Low 20th Century Manure Spreaders

WITH OR WITHOUT WIDE SPREAD ATTACHMENT

In buying a horse, you are mighty careful in looking him over that you may be reasonably sure of getting full value for your money. You do not take the owner's word for the horse's age—not that you feel he is trying to deceive you, but because you like to see for yourself—so you look at the horse's teeth. You feel his shoulders, his hind quarters and down his legs. You have him trotted down the yard for a hundred yards or so and back to watch his gait. Then as soon as he is stopped you listen to his breathing to learn if his "wind" is all right.

The horse looks good. You ask the price. If it is twenty-five, forty or fifty dollars under normal prices, you shake your head and walk away. Instantly you have decided that a good looking animal like that offered at such a price is a good one for you to let alone. There is something wrong about the horse that you haven't been able to discover that is causing the owner to sell him. Buy a Manure Spreader as you would a horse.

The Country Church is the Nation's Bulwark

GO TO CHURCH

A large percentage of the big men of this big country come from small towns. Most of the real big men never forget their boyhood days when they went to the small country church. The lessons received there have guided them through life. Their lives have been clean. Clean living made for their success.

The country church laid the foundation for the later success in life. Read the lives of the great men of the country. They take pride in recalling their early religious training—the fine ideas that were inculcated when they were young.

No man is too busy to attend church. If he be successful he should go to church to thank God for his success. If he is struggling he should ask God's help.

Rev. B. F. Farber To Leave Plymouth

Pastor of Local Presbyterian Church Accepts Call as Assistant Pastor of North Woodward Presbyterian Church, Detroit, One of the Largest of that Denomination in Michigan.

It was with bewilderment and consternation almost that Rev. B. F. Farber's official board, last Thursday evening received the information from him that he wished to sever his connection with the church here to accept one with the North Woodward church in Detroit. The announcement came so unexpectedly that the people assembled hardly credited their hearing. Not any intimation of a resignation by the pastor had been given, in fact he had not known of or contemplated such an act until that day. There was, of course, much protest, but when the pastor explained the field of usefulness he might fill in the city the matter was accepted in the only philosophical way.

And not only members of his congregation were surprised and shocked, but the people of the village generally felt real sorrow when they learned next day of the pastor's contemplated move. Mr. Farber had won many friends in the village and vicinity outside of his church and all expressed regret at his removal from our midst. And when his resignation was read at the Sunday morning service, there were many sad faces and weeping eyes, the pastor being deeply beloved by his parishioners. His place, both in and out of the church, will be one not easily filled.

North Woodward Avenue Presbyterian Church

The position to which Mr. Farber goes offers a splendid opportunity for the use of his gifts and talents. As assistant pastor of the largest Presbyterian church in Michigan, he has the privilege of serving a large constituency. In addition to his work as assistant in the North Woodward church, he will have entire charge of the development of a field just south of Palmer Park, between Woodward avenue and Hamilton, which contains a population up into many thousands and with no church privileges. The future before this work is very similar to that which was before the North Woodward church when it was organized only nine years ago. The outlook and future are so bright that Mr. Farber did not feel like refusing the opportunity to develop it. It was a source of gratification, that the call came to him un-

Campaign Progressing Very Satisfactorily

The first week of the Methodist Building Fund campaign closed last Tuesday evening with one third of the required $10,000 secured in new pledges. This brings the building fund up to about $11,000, only $7,000 from the goal of $18,000 which covers the cost of the building and its furnishings. The amounts reported at the supper served to the campaigners Tuesday evening totalled $3,220, representing the first weeks work. George W. Richwine's team, in which he is assisted by Harmon Kingsley, Charles Mather and I. N. Dickerson, was well in the lead with a total showing of $1,002, while the women's team, captained by Mrs. Hudd, came in second, with $687. It was evident that some good, faithful work had been done and a keen spirit of rivalry was apparent. The second report will be made known today and some of the other teams are making a strenuous effort to forge ahead of the team in the lead. A large number of Plymouth's public spirited citizens are taking a great interest in this campaign, feeling that the peculiar circumstances attending the fire which destroyed the Methodist church and the heroic efforts of the members of the society to make it a community affair and everyone interested in the welfare of Plymouth should have a part in this worthy cause.

Village Election a Quiet One

The annual village election was a very quiet affair this year, with only one ticket in the field. The following is the result. Total number of votes cast was 98. 77 straight Workingmen's votes, split tickets and four spoiled. President—H. C. Robinson, 90. Trustee—Fred A. Reiman, 90. Trustee—Henry J. Fisher, 92. Trustee—T. P. Sherman, 92. Clerk—Frank J. Tonsey, 84. Treasurer—Roy R. Parrott, 92. Assessor—Arthur V. Jones, 87. Frank Wilson received eight votes for the office of clerk.

Hollaway-Robinson

Miss Bessie Robinson and Fred A. Hollaway, were married at the Presbyterian Manse, Wednesday afternoon, March 14, at 2 o'clock, by Rev. B. F. Farber. Both the bride and the groom are highly esteemed and popular young people of Plymouth and have a host of friends who extend to them hearty congratulations and best wishes for a happy married life. After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Hollaway will take up their residence on Kellogg street.

HAPPENINGS in the CITIES

New York Women Pay Great Prices for Shoes

NEW YORK.—While almost everyone is kicking about the high cost of living these dolorous days, it may be surprising to some to learn that there are some folks so reckless regarding expense that the blue sky seems to be their only limit when it comes to the purchase of footwear. For instance, a woman from the sunny Southland stopping at one of the big hotels, according to the sober statement of a New Yorker, recently paid $83.50 for a pair of shoes. The hotel clerk, who paid the bill for her ladyship, nearly fainted at the price, although popular opinion accredits those people with being price proof if anyone is exempt from such shocks.

But the lady from the South did not by any means rob the city of its highest-priced footwear, according to representatives of fashionable bootmakers. For instance, any indulgent husband may pay $75 for his wife's simple black evening slippers with rhinestone heels to twinkle in the dance and trample on the heart of man. But it is not necessary to pay so much even for elaborate footwear. A nice, quiet pair of boots for a windy day may be had for $45. The vamps of these shoes are of purple-blue metallic kid and the tops are light green, embroidered with dull red flowers. Then there is a pink kid short-vamp shoe, with the top embroidered in gold, which is only $45.

Having one's boots made with short vamps makes them more expensive because the model is French and American bootmakers find difficulty in copying it. For this reason a great many women are "going in" for the short vamps nowadays. It costs real money for society women to be well shod. According to a well-known bootmaker, the average woman has a pair of shoes for every dress she wears, some customers buying as many as 100 pairs a year. "Our customers order from six to eight pairs of shoes at a time," said the bootmaker, "at an average price of $40 per pair. Of course, simple sports boots, and evening slippers made from customer's own material cost less. Prices are going up every day. The only thing for the women to do if they want their footwear to be less expensive is to have their skirts so long they can wear pumps or low shoes."

Boston Post Office Uncle Sam Does Not Own

BOSTON.—When sailor boys strike Boston, the first place they lay a course for, after they get shore leave, is a little post office, as it were, in Water street, Charlestown, which is not under federal jurisdiction. The post office consists of a wooden case, with a glass door about four inches deep and about 25 or 30 inches in its other dimensions. It is fastened on the wall of the game room, on the second floor of the Sailors' Haven.

Over it presides Miss Helen Hunt, the matron of that genuine home, which serves the purpose of keeping young British apprentices and others not so young off the street corners and all that goes with them, and furnishes a lounging place for them in their "hours of ease." This post office, of which the glass door is padlocked, seldom contains more than 30 or 35 letters at a time. There isn't room to arrange more than that on display. Then they're gathered up by the consignees just about as fast as they're arranged.

But sometimes, so great apparently is the world-wide faith in the depot for letters, and so great is a boy's habit of not going just exactly where he announced, letters are not called for. So, stretching back, in instances for a couple of years, many letters have been docketed and stowed away by Miss Hunt.

The docketing isn't really necessary, for years of practice and acquired familiarity with the characteristics—epistolary and otherwise—of her "boys" has made Miss Hunt able to track much-wanted letters at a moment's notice. Her great big heart helps, as well as her head, in this.

The eyes of a philatelist would be interested in a glance at this case on the wall. The letters bear stamps from as far away as India and Australia and New Zealand. Now and then is one right from the front, "somewhere." There will be many bearing that urbane label "opened by the censor." And these are not all addressed in the hard-to-decipher German script. Some have English postmarks.

Convict at Columbus Makes Rubber and Dyes

COLUMBUS, O.—With a crude homemade laboratory, which he has set up on his desk in the penitentiary library, Dr. Emerich W. Ritter, formerly a Cleveland chemist, claims he is extracting rubber, tannin and a red dye from the bark of the chu tung tree, grown in China.

The department of agriculture is assisting him in his experiments, he says. It shipped him five pounds of the bark, the first ever sent to this country, after Doctor Ritter says he pointed out to the department that the bark contained rubber.

The man, who startled the country on his arrival at the penitentiary last year by his inventions of "liquid fire" and aniline dyes, declares that not only has he extracted a rubber of remarkable resiliency from the bark, but tannin, used in the tanning industry, and a dye the exact color of the dye used in the two-cent stamp.

From a pound of the bark Doctor Ritter says he obtains two ounces of crude rubber, four and one-half ounces of tannin and three-fourths of an ounce of coloring matter.

Doctor Ritter says he was first attracted to the possibilities of the chu tung bark while in China 15 years ago as a member of the German navy. A great flood of the Jan-Teche-Kiang and Pei-Ho rivers, in whose valleys the trees grow, destroyed thousands of them and he noted then the resiliency of the bark.

Little "T. R.," Chicago Coon, Causes Spook Scare

CHICAGO.—Recently servants in the big homes along Sheridan road in the neighborhood of Diversey parkway began to whisper strange tales to each other concerning the home of Luther P. Friestedt. They said it contained a "spook." Mr. Friestedt didn't hear anything about it until some days later. Then one of his own servants came to him with a hair-raising tale about some mysterious noises and moanings that came from the walls in various parts of the house.

"Nonsense," replied Mr. Friestedt. Then a night or two later, just around dinner-time, Mr. Friestedt heard a terrible clatter in the kitchen. Before he could get up from his chair all the servants in the place had deserted the kitchen and were fleeing in panic toward the front of the house.

"Smatter?" demanded Mr. Friestedt. "Spooks," was the reply. "We heard him walking along between the walls and then get up between the ceiling and the floor. All of a sudden he gave a moaning squawk and that was too much."

"Let's see about it," said Mr. Friestedt, as he led everybody down into the basement. He opened the door of the fruit cellar. And sitting among a lot of overgrown jars with its face all smeared with jam was a baby raccoon.

And Mr. Friestedt got the surprise of his life when he went to capture it. The raccoon fought all the servants and the master of the house to a standstill for an hour and a half.

Mr. Friestedt called up Cy De Vry to make him a present of it. "Huh, that's little 'T. R.' that got away last week," said Cy.

What Well Dressed Women Will Wear

Your party frock may have a high waistline, or a normal waistline (a little bit pinched in), or no waistline at all, like the frock shown in the picture. Choose whichever style looks best on your figure with the assurance that it has the approval of some world-famous customer back of it.

The pretty dance frock shown in the picture has a double skirt of net, one of them finished in points at the bottom, bound with narrow satin ribbon. Over this a second skirt of net, finished with a border of three rows of satin ribbon, is draped in double points at each side and gathered into the waistline.

The overbodice is of lace bound with ribbon and fastens at the back. It is finished at the top with a border and suspenders of crepe georgette and at the bottom with little silk balls. The dress is worn over a slip of tulle.

Among new models in net there are some having underpetticoats of net and crepe instead of silk, and the effect is wonderfully soft. Not in two colors, hemstitched together, provides some novel effects in draperies and a favorite combination is paprika, or tomato red, and white. The dress pictured is all in white with silver ribbon in binding and border and in the ball trimming, but the same idea is carried out successfully with colored ribbons on white net. The silk underslip might be in a tint instead of white.

A coarse-meshed silk lace, used in the bodice, stretches sufficiently to accommodate itself to the lines of the figure, and may be re-enforced with a lining of net or crepe georgette.

The eternal feminine will assert itself in soft and frilly or demure frocks for afternoon wear—and let us be thankful therefore. No matter how much she may devote herself of mornings to splashy-dashy sports clothes, or how uncompromisingly tailored her street dress may be, trust the woman of today to garb herself in something alluringly soft and utterly feminine-looking, before the sun goes down, or mightily shortly thereafter.

The pretty lingerie dress has returned in all its glory of fine lace and fine handwork on fine materials. Sheer cotton and linen fabrics, and laces, dear to the hearts of fine ladies, are put together with painstaking needle-

Famous Tales and Legends Told in Brief Form

The Lion of Janina, Once Stronghold of the Greek Epirus

By J. W. MULLER

The Greek Epirus, south of Albania and bordering the Ionian sea, which is a center of critical diplomatic and political-military manipulation at present, was ruled once by a Turkish pasha whose true history is as wonderful as anything in romance. This man, Ali Tepelenti, known as the Lion of Janina, is the subject of the novel from which today's story is written—"The Last Days of Janissaries," by Maurus Jokai, the great Hungarian writer.

All Tepelenti, pasha of Albania, was hard beset. All the violence that had redden his seventy-nine years of life was rising against him, north, south, east and west, re-encanted into rebel lion and revenge. His own wife had joined his foes. In Constantinople his enemies had whispered successfully to the sultan.

Undismayed, the old lion awaited the onset in Janina, that fairy city of minarets and palaces which dominated Albania and mirrored its gold and white loveliness in glass-green, deep LakeACHERUZ.

There was ample reason for his confidence. His citadel, standing on an isthmus formed by the lake and the river that flows from it, was such a thing as might well defy siege and assault. Its secrets were known to none but himself, for he had removed the builders from the earth. Deep ditches, steep bastions, iron-plated drawbridges and portals, fringes of sharp stakes, a hundred cannon, and a horde of devoted soldiers made the castle of Janina impregnable so long as it was guarded well.

But was it guarded well? The task lay on his three sons, Mukhtar Bey, Sulaiman Bey, and Vely Bey; and all doubted. He had hidden them prepare for war, each in his own field, and each had made excuses that the old man accepted with an indulgent smile on his mouth and fury in his heart. It was the time of the Feast of Bairam, and Ali knew well that they had planned to bring their three harem together and celebrate it in wild revels.

That night he stole out and inspected his fortress. It was as he had feared. The gates were all but unguarded. Slaves and officers sat in hidden corners, drinking. Music and laughter sounded from the harem. An army might have rushed in with flying banners.

With a temper cold as steel Ali turned to the inner portion of the citadel and entered the rose-embowered house of Mukhtar Bey through a secret entrance known to him alone. It led him to a wall whence he could peer through a hidden orifice at his son's banquet chamber.

The three brothers were surrounded by beauties far surpassing any that the angels Monkar and Nakir could promise men in the next world. There were dancers and players. There was forbidden wine. Ali's heart almost stood still when Mukhtar Bey raised his glass and called aloud on the prophet to join them and taste of wine and kisses, challenging him to say that paradise held damself-lovelier than theirs.

In the late afternoon of the next day Ali commanded the three sons to join him at a feast in the inner keep of the citadel, a fine round building known as the red tower which looked down on LakeACHERUZ.

As they were sipping their coffee, the sound of oars was heard on the lake. The sons looked out of the single semicircular window and saw three enormous flat-bottomed barges being rowed into the middle of the lake by muscular slaves.

The faces of the three Beys expressed delight, for all the damsels of their harems were in the boats. They thought that it was a surprise designed by their father to please them, and Mukhtar Bey said gaily that they should invite the old man to the next feast.

All smiled. "Truly your damsels are most beautiful," he said, and stroked his white beard from end to end. "I am not surprised that you like to stay at home here and abstain from the toll of war. Now, last night I dreamed a dream. The prophet stood before me and told me that you had invited him as your guest." The sons looked at each other startled, but Ali, smiling graciously, continued: "The prophet told me that it was not meet he should come to your damsels; they should rather go to him."

"What meanest thou?" asked the three, almost with one voice.

For answer Ali whistled shrilly. The oarsmen dropped their oars, flung themselves to the bottom of the barges and wrested out great wooden plugs. Then they jumped overboard and swam ashore.

The water burst in, spouting in little fountains. The women shrieked. Mukhtar ran to the door. It was locked. He hurried himself against the massive thing impotently, raging. Sulaiman tore at the iron gratings of the window. The cries of the two men answered the screams of the drowning women.

Only Vely Bey remained silent. He did not stir or speak. He stared, motionless, at the lake.

From its mirror rose one last, terrible will. Then there was utter silence, more terrible still.

Sulaiman fell to the floor, sobbing. Mukhtar groveled at the door. Ali Pasha said with his grave, kindly smile: "Now the battlefield will not seem so terrible to you as it did a few hours ago. Depart with all speed. When you return, you shall find new harems here."

He unlocked the door and disappeared. Sulaiman and Mukhtar sent

That Knife-Like Pain

Have you a lame back, aching day and night? Do you feel sharp pains after stooping? Are the kidneys sore? Is their action irregular? Do you have headaches, backaches, rheumatic pains,—feel tired, nervous, all worn-out? Use Doan's Kidney Pills—the medicine recommended by so many people in this locality. Read the experience that follows:

A Michigan Case

Ambrose Hatfield, Brook St., Eaton Rapids, Mich., says: "My kidneys were disordered and I was tortured by sharp pains in my back. As I got older, the trouble became more and more gradually the pains went up into my limbs and shoulders. I was weak and depressed and after a long time around a hospital, I failed to get any benefit from the medicines I used. Doan's Kidney Pills restored me to good health. My strength came back and I was able to return to work, free from pain."

India's Hoarded Treasure.

The "hoarded treasure" of India is estimated by the Financial Review at over £400,000,000. Most of this is believed to be hidden in comparatively small sums. It is a financial axiom in London that all the gold and silver which is sent to India annually by the British government is immediately absorbed and passes quickly out of circulation. In India, however, the existence of any really important hidden wealth is declared a myth.

SYRUP OF FIGS FOR A CHILD'S BOWELS

It is cruel to force nauseating, harsh physic into a sick child.

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the "dose" mother insisted on—castor oil, calomel, cathartics. How you hated them, how you fought against taking them.

With our children it's different. Mothers who cling to the old form of physic simply don't realize what they do. The children's revolt is well-founded. Their tender little "insides" are injured by them.

If your child's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing, give only delicious "California Syrup of Figs." Its action is positive, but gentle. Millions of mothers keep this harmless "fruit laxative" handy; they know children love to take it; that it never fails to clean the liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach; and that a teaspoonful given today saves a sick child tomorrow.

Ask at the store for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on each bottle. Adv.

Play That Helps.

Play that lends the children to use their own ideas and perhaps also to make their own toys is infinitely to be preferred to amusements that offer no stimulation to their imagination. In a family where word games were liked the mother saved all the newspapers that had large black letters, and let the children cut the letters out neatly. An envelope was labeled for each letter, and all the "A's" put in one, all the "B's" in another, and so on. Then squares of cardboard were cut out and the letters were pasted on. Material for a game was economically supplied thus, and extra occupation for the children, too. Another time some paraffin was given to them to mold. It was first put in the oven until in a workable condition. Beginning with marbles and blocks, the children soon attempted more ambitious modeling, to their own pleasure and advantage.

Powers of Flying Lemur.

The flying lemur lives in the Indian archipelago. It is from two to three feet in length, and is furnished with a sort of membrane on each side of its body connecting its limbs with each other. This is extended and acts as a parachute while it takes its leaps, from a higher to a lower place. Sometimes it will soar from a distance of 300 feet, or about the length of a city block.

Do Tell!

He—So you tell Lieutenant Topple kiss you?

She—Yes. How do you know?

He—I heard him brag he'd smelt powder.

IN NEW YORK'S EARLY DAYS

Simple Reason Why the First Settlement Grew in Length Instead of Breadth.

The province of New York was in reality a fringe of settlements on the Hudson river, Manhattan island and Long Island; back of this fringe was a waste of trackless forest land, the land of mountains and ravines, where lurked vast hordes of Indians, driven from the water front by the daring mariners, to whom, for a song, the simple savages had sold their birthright. The foolish white man, sowing seeds of cunning and distrust, had pushed the red man into a mighty stronghold among the crags and cliffs—but not before he had learned the lesson of killing for revenge. With this menace at their back, it is no wonder that the territory of New York grew in length rather than in breadth, though, as early as 1600, a handful of dauntless pioneers, led by Arendt Van Curler or "Brother Corlaer," as the Iroquois Indians called him, traveled up to Albany, through what is known as Clinton avenue, until reaching Norman's Kill they struck a forest trail which led them to their future home on a low plateau on the banks of the Mohawk.—From "Heroes of the American Revolution," by Oliver Gray.

Frank E. Beeman Dies Suddenly

The friends of Frank E. Beeman, were greatly shocked this week when they learned of his sudden death at Salem last Tuesday evening. Mr. Beeman had gone to Salem early in the day to transact some business matters and was apparently in his usual health. He was waiting at the station to take the evening train home and was conversing with a friend when he was suddenly stricken. Mr. Beeman was 65 years of age and has been a resident of Plymouth for the past ten years.

He is survived by his wife and three daughters, Mrs. Coda Kelley, Mrs. Jessie Beeman and Mrs. Homer Singer, all of this place. The funeral will be held from his late home on Holbrook avenue tomorrow, Saturday, afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. A. L. Bell will conduct the services. The family have the deep sympathy of many friends in their bereavement.

Death of Michael Goodale

Michael Goodale passed away at his home, 11 South Harvey street, March 9, after an illness of about six weeks, at the age of 69 years. Mr. Goodale was highly respected by all who knew him. He was of sunny disposition and will be greatly missed.

Michael, son of Richard and Charlotte Goodale, was born in England, June 2, 1848. He came to this country when a small boy and resided in Detroit. He was united in marriage to Julia Daugherty Jan. 1, 1878, at Gaines, Michigan. Besides the wife, three children are left to mourn their loss. Mrs. Lottie Miller of Plymouth, A. J. Goodale of Northville, and Vernon at home; also four grandsons and two sisters, Mrs. Abner Butler of Hamburg, and Mrs. Carrie Chase of Coranna. One sister, Mrs. Rachel Dunlap, departed this life Jan. 1, 1918. The funeral was held at the Presbyterian church Monday afternoon, and he was laid to rest in Riverside cemetery.

The Wayne County Sunday-school Association will hold a convention at Detroit, April 17, 18 and 19.

A CARD—We wish to thank the neighbors and friends for the many courtesies and acts of kindness shown us during our recent bereavement.

Mrs. M. S. Miller and Family.

The Pneumonia Season

The cold, damp weather of March seems to be the most favorable for the pneumonia germ. Now is the time to be careful. Pneumonia often results from a cold. The quicker a cold is gotten rid of the less the danger. As soon as the first indication of a cold appears take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. As to the value of this preparation, ask anyone who has used it.—Advt.

Neighbor Told Her

Cure for Lumbago

Rheumatism and lumbago are awful things and cause great pain and misery, but Foley Kidney Pills can root them out.

Mrs. G. H. Eveland, Duncan Mills, Ill., writes the following letter: "I was stricken down with lumbago and was unable to turn myself in bed. A neighbor brought me a half bottle of Foley Kidney Pills, and said she had been similarly afflicted and that they had helped her. So I tried them and was completely relieved by the use of two or three bottles. I have had splendid success with them and have never known them to fail. I most heartily recommend Foley Kidney Pills."

Foley Kidney Pills tone up weak, inactive, sluggish kidneys, rid the body of poisons, give appetite, energy and refreshing sleep after pain. Don't neglect kidney trouble. Remove the cause with Foley Kidney Pills.

More Profitable Power for Your Farm

Mogul Tractors Won Grand Prizes at the San Francisco and the San Diego Expositions, 1915

Why did the Mogul Tractors win? Because they are common sense and practical small farm tractors. When the judges—impartial, well qualified, practical, keen business men as they were—awarded the prizes to our Mogul Tractors, they did it because the Mogul Tractors produce the most economical farm power. Their decision should be a guide to every man who needs more profitable power on his farm.

Many farmers realize considerable money each spring from the sale of broilers the price of which is usually governed by their size when sold and the time marketed. Thus it would seem that in order to increase the amount of money from the sale of broilers and fryers early hatching of chicks would be employed so as to have a marketable sized fowl in the spring when prices are highest.

Sells the Champion Cream Saver

THE NEW DE LAVAL

IF you have ever owned a separator of any other make, there is one outstanding feature of the NEW De Laval that will appeal to you as much as even its mechanical superiority, and that is its simplicity.

You won't find any complicated, troublesome parts in the NEW De Laval. It does not get out of order easily, even when it is misused; and if for any reason you ever should want to take it apart, the only tool you need is the combination wrench and screw driver furnished with each machine.

The NEW De Laval is the simplest cream separator made

Only tool required

A person who has never before touched a separator can, if necessary, unassemble a modern De Laval machine down to the last part with five minutes, and then put it together again within ten minutes. This is something that cannot be done with any other separator made, and any separator user who has ever had to wrestle with the complicated mechanism found in other separators will appreciate what it means to him.

Don't fall to stop in and see the NEW De Laval the next time you are in town. Even if you are not in the market for a separator right now, come in and examine a separator that is said by experts to embody the greatest improvements in cream separator construction in the last thirty years.

Our Thriftless Nation. Self-denial is a fundamental virtue, especially for all who have their own way to make in the world; happiness for the great majority of people depends on the wholesome restraint of desires rather than on their gratification.

Saves Eggs. Royal Baking Powder makes it possible to produce appetizing and wholesome cakes, muffins, cornbread, etc., with fewer eggs than are usually required. In many recipes the number of eggs may be reduced and excellent results obtained by using an additional quantity of Royal Baking Powder.

Remember Native Land. No other people coming to our shores have displayed toward their native land a love more wholesome than the Irish. They keep their children fed upon the tales of the fairies and "little people" who are good to the good children, and whose wrath descends upon the children who are not doing right.

Love Must Be Constant. Let our love be firm, constant, and inseparable; not coming and returning like the tide, but descending like a never-falling river, ever running into the ocean of divine excellency, passing on in the channels of duty and a constant obedience, and never ceasing to be what it is, till it comes to what it desires to be; still being a river, till it be turned into sea and vastness, even the immensity of a blessed eternity.—Bishop Jeremy Taylor.

Don't Take Risks. If your stomach is strong, your liver active, and bowels regular, take care to keep them so. These organs are important to your health. Keep them in order with Beecham's Pills and avoid any risk of serious illness. A dose or two as needed, will help the digestion, stimulate the bile, and regulate the habits.

Saves Eggs

Royal Baking Powder makes it possible to produce appetizing and wholesome cakes, muffins, cornbread, etc., with fewer eggs than are usually required.

In many recipes the number of eggs may be reduced and excellent results obtained by adding an additional quantity of Royal Baking Powder, about a teaspoon, for each egg omitted. The following tested recipe is a practical illustration:

- SPONGE CAKE
- 1 cup sugar
 - 1/2 cup water
 - 3 eggs
 - 2 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
 - 1 cup flour
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 cup cold water
 - 1 teaspoon Baking

The old method called for 6 eggs and no baking powder

Beakes-Bacon Ballots Will Be Saved Till May

It is not unlikely anything will be done with the ballots voted at the last November election for S. W. Beakes and Mark R. Bacon until May 5, when the House of Representatives may order a recount in the second district to determine which of the two candidates is entitled to a seat in congress. Until that time each township clerk in all the townships of the counties included in the second district will preserve the November ballots.

Court action compelling clerks to save ballots was brought by attorneys for Mr. Bacon. Friends of the Wyandotte Republican, say that if congress asks for a recount in any of the precincts of this district, Mr. Bacon will ask that the recount be extended to include every precinct.

Friends of Mr. Beakes continue to maintain that the Ann Arbor man will be re-elected without a recount, regardless of which party organizes the house.

OBITUARY

Marcius S. Miller was born January 14, 1839. He was the son of John and Elizabeth Miller, pioneers of Plymouth township. The greater part of his life was passed on the farm west of Plymouth, which his father settled in 1831, and which remained in the family until 1912.

He was the youngest of twelve children and the last one to answer the final summons. In 1859 he married Mary A. LeMunyon, who was born in the Empire state, tho at the time living with her parents east of Plymouth. They were blessed with a beautiful home life, which continued for a little more than fifty years. Four children shared their home, one of whom, Mae, the second daughter, has already entered into rest.

At the age of fifteen he, with his brother Benjamin, joined the Plymouth Baptist church. Through all the long years he remained faithful to that early allegiance, tho some seventeen years ago he identified himself with the Plymouth circle of Bible Students.

Mr. Miller never held political office, but always took a lively interest in the great moral and political questions of the day. While for many years an ardent republican, in the later years he vigorously defended the principles of prohibition, and the last years of his life found him an independent in politics.

A tribute from Christian collaborators:

Mr. Miller was thoroughly a Christian man, belonging to the class of Bible Students of this village. He became a good student of God's word and only his advanced age limited his capacity for a much larger work. Class here feel that they have sustained a deep loss. It was ever his desire in the passing of Mr. Miller the light to instruct and help others in the Christ life, as also into a deeper study of God's word. By a careful study of that word for himself he saw some things which rejoiced his heart greatly in his later years. Even that the Great Heart above had something in store for the world in the future as well as for the church. It was this larger thought or hope—a blessing for the many as well as for the few—that in his remaining years made Mr. Miller's life so sunny and bright, yet sincere, and caused a halo of sweetness to surround his pathway as he finished the ripening of a noble christian character. When he learned that the fatal blow was soon to fall, he calmly said, "I will be done. I am ready. Oh, how much I my 'hopes' worth to me now, indeed, what would I do without it in this hour of need?" Mr. Miller was a patient sufferer, and maintained his strong power of faith firmly as the end drew near, and when the summons finally came, he was all ready as he said, and passed on "to be forever with the Lord."

W. C. F. U.

The attendance at the tea meeting, at the home of Mrs. Hulda Knapp, on the afternoon of March 8, was very good despite the storm. In the absence of the president, Miss Cora Peibang the meeting was in charge of the first vice president, Mrs. Campbell. The leader, Mrs. W. Bartlett, gave a pleasing program which was greatly enjoyed by all.

The next meeting occurs Thursday, March 22, at the home of Mrs. Wyman Bartlett, with Mrs. Kingsley and Mrs. Arthur White as leaders. Topics: "History of the dry movement in Michigan;" "Alcoholism and insanity;" "Other prohibitive news;" "Three men of worth;" Meadames Roberts and Tillotson will have an instrumental duet. Arrangements will be made for the annual meeting.

The Michigan Union of March says: "About the middle of February, the U. S. senate by vote of 55 to 11 inserted a provision in the postal appropriation bill that absolutely forbid under heavy penalties the shipment of liquors into any state that has adopted the prohibition policy. Hereafter any state in the union will be either actually wet or actually dry—there can be no middle ground."

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a Favorite for Colds

J. L. Essley, Macon, Ill., in speaking of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy says: "During the past fifteen years it has been my sister's favorite medicine for colds on the lungs. I myself have taken it a number of times when suffering with a cold and it always relieved me promptly."—Adv't.

Heap big mileage!

In every layer of fabric, in every bit of rubber—permeating the entire casing! No wonder Savage Tires average so much greater mileage.

Savage Tires are built to give mileage first, then road comfort and complete satisfaction—they are not made to sell at a price. And yet Savages cost no more than ordinary casings.

Sold through our own distributors. We put the middleman's profit into extra quality—"Heap big mileage!" Watch for the red Savage sign.

NEWBURG

The pulpit theme at the Newburg church next Sunday afternoon will be "The God of Our Fathers." The service begins at 1:15 central standard time, and the entire combination service, including preaching and the bible study session, lasts only an hour and a quarter.

Howard Stevens of Detroit, spent Sunday at the parental home.

A. Cochran of Onondaga, visited his sister, Mrs. C. Mackinder, Sunday.

Mrs. Maud Clements of Detroit, attended the L. A. S. meeting last Friday.

C. Duryee is about through collecting taxes.

Our pastor, Rev. F. M. Field gave an intensely interesting talk on India last Sunday. We regret there were not more present to hear him.

The Epworth League subject for Sunday night is "Rejuvenating Indifferent Members." Mrs. C. E. Ryder, leader. Come and help to make the meeting wide-awake.

The L. A. S. dinner and meeting last Friday was a great success, seventy-five being present. A number of the older members were there who had not been able to attend in a number of months. The reminiscence read by the secretary, Mrs. A. L. Van, was greatly appreciated, especially by the older members. In the year 1888, ten ladies met at the home of Mrs. Ed. L. Crosby in Newburg and organized this society. Only five of these charter members are now living, four of whom were present last Friday: Mrs. Emily LeVan, Amanda Dean, M. Eva Smith and Emma L. Ryder. The fifth, Emma Johns lies in a critical condition on the far away island of Hawaii. The society extend their sympathy to her.

At the meeting of the Newburg Ladies' Aid society March 9, 1917, the following resolutions were passed:

Resolved, That in the death of Sister Farley the society has lost a loved and valued member;

Resolved, That the sympathy of the society be tendered the members of the family, and while we deeply mourn her death we will ever cherish her memory, asking consolation in the hope that bids us look to a reunion in heaven.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the Plymouth Mail for publication.

Mrs. Ella Mackinder,
Mrs. Alma Stevens,
Mrs. Emma L. Ryder,
Committee.

A Bilious Attack

When you have a bilious attack your liver fails to perform its functions. You become constipated. The food you eat ferments in your stomach instead of digesting. This inflames the stomach and causes nausea, vomiting and a general feeling of headache. Take Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. They will loosen up your liver, clean out your stomach and you will feel as well as ever. They only cost a quarter.—Adv't.
