NINE GENERATIONS OF PATIENT WINEMAKING

FOR AT LEAST A MONTH BEFOREHAND, Jews perform significant preparation for Passover. The holiday commemorates the emancipation of the Israelites from Egyptian slavery more than 3,000 years ago.

This guide will help not only explain many of the laws related to Passover—such as when various customs and commandments are done—but will also elaborate on the terms associated with the holiday.

If you are unsure about any aspect of Passover observance please consult an Orthodox rabbi.

IMPORTANT DATES

PASSOVER BEGINS

The festival takes place from the 15th to the 22nd of the Hebrew month of Nisan, that is from sundown Friday, April 19 through Motza'ei Shabbat, April 27 on the secular calendar. The restrictions of chametz begin on the morning of Friday, April 19. See times on page 5.

CUSTOMS BEFORE PASSOVER

A search for chametz is conducted Thursday evening, April 18, and the chametz that is found is burned the next morning.

The eve of the holiday—this year Friday, April 19—is a fast day for Jewish firstborn males, commemorating the miracle which spared the firstborn Jewish sons from the Egyptians' fate of God's tenth plague—the last to precede the Exodus. In many congregations, a siyum is conducted, in which a portion of Torah is concluded—a celebratory occasion which allows participating males to break their fast.

Before Passover, there is a custom to give Maot Chitim, money for the poor to buy matzot and other food for Passover.

PASSOVER ENDS

All dietary laws and restrictions remain in effect until nightfall of the eighth day of Passover. Chametz which was properly sold may only be eaten once the resale is confirmed by your agent.

Chametz which was in the possession of a Jew during Passover, in violation of Jewish law, is forbidden for consumption by any Jew even after Passover.

OBSERVANCE

OBSERVING PASSOVER

The first two days (sundown of Friday, April 19—sundown Sunday, April 21) and last two days (sundown of Thursday, April 25—Motza'ei Shabbat, April 27) are observed with Shabbat restrictions on work and creative activity, with the exceptions of carrying and the use of fire (with respect to cooking and preparation of food). An eruv tavshilin should be made on Thursday, April 25, to allow for the preparation of food on yom tov that will be consumed on Shabbat.

The intermediate days of Passover (chol hamoed: Monday, April 22 - Thursday, April 25) are considered “semi-festive.” Only certain work, activities and crafts, as defined by Jewish law, are prohibited. Ask an Orthodox rabbi for guidance.

PREPARING THE HOME

Keeping a year-round kosher home is not the same as a “kosher for Passover” home, since Jewish law forbids the consumption or possession of all chametz during the holiday. Special preparations for Passover include:

- The home must be thoroughly cleaned of all chametz.
- Any chametz that is not removed from a Jew's premises before Passover should be sold and the storage locations leased to a non-Jew. Your Orthodox rabbi can help. For guidelines on what can and should be sold see page 38.

PASSOVER TERMS

MATZAH

Matzah is made of specially supervised flour and water, which must be baked before the dough has had time to rise – within 18 minutes or less. It is the only product based on the five grains (wheat, barley, oat, spelt & rye) which Jews may eat during Passover, and it must be made specifically for Passover use, under rabbinical supervision.

Eating matzah on Passover commemorates the unleavened bread eaten by the Jews when they left Egypt in such haste that there was no time for the dough to rise. Shmurah matzah involves additional steps of supervision and is recommended for use at the Seder.

GEBROKTS

Not eating gebrokts (Yiddish, meaning matzah that has become “wet”) is a custom by which some Ashkenazim will avoid putting matzah (or any derivative, such as matzah meal) into any liquid to prevent the possibility that improperly mixed dough, that might have any stray flour that was never exposed to water (and is therefore still susceptible to leavening), would subsequently become chametz when finally exposed to liquid.

THE SEDER

The Seder is a symbolic reenactment of the Exodus, with a compelling message for young and old alike. The Seder details the journey of the exodus from Egypt by Jewish slaves following a traditional order of blessings, eating symbolic foods, narratives, commentaries and song.

CLEAR VISION IS A DROP AWAY

Could eye drops be the secret to curing vision problems? A new procedure in development at Shaare Zedek Medical Center in Jerusalem uses nano-particle drops to adjust the refraction of light through the cornea. Rather than wearing glasses or contacts, or removing portions of the cornea with laser surgery, patients of the future will "see the light" with a lower risk of complications.

Shaare Zedek medical professionals lead the way with ground-breaking solutions. Israel's preeminent hospital in the heart of Jerusalem for more than a century helps patients heal through compassionate care and cutting-edge treatments.

פסח מצה ומרור

■ All cooking and eating utensils must be either set aside exclusively for Passover, or in some cases kashered (in consultation with a rabbi), according to the procedures of Jewish law. See our Kashering Primer on page 18.

For specific questions, consult a local Orthodox rabbi.

WHAT IS CHAMETZ?

Chametz refers to any food created by allowing grain (specifically wheat, oat, spelt, rye or barley) and water to ferment and rise—most commonly referred to as “leaven.”

Even foods with minute amounts of chametz ingredients, or foods processed on utensils which are used for chametz, are not permissible for Passover use. Practically speaking, any processed food that is not certified “Kosher for Passover” may potentially include chametz ingredients.

BRIEF GUIDE TO THE SEDER

There are two Torah obligations and five rabbinical obligations performed during the Seder.

TORAH MITZVOT:

1 Relating the story of the Exodus (Maggid—reading from the Haggadah)

2 Eating matzah

RABBINICAL MITZVOT:

1 Drinking four cups of wine (arbah kosot)

2 Eating bitter herbs (maror)

3 Reciting Psalms of praise (Hallel)

4 Eating the afikomen (an extra piece of matzah for dessert as a reminder of the Passover offering)

5 Demonstrating acts of freedom (such as sitting with a pillow cushion, and leaning to the left as we eat matzah and drink wine)

SEDER PLATE

A special Seder plate is arranged with symbolic foods to follow the order of the Haggadah. The prepared plate should be placed before the head of the household, or the one conducting the Seder, who dispenses the various foods to each participant. The Seder plate contains:

Three whole matzot: either on the plate or next to it;

- 1 Charoset: mixture of apples, nuts, wine and cinnamon, symbolizing the bricks and mortar of ancient Egypt;
- 2 Karpas: a vegetable (preferably parsley, potato or celery);
- 3 Maror: bitter herbs (may consist of romaine lettuce, endives or pure horseradish);
- 4 Beitzah: a roasted or boiled egg;
- 5 Zeroa: a piece of roasted or boiled meat or poultry;

Also: a bowl of salt water should be placed near the Seder plate. This year, as the first Seder is on a Friday night, it is preferable to prepare the salt water mixture prior to Shabbat.

MATZAH

We are commanded to eat matzah three times during the Seder:

- 1 At the beginning of the Seder (with a special blessing);
- 2 For Korech (Hillel sandwich) together with the maror;
- 3 For the afikomen (at the end of the meal).

For details on the specific amounts and requirements, see below.

FOUR CUPS OF WINE

Red wine is preferred for use during the Seder. Each Jew is obligated to drink four cups of wine at these specific times during each Seder:

- 1 Start of the Seder, following Kiddush; (Kiddush at the second Seder should be recited together with Havdala);
- 2 Before the meal (after reciting the Haggadah story);
- 3 Following the Birkat Hamazon (Grace after the meal);
- 4 Following completion of Hallel.

For details on the specific amounts and requirements, see below.

BITTER HERBS (MAROR)

Everyone is obligated to eat bitter herbs twice at each Seder:

- 1 Dipped in charoset;
- 2 Immediately thereafter, a second, smaller volume of maror is eaten with matzah in Korech (the Hillel sandwich).

Cooked or preserved vegetables are not suitable for maror; therefore commercially prepared grated horseradish, which is packed in vinegar, may not be used for the mitzvah.

RELATING THE STORY OF THE EXODUS AND HALLEL

Young children are encouraged to participate in the Seder to the extent of their ability. It is customary for the youngest person at the Seder to ask the Four Questions.

The formal part of the Seder closes with Hallel, which praises God and His special relationship with the people of Israel.

The Seder traditionally concludes with the singing of several lively songs celebrating the relationship between God and the Jewish people.

MY CHAMETZ & ME:

A Long Distance Relationship

RABBI DONNEAL EPSTEIN

In our ever-shrinking world, a question that was once rare is now very common. If you spend Pesach in a different time zone than your home base, how must you deal with selling your chametz back home? Does it matter if you go to a destination where Pesach begins earlier than where your home and chametz are, or if Pesach begins and ends later?

To answer these questions, we need to explain why chametz is sold. The Torah prohibits us from owning or possessing chametz on Pesach. There are three mitzvot associated with this: 1) The positive mitzvah of tashbitu—to destroy your chametz prior to the afternoon of erev Pesach; 2) ba'al yira'eh—not seeing chametz; 3) ba'al Yimatzeh—not finding—i.e. not possessing chametz.

According to Biblical law, you would be able to fulfill these mitzvot (at least the latter two) by performing the verbal declaration called bitul chametz—nullifying chametz. However, the rabbis were concerned that human nature being what it is, a person may make this declaration half-heartedly and actually intend to keep his chametz, thereby violating the halacha; as such, the rabbis instituted an obligation to search for and destroy all chametz.

If you have a large amounts of chametz, you may sell your chametz to a non-Jew prior to the onset of the prohibited time for retaining chametz. Selling chametz [in an irreversible manner] is plainly mentioned in the Gemara. However, it was not until relatively recently that the universal custom has become to appoint your rabbi as the agent to sell your chametz [and leasing the space where it is stored before Pesach], and [reacquiring it] following the holiday.

Getting back to our original question, the answer depends on the answer to the following debate: Does the prohibition of owning chametz depend on where you are—or where your chametz is? Translated into the Brisk methodology: is prohibition an issur cheftzah (object-centric) or an issur gavrah (person-centric)?

The Chesed L'Avraham rules that the prohibition of owning chametz depends exclusively on the owner, and the location of the chametz is irrelevant. However, the Teshuvot Oneg Yom Tov contests this and rules that chametz [location] is the only consideration. (See Igros Moshe O.C.IV 94 and Emek Hateshuvah I:79 who rule in accordance with the former opinion that the physical location of the owner is the only consideration.)

Current custom is to maintain the stringencies of both opinions.

For example: if you live in New York and travel to Israel for Pesach, many U.S. rabbis will arrange a special early mechirat chametz so that the chametz is out of your possession when the holiday starts in Israel. If you've sold through an Israel-based rabbi, instruct him to not repossess your chametz until the holiday is over in New York—seven hours later than in Israel.

If you travel from your home in New York to spend Pesach in California, the prohibition for the chametz begins earlier than it does for you, the owner. Therefore, you should have your chametz sold by a New York rabbi, and purchased back for you only after Pesach ends in California (PST).

We eagerly anticipate the entire nation of Israel celebrating together in one time zone, with the final exodus and redemption.

KASHERING

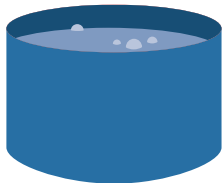

ONE OF THE MOST DAUNTING PREPARATIONS we make for Passover is kashering, a process to prepare chametz utensils for Passover use. As with all areas of halachah, those who are unsure of how to apply the rules of kashering to their situation should consult an Orthodox rabbi.

The Torah (Bemidbar 31:23) requires kashering utensils acquired from a non-Jew, as they are presumed to have been used with non-kosher (and will have absorbed non-kosher flavor). Since chametz on Passover is also forbidden, the Talmud applies the laws of kashering to chametz as well. There are four basic methods of kashering. The prescribed method depends on the utensil and how it was used.

LIBUN GAMUR (BURNING)

Utensils used directly in the fire (e.g. BBQ grate), must be kashered by placing them into fire. This process has the effect of burning away any absorbed taste. To qualify as a complete libun, metal must be heated until it glows. A self-clean cycle of an oven (approx. 850° F) also qualifies as libun. There is no need to wait 24 hours before libun, though it is advised. There is no need to scrub the utensil before performing libun, since the fire will burn off residue, but some cleaning is advised.

HAGALAH (BOILING)

Utensils that were used to cook non-kosher liquid can be kashered with hagalah (boiling in water). To prepare the utensil for hagalah, the utensil must be thoroughly cleaned. Only utensils that can be scrubbed clean should be kashered. Items that have narrow cracks, crevices, deep scratches or other areas that cannot be cleaned, cannot be kashered for Passover. The following, for exple, cannot be kashered for Passover: pots with rolled lips, bottles with narrow necks, filters, colanders, knives (or other utensils) where food can get trapped between the blade and handle. After cleaning, the utensils should then be left idle for 24 hours. To kasher, every part of the utensil must make contact with boiling water. This process can be done in parts. For example, a large spoon can be immersed into a pot of boiling water for 10 seconds, turned over and then the remainder immersed. When the utensil is removed from the boiling water, it should be rinsed off in cold water. While strictly speaking these utensils may be kashered in a clean non-Passover pot that was not used for 24 hours, the minhag, however, is to kasher the pot first, by boiling water in the pot and discarding.

IRUY KLI RISHON (POURED BOILING WATER)

If the utensil only came in contact with hot liquid being poured on it (iruy), it can be kashered in the same manner. If the utensil came in contact with hot chametz solids, then one should kasher by pouring boiling water accompanied by an even melubenet, a heated stone. For example, if hot pasta fell into a sink, stones should be heated on the stove, and moved around the surface of the sink while boiling water is poured over them. In this way, the water will remain boiling on the surface of the sink. The stones may need to be reheated several times, since they cool down quickly. In all other aspects the process is identical to hagalah.

PRIMER

LIBUN KAL (LIGHT BURNING)

In certain cases, libun kal is sufficient. This can be accomplished by heating in an oven at 550° F for one hour. This method of kashering can be used in place of hagalah. It is also used when the need for libun is only an added stringency.

NOT EVERY MATERIAL CAN BE KASHERED. Ceramic, such as china, and enamel coated pots cannot be kashered. It is the custom of Ashkenazim not to kasher glass as well. Some poskim do not permit kashering plastic or other synthetic materials for Passover; however, the opinion of the OU rabbanim is that it may be kashered, if there is a need. Ask your rabbi for guidance. Composite stone (e.g. quartz counters) which is made mostly of stone, but is held together with resin, can be kashered. As a rule, materials such as metal, wood, stone, natural rubber and fabric can be kashered.

KASHERING CHECKLIST:

LIBUN GAMUR

- Surface must be heated to a dry temperature of approximately 850° (i.e. self-clean oven) or until it begins to glow.

HAGALAH

- Surface should be completely cleaned with hot water and unused for 24 hours.
- Surface should be completely clean and dry.
- The utensil should be completely submerged in a pot of boiling water.
- Cold water should be poured over surface.

IRUY KLI RISHON

- Surface should be completely cleaned with hot water and unused for 24 hours.
- Surface should be completely clean and dry.
- Boiling water should be poured directly over all surfaces followed by cold water poured over the entire surface.

LIBUN KAL

- Surface should be completely cleaned with hot water and unused for 24 hours.
- Surface should be completely clean and dry.
- Surface should be heated to a dry temperature of 550° F (i.e. oven) for a minimum of one hour.

SOME HELPFUL TIPS:

It is recommended that one not wait until erev yom tov to run the self-cleaning cycle to kasher their oven, as this is known to be hard on the oven and repairs may be required.

Some newer self-cleaning ovens employ Aqualift technology that cleans at low heat; they should be considered like non-self-cleaning ovens (see The Modern Kitchen on page 20 for details).

Please note that kashering may discolor oven racks and stovetop burners. If racks have rubber wheels, the wheels may melt. Replacement racks for Pesach should be ordered well in advance.

THE MODERN KITCHEN

SILVERWARE, POTS & OTHER SMALL ITEMS HAGALAH (boiling in water)

Rolled lips, seams or cracks, which cannot be cleaned, will require torching of those areas. Utensils should be immersed one at a time into a pot of boiling water that is on the fire. Water should be allowed to return to a boil before the next item is placed in the pot. The pot can be non-Passover, provided it is clean, has not been used for 24 hours, and water is first boiled in the pot and discarded. Larger items can be submerged in the water one part at a time. Utensils should then be rinsed in cold water.

KEURIG COFFEE MAKER HAGALAH OR IRUY (pouring boiling water)

(for those who kasher plastic) The coffee maker must be cleaned well and not used for 24 hours. Remove K-cup holder and perform hagalah or iruy on K-cup holder. Run a Kasher for Passover K-cup in the machine (this will kasher the top pin).

HOT WATER URN, WATER COOLER IRUY (pouring boiling water)

Urn only used for heating water: Run hot water through the water tap for 10 seconds, while pouring boiling water from a kettle over the water tap.

Urn also used to warm food (e.g. to warm challah): Not recommended. Must be put away for the holiday Water Cooler In addition to pouring boiling water over tap, replace water bottle.

ELECTRIC MIXER NOT RECOMMENDED

Because of the difficulty in cleaning out the housing of the mixer from fine particles of flour, one should not use their year-round mixer on Passover. The mixer blades, though, can be cleaned and kashered with hagalah.

GAS STOVETOP LIBUN (burning) & COVER

The stovetop surface and grates should be cleaned well and not used for 24 hours.

The stovetop surface should be covered with foil. The stovetop grates can be replaced or they should be burned out in the oven @ 550° F for one hour.

ELECTRIC STOVETOP LIBUN

(burning) & COVER The stovetop surface should be cleaned well and covered with foil. The burners should be turned on until they glow red.

GLASS STOVETOP CANNOT BE KASHERED & MUST BE COVERED

The stovetop surface should be cleaned well and not used for 24 hours.

During Pesach pots should not be placed directly on the stove surface, but rather an aluminum (or other metal) disk should be placed directly under the pot.

One should not cover the entire glass top surface as this might cause it to overheat and crack.

METAL TEA KETTLE

HAGALAH (boiling in water)

The same treatment as for pots applies here. Although it is uncommon for anything but water to be put into a tea kettle, nevertheless it must be kashered. Tea kettles often sit on the stove, and it is common for them to get sprayed with hot food.

SELF-CLEAN OVENS LIBUN (burning) Remove any visible food. Complete self-cleaning cycle with racks in place.

NON-SELF-CLEANING OVEN LIBUN (burning) Clean all surfaces (walls, floor, doors and racks) thoroughly with a caustic cleanser (e.g. Easy Off). Pay special attention to thermostat, oven window, and edges of the oven chamber. Black discoloration that is flush with the metal need not be removed. Oven should not be used for 24 hours. Place racks in the oven and turn the oven to broil (highest heat) for 60 minutes. A broiler pan that comes in direct contact with food should not be used.

Note: The method of kashering described above is based on the ruling of Rav Aharon Kotler zt'l. However, Rav Moshe Feinstein zt'l ruled that the oven must either be kashered with a blow torch, or an insert should be placed in the oven. Consult your rabbi for guidance.

WARMING DRAWERS LIBUN (burning) Typically warming drawers do not get to libun kal temperature. Therefore, unless one is experienced in kashering with a torch, warming drawers are not recommended for use on Pesach.

GLOSSARY OF TERMS

LIBUN GAMUR - Burning

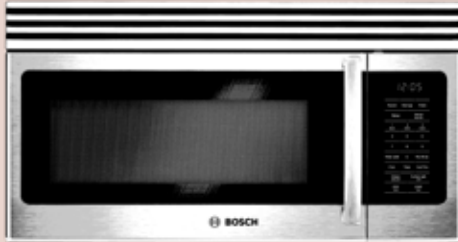

HAGALAH - Boiling

IRUY KLI RISHON - Poured Boiling Water

EVEN MELUBENET - Heated Stone

See pages 18-19 for details on these processes.

MICROWAVES HAGALAH (boiling in water) (for those who kasher plastic) The microwave must be cleaned well and not used for 24 hours. Glass turntable should be removed and replaced with new kosher for Passover surface. A styrofoam cup should be filled with water and boiled in the microwave for 10 minutes. The cup should be refilled and moved to another spot and the process repeated for 10 more minutes. Cardboard or contact paper should be taped over the glass window pane for the duration of Passover.

THE SINK FAUCET (including instant hot) IRUY (pouring boiling water) Detach any filters or nozzles.

STAINLESS STEEL, GRANITE, COMPOSITE STONE (E.G. QUARTZ) OR FORMICA COUNTERTOPS IRUY (pouring boiling water) OR COVERING It is preferable to kasher a countertop by pouring boiling water in conjunction with an even melubenet. There are different opinions as to whether formica (or plastic) countertops can be kashered for Pesach. CERAMIC TILE COUNTERTOPS CANNOT BE KASHERED & MUST BE COVERED The counter should be covered with a water-resistant covering.

REFRIGERATORS, FREEZERS, FOOD SHELVES & PANTRIES CLEAN & COVER

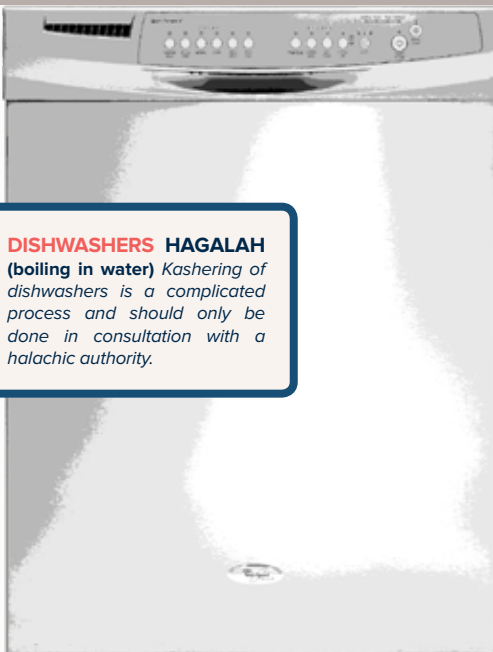

These areas should be thoroughly cleaned, paying special attention to the edges where crumbs may get trapped. The surfaces should be lined with paper or plastic.

Note: Refrigerators and freezers will operate more efficiently if holes are poked in the lining to allow air flow.

BABY HIGH CHAIR COVERED

The tray should be covered with contact paper. The seat, legs and bars should be wiped down with a soapy rag.

DISHWASHERS HAGALAH (boiling in water) Kashering of dishwashers is a complicated process and should only be done in consultation with a halachic authority.

TABLES COVERED Although wooden tables can be kashered, the common custom is to clean tables well and then cover them.

TABLECLOTHS, KITCHEN GLOVES, APRONS & OTHER FABRIC ITEMS WASH

Fabric items can be kashered by washing them with detergent in washing machine set on "hot." Items should be checked to make sure no pieces of food remain attached.

Over the past fifty years,

OU Kasher and the world of kashrut have undergone a veritable explosion in size and scope — both quantitatively and qualitatively. That kashrut was assisted during that period by the universally beloved Rabbi Chaim Goldzweig zt”l is in no way coincidental.

Rabbi Goldzweig served the OU as a senior rabbinic field representative for half a century. In that position he performed so many uniquely significant roles for kashrut: as an expert of ingredient evaluation and food technology, ambassador to the food industry, globetrotting kashrut inspector, and tireless kashrut resource to manufacturers, rabbis and consumers alike. Beyond the “professional” persona that defined so much of his day-to-day interactions, Rabbi Goldzweig also led a small shul in his Chicago home, was a veritable one-man chessed organization, and positively impacted countless individuals throughout his lifetime.

Rabbi Goldzweig was born in Chicago in 1937. Scion to an illustrious lineage of tzadikim and rabbinic figures (his father, Rabbi Moshe Gershon, was a revered Kabbalist originally from Tzefat), Rabbi Goldzweig meticulously followed in his ancestors’ footsteps. After a primary school education in Chicago’s Hebrew Parochial School, he attended the Telshe Yeshiva in Cleveland where he was recognized for his Torah scholarship, his good-natured personality, and selfless generosity.

In 1960 OU Kasher’s rabbinic administrator, Rabbi Alexander Rosenberg, sought a qualified rabbi to assist the eminent (and colorful) Cincinnati-based Rabbi Eliezer Silver to provide kashrut supervision for Procter & Gamble. Rabbi Moshe Gershon urged his son to put his talents toward the service of klal Yisrael and enter the field of kashrut. Heeding his father’s appeal, Rabbi Goldzweig dedicated his life, from that day forward, to just that — serving the Jewish people with not just his enormous talents, but all his energies and resources.

EARLY DAYS OF KASHRUT

Today, hundreds of thousands of OU Kasher products line our store shelves, and a global network of kosher-certified raw materials supply the factories that produce them. But in the 1960s and 1970s, the food industry was not familiar with kosher concepts and rules, nor did it always appreciate the benefits of a kosher certification.

Rabbi Goldzweig became Rabbi Silver’s protégé, learning both practical kashrut principles as well as the sometimes-unconventional approaches required to advance the nascent kashrut industry of the time. Visits to factories meant developing personal relationships and often bringing gifts of wine or chocolate to plant personnel. Company officials regarded him less as an inspector and more as a friend. At the same time, he was respected for his quick grasp of food technology, his encyclopedic knowledge of ingredients, and his unquestioned integrity. He was so respected in the food industry that the USDA appointed him to a position and issued him an inspector's badge — which occasionally proved useful when his authority was challenged. He also utilized his connections to assist yeshivas and day schools, helping them access kosher government-surplus foods.

He was once called as a character witness for custody hearings involving a plant manager for one of the companies he visited. The judge was confused and even asked what kind of relationship there could be between the Catholic manager and the Orthodox rabbi. Rabbi Goldzweig explained how he knew the man, and how he had even visited the man's family. The judge was visibly impressed by the rabbi's testimony and eventually awarded custody to the father.

Despite being away from home so much, Rabbi Goldzweig would never compromise his principles and traditions which included a tremendous emphasis on tefilla. His father, Rabbi Moshe Gershon, spent many hours each day immersed in prayer (a minyan was hired to be present in his shul to accommodate him). However, travelling by car throughout the Midwest in those days meant spending weekdays on the road. Rabbi Goldzweig, unable to daven with a daily minyan, committed himself instead to daven (k'vasikin) with sunrise each morning. Also, with only limited time to study Torah during the week, his children report that he hardly slept on weekends and spent much of Shabbat immersed in his sefarim.

SUPER MASHGIACH

Rabbi Goldzweig's holistic approach to kashrut meant inspecting not just the ingredient warehouse and production areas, but also understanding the people and how the factory operated. Once during an inspection that did not uncover any violations of kosher protocol, but which left him with a gnawing discomfort about the plant, Rabbi Goldzweig persevered until he ultimately found unapproved ingredients hidden in a women's restroom, where the plant personnel were certain the rabbi would never look.

With trademark humor and humility, he was a master at diffusing difficult and confrontational situations. Once at an inspection of a factory in Europe, a worker claimed that all the factory's oils were plant-based and that no animal products were used. Rabbi Goldzweig knew that the worker was lying because he had seen beef fat on site a little earlier. The rabbi shrugged and told the man, “I didn't realize that cows grow on trees in your country!”

In the pre-computer, pre-internet and even pre-fax era, Rabbi Goldzweig visited a plant, wrote his report by hand, and sent it to OU headquarters via overnight mail. Each of these many reports were thorough; every ingredient verified, every product formula reviewed, and all issues addressed.

Rabbi Genack, CEO of OU Kosher, often said that “Rabbi Goldzweig was the OU,” and that the OU’s kashrut department, the largest kosher supervising agency in the world, “was built on his shoulders.” He called Rabbi Goldzweig the “Super Mashgiach.

UNIVERSALLY BELOVED & RESPECTED

Rabbi Goldzweig was employed by the OU, but he served all of klal Yisrael. The entire spectrum of kashrut agencies and rabbis consulted with him and his views were considered sacrosanct.

When Rabbi Moshe Heinemann of Baltimore once visited Chicago, one of the kollel rabbis invited him to speak about current issues in kashrut. Rabbi Heinemann looked at the man incredulously: “You have Rabbi Chaim Goldzweig living here in Chicago, and you want me to talk about issues in kashrut? Reb Chaim is the one we all turn to!”

Rabbi Goldzweig’s daughter recalls, “As children, whenever we went grocery shopping with my father, we would beg him to stay in the car. We knew that if he went into the store with us it would take at least an extra half-hour, since he would be bombarded with questions by other customers.”

There were no questions that were beneath his dignity — Rabbi Goldzweig, it would seem, had endless patience and no discernable ego to speak of. In the weeks before Pesach, he alongside his rebbetzin, who tirelessly answered calls, were the “central kashrut information center.”

HE PATIENTLY RESPONDED TO EVERY QUESTION POSED WITH HIS TRADEMARK HUMOR...

The Goldzweig home was fitted with four telephone lines (unheard of at the time) and they were often all in use. He would be invited to question-and-answer sessions at yeshivas and shuls, and to appear on radio and television, where listeners and viewers called in their questions. He patiently responded to every question posed with his trademark humor — no matter how preposterous it may have seemed. When a woman asked him if her husband’s heart medication could be taken on Pesach he responded, “I guess it depends if you want him to live or not!”

Women and girls would press him about using any and every cosmetic available on the market for Pesach. He would jokingly roll his eyes and ask in mock exasperation, “I can only imagine how impossible it must be for you to avoid that specific brand for the four days of Chol Hamoed!” But he would then go ahead and research the product to the best of his ability.

Often his answers depended on who the inquirers were and the standards they were seeking to observe. Consequently, even those who wanted to keep only basic kashrut standards were comfortable asking Rabbi Goldzweig their queries. They trusted his opinion implicitly, knowing that he would not lead them astray or burden them with what they felt were unnecessary stringencies.

Rabbi Goldzweig once entered a “heimish” grocery store in Brooklyn and noticed a beverage that was not recommended. He told the proprietor, “I don’t believe that this is kosher.” The storekeeper looked at the rabbi in the simple suit suspiciously and asked, “What do you know about kosher?”

“My name is Chaim Goldzweig, and I work for the OU,” Rabbi Goldzweig informed the owner. Unconvinced, the Hassidic fellow told the rabbi condescendingly: “and why should I feel obligated to listen to you?”

“Well, if you would like, I can wait while you can call any local Hassidic rabbi you choose and tell him that Chaim Goldzweig said this product is not recommended.”

The proprietor did just that, calling a well-known local rabbi. “Are you crazy?” shouted the rabbi, “do you realize that Rabbi Goldzweig probably knows more about what is acceptable and what is not than anyone else in the country? Get that product out of your store now!”

A famous rabbi from Israel once asked Rabbi Goldzweig to accompany him to a production site that sought his supervision. The two temperaments could not have been more opposite. The Israeli Rav, with a no-nonsense approach, made it known right from the start that he was in charge, and that the company would have to agree to all his stipulations in order to receive his approval. A thick tension hung in the air as the talks proceeded between the rabbi and the factory owner.

Rabbi Goldzweig, on the other hand, first engaged the owner in light conversation and joked around with him. Only after he was at ease did Rabbi Goldzweig begin talking about the changes that needed to be made for the company to receive supervision. The owner and managers almost magically became amenable to all the changes. The Israeli Rav was so overwhelmed with Rabbi Goldzweig’s personality and his approach that for years after he often sought out Rabbi Goldzweig’s counsel.

As much as Rabbi Goldzweig was considered a foremost kashrut expert throughout the world, he acted with the utmost humility. Rabbi Moshe Elefant (OU Kosher COO) recalls early encounters when he was a newly hired rabbinic coordinator (RC). Rabbi Goldzweig would submit his kashrut reports but always deferred to the lesser-experienced RC for policy decisions.

FOR THE LOVE OF CHESSED

For all his down-to-earth accessibility and charm, there was also a tremendous mystique surrounding Rabbi Goldzweig — sometimes bordering on the supernatural. No one could understand how many thousands and thousands of tzedakah dollars were distributed by him — although he was never a man of means — a practice he maintained throughout his life.

A ba’al chessed extraordinaire, his home, in addition to housing a small shul, was a primary address in Chicago for everyone from visiting Hassidic rebbes and Roshei Yeshiva to meshulachim, the lonely and the needy, the hapless and the hungry. His home was their home and Rabbi Goldzweig always acted as if he were his guests’ attendant.

One year, word of a Jewish visitor to the Chicago area without kosher food on Erev Yom Kippur made its way to Rabbi Goldzweig. The Rabbi “disappeared” for most of the day, missing mincha and his family’s festive Erev Yom Kippur meal, returning late in the afternoon before the holy day only after delivering a proper meal to the individual in need.

A kollel couple visiting Chicago with a kashrut inquiry was directed to Rabbi Goldzweig. They called to ask whether a certain prenatal vitamin required kosher supervision, since the one without supervision cost much less. Rabbi Goldzweig asked if he could meet them at a local pharmacy. A little while later they met at Walgreens, where Rabbi Goldzweig quietly examined the ingredients of the vitamins in question. “Do you think it’s a problem?” the young man asked worriedly. “No,” answered Rabbi Goldzweig with a smile, “I know it’s a problem! But don’t worry; I have a fund for just this type of situation.” He then bought several months’ worth of the kosher vitamins and handed it to the couple.

Occasionally during summer vacation, the Goldzweig children accompanied their father on kashrut trips around the Midwest. As a friend of the family, I was invited to join as well. Rabbi Goldzweig made sure to include stops to amusement parks and other fun activities.

The Rabbi also made sure to bring along some underprivileged children who didn’t have their own “vacation plans” to speak of. The car was never too small for “just” another kid.

“YOU HAVE RABBI CHAIM GOLDZWEIG LIVING HERE IN CHICAGO, AND YOU WANT ME TO TALK ABOUT ISSUES IN KASHRUT? REB CHAIM IS THE ONE WE ALL TURN TO!”

I recall making last-minute arrangements for a trip to the Far East without the lead time necessary to arrange kosher meals on my flight. When I mentioned the Rabbi’s frequent flyer account to an airline representative, I was told that the airline would specially arrange a taxi to pick up the meals from the caterer and bring them to the airport. Rabbi Goldzweig amassed many millions of frequent flyer miles throughout his career. But those miles always became “chessed miles” used to help indigent individuals who needed to travel for smachot or medical care rarely for his own comfort or benefit.

When visiting mashgichim, Rabbi Goldzweig often told them that he needed to pick up something at the supermarket, asking them to kindly accompany him. After choosing the few items that he required, he took them on a shopping spree and left their home pantries filled with groceries. Allegedly, he paid off the occasional utility bills as well.

Once when travelling he met an acquaintance, a young woman from Chicago. While waiting to board the flight, Rabbi Goldzweig asked her if he could see her boarding pass. The Rabbi switched his pass with hers and the young lady ended up sitting in the Rabbi’s upgraded first-class seat. Embarrassed by his magnanimity, she confronted Rabbi Goldzweig; he replied: “You probably never sat in the front of the plane, enjoy the experience” — and he wouldn’t take no for an answer.

An OU colleague reported that whenever he found himself without a good frame of mind, he needed only to call Rabbi Goldzweig, who even when he was already ill and bed-ridden, always found a way to cheer up his younger colleague. Following a conversation with the Rabbi it was difficult not to smile.

THE RABBI SWITCHED HIS PASS WITH HERS AND THE YOUNG LADY ENDED UP SITTING IN THE RABBI’S ‘UPGRADED’ FIRST CLASS SEAT.

TRAITS ALMOST FORGOTTEN TODAY

When thinking about the brilliance, the goodness, the faith, the humility, the selflessness, the generosity and the love of fellow human beings that Rabbi Goldzweig embodied, we are transported back to another world and another time. The most apt comparison that I can find is shown among the disciples of the Baal Shem Tov in 18th-century Ukraine. That such a figure lived and functioned in 20th-century America gives us new faith in the uniqueness and continuity of the Jewish nation.

There is one name conspicuously absent from the Pesach haggadah: that of Moshe Rabbeinu. How could the figure so central to the Exodus story not be acknowledged in our annual recollection of those events?

Moshe, the “humblest of men to walk the face of the earth,” wouldn’t want attribution to himself for these events; only to the name of the All-mighty.

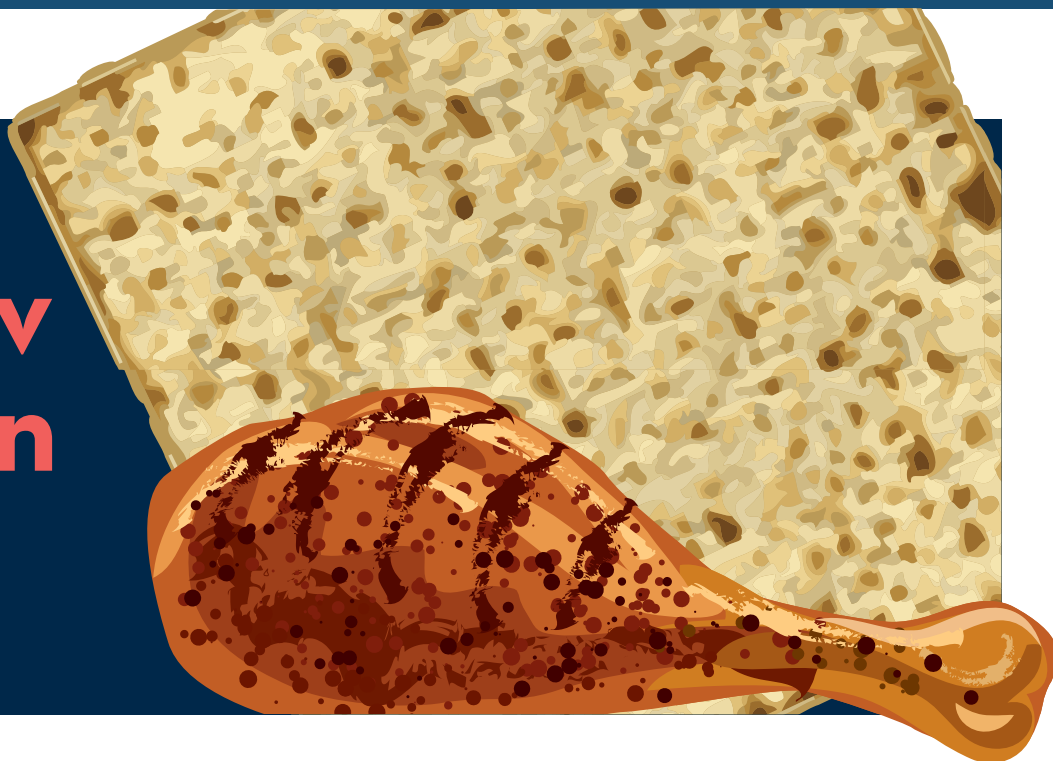

When we observe the success of kashrut (Pesach and year-round) in the United States and how easy it is now to find so many reliably certified OU products in every supermarket, and how this makes the lives of observant Jews that much easier — to whom shall we attribute this incredible phenomenon?

Were we to ask Rabbi Chaim Goldzweig, who returned his righteous soul to its Maker this past Tenth day of Tammuz, he too would certainly insist that we not mention his name. easier — to whom shall we attribute this incredible phenomenon?

An Eruv Tavshilin Q&A

BY RABBI MOSHE ZYWICA

Q: What is the reason for eruv tavshilin?

A: When the second or eighth day of yom tov falls on Shabbat (as it does this year), or if Shabbat falls immediately after yom tov, it is rabbinically forbidden to cook or prepare on yom tov for Shabbat. When executed properly, an eruv tavshilin allows one to prepare food for Shabbat on yom tov.

Interestingly, there is no Torah prohibition to cook or bake on yom tov for Shabbat, even though ostensibly one may only cook on yom tov for yom tov itself. The Gemara offers two reasons why this does not constitute a Torah prohibition:

1. Shabbat and yom tov are considered to be one unit since yom tov is referred to as Shabbat in the Torah. Just as it is permitted to cook and bake on yom tov for yom tov, it is permitted to cook and bake on yom tov for Shabbat.

2. When one cooks or bakes additional food on yom tov, it is not a Torah violation because it is possible that one will need the food for unexpected guests who might arrive on yom tov.

If the Torah permits the preparation of food on yom tov for Shabbat, why did the rabbis institute the eruv tavshilin in the first place? The Gemara gives two explanations:

1. When yom tov precedes Shabbat, one may be prone to overlook the needs of Shabbat. The rabbis therefore established eruv tavshilin as a special tangible preparation for Shabbat. This must be attended to before the start of the yom tov so people will remember Shabbat as well.

2. If we were to permit cooking on yom tov for Shabbat without any reminder, one might come to cook on yom tov for the subsequent weekdays, which would violate a Torah prohibition.

Q: What is the procedure for eruv tavshilin?

A: On erev yom tov one sets aside two types of food: one cooked and one baked. If one cannot obtain both items, a cooked item alone would be acceptable, but a baked item alone would not suffice. The cooked item must be at least the size of a large olive (approximately half the size of a chicken's egg) and the baked item should be at least the size of a chicken's egg.

The selected items are held in one's hands while the bracha and subsequent Aramaic text, as they appear in the siddur/machzor, is recited. It is necessary to understand the text as it is recited. If one does not understand the Aramaic text, it should be recited in one's native language.

Q: When is the eruv tavshilin effective? Can I eat the eruv tavshilin food?

A: The eruv tavshilin allows one to prepare for Shabbat only on erev Shabbat, but not on Thursday, even if it is the first day of yom tov. In addition, every effort must be made to complete the preparations early enough on Friday afternoon so that the food will be edible well before Shabbat. Nevertheless, if the preparations were left until late Friday afternoon, they may still be done.

The food items used for the eruv tavshilin must remain intact as long as preparations are being made for Shabbat. Perishable items used for the eruv should be stored in the refrigerator as needed. If the eruv foods were consumed or discarded, the eruv ceases to be valid.

Matzah is used on Pesach as the baked item of the eruv. It is customary to use this matzah for an additional mitzvah as one of the two “loaves” of lechem mishnah at each of the three Shabbat meals, and to consume the matzah at the third meal of Seudah Shlishit.

Q: If one is planning to be fully prepared for Shabbat before yom tov starts, is an eruv tavshilin still necessary?

A: Rav Moshe Feinstein zt”l understood the opinion of the Magen Avrohom to be that it is not absolutely necessary to make an eruv tavshilin if one is fully prepared for Shabbat. Still, the Igros Moshe notes that even when a person is not planning to cook or bake on yom tov for Shabbat, an eruv tavshilin should be performed as a precaution for an unexpected need. Rav Moshe zt”l writes that a bracha should not be recited in such a case.

Q: What should be done if one forgot to perform an eruv tavshilin?

A: In this case, it is permissible to rely on the eruv tavshilin performed by the rabbi of one’s city since it is customary for him to have his community in mind when performing the ritual. This can only be relied on provided the eruv tavshilin was not prepared due to an oversight and not because of negligence. In addition, one cannot rely on the rabbi’s eruv tavshilin for two consecutive yamim tovim. The Chayei Adam questions whether one who had previously forgotten an eruv tavshilin may ever rely on the rabbi’s eruv tavshilin for a second time.

Another option is to have someone who made an eruv tavshilin cook for the one who forgot. In this case, ownership of the ingredients must be transferred to the one who is allowed to cook. This person may then proceed to cook, even in the home of the person who did not make an eruv tavshilin.

Q. This year, an eruv tavshilin will be made on Thursday, April 25th, the sixth day of Pesach, to enable cooking on yom tov (Friday) for Shabbat. An interesting question arises for those who have customs or stringencies (i.e. shmura matzah, non-gebrochts) that are observed for seven days of Pesach but not on the final day of Pesach. Would it be possible to cook on Friday (the seventh day of yom tov) foods that you would not consume until the eighth day (Shabbat)?

A: At first glance, this should not be permitted, for one may not cook for Shabbat, even though he made an eruv tavshilin, unless he personally can eat that food on Friday. This is the position of certain poskim.

However, there are those who permit this cooking because 1) the foods are not halachically forbidden to be eaten on Friday; they are only avoided in observance of a custom, and 2) while the individuals would not themselves consume the product until the following day, a guest who does not observe those customs or stringencies might partake from those foods on erev Shabbat.

Others disagree, particularly with regard to non-Gebrochts foods, and would consider the foods as forbidden (albeit only via chumra) until the eighth day begins. Consequently, such foods would not be covered by the eruv tavshilin.

Related to this question is the preparation of kitniyot foods in Israel on the seventh (and final) day of Pesach in an Ashkenazi household for the sake of Shabbat. Some permit such food preparation if it would be reasonable for a Sephardi guest to visit one’s home who could eat the kitniyot on Friday.

Inedibles

on Pesach

RABBI ELI GERSTEN

UNLIKE OTHER YEAR-ROUND FORBIDDEN FOODS, CHAMETZ (LEAVENED GRAIN AND ITS BY-PRODUCTS) HAS UNIQUE RESTRICTIONS ON PESACH: NOT ONLY ARE WE FORBIDDEN FROM CONSUMING IT, (ISSUR ACHILA), WE ARE ALSO PROHIBITED FROM DERIVING ANY BENEFIT FROM IT (ISSUR HANA'AH).

Each year the OU publishes a list of non-food items that are acceptable to use on Pesach even without special Pesach certification (see page 110). The vast majority of these items are approved because the OU has determined that they do not contain chametz. A small minority, however, are permissible even though there is a possibility that they may contain minute chametz. How can that possibly be?

The Talmud teaches that we are forbidden to eat a non-slaughtered animal, but once the meat spoils, the prohibition is removed. Halacha recognizes two levels of inedibility; items that are unfit for human consumption, and items that would not even be eaten by a dog. Most non-kosher foods, including non-slaughtered animals, lose their non-kosher status once they reach the threshold of being unfit for human consumption. Regarding chametz, the halacha is different. A spoiled loaf of bread that would still be eaten by a dog must be destroyed before Pesach, because while a person would not eat such bread, the bread can still be used to ferment other dough (for this food purpose it is still edible). Therefore, Torah does not only forbid owning edible chametz, it also specifically forbids owning sourdough (chametz that is inedible). Only once bread spoils beyond the point that even a dog would not eat it does it lose its status of chametz.

But there is one more caveat. Even if we incinerate chametz before Pesach, we are still forbidden to eat the ashes. This is due to the principle of achshivei (restoring its importance). By consuming the charred remnants of the chametz, we are attesting to the fact that we still consider it a food. On a rabbinic level this is forbidden. However, we are permitted to own and benefit from incinerated chametz and the same applies to chametz that is nifsal (spoiled), to the extent that it would no longer be eaten by a dog.

Some of the products on the OU list taste terrible (e.g. soap), some are poisonous or dangerous (e.g. oven cleaner) and some are not food items at all (e.g. plastic plates); all of the items on this list meet the higher standard of inedibility (i.e. they are not fit for consumption by a dog).

TOOTHPASTE, MOUTHWASH AND TREATMENTS

These items are subject to a disagreement among rabbinic authorities. The question hinges on whether we can accurately describe them as being nifsal. It is a safe assumption that no one would sit down to drink a cup of mouthwash; however, these items are loaded with sweeteners and are given a palatable flavor. Some rabbis have argued that the term nifsal cannot be applied under these circumstances. Because the product is deliberately purchased based on the consumers flavor preference, we run into the concern of achshivei. The OU does not take a position on this matter and recommends that everyone consult their rabbi for guidance.

PAPER PLATES (PAPER TOWELS, NAPKINS)

Although paper (especially biodegradable paper) can be made from corn or wheat stalks, this is not a concern. Stalks are not chametz. They are not even considered kitniyot. Only the kernels of wheat or corn are forbidden on Pesach; the stalks are fine. However, paper products often contain starch. Although paper plates themselves are inedible, shouldn't we be concerned that the starch can leach out of the plate and into our food? Shouldn't this be similar to placing hot food on a chametz plate that was not kashered for Pesach? Even though a plate is inedible, we may not use a chametz plate on Pesach unless it was kashered. Shouldn't the same apply to a paper plate?

There is a fundamental difference between a chametz plate and a paper plate. The starch used to make paper plates is not chametz. It would be at most kitniyot. Common sources of starch in the paper industry include corn (kitniyot) and potato (not kitniyot). A small amount of starch is used in the paper-making process. It is mixed with pulp to strengthen the body of the plate, and in the coating to bind together chemicals that are applied to the surface for gloss. In either case, the starch is the minority, and the rule with kitniyot is that it is nullified in a simple majority. A real plate that was used with chametz or kitniyot requires kashering (assuming it is made of a material that can be kashered for Pesach [See Kashering Primer on page 18]). Even if it was only used with a small amount of chametz, the chametz cannot be nullified in the plate. This is because the plate remains whole, and only the taste that was absorbed in the plate leaches out into the food. That is not the case with a paper plate. There are no two separate entities. The starch is nullified in the plate and will leach out together with the rest of the plate. Since the kitniyot will always remain in the mixture, it is nullified and does not pose a concern.

CREAMS, LOTIONS AND PERFUME

Creams, lotions and perfumes often contain alcohol. For the most part alcohol used in these products is not chametz. Isopropyl alcohol and methanol are not made from grains. Even ethanol is likely not chametz, as the vast majority of industrial ethanol in the US is made from corn (Kitniyot). There are parts of the world where chametz ethanol is more common, nonetheless to avoid alcohol tariffs the alcohol is denatured rendering it nifsal. Additionally, the creams, lotions and perfumes into which alcohol may be mixed are certainly nifsal and therefore non-problematic for Pesach.

Rav Moshe Feinstein was asked about the permissibility of using creams that contain chametz alcohol. He ruled that it is permitted, since the alcohol was added to the cream before Pesach, it is considered nifsal and no one will consume them. In truth, there are two reasons to permit the use of these products on Pesach. The alcohol is denatured and there is a good chance that it contains no chametz at all.

MEDICATIONS – NON-CHEWABLE PILLS

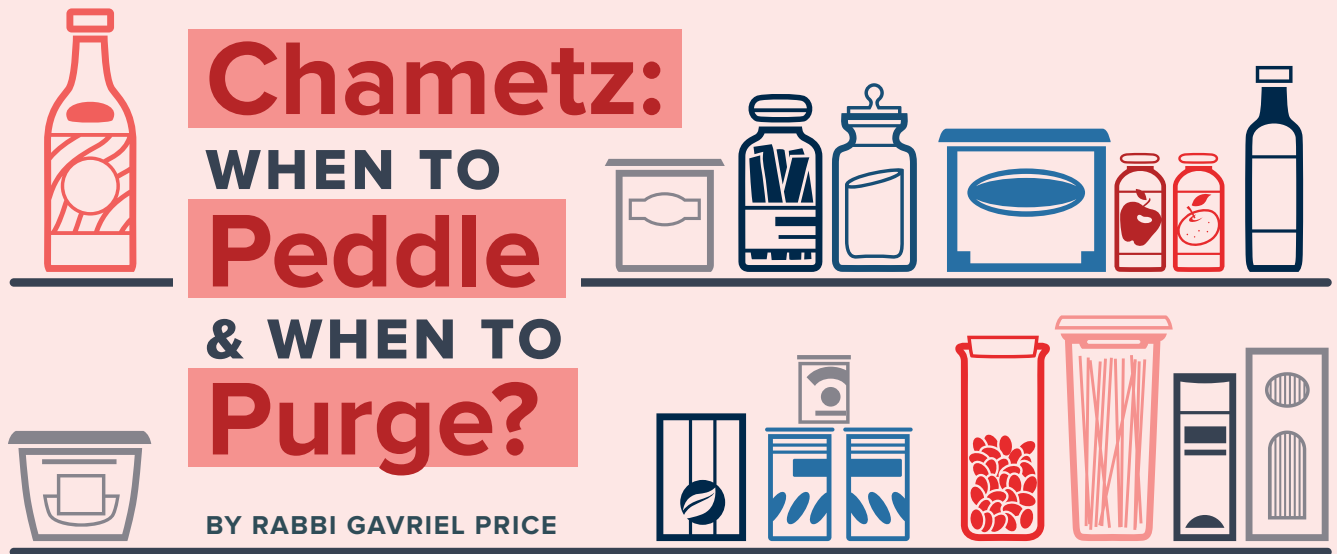

The OU sanctions the use of non-chewable pills on Pesach

FOR MORE INFORMATION SEE GUIDELINES

provided that they are taken for medicinal purposes. Non-chewable pills are bitter and are unfit for human consumption. Any chametz that might be present in the pill was rendered inedible before Pesach. Although earlier we explained that one may not intentionally swallow chametz that was charred or otherwise made inedible before Pesach, because of the concern of achshivei; this does not apply to medications. Consuming medicine does not show that one considers it to be food. One who is ill will take medicine even if it tastes terrible, because they understand its necessity.

Chewable pills and liquid medicines often have flavors and sweeteners added to make them taste better. Although these medicines are often still not the most pleasant tasting, they are no longer considered nifsal. If one is a choleh she'yaish bo sakana (sick with a potentially life-threatening illness) then he/she must take any necessary medicine even if it contains chametz. If there is no sakana (danger) then one should discuss with their pharmacist and rabbi if there is an alternative form of the medicine that does not contain chametz or is available as a non-chewable pill. (For a discussion of the halachic ramifications of gelcaps, please see: <https://oukosher.org/halacha-yomis/many-medications-encased-gelatin-capsules-may-used/?category=medicine>)

A common method for relinquishing ownership of chametz is to sell it, typically through an agent (a rabbi), to a gentile. The chametz remains in the house, in a closed-off area (e.g., a closet) that has been rented to its new owner. After Pesach the rental period ends and the agent purchases the chametz back on behalf of the original owner.

This option is time-honored and halachically sanctioned. It is, however, a device that some have reservations about relying on for chametz that, on a Torah level, a person is required to remove from one's possession.

The Torah prohibition against owning chametz applies not only to obvious chametz such as bread, pretzels, or cookies, but to any product that contains a chametz ingredient that constitutes a kezayit within that product. Licorice, for example, which contains a significant amount of flour in its dough, would not be sold according to this position but should, instead, be eaten before Pesach, burned, or otherwise destroyed. Such products are considered chametz gamur — “real” chametz.

If the food is only safek chametz (that is, there is some doubt as to whether it is chametz at all), it may be included in the sale even according to those pious individuals who avoid the sale of “real” chametz.

The foods listed in the chart on the opposite page are identified either as chametz gamur (“real” chametz) and, according to the stringent position, should not be included in the sale, or “not chametz gamur,” and may be included in the sale.

Many people who avoid selling chametz nonetheless have a family custom to include their whiskey in the sale.

Because of global variations in raw material sourcing, this chart ONLY APPLIES TO PRODUCTS MANUFACTURED IN THE USA.

1. Processing of pearled barley is mechanical and does not require use of water.
2. Follow family custom.
3. Some opinions hold that, even according to the stringent tradition of not selling chametz gamur, provided the chametz is not distinguishable in the product even if it is present at more than a kezayit, it can be included in the sale (Rav Yosef Dov HaLevi Soloveitchik, quoted in Nefesh HaRav, page 177).
4. Although malt in corn flakes and crispy rice products is present at more than one-sixtieth of the product, in standard packaging the malt is less than one kezayit of the package.

5. Contemporary milling production renders flour only safek chametz and therefore it can be included in the sale.
6. Flour as an ingredient in processed food is typically exposed to some form of moisture and should be assumed to be chametz.
7. Typically, non-GMO starch and starch derivatives (like maltodextrin) are sourced from Europe, and should be assumed to be chametz.
8. Wheat is used in traditional soy sauce production
9. Wheat germ is a byproduct of the milling process – see footnote 3

PESACH FOOD ROUND-UP:

Common Passover Queries

Almond Meal It is preferable to purchase almond meal with Pesach certification. If this is not possible, certain brands are approved when bearing a regular OU symbol. Please consult the OU Guide to Consumer Products (page 63) or check the OU Passover product search for a complete list.

Coconut Oil All virgin coconut oils are Kosher for Passover, as long as it bears the OU symbol.

Eggs Whole eggs in their shell may be used without special Passover certification.

Fish Due to the frequent application of glazes to raw fish, it should be purchased only with reliable kosher certification. However, Kirkland Frozen Wild Salmon bearing the standard OU symbol is acceptable after rinsing, while the Kirkland Atlantic (Farm Raised) Salmon bearing the standard OU symbol is acceptable as is for Passover.

Fruits & Vegetables (frozen) Frozen vegetables are washed in water that often contains anti-foaming agents, which are not appropriate for Passover use. Moreover, some companies also pack pasta products on shared packing machinery. Therefore, frozen vegetables require Passover certification.

However, these issues are not a concern at facilities that process frozen fruit, which does not require Passover certification. One must be careful that no additives, i.e. corn syrup, are used.

Honey Honey requires special Passover certification, as our research shows that some companies adulterate it with corn syrup.

Meat & Poultry Whilst meat and poultry in their pristine raw state are inherently chametz-free year-round and should not require any additional special supervision for Passover, contemporary production methods could invalidate the Passover status of even the plainest cut of butchered raw meat.

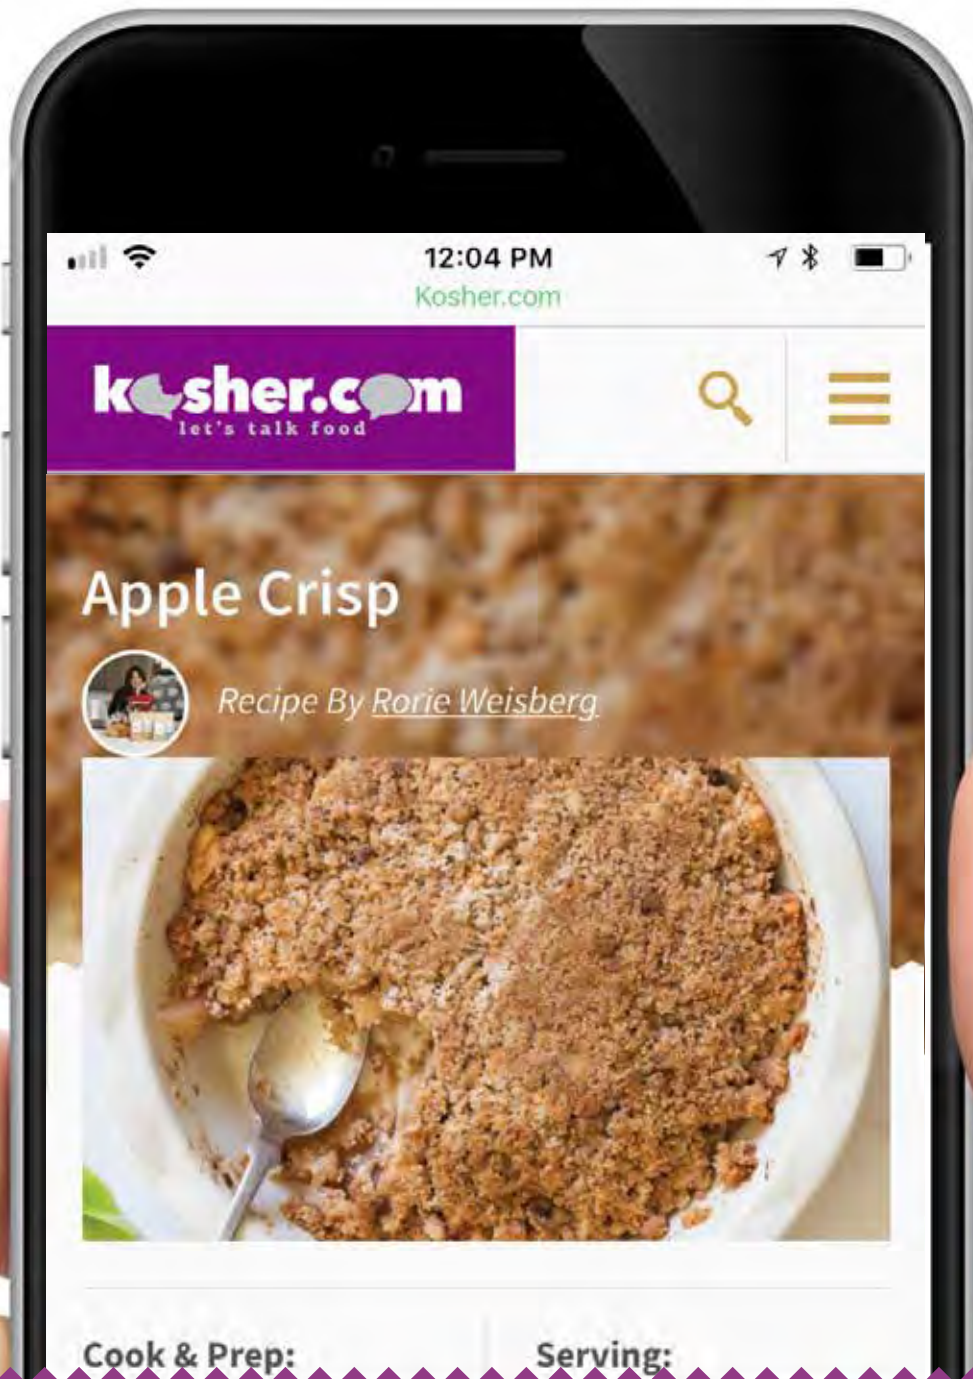

In some meat packing plants, meat and poultry might be packed on equipment that had previously processed chametz products. While cold equipment used with raw product will not have absorbed any chametz (kosher law assumes that equipment will absorb only via hot processes), there may be residual chametz on the machinery, which could then chametz-contaminate the surface of the meat.

In reality, cuts of raw meat can be remedied for Pesach by an effective rinsing of their surface under cold water. However, ground meat, which is often processed in grinders that also process chametz-containing products such as kishke, understandably cannot be “cleansed” by rinsing. Without a thorough sanitation of the machinery between different products, the ground meat can potentially contain actual kishke particles, nullifying its use for Pesach.

Products from local butcher stores and supermarkets, with the plethora of products (including chametz ones) being processed nearby, cannot be recommended without there being a special Passover program in place – even for raw meat and poultry products.

Milk Milk contains added vitamins that contain a slight chametz risk. Therefore, it is best to purchase milk made with special Passover supervision. Please find a complete list beginning on page 86 in the Consumer Guide or check the OU Passover product search online. If one cannot obtain Passover certified milk, regular milk should be bought before Passover at which time chametz can be nullified (batel).

Milk Substitutes

Milk substitutes, even when not kitniyot based often contain flavors and emulsifiers, potentially of chametz and/or kitniyot origin. Furthermore, these can be processed on chametz equipment. Consequently, OU only recommends these products when required for infants or the infirm.

Nuts Raw nuts in their shell do not require Passover certification.

Shelled nuts that list BHA or BHT (preservatives) in the ingredients require special Passover certification. The preservatives are sprayed on the nuts using corn derivatives (kitniyot). If no additives are added, most nuts may be used without special Passover certification. That includes pasteurized nuts. Pecans are only acceptable with special Passover certification.

Olive Oil (Extra Virgin)

All extra virgin olive oils (only) are Kosher for Passover, as long as it bears the OU symbol.

Kosher Salt Iodized salt is often processed with corn (kitniyot) and requires Passover certification. Non-iodized salt does not require Passover certification, nor does sea salt.

Seltzer and Water

All unflavored bottled water, seltzer and sparkling water without added minerals is Kosher for Passover, even without any Kosher supervision.

Spices Ground spices require Passover certification. They can be processed on equipment that contains chametz and can also be adulterated with kitniyot or chametz.

Sugar

Brown Sugar: Both light and dark brown sugar require special supervision since other ingredients aside from sugar may be used in production.

Certain brown sugar brands are approved when featuring a regular OU symbol. Please consult the OU Guide to Consumer Products (page 74) or check the OU Passover product search for a complete list.

White Granulated Sugar: All white granulated sugar is approved for Passover when bearing an OU symbol.

WOMEN AND THE EXODUS

CARRIE R. BEYLUS

While Moshe is the central figure in the story of Yetziat Mitzrayim as Hashem's emissary to deliver the Jewish people from their centuries-long bondage, it's important to understand and recognize the outsized roles played by the myriad women in his life – women who nurtured, supported, sustained, and ultimately enabled his success in redeeming klal Yisrael.

SHIFRA & PUAH

In the earliest pages of Sefer Shemot we learn that Pharaoh addressed the midwives of the Jews, and decreed they were to murder all Jewish-born males. However, Shifra and Puah defied the despot.

We learn of Shifra and Puah's greatness here, not just their bravery and spirituality but their brilliance. These women realized that to defy Pharaoh directly would not only result in their probable execution but would further endanger the unborn boys' lives. Pharaoh would certainly seek out other midwives, of lesser strength and/or conviction, who would carry out his order.

These women calmly devised a way around Pharaoh's command, as the Torah tells us, "the midwives feared God and did not do as the king of Egypt spoke to them, and they caused the boys to live." Not only did they save the lives of the Jewish-born infants, but they did everything they could to care for them and assure their safety and health in defiance of Pharaoh's will – actualizing his fear.

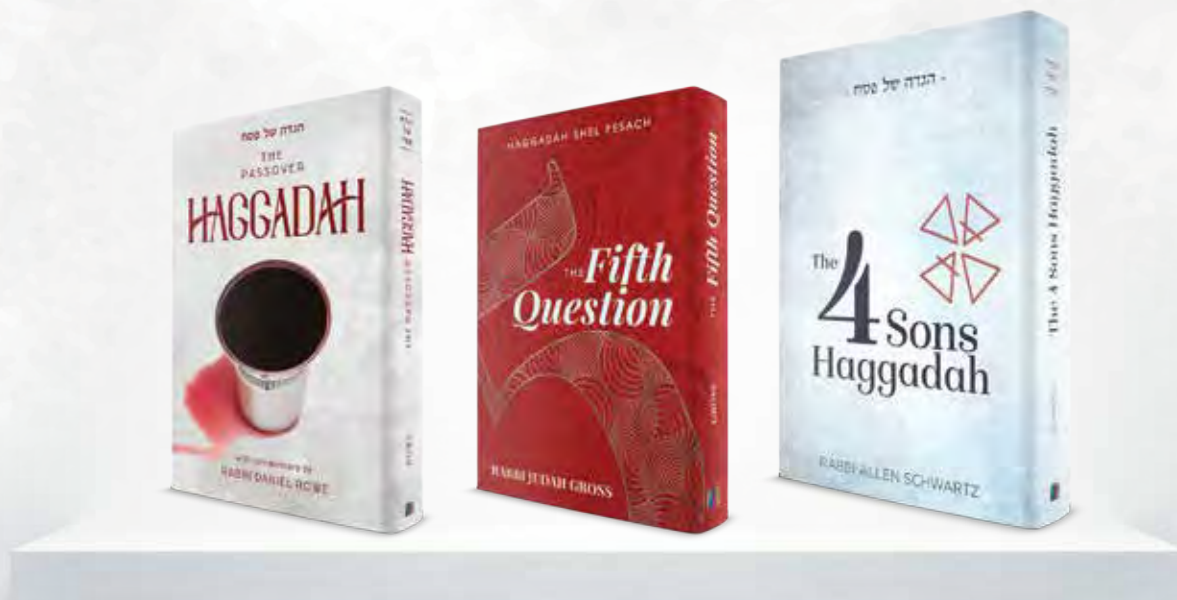

Who were these two brave women? Chazal tell us they were none other than Yocheved and Miriam, Moshe's mother and sister, brave women willing to risk their lives in the service of Hashem and His people. Rashi explains the mystery behind these pseudonyms – names we never hear again in the Torah: Shifra comes from the Hebrew root שפר (shefer), to improve, referencing the way Shifra would "improve" the newborns, cleaning them after birth and straightening their limbs. Puah means "cooing" – Puah had a special gift and would coo to, and immediately calm, a crying infant to sleep.

These two women deceived Pharaoh – even to his face – ultimately denying him his planned infanticide. Subsequently, the Torah tells us that "God benefited the midwives" and that "the people increased and became very strong."

These women calmly devised a way around Pharaoh's command.

These two statements are followed by, “And it was because the midwives feared God that He made them houses.”

All are great statements and rewards, but they seem to be in a strange order; reward, statement, reward. The Or HaChaim explains that all three are, in fact, rewards. They didn’t just have their own families, they didn’t just give birth to, protect, and nurture Moshe Rabbeinu; the prosperity of the Jewish nation during that time was in their merit as well.

MIRIAM & YOCHAVED

Having failed in his intended plan to murder the Jewish males immediately upon their birth, Pharaoh decreed that all the Jewish-born males were to be thrown into the water to drown. Miriam’s father, Amram, in reaction to this devastating decree, separated from his wife; he couldn’t bear to bring a child into this world only to see it slain.

The Jewish men, observing the actions of its leaders, followed suit and separated from their wives, elevating the hardships and misery suffered by Jewish families.

Miriam challenged her father: “You are worse than Pharaoh, for he has decreed only against the males, but you, with your actions, ensure that no Jewish children will survive!”

At Miriam’s urging, Yocheved brought her husband Amram back into their home, and Moshe was born. The Jewish men followed suit and the Jewish people continued to grow and multiply.

MIRIAM, YOCHAVED & BATYA

Still, Pharaoh’s command that all male babies be thrown into the Nile persisted. Yocheved successfully concealed her newborn son for three months. When she was no longer able to hide him, she cleverly nestled her baby boy in a water-tight basket and set the basket in the river. Miriam diligently watched over her floating baby brother to ensure that the baby would live.

For all the evil of the Egyptian ruler and his compliant nation, Batya, Pharaoh’s own daughter, stood out as different, strong and independent, one who defied the decree and her own wicked father. Upon coming across the baby, she declared, “This is one of the Hebrew boys,” yet she defiantly took pity and “drew” him from the water.

For all the evil of the Egyptian ruler and his compliant nation, Batya, Pharaoh’s own daughter, stood out as different.

Here is where things get really interesting... where we see a literal turning point. A young girl, the baby’s sister (unbeknown to Pharaoh’s daughter), intervened. You might think that this would have been a good time to panic or fear the worst. After all, the daughter of the man who was her family’s and the entire people’s worst nightmare had her hands on her baby brother. Did Miriam run? Did she hide?

PSÂGOT

No! She confidently approached the princess with a risky and certainly unsolicited proposition. “Shall I go and summon for you a nurse from the Hebrew women, who will nurse the boy for you?” she asked.

FOR YOU – twice. Was Miriam planting ideas in the Princess’ mind? Did Batya even think of taking and raising the child as her own, or had Miriam opened her eyes to this idea?

Did Miriam recognize Batya’s sensitivity, capitalize on it, and turn it into not only a life-saving moment but potentially a moment of salvation for all of Israel? We don’t know but we do know that consequently the baby was nursed and nurtured by his own mother, Yocheved, and raised in Pharaoh’s palace, growing up to be the embodiment of Hashem’s will in the story of the Exodus.

The midrash tells us that Batya denied her upbringing, disavowed idols, and converted to Judaism. The Talmud relates that Batya was, in fact, at the Nile to immerse herself to complete her conversion to Judaism on that fateful day.

According to one interpretation of our Sages, each verse of Aishet Chayil, A Woman of Valor, composed by Shlomo HaMelech, refers to remarkable women in history. Two of these women, Batya and Rachav, were converts to Judaism as adults.

Batya’s portion, “She gets up while it is still night, sustaining her household and giving a portion to her maidens,” addresses night – a time of uncertainty and fear. We know, however, that after each night comes day – right after the darkness comes the light.

Batya grew up in the darkness that was Pharaoh’s reign. She saw and noted his cruelty and recognized its evil. She saw light in Moshe, however — in his people that thrived and grew under the worst possible oppression. She chose to join the very people her father set out to destroy.

Interestingly, it was Batya, this daughter of Pharaoh, who named the baby she rescued Moshe, the first of the seven names he had, but undeniably the name that he is remembered for and identified as. More importantly, it is only by this name that Hashem ever addressed him.

We can claim to feel a variety of things, but it is our actions in this world that have the greatest impact

It is significant that the name given to Moshe by Batya is a word based on the act of saving his life, and not on the feelings of compassion that she experienced. This communicates one of the Torah’s fundamental lessons quite eloquently: we can claim to feel a variety of things, but it is our actions in this world that have the greatest impact.

THE JEWISH WOMEN

Prior to any service in the Mishkan or the Beit HaMikdash, the Kohanim needed to wash their hands and feet. The kiyor, the wash basin that was used, was fashioned from the mirrors donated by the women of klal Yisrael. God spoke to Moshe and explained why those mirrors were so precious in His eyes. The Jewish men, suffering from the bondage and oppression of Egypt, were caving in under the weight of their suffering; they, like Amram, did not wish to procreate and bring children into their world of suffering.

But their wives remained hopeful. They beautified themselves using those mirrors, maintaining their faith and hope for better days and uplifted their dejected husbands. “In the merit of the righteous women our people were redeemed from the Egyptian exile.”

"אוּלֵי אֲבֵנָה מִמְנָה"

A Clarion Call of Hope for Singles and Couples

By: Frimet Blum

With the shidduch crisis hitting epic proportions and a growing number of families struggling with infertility, it's heartening to hear stories of people who experienced salvation. Ohel Sarala, a Bonei Olam program that pairs singles with couples waiting for children, is at the heart of many of those stories. The miracles began happening almost as soon as the program was launched.

An older single got engaged. A couple learned that they were expecting a baby. It was as if the heavens had opened and an outpouring of blessing was showering down upon those who had joined.

Today, two and a half years later, the miracles continue. As we go to print, the organization has been involved in at least 325 shidduchim and ninety-seven babies. The simchas are no coincidence. As per the directive of Hagaon Harav Aron Leib Shteinman, zatzal, Ohel Sarala harnesses the Torah's source for blessing.

What is Ohel Sarala?

It began when Rabbi Shlomo Bochner, founder of Bonei Olam, visited Rav Shteinman.

"There are two problems that give me no peace of mind," the elderly sage said. "Older singles and couples dealing with infertility." Both have no children.

The two are related, said the Rosh Yeshiva. We see that Sarah Imeinu gave Hagar to Avraham Avinu, saying "Ulei ibaneh mimenah, perhaps I will be built from her" (Beraishis 16:2). Immediately afterward, Hashem sent the angel to tell her that she would give birth. The Torah is teaching us middah k'neged middah—a person is repaid for his deeds measure for measure. When a person helps someone else have a child, he will open channels to also merit a child. Since marriage is the precursor to having children, helping a childless couple is a merit for a shidduch.

The two are related, said the Rosh Yeshiva. We see that Sarah Imeinu gave Hagar to Avraham Avinu, saying “Ulei ibaneh mimenah, perhaps I will be built from her” (Beraishis 16:2). Immediately afterward, Hashem sent the angel to tell her that she would give birth. The Torah is teaching us middah k’neged middah – a person is repaid for his deeds measure for measure. When a person helps someone else have a child, he will open channels to also merit a child. Since marriage is the precursor to having children, helping a childless couple is a merit for a shidduch.

Rav Shteinman asked Rabbi Bochner to connect singles with waiting couples, by having the singles donate to Bonei Olam. Such an arrangement, he said, would harness the power of middah k’neged middah and bring about salvation. Rabbi

When a person helps someone else have a child, he will open channels to also merit a child.

Bochner mentioned the idea to Rabbi Aryeh Ginzberg, who, together with his wife, had been looking for something to do in memory of their daughter Sarala, a”h. Sarala hadn’t had the chance to get married or have children, and the project was a fitting memorial. They named it Ohel Sarala.

Ohel Sarala pairs singles with couples waiting for children. The singles make a donation to Bonei Olam. Then, following Chazal’s dictum of “he who prays for his friend is answered first,” the singles and couples pray for each other. The divine providence is unmistakable.

When a single asked Ohel Sarala to invite “her” couple to her wedding, they couldn’t attend – because the wife was on pregnancy-related bedrest. When a different couple heard that “their” single was getting engaged, they had their own news to share. They had heard of their own impending simcha that very day!

At a Bonei Olam event in Bnei Brak, one woman shared a story that underscores the concept of singles and couples helping each other.

When this woman was a little girl, she was diagnosed with cancer. She went through a terrible time, with chemo, radiation and more pain than any little girl could bear. Finally, she was declared cured. One day, when the doctor thought she was out of earshot, she overheard him drop a bombshell to her parents. He said that the drugs had damaged her body – and she would never have children.

For years, the secret hounded her.

“What kind of a life will I have?” she thought. “How can I go on?” But she couldn’t bring herself to share her pain with her parents. Instead she confided in a friend. The two became very close. Later, her friend married and had a large family, while she remained single. She filled the emptiness in her life by spending time in her friend’s home, helping her care for her growing brood.

Then the unthinkable happened. Just after the birth of her seventh child, her friend developed complications and became deathly ill. A few days later, she was gone.

It was crushing. This girl had lost the one person who had given meaning to her life. What was going to be with her now? What was going to happen with the seven orphans left behind; one just a few days old? But her grief turned to shock when, just after the shloshim, her friend’s husband called.

“My wife had a dying wish,” he said. “She begged me to ask you to marry me. She felt you would be the best person to raise our children.” After much deliberation, she agreed. Shortly after the wedding, she approached Bonei Olam.

“I know that medically I can’t have a child,” she said. “I accepted the fact that I would never get married. But now I am married. Will you help me?” And although her files looked hopeless, and though the doctors thought there was no chance it would work, Bonei Olam was touched enough by her story to give her a chance.

Against all odds, just a few months later, she was expecting – and now the cancer survivor who couldn’t have a child has eight children: the seven orphans she is raising as her own, and her own precious little girl.

“I lived through both challenges helped by Ohel Sarala,” she said. “I started as a single, and then I was childless. Yet my years of helping someone with children stood me in good stead. And here I am, the mother of eight children.” Rabbi Bochner adds –

“The power of helping a fellow Jew, of aching with his pain, is so great; it opens channels of blessing.” As Reb Isser Zalman Meltzer, zatzal, said, we live in a time of hester panim – when Hashem’s mercy is hidden. Yet when we help each other, when there is midah k’neged midah, we open channels of blessing, and can see Hashem’s magnificent hand. Joining Ohel Sarala opens those channels.

BAYLA SHEVA BRENNER

OU KOSHER SHARES ITS RICHES

NOW THE WORLD'S LEADING KASHRUT AGENCY IS THE LEADING KASHRUT COLLEGE...

AND EVEN PROMPTED A SUMMER CAMP!

“Promoting kashrut knowledge is an essential part of our mandate”

For over two decades and running, OU Kosher's ASK OU kashrut educational projects have reached tens of thousands of rabbanim, mashgichim and kosher consumers, and continue to raise kashrut standards in restaurants, factories and homes around the globe.

“Education is a vital part of our mission,” says Rabbi Yosef Grossman, senior rabbinic educational coordinator at OU Kosher.

True to his word and with the encouragement of OU Kosher's administration, Rabbi Grossman launched ASK OU in 1996. Sponsored by the Harry H. Beren Foundation of New Jersey, the program offers comprehensive two- and three-week kashrut education training seminars for rabbanim and mashgichim. “The OU is the largest communal kashrut organization in the world,” says Rabbi Menachem Genack, OU Kosher CEO. “Promoting kashrut knowledge is an essential part of our mandate.”

According to Rabbi Genack, the program continues to serve as an excellent platform for training future kashrut professionals.

In fact, a number of ASK OU graduates are now part of OU Kosher's staff, both in the office and in the field. ASK OU graduates have also gone on to take positions as rabbanim and mechanchim who are well-versed in kashrut. Some have gone on to head other kashrut agencies, and those graduates who hail from countries outside the U.S., including Poland, Germany, Eretz Yisrael, Canada and Mexico, have gone on to elevate the kashrut standards in their respective countries.

ASK OU also reaches out to schools and shuls, with kashrut presentations given by the OU Kosher rabbinic coordinators. In addition, its VISIT OU venture welcomes schools and camps to OU Kosher headquarters, treating them to dynamic lectures, videos, and tours of the rabbis' offices.

Extending its reach digitally, ASK OU recently conducted ten well-received Skype lectures to Australia, sends out Daf HaKashrus, a regular OU Kosher publication email (and hard copy), as well as The Gerald and Karin Feldhamer OU Kosher Halacha Yomis email, which contains a halacha per day on various topics. OU Press, the book-publishing arm of the OU, is currently publishing a book with these halachot for every day of the Jewish calendar.

“The OU prides itself in our level of transparency. The more the public is aware of kashrut, the more they will demand, which helps us up our game,” says Rabbi Moshe Elefant, COO of OU Kosher. “We welcome that scrutiny.”

“Excellence in kashrut hinges on the vital partnership between OU Kosher & kosher consumers”

HANDS-ON HALACHA CAMP

Inspired by the success of ASK OU's long-running mashgiach-training seminars, which attract over a thousand participants each year, Rabbi Chaim Loike, OU Kosher rabbinic coordinator, initiated Camp Yoreh Deah, offering teenage boys a summer like no other.

For three and a half jam-packed weeks, 9th to 12th grade yeshiva bachurim travel to Durham, Connecticut, to learn the halachot of shechitah, matzah baking, safrut, shaatnez, how to kasher meat, tie tzitzit and tefillin, identify kosher fish, build an eruv, blow a shofar, and build a mikvah — and not just from inside a sefer. Camp Yoreh Deah is about hands-on halacha.

Like other learning camps, the morning includes an in-depth Gemara shiur. But unlike other such summer venues, these boys apply what they've learned each afternoon — live and in person.

“There are a lot of students who study the halachot on kashrut theoretically,” says Rabbi Loike, a longtime talmid of Rav Yisroel Belsky zt”l and a world-class expert on the kashrut of birds. “This is an opportunity to learn it hands on.”

Rabbi Loike partnered with Rabbi Avrohom Reit, an expert in kashrut halacha and renowned author of numerous halacha sefarim, to bring the Yoreh Deah camp concept to reality. They assembled a staff of halacha experts from Eretz Yisrael and the United States (including OU rabbanim). The camp was overbooked almost immediately. In 2016, its first summer, twenty boys attended. The number doubled the following summer.

“Our goal is that the boys who have excelled in their Gemara skills be able to apply them,” says Rabbi Loike.

To that end, he made sure to put in all the necessary legwork to give them those opportunities. To demonstrate the diversity in the chicken world, he brought in fifty-five different kinds of the squawking specimens. The campers were taught to identify the distinctions between them, and whether any of the birds were problematic or not. They also learned to shecht, clean and kasher the chickens and even cook the “fruits” of their labor for Shabbat.

Rabbi Loike also took the campers on a halachic field trip to the supermarket to buy various cuts of fish. They then determined which of the fish they were permitted to cook and eat, and which were off limits. And since it was a non-kosher fish market, the boys also learned how to make the fish fit for the kosher palate (by scraping off the edges to make sure there is no cross-contamination from a non-kosher fish).

“The boys come wanting to master different areas of halacha,” says Rabbi Loike.

Clearly, once they master the subject, they put the knowledge to work. One summer, after learning the halachot of mikvah, the boys noticed a stream not far from their bunks. They promptly took up shovels and dug a proper mikvah. Every erev Shabbat, the boys take a trek around the eruv to evaluate if it's kosher. If it's not, they fix it.

“Campers from previous summers have returned with megillot they are in the process of writing,” says Rabbi Loike. “Others have shown me a klaf they made from an animal. They're proud of the skills they've attained.”

OU Kosher shares that pride.

“Excellence in kashrut hinges on the vital partnership between OU Kosher and kosher consumers,” says Rabbi Nahum Rabinowitz, OU Kosher's senior rabbinic coordinator. “While consumers' demands drive the expansion of the kosher market, it is the educated consumer who ultimately raises kashrut standards ever higher.”

Ingredient Substitutions

FOR Passover

By Carrie Beylus

WHEN DID PESACH BECOME like the riddle of the Sphynx? Yes, I see the irony... Seriously though, it's all fun and games when you're a kid. Chocolate lollipops and spreading cream cheese on shmura matzah without breaking it.

Then it's frantically figuring out what to feed your finicky toddlers without Cheerios and pasta. Next, it's menus, guests, cooking marathons and NO TAKE OUT! Then it's back to fun, comfort, grandchildren (iy"H) and enjoying those arba kosot.

So, can you guess my stage? I'm not sure how or why, but I found myself frantically planning menus around Chanukah. Luckily, I calmed down somewhere around Purim Katan (gotta love that extra month).

I remembered my Substitution Guide motto. Keep. It. Simple.

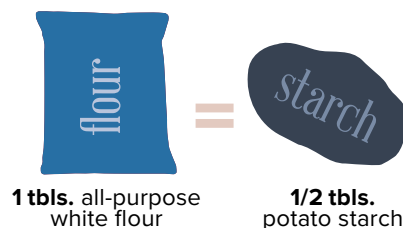

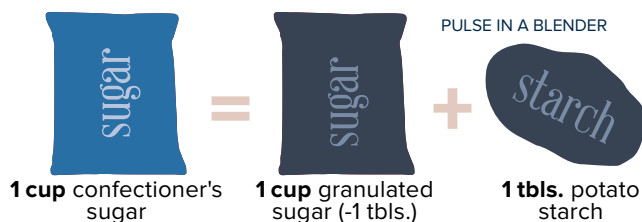

Each year on Pesach, I prepare recipes that have proven to be successful all year round and are permissible (albeit with some tweaks) on Pesach. The right recipe and the right ingredient substitutions can make all the difference between a satisfied family and your crying over the remains at the trash can.

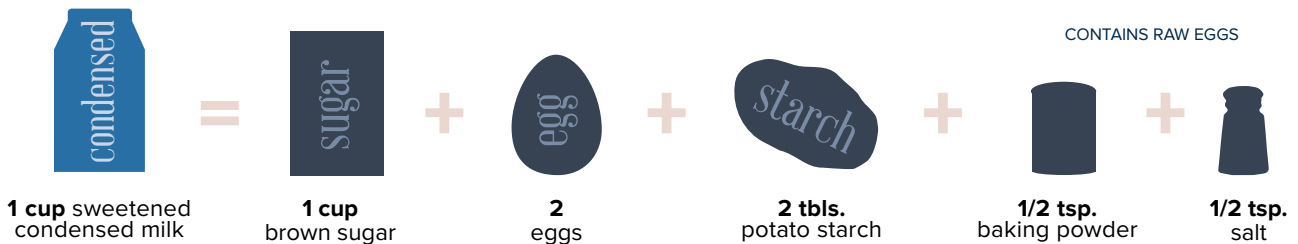

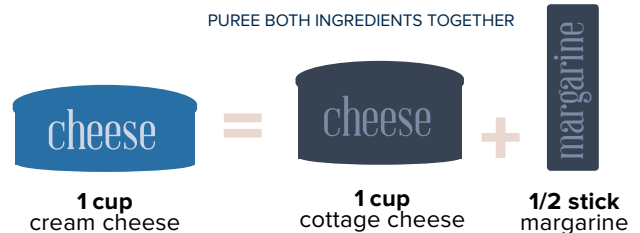

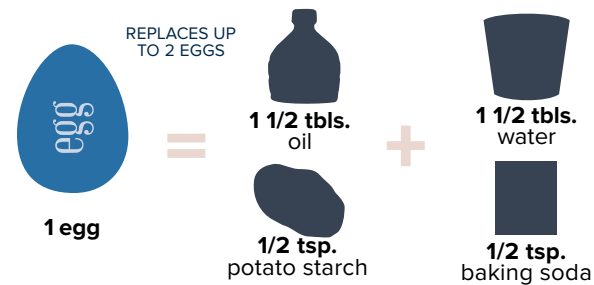

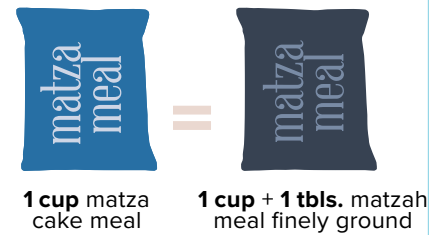

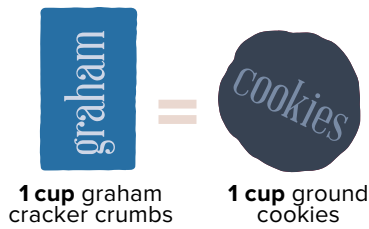

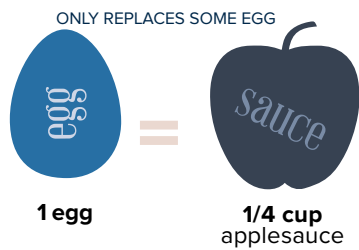

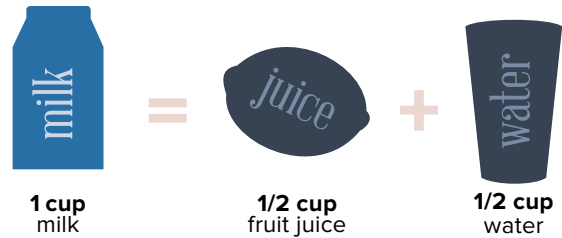

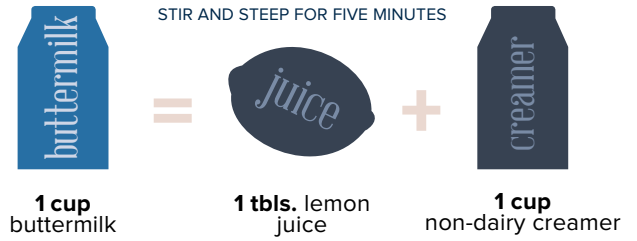

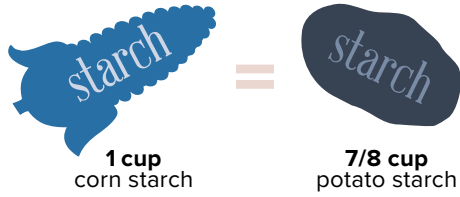

But before you begin swapping out ingredients on your favorite layer cake, read through the recipe you want to adapt very carefully. Consider the quantity of the ingredient you'd have to replace and look it up here to see if you can do it with ease.

Remember, this stretch of the Sphynx riddle lasts the longest, so find a way to make it work for you. Stick with recipes you know, and you'll be assured a tasty and stress-free eight days!

ALUMINUM FOIL BAKING PANS	CONDITIONERS	DRAIN OPENERS	LOTIONS	SHAVING LOTION

ORAL HYGIENE (TOOTHPASTE, MOUTHWASH) & FLAVORED LIP TREATMENT (LIPSTICK, LIP BALM) PRODUCTS: Rabbinical authorities disagree as to whether kosher certification of these items is required (both for Passover and year-round). Consult your Rabbi. Please see product pages in the Passover Guide for OU certified toothpaste. Please see feature article "Inedibles on Pesach" on page 33.

GUIDELINES FOR MEDICINES

1. Exercise extreme caution and consult with your doctor and rabbi before making a decision not to take a medicine.
2. Known and tested medications in the form of creams, non-chewable pills and injections may be owned, used and consumed on Passover, even if they contain chametz or kitniyot, since they are inedible. This covers most medicines used by adults. However, if an equally effective chametz-free alternative is available or procurable, this should be used instead.
 - A. It is permissible to grind pills and mix the powder into food items so that a child can take medicine on Passover. However, a doctor must be consulted to make sure that the child is getting the correct dosage and that the potency of the pill is not compromised by altering its consistency.
3. Liquid medicines, chewable pills and pills coated with a flavored glaze are considered palatable and may contain chametz. Also gelcaps may present a problem because they may contain non-kosher edible gelatin. Therefore:
 - A. If possible, they should be replaced, under the direction of a doctor, with a non-chewable, uncoated pill.
 - B. If substitution is not possible and the person is in a state of sakana or safek sakana (any possible danger to human life), the medication may be owned and consumed. The same applies if the condition is not yet a safek sakana but may deteriorate to that point. A rabbi should be consulted as to whether it is preferable to purchase the medicine before or during Passover, and as to how to dispose of the medicine once the danger passes.
 - C. If substitution is not possible and a doctor determines that there is no possibility of sakana if the person does not take the medicine, a rabbi should be consulted. He may be able to determine that the medicine does not contain chametz and/or kitniyot, or he may decide that the medicine may be consumed due to the seriousness of the patient's condition.
4. Unless an equivalent alternative is available, medicinal items which contain kitniyot are permitted for people who are ill. Questions on this issue should be directed to your rabbi.
5. These guidelines do not address the more general prohibition of consuming medicines on Shabbat and yom tov.

SEFIRAT HAOMER

Sign up for the OU daily sefirah reminder email @ www.ou.org/sefirah

Sefirah is the counting of seven complete weeks from the second evening of Passover until Shavuot. The count, which takes place after nightfall for the following day, is preceded by the blessing only if done in the evening and no days have been missed in the count.

Visit www.ou.org/sefirah to receive an email reminder to count each day. Emails are pre-programmed to go out on each of the 49 days of the Omer to help make sure you don't forget to count!

בְּרוּךְ אַתָּה ה' אֱ-לֹהֵינוּ מֶלֶךְ הָעוֹלָם אֲשֶׁר קִדְּשָׁנוּ בְּמִצְוֹתָיו, וְצִוָּנוּ עַל סְפִירַת הָעוֹמֵר.
