Beyond Borders

2012 SAA ANNUAL MEETING
AUGUST 6-11 • SAN DIEGO, CALIFORNIA

Beyond Borders – the premier educational event of the year for archives and records management professionals – is your best opportunity all year to MEET, LEARN, GROW, and COLLABORATE in the company of colleagues from across the country and around the world...

MEET!

Beyond Borders features...

- Roundtable and Section meetings that get you in tune with others who share your special interests...
- SAA committee meetings, open to all members, at which you can learn about what SAA is doing on behalf of archives and archivists...
- Special Networking Events, from the New Member/First-Timer Orientation and Forum to the All-Attendee Reception to alumni mixers, where you can mingle with archives “rock stars,” catch up with classmates, and interact with session speakers.

LEARN!

Beyond Borders brings you...

- Thought-provoking and informative plenary sessions...
- 70 education sessions – developed specifically for archives professionals – that provide practical tips that you can put to use as soon as you return to work – and discussions of research and theory that advance your profession to new heights...
- In-depth coverage of an archival topic of special interest to you at Pre-Conference Programs...

GROW!

At Beyond Borders you’ll have so many opportunities to expand your horizons as a professional! You’ll find...

- A chance for first-timers and new members to see what it’s all about – all in one place and all at one time...
- The Exhibit Hall – packed with fresh ideas, new products, the tools you need to do your best...
- The 6th Annual Research Forum, where you’ll learn about what’s happening in research and innovation – and maybe find some research-based solutions for your institution.

COLLABORATE!

Make time at Beyond Borders to...

- Meet up in the Networking Café, where you can talk to representatives of allied organizations, recruiters, and volunteer career advisors; review literature and job vacancy announcements; post your résumé; or check your email at a CyberCafé kiosk...
- Attend one or more Open Forums or Brown Bag Lunches to share your ideas about “Evolving Perceptions of Diversity,” SAA’s Standards Portal, new directions for SAA’s Annual Meeting, CONTENTdm and EAD, and more...
- Take a chance! Introduce yourself to someone whose knowledge and skills could benefit your institution’s next project!

Join Us in San Diego

TO CELEBRATE PROFESSIONAL COLLABORATION!

Dear Friends and Colleagues:

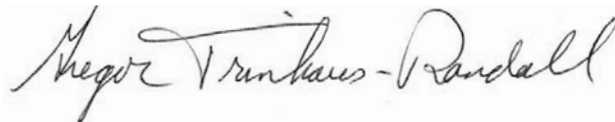

Collaborating and cooperating with our colleagues both within and beyond our profession is the road to the future. Please join us in San Diego in August for Beyond Borders: The 76th Annual Meeting of the Society of American Archivists – your best opportunity all year to stretch your imagination, expand your contacts and networks, look beyond your institution's walls, and interact with colleagues in archives and other information fields.

If you've attended SAA Annual Meetings before, you know the excitement that comes from hearing about innovative approaches to archival activities, from exploring new ideas, and from meeting colleagues and renewing friendships. If you've never attended an Annual Meeting – or haven't joined us in recent years – you'll find a broad array of opportunities to learn, explore, collaborate, and celebrate the world of archives, including:

- In-depth pre-conference workshops and provocative plenary sessions that give you direct access to experts in the field and voices from beyond our professional circles.
- Exciting program sessions (choose from 70 of them!) that deliver the latest ideas and techniques in an environment in which you'll feel comfortable asking questions.
- Section and roundtable meetings that put you in touch with colleagues who share your specific interests and concerns and provide a wonderful venue for collaboration.
- The Beyond Borders Expo, which provides an unparalleled opportunity to talk with our industry partners, express your ideas and opinions, and learn what's new in the field.
- And because we don't believe in "all work and no play," the Host Committee has lined up a diverse itinerary of repository tours, open houses, and on-your-own explorations and we've planned a fun and casual All-Attendee Reception at which you can catch up with your friends.

At Beyond Borders you'll meet, learn, network, and collaborate with colleagues from across the country (and around the world) who share your interests, your concerns, and your on-the-job challenges. You'll benefit from our profession's diversity of ideas, methods, and experiences – and we'll learn from you.

Whether you're a newcomer to the field, an experienced archives professional, or somewhere in between, you're sure to find wonderful opportunities to collaborate at Beyond Borders. I look forward to seeing you in San Diego!

Gregor Trinkaus-Randall

SAA President, 2011-2012

Traveling "Beyond Borders"

*Cosmopolitan Hotel (Casa de Bandini) c. 1872, Old Town, San Diego.
(San Diego History Center Photograph Collection)*

*The Catholic Church of the Immaculate Conception, Old Town, San Diego.
(Alan Renga)*

It was not “a dark and stormy night” in September 2010 when then-President-Elect Gregor Trinkaus-Randall contacted us and asked if we would serve as the 2012 Program Committee co-chairs, but all the elements of a cliffhanger were there: We had never met, neither of us really liked conference themes, the list of Program Committee volunteers was long and filled with unfamiliar names, and SAA was coming off a stellar 75th Anniversary conference in Chicago, brilliantly crafted by Nancy McGovern, Richard Marciano, and their ten Program Committee colleagues.

But when we looked more closely at the list of committee volunteers and their qualifications, we saw that we had an opportunity to do something special. We selected a very exciting and diverse group of colleagues to join us on the committee, and we looked forward to meeting them in Chicago. We exchanged some emails, uncommitted about choosing a program theme, and then Gregor wrote and asked us to make a theme around cooperation and collaboration. Petrina suggested the theme “Collaborating Across Borders,” Rob suggested “Crossing Borders,” and then Program Committee member Kathy Hertel-Baker wrote “Beyond Borders.” It was the perfect moniker for the San Diego location and the emphasis that Gregor favored!

Beginning at the 2011 Annual Meeting, we shared our dreams for a diverse program and some creative format changes, including more lightning talks and more 60-minute sessions. At section and roundtable meetings and in the hallways, we talked to individuals with exciting program ideas, and we talked about endorsements and the importance of complete, competitive proposals. The SAA membership delivered!

On a warm Veteran's Day weekend in Chicago, SAA staff members welcomed and encouraged the full committee. Our enormous task was to discuss and select from a whopping 150 program proposals and 22 poster session proposals! SAA members took the program theme to heart and delivered an astounding array of proposals that featured an exciting variety of geographic, professional, and ethnic topics and formats, including 11 lightning talks. The Macs and PCs were evenly divided among the Committee members, and we worked our way through a lengthy and complicated Excel workbook of proposals, topical data, and preliminary rankings previously submitted by Committee members. Together we experienced the joy of accepting 69 session proposals and the sadness of rejecting so many that SAA members had worked hard to submit on time. Thirty-eight of the record 52 proposals that received section and roundtable endorsements were accepted.

Although the “Beyond Borders” program that we crafted includes the technical program sessions that one would expect on digital preservation, electronic records, Web access, digitization, and descriptive standards, we’re also gratified by the number of sessions that feature archives of diverse cultures and faiths, issues of social memory, and such other skills and important areas as advocacy, fundraising, appraisal, reference, archival management, records management, collaboration, ethics, and professionalism. The Program Committee worked with several session proposers and chairs to reduce some 90-minute proposals to 60 minutes – and we’re especially excited to present seven lightning sessions (one in each track) that are sure to engage attendees in a whirlwind of discussions on a variety of important archival topics.

SAA members answered the call and they’ve delivered a delightful and informative slate of engaging conference sessions. We hope you’ll join us at the lovely San Diego Hilton Bayfront from August 6 to 11. Even sun, sand, and surf won’t keep you from the intellectual delights that our colleagues are preparing for us as we travel “Beyond Borders” in 2012!

GENERAL INFORMATION

Pre-conference Programs

For in-depth coverage of archival topics of special interest to you, enhance your conference experience by attending a 1- or 2-day workshop or seminar – and return to work brimming with new ideas and approaches! To ensure interaction between the instructor(s) and participants, class size is limited. For more information about these education programs on Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday, see pages 10 – 13.

Registration Desk Hours

Pre-registrants may pick up their conference materials at the Pre-registration Desk in the Registration Area. Your registration packet will include a name badge, tickets to special events (if applicable), and an Onsite Program that lists times, locations, and descriptions for all sessions and events. On-site registrants should register at the Registration Desk. A name badge is required for admission to all sessions and events.

Beyond Borders Goes meetsmart mobile!

SAA is pleased to provide conference attendees and exhibitors with meetsmart mobile, designed to help you plan for and navigate Beyond Borders and enhance your experience in San Diego. meetsmart mobile is useful before, during, and after the conference – and it's easy to use! meetsmart mobile is Web-based, so you don't have to download anything. On site, you'll have quick and easy access to valuable conference information:

- Schedule of events
- A complete, searchable listing of education sessions and events
- Event and session descriptions, topical tracks, and speaker information
- A complete listing and description of sponsors and exhibitors, products, and services
- Important conference updates and messages
- Top headlines and show news announcements
- Facebook and Twitter activity

Watch the conference website for information about getting started with meetsmart mobile after July 1.

Attention First-Timers and New Members!

We understand that being a new member of an organization or of the profession, or attending a large conference for the first time, can be a daunting experience. That's why we provide a variety of services and programs that can help you survive—and thrive!—at Beyond Borders and, well, beyond...

NEW! Students and New Archives Professionals Roundtable

Approved by the SAA Council in January 2012, SNAP exists "to advocate for students, interns, new professionals, early-career project archivists, and archivists who are still looking for their first professional jobs." Join SNAP for the group's inaugural meeting on Wednesday, August 8, from 5:30 to 7:30 pm, and then regroup at the...

New Member/First-Timer Orientation & Forum

Join representatives of the Membership Committee, the Key Contact Program, and the SAA Council for a casual conversation about how to make the most of your time at the conference. Refreshments will be served and a cash bar will be available. (Wednesday, 8:00 – 9:15 pm)

Networking Café

Visit SAA's Career Center in the Networking Café to learn about current employment vacancies and opportunities for postgraduate study, or to consult with a career advisor. Attend the Mentoring Program Meet-and-Greet to meet with program coordinators and/or apply to be a protégé (SAA membership required). For additional details and times, see page 7.

Navigator Program

SAA's Women Archivists Roundtable and Membership Committee are pleased to sponsor the Navigator Program, which matches conference veterans with first-time attendees. The Navigator Program is an informal outreach effort that helps newcomers make the most of their time at the Annual Meeting. Navigators share their experience, advise you on sessions and special events that suit your interests, and facilitate networking with other attendees. Navigators typically contact participants prior to the meeting and are encouraged to answer questions by email in advance. They will also arrange to meet you in person at the meeting. All Beyond Borders attendees are welcome to request a navigator or volunteer to serve in this important role. For more information, contact navigator@archivists.org. You'll be contacted in mid-July and matched with a partner.

The deadline to request a navigator is July 1.

Networking Café

The Networking Café brings together a variety of activities to help attendees get connected and get ahead professionally. Are you curious about what programs and events allied organizations are sponsoring? Wondering about your career options or opportunities for postgraduate study? Want to check your email between sessions? The Networking Café is the place to go!

- Wednesday, August 8: 12:00 pm – 5:00 pm
Thursday, August 9: 8:00 am – 5:00 pm
Friday, August 10: 8:00 am – 5:00 pm
Saturday, August 11: 8:00 am – 1:00 pm

Cyber Café: Jump online between sessions!

Information Tables: Meet with representatives and peruse literature from allied organizations.

Career Center: Hosted by SAA's Membership Committee, the Career Center provides services and opportunities for both job seekers and employers:

For Job Seekers:

- Post your résumé for prospective employers to see at the Annual Meeting.
- Review job announcements and meet with prospective employers.
- Polish your résumé and/or consult with volunteer career advisors.
- Learn about postgraduate programs and professional development opportunities.

For Employers:

- Post your position announcement. Place your announcement on file with the conference Career Center and expand your potential applicant pool.
- Meet job seekers and potential employees. Employers who participate in the Career Center will have the chance to meet and speak with job seekers in an informal and relaxed setting.

If you're a job seeker, potential employer, or archival educator, please email SAA at servicecenter@archivists.org or call 866-722-7858 for information about posting your résumé or job announcement, recruiting on site, or distributing your program literature.

The SAA Career Center is sponsored by History Associates.

Mentoring Program Meet-and-Greet: Are you seeking guidance on your professional development? Do you want to share your knowledge and experience with a fresh young talent? Stop by the Networking Café and learn about how SAA's Mentoring Program can help you make the right connections. (Thursday, 9:30 – 10:00 am)

And if you're a student...

Beyond Borders* offers lots of opportunities for you to network, exchange ideas, learn, and grow. You're welcome at all events, but be sure to take advantage of the following – designed with you in mind:

NEW! Students and New Archives Professionals Roundtable

Approved by the SAA Council in January 2012, SNAP exists to “advocate for students, interns, new professionals, early-career project archivists, and archivists who are still looking for their first professional jobs.” Join SNAP for the group's inaugural meeting on Wednesday, August 8, from 5:30 to 7:30 pm.

Student Poster Presentations

Join your student colleagues in the Expo Hall to view their poster presentations, ask questions, share your ideas, and network. (Thursday, August 9, 5:30 – 7:30 pm; and Friday, August 10, 11:30 am – 12:30 pm)

Alumni Mixers

Enhance your conference experience with this chance to mix and mingle informally with alumni from your education institution. The schedule will be posted on the conference website as plans are made; for a complete list of mixers, see the Onsite Program. (Friday, August 10, 7:30 – 9:00 pm)

Student Paper Presentations

Support your student colleagues as they discuss their work at this special “Graduate Student Archivists Paper Session” (#502) on Saturday, August 11, 8:00 – 9:30 am.

“Office Hours”

Beyond Borders is a wonderful place to meet and greet – and SAA is delighted to offer representatives from our own and related organizations an opportunity to answer your questions and hear your ideas. Check the Onsite Program for the “Office Hours” schedule and location in the Expo Hall. Groups that are interested in holding office hours should contact René Mueller at rmueller@archivists.org by July 1, 2012.

Speakers: Add #saa12 to your slides and encourage attendees to tweet about your session!

GENERAL INFORMATION

Posters, Posters Everywhere!

Beyond Borders features three different sets of poster presentations – all of which are certain to be of interest to you!

Professionals' Poster Presentations, which were reviewed and accepted by the 2012 Program Committee as part of the program proposal process, will be on display from Thursday through Saturday. Presenters are expected to be with their posters to discuss them with viewers on Thursday, August 9, from 9:30 to 10:00 am and on Friday, August 10, from 3:00 to 3:30 pm. See pages 32 – 33 for a list of Professional Posters.

Research Forum Poster Presentations will be reviewed and accepted for presentation at the 6th Annual SAA Research Forum on Tuesday, August 7, and will be available for viewing from Thursday through Saturday. For information about submitting a poster or paper to the Research Forum, see the Call for Papers and Posters on page 48.

Graduate Student Poster Presentations were selected by the Student Program Subcommittee of the 2012 Program Committee. They will be on display in the Exhibit Hall throughout Expo Hall hours, and students are expected to be with their posters to discuss them with attendees on Thursday, August 9, from 5:30 to 7:30 pm, and on Friday, August 10, from 11:30 am to 12:30 pm. See pages 34 – 35 for a list of Graduate Student Posters.

Repository Tours and Open Houses

Your San Diego-area colleagues represent some of the most diverse and interesting repositories in the country – many of which are offering special behind-the-scenes access for Beyond Borders attendees on Tuesday, August 7, and Wednesday, August 8. Please check the conference website at www.archivists.org/conference for more information and updates provided by our dynamic Host Committee!

Audio Recordings

Extend your learning even after the conference ends! Most education sessions and all plenaries will be audio-recorded and available for sale on CDs during and after the meeting. Or place a pre-meeting order at a discounted rate. See the conference website for more information.

Child Care

Please contact Allison Perrelli at Conference and Logistics Consultants (410-571-0590) to learn about child care options. Per a 1984 vote of the SAA membership, a small portion of each SAA Annual Meeting registration is assessed to help subsidize the cost of child care at the meeting.

Pre-Conference Programs

SUNDAY, AUGUST 5 & MONDAY, AUGUST 6 Archives: Principles and Practices

San Diego Hilton Bayfront

9:00 AM – 5:00 PM (Lunch on your own)

Although they have much in common with librarians, records managers, and museum staff, archivists must use different practices to protect the integrity of historical records. A strong archives program puts into practice long-standing archival principles. What are those principles and how do you implement them? This workshop provides an overview of basic archival functions, including appraisal and accessioning, arrangement and description, preservation, and reference.

In this workshop you'll:

- Learn archives and historical records terminology and get an overview of the body of knowledge needed, ethical responsibilities, and resources for continuing professional development;
- Learn the principles of archival organization and functions: Provenance, respect de fonds, and original order;
- Find out about core policy statements, professional standards, and best practices, and learn how to evaluate your current program and determine needed improvements;
- Develop the knowledge base needed to make choices for balancing access to and preservation of historical records and holdings; and
- Gain a greater understanding of the role of the archives in fulfilling the mission of the institution.

Who should attend? Librarians, records managers, museum staff, and administrators who have responsibility for archival records but little or no archives training.

Attendance is limited to 35.

Instructors: Pam Hackbart-Dean, Director, Special Collections Research Center, Southern Illinois University, Carbondale; and Anne Ostendarp, Consulting and Project Archivist, Sunderland, Massachusetts.

Maximize your training budget and pack in all the education you can! Add to your conference experience by attending a full-day or two-day workshop before the meeting – and return to work with new knowledge and skills that you can implement right away! Class size is limited to ensure interaction between the instructor(s) and participants. For individual Pre-Conference Program fees, see the registration form on page 46.

MONDAY, AUGUST 6

NEW! Describing Moving Images with PBCore

San Diego Hilton Bayfront

9:00 AM – 5:00 PM (Lunch on your own)

Are you responsible for analog and digital audiovisual collections? Do you want to make your film and video collections accessible using established and emerging metadata standards? Are you ready to explore PBCore, the metadata standard developed for the description of analog and digital media objects? Find out how to describe moving images like these:

- 16-mm film collections of athletic events.
- Videos for course-related screenings and research.
- Oral histories on video formats.
- Home movies and amateur films and video.
- Video collections of lectures, workshops, and special events.
- Original vs. preservation copies of your materials.

Get an introduction to the alphabet soup of metadata standards for the discovery of moving image materials; learn strategies for mixing and matching standards and present case studies; observe as the instructors demonstrate PBCore's value in describing intellectual content, rights, authority, and technical metadata in relation to the Functional Requirements for Bibliographic Records (FRBR); and explore implementation of PBCore in conjunction with DACS/EAD and "More Product, Less Process" (MPLP). The limits and flexibility of PBCore as a preservation metadata standard will be discussed briefly, and you'll be introduced to PBCore with hands-on exercises.

Upon completion of this workshop, you'll be able to:

- Identify the different types of standards available for describing moving image resources in a variety of institutional contexts;
- Recognize the value of PBCore to describe multiple instantiations associated with a particular event or production;
- Define what it means to be PBCore compliant; and
- Understand how PBCore can be utilized in combination with other standards.

Who should attend? Special collections, historical society, library, IT, records management, and archives managers and staff; lone arrangers; and library and information studies students.

What should you already know? DACS, EAD, and basic authority and cataloging concepts.

This course complements "Describing Archives: A Content Standard," "Implementing More Product, Less Process," and "Moving Images: An Introduction for Archivists."

Attendance is limited to 35.

Instructors: Andrea Leigh, Moving Image Processing Unit Head, Library of Congress; and Courtney Michael, Project Manager, WGBH Educational Foundation, Media Library and Archives, Brighton, Massachusetts.

NEW! CURATEcamp SAA 2012

Offsite

9:00 AM – 5:00 PM (Lunch on your own)

An SAA first! This workshop is an unconference-style event at which participants will engage in discussions related to data curation and digital archives. It's an unconventional format, with participants in charge of determining learning objectives by choosing the topics and driving the discussion. And it's an opportunity to brainstorm on current topics, explore ideas in progress or tough concepts, and share best practices.

This open forum allows for discussions with a diverse group of professionals in a setting in which topics develop organically throughout the day. Visit <http://curatecamp.org/pages/how-it-works> for more information.

One of the core goals of CURATEcamp is that everyone engages in peer-to-peer learning, collaboration, and creativity to broaden the digital curation community. Most of all, you'll be in a position to propose topics, ask questions, get answers, and make connections with your peers in a welcoming environment. There are no spectators at CURATEcamp...only participants!

Who should attend? Anyone who touches digital records and wants to participate and learn in this new format.

What should you already know? You should have a basic understanding of digital collections and data sets.

Attendance is limited to 40.

Facilitators: Erin O'Meara, Archivist, Gates Archive, Seattle; Cristela Garcia-Spitz, Project Manager, University of California, San Diego; and Aislinn Sotelo, Coordinator of Technical Services for the Mandeville Special Collections, University of California, San Diego.

DAS

Digital Forensics for Archivists

Offsite

9:00 AM – 5:00 PM (Lunch on your own)

Are you starting to receive disks as parts of collections or have you discovered disks in boxes of paper records? Caring for the records stored on removable storage media (e.g. floppy disks, hard drives, thumb drives, memory sticks, CDs) requires archivists to extract whatever useful information resides on the medium while avoiding the accidental alteration of data or metadata. In this course, you'll learn how to apply existing digital forensics methods and tools in order to recover, preserve, and ultimately provide access to born-digital records. We'll explore the layers of hardware and software that allow bitstreams on digital media to be read as files, the roles and relationships of these layers, and tools and techniques for ensuring the completeness and evidential value of data. We'll apply digital forensics tools and methods to test data in order to illustrate how and why they are used.

Upon completion of this course you'll be able to:

- Explain the roles of and relationships between the main layers of technology required to read a string of bits off a physical storage medium and treat it as a file;
- Identify various forms of data that may be "hidden" on the physical storage medium;
- Use write blockers and create disk images to prevent accidental manipulation of volatile data;
- Identify and extract the data that a file system uses to manage files;
- Apply digital forensics tools and methods to collections of records; and
- Identify and compare alternative strategies for providing public access to data from disk images

Who should attend? This course is intended for any archivist, manuscript curator, librarian, or other professional who is responsible for acquiring or transferring collections of digital materials, particularly those that are received on removable media.

REGISTER ONLINE AT www.archivists.org

Horton Grand Hotel, 311 Island Avenue, Gaslamp Quarter. (Cristela Garcia-Spitz)

What should you already know? Participants are expected to know basic archival practice and have intermediate knowledge of computers and digital records management. We strongly recommend that participants complete the "Thinking Digital" Web seminar first.

This course builds on others in the Digital Archives Specialist (DAS) curriculum, including "Basic Electronic Records," "Thinking Digital," "Accessioning and Ingest," and "Beginner's Guide to Metadata." (For more information about these courses, see <http://www2.archivists.org/prof-education/das>.)

Attendance is limited to 35.

Instructor: Dr. Christopher (Cal) Lee, Associate Professor, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill.

SAA Standard: Encoded Archival Context – Corporate Bodies, Persons, and Families (EAC-CPF)*

Offsite

9:00 AM – 5:00 PM (Lunch on your own)

To apply for a workshop registration scholarship: <http://www2.archivists.org/sites/all/files/EAC-ScholarshipApp.pdf>.

How can EAC-CPF enhance your institution's records – and how can you get started using it?

In this workshop you'll learn how to create EAC-CPF records, with hands-on application of the elements to existing data; discuss balancing existing data with additional data components as part of an implementation strategy; and examine existing projects to consider how EAC-CPF may be implemented locally, regionally, or nationally.

Upon completing this workshop you'll have:

- Knowledge of the structure and content of the EAC-CPF standard and the companion content standard ISAAR (CPF);
- Explored the metadata scheme design, including elements and attributes defined to reflect that design:
 - XML techniques used to incorporate data from allied standards
 - Current XML techniques leveraged in the standard
- Created EAC-CPF record content from existing data structures, such as the Library of Congress Name Authority File, United List of Artists Names, biographical resources, and other related sources; and
- Exposure to EAC-CPF projects underway in the United States and internationally.

Who should attend? Practicing archivists who are interested in the development and design of the EAC-CPF standard, who want to learn more about this standard, and who want to consider how it could be implemented in their repositories or consortia.

What should you already know? Background knowledge of other encoding standards, such as MARC21 or HTML, will ensure that you have a successful learning experience.

Attendance is limited to 35.

Instructor: Katherine M. Wisser, PhD, Assistant Professor, Simmons College, Boston, and chair of SAA's Technical Subcommittee on EAC-CPF.

* EAC-CPF was released in 2010 and adopted as a standard by the Society of American Archivists in 2011.

MONDAY, AUGUST 6 & TUESDAY, AUGUST 7

NEW! Here Today,
Hear Tomorrow:
A Workshop on Archival Audio (Including a Peek at Video)

San Diego Hilton Bayfront

9:00 AM – 5:00 PM (Lunch on your own)

Between paper- and objects-based archival materials and electronic records lie great quantities of machine-dependent audiovisual media. Because they face rapid obsolescence in formats, carriers, and playback machinery and polymer degradation significantly more complex than cellulose fiber, the only option for retaining the cultural heritage captured on a/v media is migration to digital formats. This two-day, progressive workshop begins with the basics of assessment, identification, and selection of preservation formats and then moves into esoteric formats, born-digital, survey tools, and digital collections management issues.

Day 1, Identification and Introduction to Sound:

Learn about the formats that make up the vast majority of audio collections in archives, covering in detail grooved media (cylinders and analog discs), magnetic media (audiocassettes and reel-to-reel tape), and optical discs (CDs). Learn about the 7-point visual inspection process as described in ISO18933, discuss the process of choosing a preservation storage format, and do an exercise using actual audio objects – for both identification and “scary stuff.” A primer on analog sound and digitization of sound is our bridge from the past to the future.

Upon completion of Day 1, you'll be able to:

- Identify more than 80% of a/v media encountered in archives; and
- Recognize the basics of sound – how it's captured on legacy media, how it's captured in the digital domain, and how sound is the same as and different from other digital preservation files.

Day 2, Advanced Topics in Sound Preservation, starts with a brief review of Day 1 followed by an exploration of less-common audio media, such as wires, embossed discs, and proprietary formats. A special section on video includes a primer on video digitization and the perils of compression (based on a Library of Congress whitepaper for an interim-master digital preservation format for video). In the afternoon we'll explore survey tools for what they can and can't tell you, including a study comparing three large surveys against hard production data. This objects information continues into metadata standards for audio, followed by how a file is built, where the metadata lives, and how it's protected. As we look at born-digital audio, both tape based and file based, we explore self-authentication and error correction before wrapping up with demonstrations of how these technologies and strategies are applied to the long-term preservation of any digital object.

Upon completion of Day 2, you'll be able to:

- Recognize the formats that make up more than 99% of audio collections;
- List key issues in video preservation (why compression is bad, why some formats are more stable over the long term than others, etc.);
- Appreciate audio-visual-specific survey tools, and what they can and won't tell you;
- Find and use existing metadata standards for a/v;
- Get a look into audio files (knowledge extensible to any digital object); and
- Relate how survey, metadata, file structure, error correction, and authentication tools work at the file level and how that's applicable to digital repositories.

Who should attend? Archivists who find large and small quantities of audiovisual materials in their collections.

What should you already know? No prior experience required for Day 1. Day 2 is a Tools and Services workshop that builds on Day 1 and is appropriate for archivists with prior experience who want to learn more.

Attendance is limited to 35.

Instructor: George Blood, Owner, George Blood Audio, L.P., Philadelphia.

NEW! Fundamentals of Encoded Archival Description and XSLT Stylesheets

Offsite

9:00 AM – 5:00 PM (Lunch on your own)

Get hands-on experience applying EAD to your finding aids and making them Web-ready with XSL stylesheets. Learn how to create your own online documents and understand what's going on “under the hood” with content systems like Archon™ and the Archivists' Toolkit™ and their outputs.

Upon completing this workshop, you'll be able to:

- Recognize the components of the eXtensible Markup Language (XML) technical standard;

- Apply the key elements of EAD, encoding a finding aid using XML editing software; and
- Grasp the fundamentals of the eXtensible Stylesheet (XSLT) programming language sufficiently to modify existing stylesheets or create a basic one from scratch to generate a Web-ready EAD document.

Who should attend? Archivists who want hands-on experience with EAD and XSLT to expand their skills or use EAD in their repository, and system administrators and others who must implement new or update existing systems.

What should you already know? Background knowledge of other encoding standards, such as MARC21 or HTML, will ensure that you have a successful learning experience.

Attendance is limited to 25.

Instructors: Michael J. Fox, retired Chief Operating Officer, Minnesota Historical Society, St Paul; and Kris Kiesling, Director, Archives and Special Collections, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 7

NEW! Web Archiving: Selection, Capture, Preservation, and Marketing

Offsite

9:00 AM – 5:00 PM (Lunch on your own)

Get an introduction to methodologies and tools used in archiving websites and social media!

Topics include appraising, selecting websites pertinent to your collection policy, evaluating in-house technology versus hosted-solution tools to curate and capture websites, scoping your project to benefit your organization, managing the tools to fine-tune your curation, and marketing your collection. Hands-on archiving activities are a part of this practical workshop.

Upon completion of this workshop you'll be able to:

- Grasp and evaluate the complexities of Web crawling;
- Craft a curated Web crawl; and
- Determine whether an in-house or hosted solution is doable under certain circumstances.

Who should attend? Archives practitioners who want to learn more about archiving websites.

What should you already know? You should have familiarity with websites, social media, and archival concepts.

This workshop builds on SAA's "Basic Electronic Records," "Advanced Appraisal for Archivists," and "Managing Electronic Records in Archives and Special Collections" courses.

Attendance is limited to 30.

Instructors: Kelly Eubank, Electronic Records Branch Manager, North Carolina Department of Cultural Resources, Raleigh; and Lynda Schmitz Fuhrig, Electronic Records Archivist, and Jennifer Wright, Assistant Archivist, Smithsonian Institution Archives.

NEW! Utilizing Focus Groups to Gain User Feedback

San Diego Hilton Bayfront

9:00 AM – 5:00 PM (Lunch on your own)

Would you like to implement a new method to gather feedback from your users? In this workshop we'll introduce you to focus groups and help you to start developing a plan for conducting a focus group of users on any issue of interest to you and your institution. You'll learn how to observe a live focus group and you'll participate in a mock focus group. After attending this workshop, you'll be prepared to implement a focus group in your institution as a way to gather valuable feedback from your users.

Upon completion of this workshop you'll be able to:

- Describe the basics of focus groups and how the method has been applied in archival contexts;
- Identify situations at your workplace that would benefit from focus groups;
- List strengths and weaknesses of the method;
- Name the 11 focus group exercises;
- Plan a question guide;
- Experiment with conducting a focus group;
- State the do's and don'ts of conducting a focus group; and
- Develop a draft plan for designing and implementing a focus group.

Who should attend? Archives professionals who are interested in gaining feedback from users via focus groups. This includes (but isn't limited to) managers, reference archivists, and outreach archivists in large and small institutions.

What should you already know? No previous knowledge or experience needed.

Attendance is limited to 36.

Instructors: Dr. Amber Cushing, Instructor, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill; and Adam M. Kriesberg, Doctoral Student, University of Michigan.

DAS

Developing Specifications and RFPs for Recordkeeping Systems

San Diego Hilton Bayfront

9:00 AM – 5:00 PM (Lunch on your own)

The development of a fully functional digital archives requires an integrated recordkeeping system that identifies, describes, schedules, and destroys or retains your organization's born-digital records. Successful recordkeeping systems reflect business processes and applicable federal and state statutes while identifying records with permanent value to be archived. The ideal recordkeeping system interfaces with a digital repository used to curate electronic records and support a wide range of archival processes, including preservation and access. Before purchasing or building a recordkeeping system, you need a clear list of systems requirements specific to your organization. From these specifications, you can build a good Request for Proposal (RFP), select a system or vendor, and successfully implement your recordkeeping system.

Upon completion of this course you'll be able to:

- Identify and define systems requirements for an electronic recordkeeping system and/or digital repository;
- Develop and distribute a Request for Information (RFI), RFP, or RFQ (Request for Quotation);
- Evaluate and select a recordkeeping system; and
- Implement the system.

This course complements other Digital Archives Specialist (DAS) courses, such as "Thinking Digital," "Digital Curation: Creating an Environment for Success," "Digital Archives and Libraries," "Archival Content Management Systems," and "Digital Curation Planning and Sustainable Futures."

Who should attend? Archivists, records managers, IT professionals and administrators who need to define systems requirements for an electronic recordkeeping system and/or digital repository and then develop a RFI, RFP, or RFQ.

What should you already know? Participants must have a working knowledge of archival and records management processes. Knowledge of digital archives and libraries is helpful, but not required.

Attendance is limited to 40.

Instructor: Cynthia A Ghering, Director, Michigan State University Archives.

2012 Research Forum:

“Foundations and Innovations”

Participants’ enthusiastic response to the past five Research Forums confirms that the full spectrum of research activities—from “pure” research to applied research to innovative practice—is of interest and value to the archives community. If you’re engaged in research... seeking to identify research-based solutions for your institution...willing to participate in the research cycle by serving as a beta site for research trials... or simply interested in what’s happening in research and innovation...then join us for the 6th Annual SAA Research Forum! See the Call for Participants / Call for Presentations on page 48. Free to conference registrants; $50 / $25 (students) for those not registered for Beyond Borders (badge required for admission). See Registration Form on page 45.

Repository Tours and Open Houses, On-Your-Own Explorations

Your San Diego-area colleagues represent some of the most diverse and interesting repositories in the country – many of which are offering special behind-the-scenes access for Beyond Borders attendees on Tuesday, August 7, and Wednesday, August 8. Please check the conference website at www.archivists.org/conference for more information and updates provided by our dynamic Host Committee! (And be sure to check out the Host Committee’s blog, linked under “Concierge” at www.archivists.org/conference.)

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 8

8:00 AM – 5:00 PM

Board, Committee, Task Force, and Working Group Meetings

See the boxed schedule on page 15 for a complete listing of board, committee, task force, and working group meetings.

8:30 AM – 12:30 PM

Academy of Certified Archivists Certification Examination

Archivists of Religious Collections Section Service Project

Instead of a reception, this year ARCS organized a service project for its members at the San Diego Food Bank. Because of limited space, volunteer slots are initially open to Section members only. Cost is $15 to cover transportation fees; any leftover funds will be donated to the food bank. For details and to sign up, contact Vice Chair Colleen McFarland (ColleenM[at]MennoniteUSA.org).

9:00 AM – 5:00 PM

Repository Tours and Open Houses, On-Your-Own Explorations

Your San Diego-area colleagues represent some of the most popular and important repositories in the country – many of which are offering special behind-the-scenes access for Beyond Borders attendees on Tuesday, August 7, and Wednesday, August 8. Please check the conference website at www.archivists.org/conference for more information and updates provided by our dynamic Host Committee! (And be sure to check out the Host Committee blog, linked under "Concierge" at www.archivists.org/conference.)

Congressional Papers Roundtable

The Congressional Papers Roundtable will meet from 9:00 am to 5:00 pm (location to be announced). Program sessions include how case files demonstrate advocacy in diverse communities utilizing technology, processing born-digital records, a film documentary on the career of Senator Pete Domenici, and the business meeting.

9:00 AM – 4:00 PM

Academy of Certified Archivists
Board of Directors

10:30 AM – 11:30 AM

SAA Leadership Orientation and Forum

Gain an understanding of your roles and responsibilities as the leader of a section, roundtable, board, committee, task force, or working group – and enhance your effectiveness! Attendance by all SAA component leaders is strongly encouraged.

NOON – 5:00 PM

Networking Café Open

NEW! SAA / Regional Archival Organizations Summit

SAA and the Society of California Archivists (the "local" regional) host a summit of regional and state archival organizations for a simple purpose: To discuss issues of common concern.

1:00 PM – 5:00 PM

Business Archives Section Colloquium

Join the Business Archives Section for in-depth presentations and discussion of topics pertinent to business archivists. You need not be a business archivist to attend. For more details, see the Section's microsite on the SAA website, <http://www2.archivists.org/>.

Roundtable Meetings

Each of SAA's 31 Roundtables meets at Beyond Borders to conduct business and share information. Roundtable meetings are open to both SAA members and nonmembers.

9:00 AM – 5:00 PM

Congressional Papers

The Congressional Papers Roundtable will meet (at a location to be announced) from 9:00 am to 5:00 pm. Program sessions include how case files demonstrate advocacy in diverse communities utilizing technology, processing born-digital records, a film documentary on the career of Senator Pete Domenici, and the business meeting.

1:00 PM – 3:00 PM

Architectural Records

The Architectural Records Roundtable provides a forum for discussion of issues related to access and management of architectural records and related fields. We will have some roundtable business to conduct; then we will hear about some recent outreach, processing, and digitization projects. Please come and join the conversation!

International Archival Affairs

In keeping with the conference theme of "Beyond Borders," we welcome anyone visiting us from overseas and any archivist interested in international projects. Especially welcome are first-time attendees. We'll invite updates from attendees, with the overall aim of fostering collaboration and networking among members of our international profession.

Labor Archives

The Labor Archives Roundtable will meet to discuss roundtable business, elect a new co-chair, and catch up on goings-on in the labor archives community. Guest speaker TBA.

BOARD, COMMITTEE, TASK FORCE, AND WORKING GROUP MEETINGS

Tuesday, August 7

9:00 AM – 1:00 PM	Standards Committee
10:00 AM – 1:00 PM	Diversity Committee
1:00 PM – 5:00 PM	Committee on Ethics and Professional Conduct
2:00 PM – 5:00 PM	Membership Committee
3:00 PM – 5:00 PM	Finance Committee

Wednesday, August 8

8:00 AM – 1:00 PM	Committee on Education
8:00 AM – NOON	Publications Board
8:30 AM – 12:30 PM	Joint Meeting: TS-EAD / TS-EAC-CPF / SDT-DRT
9:00 AM – NOON	TS-DACS Cultural Property Working Group Intellectual Property Working Group SAA / ALA / AAM Joint Committee (CALM)
9:00 AM – 10:00 AM	2012 Program Committee
10:30 AM – 11:30 AM	SAA Leadership Orientation and Forum
11:30 AM – 1:00 PM	Annual Meeting Task Force
1:00 PM – 5:00 PM	The American Archivist Editorial Board
1:00 PM – 3:00 PM	Government Affairs Working Group
3:00 PM – 5:00 PM	Awards Committee
3:00 PM – 4:00 PM	2013 Program Committee
7:00 PM – 8:00 PM	Key Contacts Subcommittee

Local Government Records

Please join us to discuss topics of interest to local government records. We will have liaison reports, the unveiling of our new directory, and a featured speaker. Please check the Roundtable's website for more details.

Metadata and Digital Object

MDOR promotes discussion, education, collaboration, and innovation in standards, digitization, digital archival objects, and the metadata that enables their access, management, and preservation. Join us to learn about archives and social networks, trends and challenges in digital object storage infrastructure, and digital image metadata standards and workflow application.

NEW! Military Archives

Attend our historic first meeting! What can we do for you? Most archives have soldiers' letters, diaries, and more – with all of their associated issues. Join us to exchange expertise and solutions. Amy Mondt will also speak on "Military Reference Services." Please see the MART website (<http://www2.archivists.org/groups/military-archives-roundtable>) for a detailed agenda.

Research Libraries

The Research Libraries Roundtable will explore the increasing centrality of archives and special collections to the mission of research libraries. A panel featuring lightning talks by representatives from a variety of institutions will discuss their new or evolving experiences in the changing environment, offering insights and models for getting integrated into the flow.

Women Archivists

Join us for "Grandmothers, Politics, and WAR: The Past, Present and Future of the Roundtable, Its Role and Its Members." A brief business meeting will follow the program and discussion.

3:15 PM – 5:15 PM

Archival Educators

Join us for the Archival Educators Roundtable's annual business meeting to discuss activities, initiatives, and concerns and issues related to archival education. The meeting also includes a panel presentation on recruiting and integrating adjunct instructors for face-to-face, blended, and online programs. Full- and part-time faculty, adjuncts, doctoral students, and everyone interested in archival education are encouraged to attend.

Archival History

Understanding the history of archival concepts, practices, and issues is part of being a "Complete Archivist." The Archival History Roundtable invites archivists and other information professionals to attend its annual meeting to explore historical themes that are relevant for contemporary archivists.

Archives Management Forum: Joint Session of the Archives Management and Lone Arrangers Roundtables

All who are interested in the management of archives are invited to attend a special meeting sponsored by the Archives Management and Lone Arrangers roundtables. This extended session will include two presentations about related topics. More information about this program can be found at <http://www2.archivists.org/groups/lone-arrangers-roundtable> and <http://www2.archivists.org/groups/archives-management-roundtable>.

Archivists and Archives of Color

Join us for the AAC business meeting to discuss roundtable activities, hear reports from the membership, meet the Pinkett and Mosaic scholarship winners, and elect the 2013-2014 Steering Committee. We will also host a panel presentation of "Building Collections Through Collaboration: A Collaborative Archive from the African Diaspora."

Archivists' Toolkit™ / Archon™

Join a discussion of the future of ArchivesSpace with project staff, developers, and colleagues. This session will encourage potential users of ArchivesSpace to share ideas, questions, and concerns about the development of a new archival information system to succeed the Archivists' Toolkit™ and Archon™.

Human Rights Archives / Women's Collections

The roundtables will host a joint meeting featuring the "lightning talk" format. All are welcome to join the discussion and present information about archival collections dealing with women and/or human rights. A guest speaker will deliver a presentation regarding the intersections in the missions of the two roundtables.

Performing Arts

Dean Jeffrey, archivist at the American Dance Festival, will discuss the Dance Heritage Coalition Fellowship Program in Preservation and Access. Linda Mehr, director of the Margaret Herrick Library at the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, will discuss the Academy's holdings.

Records Management

The Records Management Roundtable welcomes anyone with an interest in records management to its business meeting. Lisa Schmidt of Michigan State University will discuss "Spartan Archive: An Electronic Records Archive at MSU." The RMRT will also co-sponsor, with the Government Records Section, discussion of the Presidential Memorandum on Managing Government Records (at the Section meeting on Friday, August 10, 1:00 pm – 3:00 pm).

Science, Technology, and Healthcare

Join us if you have holdings pertaining to natural or physical sciences, technology, health care, or medical history. This year's program explores common issues with projects in these areas and provides opportunities to network with colleagues from similar institutions. Learn more about the program on our website: <http://www2.archivists.org/groups/science-technology-and-healthcare-roundtable>.

Visual Materials Cataloging and Access

This roundtable supports informal discussion of issues we encounter while working with our visual and audio-visual archives and collections. Past topics have included copyright issues, visual literacy, cataloging software options, and different cataloging standards. It's a great opportunity to pose questions, share experiences, and network.

5:30 PM – 7:30 PM

Archives Management

Our annual business meeting will be held following the conclusion of the Archives Management Forum (see Wednesday, 3:15 – 5:15 pm). The Roundtable welcomes all archivists with an interest in how to manage archives.

Encoded Archival Description

The EAD Roundtable meeting focuses on updates on the EAD revision process from SAA's Technical Subcommittee on EAD, featuring presentations from members of both TS-EAD and the SAA Schema Development and Review Team.

Joint Meeting: Issues and Advocacy / Latin American and Caribbean Cultural Heritage Archives

The Issues and Advocacy and Latin American and Caribbean Cultural Heritage Archives roundtables will hold a joint meeting to consider possible actions and shared goals. We will discuss outcomes of this year's projects and decide on new ventures, and we'll hear about an NHPRC-funded grant focused on effective advocacy.

Lesbian and Gay Archives

Catch up on LAGAR activities, visit with colleagues, and elect a male-identified co-chair. We plan to have a featured speaker from the LGBTQIA community. LGBTQIA archivists and those interested in LGBTQIA archives are welcome to attend.

Lone Arrangers

The annual business meeting will be held following the conclusion of the Archives Management Forum (see Wednesday, 3:15 – 5:15 pm).

The Roundtable welcomes archivists working alone or in small repositories with limited resources. Join us for a lively discussion of current roundtable initiatives. Following the meeting you are welcome to join us for dinner!

Native American Archives

Join us to discuss recent activities, initiatives, and issues concerning indigenous archives, ways of knowing, and cultural heritage. The meeting will include presentations by participants from the Archives Education Research Institute regarding diverse curriculum initiatives. In addition, local indigenous repositories will highlight the breadth and scope of their collections.

Privacy and Confidentiality

After the Roundtable business meeting, we will host "Reconciling Access and Privacy: Opening Archives of the Recent Past." Laura Clark Brown, Dan Golodner, Nancy Kaiser, Aprille Cooke McKay, and Kelly Wooten will lead a lively discussion challenging archivists to share ethical responsibilities for modern personal papers with researchers and donors.

Public Library Archives and Special Collections

Please join us for the annual Public Library Archives and Special Collections Roundtable meeting! In addition to annual committee reports and new business, speakers will give a short Pecha Kucha-style presentation on public library archives projects, new collections, and repository news or highlights.

Recorded Sound

The Recorded Sound Roundtable is open to those interested in the preservation and management of audio collections. The roundtable serves as a forum for discussing archival issues related to management, preservation, and use of audio resources in archives and other cultural heritage repositories.

Security

How do archivists balance protecting collections while at the same time providing access? Presenters share their experiences providing unimpeded access to collections, while adhering to legal restrictions, conducting security policy reviews, and implementing theft prevention measures. We will also update members on the adoption of the proposed RBMS Security Guidelines.

NEW! Students and New Archives Professionals

After a brief introduction from our chair, SNAP's meeting will include a presentation by the Academy of Certified Archivists, a presentation on job search strategies, short presentations by representatives from SAA sections and roundtables, and an open networking period with fellow SNAP members and our presenters. New and not-so-new archivists are welcome to attend!

8:00 PM – 9:15 PM

New Member/First-Timer Orientation and Forum

Begin your conference experience on Wednesday evening by joining representatives of the Membership Committee, the Key Contact Program, and the SAA Council for a casual conversation about how to make the most of your time at the meeting. Refreshments will be served and a cash bar will be available.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 9

7:00 AM – 6:00 PM

Registration Desk Open

7:00 AM – 5:00 PM

Bookstore Open

8:00 AM – 5:00 PM

Networking Café Open

8:00 AM – 9:30 AM

Plenary Session I

SAA President Gregor Trinkaus-Randall welcomes attendees and a very special keynote speaker. In addition, new SAA Fellows are celebrated.

9:30 AM – 12:30 PM

Academy of Certified Archivists Item-Writing Workshop

9:30 AM – 10:00 AM

Mentoring Program Meet-and-Greet Professional Poster Presentations

Although the Professional Posters will be on display throughout the conference, take this opportunity to have an informal, one-on-one conversation with one or more of the presenters. See pages 32 - 33 for a listing of the Professional Poster presentations.

10:00 AM – 11:30 AM

101 Bitstreams Beyond Borders: The Value of Digital Forensics to Archivists

Digital forensics offers methods, tools, and principles for archivists' use in extracting, managing,

SIMPLY THE BEST!

SAA has a long and proud history of celebrating the accomplishments of members and friends of the archives profession. The awards program helps us learn about innovative projects and publications, applaud young members of the profession receiving their first honors, and acknowledge the many contributions of new SAA Fellows. The chances are good that someone you know is among those being recognized. Please show your support!

Because SAA now has 21 award and scholarship opportunities, recognitions will be made at special events throughout the meeting:

Thursday, August 9

- 8:00 AM – 9:30 AM New Fellows (During Plenary I)
- 7:30 PM – 9:30 PM Student Awards/Scholarships (During the All-Attendee Reception)

Friday, August 10

- 4:30 PM – 5:30 PM Diversity, J. Franklin Jameson Archival Advocacy, and Council Exemplary Service Awards (During Plenary II)
- 5:45 PM – 7:15 PM All other awards (and there are lots!) will be presented at the Awards Ceremony and providing access to electronic records and associated contextual information. This session addresses immediate, practical implications of digital forensics for archivists. Panelists representing three countries, four institutions, and four disciplinary backgrounds (computer science, English literature, archival science, and zoology) share their perspectives on why digital forensics is important, how it can be applied, and what major issues remain to be resolved.

102 Archiving Mujeres: Un Movimiento Toward Greater Indiscriminate and Inclusive Recordkeeping Practices Within Information Repositories

The “Beyond Borders” theme asks us to question the parameters by which archivists have functioned historically. This panel educates archivists about the need for holdings that reflect the diverse experiences of Latinas whose stories have remained buried within archival efforts that have taken place both within and without their already underrepresented communities. The panelists present current initiatives that advocate for more inclusive and community-oriented approaches to archiving.

103 Choose Your Own Arrangement: Using Large-scale Digitization Efforts to Process Image and Audiovisual Collections

Image and audiovisual collections attract a wide variety of users with diverse interests. How do archivists choose one manner of arrangement to meet these varied research needs? Three archivists who have experimented with de-emphasizing physical arrangement from the processing workflow and a digital librarian who has been tasked with creating Web-based collection interfaces for digital archival materials discuss the methodologies, challenges, and benefits of implementing the processing-by-digitization approach through case studies of image and audiovisual collections.

104 Commemorating the Civil War: Transforming the Historical Record Through Digitization

This session showcases three large-scale digitization programs at three state archives (Tennessee, Virginia, and Michigan) designed to commemorate the sesquicentennial of the Civil War. Each state program champions innovations and moves beyond traditional borders in different ways. Panelists discuss how they have engaged a wider audience to participate in the commemoration.

105 A Meeting of the Minds: HCI and the Re-engineering of Archival Processing

The presenters report on a project (Augmented Processing Table) that pioneers the use of multi-touch tabletop technology as a tool for teaching archival processing. Included is an introduction to the design and use of multi-touch technology, an overview of the findings with regard to the effectiveness and usability of APT, and a discussion of the nature and value of interdisciplinary collaboration between researchers in Archival Science and Human Computer Interaction.

During the IMLS Connecting to Collections initiative, state partners developed collections inventories and statewide needs assessments, worked on disaster preparedness and preservation plans, and developed resources for the public, elected officials, and oversight groups. The IMLS-funded “Connecting to Collections: Continuing Conversations Exchanges” project is sharing these and other stories to improve collections care across state and institutional boundaries. 107 From Hidden Collection to International Incident: The John Cutler Papers and the Guatemala Syphilis Experiments

When Susan Reverby uncovered the records of the 1946-1948 Guatemalan syphilis experiments in the John Cutler Papers, the result was an international incident, a Presidential apology, and an investigation by the Presidential Commission for the Study of Bioethical Issues. Hear from the archivists who were on the front line. This session explores the ethical issues surrounding this case study and the issues that archivists face daily with collections through accessioning, processing, description, publication of online finding aids, collection digitization, and access to collections containing private and highly sensitive information.

108 “Let a Record Be Kept Among You”: Archival Theory and Religious Thought

Religious and archival thought have long been intertwined, influencing each other in surprising and unexpected ways. Panelists discuss points of confluence and divergence in the streams of archival and religious thought, including conceptions of records and texts, the reconciliation of canon with evolving interpretations, the significance ascribed to names in religious practice and the archival enterprise, the impact of developing religious practices on the professionalization of archives, and the moral agency of records.

109 Listening In to Conversations Across Borders

Borders take many forms: physical, intellectual, cultural, philosophical, etc. This lightning session provides an opportunity for SAA members and attendees who have used the Protocols for Native American Archival Materials to enrich the dialog around the Protocols with their own grassroots case studies. At the 2011 meeting of SAA's Native American Archives Roundtable, 15 participants indicated that they were interested in sharing their own case studies with the archival community. This session allows these individuals and others to share their experiences.

110 Partnerships, New and Old: Preservation in the 21st Century

As lines between the archivist and technologist continue to break down, the need to explore boundaries among the archivist, preservation specialist, and technologist becomes more explicit. In what capacity are old partnerships changing and new ones being built to manage preservation of digitally converted and born-digital collections? Participants comment on the meaning of preservation today, the challenges of providing a preservation-worthy environment for hybrid and electronic collections, and partnerships being created on this frontier.

Forum: African Americans and the Archival Profession: Evolving Perceptions of Diversity

In keeping with the “Beyond Borders” theme, panelists address the challenges faced by those committed to incorporating underrepresented groups into various aspects of the archival profession, especially recruitment, education, employment, and practice. In recent years, several limitations of describing an archive as “diverse” have been uncovered, and the definition of diversity has expanded to explore issues of plurality, representation, and multiculturalism. Panelists share their opinions on areas in which opportunities for growth still exist and issues that remain unaddressed.

As technology plays a larger role in archives, archivists are reaching beyond their traditional borders to meet the challenges of the digital age. The proliferation of electronic records along with tightened budgets has made efficient finding aid creation and publication a challenge. Panelists address several of those challenges, including representing hybrid collections in traditional finding aid formats, converting legacy finding aids, and representing item-level description in digitized collections.

How do archives look beyond their institutional borders and virtual presence to reach those with stories and treasures to share? With participatory archives, social media tools, and outreach programs, archives can both safeguard heritage and empower communities to share their history. The speakers present five distinct approaches to technology and outreach that capture heritage too often overlooked by traditional acquisitions and dissemination. 205 Share a Byte! A Practical, Collaborative Approach to Electronic Records in Modern Political Collections

Archiving modern political collections presents archivists and records managers with all types of management issues, but nowhere is this more evident than with electronic records. Files created by individuals in federal, state, or county political office present storage, security, privacy, preservation, and access problems. Thus working collaboratively with the donating political office, technical support, vendors, and other archivists is vital to success. The complexity of these collections offers lessons in management, processing, preservation, and collaboration that can be utilized in other arenas. Presenters discuss the myriad practical approaches they have taken to overcome these obstacles.

This public forum addresses one of the most confounding issues of the day: the supply and demand of archival education and employment. What obligations do education programs have to students, to the workplace, and to the profession? Panelists cross traditional boundaries that separate the archivist-educator, the archivist-employer, and the new archives professional to discuss and analyze the issues, and they recommend various strategies designed to buffer an uncertain marketplace.

208 Kids These Days: K-12 Students and the Use of Primary Sources

K-12 students remain a largely underrepresented audience within archives, and, therefore, one of the greatest opportunities for archivists. Engaging with primary sources builds and improves critical thinking and communication skills among K-12 students. This session explores the use of primary sources in K-12 education from a variety of perspectives. Section Meetings

Each of SAA's 13 Sections meets at Beyond Borders to conduct business and share information. You must be an SAA member to belong to a Section. (For additional Section meetings, see Friday, 1:00 pm – 3:00 pm.)

Acquisitions and Appraisal

Following our business meeting please join us for a participant-driven session with Lynn Downey and Alison Moore on the weird, wonderful, and bizarre items we sometimes find when exploring newly acquired collections. We want to hear your stories about your "gold mines" and "Pandora's boxes." Prizes will be awarded!

Description

Please join the Description Section for an exciting panel of description-themed lightning talks, followed by discussion and Q&A. We will also announce the results of officer elections. Reports from liaisons and section leaders will be moved to the end of the meeting this year.

Electronic Records

No description received by press time. See the online schedule at www.archivists.org.

Oral History

Following the business meeting, participants of the "Oral History in the Digital Age" initiative will present and discuss various tools and recommendations being provided by the project. The IMLS initiative brought together Michigan State University, the Library of Congress, the Smithsonian, the American Folklore Society, and the Oral History Association in this effort.

Preservation

Archivists and preservation specialists will share perspectives on the future of the profession in Preservation in the 21st Century, including preservation education and research, evolving professional responsibilities, mapping digital preservation to traditional activities, and building partnerships with allied professionals (conservators, technologists, manufacturers). The business meeting will precede the panel discussion.

Reference, Access, and Outreach

Besides our annual meeting and committee reports, the RAO Section offers participants a marketplace of ideas focusing on reference, access, and outreach. Lively discussions regarding key issues, trends, and ideas allow participants to connect with others at their own pace by moving through moderated conversations, poster presentations, mini-lectures, and more.

This session focuses on the lessons learned from three successful and ground-breaking extra-institutional projects partnering across museums, local government, non-professional, academic, international, and ethnic community borders to raise capacity in records management and archival practice and management. Rather than relying on formal presentations, the session comprises a structured dialog among the speakers and audience about the different aspects of partnering across diverse borders.

303 Things They Never Taught You in Graduate School: Donor Relations

Proactive acquisition of archives and manuscripts collections can be time-consuming, intimidating, and not always intuitive. Most of what archivists have learned in working with donors and acquiring collections is learned through experience and time in the field. Speakers with experience in various aspects of donor relations share informative, amusing, and inspirational advice and knowledge of moving beyond the borders of formal education to the wild world of learning from experience. They also provide diverse tools and advice for overcoming personal and cultural barriers in approaching donors and communities about preserving and documenting their history.

304 Expanding Our Reach: Building International Collections and Global Relationships

Many institutions within the U.S. reach across borders to expand collections and build relationships with our international peers, meeting challenges along the way. How does one literally cross borders? What is the importance of building relationships to ensure success? How does one get buy in from a parent institution? To explore these questions, Martin discusses efforts to acquire records from global corporate offices, Linard discusses developing relationships with global information professionals to aid faculty in their understanding of international commerce, and Brumbaugh discusses the challenges of creating global regional archives.

403 Beyond Documents: The Archivist’s Role in Research Data Curation

Recent efforts to curate research data have sparked international collaboration among federal funders, scientists, technologists, librarians, and archivists. The many challenges of research data curation are familiar to archivists: acquisition of data from multiple sources, description of unique collections, redaction of sensitive information, and long-term access to data and supporting materials. Archivists have much to offer the national and international efforts to curate and share research data across institutional and programmatic borders.

405 Contesting History in the Archives

During the past 40 years the role of archivists has become much more proactive, due in large part to a changing understanding of what and who constitutes history. As historian Howard Zinn argued in 1970 (in his speech to members at SAA’s annual meeting), archivists should become “activist archivists” by recognizing the inherent political nature of preserving historical records and by working toward a diverse profession with more broad-based, egalitarian collections. The panelists explore the topic of contesting history in the archives, related to the growth and development of women’s / minorities studies and the corresponding need for increasingly diverse archival collections as an expansion of historical scholarship and new research interests. Speakers include the curator of a major women’s archives; an historian who has co-edited the book, Contesting Archives: Finding Women in the Sources; the current director of the first Women’s Studies Department in the U.S. (founded in 1970); and a student from an early Women’s Studies graduate program.

406 80,000 Volunteers Can't Be Wrong: The Case for Greater Collaboration with Wikipedia

Wikipedia is the fifth most popular Web property in the world and is continually expanded by 80,000 editors from around the globe. How can archives harness this incredible level of participation for their benefit? Join colleagues and Wikipedia volunteers from the National Archives and Records Administration and the Smithsonian's Archives of American Art to learn about the Wikipedian in Residence Program and other initiatives that will result in greater knowledge and exposure of your collections.

407 Small Frame, Big Picture: Preservation and Access for Small-Gauge Film

Archives often contain "small"-gauge film, such as 16mm, 8mm, and Super 8mm. Home movies and industrial films are a window onto local culture, history, and everyday life. The speakers address the basics of preservation and digitization, access, and the historical importance of small-gauge film. The session includes two model programs and a discussion of the amateur films of President John F. Kennedy's motorcade through Dallas on November 22, 1963.

The intersection of social activism and archival practice stimulates the debate about the social responsibilities of archives and archivists. Underlying this debate is the transformational question of whether social justice is or should be a central and defining pursuit of archivists. In this session, three new voices examine the question of social justice through theory and two case studies, archives in post-dictatorial Chile and the Ukrainian community in North America.

This roundtable discussion introduces attendees to the emerging movement within the Asian and Pacific Islander communities to preserve our collective memory and decolonize our histories. Just as conventional archival practices have marginalized Asian/Pacific Islander American experiences as well as other histories of peoples of color, so internally have our own understandings of community history and culture been framed by what others have written and archived about us. How can we collectively reaffirm and preserve our own memories beyond traditional professional record practices to facilitate renewed understanding of our collective past, undistorted by others' myopic visions? Join this lively discussion of collecting Asian Pacific Islander America beyond borders, in our own voices, and into the future.

410 Advocacy All Around Us: Engaging Controversies, Collaborations, and Collectors in Archives

How do archivists reach beyond institutional barriers of time, staffing, and money to effectively advocate for collections, particularly when they are targets of public controversy? How can archivists leverage collaborations and reach out to collector communities to reach new users? This lightning talk session features academic, corporate, and museum archivists who highlight the creative ways in which they promote their collections and encourages a dialog about advocacy to external and internal stakeholders.

1:00 PM – 3:00 PMSection Meetings

Each of SAA's 13 Sections meets at Beyond Borders to conduct business and share information. You must be an SAA member to belong to a Section. (For additional Section meetings, see Thursday, 3:30 pm – 5:30 pm.)

Archivists of Religious Collections

Open to all, our meeting begins with a program entitled "Catch and Hold: Preparing and Presenting Effective Sessions at Professional Conferences." Kathy Hertel-Baker and Jodi Allison-Bunnell will provide us advice on how to craft compelling session proposals and follow through with top-notch presentations. A business meeting follows the program.

Business Archives

The Business Archives Section meeting is open to anyone interested in archiving business records. Members review Section business, discuss new opportunities, and announce Section election results. Join us for some great networking opportunities, as well as some inspired dialogue on the current business environment.

College and University Archives

Join us for the College and University Archives Section meeting! We will hear updates from the Section's officers and working groups, discuss and brainstorm the Section's steps forward to address diversity as a SAA strategic priority, and hear a presentation on "Best Practices in Fair Use in Academic Libraries."

Government Records

Please join the Government Records Section for reports from section leaders, special announcements, election results, and a special presentation co-sponsored by the Records Management Roundtable: Staff from the Office of the Chief Records Officer at NARA will discuss the recently issued Presidential Memorandum on Managing Government Records.

Manuscript Repositories

Following a brief business meeting, the Manuscript Repositories Section begins a two-year exploration of electronic/born-digital records, beginning with appraisal and acquisition. The session will feature several "lightning talks" intended to share information and raise questions, followed by a larger group discussion. Section members and non-members are invited to attend!

Museum Archives

The Museum Archives Section meeting serves as a forum for discussing the organization and care of records relating to archives in museums. Following the business meeting, selected members highlight special projects and initiatives in "Pecha Kucha or Rapid-Fire Repository Updates." The meeting will include time for networking and brainstorming about 2013 session proposals.

501 Out in Front: Transforming the National Archives for the 21st Century

The National Archives is a year into the full implementation of its plan to transform the way it works and does business in the 21st century. Archivist of the United States David Ferriero, Deputy Archivist Debra Wall, and other members of the National Archives executive staff discuss the goals and accomplishments of that effort. Questions addressed by the panelists include: How does NARA's transformation affect you? How can the transformation help other archival institutions improve their services? How has it improved services to researchers and federal agencies? How does the agency's reorganization help achieve the goals of the transformation? What are the major challenges? What are the accomplishments so far in this reorganization?

503 Favorite Collaborative Tools in Preservation

The panelists share their favorite preservation tools that help them gather data, educate, and collaborate with other institutions or units to ensure preservation of their physical and digital collections. Most of the tools discussed are easy to use and inexpensive. Topics include data storage, environmental monitoring, security, disaster preparedness, and assessment. Attendees will gain practical ideas for improving the life of their collections through tools and collaboration.

504 Breaking Down Boundaries: Incorporating Users into Digital Repository Development

Archives are faced with many different types of borders that can inhibit reuse of digital content. In this session, the speakers focus on the borders between primary and secondary users (i.e. producers and consumers) by examining examples of what designated communities can tell us about the significant characteristics of digital content and how reuse methods affect preservation decisions. They discuss examples from quantitative social science, archaeology, and government.

505 Solving Our Problem with Authority and Sharing: Current Developments and Prospects

Three initiatives promising to transform the archival description and access landscape are discussed. The "Social Networks and Archival Context" project is demonstrating that authorities description extracted from finding aids can be used as an historical resource that provides integrated access to dispersed archival resources. 506 Removing Barriers and Creating Bridges: Archives, Development, and Advocacy

Archivists and donors encounter hurdles during their varied interactions. The archivist, donor/archivist, and development officer panelists discuss: working with a development office and larger institutional development structure; best practices for outreach to underrepresented donor populations; and ways to advocate for staff, volunteers, and donors themselves to maximize donor engagement and relationships. The case studies feature women in science, underrepresented students, a LGBTQ oral history project, advisory board service and advocacy at one's alma mater, and a family papers donor's perspective.

507 Strategies for Undertaking Electronic Records Management in Museums

The speakers address the organizational and technological challenges of formulating a program to manage born-digital materials within the museum context. The addition of electronic records management as a component of the American Association of Museum's accreditation process has made the issue more pressing for museum archivists, whose collections often play a supportive role to the primary museum collection. The speakers emphasize strategies for gaining the support of museum administrators and resource allocators.

Many of us work in repositories in which we often—either out of necessity or lack of expertise—neglect some of our most unique treasures: three-dimensional objects. Finding the time and resources to deal with these materials can be challenging, especially to those whose training and education often focused on archival materials in paper format. 608 Archivist-Artist Partnerships: Learning from Three Case Studies of Creative Collaboration

Performing arts archives can benefit from an archivist's direct engagement with the creative artist or entity. The panelists introduce three stages of artist-archive collaboration: from the national American Theatre Archive Project initiative that creates highly qualified local teams to assist theatre companies with their records; to a grassroots artist-driven archiving collaboration between the Twin Cities dance community and the University of Minnesota to gather scattered records, record oral histories, and document local dance history; to a Louisiana project that unites an archivist and an orchestra's artistic director to bring music and its archival records to the people and schools, and even transform children into cultural ambassadors for the musical history and performance they experience. 701 Behind the Scenes: How Archivists in the Studio System Work Among the Silos of the Entertainment Industry

The Hollywood studio system presents a uniquely challenging environment in which to apply traditional archival methods. Shifting priorities, varying organizational structures, and dynamic fiscal climates require the studio archivist to reach beyond the barriers that often define and can potentially isolate the various entertainment divisions to establish supportive partnerships and programming. The panelists discuss how archivists from a selection of major Hollywood studios traverse the various silos within the studio construct, engage their diverse patron base, and fulfill their archival mission across this multi-dimensional studio landscape.

704 Whose Justice? Social Justice and Political Correctness in Archival Thought and Practice

Postmodernism helped undermine the certainty with which archivists once held firm to the belief that we could and should be both objective and neutral in our work. Further, postmodernism has recently spawned a strong call for archivists to engage in social justice with an agenda that emerges clearly from longstanding Western left-of-center political traditions. This is not the 1970s argument about whether archivists should be activist in aggressively seeking out collections documenting underdocumented communities; it is rather a concern, by conservative and liberal archivists alike, that the profession is implicitly turning its back on documenting the socio-political right-of-center. The panelists take a provocative look at the implicit and explicit biases in our profession and practice and make a case for the successful application of neutrality in key areas of our work.

Breaking into the "Dark Archives": A Look at the Results of Large-scale Clustering for Archival Appraisal and Description

706 Yours? Mine? Ours? How Changes in Academia Are Affecting Institutional Archives

Emerging trends in academia present archivists with opportunities to redefine key roles and partnerships. An increasing focus on interdisciplinary and inter-institutional collaboration, new requirements from NSF and NIH for open access to publicly funded research and mandated data management plans, and an increasingly distributed and digital record of faculty activity all present archival challenges. This session includes an overview of key changes and archival responses from several institutions: a joint Harvard/MIT project to analyze the changing nature of faculty archives, with emphasis on interdisciplinary and inter-institutional records; a digital institutional repository at the University of Minnesota that provides distributed responsibility for core university records and unites the born-digital and digitized; and UC San Diego's Research Cyberinfrastructure, a campus effort partnering the UCSD Libraries with the San Diego Supercomputer Center to create data management services for researchers, with the Libraries supplying expertise in appraisal, arrangement, description, and preservation.

707 Crossing Borders: Barriers to Documenting the Underdocumented

Archivists and record keepers who live and work in the Southwest borderlands function in a politically charged environment. It is a place in which core archival values can be challenged at any time, any place. The barriers to collecting and accessing borderlands materials are many. The panelists, ranging from a student intern to a field-tested tribal preservation officer, discuss the issues and describe the strategies used to successfully cross borders.

708 Speed Leading! Rapid Exchange of Leadership Ideas

Try something different at SAA 2012! Hosted by Archives Leadership Institute 2011, attendees of this session engage in fast-paced, one-on-one discussions of leadership qualities. Questions will scrutinize personal, professional, and organizational situations. Following the practice of speed dating, attendees, including ALI-XI alumni, change partners and topics as directed by a time keeper. After exchanges, the group reconvenes for decompression and distillation. Take away new ideas, enthusiasm, and contacts from this engaging session!

709 Mining Our Own Archives: The Ethics of Archivists Publishing About Collections They Oversee

Is it ever appropriate for archivists to publish on collections for which they are responsible? Should the border between archivist and researcher ever be blurred or breached? Hodson analyzes her book publication based on a collection she oversees. Danielson proposes a new paradigm to guide archivists as they venture beyond the archivist/researcher border. And Eppard discusses how archivists doing research in their own collections can benefit their professional development and build bridges to the scholarly research community.

710 Coloring Outside the Lines: Tattoos as Personal Archives

Humans have been recording a variety of information on their skins for as long as dermal records exist. Recent surveys indicate that 14% of Americans have one or more tattoos. In addition to their artistry, tattoos document personal and community histories, group relationships, and social affiliations. This session explores issues surrounding these records, which have both a permanent nature and an ephemeral nature.

Professional

POSTER PRESENTATIONS

The 2012 Program Committee encouraged submission of professional poster presentations to broaden the ways in which presenters can share their work. This format gives you the chance to view posters on your own schedule and have informal, one-on-one conversations with the presenters during a set time. Be sure to take this opportunity to see what your colleagues are doing in their repositories around the country! Presenters will be available to discuss their posters on Thursday, August 9, from 9:30 to 10:00 am and on Friday, August 10, from 3:00 to 3:30 pm.

P01

Creating Collections: Crossing Borders to Strengthen Local Archival Collections

Kristi Young / Brigham Young University

Young's presentation comments on a three-semester program in which a variety of borders were breached: archive/community, students/professionals, students/community members, and archival collection/public presentation. This program is a successful model for how archives can create local collections.

P02

Terasitas to Goat Walkers: Religious Turmoil on the Borderlands, 1896-1986

Roger Myers / University of Arizona Libraries

From the end of the 19th century to the present, the border between Mexico and the United States has served as a destination for many people fleeing political uprisings and religious persecutions. From the Battle of Nogales to the Sanctuary Trial, the regional archival holdings document community and governmental interactions. This presentation highlights the topics and collections that represent a life on the border.

P03

What They Captured and What We Remember

Cheyron Woods / Alabama Department of Archives and History

"What They Captured and What We Remember" is a community outreach program that took the Jim Pepler Southern Courier Photograph Collection (1965-1968) back into African American communities to encourage discussion among community members and provide a way for the archives staff to gain more contextual and biographical information about local social environments and the people present at the time the pictures were taken. This event also gave the Alabama Department of Archives and History an opportunity to reach a new audience and show the types of collections and services the institution provides.

P04

Mining the Archives: Uncovering the Legacy of Slavery in Maryland

Krystal Appiah / Maryland State Archives

Appiah's presentation describes the research and outreach efforts of the Study of the Legacy of Slavery in Maryland project at the Maryland State Archives. Through databases, case studies, presentations throughout the state, and online and physical exhibits, the project staff has created new access points to records about enslaved and free African Americans in Maryland for the benefit of diverse users, from K-12 students to genealogists and scholars.

P05

Collaboration and Social Media: Promoting the Ernest J. Gaines Center

Derek Mosley / University of Louisiana-Lafayette

Mosley's poster showcases how the new Ernest J. Gaines Center at the University of Louisiana-Lafayette provides a space to work with the Gaines collection. Highlighted are ways in which new repositories can use social media to reap big benefits, how the Gaines Center works across academic departments to plan events and programming, and how creating repository-to-repository relationships can be very useful for growth.

P06

Bridging the Gap Between Analog and Digital: Conversations Among Nineteenth Century Revolutionaries

Lori Birrell and Melissa Mead / University of Rochester

Archival users now expect digital content to be readily available in the online environment – a daunting task for any institution. The presenters describe one response to this challenge through the digitization of the Post Family Papers, a 2,000-item, nineteenth-century manuscript collection. In this student-driven project, interns transcribe and scan letters and upload content into Omeka. Seeking to bridge the gap between analog materials and the digital realm, this digitization project offers practitioners a real-world example to meet the growing demand for digital content.

P07

Beyond Barriers: Differently Abled Users and Canadian Archival Websites

Lisa Snider / University of British Columbia

Lisa Snider's presentation documents the results of the first known survey of differently abled users who tested the accessibility of Canadian archival websites. It illuminates the barriers that may exist for some viewers and suggests methods to overcome them, which will allow for more inclusive and accessible websites for all users. Although the research focuses on Canada, the results can apply to any country.

P08

Black Arts Movement in the South: The John O'Neal Papers

Felicia Denice Render / Amistad Research Center

Focused on black theater in the South, this presentation provides a broader perspective on the political and social issues related to the history of the Southern Black Arts Movement through the John O'Neal papers housed at the Amistad Research Center. Actor, director, performer, writer, community and civil rights activist, and pioneer of African American theater, John M. O'Neal, Jr., draws on art and politics to make black theater a voice for social justice.

P09

Something Old, Something New: Crossing the Borders of Culture, Technology, and History

Lindsay Zaborowski / Pacific University

With Washington County Heritage Online, our work to determine how best to represent our county to the public has led to an interesting intersection of archival digitization processes, usability issues, and historical methodology. This presentation discusses how we are working to make WCHO accurately represent Washington County's heritage and how we are able - collectively - to achieve something we could never do on our own. Our experience serves as a practical guide to collaborative digital projects.

P10

A GIS Finding Aid for Archival Materials on the Coal Fields of Southern Colorado

Tim Hawkins / Bessemer Historical Society

The CF&I Archives in Pueblo, Colorado, holds archival records documenting the 121-year history of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, including papers, photographs, films, microfilm, ledgers, maps, and drawings. Many of these materials relate to CF&I's mines. Most reference requests for the CF&I coal fields are geographically based. We are creating a GIS finding aid for these materials and this presentation describes our progress in developing this online resource.

P11

A Gallery for the Outlaw: Archiving the Art of the Iconoclast

Andrea Bottoms, University of North Carolina at Greensboro / Caitlin Pollock, Pratt Institute

Outlaw art is a term used to describe artistic expressions that push societal norms and removes art from the gallery or museum and places it in the everyday. The iconoclastic nature of such artwork often precludes collection and documentation due to cultural standards or illegality. This poster illustrates several advantages, challenges, and limitations in creating a digital collection of art instantiations, especially art whose original purpose was to shock and awe.

Graduate Student

POSTER PRESENTATIONS

San Clemente

Student posters highlight the research activities of graduate students in archives and records management programs, as well as projects and activities of SAA Student Chapters. Posters will be on display in the Exhibit Hall on Thursday, August 9, from 5:30 to 7:30 pm and on Friday, August 10, from 9:30 am to 4:00 pm. Students will be present to discuss their posters with attendees on Thursday from 5:30 to 7:30 pm and on Friday from 11:30 am to 12:30 pm.

Historic San Diego: A Cultural Medley

In September 1542, Portuguese explorer Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo sailed into what is now San Diego Bay. He rested there for a while before continuing his expedition on behalf of Spain up the California coast. Little did he know that, in time, San Diego would grow into a cultural medley that includes Spanish, Mexican, and Asian influences, along with that of the Kumeyaay and other indigenous people of the region. But it is, perhaps, Mexico's influence that is the most thoroughly intertwined in San Diego today. This is most evident in Old Town San Diego, which was designated a California historic park in 1968.

Today, Old Town recreates life in San Diego from 1821 to 1872 during the Mexican and early American periods. Composed of shops, restaurants, museums, historic sites, artisan workshops, galleries, and a professional theater, it is one of San Diego's largest and most visited attractions. Many historic buildings dot the narrow streets, including the Whaley House, which holds the infamous distinction of being one of the most haunted houses in the United States.

Old Town Historic State Park is the "birthplace" of not only San Diego, but of California as well. It was here that Father Junípero Serra built the first Spanish mission in California that would accompany the Presidio (military fort) overlooking the town in 1769. After the Mexican War of Independence in the early 1800s, Old Town became the commercial and governmental hub of the San Diego region. Retired soldiers cultivated plots of land outside the Presidio boundaries, and a plaza was built in the early 1820s.

By 1841, a new kind of immigrant appeared in Old Town: pioneers from the Midwest seeking to establish farms and homes, propelled by a staunch belief in Manifest Destiny. In July 1846, at the outset of the Mexican-American War, a party of American Marines raised the American flag in Old Town Plaza and battled native, Spanish-speaking Californios for rights to the land. In 1848, the Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo formally brought San Diego into the United States.

Old Town continued to grow in the 1850s and 1860s. Americans built new wooden structures in the New England style and remodeled some of the older adobe buildings. In the 1870s the focus of development shifted as newcomer

Alonzo Horton promoted development of present-day downtown San Diego and many Americans began moving south into the New Town area, closer to the bay. Despite this, Old Town remains a symbol of San Diego's origin, including its many historical sites and places of interest. Mexican heritage still plays a major role throughout the region and continues to heavily influence the city's culture.

According to the 2010 census, a third of all San Diegans consider themselves of Hispanic or Latino origin, and well over 80% of those consider themselves Mexican. Tijuana, the largest city in Baja California and one of Mexico's leading industrial and financial centers, sees thousands of San Diegans commute there every day—and vice versa. In fact, many families are bi-national and, because of the fluidity of this arbitrary border, they lead bi-national lives. Tijuana continues to be one of the fastest growing cities in Mexico, and multiple San Diego/Tijuana organizations exist on both sides of the border to promote regional collaboration and innovation.

Mexico has left an indelible cultural mark on the region. In architecture, Spanish and Mexican themes adorn many San Diego buildings, notably in Balboa Park. Mexican art, such as paintings and murals influenced by Diego Rivera, Jose Clemente Orozco, David Alfaro Siqueiros, and Frida Kahlo, can be seen at local museums, on campuses, and in Barrio Logan's historic Chicano Park. Additionally, San Diego celebrates several significant Mexican holidays, including Cinco de Mayo on May 5 (of course!), Independence Day on September 16, and Día de los Muertos (Day of the Dead) on November 1 and 2.

On a more personal level, visitors to San Diego cannot help but experience Mexico's influence in the area via their taste buds. It is nearly impossible to find a San Diego street that doesn't offer a Mexican restaurant. Whether an upscale eatery or an unassuming taco shop—chances are, the food will be unique and exceptional!

2. RESERVE YOUR HOTEL

The Hilton San Diego Bayfront (1 Park Boulevard, San Diego, CA 92101) will serve as the Beyond Borders Headquarters Hotel.

The conference organizers have negotiated the special discounted conference rates listed below. Room rates include complimentary high-speed Internet access in guest rooms. These rates are available until July 12 OR until our room block has been met, whichever comes first. After this date – or the date on which the room block has been met – we can no longer guarantee rates and availability. We advise you to make your room reservations as soon as possible to ensure availability and the discounted rate.

To make your hotel reservation:

- From the conference website at www.archivists.org, click on the conference logo and then on “Reserve a Room.”
- Or call the hotel directly at 619-564-3333 (or toll free, 800-445-8667, for Hilton central reservations). The conference is listed under “SAA” or “Society of American Archivists.”

Rates do not include applicable taxes (currently 10.5% per room per night, plus 2% per room per night secondary tax, plus 0.15 USD per room per night tertiary tax, subject to change without notice). A credit card as a guarantee is required for all reservations. Cancellations must be made 48 hours in advance of scheduled arrival.

Room rates:

$199 Single/Double
$20 per additional person

The Hilton San Diego Bayfront is in compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act.

Ground Transportation

San Diego International Airport (www.san.org) is located 3 miles northwest of downtown San Diego. The Hilton San Diego Bayfront does not offer an airport shuttle service, but the hotel is readily accessible from the airport by automobile, taxi ($15 - $20), or a variety of shuttle services. (See <http://www.san.org/sdia/transportation/default.aspx> for companies and contact information. SuperShuttle offers a $1 discount with discount code “JXWRX” during advance booking; discounted rates as low as $6 per person offered for Airport Shuttle advance bookings.) Shuttle service is available at the “Shuttle for Hire Island” across from Terminals 1 and 2, and curbside at the Commuter Terminal. A Transportation Coordinator will place you with the first available shuttle unless you specify a particular shuttle company.

Taxis are available on a first-come, first-served basis from any of the Transportation Plazas. There are no flat rates because all taxis run on meters. Expect to spend approximately $15 - $20 for a cab ride to downtown San Diego.

For additional options, see the San Diego Mass Transit System's trip planner at www.sdmts.com.

By Train

Amtrak Trains (www.amtrak.com): San Diego's Building Station is located at 1050 Kettner Boulevard (about 1.3 miles from the Hilton). From there, you can walk, take a taxi, or take an MTS trolley. (See MTS's trip-planner: www.sdmts.com, or call 619-557-4960 / 619-557-4555 for trolley/bus.)

By Bus

Greyhound (www.greyhound.com): The Greyhound Station is at 1313 National Avenue (about half a mile from the Hilton). From there, you can take a taxi or an MTS bus. (See MTS's trip-planner: www.sdmts.com, or call 619-557-4960 / 619-557-4555 for trolley/bus.)

By Car

There are several ways to get to the Hilton San Diego Bayfront if you drive. The Hilton provides detailed directions and a map at http://www1.hilton.com/en_US/hi/hotel/SANCCHH/directions.do#localairports. Hilton San Diego Bayfront currently offers self-parking at $27 per day and valet parking at $36 per day. For additional parking options in the Gaslamp Quarter, see <http://www.gaslamplocal.com/menu/217/Park.html>.

CALL FOR PARTICIPANTS / CALL FOR PRESENTATIONS

SOCIETY OF AMERICAN ARCHIVISTS 2012 RESEARCH FORUM

.....
TUESDAY, AUGUST 7, 9 A.M.–5 P.M.
SAN DIEGO HILTON BAYFRONT
SAN DIEGO, CALIFORNIA

Participants' enthusiastic response to the past five Research Forums confirms that the full spectrum of research activities—from “pure” research to applied research to innovative practice—is of interest and value to the archives community. The 2012 Research Forum will build on previous success by continuing with a full day of presentations.

If you're:

- Engaged in research . . .
- Seeking to identify research-based solutions for your institution . . .
- Willing to participate in the research cycle by serving as a beta site for research trials
- Simply interested in what's happening in research and innovation . . .

Then join us for the 6th Annual SAA Research Forum: “Foundations and Innovations”!

Researchers, practitioners, educators, students, and the curious across all sectors of archives and records management are invited to participate. Use the Forum to discuss, debate, plan, organize, evaluate, or motivate research projects and initiatives. The event seeks to facilitate collaboration and help inform researchers about what questions and problems need to be tackled.

As archivists from around the country and the world convene at Beyond Borders: The 2012 Annual Meeting of the Society of American Archivists, the Research Forum will provide a platform to acknowledge current—and encourage future—research and innovation from across the broad archives community and for the benefit of the archives profession.

Research Forum Events at Beyond Borders

- Research Presentations and Posters (Tuesday, August 7, 9:00 a.m.–5:00 p.m.): Here's your chance to present, discuss, listen to, or view research reports and results on a variety of topics. The final 30 minutes of this session will seek input for SAA's 2013 Research Forum.
- “Office Hours” in the Exhibit Hall (Thursday, August 9, and Friday, August 10): Research Forum organizers will be on hand to hear your ideas about the Forum and for ad hoc discussions about specific research projects.
- Poster Sessions: Be sure to make time to visit the poster sessions, which will include practice innovation and research topics.

Call for Platform and Poster Presentations

SAA invites submission of abstracts (of 250 words or fewer) for either 10-minute platform presentations or poster presentations. Topics may address research on, or innovations in, any aspect of archives practice or records management in government, corporate, academic, scientific, or other settings. Presentations on research results that may have emerged since the 2012 Annual Meeting Call for Proposals deadline in October 2011 are welcome, as are reports on research completed within the past three years that you think is relevant and valuable for discussion. Please indicate whether you intend a platform or poster presentation.

Abstracts will be evaluated by a review committee co-chaired by Nancy McGovern (Inter-University Consortium for Political and Social Research, University of Michigan) and Helen Tibbo (University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill).

Deadline for submission of abstracts: May 1, 2012. You will be notified of the review committee's decision by July 1.

Submit your 250-word abstract no later than May 1 via email to researchforum@archivists.org.
