PARK RIDGE POLICE

Niles man among trio charged for hiding man's death

BY JENNIFER JOHNSON

jjohnson@pioneerlocal.com

Three men have been charged with concealing the death of a 43-year-old man in connection with the third suspicious-death investigation undertaken by Park Ridge Police detectives in the past month.

Michael A. Kelly, of Des Plaines, was found unresponsive in the courtyard of an apartment complex at 725 Busse Highway at 1:30 a.m. March 4, Park Ridge police reported. Paramedics were called to the residence and transported Kelly to Advocate Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge, where he was pronounced dead.

According to police three men at the scene reported that Kelly, an acquaintance, had knocked on their apartment door and when the door was opened, they found Kelly on the ground in the courtyard.

Gerald Pembor

One of the residents of the apartment, identified as Gerald Pembor, 78, reportedly called 911, and he and two other men attempted to administer lifesaving measures to Kelly.

Park Ridge Police Cmdr. Lou Jogmen said inconsistencies in the statements provided by the three men led police to determine that this account of the events was false. Detectives, working with the Cook County State's Attorney's Office, learned that Kelly had actually arrived at Pembor's Busse Highway apartment more than four hours earlier and had collapsed inside the bathroom not long after his arrival, police said.

According to police, Pembor and the two other men, identified as John D. Pembor, 51, of 725 Busse Highway, and Daniel Chernesky, 35, of 8429 N. Milwaukee Ave., Niles, waited more than four hours before they moved Kelly's body outside and called paramedics.

All three men have been charged with concealment of a death and were scheduled to appear in Cook County Circuit Court in Skokie for a bond hearing earlier March 5.

Jogmen said there were no signs of trauma to Kelly's body and investigators were awaiting results from an autopsy to determine the cause of his death.

This is the third suspicious-death investigation conducted by Park Ridge Police since Feb. 2, when the body of a man was found in a wooded area north of Riverside Drive and Oakton Street. The man's death was later ruled a suicide by the Cook County Medical Examiner's Office.

A week later the body of Chip Mallek, 39, of Chicago, was found along the 200 block of Summit Avenue. He had been strangled and police have arrested a man they say murdered Mallek during an argument over drug money.

GOLF MILL MALL

Not everyone sold on proposed sales tax hike at shopping center

BY TRACY GRUEN

Contributor

Business owners and residents attended a public hearing on whether the village should establish a special business district to increase the sales tax at Golf Mill Shopping Center.

Representatives of Golf Mill Mall are asking the village board to create a special business district that calls for a sales-tax increase of .25 percent, or 25 cents on a $100 purchase.

"Golf Mill Shopping Center has been the crown jewel of Niles for over 50 years," said Golf Mill Manager Mike Williams.

If the business district is approved at the March board meeting the revenue generated will support a plan that includes a new 30,000-square-foot junior department store, a three-tenant 8,400-square-foot building on Milwaukee Avenue, sewer and water-main improvements, facade and sidewalk improvements and other projects.

In addition to the mall improvements Williams said the village would benefit from the additional sales-tax revenue. The plan is also expected to generate 300 construction jobs and 200 retail jobs.

The quarter-cent sales-tax increase is estimated to raise about $600,000 a year. Williams said the mall will spend millions of dollars in new lease deals and developments of the outlet.

"It's a very difficult time for landlords," said Wendell Hollan, First Vice President of CB Richard Ellis, the leasing agent. "I think our request is more of a need."

Some business owners were in favor of the sales-tax increase, while others think it would have a negative impact on business.

"Consumers today are extremely savvy," said Jeffrey Poole, real-estate development manager of Kohl's department store.

Poole said his store competes with Babies"R"Us and Marshalls across the street, and the tax increase could lose them business.

"Just like a mall can get a reputation in terms of poor security, a mall can get a reputation in terms of higher costs," Poole said.

"You will lose some people," Trustee Andrew Przybylo said.

Williams said Golf Mill salespeople would make adjustments so that they won't lose business, for example, to a nearby furniture store.

Resident Pat Argyrakis was also opposed to the tax hike.

Argyrakis didn't understand how Golf Mill could be classified as a "blighted area," in terms of establishing a special business district and also be called the "Crown Jewel" of Niles by Golf Mill representatives.

Argyrakis said that the burden associated with changes to the mall should not be put on consumers.

"It's something an owner should do as an owner," said Argyrakis.

"We feel Golf Mill does need to stay competitive," said Chamber of Commerce Director Katie Schneider, who said the chamber supports the sales tax increase.

During the hearing, mall representatives emphasized the fact that the mall has greater competition now with the current redevelopment of Randhurst Village and the new outlet mall that will be opening in Rosemont.

A representative of Sears Department store supported the creation of the business district, as well as a representative of US Cellular store located in the mall.

Trustee Louella Preston said she would like the board of trustees to gather more information about special business districts and how establishing one would impact the village.

VILLAGE BOARD

Niles aldermen OK funding for Evanston pipeline study

BY TRACY GRUEN

Contributor

The village of Niles on Feb. 28 agreed to participate in a feasibility study regarding the construction of a new pipeline that would allow the village to purchase water from the city of Evanston.

Niles now pays about $2 per 1,000 gallons of water to the city of Chicago. The water rates were raised last month by 25 percent and were expected to continue increasing.

"We sell water at a lower rate than what Chicago is selling it for," said David Stoneback, utilities director for the city of Evanston.

Stoneback said he could not yet provide an estimate of what Evanston would charge Niles for water.

"We should always look at ways we could serve the village at a more economical rate," said Niles Trustee Rosemary Palicki, who supports the village's involvement in the study.

The feasibility study could cost the Niles as much as $30,000 and would determine the proposed size of the pipeline, method of construction, route and cost estimate to supply water to new wholesale water customers. The cost would be lower for each individual municipality if more chose to participate.

In addition to the cost of the study there is a capital investment for construction of the new transmission water main.

Stoneback said that the study will look at several different proposed routes.

"If Evanston wants to take the lead on this study, we'll be a part of it and pay a share of it," said Village Manager George Van Geem. "It's good knowledge to have."

Evanston has asked Morton Grove, Niles Des Plaines and Park Ridge if they are interested in participating in the study.

Stoneback said Evanston officials haven't heard back from any municipalities yet, but on March 19 prospective participants will communicate to Evanston aldermen whether they are interested.

On Feb. 27 the city of Park Ridge deferred taking action on the issue until officials know whether the other towns are willing to contribute funds for the study.

The scope and size of the study will be based on the total of municipalities that participate.

The village of Skokie now purchases water from the city of Evanston.

PARTY WITH A PURPOSE

Oscars event a golden opportunity to raise vaccine-access awareness

BY CATHRYN GRAN
 cgran@pioneerlocal.com

A shot at "being fancy," "winning an Oscar" and "having fun" were among the wishes expressed by youngsters the past weekend at a pre-Academy Awards costume party in Morton Grove.

The goal of the party was to raise awareness of the need to allow children around the world to have the same dreams, said Cynthia Changyit Levin, of Morton Grove.

Changyit Levin was one of 48 people invited Jan. 29-30 to a United Nations Foundation leadership summit in Washington, D.C., to expand access to vaccines for children in developing countries.

Among the wishes from the mothers at the party were a shot at "crazy love," "family" and "being a cool mom."

"The message is that every child deserves a shot at a chance for a healthy life, no matter where they live," Changyit Levin said. "We have this great chance to save a life every 20 seconds with vaccines."

Every parent should have the opportunity to share happy milestones, like the first time a child loses a tooth, she said.

"As a mother, it's painful to think about children in the developing world who won't survive to experience simple, joyful milestones we take for granted here," she said.

Working with Jennifer DeFranco, of Palatine, and Wendy Smith, of Highland Park, both of whom also attended the summit, Changyit Levin said they decided to have their own red-carpet party to get people involved in the mission to provide vaccines to children in developing countries.

"It costs $20 to vaccinate a child against pneumonia, rotavirus (which causes diarrhea,) polio and measles." Changyit Levin said. "To treat a child for those diseases costs $100. We need to understand this, and to do what we can."

Changyit Levin said the January meeting was the first conference she attended where participants were encouraged to bring their laptop computers and blog in real time about the ideas being bandied about.

"The foundation was looking for people with social-media skills and those who already knew about issues, especially in the area of global poverty," Changyit Levin said. "The UN Foundation can distribute vaccines in a very effective way."

"And we're trying to get the word out. The foundation trained us, but it definitely doesn't stop there. We're just the seeds. We need to continue the work and grow."

Changyit Levin said she, DeFranco and Smith now are working to meet face-to-face with their respective U.S. representatives to secure the $145 million in the proposed federal budget to provide vaccinations to children in need around the world.

"Working with RESULTS gave me these skills to advocate with my representatives," she said. "It's a partnership. And we're asking for the same things."

RESULTS is a nonprofit, grassroots advocacy organization that works to wipe out poverty around the world by training volunteers in the areas of speaking in public, working in coalitions and educating the public on ways to fight poverty, according to information provided by the group.

"Global health speaks to me," Changyit Levin said.

PUBLIC SAFETY

School shooter drill prepares Maine South to face emergency

BY NATASHA WASINSKI

Contributor

Just two weeks before 17-year-old T.J. Lane allegedly opened fire in a Cleveland-area high school, killing three students and wounding two others, one local high school was taking measures to prepare for such an emergency situation on its own campus.

Maine South High School and city of Park Ridge public-service personnel conducted a drill exercise Feb. 14 to assess how school and emergency personnel would respond if an armed gunman were on the campus.

"Schools across the country have faced situations of emergencies with intruders," said Maine Township District 207 spokesman Dave Beery. "The belief is the drill would help us prepare in case that should ever occur here."

Maine South, Maine Township High School District 207, Park Ridge Police, Fire and Public Works Departments and the North Suburban Emergency Communications Center all participated in the drill, which put the school in a complete lock down for about 20 minutes and included role-play simulation.

After first-period classes began at 7:45 a.m. on Valentine's Day, school resource officer Mike Luehr learned of "shots fired in the building" and subsequently called 911, Beery said.

The Park Ridge Police Department then dispatched a rapid-response team, including four patrol officers who are trained in finding and neutralizing armed suspects. Officers carried unloaded

Fire Department paramedics were also on scene with an ambulance and stretcher.

The drill included an acted scenario in which a police officer played the loose gunman, a role originally slated for a Maine South graduate, Beery said.

Five previously recruited students were holed up in the room with the "shooter."

Each had been thoroughly briefed before and after the simulation, and had received permission to participate from their parents, Beery said.

After the team of officers found the "shooter" and subdued him police escorted the students for witness questioning and well-being checks.

Regular classes resumed after the drill.

While Maine South regularly practices such emergency procedures, the active shooter drill was more detailed and simulated than typical exercises.

Park Ridge police Lt. Duane Mellema said the event represented the first time the school and police department ran through their emergency procedures simultaneously.

Though officers have previously trained in school buildings, they had not conducted a drill where all classrooms were locked, and all students and faculty were present, he said.

Mellema said because of these factors "the feeling of going through school is considerably different."

The simulation aspect also gave "the officers an opportunity to run through the drill in a more dynamic way," he said.

Mellema acknowledged such exercises do have their limitations.

The time frame in which it was executed is somewhat unrealistic and officers were not carrying ammunition of any kind, including blank rounds, he said.

The drill allowed participating parties to test their procedures, and evaluate how they coincide and interact with the others' methods.

Afterward drill participants met to discuss what had happened and address any complications that could be prevented in the future.

Mellema said the Police Department had prepared a full action report and, though he couldn't disclose details of their findings, he noted that the drill revealed some "minor discrepancies in communication methods."

For example there were issues with communicating via radio systems, and slight differences in language used by school and police personnel, he said.

According to school officials the drill brought to light the aftermath issues, such as the implications of having crime scenes and police investigations in the school building when classes resume.

Beery said the student body took the drill seriously and followed instructions well.

School lock down procedures require staff to instruct students to take cover in classrooms or other supervised areas. Doors are closed and locked, blinds and windows are closed, and lighting and all audio-visual equipment are turned off.

As a result of these actions "an intruder moving through the hallways will find it more difficult in knowing where people are," Beery said.

Beery said while school faculty and emergency personnel cannot prepare for "every possible event, it puts us in a better position to act and respond."

"Shootings occur in places where you don't expect them," he said "It's something important that we do because this is something that happens sometimes."

In the past two decades, isolated school shootings have received considerable national and sometimes global attention.

Between the late-1980s and the early-1990s the United States suffered a sharp increase in gun violence in its schools.

Despite a decline in school violence since then, horrific multiple-victim shootings continue to terrorize schools across the country, beginning most notably with the Columbine massacre in 1999, the country's deadliest high school shooting ever.

Thirteen years later Maine South's 2,600-student body is, by and large, cognizant of the possible emergency threats they face at school, Beery said.

"I think students are more aware of what the world is and what it can be than they generally receive credit for," he said.

Park Ridge police encourage residents to be on the lookout for out-of-the-ordinary behavior and seek or issue help before such behavior develops into larger problems like an act of shooting.

Though the city's low crime rates are encouraging, Mellema said it's difficult if not impossible to accurately predict where school violence will occur.

"The common denominator is there is no common denominator," he said. "The best we can do is to prepare as much as we possibly can."

'Worlds of Wonder' registration begins at District 64

Park Ridge-Niles School District 64 began registration March 1 for its "Worlds of Wonder" summer program.

Tuition is the same as last year and priority is given to any child who lives within District 64 and enrolls on or before April 20.

The program will be conducted at Washington School, 1500 Stewart Ave., for students completing grades K-3, and at Lincoln Middle School, 200 S. Lincoln Ave., for students completing grades 4-7.

Two sessions are offered: June 12-29 and July 2-20 (no school July 4). Students may register for one or two 90-minute classes per each morning session.

"Worlds of Wonder" offers a variety of classes such as science, arts, crafts, cooking, movie-making, sports, music and theater. Skill-building classes in reading, language arts and math also are offered. Spanish review is available for students completing seventh grade.

A course catalog and registration forms are available on the District 64 website, www.d64.org.

POLICE BLOTTER

The following incidents were listed in the weekly bulletin prepared by the Niles Police Department. Readers are reminded that an arrest does not constitute a finding of guilt. Only a court of law can make that determination.

CRIMINAL DAMAGE

A Park District employee said that between Feb. 28 and March 2 someone used spray-paint to write a name on an electric box at a park on the 7500 block of Mulford. Someone also reportedly spray-painted an obscene shape on asphalt under a pavilion.

A complainant stated that a 40-year-old man who lives in a building on the 8800 block of Golf Road placed fecal matter March 3 on the hallway wall in front of an apartment on the fourth floor. The complainant suspects the offender did so because of numerous noise complaints.

THEFT

A 79-year-old Niles woman said she left her bag March 4 in the computer room at the Niles Public Library on the 6900 block of Oakton, and when she went to leave, the bag was missing. The bag contained a credit card and a library book.

FIRE

A neighbor called 911 after seeing smoke coming from a residence March 1 on the 8500 block of Chester. The Niles Fire Department arrived and put out the fire, which originated from debris in the garage. The victim said the home is being renovated.

SHERIFF'S REPORTS

The following incidents in unincorporated Maine Township were compiled by the Cook County Sheriff's Department. Readers are reminded that an arrest does not constitute a finding of guilt. Only a court of law can make that determination.

BATTERY

Police were contacted after a resident of Crestwood condominiums and apartments on the 10000 block of Holly Lane reported that she was slapped three times by her 12-year-old son Feb. 2. The Department of Children and Family Services was contacted and the boy was transported to a hospital for a mental-health evaluation, police said. No charges were filed.

A resident of the 9300 block of Noel Avenue told police she discovered jewelry and a digital camera missing from her bedroom Feb. 23 after learning that her 13-year-old had allowed a stranger into the home. The boy told police that a man claiming to be a plumber came to the back door about 3 p.m. and said he needed to check the pipes inside the home. The boy reportedly let the man inside and the two went into the basement where the man ran the water at a sink before leaving. The boy's mother suspects a second person must have entered the residence and removed the items from the bedroom, police said.

ATTEMPTED BURGLARY

On Feb. 13 an attempt was made to force entry into a residence on the 9200 block of North Western Avenue.

PROPERTY DAMAGE

A criminal damage to property report was file Feb. 19 at Crestwood condominiums and apartments on the 10000 block of Linda Lane.

A criminal damage to property report was filed Feb. 26 at Crestwood condominiums and apartments on the 10000 block of Holly Lane.

VANDALISM

Niles police found graffiti Feb. 25 on the wall of a business on the 7600 block of Milwaukee Avenue. Police said it was not gang-related and appeared to make an obscene comment about female anatomy.

BURGLARY

A 51-year-old Riverwoods man told police someone entered his 2001 Chevrolet van March 2 in the Golf Mill Shopping Center parking lot and stole a roll of coins, backpack and calculator valued at $160.

CRIMINAL DAMAGE

A 43-year-old Niles man said someone smashed the rear window and spray-painted the trunk of his 2000 Nissan between March 3 and March 4 in a parking lot on the 8400 block of Dempster Street.

HIT-AND-RUN

A hit-and-run accident was reported Feb. 19 on the 9300 block of North Hamlin Avenue.

ROBBERY

A 20-year-old man told Cook County Sheriff's Police he was robbed of $3 while walking the morning of Feb. 24 in unincorporated Maine Township.

Deputy Cmdr. Anthony Brzezniak said the man reported that at 4:30 a.m. he was walking west on Ballard Road near the Landings condominium complex when he was approached by a group of people, one of whom struck him in the head with a hard object.

The man told police he that he fell to the ground and was cut with a knife, and $3 was stolen from his pockets, Brzezniak said.

Police officers interviewed the victim at Advocate Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge, where he was being treated for his injuries. He reportedly told police he did not know the people who had robbed him.

A security guard at the Landings told investigators he did not see or hear anything around the time the robbery was reported, Brzezniak said.

Investigators also requested a copy of surveillance video from a nearby bank, the commander said.

NILES NORTH

Bids approved, $15M pool construction set to begin

BY NATALIE HAYES

Contributor

Plans to build a new aquatic center at Niles North High School in the tune of almost $15 million advanced Feb. 27 night when Niles Township District 219 Board of Trustees approved the bid packages to build the pool.

Construction on the pool is expected to begin sometime in March and wrap up by August 2013, said Jim Szczepaniak, community relations director for District 219.

A large group of parents, students and community members attended the Feb. 27 meeting to show their support of the aquatic center, which will be the new home of the boys and girls swimming and diving teams, the Skokie Park District's Swim America learn-to-swim program and the Swift Aquatics competitive swim program.

The new pool will replace the almost 50-year-old pool currently in the school, which District 219 school board president Robert Silverman said was found to be in violation of current IHSA safety standards that require the pool to be at least 12 feet deep. The existing Niles North pool is 10 feet deep and plans for the new facility call for the pool to be 14 feet in case IHSA safety regulations change again.

The aquatic center will have space for up to 500 spectators, and the 25-yard pool will feature eight lanes. Plans also call for renovated locker rooms.

Silverman said the current pool — which is the original pool from when the school first opened in 1964 — is an “embarrassment,” citing numerous reports of injuries that have been sustained over the years.

“I’ve had a tough time with this project because of its cost—it’s the single most expensive addition we’ve considered in the school’s history,” Silverman said. “But we’ve been building up our reserves and saving for this day little by little, and sometimes you have to bite the bullet and build a facility to last a lifetime.”

The entire cost of the project will be funded through reserves set aside in the operations and maintenance fund and a life safety fund, and no tax raises will be necessary to help pay for the project, trustees said.

Moving ahead with the costly project may mean that other capital improvement projects may have to be put on hold, Silverman said.

DISTRICT 64 BRIEFS

New administrator for student learning appointed

The Park Ridge-Niles School District 64 Board of Education at its Feb. 27 meeting confirmed the appointment of Lori Hinton as assistant superintendent for student learning, effective July 1. She will replace Diane Betts, who is retiring June 30 from District 64 after nine years in that post.

As assistant superintendent, Hinton will provide leadership of District 64's curriculum and instructional programs, including assessment of student achievement, implementation of intervention programs to support student learning and professional development activities for teachers.

Hinton comes to District 64 from Glenview School District 34, where she has been principal of Westbrook School, serving kindergarten through second grade, for eight years. In that role Hinton focused on improving teacher collaboration, exploring strategies for assessing student progress, implementing research-based math and reading support programs, and creating a professional-learning community for teachers. She also served on several district-wide committees focusing on professional development, supervision and evaluation, and personnel.

Before joining District 34 Hinton was an assistant principal and instructional facilitator in Community Consolidated School District 62 in Des Plaines and a curriculum specialist in Golf School District 67. Earlier in her career she was a program director at the North Cook Intermediate Service Center leading teacher workshops to improve student achievement.

Hinton received both her bachelor's and master's degrees in education from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, and her doctor of philosophy degree from Loyola University in Chicago.

Public forums to share plan for facilities

Park Ridge-Niles School District 64 will two conduct public forums this month to share information about the Facility Master Plan that is under development.

The forums will take place March 13 at Lincoln Middle School's Winslow Hall, 200 S. Lincoln Ave., Park Ridge, and March 14 at Emerson Middle School's Learning Resource Center, 8101 N. Cumberland Ave., Niles. The sessions will begin at 6:30 p.m.

The architectural firm of Fanning Howey will highlight needs that have been identified at each school and members of the community will have an opportunity to ask questions and offer input about the plan.

District 64 launched the two-year Facility Master Plan process during summer 2011 to help prioritize the "bricks-and-mortar" needs of schools.

More information about the detailed physical assessments for each building are available on the district's website, www.d64.org.

MAINE EAST HIGH SCHOOL

'Thoroughly Modern Millie' plays through Saturday

Maine East High School have been taking audiences back to the Roaring Twenties during a production of the musical comedy, "Thoroughly Modern Millie," presented over two weekends at the Park Ridge school, 2601 W. Dempster St.

Remaining performances are scheduled for 7:30 p.m. March 9 and 10. Tickets are $10 and may be purchased online through Maine East's website, east.maine207.org, or by calling the school's Fine Arts Office, (847) 692-8500.

Set during the flapper era of the 1920s, "Thoroughly Modern Millie" features a cast of 42 students. The lead roles of Millie and Jimmy are played by Marianna Veneri and Mynor Pelaez, respectively.

Director Karen Hall calls the production a "throwback to good old-fashioned musicals: boy meets girl, boy loses girl, boy gets girl back. There is lots of great comedy and lots of great music."

Working with Hall is musical director Julie Crossen, technical director Jessica Buczek, orchestra director Edward Eubank, assistant director Veronica Lynn, costumer Kim Morris and choreographer Konnie Sherry. Sound design is by Brandi Livsy.

Girl Scouts gather for centennial tea party

Celebrating 100 years of Girl Scouting was the theme of a tea party held March 3 at the Morton Grove Public Library.

Juliette Gordon Low, a wealthy socialite who split her time living in Savannah, Ga., and in Great Britain, founded the Girl Scouts of America in March 1912.

Those attending the party learned about Low's life and the founding of Girl Scouting.

The celebration will continue with an exhibit from 1-3 p.m. March 10, and 6-8:30 p.m. March 15, at the Morton Grove Historical Museum, 6148 Dempster St.

Local Girl Scout troops past and present have donated or loaned items to the museum for the exhibit.

Support Special Gifts Theatre

held its Empty Walls Silent Art Auction this year on March 3. Empty Walls is an all-day event in which artists from the community, staff, teachers and talented art students will team up and create art the entire day.

That evening, artists donate their works at a silent auction with the proceeds going to this year's School Chest beneficiary, Special Gifts Theatre. Special Gifts Theatre is an organization that provides children and teens with special needs a drama experience enabling personal growth while also breaking down stereotypes related to disabilities. This is a special opportunity to acquire beautiful one-of-a-kind works of art while at the same time helping to support children with special needs.

Bidding took place from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. with auction winners announced at 6:30 p.m. Artwork represented at the auction includes paintings, photography, drawings, watercolors, jewelry, fiber arts/clothing and ceramics. There was jazz entertainment from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. For children, there will be a craft section and face painting.

Getting to the bottom of Illinois' unlikeableness

BY PAUL SASSONE
Columnist

"So, if Illinois could somehow move from second to first in the least-liked sweepstakes, it might be good for Illinois' economy."

Don't just mope. We have to do something about this.

In a recent national poll Illinois was voted the second-least-popular state in the union.

Public Polling Policy polled 3,300 registered voters. The states with the worst impression were (in order) California, Illinois, New Jersey, Mississippi and Utah. Of those polled, 29 percent had a negative impression of Illinois, 19 percent a positive impression and 52 percent weren't sure what their impression was of Illinois.

The culprit seems to be Chicago's reputation: you know, Al Capone — ratta-tat-tat — and corrupt politics. We can argue about the fairness of this. For instance, not all of Illinois' long line of governors convicted of crimes have been from Chicago. But, nevertheless, that seems to be the impression, that all of Illinois is like Chicago.

We Illinoisans have to do something about this problem.

But what? What to do?

How can we move Illinois from the second-least-liked state to the most-least-liked state?

There's no distinction in being second-least-liked. Americans love a winner — only the winner goes to dinner. So, if Illinois could somehow move from second to first in the least-liked sweepstakes, it might be good for Illinois' economy.

Illinois could have ads that shout, "We're Number 1!"

Or, "Wander Illinois, America's top bottom state!"

The question is how do we work ourselves up to the bottom?

I'd say we should start by looking at Chicago. Since Chicago is probably the reason why Illinois is the second-least-liked state, what does Chicago do that can be exported to the rest of Illinois that would tip the balance in our favor so that Illinois would be the top bottom state?

One thing for sure would be parking fees. I think it now costs about $73 an hour to park in a lot in Chicago. Bring every other Illinois town's parking fees in line with those.

And red-light cameras. They're everywhere in Chicago. Install them at every stoplight in every Illinois town. Oh, heck, install them at every intersection whether there is a stoplight there or not.

These two actions alone might be enough to garner Illinois the title of least-liked state.

Could be a tourism bonanza. And even more money would pour into Illinois municipal coffers from parking fees and red-light fines.

It's a win-win situation.

Oh, in case you were wondering, the top states in the poll were (in order) Hawaii, Colorado, Tennessee, South Dakota and Virginia.

1000 WORDS BY JACK HIGGINS

Sometimes we just make it through life by a hair

BY CHERYL O'DONOVAN
Van Mom Strikes Again

Twice every month, my writer's group congregates. This past week, for the first time, I would introduce the speaker. Excited, nervous, I showered and towel-dried my hair. OK, the timing was still good. Cutting it close, but I'd arrive early. Good.

Heart racing, I lifted the blow-dryer from a drawer and plugged the appliance into the bathroom outlet.

It didn't work.

Plop. Plop. My sopping hair indicated a potential for disaster.

I galloped to another outlet in the dining room, shoved the plug into the socket. The dryer remained inert. Silent.

Frankenstein. I gritted my teeth. If I only had his cell number.

I bolted downstairs where my husband was watching the news. He groused from the recliner, looking as immobile as Mt. Rushmore. As I "rushed," the "more" he burrowed down into the cushion.

Eventually he rose and crossed the room, grabbing the dryer. He plugged the thing into an outlet.

A rock showed more life.

"I need a hair-dryer!"

Grumbling, my husband shoved his arms into the sleeves of his

"I looked at the ticking clock. His search for a dryer would take 20 minutes. I had to be at the meeting before then."

leather jacket. He scooped up his keys. "Why you have to wait until the last minute."

I looked at the ticking clock. His search for a dryer would take 20 minutes. I had to be at the meeting before then.

Could I possibly face them with wet hair? What story could I invent? Car wash gone wrong? Shamu car-jacked me? If I wore my son's Bears knit cap, would they think "charming" or "mental illness"?

I called my friend Joyce who lives 2 minutes away.

"Don't ask ... but I need a hair-dryer."

Bless her, she came as soon as she could. Dripping and frenzied, I met them at the door. Joyce suppressed a smile.

"Where's Kirby?" her young daughter asked. Panicked middle-aged women always play second billing to a dog.

Thanking her, I ran into the bathroom and dried my hair. Miraculously, my hair looked good. I grabbed the hairspray and aimed. The nozzle was clogged, so a jet stream of sticky goo annihilated my fluffed tresses. The mirror confirmed it. I looked like I was ready to audition for "Grease."

For one of the male roles.

An app, an app, my kingdom for an app!

BY RANDY BLASER
Columnist

I see where the village of Elmwood Park has created an iPhone application that will allow residents to keep more informed about the village. I think that is great news. It just doesn't go far enough.

I like submarine sandwiches and two of my favorite places to get them are in Elmwood Park, Alpine right on North Avenue and Gene's Deli on Harlem. I so wish there was an app that would allow me to place my submarine sandwich order for lunch today. Oh wait, it's Friday in Lent as I write this. Can I get a pepper and egg sandwich at Gene's? There ought to be an app for that.

I might need a banquet hall later this year and I can think of no better place in Elmwood Park than Al Biancalana's Elmcrest. An app that could show me the open dates would be perfect.

As you can see, my life is rather food-oriented. And there is no better town for a culinary devotee like me than Elmwood Park.

I can't think of a time when I might need to contact Elmwood Park Mayor Pete Silvestri, unless he's moonlighting as a pizza deliveryman for Jim and Pete's Pizza. Then I would need him a couple of times a week.

And Elmwood Park isn't alone in the need for specialized iPhone applications.

I would like to know the beach conditions this summer in Evanston, Wilmette and Lake Forest. Wind conditions on the lake would be good to know, too.

Sometimes, I miss my old town of Oak Park. I wish someone would create an app that would go off at key intervals to remind me that Oak Park is really the greatest town of all time.

When I'm stuck in traffic at Lake Street and Harlem Avenue would be the perfect time for such an app.

The app will allow residents to easily find staff contact information, to submit a question to village staff or send information to Village Hall. Residents could even snap a picture of a pothole or the stuck railroad gates at the post office and send it to the village. Hopefully, staff will come running and fix the problem.

But if I'm going to have an Elmwood Park app for my iPhone, I think I might want it to do a lot more than that.

For instance, the other night I was driving down North Avenue and passed by Johnny's. As always there was a line out the door. And I thought to myself, Why can't there be an app for how long the wait is at Johnny's for an Italian ice or for a beef sandwich?

Yeah, that would be great to know when navigating Elmwood Park and my constant search for the best food of all time. And such an app would have a lot of other functions, too.

What are the flavors at Massa, the place for gelato, and the greatest ice cream this side of Rome? I don't know, but an app for that would come in handy.

Always
the perfect combination.

Pop legends play Ravinia for first time

BY J.T. MORAND

jtmorand@pioneerlocal.com

Several iconic pop artists make their Ravinia debuts this summer.

However, they can't be mentioned without a nod to Glen Campbell, who crossed over early in his career.

Country legend Campbell, the Grammy Award-winning Rhinestone Cowboy, will perform June 28 as part of his Goodbye Tour. Opening for him is another legend, Ronnie Milsap. As the name implies, this is Campbell's last tour; he was diagnosed with Alzheimer's disease last year, but he wanted to tour as long as he was able. This tour is also in support of his most recent album, "Ghost on the Canvas," which was also released last summer. Campbell's hits, starting in the late 1960s, include "Gentle on My Mind," "By the Time I Get to Phoenix," "Wichita Lineman," and "Rhinestone Cowboy." In 1964 and '65, he filled in for Brian Wilson in The Beach Boys and he appeared in a handful of movies, including "True Grit" with John Wayne in 1969 and "Any Which Way You Can" with Clint Eastwood in 1980. Campbell's children, also musicians, have joined him on this tour.

Santana, led by guitarist Carlos Santana, is making its first ever appearance at Ravinia July 9. Santana, another legendary act that got started in the late 1960s, combines Latin grooves with rock. Their best known hits, "Oye Como Va," written by Tito Puente, and "Black Magic Woman," off the album "Abraxas," were huge successes in 1970 and put the group on the map. In the late 1990s, the multi Grammy Award-winning guitarist and his band, scored two more hits, this time on the album "Supernatural." "Smooth" was sung by Rob Thomas of the band Matchbox 20, and "Maria Maria," sung by The Product G&B. "Supernatural" went on to become Santana's best-selling album. In 2003, Rolling Stone magazine placed Carlos Santana at number 15 on its list of 100 Greatest Guitarists of All Time.

The unmistakable voice of the 1970s British progressive rock band Supertramp, Roger Hodgson, comes to Ravinia Festival for the first time on Aug. 23, on the Breakfast in America tour. Hodgson wrote, composed and sang on Supertramp's biggest hits, which include "Give a Little Bit," "Dreamer," "The Logical Song," "Take the Long Way Home," and "Breakfast in America." Supertramp sold more than 60 million records with Hodgson at the helm. Hodgson left the band in 1983 and released four solo albums. The song "Breakfast in America" showed up back on the charts when American band Gym Class Heroes covered it in 2006. Another American band, the Goo Goo Dolls, covered "Give a Little Bit" in 2005.

Glen Campbell

Duran Duran, who helped make MTV as popular as it was when the network played music videos in the 1980s and whose images adorned millions of teenage girls' bedroom walls, will make a tour stop at Ravinia on Aug. 29. Their new album, "All You Need is Now," is expected to be released March 22. The British New Wave band rose to stardom in the early 1980s with songs such as "Hungry Like the Wolf," "Rio," and "The Reflex," and the music videos that accompanied them. The band consists of four of the original five members — Simon LeBon on vocals, Nick Rhodes on keyboards, John Taylor on bass, and Roger Taylor on drums. Guitarist Andy Taylor left the band in 2006 and was replaced by Dominic Brown. This will be Duran Duran's first time playing Ravinia Festival.

Other pop artists making their Ravinia debut include Sarah McLachlan (June 30), Natalie Merchant (July 10), and Seal (July 22).

Superstars for Ravinia's classical programs

BY DOROTHY ANDRIES

Contributor

In the spirit of the 76th anniversary of its summer residency at the Ravinia Festival, the Chicago Symphony Orchestra will play its first 2012 concert in Highland Park on the Fourth of July.

The all-American program will be led by Steven Reineke, music director of the New York Pops, and will feature music by John Williams, Richard Rodgers, Jerome Kern, George M. Cohan, and Irving Berlin, as well as an Armed Forces Salute.

The 2012 Ravinia Festival season was announced by Welz Kauffman, festival president and CEO. It opens June 7 with a dance program and continues through Sept. 9 with more than 100 events, including classical concerts for $10 in the intimacy of 450-seat year-round Bennett Gordon Hall.

Ravinia's music director since 2005, James Conlon, whose contract has been extended through the summer of 2014, arrives July 19 to conduct more than a dozen concerts, at least half of which will be in the Martin Theatre.

Magic bubbles up at Mini Purim Carnival

A little bit country

Little kids will enjoy a big treat at Temple Beth Israel's Mini Purim Carnival, 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. Sunday at 3601 W. Dempster St., Skokie. Following a reading of the story of Purim designed for ages 5 and under, they will be entertained by Ben's Bubble Show.

"I do what's called bubble magic," said Ben Jimenez. "Everything I do has to do with soap bubbles. I use a very special formula that's kind of a secret so my bubbles are very strong and they last longer than a normal bubble."

"I do sleight of hand with bubbles," Jimenez added. "I'll have bubbles hanging from my hand the size of a basketball, and I'll blow bubbles inside of that and I'll reach in and pull bubbles out of it."

During the main Purim Carnival, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., people of all ages are invited to play games and purchase lunch.

For details, call (847) 675-0951 or visit tbiskokie.org.

More magic

A mischievous boy receives a special box that might contain the secret of Harry Houdini's success in "The Houdini Box," a world premiere musical presented by Chicago Children's Theatre Wednesday through March 25 at the North Shore Center for the Performing Arts, 9501 N. Skokie Blvd., Skokie. Tickets are $15 to $41.

For details, call (847) 673-6300 or visit chicagochildrenstheatre.org.

Knee-slappin', foot-stompin' entertainment is promised when the Little Nashville children's band performs at the Niles Public Library, 6960 W. Oakton St., 2 to 2:45 p.m. Sunday. Expect to see a giant dog during this interactive drop-in show.

For details, call (847) 663-1234 or visit www.nileslibrary.org.

Have fun, naturally

Games, crafts and other educational activities based around a seasonal nature theme are planned for a Playdate with Nature, 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. Saturday at Wildwood Nature Center, 529 Forestview Ave. Dress warmly for this free event because the group will take a short hike.

For details, call (847) 692-3570 or visit parkridgeparkdistrict.com.

Everything's not all white

Families will hear the story of a snowflake that thought everything was white in winter during Winter Tapestry of Color, 1 to 2:30 p.m. March 18 at Emily Oaks Nature Center, 4650 Brummel, Skokie. Then they will head outside and see that there are really many colors in the woodlands in winter. Hot chocolate will be served and there will be colorful activities. Cost is $5.

For details, call (847) 674-1500, ext. 2500, or visit skokieparks.org/emily-oaks-nature-center.

series "Breaking the Silence," which presents works by composers, such as Weill, who were forced to flee Nazi Germany or whose careers or lives were damaged or ended during the Third Reich.

Conlon will be on the podium of the pavilion for the Women's Board gala on July 21, which celebrates the 50th anniversary of the board's founding. The program, titled "Leading Ladies," stars Broadway's Patti Lupone, a perennial festival favorite, and soprano Patricia Racette from the Metropolitan Opera.

Conlon, who is music director of the Los Angeles Opera, will also conduct two performances each of two Mozart operas in the Martin Theatre: "The Magic Flute" with Nathan Gunn and Morris Robinson Aug. 16 and 18, and "Idomeneo" with Susanna Phillips on Aug. 17 and 19.

Superstars will illuminate the summer nights. Closing the season will be cellist Yo-Yo Ma on Sept. 7, violinist Itzhak Perlman on Sept. 8 in the pavilion and soprano Dawn Upshaw on Sept. 9 in the Martin Theatre. Each will appear with the Knights, an innovative chamber orchestra which drew acclaim when it made its debut at the festival in 2010.

A variety of a conductors will lead the Chicago Symphony, including Marvin Hamlisch, the well-known film ("The Way We Were") and Broadway ("A Chorus Line") composer, who has won Oscars, Grammys, Emmys, a Tony and a Pulitzer prize. On July 8 he will conduct Idina Menzel, star of "Wicked" and "Glee."

Christoph Eschenbach, Ravinia music director from 1994 to 2008, said famously when he left, "I hope I will still be invited back." He has indeed returned almost every season since and will conduct the Chicago Symphony Orchestra July 13 in an evening of Brahms, and July 14 with Erik Schumann as soloist in Korngold's Violin Concerto in the pavilion.

On July 16 Eschenbach, also a superb pianist, will accompany baritone Matthias Goerne in an evening of works by Schubert and Brahms in the Martin.

Welz Kauffman started the festival's "One Score, One Chicago" in 2003, inspired by the Chicago Public Library's "One Book, One Chicago." This year's selection, Holst's otherworldly "The Planets," will be performed July 31 by the Chicago Symphony and women of the Chicago Symphony Chorus under the baton of John Axelrod.

Unearthly visions

The film "Gustav Holst's The Planets," seven videos by Emmy-nominated astronomer Jose Francisco Salgado, will be shown on the pavilion screens and another screen on the lawn. The festival plans to import astronomers with telescopes to provide a view of the night sky, provided it doesn't rain!

Kiri Te Kanawa on Aug. 14

The 850-seat Martin Theatre, the only building remaining from the park's original 1904 construction, will be the site of a rich mix of chamber music concerts, starting with pianist Leon Fleisher and friends June 21 and including Midori's performance of Bach's complete sonatas and partitas for unaccompanied violin over two nights July 3 and 5; the Emerson String Quartet July 6; guitarist Angel Romero July 8; the Tokyo String Quartet July 24; an all-Russian recital by pianist Denis Matsuev July 30; two vocal programs, one by baritone Gerald Finley, accompanied by pianist Kevin Murphy on Aug. 9, and another by soprano Kiri Te Kanawa, accompanied by Murphy on Aug. 14; and the Juilliard String Quartet Sept. 6.

On June 23 the Martin will be the site of a celebration for the 75th birthday of American composer Philip Glass, with Glass on the piano and Timothy Fain on violin.

For a complete calendar of events, visit www.ravinia.org.

SYMPHONY CENTER PRESENTS
312-294-3000 • CSO.ORGArtists, prices and programs subject to change.FILM CLIPS*OPENING FRIDAY:*JOHN CARTER*Rated: PG-13 for intense sequences of violence and actionStars: Taylor Kitsch, Lynn Collins, Willem Dafoe

■ A Civil War veteran (Kitsch) finds himself mysteriously transplanted to Mars, where his challenges include rescuing a princess (Collins). Oscar-winning Pixar animation director Andrew Stanton ("Wall-E") directed the flesh-and-blood fantasy adventure.

SALMON FISHING
IN THE YEMEN*Rated: PG-13 for some violence, sexual content and brief languageStars: Ewan McGregor, Emily Blunt

■ A fisheries expert (McGregor) is asked by a wealthy sheik to bring the sport of fly fishing to his desert.

SILENT HOUSERated: R for disturbing violent content and terrorStars: Elizabeth Olsen, Adam Trese

■ A woman (Olsen) discovers she is trapped in her parents' lake house — and that strange and frightening things are beginning to happen. Chris Kentis and producer Laura Lau ("Open Water") directed the thriller.

A THOUSAND WORDSRated: PG-13 for sexual situations including dialogue, language and some drug-related humorStars: Eddie Murphy, Kerry Washington, Cliff Curtis

■ A literary agent (Murphy), who has stretched the truth on a deal with a spiritual guru, discovers a tree on his property that dispenses consequences for every word he speaks. Brian Robbins ("Coach Carter") directed the comedy.

STILL PLAYING:DR. SEUSS' THE LORAX

Rated: PG for brief mild languageStars: Danny DeVito, Zac Efron, Betty White, Ed Helms
■ The "Despicable Me" team takes Dr. Seuss' environmentalist fable "The Lorax" (tediously adapted for TV in 1972) and manages to turn a fairly heavy-handed moral lesson about greed, consumerism and runaway capitalism into thoroughly enjoyable entertainment. DeVito is ideal voicing the feisty guardian of a forest being systematically destroyed by the young, blinded-by-ambition Once-ler (Helms).

Rated: R for sexual content, graphic nudity, language and drug useStars: Paul Rudd, Jennifer Aniston, Ken Marino ■ Producer Judd Apatow's hard-R-rated touch is lightly applied in this surprisingly low-key and consistently entertaining comedy romance. Unemployed and homeless yuppies George and Linda (Rudd and Aniston, nicely matched) can't quite get comfortable — not with George's piggish ultra-capitalist brother (Marino) or the neo-hippie commune they stumble into on the road. Fortunately, they learn what's most important in life: doors.ALBERT NOBBS

★★★ 1/2

Rated: R for some sexuality, brief nudity, and languageStars: Glenn Close, Janet McTeer, Mia Wasikowska
■ "I think you're the strangest man I have ever met," says chambermaid Helen (Mia Wasikowska) to Mr. Nobbs while courting in 19th-century Dublin — and she has no idea how right she is. For one thing, Mr. Nobbs (Glenn Close) is a woman, disguised as a man for employment and safety; for another, he has spent so many years living a lie he has become a virtual nonentity — a cipher even to himself. In addition to her peculiar, exquisitely subtle, Oscar-nominated performance, Close produced and co-wrote the screenplay to this odd, painful, but ultimately moving indie drama, directed with quiet restraint by Rodrigo Garcia ("Mother and Child"). It's clear early on that things will not end well, but the tragic developments don't unfold in entirely predictable fashion or with grim heavy-handedness. Instead, there's a sort of lightness and open-endedness at the conclusion that could almost pass for hope.

THE ARTISTRated: PG-13 for a disturbing image and a crude gestureStars: John Goodman, Jean Dujardin, Berenice Bejo
■ A silent-movie star (Dujardin) worried about the effect sound movies will have on his career falls in love with a young dancer (Bejo). Michel Hazanavicius ("OSS 117") directed the romance.BIG MIRACLE*Rated: PG for languageStars: John Krasinski, Drew Barrymore
■ A small-town Alaskan news reporter (Krasinski) enlists his Greenpeace volunteer ex-girlfriend (Barrymore) in a campaign to rescue a family of whales trapped by rapidly forming ice. Ken Kwapis ("He's Just Not That into You") directed the romantic adventure.

★★★ 1/2

Rated: R for languageStars: Jodie Foster, John C. Reilly, Kate Winslet, Christoph Waltz

■ Roman Polanski's adaptation of Yasmina Reza's savagely satirical Tony-winning dark comedy isn't nearly as funny as the brilliant production mounted last year at the Goodman Theatre, but it's got the savage thing down cold. Essentially a comedy of inadequate manners, "Carnage" pits two sets of upper-middle-class parents against each other in an attempt to deal like civilized adults with a schoolyard fight between their two 11-year-old sons. Very soon, polite discussion devolves into open hostility, projectile vomiting, heavy drinking and generally appalling behavior that leaves no one unscathed. If you're conflict-averse, this may not be for you, but it's a wicked treat watching Reilly, Foster, Waltz and Winslet revel in Reza's scathing dialogue — especially Foster, whose turn as a holier-than-thou liberal humanitarian gradually giving in to apoplectic rage must be seen to be believed.

Mythologically miffed 'Immortals'

BY BRUCE INGRAM

Film Critic

NEW THIS WEEK

Rated: R for sequences of bloody violence and a scene of sexuality

Stars: Henry Cavill, Mickey Rourke, John Hurt

■ More entertaining than you might expect, especially compared to last year's punishingly bad "Clash of the Titans." "Immortals" boils the ancient Greek myth of Theseus down to a grudge match between our boy Theseus (future Man of Steel Cavill) and barbaric King Hyperion (Rourke), who is not a nice man at all. There's plenty of hacking, bludgeoning, blood-geysering 3-D carnage, but the real treat is the spectacular computer-generated-imagery eye candy dreamed up by director Tarsem Singh ("The Fall").

Rated: PG for crude material including suggestive references, language and comic violence

Stars: Adam Sandler, Al Pacino, Katie Holmes

■ It's a one-joke movie and it's not a very good joke: Sandler doubles as Los Angeles advertising producer Jack and his obnoxious, braying, spectacularly needy identical twin sister Jill. Every Thanksgiving Jill makes Jack's life miserable by flying in for a visit, and Jack heaps abuse on his sister in front of his family — hilarious. What could be worse? How about Jack trying to hook up his sister with love-struck Pacino, so the "Godfather" star will appear in a Dunkin' Donuts commercial? Shockingly bad.

RECENT RELEASES

HUGO

★★★ 1/2

Rated: PG for mild thematic material, some action/peril and smoking

Stars: Asa Butterfield, Chloe Grace Moretz, Jude Law, Ben Kingsley

■ The most flamboyantly

cinematic film in director Martin Scorsese's long career, "Hugo" is a gorgeous and dazzling movie to behold. Though based on a children's book about an orphan boy (Butterfield) living in a 1930s Paris train station, the flamboyantly cinematic "Hugo" is imbued by Scorsese with a dark quality that gives the fantasy emotional heft. It's about secrets and dreams, work and family, time and magic, and movies (Kingsley plays cinema pioneer George Melies), especially about movies, by a master moviemaker with an unmatched passion for the medium.

JOHNNY ENGLISH REBORN

★★ 1/2

Rated: PG for mild action violence, rude humor, some language and brief sensuality

Stars: Rowan Atkinson, Rosamund Pike

■ This sequel to Atkinson's 2003 spy-movie parody, which was in effect a sequel to a series of TV commercials, is likely to satisfy fans of the British comic and of silliness in general, but it's uninspired to say the least. After years in exile in a Far Eastern monastery, English is called back to action to prevent the assassination of a world leader. Much slapstick ensues.

UNDERDOG: COMPLETE COLLECTORS EDITION

★★★ 1/2

Rated: N/A

Stars: Wally Cox, Norma McMillan

■ "There's no need to fear: Underdog is here!" At last. The good folks at Shout! Factory have compiled a complete collection of the 1964-67 Saturday morning cartoon adventures of the canine superhero (voiced by the granite-jawed man's man Cox), along with accompanying cartoons featuring the Go Go Gophers, Klondike Kat and Cmdr. McBragg. Despite the fact that some elements were necessarily copped from bootlegs, most are pristine — and available for the first time on DVD. A treasure.

ALSO NEW THIS WEEK

AMERICA GOES TO WAR

■ Journalist Eric Sevareid hosts this 10-part PBS documentary looking back on the American home front during World War II, with chapters including "Sacrifices and Shortages," "Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition," and "Right in the Fuehrer's Face."

FOOTLOOSE

■ A rebellious city kid (Kenny Wormald) moves to a small town where rock 'n' roll has been banned and shakes up the citizenry. Craig Brewer ("Black Snake Moan," "Hustle & Flow") directed the remake of the 1984 hit. Rated: PG-13 for some teen drug and alcohol use, sexual content, violence and language.

GAME OF THRONES: THE COMPLETE FIRST SEASON

■ Seven noble families compete for power in the mythical Middle Ages kingdom of Westeros in this Golden Globe-winning HBO series. This five-disc set includes all the episodes of the first season plus extras, including an interactive guide to Westeros, character profiles and a featurette on creating a new language for the series.

LIKE CRAZY

■ Two young lovers (Anton Yelchin and Felicity Jones) are forced apart after the English girl overstays her visa and is barred from the country; the separation wreaks havoc on their lives. Drake Doremus ("Spoonster") wrote and directed the drama, which won the grand prize at the 2011 Sundance Festival and a special jury prize for Jones. Rated: PG-13 for sexual content and brief strong language. Extras include commentary by Doremus.

MONTY PYTHON AND THE HOLY GRAIL BLU-RAY DEBUT

■ Monty Python's classic 1974 parody of the Arthurian legends makes its Blu-ray debut. Extras include lost animations introduced by co-director Terry Gilliam, outtakes and extended scenes, commentaries by Gilliam, co-director Terry Jones and John Cleese, Michael Palin and Eric Idle, plus the educational short "How to Use Your Coconuts."

TO CATCH A THIEF BLU-RAY DEBUT

■ Alfred Hitchcock's 1956 classic romantic suspense story, about a reformed jewel thief (Cary Grant) forced to catch a cat burglar after being accused of his crimes, makes its Blu-ray debut. Extras include a home visit with Hitchcock's daughter and granddaughter, featurettes on the effect of censorship on the film and on its writing and casting, photo galleries and the original theatrical trailer.

OUT NEXT WEEK

■ It's Oscar time, kind of, with a handful of films making their home-video debuts that either won a statuette, didn't win or were noticeably not nominated: Alexander Payne won best adapted screenplay for "The Descendants," Michelle Williams missed out on best actress for "My Week with Marilyn," and Spielberg's "Adventures of Tintin" was conspicuously missing from the race for best animated feature.

Wild about Harry

Chicago Children's Theatre brings 'The Houdini Box' to Skokie

BY SARA BURROWS

Contributor

When you're a kid, magic happens every day.

"It's a wonderful period of time in our lives," Sara Sevigny says. "Because when you play, you create everything. You create the landscape, you see the big top, you go there. You're not just playing with toys."

Magic, the stage variety, is what the Evanston-born-and-raised actor has been doing on local stages for the last 15 years. She'll be doing it again from March 14-25 as Victor's mom when the Chicago Children's Theatre brings its world premiere production of "The Houdini Box" to Skokie's North Shore Center.

Magical man

Sevigny plays Victor's Mom — her character has no other name — the mother of a lively boy whose idol is one of the most magical showmen of all time, Harry Houdini.

The kid-length musical, about 55 minutes, with book and lyrics by Hannah York, is based on The Houdini Box, a children's book written and illustrated by the two-time Caldecott winning artist/writer Brian Selznick. Selznick's 2008 tale, The Invention of Hugo Cabret, was the basis of Martin Scorsese's Academy Award-winning film, "Hugo."

"He has a spirit that's hungry for magic and escape," says Alex Weisman, the 2010 Northwestern theater grad who plays Victor, a boy growing up poor in New York in 1926. "He wants to do something like Houdini, something big and special."

That's not an unusual goal for an imaginative youngster. "Anyone in the arts has been that kid, has been 10 years old, putting on plays in the living room, wanting to do something extraordinary and have a roomful of people applaud," says Weisman.

But there's the mom issue. "She just wants him to be normal," says Weisman. "Victor hates normal."

Yet the play, says Sevigny, makes it clear that Victor's mom adores her son and enjoys his energy and imagination. Sevigny took cues for her character from her own sister, a mother of two young children. "There's a really fine line of wanting to encourage them and being amused by what they do, but also needing to set boundaries," she notes.

Getting real

And sometimes, says Sevigny, a parent just has had enough. Victor has locked himself in the steamer trunk once too often, and seems to be neglecting his real life for his Houdini fantasies. Mom decides a visit to his no-nonsense great aunt is in order.

The visit is a disaster, but on the way, Victor has the encounter that brings him the box that changes his life, though not in a way he'd ever dreamed.

The play, says Weisman, takes its audience on an emotional journey. "You laugh and you get really sad. Unexpected, 'adult' things happen to Victor, and you see him through it all. It's about your dreams, and all the obstacles that get in our dreams' way. When you grow up, how much of your childhood do you have to let go of?"

That's just one of the questions the play raises. Another, the most common

Harwood Heights offers Taste of Poland

The village of Harwood Heights is celebrating its 65th anniversary this year with a series of events beginning with the Taste of Poland next week.

"I felt it was important to assist our businesses, therefore some of these events would help promote our businesses to our residents and other customers," said Mayor Arlene Jezierny, who formed an events committee that hosted its first event in the fall.

"We already had an event called Taste of Italy in November where appetizers were served at Vince's Restaurant and then we headed to Biago's for the main entree and then across the street to DiMaggio's for dessert," Jezierny said. "It was a fun event and participants had a wonderful time and a chance to taste the goods of our establishments and meet the owners of the establishments."

The March 10 Taste of Poland event will feature Polish specialties from four area restaurants: Old Warsaw Buffet, 4750 N. Harlem Ave., Har-

Orion celebrates women composers

BY DOROTHY ANDRIES

Contributor

It will be all women all the time when the all-female Orion Ensemble presents an entire program by women composers. The concert celebrates Women's History Month, held each March, and includes music from three centuries and four countries, as well as music with four distinct styles.

"This is going to be a program of beautiful music that people just might not have heard before," said Diana Schmück, the ensemble's pianist.

Orion's first-ever program by all women will include music by Felix Mendelssohn's long-overshadowed sister Fanny, who lived from 1805 to 1847. "We'll play her Piano Trio in D Minor, Op. 11," Schmück continued. The work was in the same key as the Trio by her far more famous younger brother, who allowed some of her songs to be published under his name or simply F. Mendelssohn to give her pieces more attention.

The Mendelssohns were a prosperous German banking family, which actually might have been a disadvantage for Fanny. "If she had been less well off, she might have been more well known because of necessity," Schmück declared. "But it was considered a disgrace for a woman to have a public career as a composer."

French Romantic

Additional composers include Louise Farrenc of France, who lived from 1804-1875. "She was an early Romantic composer," Schmück said, "and the only woman hired to teach at the Paris Conservatory in the 19th century."

The Orion Ensemble will play her Trio in E Flat for clarinet, cello and Piano, Op. 44. "It has unusual harmonic twists, but also great elegance," the pianist said.

The contribution to Orion's program by British composer, Phyllis Tate, who lived from 1911 to 1985, is her 1957 Air and Variations for Clarinet, Violin and Piano. She must have been something of a character, as she was expelled from grade school for singing a bawdy song during a school assembly. From then on, she had no formal academic education.

"But she taught herself to play the ukelele," Schmück declared, adding that someone eventually spotted her talent and helped her gain admission to the Royal Academy of Music.

Tate's piece, she continued, is experimental in feeling, with the variations taking the form of an aubade or morning song, a waltz, a serenade, a tarantella and a fugue.

Opening the program is a composition by Stacy Garrop, who lives in Evanston and is head of the composition program at Roosevelt University. "We've already programmed some little pieces by Stacy," Schmück said, "but this is something special."

Garrop's piece, written in 2009, is based on an Appalachian folk song called "Silver Dagger" for violin, cello and piano. "It's been recorded by Joan Baez and Dolly Parton," Garrop explained, "and by the Louvin Brothers under the title 'Katie Dear.'"

"My piece is almost all a quotation of the oral tradition," Garrop continued. "I felt it my chance to add to the many versions that were out there."

The composer's music has been getting considerable play in recent years. The first concert of Northwestern University's Winter Chamber Music Festival in Evanston last January included Garrop's String Quartet No. 4, "Illuminations," played by the Cecilia String Quartet from Canada.

Garrop's musical instruction began at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, followed a master's degree at the University of Chicago and a doctorate from Indiana University.

Women teaching

As a composition teacher herself, she is particularly gratified that there are now many women composers teaching at the university level. "In the past either all the composition faculty were men or perhaps one woman," she said. "Now at Peabody (Conservatory, Baltimore) all the composition teachers are female and the University of Chicago has four women on their composition faculty."

Garrop's music is on a dozen CDs, five with the Chicago-based Cedille label. "And there are two more planned with Cedille," she said happily.

In fact, she finds herself at a point where she is receiving commissions and performance opportunities. "I used to send my CDs around and write letters of introduction," she stated. "Now more people are calling me."

"And I'll be fascinated to hear what the Orion musicians will do with 'Silver Dagger,'" she concluded.

In addition to Schmück, the ensemble includes clarinetist Kathryn Pirtle, violinist Florentina Ramniceanu, cellist Judy Stone, and violinist Jennifer Marlas.

High energy dance from Giordano

BY MELISSA WASSERMAN

Contributor

"The audience is going to be worn out when the piece finishes," said Artistic Director Nan Giordano, artistic director of Giordano Jazz Dance Chicago. "I've never seen dance at this speed."

The Evanston-based company expects to electrify audiences with the world premier of "JOLT" during its spring show at Chicago's Harris Theater for Music and Dance March 9 and 10.

As part of Giordano's "Passion & Fire" season, the program will also feature six pieces from the company's repertoire: Davis Robertson's "Entropy," Sherry Zunker's "The Man That Got Away," Jon Lehrer's "Like 100 Men" and "Cesura," Kiesha Lalama's "Alegria," and Christopher Huggins' "Pyrokinesis."

Keep moving

"Our rep is very challenging. It's great stamina that you need to have, but when you leave our show, you'll feel good," said Giordano. "You'll feel energized and you'll want more. You never end a show where it's been too long, ever. That's something I'm really particular about."

Giordano created the concept and structure of "JOLT," Artistic Associate Autumn Eckman choreographed the program, and the music was developed by Oak Park's Evan Bivins.

Starting off slow, clinking metal cups and spoons, the dancers ramp up to higher and higher speeds in "JOLT," an energetic, whimsical look the effect caffeine has on people throughout a regular day. The dancers push the theme, until by the end of the piece, they're moving at a breakneck speed.

"It's just entertaining, it's fun, there are times where it's very funny and it's just light," said Giordano. "There's no meaning or anything. It's just about caffeine. It just gets faster and faster and faster and it's really exciting to watch. I can't believe all ten of them are moving exactly in unison at the speed they are."

Energy, she explains, is one of the company's strengths and she wanted to make good use of it.

This upcoming show marks Bivins' first collaboration with Giordano, and he developed the piece using unconventional instruments. Musicians might bang on a paint bucket, a trash can, mixing bowls, pots, and pans with whisks, wooden spoons and drumsticks. Audiences will keep guessing what they are hearing throughout the piece.

Bang up sound

"There's nothing more fun than just monkey drumming on stuff," he said. "It was just a great experience. I would go down there in the studio, which had this amazing reverb, just naturally and just beat on things and improvise. Going in there and playing the music was just sheer fun and playtime for me."

He explains the score matched the dance and the dance in turn matched the score. The whole process of creating "JOLT," he says, was a journey as the piece was continually refined from the first day until the last to thoroughly capture the core theme.

"Certainly the first inspiration was lots and lots of energy," he said of the music. It's also a good fit to the Giordano style — exciting and visually entertaining.

"It's just supposed to be a lot of fun," said Bivins. "So I hope they [the audience] find that to be true."

At home with the monarchs of American theater

BY MYRNA PETLICKI

Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne were Broadway royalty for decades. They chose a rural location for their "castle," spending every summer at an estate in Genesee Depot, Wis., that they called Ten Chimneys. Some of the most famous actors, writers, artists, directors and designers of the 1920s and beyond spent time in that idyllic setting.

Playwright Jeffrey Hatcher visits Lunt, Fontanne and some of their acting friends in "Ten Chimneys" at Northlight Theatre under BJ Jones' direction.

There were rumors surrounding the sexuality of the Lunts. A more recent rumor is that director Jones inspired Hatcher to write this play.

"I've been to Ten Chimneys a couple of times," Jones said. In 2008, when playwright Hatcher and David Ira Goldstein, artistic director of Arizona Theatre Company, were in town, Jones drove them to Ten Chimneys for the day. "David Ira maintains that it was my idea to write a play about this," Jones said. "I don't quite remember that but I'll take the credit and/or the blame."

Theater idols

The Lunts were ideal subjects because, "They were the poster children for what Broadway was — the glamour, the language, the behavior," Jones said.

The play's structure very roughly follows that of Chekhov's "The Seagull." That's appropriate since the Lunts starred in "The Seagull" on Broadway in 1938, with actors Uta Hagen and Sydney Greenstreet. "Ten Chimneys" imagines the four stars rehearsing at the Lunts' retreat, with some flirtatious behavior occurring.

"The play is actually a celebration of the profession and our lives in the profession," Jones said.

Early in the rehearsal process, Jones took the cast on a field trip to Ten Chimneys, including V Craig Heidenreich, who plays Alfred Lunt, and Lia Mortensen, who was cast as Lynn Fontanne.

"You know how you walk into certain people's homes and you can feel the spirit of them?" Mortensen asked. "That's what Ten Chimneys is about. It is so absolutely a metaphor for who they were as a couple and as theater people. It's such a theatrical place. Every single inch of it is decorated and lovingly adorned with what they loved most, which is the theater and each other."

"It's an extraordinary, lovely place," Heidenreich said, while admitting that the visit had little impact on his preparation for the role. "I had done an enormous amount of research previous to it," he explained.

"What's extraordinary about them is that there was no separation between their public and their private lives," Heidenreich said. "Their private life was sort of played out on the literal stage of Broadway and the metaphorical stage of being 'The Lunts.' It appears that they were most in love, most passionate about each other and firmly connected."

Truly devoted

"There's a lot of gossip over the years that perhaps Alfred was homosexual, perhaps she was," Mortensen added. "But in every single picture you see of them together, their eyes are locked and they're either holding hands or their bodies are leaning towards each other. It's clear that they are devoted."

Heidenreich said, "I feel extraordinarily honored to try to do some sort of reverential embodiment of the Lunts because they're virtually holy figures. But on the other hand, the thing that Jeffrey Hatcher has done that is sort of fun and breathtaking is that he has written a late 1930s, early 1940s sort of screwball comedy."

"The playwright has taken some license in the story arc of our particular play," Mortensen said, but "the spirit [of the Lunts] is absolutely accurate."

HOROSCOPES

For the week of March 14 — March 20

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) This is a good time to reassess important relationships, both personal and professional, to see where problems might exist and how they can be overcome. Keep communication lines open.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) It's not easy to bring order to a chaotic situation, whether it's in the workplace or at home. But if anyone can do it, you can. A pleasant surprise awaits you by week's end.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Be careful that you don't make an upcoming decision solely on the word of those who might have their own reasons for wanting you to act as they suggest. Check things out for yourself.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) A personal relationship that seems to be going nowhere could be restarted once you know why it stalled. An honest discussion could result in some surprising revelations.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) That unexpected attack of self-doubt could be a way of warning yourself to go slow before making a career-changing decision. Take more time to do a closer study of the facts.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) A workplace problem needs your attention, now, before it deteriorates to a point beyond repair. A trusted third party could be helpful in closing the gaps that have opened.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A recent family situation could give rise to a new problem. Keep an open mind and avoid making judgments about anyone's motives until all the facts are in.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Rely on your always-sharp intuition to alert you to potential problems with someone's attempt to explain away the circumstances behind a puzzling incident.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Although you still need to do some snipping off of those lingering loose ends from a past project, you can begin moving on to something else.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) With your self-confidence levels rising, you should feel quite comfortable with agreeing to take on a possibly troublesome, but potentially well-rewarded, situation.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Travel is favored, both for business and for fun. The end of the week brings news about an upcoming project that could lead toward that promised career change.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) You might feel suddenly overwhelmed by a flood of responsibilities. But if you deal with each one in its turn, you'll soon be able to hold your head above water and move on.

BORN THIS WEEK: You have a wonderful way of offering comfort as well as guidance. You would do well in the healing arts.

Project Shoestring: How to become a fashion designer

Auf wiedersehen "Project Runway," there's a new kid in town and this one focuses on fashion designs from Chicago's up-and-coming talent. The event, "Launch — Driving Fashion Forward," is part fashion show, part competition as eight students from Columbia College will showcase their designs in hopes of winning $5,000. Knowing many of us might harbor a secret desire to be a fashion designer (especially on those days when nothing seems to fit), I asked Melissa Gamble, who was previously the Director of Fashion Arts & Events for Chicago's Department of Cultural Affairs and is now a lecturer at Columbia College, to give us tips on how to make a fashionista's dream come true, even on a shoestring budget.

Education

"Being a fashion designer requires much more than just raw talent," says Gamble. "Although TV shows such as 'Project Runway' have made the industry more accessible to the general public, they're also misleading as they don't show how hard it is to actually run a fashion business." According to Gamble, designers spend most of their time building their business, which includes working with buyers, manufacturers and sales reps while also sourcing materials, creating marketing plans and dealing with finances. Getting a solid education will not only give you a leg up when building your career, it might be the determining factor between success and failure.

Technique

Designers don't have to know how to sew or draw but it certainly helps when executing their vision. If you don't know how to sew, now is the time to learn as understanding how to work with different fabrics, add details and change up seams is only going to enhance your designs going forward. Besides, being able to sew your own designs will make it easier in the long run, especially when working with manufacturers. Of course there are exceptions, especially when it comes to celebrity designers who often lend their creative vision or name to a fashion line but rarely get involved in the nitty-gritty of production. In these cases, the celebrity has a large enough staff (and budget) to employ experts to do the sewing for them. So unless your name is J-Lo or Kardashian, get thee to a sewing class pronto.

Hands-on experience

When it comes to fashion design, few things are as valuable as hands-on experience. Not only will you learn the ins and outs of the business, but also you're likely to make good contacts and cultivate meaningful relationships. Hands-on learning can take many forms including working at a boutique, fabric store or design house. You might have to start off answering phones and running errands, but the experience and connections are likely to be invaluable.

Gamble also suggests joining organizations such as the Chicago Fashion Foundation (www.chicagofashionfoundation.org), which offers opportunities to take classes, attend special events and meet others who share a passion for fashion.

Say yes!

Fashion designer Miriam Cecilia Carlson knows the importance of saying yes. The up-and-coming designer was chosen to be one of six designers-in-residence at the Chicago Fashion Incubator (www.chicagofashionincubator.org) and was also a finalist for the "Oscar Design Challenge," hosted by the Academy Awards. The young designer attributes much of her success to the fact that she was open to every opportunity that came her way, even pushing herself to meet tight deadlines on the fly. "Once you're more established you can learn how to say no and manage your time more efficiently, but in the beginning you need to seize every opportunity because you never know where it might lead you."

Lake Forest author says focus on healthful eating to help manage weight

BY VERONICA HINKE
Contributor

So you've tripped on your New Year's resolution to lose weight. Yep, we've all been there. But getting back on track can be simply a matter of resetting your focus.

Dr. Monte Meldman, a Deerfield-based psychiatrist specializing in addictions, believes people can control weight by harnessing their bad memories of being, well, fat. "Even if you've relapsed or slipped, you can get back on track by remembering what you don't want: a fat face; a fat chin; clothes that crawl," Meldman said.

Thought control is a main theme running through the new book by Lake Forest resident Gigi Verrey, Okay, So I Got Fat (Wilson House Publishing, 2012).

Think healthy

Verrey says focusing thoughts — with better organization, smarter choices at the grocery store and by following a few simple rules — can help people follow a healthier lifestyle. "Keep organized," she encouraged. "No matter how tired you are, get over to that grocery store and get the work done."

Don't let self-defeating beliefs redlight well-intentioned plans. "That negative sort of mindset, if you will, actually starts as early as during the holidays. People put so much emphasis on losing weight, but forget the importance of healthy eating in general," Verrey said.

Slip-ups need not be fatal setbacks. "At a party last night, I was reminded that it's okay to enjoy yourself. If it's great brie, you're probably not going to say no to it. Just know that tomorrow you're going to do your best to get back on track," she said. "You could start feeling marvelous within a day if you lay off bread for a few days."

Verrey needed to do just that after she and her husband, Rob, gained a combined 50 pounds shortly after they married.

"After trying what seemed like an endless list of diets, I devised my own set of rules for the foods we consumed and life grew easier. I felt confident I could follow these rules; so the next step was experimenting with recipes and getting my grocery groove on. The result of this work, what I call 'The Routine,' helped all of us feel healthy and have more energy. We dropped pounds as we pursued our busy schedules. In no time at all, we were feeling great.

Feeling thin, fit and alive was (and still is) a huge motivator. I am living proof that it works," she said.

Herbs help

Verrey, who taught herself about nutrition by reading everything from blogs to American Medical Association journals, often uses herbs for natural flavors in healthier dishes. She grows herbs year-round, potting them indoors off season.

Cilantro, tarragon, chives and others star as flavorings in many of the original recipes in her book. Verrey's "Basic Dressing" is at the heart of many of those recipes. It's her ever-reliable mix of extra virgin olive oil, fresh lemon juice, minced garlic and sea salt.

Verrey says her Thai Chicken tastes so authentic "you'd need a Thai chef to tell the difference." She recommends serving it cold the day after over chopped cabbage.

Verrey has plans for a follow-up book, in which foods will be organized by season. She also plans to continue cooking demonstrations, including an upcoming event currently in the works at Sunset Foods in Long Grove. Meanwhile, Verrey looks forward to logging more thoughts from readers through her blog, which can be found online at www.GigiVerrey.com.

THE FAMILY DOG

Q: How can I stop my dog from urinating on the floor when someone comes in the house?

A: Submissive urination is the term that is usually used to describe this unpleasant occurrence. A dog that routinely displays this type of behavior, most often, is a passive and meek dog. Fear can also trigger this type of response.

First and foremost, your dog needs to be examined by your vet so any kind of medical issue can be ruled out. A medical condition could involve the bladder and/or the kidneys. However, this is not usually the cause when submissive urination takes place.

I have found that most dogs that are prone to this behavior will exhibit it when attention is given to them. This attention might be in the form of petting the dog, speaking to the dog or perhaps just making eye contact could be enough to trigger an episode.

To try and reduce this behavior, change the routine that the dog is accustomed to when someone comes over. This can include the following.

1. Instruct your guests prior to coming over, that upon their arrival, they are to completely ignore your dog. This includes no eye contact, no physical contact and no verbal contact. Walking directly past the dog is a must.
2. Another option might be to crate your dog prior to the arrival of your guests. If a crate is not an option, putting the dog in another room will serve this purpose.
3. If possible, instruct your dog to lie down and stay. Submissive urination usually occurs when the dog is in close proximity to the person that is causing the submissiveness.

What you are trying to do is take away the excitement, anxiety, and the need to be submissive. After a period of time has elapsed, perhaps 20 minutes or so, let your dog re-join the group. However, try and keep the attention to a minimum.

Hopefully, in time, your dog will feel that there is no reason for him to get excited or passive, because "no one pays attention to me anymore when they come over".

United proves to be friendly where refund is involved

BY STEPHANIE
ZIMMERMANN

The Fixer

Dear Fixer: I am having a problem getting United Airlines to refund my money for a billing mistake. They charged me for a ticket that was supposed to be free.

I had a credit of $423.62 from a previously canceled flight to Columbus, Ohio. I needed to call and make a new reservation with their agent over the phone, and I was aware that I would need to pay a $150 change fee for my $203.60 ticket to New York. That left a refund of $70.

The agent told me I needed to give him my credit card to process the refund.

Instead, he charged me for the entire price of the $203.60 ticket, plus a $25 handling fee!

When I called United to complain, I was told there was no one I could speak to and that I had to send an email to their complaint department.

I have yet to hear back, and now I have a charge of $228 on my American Express card.

I still have the original email for the first ticket purchase, plus the email from the travel agent telling me I had a $423.62 credit with United.

Merle D'Alba

Dear Merle: In the midst of this, United did send you a voucher for the $70 difference, but still, we could see why you didn't feel like paying twice for that $203 trip to New York.

We took your problem to a real human being at United — a wonderfully helpful woman named Sharon Kobat — and she was able to untangle the transactions. She apologized for the hassle and is putting through a credit for $203.60 to your MasterCard, which was the card used in the original, canceled transaction, and another credit for the $25 reservation fee to your AMEX card.

Dear Fixer: I inadvertently sent Sam's Club two separate $40 checks for the renewal of my membership, which was to expire Nov. 5.

I mailed the first check on Oct. 20. I went on a trip the next day, and when I returned on Oct. 30, there was a second renewal notice in the mail. I had completely forgotten that I'd sent a check prior to my vacation, so I sent them another check on Nov. 4. I have gone back and forth with various representatives there. On Feb. 22, they said it would be five to six weeks before I'd receive a check. This, to me, is unacceptable, as I've been waiting since the beginning of December for a simple refund for a simple mistake.

Edwina Jackson

Dear Edwina: You told us you rushed that second check in the mail because you feared your membership was about to expire. Too bad the refund process wasn't as quick.

Not to worry, though. After The Fixer got in touch with the PR folks at Walmart and Sam's Club, they devised a faster way to get you your money: They had your local store make the refund.

Costly lesson

Despite what your old Aunt Gladys told you, sometimes the early bird does not get the worm.

Sometimes the early bird gets the rotten piece of computer equipment.

That's what happened to Stacie, who needed a new printer and who was lucky enough to receive one as a gift. The box it came in looked as if it had already been opened, but she peeked inside and everything looked fine.

Stacie didn't set it up right away, as she was in the middle of buying a new house. Many, many months later, when she was finally ready to hook it up, Stacie got a surprise: "It was someone else's old unit with the new hardware packed on top," Stacie wrote The Fixer.

She went to the store, but since the window for returning items was only 14 days, they couldn't help.

We've heard similarly sad stories from people who have shopped far in advance for holiday or birthday presents, only to discover after the return period that something was wrong. It's OK to be an early bird — but make sure you check things out in time.

Decisions, decisions

Close to 300 communities in Illinois, including many suburbs, are planning referendums on March 20 asking residents whether they want their municipalities to negotiate power prices with competitors to ComEd and Ameren.

What does that mean for consumers? According to the Citizens Utility Board, here's what you should know:

- Even if your community opts for community aggregation, you still have the right to "opt out" of the new provider.

- No matter who you go with, you'll still get stuck with any "delivery" rate hikes the state approves, because ComEd and Ameren will still deliver any power that's supplied.

- If you want to switch suppliers, you should read all the fine print to make sure there is no exit fee for leaving that company.

There's lots more great information at CitizensUtilityBoard.org.

Shredding date set

A lot of you have been asking about that big free shredding event at the United Center. The Fixer just got the date — it's Saturday, June 23. It will run from 9 a.m. till 2 p.m. in Parking Lot E. Each participant may bring up to 10 boxes of documents, which will be shredded into tiny bits on site.

They'll also accept old or broken electronics items for free recycling, including TVs, computer monitors, PCs, laptops, servers, data storage devices, printers, fax and copy machines, cell phones, VCRs and DVD players and video game consoles. For more information, check out chicagoshreds.com.

Canadian oil sands are the second-largest proven oil reserves on Earth, and developing this resource and the infrastructure to bring this energy to U.S. consumers could support 600,000 American jobs by 2035. PIONEER PRESS NORTH STARS BOYS DIVER OF THE YEAR

Trevs' Sacks shrugs off the pressure

BY MATT HARNESS

mharness@pioneerlocal.com

New Trier diver Jordan Sacks made it look simple this season en route to winning his first state title.

But the North Stars Boys Diver of the Year said the journey was more difficult than it appeared.

"It wasn't easy at all," the University of Virginia recruit said. "People don't understand. The judges like to keep the meet close with the scoring, and there's so much pressure out there."

Sacks scored 444.25 points to beat out Loyola's Michael Nash, who totaled 419.75. Nash, who was hoping to become Loyola's first state diving champ, led Sacks after Friday's dives.

"It was really exciting because it could have come down to one dive," Sacks said. "You always were refocusing for the next dive."

Sacks and Nash, also a senior, dive together at NASA swim club at Northwestern, and Sacks said it was fun competing against his friend at Evanston.

"It made it less stressful," he said. "I know he's a good guy, and whatever happened we would still be friends."

Sacks became New Trier's latest diving state champion, joining Michael Ross, who encouraged Sacks to start the sport. Ross, who dives at the University of Wisconsin, finished first in 2009.

Sacks' victory also capped an undefeated season. It was a tough road, especially in the state series. Sacks had to beat Nash at the sectional meet, too.

"It was one of my goals," Sacks said of perfection. "It was really hard to get. But every win built up my confidence level. I then became more and more consistent."

Sacks will continue training and hopes to qualify for spring nationals.

Grodecki grabs attention as the best of the best

BY MATT HARNESS

mharness@pioneerlocal.com

Max Grodecki made waves at the state meet last month by winning four state championships.

Without hesitation, the New Trier senior insisted that's what he expected.

What he didn't anticipate was the Trevians going down as one of the best teams of all time in Illinois. New Trier won four individual events and all three relays to total 250 points and easily outdistance Naperville North, which scored 130.

"What happened was completely satisfying," said the Wisconsin-bound Gro-decki, who is the North Stars Boys Swimmer of the Year. "I can't even explain it. I also had no idea we would be considered one of the best teams ever. I did expect us to be pretty great."

decki, who is the North Stars Boys Swimmer of the Year. "I can't even explain it. I also had no idea we would be considered one of the best teams ever. I did expect us to be pretty great."

Grodecki won both the 50-yard freestyle (20.24) and the 100-yard freestyle (44.46) to add to his championship in the 100 free his junior year. He also collected two more relay championships to finish with four in three trips to the finals — seven golds total.

Along the way, the 400 free relay that included senior Sam Skinner, junior Reed Malone and junior Jack Mangan, established a national record in the preliminaries with a time of 2:59.76 to become the first prep foursome in the country to break three minutes.

While he waits for the next chapter in his career as a Big Ten swimmer, Grodecki will participate in club and ready himself for summer nationals in June.

"It's started back up again," he said of the training. "But I love it so much."

Grodecki will be one of two former Trevians competing at Big Ten schools next season, along with Michigan-bound Nick Killeen. Their teammate from last year, C.J. Smith, now swims for Minnesota.

"I am definitely psyched to be going to Wisconsin," Grodecki said. "It holds a lot of potential for me. It's definitely an up-and-coming program."

Here's the latest testament to the power and pervasiveness of modern technology and social media. In December of 2011, lefthanded reliever Craig Breslow learned he'd been part of a five-player trade from the Oakland A's to the Arizona Diamondbacks via Twitter. Breslow, a 2002 graduate of Yale University who majored in molecular biophysics and biochemistry, saw the tweet before the A's had a chance to contact him. He tweeted back, "I can no longer denounce the relevance of Twitter. It broke the story of my trade... to me."

With its certain inclusion in the 2012 NCAA men's basketball tournament, Notre Dame will extend its record as the school with the most March Madness appearances without winning a national championship to 32. Meanwhile, two other schools that will be selected once again in 2012 hold the mark for most games played against each other in March - Kentucky and Marquette, who have faced off 10 times in the postseason going into the 2012 tournament.

Here's an odd coincidence: Two all-time NBA records from the foul line were set on the same night during two different games in mid-January, 2012. Milwaukee and Detroit combined to go 41 for 41 to set a new mark during their game on January 19th, while on that very night Orlando's Dwight Howard hoisted 39 foul shots against Golden State to break Wilt Chamberlain's 49-year-old mark for most free throw attempts by one player. Howard sank 21 of those foul shots.

Wolves still learning to believe in system

BY DAN SHALIN
Contributor

Niles West boys basketball coach Bob Williams has a history of masterminding post-season upsets.

In 2001, his Schaumburg team defeated heavily favored Thornwood and Eddy Curry in the state title game.

Eleven years later, one of his teams almost caught everyone's attention again.

Niles West (7-19) almost pulled it off.

Williams' No. 15-seeded Wolves nearly stunned No. 1 New Trier in the Class 4A Niles West Regional semifinal on Feb. 28.

The Wolves executed their slow-it-down game plan nearly to perfection most of the way, staying within striking distance of the Trevians, who came out flat. Niles West had multiple chances to tie or go ahead in the late going, but saw its season end with the 39-35 defeat.

"We had the New Trier kids out of their game; we had the style of game the way we wanted it - the game plan was executed the way we want," Williams said. "Everything we wanted to have happen, did, except for the fact that we didn't win the game."

Trailing 34-32 with 1:06 left in regulation, the Wolves missed a potential game-tying three-pointer. Later, down 35-32 in the final minute, they committed a couple turnovers.

"Our kids do play hard and are great kids. But we do some things that indicate maybe we don't believe in ourselves or believe in our system," Williams said. "That's why you end up on the short end. New Trier kids, you could see the confidence in them. Down the stretch, they executed many of the things they wished to execute."

Boehm, who's headed to Dartmouth, finished with 17 points and seven rebounds after collecting just 10 points on layups through three quarters. Angel (8 points) also had a quiet night.

"When you hold a team under 40 points, you kind of kept everybody in check," Williams said. "New Trier scored 94 points (against Waukegan) a week (earlier). We're very happy with our defensive effort."

Offensively, senior center Alek Biser led Niles West with 12 points; he also played solid defense on Boehm. It was a nice ending for a player who had endured a senior season blighted by injury.

"What a champion and what a competitor," Williams said about Biser. "(Prior to the season) he had a broken bone in his leg. For him to come back and play the way he did, he's an amazing kid."

Junior Joe Younan added nine points for the Wolves, and senior Cory Dolins scored seven, including an important three-pointer with 4:53 left. Seniors Nathan Sagett scored three points and DJ Harris contributed two in their final game.

Niles West will return a solid nucleus next season, featuring Younan, and classmates David McCoy, Alex Darville and Mohammad Qureshi, along with sophomore Ahmad Gibson.

Williams said the group will have to learn to avoid lapses in judgment and concentration.

"If we continue on the same mental path, we'll be the same type of team (next season) - good, but not good enough," he said. "But if we follow through on things that we've learned, and continue to play better and be more confident, then we'll step up and be a better team."

Dons' seniors end their careers on home floor

BY GARY LARSEN
Contributor

Joe Ferrici felt like he let his team down, but no loss ever comes down to a single player.

Notre Dame's season ended with a 51-48 loss to Evanston in the IHSA Class 4A Notre Dame Regional title game on Friday, and the Dons' senior was just one of the players responsible for a 13-for-25 team performance from the free-throw line.

"I think we were 10-for-22 (in a 52-45 win over Glenbrook South on Feb. 27), and you're not going to win many close games when you're shooting free throws like that," said Notre Dame coach Tom Les.

As the No. 4 seed in the Glenbrook South Sectional, Notre Dame (20-9) faced a team in No. 5 Evanston (19-10) that came ready to play on the Dons' home floor.

Notre Dame trailed 12-7 after a quarter and 20-15 at halftime, courtesy of a hard-nosed and physical effort by the Wildkits.

"That's a style we like to play, and they just came out and wanted it a little more than we did," Ferrici said. "We didn't come out as strong as we like to, and they outplayed us."

Ferrici and junior Matt Mooney scored 17 points apiece to lead the Dons in scoring. Ferrici scored nine points and Mooney added 12 in the second half.

The Dons' lone lead of the game came near the end of the third quarter at 33-32, on a three-pointer from junior Justin Halloran. Evanston's Josh Irving answered with a basket at the buzzer to give the Wildkits a 34-33 advantage heading into the final eight minutes.

"It was a good game. They came into our place and played awfully hard," Les said. "I thought they had momentum early and played harder than us, and in the second half we picked it up. To their credit, we made a couple plays and took a lead, but they came right back and made big plays coming right back at us."

Evanston went on an 8-0 scoring run to start the fourth quarter, but Notre Dame fought back to within a point at 49-48 on a Mooney drive with only 16 seconds left in regulation. An Evanston free throw followed, and Mooney got a great look at a 15-footer in the game's waning moments — but his shot wouldn't fall.

"We were right there a couple times but couldn't get stops," Ferrici said. "We couldn't finish the deal."

Les and his program will bid farewell to four seniors from a team that put 20 wins in the books this season.

"Joe Ferrici had a really good year for us, Greg Leifel and Jimmy Cravens did a good job, and Joey Solita had a couple games where he contributed on a big-time basis," Les said. "Ferrici stepped up and he had a really good senior year."

Added Ferrici: "It's about learning from your mistakes, and in our locker room, we feel like we gave away six or seven games. We weren't projected to be much, but I thought we had a good year."

Wells another piece to surprising season

BY DAN SHALIN
Contributor

The Niles North and Glenbrook North boys basketball teams split a pair of games during the regular season, but key players were missing in both of those encounters.

When the teams met in Friday night's Niles North Regional final, both squads were closer to full strength.

For No. 2 seed GBN, that meant having the services of 6-foot-8 forward Andrew McAuliffe, a top-rated junior who had missed a chunk of the season with a knee injury. However, Niles North had its own recent addition, junior Lorenzo Dillard, who has managed to grab plenty of headlines in just six high school games.

He added to his collection during Friday's regional title game.

The 6-foot-1 guard scored a game-high 21 points, including the game-winning free throw with 7.2 seconds remaining, as the Vikings went wire-to-wire and held off a late Spartans rally to win 57-56.

Dillard has been asked to add more ball-handling to his list of duties, also dealt several assists.

"Lorenzo is a great player, one of the best in the state," said Vikings junior guard Avery Wells, one of the game's unsung heroes. "(Dillard) makes it fun out there for everybody. He's not selfish. He's not looking to go out there and score 100 points. He just really facilitates the offense well."

The Vikings (20-8), who were edged out by Glenbrook North for the CSL North crown, won back-to-back regionals titles for the first time in the program's history. They were to play Maine South during Wednesday's Glenbrook South Sectional semifinals.

"It feels great because this was going to be a rebuilding year," said Niles North head coach Glenn Olson, whose team lost all-star Abdel Nader (NIU) from last year's sectional champs. "But we haven't just made a great (late-season) run here, we've had a great season."

For much of the campaign, the Vikings relied heavily on the scoring and ball handling of 5-6 dynamo Malachi Nix, who teamed with Dillard to form one of the state's best junior backcourts.

Nix added 16 points against Glenbrook North (20-7), including banking in an off-balance three-pointer at the half-time buzzer to give his team a 22-18 lead.

The Vikings stretched the advantage to 42-33 after three quarters, and led by 11 early in the fourth.

Glenbrook North junior Kurt Karis put the Spartans on his back in the fourth quarter, when he scored 12 of his team-high 15 points. His three-point play with 1:11 remaining tied the score at 54-54, and capped off a stunning 10-1 run.

Everyone in the building expected Dillard or Nix to take Niles North's next shot. Instead, Wells, a reserve guard, drove to the hoop, drew a foul and hit two free throws.

"One kid I couldn't be more proud of is Avery Wells," Olson said. "The kid steps up and knocks down those free throws. He has ice water in his veins."

Glenbrook North tied it at 56-56 on senior Trevor Ponticelli's free throws with 19.1 seconds remaining. Then, with 7.5 seconds left, Dillard was fouled and split a pair of free throws.

Glenbrook North senior guard Adam Chick missed a runner in the lane as time expired.

"We didn't finish this game well. But if you only focus on that, we'd take away from the first three quarters when we defended our tails off," Olson said. "We made some poor decisions (down the stretch) and didn't knock down some free throws. But we did when it mattered."
