

Theodore (Ted) F. Craver, Jr.

Theodore F. Craver, Jr., is Chairman, President and Chief Executive Officer of Edison International, the parent company of Southern California Edison, one of the nation's largest electric utilities, and Edison Mission Group (EMG), a competitive power generation business and parent company to Edison Mission Energy and Edison Capital.

Prior to assuming his role as President of Edison International, Craver was Chairman, President and Chief Executive Officer of EMG, which owns and operates independent power production facilities and provides capital and financial services supporting the growth of energy and infrastructure projects and services. Previously, he was Executive Vice President of Edison International, and served as Chief Financial Officer and Treasurer.

Before joining Edison he served as Executive Vice President and Corporate Treasurer of First Interstate Bancorp, where he also served as Executive Vice President and Chief Financial Officer of the wholesale banking subsidiary.

Prior to First Interstate, he spent four years with Bankers Trust Company of New York and seven years with Security Pacific National Bank in various capital markets sales and trading capacities.

Craver serves on the boards of the Electric Power Research Institute, Health Net, Inc., the Edison Electric Institute; and the Autry National Center.

Craver earned a master's degree in business administration and a bachelor's degree in economics and international relations from the University of Southern California.