ONE HUNDRED-FOURTEENTH YEAR—No. 39

CHELSEA, MICHIGAN, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 29, 1984

18 Pages This Week

CHELSEA MILLING PLANT SITE CLEARED: The last of the former Chelsea Lumber Co. buildings has been cleared from the site on which Chelsea Milling Co. is scheduled to begin construction of a new manufacturing plant later this year. The site is bounded by N. Main St., the Conrail tracks, North St. and the present milling company plant (background).

Embezzlement Case Sent to Circuit Court Following Hearing

Police Chief Robert Aeillo has been bound over to circuit court where he will be arraigned Tuesday, March 13, on a charge of embezzling more than $50 in public funds.

The action followed a preliminary examination held Feb. 23 before District Judge Thomas Shea of Ann Arbor. After listening to evidence presented by assistant prosecutor Larry Burgess, Judge Shea ruled there was "probable cause" to believe that a crime had been committed and to suspect Aeillo.

Whether or not the case will go to trial in circuit court depends on what type of plea Aeillo enters at his March 13 arraignment. He can plead not guilty, guilty or nolo contendere. (The latter plea is neither an admission nor a denial of guilt but does result in a sentence by the judge; it simply says the suspect does not wish to contest the charge.)

Principal witness called by Burgess at the preliminary hearing was Jeffrey Stommen, an accountant with the firm of Icerman, Johnson & Hoffman which conducted a special audit of Chelsea traffic fines collected during calendar 1983.

Stommen testified that the total face value of tickets issued was $464 more than the $2,796 recorded in bank deposits.

Judy Tobias, a clerk in the police department, testified that she had told village president Jack Merkel that there were discrepancies in the traffic fine records and was asked to document them.

That is what led village officials to ask county prosecutor William F. Delhey to investigate the matter. Delhey, in turn, called in state police detectives to conduct the probe.

After receiving results of the state police investigation, including the special audit, Delhey authorized the embezzlement warrant against Aeillo, who surrendered voluntarily on Feb. 10. He remains free on his own recognizance and has not been required to post bond.

Ms. Tobias also testified that, on one occasion, she saw Aeillo take $3 from a late-paid parking violation fee and then alter the charge on the ticket. She said the $3 was used for the office coffee fund.

The chief kept the tickets in a file cabinet in his office, she said.

No further developments are expected in the case before the March 13 circuit court arraignment.

Council Meeting Draws Crowd But Few Questions Answered

About 50 persons packed the village council chambers a week ago Tuesday night to seek more information about embezzlement charges against police chief Robert Aeillo. As before, they learned very little.

Village attorney Peter Flintoft repeatedly cautioned president Jack Merkel and members of the council against answering questions which might prejudice court action in the case, and that included almost all the questions asked.

Flintoft did most of what talking was done, and he was very careful about what he said.

Village officials have maintained a "no comment" stance from the beginning of the investigation, and obviously intend to keep on doing so until legal proceedings are completed.

All information released so far about the case, including the initial disclosure that an investigation was underway, has come either from the county prosecutor's office or the courts.

That, Flintoft explained, is the result of the legal procedure followed in handling the case.

"The law is very clear in requiring that the matter be handled in the way it has been," he said. "Once village officials decided there was reason to have an investigation made, the legal steps were mandated."

"Had any other village department been involved, the police department would have done the investigating. But because the police department was involved, the county prosecutor was asked to act."

"When the prosecutor's office took charge, it became responsible for all decisions such as how the investigation would be made, whether a warrant would be asked, and on what charge."

"Village officials are legally out of the matter, and that is why I have advised them to say nothing about it. Anything they might say could be deemed prejudicial to the court proceedings."

President Merkel did clarify Aeillo's present status by saying he has been officially "suspended with pay" since Jan. 6. Previously, he has been said to be on vacation. "I believe that was his expression, not ours," Merkel said.

Merkel said he is "comfortable" with the way the matter has been handled, adding that "it certainly has not been a pleasant experience for any of us but I believe we have done things the right way."

Merkel denied that the incident influenced his decision against running for re-election as village president, saying he had made up his mind on the score well before the police department problem surfaced.

"I certainly do wish I could have finished my term without (Continued on page four)

Hospital Reorganizes Corporate Structure

Planning for its future, Chelsea Community Hospital is reorganizing its corporate structure to form four separate institutions: Community Health Care Corporation, Chelsea Community Hospital, Foundation for Community Care, and HealthCare Systems Group, Inc.

Commenting on the reorganization plan, Arthur Dils, chairman of the hospital board of trustees said, "the decades of the 80's and 90's promise to be one of change in the economy, the society, and the political arena. In today's challenging environment, hospitals must carefully plan for the future in order to stay in business. The decades ahead promise to bring fast paced technological change coupled with lower rate of spending by federal, state, and local governments for health care services. These changes are forcing hospitals into free market competition."

"Chelsea Community Hospital has taken a good hard look at itself, its mission and its goals. Through limited corporate reorganization, Chelsea Community Hospital has set itself on a course to help insure its present stability, financial strength, and continued growth."

"The Corporate reorganization has been under study for over two years by the Administrative Staff and the Hospital's Board of Trustees," Dils added.

Community HealthCare Corp. will be the parent company, which will oversee Chelsea Community Hospital, the Foundation for Community Care, and HealthCare Systems Group, Inc. Robert H. Thornton, Jr., will serve as chairman; William J. Rademacher, vice-chairman; and Walter F. Hamilton, Jr., secretary/treasurer. Other trustees will be Arthur E. Dils, Robert L. Daniels, Thomas R. Niswonger, and Willard H. Johnson. The chairmen of the hospital's Planning and Finance committees and the Chief of Staff will be ex-officio members.

Chelsea Community Hospital will continue to operate as presently constituted with the same board of trustees. With corporate reorganization, Willard H. Johnson's title has been changed from administrator to president of Chelsea Community Hospital.

The Foundation for Community Care will continue in its role of assisting the hospital to meet its financial requirements through fund-raising and other related activities. Trustees include Robert L. Daniels, chairman; Lawrence C. Dietle, Irving Feller, M.D., William J. Rademacher, Paul G. Schaible, Jr., and Shirley Sweet.

Area Escapes Worst of Storm

Up until The Standard's news deadline at noon yesterday, Chelsea had escaped the worst of the severe winter storm forecast for southeastern Michigan.

Areas to the east and south were much harder hit, according to available reports.

About two inches of snow had fallen here by noon yesterday, and only intermittent flurries were coming down. Ann Arbor got about twice that much, and the Detroit metropolitan area had 6-7 inches.

There was some blowing and drifting, but not enough to block roads or cause serious driving hazards, at least in the village. Rural roads were reported glazed and slippery late Monday afternoon as the snow began and temperatures dropped, but condi-

Chelsea Orchestras, Augustana College Band Will Join in Concert

The Chelsea High school and Beach Middle school orchestras will perform in a concert in the high school auditorium starting at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow, and will be joined by the Augustana College Concert Band of Rock Island, Ill.

The Beach orchestra will open the program with a march from the Georges Bizet's opera, Carmen, arranged by Charles Woodhouse; Saraband and Variations by Gisbert Steenwick, arranged by LaPlante and Croxson, and Russian Sailor's Dance from "The Red Poppy" by Reinhold Gilere, arranged by Merle Isaac.

The High school symphony orchestra will follow with Allegro from Alexander Borodin's Symphony No. 2 arranged by Merle Isaac; Jig and Intermezzo from Saint Paul's Suite by Gustave Holst, and Cassation by M. L. Daniels.

Both Chelsea orchestras are conducted by Carol Palma.

The second half of the concert will be performed by the 54-piece Augustana band conducted by Marcellus B. Brown.

The HealthCare Systems Group, Inc. (HSG) purpose will be to generate a source of revenue through the sale/lease of data processing systems and services for and to health care providers. Officers of HSG, Inc. are Thomas R. Niswonger, chairman; Grant A. Cook, vice-chairman; William G. Nuffer, secretary/treasurer; and James W. England will serve as president.

tions improved as road crews got on the job.

The Chelsea school district was one of a very few in southeastern Michigan to hold classes yesterday. Officials said almost all buses made their runs on schedule without incident. "A couple were 5-10 minutes late, but otherwise there were no problems," high school principal John Williams said.

The weather did cause Chelsea's basketball game at Dearborn to be postponed from last night to tonight. The delay was caused by conditions in Dearborn, not here.

Intermittent snow, gusty winds and colder temperatures were forecast through Wednesday, with clearing and moderation predicted for later in the week.

One of the featured numbers will be Aaron Coplan's "Lincoln Portrait" composed during World War II when Coplan was commissioned to write a work to express the spirit of the United States.

Other numbers will be Henry Fillmore's "Rolling Thunder March"; Morton Gould's "Ballad for Band"; "Premiere Rapsodie for Clarinet" by Claude Debussy; and James Curnow's "Mutanza."

NEW STORE OPENING: Fred Model (above) and his wife, Carol, are preparing to open a new office supply store here next Monday. Chelsea Office Supply will be located at 118 S. Main St. The Models operate a similar business in Dexter.

Office Supply Store Opening

Fred and Carol Model appreciate a small town atmosphere. That explains, in part, why they've decided to open an office supply store March 5, in Chelsea.

The Models, both Ann Arbor natives until they moved to Dexter four years ago after they purchased an office supply store there, decided to open a store here because they want to see their business grow and find Chelsea a friendly and hospitable community.

Fred Model, 41, is a retired printer from the Ann Arbor News, while his wife, Carol, 38, worked for 20 years as a secretary for various businesses in Ann Arbor. Carol says her secretarial background is "indispensable" to running an office supply store.

The new store, called Chelsea Office Supply, will be at 118 S. Main where the used clothing store, This and That, was formerly housed. Fred Model says he'll carry a full line of office supplies, including art and drafting supplies, filing cabinets, school accessories and will also have a copying machine and toy models.

The Models, though, are not just business people. They're civic minded, too. In fact, they're both enthusiastic about contributing to the community. Fred Model, for instance, is the immediate past president of the Dexter Kiwanis Club and says he plans to get involved in Chelsea's Kiwanis Club. And Carol Model joined the Chelsea chapter of the American Businesswomen's Association.

Meanwhile, starting a new business is never an easy task, but Fred Model says he enjoys the challenge and feels confident that Chelsea Office Supply will succeed.

Yet, Fred Model says success doesn't come without hard work. "No one will ever know the sacrifices I've paid in hard work to get this business going," Fred Model says.

Computers Users Group Forming

There will be an organizational meeting to start a Pet Commodore computer users group for the Chelsea area on Tuesday, March 6, beginning at 8:30 p.m. in the Chelsea High School Cafeteria.

Anyone interested in participating in the group should attend. Officers will be chosen and future programs selected. This program is sponsored by the Chelsea Community Education Department. For more information call 275-2755.

Education Reports Neglect Some Aspects of Improvements

Recent reports outlining the nation's decline in educational quality fail to take into account factors involved in improving education such as cost, child development, school for handicapped children, and the concept of education as a "nourishing and nurturing" experience.

The reports, which began in the spring of 1983 with the "Nation at Risk" report and still being released by a variety of groups, tend to look at education as a system of delivering products.

"Education is not an investment to beat the Russians, beat the Japanese or get ahead of the guy down the street. Should we not acquire and honor the value of a society of learning? If that were our objective, would that not satisfy the rest, the material and the competitive aspects that these reports seek?" he asked.

The reports thus far released have generally called for students to concentrate on fewer subjects and to spend more time in school.

The reports have identified teachers as central to improving education. They also have helped assure that improving education is high on national political agendas, he said.

In Michigan, partly as a reaction to increasing national concerns, a number of proposals have been developed by legislators, the State Board of Education and others, that call for lengthened instructional time, stiffer requirements for teachers and continual upgrading of teacher skills.

But the reports fail to consider the cost of the proposals they make, Meade said. Also, they fail to take into account knowledge of child and adolescent development. The reports look more at what adults want of school children, rather than study the interests and needs of the school children themselves, he said.

Meade also warned that "before we jump on the bandwagon of more" educational time, schools ought to look at the time students spend in classes now and see if it can be better used.

He also called for schools to make better use of community volunteers for support programs, and to use better students to help tutor their classmates.

And while the current reports stress the need to improve education, equality of education and equal access to education is just as important, he said. "If we don't have free and equal schools, we ought not to have excellence. Equity has got to factor in and be a part of any measures to improve schools," Meade said.

Responding to Mead, Don Cameron, executive director of the National Education Association, said the nation habitually lashes out at education and calls for improvements every 20 or so years.

Cameron said improving education will require increased salaries for teachers, otherwise "it's getting to the point where you have to have a Mother Theresa complex to get into education."

Elaine Stienkemeyer, president of the National Parent Teacher Association, said parents are willing to spend more for superior teachers and she called for greater involvement of parents and community leaders in the education process.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Ed Doolittle picked up a word somewhere last week and he couldn't wait to work it in the discussion at the country store Saturday night. He told the fellows he had thought the situation up one side and down the other, and he was full convinced that what AT&T is doing is acclimating the country.

How long has it been since we took free road maps, and free ambulances and free credit cards for granted, Ed ask. If we thought about these services at all, he went on, we saw em as loss leaders for gas stations, funeral homes and banks. How long was it, Ed wanted to know, before we all come to see that we ought to be paying for em. No longer than it took providers of the services to acclimate us.

So that's what Ma Bell is doing with a long distance access fee. We have took long distance for granted for so long we got to be acclimated to fact of telephone life. The lines are there all the time, so we got to understand that folks that make three long distance calls a month ain't doing their part to keep up the system. If you live in town you pay a base charge for water and sewer even if you don't use any. That's to keep up the system so it will be there when you need it. This is the way we got to think, Ed declared, if we are to see things AT&T's way.

We got to get acclimated to a new set of values, Ed went on, just like a feller use to driving 55 would have some adjusting to do if he got on a race track going twice that. But it wouldn't be long until 110 seemed like normal travel. Right now, AT&T is picking up speed. The Federal Communications Commission has give it all the time it needs. Since the FCC has put off a access fee decision until June 1985, Ma Bell has got more than a year to talk poor mouth, Ed noted. She already has told big users of long distance she won't be able to hold down rates like she could with the access fee.

Practical speaking, Ed went on, the access fee is bad, but the acclimating is smart. The big customers will come to see they're getting a bargain compared with the little customers, and the little voices won't be heard anyway. AT&T is saying it only wants $2 a month more at first, and it'll be years before the fee gets to $10.

Zeke Grubb said he didn't know from acclimating, but he saw where Ed was headed. The trick we got to learn is to see the access fee as a normal way of doing business, instead of seeing it as paying to get in the store that sells long distance. It's the same with Internal Revenue, Zeke said, we got to understand their position.

Per instant, Zeke said, if you see that the job of IRS is to get the money you got no problem with a new plan put in $100 billion in tax on unreported income. Zeke had saw where the IRS is using private mailing lists to find out if folks have more income than they pay tax on. These lists are got up by companies that aim their mail promotions at people at certain income levels, so IRS can match up what the companies say the people make and what the people tell IRS they make, Zeke ask is this acclimating or just plain sneaky.

Yours truly, Uncle Lew.

'Cook With Wine' Workshop Set By Extension Service

"Cook with Wine" is the topic for "Corner on the Kitchen," March 6, an educational program sponsored by Co-operative Extension Service. Virginia Newell, proprietor of the Party Center store and caterer will show how the magical touch of wine can transform a basic sauce and make it gourmet. She will discuss the use of quality wine vs. cheap wine in cooking and show how to use left-over wine. She will also explain how to choose the right wine for drinking to complement the taste of the meal. An entree dish, made with wine, will be demonstrated and tasted.

The program is at the County Service Center, 4133 Washtenaw, Ann Arbor at 7:30 p.m. There is a $2 fee to cover the cost of food for tasting. Call the Extension office (973-9510) to reserve a place.

An Expectant Parent class will be conducted by Mary Westhoff, M.D., pediatrician, and her staff from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. tomorrow. The class will be held at the Chelsea Pediatric Center, Beach Middle school, 445 A. D. Mayer Dr., Chelsea.

Topics to be covered include Preparing for the New Baby, Breast vs. Bottle Feeding, Health and Sick Care, Immunizations, Car Seats, Infant Care, Signs and Symptoms of Illness, Changes in Family Structure, and An Introduction into the Practice of Pediatrics.

Parents six months pregnant to near term are welcome. Refreshments will be served.

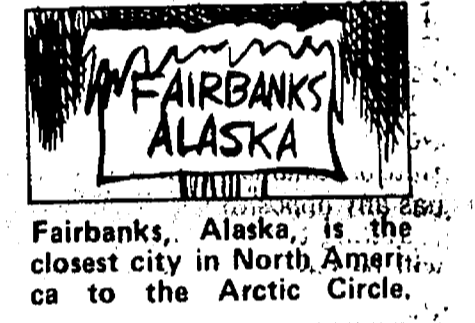

The class is free of charge; however, registration is requested, but not necessary.

Gayla Bauer Accepted By Cottey College

Gayla Renee Bauer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Bauer of 19917 Waterloo Rd., Chelsea, has been accepted by Cottey College, Nevada, Mo., as a first-year student.

Cottey is a two-year, residential liberal arts college for women. The college is owned and supported by the more than 220,000 members of the P.E.O. Sisterhood, a philanthropic educational organization dedicated to providing educational opportunities for women.

Gayla will graduate from Chelsea High school in the spring and will become a member of Cottey's student body of 350. The college maintains an 11-1 student-faculty ratio and stresses individual attention. The flexible liberal arts curriculum is designed for maximum ease of transfer to senior institutions following graduation from Cottey. The student body consists of young women from more than 40 states, Canada and several foreign countries.

Energy, Interior Design Program Offered March 8

Saving energy is important, but saving money is the primary goal. Energy and Interior Design is the title of a program being offered by the Washtenaw County Co-operative Extension Service Thursday evening, March 8, at 7:30 p.m. in the Extension Meeting Room at the County Service Center, 4133 Washtenaw, entrance off Hogback Rd.

Topics will include: a) Durable fabrics for sun designs, b) Furniture placement, c) Thermal mass, d) Appropriate window treatments, e) Protecting your valuables from sun degradation.

This information can help you make wise decisions about what carpets to buy, what fabrics will last longest when exposed to the sun.

Bring your questions about energy and interior design. Cynthia Fridgen, housing and energy specialist from Michigan State University will be available for discussion.

Pre-registration is requested for this free program which is available to all interested persons. Call 973-9510 by March 6.

Tyndale College Chorale Coming to Immanuel Church

The William Tyndale College Chorale will be in concert at Immanuel Bible church, 145 E. Summit St. Saturday, March 17 at 7 p.m.

The 35-voice choir, under the direction of Mark White, performs a finely balanced repertoire of sacred music including classical, traditional, spirituals and contemporary gospel. Also featured in their concert is the Tyndale Singers, a seven-member team, which travels on behalf of the college year-round to churches, schools, camps and various other events.

The Chorale presents its musical ministry throughout the metropolitan Detroit area, many states and Canada. Their 1984 Spring Tour will include concerts in Michigan, Ohio, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Iowa.

William Tyndale College is a four-year, accredited, co-educational college of biblical, liberal arts and professional studies. The campus is located in Farmington Hills.

Registration is currently in progress for the 1984 Spring Hockey League, sponsored by the City of Ann Arbor, Department of Parks and Recreation.

To be eligible, a player must fall in one of two categories: (1) must be 30 years of age or older, or (2) if under 30, may have "never-ever" played organized hockey. The only exception to this will be in the case of goalies, if enough "over 30" goalkeepers are not available.

The sign-up deadline will be March 23. Games will be played April 1 through May 17.

Only the first 90 players registering will be accepted. The individual fee is $78, which covers all costs, including ice time, officials, and "loaner" jersey.

Registration forms are available at Veterans Ice Arena, Stein and Goetz Sporting Goods, College Shoe Repair, and the Department of Parks and Recreation, located on the 5th floor of the City Hall building. Please call 761-7240 for further information.

The sign-up deadline will be March 23. Games will be played April 1 through May 17.

Only the first 90 players registering will be accepted. The individual fee is $78, which covers all costs, including ice time, officials, and "loaner" jersey.

Registration forms are available at Veterans Ice Arena, Stein and Goetz Sporting Goods, College Shoe Repair, and the Department of Parks and Recreation, located on the 5th floor of the City Hall building. Please call 761-7240 for further information.

Registration is currently in progress for the 1984 Spring Hockey League, sponsored by the City of Ann Arbor, Department of Parks and Recreation.

To be eligible, a player must fall in one of two categories: (1) must be 30 years of age or older, or (2) if under 30, may have "never-ever" played organized hockey. The only exception to this will be in the case of goalies, if enough "over 30" goalkeepers are not available.

World Day of Prayer Services Set Friday at St. Mary's School

World Day of Prayer services will be held at 9:30 a.m. Friday in St. Mary's school building gym. All Christian women in the community are invited to attend. Lyn Fowler, assisted by members of other churches, will present the program.

World Day of Prayer, an annual celebration sponsored by Church Women United, unites women of faith in some 5,000 communities in the United States and 170 countries around the globe in a common day of prayer.

This year marks the 97th consecutive observance of an event which began in 1887 as a day of prayer by lay women of the Presbyterian Church. Today, it includes countless thousands of Christian women of various races, cultures and traditions on six continents of the world.

This year the prayer service was written by Christian women in Sweden on the theme, "Living Water from Christ, Our Hope." The authors have used water as a focus, drawing upon many examples from scripture where this essential element symbolizes life and hope. In recognition of the fact that water is one of the most serious deprivations from which the world's people suffer, this service seeks to motivate not only prayer, but also action to alleviate physical and spiritual thirst in the world.

Church Women United is the national ecumenical movement which brings, Protestant, Roman Catholic, Orthodox and other Christian women together into one "community of caring." World Day of Prayer, together with World Community Day in November and May Fellowship Day in May, are three ecumenical celebrations sponsored annually by Church Women United.

A VIEW from the CLOCK TOWER

Bill Mullendore

"I had my first person-to-person encounter with the 'new' telephone system last week, and you can add my name to what seems to be a long and growing list of people who think the old one was better and that our federal government made one of history's more grievous blunders by legally mandating the change which went into effect last New Year's Day.

The old Bell System may have been a monopoly and it may have operated in restraint of trade, as the U. S. Justice Department charged but, by golly, it worked. It was a model of courteous, efficient, inexpensive service to its customers.

Back in what I now have to call "the good old days" even though they ended less than two months ago, you could call Ma Bell if you had a telephone problem. It would be taken care of right away, and there would be no quibbling over who was going to pay to do what. One of Ma's stalwart sons was at your door in a few minutes, and not long after that your disabled phone was working again.

Obviously, that kind of customer service cost something to deliver, and I am under no illusion that it was free. I'm sure every phone bill that I have paid during the past 40 years included a few extra cents to cover the cost of providing repair service when and if needed. By paying those pennies I was buying insurance against the day every few years when the phone went on the blink and I needed some help.

Last week our residence phone went dead. As my wife and I discovered, she couldn't call out, I couldn't call in. I dialed the "repair service" number listed in the directory and was put on a long period of "hold" while a recorded voice assured me that somebody live would talk to me sooner or later. Meanwhile my ear was assaulted by a mixture of squeaks and squalls and scratchy background music.

After about five minutes, the promised "live" person did come on the line and asked if she could help me. I explained that our telephone was out of order and that we wanted it fixed.

From there on the dialogue went something like this—
She—"But what is your problem?"
Me—"I thought I just told you. Our phone doesn't work."

She—"Is the trouble in the instrument or in the line leading to it?"
Me—"I have no idea. All I know is that the phone doesn't work."

She—"We have to know where the problem is. If it's in the line leading to the phone, it's our responsibility, and we will take care of it. If it's in the instrument, it's your responsibility to have it repaired."

Me (getting a bit testy)—"Are you telling me that you won't fix a telephone?"
She—"Repairing your phone is your responsibility."

Me—"Look, you own the phone. All we do is rent it from you by the month. If we damaged it, we would expect to pay to have it fixed, but we would still need to find somebody to do the repair."

She—"What kind of an instrument is it?"
Me—"It's a dial phone that hangs on the wall in our kitchen."

She—"Is it a modular phone?"
Me—"What's that?"

She—"Did you install it yourself?"
Me—"Yes. My wife had to drive into Ann Arbor to get it, a 40-mile round trip. Between us, we managed to decipher the instructions and get it hung up so it works, or at least it did until yesterday."

She—"All right, it's a modular phone. It's up to you to have it repaired."

Me—"I'm not sure the problem is in the instrument. We've been using it for only six months, and my experience is that telephones usually work longer than that. I think there may be something wrong in the lines."

She—"All right, we'll send someone out, but I want to warn you that if the problem is in the instrument you will have to pay the cost of our service representative's call."

Me—"Look, I want the telephone to work. I'll pay whatever I have to."

She—"Someone will be there between now and 6 o'clock tonight."

Me—"It's 8:30 in the morning now. Can you pin the time down any closer? My wife might have something better to do than sit home for nine hours waiting for your repairman to show up."

She—"We can't schedule service calls any more closely. I'm sorry. Good-bye." (Click.)

The man arrived quite soon afterward and was, according to my wife, as unfailingly courteous and accommodating as Bell employees at the home service level always have been. He spent some time determining there was nothing wrong with the phone instrument or the line in the house. Tracking back, he discovered that a squirrel had gnawed through the insulation on an outside line and chewed up enough cable to interrupt service. He fixed the damage, and our phone works.

I trust that I won't get a bill for the squirrel's odd appetite.

Monte Carlo Festival Slated Saturday Night At Chelsea Legion Home

Mrs. X of Chelsea is a very careful shopper when it comes to buying meat. A few cents a pound one way or the other results in a firm yes or no decision.

Next Saturday night at the Monte Carlo Festival in the Legion Home on Cavanaugh Lake she may be a much different person. There she will be waving $10,000 in gambling loot, bidding frantically against other players for a choice ham on the auction block. So she may have to pay an extra $50 a pound. So what?

Downstairs things may be even worse. John Z, a member of the Chelsea Rod & Gun Club who has never paid more than $59 for a shotgun in his life, will be standing in a crowd of auction bidders with craving in his eyes. Waving $500,000 won at the blackjack tables, he is making determined bids for a beautiful blue-barrelled 12-gauge Winchester.

Each man or woman who purchases a $5 donation ticket to the Monte Carlo gambling festival receives $1 million in money for use at blackjack and dice tables on the two floors of the Legion

Home Saturday, March 3. According to Bob Bauer, general chairman, play begins at 8 p.m. and continues until the wee hours of the morning. At intervals, auctions are conducted so that players may bid against each other for valuable prizes donated by local merchants.

The event this year is the second to be staged jointly by the Chelsea Rod & Gun Club and American Legion Post 31. Three hundred or more gamblers will have a lot of fun. Players who are hungry but reluctant to leave the tables may enjoy sandwiches purveyed by cheerful waitresses.

Best of all, there will be still more fun when the party is over. Proceeds from the event will be shared with one or more charitable organizations in the area. Last year Chelsea Home Meal Service received a generous check from the Monte Carlo event. This seems to be one gambling affair, strange to say, where everyone wins.

Tickets are still available at Streiter's Men's Wear or Chelsea Lumber Co.

Consumers Resource Handbook May Help Resolve Complaints

Every now and then we buy a product or a service and we're not completely satisfied. That new pair of boots falls apart in the first rainstorm, the family sedan knows the shop mechanic better than it knows the family, the brand-new blender sits in silence when it ought to be blending.

What to do? We can shrug our shoulders and swallow the loss. Or we can go to the store and tell the people off and leave in a huff. But that's still not going to correct the problem.

Often what we need are practical suggestions and names and addresses of people to contact. One of the best books to have when these problems arise is the Consumer's Resource Handbook, published by the United States Office of Consumer Affairs. Free copies are available from the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 601M, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

The first step, according to the Handbook, is to identify the problem and consider acceptable solutions. Have you read the instructions carefully and are you using the product correctly? What services are lacking? Do you want your money back? Would you like the product repaired or exchanged? What would you like the seller to do?

Next, gather sales receipts, contracts, repair orders, warranties, and cancelled checks, and contact the person who sold you the item or performed the service. Calmly and accurately explain the problem and what action you would like taken. If that person is not helpful, ask for the supervisor or manager and repeat your complaint. A large percentage of consumer problems are resolved at this level.

If that doesn't work, it's time to write a letter. Your best bet is to contact the person responsible for consumer complaints at the company's headquarters. The Consumer's Resource Handbook lists the names and titles of consumer contacts in hundreds of national companies. You can also get this information out of Standard & Poor's Register of Corporations, Directors and Executives, which lists more than 37,000 American business firms, and may be found in most libraries.

Your letter should be brief and to the point. Include all important facts, including the date and place of purchase and serial or model numbers. State exactly what you want done about the problem and how long you are willing to wait to get it resolved. Be courteous and reasonable. Avoid writing an angry, sarcastic, or threatening letter, and be sure your letter includes your name, address, and home and work phone numbers. Send copies of all pertinent documents and keep the originals for your records.

If you still don't get satisfaction, other avenues of recourse include trade associations, Better Business Bureaus, and state, county, and city consumer offices. The Consumer's Resource Handbook lists addresses and phone numbers for many of these. Consider also the "Action" or "Hot Line" services of local radio and TV stations. And if you have exhausted all other possibilities, the Consumer's Resource Handbook gives tips on how to use small claims courts.

When you order the Consumer Resource Handbook, you will also receive a free copy of the Consumer Information Catalog. Published quarterly by the Consumer Information Center of the U. S. General Services Administration, the free Catalog lists over 200 selected free and moderately priced government consumer booklets on a variety of subjects.

To prevent getting separated during a flood, some ants on the North American prairie cling together, forming a big ball, say naturalists. The ball becomes a floating raft that constantly tumbles, giving each ant a turn to breathe. Amazingly, few ants drown.

Beach Orchestra Sponsoring Candy Sale

Beach Middle school orchestra students will sponsor a candy sale, March 2 to March 12, to benefit the middle school Music Boosters Scholarship fund and to purchase sweaters for orchestra students.

This year they are selling candy sticks of various flavors.

Cash prizes will be awarded by grade level to students selling the most candy. There will also be a prize for over-all top seller.

Students must have a signed consent form to participate in the sale. Money will be collected on posted days before school begins. Candy will be distributed after classes on these same days. No candy will be sold during school hours.

The candy sale is being sponsored by the Orchestra Boosters, who are parents of orchestra students.

Workshop Offered For Test Takers

Chelsea High school, in cooperation with the Chelsea Community Education office, will hold a workshop for high school juniors who will take the American College Test (ACT) this spring (March 31 and June 9).

The workshop will be held at the high school on Saturday, March 17 from 8 a.m. to noon. The format will be four 50-minute sessions during which the students will cover the areas on the ACT—English, mathematics, natural science, and social science.

Fee for the workshop is $15. In addition, students must have a copy of Barron's Preparing for the ACT, 4th edition ($8.50).

These books may be purchased when students register at the Community Education office. Deadline for registration is Monday, March 5.

Any questions should be directed to the Community Education office, 475-9830 or to one of the instructors, Paul Terpstra, English; Ken Larson, mathematics; Sandra Kutschinski, natural science, and Jim Winter, social science, at the high school, 475-9131.

On Golden Pond Opening at Homer's True Grist Theatre

True Grist, Inc. dinner theatre and restaurant, is presenting a return production of "On Golden Pond" opening March 1 on the MainStage.

Ernest Thompson's award winning Broadway and film hit has become one of the most popular plays of the 1980's. Opening on Broadway in 1978, "Pond" made its Michigan premiere at True Grist in March of 1981, and has since been produced in dinner and community theatres across the country to delighted audiences. The Washington Post called Pond "richly comical on the surface, deeply moving below," and the Washington Star added, "you are likely to accept his (Thompson's) characters very quickly as family friends."

On Golden Pond is the loving portrait of an aging couple during their annual stay at their summer cottage. Norman Thayer (James Miller) is a retired college professor, irascible, intelligent and witty, and slightly senile around the edges... when it suits his purpose. Ethel (Lorna Winslow) is his loving, compassionate and very patient wife. Together they have built a resilient and mutually supportive relationship which is the core of this touching study of youth, age, and renewal.

Directed by Charles Burr, On Golden Pond opens March 1 for a five-week run. Already a sellout on several matinee dates, early reservations are suggested for best seating. Call 517-568-4151.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,
We would like to second the letter of last week written so well by John Muncer.

We have not needed our Chief of Police very often over the past several years, but when we have, he was there. He took the time to listen and advise. For those times we are grateful.

We hope this nightmare will soon be over and Bob Aeillo will be in his uniform back on our streets again.

Dave and Judy Staebler.

In the fourth quarter of 1983, earnings for both men and women 25 years and over and for women 18 to 24 years old rose by $10 or more, while there was no change among men 16 to 24 years old, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Chelsea SESQUICENTENNIAL

Chelsea Belles of 1959 Celebration Perform

Supreme Council Formed To Set Chapter Guidelines

Brothers of the Brush and the Chelsea Belles have formed a Supreme Council to set guidelines for the chapters to be formed. Railroaded into the president's position was Merritt Honbaum. On the same train was Karen Koch, who was elected secretary. Fun is the secret to the success of either group and fun is what the council has planned.

The rules are simple: Brothers of the Brush: There is no minimum nor a maximum to the size of the chapter, each person needs to purchase a kit including your official button and certificate (a button must be worn in any event), and some facial hair is a must. There are no boundary lines, if you live, or work in the Chelsea School District or just like Chelsea, you are welcome to join in the fun.

The Belles guidelines are very similar. A kit including an official button and certificate is included. (The official button must be worn in any event).

Clean Shaver buttons will be available to those who for some reason cannot grow a beard. They are welcome to join any chapter for a cost of $5 for the privilege.

Junior Brothers and Belles will be founded under the same guidelines with the exception of course, of growing facial hair. The cost for these kits is $2, same as for their seniors.

There will be a contest for those who wish to partake in the race for the first 10 chapter positions. A nose-egg race will determine the winner. Each chapter may enter one participant in what's expected to be an egg breaker. Reuben Lesser is contributing the eggs and as of this date has not decided whether to wash the eggs. Fun will be had by all. Tonight, Feb. 29 at 7:30 at the Chelsea High school gym.

Ticket Sale To Help Finance Sesquicentennial

Lottery tickets will be available beginning this week at local area merchants and through any sesquicentennial committee member. The tickets will cost $10 with no more than 1,500 to be sold.

Prizes totalling $5,000 will be given away at the Burial of Mr. Ray Zor on March 31 at 2 p.m. at the McKune Memorial Library. The ticket sale will benefit the Sesquicentennial Celebration and any monies left after the event will be distributed to local organizations.

Supreme Council Elects Officers

The Supreme Council of the Brothers of the Brush and Belles elected Merritt Honbaum of the North Lake area as president and Karen Koch of Fletcher Rd. as secretary. Area chairmen attended a meeting to set guidelines for forming chapters of the Chelsea Belles and Brothers of the Brush.

Representing the Village: Jerry Kenney (Sauerkraut Junction), Merle Leach and John Yelsik; Waterloo: John Klink, Lynn Klink; East: Archie Bradbury, Cindy Bradbury; South: Reuben Lesser, Gary and Karen Koch, Penny and Don Laier, Ken McCalla; North: Merritt Honbaum, Dave Scriven, Matt Hinzzen, Judy Olsen and Margaret Olson.

Please feel free to contact any of the above area chairmen if you have any questions concerning the formation of the chapters, or any Committee member.

Despite the growing popularity of recycling in many countries, reports say that only about one-fourth of all paper, aluminum, iron and steel is recycled. A report from Worldwatch Institute says that in 1981 people in the United States threw away more aluminum in the form of beverage containers than all the aluminum produced in Africa.

CREW PERSON
of the Month

Karen Esch, We're Proud You're One of Us!

When the McDonald's Corp. acquired the Chelsea store in mid-December, we wanted to establish the honorary Crew Person of the Month. For the first month, February, we have chosen a five-year veteran, Karen Esch. Karen, a 1981 graduate of North Sharon Christian School and life-time resident of Grass Lake, has proven herself worthy of this award by her outstanding performance and dependability. She comes from a family of seven, was active in volleyball, soccer, baseball and choir, and enjoys many crafts in her spare time. Upon receiving this award, Karen will also be granted a $50 U. S. Savings Bond. This is our way of saying we're proud to have her with us.

Weight Loss Guidelines

On with the old, off with the new. If that seems a bit backward, think of it in dieting terms. You have added on to the old you, now you want to get rid of that new weight. But, how many times have you promised to reform, only to give up? Maybe the latest diet fad will be the answer to your weight loss prayer.

If the only drawback of these diets were a dent in your illusions, then you would just end up a little wiser, even if not any lighter. However, many fad diets can be dangerous. The Food and Drug Administration has put together an article that will help you protect yourself from these fads. For your free copy of Weight Loss, send your name and address to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 81, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

Many of the popular fad diets give a confusing array of advice: Eat mostly protein foods and few, if any, carbohydrates. Eat almost all carbohydrates and little protein. Eat all you want, but start with grapefruit. Eat only rice (or ice cream or fruit or roughage). If you followed all of this advice, you might be close to a balanced diet.

So before you start any major diet, do a number of things. Consult with your doctor, and, possibly, with a nutritionist or a dietitian. Do some reading on the basics of nutrition and how they relate to the claims made by some of these diets.

What are the claims and what is the reality?

One kind of fad diet that promises a fast track to leanness is the high protein, low carbohydrate diet. The danger is that a low carbohydrate diet will throw the body into ketosis—a mode of burning calories that resembles the body's reaction to fasting. It can lead to an acid and alkaline imbalance in the body, and makes the body excrete large amounts of urine which can lead to dehydration. Since most of the weight loss is from water loss, not fat loss, most people put the weight back on when they return to normal eating.

School Board Notes

Present at a regular meeting of the Chelsea Board of Education Monday, Feb. 20 were Schumann, Heller, Dils, Grau, Feeney, ComEAU, Redding, Assistant Superintendent Mills, Principals Wojcicki and Benedict, Community Education Director Rogers, guests.

Meeting called to order at 8 p.m. by President Dale Schumann.

Board approved the minutes of the Feb. 8 meeting.

President Schumann recognized Suzanne DeVries, South school teacher, for her hard work and efforts with children in the field of drama, especially her annual presentation of "Christmas Around the World."

Also recognized by President Schumann was Bob Bullock, South school teacher, for his leadership with his 5th grade class to plan, raise funds, and purchase materials for the South school sign.

Assistant Superintendent Mills reviewed the five-year maintenance millage plan. The maintenance millage encompasses a five-year plan that is subject to annual review. The plan designates the expenditures for roofing, sidewalks, painting, athletic facilities, and minor construction, etc., for all the district buildings and departments.

The board approved a 220-day contract for the Child Accounting secretarial position at the high school. The employee's contract calls for 190 days; however, because of additional responsibility, she currently works approximately 220 days per year.

The board approved meeting date changes for April. Board meetings will be held on April 9 and April 23.

The board approved the application of two coats of red structural spray for the high school track at a cost of $3,500. This application will add 3 to 5 years' life to the track, and will save money on reeling expense. Normal cost of this spray is approximately $8,000. This is a maintenance millage expenditure.

The board Finance Committee will meet on March 12 to review the first draft of the 1984-85 budget.

Meeting adjourned at 9:10 p.m.

In the fourth quarter of 1983, the median usual weekly earnings for full-time wage and salary workers were $327. Women's earnings, at $260, remained about two-thirds those of men ($393), according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the U. S. Department of Labor.

Someday, you'll want a choice of how to retire.

That's why we give you a choice of IRAs today.

When you retire, you'll want to have the financial freedom to choose your retirement activities. That's where having an IRA at Citizens Trust can help. Our fixed-rate IRAs give you a choice—of terms and rates. And you can start with a deposit of just $1,000. We also offer a floating-rate plan that may be opened with just a $100 deposit.

Whichever IRA you choose—fixed or floating rate—you'll build a comfortable "nest egg" that will allow you to enjoy your retirement years. Doing whatever it is that pleases you most. And isn't that what freedom is all about?

Maximum annual contribution eligible is $2,000. Withdrawal prior to age 59½ incurs substantial tax penalty except for death or disability. Early withdrawal from any certificate of deposit incurs substantial interest penalty.

LOOK AT MOISTURE, YIELDS AND LODGING TEST RESULTS.

Then look at the $4 SAVINGS per bag.

In 21 out of 32 field tests, our PSX 93 and 105 ranked lower than average in moisture. In 19 out of 32 tests, they ranked higher than average in bushels per acre. And in 24 out of 32 tests, they had less stalk lodging than the average. Seven tests noted significantly better than average yields and in some cases, there was zero lodging. These are the results of the 1983 Michigan Agricultural Experiment Station corn trials.

As you can see, our Premium Single Cross Hybrids are far better than average performers. We've sold more seed corn so far this season than any previous period. That's why you should come in soon while selection and savings are best.

What About Implementing the National Reports' Recommendations

In the previous article I alluded to the many national reports—the Nation at Risk, the Carnegie Report, the John Goodlad Report, and the many state-level reports. In that article I spoke specifically to what had prompted those reports. Essentially I discussed the decline in productivity and the analysis that American society expects the schools to solve the problems of society. Now the question is, "Can these recommendations be implemented to strengthen the public schools educational system?"

I personally believe that many things can be done to improve public school education. Some of them cost money and some could be initiated without additional funding. When the State Board of Education released its recommendations in December, the Detroit Free Press headline that followed that news release was "Improvements To Cost $500 Million."

In taking a national perspective, the American Association of School Administrators indicates the recommendations of the national reports would cost an additional $21 billion.

The Commission of States indicates it would cost an additional $60 billion.

For illustrative purposes, let's assume the additional cost to be $40 billion.

Currently the United States spends $115 billion for public school education. The additional cost of $40 billion would bring the total education budget to $155 billion. Now compare the educational expenditure to the national defense budget which is currently $255 billion. I submit that if money would correct all the educational ills, this country can afford to do it if we put education in as high a priority as we do national defense.

As recommendations are implemented, it would be well for people to realize that that can be a cumbersome task because of the diversity of the United States school systems. Michigan has 523 school systems; Hawaii has one; Nebraska has 1,300. There are 18,778 school systems in the United States. In contrast, Japan operates on a single district curriculum, as does Russia. So if changes are to be made, we need to realize that the diversity of our public schools, which is good, also can slow down the implementation of recommendations.

Most of us champion local control of schools, but I think we will have to look at some kind of a reorganization of schools for the sake of efficiency. The good news is that Americans in general prize good schools. The Gallup Poll indicates that people in a given community want good schools, and I believe that most Americans share with me the faith that public schools can continue to improve the welfare of this country's citizens.

More than 40 percent of the world's rain forests have been cut down or burned down. Studies indicate this is reducing rainfall and increasing temperatures—perhaps affecting global weather patterns.

HOUSE TORN DOWN: A house on a hill overlooking Green Lake off M-52 north of Chelsea is being torn down by the Department of Natural Resources. Salvage lumber and other materials will be trucked to the Ft. Custer Recreation Area near Battle Creek for use in construction work there. The house is on land owned by the DNR as part of the Waterloo Recreation Area and formerly was rented to Department employees stationed at the park. Staff cutbacks left it unneeded for that purpose. Park Ranger Sam Korrick is shown doing some clean-up work at the site.

Saline Valley Project Revised

USDA agencies in Washtenaw and Monroe counties were advised recently that the revised work plan for the Saline Valley Rural Clean Water Project had been approved and that the Local Coordinating Committee could accept requests and approve contracts for conservation measures to reduce non-point pollution from farmland.

The revised plan of work for the Saline Valley Rural Clean Water Project reduced the size of the original project plan, approved in 1980, to 76,600 acres. The project area now includes parts of the Saline River and Macon Creek Watersheds, and will allow USDA agencies to concentrate their efforts in the area with the greatest erosion and water quality problems.

"We want to learn what impact soil conservation measures have on water quality and whether or not land users will apply needed soil and water conservation measures when technical, financial, and management assistance from the USDA are not limiting factors" said Morse Brown, District Conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service at Ann Arbor.

The Saline Valley project is one of 21 USDA projects in the nation to determine what improvement in water quality can be achieved through voluntary application of best management practices to control erosion and runoff. Extra technical assistance and cost-share funds have been made available to farmers in the Saline Valley area to accelerate application of needed soil conservation practices.

The Soil Conservation Service has added a soil conservationist and a soil conservation technician to the staff in the Ann Arbor Field Office to help farmers in the area plan and apply conservation practices to their land.

Ron Struss with the Co-operative Extension Service is responsible for information and education programs to stimulate land user participation, and keep people aware of the program and the progress being made. Struss is also responsible for helping farmers develop fertilizer management programs to meet crop needs and reduce nutrient runoff.

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service had $1,888,000 to help farmers in the project area pay for needed conservation measures. The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, responsible for administering the program, will pay 75% of the costs for installing most conservation measures up to $50,000 per farm during the life of each contract. Cost-share for cover crops is limited to 50%.

USDA's goal is to have 200 water quality contracts with local land users by 1985 when accelerated assistance will be terminated. Fifty-eight farmers have already agreed to apply the best management practices to control erosion and runoff on their farms with assistance from the USDA agencies.

"This is an experiment to evaluate the effectiveness of the voluntary approach to soil conservation" said Brown. "We want to send the most accurate and valid message possible to Congress on the voluntarily approach to water quality problems."

Pesticide Recertification Tests Slated

A number of farmers have received notice from the Michigan Department of Agriculture that their pesticide certification has or will expire shortly. To help you renew your certification, a test will be held Thursday, March 15, in the East Classroom of the Parks & Recreation building, 4133 Washtenaw, Ann Arbor. This building is directly west of the Co-operative Extension Service office. There are two test times: 9 a.m. to 12 noon; 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

If you can't make this meeting, the same test will be given at the Jackson County Co-operative Extension Service, 412 Erie St., Jackson, on Wednesday, March 28, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. You may also take the test at the regional Detroit office, State Fairgrounds, Gate 2, every Tuesday and Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.; other days are by appointment. The telephone number is (313) 368-8160. The Lansing regional office offers the test by appointment Tuesday through Thursday. Their phone number is (517) 373-1087. They are located in the Ottawa Building, 4th Floor (two blocks west of the State Capitol) in Lansing.

If you have any questions, please call Bill Ames at the Co-operative Extension Service office, 973-9510.

Conservation District Offers Tree Seedlings

Washtenaw County Soil Conservation District announces its annual tree and shrub seedling sale for 1984. Orders for planting stock will be accepted until April 9, on a first-come, first-served basis. Seedlings will tentatively be distributed on Saturday, April 28, at the Washtenaw County Road Commission garage.

Planting stock available this spring includes: Austrian Pine, Red Pine, White Pine, Norway Spruce, White Spruce, Colorado Blue Spruce, Douglas Fir, Black Walnut, Tartarian Honeysuckle, Silky Dogwood and Emerald Crownvetch seed. Wildlife Packets, an assortment of 50 evergreen trees and shrubs for wildlife habitat plantings will also be offered. Prices are reasonable for the one- to two-year-old seedlings, which vary in size between three and six inches. The main purpose of the District's tree program is to assist landowners in obtaining tree and shrub seedlings at low cost for reforestation, windbreaks, erosion control and wildlife habitat improvement. Order forms containing information on the available species, site preference, uses and prices may be obtained from the Soil Conservation District Office.

For more information on the District's tree program, or to obtain an order form for tree and shrub seedlings, contact the Washtenaw County Soil Conservation District at 6101 Jackson Rd., Ann Arbor 48103. Telephone (313) 761-8721.

If a vampire bat attacks, you might not even notice it. According to naturalists, vampire bats sneak up on sleeping "victims" and lap, not suck, the blood from a wound. And the bats usually only swallow about one teaspoon each meal.

Move Begins for Referendum On Reapportionment Bill

P.A.G.E. (People Against Gerrymandering Efforts), a grassroots political group based in Brighton, began circulating 50,000 petitions today. The petitions will subject HB 4481, the Reapportionment Bill, to a referendum. HB 4481 was passed last Dec. 29 to redraw the district lines amid much controversy and unusual political pressures.

"Because they have permanently raised our taxes to pay for their increases in the state budget, they don't want to have to answer to the people who have elected them," Chrysler said. "Good government should be by the people and for the people, not for the politicians."

P.A.G.E. has less than 36 days to collect 152,000 signatures to P.A.G.E. founder, Richard Chrysler, stated accountability and good government are the issue P.A.G.E. will focus on.

Pioneer Craft Fair Slated March 17

Mark Saturday, March 17 on your calendar and plan to come to the Dexter Area Historical Society's 11th annual Pioneer Craft Fair from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Dexter High school gym.

See 60 talented artisans demonstrating their interesting old time crafts. There will be door prizes generously donated by their makers: a catalogue (rag) rug by John Wooden, a Teddy Bear by Betty Zabinsky, and a Nantucket basket made by Rose and Chuck Van Aken.

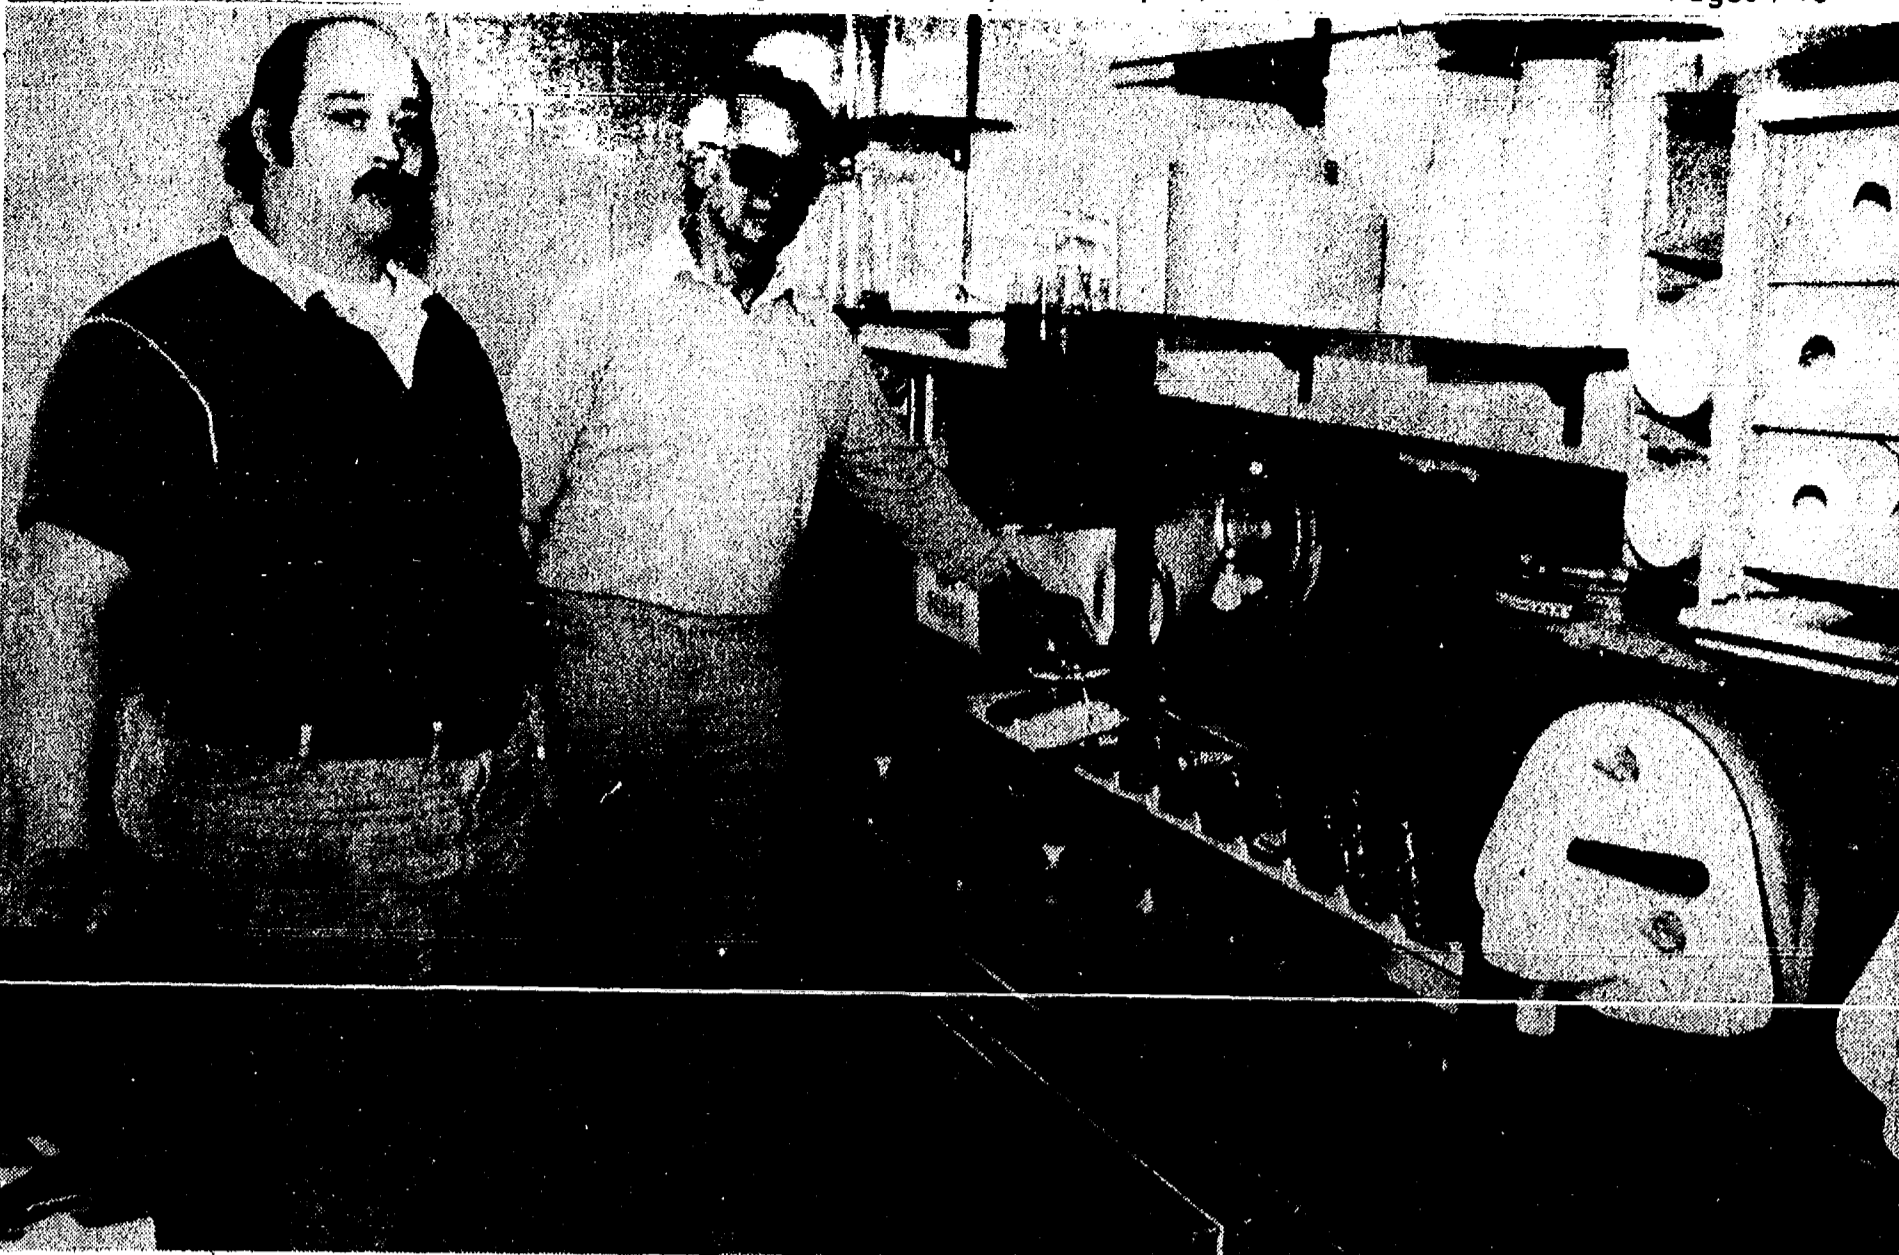

There will be a bake sale, items from the Museum Gift Shop, cookies baked to eat on the spot, and a delicious lunch of knock-wurst, hot dogs, sauerkraut, German potato salad, home-made pies and cakes, and beverages provided by the Dexter Heritage Guild.

DAIRY QUEEN FRANCHISE DROPPED: Bob and John Niehaus are remodeling the kitchen of their restaurant, the former Dairy Queen, now called Niehaus Ice Cream and Food, at 901 S. Main as they prepare to open March 1. With the new name comes a larger menu. The new store will expand its menu by offering, besides ice milk, hard ice cream, specialty sundaes, sodas and shakes. Besides the standard ice cream fare, the menu will also include 100 percent fresh ground beef and three kinds of stuffed potatoes. The Niehauses, who opened the Dairy Queen in 1969, say they decided to drop the Dairy Queen franchise because it limited what they could offer customers.

Snowshoeing Means Winter Fun in Michigan

My four-year-old daughter was wide-eyed: "Daddy, there's a man on television skiing on tennis racquets!" This I had to see. Moments later, I had explained to her that the 'tennis racquets' were, in fact, snowshoes and that the man was using them to walk over deep, soft snow into which he would sink to his waist or beyond without them. I had also succeeded in piquing my own interest in trying my hand at this ancient practice that is growing into a popular pastime.

Two weeks later, I found myself in the care of Tom Hall of the Iverson Snowshoe Co. of Shingleton in Michigan's Upper Peninsula. Iverson not only manufactures snowshoes but also conducts wintertime tours through the Hiawatha National Forest and along the Famous Pictured Rocks National Lakeshore where Tom was fitting me with a pair of cross-country snowshoes. I later learned that these wood-and-webbing devices come in several sizes and shapes, each designed for the terrain and conditions for which it is best suited.

"There really isn't much technique involved," said Tom. "If you can walk, you can snowshoe." Not quite. If you're going to fall on snowshoes, it'll probably be within the first two minutes. I nearly did. Fortunately, there was only Tom with me and he couldn't see my off balanced thrashing since he was in the lead. Solitude isn't just good for the soul; it's great for the ego if you're a greenhorn.

Still, it doesn't take long at all to establish a walking pattern whereby one avoids treading upon one snowshoe with the other and I was soon striding with confidence among snow-laden pines and ON TOP of several feet of white powder. Each step was punctuated by a soft crunching sound as the snowshoe sank no more than a few inches into the snow.

The Pictured Rocks area of Michigan's Lake Superior coast is breathtaking in any season. In winter, it offers a fantasy of colorful sandstone formations, pine forest, frosted waterfalls, blue-green curtains of ice, and an extra-thick carpet of snow from which to marvel at them. This I did besides occasionally stopping at small streams to hear nothing except the trickle of water among the rocks.

We had just climbed to the top of a bluff for a commanding view of frozen Munising Bay and Grand Island with its spectacular ice formations. I noticed that, in spite of the zero-degree temperature, I had become extremely warm and that Tom had widened his lead on me by about 25 yards. "People who are runners in the summer often take up snowshoeing in winter because it's actually better aerobic exercise than other winter sports like cross-country skiing," he said. I'm convinced. A word of advice to other newcomers to the sport: Bring a backpack and layer your clothing to avoid overheating.

The "walk" back down was flat-out fun. I found that, if you choose, you can even do a bit of controlled "skiing" in the steeper areas.

Though all who are acquainted with the sport seem to agree that it is a burgeoning recreational activity, snowshoeing has a purely utilitarian heritage. French explorers in Michigan in the early 17th century were amazed at the ease with which native Americans moved over soft snow in search of game. The fact is, they had been doing so for several thousand years.

"Until the energy crunch, snowshoeing was looked upon as a hunting or trapping activity," says Walt Treadwell of the Viking Snowshoe Co. of Cadillac. "Now it's a family affair too." Both Viking and Iverson welcome visitors into their factories to watch long rods of Michigan white ash being fashioned into one of history's oldest conveyances.

To this day, snowshoes are as practical as they are fun. According to George Field, president of Iverson: "Some of our best customers are utility companies, the National Park Service, and even the U. S. Marine Corps." In addition, many snowmobilers have learned the value of carrying snowshoes as "spare tires" in case of breakdowns.

Snowshoeing can be a new world of enjoyment for anyone wherever there's public land, beautiful scenery, and snow. Michigan has plenty of all three.

The first Huron-Clinton Metropark opened on May 30, 1948. This date officially began public use of Kensington Metropark, which now covers 4,350 acres—including Kent Lake of 1,200 acres. The site was in the midst of construction, however visitors came to view newly man-made Kent Lake or picnic. Swimming was available at one beach site. One of the key attractions has always been the natural beauty of hilly terrain.

District Basketball Tournament Opens Here Monday Night

Chelsea will host this year's six-team district basketball tournament with play beginning Monday night and ending Saturday in the high school gym. Tickets for each game are $2.

Jackson Northwest (7-12 on the season) and Dexter (9-10) drew byes in the first round.

Tecumseh (8-11) and Brooklyn Columbia Central (17-2) will clash in the tournament's opening game at 6 p.m. Monday, March 4. Chelsea (7-11) and Jackson Lumen Christi (12-7) will take the floor at 8 p.m. the same evening.

Northwest will meet the winner of the Tecumseh-Brooklyn game at 7:30 Wednesday, March 7. Dexter will get into action against the Chelsea-Lumen Christi victor at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 8.

The final contest to determine the champion will be played at 7:30 p.m. Saturday night, March 10.

Lumen Christi is the defending titlist, winning on its home court after having experienced a losing season, and its record suggests Lumen Christi will be a contender again this year.

Columbia Central probably will be favored in the district on the basis of its outstanding 17-2 regular season mark, but state tournament history suggests that records mean little, especially at the district level. Lumen Christi's "upset" victory last year was not at all unusual.

Mike, Kim Fouty Win Tourney

Results of the Mixed Scotch Doubles Bowling Tournament, held Feb. 19, at Chelsea Lanes are as follows: Mike and Kim Fouty ($200), 723; Cindy Gregory and Ken Sullins ($100), 685; Lisa and Paul Stahl ($50), 682; Bob and Gladys Reed ($25), 657; Diana and Robert Baird, 656; David St. Louis and Helen Fox, 656; John and Denise Marek, 650; Paul and Terri Scherd, 648; Tom and Sarah Steele, 644; Mike and Gail Williamson, 643.

The tournament was sponsored by the Chelsea Co-op Nursery school in co-operation and with the assistance of Ed and Kathy GreenLeaf and their staff at Chelsea Lanes.

A complete list of participants and standings is posted at the Chelsea Lanes and at the Chelsea Co-op Nursery school, 11000 Dexter-Chelsea Rd.

SEC ROUND-UP:

Milan Clinches Title, Lincoln Is Second

Milan and Lincoln will be playing for pride Friday night when they meet in the championship game of the Southeastern Conference tournament in Tecumseh's gym. Tip-off time is 8 p.m.

Dexter and Saline will meet in a consolation clash at 6:30 p.m. to decide third and fourth places in both the tournament and the final league standings.

Milan has won the SEC title, and there isn't a darned thing Lincoln can do about it. The Big Reds took care of that last Friday night with a hard-fought 50-43 victory over stubborn Dexter in a game that was even a little closer than the score.

Lincoln had clinched second place by beating Saline, 67-64, in a squeaker the night before, and could have tied Milan for the league crown, or even won it outright, by going on to take the tournament.

All of those fascinating possibilities evaporated with Milan's triumph over Dexter. The only question is whether Milan will lead Lincoln by eight points or two when the final standings are compiled following Friday's games.

Chelsea and Tecumseh definitely are tied for last place in the league, each with eight points, and that won't change either.

Dexter and Saline will either wind up tied for third and fourth, or Dexter will be third outright, depending on which wins Friday.

Final league standings and records will be published next week.

Chelsea Loses Both Starts In Conference Tourney

Back when the basketball season began, you would have been called a fool or worse had you predicted that Chelsea's varsity cagers would wind up at the bottom of the Southeastern Conference heap.

Yet that's exactly what happened as the Bulldogs stumbled after a strong early start and never really recovered their stride during the rest of the campaign.

The final blow was a pair of losses in the SEC tournament—to Dexter, 55-49, and to Tecumseh, 71-52. The latter left the Bulldogs tied with Tecumseh for fifth and sixth places in the final standings in the six-team league.

Chelsea was to wind up its regular season tonight with a game at Dearborn, before heading into its role as host of the district tournament starting next Monday night.

The tourney gives the Bulldogs their last chance to salvage some glory from what has been a disappointing season for themselves and their followers. While a district championship for Chelsea doesn't seem likely, stranger things have happened.

Last season Jackson Lumen Christi used its home court advantage to excellent effect and won the district title despite having had a mediocre season.

Dexter 55, Chelsea 49
Dexter jumped out to an early lead, fought off several Chelsea rallies which almost but never quite tied the score, then pulled ahead with a 9-2 burst early in the fourth quarter.

The Bulldogs lost despite a tremendous individual effort by senior forward Marty Steinhauer who had a game-high 26 points, hitting 10 of 15 floor shots and 6 of 7 from the foul line, despite being double-teamed most of the game.

Dexter had more success in shutting down David Kiel, the other half of Chelsea's one-two scoring punch, holding him to just one field goal and two points for the game.

Dreadnaught coach Jim McCormack employed a collapsing zone defense designed to stop Kiel from getting the ball inside and from doing anything with it if he did.

Rapidly improving sophomore guard Eric Mielstrup led the Dreadnaughts with 16 points, including several long jumpers from far out. The other half of Dexter's backcourt combination, Dan Schlaff, put in 12.

Center Daryl Dittmer was below his average with nine points and eventually fouled out. Mike Arbour also had nine.

Nobody besides Marty Steinhauer got into double figures for Chelsea. David Steinhauer scored eight points and Keith Niebauer six.

Tecumseh 71, Chelsea 52

There are some athletic contests about which the less said the better, and last Thursday's Chelsea-Tecumseh basketball game was one of those, especially if you are a Chelsea fan.

Fans for either team weren't much in evidence as the game was played in a near empty gym. That was a bit surprising, considering that Tecumseh was the home team as the site for the SEC tournament.

In a way it's too bad the Indian rooters stayed home. They missed seeing a fine shooting exhibition as Tecumseh hit 25 of 52 (48 percent) from the floor and 21 of 28 (75 percent) from the line. Bob Foster paced the Indians with 24. Chelsea scored only five first-quarter points to go down by six, and never made a real run at the lead as the Indians steadily widened their margin to the eventual 19.

Bulldog guard Glenn Prinzing, getting more playing time than usual, led the Bulldogs with 13 tallies. Marty Steinhauer had 12 and Keith Niebauer.

Freshman Cagers Share League Title

Chelsea's up-and-coming freshman basketball team finished its season with a fine 10-6 record and a Southeastern Conference co-championship shared with Saline. The ninth-graders tripped Milan, 56-53, in their final game.

Good shooting from both the field and foul line produced the victory. The Bulldogs were 22 of 48 from the floor and 12 of 19 from the stripe, both good marks for freshmen.

Matt Bohlender led the Chelsea scoring with 14 points, Mark Bareis had 13, Matt Steinhauer 11 and Jon Lane 10. Bohlender was also the leading rebounder with 13, followed by Steinhauer with seven and Bareis six.

The young Bulldogs were 4-6 on the season at one point, then came on strong to win six straight.

A pleased and proud coach Ted Hendricks, who was happy to have tutored a winner in his first season of coaching, gave credit to his pupils. "They learned well and worked hard," he said. "They made a lot of progress during the season."

Chelsea And Dexter Could Meet

Dexter took a one-up lead in its season basketball series with arch-rival Chelsea by beating the Bulldogs, 55-49, in the Southeastern Conference tournament last week, but there could be still another game between the two.

It all depends on how things go in the district tournament at Chelsea next week in which both teams are entered.

Dexter drew a bye in the first round, while Chelsea must play Jackson Lumen Christi. Should the Bulldogs get past Lumen Christi, which won't be easy, they would then play Dexter in the second round.

While it's not unheard-of for two high school teams to play each other four times during a basketball season it is definitely unusual and can only happen through some such combination of regular games and tournaments as occurred this winter.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BILL MULLENDRE

Before the Southeastern Conference basketball season opened last December, nobody said much about Milan. Chelsea and Lincoln were tabbed as co-favorites. If Milan was mentioned at all, it was as a middle-of-the-pack contender for third place.

By hindsight, that was a mistake which this reporter shared with a lot of other people. Brushing off the Big Reds in basketball is just begging to be made to look foolish. Milan under coach Ron Dingman and his predecessors has built a tradition of being tough on the court year in and year out.

Big Red cage teams are always well coached and ready to play. If they have any talent at all—and this year's team definitely has some—you can bet they will be competitive, maybe not always winners but always close.

The statistics of Milan's season are impressive enough: a fancy 15-3 mark over-all, 9-1 in the SEC regular season, 1-0 in the conference tournament with another game to play, a league crown already clinched ahead of the tournament championship contest Friday night.

I'm told by those who have watched the Big Reds a lot more than I that they haven't played a really bad game all season long. Their three losses came in contests in which they played well but their foes played a little better.

That kind of consistency is rare in basketball, and especially uncommon in high school ball. It's the quantity that produces championships. Ask any coach, and he'll tell you that his goal in any game is for his team to play four quarters of consistent basketball. The teams that yo-yo up and down, scoring and being scored on in spurts, are exciting and frustrating by turns. They are also usually losers.

I saw Milan play just twice this year, in both of its victories over Chelsea, and was impressed by their poise, discipline and calm confidence (not to be confused with cockiness). They meshed well as a team. While their chief strength is in their backcourt, they aren't weak anywhere, including the all-important bench.

Already around the league people are saying that Saline is the team to beat next year, citing this season's senior-less varsity squad and a strong JV team. Maybe so, but I'll be taking a look at Milan before sticking my neck out with any predictions.

Milan's Ron Dingman is a shoo-in to be SEC basketball coach of the year, and he deserves the honor, but herewith a special mention for Dexter's Jim McCormack, who brought a young and inexperienced team a long way over the course of the season and had them capable of playing with anybody at the end.

There was no disgrace at all in Dexter's 50-43 loss to Milan in the tournament game that locked up the title for the Big Reds. The Drednaughts gave the champions all they wanted and led mid-way through the final period before going down. It took some fancy free throw shooting for Milan to pull it out.

McCormack is a master at coaching defense. His teams usually hold opponents considerably under their season points-per-game average. Milan, for example, was averaging 65 going into the Dexter game and scored just 50 against the Drednaughts, including only 16 field goals.

I haven't seen enough SEC action to pretend to pick an all-league team. Of the players I did see enough of to make any kind of judgment, Milan's Ron Dingman, Jr., and Dexter's Daryl Dittmer struck me as two who belong for sure on the all-star squad. Chelsea's Marty Steinhauer is up there close, as are Lincoln's Quinn Chambers and Rod Turrentine.

Swimmers Win Their Invitational

Chelsea High school swimmers won the Chelsea Invitational Swim Meet for the fifth time in seven years, defeating the fourth, sixth and eighth ranked class B swim teams in the state. Chelsea swimmers carried the victory by earning 312 points, while Sturgis came in a distant second with 250 points, followed by Bridgman 242 points, Cherry Hill 201 points and Adrian 196 points.

Chelsea got off to a fast start with Kraig Leach winning the diving competition and setting a meet record. Chelsea's other first place finisher, Ted Merkel, defended his title and won the breaststroke. Chelsea's victory was highlighted by a superior team effort—it won only two races—as 19 of 23 swimmers placed and scored in the meet. Results are as follows:

Mike Coffman, Scott Pryor, Kevin Colombo, 1:53.

Interstate Park Will Feature Two New Softball Diamonds

Softball leagues are now forming for the newly constructed Interstate 94 Park. The two new softball fields which were specifically designed for adult softball are located at 13380 Luick Dr., just one mile southeast of the village of Chelsea.

The new softball park promises to be not only one of the nicest designed but the best run facility in the area. The league hopes to draw good competition from the surrounding villages.

The Interstate Park will play ball June 23 with a men's Class C 16-team invitational slow pitch tournament.

EMU Awards Local Scholarships

Rebecca Schlupe of Chelsea and Sarah P. Platt of Manchester are among 132 state high school students selected to receive Recognition of Excellence scholarships from Eastern Michigan University.

Winners of the awards must have earned at least a 3.5 grade-point average in high school or community college and demonstrated outstanding leadership ability.

On the theory that rotten eggs are near the top of the world's most-offensive-smell list, some Louisiana farmers are spraying soybean fields with a diluted egg mixture to discourage deer from nibbling on young plants.

Plans are presently for Slow Pitch Leagues consisting of a Men's Double Header "C" League, Men's "D" League, Mixed Church League and possibly a Co-Ed League. The leagues will be determined by the amount of interest expressed for each. Also several summer tournaments are planned.

The facility will boast a concession stand and restrooms. Home run fences will be constructed before the first games. All leagues will abide by American Softball Association rules.

Anyone who would like more information or have a team interested in joining a league, please call Art Farley at 475-3409 or Craig Coltre at 475-3485. There will be a meeting for anyone interested, March 22, at 7 p.m. in the Mark IV basement at Chelsea Lanes.

Russell Bengel, Wife Give Million Dollars To Wildlife Work

A Jackson couple has donated $1 million for wildlife habitat, the largest gift to a conservation organization in Michigan history. Ruth and Russell Bengel made the donation to the Michigan Wildlife Habitat Foundation to establish a private-sector program to benefit the wildlife of our state.

Dan Robbins of Jackson, president of the foundation, announced the Bengel gift. Robbins stated, "The board of trustees has been challenged to develop a meaningful state-wide program for the use of these funds. Although the Bengels did not request an endowment fund be established, certainly the foundation will want to make this gift a lasting wildlife benefit."

The foundation board of trustees will meet March 10 in Southfield to consider use of the bequest.

The Bengels have been long-time users of the outdoors and in making the contribution stressed the importance of private support of wildlife programs. "Ruth and I have taken 70 years of enjoyable experiences from our natural resources, and now it is time to put something back for others to enjoy," Bengel said. "With our contribution, we want to set an example for others to follow. There must be many other Michigan people who are willing to help wildlife by making capital investments in the habitat necessary to sustain all wild creatures."

Russell Bengel, 85, has long been an active supporter of conservation in Michigan and nationally. He served on the Michigan Conservation Commission, predecessor to the Natural Resource Commission, from 1940-46. In the 1940's he became active in Ducks Unlimited because of his love for waterfowl and a desire to help stabilize their rapidly declining numbers. Mr. Bengel has served as senior vice-president of Ducks Unlimited and as vice-president of Ducks Unlimited Canada.

In 1979, Bengel was a founder of the Michigan Waterfowl Foundation, later expanded and renamed the Michigan Wildlife Habitat Foundation. The present foundation is a culmination of his dream to establish a state organization to work on wildlife habitat restoration projects for all species. When making the contribution Bengel stated, "Michigan conservationists now have the Michigan Wildlife Habitat Foundation to use as a vehicle to start on major wildlife restoration projects particularly those on private lands where government funds can't be used."

In 1980, Bengel received the coveted Miles Pirnie Wetlands Award, sponsored by the Michigan Duck Hunters Association, for life-long contributions to Michigan wetlands programs.

Ruth Bengel, 82, is also an avid outdoorsperson. Each spring and fall for many years she fished in Canada with her husband, and occasionally accompanied him on hunting trips to northern Michigan. Mrs. Bengel has been interested in gardening, nature and wildlife.

Other affiliation for the Bengels include the Michigan and National Audubon societies, Jackson County Outdoor Club, MUCC, and The Diggers Garden Club of Jackson.

OUT IN THE OPEN

By BILL MULLENDORE

A news release from the Department of Natural Resources reminds me to remind you that you have the choice to make a donation to Michigan's Nongame Wildlife Fund by checking the box on line 33b of your state income tax return form. It's a good cause, and I commend it to your attention.

The DNR notice highlights the common loon as one species of wildlife intended to be helped by the tax check-off. Despite their name, the birds are not common, and are dwindling in numbers not only in Michigan but all across the country. And loons are certainly not common in the sense of being ordinary. They come close to being unique in the bird world.

Here is some miscellany about loons. In the first place such epithets as "loony" and "crazy as a loon" have nothing whatever to do with the bird variety of loon. They are corruptions of the word "lunatic," an insane person.

Loons are not crazy, but they definitely are different. For one thing, they are the only birds I know of that are absolutely unable to walk. They can swim, yes, better and faster than the fish they feed on, but they are absolutely helpless on land. Their legs, which are nothing but over-sized paddle feet, are set so far to the rear that the bird literally can't get a grip on the ground and stand up. Watching a loon try to walk is like watching an infant try to crawl. They go through a lot of motions but get nowhere.

Loons don't venture onto land except by accident, which happens occasionally when they are migrating at night and looking for a place to come down and rest. The birds sometimes mistake a wet blacktop pavement for a body of water. If they survive the impact, their only hope is that some human good samaritan will pick them up and take them to a lake or river. Loons not only can't walk, they can't take off and fly from land.

Loons are strong fliers, among the fastest in the bird world, once they get themselves under way, but their launching is a spectacle

Registration Starts For Area Spring Hockey League

Registration is currently in progress for the 1984 Spring Hockey League, sponsored by the City of Ann Arbor, Department of Parks and Recreation.

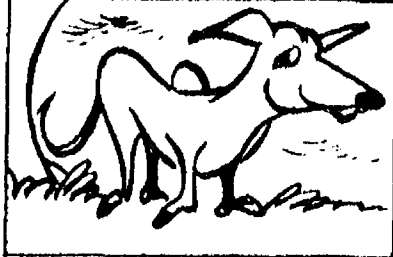

To be eligible, a player must fall in one of two categories: (1) must be 30 years of age or older, or (2) if under 30, may have "never-ever" played organized hockey. The only exception to this will be in the case of goalies, if enough "over 30" goalkeepers are not available.

The sign-up deadline will be March 23. Games will be played April 1 through May 17.

Only the first 90 players registering will be accepted. The individual fee is $78, which covers all costs, including ice time, officials, and "loaner" jersey.

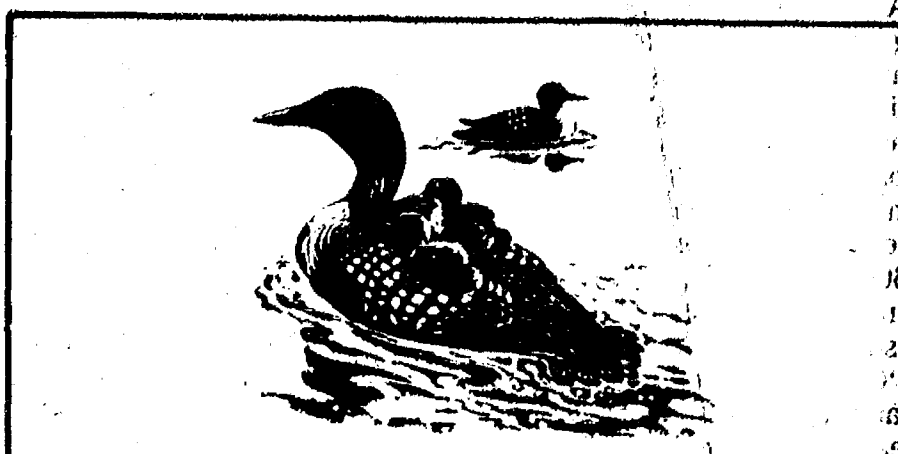

Registration forms are available at Veterans Ice Arena, Stein and Goetz Sporting Goods, College Shoe Repair, and the Department of Parks and Recreation, located on the 5th floor of the City Hall building. Please call 761-7240 for further information.

If you wonder how parents can care for quintuplets, imagine having 99 offspring. According to naturalists, water snakes are known to have as many as 99 young in one litter.

The deer family includes about 60 species, ranging in size from the huge Alaska moose down to the Chilean pudu, which is almost as small as a rabbit.

The Common Loon

This sleek black-and-white plumaged bird with a necklace of shimmering white bar is a crown jewel of untamed wilderness areas. In Michigan's north country, the loon's melodious yet sad, piercing wails, often heard at daylight and dusk, will thrill all those fortunate enough to be within hearing range. But as the wilderness is pinched northward it becomes necessary to go farther north to find loons. Beating its wings at a phenomenal 250 flaps per minute, the loon travels so fast it makes a whistling sound as it flies at speeds up to 80 miles per hour. Although the young can swim as soon as they hatch, many seek safety by riding on their parent's back for the first few weeks of life. The loon is not yet listed as threatened in Michigan, but dwindling numbers make this a bird of special concern.

Your contribution to Michigan's Nongame Wildlife Fund will be used to help species such as the Common Loon. Make your donation on Line 33b of the State Income Tax Form.

almost worthy of Cape Canaveral. With feet paddling frantically and wings flapping furiously, they churn 100 yards or more across the water to generate enough speed to become airborne. To stay aloft they have to beat their wings at 250 strokes per minute.

What the loon is best known for is its strange, wailing cry which has been called everything from "strangely beautiful" to descriptions that can't be printed in a family newspaper. One thing for sure is that loons have a lot of lung power. Their call can be heard loud and clear, a couple of miles or more on a still evening.

The cry of the loon has been romanticized as a symbol of wilderness, and it is in the sense that the birds don't prosper in the presence of people. They seek out large remote northern lakes to nest and rear their young.

For several years I owned property on such a lake, and every summer a pair of loons took up residence there. It didn't take me long to decide that, as wilderness symbols, loons are a mixed bag. If your concept of wilderness includes a sense of silence, leave loons out of your thinking. A couple of loons hollering their heads off far into the night, which they are prone to do, can make you wish you were someplace else, especially if you are trying to sleep.

The only more irritating outdoor sound I know is a whippoorwill sounding forth for hours at a stretch outside your bedroom window. A male whippoorwill staked out his singing territory in our back yard one summer. I didn't kill him, although it wasn't for lack of trying, but finally managed to drive him to find a new singing post out of my hearing range.

Baby loons can swim as soon as their down is dry after hatching, but spend much of the time during their early weeks of life riding around on their parents' backs. Other birds may have this hitchhiking habit, but I don't know of any.

Anyway, whether you care especially about loons or not, the Nongame Wildlife Fund is a good idea and deserves your support when you mail in your income tax return, especially since it won't cost you anything extra. The fund helps many rare, endangered, threatened and just plain unusual species of animals, fish and plants.

Trend Continues to Larger Farms

During the past two decades, the average size of farms in Michigan has increased and soybean and corn acreage nearly doubled, in spite of diversion of some cropland to non-farm uses.

A new publication, "Comparing Michigan's Agriculture with that of Nearby States, 1960-1982," written by Karl Wright, Michigan State University agricultural economics professor emeritus, contains data on changes in farm size and other trends since the 1960's in Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

"One of the most significant changes in Michigan is the increase in corn and soybean production in the past 10 years," Wright says. "Corn acreage rose from 1.7 million to 3.1 million acres—42 percent of state cropland—making corn Michigan's major crop. Soybean acreage increased from 500,000 to 1 million acres."

Even though it has lost farm acreage to non-farm uses, Michigan continues to produce a consistent percentage of the six-state market.

From 1960 to 1984, the average-sized farm in Michigan consisted of 135 acres. By 1982, average farm size had increased to 177 acres. Because of rising costs of farming—equipment, land, fertilizers—and inflation, farmers had either to enlarge their farms, Wright explains, or to supplement their incomes with off-farm jobs.

Farmers with medium-size farms—100 to 400 acres—found themselves too busy to hold extra jobs, Wright says. The percentage of large farms went up then, because farmers had to increase the size of their farms to maintain their income.

The percentage of smaller farms—those with less than 100 acres—remained about the same, but off-farm income increased each year.

Over-all, farmers make twice as much income off the farm as they do from farming. Off-farm income per farmer in Michigan in 1979 averaged $15,270, compared with $6,318 net farm income, for a total family income of $21,588.

Eventually there will be small farms with a great percentage of their income derived somewhere other than the farm, and large farms. The medium-sized farm will become obsolete, Wright says.

The publication is available for $3.50 through the MSU Co-operative Extension Service or the MSU Bulletin Office, Box 231, East Lansing 48824-0231.

★ Do Farmers Complain Too Much?

If you ask the average man or woman on a city street the question: "What do you think of farmers and ranchers?" they just might reply: "We like them. They're good, hardworking people, but they complain too much." Urban dwellers have this image of farmers always complaining either about the weather or about prices.

Farmers are pretty good at telling the rest of the world when they encounter problems. What farmers are not so good at is telling the world when events go well. So, after listening to farmers complain about their plight, city dwellers begin to ignore them.

Unless farmers are willing to share the good news, they're liable to lose their credibility when they announce the bad. An example: back in 1979 when ranchers were getting $1.05 a pound for cattle, nobody said a word about things being pretty good. Now, however, when they receive only 60¢ a pound, they're unhappy and rightly so. They are trying to tell the rest of the world their problem, but nobody seems to be listening.

If these ranchers had only been a little more candid in 1979 and said, "Thank heavens, we've got a price that makes sense," the American public would probably be more sympathetic to their plight now.

A word of advice to farmers and ranchers: Don't be afraid to tell the world when you are doing well. If you do, your city cousins just might believe you when things get tough.

Today's Investor

By Thomas E. O'Hara
Chairman, Board of Trustees
National Assoc. of Investment Clubs & Editor, Better Investing Magazine

Q. About two years ago, we invested in a utility company with an above average rating by both Value Line and by Standard & Poors. The stock has performed satisfactorily with regard to both dividend and appreciation, but recently the company has designated a substantial portion of the yearly dividend as a Return of Capital, and tax free. I do not know what the company gains by this practice, but there appears to be no advantage whatsoever to us, since the first $1,500 in utility dividends is already tax exempt, and we are well below that figure. The stock currently yields about 13%, and if the return of capital is continued at the present rate, our original cost of purchase would decline to zero in 7 to 8 years.

We should greatly appreciate any further information you can give us on the consequences to the stockholder of receiving a return-of-capital dividend.

A. The "return of capital" part of a utility dividend results from an accounting treatment of capitalized construction costs permitted by the government. It is of benefit to the shareholder in two ways: (1) It postpones taxes on the dividend until the stock is sold, and (2) It makes it taxable at "capital gain" rates.

It is important for you to know that you do not have to report the "return of capital" part of the dividend as return of capital. You can report the full dividend as an ordinary dividend, and when you do that, you do not have to reduce the tax cost of your investment. In your situation, where you are using the $1,500 utility exemption, that would be the way to go.

If you had less than $100 in total dividends ($200 for married couples), you would have another situation where you would want to report the dividend as ordinary income.

Q. I've read your manual on investing, and you frequently tell people to invest regularly. Please explain the advantage.

A. Long experience has shown that a fixed sum regular purchase program results in the buyer having a very good average cost on purchases over a long period of time, and is a powerful factor in producing a good record for the investor. Mathematically, a regular purchase in a fixed amount over a long period of time produces a lower average cost per unit.

Hardly anyone has the skill to guess when the best time to invest is. If individuals are left on their own, they usually buy when stock market interest is high, and prices are high and consequently get few bargains. When stock prices are low, people become afraid and do not buy, and consequently fall to acquire stocks at bargain prices. A commitment to regular buying overcomes our emotional weakness.

Top No-Till Corn Producers Named

Producing 145 bushels per acre of no-till corn, John Hochstetler of Manchester, was named Washtenaw county high yield winner in the 1983 Michigan No-Tillage Corn Yield Contest, sponsored by the Washtenaw County Soil Conservation District and the Chevron Chemical Co. Elmer and Rick Ervin, Manchester, were awarded second place for their no-till corn yield of 113 bushels per acre, and third place went to Brian Block and Roy Muck, Dexter, for no-till corn which produced 97 bushels per acre.

"For our ground, it is the top way to go," reported Hochstetler of his no-till, "with its fuel savings and time savings, you can't beat it." Hochstetler also looks to no-till to increase infiltration of irrigation water through improving the surface tith of his fields.

By not disturbing crop residues with a plow, no-till crop production allows fields to be covered with a protective mulch of decomposing stalks, stubble or sod all season long. This mulch protects topsoil from the erosive action of wind and rain and helps retain moisture in the soil. By controlling soil erosion, no-till also reduces the amount of silt, fertilizer and pesticides which run into streams and lakes from farm operations. Controlling cropland runoff with no-till benefits the farmer along with the environment. As Hochstetler points out, "It doesn't make sense to spend money on fertilizer just to have it wash off the land."

By not requiring plowing, no-till crop production also reduces the fuel, power and time requirements of producing a crop.

All three contest winners planted their crops using the no-till planter made available through the Washtenaw County Soil Conservation District—Saline Valley Project's no-till

Small Farm Operators Usually Hold Other Jobs

Almost all operators of small farms must derive most of their income from non-farm jobs, according to data just compiled at Michigan State University.

More than 60 percent of farmers with small farms—under 100 acres—worked more than 200 days off the farm in 1978," says Karl Wright, MSU agricultural economics professor emeritus. "Small farmers had around a $600 net from farming in 1978 but about $17,900 in off-farm income, for a total income of $18,500. Operators of medium and large farms received a significantly smaller proportion of their over-all income from off-farm work."

A comparison of Farm Sizes in Michigan (AM-34), a new publication by the MSU Co-operative Extension Service, tells how many small farms there are in Michigan, how many acres they contain, and how their size relates to efficiency in production and income.

More than half the farms in Michigan are small. Medium farms—100 acres to 499 acres—make up 42 percent of agricultural operations in Michigan. About 5 percent of the farms have 500 to 999 acres, and slightly more than 1 percent of them have more than 1,000 acres under tillage.

"The size of a farm has a direct relationship to the farm's characteristics," Wright says. "For example, enlarging the farm is frequently done by renting additional land. Nearly 90 percent of those operating farms of 1,000 acres and more rent some land."

Kinds of crops grown and the diversity of crop and livestock production are also related to farm size. Small farms tend to concentrate on more intensive crops, such as fruit and vegetables. The medium and large farms generally produce cash-grain crops, dairy and livestock.

The percentage of individuals as operators declines as the farm gets larger. Partnerships become more common when the farms are at least medium sized, and corporations when farms get larger still, Wright says.

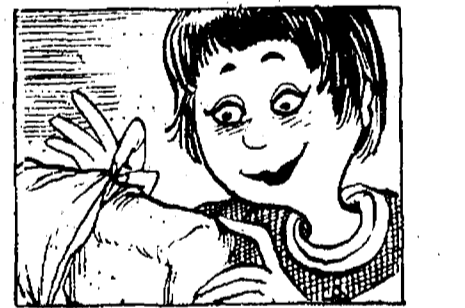

"The number of small farms has remained relatively constant over the years, but the number of medium-sized farms is decreasing and the number of large farms is increasing. I expect this trend to continue," Wright says.

The publication also details crop and livestock production, selected farm expenses and farmers' ages in relationship to each of the three farm sizes.

This analysis of Michigan's small farm operations sells for 90 cents. It may be obtained from the county MSU Co-operative Extension Service, or from the MSU Bulletin Office, Box 231, MSU, East Lansing 48824-0231.

Memorial Scholarship Fund Established

George H. Cress, president of the Ann Arbor Area Foundation has announced the establishment of the Morse B. Barker Memorial Scholarship Fund, with an initial $20,000 from the Barker estate. The fund will award annual scholarships to Washtenaw county students in academic, vocational or technical programs.

MORSE "BUNNY" BARKER enjoyed collecting farm machinery and antique gas engines and was a member of the Gasoline Engine Club.

"Everyone who knew Morse 'Bunny' Barker knew him as a generous, positive person who loved young people," said Cress. "The Ann Arbor Area Foundation is honored to establish this scholarship fund in his memory, to carry on the spirit of generosity that characterized his life."

Interest income from the fund will be used to award annual scholarships to Washtenaw county residents aged 18 to 30. A committee of the Ann Arbor Area Foundation will recommend scholarship recipients to the Foundation's Board of Trustees, who will make final decisions on all awards. The scholarship committee will be made up of representatives of Washtenaw Community College, Cleary College and the Ann Arbor Public Schools.

The late Morse Barker was the son of Harold and Ada Barker (of the Ann Arbor decorating firm of Barker Brothers.) He was born May 27, 1919. His father died when the young Barker was seven years old.

Barker joined the U. S. Navy while still in high school. He served 12 years in the Navy and Merchant Marine, before, during and after World War II.

Barker returned home to Ann Arbor following his military service and completed his high school education.

He was employed as a buyer for Ford Motor Co., in Waterford. He was also self-employed. He Barker died of emphysema on Nov. 23, 1982. He was 63. He had been a life-long resident of Ann Arbor.

Applicants for the Barker scholarship should be Washtenaw county residents who are full-time students. Only non-smokers or those who agree to quit smoking will be considered for scholarships. Repayment of the scholarship will be encouraged but not required.

Additional contributions to the Morse B. Barker Memorial Scholarship Fund are welcomed by the Ann Arbor Area Foundation.

For more information on the fund or on scholarship applications, write or call the Foundation at 2301 Platt Rd., Ann Arbor 48104 (971-2355.)

Taxpayers Taking Earned Income Credit Must File Income Tax Return, IRS Says

Taxpayers eligible for the Earned Income Credit (EIC) must file a federal income tax return to claim it, the Internal Revenue says.

To be eligible for the EIC, taxpayers must have earned income of less than $10,000 and they must have one or more children living with them for the entire year.

The credit can be as much as $500 annually and is based on a percentage of the taxpayer's earned income. Taxpayers who qualify must file a Form 1040 or Form 1040 even if they're not otherwise required to file an income tax return. Those who file as single or married filing separately are not eligible for the credit.

More information on the EIC can be found in free IRS Publication 596, "Earned Income Credit," available from local IRS offices, or by writing to the IRS. In addition, many libraries carry a reference set of IRS publications.

* Influenza Times

Brazil, Philippines, Singapore. If you think I'm going to discuss geography, you're wrong. Those are the influenza types, each named for the place where it was first identified, that the National Centers for Disease Control reports are abroad in the country this flu season. One or more of each of the strains—A-Brazil, A-Philippines, and B-Singapore—has been identified so far in California, Florida, Texas,

New Mexico, Nevada, New York, and Alaska.

You will note I made no mention of Michigan. Through late January when this column was written, no influenza types had been isolated by our laboratories. That's the good news. The bad news is that the flu season is not over yet . . . in fact, this is the month when influenza usually reaches its peak . . . and it's a fact we still may face some outbreaks.

I'm sure that most, if not all, my readers know what flu is. If you alternately experience chills and fever, if you have a headache, aches in the muscles and joints, and develop cold symptoms with a general sick feeling, you are most likely a victim of influenza.

What about treatment for flu, you ask. All I have to say on this score is not new but it bears repeating. Bed rest is important; it helps the body to recover. Drinking a lot of fluids will help to loosen secretions in the respiratory tract and help to replace the body fluids lost from fever. A cough suppressant at night may help a person to sleep better. And aspirin taken at four to six-hour intervals will help to ease pain and fever.

At the mention of aspirin, I hasten to add that the use of salicylate or aspirin-containing medications should be avoided in the treatment of flu (or chicken-pox) in children. Aspirin may increase their risk of developing the life-threatening illness, Reye's Syndrome.

I might also add that if you have the flu and find it hard or painful to breathe, you should contact your doctor to see if you need extra treatment, such as antibiotics.

If you encounter the flu virus almost every year, you're probably wary of contracting it again. And if you didn't have a flu shot last year, I'd say you are a likely candidate. My best advice, therefore, is to avoid people who are infected with influenza virus and who cough or sneeze their germs into the air. Don't use personal belongings of infected people which could threaten you indirectly. Bear in mind that an infected person can spread the disease for about a week after the first symptoms appear.

And good luck!

MICHIGAN FARM BUREAU

ENTERTAINMENT

* Not Necessarily

A headliner

While it's not likely to make the headlines, it is worth noting that food prices for 1983 increased by a smaller percentage than any year in the past 16. The total increase was about two percent.

It also marked eight out of nine years in which food prices have risen less than the general rate of inflation.

It is unfortunate that food prices only make the headlines when they're going up significantly. The last time that happened was in 1979 when the increase in food prices was 11 percent. That was just for food purchased in the grocery store. This year, grocery store prices went up one percent while food in restaurants went up about four percent.

While bargain food prices may be good news for consumers, it is not necessarily good news for producers. One reason that food prices have not increased is that the farm price has gone up very slowly in some years and decreased in others. This past year, the farm value of food actually dropped by nearly five percent. The U. S. Department of Agriculture blames that decrease on declining foreign and domestic markets for agricultural commodities and on larger supplies of livestock.

This year, USDA expects food prices to increase from four to seven percent. A stronger economy will add to disposable income and consumers may buy more groceries, including an increase in meat purchases.

Unfortunately, the increase in food prices predicted for 1984 will likely make the headlines and there may be howls of protest from some consumers. But, if farm prices also increase, it will mean that the very efficient American farmer can continue to make enough on his investment to stay in business.

The amount of food produced in America's farms is a modern day blessing. Right now, it is a blessing and a bargain. It is far better to continue that blessing at a little higher price than to have food shortages at a much higher price.

Foster Homes Needed For Neglected Children

Reported cases of child abuse and neglect have increased dramatically in Washtenaw county over the past two years. This has resulted in a corresponding increase in the number of children who must be placed in out-of-home care. The Department of Social Services is in need of more family foster homes to provide care for these children and to work with the agency regarding their return home.

Children who come into care are all ages and come from all racial and ethnic groups. Especially needed are families who are willing to care for children ages 10-17, groups of brothers and sisters, emotionally impaired children, pregnant teens, sexually abused children, and black children of all ages. Foster parents work with the department as members of a team. They need to be able to provide love, security, and patient understanding for children who are suffering the traumatic effects of being separated from their families.

Foster parents arrange for the child's medical and dental care, work with schools, and plan recreational activities. They also provide transportation for visits with biological families and, when appropriate, work directly with the child's family in the interest of reuniting the child with his or her family.

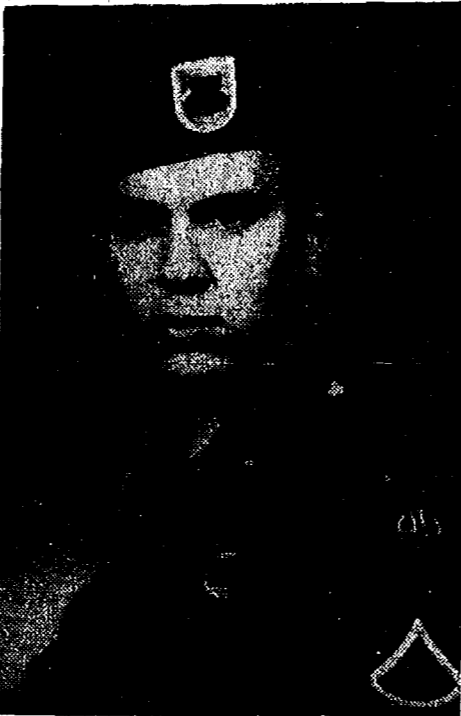

Three orientation classes are offered to help prepare families for the foster care experience. The next series starts on March 6, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the Department of Social Services, 2350 W. Stadium Blvd., in Ann Arbor. If you would like to attend or know more about our program, please call Pat Ruby at 994-1694.

THEN NOW!

Doctors and other scientists have some new answers for people with a peptic ulcer.

THEN: A few years ago, bland diets and lots of milk were a way of life for ulcer patients.

NOW: Researchers have recently found milk causes an increase in stomach acid. Fortunately, doctors have ways to treat ulcers. There are effective medicines that help the ulcer to heal. If you fear you have an ulcer see your doctor. You can get help.

Safety Rules Also Apply to Snowmobiles

Snowmobilers enjoying Michigan's snow-covered fields and roads are reminded by the State Police to use caution and be familiar with laws governing use of these vehicles.

According to Col. Gerald L. Hough, department director, 12 people were killed and 231 injured in 252 reported snowmobile accidents during the 1982-83 winter season. Driving too fast caused 104 of those accidents resulting in eight deaths.

The majority of the accidents occurred off the roadway. Causes listed most often were driving too fast or following too closely and unable to stop, Hough said.

Snowmobilers are offered some safety tips from the State Police. Don't tailgate or cut across another snowmobiler's right of way... drive when under the influence of alcohol... or forget to signal your intentions to other snowmobilers. Watch your speed. When exploring remote areas, use the "buddy" system; don't go it alone. Stay on marked trails when on public lands and know ice conditions. Check ice thickness, know thin spots and old fishing holes. Heed warning signs.

More than 237,000 snowmobiles are registered in Michigan with many more operated on private property and requiring no registration. Although the number is down from past years, the need to exercise caution and follow safety practices remains as important as ever, State Police say.

Between the fourth quarters of 1982 and 1983, the number of wage-earning families with jobless members dropped by about 840,000 to just under 4.4 million; practically all of this decline was among married couples, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the U. S. Department of Labor.

Wildlife Habitat Group Planning Art Festival

Michigan Wildlife Habitat Foundation will sponsor the Michigan Wildlife Art Festival at the Southfield Civic Center June 1-3.

Purpose of the event is to promote, through wildlife art, support for the wildlife conservation programs of the foundation.

"The growing popularity of wildlife painting and carving gives the foundation the chance to expose its goals and objectives to a large segment of the Michigan population," said Dan Robbins of Jackson, president.

Monies derived from tax-deductible contributions at the festival will be used for the restoration of Michigan wildlife habitat.

Eleven months of planning and hundreds of hours of volunteer time will be spent organizing the wildlife art weekend. The Michigan Department of Natural Resources and the Waterfowl Preservation and Decoy Club of Michigan will sponsor special events.

Highlights of the show will include:

Thirty nationally known wildlife artists have been invited to attend and show their most recent art. Each artist will contribute one original piece of art which will be judged for "Best of Show" awards. The "Best of Show" winner will be published as a limited edition series and sold as the 1985 Show Print. On Sunday, June 3, the 30 originals will be presented to a public auction. Limited seating is available, and reservations are necessary.

The North American Decorative Wildfowl Carving Championship sponsored by the Waterfowl Preservation and Decoy Club of Michigan will be held on Saturday, June 2. This decorative carving event will feature wildfowl entries in seven categories competing for ribbons and cash prizes.

The Department of Natural Resources will conduct its annual judging of the 1984 Michigan Duck Stamp and Michigan Trout Stamp competitions. The public is invited to witness the judging of both contests. The two winning designs will be used as the subject for the 1984 conservation stamps which must be purchased by duck hunters and trout fishermen.

On Saturday the DNR will host a special auction of original art entries in this year's contest and valuable, out-of-print Michigan duck and trout stamps.

Show hours are: Friday, June 1, 5-10 p.m.; Saturday, June 2, 9 a.m.-9 p.m., and Sunday, June 3, 10 a.m.-6 p.m.

Admission charge is $2 for adults and $1 for children under 12.

For more information on events, times, auctions, lodging, or out-of-town reservations, contact the Michigan Wildlife Habitat Foundation at (517) 494-9600.

IT'S A FACT!

At the present time, we are adding $700 million to the national debt each working day. At this rate, the national debt will reach $2 trillion by 1986. It was $1 trillion only three years ago.

FANCY THAT!

Thanks to some scientific ingenuity, industrial wastes of the future can be turned into soil conditioners to prevent the "dust bowls" that swept America's farmlands during the years of the Great Depression. The technique is already in use in Israel, where it was developed. Some 40 percent of the conditioners come from wastes in the paper industry.
