ANNUAL REPORT for 2012-2013
Mississippi State University Foundation

SUCCESS
MAKING

How do you create impact? At Mississippi State University, we are creating an impact every day through SUCCESS, DISCOVERY, OUTREACH, GLOBALIZATION AND EXPERIENCE. It all begins with our people who are the heart of our institution—our students and faculty and their aspirations and endeavors.

For 136 years, learning has been the bedrock of our land-grant mission. Over our history, Mississippi State University has graduated over 170,000 individuals who have taken their talents and settled around the world. Many of these individuals' lives were touched by Mississippi State's impact long before they enrolled as students.

As each class of freshman students enter Mississippi State, a new journey begins at our institution. However, the teaching-learning process for them began at birth and continues through those who shape their development—from parents to family members and caregivers. Along the way, teachers and mentors help harness their curiosity and encourage them to seek answers through inquisitiveness. This teaching-learning process will evolve throughout life, well into adulthood. In fact, it never ends.

Day-in and day-out, we renew that same sense of energy and curiosity in all we undertake at Mississippi State. We are Mississippi's leading university, and our teaching and learning impact continues to spread throughout the state as evidenced by the nearly one-fourth of the teachers and administrators in Mississippi public schools who hold at least one degree from our institution. Mississippi State has long turned out some of the best educators in our state. From undergraduate and graduate education to continuing education opportunities, we are educating the masses at whatever point in their life they seek academic challenges.

From MSU's Aiken Village Preschool to various programs in the College of Education and its Early Childhood Institute, along with others offered by the Mississippi State Extension Service, education impacted by MSU is at the forefront of our daily life. Additionally, summer camps in many of the university's eight academic colleges bring students to our campus while in junior high and high school. These programs challenge young minds to solve problems and foster an awareness of the importance of physical well-being. During this time, many of them gain early exposure to numerous areas of study that MSU can offer them in the future.

Students from all 50 states and more than 70 countries currently call Mississippi State their university.

Comprised of eight academic colleges, MSU awards some 3,000 degrees each year in majors ranging from architecture to mechanical engineering to veterinary medicine.

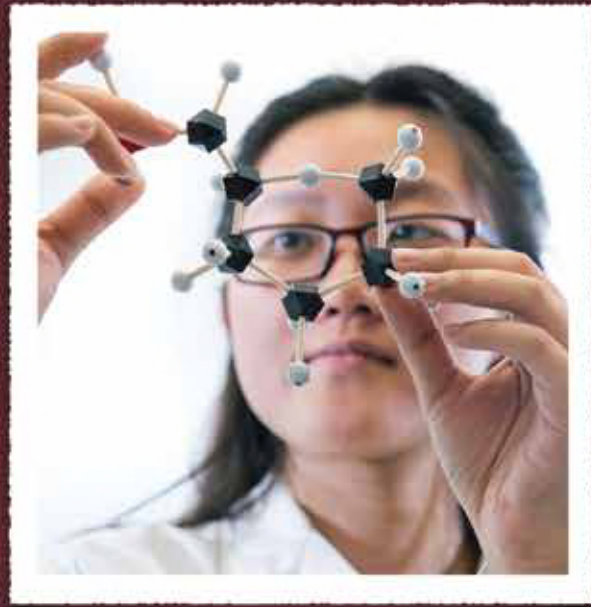

Our institution will gain new exposure with Infinite Impact: The Mississippi State University Campaign as it works to secure private funds for the university's long-range vision. From teaching ABCs forward, the campaign will further our reach as an educational pioneer, not only in our state, but across the world. For example, a new Partnership School will enable the university's College of Education students majoring in elementary education and secondary education to acquire practical experience in the local school district system. Our MSU students will receive hands-on learning, and we can demonstrate the best teaching techniques, curricula and learning environments with an observation station available to teachers and administrators everywhere. The Partnership School will prove advantageous as a rural education center located in the South. We believe the pupils of the school will have an incredible academic environment on which to build.

The Infinite Impact campaign is giving our institution a new approach to what tradition has shown we do best—educating the sons and daughters of Mississippi and those from other states and other lands by providing the best educational experience possible. During the campaign, your philanthropic support will allow Mississippi State to continue its tradition of excellence in education with access to all. Currently our university enrollment consists of students from all 50 states and more than 70 countries, and the list is growing.

Over time, contributors can shape lives with gifts, and there is no better place to touch humanity than through an association with Mississippi State. Our faculty and administration are working to advance our institution to its rightful place among the outstanding public universities in the nation. Fulfilling this goal will require financial support from alumni and friends, both in the form of significant endowments and as an ongoing stream of annual contributions.

As we explore success through teaching and learning, we seek funds for need-based scholarships for deserving students and academic scholarships to compete for the best and brightest. These funds will create the foundation of the MSU learning experience as elite faculty are brought to Mississippi State to further their accomplishments. The creation of endowed positions in the form of chairs and professorships will ensure our faculty is the most distinguished anywhere.

The success of Infinite Impact will help Mississippi State directly by improving the quality of programs and the opportunities for students and faculty, and indirectly by further boosting our reputation well beyond Mississippi's borders and the United States. The ultimate goal of the campaign is to afford Mississippi State the resources it needs to continue its emergence as a top-tier, nationally positioned university. With gifts, you can support all the things that encompass teaching and learning at MSU and help us create an impact on future generations through our goals.

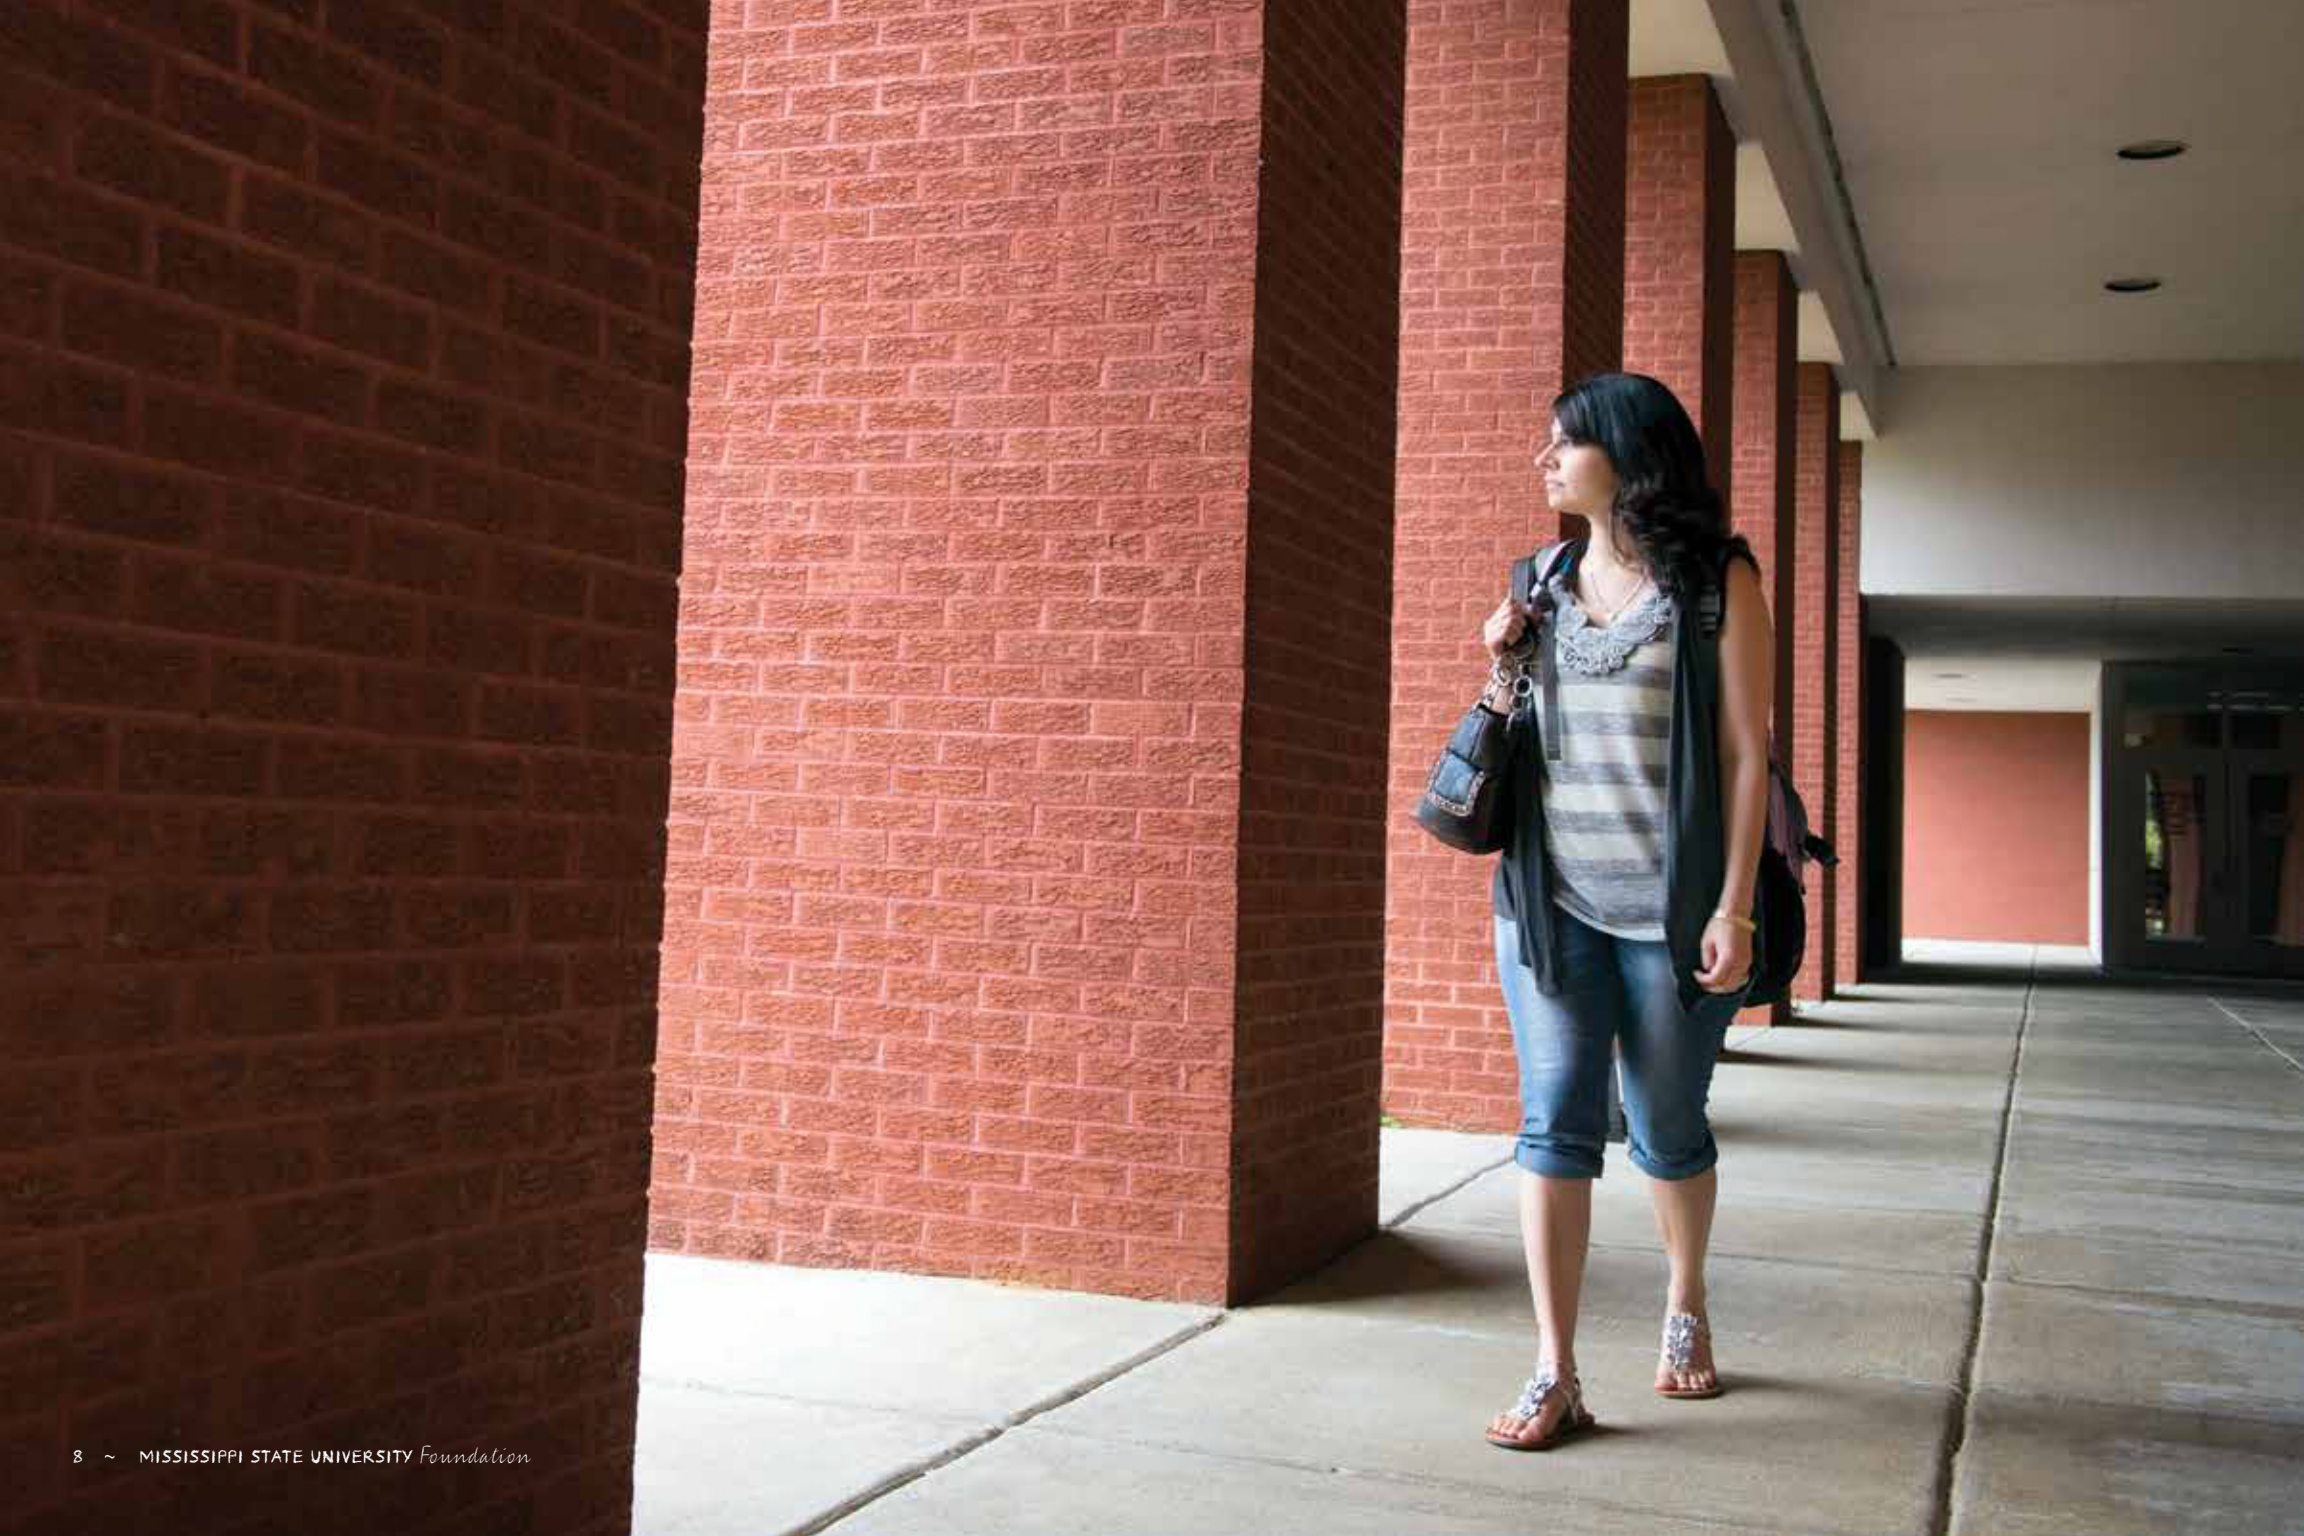

With 130 different degree programs, MSU is experiencing growth in its graduate and professional student population, with nearly 19 percent enrolled beyond the undergraduate level.

Since our early origins, countless alumni and friends have laid the groundwork for our success and the commitment we share to make Mississippi State one of the finest universities in the nation. Every dollar you give helps the university's students reach their potential, and in turn, their impact as future graduates will advance our world through all they will learn at Mississippi State. The effects of our efforts on behalf of MSU will yield extraordinary opportunity to all those whose lives are touched in the process.

We proudly present you with this annual report publication as the first in a series for Infinite Impact that will examine the five primary areas of the campaign—success, discovery, outreach, globalization and experience. The inspiring stories featured within our publication are similar to those of the more than 20,000 students who comprise our enrollment and the some 1,300 faculty on the university's two campuses who place teaching first and foremost in their endeavors. With generous gifts, students and faculty will bring their distinctive successes to fruition, and the impact of their learning, their training, their vision and their service will truly resonate across the world. Because of your generous support, the success of our people will be eminent.

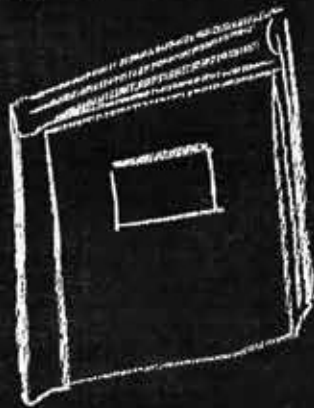

Our dynamic impact of success starts now.

ONE SUCCESS AT A TIME

Victoria Valdez-Allen
RILEY NEXT STEP SCHOLAR

A decorative banner with the text "MY IMPACT" in the center. The banner has a ribbon-like shape with pointed ends and is flanked by dotted lines that curve upwards at the ends.

MY IMPACT

My impact will be felt by future generations of my family because the MSU degree I earn will allow me to set an example for them to follow, beginning with my daughter. A great education is essential to a great quality of life, and it brings an overwhelming sense of accomplishment and pride.

A college diploma is still a dream come true for most college students. Not only because it brings a great sense of personal triumph, but because it also carries the promise of a better quality of life for the graduate. At Mississippi State University, we further dreams.

For Victoria Valdez-Allen, the diploma she will receive will usher in a new beginning for her as a graduate of Mississippi State University-Meridian. With her degree, Victoria hopes to inspire others, teaching them that personal accomplishment is worth overcoming any obstacle. Furthermore, she seeks to set an example for her young daughter and encourage future generations of her family to pursue their educational goals in any way possible.

Family means a great deal to Victoria, who is of Mexican-American descent. Her mother is American, and her father is Mexican. She was born in Batavia, N.Y., and she spent time in Mexico while growing up.

When Victoria was three-years-old, she and her mother relocated to Mississippi with her grandparents when they moved from New York to work for Tyson Foods Inc. in Forest. Her grandparents taught her the benefits of hard work and the importance of community involvement.

Because of her educational background and her heritage, Victoria has become pivotal within the Meridian community where she now lives. She is well-known for her compassion and for her ability to speak two languages fluently—Spanish and English.

Obtaining a college education has been an uphill climb for Victoria. The oldest of five children, she dropped out of high school her junior year to help care for her mother, who had back surgery. By the time she was 18-years-old, she had finished high school, gotten married, and given birth to her daughter, Veronica. Now a 24-year-old single mother, Victoria is working to make a better life for the two of them.

Determined to not let 'life circumstances' get in her way, Victoria will be the first in her family to earn a four-year college degree.

Several years ago, Victoria graduated from Meridian Community College with an associate's degree and was unsure if she would be able to continue her education. However, she recalls learning about the Riley Next Step Scholarship from a recruiter for MSU-Meridian who spoke to her Phi Theta Kappa organization.

Since its inception in 2010, 266 students like Victoria have received the Riley Next Step Scholarship. As a Riley Scholar, she has received full tuition and fees over four semesters to attend MSU-Meridian. Additional scholarships for MSU-Meridian students are a goal through Infinite Impact.

"The scholarship is very, very important to me. If it were not for Riley Next Step, I would have had to conclude my education with my associate's degree because I needed to enter the workforce and support my daughter without any further debt," Victoria explained.

Victoria credits the Riley Next Step Scholarship at MSU-Meridian as "not only a tremendous blessing" to her, but also to Veronica.

With the scholarship, Victoria devotes her weekdays to studying for classes and spending time with Veronica. On weekends, she works as a housekeeper to provide necessary income for the two of them.

Five-year-old Veronica is a prekindergartner at Crestwood Elementary School in Meridian. Although Veronica's first language is Spanish, Victoria is also teaching her English.

“I want Veronica to be bilingual because I believe it will be an advantage for her. Spanish is our first language because of our heritage, and coupled with teaching her fluent English, I hope to give Veronica the building blocks for academic success,” Victoria said.

Victoria’s initial instinct was to become a Spanish teacher in her local area. Then, she considered using her psychology degree to reach out and serve those within the Hispanic community. Of late, she is driven by a desire to make an even greater impact and help people on a broader scale.

“Many people need help with everyday life and with a psychology degree from Mississippi State, I can help improve their well-being so they will have the confidence to pursue a better quality of life. By moving to a larger area after graduation, I can help so many more people,” she said.

Victoria is always learning life lessons—many of which she will pass along to Veronica. One lesson in particular will involve Bulldog tenacity because she wants her daughter and others to understand that they too can experience success in higher education.

“MSU-Meridian has many deserving students like Victoria who work to improve their lives through education because of scholarships,” said Steven F. Brown, dean and associate vice president of MSU-Meridian. “I am looking forward to handing her a diploma and acknowledging the wonderful impact she can have on her family and the world around her in the years ahead.”

Strength comes when you least expect it, and hope always exists. If you truly hope you might someday earn your degree — then you can. The Riley Next Step Scholarship made an education possible for me and for many of my fellow students, and I am eternally grateful.

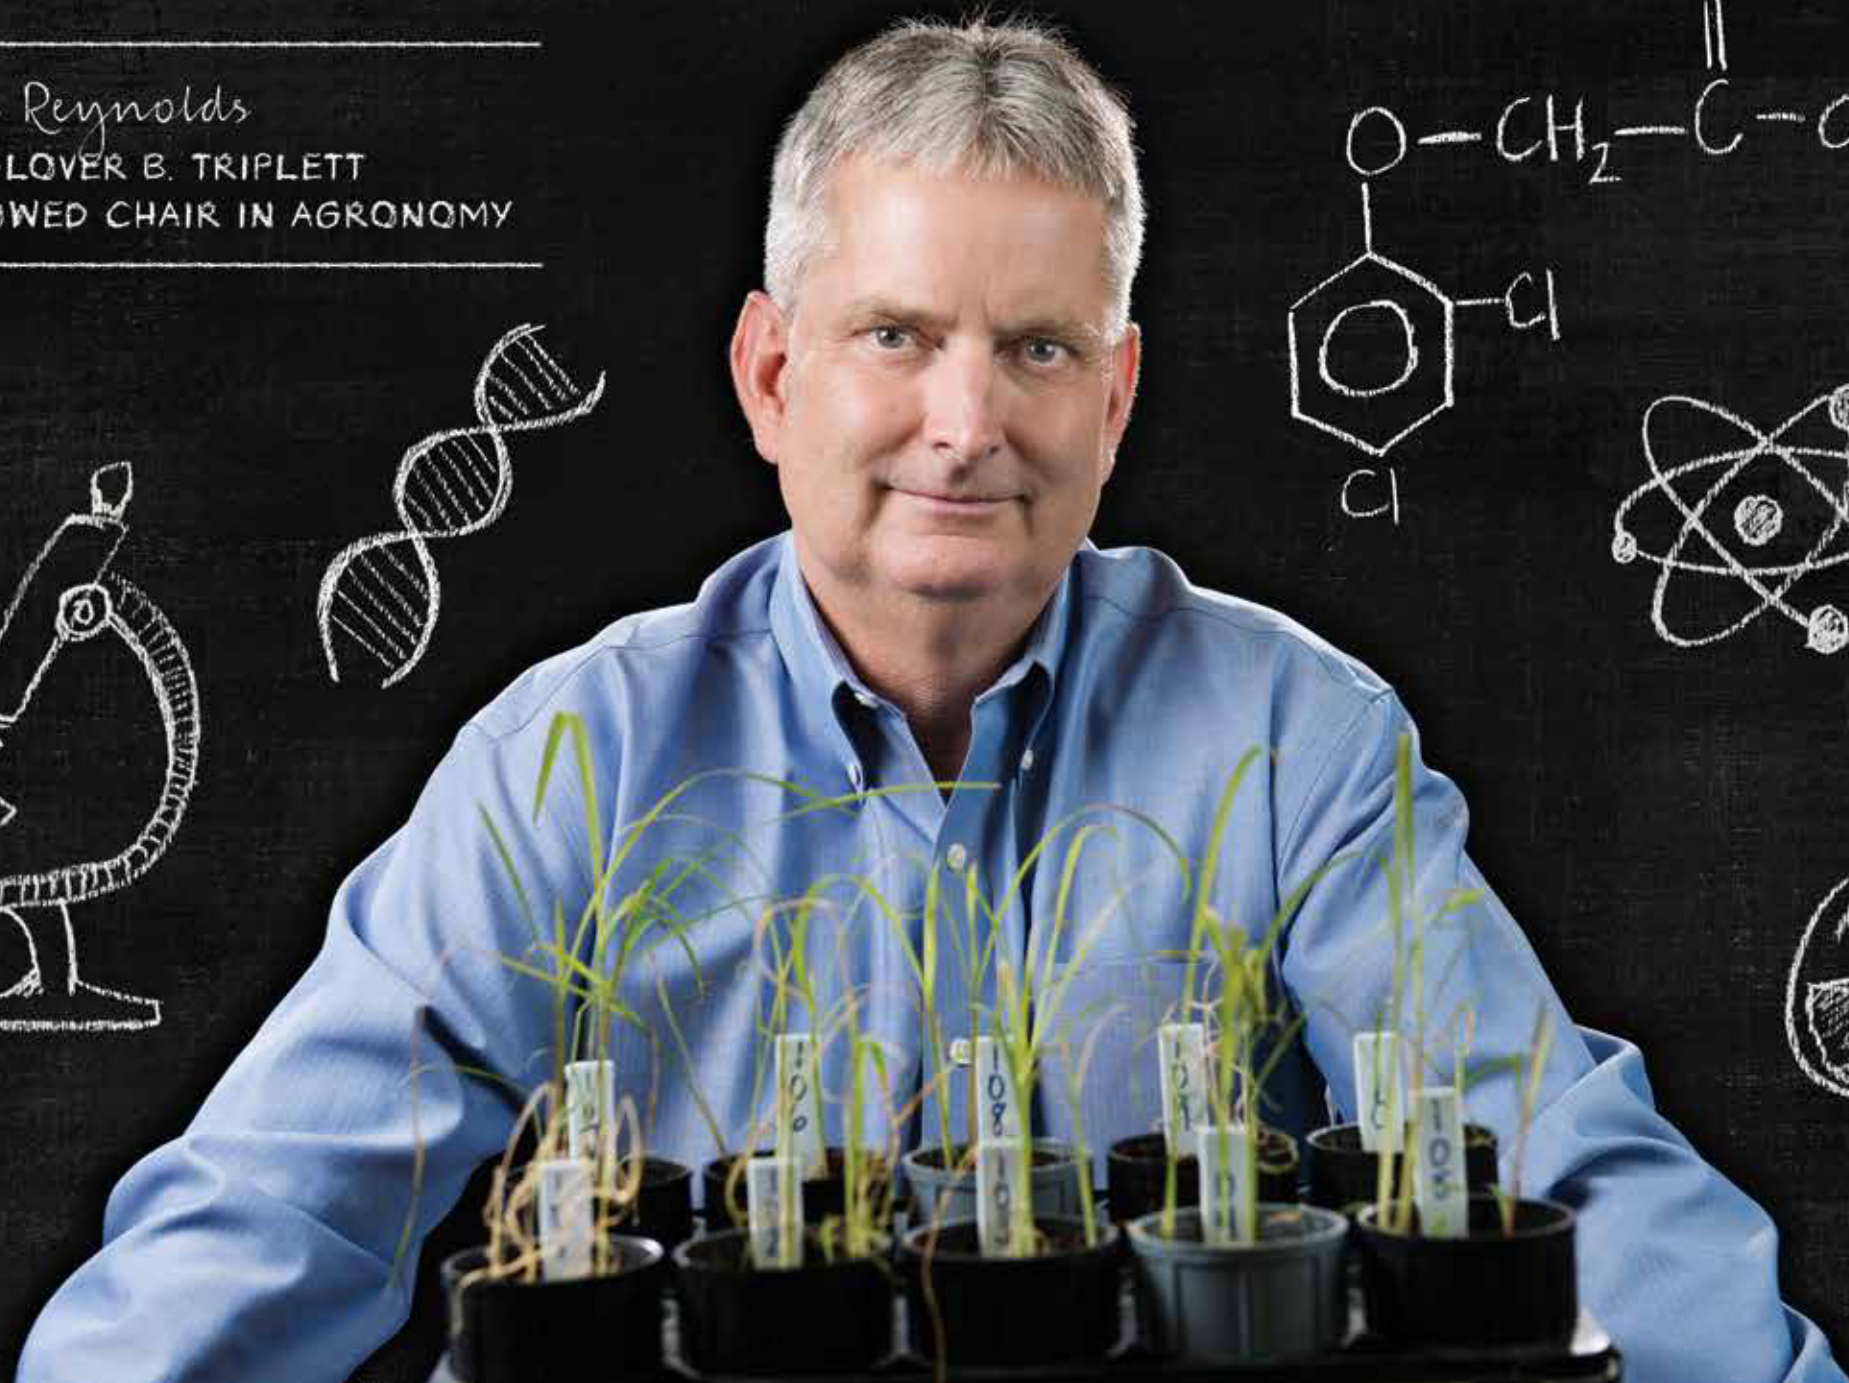

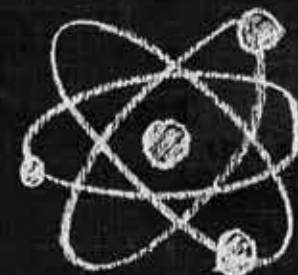

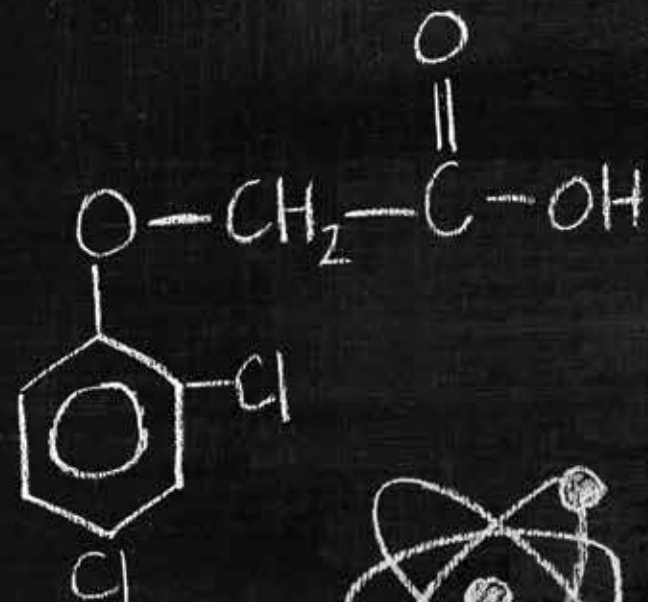

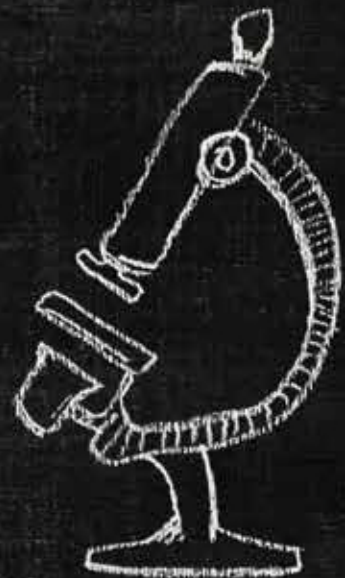

SUCCESS OUTSIDE THE BOX

Dan Reynolds

DR. GLOVER B. TRIPLETT

ENDOWED CHAIR IN AGRONOMY

A decorative horizontal line with arrowheads at both ends, featuring a central rectangular box with a dotted border containing the text "MY IMPACT".

MY IMPACT

My impact is the never ending determination I instill in my students to become lifelong learners, always questioning how to make an impact by better understanding their surroundings, and challenging the outcomes, thus making an impact on the world around them through their endeavors.

A decorative horizontal line with arrowheads at both ends, consisting of a solid line with a dotted line underneath it.

The academic environment at a university is as great as its faculty. Dedicated teachers who take their knowledge and enthusiasm and let it spill over into the classrooms and laboratories of the university are the ones who make an impact that will endure a lifetime.

Dan Reynolds is one of over 1,300 faculty members at Mississippi State University who devote their lives to impacting the world through cutting-edge research and mentoring talented students. Furthermore, he is among those distinguished faculty members who hold one of the university's 72 endowed positions.

Endowed positions like Dan holds are a goal of Infinite Impact. With campaign gifts, MSU hopes to establish additional endowed positions in the form of chairs and professorships across the university because of the enhancements they bring to the overall learning environment and the benefits to our society.

"One of the reasons I became a teacher was to make a difference and to instill in my students the desire and the ability to take their learning further and investigate through research outside the classroom," Dan said.

A Jerome, Ark., native, Dan earned his bachelor's in agriculture and master's in agronomy through the University of Arkansas system and a doctorate in crop science from Oklahoma State University. Prior to joining Mississippi State University in 1996, he worked at the Louisiana Agricultural Experiment Station.

At MSU, Dan is a faculty member in the College of Agriculture and Life Sciences. As a professor of weed science in the Department of Plant and Soil Sciences and a researcher in the MSU-Mississippi Agricultural and Forestry Experiment Station (MAFES), his responsibilities include teaching, weed control research in corn, cotton and soybeans along with conservation tillage systems.

With the assistance of colleagues, Dan has developed effective weed control programs for the crops grown in Louisiana and Mississippi. He has been an invited speaker at many weed control program training seminars for extension, agri-chemical companies and farm personnel.

Since 2009, Dan has held the Dr. Glover B. Triplett Endowed Chair in Agronomy. The chair recognizes major contributions to Mississippi State by MSU researcher Glover Triplett, who created the endowment for the position, along with his late wife, Imogene.

"The Triplett's made a contribution that will ensure continued support for research relative to conservation tillage. My program and subsequent holders of the chair will be able to conduct research in this area without having to compete for funding," Dan said.

As Triplett Chair, Dan provides leadership in agronomy education and research, as well as outreach to industry. The endowment helps fund research in the use of minimum tillage in crop production, which is Glover's internationally recognized area of expertise. The soil-saving practices pioneered by Glover were radical in the 1960s, but today are globally widespread.

"I chose to establish an endowed chair some years ago because I wanted to give someone else the opportunity to perform vital research," said Glover, who continues his research part-time at MSU-MAFES. "Dan is an excellent chair, and I'm proud of his accomplishments and his impact on his students and research activities worldwide."

Dan shares much with the namesake of the endowed position—not the least of which is a passion to see students, who he considers "extended family," thrive in an academic and research environment. For Dan, his legacy is seeing former students and colleagues he has worked with excel in agriculture and become leaders in their fields.

"It is a great learning experience for both me and my students to learn from Glover, who has such a wealth of knowledge and experience. One additional aspect of the chair is the support of graduate education," said Dan, who has served as major adviser of 33 graduate students and served on the committee of more than 30 others.

Over his career, Dan has been honored as an award-winning researcher. Most recently, he was named the 2012 Weed Scientist of the Year, the highest honor awarded by the Southern Weed Science Society of America. He has been involved in weed science societies nationwide and has also received awards from those groups. With more than two decades of experience with cropping systems, Dan remains committed to research, motivated by his belief that he should provide a return on the investment that citizens and MSU contributors make in him and his program.

Research efforts by Dan, made possible by the Triplett Chair, are allowing MSU to impact cropping systems on a global scale. His research currently focuses on the use of spatial technologies to assess herbicide application, plant growth regulators, and harvest-aids site-specifically. The introduction for transgenic crops has led to increased incidents of off-target deposition of herbicides. Dan has worked with computer and electrical engineers to develop methods for detection and assessment of these events by utilizing multi-spectral and hyper-spectral data.

In the years to come, the impact of Dan's research will reach far beyond MSU as the world's projected population puts tremendous pressure on the world's farmers to match production with demand.

One of the most important things I have learned through my endowed position is to think outside the box and to try things that may seem a little far-fetched by others. My willingness to do this often proves successful, benefitting my students, MSU and citizens.

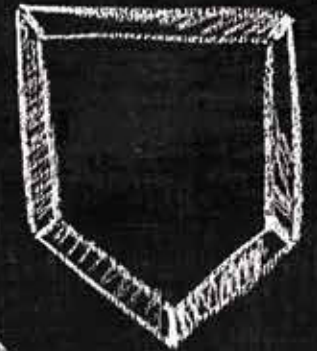

THE BEST PITCH FOR SUCCESS

Ross Mitchell
MSU STUDENT-ATHLETE

MY IMPACT

My impact will be the love I have for baseball and for Mississippi State that I share with others. I will carry my success with me, especially the ability MSU gives me to make a positive difference as a Bulldog ambassador—both in sports and wherever my career path eventually leads me.

Students come to Mississippi State for many reasons—from our solid academic reputation to the revered maroon and white traditions that make our institution unique. Once on campus, they thrive within the niche they carve for themselves as individuals.

First and foremost, Ross Mitchell is an MSU student determined to succeed and earn his college degree. Beyond that, he's a highly competitive athlete who passionately loves baseball.

At Mississippi State, Ross is enrolled in the College of Business, one of the oldest business schools in the Southeast, which will mark its 100th anniversary in 2015. He appreciates the reputation of the school, which has graduated leaders of Fortune 500 companies, and believes studying business was the right choice for him.

"I believe earning a business administration degree from MSU will open many doors for me," Ross said. "There will be life after baseball, and I want to make sure I am well-prepared for that transition with an academic background for success."

Ross is a native of Tennessee, who was born in Nashville and grew up in Smyrna, with his parents, Charlie and Gina Mitchell. His dad played major league baseball in the 1980s, pitching for the Boston Red Sox and later for the Nashville Sound. Ross' uncle, John Mitchell, also pitched in the major leagues for the New York Mets and the Baltimore Orioles.

"My dad and my uncle taught me the fundamentals, how to play the game with respect and play it the right way," Ross recalled. "My dad coached me from age five to age 13 so I think that made it easier for me to develop my pitching skills."

Ross wanted to come to Mississippi State because baseball is such a celebrated tradition in the Southeastern Conference—particularly in Starkville. He is playing for the Diamond Dogs at a pivotal time in the program's storied history.

As a left-handed pitcher for the team, Ross has enjoyed early success. He was one of the top pitchers in the Southeastern Conference in 2013. And, his resume now includes having pitched in the finals of the 2013 NCAA College World Series, the first time MSU has ever reached the finals.

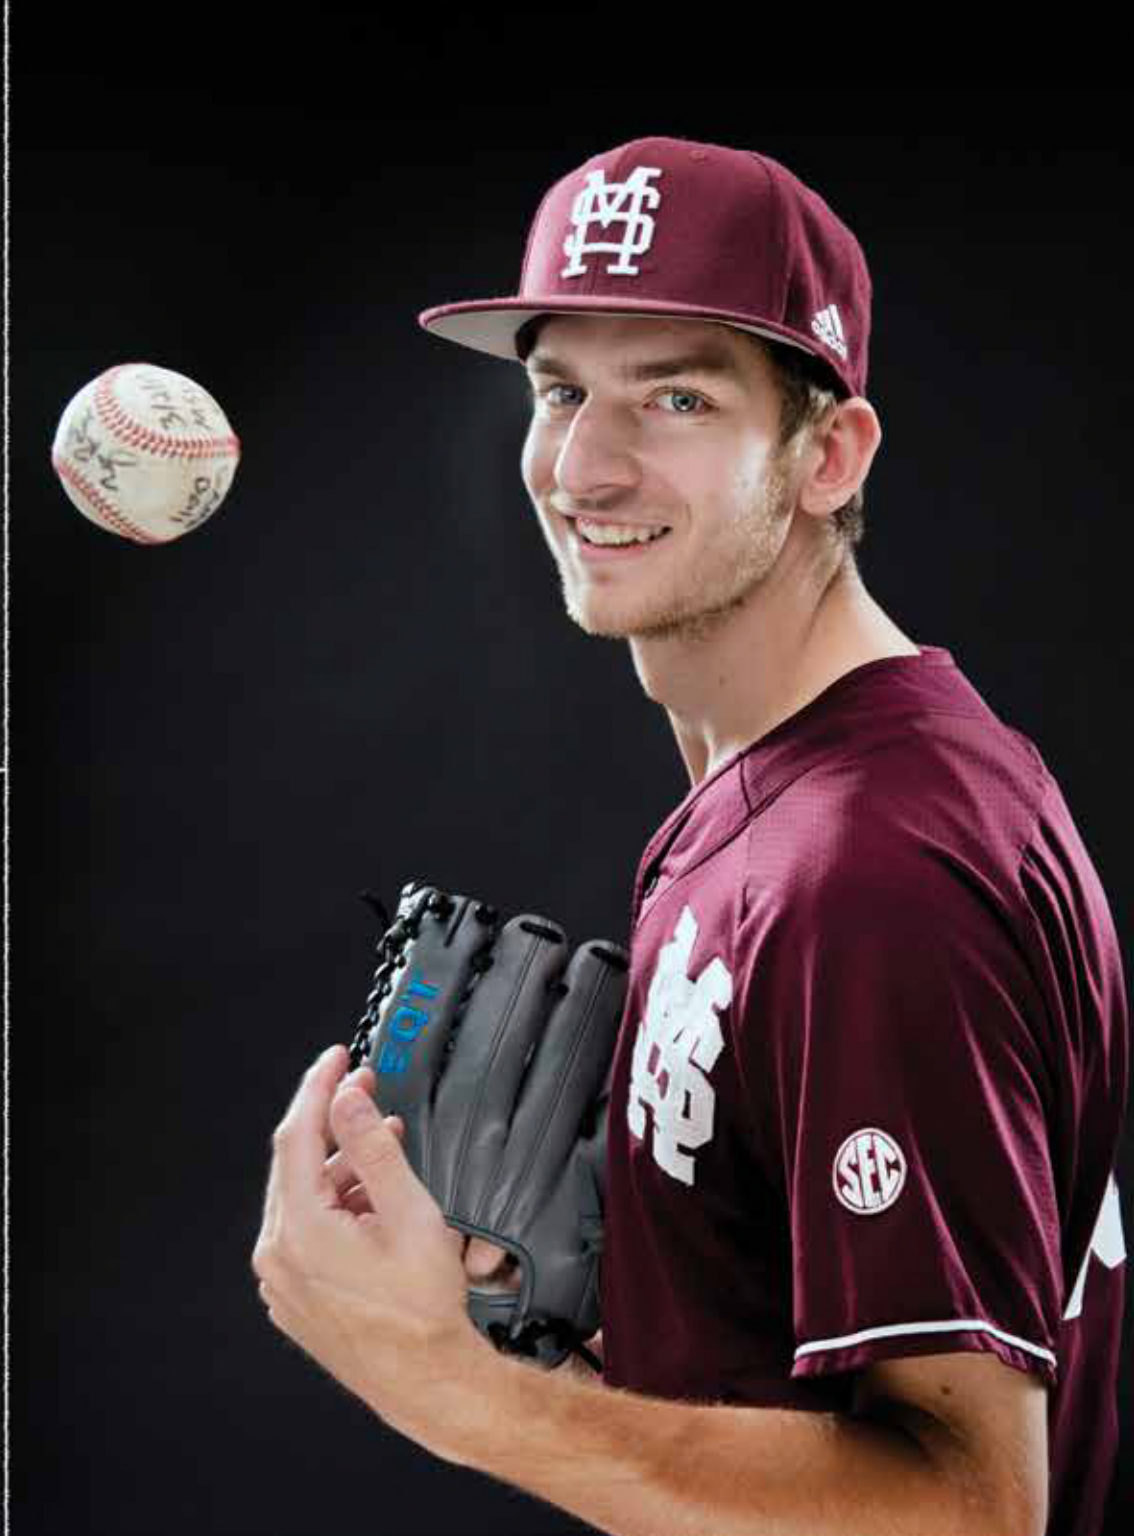

Reflecting on the CWS performance, he said, "It was a special moment. I never pictured myself pitching there at Ameritrade Park. It will be something I will proudly tell my kids someday."

Mississippi State baseball has long been a draw for eager college athletes. Fresh off last summer's CWS runner-up finish, the Diamond Dogs hope to modernize Polk-DeMent Stadium and Dudy Noble Field to keep play at the highest level. With gifts through Infinite Impact, the Athletic Department has plans to upgrade facilities over time for all 16 NCAA Division I sports programs currently offered by the university. In particular, facility enhancements can help MSU maintain one of the nation's premier venues for college baseball.

Besides facilities, campaign gifts can strengthen the overall academic environment for MSU student-athletes. Mississippi State's athletes are known throughout the SEC for their strong academic performance. In 2013, while winning 51 games prior to the CWS championship, Ross was part of an MSU baseball team that earned a program best 3.38 grade point average.

"Ross is an exceptional student-athlete who is providing a great example for other student-athletes to follow through his academic performance and his commitment to perfecting his baseball skills," said John Cohen, head coach of the Diamond Dogs.

Defining moments for me happen not only on the playing field, but also in the classrooms of Mississippi State. I am privileged to follow my college dream here.

A

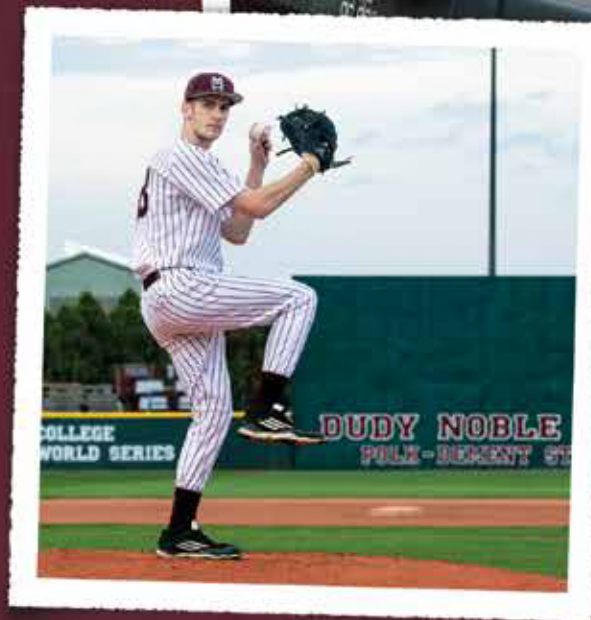

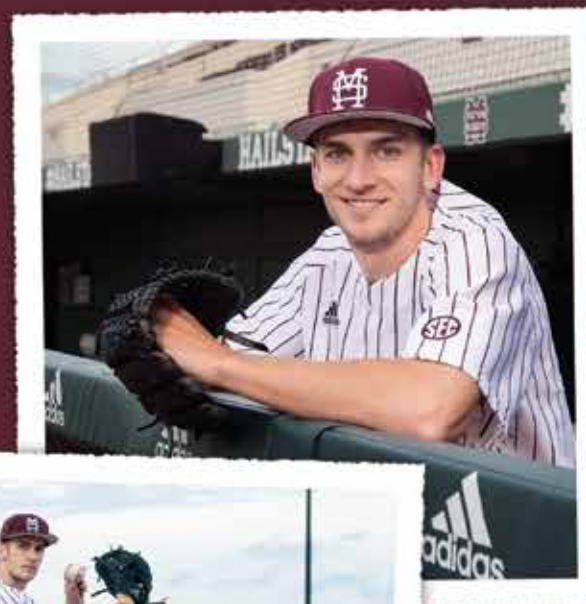

Academics and athletics come together at MSU to provide a great learning environment for student-athletes. They have access to their own advising center, which is imperative since some train up to 20 hours per week. Freshman athletes have mandatory study hours at the Templeton Athletic Academic Advising Center, while the performance of upperclassmen is monitored. The center was built in part with a gift from the late alumnus Leo W. Seal Jr., and serves the entire athletic department with its academic counseling offices, tutor areas and computer rooms.

When it comes to success, Ross gives credit where it is due, saying, "It's a whole team effort that has made me successful, and the guys I play with are a class act—we are always challenging each other to go the distance."

Ross works to motivate his teammates. For instance, last season, he initiated a unique approach to spark camaraderie and enthusiasm. He asked the MSU Art Department to create a good luck piece for the Diamond Dogs. Associate professor Critz Campbell and students in his upper-level 3D course sculpted a lifelike hand and mounted it on maroon wood. The "hand" has become part of the pre-game ritual at Dudy Noble Field as the Diamond Dogs file by to get a good luck high five.

Besides baseball, lately Ross' heart points toward ministry and discipleship. He attends Reformed University Fellowship on campus and volunteers with the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. He strives to set a good example for others to follow in life and believes a positive impact begins from within oneself.

In the coming years, Ross will decide whether to pursue a career in business or first follow in the major league footsteps of his family. Until then, he is content to take the mound in the hopes of throwing the perfect pitch—making an impact each and every game.

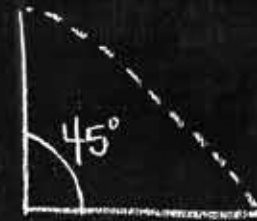

THE QUEST FOR SUCCESS

Whitney Knight
JOHN AND RENEE GRISHAM
PRESIDENTIAL SCHOLAR

$$a^2 + b^2 = c^2$$

MY IMPACT

My family is deeply rooted in education. They have made a positive impact on individuals in their lifetime, and my hope is to follow their path and inspire and motivate students because great academics can change lives.

A passion for learning manifests itself in talented students who come to MSU in search of an academic experience that will mold them into successful educators and leaders of tomorrow. A practical hands-on learning experience awaits them across our university.

Whitney Knight is an elite student who was in search of an academic environment that would allow her to attain her goals. In 2010, she came to Mississippi State as a freshman Presidential Scholar in the prestigious Judy and Bobby Shackouls Honors College. As she nears graduation, the senior secondary education major remains just as excited about the Presidential Scholar experience.

Presidential Scholars are provided with four-year scholarships, mentoring and research opportunities through private endowments. In particular, Whitney receives the John and Renee Grisham Presidential Endowed Scholarship created with an endowment-level gift from the accounting alumnus and his wife. The scholarship funds most expenses incurred for a four-year degree and was a primary consideration as she selected a university.

"It is a great feeling of success when you are awarded a scholarship of this caliber to attend a school you feel can offer you great academics," said Whitney. "The Presidential Scholarship made it possible for me to attend Mississippi State and work toward a four-year degree without financial burden."

Whitney's parents were also thrilled with the award. They are MSU education graduates and Mississippi natives. Her dad, Phillip, is a teacher and coach at Wesson High School and her mom, Lea Ann, is a director of counseling at Copiah-Lincoln Community College. The couple created a legacy of helping people that Whitney hopes to continue.

"While I was growing up, my parents' professional roles were a great influence on me. I could see firsthand the way that my dad influenced students' lives. The trust that his students placed in him inspired my desire to become an educator, too," said Whitney.

Along with the financial benefits, the Presidential Scholars Program offers students a wealth of opportunities to grow both in and out of the classroom in the discipline of their choice. The scholars interact with guest speakers from business, government and academia and participate in travel that enriches their educational experience.

"The honors experience is very personal and tailored to intellectually challenge us," Whitney said. "We function as a cohesive group—have a meal in the home of a mentor every month, and every spring we take a trip with our fellow honors college students."

For Whitney, her study abroad classroom was the University of Alcalá in Alcalá, Spain. While in Spain, she was able to visit the cities of Madrid and Barcelona, and she also visited Portugal. She said her summer experience in a Spanish-speaking country was invaluable and helped her cultivate her love for the Spanish language.

"With my scholarship, I have been able to explore the Spanish language more in-depth," said Whitney, who participated in research projects alongside MSU faculty members in the College of Education.

Whitney worked with Missy Hopper, associate professor of curriculum, instruction and special education, on a research grant. Next, she assisted Wendy Herd, linguist and assistant professor of English, with a specific research project. Whitney recruited English-speaking students and had them listen to sound clips of native Spanish and Chinese speakers saying short English words. She compiled what the individuals believed they had heard in the laboratory, and together with Herd, sorted the data based on whether or not the student had previously taken a Spanish or Chinese course.

T

"The hypothesis is that the more Spanish or Chinese you take, the easier you would understand this accented English speech. The significance is that if you are unable to be a conversationalist in Spanish or Chinese, you can still receive benefits because you understand this new form of English," Whitney explained.

Whitney credits Thomas P. Anderson, mentor of the Presidential Scholars, for pairing her with opportunities that stimulated her interests.

"When Bobby and Judy Shackouls created the generous endowment for our college, they had students like Whitney in mind," said Anderson. "The endowment increases student participation in intellectual and professional opportunities, allowing us to add depth to the honors community."

With more gifts through Infinite Impact, the Shackouls Honors College can grow further. A significant campaign gift can endow the college's distinctive curriculum called the "Cursus Honorum" or "Path of Honors" that would increase the depth and prominence of the college. Other gifts can create endowments for study abroad and additional competitive, multi-year Presidential Scholarships.

The Presidential Scholarship, along with the living-learning environment in Zacharias Village, has been a life-changer for Whitney. The experience has enriched her life.

"The Presidential Scholarship has brought me success in my educational pursuits, and it will have a lasting impact on my future," Whitney said. "I am indebted to the Grishams for giving me the opportunity to succeed in college."

This fall, Whitney will pursue a master's degree in English with a teaching assistantship at MSU. Her dream is to work with schools to improve their TESOL (Teaching English as a Second Language) programs.

Once I complete my master's degree at Mississippi State University, I'll pursue a career in teaching because I haven't found anything else that is a more compelling way for me to impact the world through my achievements.

ACCOUNTING FOR OUR SUCCESS

During recent years, the generosity of Mississippi State University contributors has been remarkable. In particular, our ongoing capital campaign is allowing our institution to achieve new heights in fundraising. The results of our efforts will prove crucial as we assist MSU in pursuing its long-range goals.

Fiscal year 2013 was an exceptional period for the MSU Foundation. Fundraising exceeded $81.3 million, marking the third consecutive year Mississippi State University has raised more than $80 million from individuals, corporations, foundations, trusts and estates. Of the $81.3 million, $67.07 million was in outright gifts and pledges, which was the second largest year ever recorded in these areas at Mississippi State.

The strength of support from Mississippi State's alumni helped us reach these record numbers. For fiscal year 2013, the proportion of alumni who contributed rose slightly to 18.2 percent, ranking MSU above several major peer institutions in that measure of support among former students. This number has continued an upward trend at Mississippi State in recent years, placing the university well above the 11.2 percent national average among higher education institutions.

Thanks to the financial support of our alumni, along with the generosity of countless loyal friends of the institution, we are poised for greater success. As a valuable contributor, you can spread the message about the noteworthy achievements of our university. And, there is certainly no better time than the present to share your belief in Mississippi State and the exciting news about Infinite Impact with others.

Over the course of the campaign, you can help our institution better position humankind for longevity. In particular, your gift may become the catalyst for groundbreaking educational programs, or for pioneering research in healthcare, food safety, rural education, energy efficiency and other areas that will enable citizens to reap the benefits of our university's expertise. All of us working with confidence and enthusiasm can ensure the future of MSU and better our world in the process.

To all of our donors, we offer our sincere gratitude for your investments in Mississippi State. As a foundation, we remain, first and foremost, committed to using your investments wisely for the betterment of our university. Furthermore, your gifts will strengthen Mississippi State's efforts toward becoming a nationally prominent university.

As always, the bottom line at the MSU Foundation is that every gift counts. Your generosity is the reason we have raised more than $1 billion for Mississippi State University in our over 50-year history as a foundation. Our best days lie ahead of us, and our impact will continue with you.

Sincerely,

Bobby S. Shackouls, '72
President, MSU Foundation Board of Directors

John P. Rush, '92, '02

A SUCCESS UNLIKE ANY OTHER

The impact we are making at Mississippi State University is as unique as our land-grant mission. As we continue to honor our heritage of excellence in education, we hope you will keep an open mind during Infinite Impact and be willing to explore new giving opportunities with us. Progress toward our goal of becoming a nationally prominent university will require an unprecedented level of philanthropy from alumni, friends, corporations and parents.

As you have witnessed through this annual report, private support is at the heart of our institution. Over time, alumni and friends are motivated to give by different reasons, and there is a story behind every gift given to the university. Many people give because of a sense of obligation toward their alma mater. Others give for personal fulfillment. And still more give because someone earlier set an example for them to follow.

In the years ahead, Mississippi State will experience the impact of your generous giving. Nearly every facet of life at the university will be dramatically improved because of the Infinite Impact campaign. From the university's academic colleges, MSU-Meridian, University Libraries and MSU Athletics—any gift you make, combined with gifts from others, can ensure our reach becomes limitless.

Mississippi State has moved well beyond the basics and achieved a far greater margin of excellence because of a rich history of private support from donors who have given with loyalty, pride and passion. For over 50 years, individuals, corporations and organizations have given generously and enabled us to grow our university and elevate our level of success.

Over time, the MSU Foundation looks forward to welcoming more benefactors as a growing number of alumni and friends, like you, begin to understand the importance of making a far-reaching impact through Mississippi State. There will always be a venue for contributors who wish to make a positive difference in the life of the university.

On the horizon, Mississippi State will seek to grow our enrollment, and in doing so, we must reach a higher level of support. Campaign gifts will enable us to take our aspirations to the next level of excellence and build a stronger, more vibrant campus along the way. Within this campus, we will increase expectations for our students as they apply learning inside and outside the traditional classroom. All of our progress will profoundly affect the quality of students we both attract and graduate as we work to keep Mississippi State an affordable option for higher education.

Besides student excellence, our world-class faculty and staff on our revitalized campus will be greater agents of change as they spark innovative approaches to curriculum and set the university on a path that maintains and enhances student learning. Private gifts can help us attain and advance faculty teaching, research and professional development.

We need steadfast financial support for Mississippi State during this time because the aspirations of our students and faculty are more ambitious than ever. These ambitions carry with them additional costs to ensure the learning environment at our university is second to none. Private support will give us the margin of excellence to grow Mississippi State's reputation and increase the value of a degree from our institution.

MSU has a trailblazing new scholarship program partnering with the Mississippi Economic Council's highly successful Student-Teacher Achievement Recognition (STAR) program.

MSU offers around 180 degrees, which include 15 master's degrees in 60 programs, educational specialist degrees in seven programs, and doctoral degrees in 33 programs.

We are already leading our state; however, we are poised to accomplish far more beyond our borders. Our campaign will allow us to further the national recognition we are garnering and strengthen our efforts. Our strides will be unbelievable.

Our graduates and friends, as well as our students, faculty, and staff are joining together and working tirelessly to attract the investments we need to improve our reputation on an international scale. Every contribution given solidifies our belief that excellence is within our grasp. By giving, you can help us generate a powerful impact that will cascade upon our world for generations.

In future issues of our annual report, we will explore additional focus areas of Infinite Impact. From success, we will move toward discovery driven by research and creativity. From there, outreach, globalization and experience will emerge—all the ways we impact lives through Mississippi State.

Please share the good news of our success and spread the message of Infinite Impact with others because there is definitely strength in numbers. You and others like you are the future of Mississippi State. Never underestimate the potential of your gifts and what the university can accomplish through private support.

We sincerely appreciate your belief in education at all levels, and your confidence in Mississippi State University and the MSU Foundation. Our institution has even greater aspirations for tomorrow, and private gifts through the Infinite Impact campaign will take us there.

From here, we will move toward greater DISCOVERY.
