Our heroes

In honor of those who gave the ultimate sacrifice in service to their country, the War Memorial held a ceremony on behalf of the brave men and women and welcomed family, friends and community. Burglary arrest in Farms

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

GROSSE POINTE FARMS — Police went big on their arrest of a man accused of multiple housebreakings.

Even the department chief and his deputy helped seize the suspect during the evening of Thursday, May 24, at a house in the 22100 block of Pleasant in Eastpointe.

The next afternoon, Farms Municipal Judge Matthew Rumora arraigned Rudy Jordan Vandebroek, 21, for home invasion and larceny in a building.

"It turned out he'd just done a home invasion on McKinley we didn't know about because it hadn't been reported," said Detective Lt. Richard Rosati.

Rumora set Vandebroek's bond at $100,000 cash and scheduled a preliminary examination at noon Wednesday, June 6.

Investigators focused on Vandebroek based on evidence gathered earlier this month at crime scenes in the Farms and City of Grosse Pointe.

Council does 180 on Macomb

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

GROSSE POINTE SHORES — Scratch one advisory election.

One week after resolving to poll voters about Grosse Pointe Shores switching jurisdiction to Macomb County, the city council reversed itself.

The question was to appear on the August primary election ballot, with results non-binding.

If a majority of residents supported a change, the matter may have been forwarded to Wayne and Macomb County voters in the November general election.

Yet, at a special Shores council meeting Tuesday, May 22, city attorney Mark McInerney submitted a written opinion that advisory votes violate state law.

"We have a problem," McInerney said. "Most indications from the county clerks are that would not be a valid provision to be placed on the ballot. I have not talked with anybody with the county. I'm reading a

BRINGING FACE-TO-FACE HELP TO OUR CUSTOMERS IN MICHIGAN

Helping customers remains a critical focus for Bank of America. We've opened Customer Assistance Centers in the nation's hardest-hit communities, including three in Michigan. These centers are open six days a week to give homeowners struggling to make their mortgage payments the opportunity to sit down and talk face-to-face with a home retention specialist who can explain their options and help them reach a timely and informed decision.

Bank of America is reaching out to help as many people as possible have the chance to stay in their homes. Last year, we met with 1,386 customers in Michigan and over 50,000 nationwide, and have given over one million customers the chance to avoid foreclosure since 2008.

The games raised $2,500 for both Services for Older Citizens and Grosse Pointe-Harper Woods Special Olympics.

Charities win the game

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

Ringers from the Grosse Pointe Special Olympics state champion basketball team nearly pulled off an upset last week in a charity game against members of the Detroit Lions football team.

The Lions won by one point on the final play, a long pass and slam dunk.

The fact they dunked a football added to the fun.

"Our kids had a blast," said Christopher Beck, president of Grosse Pointe-Harper Woods Special Olympics and a resident of the Farms. "The event was everything they thought it would be and probably a lot more."

The game, Tuesday night, May 8, at South High School, was organized by Officer Joe Adams and fellow members of the Fraternal Order of Police, Grosse Pointe Lodge No. 102.

A team of police All Stars from the Pointes and Harper Woods teamed with Special Olympians against current and past Lions.

Money raised is divided equally between the Special Olympics and Services for Older Citizens.

"The crowd is enjoying it," said Adams, during a timeout. "It's not the Detroit Pistons versus Chicago Bulls in 1989 type game, but we're having a good time."

Anita Baker sang the national anthem.

Adams hopes to make the game an annual event.

"So far, it looks like it's a hit," Adams said.

Adams presented $2,500 checks to Special Olympics and SOC.

"I can't thank the FOP and Lions enough for allowing us to benefit from such an event," Beck said.

"I had no idea it was going to be so fun," said Sharon Maier, SOC executive director. "I can't wait for next year."

"It's a nice little birthday treat for him," said Keegan's father, Matt Wettstein. The family is new to the Pointes.

"We received a phone call from the Fraternal Order of Police a couple weeks back telling us about the event," Matt Wettstein said. "I wanted to get involved, support the police and Special Olympics."

Players representing Special Olympics were Trevor Beck, Tom DeFauw, Darius Hamilton and Ryan Sandles.

Participating Lions were Cliff Avril, Jason Fox and G. Rob Sims plus retired players Herman Moore, Rob Rubick and Cory Schlesinger.

Maier got Moore's autograph.

"They're all really nice guys," she said of the players. "I'm going to be more of a Lions fan."

"I love giving back because the community has been so gracious and kind to me throughout my career," Moore said. "It feels good to give back and to try to be a good person."

He wasn't worried about officers being sore losers and arresting him.

"I'm letting them steal the ball," Moore said.

The Lions' agility impressed their opponents.

"It's amazing how well they carry 300 pounds," said Farms Officer Frank Zielinski, one of the bigger All Stars.

Fox, a 6-foot-7 offensive tackle from Fort Worth, Texas, played basketball in high school.

"Football took me further than basketball ever would," he said.

While signing autographs, he thought about being a child and wanting to play professional sports.

"It's a dream come true," Fox said.

He advised budding athletes to work hard.

"If you work hard enough, anything is possible," Fox said.

The Pointes have two Special Olympics basketball teams.

"One won the state championship for their division two years running," Beck said. "That's the team Trevor Beck and Ryan Sanders was on. We pride ourselves on developing the kids well."

Police dog campaign

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

CITY OF GROSSE POINTE — A drive is gearing up to privately fund police dog operations.

A main proponent, former City of Grosse Pointe councilman John Stevens has a history of following through on community initiatives.

"We could create a friends of the K9 department," Stevens said.

Money donated would be tax deductible and dedicated to K9 operations, not siphoned off for other things.

"There would be residents to come forth and support that," Stevens said. "A K9 provides better safety for our officers and the community."

The city's K9 division consists of one dog and handler. Operations are due to be eliminated for budgetary reasons.

Stevens not only wants to retain the dog, but add another one.

"If we had two dogs, it would be a lot better," he said.

"This would be of benefit to the community very much. That alone will serve as a great deterrent to crime."

"I warmly welcome the offer," said Peter Dame, city manager.

Dame said he'll work with Stevens to establish a private foundation in support of the dog.

The City's K9, Raleigh, and his handler, Sgt. Michael Almeranti, are deployed on mutual aid requests throughout the Grosse Pointes and Harper Woods.

They patrol the community, often on the midnight shift, in a special squad car outfitted with a dog cage and designated on the roof posts with the dog's portrait.

Raleigh is a male German shepherd. He received the not-so-formidable name in a contest of Maire Elementary School children.

He tracks burglars, finds drugs hidden in cars and participates in raids.

A criminal suspect recently hiding in a garbage can found himself staring up at Raleigh's twitching nose.

In the Farms last year, Raleigh traced the scent of a burglary suspect from the crime scene to the suspect's house. Prosecutors got a conviction. The team also performs public safety demonstrations at schools and for community organizations.

To Raleigh, though, crimefighting is fun and games. He's trained to execute duties with the reward of playing with his favorite toy, a rubber ball.

"Raleigh's off a lot doing good work in other communities," said City Mayor Dale Scrace. "A lot of time it's on overtime."

The City can no longer bear the cost alone.

Each of the other Pointes and Harper Woods pledged $2,000 this year to support K9 operations, according to Stephen Poloni, City public safety director.

Those donations, totaling $10,000, combined with City cost cutting, leave the K9 unit underfunded by 30 to 40 percent, according to Poloni.

"We're looking for a little help getting private donations to carry us through to break even," he said.

Stevens was behind the Grosse Pointe Santa Claus float, which was enhanced in subsequent years with a separate sleigh to hold toys, a blinking Rudolph and a Toys For Tots Christmas train.

POINTER OF INTEREST

Francine Pegues believes golf is more than just a sport. It teaches young women discipline, life lessons and, for many, is a way to afford college.

A (golf) course guide to life

By Michael Maas
Special writer

For Grosse Pointe Park resident Francine Pegues, golf has much more value than just recreation.

She believes it shapes character and offers opportunities for students and business people.

"Golf teaches self-discipline," Pegues said. "It teaches perseverance. It teaches focus, (and) it teaches honor. Nobody calls a foul on you in golf. There is no referee to call a foul. You police yourself. If you do anything (wrong), you call your own penalties."

Pegues runs the Michigan Women's Golf Association's Girls Golf Program of Detroit, a volunteer job she's had for four years. Girls Golf is a program of the Ladies Professional Golf Association, with sites nationwide. The program encourages girls to play golf by providing lessons for beginners and league play for experienced players.

During the summer, girls ages 6 to 17, from various parts of metro Detroit, are instructed by an LPGA-certified teaching professional. There is a nominal cost to participate and scholarships are available.

Pegues said she believes the program teaches participants important values, making them more marketable to colleges and employers.

She also sees golf as an opportunity for girls to be able to afford college, citing girls' golf scholarships frequently go unclaimed.

"I want more kids to see golf as an opportunity to go to college. You don't have to be a basketball player to go to college on a scholarship. If academics is not your strength, but you are an athlete, consider golf, because there are golf scholarships."

Pegues maintains relationships with many of the girls in the program and their families. Hannah Bigelow, 13, of Detroit, has two siblings and five cousins who participate in the program. She said she likes golf because it builds character and said Pegues has motivated her throughout the past two years she has played.

Bigelow's mother, Suzanne, said she is grateful for Pegues' dedication and the affordability of the program, which helps her children learn a sport that "always seemed out of reach."

"She does a really good job. She makes herself available to us. She works with the girls," Suzanne Bigelow said about Pegues. "The price is already affordable, but with those of us who have multiple children, she makes a way for us to do it even if our money's tight."

Pegues first learned to golf as a graduate student at The Ohio State University. While studying to become a hospital administrator, she took a course on how not to get fired during which she realized golf would give her a leg up in her future career.

"I thought if I'm going to survive in this career, I would need to be where the doctors are and those were the days when the doctors were on the golf course," Pegues said. "In my career at Blue Cross, I played a lot of golf as the director of sales. I would take my customers out on the golf course and do business. It was very helpful for me in my business career to achieve sales goals and to get recognition in my company, because I was a golfer."

Pegues retired from Blue Cross three years ago. She has lived in Grosse Pointe Park for 13 years, along with her mother and two nieces. She moved to Grosse Pointe from Detroit to provide a better school system for the eight nieces and nephews she raised.

"The school system is very, very attractive. Twelve years ago, DPS (Detroit Public Schools) was not getting it done for the other nieces and nephews, but I didn't want to be way out in the suburbs because I am an urbanite. I like to be near the city and Grosse Pointe allows that," Pegues said. "I like the camaraderie that we are here together for the benefit of our families. It's a safe environment. The police are phenomenal."

As Pegues prepares for the June 26 program start, she hopes for many volunteers to help assist girls in the program. Volunteers must know how to play golf and she says it has been difficult to find enough in past seasons.

"The (program) limit is as limited as I have volunteers to work with kids. If I wind up with 100 kids, the teaching pro can give 100 kids lessons. But when you put them on the driving range, you need someone who's a golfer working there with them, watching their grip."

Pegues said she was surprised when the Girls Golf Program of Detroit recently received a Soroptimist of Grosse Pointe award.

"You just do the right thing and you never think somebody would want to recognize you because you're doing the right thing," Pegues said. "We're doing this for the girls playing because they are our future if this organization (the Michigan Women's Golf Association) is going to survive. We need to bring in our future members."

Still, Pegues says she does the right thing because it makes a valuable sport affordable and accessible to girls who may not have even thought about playing golf.

"What does it take to become a golfer," Pegues asked. "You don't just show up and have at it. You can just go to the neighborhood (basketball court) and shoot hoops. You can just go to the neighborhood track and just run. Someone has to give you the idea so you want to play golf."

And, in many cases, that someone is Francine Pegues.

MACOMB: No go at this point

statute." The special meeting occurred after last week's Grosse Pointe News print edition went to press. Most of the Shores is in Wayne County. A portion of city is in Macomb County, which currently has a lower tax rate.

Dangling questions

Extended discussions during the special meeting exposed disappointment in findings by a Shores committee tasked with detailing the pros and cons of changing jurisdictions.

"We expected a full-fledged report, not a one-page summary," Councilwoman Kay Felt said to Councilman Dan Schulte, the only officeholder on the Grosse Pointe Shores Move-to-Macomb Committee and the main proponent of realignment.

A majority of the council wants firm answers on numerous issues, including, but not limited to:

- ◆ if Grosse Pointe Public School boundaries would change,
- ◆ who pays for seawall maintenance,
- ◆ the administration of wills, trusts and other longstanding legal arrangements filed in Wayne County court,
- ◆ joint public safety dispatch operations,
- ◆ how the Shores public safety department would interact with those in other Pointes and
- ◆ municipal court operations.

Staying part of the Pointe school district is "a deal breaker," said Mayor Ted Kedzierski.

McInerney contends existing school boundaries would continue.

"If we were to go to Macomb County, the boundaries of the Grosse Pointe Public School System would not change one way or another," McInerney said. "People in Lake Township would stay in South Lake schools. People in the Wayne County portion of the Shores would remain in Grosse Pointe public schools."

Higher opinion

McInerney advised Shores officials to seek confirmation on that and other matters in an attorney general opinion.

Most of the council agreed.

"Unless we get something from a governmental authority that says the school district doesn't change," said Councilman Bruce Bisballe, "I don't know how voters can make an informed decision on that, coupled with the fact we don't have a clear answer on the seawall."

An attorney general opinion could take "over a year," Felt said.

"There's a whole lot of things we need to look at before we start jumping into this," said Councilman Robert Gessell. "We have a lot of due diligence to do."

He suggested avoiding the cost of a formal election by conducting a mail-in survey of registered voters.

"The objective is to find what a majority of the people want," Gessell said. "We can do that ourselves. We don't have to play around with all kinds of legal opinions, try to get on ballots (and) beat deadlines. Give ourselves enough time to do it right."

"I like that approach," Kedzierski said.

'Talk is cheap'

Bisballe wants written reports and opinions with documented sources giving "apples to apples comparisons" of the two counties. He's through with assumptions and summaries of telephone conversations.

"Talk is cheap," Bisballe said. "Let's see it in black and white. Let's put more meat on the bone."

Schulte recommended removing the "advisory" element from local ballot wording and maintaining course toward the August election.

"If we follow the process we're on and don't have information by August, we have the opportunity to vote 'no,'" Schulte said.

The rest of the council disagreed.

"So, we're voting 'no' without knowledge of all the facts?" Kedzierski said. "We want everyone to be informed, so when they cast their decision, it's an informed decision that acknowledges all the facts, the advantages as well as the disadvantages."

Schulte said the special meeting was embarrassing. Matters should have been decided last week, he said.

"We would be embarrassed and remiss if we moved forward without the answers to these basic questions," countered Bisballe.

Schulte opposed his colleagues' cancellation of the advisory vote.

"I think there's politics in this beyond what is being discussed tonight," he said.

Kedzierski, Bisballe, Felt and Gessell are attorneys.

Councilman Alex Ajlouni, a physician, did not attend the special meeting because he was on duty.

Little hope

No matter what Shores residents want, final decision rests with hundreds of thousands of voters in Wayne and Macomb Counties. Both must approve a switch.

By doing so, Wayne's representatives also yield Shores property tax payments.

At the May 15 council meeting, those payments were estimated to be $6 million per year. Schulte said this week they're $2.7 million annually.

Wayne County Commissioner Tim Killeen (D-Detroit), representing the Pointes, Harper Woods and part of eastside Detroit, predicted secession would be "vigorously opposed" in Wayne County.

"The (county's) general fund has gone from around $500 million five years ago to about $380,000 million," Killeen said. "I don't think there's a lot of anxiousness to further reduce the general fund."

More tax?

Schulte said Shores residents would see a 4 mill tax decrease under Macomb governance, which equals about $1.1 million. The rate is about .4 mills less than contained in his committee's report a week before.

Schulte proposed the anticipated $1.1 million savings could be used to fund the return of in-house public safety dispatch, now contracted to Grosse Pointe Farms to save operating and personnel costs.

Bisballe, chairman of the finance committee, countered that prospect. He said a lower millage rate saves money for individual property owners; it won't generate more revenue for the city.

"What are we going to do, raise the millage rate again?" he asked Schulte.

"I would think if we're getting a 4.4 mill reduction in taxes," Schulte said, citing last week's figure, "we could work something out that the residents are happy, that the city has a solid revenue base and we don't have to worry about having our own dispatch."

Resident opinion

Among residents in the audience, Dr. Raymond Rahi warned "the devil's in the details."

He said, "As I listen (to the council), I hear, 'I don't know,' (and) 'I'm not sure.' Until we're sure, we have to be prudent and diligent on how we approach an issue like this."

Rahi contrasted the mission of a newly-formed municipal ambassador committee, which is supposed to promote the Shores as a "wonderful community," with findings of the Move-to-Macomb committee saying otherwise.

"There's going to be a cost in the court of public opinion," Rahi said. "You have a referendum going on the ballot because we're so unhappy with the quality of the county we chose to live in. It doesn't make a lot of sense."

Resident Nancy Renick doesn't have enough facts to support or reject realignment.

"When can you get it together," she scolded the council. "I want a presentation on the pros and (one) on the cons."

Former Councilman Brian Geraghty was surprised that the Macomb committee, approved in August 2011, during his term, recommended a vote.

"There was no direction to provide recommendations," Geraghty said.

Also, the May 15 council agenda indicated the committee would provide an update on activities, nothing else.

"There was no indication there was going to be a vote of any sort on a recommendation," Geraghty added. "This lack of transparency has been quite a concern. I hope the council will undertake a serious education program for residents and answer the many, many questions that have gone unanswered."

Resident Jim Jacobs said, "If this has to go to the attorney general, we are wasting valuable resources. It's a waste of time."

GUEST OPINION By Anne Schieber

'Stimulus' grants, loans

If jobs are any measure, 14 Michigan "green" companies awarded $34.5 million in taxpayer-funded grants and loans aren't generating much heat.

According to the Michigan Economic Development Corp., the companies have reported a total of 183 jobs. While a final report will not be issued until June, calls and e-mails to the companies indicate the total number will not be much higher. The state awarded the grants and loans in 2009 and 2010 under its Clean Energy Advanced Manufacturing Program. The money came from federal stimulus funding under the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act. The federal government handed out a total of $3.1 billion for state energy programs, of which Michigan got $82 million.

Michigan Energy Office Manager Robert Jackson defends the program by saying it was not designed to create jobs but to help established manufacturers retool for the future economy, namely alternative energy. Of the 14 companies on the list, the majority are in the wind turbine business. Employment, however, was front and center when the awards from this stimulus program were announced.

"The awards being made today will create good jobs," U.S. Rep. Sander Levin, D-Royal Oak, said in a June 2010 press release.

Former Gov. Jennifer Granholm devoted one of her radio addresses to the subject, even mentioning a specific jobs number for one of the award recipients, Ventower Industries of Monroe. Ventower received a $2.25 million grant and more than $1.56 million in government-backed loans. Granholm said the company was projected to create 130 direct jobs and 40 spin-off jobs. Ventower, which makes wind turbine towers, currently employs 49. Another company, Astraea Wind Energy Inc. of Eaton Rapids, got a $7 million grant and a loan of $1.54 million and has created 11 jobs. If no other workers are hired, those jobs were created at a cost of $776,364 each. Astraea's co-founder Roger Cope also defends the program, saying he believes the program gives the state its only opportunity for energy independence and that without government subsidies the alternative energy business has an extremely hard time getting off the ground.

"Banks these days are not loaning money and venture capitalists have no interest in manufacturing," he said. He points out that some of the greatest technological advancements have come from the aerospace and medical industries, which were subsidized by the government for years. He said he believes the same could be true in alternative energy.

"Government has poor ability to pick the winners on the frontier sectors of the economy," said Fred Smith, president and co-founder of the Competitive Enterprise Institute. "It got excited and over-promoted an issue and everyone got excited, even Fortune 500 companies."

Officials from Grid Logic Inc. in Lapeer said the company used its $3.5 million grant and $3.04 million in loans to raise private funding and build an advanced manufacturing facility. Company officials said Grid Logic has developed a new line of products for the electric utility industry, which led to a "substantial" contract. It expects to increase sales and add staff. The company currently employs 20 people.

Two of the 14 companies, Great Lakes Industry in Jackson and Polar Seal in Grand Rapids appear to have had their awards revoked. Other grant and loan recipients include: Amptech of Manistee, $300,000 grant/$273,000 loan for seven workers; Eaton Rapids Castings of Rochester, $1.36 million grant/$650,000 loan for six workers; LOC Performance of Plymouth, $1.5 million grant for an unreported number of jobs; LUMA Resources of Rochester Hills, $500,000 grant/$325,000 loan for 12 jobs; and Merrill Technologies of Saginaw, $3 million grant for an unreported number of jobs.

One of the difficulties in alternative energy industry is the unpredictability of energy prices from other sources. Because of new drilling techniques, developed in large part in the private sector, natural gas prices have dropped to record lows. And natural gas inventory is high. Wind and solar power account for less than 2 percent of energy production, according to the U.S. Department of Energy. The wind-power industry is currently lobbying for a $7 billion renewal of its production tax credit and pushing to increase renewable-energy mandates nationally and in individual states, including Michigan. There is an effort to increase the mandate in Michigan to 25 percent.

County move

To the Editor:
After Grosse Pointe Shores City Council first voted unanimously to place a move to Macomb County on the ballot, some members — in their infinite wisdom — called a relatively unpublicized special meeting for the express purpose of rescinding what might have been a key opportunity to strengthen the Pointes and neighboring communities. Despite the deceptive remark that "there is no rush," with all the turmoil occurring in Wayne County, there could hardly have been a better time for the Shores to justify its legal right to place the city's entire domain within one county.

Corporate counsel for both Grosse Pointe Shores and the Grosse Pointe Public School System supplied a written legal opinion (attached) confirmed by the Michigan Assistant Attorney General, that the section of Grosse Pointe Shores currently located in Grosse Pointe schools would remain in Grosse Pointe schools.

This position is further reinforced by the fact at least five other metro area school systems now operate across county lines: Anchor Bay, Clarenceville, Northville, South Lyon and Warren schools.

All of the "unknowns" bantered by detractors were essentially political scare tactics designed to undermine a committee's carefully studied effort to bring a noteworthy 4-mill tax reduction to Grosse Pointe Shores.

What's worse, this rescission robs voters of the right to decide for themselves.

Not only would such a move have provided significantly lower taxes and improved services, it likely would have bolstered property values in the Shores, which would positively impact the values of neighboring communities.

Even if the initiative were stalled by Wayne County voters, alternate remedies may have been available once the designated course of action proved insuperable.

The likelihood of such an opportune time arising in the near future, or of a dedicated group taking up the cause if it does, may not be so great.

Umpiring

To the Editor:

It seems ever since Jim Joyce's horrifically bad call to end Armando Galarraga's perfect game, the umpiring in major-league baseball seems to have come under scrutiny and for good reason.

As most of us were enjoying our Memorial Day and watching our Tigers take on the Red Sox, it was brought to a screeching halt when the first-base umpire flubbed a third strike call that would have ended the inning. And in the process, gave the Red Sox another chance and they took advantage and scored three more runs.

The second-base umpire made another costly error, an inning or so later, when Danny Worth led off the inning with a double and slid past the base, only to be called out — even though replays clearly showed his hand reached back and clearly beat the tag.

What's the solution? Should the league revisit replaying any close call?

I believe there's a good argument for this, as too many games are being decided not by the players but by the ump's miscues. They review close home runs in a matter of seconds, so why not consider this on other close calls that could definitely affect the outcome of the game.

I'll bet you if you asked Jim Joyce, who's good career will forever be marred by this one blown call, if he could go back in time and have his call reviewed and corrected before the end of the game, the answer would be a resounding "Yes!"

Contest thanks

To The Editor:

On behalf of the Grosse Pointe Village Association, I wish to thank all those in-involved in the 2012 Paint The Window Contest.

Each year the Village comes alive with color and creativity as Grosse Pointe elementary school children paint wonderful pictures throughout our shopping district.

A record 181 young, creative artists came to brighten up The Village on a perfect day and the results were outstanding.

We congratulate all of the participants and the winners.

A great big thank you goes out to our major sponsor: The City of Grosse Pointe Foundation.

Thank you also to our loyal sponsors: The Village Toy Company, Print Xpress, Rainy Day Art Supply, Mr. Bill Rands, Ms. Hala Besmar, Ms. Debby Owen and the City of Grosse Pointe. We could not produce such a great event without their support.

As always, our dedicated volunteers also deserve a big thank you: Claudia Corrado, Terri Berschback, John Denomme, Linda Jensen, the staff of Village Toy Company, Alyssa Martin, Emily Fleming, Nina White, Stephen Durand and Elizabeth Bracher.

Finally, I wish to thank the entire Grosse Pointe community as you continue to support our Village events with such loyal enthusiasm and heart.

I SAY By Brad Lindberg

Media center freeloaders

GROSSE POINTE FARMS — Here we are, readers, a more than 200-mile drive from the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, yet as close to last Sunday's Indianapolis 500 as though trackside.

Or, at least, as close to the race as were many reporters ensconced in the speedway's air conditioned infield media center overlooking part of the front straight.

The center is four stories tall and staffed by the finest public relations team I've experienced. It churns out comprehensive information on the race from the opening day of practice through post-competition wrap-up.

Updates are handed out so often that many reporters never leave the media center, complete with free cafeteria.

They absorb, nor convey, no feel for the setting — how fans in the prime, Turn 1 terrace seats differ from those milling around the infield snake pit; children on all fours kissing a row of bricks on the infield plaza; engineers in garages on Gasoline Alley fretting over data downloaded onto laptops; fans lined 20 deep to glimpse A.J. Foyt; no-name drivers from lesser teams walking through crowds of people and not turning one head.

Covering the Indy 500 is easy, if reporters let the PR staff do it for them. The resulting copy may be rote, as many reporters appear satisfied to sink.

At Indy, the media center's second and fourth floors have rows of tables at which reporters sit throughout the race. Desks on the fourth floor cover more space than a basketball court. Internet hookups at each table let reporters tap into streams of race data downloaded from speedway staff, the Indy Racing League and individual race teams.

Televisions hanging from the ceiling broadcast the network feed of the race. Closed circuit data also is streamed on screen. All a reporter needs to do is sit there copying quotes from TV, radio and track announcers.

Best of all for the secondhand cut-and-paste set are the PR staff's trackside reports and quotes.

Trackside reports give lap-by-lap accounts of the race. They're distributed every 20 laps or so of the 200-lap 500.

The reports contain enough detail and color for lazy reporters to sit from afar and write comprehensive accounts dolled up with anecdotes. To wit, on lap 119:

"...Pit stop report: Four tires and fuel: #9 Dixon, 10 seconds; #83 Kimball, 8 seconds; #19 Jakes, 7 seconds. Four tires, fuel air pressure adjustment: #18 Wilson, 15 seconds. Wilson ran over air gun and hose entering his pit box, no penalty."

Need comments by race-winner Dario Franchitti about Takuma Sato spinning out while trying to squeeze past on the last lap?

But, after the race, Franchitti is at a news conference on the first floor of the media center. Sato is practically a half world away in the team garage with his banged up race car. What to do? Tap into the PR staff's trackside report:

"He's very aggressive," Franchitti said. "I think he thought that was his chance. I mean, why not?"

Want Sato's view? Trackside report: "I was going for the win."

Need color from a celebrity attending the race? Trackside:

"When I drive on the freeway, I'm scared — let alone go 220 mph," said Tommy Lasorda, former L.A. Dodgers manager. "That's unbelievable."

My intended coverage of this year's 500 flopped. Sources didn't call back and, at the track a week before the race, didn't show up when or where their representatives said they would.

My fault. I wasn't persistent or crafty enough to overcome or sidestep those obstacles.

But, covering the 500 is optional for me. I do it on my own time, producing targeted, original copy, not downloads from trackside reports.

My Indy stories are based on first-hand sources. Some information comes from sneaking into drivers' meetings. Then, there's repeatedly riding the media center elevator up and down to peg people who don't have time for me otherwise. Lesser quotes come from attending news conferences, not reading transcripts.

Lacking legitimate material this year to write honest accounts, I didn't fake it, as so many others do year after year.

Hey cypocart reporters, I know who you are and how you do it.

PUBLIC SAFETY REPORTS

City of Grosse Pointe

Tools taken

Three power tools and two extension ladders were stolen during the night of Thursday, May 24, from a Ford Econoline van parked in a driveway off of Charlevoix at Fisher.

Whoever did it smashed the van's rear window and stole a Makita drill bit motor, a case of bits, a Sawzall, jigsaw with case and two Louisville ladders capable of extending to 24 and 28 feet, respectively.

Suspensions

An investigation last week of "customer trouble" at a store in the Village yielded the arrest of a 43-year-old Detroit woman on traffic charges.

At about 3:15 p.m. Tuesday, May 22, police found her leaving the commercial district at the wheel of a red 2000 Mercury Mountaineer on northbound St. Clair.

A fake paper license plate was taped to the vehicle's rear window, police said.

The woman also was violating 11 driving suspensions and was wanted in Detroit on seven traffic warrants, officers added.

Quick change

At 1:36 p.m. Sunday, May 20, a known con man was arrested shortly after pulling a quick-change gag on a coffee house clerk in the Village.

The 58-year-old suspect from Detroit is accused of flummoxing the female clerk out of $30 change, then intimidating her when she questioned the transaction.

Police caught the man in a 2000 Chevrolet Impala driven by a woman.

Messes up marina

The Coast Guard helped contain a fuel and oil spill during Memorial Day weekend in the marina of Pier Park.

At 6:17 p.m. Saturday, May 26, Farms public safety officers responded to the incident, which they attributed to a 55-year-old male resident tending an 18-foot Thompson motor boat.

"Several witnesses said (he) was using a siphon pump inside of his engine compartment (and) using a sponge inside his engine compartment and wringing out the sponge in the lake," said a patrolman. "As (I) approached him, he was walking away from the area as if attempting to avoid (me). (I) could smell the odor of intoxicating beverage coming from (him)."

Door-to-door

A man walking door-to-door on Merrilweather soliciting business for a construction company was swept up last week during heightened scrutiny due to a series of home invasions.

At 2:22 p.m. Thursday, May 24, police investigated the 45-year-old Clinton Township man near Ridge.

He was advised of the city's ordinance banning solicitations and arrested on an outstanding warrant for the same type of violation in St. Clair Shores.

Computer caper

Two iPads worth $500 each were stolen between 8 a.m. Monday, May 21 and 3 p.m. the next day from a private school in the 100 block of Grosse Pointe Boulevard.

The items were last seen in an unlocked cabinet of the computer room, a school representative told police.

Car break-ins

Two larcenies from parked vehicles occurred on McKinley during the night of Sunday, May 20:

◆ A few dollars in change and a $50 Leatherman tool set were taken out of an unlocked car parked in the 200 block.

◆ An iPod and spare change were taken from a vehicle parked in the garage of a house in the 300 block.

"(The victim) was unsure if the garage door was closed or if the vehicle was locked," said a public safety officer.

Home invasions

Police said the following home invasions were among those solved with the arrest last week of a 21-year-old Eastpointe man.

The man is accused of committing numerous home invasions this month in the Farms and City of Grosse Pointe:

◆ Between 11:30 a.m. and 8:30 p.m. Thursday, May 24, the suspect is accused of breaking into a house in the 200 block of McKinley.

"Forced entry was gained by cutting out (a) screen window," said a patrolman.

Some items from the house, including three credit cards and a 1905 gold coin necklace worth $1,000, were recovered from the suspect before the homeowner discovered they'd been stolen.

"(The necklace) was found on (the suspect) when he was taken into custody," said an officer.

◆ A house in the 200 block of Stephens was broken into during the morning of Tuesday, May 22.

The suspect entered between 8:30 and 11 a.m. through a window, said investigators.

"(I) observed dirt under one of the main bedroom windows," said an officer. "The window was unlocked. Both the window and screen can be pushed open to gain entry."

The homeowner wasn't present during the burglary. The only thing believed stolen was a silver pocket knife with serrated edges, the homeowner told police.

Keeps drinking

A 35-year-old Farms man was arrested for probation violation at a house in the 100 block of Muir shortly before 4 p.m. Thursday, May 24.

"(He) was court-ordered to wear an alcohol tether, which he removed," said a public safety officer.

The man reportedly had a .113 percent blood alcohol level.

Lock cars

Between Wednesday, May 16 and Wednesday, May 23, there were nine larcenies from unlocked vehicles in the Park. Items taken included cell phones, designer sunglasses, iPods, a check book, house keys, cash, credit cards and a GPS device. Most occurred during the nighttime hours.

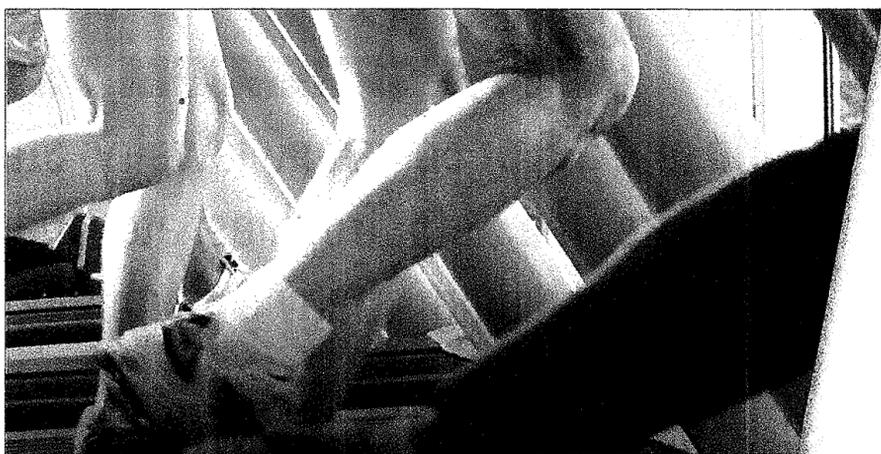

"Larceny is nothing more than a crime of opportunity," said Chief David Hiller. "We can't remind residents enough to lock their cars and not leave valuables in any car, locked or unlocked. This is a crime that can be easily prevented." Hiller said police are tracking down possible leads.

Missing cash

A Lakepointe resident reported to police on Thursday, May 24, that money was missing from a bedroom drawer after a charitable organization was at the home to pick up a furniture donation.

FREE COMMUNITY EVENT

MAKOplasty for Knees and Hips

Join McLaren-Macomb for a free community seminar on Wednesday, June 13, 2012, 7 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

Dr. Andrew Ajluni, a board-certified McLaren-Macomb orthopedic surgeon, will discuss this new knee resurfacing procedure and hip replacement surgery.

This is a free community event with refreshments provided, but registration is required. To register, please call toll free (877) 627-6248.

Osteoarthritis? Consider MAKOplasty

For patients considering hip or knee surgery, one of the major concerns is recovery time. Common questions include "How long will I be off work?" and "How much pain will I be in?" With the introduction of MAKOplasty robotic surgery, McLaren-Macomb is getting patients back to life with less pain and recovery time.

McLaren-Macomb is the only hospital in Southeast Michigan to offer MAKOplasty partial knee resurfacing and MAKOplasty robotic hip surgery.

The addition of these innovative MAKOplasty procedures is part of McLaren-Macomb's expanded robotic surgery capabilities.

South choirs rate superior

All Grosse Pointe South High School choral groups received Division 1 or 2 ratings for performances March 23 and 24, at the Michigan School Vocal Music Association State Solo and Ensemble Festival at Walled Lake Central High School.

As well, sophomore Emma Aboukasm, recognized among the top 20 soloists from the festival, was selected as an alternate soloist for the vocal solo and ensemble recital May 10 to 12, at the Michigan Youth Arts Festival at Western Michigan University. The recital featured more than 150 high school singers from across the state in an all-day celebration.

Frank Thams; Emma Turco; Nathan Turner; Paul Wenger and Claire Zimmeth

Fees up in the next budget, including ice

By Brad Lindberg
Staff Writer

CITY OF GROSSE POINTE — A $15 charge to catch stray dogs is in the middle of the pack of fee increases announced this week.

The new charge is expected to generate $150 annually and nip at the administrative cost of rounding up loose pets.

"It is a minimal fee, but will reimburse the city for personnel as well as use of city equipment," said Kimberly Kleinow, City of Grosse Pointe finance director.

The main fee increase announced this week is 5 percent to rent boat slips in the municipal marina at Neff Park. The percentage change equals $6 to $16, depending on slip size.

Money generated will "cover needed maintenance that has been put aside," Kleinow said.

City officials review municipal fees each year.

"The review is to ensure that specific users are paying costs in lieu of being subsidized by the general citizenry," Kleinow said.

All increases this year are expected to generate a combined $26,470 annually.

A $5 increase for recycling bins and yard waste carts pushes the price to $65. Money is intended to recoup the city's cost of buying containers, according to Kleinow.

Somewhat related is a $50 fee for public service employees to collect Christmas trees more than one month after the holiday.

Other new fees are:

◆ single family certificate of occupancy: $150, a $50 increase;

◆ $20 across the board increases in swim team memberships: one swimmer, $80; two, $100; three, $130 and four, $140;

◆ a $25 increase in platform tennis seasonal memberships: resident, $100; non-resident, $150;

◆ figure skating lessons and ice hockey clinics: $20, a $5 hike;

◆ sunfish storage: $150, a $50 increase and ◆ bag of ice at Neff Park: $2, a 25 cent increase.

Dad instrumental in arrest

records matched one found on a plastic container from which money was stolen at a house on Cloverly, Rosati said.

"(His) shoes were the same brand as sole impressions left at the Cloverly home invasion," added Officer Matthew Hurner.

Vandenbroeck also was known by Farms police for giving a witness statement the morning of May 21 about a break-in on lower Lakeshore.

Police are certain the statement, describing two men running from the scene, was a sham to mask Vandenbroeck entering the house and tripping a burglar alarm.

"His witness statement puts him on the scene,"

Rosati said.

Officers traced an indirect track to the house in Eastpointe.

First, they went to a residence on Bedford in Grosse Pointe Park that Vandenbroeck listed on his witness statement.

"He moved out a month ago," Rosati said.

They went to a rental property in St. Clair Shores.

"It's rented to someone else," Rosati said.

The trail warmed at his father's house on Vernier in Grosse Pointe Shores.

"We're looking for your son," Rosati said he told the father. "I've got fingerprints and witnesses."

"While checking his father's residence, information was learned of (the suspect's) present address in Eastpointe," said Lt. Andrew Rogers.

Officers pursued the lead and found Vandenbroeck doing yardwork.

"Drop the rake," Rosati reportedly told him.

A patdown turned up a gold coin necklace stolen that day from a house on McKinley, police said.

Officers also said Vandenbroeck's pockets contained a crack pipe and three rocks of crack cocaine.

"I'm glad we were able to catch him," said Dan Jensen, director of public safety. "It took longer than expected. His dad was instrumental in helping us because he wanted to help his son."

During booking at headquarters, officers said they found three credit cards in the suspect's pocket.

"(He) claimed he picked them up off the ground," Hurner said.

"He admits to four home invasions," Rosati said.

The admission doesn't account for a break-in on Stephens during the morning of May 22.

"I think he was so juiced up on crack he doesn't remember the one on Stephens," Rosati said.

"While writing the report, (the McKinley homeowner) called 911 to report a home invasion," said Hurner.

The homeowner identified the necklace and credit cards, he added.

Vandenbroeck has a criminal history, police said.

"He has a couple of priors — a stolen vehicle and home invasion in St. Clair Shores," Rosati said.

Four North students blend science and art

Astronomical Image Processing teacher Ardis Herrold watches as juniors Chris Konen, foreground, and Zach Kaiser use GIMP to add detail to their respective images.

Robert Berta, right, of the Warren Astronomical Society, assists Grosse Pointe North High School freshman, Richard Green, in enhancing the detail of Green's astronomical image.

By A.J. Hakim
 Staff Writer

An independent studies course blending astronomy and photography, science and art, has four Grosse Pointe North High School students experimenting in instrumentation and resources part Stephen Hawking, part David Malin.

The semester-long course, Astronomical Image Processing, is an astrophotography study, in which students take pictures of astronomical images through a telescope, or use raw images archived from the Internet, and, with computer processing software, transform their raw images into colorful works of art.

It started at the suggestion of teacher Ardis Herrold.

"What I've been wanting to do for a long time is learn how to take astrophotos," Herrold said. "I said, 'Let's do this. We're going to learn together, just going to be totally collaborative on this' ... It just started with the fact, I knew all four of them and they all had a tutorial, period five, this semester that they could all get together, be in the class together.

"It was serendipity. If they had four different hours, this would've never worked."

Juniors Alison Alexsy, Chris Konen and Zach Kaiser, and freshman Richard Green, all of Herrold's afterschool Radio Astronomy Team, are the four students who meet daily and work collaboratively, often-times alongside local astrophotographers such as Robert Berta, of the Warren Astronomical Society.

In their studies, they use a diverse mix of telescopes and cameras, computers and imaging software (Maxim DL, Adobe Photoshop, SalsaJ, GIMP and others).

With Herrold, they often perform field studies, congregating at night for observation sessions in an attempt to capture images of nebulae, galaxies and comets, the sun, moon, stars and planets. Otherwise, they scan the Internet for raw image data, a collection of original, filtered images sparse on detail, yet full of electronic noise. It's the students' task, through stacking and other Photoshop-like manipulations and enhancements, to eliminate the noise and strengthen detail.

"When you take the pictures through your telescope, you end up with all the data," Berta said. "There's multiple files and you take all these files that are components of the final picture you end up with. But they're in different filters, etc, etc.

"So what you have to do is take those pictures and stack them, which is to align them, to line up all the stars in the same place. You adjust the color on them. Using different processing steps you can bring out certain details on them."

As students make progress with the imaging process, they log details of their accomplishments, discussions and observations into a daily journal via the class wiki-space, also used as an online discussion tool during the times they aren't together in class or at observing sessions and to maintain the shared, collaborative learning experience of the course.

"I get a lot out of this class," Green said. "We do observing nights and I've learned how to find all new things in the sky I didn't know before. That's really cool. I've learned a lot about astronomy just through this class alone."

Added Kaiser: "I've really enjoyed it. I own a telescope and am big into astronomy."

Academy announces scholarship recipients

The Grosse Pointe Academy announced seven recipients of its special scholarships awarded to students for the 2012-2013 academic year.

Katherine Fruehauf, daughter of Jenny and Ken Fruehauf of Grosse Pointe Farms, was the recipient of the Thelma Fox Murray Scholarship Award, given annually to an upcoming eighth-grade girl who demonstrates integrity, humility and sense of humor, athletic achievement and academic excellence.

Lyen-ai Jones, daughter of Lisa and Lowell Jones of Detroit, received the Brett Bentley Crawford Creative Writing Award, given to a middle school girl who possesses a skill and passion for creative writing and exhibits a spirited personality. The award was established to honor the memory of Brett Bentley Crawford, Academy '97.

Howard Crane, son of Cathy and Robert Crane of Grosse Pointe Park, was awarded the Nowosielski-Lutz Scholarship Award, given to an upcoming eighth-grade boy who excels academically and athletically and is an all-around good person.

Henry Wujek, son of Abigail and John Wujek of Grosse Pointe Farms, is the recipient of the E. Maybelle Spicer, Clark Spicer and William Trader, Jean K. Kurtz Trader Scholarship Award based on his success in academics and athletics and a strong desire to excel. As such, the award is reflective of the Academy's core values and mission.

Samantha Savage, daughter of Fay and Paul Savage of Grosse Pointe Farms, is the recipient of the Sixth Grade Merit Scholarship, awarded to a rising sixth grader who has demonstrated academic excellence and exhibits the qualities of trustworthiness, respect, responsibility, fairness, caring and citizenship.

Alexandra Larrea, daughter of Vesna and Giovanni Larrea of Detroit, received the Eleanor Wagner Brock Scholarship, awarded to a girl moving from the Academy's kindergarten to first grade. This award is voted on by the early school faculty and given to an inquisitive, friendly girl well liked by her classmates and teachers.

And Shaun Gupte, son of Laura and Anand Gupte of Grosse Pointe Park, received the Camille DeMario Academic Scholarship, awarded to a student moving from the Academy's kindergarten to first grade.

The early and lower school principal and first-grade teachers selected Gupte based on academic promise and a strong desire to excel.

Monteith raises awareness to Autism

By A.J. Hakim
Staff Writer

The students, teachers and staff at Monteith Elementary School lit up blue in April in support of Autism Awareness Month, heightening awareness to the spectrum disorder through daily announcements and activities.

Activities ranged from ASD students conducting the pledge of allegiance and daily school announcements, to staff "Light it up Blue" Fridays, to fifth graders designing posters promoting tolerance and awareness of the disorder, to students writing research projects and presentations about the disorder.

They also included an Autism bracelet sale — in which students sold about 300 bracelets, the sales benefitting Michael Caruso, a Grosse Pointe Throughout April, Monteith Elementary School students, teachers and staff lit up blue in support of Autism Awareness Month.

North High School student pursuing his Eagle Scout service badge by organizing a peace garden at Monteith — and a newly instituted peer-to-peer, links-type program.

"Just as a whole school the climate toward our students, I would say is 99 percent acceptance," said Sheila Doss, a Monteith ASD special education teacher. "The kids have been wonderful, the teachers are all very accepting. So far, the links program hasn't been going on very long, but it's already starting to generalize to other times than just the recesses or lunchtimes, starting to help the kids out even when it's not those times. It's like a family thing."

The peer-to-peer program matches a general education student with an autistic one in socially interactive situations. They get together during recesses or lunchtimes or specials classes and play and talk and act as any kids would.

"We're trying to have them talk to our children like they would anyone else on the playground," Doss said. "And to not be afraid if there's going to be an outburst. So they can have understanding and empathy and to have our kids have better understanding as well."

"So it's teaching our students how to interact socially rather than just in a classroom, how to deal with peer difficulties and conflicts between friends and things like that. It's really guided by us."

And though April and all its encompassing activities have since past, Doss, Carol Houlihan, Beth Proenca, Katie Scallen and Kim VanGorder, and other ASD teachers and classroom assistants across the district, continue in teaching students and staff alike about acceptance and support. About ultimately seeing the students with special needs as equals rather than singling them out.

"We want them to blend in more than to single them out," Doss said. "Help teach the skills necessary to our students, to help them participate appropriately and independently. To be a contributing member to society and to also teach the acceptance and awareness to the people of our building."

Star crowning

Our Lady Star of the Sea Catholic School pastor Rev. Gary Smetanka led a procession of more than 300 students, teachers and parents from the school to the front lawn of Peter Cracchiolo's home for the crowning of the Blessed Virgin Mary statue. Maria Ciaravino performed the honor, symbolic of Mary as the first Christian and the first to say, "yes," to Jesus.

Second graders wore their First Communion clothes and eighth graders the clothes from their Confirmation.

As the all-school Mass ended Monday, May 7, St. Paul on the Lake Catholic School students gathered outside the church grotto for a crowning celebration in honor of the Virgin Mary.

Traditionally, the Catholic Church proclaims May as the "Blessed Virgin Mary's month," and celebrate throughout the month with special events such as crownings and public recitations of the rosary.

Liggett announces Shammas scholars

University Liggett School's Stefanie Roche, of Grosse Pointe Woods, is the 2012-2013 recipient of the Nicole Marie Shammas Memorial Scholarship. She enters sixth grade come fall.

A singer who has performed locally at Andiamo's and in the Michigan Opera Theater children's chorus, Roche's interest in the arts and academic promise earned her the $1,000 scholarship, part of Liggett's endowment program and made possible by a gift from the Shammas family, of Grosse Pointe Woods, and other friends of Nicole Shammas, who died while a student at Liggett's middle school. This is the scholarship's 26th anniversary.

"We are very grateful for the generosity of the Shammas family over the years," said Kelley Hamilton, Liggett's director of development. "The scholarship they created in memory of their daughter, Nicole, has honored many young men and women at Liggett's middle school and, in so doing, perpetuates Nicole's memory."

Recipients receive the scholarship for three years of middle school. Current beneficiaries include: sixth grader Lauren Meredith, seventh grader Zahra Kahn and eighth grader Madison Jerome.

Teacher honored

University Liggett School's memorable, award-producing school year continues, with the department of creative and performing arts picking up where the athletics teams left off.

Following state championship campaigns in baseball last summer and boy's ice hockey in winter, and a championship runner-up in girl's basketball, also in winter, the Liggett Players were recently selected to perform their spring musical, "Chicago," at the 2012 International Thespian Festival at the University of Nebraska in Lincoln, Neb.

Each year the festival features four stages showcasing top high school performances from around the country, all the while providing further learning opportunities for students and educators in workshops and master classes, student leadership programs, college admission and Thespian scholarships auditions and student playwriting programs. The Liggett Players perform Saturday, June 30, on the festival's main stage.

"It is a really big deal for a small school like ours to have this opportunity," director Phillip Moss said. "There are 10 performance spots at festival and most schools are three and four times our size, so this says a great deal about the quality of our program."

Additionally, Moss was selected recipient of the Michigan Youth Arts Festival's Touchstone Award in theater education and honored Friday, May 11, during the festival at Western Michigan University. Established to recognize outstanding achievements of educators in creative writing, dance, media arts, music, theater and visual arts, the award is in its 50th year.

Before leaving for the international festival, the Liggett Players will host a benefit performance in June.

Gloria Breckenridge

Grosse Pointe Woods resident Gloria Breckenridge, died peacefully Wednesday, May 23, 2012. She was predeceased by her husband, John Breckenridge, to whom she was married 65 years.

Born May 15, 1927, to Thelma and Norman Ruthenbeck, she was a stay-at-home mother who dedicated herself to her husband and family. She was a proud and loving grandmother and great-grandmother.

Her family said Mrs. Breckenridge will be remembered for her laughter, sense of humor and the amazing meals she shared. She had a lifelong passion for good food and the pleasures of cooking. Those lucky enough to be invited over enjoyed a culinary delight.

Mrs. Breckenridge is survived by her children, Craig Breckenridge and his wife, Laurie; Robb Breckenridge and his wife, Cher; Laurie Hanna and her husband, Cameell; and Heather Brush and her husband, Brad. She will be missed by her grandchildren, Buffy Leigh VanDyke (Derek), Keeley Stempin (Kevin), Robin Mancinelli (Michael), Megan Faber (Bill), Katy Wereley (Steve), Cameell Hanna, Emily Roorda, Kyle Breckenridge, Carly Hanna and Haley Brush and great-grandchildren, Abby, Kellan, Luke, Finlay, Ella, Gabriel, Savanna and Liam.

In addition to her husband, she was predeceased by her brother, Calvin Ruthenbeck.

A memorial service will be held at 11 a.m. Friday, June 22, at First English Lutheran Church, 800 Vernier Road, Grosse Pointe Woods. A luncheon will immediately follow at the church.

Donations may be made to First English Lutheran Church Building Fund, 800 Vernier Road, Grosse Pointe Woods, MI 48236.

Paul Joseph Chauvin

Paul Joseph Chauvin, 72, passed away peacefully Sunday, May 27, 2012, surrounded by "his girls."

He is survived by the love-of-his-life, high school sweetheart, best friend, business partner and wife of 47 years, Judith Barbara Chauvin. He also is survived by his daughters, Elizabeth Anne Chauvin (fiancé David Sattler) and Amy Michele Johnston (David), who together with his wife were "his girls."

He also is survived by his grandchildren, Brandon Paul Johnston, Alyssa Kay Johnston and Jacob Donald Johnston; sisters, Pam (Michael) Fenchak, Jeri Chapper and Suzanne Bauman and many nieces and nephews.

Mr. Chauvin was born Sept. 28, 1939, in Woodstee, Ontario, Canada, the only son of H.E. Chauvin and Catherine (nee Murphy) Chauvin, who predeceased him. He was known to have kept his three sisters "on their toes" with his pranks and fun loving nature.

Mr. Chauvin had a passion for boating and could be found almost every weekend on the waters of Lake St. Clair. He enjoyed traveling and frequented Harbor Springs and Orlando, Fla.

His family said he had an uncanny gift of making everyone feel special through his love and support. He was a "father-figure," best friend, confidant and advisor to many and will be missed greatly.

Visitation will be held from 4 to 9 p.m. Thursday, May 31, at Chas. Verheyden Funeral Home, 16300 Mack, Grosse Pointe Park. A prayer service will be at 7 p.m.

A funeral Mass will be held at 10 a.m. Friday, June 1, at Our Lady Star of the Sea Catholic Church, 467 Fairford, Grosse Pointe Woods.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to IHM Sisters, 610 West Elm Ave., Monroe, MI 48162.

Bettie J. DeMars

Bettie J. DeMars, 79, died peacefully Monday, May 21, 2012, at Canterbury on the Lake in Waterford.

She was born Aug. 22, 1932, in Mayfield, Ky., to Burl and Nova Fields. As a young child her family moved to Detroit and she graduated from Southeastern High School in 1948 at age 16.

Mrs. DeMars was employed as an executive secretary for many years beginning at Michigan Bell Telephone Company and later Federal Mogul, Bower Roller Bearing, Chuck Muer Corp. and UTX Corp. She worked hard her entire life to raise four children as a single parent with the help of her loving mother. Her family said she loved them deeply and instilled a strong work ethic in their characters. The pursuit of higher education was a paramount requirement in her home.

She enjoyed golf, dancing, boating, traveling and volunteering.

Mrs. DeMars is survived by her children, Gregory J. DeMars

She was predeceased by her brother, Ray Fields.

A funeral Mass was celebrated May 24 at St. Isaac Jogues Catholic Church in St. Clair Shores.

Express condolences or share a memory at ahpeters.com.

Elizabeth Opie

Elizabeth Opie, nee Blake, 63, died Sunday, May 20, 2012.

She was the beloved wife of John "Jack" Blake; loving mother of Anne Peoples (Tim Jarzembowski), Renee Howell (Randy) and Julia (Max Miller) and dearest grandmother of Shannon Howell. She also is survived by her loving Blake family.

A funeral Mass will be celebrated at 11 a.m. Thursday, May 31, at St. Ambrose Catholic Church, 15020 Hampton Street, Grosse Pointe Park, 48230. Visitation begins at 10:30 a.m. at the church.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to National Alliance on Mental Illness at nami.org.

Thomas Edward Kilbride

Former Grosse Pointe resident Thomas Edward Kilbride, 62, died Sunday, April 8, 2012, at Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak after a short illness. He most recently lived in Royal Oak.

Mr. Kilbride was a 1967 graduate of Grosse Pointe High School and a 1981 graduate of Lawrence Technological University, where he earned a degree in architecture. He served in the U.S. Army from 1971 to 1973.

Mr. Kilbride's career was in industrial engineering and design. He worked on projects for the automotive industry throughout the United

Mr. Kilbride is survived by his mother, Letty Kilbride (nee Hanson) of Broadview Heights, Ohio; brothers, Bernard III (Margaret), Ronald (Catherine), Frederick and Jeffrey and sisters, Cynthia Lowrey and Cathleen Hach (Robert).

He was predeceased by his father, Bernard L. Kilbride Jr. and sister, Christine Kilbride.

A memorial service will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday, June 2, at St. Joan of Arc Catholic Church, 21620 Mack Ave., St. Clair Shores. Family will greet attendees beginning at 9:30 a.m. at the church. Interment, with military honors, will be in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery, Southfield.

Express condolences or share a memory at verheyden.org.

Mary E. Taylor

Mary E. Taylor, 89, passed away Sunday, May 20, 2012, at Beaumont Hospital, Grosse Pointe, surrounded by her loving daughters.

She was born Aug. 7, 1922, in Omaha, Neb., to Gertrude and James O'Neil. She attended University of Nebraska where she never missed a Cornhuskers football game. It was there she met her husband, Douglas Taylor. They later moved to Grosse Pointe Park in 1957.

Mrs. Taylor worked for the Grosse Pointe Public School System for 20 years. Her family said she was an incredibly caring person who had a bewitching way of making those she came in contact with immediately fall in love with her.

Mrs. Taylor was predeceased by her loving husband, Douglas T. Taylor; parents, Gertrude and James O'Neil and her brother, Jim O'Neil.

She is survived by her children, Stephen Taylor (Julie), David Taylor (Cindy), Sharon Bartalucci (Ronald) and Patricia Brodhead (Brian); grandchildren, Hilary, Colleen, Julie, Stephen, Anne, Amy and Catherine and 14 great-grandchildren.

A private family memorial will be held at a later date.

William Urban Reidt

William Urban Reidt, 90, a longtime Grosse Pointe Farms resident and physician, died Sunday, May 20, 2012.

Dr. Reidt was a 5th generation physician who was board certified in internal medicine and pulmonary disease. He enjoyed a long career practicing medicine until he was 80 years old and was primarily affiliated with Bon Secours Hospital.

Dr. Reidt is survived by his sister, Virginia Smith; his wife, Phyllis and his four children, Diana, Paul, Laura, and Linda.

Janet Page Fuger

July 29, 1911 - March 20, 2012

A memorial Mass will be held at 10 a.m. Friday, June 8, at St. Paul on the Lake Catholic Church, 157 Lakeshore, Grosse Pointe Farms, for longtime Grosse Pointe Farms resident Janet Page Fuger.

Finding the right caterer is key to party and event success

By Oron Raviv

Finding a caterer for any event is an extremely important decision.

Corporate, or private, large or small, choosing the right caterer is imperative.

There are many catering companies in the market so you need to do your homework and choose carefully in order to guarantee the success of your event.

This article gives you a step-by-step guide to choosing the right caterer along with a useful checklist.

Preparation

Before seeking a caterer you need to think about your catering needs and gather together information that a caterer will need to know:

- What is the time and date of the event?
- Do you have a budget in mind?
- Where is your event being held? (Or do you require a venue?)
- Is there a kitchen at the venue?
- How many guests are you expecting?
- Do any of your guests have special dietary requirements?

■ Does your event have a theme?

■ Do you desire a particular style of cuisine?

■ Do you require decorations, flowers, table settings?

■ Do you need to hire equipment? (Tables, chairs, linen, crockery etc)

Once you have answered these questions you will have a good idea of the services you will require.

A great caterer will offer a complete service to save your running around organizing things separately. Having everything organized by one company will help your event run smoothly and cut down your workload.

Research

After you've completed your preparation it's time for some research. First you need to find some catering companies. The best way to do this is to seek recommendations. You can ask friends, family and colleagues. Or use a search engine for a list of professional caterers in the area your event will take place.

Now select a short-list of caterers according to the needs you identified in your preparation. For example you may have identified that your venue doesn't have a kitchen, or that your guests have particular dietary concerns or that you need to hire equipment.

Once you have a list of a few caterers contact them with a list of questions to make sure they are reputable and are able to handle your particular requirements.

What to look for

First and foremost, does the Caterer offer a range of menu options including the particular cuisine you are after? Most good Caterers will have detailed menu listings on their website. Failing this, you can contact the company and have this information emailed or faxed to you.

What type of function are you organizing? Is it private or corporate, small or large, casual or formal, inside or outside? Whatever the case, ensure that your chosen Caterer can handle the type of function you are planning.

Make sure the Caterer is available on the day that you desire. (With no weekend or public holiday loading.) Also check that the Caterer has a 24 hour service and is contactable 7 days a week. Many events are held after hours or on weekends so it will be a great disadvantage and frustration if you can't contact your caterer in the evening or on a Sunday morning when you suddenly think of something you need to discuss! And you certainly don't want to pay more for your catering just because your event isn't in business hours.

Does the Caterer provide their own waiting staff? Are the staff experienced in the style of event you are planning? Will they be professionally attired? Will the staff take care of everything from delivery and preparation to waiting and cleaning up afterwards?

According to the needs that you identified in your preparation, does the caterer provide the equipment that you require? This may include tables, chairs, linen, crockery, glassware, cutlery or even ovens and a bar serving area. Make sure they are able to provide what you need so that you don't have to do additional running around after event hire. Also ensure that their equipment is new and in excellent condition. You don't want tatty linen and tarnished silverware to take the sparkle out of your event.

Perhaps you require a venue for your event? If so, a caterer who can source a venue for you will save you time and have an established relationship with the venue. This will streamline the whole catering experience and make your life a lot easier!

PARTY:

Know what to look for when it comes to caterers

If you plan a theme for your event, can the caterer help you to achieve your desired atmosphere, from cuisine choices to decorations and table settings?

Where will the food be prepared? If your venue doesn't have a kitchen the Caterer will need to prepare and heat it at their premises and then deliver it ready to serve.

Can the caterer organize beverages? There's a lot involved in the logistics if you need to do this yourself.

First you need to physically purchase the drinks and then transport them to your venue. Then you need somewhere to store them and a method of keeping them cool. On the day you will need staff to serve the drinks along with a bar serving area, plus glasses etc.

So if the caterer doesn't handle anything to do with the drinks you've got a lot more tasks to add to your to-do-list.

For peace of mind, check that the company is a member of any relevant Catering Associations, or you can also ask for references. A good Caterer should have nothing to hide.

Ensure that the catering company you are considering has an actual premises and isn't just an online middleman. (In the case of the latter, you may have problems with food quality, accountability and find it difficult to contact the company.)

What payment methods does the company accept? Make sure they accept all forms, including credit card, and that there is no additional charge for using a credit. Be very wary of companies that will only accept cash. You have very little bargaining power should things go wrong.

Does the caterer require a deposit? Almost all will, however the amount will vary considerably. The lower the deposit the better.

What is their cancellation policy? Can you get all your money back should the event be cancelled?

Do they have a postponement policy? Hopefully the caterer can simply change the date. However some will charge a fee for this.

1. Menu options - Do they have what you are looking for? (Including any special dietary requirements?)

2. Can they cater for your particular function? (Corporate, private etc)

3. Are they available on the day of your planned event?

4. Are they contactable 24/7?

5. Can they provide staff? Are the staff professional and experienced in your style of event?

6. Can they organise equipment hire? Is the equipment in good condition?

7. Can they arrange a venue for you if necessary?

8. If required, can they assist you with theming and decorations?

9. Are they flexible regarding food preparation if you have limited kitchen facilities?

10. Can the Caterer organise beverages?

11. Are they actual Caterers, rather than a bakery or cafe?

12. Are they a member of the Restaurant & Catering association?

13. Ask for references.

14. Does the Caterer have actual premises, not just an online reseller?

15. Do they accept all payment methods including credit?

16. Do they have a credit surcharge?

17. What deposit do they require?

18. What is their cancellation policy?

19. What is their postponement policy?

Get a Quote

Once you've gone through the above checklist and identified a reputable Caterer that can fulfill your requirements, it's time to get into the specifics and get a quote.

Good service Caterers generally have a well designed online form to submit for a quick quote which can make things easier and quicker for you. However you may prefer personal service so it's important that the Caterer you select is easy to contact.

In seeking a quote, it's helpful for the Caterer if you can advise a budget. That way, they can help you to design a menu based around what you can spend, how many guests you are expecting and what other services you require (such as staff and equipment for example.) A good Caterer has a wealth of knowledge and will most likely have some inspired suggestions that may not have occurred to you simply from perusing their menu selections.

Once you settle on the food, staff, equipment, drinks, venue or anything else you require, ask for a detailed quote.

Ensure that the quote covers everything including tax and delivery so that you're not stung with hidden extras once you've committed to the Caterer.

Place your order!

Now you've conducted your initial preparation and research along with obtaining a detailed quote. If you're happy with the price and you've been through everything on the above checklist, it's time to place your order! And you can do so with the confidence of having chosen the right Caterer for the job!

Early summer gardening tips

By Melinda Myers
Special Writer

Get out the shovel and trowels — it's unofficially summer.

Spend a bit more time getting the garden off to a good start. Proper planting and post planting care means less maintenance, fewer pests and more produce and beautiful flowers in the landscape.

Start by selecting healthy plants free of insect and disease problems. Look for compact plants with sturdy stems. The leaves should be deep green or the proper color for that variety. Avoid plants that show signs of stress such as spots, brown leaf edges and holes.

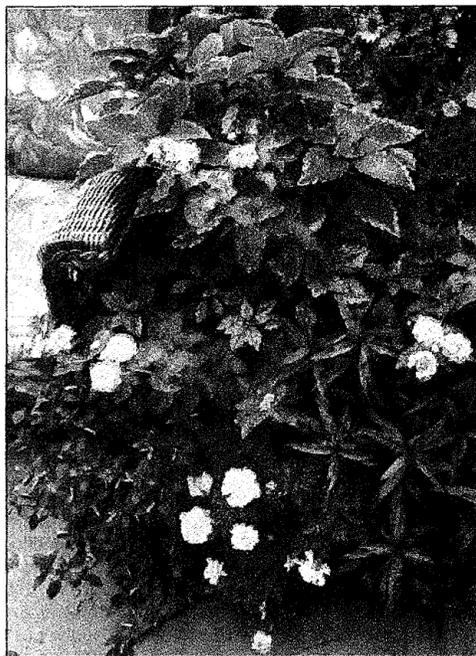

Purchase perennials with multiple stems. Keep the plants properly watered before and after planting. Check transplants daily and twice a day when temperatures rise, watering as needed.

Apply a plant strengthener such as JAZ Spray to protect potted plants from drying out until they are planted. Or apply to transplants to get plants off to a vigorous start.

Prepare the soil before planting. Building a good foundation for the garden will pay off this season and beyond. Dig one or two inches of compost, peat moss or other organic matter and a low nitrogen slow release fertilizer into the top 12 inches of the soil.

Slide the plants out of their containers to avoid damaging their roots and stems. If they resist, gently squeeze small flexible pots or roll larger pots on their sides over the ground. This loosens the roots, releasing the pot from the container.

Gently tease any roots that encircle — girdle — the root ball. Or use a knife to slice through girdling roots or the tangled mass that often develops at the bottom of the pot. This encourages the roots to explore the soil beyond the planting hole. And a bigger root system means healthier plants.

Set the plants at the same depth they were growing in their container. Tall leggy tomatoes are the exception. These can be planted deeper or in shallow trenches to encourage roots to form along the buried stem. Cover the roots with soil and gently tamp to insure good root to soil contact. Water new plantings thoroughly; moistening the rootball, planting hole and beyond. Spread a thin layer of shredded leaves, evergreen needles or other mulch over the soil to conserve moisture, suppress weeds and keep the roots cooler when hot weather arrives.

Check new plantings every other day and water thoroughly and often enough to keep the soil slightly moist. Gradually reduce the frequency until the plants only need to be watered once a week in heavy clay soils and twice a week in sandy soils. Water more often in hot weather.

Get out and start planting to make this the best gardening season yet.

Garden weeds of beauty and woe

Michigan's natural wildflowers offer a dramatic display in bloom. But some of the plants cared for in the garden may actually be harmful to the state's environment.

"Some popular garden varieties of plants may actually be considered invasive weeds," said Alan Tasker, National Noxious Weed Program manager for the USDA Animal & Plant Health Inspection Service. "They're considered invasive because they can take root in a particular area and spread unchecked, possibly choking out other plant species natural to that area."

According to the Weed Science Society of America, invasive plants spew copious amounts of seeds that travel by wind or animals, eventually settling in other areas, miles away.

Plants can be star performers in one region, yet pose a serious threat if introduced into another.

According to the Michigan State University Extension service, some plant species noted as invasive or having invasive tendencies in Michigan are garlic mustard and purple loosestrife. Others are emerging threats, such as black jetbead, swallow-wort, water hyacinth, baby's breath, yellow and white sweet clover, wild parsnip, narrow-leaved cat-tail and European frog-bit.

A few, such as Hydrilla and mile-a-minute, are not yet in the state but nearby and considered particularly destructive.

For more information, visit the Weed Science Society of America, wsa.net; Michigan Department of Natural Resources, michigan.gov; and

Michigan wildflowers

This "greening" season of Michigan, the blue flag iris — the wild variety of the garden iris — can be found in the wet areas alongside golden cow slips or marsh marigolds.

Some of the native woodland wildflowers are catnip, blue Hepatica, white Dutchman's breeches and yellow trout lily. Look for the white flowers in shrubs such as the juneberry and flowering dogwood.

Early detection and eradication of the invasive species is critical in preventing further damage to Michigan's natural areas.

Toxic substances at home

Q Are there health or environmental concerns with LED lightbulbs, which may soon replace compact fluorescents as the green-friendly light bulb of choice?

— Mari-Louise, via e-mail

A Light emitting diode lightbulbs use significantly less energy than compact fluorescents, and do not contain mercury.

They are becoming economically competitive with CFLs at the point of purchase while yielding superior quality lighting and energy-bill savings.

But LEDs do have a dark side. A study published in late 2010 in the journal, Environmental Science and Technology, found LEDs contain lead, arsenic and a dozen other potentially dangerous substances.

"LEDs are touted as the next generation of lighting," said Oladele Ogunseitan, one of the researchers behind the study and chair of the University of California Irvine's Department of Population Health & Disease Prevention. "But as we try to find better products that do not de-

Motorcycle Helmet Law

A new law went into effect in April allowing persons to operate a motorcycle without a helmet, provided that certain requirements are met.

One requirement is the motorcycle operator or passenger must be 21 years of age or older. The operator must also have had a motorcycle endorsement on his or her operator's or chauffeur's license for at least two years or completed and passed an approved motorcycle safety course.

In addition, the operator of the motorcycle or the rider must have medical insurance coverage through his automobile insurance policy of at least $20,000 in the event of an accident.

If the rider has his own insurance coverage, the motorcycle operator is only required to obtain coverage for himself. Otherwise, coverage for the rider must be provided by the operator.

Violation of the helmet law is a civil infraction and does not result in any points placed on a person's driving record. Critics of the law believe the $20,000 coverage for medical expenses is inadequate to pay for most injuries sustained in a motorcycle accident. And the law will be difficult to enforce because the police will not be able to stop a motorcyclist, unless there is an underlying traffic offense.

The law does not require motorcyclists to carry proof they have the extra medical coverage or have met the training or experience requirements.

Cleaning windows inside and out

Q I regularly clean the windows on the inside of my house, but as a new homeowner, I've never cleaned the outside windows. The first floor shouldn't be a problem, but what about the upstairs windows? Also, is there a faster way to clean than with paper towels and spray cleaner?

— Brad, via e-mail
A. "Fast" depends on just how grungy the outside of the windows are, but I can get you to "effective and efficient" which will make the task of cleaning windows easier.

Spring and fall are great times to clean the outside windows, if you don't do them more frequently. These are typically the seasons when screens are replaced with storm windows and vice versa, and while dual screen-storm windows are more common, it's still a good guideline to follow.

First, inspect all the windows to make sure they're undamaged, including storm windows and screens. Next, remove screens or storm windows and place them on a clean, sunny spot of the driveway or walkway to be cleaned.

Take a look at the windows from the inside. Newer double-hung windows can be unhooked and either lifted out of the frame or swung inward to access the outside of the glass. Older windows are sometimes held in the frame by a thin strip of wood, which should be carefully removed. Then the bottom sash can be lifted out of the frame. Being able to swing out or remove the bottom sash makes cleaning the outside of upstairs windows easier and much safer than climbing a ladder to reach them.

To clean windows, brush away loose dust and debris first. Fill a bucket with warm water and mild detergent. Place a waterproof liner underneath the window to protect the floor and walls. Wear rubber gloves to keep your hands clean. Dunk a clean sponge in the soapy water and wash the windowpanes, repeating as necessary to remove built-up dirt. Once the window is clean, grab a lint-free cloth, a chamois or newspaper. Dry the glass completely; for the final pass, wipe back and forth, then straight up and down, to minimize streaks.

Clean the screens and storm windows that were set aside, brushing away cobwebs and loose dirt before using soap and water. Close the windows and reset either the screens or storm windows, ready for the next season.

plete energy resources or contribute to global warming, we have to be vigilant (about) toxicity hazards...."

Ogunseitian and other UC-Irvine researchers tested several types of LEDs, including those used as Christmas lights, traffic lights, car headlights and brake lights. They found some of the worst offenders were low-intensity red LEDs, found to contain up to eight times the amount of lead — a known neurotoxin, allowed by California state law.

According to researchers, low-intensity red LEDs "exhibit significant cancer and non-cancer potentials, due to the high content of arsenic and lead."

Concurrently, white LEDs contain the least lead, but still harbor large amounts of nickel, another heavy metal that causes allergic reactions in as many as one in five people upon exposure. And the copper found in some LEDs can pose an environmental threat if it accumulates in rivers and lakes, where it can poison aquatic life.

Ogunseitian adds that while breaking open a single LED and breathing in its fumes wouldn't likely cause cancer, our bodies hardly need more toxic substances floating around, as the combined effects could be a disease trigger. If any LEDs break in the house, Ogunseitian recommends sweeping them up while wearing gloves and a mask, and disposing the debris and broom as hazardous waste.

LEDs are currently not considered toxic by law and can be disposed of in regular landfills.

According to Ogunseitian, LED makers could easily reduce the concentrations of heavy metals in their products or redesign them with safer materials. "Every day we don't have a law that says you cannot replace an unsafe product with another unsafe product, we're putting people's lives at risk," he concludes. "And it's a preventable risk."

Researchers are working on newer lighting technologies that could render today's green choices obsolete.

Q. What is "pesticide drift" and should I be worried about it?

— Nicole Kehoe

A. Pesticide drift — drifting spray and dust from pesticide applications — is an insidious threat to human health as well as to wildlife and ecosystems in and around agricultural and residential areas where harsh chemicals are used to ward off pests.

If you live near a frequently manicured landscape, pesticide drift could be an issue for you and your family. Children are especially vulnerable to these airborne pesticides, given their young bodies are still growing and developing.

"When pesticides are sprayed they can drift and settle on playgrounds, porches, laundry, toys, pools, furniture and more," reports the non-profit Pesticide Action Network. "Some of the most toxic pesticides in use in the United States today are also the most drift prone, and yet this common route of exposure remains largely invisible."

Any spray pesticides manufactured or labeled as of January 2012 and for sale in the U.S. must display the warning on its label: "Do not apply this product in a manner that results in spray — or dust — drift that harms people or any other non-target organisms or sites."

The EPA is also conducting and monitoring new research on the science of pesticide drift to better understand how it works so regulations can be tailored to mitigate its impact. The agency's Drift Reduction Technology Project is working with three leading universities to test a wide range of nozzles, hoods, shields and other aids to minimize drift during ground and aerial applications of pesticides.

Even though spray pesticides are now labeled and 28 states have drift spray regulations on their books, pesticide drift continues to be a problem wherever crops are grown. If pesticide drift is an issue where you live, work, study or play, contact PAN. The group can send out a "Drift Catcher" — a device that collects air samples which can then be analyzed for pesticides. "It enables farmworkers and community members to document and draw attention to otherwise invisible chemical exposures," says PAN.

For more information, visit PAN, panna.org; and the EPA, epa.gov/pesticides/factsheets/spray-drift.htm.

How affordable is housing in the current market?

According to National Association of REALTORS® latest metro price report, affordability conditions are improving in housing markets across the country. This trend is bolstered by softer existing-home prices coupled with record low interest rates.

Median prices for existing single-family homes softened in 118 metro areas and as a result reflected greater home sales activity at lower price points. Sales rose strongly in the lower price ranges from one year ago.

Nationally, the median existing single family home price was $163,500 in the fourth quarter of 2011, down 4.2 percent from $170,600 in the fourth quarter of 2010. NAR's national Housing Affordability index rose to a record high 184.5 in 2011. The higher the index, the greater the household purchasing power.

Talk to your local Grosse Pointe REALTOR® about the real costs of homeownership for buyers in today's market. How much can a buyer actually save with today's prices and interest rates compared to five years ago? What about credit availability? What do buyers need to do to be approved for a mortgage, and how has that changed from years' past?

Guild dinner June 13

The Guild of St. John Hospital and Medical Center will continue its fundraising efforts with its upcoming 52nd Annual Guild Dinner.

The event will be held on June 13, at Penna's in Sterling Heights and will spotlight the unique entertainment of comedian Kathleen Madigan.

Funds raised will benefit St. John Hospital and Medical Center. The proceeds are designated toward the Elaine E. Blatt Endoscopy Department.

The Guild also announced the individuals who will be honored at the event. They are: Doug Blatt of Grosse Pointe Farms who will receive the Philanthropic Services Award; Michael F. Prysak, MD of Grosse Pointe Farms, who will be awarded with the Physician of the Year Award; Leo Kalyvas, Jr. of Grosse Pointe Woods who will be honored with the Lifetime Achievement Award; and Sharon K. Burke, of Grosse Pointe Farms who will receive the Sr. Verence McQuade Distinguished Service Award.

Daniel Roma of Grosse Pointe is chairman of this year's Guild Dinner, and David Kesner of Grosse Pointe Woods is vice chairman.

Doors open to the gala affair at 6 p.m. for cocktails and hors d'oeuvres, followed by a multi-course dinner at 7:30 p.m.

Tickets may be purchased by contacting Kathy Taranto at (313) 343-3674. Sponsorship, patron and advertising opportunities are also available. Price of tickets is $250.

Established in 1948, The Guild is a volunteer organization that played a critical role in fundraising to open St. John Hospital in 1952 and continues to support SJH&MC programs today. Since its founding, The Guild has raised more than $15 million for the hospital, assisting a countless number of patients by providing needed medical equipment, state-of-the-art technology and valued services.

The Guild's officers for this year are: President is Paul Mattes of Sterling Insurance Group. He succeeds Ed Deeb of Michigan Food and Beverage Association. John Adamo of Connor Park Florist, vice president; Paul Treder of City Group Smith Barney; Secretary, and Daniel Roma, treasurer.

Competitive model boat show Saturday

An exhibition of scratch-built model boats returns this weekend to one of Southeast Michigan's best spots to watch freighters.

"We usually have 50 to 70 models," said Len Treppa, historian for the Great Lakes Nautical Society.

This is the society's ninth annual show.

"We have everything from freighters, sailboats, Chris-Craft, you name it," Treppa said.

The show is 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Saturday, June 2, at Vantage Point Maritime Center, 51 Water Street, Port Huron. Admission is free.

The center, located below the St. Clair River below the Black River, has a bakery and cafe.

Judging is at 1 p.m. in two classes: Great Lakes and non-Great Lakes.

Treppa, of Warren, generally models old boats from photographs.

He hopes to finish his current project, a lumber hauler, in time for competition.

"I should have made it bigger," he said. "The detail is so small, it's a real bear."

Society members raise funds by making and selling basic model wood boat kits. Kits cost $5 and are intended for the skill level of small children.

The Michigan Humane Society invites all animal lovers to join the 24th annual Mutt March, taking place on Sunday, June 3, from 8 a.m. to noon.

This annual springtime event offers a relaxed and family-friendly atmosphere, as participants enjoy a scenic morning stroll of up to five miles on the grounds of the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House in Grosse Pointe Shores.

It's all to benefit the thousands of homeless animals that MHS cares for every year.

"As we strive to reach our goal of guaranteed placement of every adoptable animal by 2015, events like the Mutt March help to provide MHS with the resources we need to find animals the homes they deserve," said Cal Morgan, MHS President and CEO. "We couldn't do what we do without the incredible support of the community."

"Without you, we would not be celebrating 24 wonderful years of changing animal lives through the Mutt March."

Individual walkers and teams can register, set up personalized web pages, and collect donations online at www.michiganhumane.org/muttmarch.

However, pre-registration is not required. All walkers who raise $156 or more - the average cost of care for an animal in need - will receive an official Mutt March T-shirt. The first 800 four-legged walkers will receive a Mutt March bandana.

In addition, walkers who raise $468 - the average cost of care for three animals in need - will be given the opportunity to name one of our shelter animals before they go up for adoption.

Walkers who raise $1,500 will become part of the MHS Best Friends Club, and receive a brick paver, which will be engraved with their name, and placed at the MHS Berman Center for Animal Care in Westland.

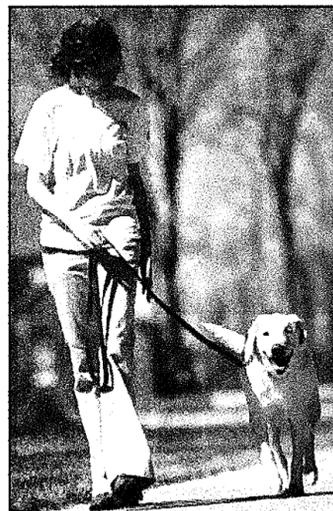

The Edsel & Eleanor Ford House is located at 1100 Lakeshore Road between Vernier and 9 Mile roads in Grosse Pointe Shores.

Several course lengths are available and water stops will be provided for people and their pets. For those walking with their pet, bring current vaccination records. Dogs must be kept on leashes at all times.

In addition, American Textile Recycling Services (ATRS) will be at the event to collect donations of gently-used clothing and shoes, and will make a donation to MHS based on the amount collected. By redirecting these items away from landfills, ATRS is not only making for a greener Michigan, but a brighter future for Michigan's animals.

For more information, please call 1-866-648-6263, Monday through Friday, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., or visit www.michiganhumane.org.

MHS is a private, non-profit organization which cares for more than 100,000 animals each year.

'Driving America' an eye-opener

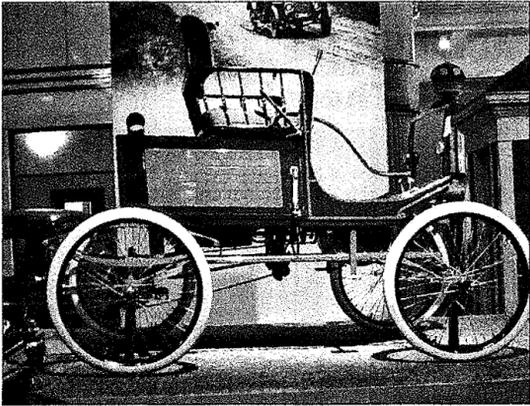

Visitors to "Driving America" at the Henry Ford Museum will quickly discover alternative sources of power for vehicles go back to the first days of the horseless carriage.

Batteries and steam were popular and often drove luxury vehicles as well as early delivery trucks weighing several tons.

The 1900 electric truck from Frederick R. Wood and Son of New York tipped the scale at 7,500 pounds, even before the B. Altman Company loaded it with items for its Manhattan department store. The Wood delivery truck was powered by 44 lead-acid battery cells and could go up to 10 mph with a range of 20-30 miles. Inconvenient in many ways, it was an improvement over high-maintenance horses.

The collection features an elegant steam-driven 1899 Locomobile runabout and a battery-powered 1901 Columbia Victoria.

The recently redesigned automotive collection puts a variety of cars and trucks in historical perspective. Descriptions also give the visitor a sense of what was revolutionary, what prices might mean to the people of each period and how motorized vehicles captured imaginations and never let go.

This 1899 Locomobile runabout was steam-driven.

Visitors will also see an early theft deterrent design and note that early on the West Side YMCA

Goldenrod recorded a speed of 409.277 mph on the Bonneville Salt Flats in New York City offered "automotive instruction" for new drivers, a forerunner of driver's education.

A prototype air-cooled cyclecar from Detroit-based Scripps-Booth is an example of what proved to be a short-lived fad, especially as cars became more affordable and useful.

Equipped with four Chrysler V-8s (combined horsepower of 2,400), the 1965 back in 1965. It was built by Bob and Bill Summers of Riverside, Calif., and is featured in "Driving America."

Traveling at considerably slower speeds, the historic 1903 Packard "Old Pacific" is glorious in its mud-encrusted condition. The $2,500 car, built in Warren, Ohio, was driven across the country by Tom Fetch, Packard employee; accompanied by Marius Krarup, editor of Automobile magazine. The New York-to-San Francisco excursion took 61 days and was the second cross-country trip recorded by a motor car.

Most of us native to southeast Michigan, plus those who have lived and worked here for a number of years, figure we know a fair amount about the automotive industry and its products.

One of the joys and surprises of "Driving America" is its ability to tie together the threads of history as well as surprise even the experts at the innovations and importance of "our" industry.

Note: The annual Motor Muster is slated this year for Saturday and Sunday, June 16-17, in Greenfield Village. Think seriously about taking it in one or both days.

Grosse Pointe Housing Foundation is a win-win. It fills vacancies in Grosse Pointe Park and provides housing for college students for a modest cost.

Welcome home

By Kathy Ryan
Staff Writer

It doesn't take a college level course in logic to determine the Grosse Pointe Housing Foundation's student grant program is a win-win situation for all concerned.

The program, established by brothers Jon and Sean Cotton, was launched in June, 2011, as a way to combat a high vacancy rate in Grosse Pointe Park's rental property district. The goal, according to its charter is to "create educational housing incentives for university students in the manner of housing grants while concurrently adding vitality to the Grosse Pointe Park rental market and surrounding commercial business districts."

With seed money of $250,000, one year later, Jon Cotton is deeming the program a success, with 57 students participating.

"We couldn't be happier with how well the program has been accepted by both students and landlords," he said.

The program was established following discussions between Cotton and Park city manager Dale Krajniak.

"The recession was taking a toll on rental properties in the Park," Cotton explained. "We had houses going into foreclosure, which was bringing the market down. We had too many vacant units. But we also saw that we had an aging population and there were few young people moving into the Park."

Recognizing young renters of today might prove to be the home buyers of tomorrow, Cotton and Krajniak set about determining ways to entice young

Both Tiffany Kress and her dog, Charlie, are enjoying their new Grosse Pointe Park home. Right, 904 and 906 Beaconsfield, Grosse Pointe Park.

Recognizing the proximity of the Park to several colleges and universities, they decided to target students. But that doesn't mean they wanted to turn rental properties into frat houses.

"We have a strict application process," Cotton said. "Applicants must be full-time students, with at least a 2.5 grade point average. Applicants must also complete a 350-word essay on why they want to participate in the program. The applications are reviewed by a committee."

Students selected for the program receive a grant of up to $350 per month toward rent on a Grosse Pointe Park property. So far, 57 students are participating, with Wayne State University, its medical and law school, the University of Detroit Mercy and its law school and the Center for Creative Studies being represented. In addition, medical residents from St. John Hospital are participating. And while the program had hoped to focus on local colleges and universities, it couldn't turn down applicants from St. George's University School of Medicine in Grenada, who are doing rotations through local hospitals.

"We have a strong cross-section of students," Cotton said. "These are students who previously might have gone to Royal Oak or somewhere else in Oakland County, or may have stayed downtown. But with this incentive, Grosse Pointe Park became very appealing."

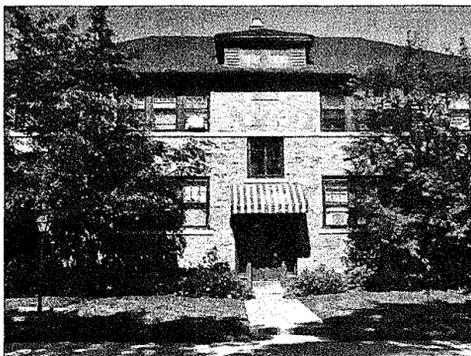

That's exactly how Tiffany Kress felt when she found out about the program.

A senior at Wayne State, Kress, 26, is originally from Bloomfield Hills. She took a bit of a different path to college, having traveled for several years after high school as a professional ice skater with the Disney on Ice shows. She toured with Disney throughout Europe and Japan, but when she decided to return home to go to school, she chose to settle in Grosse Pointe Park.

"A friend had mentioned the program to me," she said, "so I drove through the neighborhood to take a look. I had never been to Grosse Pointe, let alone considered living here, but I fell in love with it. There is a real sense of family here, a real sense of being home."

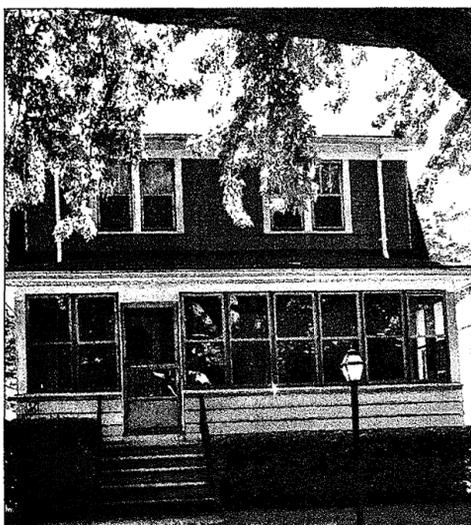

Kress is renting a two bedroom flat on Maryland, which she finds very convenient to both her classes at WSU, where she's majoring in public relations, and her job at the Hockeytown Café.

Kress shares her flat with a very busy Yorkshire terrier and on weekends,

Fontbonne's gift

During the annual general meeting of Fontbonne Auxiliary of St. John Hospital and Medical Center, May 9, at the Detroit Athletic Club, two checks were presented. The first, $387,311.55, was provided for the renovation of the hospital's pediatric intensive care unit and the purchase of an echo cardiography reporting system for the pediatric and cardiology departments. Above, Fontbonne president Patricia Stumb gave the check to St. John's interim president Frank Poma. Below, the second check of $15,000 was given to the Congregation of the Sisters of St. Joseph. From left, Fontbonne chairwomen Janet Nugent of Grosse Pointe Farms, Sharon Burke of Grosse Pointe Farms and Bettejean Ahee of Grosse Pointe Shores. Funds were raised through memorial donations, the LeFontbonne Gift Shoppe proceeds and other events such as the White Christmas Ball and Girls Night Out. Ford House

The Edsel & Eleanor Ford House hosts "A Grimm Celebration," the estate's second year of offering multicultural storytelling experiences through a fairy tale exhibit, festival and family and adult programs. This year's festivities highlight the 200th anniversary of the Grimm Brothers' first published fairy tale.

The centerpiece of this year's fairy tale exhibit, "Once Upon a Time: Grimmly Inspired," is a juried art competition for metro Detroit teen and adult artists.

Entrants submit two-dimensional, three-dimensional, digital and video artwork to be displayed at the estate July 28 through Nov. 2.

Artists should draw inspiration from one of the following nine Grimm Brothers' fairy tales: "The Frog Prince," "Goose Girl," "Hans my Hedgehog," "Little Red Riding Hood," "Mother Hulda," "Puss in Boots," "Hansel & Gretel," "The Spindle," "The Shuttle and the Needle and White Snake."

The competition is open to high school students and adults and the submission fee is $25. Submissions are accepted at the Ford House between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. June 22 and 23 and noon to 5 p.m., June 24 from noon-5 p.m.

Prizes include among others, a Kindle Fire, Kindle, dinner at the Cotswold Café and tour of the Ford House. Featured adult artists also can sell their work.

In addition to the juried entries, the exhibit features reproductions of Grimm Brothers fairy tale art from the Detroit Public Library's collection and an historical overview of the Brothers Grimm.

Saturday, Aug. 4, the Ford House grounds host the Second Annual Fairy Tale Festival, inspired by tales from the Brothers Grimm. Family-focused events and hands-on activities, with a Grimm twist, include stages set for musical and theatrical

Gertrude and George Krappmann

ANNIVERSARY

George and Gertrude Krappmann of Grosse Pointe Farms observed their 50th wedding anniversary, May 26. The couple married May 26, 1962, in St. Philomena Catholic Church in Detroit. They have four children, Kathy (Christopher) Flanagan; Christine (Joseph) Sfair; George (Lynn) Krappmann; and AnneMarie Krappmann, and seven grandchildren, Christopher, Meghan and John Flanagan; Joe, Tom and Olivia Sfair; and Maddie Krappmann.

her sister, Katie, 21, who has Down Syndrome, comes to visit.

"This is perfect for all of us," she said. "Katie has her own room here, and I have extra space in the attic and a washer and dryer in the basement. We can walk to shopping and restaurants."

And with half the rent, up to $350, being paid by the foundation, Kress and the other students aren't the only ones who benefit.

"The landlords love the program," said Cotton. "They are guaranteed a check every month and they know they are getting good tenants."

On the flip side, students know they are getting good landlords and nice apartments.

"All apartments must be preapproved before we allow students to rent them," Cotton said, adding that landlords must have a valid Certificate of Occupancy for the property and provide proof both the mortgage and taxes are current.

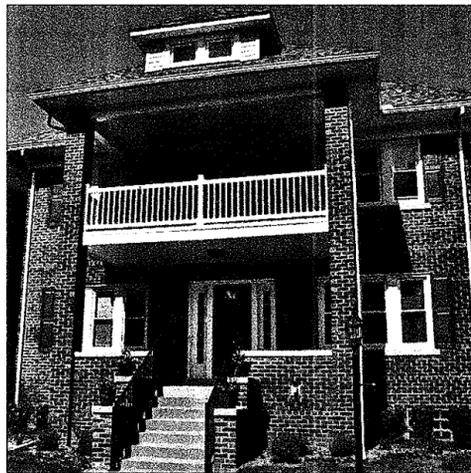

"We want to guarantee that these are the best rentals available," said Cotton.

While Cotton credits both students and landlords for the success of the program, he has high praise for the Park's Krajniak, who was receptive and encouraging from the beginning.

"This is not about free rent, it's about improving the community," Cotton said. "I have to applaud Dale for all he has done to make this program a success."

For his part, Krajniak saw the program as exactly the shot in the arm that area of the Park needed, but also providing the added benefit of serving as a starting point for future Park home owners.

"From my end, the housing foundation not only provided the mechanism to stimulate our rental market with the housing grants, but hit a home run in the course of doing so," Krajniak said. "The

ASK THE EXPERTS By Donna Bucciarelli, R.N.

For heads sake, wear bike helmet

Q. My 8-year-old twins want to ride their bicycles to school. What's the best helmet to buy?

A. You should pick a helmet that fits well, round and smooth on the outside and has a Consumer Product Safety Commission sticker. That means the helmet has been tested and meets the uniform safety standard. If you use an old helmet, make sure it has a seal from one or more of the voluntary bicycle helmet standards such as ASTM, Snell or ANSI. Everyone should wear a bicycle helmet every time they ride. Helmets are the most effective way to prevent head injuries resulting from bicycle crashes. If at any time your helmet is involved in an accident, it's likely to get damaged. Since damage isn't always easy to spot visually, it's important to replace the helmet after any significant impact, even if everything looks OK.

Q. How do I get the right helmet size?

A. Helmets come in various sizes. First, measure the child's head just above the eyebrows for approximate size. Sizes can vary between manufacturers. In addition to size, helmet shapes can vary. You will have to try the helmet on to determine if it fits the shape of the head. A helmet fitted and adjusted properly should feel snug, but not tight. It should not move from side-to-side or front-to-back. Some helmets come with an extra feature called a "dial turn ring retention system." The device is intended to make fitting easy and adjustable every time you ride. Keep this feature in mind when shopping for a helmet.

Q. How do I properly adjust the straps?

A. First, the helmet should sit level on the head and low on the forehead, about one or two finger widths above the eyebrow area. For the buckles, you want to center the left buckle under the chin. On most helmets, the straps can be pulled from the back of the helmet to adjust the length of the straps. Next, adjust the slider on both side straps to form a "V" shape under, and slightly in front of the ears. Lock in place if possible.

Following the side straps, buckle the chin strap. Tighten the strap until it is snug, so no more than two fingers fit under the strap. After following these steps, have children give a big wide yawn. The helmet should pull down on the head. If not, then you need to tighten the chin strap some more.

Q. What will I pay for a good helmet?

A. Local stores such as Target, Toys R Us and Walmart have helmets meeting the CPSC standard on sale regularly for about $10 to $30. Local bike shops have brand name helmets for $40 to $200. A less expensive helmet is just as safe as an expensive helmet. When you pay more for a helmet, you may get an easier fit, more vents and cool graphics, but the impact test results are the same.

Safety City U.S.A. offers a week-long, half-day "Summer Safety Camp" sessions. Camp includes bike safety and helmet fitting for children 6 - 9 years old. To register, call (248) 551-0100.

Spring into summer with spinach salad topped with walnut vinaigrette.

Summer spinach salad

With a spring that feels more like summer there's no better time for a salad. I threw together a simple spinach salad and made it special with candied walnuts (a favorite recipe) and a walnut vinaigrette. Yummy!

ly then transfer to an airtight container until ready to serve.

Walnut vinaigrette

- 1/2 cup walnut oil
 - 1/3 cup white wine vinegar
 - 2 tablespoons water
 - 1 tablespoon sugar
 - 1 heaping tablespoon Dijon mustard
 - 1 tablespoon fresh chopped chives
 - 1/4 teaspoon cracked black pepper.
- Combine all ingredients in a screw top jar and shake and shake. Refrigerate until serving.

Spinach salad

- 2 10-oz. bags fresh baby spinach, roughly chopped
 - 15 fresh strawberries (or so), trimmed and cut
 - 1 10.5-oz can (light) mandarin oranges (in juice not syrup), drained
 - 1 small red onion, halved and thinly sliced
 - 1 cup crumbled feta cheese
 - a handful or two of candied walnuts
- Place half the roughly chopped spinach in a large salad bowl and scatter with half of the strawberries, mandarin orange segments, red onion, feta and some candied walnuts.
- Repeat with remaining spinach and other toppings.
- Drizzle with walnut vinaigrette and serve.
- This spinach salad screams fresh and all of the flavors come together with the walnut vinaigrette, in perfect harmony.

Spring into Summer Spinach Salad

(with candied walnuts and walnut vinaigrette)

Candied walnuts

- 1/3 cup sugar
 - 2 1/2 tablespoons brown sugar
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
 - pinch of cayenne
 - 1 large egg white, room temperature
 - 1 tablespoon water
 - 1/2 lb. walnuts
- Preheat oven to 300 degrees. In a small bowl whisk together sugars with the salt, cinnamon and cayenne. Place the egg white and water in a large bowl and whisk together.
- Add walnuts and toss well to coat.
- Sprinkle half sugar mixture over nuts and toss.
- Repeat with remaining sugar mixture and toss and toss. (It will seem like too much sugar, but it's not.)
- Scatter prepared walnuts on a large well-greased baking sheet. Bake for 15 minutes, toss and bake for another 15 minutes.
- Cool walnuts complete-

Knights power to division crown

By John McTaggart
Special Writer

Despite it admittedly not being University Liggett's best effort of the 2012 baseball season, the Knights still cruised to a five-inning, 14-3, victory last Tuesday afternoon over Lutheran High Westland.

"We didn't play our best," head coach Dan Cimini said. "We had a long weekend up in Mt. Pleasant and beat some good teams up there. I thought our heads weren't really in it today and we were kind of flat out there. We made some dumb mistakes, but, honestly, I'm glad we did it now."

Despite these mental lapses and mistakes, Liggett was still able to trounce the Warriors, scoring seven runs in the third inning to break the game open.

"All in all, we swung the bats well today," the coach said. "It took us a while to get it going, but our big guys hit the ball today and that's how it should be."

Among the team's "big guys" is Alex Daar, who drove in four runs on a pair of two-run hits — the first coming in the opening inning and the second, a double to right-center field, as part of the seven-run third inning.

Also joining the Liggett hit parade was standout Nate Gaggin. The junior took a fourth-inning 2-1 offering and lined it over the wall in left field.

The three-run homer pushed Liggett's lead to 14-2 heading into the fifth inning.

It was his division-leading fourth homer of the season.

The Warriors tacked on a run in the fifth, but Liggett starter, Connor Fannon, difficult to hit. Fannon, who made only his second start of the season following arm surgery, fanned four and allowed only three hits in five innings of work.

"I thought Connor threw well today," Cimini said. "Right now we're just trying to get him comfortable out there again, trying to get him use to his control, to get his arm back."

"This was only his second start, and he'll get one more next week. But, I think he threw really well today."

The services of Fannon are going to be important for the Knights once the postseason gets under way June 2.

With Daar, the team's clear No. 1 starter, Fannon fits in nicely as the squad's No. 2 hurler.

"He (Fannon) might not throw in districts at all," Cimini admitted. "We'll have to see. But, after that, if we get out of the district and to regionals, we're going to need him on the mound."

In other action last week, Liggett completed a second straight perfect trek through the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference with a 7-0 victory over Rochester Hills Lutheran Northwest.

Daar was once again rock solid on the mound, giving up only two hits and striking out 15. In addition, he hit a home run, as did Nick Azar.

"It's nice to win this division with another perfect record," Cimini said.

Liggett finished 14-0 in the MIAC and improved to 17-2 overall.

GROSSE POINTE SOUTH

Blue Devils go extras to defeat DeLaSalle

By John McTaggart
Special Writer

It took eight innings on a warm and sunny Wednesday afternoon, but in the end, Grosse Pointe South (23-10) outlasted DeLaSalle, 12-11, in a match-up between two of the more storied and successful baseball programs in the entire area.

"If you score 12 runs you expect to win by a lot," South coach Dan Griesbaum explained. "We didn't get it done today. We didn't get it done on the mound, for the most part, and we didn't get it done in the field. But, other than that, it's always good to beat a good team and DeLaSalle is always a good team."

Errors, walks, and indecisive play in the field did somewhat mar the South effort that saw the team up 11-5 after five innings only to let the Pilots tie the game in the top of the seventh, thus forcing the extra frame.

The Blue Devils pushed the game-winning run across in the eighth inning and earned the victory thanks to some timely hitting from Cam Gibson, who finished the day with a home run, four runs scored, and a trio of RBIs. Andrew Addy went 3-for-4 in the day.

Still, the game was a frustrating one at times for Griesbaum, whose team finished second in the Macomb Area Conference Red Division this season, one game behind Stevenson High, losing three games in the division by a combined five runs.

"You have to be able to move up runner with bunts. You have to be able to hit-and-run. You have to be able to make contact with runners on base," Griesbaum said. "We didn't do that at times today, even though we scored twelve runs. There were some times where we had runners on base and we just didn't move them. It was just a bad day. We'll get it together before the playoffs start."

Gearing up for the post-season, which officially begins for the Blue Devils at home June 2 against Detroit Southeastern, is really the main focus of the coach and the squad at this point in the season.

"You want to play good teams like DeLaSalle this time of year," the coach explained. "You don't want to see anyone in the playoffs that was a better team than you saw in the regular season. So playing these tough game against tough teams is important, especially this time of year."

The Pilots were tough, few would question that after watching last Wednesday's game.

DeLaSalle got on the board right out of the box, taking a 1-0 lead in the opening inning.

Back-to-back home runs, however, from Gibson and South starting pitcher, Carmen Benedetti, quickly erased the DLS lead and put the Blue Devils up 3-1.

South starter Carmen Benedetti was forced to leave the game, however, after just one inning of work. An injury to his side prompted the move.

The injury gave the coaching staff little choice then to use a slew of relief pitchers, four in total, over the course of the game — something every coach hopes to avoid this late in the season.

"We didn't expect to use all those arms today," the coach admitted. "You don't want to over-use anybody because the playoffs are so close, but we will be fine by next week. This really only makes us have to adjust for Friday's game."

DeLa Salle took advantage of the change in the second, bringing three runners across the plate and retaking the lead, 4-3.

It wasn't until the third inning that South responded with a three-run inning of their own. Back-to-back-to-back doubles from Kevin Reck, Gibson, and Addy moved the Blue Devils into the lead, 6-4. They expanded it in the five-run fifth. Run-scoring base hits from Jack Doyle and Robby Kish led the charge and seemingly put the game out of reach for DeLaSalle, 11-5.

The Pilots clawed their way back, scoring four in the sixth inning before tying the contest in the seventh and setting the stage for South's walk-off victory.

Norsemen ready for playoffs

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

The Grosse Pointe North boys' baseball team won 3-of-4 games last week, improving to 17-14 overall.

Head coach Frank Sumner guided the Norsemen to a doubleheader sweep over Warren Mott, winning 7-4 and 5-1.

In preparation for the upcoming state district playoffs, the Norsemen split a doubleheader with Harper Woods, winning 11-5 and losing 6-5.

North is in position to contend for a district title. They play Eastpointe East Detroit in the first semifinal at Grosse Pointe South.

They're favored to win the game and would probably face arch-rival Grosse Pointe South in the district title game

Saturday, June 2.

The Norsemen head into the playoffs with a relatively young squad, but for seniors Jonathan Karle, Anthony Sarkis, Brian Lentz, James Messina, Jack O'Neil, Richard Borland and Chip Wujek, this is their last chance to finally beat South in the biggest game of the season.

Wujek beat the Blue Devils 1-0 earlier in the season and has a good shot to be on the mound again in the championship game.

Words of Wellness

Hungry to dive into a thick stack of my wife's delectable whole wheat pancakes, I stopped in my tracks! What I nearly lathered on them wasn't maple syrup at all, but an imposter — something called "Natural Table Syrup."

What the...table syrup? Where'd maple syrup go?

At the store, this brown jug of sweetness seemed to be authentic. If it wasn't the cozy log cabin on the label, or the half-off price tag, then it was surely its "All Natural" claim that persuaded my wallet.

But now I felt, well, scammed: Why "All Natural" when it wasn't even real?

I did digging and this deceptive labeling is the result of a technicality. Not even the Food and Drug Administration will address this head-on.

"It is difficult to define a food product that is 'natural' because the food has probably been processed and is no longer the product of the earth," says the FDA.gov web site.

So, to be clear: Just about everything you eat could be considered unnatural because it is technically man-made. That means the only thing that might be worthy of an 'All Natural' label is a raw fruit or vegetable.

It also means that a loophole exists to allow food companies to use something called "lean washing" to their advantage.

What is "lean washing?" A group called EnviroMedia brought the issue, and coined the term, to mean a marketing tactic to convince buyers a product is healthier than it actually is.

Take my table syrup — totally "lean washed!" It can be 'All Natural' as long as it is made from natural ingredients. That does not mean it underwent a natural processing.

The upshot is that you're on your own to make an educated purchase decision. As a consumer, you must be label vigilant at all times.

Food companies measure consumer-shopping trends. They know consumers look for the health tag and short ingredient lists. Grocery stores stock similar products together, placing the processed goods next to healthier items. And, sadly, it appears the government can't please the food companies and the consumer at the same time. It is buyer beware!

So this is my plea. I ask that you be aware of food labels so you (and your body) are not the target of "lean washed" foodstuffs:

Don't judge a book. The biggest name on the product is its title. Pay attention to how it reads: Potato Crisps, Pizza Snack Sauce, Fruit Drink are all suspect titles for the real thing.

Scrutinize ingredients. The adage to find foods with minimal ingredient list is well known. But it's important to know the ingredients themselves can be processed; if there are few ingredients in the food you're buying, make sure you know what each one is.

Less than 2 percent. Many food labels identify their food is treated with less than 2 percent of a certain ingredient. This two percent is often reserved for food preservatives and flavor enhancers. Two percent is a significant amount if it's going into your body.

Avoid taglines. Words like 'All Natural' mean relatively little. But be wary of Fat-Free and Low-Cal labels, too. And if you think organic labels are always accurate, think again.

You can't put a price on health. The cheaper product usually isn't the one to go with. If it can be sold cheaply, it's likely made with lesser ingredients.

Always remember that the FDA has not developed a definition for use of the term natural or its derivatives." Live well.

South wins, ULS ousted

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe South's boys' lacrosse team played a sterling first half en route to a 7-4 playoff victory over visiting Farmington last week.

The Blue Devils led 4-0 with four different players scoring in the opening 24 minutes. The defensive unit was stellar, as was goaltender, senior David Trudel.

"We were outstanding in the first half and played with a lot of motion," head coach Don Wolford said. "We were the same way through the opening few minutes of the third quarter, but then we did a little too much standing around, watching."

"A win is nice, but we have to continue to play well for four quarters in our next playoff game."

Sam Hartman got the Blue Devils on the board just seven seconds into the game with Danny French netting the assist.

The two teamed up for the second goal late in the first quarter with French scoring and Hartman assisting.

In the second period, Liam McIlroy scored with Austin Jones getting an assist and with only 22.6 left before the half, Andrew Hyde tallied with Andrew Wright assisting.

The home team opened a 5-0 lead when McIlroy scored with only 1:19 left in the third quarter. Hartman had the assist.

It looked like the Blue Devils were well on their way to an easy win, but Farmington continued to attack and scored the final goal of the third quarter, plus added three more in the final quarter to keep the outcome in doubt.

French scored his second goal of the game with 5:23 left in the fourth period and Jones tallied his first goal of the game. Hartman assisted on both goals.

improved to 11-5 overall. Head coach Bill Brusilow ended his first year at the helm with a 1-1 playoff record and 7-9 overall mark.

Liggett results

University Liggett's boys' lacrosse team ended its season last weekend, losing 18-1 to Detroit Country Day in a Division 2 pre-regional playoff game.

Despite the lopsided playoff defeat, the Knights improved their win total from the 2011 season.

The adjustment at the break, which saw the score knotted at 4-4, and pulled away in the closing half.

"They studied our draw," Barczyk explained. "They saw where the ball was going to go and they stacked it and they determined where they wanted their girl to go. We made an adjustment and that's when our draw-control changed the whole game."

"We started to let them win the draw," South assistant coach Julie Theis said. "So we would have players on the other side of the circle ready to go then."

The adjustment was something Chelsea Merrill and others picked up on and suggested to coaches at the break.

"That's something we've tried to establish with the girls," Barczyk said. "They have the understanding that they have the ability to see the field, to make the choices out there. We've tried to instill that confidence in them."

It's all part of the progression the Blue Devils have made throughout the season, Barczyk says, and now that the post-season has arrived, the squad is peaking at just the right time.

South was led by Bridgette Champane's four goals and Libby Griffith's three goals, while Jenna Morris and Merrill added two goals each in the victory.

South improved to 5-13-2 overall, while North ended its season 8-7-1.

South runs by North

By John McTaggart
Special Writer

It's a win-or-go-home time of the year for girls lacrosse teams all over the state, and last Wednesday evening at Grosse Pointe South, either the Norsemen or the Blue Devils were going to see their season come to an end, while the other moved on to play another day.

"It's an exciting time of year," North head coach Bill Seaman admitted. "We would have liked to have seen it turn out differently for us today, but that's how it is."

A 13-6 South victory brought the campaign to the end for rival North and propelled the Blue Devils into the next round of the state tournament, a match-up with Birmingham.

"Our team goal today was to go out and play our best," South head coach Taylor Barczyk explained. "I think we came out today and really played our best. All season we've been really focused on how we take our team to the next level. How do we grow every game and get better. We've done that all season long. It's really nice, as coaches, to know that we go into regionals knowing that we just took what we've been working on all year long and applied it."

Despite the lopsided outcome, North gave the Blue Devils all it could handle, particularly in the opening half.

"The last time we played Grosse Pointe South, six days ago, they were beating us 11-3 at halftime and it was not close," Seaman admitted.

"We made some adjustments for this game and they worked for a while. Ultimately South took advantage of our weak points on our lacrosse team, which is our attack and our close defense. They wore us down."

South wins, Liggett in groove

By Bob St. John

Grosse Pointe South earned some revenge in last week's Macomb Area Conference Red Division Tournament.

South, coming off a tough loss to Utica Eisenhower earlier in the week to finish second in the division, won the tournament with a 322 over second-place Eisenhower at The Meadows.

"The course was set up to play at a higher level of difficulty," South head coach Rob McIntyre said. "This is a great baseline point for us to work from as we enter the post-season."

Geoff Welsher earned league most valuable player honors, shooting a one-under 71, and Joe Becker also earned all-league.

Grosse Pointe North was third with a 334. Romeo was fourth and Utica Ford fifth.

Chase Wujek led the Norsemen, shooting a 77, followed by Patrick Hastings with an 83, Tom Vismara with an 86 and Garrett Freismuth with an 88.

Steve Zak was also named to the all-league team.

"Every time we step on the course our team is improving," North head coach Brian Northpoole said. "The players have a great drive to get better and we are starting to play our best golf now."

Earlier in the week, Grosse Pointe South had a shot to claim the outright MAC Red regular season title.

The Blue Devils were on their home course, Gowanie Golf Club, and shot a 154. However, Eisenhower pulled off one of its best rounds of the season, shooting a 151 to win the division with a 7-1 mark to South's 6-2.

For the Blue Devils, Welsher shot a 36, followed by Dan Szymanski with a 39, Becker with a 39 and Will Hyde with a 40.

Liggett results

University Liggett's

boys' golf team is ready for the postseason.

The Knights completed their regular season with three wins last week, finishing 15-2 overall.

Head coach Dan Sullivan and the Knights began the week by winning a tri-match. Liggett shot 163 with Ann Arbor Greenhills posting a 168 and Southfield Christian a 170.

Freshman Stephen Campau posted a one-under par 35 to lead the Knights.

Two days later, Liggett shot a 182 to beat Rochester Hills Lutheran Northwest at Westwynd.

Campau and freshman Paul Sidhu each shot a 44 to lead the team.

Grosse Pointe South's girls' softball team is ready for the state playoffs.

After a slow start to the season, head coach Nicole Crane guided the Blue Devils to wins in 11 of their final 13 regular season games.

"The girls are playing with a lot of confidence and it helped by winning those nine straight games," Crane said. "The offense is more consistent, the defense is better and we're getting good pitching."

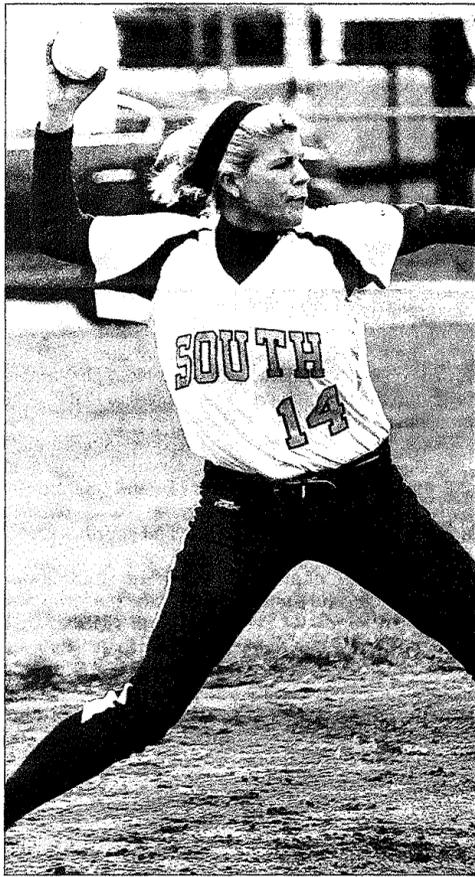

The Blue Devils split four games last week, playing four consecutive days.

They beat Sterling Heights 17-2 before losing 7-0 to L'Anse Creuse and 10-1 to Port Huron.

"We played our worst game of the season against Port Huron," Crane said. "We booted some balls and didn't hit very well. It was a game we just forgot about once we got on the bus."

The Blue Devils bounced back by scoring three runs in the bottom of the sixth inning in a 5-3 win over Warren Cousino.

"This really gives us momentum heading into the district playoffs,"

South sophomore Christy Tech and her teammates are playing well with the state playoffs approaching.

Crane said. "We're the underdogs, but we're playing pretty well right now."

Freshman Kaitlin Kish had a big run-scoring hit in the sixth and senior Brigid Walkowski earned the win, retiring the Patriots 1-2-3 in the seventh.

GROSSE POINTE SOUTH

Girls 1st, boys 5th

The Grosse Pointe South domination of girls' track and field continued last week.

South won the Macomb Area Conference White Division meet with 223 points. Warren Mott was a distant second with 74.5 points, followed by Port Huron Northern with 63, Utica with 62, Anchor Bay with 58 and Sterling Heights with 45.5.

Head coach Steve Zaranek's machine keeps turning out championships.

In field events, Aubryn Samaroo won the high jump with a mark of 5-foot, 4-inches and Elise Grever took second at 4-foot, 9-inches.

Emily Jackman won the discus with a throw of 103-feet, 6-inches, and Samaroo placed second in the shot put with a throw of 33-feet, 5-inches.

Andrew DiCresce won the long jump and Samaroo was second with marks of 16-feet, 1-inch, and 15-feet, 10-inches, respectively.

The Blue Devils won three of the four relay events. The 1,600-relay was second with a time of 4:19.7, but the 400-relay team of Perkins, Cierra Rice, DiCresce and Caitlin Moore won with a time of 51.2.

The 3,200-relay squad of Alexa Calas, Kelsie Schwartz, Ersula Farrow, Haley Meier and Hannah Meier won with a time of 9:54, and the 800-relay foursome of Perkins, Christy Ford, DiCresce and Moore took first with a new meet record-time of 1:46.9.

In the 100-dash, Moore won with a time of 13.1 and Perkins was right on her heels, placing second at 13.4.

In the other sprints, DiCresce placed second in the 200-dash with a time of 27.0, and Lily Pandy won the 400-dash with a time of 1:02.7.

The Meier sisters earned the top spots in the 800-run, with Hannah setting a new meet record time of 2:06.8 and Haley placing second at 2:18.9. And in the 1,600-run, Farrow and Schwartz tied for first with a time of 5:21.7.

In the 3,200-run, Carolyn Sullivan was second with a time of 12:04.4.

Head coach Werner Schienke's boys' squad was fifth with 57 points. Utica won with 150 points, followed by Mott with 129, Port Huron Northern with 79, Anchor Bay with 66 and Sterling Heights with 42.

Leading the Blue Devils were Elondo Moore and James Pye, who earned silver medals in the long jump and 200-dash. Moore had a mark of 19-foot, 10 1/2-inches and Pye's time was 23.6.

The 400-relay team also won a silver medal with a time of 45.2.

Girls, boys excel

Grosse Pointe North's girls' track and field team was in a slugfest with Macomb Dakota and Romeo in its Macomb Area Conference Red Division meet last week.

When the final event was completed, Dakota won the title with 165 points, followed by Romeo with 117 and Grosse Pointe North with 107.

Head coach Charles Buhagiar watched the Norsemen earn one gold medal. The 400-relay team of Emma Abessinio, Taylor Lang, La'Shanay Mack and Gabrielle Lewis won with a time of 51.8.

The Norsemen's 1,600-relay took second with a time of 4:26 and the 3,200-relay was also second with a time of 10:07.

The Norsemen had several silver-medal winning performances, including Breanna Cochran in the shot put with a mark of 35-feet, 4-inches, and Mack in the high jump, clearing 4-feet, 10-inches.

Lang was second in the 100-dash with a time of 12.8.

Brittany Williams was a bronze medalist in the shot put with a mark of 34-feet, 8-inches, while Mack ran the 100-hurdles in 17.2 seconds to take home the bronze medal.

Phoebe Dodge took third in the 400-dash with a time of 1:04.1 and Shayna Whitfield placed third in the 300-hurdles with a time of 49.1.

Sarah Rustmann was third in the 800-run and Alison Francis was third in the 3,200-run with times of 2:27 and 12:07, respectively.

North tied for second with Romeo and Stevenson in the dual meet standings behind champ Dakota.

Head coach Frank Tymrak's boys' squad, coming off a Division 1 regional championship, placed fourth with 66 points.

Stevenson won with 149 points, followed by Romeo with 123 and Port Huron with 95.

Taiwan Wiggins was a double gold medalist, winning the 110-high hurdles and 300-intermediate hurdles with times of 15.3 and 39.7, respectively.

Nick Finley won a silver medal in the 800-run, posting a time of 2:04.3, and the Norsemen had two medal-winning relays as the 3,200-relay took third with a time of 8:38.6 and the 400-relay was second at 44.1.

LIGGETT

Knights learn

University Liggett's track and field team ended its season last week, competing in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference.

The Knights finished near the bottom of the pack in both the boys' and girls' meets, but several runners earned accolades.

Aaron Robertson ran 5:05 in the 1,600-run and 2:12 in the 800-run, which were personal records. Will Loner ran 5:46 in the 1,600-run, a personal record, and Peter Hopkins posted a 5:47 in the 1,600-run, which was also a personal record.

North beats ULS

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

City rivals Grosse Pointe North and University Liggett met on the soccer field last week.

The ladies played a tough, tight first half with the host Norsemen leading 1-0 on a goal by Emily Mulier.

North head coach Chris Alston's squad has turned early-season learning experiences into late-season victories.

His halftime chat was effective as the Norsemen scored early in the second half before pulling away for a 5-0 win over the Knights.

Liggett freshman Courtney deRuiter and her teammates ended the regular season with a loss to cross-town rival Grosse Pointe North.

assist.

After that, the floodgates opened as Andrea Held had the third goal and Phoebe Dodge ended the scoring.

North also beat Warren Cousino 4-0 earlier in the week, ending its regular season 8-6-3 overall.

Liggett, playing both games last week without all-league goalkeeper/forward Caitlin deRuiter, lost 3-1 to Royal Oak Shrine. The Knights ended their regular season 6-11 overall.

Blue Devils net two

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe South's girls' soccer team put the finishing touches on its regular season last week, winning two games.

The Blue Devils beat L'Anse Creuse North 3-0 and Detroit Country Day 1-0, ending 10-3-2.

Three different players, senior Maddie Ethridge, junior Claire DeBoer and sophomore Dani Manning, scored against the Crusaders with sophomore goalie Olivia Withers netting the win.

Withers and junior Anastasia Diamond shared time in net against state-power Country Day.

Manning was the lone goal scorer as the Blue Devils put together a signature win just before starting the state playoffs this week.

NORTH & SOUTH

South second, North fourth in Red Tourney

By Bob St. John
Sports Editor

The Macomb Area Conference Red Division Tournament had all the drama of the state finals.

Grosse Pointe South hosted the tournament that boasted five teams all headed for the state championships in either Division 1 or Division 2.

"This is the best competition to get prepared for the state finals," North head coach John Van Alst said. "All five of us made the finals and all have solid players. After this tournament, our girls will be ready for the finals."

Port Huron Northern, the regular season champion, squeezed out the tournament championship, too, earning 34 points.

Grosse Pointe South was second with 33 points and Grosse Pointe North finished fourth with 16. St. Clair placed third and Utica Eisenhower was last.

"We won four flights, but fell short because of the scoring system," South head coach Mark Sobieralski said. "Port Huron Northern beat us earlier in the year, but we played them much better this time around."

The Blue Devils' flight champion in singles came from Maggie Sweeney, who beat PHN's Rae Brozovich 2-6, 2-1 (retired injury) in the No. 4 championship match.

Doubles is where the Blue Devils excelled.

Emma Hyde and Sydney Keller beat PHN's Alexis Wirtz and Fran Basha 0-6, 7-6, 6-4 in the No. 1 doubles championship match, and Emmy Boccaccio and Carrie Lynch followed with a gold medal performance in the No. 2 doubles title match, defeating PHN's Jenna Brettschneider and Maddie Neaton 0-6, 7-6, 6-4.

The No. 4 doubles squad of Kate Krueger and Katherine Halson also won the title, crushing Eisenhower's Monique Fiscelli and Megan ValHoet 6-1, 6-0.

The Blue Devils' No. 3 doubles team of Ginny

South's Emma Hyde and her No. 1 doubles partner, Sydney Keller, beat Port Huron Northern in the championship match.

Hayde and Clare Brennan lost their title match, falling 6-3, 6-4 to PHN's Amy Tseng and Maggie Bacheller.

The Blue Devils' Brooke Willard made the finals at No. 2 singles, but lost 6-1, 6-0 to PHN's Allie Sweeney.

The other singles players, Carmella Goree at No. 1 and Samantha Perry at No. 3, finished third and fourth, respectively.

North's top finisher was Maria Liddane, who lost 6-0, 6-1 to PHN's Lizzie Brozovich in the No. 3 singles championship match.

The Norsemen's other singles players, Ali Scoggin at No. 1, Ellen Brown at No. 2 and Alison Alexsy at No. 4, each finished fourth.

Their No. 1 doubles team of Alyse Victor and Kelsey Richards finished fourth, as did the No. 4 doubles tandem of Stephanie Saravolatz and Patricia Bajis.

The No. 2 doubles squad of Courtney Carroll and Erin McCarthy and No. 3 doubles team of Jayla Hubbard and Dayle Maas, each placed fifth. However, Hubbard and Maas lost two tough three-set matches that took more than two hours per match to complete.

"Our girls had the opportunity to play some great competition, which they can carry over to the state finals," Van Alst said. "I'm glad we had this opportunity."

"We had some great matches and a lot of three-setters throughout the tournament," Sobieralski said.

Next for Grosse Pointe South is the Division 1 state tournament Friday, June 1, and Saturday, June 2, at the Midland Community Tennis Center, and upcoming for Grosse Pointe North is the Division 2 state tournament Friday, June 1, and Saturday, June 2, at Kalamazoo College.
