HUD caps low-income plans

Under a plan recently approved by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), applications for low-income housing construction in Canton will not be accepted for at least the next three years.

Grant coordinator Terry Carroll said the area-wide Housing Opportunity Plan (AHOP), which is used by HUD and the Michigan State Housing Development Authority in approving mortgage and rental subsidies, calls for no construction of low-income housing in Canton through 1982.

Carroll says Canton already has 12 times the number of low-income units reported by surrounding communties of comparable size.

Eligibility for federal community block grants is based, in part, on a municipality's fulfillment of low-income housing requirements.

According to Carroll, Canton annually has received $40,000 to $50,000 from that grant program for the last five years. Township officials grant the money to low-income residents for housing rehabilitation.

FEDERAL APPROVAL of rent subsidies for two low-income apartment complexes created an uproar among Canton residents in the summer of 1979. Homeowners near the construction sites feared a drop in their property values. One of the apartment complexes, near Joy and Sheldon, already has been built and occupied.

But the fate of another development near the Pickwick subdivision at Warren and Lilley roads, has been tied up in court.

The owners of the land + Forest City Dillon, Inc. - filed suit against Canton after the Township Board denied site plans for the project. The denial was based on the premise that the Pickwick Planned Unit Development (PUD) agreement had been broken. Single-family homes in the development were built before apartments, contrary in the agreement.

Township officials maintained that the proper use of the land reverted to single-family residential - the parcel's zoning before the 1971 PUD agreement was signed. But in a 1979 complaint, Forest City Dillon charged that the denial was based on an effort "to exclude persons of low and moderate income and minority groups from Canton."

According to Carroll, the case is awaiting trial in Wayne County Circuit Court.

CARROLL SAID the AHOP plan attempts to distribute low-income housing throughout a region "on a fair share method.'

"The plan says that since your demograpics are such and such, you should be responsible for a certain share of the region's goals (for low-income housing,)" said Carroll.

The plan was formulated by the

to the sequence of construction outlined Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) and endorsed by more than half of the communities in the region. SEMCOG officials say the plan gives more local control over the location of low-income housing in the area Housing assistance plans of HUD formerly outlined low-income goals of specific communities.

Carroll, who sits on SEMCOG's Housing Development Subcommittee along with Trustee Loren Bennett, expected HUD approval of the AHOP plan. "But other people had doubts," he said.

The federal agency required approval of the housing plan by at least 50 percent of the region's communities which represented at least 75 percent of its population.

According to Carroll, a hesitation on the part of Detroit officials to endorse the plan cast doubts on its final passage. Detroit endorsed the plan in late August.

Monday morning, Eileen A. Roths walked into the Navy recruitng station in Plymouth with a "gift" for her son.

According to police, the "gift" was a glass coffee jar filled with gun powder and muzzle loading pellets which she told Petty Officer 2nd Class Patrick M. Lambert was ". . . a present for my son.

The "gift" from the 50-year-old junior high science teacher didn't fool Lambert, who, suspecting something was wrong, quickly walked out of the station. Police said Mrs. Roths then lit a fuse leading from the jar, sat it down in the vestibule and walked out. Seconds later, the jar exploded, damaging surroundings but injuring no one. Plymouth police are still puzzled by the incident, although Police Chief Tim Ford believes Mrs. Roths, a Northville State Hospital patient on a weekend leave pass, may have been upset with Navy recruiting techniques. Her son, Randy Roths, 18, had been interested in joining the Navy and had spoken to recruiters there on three occasions since November 1979. The Plymouth-Canton High dropout's last contact with the office was in October," said Recruiter Mike Richardson. Roths then told the office he wasn't interested in signing up, according to Richardson.

BY PRESS TIME, Mrs. Roths, employed at at Nolan Junior High in Detroit, was still being held at the Wayne County Jail, where she was taken by Plymouth police Tuesday.

At an arraignment Monday in the 35th District Court, Plymouth, she was charged with setting an explosive, a charge carrying maximum imprisonment of 25 years. A $100,000 cash bond was set.

A plea of not guilty was placed on her behalf by Judge Dunbar Davis, and a Dec. 22 exam was set in the Canton

She was very, very involved in her teaching and in trying to apply backgammon as a teaching tool in math," said Mrs. Flora. "She came to the club to learn how to devise a way to teach blind students how to play. She thought that backgammon would be an incentive for students to learn about math probabilities.

"I just wish that all teachers could be like Mrs. Roths.'

The incident at the recruiting center, 819 Penniman, began at about 9:10 a.m

This week Roths, in a brief interview, said his mother had been hospitalized for about one month in Northville but declined to describe the cause for her hospitalization. He said she spent the weekend at her home in the Holiday Park Subdivision in Canton, where she was cared for by his sisters, Joanne and Janet, both 22. The temporary home stay was to end Monday.

Roths could not say why his mother had not returned to the Northville Hospital Monday. He said his sisters were expected to accompany her back.

court before Judge James Garber.

Sgt. Ralph White, of the Plymouth Detective Bureau, described the bomb as a "hurriedly made explosive device" which could have caused greater damage if the jar's lid was sealed tighter. Instead, the explosion loosened a few floor tiles and cracked two vestibule windows.

White said the pellets and gun powder belonged to her son, a muzzle loadng enthusiast.

Mrs. Roths has been employed at Nolan School as a math, science and biology teacher.

Oddly enough, her interest in finding ways to teach math to her students, particularly those who are visually impaired, brought her to the Plymouth branch of the American Backgammon Club.

THERE SHE met Scotty Flora, a that point, he noted the car's license charter member of the club, who was immediately impressed by her "creativity" and devotion to teaching.

Lambert, 21, described the event.

He said he had been waiting in the vestibule at that time for someone to arrive and open the office door. Originally from Canton, Làmbert said had been estationed in Norfolk, Va., for more than two years. Monday, he explained he was to begin his two-week temporary assignment as a recruiting agent.

At about 9:10 a.m. a woman walked into the vestibule and "very politely" asked him "to please step aside," said Lambert.

After noticing what she was carrying, Lambert said he hurried outside and heard a muffled explosion. He said he watched the woman leave the building and drive away in an orange Plymouth-Horizon.

"I tried to open her car door but couldn't stop her," Lambert said. At Canton police are probing an accident which claimed the life of a Belleville pedestrian who was struck on Michigan Avenue last weekend.

Lt. Larry Stewart said the incident occurred on westbound Michigan Avenue between Sheldon and Canton Center Roads about 3:15 a.m. Saturday. Pedestrian Daniel Foley, 37, of Denton Road in Belleville, was dead at the scene.

ACCORDING TO the police report, Foley was hit by a 1979 Oldsmobile driven by Ernest Barnes, 24, of Mott Road in Canton.

Stewart said the victim had been dressed in dark clothing as he walked along the roadway. There is no street lighting in that area.

Charges are pending until further investigation and results of an autopsy report from the Wayne County Medical Examiner's Office are complete, said Stewart.

In another hit-and-run case, a pedestrian who had been injured in a accident last month has regained consciousness, according to police. However, he still was listed in critical condition on Tuesday, said a spokeswoman for Wayne County General Hospital. Thomas Hall, 39, of Belleville Road in Belleville, has been hospitalized with head injuries, broken legs, cuts and bruises

He had been found lying unconscious on the Michigan Avenue ramp from I-275 about 5:40 a.m. Nov. 24. Police believe he had been on foot when he was hit by a vehicle.

The investigation continues in that case.

County board secures salary hike

By TOM LONERGAN

Raises' for Wayne County elected officials next year will continue to be pegged to the nation's inflation rate.

The seven-member County Officers Compensation Commission last week approved $1,500 per year pay increase, effective in 1982, in the base salaries of the 27 county commissioners and nine countywide elected administrators.

Left untouched by the appointed citizens' panel were the quarterly cost-ofliving allowances (COLA) which the elected officials will continue to receive next year and in 1982. This year, those COLA increases added $6.274 to each elected official's salary, according to the Board of Commission-

The elected officials' base salaries were last increased in 1977.

ALTHOUGH at least two Board of Commissioners members are planning to propose the county board defeat the 1982 raises at Thursday's meeting, they aren't expected to prevail. The raises can be defeated only by a two-thirds vote, or 18 of the 27 commissioners.

The issue is not on the board's Thursday agenda. To consider it, 18 commissioners would have to approve suspension of the rules.

The compensation commission voted 4-3 last Wednesday in favor of the $1,500 raise in 1982.

Commission chairman Roman Ul-man, a "'y director of the Detroit Civic Center Department, favored the . ee to the commission, said any increase deferred pay hike. He was joined by Frank Angileri of Livonia, an engineer for Ford Motor Co.; Robert S. Harper of Canton, a freelance management consultant, and Patricia Lewis of Detroit, a public relations consultant.

Two UAW international representatives, Turner Ewing Jr. of Inkster and Tom Mitchell of Detroit, opposed the raise, as did Susan Lambrecht of Grosse Pointe, a teacher at University-Liggett School.

Angileri, Lewis, Mitchell and Ulman were appointed to the compensation commission last year by former county board chairman Richard Manning, D-Redford. Ewing, Harper and Lambrecht were appointed this year by current chairman Samuel Turner, D-Detroit.

EWING AND Mitchell's proposal that there be no salary increase "of any type" lost on a 4-3 vote. Also defeated was a proposal by Harper that $2,500 be added to the base salaries in 1982.

"What I'm saying to you is if we ain't got it, we ain't got it, brother," Mitchell said referring to the county's consistently growing budget deficits since the mid 1970s.

"Next year might be worse than than this year, and we're saying no matter how bad it is, we're going to give them a raise.

for elected officials would be "unreasonable.

"They're in good shape," she said. "They're comfortable."

Angileri, who moved the $1,500 increase with COLA, said no pay raise would lead to a "lack of incentive and a lowering of morale" among the county's elected officials. "It was a compromise situation," he said. "That's what this business is all about."

AMONG SUBURBAN commissioners, Thomas Presnell, D-Westland, and R. William Joyner, D-Plymouth, say they will vote against the pay increases Thursday.

Joyner, who will submit a resolution opposing the raises, called the $16,190 plus $6,274 in COLA the commissioners now receive "not bad for a part-time job."

Among other benefits the commissioners also receive a $100 a month for expenses, including reimbursement for mileage

Presnell said the county is telling

Lambrecht, the most recent appoint- several unions with which it's negotiating new contracts that it has no money for raises. "I think I'm going to vote no," he said.

> The largest union representing nearly 4,000 county employees, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME) Council 25, agreed to a two-year contract last summer with no pay increases, but continued "uncapped" COLA increases. -The agreement contains a wage reopener for 1981.

> WITH THE $6,274 additional COLA, county elected officials 1980 salaries were:

> Board of Commissioners Chairman Turner, $28,964; vice chairman Clemens Bykowski, $23,464

> Auditors Richard Kelly, Ted Mrozowski and Leonard Proctor, Drain Commissioner Charles Youngblood, Treasurer Raymond Wojtowicz and Register of Deeds Forest Youngblood, $37,724.

> County Clerk James Killeen and Sheriff William Lucas, $41,904.

Prosecutor William Cahalan, $50,264.

Cutting a tree yourself: a 'fresh' alternative

Michigan has more than 60 Christmas tree farms, giving cut-it-yourselfers more than 600,000 evergreens and more than a dozen varieties from which to choose.

Prices start at $3 for Scotch pines to $30 for blue spruce and $25 for Douglas fir. Eight farms sell trees by the foot, varying from $1.25 to $3, depending on the variety.

Sizes can range from foot-tall, transplantable potted trees to shaped, room-size Austrian, French and Japanese pines and the white pine, Michigan's state tree.

At many farms, children can see, feed or pet everything from ducks and hogs to horses, and enjoy free treats like popcorn balls and hot cider. Some farms even feature visits by Santa Claus.

Nearly half the farms will wrap branches with twine for easy transport while some will mechanically clean trees of dead needles and other debris.

If planning a tip to a choose-and-cut farm this season, AAA suggests these tips

• Take a hand saw. Most farms lend saws but they could be in use, especially on weekends. Axes are banned.

• When choosing, remember that most pines and Douglas firs hold needles, and spruces and balsams shed quickly if not cared for properly.

• After deciding on a tree, saw the trunk close to the ground.

• Although most farms have twine to tie trees to cars, take rope just in case. Tie the tree's base at the front of the car

• Store trees in a bucket of water in a cool area. Before placing in a stand, diagonally cut an inch or two off the base to help the tree absorb water. Fill the stand with water daily.

• Avoid placing trees near heating ducts or open flames.

 Before decorating, always check tree lights for bare wires and make sure electrical outlets won't be overloaded

Beep, whir! Video games lure buyers

By TOM LONERGAN

Behind the toy store counter were games named "Melody Madness," "Touch Me," "Quiz Whiz," "Brain Baffler" and "Maniac."

Besides the intriguing names, they all share a common part — a thumbnail size microprocessor chip which according to one Detroit area toy retailér, "makes the games do what they do."

THE PORTABLE electron for computer games have memories and simulate a variety of sounds from explosions to beeps. In their fourth year on the market, the games are expected to be heavy Christmas sellers.

Back in those ancient days known as the 1960s, the only electric games you could find were of the football, baseball or basketball variety.

Just plug them in the wall socket, get that metal surface vibrating and watch your players move in the wrong direction. It always messed up your strategy.

Nowadays, the electric games, even though they are still available, have taken a back seat to the portable electronic and video games that connect to the TV set.

MORE THAN 300 electronic games are made by a variety of toy manufacturers, said a spokesman for Circus World Toy Stores Inc., a Taylor-based company with 13 stores throughout the Detroit area.

The price tags range from $7-$10 for electronic games to amuse an infant to $100 and up for serious items like a Horse Race Analyzer for the refined track bettor. The video games, which were first introduced in bars, sell for between $140 and $300.

Many of the portable computer games are in the $30 to $50 price range and require either a nine volt or AA size battery. Most of the games can be used with wall plug adaptors.

"Electronics have just come into their own the last two years and are still on the upswing," said the Circus World spokesman. He said the games comprise "roughly 10 to 12 percent" of the toy market.

Major manufacturers include Matel, Coleco, Ideal, Entex, Milton Bradley and Parker Brothers.

AT THE J-Kay Sales toy store in Redford Township, clerk Vito Manzella presides over a long glass enclosed counter of electronic gadgets. Some customers just come to look.

"How much is that 'Stop Thief' up there?" asks

"$34.97," says Manzella.

One game that sells for $50 encourages the player to increase the volume of the simulated engine until the engine "blows."

MANZELLA SAYS it's "dumb."

"All it does is make a lot of noises. I mean it's stupid if you ask me."

Matel's Horse Race Analyzer for $100 has stumped even electronic game veterans like Manzella.

"About one o'clock, I started it," he said. "About five o'clock I still couldn't figure it out."

The game provides betting advice after you plug in the pertinent information from published racing sheets.

'Like Horse Race Analyzer, a number of the games don't really have age limits.

"Quiz Whiz," for example, has accessory cassettes — at $6 each — available covering, science, math, people and places, sports, books and movies. The game itself sells for $27.

MATEL'S ELECTRONIC football and auto race games in 1977 and Milton Bradley's "Simon" in 1978 were the first computer chip games on the market, according to the Circus World spokesman. Since then, many manufacturers have copied those forms and others have tried to cash in on a fad.

"Touch Me" for $13 is a "Simon copy cat," says Manzella. The players repeat the series of sounds the machine makes.

A "Star Wars" game for $28 appears to just make a lot of noise as player opponents flash laser lights at each other. "It's disgusting," said Manzella. "It's all the movie."

There are games "straight from the pinball arcades." Manzella says and modifications of popular bar games like "Space Invaders."

A "Horoscope Analyzer" for $50 is "dumb," if you ask Manzella. "You could get the same answer putting a quarter in a machine."

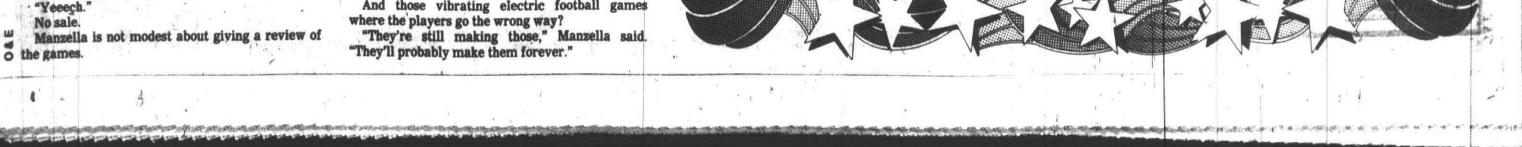

A GAME called "The Generals," is similar to the non-electronic "Stratego." And "Battleship" is now known as "Electronic Battleship."

"They jacked up the price $20 for the sound," Manzella said.

Sports are big electronic game items. Football, baseball and basketball can be played one-on-one or on the older cheaper games players rotate turns. Soccer, boxing, hockey and car racing are all part of the electronic games set.

But the computer age hasn't swept everyone up. "People are always going to buy 'Concentration' and games like that," says Manzella.

Thursday, December 18, 1980 Elderly at West Trail are anticipating Christmas

By W.W. EDGAR

Their hair has turned to silver, their faces wear wrinkles of the passing years, and the veins on the back of their hands are plainly seen.

They have seen many summers and thrilled at the color of the autumn leaves and have weathered many winter winds and storms.

But no group is looking forward to Christmas with more enthusiasm than the elderly women living in the West Trail Nursing Home on Ann Arbor Trail in Plymouth.

With all the sparkle in their eye they frown at the thought that Christmas will be a dreary and lonesome day in a nursing home.

"Don't you believe it," said Leila Heller, 81, as she smiled broadly, "Christmas is a great day around here. We all are looking forward to it."

Sitting around the well-decorated Christmas tree with her were Myrtle Heller, a 10-year resident, Rachel Reiman, another 10-year resident, Ada Valentine, a comparative newcomer with only two years seniority, and Patricia Besner, another of the old-timers.

"We are on the go here from morning 'til night," Mrs. Heller said, "and by the time all of the various clubs have been here with gifts and the parties that Carl Lampton (owner) puts on, in which two Santas are featured, we are ready to call it a day.

am the gabber in the group," said Mrs. Heller, a well-known Plymouth resident whose daughter is married to Bill Bartel of the Bartel florist family, "and I can't tell you how much we enjoy being here with Mr. Lampton.

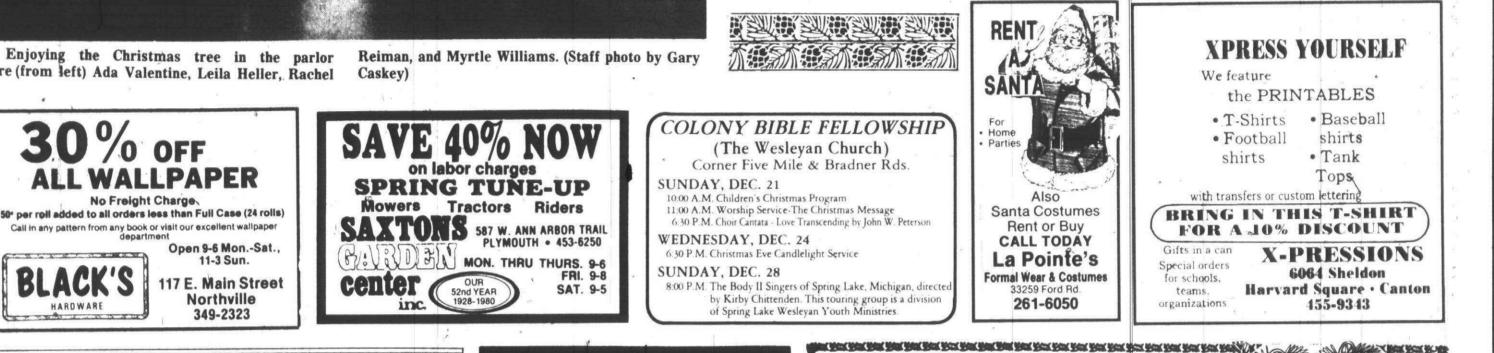

"All through the holidays it is fun. We have parties, bingo games and what not. The place is never dreary.

The lone dissenter was Mrs. Valentine, who confided that despite all the action things get a big "" dreary when she thinks of her two children.

"But they have families of their own now," she said, "and it is their duty to be with them. But I sure feel dreary just thinking about them."

Off in another room Lillie Van Bonn, age 95 and a five year resident of West Trail, was visiting with her two daughters, Hazel Lyke and Ethel Horsfall.

So don't feel sorry for the West Trail residents they are looking forward to a good time at Christmas with as much enthusiasm as the young singers who serenade them.

A survival seminar Community leaders search for savings by sharing

By C.J. RISAK

It was appropriately titled a "survival seminar.

Fifteen Wayne County communities responded to Westland Mayor Thomas Taylor's invitation for a meeting last week to discuss ways to combine resources and collectively save money. The call for cooperation was an attempt to deal with the latest series of state aid cuts to local governments.

Among the diverse group of communities in attendance were Garden City, Redford Township, Canton Township, Plymouth, Northville, Trenton, Belleville, Allen Park, Melvindale, Lincoln Park, Inkster, Dearborn Heights, Rockwood and Romulus. The mayor's staff had sent out 45-to-50 invitations to about 34 cities and townships.

living in Florida is like, withleading community developers, Florida Information Center.

The seminar served more as an icebreaker, with local leaders dicussing in general terms what could be shared between communities. For instance, leaders agreed that inventories listing equipment each community had would benefit everyone.

SEVERAL OTHER topics also were discussed. Another meeting, planned for Jan. 22, will have department directors from each community discuss in more specific terms how they could work together.

That meeting will be divided into four sections of study: public safety (police, fire and building departments); public service or works departments; personnel, finance and purchasing; and human resources (parks, recreation, troubles, and declines in property, gas senior citizen programs, etc.).

"One of the positive things that came out of Proposition 13 in California was the cooperation between communities," said Linda Barnes, liaison to local governments from the State's Office of Management and Budget, who addressed the officials at the meeting.

"They investigated the kind of services they may cooperatively provide to reduce costs," she said.

MS. BARNES pointed out several trends in local government from 1978-80. Included were expenditures rising faster than income, an increase in the number of communities with either operating deficits or budget-balancing and weight taxes and federal revenues.

A model which the cities may use in setting up an inter-community sharing agency is the Downriver Community Conference (DCC).

The DCC is an outgrowth of the Downriver Mutual Aid (DMA) agency, a group formed 12 years ago to share police and fire equipment and resources among 15 communities. The DCC started three years ago with the same kind of coordinating format.

A Board of Directors, consisting of mayors and supervisors, rules over both the DMA and DCC. State and federal grants help fund the DCC, along with a membership fee which has risen from $4,300 the first year to $6,000 this year. The still-functioning DMA _also levies a $6,000 membership fee.

The DCC's program and staff have expanded. The group administers the member communities' CETA programs and handles the arts, personnel training, recreation and a substanceabuse program with a staff that has grown from three to 67

That type of collective community sharing is what participants at the "survival seminar" hope to achieve on a larger scale, Taylor said.

"WHEN THERE'S a crisis situation, the communities do work together," Taylor said. "But there's no organized system set up." Taylor added a note of urgency to revenue, is passed, local governments would be hit hardest, and perhaps more than once. "We're going to get hit twice," Taylor said. "If the tax-freeze plan passes, the local governments and schools will get the situation. He said that if the proper-

Taylor added, "If it weren't for the state cuts we'd have a balanced budg-

Workers' compensation reform stalemate ends

By TIM RICHARD

The end of a six-year stalemate on workers' compensation reform was summed by state Rep. W.V. Brotherton in two words: "Everyone's relieved," said the-Farmington Republican.

Rep. William Keith even had praise for the restraint shown by business and union lobbyists. "It's one thing to say, 'Legislators, you do it.' But that's difficult when everyone is coming down on you. Here's a case where the people involved stepped up to their responsibilities," said the Garden City Democrat.

The Michigan Legislature, with the barest handful of dissenting votes, last week passed a revised workers compensation law. It 1) raises benefits to injured workers and 2) curbs what business had considered some of the worst abuses - particularly "double dipping" by retirees.

"I THINK we dealt with probably the most serious issue facing employment and the business climate in this state," said Senate Majority Leader William Faust, D-Westland.

Faust was part of the so-called "quadrant" of legislative leaders who hammered out a compromise with Republican Gov. William G. Milliken to end the stalemate in the final weeks of the legislative session. Their five-man press conference was a virtual love-in. "Neither side gets everything they want," said Milliken. "The governor . . . really was a catalyst in getting this thing done," said Senate Republican Leader Robert VanderLaan of Kentwood.

"A major breakthrough," said House Speaker Bobby Crim, D-Davison.

"Five people of moderation met in good faith and acted in good faith," said House Republican Leader William Bryant of Grosse Pointe.

TO BROTHERTON, the most significant achievement was the solution of the retiree problem. Michigan has been almost alone in allowing retired workers to collect both a pension and workers' compensation, which is supposed to replace lost wages.

The new law, he said, creates the "rebuttable presumption that an employee who has terminated active employment and is receiving either a government or private pension has not suffered a loss of earnings or earnings capacity."

Added Brotherton: "There still is a way a retiree can collect, but now there's a big hurdle."

Benefits to retirees have cost the $1 billion workers comp system $100 million a year. Business spokesmen generally pointed the finger at this "abuse" as a chief reason Michigan has had difficulties luring new industry during the last decade.

TO KEITH, the most noteworthy feature was the increase in benefits.

"I have one constituent who became eligible for workers' compensation in 1972. There have been no increases in his compensation in that period of time," said Keith.

"He worked inside water towers. scaling and painting, and developed a lung condition that is a form of emphysema. His benefit is $80 a week. He's in his middle 40s and has two children in school. His wife is working."

The act is still imperfect, Keith allowed. "There are so many court interpretations of qualifying that needed to be addressed. I don't know that they are addressed."

BROTHERTON saw a long list of advantages to the new law.

• "It stops the really rapid rise in costs. There are some savings for small businesses, more so than for large ones. A lot of claims affected the smaller guy, maybe because he couldn't fight it. • "It provides mechanisms for improvements, such as making it easier for employers to self-insure.

• "It eliminates some aging kinds of claims as compensable. In a heart problem, the claimant must be able to show his employment contributed in 'a significant manner' to his condition. Before, all he had to prove (in a lung case) was that there was some dust in the air. The same is true with mental illness claims, too.

• "It excludes injuries in the social and recreational sphere - for example, a worker goes out for lunch and has an accident on the way back from the bar, or he's hurt playing baseball on a company team.

The improvement in benefits (for disabled worker now can receive a workers injured prior to 1980) will be paid out of the general fund, with $29 millon appropriated for fiscal 1981-2."

HE ISSUED a warning to business: "A whole new set of guidelines will have to be tested in court. The big companies will have to fight to establish case law. If, they roll over and play dead, and settle out of court, it will hurt all businesses."

The new law takes effect Jan. 1, 1982. Benefits for workers injured after it takes effect would rise to as much as 90 percent of the state's average weekly wage, now $313,45. Thus, a multaneously.

maximum 'of $210 a week, but under the new law he would get $282.

(P,C)9A

A mandatory minimum benefit required by the present law is eliminated. Employers considered this minimum a major flaw because some low-wage workers get more in benefits than they earned in wages.

Employers also won a provision that a worker would have to file for benefits within two years of an on-the-job injury or two years of learning of an occupational disease (cancer or black lung).

Workers' comp and unemployment comp no longer may be collected si-

A piece of cake!

The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers recently received four awards of excellence from the Suburban Newspapers Association.

The plaque that hangs in our pressroom which reads, "FIRST PLACE — BEST USE OF COLOR" was really no surprise. Our press crew is one of the best in the business. Ten years ago when our Livonia building was under construction and the huge Goss Metro press began to roll for the first time—eight of these guys were there. And in that decade they, along with the pressmen who have followed them, have done some mighty fine work. They handle a 150-ton monster that stands 28 feet high, runs more than 40 miles an hour, holds 1,500 gallons of ink and prints 60,000 64-page newspapers per hour.

And they make it look like a piece of cake. The three other awards? They were for super promotions like the one you're reading now.

Ordinance officers need to have guns

Editor:

Recently I read your story about the Canton ordinance officers having their guns taken away. Not only was I appalled by this decision, but also the method by which this change was instituted.

Guns are always a controversial topic, but the controversy must stop when it comes to law enforcement people. Gun control does not begin in the law enforcement divisions of this country

Put yourself in Officers Young and Baker's position; facing a man with a criminal record swinging an eightpound wrench. I wonder what the trustees (who incidentally have no law enforcement experience) would have felt approaching this man empty-handed. Yet this and other examples offered by Phillips, Baker, and Young were all seemingly overlooked.

Guns in officers' hands do not create life-threatening situations. They control them. These officers were even sent through intensive training, on top of their prior law enforcement experience to insure than an "Old West" situation as Padget called it, would not ex-

Even the Old West was finally brought under control by armed law enforcment people and stranger courts.

Over and above all of this, the trustees' attitude is very disturbing. This motion was in deep need of fact finding and discussion. Instead, it was passed with lots of emotion and little or no ethics.

The American political system is dedicated to the debating of issues and their facts, so as to find the most equitable solution. However, Poole and Padget have moved Canton politics to an all newslevel.

A statement by Poole that no one has to give reasons for voting as they do, does not apply to an elected official who has a responsibility to his constituents. This attitude is deeply disturbing. Proper cause demands to be shown before a measure becomes a law or ordinance. This motion was definitely passed in a piece-meal way, as Mrs. Falkiewicz stated.

Are we, the people of Canton, going to be subjected to decisions born of emotion and piecemeal politics? Decisions that affect our very lives?

Finally, as to the liability to the trustees, if one of these ordinance officers are killed. They may not be legally liable, however, the moral liability is inescapable.

Anti-abortion lawmakers taking heat for vote

Two state representatives who say the legislature less than a year. "I'm they are against abortion are taking a lot of heat from Right to Life constituents for voting to uphold Gov. Milliken's veto of an anti-abortion measure. Reps. Jack Kirksey and Sylvia Skrel, both Livonia Republicans, say the bill was badly drafted. They denied Milliken had pressured them into upholding his veto. "His aides don't even talk to me," added Kirksey.

THEY BLAMED the "inflexibility" of anti-abortion lawmakers for the failure of the bill, which received the necessary two-thirds vote in the senate but fell six votes short in the house.

In separate interviews, Kirksey and Skrel gave almost identical reasons for opposing the measure.

"There were six or seven votes that would have added language on what to do in case of incest or rape," said Kirksey." "The pro-lifers fought them all. In the absence of anything addressing these problems, I couldn't support it.

"I told them, 'You're being totally inflexible. You're almost going to guarantee a veto, and you don't have the votes to override.'

"I supported the original bill -- reluctantly -- to keep good faith. But I never committed to support an override of the governor's veto. They (Right to Lifers) assumed I would vote to override.

"I've had a pro-life record for my 3¹/₂ years in the legislature. . . . M y personal conscience is completely clear."

anti-abortion.

"The mother house (of the Felician Sisters), the college I graduated from (Madonna) and Ladywood High School are in my district. But I had to act like a leader and a state representative, and not a Roman Catholic," Skrel said.

"It's the hardest vote I ever had to cast."

She, too, objected to the anti-abortion legislators' rejection of amendments that would have governed cases where pregnancy resulted from incest and rape

"The original bill was the home-heating assistance bill," she said. "We sent the senate a home-heating bill and got back an anti-abortion bill (because of the amendments to prohibit use of Medicaid to pay for welfare recipients' abortions).

"There was a big question whether it (the anti-abortion amendment) was even germane. Even if there had been an override, it would have gone to court. It was not a "clean bill," said Skrel.

KIRKSEY SAID that the night before the legislature voted on the override proposals, Right to Lifers called a "hurry-up" meeting at St. Michael Catholic parish where his home telephone number was given out to the audience of 300.

"Many called my home, and some were very abusive. My wife took the calls because I didn't reach home until after 11 p.m. I'm disappointed they "IT'S GOING to look like I'm pro- would call me at home and place a bur-

Christmas light vandalism is 'inexcusable'

Editor:

I would like to preface this letter by saying that I do not accuse or condemn all or most of the young people of Canton Township of being vandals or disrespectful of property, but I do feel a pressing need to censure the few who always seem to make things bad for the many.

I have never written a letter to the editor before, but I felt compelled to do so now because I am thoroughly disappointed in and disgusted with some of The young people in Canton Township. The teenagers I speak of seem to have no respect for the property of othwers and often resort to flagrant vandalism

This conclusion is not a speedy one on my part. It has been formulated slowly from a series of incidences observed since I became a Canton resident three years ago and has reached its culmination this very evening after another act was committed.

My initial disappointment began when I noticed all the trash that was accumulating on the neighborhood lawns and streets.

This I could accept as mere "thoughtlessness" - excusable by the weakness of human nature.

Then, the "For Sale" signs in the subdivision began to be stolen and rearranged, bottles broken and left purposely in the street, and a "Devil's Night" ritual adopted which demanded

from our readers

an all-night vigil by concerned homeowners.

This I could accept as "adolescent tomfoolery" - excusable by age and immaturity.

It wasn't until more serious incidents occured that I began to question the character of our youth. Garage doors were pelted by fruit and rocks just for the sake of "denting," redwood fences were ripped from their hinges just for the sake of "destroying," and car windows were smashed with hammers just for the sake of "shattering."

This I could not accept as anything but cruel, deliberate vandalism - not to be excused by either thoughtlessness or age

And, just this evening, as my family ate dinner, the Christmas lights which decorated our shrubbery were maliciously unplugged, dismantled and stolen, not for the enjoyment of some family less fortunate, but for the sheer "pleasure" of watching them shatter on the concrete and of annoying a homeowner

Well, to the perpetrators of this act, I offer my congratulations on the achievement of your goals. Number 1, you smashed the bulbs beyond recognition and number 2, I am, indeed, annoyed - not so much for myself, but for those whom your act affected most.

I wish you could have been here when those lights were put up, so that you too could have seen the awe on the faces of my two children. The 3-yearold was confident that $anta Claus would now be able to find our house even on darkest of Christmas Eves because it was so well lit. And the 8month-old, this being the first Christmas she could remember, could only say "Ohhh" as she gazed with wonderfilled eyes out the front window.

What do I tell them tomorrow when they ask me why they are no longer there? Would you like to be the ones to explain it to them?

But, then, I don't suppose it would bother you anyway. For, if you could care about the wonder of Christmas for two small children, you probably wouldn't be the kind of people who could take part in any of the acts I have described.

So perhaps all I can say to you now is that maybe someday, if you are fortunate enough, in this harsh economy, to own your own home and have children, you will understand what I am trying to say and maybe even regret some of the irreparable damage you've done

Removal of guns a political choice

Editor

The first meeting of Canton's new Township Board, and politics already. I guess I had hoped for too much.

The decision made at the Nov. 25 meeting to remove the firearms from township ordinance enforcement officers seems completely irresponsible to me

Regardless of the comments made by the people in the audience or the case-by-case justification given by the officers, certain board members stuck to their ill-researched political stand of removing the firearms from these officers.

Robert Padget gave a real great reason: "I don't like guns. I don't own a gun, and I don't think ordinance officers should have them. Without a gun I become a coward and try to change the situation."

Well, Mr. Padget, as a computer manager for Ford Motor Co., your try may work. If you were a law enforcement officer for Canton Township and your try didn't work, then what? I really don't think you can compare the two jobs.

Here is real logić. John Flodin's remark that 20 years ago he did ordinance enforcement work for the township and he didn't need a gun. There's now 50,000 people today. Somehow, I think this makes a great difference.

I sure hope other township residents write or come to a board meeting and express their total displeasure on this decision. These are law enforcement officers whose self protection has been taken away, not because these officers were not qualified or properly trained. feelings. I only hope God protects these officers. Unfortunately, I don't think

Putting the brake on high-speed cop chases

High-speed chases by police officers and detectives are great action for movies but dangerous in real life.

Hopefully, a police officer is highly skilled at pursuit driving. Nevertheless, automobiles moving at high speeds are a real danger, whether the driver is a policeman or holds some other job.

Within the past few months, local police, county deputies and state police were engaged in a chase that lasted for miles and resulted in speeds of 80-- 100 mph.

That chase was dramatic, and fortunately no innocent bystanders were hurt. But that has not always been the case and will not always be so because speed kills.

THE ISSUE OF high-speed chases versus public safety is a sticky one because it involves two "motherhood and apple pie" issues pitted against each other.

On the one hand, no one wants to interfere with a police officer in the line of duty. On the other hand, no one wants innocent bystanders to be hurt.

A police officer wouldn't think about firing a revolver at a suspect in a crowded department store. Yet weapons are sometimes fired in high-speed chases involving automobiles. How much of our community remains rural enough to make such shooting safe?

As in most issues involving conflict, the action warranted depends on the individual circumstances and requires the best judgment of the officer on the scene.

We ought to equip the officer by giving him some help ahead of time, before the chase begins.

We ought to help the officer by spending some time, now developing guidelines suggesting when certain actions are appropriate and when they are not.

Canton police chief Jerry Cox says he discourages high-speed chases except for very serious crimes such as suspected homicides, thefts involving large amounts of money and serious assaults, or if giving chase were the only way a suspect could be identified.

Chief Cox, and most other police officials, stresses, though, that the decision to begin a chase boils down to the individual officer's perception and judgment.

PLYMOUTH POLICE Chief Tim Ford is among those who believe officers must be given latitude to act when action is needed. But Chief Ford also believes officers should be equipped in advance with policy guidelines concerning high-speed chases.

And so the city has come up with a new policy to help officers make that initial decision on whether to make a chase and under what conditions the pursuit should be halted.

Among other things, the policy gives an officer

the right to break off a chase without fear of being penalized for doing so, and the policy insists that an officer is expected to halt a chase if continuance would cause risk to himself or to the public. The policy asks officers to consider the following:

Does the seriousness of the incident justify a fast pursuit that is unsafe? What are the chances of apprehending the suspect? Will the pursuit be on a highway, residential or business street? What are the traffic, weather and street conditions? Is the officer alone and can he receive assistance? Is there a safer way to catch the suspect?

These questions should be reviewed and addressed by all police departments and agencies. Speed is dangerous, even for police officers, and therefore a high-speed chase should never begin unless essential.

Careful consideration should be given to adopting the best guidelines possible — the lives of the police and bystanders deserve nothing less.

John Lennon a dream,

not a guru

Music never has been a big part of my life. So it was difficult for me to imagine why hundreds of thousands of persons stood out in the cold to memorialize some guy who gained fame singing

I Want to Hold Your Hand.

Initially, I tried to ignore the hysteria. But for days after John Lennon was shot, I was inundated with this Beatle thing - in the newspapers, on television, radio, in the office, at lunch that's all anybody would or could talk about.

Greater suburbia was a large part of this strange ritual of grief.

Record shops were swamped with the bereaved scooping up Lennon hits; kids moped around the halls reminiscing about a 40-year-old who became tamous before some of them were even born; suburbanites unfamiliar with downtown Detroit flocked to Kennedy Square to commiserate.

Even the president of the United States was compelled to make an official statement.

. A columnist would be remiss to ignore such an outpouring of emotion. So I investigated.

For days I read and listened about and to this global strolling minstrel whom a hefty portion of the world obviously idolized.

I FOUND this rather pleasant person who possessed a somewhat above average talent to write a catchy tune and was intelligent enough to capitalize on this modest gift. He loved his child and adored his wife.

Those who worship him as the guru of the '60s are mistaken. They do him an injustice.

Rather, he was a product of his time. To some degree he was the epitome of the middle class dream.

Like many his age, he enjoyed music, smoked a little pot, experimented in trendy philosophies and enjoyed the hell out of making millions of bucks. No apologies needed.

Toward the end of his life, as reflected in the now famous Playboy interview, he had surmounted the dangers accompanying fame, fan adulation and wealth which had destroyed so many of his musical contemporaries.

He had reached a state of maturity which many of us never attain.

Therein rests the true quality that was John Lennon and the real tragedy of his death.

"The people who are hung up on the Beatles' and the '60s' dream missed the whole point when the Beatles' and the '60s' dream became the point . . . It's not living now. It's an illusion," he said.

Ironically, many of his followers clutch the illusion, forsaking their reluctant master's word.

IN SOME WAYS it was the illusion which killed John Lennon. It was the naive belief that if we all closed our eyes and wished hard enough, we could be the forever youthful Peter Pans and we could five in a world devoid of violence and deprivation. But we do live in a violent world, and no amount f singing and getting high will wish it away. Change takes involvement, a commitment to now and the future - not yesterday. For John Lennon and thousands of others who die violently each year that change came too late, denied by those who would rather live an illusion.

OU board hires prexy under cloud

It is too bad for Joseph Champagne that the Oakland University Board of Trustees elected to bring him in as president under a cloud.

The OU board has played Hide-and-Sneak for a year as it winnowed its choices for president from nearly 300 to one, Champagne, a vice-president of the University of Houston.

The board's grotesque efforts to get around the state Open Meetings Act have been pieced together by the Oakland Sail, the college paper; the state Attorney General's office, and our own staff.

OBSESSED BY a desire for secrecy, the OU board:

 Allegedly split into two committees with less than a quorum each to conduct rotating interviews with presidential candidates.

 Interviewed all candidates behind closed doors.

 Continued and defended its actions when counseled by the Attorney General's office that it wasn't nice. The Open Meetings Act was constructed, not to be punitive toward public officials, but to achieve compliance with public policy - namely, that public policy shall be made in public.

 Conducted its Hide-and-Sneak interviews in a hotel at Detroit Metropolitan Airport, which is located in Romulus, more than 40 miles from the OU campus near Rochester. This made it costly and difficult for the public to nose around, though the Sail, to its credit, stalked the OU board members in the hotel corridors.

Waited until the final exam period to unveil its choice, a timing that assured minimal audience comment and questioning from students, faculty and the public. The Sail, again to its credit, went through the expense and hassle of putting out a special edition.

The OU trustees deserve mention by name: Richard Headlee of Farmington Hills, chairman; Ken Morris of Madison Heights, vice chairman; Arthur Saltzman of Franklin; Alex Mair of Bloomfield Hills; David Lewis of Detroit, chairman of the presidential selection committee (which happens to include all eight trustees); Patricia Hartmann of Birmingham, Marvin Katke of Bloomfield Hills, and David Handleman of Clawson.

THE BOARD'S alibi was stated by Laszlo Hentenyi, executive secretary of the selection committee: "Every single step was taken on the advice of counsel.

Many acts require translation into plain English by a Philadelphia lawyer, but not the Open Meetings Act. The beauty of the Open Meetings Act is that it is so plainly worded that it can be understood by any literate person.

Judge for yourself:

"A public body may meet in closed session only for the following purposes. . .(f) to review the specific contents of an application for employment or appointment to a public office when the candidate requests that the application remain confidential. However, all interviews by a public body for employment or appointment to a public office shall be held in an open meeting pursuant to this act.

A NICE QUESTION occurs as to whether all the candidates requested secret reviews. The law gives the candidate — not the OU board — the option of a asking a secret review

Under the law of averages, many candidates don't object to public interviews. If we are told that all candidates requested secrecy, however, we must suspect that the board told them to make such a request.

At this writing, the OU board is being prosecuted. Win or lose, the board in time will no doubt inaugurate Joseph Champagne as president.

If so, Champagne will take office under a cloud. We won't know what criteria the board really used in picking him, as distinguished from the academic jargon in its stated criteria. The public won't know the true vote of the board, as distinguished from the rehearsed vote.

And the public will never be able to understand the OU board's obsession with secrecy.

The old gent dropped the paper he had been reading while waiting his turn in the barber's chair and rather disgustingly remarked, "I don't know what the world is coming to, but I have just read a piece here that would shock most anybody."

Without waiting to be asked what was so shocking, he called attention to the story reporting that Steve Kemp, the Tiger outfielder, was asking for a four-year contract at the rate of $500,000 a year.

"Just imagine that," the old gent went on. "That's at the rate of $2 million - and I don't think any ballplayer is worth that much, I don't care how good he is."

Well, it doesn't take much to start a conversation in a barbershop, so the discussion turned to the salaries and purses being asked by the athletes in other sports.

Yule tip: Move close, get down

The holiday season is upon us, and what better opportunity is there for recording happy memorable moments with your camera?

Make sure you've got plenty of film, fresh batteries for your camera and flash and get yourself in gear for some delightful picture taking opportunities.

Let's start with the kids, for they are certainly on center stage at holiday time. Children and Christmas go hand in hand, and no better chance exists for capturing their expressions of joy and excitement as holiday activites unfold.

The best time to snap the kids is on Christmas morning as they unwrap their presents under the tree. By moving in close and getting down on their level you will capture joyful expressions. The expressions will be natural, too, because in all the excitement the kids won't even know you're there.

DON'T OVERLOOK the rest of the family.

Group shots are important at Christmas. Getting everyone to relax is important and you can best do this by having everyone sit down in an informal pose rather than having all members of the family stand.

Just as with children, get the camera angle down to the level of the group for an more natural, flattering shot.

Tuckered out after opening Christmas presents, little Chris King is a quiet model for a photo by available light. Marianne Letasi moved in close, mood but not enough to distract.

The family dinner provides good picture taking opportunities, too. After a couple of overall shots of the table, zero in on some particular activty such as the carving of the turkey or Junior's subsequent attempt to devour the drumstick.

There are some tips that will help you get better pictures at holiday time:

As always, try to single out a subject and express a main idea by moving in close. This will add the necessary impact to your photo.

Watch your backgrounds in the viewfinder, and try to eliminate distracting objects.

Because you'll be shooting mainly indoor pictures, watch your camera angle so that glare from windows, mirrors and glass-protected art work will not be reflected into your camera and spoil a good shot.

Keep your eyes open for details to shoot that will add interest and excitement to your Christmas photos. Closeups of tree ornaments and lights, your child's colorfully filled Christmas stocking, or a beautifully wrapped and adorned present will give your holiday picutures an added touch.

USE THE PROPER film. When using your flash, daylight balanced film is in order. If shooting under indoor light, you'll need tungsten-balanced film or the proper conversion filter.

Because Chiristmas is a family affair, be sure to get yourself in some of the shots. This is easily done by using your camera's self-timer and a tripod. If you don't have a tripod, a steady table will do.

It's the perfect time to send the FTD

Judge criticizes civil service for county appointment

BY TOM LONERGAN

Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Charles E. Kaufman last week overturned the appointment of former Wayne County Civil Service Commissioner Joan Petitpren, of Westland, to a $42,000 Wayne County Road Commission job.

Kaufman ruled Thursday that the three-member Civil Service Commission lacked authority to make a provisional appointment to the post because no emergency existed. Kaufman didn't rule on the hot political question of the propriety of her voting to create a job she later was appointed to.

The Civil Service Commission, Kaufman said, "failed in its responsibility to do what the (state) statute mandated" in approving Mrs. Petitpren's appointment to the newly created Road Commission post of assistant director for personnel services. She started the job in early October shortly after her resignation from the Civil Service Commission. Kaufman ruled that Mrs. Petitpren be removed from the job, an action which will take effect once the judge signs an order.

MRS. PETITPREN said Thursday she was "shocked" by the judge's ruling.

Asked if she would appeal the decision, she said, "I have no idea where we go procedurally from this point." She planed to meet with her attorney, James Steffen, of Westland.

Her "provisional" appointment to the personnel job was approved Sept. 11 by the other two part-time civil service commissioners, Henry Kozak and Henry Majors. Mrs. Petitpren abstained from that vote but voted to create the job in July. Kaufman ruled, in a suit brought by Wayne County Commissioners George Killeen, D-Grosse Pointe, and Rosemary Robinson, D-Detroit, that provisional appointments can be made by the Civil Service Commission only to prevent stoppage of work,or in an emergency. The Road Commission, in presenting the Petitpren appointment for approval, said "nothing about anemergency.or meeting any extraordinary conditions," Kaufman said. "It was just a requisition for personnel, signed by the deputy managing director (Joseph Hartmann)," he added.

The judge said the civil service commission didn't seek any evidence that the provisional appointment of Petitpren was necessary.

REFERRING TO Petitpren, the judge said she "could well be the most qualified person (for the job). But this does not absolve the Civil Service Commission from exercising what discretion the statute imposed upon it. This approval is not rubber stamp approval."

Ms. Robinson, who acted as Killeen's attorney in the case, said the Civil Service Commission had neither posted the Road Commission personnel job nor determined any qualifications for it.

Referring to county clerical jobs, she said, "People are excluded from examinations based on qualifications, but by a flick of the wrist, in five seconds, we can create a $42,000 job with no qualifications.

"Is a name sufficient to establish qualifications for a $42,000 job in this county? I think not.

"The appointing authority (in this case, the Road Commission) is not the ty," Ms. Robinson said. "It's the Civil final word on employment in the coun-" Service Commission."

Christmas tree sales up by 10% this year

The old-fashioned live Christmas tree that was shunted aside several years ago by the metalic tree that was to last a life time is now making a comeback.

A survey among the dealers in the Plymouth area reveals that the sale of live trees has increased about 10 percent over last year and that many of them expect to be sold out earlier than ever.

"I only brought 800 trees with me from my farm in Cadillac," Preston the demand this year.

Wells explained at his lot at the intersection of Haggerty and Ann Arbor Road. "I thought that 800 was about all the economy could stand. Now I find out that there is a heavier demand. I just made a mistake in judgment."

This optimism also was rampant at the Roadside Market on Joy Road near Main Street in Canton.

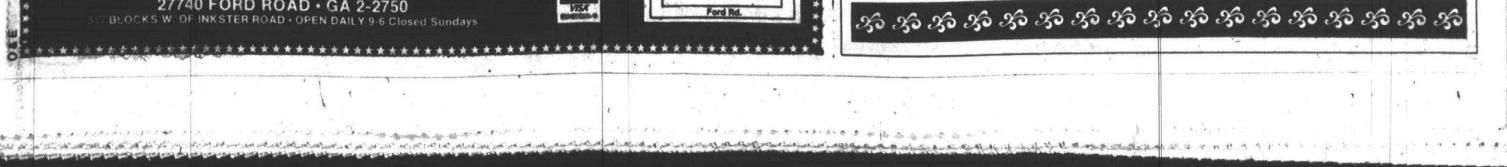

"We have about 1,800 saleable trees on the line," the manager stated, "and we expect to sell out early because of the demand this year."

Margaret Stremich feted at BPW Christmas party

The Plymouth Business and Professional Women's Christmas meeting held several surprises. The first was the location of their meeting.

Members headed for their usual spot - the Jacob Room of the Hillside Inn. They were directed to the main dining room with the pre-arranged excuse that there was going to be such a large turnout, they needed a larger room.

 At the end of the pre-dinner cocktail session, BPW president, Janet Richwine, called Betty Stremich to the microphone. Miss Stremich is general manager of Hillside Inn which was founded by her aunt and uncle. Margaret and Jacob Stremich, in the Jake Strang farmhouse. Margaret was Jake Strang's daughter.

The purpose of the move to the main dining room soon became evident as Betty Stremich explained the inn's background and then announced that the dining room, from now on, would be the Margaret Strang Room. Two new signs, tied with red ribbons, were presented to Mrs. Stremich.

The announcement had been timed for the Christmas party because Mrs. Stremich is a longtime BPW member and her old friends were there to share the surprise.

messages from the winners of BPW scholarships and some group caroling, Millie Blackford presented a Christmas program. Mrs. Blackford narrated the story of Christmas in many lands as members of the club, dressed in native dress of each country, wished the audience a Merry Christmas in each language.

Connie Fitzner, in an embroidered dirndl skirt and blouse, represented Germany, Pearl Santillan, a new member of the club, wore a white satin gown with high sleeves spangled with crystal bugle beads. Her country was the Philippines where the Christmas season extends from Dec. 15 to Jan. 5. Mrs. Blackford told about the homemade lanterns in the windows the foods and candies.

"Even the poorest family in Italy has a creche," said Mrs. Blackford as Grace Rix appeared Italian garb. She told of the shepherds coming down from the hills playing their bagpipes, and of the legend of the cleaning woman who rides through the skies on her broomstick.

IN GREECE, there are the round loaves of bread with scenes of life and singing Christmas carols.

FOLLOWING DINNER, Christmas St. Basil's Day, Jan. 1, when the bread is baked with a coin in the loaf.

Mary Jane Peck represented traditional United States as a colonial Christmas was described. Adina Rice represented Spain where the creche is the focal point of the celebration in every home, where the children put out their shoes filled with carrots, and hay and candles outline the rooftops. Barbara Harbin was in Dutch dress. Mrs. Blackford described the visit of St. Nicholas on Dec. 5, St. Nicholas Eve, the serenity of Christmas day with church services and the long, festive dinner tables.

Marian Kehrl, in colorful Mexican sombrero and dress, represented the "south of the border" country. The members heard about the pinatas, the Christmas Eve processions and how poinsettias, natives of Mexico, became a traditional Christmas plant. Sandra Davis was black America and Millie Blackford was China.

Elaine Love represented, Australia; Marcia Greeley, England; Maggie Chubb, Ireland; Joanne Delaney, Russia; and Janet Richwine, Poland.

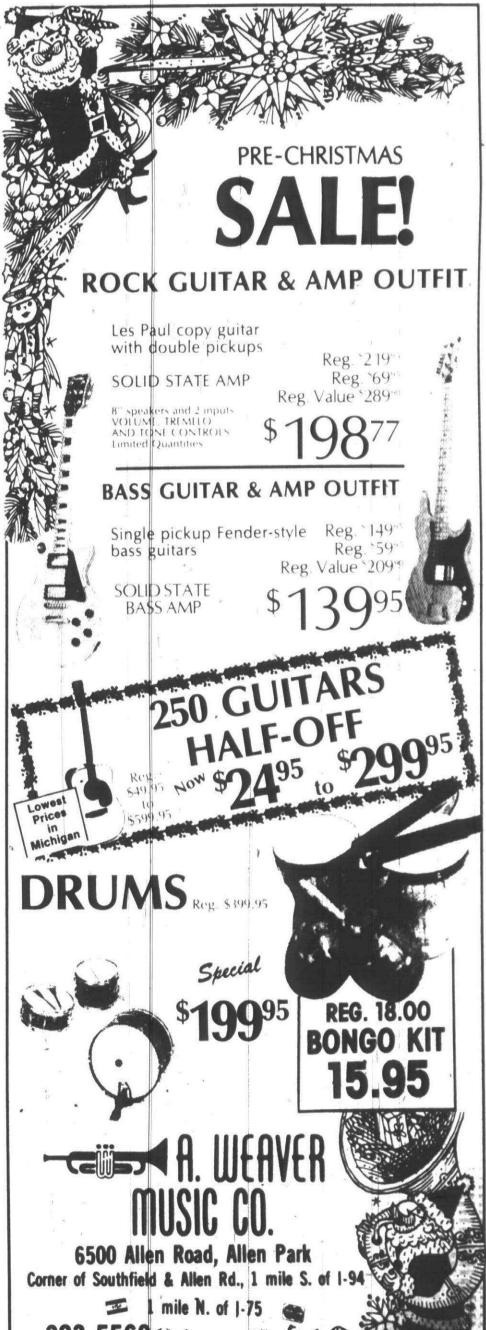

The evening ended with the distribution of gifts and everyone joining in

Kids get hit during holidays

By SHERRY KAHAN

"Around the holiday season, there is an increase in the severity of child abuse," said Dr. Charles Hostetler of the Children's Protective Service of Wayne County.

"There is an increase in the number of children placed in emergency shelters.

In his opinion, the worsening of the child abuse problem at a time when everything should be magical and festive is because of holiday anxieties.

"The holiday adds stress to people already under stress," he said.

"For an ADC mother struggling to pay the rent and support her family, the additional problems caused by Christmas may cause her to lose control. So it becomes the straw that breaks the camel's back."

He recalled a case concerning a mother who gave a plastic racetrack to her youngsters as his Yuletime treat.

"She used that very toy to beat him after Christman," reported Hostetler. "It left a distinct imprint on the child's back and arm. It was not permanent. The child was a victim of the mother's loss of control. The kid didn't obey an order quick enough."

Hostetler, who does intake work and screens child abuse cases coming to his agency, has seen more than enough injuries done to children to last a lifetime. He is painfully away that one of the most common ways to hurt a child is with a extension cord.

"SOME PEOPLE say it's just an ordinary punishment," he said. "But it leaves distinct marks. I've seen children with permanent scars from it. Belt whipping is common. But I didn't expect to see a kid deliberately whipped with a belt buckle."

are distinct. There is a line showing how far the body was immersed."

Hostetler stressed in an interview that abuse takes place among people in all walks of life and economic classes. In remarks made at a press conference last week in Detroit, he asked the public to call his agency to report observed cases of this abuse

The press conference was called by the Exchange Club of Detroit to annouce its adoption of the problem of child abuse and neglect as its national issue. It spokesman, Joe Neussendorfer, explained that various Exchange clubs around the country may soon set up local programs on child abuse similar to a successful one started in Little Rock, Ark. It is called SCAN (Suspected Child Abuse and Neglect).

One of the hallmarks of the SCAN project is the training of volunteers to work directly with abusive parents and their children, giving advice on parenting and serving as role models. SCAN also aims to educate parents on child development, and to refer them when necessary to community agencies for more intensive therapy.

OTHER OBJECTIVES of SCAN are to bring about the responsiveness of social institutions to the needs of abusive families, and to promote the development of Parents Anonymous, an organization which offers counseling to abusive parents.

The Exchange Club hopes to prevent abuse by supporting programs like these, said Neussendorfer. He said that six clubs in Michigan, including one in Muskegon have already indicated an interest in promoting the SCAN philosvices already in place in Detroit.

Ruth Baker of Children's Hospital suggested that the club provide financial backing for programs now in existence which are being forced to curtail their work in child abuse because of budget cuts.

Neussendorfer did not reveal what specific plans the Exchange Club of Detroit had in mind to meet its new commitment to improving the abuse situation.

A representative of Parents Anonymous, using only her first name, Connie, indicated to those present that there is enough room in the child abuse scene for many kinds of help.

"The people we counsel need a lot of support," she said, "all they can get."

She added: "Not every agency or organization is for every parent. Our parents are often isolated people with no friends. They don't feel they can go to their own family about their abuse problem. In many cases their own parents once abused them.

"We (in PA) give one-on-one counseling for two hours once a week. Why not have one-on-one in the home? The mother can be told what's normal in raising kids, that kids are often slow in going off to school, for example. She can also be told that it is OK to get angry if it's not directed at the children in the form of physical violence. Abuse is a parent losing control and not being able to handle it.

MANY PARENTS DON'T understand what having a baby means, she continued. "They need to know how to raise their kids," she said. "We regard neglect also as child abuse. Some parued. "Most of these immersion burns change program would duplicate ser-. make them feel good, or keep their marriage together. But babies don't respond right away. It is the child who needs the mother's love.

> "Our goal today is prevention. For that we need a lot of support."

Dick Padzieski, deputy chief of the criminal division of the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office, briefly explained the problem in a recent case in Detroit of serious abuse. No one in the family was charged.

"We have to have evidence as to who did it," he said in a pre-conference interview. "It is hard to prosecute when there is more than one adult in the house.

At the conference he added that "this does not mean the case is closed. Evidence could come in later that could result in a warrant."

HOFSTETLER TOLD conference participants that the best way to have child abuse recognized and acted upon is to report cases to the county Protective Services Agency. It then checks to see if the report can be substantiated.

(According to Len Cottrell of the state Children's Protective Services, there were 5,300 substantiated cases of child abuse in Wayne County in 1979. The number grew to 5,922 ccases in the first 11 months of 1980. This was a 17.7 percent increase over the first 11 months of the previous year.)

Hofstetler said his agency could investigate an abuse case only if it was reported by the child himself, a friend or a neighbor. Professionals such as doctors and nurses are mandated by law to report these cases.

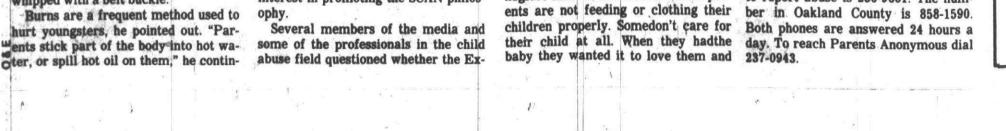

He told the press conference, "We need to hear from the public."

Canton churches offer physical, social support

The Plymouth Canton High School Chiefettes will appear in the Holiday Classic in Orlando, Fla. The top pom pon squad in the nation will be included in the pregame performance at the Tangerine Bowl, in the Disney World Parade, in a performance at Disney World and another at Circus World. The Chiefettes will conduct a clinic for Florida squads and will serve as hostesses for the Holiday Classic.

The girls will be in the Sunshine State from Dec. 18-23.

Congratulations to all the members of the squad and to their coach, Karen Tripp of Canton.

THERE HAVE been several promotions among Canton Township police staffers. Dennis Joker recently became a lieutenant. The five men promoted to corporal are Kurt Johnson. Robin Cripe, Jon Hanna, Roger Pearsall and Robert van Lith. These men prove their concern for the safety of our entire community every day. When you see one of them, tell him what a terrific job you think he is doing.

A COMMUNITY sing took place a few nights ago, and we should be very excited that it happened. Six Christian churches organized a way to celebrate the holiday season.

Pastor Kathy Bateel and Pastor Paul Hansen had the brainstorm earlier this year while working on another project. They proposed a Christmas caroling Square Shopping Center for some caroling then crossed the Sheldon to sing in the Kmart parking lot. They went back to St. Michael's for refreshments.

Their goal was to promote the spirit of Christmas among the holiday shoppers. The opportunity to get together was welcomed by all, and there is a high incentive to continue the ecumenical activities.

JUST TO ACQUAINT our readers with what is available to them in the way of physical and social support, I would like to mention a few things area places of worship have to offer.

St. Michael's is arranging Christmas stockings and gifts for residents of Whispering Willows Nursing Home. The church has a food pantry stocked with many staples including canned goods for local residents in need. There are several other yearly projects happening at this church that have been a benefit to our neighbors.

The Rev. Darryl Bell is in charge of needy families. If you would like to suggest someone in need, please call 455-7700. The Rev. Bell and some of his parishioners are planning discussion sessions geared for better communication between couples. There will be a nominal fee.

A men's fellowship group meets the first Sunday of each month in an area restaurant for a social hour before the day's services begin. Almost all activities are family-oriented for the Faith congregation.

THE REV. EDWARD J. Baldwin heads the St. John Neumann Catholic Church. There are 1,600 families associated with the parish.

Church-goers donate canned foodstuffs one Sunday each month that are turned over to the FISH, a worldwide community assistance organization.

Special Christmas project this year is a Jesse Tree to benefit the folks at St. Benedict the Moor Church in downtown Detroit. Twenty-nine families will be the benefactors of clothing, food and other items necessary just to survive. The tree is a "giving tree" from the parish to the hungry people on the other side of town.

As you can imagine, there are many group functions involving the great number of persons who attend this church

THE REV. GREG Gentry is pastor of Canton Calvary Church. An active women's ministry at the church provides fresh fruit twice each month to the residents of the Dion Nursing Home. They recently repaired the piano at Dion for further enjoyment of everyone in the home. Pastor Gentry said the community sing was exciting, because "it brings awareness to the entire community that even though there are faith differences, they all have so much in common."

The Rev. Ernest Porcari is anxiously awaiting the the building of St. Thomas a Becket Catholic Church. Parishioners have been meeting at Field Elementary School on Saturdays and Sundays. A monthly group guitar mass is held at Dion Nursing Home for the benefit of the residents unable to leave the home.

A St. Vincent de Paul Society is one of the continuous activities of this parish. The society provides clothing and necessary housing for persons involved in unfortunate situations. A "2-92 gift fund" is in existence at the church to donate everything from cosmetics to toys to area residents.

Beware of those poisonous Christmas plants

Many beautiful holiday plants are poisonous when ingested, says Robert Tucker, coordinator of drug and poison information at Providence Hospital in Southfield. Traditional holiday plants of this nature include the holly, mistletoe, poinsettia and the Jerusalem or Christmas cherry.

Tucker points out that holly is an evergreen plant with leaves that are dark green with coarse spiny teeth. The small flowers of this plant are replaced by bright, red berries. As the plant dries, the leaf and berry stalks become very brittle and shed freely. The toxic portions of the plant are the leaves and especially the berries. All species of this plant are poisonous. The symptoms associated with this type of poisoning are nausea, vomiting, diarrhea and mental confusion.

Ingestion of the red berries will produce severe gastrointestinal distress, while the leaves will cause neurological changes. Dehydration and electrolyte depletion can occur rapidly because of the intense vomiting that is experienced. It is imperative that the patient seek medical attention in the emergency room of the closest hospital

THE MISSLETOE PLANT noted, Tucker, is a woody evergreen shrub with a bushy growth pattern. The flowers are small and inconspicuous. The fruit is a small white berry which covers a short spike at the base of the leaf. The berries of the plant are highly toxic but other parts of the plant may be dangerous.

The major symptoms exhibited include nausea, vomiting, diarrhea and stomach and intestinal irritation. Other symptoms can be respiratory difficulties, bradycardia, convulsions, hallucinations, coma and possibly death.

The ingestion of one or two berries is sufficient to cause significant toxicity. Eating any portion of the mistletoe especially the berries requires immediate medical treatment and the person should be brought to the nearest emergency room.

The most common of all the Christmas plants and one with a poisonous reputation is the poinsettia plant. This reputation is not justified. The traditional house plant is a hybrid and has not been associated with any reports of fatalities in this country. However, symptoms which can occur from ingestion of this plant include abdominal pain, diarrhea and intense vomiting.

If a portion of the plant is chewed, irritation of the mucous membranes may lead to swelling of the mout and throat. A generalized dermatitis can occur if the milky say comes in contact with the skin. Temporary blindness can also occur if the sap is rubbed into the eves

First Baptist play deals with love within a family

An old-fashioned Christmas will be re-enacted before members of the First Baptist Church of Livonia when the curtain goes up at 6 p.m. Sunday on a play at the church at 17725 Inkster.

Cast members will be dressed in the costumes of 100 years ago, with women and girls wearing long dresses, and the men sporting such useful items as flannel shirts and suspenders. Inside the stage log cabin will be some of those comforting props of a long-gone era, an old lantern, candles, and a fireplace.

The audience for the two-act play will see a family in good times and bad.

"The cornerstone of the family is love of God," explained Pat Nunneley of Garden City, who is directing the performance. "They celebrate Christmas as it has always been celebrated by lighting candles.

"This indicates love in their hearts for Jesus, and that the love is passed down to the next generation.

In this house on the prairie, the family members love each other and care for each other, she said. They don't have much. In fact, they don't even have a Christmas tree. But the son Andy (played by Andy Rackov) understands the problem of not having eyerything you want. He says, "But Jesus didn't have a sled, did he?'

One of the bad times happens just before Christmas when Caroline, the daughter of the family, played by Melissa Kelly, develops a serious fever.

Reading a book to members of the family will be one of the old fashioned activities that will be protrayed in a play called "A Long Ago Christmas" which will be given at 6 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 21 in the First Baptist Church of Livonia. Here Grandpa (Walter Joslin) reads to Grandma (Myrtle Joslin) and their granddaughter (Melissa Kelly). (Staff photo by Bill Bresler)

Respect allows for differences

The long season of political campaigning created a bad habit. We acted as if denouncing someone was the most important thing we could do.

Now a shopping season with music and decorations surrounding us creates a better habit. We seek tangible gifts to show we care.

The old plea about keeping the holiday spirit all year long can be restated. Holiday sentiments become tough-minded convictions which are morally solid.

We fought for divisive principles in politics. Some wag has said, "We would rather fight for our principles than live by them."

symbolize divine presence as a light enabling humans to see truth. The truth is that families stay together only by respect in a context of differences. The morality deep in our December holidays is respecting others exactly where they seem to us to be most wrong.

OUR OLD HABIT was to view our principles as absolute truth. Denouncing those who disagree is a plitical game, not a moral act.

Not a single one of our favorite controversial issues will be settled by denouncing. We need the will to seek solutions for problem pregnancies, the welfare system, excessive government regulation, inflation devaluing financial resources, waste, unemployment, and international tensions.

The will to change a habit is a decision and the way to do so is self discipline. It is in our self interest to insist on goals so large that solving my concern will at the same time solve the problem of someone with whom I disagree. Holiday sentiment is kindness without concern to agree with each other. Holiday morality is transforming these feelings into the will to respect others. The words of our principles must either be big enough to be inclusive or be snowed under by the willpower in our deeds of sharing.

We can both fight for and live by holiday principles, which are inclusive. Each faith group encourages devotees to act on ideas of peace and justice in actual deeds of kindness.

CHANGING A HABIT requires a decision. New intentions become new willpower. Holidays invite us to decide we have the will to act as if humanity is one family.

Lights on Christmas trees and menorahs

The holiday spirit is to affirm others. Next comes the old truism, "Where there's a will, there's a way."

The way to respect and affirming is to turn our backs on the old habit of blaming someone as if blame could solve a problem.

Church offers parenting class

Raising a child can be upsetting, infuriating and perplexing. But in order to help parents acquire skills to deal with the situation, the Christian education committee of Christ the King Lutheran Church, 9300 Farmington Road, Livonia, will offer a course on parent effectiveness.

The crippled shepherd boy, Amahl, will meet his night visitors this year in St. Paul Presbyterian Church, Five Mile and Inkster, Livonia. The famous musical drama called "Amahl and the Night Visitors" will be presented at 6:30 and 8 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 21.

The production will be staged by members of the church's Chancel and Senior High choirs. It was performed earlier at the church for 2,000 children from public and parochial schools in Livonia, Redford Township, Garden City and Plymouth.

The opera features 11-year-old Scott Stirling as Amahl, with Judie Gordon as his widowed mother. The three special visitors who come to the humble shepherd's cottage are played by Jim Aittama, Tilman Dozier and Jeff Jones. Performing as the kings' page is Don Stromberg, who played Amahl five years ago.

Plymouth Canton cagers escape with road victory

By SCOTT ADLER

Third-year Plymouth Canton basketball coach Craig Bell has visited Redford Thurston twice and has escaped both times with narrow wins.

In 1978, Bell's first season, it took two overtimes to secure a victory. Tuesday night the Chiefs eked out another one, 53-51, holding off a furious Thurston rally late in the fourth quarter.

Billy Childs stepped to the freethrow line with 38 seconds left and Canton ahead, 49-47, and calmly sank a pair of free throws to seemingly put the game away. Thurston's Andy Ramos, however, hit a jumper eight seconds later to pull the Eagles to within two, 51-49, but once again Childs was fouled.

He converted both ends of the one-on-one and Canton seemed to have a lock on the game with just 26 seconds left.

But this time it was Rich Rudd who hit the clutch shot to close the gap to two with 14 seconds remaining. Dave Malek then missed the front end of a one-on-one for Canton. Thurston's Bob Simon followed by missing a"17-foot jump shot with only three seconds left to end the Eagles' comeback hopes.

"I told you it was going to be a toughie," said a relieved Bell. "It was a fine win for us tonight. It was a tight ballgame and we held on.

"This one is going to help us down the road with our maturity. I told the kids we're going to be in some tight ballgames and we have to be ready for that."

Thurston coach Gary Fralick didn't think his team was ready to play at the start of the game, but was happy with the way his club finished despite the outcome.

"I'm real proud of the way our kids came back," Fralick said. "We played good, hustling defense in the final quarter, but we didn't come ready to play for the first three quarters.

"I can't take anything away from Canton, though.- They are a good ballclub.

The Eagles held Canton scoreless for the first three minutes of the game and led 7-2 before the Chiefs made a charge and scored 10 straight points to go up, 12-7.

CANTON SLOWLY began to build up a lead that reached eight at intermission, 27-19, on the strong inside play of Sean Houle, who poured in 11 second-quarter points.

The Chiefs' advantage reached 12, 33-21, with 5:30 left in the third quarter when Thurston began to make its charge.

The Eagles scored eight straight points to end the quarter and close the gap to 35-29.

Brad Emons editor / 59

Both teams exchanged baskets for the first five minutes of the quarter and Canton led by as many as seven points, '48-41, with less than two minutes remaining to set up the furious Thurston rally

Houle dominated the game at both ends for Canton as he led all scorers with 21 points and hauled down 14 rebounds.

Bell has been very pleased with Houle's fine aggressive play, but is quick to point out that he has a fine supporting cast that recognize their roles well.

"We try to work the ball to Sean and we have people who can do that The team is starting to mature quickly.

Rock matmen trip 2 non-league clubs

After losing a dual meet to Tren- time around." ton last week, Plymouth Salem Krueger was particularly pleased with 'freshman Jay Roberts, who won both his matches at 145 pounds. Other double winners included Billy Ward (126) with two pins, heavyweight Marty Piper (two pins), Scott Wickens (198), Steve Szilagyi (167).

Tonight's meet promises to be highly placed 10th overall with 10 points.

Canton and Salem may see more than enough of each other in the next three days.

The teams will square off against each other beginning at 7 p.m. Thursday at Canton's pool in a dual meet.

On Saturday, Canton and Salem will be among six teams competing for honors in the Plymouth-Canton Rotary Swim Invitational. That meet starts at 1:30 p.m. at Salem.

It took six years before the two rivals met in a dual meet. Salem won the initial meeting last spring.

The Rocks again are favored to splash Canton, but Saturday's meet is wide open, Salem coach Chuck Olson said.

"It was kind of a surprise when we won it last year," he said. "This year I think Brighton will be the favorite."

Other teams vying for first-place honors include Northville, Livonia Franklin and Westland John Glenn.

spirited.

"I'm looking forward to it," Olson said. "I think it'll be a lot of fun for both schools. I know the guys are really looking forward to it."

Canton first-year coach Bill McCord is also anxious to meet the Rocks.

"We're going to go for it," McCord said. "Salem has a fine team. It's going to be an interesting meet in our pool." Both teams have led a kamikaze-like schedule. Salem and Canton rode together in the bus to compete in last Saturday's 12-team West Bloomfield Relays. Both squads competed in dual meets Tuesday.

SALEM FINISHED a surprising second to Suburban Eight League foe Trenton, which totaled 84 first-place points.

The Rocks scored 60. Canton, meanwhile, had a off day, McCord said, and "I was not too surprised Trenton won," Olson said. "They always do well there.

"Our kids swim well and we had no disqualifications. We had some good anchor legs on some of our relays."

The Salem foursome of Jim Kindree, Tim Harwood, John Thompson and Doug Kleinsmith grabbed first in the 400-yard freestyle relay with a time of 3:37.51, edging Livonia Stevenson.

The Rocks also took second in the 200 breaststroke relay with a time of 2:07.29. That team consisted of Ashley Long, Erik Kleinsmith, Brian McAninch and Gary Workman.

In diving, Joe Rudelic and Todd Riedel combined for 195.20 points, good enough for second spot.

Bruce Harwood, Tim Harwood, Doug Kleinsmith and Russ Shaffer combined to place second in the 400 IM relay with a clocking of 4:05.91.

wrestling coach Ron Krueger predicted his team would be "more prepared" for their next encounter.

Beset by injuries and inexperience, Krueger's matmen proved a point Tuesday night as they whipped Dearborn Heights Annapolis, 36-25, and North Farmington, 45-21.

Salem is now 5-1 overall in dual meets.

"The youngs kids came through and did a nice job," said Krueger. "A lot of them were wrestling up a weight. We were more ready this Salem trailed early against Annapolis, but came back when Adam Golchuck (185) came through with a pin in 21 seconds to stake the Rocks to a 27-25 lead.

Plymouth Salem's Suburban Eight League basketball fortunes have taken a turn for the better.

The Rocks now sport a 2-0 league mark with both wins coming on the road.

Seeking their eighth straight title, the Rocks latest road triumph, 63-51, came at an old haunt Tuesday - Belleville. Coach Fred Thomann's quintet won at Livonia Bentley last Friday 45-40.

Salem, which usually has its problems on the Tigers' home floor, jumped on the hosts early and coasted the rest of the way.

Senior center Paul Horton, a pencilthin 6-foot-9 center, provided the major impetus for the Rocks.

He scored eight points, but more importantly blocked six shots and hauled in 10 rebounds.

Junior forward Scott Bublin of Salem led all scorers with 16 points, despite sitting out much of the second quarter because of foul trouble.

Mike Sharp, a 6-foot-3 senior guard, came through some solid outside shooting. He finished with 13 points and six assists.

"Horton did a nice job," Thomann said. "He was extra special for us tonight because our other center, Norm Haygood, was sick and couldn't make the trip.'

The Rocks handled Belleville's pressure with ease in the first half. Sharp's basket with 6:40 to go gave the Rocks a 21-3 advantage.

> Belleville came back at the end of the half, 23-17, but could not narrow the gap any further in the final two periods

"Plymouth Salem played an excellent game and gave us a lesson in shooting," said Tom Niemi, the Tigers' veteran coach. "Fred's team was well prepared and this was our worst game of the year.

We were rushing and not getting our normal shots."

Canton center Steve Tuttle seems to have a handle on this loose ball

It seems boxing has become even more controversial since the last Sugar Ray Leonard-Roberto Duran fight.

Saturday night was no exception as the Livonia Boxing Club, in conjunction with sponsor Action Distributing, held a 16-bout amateur card at the Livonia Family YMCA before 1,031 paying customers.

By SCOTT ADLER

"It was the worst night the Livonia Boxing Club has ever had," said coach Paul Soucy. "We usually win at least 50 or 60 percent of the fights, and I was dissappointed in the officiating, too."

Despite Soucy's disenchantment with Daryl Grace, a 147-pound welterweight, won on a unanimous decision over Mike Carr of Sarnia, Ontario. Another unanimous decision was scored by Livonia heavyweight Craig Payne, who pounded Dwayne Sanford. Brett Lally, a Westland native who boxes for Soucy, won his match by default. He recently won the 1980 Detroit Golden Gloves Novice title.

Lally's brother, Bradd, lost a controversial split decision at 156 pounds to Duan McKissic.

Livonia's Vince Hopper and Rick Londberg, both 175-pound light heavweights, won tightly contested bouts by split decisions.

Londberg's victory was particularly impressive. He beat Jeff Curry, the eighth-ranked national amateur light heavyweight of Spiritual Israel Gym. Despite the loss, Curry garnered the "Joe Louis Outstanding Boxer Award."

IN THE FIRST bout of the evening, Redford's Mike Maddix, a 75-pounder, won by unanimous decision over Tim Matthews of Crowell.

Gilbert Alvarez, of Garden City-Westland, beat Livonia's Bill Christensen by a unanimous decision in a lightweight bout.

Temple, Churchill score victories

The Patriots of Redford Temple Christian aren't winning basketball games by as many points this season as they did last, but they're still winning.

Temple edged Oakland Christian 62-56 Tuesday in a non-conference test.

The Patriots, now with a 4-0 record this season, have won 11 games in succession dating back to the 1979-80 campaign.

The last team to defeat Temple - Taylor Baptist Park - will visit at 6:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Kernie Gilliam, point guard for the Patriots, scored 18 points against Oakland Christian. Ralph Dunigan netted 15 points and hauled down 12 rebounds, Doug Martin scored 12 points and Tim Moorer 10.

Oakland led 16-10 after the first quarter, but Temple pulled away by out-pointing its host 38-22 during the two middle periods. Last weekend, the Patriots won the Hammond (Ind.) Baptist Christmas Invitational for the third year in a row in the championship game. Gilliam stole the ball and made good on a layup with two minutes remaining

Gilliam and Martin each netted 12 points in that game, Dunigan 11. Temple routed Rochester (Mich.)

GC EAST-WOODHAVEN

First-year coach Rick Brewis and his Garden City East Panthers won their initial game of the season, turning back Woodhaven 52-45 in a non-league encounter.

East built a big lead through the first three periods, 43-30, then held off its guest during the final eight minutes.

Bob Kosowski led the Panthers with 14 points. Mike Varana contributed 12 points, Ed Kulik 11 and Roger Ferguson nine. Ferguson also nabbed 10 rebounds.

"We played together as a team and the team really came fired up to play basketball," Brewis said. "We fast-broke early in the game and got quite a few points off that and I think we wore them down." East also triumphed in the JV

ABC suspects lanes

If ever there was any doubt about the ability of the women bowlers in the Detroit area compared with those from other sections of the country, it disappeared Monday night at Luxury Lanes.

When the firing ceased in the weekly session of the Bowlerettes league, Penny Behn and her Bonanza team had caused a shuffling of the national standings.

On the way to a 3063 series that is fourth high in the nation, the team rolled a single game of 1115 that is in second place only 30 pins behind the Trailway team of Hollywood, Fla. that fired an 1146 early in the season

Aside from the shuffling caused by Penny and her mates on the Bonanza team, Ruby Williamson of the Bowlerettes is in 10th place in the individual game list with her 299 and and in seventh place in the national series standings with 780.

MARGE WUERTH, long a member of the all-star leagues, earned membership in the 700 club this week when she posted a 735 series in the ladies classic at Garden Lanes. She put together games of 279. 233 and 223 for the second highest series rolled here this season.

FOUR NEW male members were admitted to the 700 club in the past few days and two of them are members of the classic at Westland Bowl. The first of these was Randy Pierce with a 740 on games of 256,226 and 258.

The other honoree was Ken Kossick who opened with 237, added a 232 and closed with 246 for 725

On the women's side of the classic Cindy Edwards was high with 615.

THER 700 series came from an unexpected source when Jim Strange, bowling in the senior house league at Woodland Lanes, used a 267 middle game to reach 705 and gain a place among the elite in the area. Tom Bowen missed breaking the 700 barrier by nine pins in the men's trio when he unloaded a 246 game in a 681 series.

MICKEY O'BRIEN earned a place on the honor roll at Merri Bowl and, like most of his companions who toppled the impossible 4-6-7-10 split, he doesn't know how he did it. But it happened in the Merry Makers league and there was a lot of merry making at the finish.

Other good performances at Merri-Bowl were recorded by Rod Duiman who had a 638 in the junior house league and June Duck who had a 646 that included a 245 opener in the invitational doubles.

THERE WAS an unusual finish in the ladies classic at Livonia Lanes when Betty Humm and Joan Lewis wound up in a tie fpr top honors with 649. Betty won the first game with 215-229-234 and Joan won the final with 208-235-243. The other game went to Dot Fulton with 218-235-253.

DOUBLE CENTURY figures were common at Garden Lanes during the week. Paul Thomas was the leader when he paced the Moose league with 644. David Bazner showed the way in the St. Linus men's league with 636 and Doug Hirdela topped the Wayne County loop with 626 and Bill Roxen used a 274 game for a 713 in the St. Linus mixed loop. Bill Roe used a 274 game to post his 713 series to join the other barrier breakers.

BILL WEED had a big week at Farmington Lanes. He paced the Monday men's circuit with a 235 in 648 and then came back to show the way in the mixed classic with a 672. Despite his big count in the Monday loop he had only a four-pin edge over Ron Sexto who posted a 258 in 644

Ladywood, Salem close fast

Livonia Ladywood and Plymouth Salem top this year's final girls' basketball rankings as selected by the Observer Wayne County sports staff.

Ladywood, coached by Ed Kavanaugh, topped the Class B-C-D poll all season long and reached the Class B state final Saturday night at MSU's Jenison Fieldhouse before losing to Flint Beecher.

The Blazers won their division title and lost in the Catholic League final to Harper Woods Regina.

Leslie Nadeau, a 5-foot-9 senior forward, was a big part of Ladywood's success. She got plenty of help, however, up front from 5-10 forward Ronna Greenberg, who will be back next year. Plymouth Salem was a cinderella story in 1980.

Art sale to benefit cultural center

By SANDRA ARMBRUSTER

If you buy one of 40 Edna Hibel lithographs being sold Saturday by the Wayne-Westland Arts Association, you could be investing in a bit of history.

Proceeds from the sale will be used to restore the Rowe House, a Greek Revival structure estimated to be more than 100 years old.

Edna Hibel is a world-renowned American artist, who has a museum dedicated entirely to her work. Her lithographs, all signed and numbered, were donated by an anonymous, private collector for the fund-raising effort. The lithographs are described as being impressionistic and done in multiple pastel colors.

Refreshments will be served during the sale from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Bailey Center in Westland. The center is located behind City Hall, on Ford Road two miles east of I-275 between Wayne and Newburgh. Prices of the lithographs will

"But if you have a dream and see it come forth, that gives an extra push," she added.

Mrs. Blom said she hopes the community involvement will increase as the association plans a series of fund-raising events throughout the coming year. In January a bumper-sticker promotion and raffle are being planned. Then in February, the association is organizing a workshop on the efforts to renovate the house.

OTHER ACTIVITIES being planned include a 10,000-meter Rowe House Run for late March or early April, a spring gala in May to coincide with Historic Preservation Week, and an art auction that will include an exhibition, music ensemble and slide presentation.

ORIGINALLY LOCATED in Canton Township on Ford Road, the Rowe House was moved by the arts association to its present location on Marquette, south of Ford and west of Wayne roads, in Westland.

Now resting in two sections on the site, the second story of the home is expected to be placed back on top of the first story this Saturday. Eventually the association, which includes members from Ann Arbor, Plymouth, Livonia and Dearborn, hopes to restore the home as a cultural center for the city.

Once the second story is put back in place, the house, named for the first family to live there, will be winterized and secured until funds are raised for the restoration effort. In the meantime, association president Linda Blom says the art sale is a way of "bringing arts to the community and trying to get them involved."

Board meetings, which are open to the public, are on the first Thursday of the month. Arts and crafts programs are on the third Thursday and visual arts programs are on the fourth Thursday of each month.

The group also sponsors "paintwith-a-friend" meetings at 7 p.m. Tuesdays and at 9 a.m. Thursdays.

"Painters and craftsmen work together during these meetings," Mrs. Blom said. "It's a chance for them to communicate with other members in the association."

Mrs. Blom said the arts association, which includes all of the fine arts, plans to make people "very aware" of its existence.

"These are things they can get involved in," she said. "Hopefully they'll learn that it doesn't take a lot of money to enjoy and appreciate art."

Veteran songwriter's record may climb on charts

By CATHIE BREIDENBACH

Jose Riojas of Southfield is more than a singer of other people's songs. For nearly 20 years he's been writing and arranging his own material, playing guitar and base, and performing in the Detroit area.

Now he's recorded a love song, "Oh Lovely Lady," which Cashbox magazine picked as the record of the month to watch.

Cashbox not only interprets music trends, but has the power and prestige play that song on the air.

That's what's happening to Jose's mellow, country love song. Jose and his manager, Bob Harris, hope that "Oh Lovely Lady" from the soon-to-be-released album "A Brighter Side of Blue" will rise to the top of the charts.

When Jose was 18 and new in the business, he took his first songs to MGM Records in New York. "The songs are good," he was told, to shape them. When Cashbox says a "but we can't record them with you as record is good, disc jockeys around the the artist." Jose was talented but an country set their turntables spinning to unknown from Southfield who wanted to record his own songs. Because record companies don't make money with inexperienced performers, Jose came home to Detroit to learn more about the entertainment business.

> Now he's a seasoned performer. For nearly 20 years he's been a song writer and entertainer. The Red Cedars Restaurant in Southfield is his home base and he plans to return there in the new year.

Around the Detroit area he's played the Playboy Club, the Roostertail, the Holiday Inn, the Raleigh House, and done concerts in Kennedy Square.

In his act he does a variety of music including Kenny Rogers country songs, Neil Diamond hits, his own material and a guitar solo of the soulful Malaguena. He toured with the Grand Ole Opry and performed in the Middle East with the Goodwill Ambassadors for the U.S.

Country music is big now and "Oh He hopes that "Oh Lovely Lady" will Lovely Lady," recorded in Nashville with steel guitar backup, has a soft country sound. The voice is right. The sound is right, and the lyrics of Jose Riojas love song are strong. No wonder Cashbox is betting that "Oh Lovely Lady" will move.

"The Story of Mankind" (1957), 3 p.m. Thursday on Ch. 9. Originally 100 minutes.

Watch your favorite movie stars grow old before your very eyes. Ronald Colman at 66, Hedy Lamarr, 46, Francis X. Bushman, 74, and Chico and Groucho Marx, 71 and 67, respectively, dot the cast of a picture that never should have been made. One of the worst films of all time. Rating: 12 zlotys.

"Bus Stop" (1956), 1 p.m. Friday on Ch. 50. Originally 96 minutes.

Unfortunately, Marilyn Monroe is probably best remembered as the original durnb blonde. That's tantamount to saying she gave convincing performances in such films as "The Seven-Year Itch" and "Some Like It Hot"; nonetheless, her talents as an actress have always been diminished by sensationalizing press agents, Hollywood reporters and biographers alike. "Bus Stop" may be her finest dramatic performance. Joshua Logan directed and Don Murray and Arthur O'Connell costar, based on the William Inge play. Rating: $3:25.

"Pickwick Papers" (1954), 3 p.m. Friday on Ch. 9. Originally 109 minutes.

Charles Dickens' works rarely translate well to the screen because his novels are so panoramic. The best that can be hoped for is to capture just a bit of the wit and flavor. That's what the film version of "Pickwick Papers" does. While hardly coming close to telling the whole story, director Noel Langley and a largely unknown British cast capture the spirit of Dickens' first novel very nicely. Rating: $2.95.

"Once Upon a Time in the West" (1969), 11:30 p.m. Saturday on Ch. 2. Originally 165 minutes.

Spaghetti-western director Sergio Leone's best film to date, which, for a change, does not feature Clint Eastwood. Instead, "Once Upon a Time" boasts Henry Fonda in the meanest role of his life, stone-faced Jason Robards, the voluptuous Claudia Cardipale and stalwarts Charles Bronson, Keenan Wynn, Woody Strode and Jack Elam. The film is lizard-like: at times it just sits and bakes in the sun, but Name Is Nobody" (also starring Fonda). Rating: $3.30.

"The Bells of St. Mary's" (1945), 11:45 p.m. Monday on Ch. 9. Originally 126 minutes.

What would Christmas week be like without Bing Crosby playing a priest? In "Bells" - a sort of followup to his Oscar-winning performance as a padre in "Going My Way" the year before -Bing and sister Ingrid Bergman raise money to save a school. Barry Fitzgerald is missing, but the movie is still entertaining. Rating: $3.

"Charlie McCarthy, Detective" (1930), 12:30 Tuesday night on Ch. 50. Originally 65 minutes.

They say this film actually has a plot, but even if it didn't, Edgar Bergen and his pal Charlie (together again) ought to be enough to satisfy anyone.
