

State 'looks into' Courage fund drive

"I GAVE them my address, and they said they'd mail me one. That was three or four weeks ago, and I haven't received anything," Egli said.

Courage, with offices on Northwestern Highway, failed to return Observer phone calls.

"We are aware of the organization and will take appropriate action depending upon what we find," said Chris DeWitt, spokesman for the Michigan attorney general's office. "We are looking into the concerns that have been raised. At this point this is really all I can say."

DeWitt said that to his knowledge, Courage is not licensed with the state.

By law, fund-raising organizations must register with the attorney general if they plan to raise $8,000 or more and have non-paid help.

Groups with hired staffers are required to be licensed and to file annual reports regardless of how much they try to raise.

LITERATURE THE Zaettas received from Courage indicates the organization is associated with the Just Say No Foundation, an anti-drug group formed with the help of first lady Nancy Reagan in 1986, Shirley Zaetta said.

"I didn't discourage people (from donating) really, because I didn't know much about it," he said. "But if they're not legitimate, they need to be put out of business. If they're soliciting money improperly, that really bothers me because there are so many good places working to prevent substance abuse that really need money."

JUST SAY NO Foundation, based in Walnut Creek, Calif., said that it is aware of what Courage is doing, and "it asked the group in a June letter to 'cease and desist,' its activities," said Beth Schecter, program director.

An attorney for Courage wrote back, saying that "Courage does not claim to be an authorized representative of the Just Say No Foundation, and that it doesn't use our logo," said Myrna Jacob of Just Say No.

"Courage has been falsely soliciting in our name," Schecter said. "We have never received any money from Courage. There's no affiliation. We're trying to stop them without getting into legal action. If they're not stopping what they've been doing, we don't have the funds to get involved in legal action."

"It's an unfortunate situation," she said. "It comes in waves. Obviously since we're such a highly visible program, a lot of people solicit in our name. All I can say to your readers is to call Just Say No Foundation first before contributing money."

Make sure that we are working with those groups."

THE FOUNDATION works only with large, well-known companies, such as Frito-Lay, MasterCard and Procter & Gamble, Schecter said.

"We don't raise money. We're strictly an operating foundation, funded by corporate promotions and private foundations," she said.

Just Say No's toll-free number is 1-800-258-2766.

Designed for children aged 7 to 14, Just Say No is an extracurricular program with clubs in 50 states and Canada. It deals with peer pressure, how to say no, service and recreational activities, Schecter said.

Organizations not complying with licensing requirements can be charged in Michigan with a misdemeanor "which could involve jail time as well as fines," DeWitt said.

Main road in Canton to close in month

BOTH DRAINS won't be constructed simultaneously, allowing local travel. Drivers will be able to drive into the marked closed area and up to the actual construction spot, O'Connor said.

"This allows police and fire to obtain access in case of an emergency," he said.

The county will contact Canton officials to announce exactly when the road will be closed.

"And people catch on real quick," O'Connor said.

The detour signs will be on Michigan Avenue and Ford Road and along the detour route.

The project will reportedly cost the county some $190,000.

Adult ed changes may put limits on classes

By M.B. Dillon and Leonard Poger staff writers

It's too soon to say exactly how the new guidelines will cost the districts. But estimates range from $24,000 to $30,000, said Larry Masteller, director of community education for Plymouth-Canton schools.

LAST YEAR, about 750 adult students took advantage of 80 class offerings.

Between 40 and 50 of those were adults over age 65 who are working toward high school diplomas, said Masteller. Up to 250 were adults over age 65 taking classes just for enjoyment.

The changes are included in the new state aid legislation approved last month. Specific definitions and interpretations of the legislation aren't yet drafted.

Plymouth-Canton hopes to continue offering electives, but needs to find money to pay for them. The city of Plymouth has agreed to pay for half of the arts and craft, music and physical education classes offered at Plymouth's Cultural Center.

"I think that what the Legislature is trying to do is to eliminate from the adult ed curriculum courses that could be construed as fun- and game-type courses," said Masteller.

There are two or three classes we may not be able to offer, but we may choose to offer them anyway and pick up the cost," said Masteller. Classes will be cut back from 36-38 weeks to 30 weeks, he added.

Defraying the cost will be $30 fees charged to senior citizens. Seniors also will be required to pay for their own materials and supplies.

Some of the programs formerly offered in senior citizen apartment and condominium complexes probably will be eliminated, added Masteller.

Wayne-Westland school district. Wayne-Westland was charged with inflating its adult enrollment figures to qualify for additional state aid.

The district later admitted over-counting. As a result, its state aid was reduced for a period of several years.

"Anything like that doesn't help the image of adult ed. We all kind of get labeled, and that's unfortunate," said Masteller.

The changes are good because "the state has gotten more control over the curriculum of adult ed. They're trying to make it more consistent across the board," said Masteller.

The bad news is "they have taken some of the authority and power away from us. We can still offer classes, but who is going to offer them if you can't get funding? I don't know if it's totally fair."

The state also is imposing stricter rules regarding attendance and record-keeping, things that will cost time and money.

"The end result as I see it is that it's obviously going to reduce the amount of funds coming to adult ed," he said. "That's a given. I'd be very surprised if any district sees growth in their programs. I think this will reduce the number of students who enroll."

Meijer starts new store next month

By Tedd Schneider staff writer

Meijer Inc. will break ground next month on its 212,000-square-foot Meijer Thrifty Acres store on the southeast corner of Newburgh and Warren Road.

Construction is scheduled to begin in late September, according to Jennifer White, director of public relations for the Grand Rapids-based retail chain.

White said Thursday the department grocery store should be open for business by early 1990.

The Westland City Council unanimously approved a site plan for the store last week.

The final hurdle facing the store, replacing the wetlands on the site, was cleared earlier this summer with negotiations between Meijer officials and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources. The designated wetlands — marsh-type land that supports aquatic life and is protected by state law — will be relocated on a parcel just east of the store site.

Meijer bought additional land adjacent to the site to handle the relocation of the wetlands, said George Wilhelm, the city's planning director.

THE MEIJER site plan includes parking for 1,502 cars, including 25 spaces reserved for handicapped shoppers. More parking spaces would be added if the store expands, according to the plan.

A stand of trees will remain on the site, serving as a buffer between the store, the wetlands and nearby residential areas, company officials said.

The store will include a partially enclosed garden center adjacent to one of its exterior walls and a gasoline station at the edge of its parking lot.

Meijer expects to hire about 500 employees for the Westland store.

White said Thursday the hiring process would begin before the store is completed, but no target date had been set.

"We'll be putting up signs and placing ads to let people in the community know about job opportunities," she said.

The typical Meijer store, called a "hyperstore" by industry officials, has 40 or more checkout lanes and stocks more than 100,000 general merchandise and grocery items.

THE FAMILY-OWNED CHAIN was founded by Dutch immigrant Hendrik Meijer in Greenville, Mich., northeast of Grand Rapids, 54 years ago.

The company operates two outlets in western Wayne County, one in Northville Township and one in Canton Township.

Blood donations down, need is critical

By Casey Hans staff writer

American Red Cross officials in Southeast Michigan are crying out for help, as blood levels continue to fall well below what the organization keeps on hand daily for emergencies.

Although permanent donor centers have received steady business, support at area blood drives has decreased at an "alarming rate," officials said. The organization tries to keep a minimum of 2,500 pints on hand daily; as of earlier this month, they were down to 1,183 pints.

"Summer's always bad anyway, but this summer's worse. I don't know if it's the heat, or what . . . Giving blood is actually good for the body. It stimulates the body to make more red cells."

—Dolores Sakowski nurse

allow employees time off the job to give.

DONORS CAN give blood every eight weeks, up to five times each year.

"There's really nothing to it," said nurse Sakowski. "Giving blood is actually good for the body. It stimulates the body to make more red cells."

There are 12 Red Cross trucks out at drive sites daily, and 10 permanent sites where people can give blood. Any company or group interested in sponsoring a blood drive can contact the Red Cross at 494-2790.

There are permanent donor centers in Bloomfield Hills, Dearborn, Detroit, Livonia, Oak Park, Southgate, Sterling Heights, Roseville, Ann Arbor and Port Huron.

Nancy Kirkendoll applies pressure to her arm after donating at a blood drive.

Red Cross personnel said they were expecting 25-30 people at the Hills drive, including those scheduled plus walk-ins. One hour after the drive began, several donors from the neighboring post office had already arrived.

Postal carrier Nancy Kirkendoll of Detroit said she hadn't given blood in several years and was aware of the severe shortage. "I just want to be helpful," she said.

OTHERS OFFERING help at the Hills drive were several members of the Westminster Church of Detroit, which has a 30-member "blood team" that regularly donates time to the Red Cross.

"We do whatever's necessary — everything but take the blood," said longtime volunteer Helen Geer, whose husband organized the church's team years ago.

But despite these efforts, blood drives at business sites throughout the area continue to be cancelled. At those which are held, blood donations are way down. One business that projected a collection of 450 pints cancelled its drive, and an auto plant only 20 pints were collected from a scheduled 110 pints.

Bob Batcher of the Red Cross urged companies to set up blood drives, to reinforce the message regarding the need for blood, and to

Business, school program explored

By Doug Funks staff writer

The Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce and the Plymouth-Canton schools are exploring a partnership-in-education program that could include a speakers bureau, career days and a jobs bank.

"Business can assist education by providing resources schools might not have," said Mary O'Connell Roehr, executive director of the chamber.

A chamber committee is studying the possibility of getting involved in such a project locally.

"What we want to do is look at some program that will last and something we can measure results," said Jim Danielski, chairman of the chamber's study committee. "I don't want this to be a flash in the pan."

ROEHR SAID she brought the idea to her membership after learning of its success elsewhere.

"I think one of the things we need to do first of all is an awareness program — what needs are out there, what needs are being met," she said.

"Let's talk to the education community," Danielski said. "Let's see what their vision is. Let's see how they view us. Then, let's look together with some kind of common vision."

One big plus of a partnership-in-education program, all agree, is that the partners wouldn't necessarily have to shell out a lot of money to get the ball rolling.

"What we're saying is school has resources. The business community has resources. Maybe if we look at how to reallocate resources, we can do a tremendous job without building up bureaucracy," Danielski said.

MAKING SURE that education has a practical as well as theoretical base and that young people develop a proper attitude toward work also would be important to a partnership-in-education program, he said.

"What's in it for the student? A greater curriculum awareness of how stuff you learn in the classroom relates to the real world," Danielski said.

Business also stands to gain. "It takes less time to train and get them to a point where they're contributing," he said.

Michael Homes, assistant superintendent for instruction in Plymouth-Canton, also is enthusiastic about participating in such a program.

"It brings the school world and business world closer together," he said. "That would mean opportunities for growth for students, (school) staff and workers."

Drugs found on bond money

Part of the money a Canton woman charged with possession of drugs used to post bond was contaminated by drugs.

When Nancy Lee Stoll was posting a $10,000 bond on drug charges Friday, police requested dogs sniff the money for drugs, Judge John MacDonald said.

"They hid the money downstairs, and the dogs sniffed out the money," he said.

—About $4,000 of the money had drugs on it.

Redford Township police requested the money be forfeited. State law allows police to seize cash and goods derived from drug sales. And whatever is forfeited is then used for drug enforcement.

MacDonald ruled the money would be seized and if Stoll objected she could argue the case in Circuit Court.

STOLL WAS arrested Aug. 9 in Canton by officers from Redford narcotics division and the Western Wayne County Narcotics Enforcement team.

She was charged in 35th District Court with possession with intent to deliver less than 50 grams of cocaine, a felony punishable upon conviction with up to 20 years in prison.

She pleaded not guilty during her arraignment in 35th District Court. Stoll appeared Friday for a preliminary examination before Judge John MacDonald to determine if there was enough evidence to hold a trial.

A Friday, Sept. 2, Circuit Court arraignment date was set on the cocaine possession charge.

Free computer class offered

By Tom Henderson staff writer

"It sounds too good to be true, but it isn't."

The Metropolitan Education Commission is looking for 600 people to take a free, intensive computer training program followed by a free, highly successful job placement service.

"You cannot find a better training program anywhere," said John Graves, the commission's executive director.

The course offers basic programming and teaches word processing, spreadsheet and Lotus I, II and III. Two sessions are available, a six-month program that meets for four hours a day and a nine-month program that meets two hours a day.

The classes start Sept. 12. "If anyone is interested, they should call us immediately," said Graves. His number is 435-4275.

GRAVES SAID the program, which is paid for by the state Department of Education, was started last year. He said 388 completed the program its first year "and we found jobs for nearly all of them."

Graves said there is room for 600 in the program this year. So far, classes are scheduled in Garden City at the Cambridge Center, Dearborn, Romulus and Taylor. He said that if there is a strong response from residents of other communities such as Westland or Livonia, classes would be arranged there, as well.

There is no income or residency requirement. The classes are for high school dropouts of any age, those of any age who have their GEDs and high school graduates who have not yet turned 20.

Graves said the program is recognized for up to 15 hours of college credit at Cleary College and Highland Park Community College. He said he is trying to have the course accepted for credit at Madonna College and Schoolcraft College, as well.

Clergy either resist, welcome 'Last Temptation'

By Peggy Aulino staff writer

It's been hailed as an opportunity for reflecting on the life of Jesus and condemned as an affront to his name. Perhaps the only thing area clergy agree on about "The Last Temptation of Christ" is that no one is lukewarm about the film.

"It's very degrading to the Savior," said the Rev. Robert C. Porter, pastor of Community Freewill Baptist Church in Westland. Porter did not see the film.

"I don't think Hollywood has a right to picture him that way. An unholly bunch like that doesn't know what they are talking about," said Porter.

"THEY PAINT a picture of a man that has more human weaknesses than he has divine qualities," said the Rev. Michael Heady, pastor of the First Church of God in Farmington Hills.

But that's just the sort of thing that appealed to some of those who enjoyed the movie.

clergy who got a sneak preview of the film at a private screening Thursday in Southfield.

Although a majority of area church leaders contacted say they have not seen the movie, which began an exclusive area run Friday at the Americana 8 in Southfield, most have found reason to criticize the premise of the film.

"It portrays a phony, plastic Christ, not the Christ of the Bible," said the Rev. Victor Halboth, pastor of Grace Lutheran Church in Redford.

"He's shown as a wimp who vacillates as to whether or not he wanted to go to the cross. Jesus was not a wimp."

"I found the Jesus that's depicted as tormented to be very human," said the Rev. Louis Grandpre, pastor of St. Ives Catholic Church in Southfield. "I rather enjoyed it."

Ice said showing Jesus as being both God and man is in keeping with scripture.

"WE MUST hold together two sides of a paradox, knowing full well that these are contradictory beliefs," he said. "I believe for a long period of time Christendom has tended to accent the diet and has a hard time dealing with his humanity."

"That means when you have any serious attempt to explore the humanity, people get excited."

The opening credits contain a paragraph that says the movie is not based upon the Bible but upon a "fictionalized explanation" of it. Several Bible stories are recreated, including Christ turning water into wine and losing his temper at the sight of the temple being used as a marketplace.

DETRACTORS said the disclaimer isn't enough to repair the damage done by the film.

"That statement is probably not worth putting on the film because nobody's going to pay attention to it," said the Rev. Timothy Teague, pastor of Abundant Life Church of God in Westland.

hanging on the cross, Jesus — who has been shown to have doubts about his purpose on earth — begins to have second thoughts about being crucified.

He fantasizes about what his life would have been like if he'd chosen to live as a mortal man. In the dream sequence, he has sexual relations with Mary Magdalene, fathers children and lives to be an old man.

"It's a work of fiction, and it clearly says that in the credit," said Grandpre, who also attended the Thursday screening. "Those folks that expect it to be taken word-for-word (from scripture) are going to be surprised."

"That statement is probably not worth putting on the film because nobody's going to pay attention to it," said the Rev. Timothy Teague, pastor of Abundant Life Church of God in Westland.

Said Halboth: "I'm afraid somebody who has never known Christ would see that film and get a wrong impression of who Jesus really was, and that bothers me."

But Ice said such attitudes insult the intelligence of the viewing public.

"I don't agree with the posture, that there are dumb people out there and therefore we shouldn't let them see it," he said.

ICE ALSO takes issue with those who condemn the movie without having seen it. But many clergy who do so say they would not see the picture under any circumstances.

"You don't have to be a cocaine addict to know cocaine has destroyed thousands of people in this country," Teague said.

And detractors have mixed feelings about all the publicity the film has gained because of the protests it has sparked.

Heady's congregation has signed petitions asking theaters to carefully consider the movie before showing it and saying they will not see the film.

"I think the people were right to be offensive to them," he said. But Heady added: "It seems the more controversy it has, the more people are responding to the film. It looks like it's backfiring."

GRANDPRE SUMMED up the film as "certainly not a great movie, but it is provocative. It will be relegated to the shelves after the controversy's over."

Moviewatchers who went in the Americana theater Friday afternoon to see the controversial film said they weren't offended.

Meanwhile, those who stayed outside hoisted crucifixes, Bibles, rosaries, statues of Jesus and signs such as "Boycott AMC Americana Forever." The more-than-100 protesters marched inside police lines at the first showing of the movie.

None of the protesters interviewed had seen the movie; each said he would not see it. More protesters were expected Friday evening and throughout the weekend.

Several people interviewed after seeing the movie said it was not offensive.

"I WASN'T offended by it," said John Bruce of Dearborn. "It was a portrayal of the life of Christ from his life in Jerusalem to his Crucifixion."

Keep the fire burning

IT'S TIME to pull out that old, rusty ERA pin. Mine is attached to an outdated and frayed macramé plant holder, hanging on a nail in the basement. I wore that Equal Rights Amendment pin proudly after returning from a feminist conference in Bowling Green in 1974...

Casey Hans

For those that don't recall the ERA was a proposed amendment to the U.S. Constitution. It was approved by only 35 of the needed 38 states before a 10-year time limit expired in 1982. It was a political hot potato.

Kids in sports get attention

Our son was one of only three students at his school chosen last summer to attend a Summer Institute at Western Michigan University. The Institute, which so honors only about 300 or 600 students yearly throughout Michigan, sends publicity to any three newspapers the student lists. Not one of the three printed a word.

This June, our son graduated from high school. At the Honors Assembly, he received five major awards, including both the math and international studies awards, as well as high academic honors and a nomination as one of the 10 outstanding students in his class of about 369. The school sent publicity and pictures to four local papers concerning various honorees.

Face it Birth to death, part of us is sexual

LAST WEEKEND I saw the film "Gaby," a true story about a young woman of normal intelligence, who had cerebral palsy so severe she could communicate only with her left foot. The film dealt with Gaby's attempt to come to terms with her handicap and to find meaning in her life.

Catherine Trainor

Part of Gaby's quest involved coming to terms with herself as a sexual being and her grief when two relationships with young men ended badly. The second of those was with a non-handicapped man that ended before it began and forced Gaby to the conclusion that love and marriage would probably always be beyond her reach.

Hopefully, they're gearing up for the general election Nov. 8, gaining a sense of pride, and understanding that their opinions count, their feelings matter, and their votes will make a difference — equally.

ing a Puritanical streak of censorship, forcing all of us to conform to their repressive way of thinking. So far just one local theater has committed to show the film. (AMC Theaters announced Wednesday it will exhibit the film at the Americana in Southfield for at least one week beginning Friday.)

I intend to see this movie (which I probably would have avoided under normal circumstances since I don't particularly care for films with religious themes) and make up my own mind. If you don't think you would like it, stay home.

THESE WHO would stop all of us from viewing the movie are exhibiting some of the bad news about teenagers. I should think you'd be pleased to print something good about them. Parents shouldn't have about them. No, of course not. It's not interesting. It's not exciting. Well, I'll tell you. I don't know any people who find high school sports stats that interesting or exciting unless they are the parents or coaches. But your publication does send a clear message: Sports are important! Academics are not!

At times our educational system does deserve criticism. On the whole, our students do not strive for excellence. But why? One of the reasons can be traced back to you. The fact that The Observer & Eccentric and other newspapers ignore these academic achievements sends out a message that academic excellence is not important. It is important to their parents and their school, but not to the community.

Robertson team taught GOP some lessons

By Tim Richard
staff writer

NEW ORLEANS — Pat Robertson taught Republican "liberals" a few things about party loyalty and hard work, his Michigan supporters said.

"Pat brought a lot of people in, and you're all welcome," said L. Brooks Patterson, Oakland County prosecutor and Bush supporter who chairs the Michigan delegation.

After two years of an often bitter battle, Robertson himself addressed the Michigan delegation and national television crews last Tuesday. He asked his backers "to rally, with wholehearted support, around the Republican candidates, around the Republican platform and, especially, around our great candidate George Bush."

"I HAD WATCHED him on the 700

SC faculty seek new contract

Schoolcraft College professors may begin work Thursday without having reached agreement on a new contract.

"This wouldn't be the first time," said Sandra Florek, school spokeswoman.

But Florek characterized negotiations as being done in a friendly atmosphere and said a settlement is expected "in the very near future."

The faculty's current two-year contract expired today. On Friday, negotiators had not discussed extending it, but such action has been routine in the past, Florek said.

ANOTHER BARGAINING session was scheduled for today.

"Most of the issues have been resolved," Florek said. "We are down to the final issue, which, as with all contract negotiations, is salary increases."

After negotiations two years ago, faculty members got a 5.1-percent pay increase for the 1986-87 school year and a 5.9-percent raise last year.

Florek would not release details of the negotiations, saying "neither side is willing to reveal anything because that's unfair to the people they are negotiating for."

Faculty members who are on the bargaining team were in negotiations Friday and could not be reached.

FLOREK SAID that although the contract may not be agreed upon before the start of the school year, bargaining is proceeding on schedule. She credited smooth contract talks to a training program in which administration and faculty negotiators participated. Called "mutual gains bargaining," it is a non-adversarial approach to negotiating, Florek said.

Power named to federal job training panel

Philip Power, chairman of Suburban Communications Corp., of which the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers is a subsidiary, has been appointed to an advisory committee of the federal Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA).

The 37-member committee was appointed by U.S. Secretary of Labor Ann McLaughlin. It is charged with assessing the JTPA's work thus far and exploring ways of improving the quality of the program's services.

The JTPA, which was established in 1983, offers job training and employment services for people who face barriers in obtaining work. JTPA recipients include Native Americans, migrant and seasonal farm workers, veterans and older workers.

Power was involved in organizing the Governor's Office for Job Training and has chaired its overseeing body, the Michigan Job Training Coordinating Council, since it was established in 1983.

The state program trains older and dislocated workers and coordinates the activities of more than 40 job training programs across the state.

Power is one of three Michigan residents appointed to the committee. The others are Dr. Geneva Tittsworth, associate superintendent of the Wayne County Intermediate School District, and Arthur Shy, director of the Education Department for the United Auto Workers in Detroit.

SC registration

Mail-in registration for Schoolcraft College continuing education service classes continues through Aug. 29. Classes are scheduled to begin Sept. 19.

Additional information is available by calling 591-6400, Ext. 409. Schoolcraft is at 18609 Haggerty, between Six and Seven Mile roads, Livonia.

'Some of those (Bush) people will say, "Hey, look how those (Robertson) people have really gone out and worked for this thing."'

— Mary Lowe
first-time delegate

Club, which was definitely not what you'd call a religious program," said Joann Blousey, a licensed practical nurse from Westland and 15th Congressional District Robertson delegate.

"We've had more problems with bitterness than from the George Bush supporters than from the original Robertson supporters," she said. "Some of them had been holding grudges. No matter how well we did anything, they didn't like it."

The mother of two sons in the Navy and two daughters, Blousey became politically active in April of 1986 when, "very frightened and very reluctantly," she ran for delegate in precinct 13.

She called the Robertson newcomers "harder working than the liberal, old-line Republicans," adding, "we quadrupled the number of Republican delegates from Westland."

"HE HAS LED us in the right direction," said Mary Lowe, a first-time delegate from the Troy corner of the 14th Congressional District.

A widow who works part time as a nursing assistant, Lowe said, "We're going to cooperate with the Bush people because Pat Robertson wants us to."

"Some of those (Bush) people will say, 'Hey, look how those (Robertson) people have really gone out and worked for this thing.'"

"I went to hear him speak in 1986, and he asked us to run for precinct delegate in our areas," said Lowe, who had never previously been active, what with raising two children and seeing two grandchildren come along.

"Years ago I was a Democrat. I changed to Republican about eight years ago."

"Lori Packer said we didn't come here to take over the Republican party; we came here to be a part of it."

PACKER, THE 25-year-old Southfield woman who led the Robertson drive in Michigan's precinct battles of 1986 and bitter caucuses of early '88, attracted half the delegation afterward as she was interviewed on national TV by Sam Donaldson.

She said Robertson's speech

"sends a message because Michigan" was the most intense battle because of the length of time."

Packer is a graduate of Southfield Christian High who attended a Texas Bible college and teaches Sunday school at Brightmoor Tabernacle. Her first job was with the Freedom Council, a conservative educational organization.

She was part of the conservative group that worked out of the Jan. 30 state convention in Grand Rapids. But late last month, Packer and the Robertson group made peace with the Bush leadership, and she was one of the five conservatives named to delegate posts.

Robertson, since failing to win the presidential nomination, has formed a political group called Americans For The Republic Inc., to train and support conservative candidates at all levels.

The founder of Christian Broadcasting Network and CBN University, Robertson told the Michiganders "the longest running primary in the history of America" is over.

He urged his followers to support George Bush for president because Democrat Michael Dukakis is a member of the American Civil Liberties Union, "a lobby for criminals, that's reason enough for me."

taste buds

chef Larry Janes

Seafood line is both real and imitation

When it comes to seafood, yours truly balances the checkbook every week, making sure there's always something left to purchase fresh seafood.

I love lobster, shrimps and go crazy over crab. So when I had the opportunity to try a "new" product called SeaLegs, recently introduced to the North American seafood market, I approached the product with a little hesitation and skepticism.

It's unlike the mock seafood selling in markets, claiming to have the flavor, taste and texture of real seafood. I purchased SeaLegs Lobster Tails with a show-me attitude. Especially since the main ingredient is surimi (fish paste), with a price tag almost half of what real lobster sells for.

Was I surprised. It is good. Real succulent, sweet, melt-in-your-mouth lobster it isn't, but when different recipes were tested in the Janes family kitchen, the SeaLegs product came out on top.

BEFORE I share my favorite recipes for this trendy, new, upscale yuppie product, I thought it would be interesting to do a little research and find out just what it is that makes this product swim.

Early products that hit the grocers shelves claiming to have the taste and appearance of lobster, crab and shrimp were really a laboratory concoction loaded with artificial flavors, colors and shreds of what used to be a throw-away fish called pollack.

The Berelson Co., exclusive marketers of the SeaLegs brand, has risen the "fake" seafood to new heights. Fake is really a misnomer with this brand because the company has discovered a way to combine real lobster, crab and shrimp with Alaskan pollack to produce a high-quality product that looks, smells and, remarkably so, tastes like the real thing.

Nothing will ever be able to replace the taste of fresh steamed seafood right from the shell, but when using this product in salads, soups and sauces, I was amazed at how well it holds up and retains its consistency and flavor.

So what's the secret? In addition to utilizing the Alaskan pollack, the Berelson Co. has incorporated a hefty percentage of real seafood into the product. The "real" addition brings this so-called "imitation" product to new heights. Of course, with the addition of the "real seafood" the product also has a very close to "real" price tag.

Recent surveys at the local markets in my area, however, found the SeaLegs products coming in at about 25 to 35 percent below the cost of the real thing. This really amounted to big savings when I recently had to prepare a crab tetrazzini for a Janes family wedding shower.

FLAKED CRABMEAT was hovering about $11 per pound but I found the SeaLegs imitation product at considerable savings. When the final recipe was finished and the family had wiped the last of the tasty morsels from its lips, I figured I saved about $40. Now, of course, the Janes family is not known for its remarkable taste buds but no one, not even Aunt Phyllis, the family culinary matriarch, could discern a difference.

So if you're looking for a less expensive way to entertain with seafood, check out the SeaLegs brand products. You won't be disappointed. Bon Appetit!

Bottled waters

They're snazzy thirst quenchers

By Mary Rodrigue
special writer

MOVE OVER, Coke and Pepsi. This is the bottled water generation.

It's been called the gourmet part of the beverage industry. The nectar of the health conscious.

And in the never-ending quest for the best of everything, consumers are quenching their collective upscale thirst more and more on the little bottles with exotic labels.

"Perrier is still number one by far," says E.J. Jonna, owner of Vintage Wine & Deli in Westland. "The more I stock, the quicker it goes. It's been accepted now."

It's not a trend. It's here to stay.

Jonna says with consumers buying more imported beers and liquors, it follows that bottled waters—many from European and Canadian glacial springs—would also experience a greater demand.

BUT WHETHER it's Evian from the Swiss Alps or Absopure from Plymouth, bottled water has found a permanent niche in the marketplace.

"The country is more health conscious," says Mike Canan, manager of the Bonanza Wine Shop in Livonia. "The non-sugar waters will always be around. Perrier has been around forever."

With no sugar

content, these waters might not have kids and teenagers swarming to them, but consumers in their late 20s to early 40s are keeping the demand constant, Canan says.

"Our store has a large clientele from the factories. They're tired of (soda) pop. They want something without a lot of sugar. It's a good water drink without the taste of salts or fluoride."

Bottled water comes in sparkling (natural carbonation like Perrier) and non-sparkling varieties. While most taste like plain water, Perrier's new, flavored line—mild orange, lemon and lime—is Canan's big seller right now.

LaCroix (manufactured in Wisconsin) has a stronger taste. Consumers just have to try them to see which they like best," he says.

ON THE HEELS of the bottled water are the seltzers. True seltzer is natural mineral water that is effervescent. Commercial brands finding favor with consumers are fruit flavored, naturally sweetened and without additives.

The biggest misconception people have about seltzer is that it's low in calories," Canan says. "There are about 130 calories in a 10-ounce bottle. They're appealing because the fruit flavors are very good—all natural. But it's not a diet drink."

New York Seltzer, the major manufacturer in the market, had to add the word soda to the label because "true seltzer has no sugar."

Because it's sweet, it appeals to kids as well as adults, he adds.

Michigan is the largest market in the country for New York Seltzer. A new see-through plastic can was test marketed here. It took off and is now selling all over the country."

New York Seltzer does produce a diet line.

"A NEW POPULAR brand is the Aussie Seltzer," says Todd King, Manager of Bosco's Wine & Deli in Farmington Hills. "It's not really manufactured in Australia, but it uses an Australian formula, like the Matilda Bay wine coolers. And the flavors are more exotic, like kiwi, papaya, peach and banana berry. It also comes in diet with Nutrasweet."

"People pretty much grab them in place of a pop as a refreshing drink. It's an impulse type thing. We also sell them by the single can or bottle."

Among the bottled waters, Evian is number one at Bosco's.

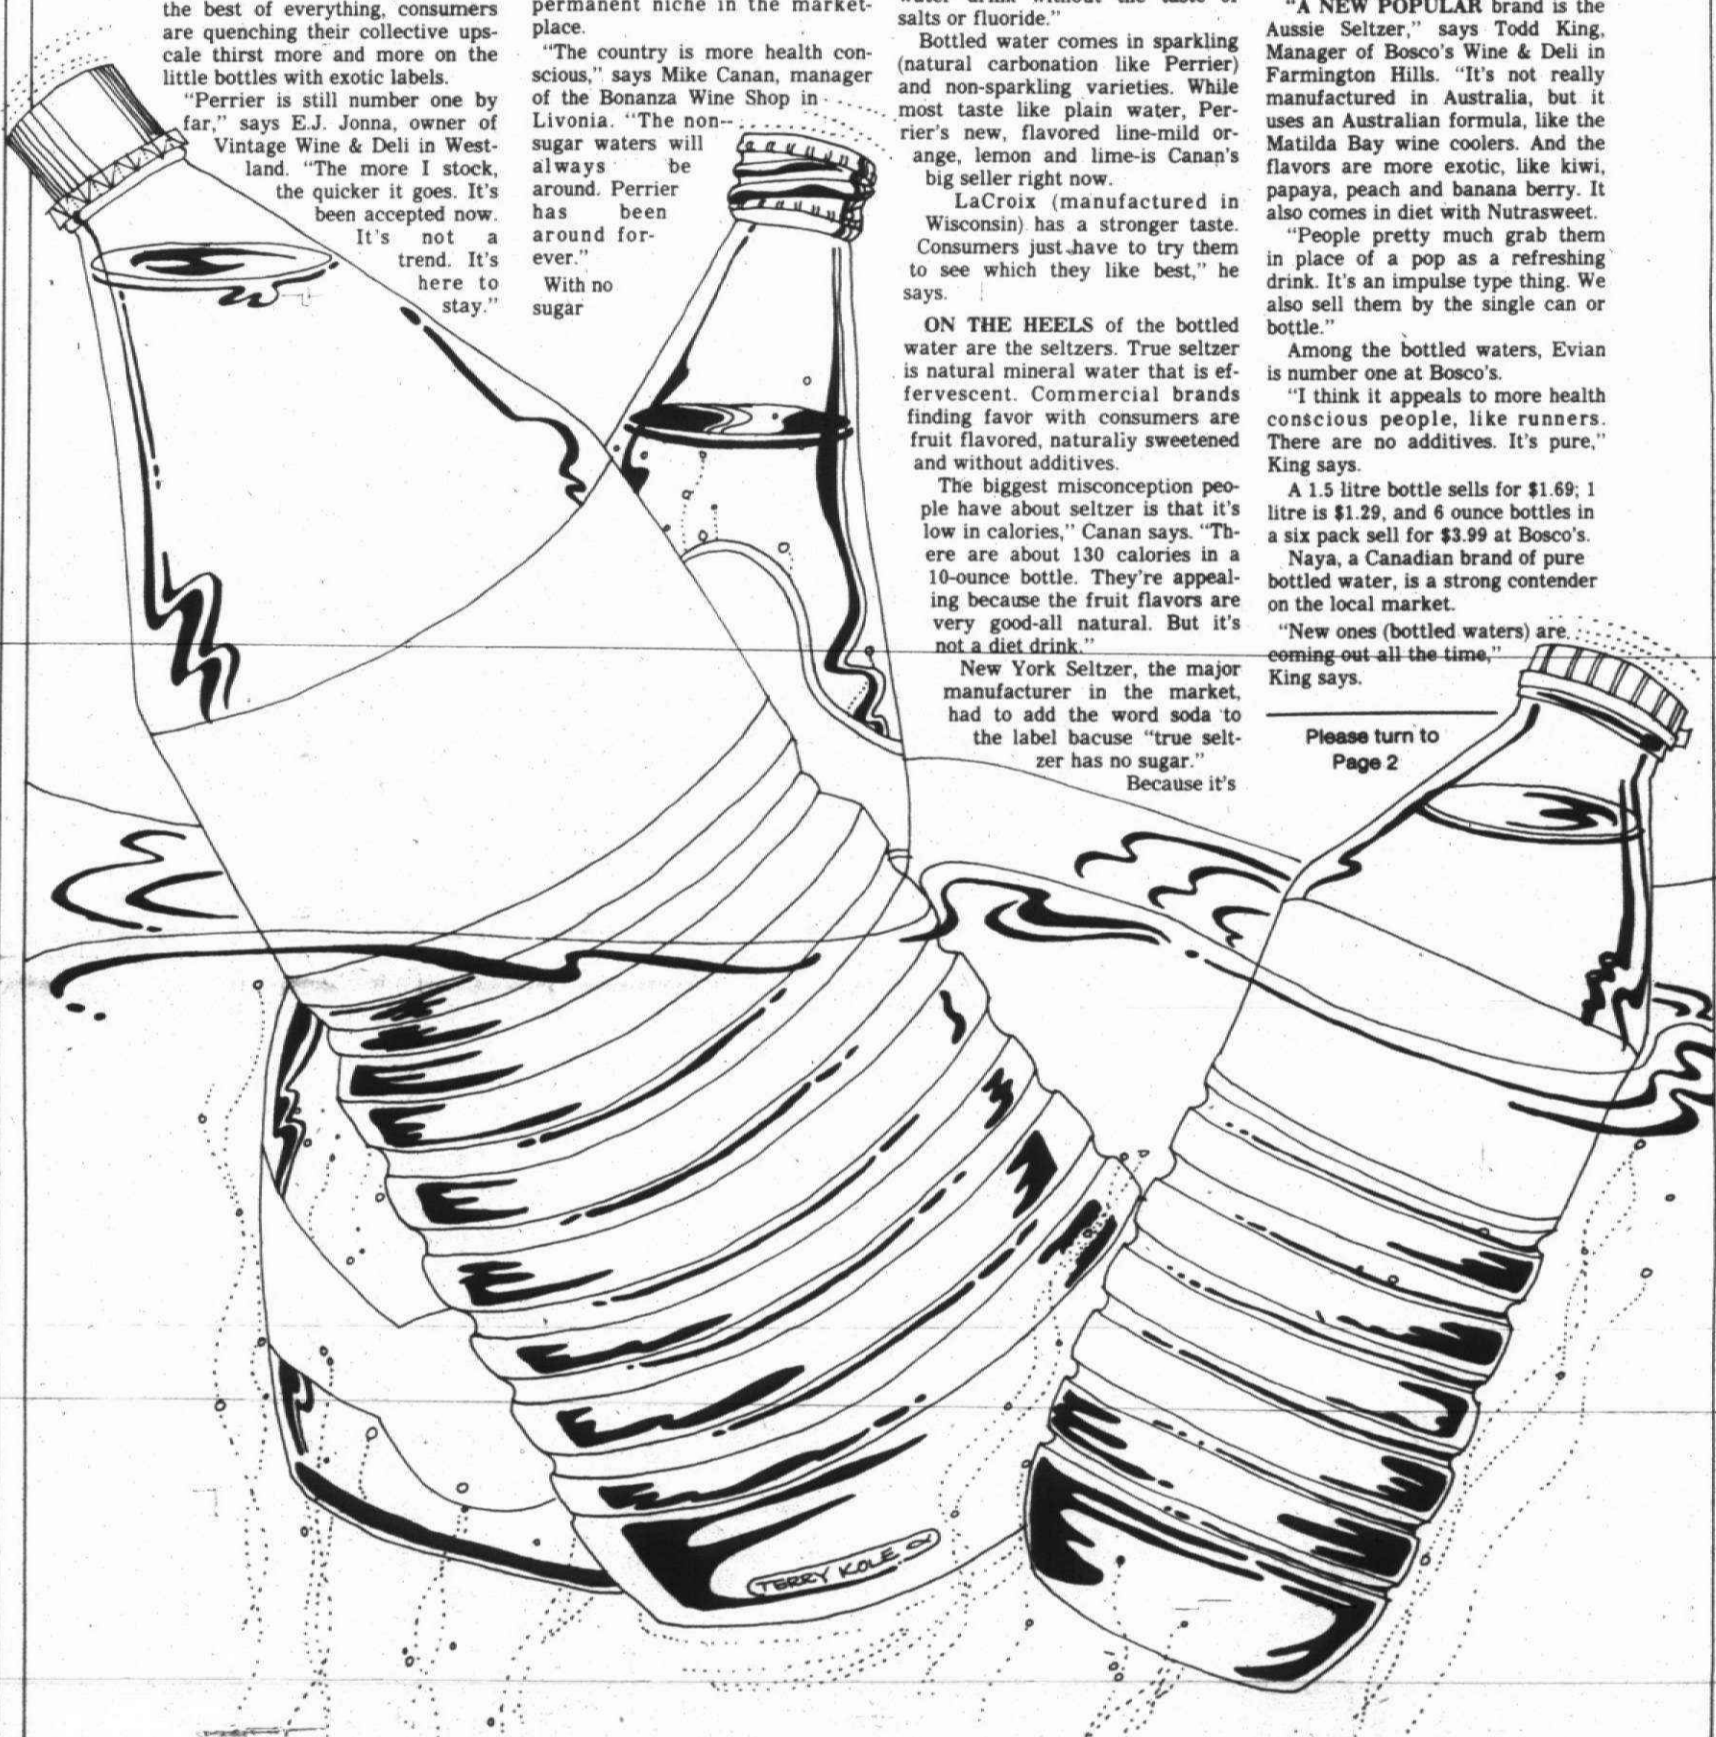

"I think it appeals to more health conscious people, like runners. There are no additives. It's pure," King says.

A 1.5 litre bottle sells for $1.69; 1 litre is $1.29, and 6 ounce bottles in a six pack sell for $3.99 at Bosco's.

Naya, a Canadian brand of pure bottled water, is a strong contender on the local market.

"New ones (bottled waters) are coming out all the time," King says.

You can keep your cool with main-course salads

By Ethel Simmons
staff writer

What could be nicer on a hot summer's day than a fresh, cool, main-course salad for a delicious light lunch?

At the Community House in Birmingham, main-course salads are one of the specialties on a varied menu at the outdoor Bates Street Cafe. Under big umbrellas, and tables with colorful cloths, lunch is served from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Mondays-Fridays.

Joanne Heimstadt, director of food services, said the three most popular main-course salads served at the cafe, as well as for events and business-lunches catered by the Community House, are Chinese Chicken Salad, Shrimp Dijon Salad, and Broccoli, Cauliflower and Cheese Salad.

And it's not just the "ladies who lunch" or working women who like these tasty selections. "In the past couple of years, men are as receptive to salad as women — or more," Heimstadt said. "We have a Bates Street Sandwich on the menu, but men are not necessarily interested in hearty sandwiches. They're health and weight conscious."

'In the past couple of years, men are as receptive to salad as women — or more . . . they're health and weight conscious.'

— Joanne Heimstadt
The Community House

Chinese Chicken Salad combines marinated chicken and a medley of fresh vegetables. Shrimp Dijon Salad is served on a bed of lettuce and garnished with fresh vegetables. Broccoli, Cauliflower and Cheese Salad is enhanced with dill dressing.

OTHER MENU offerings that tempt salad-lovers are the Chicken Salad, served on a cantaloupe; Tortellini Salad, marinated with fresh vegetables; and Croissants, with either chicken salad or shrimp and crab salad.

The Bates Street Cafe is open through Friday, Sept. 2, weather permitting. The cafe also serves a "Picnic in the Park" 5:30-7:30 p.m. Thursdays during the city's "In the Park" outdoor concert series in Shain Park. A menu of light summer salads, changing each week, is available, as well as fried chicken, Le Dog and burgers.

In addition, the Community House caters on a daily basis to D'Cafe at the Troy Design Center. The cafe is open to the public from 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. weekdays. "The menu is almost exactly the same (as the Bates Street Cafe) in the summer," Heimstadt said. There are hot and cold daily specials and homemade soups, too.

Here are the recipes for the three most popular main-course salads at the Bates Street Cafe. Both the Chinese Chicken Salad and the Shrimp Dijon follow the guidelines of the HeartSmart program.

At Carinci Beer Stein & Wine in Westland, clerk Shirley Carter notes New York Seltzer is outselling brands manufactured by Faygo and Schwepps.
"IT'S THE BIGGEST seller we have and we only carry plain," she says. "It's less sweet than pop. The hotter it gets, the more we sell."
Even that old standby Gatorade, the vitamin and mineral-laden drink of athletes, is getting a boost on the current popularity of natural drinks. "Everyone is more health conscious. The sale of all natural drinks are increasing," Jonna says.

Let family help with the cooking

Do you sometimes think everybody is on vacation but you, the family cook?

Get the kids or the rest of the family involved in kitchen and food activities. Turn off the TV, music videos and VCR and have the family join you in the kitchen. If you start early enough with children and play it smart, you may be able to start your vacation from the kitchen early.

Make only enough kitchen rules for the sake of safety. For the younger children, food is an excellent teaching tool. They can learn colors, shapes and sizes. Smells, looks and feel are also easy to do with foods. Teach counting, names, food groups, utensils and how to prepare foods in many ways. This experience could possibly establish good food habits that will last a lifetime.

This is a great time to introduce them to some new foods. Jicama is a sweet juicy tuber (vegetable) with a texture like a water chestnut. Use your favorite (small) cookie cutter to turn slices into fun-shaped edible chips — a nutritious, crisp, low-fat alternative to potato chips. Peel the jicama and cut into 1/4 inch slices. Store the slices in an airtight container in refrigerator for snacking.

Hot days call for something cold to quench the thirst. Fruit or yogurt bars are refreshing and more satisfying than soda.

AS AN ALTERNATIVE to purchasing fruit bars, let the kids experiment making their own flavors and containers. Reconstitute a 12-ounce can of frozen concentrated juice with one to two cans of water and make a thick juice. This can be frozen in ice cube trays or paper cups with or without sticks. If you are using paper cups and sticks, fill the

home economist, Cooperative Extension Service

cup, lay a piece of foil over the top, poke the sticks through the foil (the foil will hold the stick in place.)

Summertime eating seems to demand salads. Kids can help make these. Just watch their eyes when they see this. Take the usual foods such as tuna or egg salad, cottage cheese or yogurt, fresh fruit or cheese cubes, and serve it in an ice cream cone. Serve salads in "natural containers." Hollow out peppers, cucumbers, tomatoes or the head of lettuce or cabbage for salad containers. No mess.

Look for some no-bake recipes for kids. A popular, easy cookie/candy is made with melted chocolate and butterscotch chips, chow mein noodles, nuts or raisins. Melt the chips, stir in the noodles and nuts or raisins. Drop by spoonful on paper and cool. Keep refrigerated.

What about an Angel Food Ice Cream Cake for dinner? Buy an Angel Food Cake and have the kids cut the top part off and scoop out the inside, leaving about a 1/2 inch thick shell. Put ice cream into the hollow cake and replace top. Freeze until ready to serve.

PLACE TWO graham crackers together sandwich-fashion, using a thick slice of ice cream as the filling. Dip the sandwich sides in chocolate shots or chopped nuts. Or spread yogurt generously between the two graham crackers and freeze. When there is one scoop of ice cream left deciding who gets to lick the daisies.

If your ice cream is granular, you have packed too much salt with the ice or it's turning too rapidly. Follow the manufacturer's directions to make ice cream in your machine. The great thing about homemade ice cream, it tastes better if it's consumed immediately.

Let the kids make Fudgesicles and Jell-O pops. Fudgesicles are simply pudding frozen. For the Jell-O pops, use a small package of gelatin plus the boiling water. Use a small package of the oiling water. Use a small package of the oiling water. Use a small package of the oiling water.

Turn in your nastie, bustie, oostie, cook's badge and let the kids help. You'd be surprised how much the kids will learn from you and how much you'll learn from them.

Bush speech gets high marks from GOP faithful

by Tim Richard
staff writer

NEW ORLEANS — Veteran area Republicans hailed George Bush's acceptance speech Thursday night as evidence that the vice president is moving out of President Reagan's shadow and is in charge of his own campaign.

The praise and the speech came amid swirling controversy over Bush's first major decision after Reagan left the convention — the selection of Indiana Sen. Daniel Quayle as his running mate.

Despite the questions about Quayle's services in the National Guard, Bush backers were almost euphoric over their candidate's speech, deemed as important because of Bush's reputation as an unexciting speaker.

"He said 'I am ready; I will lead.' That was the take-charge pro-

nia. A political worker herself, she said Bush is the same person in a living room conversation as he was before a live audience of thousands and a TV audience of millions.

"This was his best," she said, pointing to the Bush's return to Democratic economic charges. "They call it a Swiss cheese economy. Well, that's the way it may look to the three blind mice," Bush said in a reference to Michael Dukakis, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen and the Rev. Jesse Jackson.

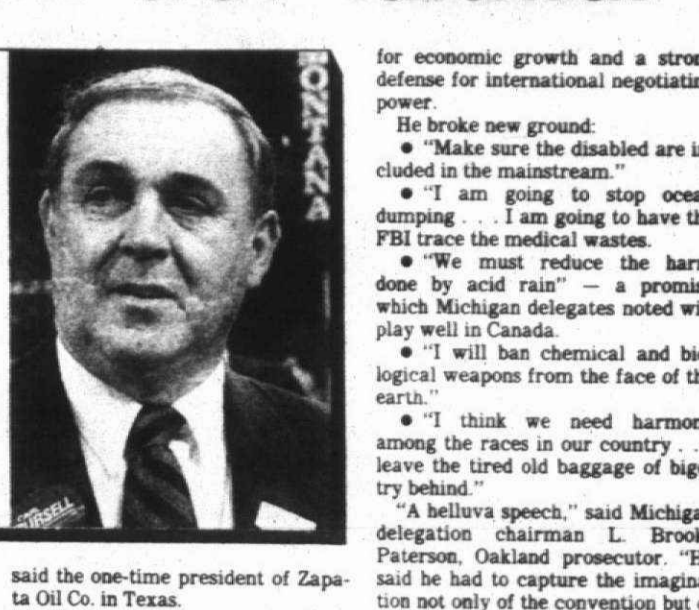

Greenleaf added, "He's his own person. Wasn't in the shadow of President Reagan any more."

Harry Greenleaf was moved by Bush's saying that "it breaks my heart when I see corruption." Said Greenleaf: "That's the George Bush I know. This isn't put on. It's there."

Greenleaf, a Schoolcraft College trustee, added, "I wish he had come out more strongly on education." But the Ford Motor Co. personnel manager was impressed by Bush's promise of "30 in 8" — 30 million new jobs in eight years.

BUSH MADE jokes about his own laid-back personality and turned them against the opposition.

"I'll be fair to the other side. I'll to hold my charisma in check," he said, winning a laughing ovation.

He ad-libbed a line about wife Barbara telling him to take off his shoes, relax and put up his "silver foot" — again to thunderous laughter.

"I may not be the most eloquent, but I learned early that eloquence won't draw oil from the ground."

He broke new ground:
• "Make sure the disabled are included in the mainstream."
• "I am going to stop ocean dumping... I am going to have the FBI trace the medical wastes."
• "We must reduce the harm done by acid rain" — a promise which Michigan delegates noted will play well in Canada.
• "I will ban chemical and biological weapons from the face of the earth."
• "I think we need harmony among the races in our country... leave the tired old baggage of bigotry behind."
• "A helluva speech," said Michigan delegation chairman L. Brooks Patterson, Oakland prosecutor. "He said he had to capture the imagination not only of the convention but of the public."
"It was properly tough, up to and including the death penalty. I was pleasantly surprised by his toughness," Patterson said, pointing to the "read my lips" line in which Bush repeated his refrain of "no new taxes."

MORE ON ACTIVITY-THE VIRTUES OF WALKING

I cannot overemphasize the importance of keeping active despite your arthritis. Nor can I stress enough the necessity to walk, no matter how great your physical limitations.

For a person with arthritis, walking is the best exercise. You can do it all year around, varying walking speed and distance as your strength permits. From spring through fall, you can walk outdoors. In winter or during rainy weather, you can continue this activity in a mall. As a last resort, you can walk by your house or in your home. It makes no difference if you must use a cane or walker, the effect of the movement is to strengthen your muscles and tone up your tendons and joints.

Walking gives all your muscles a drill, and may be preferable to swimming. The force of feet against a hard surface (cement) provides a mild stress that stimulates the vertebrae to develop bone, the best defense against osteoporosis.

Walking, when combined with heat and rest, gives you the satisfaction of knowing you have done the most to help yourself.

Military service matures Sinclair

By Brad Emons
staff writer

IT'S ONLY FITTING that an Army veteran like Jim Sinclair has done an about-face.

Today, the 6-foot, 229-pound fullback/linebacker is a second-year walk-on with the University of Michigan football team, pursuing a degree in business and scheduled to graduate this year. Ultimately he may wind up in one of U-M's graduate programs, preferably pre-law.

Those who knew Sinclair during his high school days at Plymouth Salem may find that hard to swallow.

"People may not believe how I've changed," said Sinclair. "Back then I had a lot of problems."

The 1983 graduate was a good all-around athlete, but couldn't avoid trouble in school. He was constantly at odds with coaches and teachers.

During his senior year, Sinclair was a member of the Rocks' 8-1 team, which lost only to Farmington Harrison in the Western Lakes Activities Association championship game.

HE PLAYED both linebacker and fullback, but was overshadowed by some of his high school teammates including: Dave Houle, who later went on to start and was a member of Michigan State's Rose Bowl team (Houle was also drafted by the New York Jets); Dave Slavin, who played baseball at the University of Missouri and is now in the minor leagues; and Scott Jurek, a fifth-year linebacker on Eastern Michigan's defending California Bowl championship squad.

football

With little academic ground to stand on, Sinclair's only alternative was to enlist in the Army where he spent three years with the 82nd Airborne Division, based in Fort Bragg, N.C.

"I worked for the Adjutant General's Company," Sinclair said. "It was a good experience."

During his enlistment, Sinclair went to school. When he was honorably discharged, he applied to go to Michigan and contacted U-M recruiting coordinator Fritz Seyferth about walking on the football team.

"I was getting good grades and I was looking for something close to home," said Sinclair. "I almost went to Hillsdale (College), but I got accepted to Michigan and I told myself whatever happens, it was going to be exciting. I knew I was going to meet a lot of good people no matter what happened."

WEIGHING ONLY 170 pounds in high school, Sinclair built himself up during his stint in the army.

"I was a persistent lifter and that gave me confidence I could play," he said.

U-M defensive coordinator Lloyd Carr calls Sinclair "one tough nut."

"He's done a nice job for us," Carr said. "He's not afraid to stick his nose in there."

His teammates refer to him as the "Sarge."

"The other day Bo (Schembechler) was calling me 'the Colonel' and I got a big kick out of that," Sinclair said. "He didn't know I was in the service until somebody had told him."

Last season, his first as a Wolverine, Sinclair did not get any playing time, but was named Rookie of the Week for his work on the scout team in preparation for the Northwestern game. He also played on both sides of the ball during U-M's 1988 Spring Game.

"When I won Rookie of the Week that helped me out a lot," he said. "Right now I'm just going to go out with a good attitude and do whatever I can for the team."

SINCLAIR admitted that playing in a game is a longshot, but he's not ruling out the possibility.

"I'm like the turtle," he said. "I'm always there, popping my head out

STEVE FECHT/staff photographer

Observerland will be will represented on the gridiron this season at the University of Michigan. Among the players suiting up (clockwise, top left) are All-American defensive tackle Mark Messner (Redford Catholic Central High), outside linebacker Alex Marshall (Redford Bishop Borgess), tailback Tony Boles (Westland John Glenn), middle guard Erik Knuth (Redford CC) and senior walk-on fullback/linebacker Jim Sinclair (Plymouth Salem). U-M opens Saturday, Sept. 10, at Notre Dame.

to see what's going on."

And if it wasn't for the Army, Sinclair admits things may have turned out differently.

"It was the best thing I ever did," he said. "Sometimes I didn't like it, but looking back it was a great experience. It taught me a lot of discipline."

Boles a new man, eyes starting position

WHAT A DIFFERENCE a year makes, Tony Boles can attest to that.

A year ago at this time a cloud of uncertainty hung over the promising tailback from the University of Michigan.

Boles was struggling academically and fell into disfavor with Bo Schembechler, who refused to let him practice until he got things straightened out with a Latin class, one of two required language courses for his major (kinesthesiology). As a result, he played sparingly in 1987.

"It was kind of depressing," said Boles. "I wished I could have played more."

But the former Westland John Glenn High All-Stater has become a new man, a more mature player who is on the verge of succeeding Jamie Morris as the starting tailback.

The vacancy left by the All-American created plenty of competition at tailback with the return of two other promising red-shirt juniors, including Warren DeLaSalle product Allen Jefferson and Tracy Williams of Sarasota, Fla.

But Schembechler told a press gathering Friday that all three will play a role in the Wolverines' 1988 season.

"WHEN THEY have the ball under their arms they all can do the job," said Schembechler. "There's no question about their running ability, but what each has to do is develop into an all-around running back like Morris was. They have to do the other things like blocking, faking and picking up blitzes in the backfield." Boles will tell you that the adjustment to playing football at U-M was never a problem, but feeling comfortable in the classroom was a different story.

"I knew the system, but school-wise everything had to fall into place," he said. "My attitude toward school has now changed. I'm getting the grades and I'm better situated than I was last year."

"I'm studying more often and not sliding off like I did. I'm not thinking about my social life too much."

Boles said that Morris proved to be a good example — on and off the field.

"His attitude is something you notice right away," Boles said. "I learned that he was a tough little guy who gave everything he had. The coaches are looking to fill Jamie's shoes and that's going to be hard to do."

WHILE BOLES was turning the corner academically, he also made the grade during the 1988 Spring Game when he rushed for 135 yards and two touchdowns, his longest run being a 63-yarder.

The performance put him in position to challenge for playing time. And it didn't hurt that Boles reportedly clocked a huzzling 4.2 in the 40-yard dash.

His speed may be unmatched on a football team loaded with "burners." But it takes more than running fast to gain PT (playing time) at Michigan.

"You have to know how to block and if you can't block, you can't play," Boles said. "You have to get the little things done." The 6-foot-1, 193-pounder said he is comfortable about sharing the tailback role with Jefferson and Williams.

"If I'm No. 1 — fine. But if not, that's fine, too," he said. "It doesn't matter if I start, it's how I play the game. I'd be happy just to play a little key role. If all three backs played, that's OK with me. That way it'll keep everybody fresh."

DURING HIS freshman year, a hand injury kept Boles out most of the season. But this year he feels completely healthy and is "very excited" about U-M's season opener Saturday, Sept. 10 at Notre Dame.

"This fall things are going very well," he said. What a difference a year makes.

Line play keys Borgess

By Brad Emons
staff writer

"Hold that line" may be an old football cliché, but the term has plenty of meaning for Redford Bishop Borgess High in 1988.

The Spartans may be low in numbers (32 on the varsity roster), but they won't be short of talent along the interior lines against their rough and tough Catholic League Central Division foes.

"This is the best interior front I've had in my three years," said Borgess coach Dan Henry, who is coming off successive 5-4 seasons.

Fred Mushinski, the Spartans' athletic director, is back as the team's defensive coordinator after a year's leave of absence.

The Spartans, who have been stinklers defensively under Henry, will take a slightly different approach in 1988.

Borgess will stay with its Michigan-style attack, but will toss in a few wrinkles from Michigan State's successful 42 defense.

"You have to have big people to control the line of scrimmage to run 'State's 42," Mushinski said. "And the middle linebacker has to be the ace."

THE LINE PLAY starts with two massive senior returnees, 6-foot-2, 275-pound Andre Cade and 6-1, 250-pound Dorian Marshall. "Cade is very strong and quick," Henry said. "He benches 400 pounds and runs a 4.6 (40-yard dash). What he has to do is make a decision on how good he wants to be."

"Marshall is working real hard. He's stronger and more mature. He's become more of a leader."

The Spartans' steamrolling duo will get plenty of support from a trio of returning senior linebackers including Kevin Davis (5-10, 190), Andre Newman (5-10, 210) and Mario Araquill (5-8, 225).

football

"They have good instincts," said Mushinski. "And they're tremendous hitters with a nose for the football. They don't have as much range, but have enormous size. It's all up to them if they want to reach their potential. The challenge is there."

The defensive secondary, which lost standouts Eric Emanuel (now Illinois State) and Jimmy Bailey to graduation, will be led by senior Ebbie Herbert (6-0, 175), senior Willis Jackson (5-11, 180), junior Ramone Mills (6-2, 170) and senior Jamill Martin (6-0, 165).

HERBERT ALSO replaces Emanuel at quarterback after playing wide receiver last season.

"Eric just had great feet and was a great leader," Henry said. "He was mechanically sound. Right now Ebbie has good feet, is a good leader and a good runner."

The Spartans will most likely add a few new twists offensively with the addition of former Garden City East coach Gary Humphrey as the team's offensive coordinator.

But it may be too early to predict what the Spartans might unveil.

Herbert, however, will have plenty of help in the backfield with the return of Arquill at fullback, who complemented All-Area tailback Corey Ivey (University of Toledo) well last season.

"We're looking for a good year from him," Henry said. "He's a bull."

Jackson, meanwhile, is an unproven back with good speed (4.6 in the 40). Henry hopes to have Jackson keep opposing defenses honest as Araquill did for Ivey last year.

IF HERBERT is able to pass the ball, the primary targets will be juniors Kareem Carpenter (6-4, 190) and Mills.

"We're working on getting them the ball every day," Henry said.

The offensive line will be anchored by Cade and Marshall at the tackles, along with senior guard LeRoy Wynn (6-1, 185), one of four Spartan captains who played linebacker last year; senior center William Partee (6-1, 250) and Davis (another captain), who will be the other guard.

"All I can say is that we'll run some different offensive sets," Henry said. "I don't think we'll ever catch anybody by surprise anymore."

"It's going to come down to your typical Central Division dogfights. Right now the division is the same old story — Catholic Central, Brother Rice and DeLaSalle, then you mention the teams dying to get in that group — Borgess, Notre Dame and Bishop Gallagher."

Borgess will open its season Saturday, Sept. 3, at the Pontiac Silverdome as part of a triple-header.

The first game pits the Spartans against Orchard Lake St. Mary's at 3 p.m. followed by Redford CC and Toledo Central Catholic at 5:30 p.m. and Birmingham Brother Rice and Flint Powers at 8 p.m.

General admission tickets are $5 (for all three games).

International experience valuable to Redford icer

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Patrick Neaton will become a bit more worldly during the next year.

The 17-year-old from Redford is embarking on a hockey odyssey that will take him beyond the Iron Curtain, as well as living in another country.

"It's going to be hard leaving all my friends because I've had a great three years at Catholic Central (High)," Neaton said. "That's going to be the tough part."

Today, Neaton, a defenseman from the U.S. National Midget Champion Little Caesars team, will travel to Boston and then onto Prague, Czechoslovakia, to represent the U.S. team in an eight-day Select 17 tournament.

When he returns, Neaton will spend only a week at home before heading for Thornhill, Ontario, to play in the Metro Toronto Junior B League.

Neaton, who carried a 3.7 GPA at CC, opted for Junior B in favor of Major Junior A in Canada to retain his college eligibility.

"Going to college and getting my degree is one of my goals," he said. "And right now this is the best for my career because I'm going to a good organization and I'll be getting good coaching."

"Both Hull and Verdun (Major Junior A teams) contacted me, but I told them I wanted to play in college. My mom (Karen) insists all of our kids to go to college."

NEATON was one of 68 players invited to the Olympic Training Center (July 17-24) in Colorado Springs,

hockey

Colo., to vie for a berth on the Select 17 squad.

Following the first game at the tryout camp, Neaton was confident he would be among the 20 survivors. As it turned out he was the only player from Michigan selected.

Neaton's only previous international experience was last year in Montreal when he played in the World Midget Tournament.

"I learned that it was wide-open skating, a faster tempo," he said. "The rinks in Europe are bigger, so you have to move the puck quickly. There's a lot of quick passing."

"The whole thing is sort of exciting. It's going to be different, but I think we have a good team. I'm looking forward to it."

The Redford defenseman will be tutored by Doug Woog, who also happens to be the head coach at the University of Minnesota.

Undoubtedly Woog and other college coaches have been keeping a close eye on the soft-spoken, 5-foot-11, 185-pound defenseman.

AMONG THE SCHOOLS that have expressed interest include Colorado College, Michigan Tech, NCAA champion Lake Superior State, St. Lawrence (N.Y.), Michigan and Michigan State.

Michigan Tech, however, may have a slight advantage.

Assistant coach Bruce Horsch made the preliminary arrangements for Neaton to play in Thornhill.

Meanwhile, Neaton spent most of the summer working at Tech's hockey schools as a counselor.

"It was the first summer I spent away from home," Neaton said. "I did a lot of water skiing and 'tubing' on Portage Lake."

Neaton's sister Mary also attends Tech.

The youngest of four children, Patrick also has a sister Theresa, who just graduated from UM-Dearborn with a teaching degree. Another sister, Sherrie, recently graduated from Livonia Franklin High. Patrick lives with his mother in Redford, while his father Pete resides in Livonia.

PATRICK WAS FIRST exposed to hockey at age 7 by his uncle who took him to a Red Wings game.

"I really like it so I borrowed my cousin Danny's skates and that's how I got started," he said.

Neaton first played in a Dearborn house league and gradually worked his way into the Caesars' organization, which has produced the likes of several outstanding pro players, the most recent and notable being Westland's Mike Modano, the NHL's top overall pick (by the Minnesota North Stars) in the June 1988 draft.

Neaton has become what he calls himself "a solid defenseman."

"Nothing flashy," he said. "I'll move the puck up when there's an opportunity. Right now my coach (Woog) likes the defense to play up a lot."

And with the international experience, Neaton should find himself closer to his ultimate goal.

"Someday I'd like to play on the Olympic team," he said.

Tough opener

Agatha will face state contender early

By Brad Emms
staff writer

ASOPHOMORE QUARTERBACK may hold the key to Redford St. Agatha's 1988 football season.

Brian Kutch, who played sparingly last season as a freshman, is the man the Aggies will count on in their bid for a C-Section title in the Catholic League's C-D Division.

"Brian has great potential," said Agatha coach Goddard, now entering his 13th season. "He's 6-foot-1, 190 pounds, a guy can run and throw just a good all-around athlete."

Six starters are gone from last year's 5-4 team including Tim Wilson and Tim Sullivan, whom Agatha replaced at quarterback. Also gone is tight end/defensive end David Crespi, guard/fullback Jason Tosti, nose guard Kurt Zachman and line-man Pat Boyle.

But Goddard is optimistic about the return of several key veterans. "This is the best overall talent we've had in the last three years," said the Aggie coach.

Goddard is enthused about several players, but most notably tackle/guard Mike Boyle, a 6-5, 230-pound senior who rates highly with a pair of former St. Agatha standouts Joe Churches and Kevin Rich.

"MIKE PLAYS with a lot of intensity and he's right there with Kevin Rich (now a linebacker at Central Michigan University)," Goddard said. "I'm not sure if he's on a level with Joe Churches yet (a former All-American Conference pick at CMU), but his intensity level is sometimes there."

Boyle will help protect Kutch at quarterback along with tight end Matt Shortall, a 5-10, 180-pound senior who is moving over from guard.

Shortall is also a linebacker who Goddard calls "one of our better athletes."

Other holdovers on the line include junior center Pat Wagner (6-1, 205), guard Andy Shepley (5-9, 185), Mesa, while senior Wayne Herdell and Brian Rich (Kevin's younger brother) are battling at the tackle slot.

The backfield should be potent with the return of last year's leading runner, 5-9, 175-pound junior Ken Prokes along with 5-8, 165-pound senior Matt Schick, the team's leading ball carrier two years ago.

Shick, a senior co-captain, was hampered last year by an ankle injury.

Another top running back is senior co-captain Warren Feigley (6-0, 205), who will also handle kicks and extra points. (Junior Ken Kroll will be the punter.)

"AT WIDE RECEIVER is junior Kevin Smith, a transfer from Redford Catholic Central, and senior Pat Cytkowski."

"The last two years we ran the wishbone, through last season we got out of it after the Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard game," Goddard explained. "We went back to the Power 3 (formation) because you're able to coach what you know. We were not a true option team. We have been more successful in the I and we have three good backs (Prokes, Schick and Feigley) to run out of it."

"When you play the Aggies will go both ways and defensively, Goddard is somewhat concerned although he says, "We have seven or eight decent linemen."

But a couple of early season injuries have cast a cloud over the season.

Scott Frush, a two-year starter at defensive end, is currently sidelined with a bad knee, while another OC

Russell starts for U.S. Nationals

Persistence does pay.

Just ask Troy's Joe Russell.

The Detroit's Troy High School student has been trying to qualify for the United States National Soccer Team for the past four years. But he realized, too, that he had to walk the road to success one step at a time.

In his first step, four years ago, he was selected to represent Michigan as a member of the state team. Three years ago, and every year since, he has been a member of the 18-player regional team, competing for a spot against state team players from 11 other states. This summer, Russell took the final step of his journey having been selected to the U.S. National team in June.

"This is something I've been trying to do for the last few years," Russell said. "It feels pretty good to make the final cut."

The United States, Canada and Jamaica are the teams to beat in Trinidad, but they should get stiff competition from Honduras, El Salvador, Costa Rica and host Trinidad.

"With Mexico out of the picture I think we have a really good chance of qualifying," Russell said. "We have already played Canada twice and we beat them twice, 4-0 and 4-2."

ALTHOUGH THIS is Russell's first stint as a full-fledged member of the National team, he is no stranger to top level competition.

Last fall, as a sophomore at Detroit Country Day High School, Russell helped the Yellow Jackets win the Class C state championship.

Russell will now accompany his new team to a tournament in Scotland later this month, then to a Youth World Cup qualifying tournament this November in Trinidad. Should the team finish in the top two in Trinidad, it would return to Scotland next June for the World Cup finals.

"IF WE QUALIFY for the World Cup (finals) that would really be great," Russell said.

And he feels the team has "a pretty good shot" at qualifying.

Perennial powerhouse Mexico is ineligible for the tournament since one of its teams was cited for an equipment violation last fall. With Mexico out of the running the door is open for the U.S. to qualify.

Earlier this year, as part of the tryout process, Russell had the opportunity to play with the National team. In March he played with the team in a tournament in San Antonio and in April the team traveled to Texas to play in the 1988 Dallas Cup. Competing against teams from Italy,

Short stay for Caesars

Livonia Little Caesars got in its last week at the All-American Amateur Baseball Association Tournament in Johnstown, Pa.

Unfortunately, the opposition collected more than its share of base hits as the Livonian Collegiate Baseball League champions went to two straight.

Tuesday at Point Stadium, NORD Boosters of New Orleans (La.) collected 21 hits against four different Caesars pitchers in a 13-6 triumph.

The loss eliminated Caesars from the double-elimination tournament.

JOE BURNETT sparked New Orleans with four hits, including an inside-the-park homer in the eighth inning. Chris Turpin added a two-run shot in the sixth, while Dan Louque contributed a solo homer.

Caesars, which left eight runners on base, got three hits from catcher Derrick Dowling and two each from Kevin Ritter and Steve Looney.

Looney, who shared team-high RBI honors with teammate Art George (two each), smashed a solo homer in the eighth.

baseball

Steve Witt was the losing pitcher. He was followed by Rob Jamula and Joe Mackiewicz.

IN THE TOURNAMENT opener Monday at Roxbury Field (No. 1), Buffalo, N.Y. trimmed Caesars, 8-5, building leads of 6-0 and 8-1.

Dave Bankokey keyed a five-run second for Buffalo, socking a two-run homer. Rich Torgalski also homered for the New Yorkers.

Caesars got three back in the fifth as Ritter, Looney and Dowling had consecutive hits.

Livonia was out-hit 15-11. Looney went 3-for-5 in a losing cause, while Kloc and Dowling added two hits apiece. Kloc contributed a solo homer in the third inning.

John Kuttel, who was the losing pitcher, collected two RBI.

YOU SAY YOU have tickets for the opening night of the symphony and you want to do something different with your hair.

Why not dig around in your jewelry box to find a bauble or bangle to add a whimsical touch to the new hair-do.

"What we're seeing out of New York is a trend to more formal hair styles with hair ornaments," said Sharon Rees of Rees and Associates Inc. "We're seeing more interest in dressing up and using jewelry that normally would sit on the dresser or be worn infrequently."

Here's an example:

Stylist Terry Schilling used nine diamond tennis bracelets to create a modern day tiara with braids for a fashion jewelry program, sponsored by the Diamond Information Center in New York, at a recent Michigan Retailers Association convention and trade show.

"FAKES (JEWELRY) were the ones that started this, and affluent women, as they get more successful, have gone to the real thing," said Schilling. "I've been doing this for 22 years and have done a lot of celebrities who wanted me to work a piece of jewelry into their hair style."

"It's the influence of shows like 'Dynasty'. Women see Joan Collins doing it and they want that look, too."

Designers are coming up with jewelry that can be worn as brooches or as sparkling hair ornaments. Even a diamond necklace can span the brow for the ultimate in evening elegance.

Mark Beltchenko has designed a black onyx hair ornament that is drilled so that the wearer can show off up to eight diamond stud earrings.

Link Wachler used a diamond-tipped spear to catch a ponytail in a ring of gold, accented with a waterfall of diamonds.

"When people think of using a diamond hair ornament they think about a pin on a piece of ribbon," Rees said. "Diamonds are versatile and designers and stylists are showing that diamond jewelry can be used in a different way."

BUT DON'T think the diamond hair ornaments can be acquired for a low price. The effect created with Schilling's tiara of tennis bracelets can cost between $1,500 and $10,000, depending on the size of the diamonds and the number of bracelets used.

Beltchenko's onyx ornament, complete with the diamond studs, costs $10,700. Without the baubles, it's $700.

And Wachler's ponytail ring carries a cool price tag of $6,500.

"What a woman uses depends on the type of social life she has, but whatever is done with the jewelry should be done tastefully," Schilling said. "Women are making more money and that has an influence on the use of diamonds."

Diamonds are hair's best friend

Hairstylist Terry Schilling creates a modern-day tiara with braids and diamond tennis bracelets from Charles W. Warren of Michigan.

A black onyx hair ornament is trimmed with diamond studs and 18-karat gold spray. The ornament costs $10,000 or for $700 minus the diamonds.

A diamond-tipped gold spear catches a ponytail in a ring of gold, accented with a waterfall of diamonds. It costs $6,500.

Lasers light Meadow Brook nights

The skies will literally come to life over Oakland University's Rochester campus Friday and Saturday, Aug. 26-27, when the Meadow Brook Music Festival stages its annual laser light concerts.

Animated full-color graphics will be projected on a screen over the orchestra, while the laser beams around the pavilion and over the lawn during the two 8:30 p.m. concerts.

Richard Kapp, whose highly successful "The Greatest Hits of . . ." recordings are on the CBS and Masterworks labels, will conduct the Meadow Brook Festival Orchestra.

Pianist David Syme, a former Detroit resident, will perform Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue" during the concerts.

The laser light show is being orchestrated by the Boston-based Image Engineering.

Lawn tickets at $12 each are still available for the concerts and can be ordered by calling 379-3316.

'Married to Mob' is enjoyable, cute

"Married to the Mob" (B) (R) 110 minutes.

Enjoyable and cute film as Angela (Michelle Pfeiffer) is widowed when mob boss Tony "The Tiger" Russo (Dean Stockwell) dies. Her hit-man hubby, Frankie (Alec Baldwin), she figures that's her ticket out of the mob, but Tony wants her and so does FBI agent Mike Downey (Matthew Modine) in more than one way. Reviewed by Jennifer Morse.

STILL PLAYING:

"The Big Blue" (D+) (PG) 110 minutes.

A shy 12-year-old boy's wish is granted when he wakes up one morning in a man's body. Tom Hanks skillfully captures the innocent, childlike qualities and gestures of a 12-year-old trying to live in an adult world. Reviewed by Cathy Guyer.

"Nightmare on Elm Street Part 4 - The Dream Master" (C) (R) 90 minutes.

It looks like Freddy's power is weakening and so is the series. Story line is developed, but the expected suspense and gore is lacking. Even "Nightmare" fans will be disappointed. Reviewed by Jennifer Morse.

"Pascal's Island" (A-) (PG-13) 101 minutes.

Excellent photography and fine characterizations in this classic portrayal of loyal civil servant forgotten by home office. For 20 years Basil "Pascal" (Ben Kingsley of "Gandhi"), faithful servant of the Ottoman Empire, has reported to Constantinople from his station on the Greek island of Nisi. No one ever responds. British adventurer Anthony Bowles (Charles Dance) is catalyst for tragedy as Pascal searches for meaning in his life.

"A Summer Story" (B+) (PG-13) 100 minutes.

Well done tragic love story. After 18 years, Frank (James Wilby) returns to the farm where he met his true love, Meagan (Imogen Stubbs). He recalls their romance and learns some shocking things. Reviewed by Jennifer Morse.

"Big" (A) (PG) 95 minutes.

Mistaken identity is comedy's strong suit and that's what Bettie Midler, Bettie Midler, Lily Tomlin and Lily Tomlin do so well in this story of two sets of twins mixed at birth. Technically superb production but pace falters occasionally.

"Big Business" (A-) (PG) 95 minutes.

Mistaken identity is comedy's strong suit and that's what Bettie Midler, Bettie Midler, Lily Tomlin and Lily Tomlin do so well in this story of two sets of twins mixed at birth. Technically superb production but pace falters occasionally.

"The Blob" (D) (R) 90 minutes.

This remake just doesn't cut it. Horror film fans may love this blob with an '80s touch, but too much blood and guts and too little story. But don't worry, Kevin Dillon and Shawnee Smith save the day. Reviewed by Jennifer Morse.

Only Child self-titled debut album on R a page Records has received rave reviews in the United Kingdom.

Sabu sings against child abuse

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

Paul Sabu only came with his acoustic guitar. But the heavy metal artist left with a heavy heart. All Sabu saw were the smiles of children, when he visited the Village of Childhelp U.S.A. in Beaumont, Calif., an 80-bed facility for abused and neglected youth. He got involved.

"I took an acoustic guitar and I ended up playing for an hour," said Sabu, the son of movie star Sabu "The Elephant Boy." "We were playing campfire songs in front of 60 kids that would wrench your heart."

Child abuse has been covered in song by Suzanne Vega ("Luka") and 10,000 Maniacs ("What's A Matter Here?"). Sabu's group Only Child, a four-man heavy metal outfit, has taken the call a step further.

All proceeds and net royalties from the band's recently released single, "Save a Place in Your Heart," will be donated to Childhelp U.S.A. Money will be used to operate the organization's nationwide child abuse helpline.

To lend further support, Only Child is presenting a series of free concerts, including one Thursday at The Ritz in Roseville. All of which is designed to bring attention to a problem with estimates that of every case reported four go undetected. And an average of 2 million child abuse incidents are reported a year.

"European radio is different than it is here," he said. "They either like you or they don't. It's good and it's odd all in the same breath. You find you're on the charts next to 'Ferry Corso's Greatest Hits.'"

The music offering of Only Child is hard, yet melodic and punchy. Sabu produced the album, of which he is quite proud.

Until Only Child's latest, Sabu's releases have been sporadic. Aside from the "Heartbreak" disc in 1985, he released an album on the since-defunct Motown Tamala subsidiary Morocco with Kidd Glove.

HE ALSO made, gasp, a disco album in 1979. But Sabu appears to have more than made amends with "Only Child." And word must be getting around.

Sabu was the victim of a rather peculiar burglary. Thieves only took his purple guitar, which is featured on the "Only Child" album cover. "I died," he said, "I had a Rolex lying around and $12,000 worth of hi-fi gear."

Perhaps, it was a collector, banking on Sabu's success with Only Child.

"Either that or they just liked the guitar."

Only Child will perform a free concert Thursday at The Ritz, 17580 Frazer, corner of 104th Mile and Gratiot, Roseville. For more information, call 778-8150.

Bad luck doesn't get Bronco Sisters down

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

Whoever told the Bronco Sisters to "break a leg," well, they listened. And while they were at it, some group members also managed to fracture some hands and some arms. Within the last year, four of six Bronco Sisters have been in slings one time or another.

Forget the soundman. Get this band a physical therapist. "We were considering playing hospital wards," said lead singer John Kennedy about the band's run of bad luck. "It was real frustrating after a while. Rando (Dawkins, guitarist) works for a hand specialist ironically enough. He saved off his cast three times so he could play guitar."

Injuries sustained by the Bronco Sisters include Doug Dickson, broken right hand; Dan Indreica, injuries from a motorcycle accident; Kennedy, broken leg; and Dawkins, broken left hand. Dawkins and Dickson broke their hands the same day skiing.

Other band members Chris Brown of Birmingham and Jon Briggs have somehow escaped injury.

With the recent layoffs, the Bronco Sisters have only been able to make the MAH top 10 list. But the band is ready to move from the medical charts to the music charts.

The Bronco Sisters plan of attack includes a sound that encompasses both rock and roll and dance rhythms. Heavy drum and bass lines are cemented with an array of atmospheric guitar work. Kennedy's vocals go with the flow, managing to rise above the beat to make his point.

LYRICALLY, the Bronco Sisters touch on the social issues of the day. But Kennedy said that is beginning to change.

Instead of becoming too heavy in the message department, there's been an attempt to lighten things up a bit. At the same time, the Bronco Sisters don't want to fall into the category of a junk band either.

Kennedy and Dickson will have to wrestle with that as the group's primary songwriters. As for the rest of the band Kennedy joked: "I don't think the rest of the band knows what we're singing about."

The Bronco Sisters are trying to get record companies to know what they're singing about. The recent time off has been put to good use. The band did some writing and recording of new songs.

With more of a focus, the Bronco Sisters plan to perform live again. Dates haven't been set yet, but look for them to kick in around September.

And they might not be found at one of the clubs in the area. The Bronco Sisters have put a twist on playing live by doing gigs at art galleries in Detroit. Shows at the Willis Gallery and the Detroit Artists Market have gone over well.

REVIEWS

INSTINCT

— Iggy Pop

The first side, the first song, first sound featured on "Instinct" (A&M) is a grinding power chord, of the chain saw variety.

This may be a not-so subtle reminder that Iggy — he never was subtle — is back. Iggy (or Mr. Pop, as the New York Times refers to him) never left, but has changed in recent years. He got married and apparently has quit smoking, ingesting drugs and carving his belly with shards of glass while performing.

He is 46 now, with 20 years of recording under his belt. First with The Stooges on his own, he was at the forefront of the punk movement.

Iggy has carved out his own bit of rock 'n' roll legend, but he has never enjoyed mainstream popularity. His songs aren't often heard on the radio, which is, of course, commercial radio's problem. Though David Bowie forged a hit recently with Iggy's tape, "China Girl."

So Iggy has changed, but he seems to be telling us he hasn't mellowed. "Instinct keeps me runnin'..." he sings on the title cut.

On the opening song, "Cold Metal," between the power guitar riffs, he sings, "I'm a product of America/ I'm the man in the prison." There seems to be some homage to Iggy's Detroit roots on this tape: "Rust-buckets in the sky," he sings. Ex-Sex Pistol Steve Jones is back, playing guitar.

But there's not much of Mr. Pop's typical black humor here, no talk of dog food, of being a conservative, of wanting to be your dog. He tells us he is low down in one song and claims to have a hole in his heart in another.

But if Iggy is in fact down, he is certainly not out. The LP's last song, he sings: "You can stuff hamburger in my head/ But I ain't gonna be no squarehead."

BLUES IN THE BOTTLE

— various artists

"Bob Dylan didn't appear out of a vacuum."

So begin the liner notes to the just-released import collection "Blues in the Bottle." The point is that fans of young Dylan — who love that solo guitar and harmonica sound and want more — should look to his peers from the early '60s folk-boom days.

They're here on "Blues in the Bottle." It's a well put-together collection, mixing gutsy blues, ballads and traditional numbers, backed by jangling guitars and the occasional harmonica or autoharp.

The compact disc package is longer than the album version and marries rare appearances on CD by some great folkies like Ramblin' Jack Elliott, Dave Van Ronk and Tom Rush.

While they talk about a resurgence of interest in folk music these days, some of the new folkies — Claudia Schmidt and Sally Rogers are among the most prominent — have the fire or compelling style of Elliott, Van Ronk or Rush. That makes this collection a must for folk fans.

Elliott's rollicking version of Woody Guthrie's outlaw ballad "Pretty Boy Floyd" is here. So is Rush's slide guitar-backed version of "Barbara Allen" and Van Ronk's moving renditions of "Motherless Children" and "The House Carpenter."

Other good sides are "Blues in the Bottle" and "Fiddler's Dram" by the quirky Holy Modal Rounders and the soulful, harmonica-backed "Down on Me" and the eerie "He Was a Friend of Mine" by Eric Von Schmidt.

Until they release a Ramblin' Jack Elliott or Van Ronk collection on CD, "Blues in the Bottle" is the best folk-oriented CD available — next to early Dylan.

The Tenement Year

— Pere Ubu

Remember when you have your first taste of beer and your mouth tasted like a camel's armpit and you couldn't understand how anybody drank the stuff? My, how times change...

Pere Ubu are an acquired taste.

Pere Ubu are a love affair. Something to be worked at. Something that is daunting at first, but as you give more of yourself to it, it envelops you, possesses you, haunts you. You don't understand it, but you want more.

It's exciting. It's challenging. It's frustrating.

Life and death? No. It's much more important than that. If you are unfamiliar with Pere Ubu, here's a little history.

Formed in 1975, they released four independent singles that frustrated enough attention from major labels to release their first album, "Modern Dances." This LP, along with their second, "Dub Housing," are of such a caliber so as to be regarded as essential listening for any music lover.

Over the next four years, they recorded three more studio LPs, but in the process they exhausted themselves. Accordingly, they stopped working together and pursued individual projects.

Allen Ravenstein worked with Red Crayola, Scott Krauss and Tony Maimone, founded Home & Garden, and David Thomas fronted a succession of surrealistic song and poetry troupes — The Pedestrians and The Wooden Birds.

As the years passed, they found themselves associating more with each other and it became clear that it was time for a revitalization of Pere Ubu.

When you drop the needle on "Something's Gotta Give," the first track, you'll realize quickly that this is not George Michael. Pere Ubu are almost avant-garde. They are the quirky ensemble from which Talking Heads, The Fall and Public Image crawl.

Cover yourself in this LP. Let it take you a while to get it, love it. You'll be eternally grateful.

'Temptation': Magnificent failure

By Dan Greenberg film critic

The last temptation of Christ according to Kazantzakis was the devil, flesh. So it's quite apparent why many Christians are offended by Martin Scorsese's controversial film and its treatment of Christ's duality, his physical nature as man and his spiritual one as god.

The Jews of the time, as depicted filmically by Scorsese, were no bargain either, at least not from a contemporary Jewish point of view.

But contemporary sensibilities are not the issue. The world was a pretty crude place two millennia ago, even more so than today. What we're really concerned with is Scorsese's thesis on how — or if — we can effectuate a relationship with God and whether or not love or hate will rule the world. That issue gets lost amidst the welter of questions the film raises.

"The Last Temptation" Christ (Willem Dafoe) is all too human for contemporary traditionalists. One problem in making such a film is two thousand years of tradition. Wars were fought over his nature but, in the main, the traditional view of Christ is spiritual.

Hence "The Last Temptation of Christ" offends conventional views. In the spirit of the First Amendment and the American tradition of free speech and open inquiry, however, the film is an interesting attempt to discuss Christ's nature and the ever-present war between spirit and flesh. Whatever your attitude, don't burn it.

CHRIST'S TEMPTATION is, however, a pretty big topic, even for a 2 1/2 hour film. I have to hand it to Scorsese and his production crew for the magnificent film they created. Michael Ballhaus' photography, in particular, adds immeasurably to the movie's impact.

Costuming, music, makeup, all production techniques are combined effectively in the film, most particularly acting by a large, talented cast which will engrave indelible images of biblical times in everyone's mind. Presumably that period was as sexually explicit and graphically violent as the film depicts. Hence the "R" rating is well-deserved.

Despite high production values, "The Last Temptation" has major flaws in writing and editing. Paul Schrader's screenplay and Thelma Schoonmaker's editing credit viewers with far more knowledge than is reasonable to assume. They don't teach transubstantiation much any more and most people aren't particularly well-versed in the philosophic debates that have raged about Christ's spirit and flesh.

Neither is the film's historical data clear unless one is already familiar with the intricacies of Jewish biblical politics. To its credit, "The Last Temptation" has major holes in writing and editing. Paul Schrader's screenplay and Thelma Schoonmaker's editing credit viewers with far more knowledge than is reasonable to assume. They

PART OF the reason the film offends traditionalists is that very modern socio-political, economic interpretation that have raged about Christ's spirit and flesh. It's hard to determine how much blame the director, Scorsese, deserves for those faults. But they are at the heart of "The Last Temptation's" major defect, a choppy pattern, especially during the first 20 minutes or so when, I imagine, even those familiar with Christ's story will have to do double-time mentally to keep pace. Ultimately, the film fails because it has set about such an impossible task. It's worth seeing, I suppose — beyond the novelty value of current controversy — because its production values are so strong, in particular the magnificent photography.

All the good qualities notwithstanding, "The Last Temptation of Christ" fails, but it is a magnificent failure.

Weight does count when backpacking during the summer

By Marie Chestney staff writer

I definitely need a hat. Under that steaming sun, the blood in my head would boil if I didn't wear one. That's four ounces.

And I can't sleep on the ground without a pad. Hammock. That's almost two pounds.

I'd love to take that paperback. No better place to read than on a cliff. But, that's another five ounces added to the sack. But I guess I'd better leave it.

No one counts ounces like a backpacker. After six hours on a dusty, up-and-down trail, an overloaded backpack is as welcome as dysentery.

Backpackers have a knack for cutting life to its barest essentials. RVers can cart along the TV and campers can grab Pepsi from a cooler. But backpackers start fretting when they stuff in an extra pair of underwear.

Backpackers divide life's basic essentials into three groups: Survival gear. Bare-bone necessities. And luxuries.

As Rambo knows, a knife is for survival and every wilderness addict needs one (not to fight off bears but to cut the bread or rope).

For a summer trek, a backpacker counting ounces doesn't really need the four walls (that's five pounds) of a tent to bed down at night. So the backpacker can take a chance and leave the heavy thing at home.

And a backpacker can devour dinner out of a Sierra cup. That, in the world of backpacking, makes a tin plate a luxury.

A FORK isn't even on the best-dressed backpacker's list. In the wilderness, the knife and spoon are king.

Backpackers learn fast how to do more with less. If they don't, their backs, and their feet, pay the penalty.

Just like city folks, backpackers know just how much hassle they're willing to endure. So they pick and choose among the bare-bones and the luxuries, taking along a luxury (swim suit) when it suits them, and leaving behind a bare bone (foot powder).

There's even one Easterer who won't go into the Appalachians without a bottle of wine. Of course, to compensate for the taste of the grape, he leaves behind an extra pair of socks.

But backpackers can't shrink, can't pick and choose, on the survival gear. If the backpacker's motto is "expect the unexpected," then a compass or poncho or whistle can become a life saver.

After all, one of the joys of backpacking is to come back to your own soft bed — safely.

The wise backpacker never wears hiking boots that haven't been broken in. And the backpacker always starts out in clothes appropriate for that day's weather.

Beyond these life — and body savers — lies a whole slew of bare-bone necessities the backpacker should find room for in the pack. These include a sleeping bag and pad, tent and ground cloth, one complete set of extra clothing from neck to toe, hat, gloves, extra light-and-heavy weight socks, cooking gear, water purifier, nylon cord, first aid kit, moleskin for blistered feet, trowel and toilet paper, toothpaste, toothbrush and other toilet items, insect repellent and watch.

HERE'S where the ounces start adding up to pounds. Some backpackers get so antsy about these extra ounces that they cut holes in the toothbrush and shave the blank edges off the map.

Sounds kinda silly, doesn't it, considering they also pack in a camera or binoculars as a luxury they can't live without on the trail.

But that's part of the joy of backpacking, to take on the trail what you want, what's important to you, after the survival gear and bare essentials have been tossed in. After all, you're the only one who gets to sweat under the load.

Colin Fletcher, this country's premier backpacker and author of three editions of "The Complete Walker," has few kind words to say about cameras on the trail. He believes they interfere with the mystique of the wilderness.

Other top-notch backpackers, such as photographer-author Galen Rowell, make a living off of hauling cameras and camera gear into the wilderness.

But then again, Fletcher is a stickler on hiking with a stick. Many backpackers today think hiking sticks are old-fashioned, cumbersome and a pain in the wrist.

There's one backpacker out west who claims he carries only water on the trail, to rejuvenate his system. Others take along only food that doesn't need cooking.

Shoreline backpacking is best bet for summer

Unless you thrive under the hot sun, now is not the most ideal time to go backpacking in Michigan.

But there's good news for those who must stretch their legs and exercise their backs in the heat of the summer. Michigan, because of its magnificent miles of shoreline, is blessed with a number of backpacking trails near big bodies of water.

With breezes floating in from Lakes Superior and Michigan, the load just doesn't seem as hot and heavy. In fact, near water the load can seem downright comfortable, and a night camped on a beach is one of life's great moments.

After all, one of the joys of backpacking is to come back to your own soft bed — safely.

ale, the only island among our nation's 50 national parks, or as close as North-house Dunes, off Lake Michigan north of Ludington.

They can climb Pictured Rocks National Seashore between Munising and Grand Marais, or walk the forested trails in Porcupine Mountains State Park near Silver City. Both Upper Peninsula trails are near small lakes, rivers, creeks and the lake itself, so there's no lack of watering and swimming spots.

Cruising Lovers, love-lorn discover romance in the moonlight

By M.B. Dillon staff writer

The folks at Boblo no longer hire a man to make sure couples maintain a respectable distance apart while dancing. And the 5-cent-per-dance fee has been dropped.

On summer evenings, young people no longer flock to Boblo's dance pavilion, reputed in 1913 to be the largest in the world.

But lovers and the love-lorn still board the 86-year-old Boblo boats on

Now boarding...

It's not too late to enjoy a summer Boblo cruise. Here's what's in store for the rest of the season:

Friday, Aug. 26: Flashback (plays oldies and popular tunes).

Saturday, Aug. 27: Teen King (oldies, Top 40).

Saturday, Sept. 3: RH Factor (oldies).

Sunday, Sept. 4: Steve King and the Ditties (oldies) close out this summer's Boblo cruises. Priced at $10.95 per person, the moonlight cruise leaves the Boblo dock at 11 p.m. sharp on Fridays and Saturdays, returning at 1 a.m.

To get there, take the Lodge Freeway to I-75 to the Clark Street exit. Clark is the first street past the bridge to Canada exit. Go south (left) on Clark Street two blocks to the river.

Passengers are advised to arrive by 10 p.m.

There's not much time left to sail the Detroit River on Boblo's moonlight cruises.

Nancy Yarost, Boblo's public relations manager, said the moonlight cruise "is very popular."

"Last year 33,000 people went on the moonlight cruises," she said. "You'll see anyone from 14 to 90 years old on board."

Wondering what to wear? "Just about anything goes, but we suggest casual clothes," said Yarost. "But we're as likely to see women in a mini skirt and crop top as someone wearing a sequin dress."

Guy's apparel can range from natty to nautical. At Boblo, a "flat belly" decked out in tennis shoes, jeans with holes in the knees, a flight jacket and a skipper's hat blends right in with the 45-year-old sporting a coat, tie, pressed shirt, plaid pants and white shoes.

PASSENGERS aren't allowed to bring glass containers or alcohol aboard. But if you pack a picnic, you're free to enjoy it at the tables and chairs Boblo supplies.

Wine coolers, beer, hot dogs, potato chips, popcorn and ice cream are sold on the boat.

After you've crossed the gangplank, gaze across the river's blue-green swells and hear the S.S. Columbia's steam whistle blow, drowning out sound for miles around.

You can almost picture the Canadian and American rebels who invaded Boblo Island in 1838 in quest of a representative government in British Canada, and the Huron Indians who once occupied Boblo Island (or Etiowitendannan as they called it).

Those long-gone compatriots probably wouldn't have believed that years later, dancing, romancing Detroiters would while away summer nights to the strains of reggae, rhythm and blues, soul and rock'n'roll while floating down the river on a boat as long as a battlefield.

But they do. Every weekend, all summer long.

Putting the wind in your sails

By Carol Azizian
staff writer

Winds raging at 35-40 knots. White caps on the lake. Boats tossing from side to side like clothes in a spin cycle.

A beginning sailor's nightmare. "We were coming about (turning) after we came through the eye of the wind and we got a big gust. We weren't able to release the main sheet fast enough so we capsized. I took the halyards and the sails down. A power boat came by, leaned over the side and picked up the mast. We stood on the centerboard and righted the boat."

"We lost a sponge, a pair of sunglasses, the back of an earring. But I never broke my nail and my watch is still ticking."

Peggy Innes, an instructor with the American Youth Hostels' sailing program, was sopping wet and resting on the Kent Lake shore in Kensington Metropark when she recounted the incident.

Weather conditions like that can take the wind out of your sails, she admitted.

"I was hiking (leaning over the edge of the boat) out so far that my hind end went in the water," recalled Bob Cowen, 43, of Farmington Hills.

"I was laughing so hard that I couldn't ask for help."

"They (the other passengers) think it was an accident," he said with a smirk. "But, for me, it was a very refreshing dip."

THE MORAL of this story: When you test the high seas for the first time, you might get more than your feet wet.

Braving the elements isn't always this rough. Sometimes it's so hot and the winds are so light that students drift through their entire class sessions.

Despite the unpredictability of the weather, some 100-125 new students try out their sea legs every year in the AYH sailing program. There are about 400 sailors in all levels — from beginning to advanced.

Classes begin in May and run through September. The last class is from Friday, Sept. 9, through Sunday, Sept. 11, at Proud Lake Recreation Area between Wixom and Commerce roads off Duck Lake Road.

"A lot of people enroll in fall classes because they don't want to wait until next spring," said Susan Ankrom, AYH director. "We'll have boats in the water through October."

Once they complete the course, beginners take two tests — one on the water and the other on paper. If they pass, they receive a skipper's rating, which enables them to sail the 18-foot Interlake boats docked at Stony Creek and Kensington Metroparks.

Skippers who want to move up the ranks must complete a boating safety course either through the U.S. Power Squadron or the U.S. Coast Guard.

WITH A captain's rating, sailors can man the AYH's 26-foot boats on Lake St. Clair. An ensign's rating allows them to sail 30-foot vessels.

To qualify for a voyager's rank, ensigns cruise through the North Channel in Canada with an instructor and a crew. Voyagers get special privileges such as chartering boats for family vacations.

All skippers must volunteer a minimum of 14 hours by taking new students out on practice sails or teaching maintenance lessons.

"This is a voluntary organization and it's the only way we can keep the program going," explained Ian Tschirhart, sail coordinator.

Cowen, a computer equipment salesman, and his wife, Karen, sailed through the class, but they haven't taken the test yet.

"My husband and I ski all winter and we were looking for a summer sport," Karen said. "This is the only way to go, if you can't afford to buy a boat."

Chuck Abela, 46, of Plymouth got hooked on sailing eight years ago when he took a Windjammer cruise on 132-foot ship in the West Indies.

He's been on the high seas all his life. As a young boy growing up in Malta, he fished off the coast with his father every day. In 1949, Abela and his family crossed the Atlantic on a passenger liner. When he served in the Marine Corps from 1961-65, he was part of a battalion landing team in the Formosa Straits.

"EVENTUALLY, I want to buy a 26-footer, move down to the West Indies and take people on charters," he said.

But for now, an 18-foot sailboat will suffice. He bought it soon after finishing the AYH class.

"I haven't been certified yet," said Abela, a pressman for the Detroit Free Press. "It's been way too hot to go sailing."

After sailing with a "voyager," Kathy Wallace, 34, of Redford decided to try it herself.

"I don't like hot weather and being on the water seemed like a good way to cope with the summer," said Wallace, a computer operator for Second Century Real Estate. "It's kind of overwhelming," she confessed. "There are so many things to watch for — where the wind is coming from, boat traffic."

BRIAN TOOVALIAN

Beginning sailors Chuck Abela of Plymouth and Kathy Wallace of Redford row out into Kent Lake before setting sail on a windier summer day.

You can still set sail

It's never too late to go sailing.

Classes are scheduled in September through both the American Youth Hostels program in Berkley and the Jack Leverenz Sailing School in Grosse Pointe.

• AYH — Introduction is at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 30, at Kent Lake in Kensington Metropark. Lessons begin at 6:30 p.m. Friday, Sept. 9, and continue from 8:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 10, and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 11, at Proud Lake Recreation Area between Wixom and Commerce roads off Duck Lake Road.

Cost is $100 for the class plus $17.50 for an associate membership or $23.50 for a full membership. An additional $40 covers overnight lodging at the Outdoor Center Lodge. Participants may pay $55 which enables them to use the boats through October. For more information, call 545-0513.

• Jack Leverenz — Evening classes are 6-9 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday during the first week and Tuesday and Thursday the second week. Next session begins Monday, Aug. 29. Cost is $175.

Four days a week — 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday, Aug. 29, through Thursday, Sept. 1 — costs $225.

Weekends — 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Aug. 27-28; Sept. 3-4; Sept. 10-11 — costs $145.

Boats are Ontario 23s and are docked on Nine Mile and Jefferson. Sailors go out on Lake St. Clair. Participants receive a certificate. If they pass a written test, they will be certified by the American Sailing Association. For more information, call 886-7887.

Great Lakes are great for salmon fishing charters

By Iris Sanderson Jones
contributing travel editor

Q: A friend is coming up from Florida in September. He's taken us deep-sea fishing in Florida and we'd like to take him salmon fishing in Michigan. Where should we go? We don't have any decent equipment. Can we rent some and go out on our own in a small boat, or should we charter? What does it cost? Are the fish safe to eat?

A: Michigan fishing expert Gordon Charles, who writes about his fishing experiences all over the world, has some good advice for you. He writes for newspapers and magazines nationwide. Among other things, he said, "don't try to go out on a boat by yourselves."

"I wouldn't want to be on any of the Great Lakes on anything less than a 16-foot boat. The fish are so far out they are beyond the safety of a small boat."

You probably know that coho and chinook salmon were planted in the Great Lakes to clean up the alewives. The salmon start early in the summer at the south end of Lake Michigan and migrate north, following the alewives. Lake Superior salmon are smaller, but fishermen say they taste better because they don't eat quite as many alewives, which produce a thick-bodied, slightly fatty fish.

Salmon and trout are the main attractions in lakes Michigan, Huron and Superior, walleye and bass in Lake Erie, walleye, muskie and bass on Lake St. Clair. Since your main interest is salmon, why not focus on Lake Michigan.

ACCORDING TO Gordie Charles, "In Lake Michigan, the salmon migrate north to Petoskey and then swing back into Grand Traverse Bay, which is like a small lake of 200 square miles. If a fisherman is based in Traverse City, he can almost always get out on Grand Traverse Bay. If you hire a charter out of other places, you take more chance on the weather."

Most of us define weather as hot or cold, wet or dry, but it means more than that to real fishermen like Gordie Charles.

"Winds go from west to east. The warm west wind creates warm water, which melts and mixes with colder water, as it goes east. That means the water is layered. You may have to go out 15 or 20 miles to find the right mix of warm and cold water in Lake Michigan."

"Fishermen are looking for the thermocline. The top layer may be too warm, but the deep lower level may be too cold or not have enough oxygen for the fish. We're looking for a middle layer. That's why you must go out a fair distance to find the fish.

"Lake Huron is the opposite. Warm west winds start on the Michigan shore, so you don't need to go out so far to find the thermocline. Great Lakes charter boats use a lot of equipment to measure temperature, depth, etc."

Weather sometimes keeps charter fishing boats from going out far enough to get the big fish. I went out of Manistee on the Ginger Brandy last year at this time. It was a beautiful August day, but the water was choppy enough beyond the breakwater to make me seasick.

CHARLES SAID he wouldn't be afraid to pick any charter boat out of the yellow pages, but you can do better than that. Call toll-free (800) 5432-YES for a state tourism booklet listing fishing and specialty charters, which includes boat size, passenger levels, etc. Don't be afraid to ask how long they've been licensed and how much experience they've had.

The average charter charges $60 per person for half a day, with a minimum of four fishermen.

Charles said that if you charter a half day, pick the morning and go early. And he means early — "You should be 20 miles out on Lake Michigan by 5 a.m." (For those of you who can't stand early mornings, I offer this encouragement. We started out at 9 a.m. and caught our limit before 11 a.m. You might or might not be that lucky.)

Your Florida buddy might like to know that Great Lakes fishing is very similar to deep-sea fishing, except, of course, the fish are smaller — no sailfish in these waters.

Charles told me that we might be catching 100-pound fish a few years from now. The state record now is about 50 pounds.

"Charter fishing is one of the safest sports," Charles said. "Nobody runs a charter boat for hire without passing strict safety rules by the Coast Guard, which makes annual inspections."

Can you eat the fish you catch?

CHARLES SAID that he would eat the fish out of any of the Great Lakes.

"The government tests them by grinding up the whole fish, skin, bones, meat and all. Charter captains trim all the bone, skin, fat, etc., off the fish, so you end up with lean filets. I heard a scientist say that you would have to eat 800 pounds of those filets before you'd be in trouble!"

Reeling in a salmon on a charter boat of Manistee can be as adventurous as reeling in a sailfish in the Gulf of Mexico.

Q. Since childhood I have saved coins and enjoyed the feeling of being "rich," but I wonder if it's a good idea?

A. While piggy-banking coins is a fine old American custom, it is also a cluttery and time-consuming habit.

I was recently in a bank when a young man appeared holding a large, heavy container of rolled coins. He commented to the teller about how long it had taken to wrap all the coins properly, then painstakingly wrote his name and account number on the curved outer wrapping of each roll.

(He could have saved considerable time by marking the outside of the wrappers first, using address labels or a rubber stamp with his name and account number, and a mold manufactured for the purpose of stacking and counting coins.)

One of the most important aspects of organizing is to simplify your life, disposing of unneeded clutter as well as shedding time consuming assignments. People who spend their change as they receive it are free of the responsibility of having to deal with heavy piles of containers of this messy money.

While rolling pennies is a small chore when viewed in the whole scheme of things, it is indicative of the way we add just one more little task to our lives. Most of us don't have many huge projects awaiting our attention, rather we are defeated by myriads of little details nagging at us.

Interestingly, of all those little odds and ends we think we need to do, many don't need to be done at all. It isn't necessary to save coins, for instance — it is a matter of choice to spend or save them. It is also a matter of choice whether to save periodicals or pitch them, redeem coupons, etc.

People choose sleek contemporary

By Corinne Abatt

The "People's Choice" at Homearama is "Looking Glass," a house built by the Koch family of builders, father Richard and daughters Terrie and Marie of Bloomfield Township.

The contemporary house, valued at $325,000-425,000, is one of 18 idea homes in the West Bloomfield exhibit that continues through Sunday.

The second most popular house was the French colonial "Windsor" by Rembrandt Construction Co. of Detroit, and in third place was the traditional "Fairhill" by Bonadeo Builders of Plymouth.

While the furnishings, the fine art and the interior treatment of "Looking Glass" are very contemporary, some traditional concepts used attracted a lot of favorable comment, according to Terrie Koch, building supervisor who made many of the design decisions.

"They liked the walk-in pantry," she said, "and the sponge-painted walls in the kitchen and breakfast room." And while Ellen Letourneau of Arkitektura Showrooms of Birmingham furnished the breakfast area more like informal living space with things such as clean line Saarinen chairs and tables, as she did the rest of the home, visitors commented that it had the feeling of a contemporary country kitchen.

Another traditional feature Koch said visitors liked was a formal living room and lower-level entertainment area with full-size pool table adjacent to the guest suite and the exercise room.

The art work, too, drew favorable comment. It was provided by Ole Lyngklip for Marilyn Finkel & Associates. These are contemporary, sophisticated works by an outstanding group of regional and nationally known artists — a far cry from that which appeals to the "I like stuff I can recognize" school of art buyer.

Homearama is open 7-11 p.m. Monday-Friday and 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. Admission charge, Orchard Lake, north of Walnut Lake, West Bloomfield.

"The People's Choice" at Homearama is a home called "Looking Glass," built by the Koch Family of builders. It uses almost $30,000 worth of glass in walls and windows. A view from the back shows the striking result.

In looking for inspiration if you are doing your own home never give up trying. Study the interiors in magazines, models, the interiors of genre paintings that depict scenes from every day life whether contemporary or from an earlier generation. Ferret around antique shops and never be shy about asking questions.

Visit historic houses, make note of the way the pictures are hung. Read and re-read the "home" magazines. Take notice of how the furniture is arranged in relation to the space in a room. Are your colors mixed to create an atmosphere of warmth or the feeling of detachment.

Study how certain objects succeed or fail in relation one to another. Fresh garden flowers make me think of old English or French chintzes while a cactus will work with geometric fabrics with a southwestern flavor.

Pride in the way your home looks is not just the monotonous routine of cleaning under the beds. Pride is keeping your surroundings fresh, but always with a "lived in" look.

Remember that by using good decoration to keep your home attractive is like putting yourself together by wearing the right clothes and complimenting them with the proper accessories.

Of all the objectives you have, an ability and determination to create a warm attractive home is one of the most worthwhile and precious.

Tips on lawn care, landscaping and caring for house plants are among the subjects to be covered this fall at English Gardens, 6370 Orchard Lake Road, West Bloomfield and 22650 Ford Road, Dearborn Heights.

The free programs will start the second week of September and continue through October. In West Bloomfield they will be held at 3-4 p.m. each Saturday and repeated 11 a.m. to noon each Sunday. In Dearborn Heights those attending may go 7:30-8:30 p.m. on Thursdays or 10-11 a.m. Fridays.

The programs are designed to match seasonal interests — the first is about what to do with a stressed out lawn and the last concerns winterizing the lawn and garden.
