane."

"Chatham Canyon." "You can't really call it a town; it's just a big campsite. There are rows of small, red, hangout-type houses for the workers. Most of the people are from Alaska's Indian villages. They come here to work for a couple of months a year until the cannery closes the winter."

"Peterburg." "A fishing village. Their only source of income is from fishing, a cannery or a fish plant."

Through 69; there was a proportionate number of whites and non-whites and about an equal number of men and women. Of the persons surveyed, 79 percent have lived in their communities more than 20 years and most of them were married. They did not have high levels of income and education.

The data from the survey produced no evidence in the study of identifying a "person as mentally ill" resulted in the greatest number of referrals. On the contrary, willingness was expressed to work or live near persons labeled as mentally ill and to sponsor them for membership in community clubs.

Some said that they would be willing to room with a person who had been in a mental hospital. The attitudes were more negative when questions were asked about very personal relationships, such as falling in love with a mentally ill person or having one's child marry such a person.

The overall response pattern, however, indicates that the average rural person has a positive attitude toward mental illness rather than rejection. This is encouraging—and it is also encouraging the nation that rural people are backward and out-of-date in their thinking.

Thomas Bolling, formerly of Pluckemin, died Monday in Castelnau, France, at the age of 64. His only survivors are three cousins, Mrs. Margaret C. Bolling, Mrs. William B. Randolph of Oakton, Va., and John I. Randolph of Fairfax County, Va.

Mr. Bolling was a retired marine officer. He had lived in Spain for the last several years.

Robert Friedlander, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Friedlander, 222 Penn. road, Mountaineer, N.J., is a freshman at The College, Greenville, this fall. A graduate of Gov. Livingston Regional High School, he is majoring in accounting at The College.

Mr. Bolling, 64, had lived in Spain slightly colder than here, but she wouldn't go swimming. "One day the temperature got up to 62 degrees, and the kids acted like it was 110. Everyone headed for the water, but not me. It was far too cold."

How did the youngsters react to the program? "In Peterburg and Auke Bay, the more settled communities, the kids were enthusiastic, but they also had other activities. In the isolated camps, though, it was the big event of the summer," she said.

It was the overall friendliness of the people she met and ability of the children to have fun in a restrictive environment that impressed the 21-year-old woman the most.

"The people I met seem so much more close to each other here," she explained. "I guess it's because they have to depend on each other so much. And even though children are children everywhere, it was refreshing to see youngsters who could entertain themselves with so little. The kids around here have access to all sorts of things, from television to movies. These youngsters didn't even know what Sesame Street is, but they have fun on their own."

Ruth said that she would like to do volunteer work again, but she's undecided as to where. "The church program is in many areas of the country," she explained, "but I might go back to Alaska. The people were so friendly and the thought of returning is really kind of inviting."

But whether or not she returns, Ruth is planning to continue her work with children. In June she hopes to receive her college degree in early childhood education, and eventually teach elementary school.

Ruth presented an illustrated talk on her Alaska experiences last Saturday before members of the First Presbyterian Church, which had paid her way to and from Alaska and the living expenses while she was there.

The Union League of Women Voters has been invited to participate in a census, and all other citizens wishing to extend their knowledge of the State Legislature were also urged to attend.

Tonight's meeting will also include an introduction to the League's study of solid waste disposal, as one aspect of its environmental quality program. Marcia Forman, chairman, acknowledged that "developing understanding and expertise on a problem of such magnitude has involved months of dedicated effort on the part of the committee."

A national membership census is scheduled for November.

Members of the Westminster Fellowship of the Springfield Presbyterian Church will leave tomorrow afternoon for a work weekend at the Church World Service Center in New Windsor, Md. The group will pick up clothing which is distributed to the needy throughout the world. In 1971, 2,283,283 pounds of clothing were distributed by Church World Service.

Members of the youth group at the Mountaineer Presbyterian church will also take part in this work weekend under the leadership of Linda Galt, 1822, at the "Mountain House" Church. The groups will return early Sunday evening.

The distribution center in New Windsor is operated by the Church of the Brethren but the contribution of clothing and support is interdenominational. There is another clothing center at Middletown, Conn., and a terminal was being opened at the clothing center in Middletown, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Foley, advisors to Westminster Fellowship, and Mrs. Sheila Galt, secretary, will accompany the group to Maryland.

your week ahead

BY DR. A.W. DAMIS

Forecast Period: October 22 to October 29, 1972

ARIES Mar. 21 - Apr. 19
Many members of your sign will be making changes they have long had in mind, concerning the opposite sex. Others will have the advantage of a second chance.

Taurus Apr. 20 - May 20
There is love with you will contain someone who simply cannot afford to become angry. Apparently, you will cultivate a new friend.

GEMINI May 21 - June 20
There is not much for romance. Nevertheless, established romance partners should not be broken. Oh, yes! Hold a light rein on conditions you see to it, that your facts and credentials are in order. Avoid working with unproductive material.

LEO June 21 - July 21
Hang loose! Don't commit yourself to promises that you cannot possibly fulfill, especially when the opposite sex is involved. Actually, it's time to play hard to get!

VIRGO July 22 - Aug. 22
Tighten up on your purse strings. There seems to be a financial leak in your budget. So, review checks, checkbooks, statements and paid bills for errors.

LIBRA Aug. 23 - Oct. 22
Stop trying to yourself in order to justify your motives. It seems as though many under your sign have plans in the stars.

SCORPIO Oct. 23 - Nov. 21
Stellar patterns put special emphasis on detail. It seems as though the most insignificant task, when neglected, could paralyze into a major reversal.

SAGITTARIUS Nov. 22 - Dec. 21
It's a brutal fact of life, there are some members under your sign that must avoid drugs. Otherwise, incalculable consequences are likely.

CAPRICORN Dec. 22 - Jan. 19
Last minute preparation or a deadline, in one form or another, is ahead in your chest. So, keep the deck clear for a possible emergency.

AQUARIUS Jan. 20 - Feb. 18
Sometimes, and it's a fact of life, a little white lie functions much better than the truth, especially as though you'll be using white paint.

PISCES Feb. 19 - Mar. 20
Avoid a pessimistic associate who harps about being a victim of destiny's misfortune. It seems as though the mood of those persons surrounding you are contagious.

THOUGHT FOR FOOD

For a pre-game warm-up, simmer "serve" the gang something to give them energy to cheer. Wrap half slices of bacon around cocktail frankfurters or small hotdogs. Quince links and halves of water chestnuts. Fasten with small wooden picks. Popcorn an ample number of these meaty tidbits and store them in the refrigerator to satisfy the crowd. When ready to serve, place on a rack in an open roasting pan. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) for 20 minutes or until bacon is crisp.

Dare to be different when it's time to concoct a tempting sandwich? Try this: Butter toast with butter and add place a lettuce leaf and several thin slices of cooked ham. Sprinkle smoked pork shoulder on each. Top each with two slices of Swiss cheese and two teaspoons mayonnaise.

Legislature topic for LWV meeting in Library tonight

Another phase of the New Jersey legislative structure and procedure program of the Springfield League of Women Voters will be taken up at tonight's general meeting at 8:15 at the municipal library. Consensus will be developed after the committee's presentation of its findings on the problems of legislative vacancies.

The chairman, Laurie Green, pointed out, "In 1971, there were 11 vacancies in the Assembly and four in the Senate. Anything approaching this level of vacancies in this year's Legislature, with its narrower party division, could have a major influence on legislation. Methods for filling these vacancies, manner of payment of legislative salaries, and problems concerning members appointed to other positions in state government will be discussed."

The Union League of Women Voters has been invited to participate in a census, and all other citizens wishing to extend their knowledge of the State Legislature were also urged to attend.

Tonight's meeting will also include an introduction to the League's study of solid waste disposal, as one aspect of its environmental quality program. Do you really know who is running?

Before going to the polls to cast your votes for the candidates of your choice on Election Day, here is a way to find out if you are the voter of the candidate's choice. Maybe you know who you're voting for, but do you know who's running? And maybe you know who's running, but do you know what he's running for? To find out just how well-informed a voter you are, try taking this Election Quiz. The following states are completely scrambled. When unscrambled, the list should be similar to the one you will find in the voting booth on Nov. 7. There are, however, several extras, and if you wish they're the candidates, you can always write in votes.

Line up 19 of the following candidates with the correct 19 offices they seek. As you match them up, note which party they represent, using D for Democrat, R for Republican, A for American Independent and P for People's. (There are eight Democrats, eight Republicans, two American Independents and one People's Party candidate.) Four of the "candidates" on this list are not really from the Party.

Methodist Church organizes library of religious books

A library of religious books and periodicals has been organized by the commission on education of Springfield's Emmanuel United Methodist Church, Church Hall at Academy Green, according to Mrs. James Dewart, Methodist chairman. Lemuel Breidenstein is in charge of the library which is located in the Fellowship Hall.

The library in the Methodist church is primarily of religious interest, encompassing a variety of subjects including theology, church life and work, worship and personal devotions, social issues, missions, recreation and Bible. In addition there are a variety of books specifically for children, a number of which are available in church school classrooms.

The library corner was constructed by August Nason, a member of the congregation who donated his own time and material. Books were catalogued by Breidenstein, Marian Rossard and Pastor James Dewart.

Ordered recently is a complete set of the "Interpreter's Bible," consisting of 12 volumes of expository and expository writing about the Bible. It will be dedicated in memory of Alex Ferguson, having presented by his wife, Margie.

Church members, youth and children may borrow from the library on Sunday mornings, 9:30 to 11. It will also be open during organization meetings. Suggested time for keeping the books is two weeks.

Ever since 1964, when the Springfield Encounter Movement and public sentiment in the area were brought to the attention of the New Britain Teachers' College. In Connecticut, the encounter movement and sensitivity training have sprung into being and spread all over the country. Profile -- Robert Wasserman

Running for the Springfield Township Committee on the Republican ticket as Robert Wasserman is doing this year is a logical choice for the 30-year-old attorney. "I've been interested in the political process ever since I was a kid," he recalled. "I grew up in the atmosphere of the New Jersey political campaigns. I was helping to open and close voting machines when I was no more than 10 or 11. It was something that just came naturally, and it has always been at the very least a hobby. I have just been wrapped up in the excitement of the electoral process."

Wasserman added that his interest remained with him at Hillside High School, where he was on the varsity football and track teams, and grew in his years at Rutgers University, where he received a bachelor's degree cum laude in political science and government administration. He was named to Pi Sigma Alpha, national political science honor society, and he worked in the federal college internship program sponsored by the Ford Foundation. He went on to say, "I first really became active in a political party while I was in college. As part of a seminar on practical politics I was assigned to pick out a candidate, take him right through the campaign and write a thesis."

"This was in 1962, and I picked Rep. Florence Gelfond. I was very close to her and worked closely with Flo ever since, taking part in just about every campaign ever since.

"I STARTED OUT doing just about all the chores that had to be done. I was her chauffeur, and she exposed her innermost thoughts about her relationships to people and her literary career. Mrs. Gelfond speaks with intelligence and candor about a variety of subjects—books, music, teaching, literature, love, religion and young people. For the latter she has both anxiety and understanding. There isn't a thoughtful, comforting story, especially for parents and teachers.

Letters--Candidates' night

THE ONLY OPPORTUNITY Nixon and McGovern are not the only candidates who will make the little decisions that affect your life. For instance, the Township Committee determines how much money you will spend for taxes, how your garbage will be collected, if there should be traffic lights, where they should be located, whether an office building can be constructed, if there should be shopping centers, or bowling alleys, or movie theaters. In other words, in advance your life style to a great degree, as well as determine the character of this town.

STICKERS WANDERLIZER One wonders what has happened to freedom of expression in this country.

PROJECT IDENTIFICATION While initiation is considered to be the sincerest form of flattery, I am sure that the Democratic township committee must find it a little amusing that the idea presented as someone else's on the front page of last week's Leader.

MOUNT VERNON LIGHTS I am a 17-year-old student at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School. I feel that the township committee should be aware of the necessity of installing a complete streetlight system along Mount Vernon Road. This road is a major thoroughfare and has many people who use it daily. It is a safety hazard to have no lights at all along this road.

THANKS FOR HELP We want to publicly thank Police Officers Pagan and Maddala, and also the Springfield Fire Department for their help in the fire that occurred at my home on Saturday night, Oct. 7.

Nixon, McGovern supporters debate issues at Regional Nixon or McGovern in 1972? That was the question debated before 200 members of the Springfield Statehood last night at the Government and Politics classes at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School last Monday.

Social studies teachers David Cowden, Claire Mison and Iris Conley presented the program which included the debate between Mary Ellen Collahan, a political science major at Seton Hall University and a delegate to the 1972 Democratic convention, who spoke for the McGovern ticket, and Jim Meyer, a former president of the Student Senate at Cornell and an ex-campy captain involved in the Youth for Nixon organization heading a drive to enlist Spanish-speaking people for Nixon.

Each speaker was allowed a seven-minute opening statement, followed by questions from the audience. Each speaker was given five minutes to answer each question and five minutes to summarize his candidate's virtues.

Social studies coordinator Pauline Kethy, who developed the program, said that additional speakers for this course will include an American Broadcasting Company newscaster, and the assistant commissioner of the N.J. Department of Community Affairs. The course is designed to provide opportunities for students to become involved in the political process by exposing them to leaders in the field—as well as taking them on field trips to give them personal contact and experience with the problems that shape and influence the nation's way of life.

THE STATE WE'RE IN

By DAVID F. MOORE
Executive Director, North Jersey Conservation Foundation

A funny thing happened to New Jersey's proposed flood plain protection act on its way through the state legislature. It got stuck on the legislative procedure. It got stuck so that it never passed the Legislature, according to its supporters, it will be hard to enforce.

IT'S AN OPEN SECRET around the New Jersey State House that passage of the Evans bill, in as good a form as possible, is top on the priority list of Gov. William T. Cahill and Commissioner of Environmental Protection Richard J. Sullivan.

THIRTEEN LIES a major hangup New Jersey consists of 57 municipalities, each of which has more constitutional powers of self-government than do its counterparts in practically any other state.

Second and third-year law students are sitting side by side with law enforcement officers in a classroom at the Rutgers Law School, taking a unique course this fall on the legal problems of law enforcement in urban areas.

Dear Consumer
By Virginia Kneiser
Special Assistant to President Nixon for Consumer Affairs

What do you know about the characteristics of products you want to buy? I don't mean, what do you know about Brand X or Brand Y? But do you know the general characteristics and capabilities of a particular kind of product, be it one brand or another? There, for example, what would be good questions to ask a salesman in comparing brands and types?

Vacuum cleaners. What kind is best for shag rugs? The Federal Government has answers to these questions because it does a lot of shopping-in buying consumer products for its own use. Over the years, it has developed a lot of information about the characteristics of different kinds of products. This comparative information—not brand names—is being published. The government buys by specifications, not brand names.

A Presidential Executive Order on product information two years ago called upon all Federal agencies to share with consumers the expertise they develop in buying consumer products. The order established the Consumer Product Information Coordinating Center to coordinate the various Federal consumer information sharing activities.

The center publishes an index, Consumer Product Information, four times a year. The index includes most of the Federal publications on how to buy, and take care of consumer products.

The current issue of the index lists about 200 publications—many of them free—with government information about cars, gardening, clothing, food, housing, child care and appliances. There is a special listing of publications in Spanish.

Some titles of publications on major consumer products are Dishwashers, Room Air Conditioners, Toasters, Washers and Dryers, Vacuum Cleaners, Automobile Batteries—Tires—Paint—and Paving. Prices range from 20 cents to 65 cents.

There are also many about fact sheets on specific topics about consumer products. If you want to know what the publications cost, which are free and which are available, you may want to write for a free copy of the index booklet. Complete the coupon below, which includes an order form. Send your name and address to: Consumer Publications, Department of Commerce, Washington, DC 20507.

So food freezer plans have always left you cold.

Well, warm up to Gene Rau. At Rau Home Food Service you get a food freezer plan you've got to like. Because you put together your own plan.

Thirty years in the meat business has taught Gene Rau that it doesn't pay to sell people something they don't want or need.

So he goes a long way to see to it you get what you want. Like a freezer that doesn't cost an arm and a leg. Or he'll lease you a freezer while you try out your plan. Or he'll supply food for the freezer you already own. You'll get the best meats at the best prices, and save a bundle by buying in bulk. You can buy other frozen foods through Gene, too, but only if you want them. Why not give Gene a call. He or one of his assistants will come to your home and help you put together a food freezer plan that will have you eating better and saving more than you ever thought possible.

A "yes" vote on the 1972 Transportation Bond Issue "is mandatory if New Jersey is to make a dent in the tremendous transportation demands that will be placed upon it in the years ahead," according to New Jersey Citizens for Balanced Transportation.

NJCBT, composed of leaders of all segments of New Jersey life, has been formed to lobby for the passage of the Bond Issue - Public Question 1 on the Nov. 7 ballot. The Master Plan for Transportation, compiled by the State Transportation Department, reveals that by the year 1990, New Jersey will experience an increase of 52 per cent population; 109 per cent in annual vehicle-miles of travel on state highways; 42 per cent in motor vehicle registrations; 75 per cent in passenger rail patronage; 29 per cent in bus travelers; 216 per cent in total aircraft operation.

"These are the needs which will be felt in every section of the state without exception," declared the chairman of NJCBT, C. Malcolm Davis, chairman of the board of Public Union Trust Co., Newark, and Charles H. Marciano, president of the New Jersey State AFL-CIO. "Unless we move aggressively to meet these needs, the State, which already is the most crowded in the nation, will find itself gripped by its worst transportation blighthead ever."

80 percent of Class of '72 now working, NSC reports

Joseph A. Vitale, director of career guidance and placement at Newark State College, Union, has released statistics which show that over 80 percent of the Class of 1972 have secured employment to date. Vitale added "by Nov. 15 this figure should reach close to 90 percent comparing it very favorably to last year's total."

Of the 1,300 graduates, 545 (less than half of the class) are teaching in New Jersey, and only 23 are teaching out of the state, supplying further evidence of the dwindling job market for teachers. Another 144 graduates are employed in non-teaching areas, 15 are in the armed forces, 41 in full-time graduate schools and 50 have moved out of the state. Elsewhere reported "raising a family" and six listed traveling. The placement office survey was conducted in October, fewer than 200 graduates were actively seeking employment.

"Vital note," "This figure will rapidly decrease since many students will finally choose a job opportunity." He added, "Many of these 275 graduates were working at summer positions and have only been looking for full-time employment since Labor Day."

Newark State College recently revised its requirements so students may now carry two majors in a traditional course of study and a second in a career area.

Thursday, October 19, 1972
added. "With our new majors in management science, computer science, medical technology and areas of industrial technology and public administration, we will prepare students for emerging as well as existing career opportunities."

PSE&G finds a ray of hope: 2 new fields for natural gas

A ray of hope in an otherwise dark natural gas supply picture was reported by Public Service Electric and Gas Company this week.

Edward R. Eberle, president of PSE&G, reported that what may be two "significant" new fields for natural gas have been found as a result of an exploration program backed by the New Jersey utility. One is in the Gulf of Mexico about 50 miles southwest of Freeport, Texas. The other is near Lafayette, La.

PSE&G, through its subsidiary, Energy Development Corporation, has been exploring for natural gas in a joint venture with North American Royalties, Inc., since last May.

"At the Gulf site off Texas, we drilled to a 175-foot and found what seems to be commercial quantities of gas in nine different zones," Eberle said. "The well is located on a 5,600-acre area jointly leased from the State of Texas by PSE&G and North American Royalties. We expect to begin a development program for the entire tract before the end of the year."

Eberle noted that PSE&G is entitled to half the gas found and has the right to purchase the North American Royalties' half. He warned, however, that delivery of the gas to the New Jersey area faces formidable obstacles. Agreements with a pipeline company must be worked out, Eberle said, and Federal Power Commission approval must be received.

The Louisiana find was made on a 6,000-acre tract at which a multiple well development is planned. PSE&G shares ownership in this project with North American Royalties.

tailments of supply, Public Service, the third largest electric and gas utility in the nation, has indicated that it expects to serve all of its approximately 1,300,000 customers without curtail this winter with the exception of "interruptible" customers. There are fewer than 100 of these customers - industries, for the most part, that buy large volumes of gas with the understanding that they will be shut off during peak demand periods.

More jobs predicted in fields related to natural resources

A Rutgers study forecasts a 31 percent increase over the next five years in full-time jobs related to New Jersey's natural resources and agriculture.

"The study indicates that the most rapidly growing employment in this sector is in food processing and distribution, horticulture and environmental science occupations," says Charles Drewbaugh, professor of vocational technical education at the Graduate School of Education and one of the authors of the study.

The report, distributed to educators, state officials and those interested in manpower needs, predicts that by 1978 there will be more than 60,000 full-time jobs in these fields, an increase of 41 percent.

Full-time jobs in production agriculture, currently 9 percent of the total, will increase, the report says, although there will be a sharp decline in seasonal, part-time employment to only 11,500 workers by 1978 - a decline of over 50 percent.

Overall, the authors predict that more than 27,000 full-time jobs will open up in the natural resources agriculture area - that's about 19,000, or three-fourths, will be new positions.

"There is a need for much more training than is presently provided by public educational institutions," says Richard H. Morris, director of resident instruction and associate dean at the College of Agriculture and Environmental Science and co-author of the study.

"The major gap is at the two-year college or technical institute level. Such educational programs, however, must be carefully designed to provide quality instruction at reasonable cost levels."

In preparing the report, questionnaires were sent to more than 4,600 businesses and government agencies, involved with horticulture, natural resources, farm production, animal services, timber and building materials, fisheries, and food processing and distribution.

The authors are also projecting employment increases in municipal, county, and state government for persons with skills in the environmental protection area. This includes environmental inspectors, sanitarians, park groundsmen, nature counselors, and others.

The report was funded by the New Jersey Council on Vocational Education together with the State Departments of Agriculture, Education, and Labor and Industry.

NCE offers courses in social niceties

The excitement comes from a series of more than 10 extracurricular non-credit courses, presented without cost as the NCE Alumni Association's Social Competence Program.

Now in its third year, the Social Competence series has been designed to offer instructional, recreational and work-related courses which the students themselves believe will be helpful after graduation.

As an example, this fall the NCE alumni are offering beginning skiing, horseback riding, the art of conversation, speed reading and social dancing. Other free courses include beginning and intermediate tennis, beginning golf, small boat handling, sailing and billiards.

And as NCE's academic year gets fully underway most of the courses are full.

There is an obvious benefit to learning such social niceties: since most of NCE's young engineers are aiming toward management roles, they want to play the games that management plays, and to do so coolly and competently.

Meet Jean Fritz, R.N. Dollar Stretcher:

She goes out of her way to help conserve your health-care dollars.

Jean is a field representative in our Blue Cross Provider Relations Department who logs thousands of miles a year calling on our member hospitals. Her job takes her to these institutions so that she can explain and help hospitals implement our dollar-stretching programs such as Approval by Individual Diagnosis (AID) and Pre-Admission Testing (PAT).

How effectively are these cost-control programs working? AID has helped cut a half-day off the average Blue Cross hospital stay. A sample analysis of PAT revealed the average length of inpatient stay for Blue Cross patients using PAT was 1.6 days less than the stay for non-PAT users. With Blue Cross now paying an average of $93.82 for each day of hospital care, these programs are involved in saving millions of subscribers' dollars annually.

Jean Fritz, R.N. It's your dollar she's stretching. She's instrumental in helping New Jersey Blue Cross deliver more health care for your health-care dollar.

If I hadn't been nagged into getting a checkup, I'd be kicking up daisies.

The toughest fight I ever had didn't happen on any big, wide screen. It happened in real life. I was just finishing my 99th picture. My 99th ridin', jumpin', fightin' picture. Never felt better in my life.

I told the family when I'm through here, I'm going out on my boat. Sure, they said, just as soon as you've had your medical checkup. I said nonsense, I had one eight months ago. They said it was more like eighteen.

So I said okay, okay. I went to my doctor and the chest X-rays showed a spot on my lungs. It was cancer. If I'd waited a few more weeks, I'd be dead.

The first couple of months after surgery, it hurt like hell to get on my horse. Since then I've been good as new. If you caught "True Grit" or "Chisum" you've seen for yourself.

So, friend, I know what I'm talking about when I tell you, get a checkup. Nag someone you love into getting a checkup. And when the lady from the American Cancer Society rings your doorbell, dig deep in your pocket. They're working to rid this world of cancer once and for all.

American Cancer Society
We want to wipe out cancer in your lifetime.

Population report released by state

The release of "New Jersey Population Report" containing census counts and official statistics of population for every county and municipality in New Jersey was announced this week by Henry A. Watson, director of the Division of Business and Economic Planning and Research, N.J. Department of Labor and Industry.

Watson said the report also provides projections of the population for the next 10 years to 2000. In addition to 1960 and 1970 census data, the report includes 1969 population data by county and municipality.

Of particular interest to users of population statistics are the revised 1970 census figures for the state as a whole. Data released by the U.S. Bureau of the Census in its official publications are original counts only and do not include corrections made on the basis of inter-censal data.

Dayton nips Caldwell, 13-12, will face Madison Saturday

The Jonathan Dayton Regional football team evened its record at two victories and two losses with a 13-12 triumph over Caldwell last Saturday. Dayton's conference record now stands at 1-1. The victory was Caldwell's first in two years of conference play. This Saturday, the Bulldogs will play host to Madison in a conference game.

SIGNAL CALLER—Neil Anderson is the key man on offense as quarterback for the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School football team.

Palazzi scored the winning touchdown in the fourth quarter on a perfect pass from Dayton quarterback Neil Anderson. The play covered 90 yards. Despite failing in the two-point conversion attempt, the Bulldogs had a 13-12 lead which the defense refused to give up.

The Bulldogs defense played a brilliant game in the fourth quarter. Caldwell gained only 90 yards in 34 carries on the ground. In contrast, the Bulldogs ground out 164 yards in 46 carries. Gavin Widom led the cutters with 72 yards in 11 carries. Bruce Harter and Palazzi each picked up 46 yards rushing.

Boaters lose two 1-0 games as offense again falls short

The Bulldogs' losses last week marked the fifth time the team has been shut out so far this season. The Bulldogs have scored eight goals with six points against West Orange in the boaters' only victory. While the offense has been unable to score, the defense has played admirably, allowing just 10 goals by the opposition.
