

Building Permit Costs Up

It will cost more to get a building permit in Cass City now, but the property owner is expected to get more for his money. That was the conclusion of village trustees after they approved a stiff hike in rates Tuesday night at the Municipal Building.

Formerly building permits cost $1.00 for buildings costing up to $4,500 and $3.00 for costs over this amount. The new regulations vary.

The schedule: residential or commercial remodeling, $3.00 up to $1,000 value and 50 cents per $1,000 over this amount; residential new building, $10.00 for up to $15,000 and 50 cents per $1,000 over the minimum figure, and commercial new buildings, a flat fee of $20.

It was pointed out in the meeting that the increased fees will be used to finance a more rigid inspection of construction to see that it conforms with existing codes... both for the protection of the property owner and the village.

Music Students Take Top Ratings At State Festival

Two Cass City band members and a brass sextet won Division I ratings at the State Solo and Ensemble Festival Saturday, March 24, Mt. Pleasant.

Tom Jones, senior, and Bill Dobbs, junior, both won Division I ratings plus Proficiency III and II ratings, respectively. The proficiency ratings represent the third and second levels above a first division rating.

The brass sextet won a Division I rating and was praised for an excellent performance. Sextet members are: Betty Jean Spaulding, Michael Pomeroy, Robert Jones, James Fritz, Bill Dobbs and Tom Jones.

"Men of Music" Concert Slated

The "Men of Music" male chorus, sponsored by the Cass City Band Boosters Club, will present a concert in the High School Auditorium, Sunday, April 8, at 8:30 p. m. Directing the chorus will be Dr. Theodore Vosburgh.

The chorus, originally the Dow Male Chorus, was organized in 1936 and grew to be one of the largest industrial musical organizations in the world.

When Dow Company was forced to withdraw its financial support, the Midland Music Foundation was formed to keep the group in existence.

The 44-member chorus will bring with them Sue VanValkenburg, cello soloist, and Betty Hath, lyric soprano.

Dr. Vosburgh was previously associate professor of music and director of vocal organizations at Albion College. He has also been head of the voice department at Newberry College, Newberry, S. C.

He currently serves as executive director of the newly enlarged Midland Music Foundation and is also on the staff of the recently opened Delta College.

The group appeared in Cass City two years ago and were well received.

IT'S SUGAR BUSH TIME—From the 1,500 gallon glass-lined tank to the right of C. R. Hunt's "Sugar Bush" refinery to the half-gallon container, the trip is a fiery one. Crystal clear sap is gathered from the trees in the background, placed in the tank and then is drained into the refinery. Inside the refinery, the sap flows into a series of tanks over a constant fire. It's boiled to 219 degrees, strained and put into the half-gallon tins. The "Sugar Bush," owned by Hunt, a Cass City construction company owner, is located at his farm, four miles west of Cass City. (Chronicle photo)

From the Editor's Corner

Tuesday night the council raised building permit fees to finance more rigid inspection of buildings in the village. As Trustee Lee Rabideau pointed out, the inspection is for the protection of both the property owner and the village.

It's a well conceived plan and certainly one that has been needed in Cass City for many a moon.

However, the job is only half done. It's now up to the council to see that the new type inspection is inaugurated and builders made to comply with regulations. Too often in Cass City intentions have been good but the subsequent action not up to expectations.

A case in point, we feel, is the enforcement of the zoning regulations in the village. The laws were formulated by an expert at great expense but have had little actual effect because of faulty enforcement. It's hard for us to see much actual difference between the old and the new zoning.

There has been much shaving of costs at the school and also cuts in the curriculum. There has been also a lowering of morale among the teachers because of the lack of interest of district voters.

Sometimes it's hard to pinpoint this type regression in school affairs but a good case in point can now be cited.

For several years the school has held a science fair... this year it has none. This extracurricular activity has really taken hold in most Thumb communities. Paper after paper that crosses our desk from neighboring towns are featuring the winners of local science fairs.

A surprising number of the winning projects, as pictured in the papers, are ambitious and show thought, work and effort by the students in fields where much effort is needed.

We should point out that this is not a reflection on the school's administrators, but on the conditions in the district that produced the educational climate we now have.

Sap, Syrup, Sunshine Star in Sugar Bush's Sweet Story

"In spring, a young man's fancy lightly turns to sugar." In spring at the C. R. Hunt "Sugar Bush", everyone's fancy lightly turns to changing 6,000 gallons of crystal clear maple sap into 150 gallons of sweet, amber maple syrup.

From sap to syrup involves hours and days of collecting, cooking and packaging.

Hunt's "Sugar Bush" is located near the west end of his 160-acre farm, four miles west of Cass City. By way of definition, it includes 700 maple trees and the building used to refine the sap.

The first refining shed was an old log homestead built in 1850. Recently Hunt erected a larger, more practical shed especially designed for refining.

From tree to can begins with the collecting of the crystal clear sap from the catch buckets hanging on short hollow spikes called spiles. It is dumped into carrying buckets and taken to a sled hauling a 300-gallon tank.

A caterpillar tractor hauls the tank through the grove of trees. Until a few years ago, horses were used.

From the sled, the sap is pumped into a 1,500-gallon glass-lined storage tank.

Then the boiling begins. From the storage tank, the sap, which tastes like sugar water, travels into a small, open auxiliary tank inside the refinery. From there, it drains into the boiling tank.

The boiling tank is a series of six open, sectioned tanks over a furnace which has a fire going at all times... a far cry from grandma's pot of sap boiling on the stove.

Gun Board Bows to Angry Sportsmen

The continuing pressure of representatives of sportsmen's groups and interested individuals has resulted in a change of policy by the Tuscola County Gun Board regulating the licensing of concealed weapons.

By a two-to-one margin, the board voted to rescind the rule limiting the area in which the guns could be used. Prosecuting Attorney James Epskamp refused to alter his opinion, saying, "I believe it to be in the public interest to have closer supervision over the handling of concealed weapons."

Set by statute, the other members of the board are the county sheriff or his representative and the State Police Board or representative.

In Tuscola county the representatives were a sergeant from the Bridgeport State Police and Deputy Pat Dillon.

Both of these men voted to return to the former regulations. The action was taken Thursday at a meeting in Caro.

The new regulations that

As the sap boils, and the water evaporates, it flows from tank to tank. The temperature between tanks, as the sap thickens, varies as much as five degrees, despite the fact that the partitioning sections are only a quarter of an inch thick.

Before it is really syrup, however, the temperature of the sap must be 219 degrees. The state also requires that a gallon of maple syrup must weigh 11 pounds before it can be sold.

Still is isn't finished. The syrup contains a substance called niter or "sugar sand", a brown residue. Unless the sugar sand is strained off, it has the same effect on the stomach as eating green plums.

The strainer is a flannel sack. In older days, when the syrup was boiled on the stove, milk was added which in turn would curdle, drawing out the sand.

From the boiling tank, the syrup is strained into milk cans. From the milk can, the next step is the half-gallon tins used to package it.

Next stop... a pile of flapjacks.

Hunt has owned the "Sugar Bush" for about seven years. It has been tapped, on a large scale, for about 40 years.

The total average yearly output is 150 gallons of syrup. For this, a total of 6,000 gallons of sap must be taken from the 700 trees. The trees average about

Kroswek Defense Director

Deputy Sheriff Frank Kroswek, Caro, was appointed Tuscola county civil defense director Monday by county supervisors for the second time within a year.

The appointment came at a special supervisors' meeting called to check valuations and to process tax forms.

Kroswek, a deputy for the past seven years, is slated to resign his post and will officially take over the civil defense directorship on Monday, April 2.

He gave up a previous civil defense appointment because present civil defense policy states that neither the sheriff nor a deputy may be a director.

The post, previously a part-time situation, was recently made a full time post at a supervisors' meeting.

The appointment, based on a recommendation by the county civil defense committee, was made by Chairman Milton Bedore and approved by the attending supervisors.

Woman's Fingers Crushed in Local Industrial Mishap

A Greenleaf township woman, Mrs. Kenneth (Laura) McRae, suffered a dislocated finger, fractures and lacerations Thursday, March 22, when a press she was operating at Walbro Corporation caught her right hand.

According to attending physician H. T. Donahue, M. D., Mrs. McRae's middle finger was dislocated at the second joint. The finger was also lacerated severely and tendons were severed.

Her index finger was lacerated and fractured and her ring finger was also lacerated.

Dr. Donahue stated that Mrs. McRae may lose the use of her middle finger if the tendons do not heal properly.

He anticipated that she would be released from Hills and Dales General Hospital sometime near the end of this week.

Grass Fires Keep Firemen Busy Over Weekend

Grass fires Saturday forenoon and Sunday afternoon officially marked the advent of spring, according to a report from Fire Chief Al Avery.

Elkland township firemen were called out Saturday forenoon to fight a grass fire in a vacant lot adjacent to the William Repshinska residence, 6780 Pine Street, Cass City. Sparks from burning trash reportedly started the fire.

By Village Council

Petition Sparks Road Review

A petition by residents on Garfield Street east of South Seeger to Ale Street for action on their rutted roads provided a baptism of fire for the 1962 village council in its first regular session Tuesday night at the Municipal Building.

The request sparked a review of the street program for the year and the new council started fighting the same problems that have faced every council... lack of enough funds to do everything desired in the village.

Money for street work has been allotted. Top priority for blacktopping had been given to Hill Street running from Church Street to Hills and Dales General Hospital and to South Seeger. The blacktop on Seeger would be on the edges of the road when anticipated curb and gutter is installed this year. Hill Street has been drained and graded and is ready for the surfacing.

That Garfield is in need of repair was agreed by the council. Since the advent of the factories on Garfield, the street has become a busy one and the spring break-up has rutted the road.

But before any surfacing work can be done, the street needs draining. This year some $5,000 has been budgeted for storm sewer work. The majority of this is scheduled for the alleys running adjacent to Main Street... a project that has been on the council agenda for several years.

Because trustees felt that the Garfield problem was very serious, an informal agreement was made to see if some of the drainage work could be started this summer and the work completed in subsequent years as part of the regular street improvement work.

The matter was referred to the streets and sidewalks committee (Bigelow, Guinther, Ware) for more specific action.

Representing the home owners in the affected area was Charles Holm, who told the council how badly in need of repair the road is.

Township Aids In Dump Costs

A tentative agreement between the village and Elkland township over participation in the cost of operating the village dump was reached Tuesday night in the regular monthly council meeting at the Cass City Municipal Building.

Formal agreement will wait until A. J. Stevens draws up the contract to be signed by both the village and the township.

What the council proposes is that the township pay half the cost of operating the village dump and that the village run the facility. Supervisor Ed Golding and Trustee John Marshall attended the meeting and after learning how the dump is operated said that they felt that the agreement would be all right with the township board.

We would like to have it expressly stated, they said, that the dump is open to Elkland township residents. Because the township had used the village dump for many years without cost, the township presented the village with a check for $400... a little more than half the cost of operation in 1961.

Trustee Lee Rabideau pointed out that operating the dump under the present regulations should slice the cost greatly. He predicted that $250 would be all that is necessary for maintenance this year - bringing Elkland's share down to $125.

Golding stated that he would like to have the dump ground use regulations published in the paper so that everyone in the township knows what to expect. The rules will be published next week over the joint signatures of the village and the township, it was decided.

Other Business

The planning commission approved the use of a new building for Ray Fleenor for storage and recommended that a building permit be granted. However, Trustee Rabideau reported that a dispute about the lot line had been raised by a next door neighbor, Jim Seals.

The council will hold up the building permit until the dispute is settled.

The planning commission also recommended that a request by Harris-Hampshire Insurance Co. for a new neon sign at the home-office be refused because it did not comply with the ordinance.

On a motion by Jim Seals the council chose to disregard the ordinance and the request of the planning commission and send the recommendation back to the commission for a favorable recommendation.

President Tells Village Standing 1962 Committees

President Andrew Bigelow announced standing committees and officers Tuesday night in the opening session of the newly formed council held at the Cass City Municipal Building.

Serving at their first regular session were Fred Auten, Jim Seals and Harold Guinther.

Auten was named president pro-tem. Albin J. Stevens was re-appointed attorney and Mrs. Helen Stevens will again be the health officer.

Eight standing committees were named. They include: finance and budget, Auten and Lee Rabideau; street and sidewalks, Bigelow, Guinther and Leo Ware; parks and pool, Jerome Root Jr., Auten and Ware; building, Bill Schram, Rabideau and Seals; sewer and water, Ware and Seals; dump ground, Seals, Root and Guinther; police department, Bigelow, Rabideau and Seals, and fire department, Ware and Rabideau.

Brush Burners Reminded to Get Burning Permits

With grass and brush fires a common spring malady, Department of Conservation officials are reminding farmers and landowners that they must have a permit to have an open fire for other than domestic purposes when the ground is not snow covered.

Thomas Bower, Conservation forest fire officer, Caro, suggests three simple rules to be followed when burning grass or brush.

"Do not burn when winds are high. Stay with your fire until it is out. If your fire gets out of control, call for help immediately," he advises.

Burning permits can be obtained from the Elkland Township Fire Department or from the Conservation Department.

Because of the time and work involved, on the part of both the men and the trees, the syrup is relatively expensive, selling for about $6.00 per gallon.

Who helps Hunt in this major undertaking? "Anybody that comes along," he replies. This year's helpers were Lester Ross, H. O. Paul, Charles Hartel and George Gretz. They are most naturally, paid off in maple syrup.

The first thing that strikes the uninitiated upon entering the refinery is the deliciously sweet aroma of boiling syrup. Combine that with a bright, warm spring day and your fancy, too, will turn to thoughts of sweet things like making syrup or perhaps...

Marlette Exchange Student Tells WSC Of Denmark Trip

Fifteen members of the Woman's Study Club heard John Duff, Marlette High School senior, tell of his experiences as an exchange student in Denmark last summer at a meeting held Tuesday evening, March 20, at the home of Mrs. George Murray.

Duff was one of 290 Michigan students, sponsored by the Council of Churches, who went to Europe last summer.

His $700 in expenses were paid by civic and church groups of Marlette.

During the program, he showed pictures of Denmark and told about Danish family life, education, and religion.

Duff explained that, while fewer juveniles are delinquents in Denmark than in America, the per cent involved in crime, because of the smaller population of the country, was higher.

Automobiles are very expensive, he told the group. A popular, low priced car in America selling for $3,000 would cost approximately $7,000.

In contrast, food costs are only half of what they are in the United States.

BULEN TALKS CARS

A WATCHFUL EYE ON CRITICS

The best circulated memos in our dealership are not from well-wishers. We're always trying to improve, and the source we look to first is from our critics. Like an anxious mother fretting over a problem child, we give them most attention.

Any business as complicated and detailed as an automobile dealership is bound to slip-up occasionally. Usually, the complaints that cause most customer irritation are those minor items that just get overlooked. Neglect then balloons them into a feeling of dissatisfaction 'way beyond their actual importance.

There was a certain emotional satisfaction in watching via TV recently the preparations by thousands of our best engineers and scientists to rocket Astronaut John Glenn into orbit. There, before the eyes of millions, the awful fact was bared that this magnificent, multi-million dollar scientific wonder was paralyzed because a simple latch-bolt on the pilot's door had broken.

There are only 15,000 odd parts in the average car compared with hundreds of thousands in a space missile, but that case of the broken bolt made us feel better just the same.

There are two ways to run a car dealership. There is the volume-price approach in which a customer's complaints are usually filed in the wastebasket. Or the quality dealership in which they land on the boss's desk.

The vast majority of complaints spring from legitimate grievances and we're grateful for the opportunity they provide to improve our business. Next to the pleasure of filing them in the "satisfied" folder, that is.

A Stylish Couple In Early Years

This week's photograph is of a modish young married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Striffler. The groom is garbed in a dark three-piece serge suit with silk cravat and white shirt. The bride's dress, of finely plaided cassimere, was styled in the latest fashion of that day, with the overskirt draped into a bustle and the underskirt bordered with a gathered flounce. The fitted bodice was trimmed in velvet edged with metal buttons. A swiss muslin jabot added a soft touch at the throat.

They Had Trouble With Horses, Too

Occasionally, when considering the amount of automobile accidents, someone is heard to comment, "Oh, for the good old horse-and-buggy days." However, there were accidents in those days, too - as witnessed by the following item in a May 1902 issue of the Cass City Chronicle:

"On Saturday while John Blades and wife were driving to town, the tongue of the wagon broke frightening the horses beyond control. Mr. and Mrs. Blades were both thrown from the wagon and the horses made a dash down the road and bumped into a wagon occupied by John Russel and wife and John Ballard, all three were thrown from the wagon and several crates of eggs flew in every direction. Otis Greenleaf and S. Bardwell, who were driving on the same road, managed to get their teams to one side of the road and thus escaped damage. The horses were stopped by John Ballard. No one received any serious injury."

Church Officers

The Young People's Alliance of the Evangelical church elected the following officers at their business meeting held Tuesday evening, January 9, 1906: president, Bertha C. Benkelman; vice-president, Lillian Striffler; recording secretary, Mollie Ackerman; corresponding secretary, Hattie Muck; treasurer, Solomon Striffler; organist, Clara V. Lenzner; chorister, Lillian Striffler, and junior superintendent, Esther Ackerman.

They Won Awards At Cass City Fair

The following are a few of the people who won first awards at the 1904 Cass City Fair: Roll Butter, Glenn McQueen; Maple Syrup, J. W. Bingham; Yeast Bread, P. A. Koepfing; Display of Cakes, Mrs. J. W. Heffebower; Canned Grapes, Sam Striffler; Canned Corn, Lillian Striffler; Mustard Pickles, Mrs. J. D. Withey; White Winter Wheat, J. D. Tuckey; Spring Wheat, David Gray; Barley, Thomas Murphy; and Field Peas, A. E. Boulton.

Agent's Corner

Frances T. Clark
 County Home Demonstration Agent

Down in the southeast corner of Michigan, two very important crops are grown - rhubarb and mushrooms. It always seems as though spring can't be too far away when the colorful, rosy-red rhubarb first makes its appearance in the markets. This year's crop is a very good one, in both quantity and quality. Interestingly enough, about 85 per cent of the crop is shipped to New York, Philadelphia and Boston.

One characteristic which indicates rhubarb quality is the size of the stalk. The larger the diameter, the higher the quality. Grade also depends upon color. The very best grade has a bright, reddish-pink extending into the veins of the leaves. The leaf, of course, should be small and light yellowish in color. Hot-house-grown rhubarb is very tender and requires little cooking.

The season for rhubarb sometimes starts as early as December, but usually in January. The peak of the supply comes along in late February and March.

The mushrooms in stores come from commercially-grown sources. Twelve growers in southeastern Michigan grow most of the fresh cultivated mushrooms sold in Michigan. Mushrooms grow best at about 55 degrees so producers are building more air conditioned growing houses to extend the marketing season for this Michigan crop. At present, the largest supplies are harvested in the two periods of March, April and May; then again in October, November and the first three weeks in December. Shoppers will usually find fresh mushrooms in the produce department packed in one-pint and one-pound boxes, or in bulk.

The finest fresh mushrooms are snowy white with rounded knob-like tops tightly closed around the stem. These are best for broiling or stuffing. Fresh mushrooms may turn brown and open like umbrellas. These are preferred by some for their distinct flavor. They may be used in gravies, soups and other food combinations when flavor is the reason for their use.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Sez:

Dear Mister Editor:

Zeke Grubb's preacher come by the country store Saturday night, announced he was plum wore out from working on his report. Preachers in his Church, he explained, has to fill out a annual report by the end of March ever year telling all the things they done during the past year. He says if they keep adding pages to it, pritty soon the only thing he'll have to report is that he has been busy filling out reports.

But the good Parson allowed as how his report was bringing to light some mighty interesting things. Fer instant, he said, it showed they had 309 Committee meetings last year and he is hoping they will get a certificate for this achievement. He figured them 309 Committee meetings come to around 1,342 man-hours and the Bishop might even award the congregation a bronze plack.

Another thing his report showed, he told the fellers, was how pore most of the folks is in his community. He said the Good Book orders us to give according to how much the Lord has prospered us and, according to his church records, they had one of the worst depressions last year since Noah and the flood. Fact is, he said, he was thinking about taking food baskets to some of his members. A bunch of families in his congregation didn't give a cent during the year, so he figgers they must be in bad shape.

Fer instant, he said one member of his Choir ain't give a nickel to the church in three years. The good Parson said he drove by this feller's house the other night to ask if he could help him out a little till he got on his feet, but he didn't stop because he saw in the driveway where somebody else had done been by and give him a new car.

He told the fellers they was a chanct the Bishop might promote him to a bigger church on account of his fine annual report. He said his report showed he had not only preached 104 sermons and attended 309 Committee meetings, but he was serving as Athletic Director of the Sunday School and was head coach of the horseshoe and ping-pong teams.

Country preachers, he allowed, don't have to worry this time of year about their income tax report. Fer that, he said, he was thankful. He claims he takes the report ever year, signs it at the proper places, and writes a note at the top saying he's a country preacher. In case that ain't enough, he puts down how much salary he was plesded, puts right under it how much he got, and subtracts. He says he's showed a loss fer 30 years straight, ever since he took up preaching.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Cass City Chronicle Editor

I would like to write a few lines in this column about the Pages from the Past - that have appeared for some time now in the paper. I've enjoyed every one of them, but the one in last week's paper of Mr. Zinnecker and his shoe repair shop is really the outstanding one in my mind.

How well I remember this out of the way shoe shop. I took many pairs of shoes to be repaired here. My father was very apt at letting me know it took a lot to keep me in shoe leather and informing me every once in a while I wore out more shoes than the rest of the kids put together. All I can say to all of this is it shows I didn't sit down. However, I, and I imagine many other people, enjoy the pages from the past. So keep them coming.

Mrs. Henry Zemke

P.S. I intend to put the picture of Mr. Zinnecker along with some others I've kept from pages of the past in my scrapbook.

I Missed the Mark On Rip Torn.

By Ilene Warren

In this column, a couple weeks ago, I complained that Ernie Tubbs' name should have been Wash Tubbs to be in the fashion of such phony names as Rip Torn and Ruff Thyme. Well, shoot the marble and call me Aggie, I surely missed the mark on Rip Torn. According to an article in a recent TIME magazine, wherein the pseudonyms of actors and actresses are discussed, "Rip Torn, that bisyllabic symbol of absurdly phony Hollywood names, is really Rip Torn. His father was Rip Torn, too." My final comment: His mother and grandmother must have shared a Blithe Spirit.

We had a delightful time together. Of course, my column didn't get written - the folder containing an unfinished income tax return lay ignored on the desk - letters were unanswered - but Ryndy and I had fun... even though, as she toddled about the room and ventured near the desk, it wasn't just to save her a bump that I hustled her in another direction!

Ryndy is learning words now. Says "kitty", "tickle-tickle" and "Thank you." Her mother is quick to add, concerning the latter phrase, "Now all we have to do is teach her when to say it."

James Tyson, professor in soils science, MSU, will talk on establishing, maintenance and care of the lawn.

Nicky A. Smith, extension specialist in botany and plant pathology, MSU, will talk on insect and disease control for landscape materials.

Landscape materials for the planting demonstration are being furnished jointly by the Tuscola County 4-H Council and Mothers' Club.

Door prizes will be given.

Any theory is interesting, but accomplishment is more convincing.

OFFICIAL REPORT FROM U. S. TESTING COMPANY ON 1962 CHEVROLET, FORD AND PLYMOUTH.

U. S. Testing Company recently tested the 1962 Chevrolet, Ford and Plymouth in 10 competitive events at the Riverside course in California. Here, for anyone who might buy a car soon, are official results of this "Showdown at Riverside."

Plymouth recently asked the U. S. Testing Company—an independent organization—to conduct a decathlon to measure the 1962 Chevrolet, Ford and Plymouth for all-around performance.

U. S. Testing Company bought the three test cars—Chevrolet Impala V-8, Ford Galaxie "500" V-8 and Plymouth Fury V-8, comparably equipped. They hired the professional drivers. They supplied all the officials. They made the rules. And they also enforced the rules.

You see the Official Results shown here in the box. Plymouth won eight events. Ford won one. And Chevrolet won one. Drive a 1962 Plymouth yourself. It's the Greatest Plymouth Ever Built.

KOMMENTS BY KRAFT

Life is A Series Of Closed Doors

By Dave Kraft

Someone once wrote: "What's in a name? A door by any other name would still be hard to open if you only weigh 145 pounds." I think it was Shakespeare.

I weigh 145 pounds and it's true. I think I've weighed 145 pounds since the eighth grade, which was a good many years ago. In school, all the big guys used to pick on me. Now, it's just my wife and doors with pneumatic springs.

Cass City is a small town, but it's a progressive town. Especially doorwise. Never, in such a small town, have I seen so many doors with pneumatic door closers.

It's reached a point where I'm almost afraid to go into a store if I haven't gone in before. I never know if I'm going to make it through the door.

I have my worst time at the Post Office. One session with their inner door and I'm finished.

The first time I encountered the door was shortly after I came to Cass City. I entered the first door and everything was going great. Then I came up against the inner door, literally.

Nothing happened. I had a bundle of mail in both hands so I put my shoulder to the door and pushed. Still nothing. I turned around and pushed with my back.

It started to move. I crammed a bunch of letters into the crack and heaved again. The letters fell to the floor but I managed to squeeze my arm through the ever widening space.

Using my arm as a lever, I pushed again and managed to squirm my head and shoulders through.

That was my mistake. I couldn't get any more leverage. I'd probably still be there if a little old lady hadn't come along and let me out.

I have since learned the technique. I merely go down past the mail boxes and take a run at it. Of course, I have to wait until someone enters or leaves before I can get out, but I have spent many enjoyable hours chatting with the post office personnel while waiting.

Martin's Restaurant ranks second on my list of impassable portals.

Every Wednesday I pick up orders for the Chronicle staff. Getting in is child's play. It's getting out with an armload of grub that gives you a real thrill.

My first visit there, I breezed in, picked up my order and had every intention of breezing out. Ho! Ho!

I sauntered up to the door, the picture of complete door-opening confidence. I took hold of the handle and leaned back, expecting it to swing open.

It did. Almost a foot.

I had already started through before I realized what was up and then it was too late!

It caught me right between the pie and the coffee and squeezed all the mustard out of the hamburgers.

And out of me.

I had a rough time explaining to the crew why all the hamburgers had an imprint of my rib cage on them.

All this is leading, of course, to a natural conclusion. If you have a door with a pneumatic closer, keep an eye out for yours truly.

The next time you see a thin, hesitant individual with his nose pressed against the window pane, please open the door. It might very well be me.

I, too, would like to voice my appreciation for the response to my plea for feature story leads. They've been pouring in like crazy and should offer some very interesting reading in future issues.

Mrs. Quick, 75, Dies in Dearborn

Funeral services were held Wednesday (yesterday) for Mrs. Lottie Quick, 75, at Novesta Church of Christ. Mrs. Quick died Sunday, March 25, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Joseph Snow of Dearborn.

She married Clarence Quick in Pontiac, June 11, 1904, where they made their home following their marriage. In 1907, they moved to Novesta township. In 1947, they retired and moved to Cass City. Mr. Quick died November 9, 1953.

Mrs. Quick had been a member of the Novesta Church of Christ for the past 59 years.

Surviving are: five daughters, Mrs. Basil (Viola) Colton, Rochester, Mrs. Quincy (Lorena) Morley, East Detroit, Mrs. Elmer (Bernice) Gifford, Garden City, Mrs. Jack (Beatrice) Tewsley, Center Line, and Mrs. (Inez) Snow, Dearborn, and two sisters, Mrs. Mary Fulcher, Cass City, and Mrs. Grace Lohman, Toledo, Ohio.

Also surviving are 15 grandchildren and 19 great-grandchildren. Two brothers and a sister preceded her in death.

Carpenter Cow Has High Milk Record

Betheldale Regal Pabst Doty, a four-year-old Holstein cow owned by Vernon J., Claire J. and Richard Carpenter, Cass City, produced 14,900 pounds of milk and 557 pounds of butterfat in 305 days, according to a report from the Holstein-Friesian Association of America.

Two area cows belonging to Gilbert Davis, Sandusky, also had outstanding production records for a similar period. A four-year-old Holstein produced 17,473 pounds of milk and 725 pounds of butterfat in 305 days and a five-year-old Holstein had 19,101 pounds of milk and 691 pounds of butterfat in 365 days.

In contrast, the annual production of the average American dairy cow is generally estimated at approximately 7,000 pounds of milk and 265 pounds of butterfat.

Michigan State University supervised the weighing and testing.

"We Keep Ronnie's Room 12° Warmer Than Ours!"

"With electric heat, we don't have to worry about keeping Ronnie covered at night," says Mrs. Arnold F. Raglin of White Lake, Michigan. "All we have to do is turn up the thermostat in his room. When we built our home three years ago, we put in all the latest ideas and features to make sure it would stay modern. At that time, electric heat was the most modern way to heat—and, as far as I'm concerned, it still is and will be for a long time. Flameless electric heat gives us clean, quiet, even heat without odors or costly upkeep."

What about your home? Do you have a hard-to-heat room? Are you adding on a room? Are you buying a new home? Is the heating system in your present home more trouble than it's worth? One of the types of electric heating units shown below may be the answer to your heating problems. One easy way to find out is to ask your electrical contractor. Another is to call your Edison office. We'll be glad to send you a copy of our free booklet "Electric Home Heating" and will answer any questions you may have about the modern, worry-free way to heat your home—electrically.

Deadline Nears for Feed Grain Program

Applications for 1962 Feed Grain Program must be filed as later than March 30th.

Any farmer having a 1962 corn or barley base acreage for his farm is eligible to participate in the program.

To qualify, a minimum of 20 per cent of the base must be diverted from crop production.

George Schmitt, Office Manager of the Turlock ASCS office, recommends that any farmer that is undecided at this time about entering in the program should complete an application by the closing date and if at a later date decides he does not wish to comply, the application may be terminated.

Participation in the program is a requirement of price support for the 1962 crop.

More Activities, Better State Fair Grounds Recommended by Committee

By Elmer E. White
Michigan Press Association

The State Fairgrounds at Detroit lies within a 50-mile radius of 10 of Michigan's most populous counties and will soon be within an hour's drive of about 70 per cent of the state's population. But it is in use for a relatively short period during the year.

Gov. John B. Swenson, a number of businessmen in the Detroit area, and many citizens outside would like to see this use expanded.

A 25-man Fairgrounds Development Commission appointed by the Governor recently submitted its report of recommendations on the possible uses of the facilities now available and construction of new structures which would encourage year-round use.

All recommendations were aimed at keeping the State Fair itself the primary function of the property at Detroit's north city limits, said Commission Chairman C. H. Mygale.

General improvement of existing facilities also was recommended. "The need for improvement grows with each passing year," the commission said. "Many of our buildings are in need of major repairs some of them are antiquated. As they age the cost of their maintenance increases."

A similar report to improve the present buildings was submitted to the Legislature at its request, in 1955. This study called for a five-year program of capital improvement. Due to lack of funds, the recommendations have gone unfulfilled each year.

New buildings for agricultural, youth and women's activities were among the recommendations for entirely new construction.

Rather than rely on the state Legislature finding extra money to devote each year to fair development projects, the Governor's commission recommended the improvements be financed totally through the sale of revenue bonds.

The commission cited several similar developments across the nation which were financed entirely through bond sales, "never at a cost to the taxpayer, without pledging the faith and credit of the state, and without mortgaging state property."

The legislature would, however, have to create the Michigan State Fair Authority and give it bonding power, if the commission's recommendations were to be put into effect.

Perhaps the two most surprising recommendations for new facilities were those for a dormitory and elite student. The commission emphasized none of the recommendations were designed to compete with existing facilities in Detroit, such as Cobo Hall or Tiger Stadium.

Throughout the year a ground level pavilion in the proposed dormitory building would house a cafeteria, leased to a private firm. During the Fair, the upper floors would provide accommodations for junior exhibitors, lecturers and land participants. At other times, the dormitory area would be turned into a hotel facility, leased to a private operation.

The elite stadium, designed to accommodate 80,000 persons of professional and collegiate sports events, represented a relatively new concept in the United States.

Commission members got the idea for the stadium from an $18,000-seat stadium built recently in Hanover, Germany, from rubble cleared from bombed out areas of the city.

Rather than dig deep into the ground to provide the base for the stadium, the commission proposed using earth fill from expensive excavations to build openings.

Much of the dirt being dug out for temporary construction in the Detroit area is being trucked into Canada and dumped. Use of the fill for the stadium base would save some trucking costs and cut down the duplication of spending in digging out for the fairgrounds structure.

Legislative proposals by the commission got in just in time for the current session but little support was expected this year. The Legislature has been generally hesitant to create units with full bonding powers.

This is expected to be particularly true during the current year, while the Legislature waits to see what action the Constitutional Convention takes in the area of the state's borrowing limitation.

The late date at which bills encompassing the commission proposals were introduced also gave a little chance to promote their full effect. Next year, however, members of the commission can be expected to put forth a strong effort for approval of the recommendations.

Legislative debates over the most controversial subject's quite often bring forth the best of the humor shown in a given session. An excellent example of this came from Rep. Lloyd Anderson, Pontiac, Republican, when the subject of tax solutions was being considered on the floor of the House recently.

Democrats were attacking the Republican legislators for failing to come forth with anything other than "mushy tax laws" to take the state revenues.

"I don't care what you or we propose," said Anderson in a Democratic attack. "If you ask the taxpayer what kind he wants, you'll find there isn't any tax he doesn't consider a 'mushy tax.'"

The comment was taken lightly, but is probably more true than parable.

The aim of education is to produce self-reliance and industry in the youth of our nation.
