The Canton Connection

Library tour

You've seen the new Canton Public Library, but do you know how to find anything in there? In order to help the public become familiar with the library's nooks and crannies, a guided tour is being offered this week.

Librarian Claire McLaughlin will lead the tour on Thursday beginning at 7 p.m. Reservations are not necessary, and all ages are welcome.

Taking delivery

The Plymouth-Canton Community school district is the lucky recipient of a new Cadillac and GMC Suburban truck. The vehicles arrived compliments of General Motors' Livonia Engine Plant and GMC Truck Division.

"General Motors has been most supportive of our school district's automotive program with donations of this kind," said Harold Gaertner, director of vocational-technical education.

"This will greatly improve the hands-on experiences that our students need in acquiring technical skills so necessary in their pursuit of careers in the automotive industry."

Students won't be able to borrow the keys. The vehicles aren't licensed. After the truck and car are used, they'll be destroyed and scrapped.

Dog license

Canton dog owners are reminded that dog licenses are available in the clerk's office on the first floor of the administration building, 1150 S. Canton Center Road. Proof of rabies vaccine must be presented at the time of license application. The license fee is $5 now through March 31. Fees go up to $10 beginning April 1.

Extra miler

Betty Kittl, secretary to area coordinator Kenneth Jacobs at Canton High School, was presented the "Extra Miler" award recently by Dean Swartzwelder, Plymouth-Canton School Board vice president.

Kittl began working for the school district in 1973 as a substitute educational aide. Swartzwelder commented on her organization, clerical skills, cheerfulness and her ability to deal with all kinds of people.

Kittl will receive a framed "Extra Miler" certificate, a pin of the flag of learning and liberty and a dinner certificate for two donated by the Mayflower Hotel, Plymouth.

Literacy push

The Community Literacy Council is sponsoring a special tutor training workshop for volunteers who are interested in helping teach English to adults and children from other countries.

The training will be held 8:30-9:30 p.m. Monday, Feb. 13, and Wednesday, Feb. 15, at Starkweather Center in Plymouth. All materials and training are free. If you are interested, contact Sharon Strain, 451-4854.

Supervising time

Supervisor Tom Yack is a full-time township employee as of today. Yack's leave of absence from the Wayne-Westland school system was effective Friday, at the end of the semester. That means he'll no longer have to teach all day then work at township hall from the late afternoon until whatever meeting he's attending is adjourned.

Private schools avoid MEAP

By Tom Henderson
staff writer

Only a small percentage of private schools choose to participate in the Michigan Educational Assessment Program (MEAP) tests. According to administrators of many private schools in western Wayne County, the tests are too easy for their students.

"That's absolutely true. That's one of the reasons a lot of schools stopped taking it. What does it mean when all your students score 99?" said John Klipp, superintendent of the 64,000 students in the Catholic schools of the Archdiocese of Detroit.

"One of the purposes of testing is to show you who needs help. But if everybody scores 99, what are you learning? The test is not discriminating enough," said Klipp.

The MEAP tests are mandatory for fourth, seventh and 10th graders in public schools. They are optional for the state's private schools. Of the more than 313,000 students who took the tests last fall, only about 9,200, or 2.9 percent, were in private schools.

And of the 106,500 10th graders who took the test, only 1,500 (1.4 percent) were in private schools.

Locally, of the 25 private schools contacted, just five took the MEAP tests. All 25 took part in other standardized tests such as the Stanford Achievement Test, Iowa Test of Basic Skills, PSAT, SAT, ACT and the preliminary ACT.

MEAP sends shock waves into schools

By Pat Murphy
staff writer

When area teachers talk about science proficiency, sooner or later the conversation turns to MEAP, or the Michigan Educational Assessment Program.

In one form or another, MEAP has been in most public and some private schools for almost two decades, giving tests to more than a million elementary, middle and high school students.

Thus, in September, when the national science report card concluded that students were not getting adequate training in science, administrators in Oakland and Wayne counties were not particularly surprised.

In Oakland County two years ago, 37 percent of 13,635 10th-grade students could not correctly answer half of the test's objectives.

In Wayne County, more than 60 percent of the 10th-grade students could not answer correctly on half the objectives.

science: an educational MELTDOWN

On a statewide basis, about 44 percent of 119,247 students scored at comparable levels.

The results were cause for concern, educators said, because MEAP tests are intended to measure "minimal" or "essential" science knowledge. The questions weren't as difficult nor as challenging as those on the SAT (Scholastic Aptitude Test) or ACT (American College Test) required for admission in most colleges.

But MEAP did more than provide a statistical handle on a complex problem. MEAP tests — especially the relatively low science scores —

Growth in west may be curbed by zoning shift

By Peggy Aulino
staff writer

Anyone who has been stuck in traffic at the intersection of Sheldon and Ford wouldn't mistake that area for a rural setting. Yet acres and acres of farm land sit just a few miles to the west.

With the rapid growth in Canton, township officials are being faced with the question: Is the west side of Canton going to look like its east side some day?

Officials say the answer is no, and they are taking steps to be sure that intention becomes reality.

"I think everybody's of the same mind that a lot of that land should stay green," township Supervisor Tom Yack said. "I think there's a strong commitment to that."

TOWNSHIP TRUSTEES, planning commissioners and staff members are rewriting Canton's master plan and zoning ordinances. By doing so, they intend to protect the western portion of the township from the strip malls and traffic congestion that are common east of Canton Center Road. That street is generally considered the east/west dividing line because it marks the edge of most of the development so far.

Under the existing master plan, adopted in 1986, much of the western portion of the township is designated for agricultural use. Much of that is likely to become residential space, officials said, but it will be different from the housing to the east.

"I think that it's certainly everyone's intention . . . that the western side generally will develop with housing that is directed toward the upper middle-class income strata," said Dave Nicholson, Canton's director of community and economic development.

That can be done in part by controlling the size of lots in housing developments. Zoning changes on the western side of the township are likely to allow two or three homes per acre, which would make the area about half as dense as the eastern portion, Nicholson said.

OFFICIALS ALSO hope to include in the land-use plan some rules regarding aesthetics.

"The courts will not permit communities to legislate beauty," Nicholson told trustees and planning commission members at a joint meeting last week.

But tools are available for townships to use to achieve the desired effect. The most common is making suggestions to developers on the order of "this is what we would like to see," Nicholson said.

Yack said some developers are sensitive to aesthetics and will be interested in developing neighborhoods other than those where "the only thing that changes is the color of the aluminum siding."

Study to smooth growth

By Peggy Aulino
staff writer

Township officials are not only looking west in anticipation of development out that way, they are casting an eye inside township hall to see if any changes are needed to ensure Canton's growth is smooth.

Supervisor Tom Yack has suggested the Board of Trustees hire a management consultant to study four township departments: community and economic development, building, engineering and public works.

Yack has asked for a proposal from Bartell & Bartell, the Pennsylvania firm that just conducted a management seminar for Canton trustees and department heads. He wants to determine if any personnel or job-duty changes are needed in those departments.

YACK SAID he is not sure what if any changes will be suggested by the consultants.

"I just know that it's grown over time and it's not been looked at over time," Yack said of the workload handled by those township hall offices.

Bartell & Bartell is the consultant that studied the police and fire departments and guided the search for a public safety director. Yack has praised the firm's work, and last week he explained the need for a consultant in this project.

"Organizations are not always the best judge of their own organizational patterns," he said. "We need someone with lots of experience with relationships and processes."

The consultants are being asked to study such things as the organizational structure of the departments, their relationships to each other and work flow.

Yack said he has no idea what the study will cost. He plans to ask trustees to approve the hiring of a consultant at an upcoming meeting.

Private schools call MEAP easy

American Testronics. Individual schools can choose to add other tests, such as MEAP.

OVER AND OVER, administrators at private schools say that MEAP is too easy for their students. "They don't fit in with the testing program we've initiated here," said Ross Stauber, principal of 260 students at Westland Lutheran High School. "MEAP only tests minimal objectives. We prefer to use higher standards here. And other tests give us more data."

"Kids here just sail right through that test. They're just going through it like it's nothing," said Phil Heyer, head of counseling at Catholic Central in Redford Township. "It has very little use for us. Our kids are mostly college prep and that test isn't geared for them."

"We did participate (in MEAP) once previously, but the results weren't particularly relevant to us," said principal Carol Heldt of Hosan-Tabor Lutheran, which has 240 students from preschool through eighth grade.

Private-school administrators say that part of the problem with MEAP is the way the test is scored. Questions are lumped into three-question categories known as objectives. On the science portion, for example, there are three questions on light as a form of energy, and three questions on the measurement of matter. You are given credit for achieving an objective if you know two of the three answers. You don't get any more credit for three answers than you do for two.

Theoretically, you could score 100 on the MEAP test by answering correctly only two-thirds of the questions.

"It's that really mastering something that is wrong on a third of the questions?" asks Klipp.

PLYMOUTH CHRISTIAN Academy in Canton Township is one of the few private schools locally to participate in MEAP. The school scored significantly better last fall than the state average of the previous year, and the school scored better than the Plymouth-Canton schools — in all subjects (math, reading and science) and in all grades (fourth, seventh and 10th).

At Christian, 65.2 percent of the fourth graders scored at least 75 percent in science, with 48.3 percent scoring that well in seventh grade and 35 percent in 10th grade. At Plymouth-Canton, the respective percentages were 56.2, 38.4 and 32.2.

"We're a little more homogenous, and a little more selective in who we take," said Tom Hoovermale, principal at Christian. "We come out looking good, but the comparison is unfair."

The other local parochial schools to take the MEAP tests were St. Genevieve Catholic grade school in Livonia, St. John Bosco Catholic grade school in Redford, St. Matthew's Lutheran grade school in Westland and New Morning grade school in Plymouth.

Elaine Yagiela, principal at New Morning, said only 3-4 students in each of the fourth and seventh grades took the test. She declined to release the results. "We don't use them to pat ourselves on the back, even when we should," she said.

School principal Tom Pfeiffer was out of town and unavailable to discuss St. Matthew's results. Results at St. Genevieve and St. John Bosco were unavailable.

MEAP receives, delivers criticism

IF THE 1986 MEAP science test had been an earthquake, it would have measured about 6.0 on the Richter scale — not potent enough to cause serious damage generally, but strong enough to shake things up.

"The MEAP tests got people up in arms," said M. Cherie Cornick, consultant to the Michigan Department of Education. "Before the tests came out, people seemed more concerned about the football team or the marching band. But when the test results came out, they started thinking about science and math."

Not everybody had that reaction, of course. Some educators complained the test was inappropriate and didn't accurately measure what students knew in science.

The director of science curriculum for the Troy School District, for example, noted that many schools have switched to a "hands-on" emphasis on science, while MEAP tests still measure information learned by rote, or from lectures or books.

"MEAP doesn't really measure what youngsters learn with the 'hands-on' approach to science," said Barbara A. Berthelsen, who also teaches biology in the Troy district. "I do not consider the MEAP tests to be a valid measure of what students know."

Criticism similar to Berthelsen's has been expressed in many parts of the state at different levels of the educational community. Students, teachers and administrators question the validity of MEAP tests.

One administrator said MEAP may have inadvertently contributed to low science scores by not emphasizing that discipline years ago, rather than within the last five years or so.

perhaps state officials sent the wrong message by initially testing for math and reading, but not science.

Griffin was referring to the fact that MEAP tests for math and reading skills for more than 15 years before 1986, when officials first tried to measure science proficiency on an all-pupil basis.

Last fall was only the second time that MEAP tests tried to assess science proficiency on an all-pupil basis.

By neglecting to test for science, MEAP was saying science was not as important as math and reading, said Griffin. "They relegated science and the teaching of science to the back burner," he said.

Not everybody agrees with Griffin's assessment. But they generally agree MEAP tests are a flawed ruler by which to measure science knowledge or proficiency.

"Most educators recognize that MEAP tests are not perfect," said David C. Housel, one of two science consultants to Oakland schools. "Many educators regard MEAP tests as a thorn in the side. But they're a thorn people must live with. They're a thorn that raises public awareness."

MEAP officials are aware of the criticism, but defend the tests while acknowledging they must be refined and updated from time to time.

"We know the tests are not perfect," said Geraldine J. Coleman, state MEAP coordinator. "But we are making them better. We review them and make adjustments, but it takes time to make changes."

NOTING THAT EARLY MEAP examinations omitted science, Don Griffin, consultant to the Wayne County Intermediate District, said

Zoning shift may alter west

"It just comes down to how demanding you want to be," Yack said.
Patches of residential zones in the eastern portion of the township have yet to be developed, and they too may not resemble existing subdivisions. Officials may decide to alter areas zoned for five units per acre to require bigger lots, Yack said.
As for commercial development, the west side will have little of it because the residents of Canton simply don't need more, Nicholson said. The stores in the Ford Road shopping corridor "will serve a market area from a three- to five-mile radius," he said.
"I think it's generally believed that there's enough of that," he said.

THERE MAY be "a little bit of commercial here and there to provide necessary services," Nicholson said, but it "will be kept to areas along established commercial rights of way."
Trustees and planning commission members heard a little history of development in the township and got an overview of the master plan components that need revision. It was decided that they will hold a daylong session to discuss the matter. It has been scheduled for Feb. 11.
"What we need is just to roll up our sleeves and look at what it is we want for the community in general," Yack said.
He estimated that the new land-use plan could be adopted by September.

CEP band returns bowl favors

The champion Plymouth Centennial Educational Park Marching Band will hold an Orange Bowl Appreciation Concert 8 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 26, in the Salem auditorium.
Band members have planned the concert as a thank you for the Plymouth-Canton community service groups and corporations that gave them financial assistance for a trip to Disney World and the 1988-89 Orange Bowl Parade.
The appreciation concert is for everyone in the community who helped the band with its fund raising. This includes those who donated bottles for the bottle returns, gave a donation for Orange Bowl decals, bought candy bars and pizza coupons, and made monetary donations for scholarships.

Almost $8,000 was raised for scholarship money for students with financial need. Additional money was earned through fund-raisers to reduce the $530 cost per student.
THE CONCERT will include the 1988 CEP Marching Band competition music, plus the songs played in parades. A favorite for the children will be the Mickey Mouse song.
Also featured will be a slide presentation by Ford Cotton showing the fun-filled, five-day trip.
Linda Gasparott was music booster-trip chairman.

Board chief to run again

David Artley, president of the Plymouth-Canton school board, announced Monday he will seek reelection to a four-year term in June. One seat is open. The filing deadline is in April.
"I genuinely consider serving the school board a real privilege. In my family it has always been a real tradition," said Artley.
Artley prides himself on having missed only one meeting, a workshop, since he first took office in July 1983.
"I think I've gotten a lot more out than I have put in," said Artley of his years on the board.
Improving communication in the district and resolving the school finance problem will remain top goals, he said.
"A lot of what the board should do is facilitate to get answers. That may require work," added Artley, a development coordinator for Spectrum Human Services, a Livonia agency for disabled children and adults.
"We don't have enough community involvement, and won't until people understand what is at stake. Tomorrow is at stake."
Artley said his decision wasn't influenced by Citizens for Better Education. CBE is a group of Christian conservatives campaigning for changes in the district. It plans to continue supporting candidates, according to Diane Daskalakis, who started the organization.
CBE member Mary Dahn, defeated in the last school election, said, "I am considering running. Whether I do will depend on what happens over the next few months."
"Where CBE would like education to go isn't where I necessarily would like to see it go," Artley said. "But they're entitled to express their opinion."
School board members earn $30 per meeting and a maximum of $1,500 a year.

Starstruck: Kids wowed by astronomy wizard

Dr. Clyde Tombaugh was still in high school when he began making sketches of planets he observed through a home-made telescope.

By Pat Murphy staff writer
About 700 students in Wayne County had a rare opportunity to meet with the man credited with discovering the planet Pluto.
Dr. Clyde W. Tombaugh, 82, was the main attraction at a one-day meeting in November at Bentley High School in Livonia. The meeting was put together by the Wayne County Math and Science Council, an informal group of teachers, with help from entities like the Livonia School District and the Michigan Department of Education.
State officials cited Tombaugh's appearance as an excellent example of learning by doing.
"Teachers and students had the chance to meet with somebody of extreme stature," said M. Cherie Cornick, consultant to the Michigan Department of Education.
They got the chance to ask questions and hear what he had to offer. They followed up with small workshops where youngsters could do some hands-on experiments. Most had to do with astronomy, but some of the workshops dealt with other earth sciences.
Tombaugh was remarkable, said Richard B. Braun, science coordinator for Livonia schools.
SCIENCE TEXTBOOKS note that Tombaugh was still in high school on his family's wheat farm in Kansas in the 1920s when he began making sketches of planets he observed through a home-made telescope. Some of those sketches were detailed enough to include the polar caps of Mars and the moons of Jupiter.
When Tombaugh sent some of his sketches to the Lowell Observatory for comment, officials responded by offering him a job.
Tombaugh was hired in 1929 — without first being interviewed, according to reference books — to con-perturbations were caused by gravity of a large object nearby, possibly an undiscovered planet.

Tombaugh estimated that he observed and photographed some 10 million stars using the calculations of Lowell before discovering the planet in February of 1930.
The discovery was heralded as a triumph for the process of discovery by production. It was announced in March 1930, in conjunction with the 75th anniversary of the birth of Percival Lowell and the discovery of the planet Uranus.
TOMBAUGH KNEW he was making history and reportedly told colleagues that he intentionally looked at his watch so he could later declare that Pluto was discovered at "a few minutes of 4 p.m." on Feb. 18, 1930.
The astronomer talked about the discovery to groups of youngsters, answering questions as young minds were stimulated. One group, fourth graders from Cass Elementary in Livonia, made the following observations about meeting with Tombaugh and the accompanying workshops.
Tombaugh talked about building his first telescope (about six feet long), said Greg Hnatink. "His next telescope was about two stories high."
Nancy Staffed said Tombaugh discussed how the orbits of Pluto and Neptune would change. "He (Tombaugh) put a lot of time and effort into finding Pluto," she said. "That shows that hard work pays off."
Danielle Sokolowski said she enjoyed Tombaugh's discussion on how comets are similar in makeup to a "dirty snowball."
The search for an undiscovered planet whose existence was predicted by Sir Percival Lowell, the English astronomer who died in 1916.
Lowell had observed some irregularities in the orbit of neighboring Neptune and hypothesized that the would make at a hamburger stand," Bomback said. "We're expanding the program this year to include seven teachers (who will earn about $2,850 for six weeks).

Summer interns are selected from those who participate in Saturday classes and are recommended by their teachers. "We're interested in those students motivated enough to roll out of bed on their day off," said Bomback. "We also require a 2,500-word paper on one of the topics we covered at the Saturday classes during the year."

Some Ford staff personnel were initially skeptical about the students, Bomback said. "They were concerned about the added work and responsibility. But after seeing what the students could do, those same people were looking for ways to keep them on."

Science bewilders adults, too

National and international reports cards suggest that students are scientifically illiterate.
But public opinion polls suggest their ignorance may be reflective of a general lack of scientific knowledge among the public.
A 1985 survey by the Public Opinion Laboratory at Northern Illinois University, for example, reported that more than 400 adults, or about 21 percent of those responding, said the sun revolves around the earth.
About 7 percent, or 140 respondents, said they didn't know.
Other findings reported from that survey include:
• Some 39 percent of the adults questioned said they thought astrology is scientific. About 7 percent said they sometimes change their plans after reading their horoscopes.
• About 41 percent of the adults responding agreed with the statement, "Rocket launchings and other space activities have caused changes in our weather."
• About 43 percent of adults agreed with the statement, "It is likely that some of the unidentified flying objects that have been reported are really space vehicles from other civilizations."
• About 29 percent of the adults questioned responded "true," when asked if lasers work by focusing sound waves.
All of the above statements are false.
The lack of science knowledge is also evident among groups that are supposedly educated. In response to a questionnaire mailed by an Oberlin College biology professor to newspaper editors, only 51 percent said they disagreed strongly with the statement, "Dinosaurs and humans lived contemporaneously." Some 37 percent said they agreed or had no opinion.

TAG program needs focus

To the editor: Educators have identified an extremely high-risk group of students...

Services to the gifted at the high school cost nothing above what is spent for any student...

The present TAG program at the high school consists of one 9th grade TAG English class...

The school board has already cut the TAG coordinator and secretary, citing cost savings...

Some administrators and board members are opponents of ability grouping...

They fail to realize that exceptional talent knows no race or social status...

They are drawn equally from every school in the district...

They are parental support, outside activities, taking risks and self-esteem...

Even in middle school we hear about the times their parents were proud of them...

We encourage and nurture our best athletic talent, but we expect our best academic talent to fend for itself...

Our unguided talent can, and does, go in any direction. NBC News detailed the story of the recently convicted Chambers brothers...

Board criticizes, removes CREW member

By M.S. Dillon
staff writer

A school committee member who fell out of favor with her fellow committee members was removed from the group at Monday's Plymouth-Canton school board meeting.

Community Researching Educational Workings is a citizens' group charged with assessing the district's strengths and weaknesses.

A letter signed by several committee members and presented to the board of education asked that Mary Dahn be taken off CREW.

Trustee E.J. McClendon introduced a resolution citing Dahn's

"unwillingness to work on problems," dissemination of "what appeared to be misleading information to members of the community, and putting her own concerns above those of the committee."

It called for Dahn's removal "for the sole purpose of furthering the interests of education."

SECONDED BY Trustee Marilyn Schwinn, the motion passed 5-1. Trustee Barbara Graham dissented. Trustee Roland Thomas was absent.

School board president David Artley called a recess after the vote. Immediately after the break, the board voted to add Connie Gilman, Dick Radtke and Linda Radtke to CREW.

Annette Remsburg, CREW co-chair, said the action was taken "on behalf of the volunteers, who in the true sense of the word are committed to the students of this district."

"It's to the point where we are about to lose good people who refuse to have their efforts impeded by her approach," Remsburg said.

"It was not my choice to engage in this conflict. But in an effort to prevent further waste of time on this issue, it has become necessary to bring it to you," she told the board.

CREW member Betty Block said she did a lot of soul searching before signing the letter.

"As a committee, we feel frustration, and discredited by the publicity that's going on. This is our only recourse to put an end to it. I guess my hope is that if you beat a dead horse long enough, eventually it'll be dead."

Ray Buckman, chairman of the CREW finance committee, said, "All I can say is, either Mary goes off the committee, or I resign. She runs right to the newspaper with what she is trying to prove and accomplish so that she can run on the school board."

DAHN SAID before the meeting, "I feel their using Gestapo tactics to eliminate anyone who disagrees with them. It isn't leadership, it is dictatorship."

"I think it is important to note that of the seven people on curriculum committee, the only ones who signed the letter to the board was the chairman and the co-chairman. The other five members did not sign it."

Dahn was on the CREW curriculum committee.

"In my opinion, they're trying to squelch any dissent whatsoever by petitioning the board to not allow me to be a member. This is sending a message to everyone else in CREW: If you disagree, you're out. That is not a committee. That's heavy-handedness."

"They're punishing me for press releases and letters to the editor they didn't like," she added.

Dahn said she is considering running for the school board in June.

She ran unsuccessfully last year.

Graham, the only trustee who supported Dahn, said she was disappointed in her fellow board members.

"This is a personality problem. I think it should have been handled by CREW, not the board. They're adults."

"They're going to be hard pressed to get volunteers if they get the message that's how they're treated," Graham said.

Schools toughen R-rated film policy

The school board has made it tougher for teachers to show R-rated movies in the classroom.

A resolution passed at Monday's meeting says that teachers must obtain approval a semester in advance in order to show R-rated films. Summaries of the movies will be included in a booklet of course descriptions available to parents.

According to policy, arrangements must be made for parents to view the movies at least two weeks before students are scheduled to see them.

"I think this strengthens the requirements for reviewing materials being used in the district," said Richard Egli, administrative assistant for community relations. "Instead of simply accepting a rating system which changes, sometimes dramatically over time, this provides a clear and direct method for evaluating each material on its individual merit."

R-rated films are shown "only if that is the most effective material for making the point or bringing out the information that is to be taught," added Egli.

"For example in a psychology class, an R-rated movie might be appropriate to demonstrate the use of, or the psychology, of cursing."

"In the movie 'The Breakfast Club,' stereotyping might be the best method to demonstrate teenage stereotyping. However, ordinarily R-rated materials would not be appropriate and are not used in the district."

Olive oil shining at the deli

Have you been in any good gourmet delis lately?

If you have, one look around and you will surely notice that there seems to be an abundance of shelf space given to something as plain and mundane as olive oil.

When I was growing up, momma always had a small jar of domestic olive oil hidden in the back of the cupboard. I honestly can't say I ever remember her using the oil in a specific recipe but I do remember watching her search out the jar whenever one of the Janes kids had an earache. Call it folklore medicine, but a warm teaspoonful of olive oil poured gently into an aching ear, accompanied with a cuddle and a fingernail backrub, always got rid of my earaches.

Today, however, olive oil is experiencing a resurgence in the kitchen as the oil. It has no cholesterol, and when used properly, can really bring out the flavor of many dishes.

But getting back to that deli, a recent trip to the deli-de-rigueur of the Janes gang found more than 15 different varieties, some with inexpensive price tags of around $6 per liter while others towered in the $30-per-liter range. At 30 bucks per crack, that works out to about 80 cents per tablespoon. Needless to say, you better know and be able to appreciate what this kind of money can buy.

FIRST OFF, anyone will notice that there are three basic varieties of olive oil on the market today. The best are the extra virgin oils, defined by Italian laws as having an acidity content of less than one percent.

Common sense will dictate that the higher the acidity level, the lower the quality. The best extra-virgin olive oils vary in color from a deep green to gold. As a rule of thumb, the greener the oil, the fuller the flavor, but beware of manufacturers bottling lesser-quality oils in bottles with a green hue.

The secret here is the key words extra virgin. Oils of this quality should never be greasy or oily, and upon opening will yield an aroma or bouquet like a fine wine with a fragrance of fresh olives.

The next variety you will notice on the shelves is the first cold-pressed oils. These oils have been around for many years in health stores and are used in herbal body lotions as well as the kitchen. For first cold-pressed oils, the olives are pressed by stone mills using no additives, chemicals or heat. This is a very expensive and time-consuming operation.

All extra-virgin oils are first cold pressed. Again, the buyer should be aware of the key words here being first cold pressed. With today's market taking off faster than a jet at Metro, many large manufacturers are using steel pressed instead of stone, which creates friction when used. This friction causes heat which, in turn, lowers the general quality of the oil.

LAST BUT NOT LEAST are the pure olive oil varieties on the market. While the name pure sounds tempting, beware of these products, as most have higher acidity levels accompanied by little or no flavor. Even though the oil says pure, these oils are pressed a second or third time, some enhanced with chemicals that, when heated, can extract all possible liquid from the olive.

All extra-virgin and first cold pressed olive oils should best be appreciated when at room temperature. Therefore, these oils should be stored in a cool, dark corner of your cupboard or pantry. Olive oil stored in tin will eventually pick up a "tinny" taste and are best stored in glass jars. Once a bottle of oil has been opened, it should be used within one year.

It is recommended that you never cook with these oils but use them instead on salads, sprinkled over tomatoes, soft cheeses, fresh

Yo-yo a no-no

Why you eat is important to what you eat

By Louise Okrutsky
special writer

WITH THE NEW YEAR still young, many holiday overeaters embark on weight programs with grand expectations of dumping extra pounds faster than you can order a triple fudge chocolate sundae. Many lose determination instead of weight.

Instead of switching to the next fad diet, they need to examine the reasons they eat too much, experts say.

Some find themselves caught in an unending circle of dieting, overeating and dieting again. After a six-week regimen of low-calorie meals, dieters often fall back into the same poor eating habits that caused them to gain weight.

"I dieted for years," said Lorraine Stefano, founder of the Troy-based Think Trim program. The social-worker-turned-diet-counselor conducts classes in Birmingham, Farmington and Livonia.

"I WAS A CLASSIC yo-yo person," Stefano said. "I yo-yoed trying to lose the same 60 pounds."

"Statistics have shown that 95 percent of the people on diets regain their weight. If this is the same 10 pounds you lost last year, maybe you ought to look at why you eat," Stefano said.

Many habitual dieters eat in response to stress, according to Ann Greer, a registered dietician at Crittenton Hospital, Rochester. Greer teaches a six-week weight-loss class sponsored by the hospital.

"They need to identify stress and resolve it in another way instead of adding to poundage (due) to stress," Greer said.

People associate food with different activities. Watching a football game on television might automatically mean munching on potato chips followed by a beer. Parties, especially holiday celebrations, serve as another excuse to eat for the sake of eating.

"SOMETIMES, THE TURKEY isn't the only thing that's stuffed," Stefano said.

Boredom, sadness, depression and, by contrast, happiness may lead to overeating. Snacking serves as a way to procrastinate beginning a task.

"You may not be hungry but you associate food with watching television. You have to know when you're hungry," Greer said.

It's just as important to know when to push away from the table. "You have to learn to leave things on your plate. Stop when you're satisfied," Stefano said.

Typical holiday weight gain of seven to 10 pounds can slowly be dropped by eating when physically hungry and avoiding desserts and alcohol, experts suggest.

Some programs, such as Weight Watchers, recommend dieters sweep through their kitchen cupboards and discard cakes, cookies, breads and other calorie-packed goodies. Don't buy favorite snack items. If you must, Greer recommends, buy small packages. Instead of a one-half gallon of ice cream, buy small Dixie cups of ice cream.

Don't eat anything out of the bag. It's easy to lose track of how much has been consumed. Portion out all foods on a plate.

FOR THE GROWING number of people who don't eat at home regularly, there are strategies to guide them through restaurant menus.

Order baked potatoes with the sour cream on the side. Ask about daily specials that are broiled or baked, not fried. When ordering fish or grilled steak, request that it be prepared without butter sauce. That alone saves 100-200 calories, Greer said.

Scientist on alert against pesticides

By Sherry Kahan
special writer

Laurie Mott believes that the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and the U.S. Food and Drug Administration are doing a poor job protecting Americans from food containing pesticides.

In a recent talk in Ann Arbor's Rackham Building, she gave both agencies a tongue lashing. Senior scientist with the Natural Resources Defense Council, an environmental organization, Mott is co-author of the book "Pesticide Alert."

As she covered the pesticide picture, Mott also laid out specific hazards involved in eating foods containing residues of pesticides, an umbrella word used today to include insecticides, herbicides, fungicides and rodenticides. In addition, she warned that foreign produce can be more dangerous than domestic. Her suggestions for solving the problem called for consumer pressure to turn the EPA and FDA into better watchdogs, and buying food grown without these chemicals.

It is ironic that just as consumers began to warm up to fresh produce for the sake of their health, word filtered out that they might be unsafe. To many the first news that pesticides could actually penetrate a fruit or vegetable came in 1985 when California recalled its entire watermelon crop. Some of the melons had been treated with the herbicide, Temik.

"WITHIN TWO to 12 hours after eating the contaminated watermelons, people experienced nausea, vomiting, blurred vision, muscle weakness and other symptoms," Mott told an audience of about 200. "Fortunately no one died, though some of the victims were gravely ill. Reports included grand mal seizures, cardiac irregularities, a number of hospitalizations, and at least two stillbirths following maternal illness."

About 2.6 billion pounds of pesticides are used every year in this country, and not just on food products, the speaker continued. "They are sprayed on forests, lakes, lawns, city parks and playing fields, and in hospitals, schools, offices and homes. They are also used in shampoo, shower curtains, shelf paper and mattresses."

Some of the chemicals used on food are applied solely for cosmetic purposes. Mott mentioned a study indicating that from 60-80 percent of pesticides applied to citrus are used only to make the fruit look good.

The risks in pesticides are considerable, according to Mott. She referred to a National Academy of Sciences report in 1987 that noted the potential risks posed by cancer-causing pesticides in food may lead to more than one million additional cancer cases in the United States over the next 70 years. The EPA has identified 96 out of 300 chemicals as being carcinogenic, and a 1987 report by the agency ranked pesticides in food as one of the nation's most serious health problems.

Mott added that pesticides can also cause birth defects, miscarriages, sterility, impaired fertility, nerve damage and changes in genetic material.

MOTT ALSO WANTED her listeners to be aware of the greater hazards in imported food. "Imported fresh fruits account for 25 percent of the total U.S. supply, foreign vegetables for six percent," she said.

"The use of pesticides on food grown in other countries is not governed by U.S. regulations. Furthermore, pesticides banned for use here may still be used overseas. DDT, banned here in 1972 due to its carci-

Yo-yo dieting not the way to keep body weight down

Eat vegetables plain and always avoid sauces, she said. Check with the waiter to see if a restaurant's soup is prepared with whole milk or salt. Both should be avoided, she said.

Salads, with a wrongful reputation for automatically carrying low calories, pose a problem. Order salads with the dressing on the side. Always order diet dressing. Salad bars serve temptation. Avoid bacon bits, garbano beans and those tasty-looking extras. Before filling the plate with fruit, ask if the restaurant serves fresh or canned goods. Canned fruit packed in syrup means extra calories.

Other foods popularly believed to be low in calories really pack unwanted calories. Count cottage cheese and tuna the same as a meat item, Greer said.

FOLLOW THE GUIDELINES, but don't expect miracles. "Most people make the mistake of overwhelming themselves. Resolutions are nice but for most people it's too much change all at once. They should make a resolution to be trim and healthy and take it step by step," Stefano said.

Avoiding certain foods must be followed by choosing the correct foods. Eat three meals a day without any snacks, suggests Greer. She recommends 1,200 calories per day for women, 1,500 a day for men. Weight Watchers comes in lower on its recommendations. It suggests a minimum 1,000 calories a day for women, 1,200 for men.

Plan every meal, even if it means writing out menus for the week before grocery shopping, Greer said. Everyone recommends consulting a doctor before starting an exercise and/or weight-loss program. No matter what plan is used, it's important to be sensible. Don't skip breakfast and lunch and then stuff yourself at dinner. That usually means you're eating more than 1,200 calories in one meal, Greer said.

Exercise should accompany a sensible eating program, most experts say. However, if the exercise program is meant to last only six weeks or until 10 pounds are shed, you may be wasting your time and effort. "Weight loss doesn't happen automatically with exercise," said Dr. Fred Stransky, director of the Meadow Brook Health Enrichment Institute at Oakland University, Rochester Hills.

WALKING ONE MILE burns about 100 calories. For those sort of results, it might be just as effective to skip eating fast-food hamburgers, he said. "Walking an extra mile a day, as a New Year's resolution, isn't unrealistic," Stransky said. "For a 130-pound woman, that can mean almost 11 pounds lost throughout the year (down to 119 pounds). But it's a way of life. Short term doesn't do it." Most weight-loss experts recommend walking as an exercise that's easy to do, requires little special equipment and can be easily integrated into a dieter's lifestyle. Malls open their doors early to walkers. Call ahead for information on time, access and registration.

Low-impact aerobics is also recommended by Greer. She cautions that participants make sure the instructor monitors students' target heart rates.

As in dieting, the key consideration in exercise is a person's ability to make the new practice a permanent part of his or her lifestyle. "Get away from the idea that you've got to go through just a 1 1/2-hour routine. Know your lifestyle and be honest with yourself," Stefano said. Try to keep a positive attitude while dieting. Weight Watchers suggests rewarding yourself for achieving a goal with a non-food item. "Picture yourself in the spring in the body you want," Stefano said. "Focus on the positive aspects of your body. Don't wet-noodle yourself."

Recipes for a tasteful diet

In nine-inch skillet heat oil, add chicken and cook, turning once, until browned, two-three minutes on each side. Transfer chicken to plate and set aside.

In same skillet heat margarine until bubbly and hot, add vegetables and garlic and saute, stirring frequently, until onions are translucent, four-five minutes. Add sherry and bring to a boil, stir in water, mustard, lemon juice, and broth mix. Add potatoes and chicken to skillet and return mixture to a boil. Reduce heat, cover, and let simmer until chicken is tender and, when pierced with a fork, juices run clear, 15-20 minutes.

Each serving provides three protein exchanges, one bread exchange, two vegetable exchanges, 1 1/4 fat exchanges, 20 calories optional exchange.

Per serving: 320 calories, 30 grams protein, 8 grams fat, 27 carbohydrates, 55 milligrams sodium, 66 milligrams cholesterol.

Scientist on alert against pesticides in food regarding pesticides in food is that their research is scanty, not up to date and EPA's tolerance levels are too high.

About the FDA, she said, "The FDA samples less than one percent of this country's food supply. Its enforcement against food with residues in excess of tolerance is ineffective."

ABOUT THE EPA she reported, "The lack of health effects data on pesticides means that the EPA is regulating pesticides on the basis of ignorance rather than knowledge."

She observed that between 1982-85 the FDA detected pesticide residues in 48 percent of the most frequently consumed fresh fruit and vegetables.

"Yet this figure probably understates the number of pesticides in food because half of the chemicals applied to food supplies cannot be routinely detected by FDA lab methods," she said. "Approximately 40 percent of pesticides identified by the FDA as posing moderate to high health hazards, including carcinogens like dieldrin, heptachlor, aldrin and EDBs, cannot be identified in its lab tests."

A majority of pesticides now available were licensed before the EPA established requirements for health effects testing. "In 1972 Congress directed the EPA to re-evaluate all 600 older pesticides by modern testing, in recognition of the serious consequences posed to public health," noted Mott. "Through re-registration, the EPA would fill the gaps in required toxicology tests and have better information on how to evaluate and regulate pesticides."

The speaker paused. "But by 1987 the EPA had completed a final safety statement for only two of those 600 pesticides," she said.

About 400 pesticides are registered for use on food, she declared. "The EPA acknowledged that 390 are undergoing registration review. In other words, for 390 of them, there is an inadequate toxicological data base with which EPA could register these pesticides," Mott explained.

"TO MAKE MATTERS worse, scientists are now uncovering new toxic adverse effects caused by chemicals. For example, a few pesticides have been found to damage components of the immune system, the body's defense network."

"Testing for this toxicity is not part of the routine safety evaluation for pesticides. Furthermore, the EPA now acknowledges its battery of tests to evaluate neurotoxicity is inadequate."

Consumers could have an important role in improving the pesticide situation, according to Mott, who offered a variety of suggestions on how to deal with them.

- Wash all produce with water to decrease exposure to pesticides. Some will be removed but not all.
- Peel produce. Some residues cannot be removed by water.
- Grow your own food without pesticides.
- Buy locally and in season. If food is shipped long distances, pesticides are often added to prevent spoiling.
- Beware of perfect-looking produce. Many pesticides are used just to enhance its appearance. Brown spots do not reduce nutritional value or affect taste. A glossy appearance may signal produce that was waxed for cosmetic reasons. Wax can't be washed off, and it seals in residues in food.
- Buy organic food. (Mott favors a farm bill that would financially aid farmers willing to make the transition from using pesticides to not using them.)
- Write to supermarket managers or meet with them to ask them to stock organically grown produce. If possible, help them locate sources of this food. Kroger's indicated to the Ann Arbor Ecology Center that it may soon stock organic food as an alternative.
- Write your congressional representatives stating your opposition to pesticides. In the next few months Congress will consider legislation to strengthen the EPA's regulation of pesticides in food. Attempts will be made to revise its tolerances based on new methods and safety data. Also urge Congress to consider children when tolerances are set. They consume more food per unit of body weight than adults and need lower tolerances.

Olive oil shines at gourmet delis cooked pasta, steaks or seafood. If you have a recipe that calls for cooking with olive oil, a simple, less expensive domestic brand will suffice.

Last but not least, if you are really into these types of oil or know someone who would appreciate them, shopping around the various markets will have you noticing vintage olive oils. These are from the smaller producers with exceedingly high standards and, of course, with the territory comes exceedingly high prices. True gastronomes will surely appreciate the difference, but folks like you and me probably would have difficulty discerning it.

So if you are into olive oil, a trip to some neat delis and gourmet shops will entice your palate and pocketbook. Bon Appetit!

Rocks slam dunk Spartans, 82-68

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Plymouth Salem stayed ahead of the posse Friday, outrunning visiting Livonia Stevenson in a Western Lakes Activities Association boys basketball encounter, 82-68.

The Rocks, now 9-1 overall and leading the Lakes Division of the WLAA with a 5-0 record, got 29 points from senior forward Jeff Elliott and 18 from sophomore center Jake Baker.

"We knew it would be an up-and-down game and I think that was to our advantage because we have a good group of athletes," said Salem coach Bob Brodie. "We're a fast-break team and early we were successful at doing that."

Salem, behind Elliott's 14 first-quarter points, jumped out to a 27-17 advantage, but the Spartans fought back to take a 38-34 lead with 1:37 left in the half when senior center Chris Nazelli, who scored a team-high 22 points, converted a three-point play.

BUT THE ROCKS got baskets

basketball

from Tim Noonan and Jeff Gold just before intermission to knot things up at 38-all.

In the third quarter, Stevenson came out flat and the Rocks took advantage, outscoring the Spartans 8-0 at the outset.

That run helped Salem maintain a comfortable eight-point heading into the final quarter. The Rocks then put on another spurt, building an 18-point cushion with 3:33 to play on Elliott's third 3-pointer of the night.

"In the second quarter we were not scoring in transition and Stevenson was able to come at us with their zone," Brodie said. "But in the third quarter we did a better job of recognizing it and we got the ball inside."

Baker scored 12 points in the second half and it's his inside play which has catapulted the Rocks to the top of the standings.

"Jake's the player we go to inside, he's a rebounder and a scorer," said the Salem coach. "He's really our only inside guy, but he can shoot the 15- to 16-footer, but we don't ask him that much. He can also run the floor."

THE SPARTANS, who have changed to an up-tempo game since losing their top scorer, 6-6 center Mike Vrooman to a broken foot, played well offensively.

But their defense was nonexistent, according to coach Jim McIntyre.

"Salem was aggressive and did a nice job of attacking our press," said the Stevenson coach, whose team slipped to 6-4 overall and 2-3 in the Lakes. "But we did nothing at the other end as far as denying the ball."

"Our course, they often had a three-on-one and two-on-one advantage, but we didn't do anything when it was one-on-one. That's why we had to pull the press off."

McIntyre, however, was encouraged by the inside play of the 6-2 Nazelli, even though he made only 12 of 21 free throws.

Borgess wins without star

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

Charles North was standing in the Redford Bishop Borgess locker room Friday night, not far from Kareem Carpenter's old locker.

North, who scored 23 points in Borgess' 58-48 win over visiting Redford Catholic Central, talked about how much he'll miss Carpenter, a 6-foot-4 junior. Carpenter's family moved from Detroit to Ann Arbor last week and he has transferred to Ann Arbor Huron.

Carpenter was the Spartans' leading rebounder and best inside offensive player, but Friday they missed him more in the locker room.

"We'll miss him in the locker room, because he's real funny," North said. "He has everybody laughing. Sometimes it will be real intense and he'd always crack a joke."

"We have to keep our heads up. Kareem got half our rebounds. We just have to put our minds to it."

THE SPARTANS' win means both teams are tied at the top of the Catholic League's Central Division at 5-1, with four games left. The Spartans are 7-4 overall and the Shamrocks fell to 6-5.

There's nothing funny about that, according to CC coach Bernie Holowicki.

"We've got some tough games ahead and anything can happen," Holowicki said. "I don't see them losing any more games so that means we have to win the rest of ours to keep pace with them."

Borgess coach Mike Fusco would like to have Carpenter for the final month of the season, but he'll have to do without him. Carpenter's name was still taped to his locker Friday. Maybe he expects him back?

"It's been a tough couple of days," he said. "I don't want to admit it (that he's gone), because he kept track of things inside. We miss that."

"Three of our last four games are on the road. It'll be a dogfight. It'll be a dogfight."

It was Borgess' smaller players that gave CC trouble Friday.

Chiefs splash N'ville

Plymouth Canton isn't to the mountain top yet, but the Chiefs like the look of things from their current vantage point.

Coach Hooker Wellman's team took a big step toward a possible third straight Western Division boys swimming title Thursday by whipping perennial rival Northville, 98-74.

Canton is now 2-0 in the division — with dual meets remaining with Farmington Harrison, Livonia Franklin and Livonia Churchill — and stands at 5-1 overall. The Mustangs drop to 1-1 and 4-2.

"It was a real good meet, a good lead-up meet for (Plymouth) Salem," Wellman said. "It was a good meet to get the kids ready for heavier competition next week."

Canton goes against its biggest rival in an inter-division meet at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Canton pool.

THE CHIEFS, who were hosts for the Northville dual, won six events beginning with the 200-yard medley relay.

Jeff Homan and Mitch Timberlake, teaming up with Scott Swartzwelder and Mark Levesque, helped Canton pull in the relay victory (1:45.94) and came back later with individual wins, too. Timberlake captured the 50 freestyle (24.09) and Homan the 100 freestyle (52.20).

Canton's other first-place efforts came from Steve Geddes, who went 1:54.74 in the 200 freestyle, Bryce Anderson, who swam 55.89 in the butterfly, and Kevin Beach, who posted a 1:09.54 time in the breaststroke.

Northville's Eric Newton won the individual medley (2:04.93) and backstroke (59.41) and helped the Mus-

Bryce Anderson competes in the individual medley (above) but excelled in the 100-yard butterfly Thursday as Plymouth Canton won an important swimming dual meet. The Chiefs defeated their perennial division nemesis, Northville, to assume the leadership role in the race for the title.

CC opens with victory

Mike Hoeflein and Jim Kovach each won a pair of individual events and were part of winning relays as Redford Catholic Central opened its Catholic League season with a 49-34 dual-meet win over Harper Woods Notre Dame Friday at Farmington Hills Mercy.

Hoeflein's wins came in the 200-yard (1:52.12) and 500-yard (5:11.85) freestyle. Kovach was first in the 200 individual medley (2:10.13) and 100 backstroke (1:01.96).

Hoeflein anchored CC's winning 400 free relay (3:31.79), which included Dave West, Troy Shumate and Alan Afsari. Kovach swam on the victorious 200 medley relay (1:50.72), with Randy Teeters, Andy Jacobs and West.

Shumate also bettered the state qualifying cut in the 100 butterfly, finishing first in 53.73.

The Shamrocks are 3-1 overall. They host Livonia Churchill (at Mercy) at 4 p.m. Tuesday.

N. Farmington shocks Salem

North Farmington still has three Lakes Division dual meets ahead of it, but the Raiders must be the odds-on favorites to win the title now.

They set themselves up as the frontrunner Thursday night by topping No. 7-rated Plymouth Salem, 88-84.

North, which beat Livonia Stevenson the previous week and has knocked off the top contenders now, improved to 4-0 overall, 2-0 in the division. The Rocks are 1-1 and 4-2.

"This is probably the biggest win North Farmington has had in a long time," second-year coach Sue Gendron said. "This was more exciting tonight, because nobody beats Salem."

"I coach the kids on Salem's team in the Livonia Spartans program, so it's really weird. I know most of them real well."

THE RAIDERS needed first and third place in the freestyle relay to beat Salem and did just that.

Chris Knoche, Chuck Chuba, Steve Turney and Dan Knipper won the race in 3:28.13, beating Salem's Rick Steshetz, Chris Caloia, Eric Bunch and Mike Hill to the wall. The Rocks swam 3:32.26.

North's Rob Mahle, Jim Nicholas, Jamie Greenstein and Jerry Jehle came in with the all-important third place, touching out at 3:47.07. Salem's second relay went 3:49.65.

"This makes me feel great," Gendron said. "The kids swam great. I just put my toughest lineup in the water and hoped the kids could swim fast."

In individual events, Turney was a double winner, and Chuba and Knoche contributed one first place each.

Turney won the individual medley (2:10.42) and butterfly (56.8). Chuba was first in the 100 freestyle (51.62) and Knoche the 500 freestyle (5:09.10). The latter dropped nine seconds off his previous best time, Gendron said.

THE RAIDERS had one other victory, and that came in diving where Rob Kunzelman compiled 209.55 points. North showed its depth in that event with John Juliano taking second and Gerard Meteyer fourth.

The winners also had an emotional leader in senior Doug Schwedland, who teamed up with Mike Drelles, Knipper and Keith Lee for runner-up honors in the medley relay, one of several key second places for North.

"Doug Schwedland swam out of his mind he was so fired up," Gendron said. "He was the only one who went in there and said we could beat them."

In a close meet, the Raiders earned crucial points with second-place swims by Knipper in the breaststroke, Drelles in the backstroke, Chuba in the 50 freestyle and Knoche in the 200 freestyle.

The Raiders must still compete against Walled Lake Central, Westland John Glenn and Farmington before claiming the dual-meet title, but they appear to be in control of their own destiny today.

"We're just going to keep training hard and swimming fast," Gendron said. "We want to keep up the good work."

"THE BOYS HAVE been training hard, and they want to win. That's what it takes. It also helps to have a nice, deep team."

Overshadowed by North's team success were the three victories by Salem's Ron Orris, who anchored the winning medley relay team and won the 50 freestyle (22.21) and breaststroke (1:02.03).

Sean Fitzgerald, Mark Erickson and Fred Seidelman combined with Orris to post a 1:46.21 time in the relay.

The Rocks also won the 200 freestyle and backstroke with Mike Hill going 1:52.62 in the former and Fitzgerald 1:02.46 in the latter.

Canton gymnasts remain undefeated

Plymouth Canton's best gymnast, sophomore Heather Murphy, was under the weather and stayed home Thursday while her teammates traveled to Ann Arbor.

Murphy won the beam (8.5) and tied Anderson for first on the floor (8.55). Murphy also placed second on the bars (7.95) and third in the vault (8.0).

Anderson won the vault (8.4), Clifford won the bars (8.1), Clifford had finished second on the vault (8.2) and the beam (8.05) and third on the floor (8.25).

Clifford won the bars (7.75) and beam (7.85) events, but Cunningham kept her out of the vault and floor exercise.

"Huroo had a bunch of girls hurt, so that's the reason for the disparity in the scores," Cunningham said. "I knew they were going to be weak, so we took some of our top performers out of the all-around."

Salem netters ground Hawks

Farmington Harrison's volleyball team could have picked a better night to experiment.

Harrison coach Ron Shortt changed his offensive strategy Thursday against a more experienced Plymouth Salem team, and it didn't help.

"We didn't go into the first game expecting to win, even though it was a league game," Shortt said. "We tried some people out in different spots."

"We're a real young team, and we're going through a transition right now. We're going to end up losing some games, but I'm willing to experience it."

Maria Wordhouse, Jenny Justice and Asaka Motoyama starred in the first game for Salem.

Wordhouse served seven consecutive points midway through the match. Justice had five kills and Motoyama four.

"She was the player of the night," Salem coach Betty Smith said. "Everything fell into place for her. Her serves are very low to the ground and very powerful."

"At the net, she was very aggressive. She was hitting everything from everywhere, whether she was hitting from the middle, center front or from the outside."

Salem's serving again was a plus in the second game as the Rocks got two aces each from Justice, Motoyama, Kaori Saga and Cori Fisher.

Kelly Coulson was the leading server, putting 18 of 19 into play for 17 points, including four aces.

"The game ends quickly. Both games were decided by the fact we were serving real hard."

LIVONIA LADYWOOD might be a bigger rival in volleyball, but Farmington Hills Mercy enjoyed sweet victory nonetheless Thursday night at Birmingham Marian.

Let your body take control of your mind

Now that is a new year, I am making a resolution to be healthier. My husband has been 'bugging me to change. I've had serious alcohol problems and sometimes get very depressed. I can't seem to take control. Any suggestions?

You haven't given me a whole lot of information about yourself. I will have to answer in general terms. First of all, you are not to feel alone. You have lots of company out there.

You say you sometimes get very depressed. There is a clear link between psychological issues and health habits, a very strong mind/body connection.

Are you a pessimist? Pessimists (those who suspect that bad things are caused by personal failings that will be with them forever) are more likely to have poor health than optimists, who generally believe they can change things.

If you get depressed and believe that nothing you do matters, then why should you bother making lifestyle changes? Being an optimist, you can take better control of your life. For example, some studies show that optimists can give up smoking more easily because they have confidence to know that can make a difference in their lives.

Dr. Martin Seligman, professor of psychology at the University of Pennsylvania, says that "when someone feels depressed, hormonal changes in the body have an impact on the immune system and lower resistance to disease."

On the brighter side, it is possible to make changes and take control. Let your body control your mind. For many years, psychiatrists have written prescriptions for patients. As the body gets healthier, a person starts to feel differently about themselves. It's called attitude change.

Start with small suggestions that will allow you to take control over your behavior. Seeing a diet or exercise program as a means of gaining control over your life may change the type of plan you follow.

Remember to let your body influence your mind and help you gain the confidence you need to make changes. Build control over your new healthy habits slowly. We are dealing with long-term commitment.

Canton cagers rebound, 67-50

Plymouth Canton put the wheels of its basketball machine back on the tracks Friday night, when team improved to 6-3 overall, 3-1 in the North-Western Suburban League.

The Chargers couldn't keep pace with the Chiefs, 3-2 in the Western Division and 7-4 overall. Canton led 11-10 after one quarter, 30-22 at the half and 50-37 after three periods.

Brian Paupore netted 18 points for the winners, and Troy Waldron added 17 and nine rebounds. Nobody scored in double figures for Churchill.

Meanwhile, Elliott has made a smooth adjustment from point-guard to forward for the Rocks, while Scott Hale (10 points) has also adapted to coming off the bench and playing up-front.

"This was his best job as far as aggressiveness and being into it," said the Stevenson coach. "He took the shot when it was there."

"Overall, I think we've done a good job preparing without Vrooman. We have more quickness, but then we're not able to go inside as much. We're kind of caught in between right now."

Three other Spartans notched double figures, including three-point bomber Rich Laven and Scott Kosikowski, who added 12 each. Ron Baran chipped in with 11.

WRITE IT AND REAP!

Writing a classified ad that gets results—whether it be for real estate, employment, the personals, transportation, or merchandise—is easy if you follow the guidelines below.

- 1. Give the reader specific information. Pretend you are someone reading the classifieds. What would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as color, size, condition, brand name, age, features and benefits. Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts and reap the rewards!
- 2. Include the price. Don't waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more interested in those items and services they know are within their price range.
- 3. Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use complete words.
- 4. Include phone number and specify hours. Be sure to let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a sale!
- 5. Run on consecutive days. Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative.

For awhile it looked pretty grim for the residents of Jamaica. Hurricane Gilbert had literally wiped out its crops and put a healthy dent in its tourist industry. But the island country has made a speedy recovery and now, more than ever, is telling vacationers to "Come back to Jamaica." See Page 6D.

STREET SCENE

Getting 'real' about loops and twirls

By Sharon Dargay
staff writer

The closest I ever got to joining the Ice Capades was a tap dancing recital in a neighbor's basement during the second grade.

In crepe paper costumes and paper plate tiaras, we shuffle-kick-kick-shuffled before an audience of squirming siblings and applauding parents, a dozen Shirley Temples in synchronized step.

I was in a subterranean tap dancing class because the creaky patent leather shoes and linoleum were easier on weak ankles than steel blades and ice.

My skating debut had ended in disaster a year earlier. While my classmates stroked effortlessly around the glassy surface of the playground, I had wobbled two blocks home in a friend's over-sized skates.

I quit tap dancing before my costume needs expanded from plain paper plate to flashy Chinnet, still dreaming of skating stardom.

I outgrew my dance shoes, but grew into a pair of skates. Tightening my laces until I learned to skate forward, backward and on one foot as a teen.

As I cut jaggedy figure threes into the ice at a neighborhood rink, I could hear the distant voices of ABC Olympic commentators.

"A half-tumble and spin out on the ice in the rump position! She is in rare form for this program tonight, Dick!"

"You know Jim, she may not jump or spin or turn or even stop like other professional skaters, but her choreography is unquestionably creative."

"I REALLY like the way the sparkles on her Chinnet tiara catch the light."

"Watch this move — a toe pick stumble, into a flailing arm spin and stomach dive around the hockey players. Brilliant . . ."

At 34, I have given up dreaming and enrolled in group lessons.

After a dozen half-hour classes, I can do one of those ballerina-in-a-jewelry box spins without the need of Dramamine. I have mastered a wobbly one-foot spin, several graceful turns and a variety of jumps to almost-jumps to my-feet-never-leave-the-ice jumps.

It looks easy, but it's hard work, requiring four to six hours of practice a week. And sometimes it's a little scary.

"Adults are cautious, but they can do it. I'm like the rest of them. I'm not ready to break a leg," said Beverly Griffin, a teacher at Livonia's ice arena.

"It takes a lot of determination. Adults are starting to come out of their shells and compete. It seems to be a desire some people have. They watch ice skating and say, 'gosh, I'd like to do that'."

Griffin was no different.

She longed to figure skate, but didn't start lessons until she was 12. The opportunity came along to join a club, followed by private lessons, competition and a three-year stint with an ice revue.

But Griffin says most adults take up skating because they enjoy the exercise — "It's at the top of the list for burning calories." Or they want to learn a few dazzling moves on the ice. Some simply think skating is fun.

"IT DOESN'T take adults long to learn forward, backward and edges. For freestyle moves, it depends on their ability and whether they care if they fall down.

"A lot of people take private lessons to better their skills. I have some adults here at six in the morning before they go to work," she said. "Most adults will skate a lot during the week. If they work, they'll look for other arenas where they can get ice time."

Adults who have mastered some basic moves can join the Livonia arena's precision skating team.

No freestyle competitions are available for adults, although Joyce Herron, coordinator of adult classes at the Detroit Skating Club in Bloomfield Hills, said the concept is "beginning to take off."

"Once adults see that they can compete and not feel embarrassed, they'll participate," she said. "But you've got to offer them the opportunity."

The Ice Skating Institute of America, a group dedicated to recreational skating, held its first international competition this year. Herron hopes it will encourage more adult competitors.

That's what Clela Jarmon of Royal Oak is aiming for.

Jarmon heads for the Birmingham Ice Arena during lunch breaks from her job as a physical therapist at William Beaumont Hospital.

At 29, she has tackled her first eight-week session of group classes, with an eye toward mastering a "routine with technicality."

"I want so badly to be able to skate elegantly, to be able to do all of this fun stuff," she admitted. "When there's a skating show on TV you can't pull me away."

AFTER A semester of classes, Jarmon is perfecting her one-foot spin and several jumps.

"I pick up on things quickly, but I don't get it down perfectly. I have to work on it. I have a fear of falling, so I don't get a lot of height to my jumps," she said. "But my advice to adults is don't be afraid. Get out there and try. You may fall down, but you can get back up and try again."

Karen Van Elslander, 19, of Warren, did just that.

"I tried skating when I was a kid, but couldn't even stand up. I was 18 when I put on skates again. I was surprised. I could skate forward and backward," she said.

After about 15 sessions in the rink, she tried executing a few fancy moves, slipped on a crack in the ice and broke her leg.

"I started skating again in July. I just love it. I can't believe I can do some of these moves."

Van Elslander, a Wayne State University accounting major, spends about six hours on the ice every week.

DOUGLAS E. SUSALLA

Neil Mitchell and Donna Graber of Troy enjoy the outdoor ice skating at Sylvan Glenn in Troy.

including a half-hour group lesson.

When she began skating again last summer, she upgraded her skates from off-the-shelf to professional models.

Griffin and Herron say good equipment can make the difference between a mediocre and good skater.

"It has to fit well and be well-sharpened," Griffin said. "Skates should fit like a leather glove. You don't have to pay $500 for a pair, but you'll probably pay $100 or more."

ADULTS TEND to buy oversized skates. But correctly fitted boots generally run one size or more smaller than street shoes. Boots should fit snugly with tights or thin socks. Blades are purchased separately.

The padded, stiff boots are a must for properly executing jumps with ease.

"Adults who are 30 to 40 years old can learn to jump," Herron stressed. "They wouldn't join an ice show — you have to have stamina coming out of your ears for that — but they can learn to jump."

Darn. I knew the U.S. Olympic Team was out, but I was hoping for a spot in some traveling ice extravaganza.

There's more to ice skating than lessons

Practice makes perfect. That's especially true when it comes to figure skating.

Half-hour weekly lessons can give adults the how-to's of spinning and jumping, but don't allow enough time for mastering the moves.

That's when open skating periods come in handy.

Adult sessions are 11:45 a.m. to 12:45 p.m. Monday through Friday at the Eddie Edgar Arena, 33841 Lyndon, Livonia; 11 a.m. to 12:50 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday at the Redford Arena, 12400 Beech-Daly; 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Monday through Friday and 9:10-10:30 p.m. Sundays at the Birmingham Ice Arena, 2300 East Lincoln; and 8:30-10 p.m. Wednesdays at the Beech Woods Arena, 22200 Beech, Southfield.

Oak Park's Ice Arena, 13950 Oak Park Blvd., also offers a late-night adult session from 10:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. Fridays.

Here's a schedule of half-hour adult classes:

- Birmingham — Classes cost $45 for eight weeks, beginning Jan. 23.
- Detroit Skating Club — Sessions cost $35. Registration began Jan. 9.
- Garden City — Classes cost $17.50 for eight weeks, beginning Feb. 20, at the rink, located on Cherry Hill just east of Merriman.
- Livonia — Classes cost $18 for eight weeks beginning Jan. 30.
- Plymouth — Classes cost $22 for eight weeks, beginning Jan. 23, at the rink, located in the municipal cultural center.
- Redford — A seven-week session costs $25. Current session began Jan. 17.
- Southfield — Classes cost $20 for a five-week session.
- Westland — Adult classes cost $26 for seven weeks. Classes began Jan. 7 at the rink, 6210 Wildwood.

Chilly challenge: Outdoor skating

Skate outdoors? In the cold? On a homemade rink or frozen pond?

"It's great," said Beverly Griffin, a teacher at Livonia's ice arena. "I grew up on outdoor ice, and there are few of them left. Outdoor skating is absolutely marvelous."

But there are drawbacks to outdoor skating, too.

Skaters can take some pretty nasty falls, if they glide into cracks or icy bumps on a natural surface. And because rough ice can nick or dull blades, skate sharpening is a must after use on an outdoor rink.

Most figure skaters who enjoy the sport outdoors keep two pairs of skates, wearing the best equipment indoors.

"This generation doesn't know much about outdoor skating. But those who do love it," Griffin said. "When my kids were young, we made a backyard ice rink every year. We put out flood lights, skated and had a great time. Then we'd come inside and have hot chocolate and marshmallows near the fireplace."

If you're longing for a similar experience, fill the thermos, don ear muffs and mittens and head for these outdoor rinks when the weather becomes snowy and cold:

BIRMINGHAM — Some residents head for Quanton Lake when the temperature drops. The city doesn't clean snow off the lake or maintain it as a rink, but skaters can shovel it clear themselves when the ice is safe. The lake is just north of Maple west of Southfield Hills.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS SCHOOL DISTRICT — The district will flood two areas in its outdoor education center for skating this year. One will be available to hockey players and the other for figure and leisure skaters. Both will be open only to district residents.

CANTON TOWNSHIP — The township will flood an area at Flodin Park on Saltz between Sheldon and Lilley.

FARMINGTON HILLS — Skaters use Heritage Park on Farmington Road between 10 and 11 Mile roads.

LIVONIA — The city maintains rinks at Algonquin Park, Henry Ruff and Lyndon; Dooley Park, Lyndon and Harrison; Kingsbury Park, Levan and Westbrook; and Sheldon Park, Plymouth and Loveland.

HURON-CLINTON METRO-PARKS — Skaters can cut a fancy figure into the ice on Stony Lake in Stony Creek Park, in Washington, Kent Lake in Milford and on the Huron River at Lower Huron Metro-park in Belleville.

PLYMOUTH TOWNSHIP — Skaters head to Wilcox Lake at Hines Drive and Northville roads.

ROCHESTER AND ROCHESTER HILLS — Skaters use the pond adjacent to Rochester City Hall, on Woodward north of Walton, or the lake in Thelma Spencer Park on John R, north of M-59, in Rochester Hills.

TROY — Sylvan Lake on Rochester road south of Square Lake road will become a rink.

WEST BLOOMFIELD — Skaters use the natural pond at the civic center on Walnut Lake Road just west of Orchard Lake Road, or they head for Dodge Park No. 4 on the northern edge of Cass Lake.

MOVING PICTURES

'Torch Song' looks at subject of homosexuality

RECENT RELEASES:

On the assumption that you haven't had time to screen last week's eight new movies, the distributors only released two films this week — "Torch Song Trilogy" and "Full Moon in Blue Water," starring the ever-popular Gene Hackman, currently appearing in "Mississippi Burning."

Hackman shares with Michael Caine the distinction of "busiest actor in town." In recent years, each has appeared in six or more films. In an industry where they soon forget your name on the marquee is the name of the game.

At press time, no screenings had been scheduled for "Full Moon in Blue Water" but it is described as an R-rated comedy about the complicated relationships of four people whose lives revolve around the Blue Water Grill. Can it be "Mystic Pizza" with guys?

In addition to Hackman, the film stars Teri Garr, Burgess Meredith and Elias Koteas.

"Torch Song Trilogy," (B) (R) 112 minutes, has received wide coverage in the press. In case you haven't read the entertainment sections, this is Harvey Fierstein's sensitive discussion of homosexuality in our society.

Based on his award-winning Broadway play, Fierstein wrote the screenplay and stars as Arnold Beckoff, a homosexual who believes closets are for clothes as he deals openly with his sexual preferences. Matthew Broderick's appearance in the New York production led to his successful career in films. This time he plays Alan, a successful model who becomes Arnold's lover. There's also Arnold's bisexual lover, Ed (Brian Kerwin).

As for family, only Arnold's mother (Anne Bancroft) makes any impact — father and brother are just there. Ed's wife, Laurel (Karen Young) has some influence.

Arnold does well as a female impersonator and the film's best moments are musical sequences in the club where he works as Virginia Hamm, a singer of the blues, those torch songs of the title.

Marvelous faces people this show of female impersonators, particularly the fat face of the "mistress" of ceremonies. The complete naturalism of these scenes is compelling and the genuine quality pervades the film's open attitude toward homosexuality.

With this unaffected naturalism, the club scenes reek of "Cabaret" and the decadence of German Expressionism in the "30s. One thing, Smoke and dim lights notwithstanding, it's all too slick, too clean and neat, as are the back rooms where the boys go for a quickie.

Seldom do film characters look at the camera, but several statements of realism upon which film depends.

ALTERNATIVE VIEWING

August balances good, grim in 'Pelle'

By Ann Shearp

Special report

"Pelle the Conqueror," a Danish film by director Billie August, is a quiet sort of masterpiece. Nothing shory about it. All its exquisite, craftsmanship elements of acting, scripting, cinematography blend unostentatiously into an engrossing piece of storytelling.

The story it tells is one that seems increasingly popular with filmmakers in recent years. Like "Pixote" and "Balam Bombay," it's a coming-of-age drama about a child who isn't permitted much of a childhood, because he is poor and must fend for himself in a cruel, unfeeling world.

"Pelle" is taken from a series of novels, written by Danish author Martin Andersen Nexø at the turn of the century. It's about a young Swede who rises from humble beginnings to become a powerful labor leader. From what we learn of Pelle's boyhood in this film, it's no wonder he grew up to be a radical.

The film opens with Pelle, about 10 years old, arriving with his elderly father in Denmark. The father as-

Arnold (Harvey Fierstein) and Alan (Matthew Broderick) share a quiet breakfast in a telephone booth from "Torch Song Trilogy" from New Line Cinema.

But twice in "Torch Song Trilogy," Fierstein turns to the camera and speaks directly to us. In particular, the opening monologue in his dressing room effectively and touchingly describes the plight of homosexuals in a heterosexual world that is, at best, only tolerant.

Besides the unnaturally tidy cover of such situations, I'll assume that homosexuals are allowed to adopt homosexual boys, despite the lack of any explanation in the film. Certainly, the apartment to which they move seems out of place for the neighborhood. But, then, that's New York.

"Torch Song Trilogy" presents itself as a plea for acceptance of homosexuals. It's done well enough that it stands as an appeal for tolerance for all outsiders. However, the film's basic premise breaks down under careful scrutiny and the last 30 minutes drag and begin to groan on the nerves.

The assumption of "Torch Song Trilogy" is that homosexuality is natural and society is at fault for not accepting it. No generative force for Arnold's homosexuality is presented. That similar statements that are always knee — plus a gratuitous opening scene where Ma discovers the "Young Arnold" (Benji Schulman) in drag.

Her face quickly registers surprise, understanding and acceptance. That, taken with the film's refusal to present causation for Arnold's homosexuality — in fact, there's considerable testimony that the family scene couldn't have been better — and Arnold's constant plea for openness and acceptance, leaves the clear indication that society is wrong for discriminating against a natural inclination.

My clinical standing is even lower than my legal, but it seems to me that there's a problem with that assumption. While society has an obligation to guarantee the rights of all members — no matter how they chose to deviate from the norm, providing they don't harm others — that doesn't mean that everything is within the natural order of things.

Style reinforces concept and one way "Torch Song" proves that society is at fault for not accepting homosexuality is the curious way in which Anne Bancroft and Harvey Fierstein sound so much alike.

That similar statements that are always knee — plus a gratuitous gulf that separates them. But Bancroft's performance is forced and harsh, almost a caricature of the New York Jewish mother, despite testimony to a fine family life. The vocal similarity just doesn't work and becomes irritating.

Hidden in Bancroft's performance is a split personality who either is or isn't responsible for her son. You can't have it both ways, and the film gets murky when Bancroft becomes the villain for not accepting Arnold as he is.

With the two of them yelling at each other with roughly the same vocal qualities, it rubs harshly on the sensibilities and approximates being forced to watch what goes on in other people's bathrooms.

The message we get from all this is mixed. The film makes a profound plea for tolerance of those who do not meet the norm. That and its fine music, fast-paced cutting, upbeat style and entertaining comedy are to its credit.

However, the premise that homosexuality is normal is a little hard to take. Given problems in the last 30 minutes, "Torch Song Trilogy" probably will only play well to sophisticated, big-city audiences and the coverage it's been receiving won't be matched at the box office.

Just jammin' 'Sunday Night' finds its musical niche

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

The set on "Sunday Night" doesn't include a rake or a garden hose. But the spirit of the garage jam session is certainly there.

Since its debut in October on NBC, the hour-long music show (seen at 1 a.m. on Channel 4) has found a niche in terms of diversity. Tired of watching Billy Idol shadow box his way through a video or listening to an artist endlessly plug their album on a talk show? "Sunday Night" might be the answer.

Musical acts — both established and new — are featured along with archive film clips of great artists. Also, there's a first-rate house band that includes Marcus Miller and Hiram Bullock on guitar, Omar Hakim on drums and Philippe Saisse on keyboards.

But one of the most interesting parts of the show is when musicians from differing styles get together. Past segments have included Paul Simon producing Eddie Palmieri Band and James Taylor performing Latin American music with Milton Nascimento.

Future possibilities are endless. Jools Holland of the British pop band Squeeze and co-host of the show thinks of the ultimate musical pairings.

"I would like to get Ray Charles on with someone you wouldn't expect like, hummmm. Talking Heads," said Holland, in a telephone interview from New York. "Now that would be a good show."

EVEN HOLLAND and fellow host, David Sanborn, are from different musical perspectives. Sanborn is a highly acclaimed saxophonist, working with the likes of David Bowie, James Brown, The Eagles, Bruce Springsteen and Roger Waters of Pink Floyd.

Holland is keyboardist with the often-praised British pop band, Squeeze. The TV stage, though, is quite different than the musical one. "There's a lot of sex and violence on television," he said. "So, obviously, I'm getting my share of sex and violence."

The zany English popster is no stranger to television. In fact, he fronted a music show, "The Tube," in Great Britain. "The Tube" offered quite an array of musical acts. Then again, that might be attributed to Holland's vast tastes that include jazz, boogie-woogie, ska and funk.

BUT HE quickly adds that he's careful things don't become too technical for those of us who think a chord is something you plug into a wall and fret is what you do at tax time. The spontaneity of live music is what Holland believes will sell the show in the long run. Already, the people we've chosen to be on the show in that they're all good at what they do," Holland said. "We're not just going to have someone on just because they have the sexiest bottom at the moment."

As musicians, Holland and Sanborn have an added insight to be an advantage with guests.

BUT HE quickly adds that he's careful things don't become too technical for those of us who think a chord is something you plug into a wall and fret is what you do at tax time. The spontaneity of live music is what Holland believes will sell the show in the long run. Already, there's been plenty of that since October.

"When we had Squeeze on (Sunday night), Hiram Bullock filled in at rhythm guitar," he said. "He put some things into the music we hadn't heard before. That lifted the whole thing and made it exciting."

By taking a different path, Holland is expecting overnight success. Though he does expect the "Sunday Night" audience to grow steadily, "I think people are underestimated," he said. "People have more intelligence and a broader sense of taste than they are given credit for. Hopefully, we're introducing them to people they've never heard of before."

Strange Bedfellows: It's a 'marriage' made in music

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

To the naked eye, there might not be a sheet big enough to cover Strange Bedfellows.

The breakup of the six-member band has more potential for divisions than General Motors. First, there is the married couple of Jan and Jim Blaschak. Then there are the two guys and the four women.

But the real powder keg is trying to pair two lead singers, which Strange Bedfellows attempted in the beginning. Experiments like that usually end in an exchange of gunfire.

But animosity between singers Missy Gibson and Beth Yates? No way, right?

"I think there was at first," said Gibson, whose charming, yet powerful voice fronts Strange Bedfellows. "I think we were threatened by one another. We weren't meant to each other or anything. One day we all sat down and sorted it out."

So, the plan is to have Gibson sing lead. Yates follows with harmonies, fronting the band on a couple of numbers. The rest of the group backs up the vocals with some polished musicianship and everyone will live happily ever after.

"It's a happy medium," said Yates, 22, of Birmingham. "I grew up listening to the music of the 1960s and 1970s," Yates said. "I see our band having roots in that. But I feel we're polished in a new way. It's my Alvin." Oftra Hazy.

sult of a split in another band, Of All Things. Some of those members went on to form Walk the Dog. Jan Blaschak (bass) and husband, Jim Blaschak, (guitar) put together their own group that includes Shawn Scannell (keyboards) and Syndi Bauer (drums) along with Gibson and Yates.

In a short amount of time, Strange Bedfellows has been able to head off any potential rifts and laid the foundation for some rather beefy music.

Gibson writes most of the songs and performs them in a delicate manner. She is a theater major at Wayne State University, a trained opera singer and a self-professed poet.

On stage, Gibson exudes a warmth without being smarmy, a perkiness that doesn't induce vomiting.

"I don't want to come on too strong," said Gibson, 21, a Birmingham native. "I want people to like me for what I am. I'm a simple person. I love people."

Love might be too strong, but one can easily take to Strange Bedfellows. At a recent performance at the Hamtramck Pub, a five-week layoff was apparent in terms of rustiness. Also, one member was felled by a migraine headache and another was suffering with bronchitis.

Still, the band shone. The sound is a sweet mix of past and present.

"I grew up listening to the music of the 1960s and 1970s," Yates said. "I see our band having roots in that. But I feel we're polished in a new way. It's my Alvin." Oftra Hazy.

NEW YORK

Lou Reed

The Reagan Revolution is said to have left debt, homelessness and a wider gap between the rich and the poor. Also it has left Lou Reed quite cynical.

That is certainly evident on the former leader of the Velvet Underground's latest offering, "New York" (Sire). Reed leaves no 1980s stone unturned, addressing topics such as AIDS, toxic waste, extinction of whales, Vietnam vets and Kurt Waldheim.

His picture of this decade is not a pretty one, but it's real. It's one thing to ramble in vague generalities about current times, but nothing can quite stack up to the way Mr. Reed can sum up the experience.

As the album progresses, Reed gets more wounding up. He doesn't take a job at money-grubbing politicians and racist preachers, he stays them. Friend of the liberal, the Rev. Jesse Jackson, even takes some heat along with the Postfix on "Good Evening

3 — Violent Femmes

The Violent Femmes use a wash tub and a couple of acoustic guitars to relay their musical message. What is there in the end is, well, a wash tub and two acoustic guitars.

"3" (Slash/Warner) is the Milwaukee trio's first LP in nearly three years and hardly ranks as a great musical statement of these times.

Perhaps the Femmes are a classic example of how the changing trends in music can make you out-dated very quickly. The Violent Femmes, for all their phony, sound like a very ordinary band here.

This time out, the Violent Femmes took a barbershop approach into the studio. Overalls didn't take place nor did a lot of session accompaniment. The result is a raw, unpolished sound that's live sound as possible without putting out a live album. Spontaneity is at the forefront of the VF sound.

In the beginning, the Femmes succeed. A certain crispness exists as they begin to sing the opening

STREET SENSE

Got a question? Schiff has the answer

Starting this week, Street Sense has some good advice for you, thanks to psychotherapist Barbara Schiff. Schiff "always wanted to write an advice column," and now she is. Besides a desire to write, she brings to the task years of experience as a counselor and therapist in private practice and as a school psychologist in Utica and Detroit.

"I provide a lot of marital therapy in my private practice, but it's really very eclectic, and I expect the column will be, too," she said. "Street Sense seems to attract a lot of younger readers, and many of the problems the column deals with will probably reflect that — getting along on a new job, dating, getting started in marriage."

Newspaper advice columns are hardly a substitute for therapy, but Schiff sees her new forum as something substantial, something more than just human interest reading. "There are people who have problems, but can't ask anybody about them," she said. "There is something cathartic about saying what you're thinking. The column is sort of an intermediary step. If they can write down a problem and mail it to me, they might take some advice, might go see somebody."

AN ANCIENT piece of advice recommends a healthy mind in a healthy body, a prescription that describes Schiff's resume.

Besides her private psychotherapy practice in Birmingham, she is co-owner of the Workout Co., an aerobics and fitness salon, also in Birmingham.

"I started running when I was 27," Schiff said, "and I was teaching aerobics at the Y 17 years ago before it was popular."

Schiff, who holds a master's degree in psychology from the University of Michigan, appeared a number of times on Sonia Friedman's TV show when it originated from Channel 4 in Detroit, and also appeared on Channel 7's "Kelly & Co."

She lives in Birmingham with her husband, an attorney, and teenage stepson. Another stepson attends Oakland University, and her son is enrolled at the University of Vermont.

Dear Barbara, I am a 38-year-old woman with a 6-year-old daughter. I was divorced five years ago and since then have developed a very close relationship with another woman. We are together all the time. She is wonderful with my daughter and helpful around the house.

My problem is that my mother doesn't like her. She, my mother, is not enough to her when she is with me, but behind her back accuses her of trying to control me and "lead me around by the nose." None of this is true, but I am disturbed and confused because my mother said it. My mother wants to leave her out of a party we are giving. What should I do?

Dear Joan, Invite her. Your problem is that you are unsure of what to do. Someone is controlling you, if not your friend, then your mother. Why, otherwise, would a woman your age even consider listening to such a request from her mother or anyone else.

Find a nice way, or a not so nice way, if you prefer, to tell her to mind her own business. If she can't, you could be better off to make your own party preparations without her.

While your question seems innocuous enough, delving into it opens a Pandora's box. You sound like an extremely dependent woman for whom conflicts must often arise.

There must be many situations in which you don't know what to do and question your instincts. That's what happens when our need for others' approval outweighs our need to find and develop ourselves.

crossed my mind for an instant that he only owed me $140, but I said $200. He caught me. He said didn't I have a due bill for $60 and was only owed $140. "Oh," I said, "I forgot." The matter was dropped.

I am so embarrassed that I tried to steal $60 from my father. Our relationship has never been a good one, but certainly, that doesn't justify stealing. It also makes me worry. Would I have ignored the whole incident, if I hadn't been caught, and am I stealing at other times and not aware of it?

Do you think I need counseling? As I said at the beginning, I do need some advice.

Dear Justin, First, to answer your question — do you need counseling — I do not know enough about you to make a recommendation. The problem you describe in your letter does not, by itself, indicate such a need. In fact, your self-awareness makes you the kind of person who could achieve self-growth without therapy.

The issue of lying and stealing and our society's attitude toward money in general is a complicated one that is often two-faced. While we say honesty is best, it is not the honest, but the rich that we admire. Thus, one must have an independent spirit to live honorably rather than greedily.

The other question that you ask is about whether you are not sometimes unaware of this deviant streak in your behavior. Without more information, I cannot answer, but again, that you're asking it shows that you are motivated toward admirable goals.

I once read that there must be tension between who we are and who we want to become for growth to occur. I hope that the tension you feel will work positively for you.

A few months later, my father asked me to pick up an expensive belt for him in New York. I bought the belt — it was $200 — and gave it to my father. When my father called to ask how much he owed me, it

Hemphill: Homing in on laughs

By Bob Sadler special writer

The Comedy Store of Hollywood. Class of '74.

"People would probably pay good money to see the 15-year reunion of all the comics who grabbed their first limelight back then."

David Letterman could be the host of such an event, or he could share the chores with Jay Leno, who went on to some late night hosting chores of his own.

Marsha Warfield, better known as Rox from NBC's "Night Court," would be there. So would Robin Williams, probably the best improvisational comic in the business today.

And certainly not lost in the shuffle would be Shirley Hemphill. "I'D NEVER seen a script before, but I lied because I wanted to get in." She wasn't originally chosen for the role of Shirley, the waitress at the neighborhood hangout of main characters Raj and Rerun of "What's Happening." An illness in the cast forced a reshuffling of female roles and, in Hemphill's words, "they panicked and called me."

"They asked if I could start Monday and who my agent was. Agent? I didn't have an agent! So I went to the phone book and called the first name."

"What's Happening" went on to a very successful three-season run on ABC, pegged nicely on Friday nights behind "Welcome Back, Kotter." Syndication followed for the show, and its unusual popularity led to a reunion of the cast for three more seasons in first-run syndication under the title "What's Happening Now" during the mid-'80s. Between stints on "What's Happening," she starred in the short-lived sitcom, "One in a Million."

Hemphill, now 41, said she'd like to get on television again in the future. However, in the interim, she's back out practicing her first love — stand-up comedy.

On stage, she keeps it simple, with a straightforward observational brand of humor that has endeared her to audiences across the country. "It looks like I'm out of control on stage," she said, "but I know what I'm doing."

Shirley Hemphill belongs to the noteworthy class of 1974 of The Comedy Store. Her fellow graduates include Robin Williams, Jay Leno and David Letterman.

JAMAICA

Things are getting back to normal in Jamaica, even for tree ducks, following Hurricane Gilbert in September.

Dunn's River Falls near Ocho Rios is popular with tourists, who pay the park admission, which is less than a dollar, and for another dollar hire a native guide to lead them on a 20-minute climb up the waterfall.

Come back to a paradise renewed

You can find everything, including hammocks, for sale in the open air craft markets, where bargaining can cut the price of the item in half.

One thing Hurricane Gilbert did was bring plenty of sand ashore, adding to existing beaches like the one at the Sandals Resort at Montego Bay.

Photographer Micky Jones toured Jamaica in mid-December with the Travel Journalists Guild in order to get a first-hand view of post-hurricane conditions along the north coast.

By Micky Jones
special writer

Four months after being devastated by Hurricane Gilbert, Jamaica's north coast resorts are back in business and better than ever.

Tourists are once again climbing Dunn's River Falls, rafting rivers lined with exotic flowers, riding party trains through mountain valleys lined with banana plantations and coffee groves, visiting historic houses and botanical gardens, and relaxing on the golden beaches at Jamaica's famous couples hotels.

There is little evidence of the terrible storm that killed dozens of people Sept. 12, when Gilbert ravaged the entire 150-mile length of this lush tropical island, collapsing pool bars and flower-covered villas at resorts with names like Sandals, Couples, Eden II and Hedonism II.

Winds up to 135 miles an hour ripped sheet metal and shingled roofs from buildings in villages and north shore resort towns from Port Antonio to Negril, allowing torrential rains to pour in and add to the devastation. The capital city of Kingston and other south coast towns were also severely damaged.

Flying debris and uprooted trees smashed windows, telephone booths and 80 percent of the island's street lights. Electric power was out for a month. Salt water and sand poured through resort lobbies, bars, dining rooms and bedrooms, ruining carpets, furniture and plants. Telephones won't be completely restored for several more weeks.

GILBERT HAD a silver lining, however. It swept enough new sand ashore to enlarge some beaches. Most resorts took advantage of the two- or three-month forced closures to reline swimming pools, modernize dining rooms, renovate lobbies, and complete other projects that had been postponed so as not to inconvenience guests.

The hurricane's most devastating economic blow was the total destruction of Jamaica's agricultural crops. All banana, orange, grapefruit, sugar cane, pimento, mango and breadfruit plants were totally wiped out. While the loss cannot be recovered, the crops are making a comeback.

Three months after the storm, new banana plants were seven to eight feet high and will produce a crop in June. Orange trees that were totally stripped of leaves and fruit miraculously blossomed out of season and are now bearing fruit.

Those who have visited Jamaica before might notice that a few landmarks are missing, including the famous Evita's Restaurant that was totally destroyed in Montego Bay. Owner Eva Myers is looking for a new location.

Shopping areas, city craft markets and major tourist attractions are back to normal. Hotel occupancy was very low in December, but Jamaicans hope that the tourism volume will return to normal during the prime season months of January, February and March.

Unlike many Caribbean islands, where beaches and in-hotel activities are the principal tourist attractions, Jamaica has dozens of activities and attractions to keep you busy and broke, especially along the north shore.

DUNN'S RIVER Falls near Ocho Rios is the most popular. Park admission is less than a dollar, and for another dollar a native guide leads young and old on the 20-minute climb up the stair-like waterfall, telling jokes and taking your picture with your own camera.

Garden lovers stroll among the exotic tropical plants and flowers, birds and waterfalls, in botanical gardens, such as Shaw Park, Carinosa Gardens, Athenry Gardens, Fern Gulley and Somerset Falls.

For about $35, a couple can ride long bamboo rafts down the fast-flowing Rio Grande River near Port Antonio or the Martha Brae River near Montego Bay. This isn't the white water danger of the Grand Canyon, but a safe two-hours on a two-passenger raft, with a "captain" navigating with a long pole.

Torch-lit canoe rides on the Great River near Montego Bay culminate in dinner and floor show under the stars. You can do the same thing on the White River near Ocho Rios, but only on Sundays.

Or try the Admiralty Club Resort on a small island near Port Antonio; Errol Flynn owned the island during his wild tropical days. Tour Noel Coward's small house near Port Maria.

As you drive the winding pot-holed roads along the coast and up into cloud-shrouded mountains, you get a wonderful panorama of gaily painted wooden shacks, stucco mansions, huge coconut palms, dogs, kids and women balancing bundles or baskets on their heads.

Town sidewalks are crowded with vegetable stands, soft drink carts, food wagons and souvenir stalls. Neatly dressed children in school uniforms are everywhere. Native voices have an English lilt. By late afternoon, shoppers and office workers jam the streets.

AND THEN there are the party trains, which run through the majestic mountains south of Montego Bay. The seven-hour journey includes an open bar, buffet lunch, village stops and tours of limestone caves and the Appleton Rum distillery.

As you ride through spectacular views of valleys, tunnels, banana and coffee plantations, you will notice that each contented cow beside the track is escorted by a white egret.

The adult fare, including transportation to and from your Montego Bay hotel, is $44, $35 after April 15. The passenger cars are clean, air-conditioned and comfortable; crew members make sure you have fun.

There are lots of other north shore attractions for the active vacationer — golf, tennis, horseback riding, sailing, deep sea fishing and scuba diving. History lovers can tour the great houses that once dominated vast sugar plantations.

Restored Rose Hall near Montego Bay is supposedly haunted by Annie Palmer, "the witch of Rose Hall." Annie murdered three husbands, many slaves and several friends, before being murdered by a servant.

For shoppers, craft markets are full of light clothing, batiks, straw products, paintings and wood carvings. Bargaining with the vendors will often cut your cost to half the original asking price.

In recent years, two trends have developed among Jamaica's north coast resorts — "couples" hotels and all-inclusive hotel rates that include room, meals, snacks, bar drinks, wine, recreation, fitness facilities and tips.

SOME ALSO include airport transfers, beauty treatments, golf green fees, sight-seeing tours and room taxes. Winter rates are about $300 per day for two people, 10 percent less after April 15.

Couples resorts accept only traditional male/female couples and specialize in honeymoons. (For an extra $150 they will stage your wedding right on the premises and invite everyone in the hotel to attend.) Some offer nude beaches in small secluded coves.

The better known couples resorts are the three different Sandals resorts as well as Eden II, Carlyle on the Bay and Couples.

Conventional resorts offering all-inclusive packages include Negril Inn, Hedonism II, Bosobel Beach, Jamaica Jamaica, Sans Souci, the Plantation Inn, Jack Tar Village, Sea Garden, Casa Blanca and Club Americana.

Cut inane details

Q. A relative I'm forced to see at family gatherings goes through long boring accounts of what he has done, explains details I don't care about and recites like, "And then he told . . . and then I said," etc. Help!

A. I refer to such time-wasters as "cluttered speech" in my time management classes. People tend to engage in this form of boring communications when horizons are limited and time isn't important. It is fine for two people who both enjoy talking that way, but for most, times have changed. The momentum of our society has increased so dramatically that time is now too valuable and interests too broad to wallow in useless details.

This is a lesson of particular import to people in the workplace. It is incumbent upon them to get to the point in business conversations. Few career people are interested in hearing verbatim the lecture you gave your kids last night or the technicalities of solving a problem.

Vibrant people are also irked by long lists of activities. When Jane recites, "First I went to the drug store to pick up some acne medicine for Brian and then I had to go by the cleaners to pick up Joe's suit because he spilled wine on it the night before and then I had to get gas because I had used it all up when . . ." No one cares but Jane. An important aspect of these recitals, however, is that the teller is often feeling pressured and looking for approval of how hard he or she has worked. A verbal pat on the back like, "I'll bet you were really tired" could make their day.

For readers who recognize themselves in this scenario and are not as popular as they wish, being "half safe" with the wrong under-arm deodorant may not be the problem. Perhaps they tell more inane details than others want to know.

Two minutes is the maximum time the average listener maintains interest without his own input. Thoughts should be organized by concentrating on the "bottom line." What is the point to be made? Ask, "Therefore . . ." which helps sort out the pertinent facts. Jane could unclutter her speech and be more interesting by condensing: "I spent four hours running errands today, which really wore me out."

queries

Q. Our condominium association was talking about levying a substantial assessment with six figures for renovations. They called a meeting and asked for comments from the homeowners. Supposedly, there was to be a ballot disseminated regarding the special assessment and I have not heard anything since. What should we do?

A. Look at your condominium bylaws to determine the procedure for levying a special assessment. It sounds like your association did not follow that procedure and/or has abandoned its attempt to levy an assessment for renovations. I would write the association president and inquire as to the status of the so-called special assessment so as to confirm whether it has been abandoned.

Carnegie Park: characteristics of private home

By Joan Boram
special writer

GARY SHAPIRO beams like a new father when he discusses the Carnegie Park apartment complex.

"I worked on the plans for two years," says the young president of the Ivanhoe Cos. "The architect would send them to me, and I would think of improvements and send them back for revision. This was one of the best sites left in the Southfield-Farmington area, and I wanted not only the same quality that characterizes our custom homes and our condos, but I also wanted a design that was unique, not run-of-the-mill." Shapiro got what he wanted.

On 11 Mile between Inkster and Franklin roads, Carnegie Park is beautifully landscaped both by nature and by design. Pebble Creek meanders through a wooded one-mile nature trail on the edge of the property, and eventually will merge into a 25-acre city park. Picnic tables are scattered along the nature trail, as well as in other locations on the grounds.

"It has always been a company policy to save any trees that are on our properties," says Shapiro, a third-generation builder. "In addition, we have planted fir trees on the grounds that are much larger than required by the city." For the holiday season, the trees were draped with tiny white lights that will remain through the winter for the festive look they lend. In the spring, Shapiro himself plants lavish quantities of annuals to give the appearance of a large private garden.

The design of the three-story brick buildings is indeed unique for apartment building developments. The first and second floors are stacked; each unit is accessed by its own royal blue door. The third-floor penthouses have a private express elevator, and no elevator is shared by more than 12 people.

ONE-BEDROOM UNITS average 950 square feet, two-bedroom units 1,100 square feet, and the penthouses are a whopping 1,208 square feet, with additional storage space on another floor.

There are eight 1,500-square foot units with two bedrooms, two baths and library. All eight are leased.

Every detail has been planned to give each spacious unit the character of a private home.

Each unit has a roomy entrance hallway, at least one picture window with vertical blinds, and a front and back door. All have a covered porch or patio, and the penthouse has a 20-foot wrap-around balcony. Every unit has a washer and dryer, a microwave oven, separate furnace and hot water heater, and at least one walk-in closet.

"While each unit has a formal dining area, we realize that it's homier to have a place in the kitchen where you can grab a cup of coffee and a bagel in the morning, so we made sure that every kitchen could seat at least two people," says Shapiro.

Every penthouse and some two-bedroom units have a wet bar, and all penthouses have majestic cathedral ceilings and wood-burning fireplaces.

"We used decorator-angled walls to make the space more versatile," explains Shapiro. "Instead of being stuck with just a box-like living room, the angled walls make it possible to divide the space into two areas, allowing for a private space for reading or maybe just gazing out the window that wouldn't otherwise be possible." Carnegie Park has an oversized pool under a cathedral ceiling, where "people love to do laps."

IN WARM WEATHER, French doors open onto a sun deck overlooking a wooded area. There are saunas and whirlpool baths, and, for serious fitness freaks, an exercise room with state-of-the-art equipment, and an aerobics room complete with video where you and Jane can sweat together. These amenities are housed in the community center where there is also a social room complete with kitchen. There is an outdoor tennis court.

Carnegie Park is just minutes away from Northwestern Highway's "Golden Corridor," offering the finest in shopping and restaurants.

The first three buildings, with 120 units, became available in June 1988. They were immediately filled with an eclectic mix of tenants: empty-nesters, single professionals, young couples with children.

All units have rented at the same rate — no single size has proven more popular than the others. Rents start at $625 a month for a one-bedroom. A standard penthouse is $830. There are three main units, and 35 alternative, upscale units.

The second, final, phase of Carnegie Park is about to become available. To introduce this luxury apartment complex, there will be a grand opening Jan. 27, 28, and 29, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Anyone signing a one-year lease during the grand opening weekend will receive a free weekend for two in the Bahamas. Carnegie Park is at 26601 W. Carnegie Park Drive, Southfield. For further information, call 355-2211.

GLEN CALVIN MOON

The spacious one-bedroom apartment (above) offers two seating areas and a dining area. Other amenities of Carnegie Park include the plush clubhouse with large indoor heated swimming pool and full health club facilities.
