A Little Goes A Long Ways

From the Editor's Corner

It's probable that the relatively poor attendance at the "Men of Music" concert, spelled the death knell for programs of similar types in Cass City.

Despite a vigorous advertising campaign, vigorous ticket selling and a top program, only about 150 attended Sunday afternoon.

The competition of television and a beautiful day were evidently more than local promoters could overcome.

If you had begun to wonder how Cass City was granting raises to teachers and generally loosening (somewhat) the purse strings the answer is that they are going to go into debt.

The school board anticipates an increase in revenue from the State and other sources next year. But if they fail to come through, the school will run $39,000 in debt.

This type operation will please about as many persons as it offends. A good many advocates of more money for the school say that only by running in the red can we show the money was actually needed to operate the school up to an adequate standard.

As a businessman, deficit financing goes against the grain . . . but since just about everything else has been tried, it could be the only method left.

It's better than letting the quality of education slide because of lack of funds.

Athletics, P. E. on Curriculum Study Agenda Tonight

Cass City High School's physical education and athletic programs will be discussed at another in the series of Curriculum Study meetings scheduled for tonight in Room 12 at the High School at 8:00 p.m.

Coaches Mike Yedinak and Irv Clasenman will represent the two departments.

The format of the meeting will be the same as past curriculum meetings. The coaches will discuss current problems, new developments in the fields and future plans.

The public, particularly parents with students taking part in either of the programs, are invited to attend.

Coaching Pay Scale Hiked

Discontinuance of varsity athletics training during school hours and a pay-hike for Cass City High School coaches were ordered Monday night by the Board of Education members after hearing a report by Coach Mike Yedinak.

Yedinak appeared before the board, at their request, after submitting a letter at a recent meeting asking, in part, that he be allowed to discontinue as junior varsity basketball coach or be paid accordingly. He also suggested, in the letter, a number of changes for the athletic department.

Currently, he coaches junior varsity teams during basketball season. He advocated the hiring of a special J.V. coach.

"I look for perfection," he explained, "and you can't find it on that level."

With an assist from Principal Arthur Holmberg, Yedinak presented a "purely speculative" plan that would remove athletics from the school day and which would allow for more physical education for those who do not turn out for athletics.

In explaining the new program, Holmberg stated, "There are two questions to the problem. One, does too much of the scheduled day go into athletics and two, do we want a greater amount of physical education in the day?"

The new program, based on a plan under study by Cass City teachers, allows for a seven-hour teaching day instead of the current six-hour day. Coaches would still have six assignments but would also have a free period, plus their lunch time.

High school boys would be required to take P.E. and all varsity athletics, with the exception of ninth grade athletics, would begin after school.

Under the longer day plan, Holmberg told the group, nearly all the courses cut out of the curriculum last fall because of the lightweight budget, could be offered again.

Under salaries, Yedinak advocated a "per sport" pay scale. Board members were shown questionnaires from area schools showing what their athletics departments were being paid.

Using these questionnaires and suggestions from Yedinak, the board set up the following pay schedule: Football and basketball coaches - $500 each per season. Track and baseball coaches - $250 each per season. Football and basketball assistant coaches - $250 each per season. Junior varsity coach - $250 per season.

The coaches would continue to get their regular contract salaries and increments. The hikes will cost the school an estimated $1,000 over present salaries.

Yedinak pointed out to the group that if he elects not to coach the JV basketball, he will take a $50.00 cut in salary, even with the raises.

In other business, the board voted to let local contractors submit estimates on plans of a proposed special education room after hearing a report from Willis Campbell, superintendent, on a recent special education meeting in Caro.

Two teachers asked for salary increases. Richard Strickland, biology teacher, asked that he be credited for time spent as a teacher in the Air Force. Mrs. Grace Quick, part-time elementary librarian, asked that she be given a raise. No action was taken on either request.

The board also elected James Milligan permanent secretary and appointed Mrs. Gerald Prieskorn to purchase a stove for the home economics department.

130 Hear Midland "Men of Music"

An audience of 130 persons heard the versatile Midland "Men of Music" male chorus sing at the Band Boosters Club sponsored concert held Sunday in the High School Auditorium.

Morris Jones, Band Booster member, introduced Dr. Theodore Vosburgh, conductor.

One of the best received numbers by the 44-member all male chorus was its forceful rendition of the Negro folk song "John Henry." Featured in the number was a baritone solo by Paul Schultz.

Another crowd pleaser was "Bess, You Is My Woman," from George Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess," sung by Betty Hath, soprano, and Earl Sanders, tenor.

The chorus' final number, "Italian Street Song," from Victor Herbert's "Naughty Marietta," and featuring Miss Hath, was another highlight of the program.

Sue VanValkenburg, cellist, was also featured in the hour and a half long program.

It was the group's first concert away from home under the auspices of the newly founded Midland Music Foundation, Dr. Vosburgh told the audience prior to the concert.

Funds received from the concert will be used to purchase instruments, uniforms and for other band needs.

Chamber Speaker Stresses Sensitivity

"Be sensitive to the customer's needs . . . find out more about the customer before you try to sell him," Dr. Joseph Thompson, Michigan State University director of hotel, restaurant and institutional management, admonished the nearly 150 persons attending the annual Cass City Chamber of Commerce banquet Tuesday night at the High School.

"Ask questions . . . find out what the customer likes," he continued. He compared not asking questions to making friends with a man by buying him a cup of coffee when he doesn't drink coffee.

Using a blackboard, audience participation and a quick wit, Dr. Thompson entertained his audience for over an hour following the banquet.

He stressed getting away from old selling techniques that came complete with a "cute" answer for the sales objection by asking questions that suggest conversation.

Dr. Thompson's address came shortly after retiring Chamber President Gerald Prieskorn turned the gavel over to the new president, Dick Erla.

Before turning the gavel over, Prieskorn introduced the new and retiring officers and board members. He also thanked the Novesta Church of Christ for preparing and serving the banquet. Rev. Melvin Vender delivered the invocation.

Keith McConkey, retail division chairman, with an assist from Bill Kritzman, told the group of things the retail division had accomplished during the past year and explained future sales promotions.

After accepting the gavel, Erla brought up the point that Mrs. James Bauer, as a member of the board of directors, was the first woman ever to serve in that capacity. He then introduced the speaker.

Graham Fights To Keep Job

The fate of Judge Henderson Graham as Probate Judge for Tuscola County is now in the hands of the legislature, following an ouster move by the State Supreme Court for misconduct in office.

Concurring in the opinion were all members of the bar of Tuscola County who sent a signed petition to the legislature asking that the legislature remove Judge Graham from office.

The legislature will have 30 days in which to pass a concurrent resolution . . . requiring a two-thirds vote.

If passed, it will be mandatory for Gov. Swainson to suspend him.

The case sets a Michigan precedent and stems from Graham's borrowing of funds from estates under his jurisdiction.

Graham Statement

Meanwhile, Graham lashed back at the court and the Tuscola County lawyers in a two-page statement.

In the statement he said that the court had failed to prove that he was guilty as charged. He indicated that much of his present difficulties could be traced to the desire by lawyers to have the Probate Court run only by lawyers.

An excerpt from his statement: "I came home and consulted James Epskamp for legal advice. After telling him the situation, he suggested that he discuss the matter with Judge Quinn and he would see me later. After his discussion with Judge Quinn he informed me that it appeared that there wasn't much hope for me holding my office but not to feel too bad because when the new constitution was adopted that the office would have to be held by an attorney anyway. He (Epskamp) also stated that Judge Quinn wants you out of that office. However, Epskamp stated that he did not want to handle the case."

"There is much more that could be said about this case that would certainly indicate that I am being used by the legal powers so the office of Probate Judge will be reserved for them."

"I attended the Probate Judges' convention in 1961. At this convention the question was brought up by the attorney judges that a resolution should be sent to the constitutional convention urging that the judge be required to be an attorney. Their only reasoning was that we can't expect to get adequate salary if laymen are permitted to act as judge."

" . . . This court has always been open to anyone and there has never been anything to cover up. The Auditor General has inspected the books and records each year and has never found one penny short and has complimented myself and my staff on the way it is run."

Supreme Court

In the Supreme Court opinions, published in full on page two, section two, the court said, "We simply cannot overlook a disclosed pattern of secretly attempted and once successful borrowing by Judge Graham."

If the legislature does not act within the required 30 days, the supreme court indicated that it will suspend Judge Graham.

Set School Budget

A $430,543.60 operations budget for 1962-63 was approved by Cass City Board of Education members at their meeting Monday night. The new budget is over $39,000 more than the closing year's $391,030.80.

According to Superintendent Willis Campbell, who submitted the budget for approval, it will take approximately 10.8 mills to operate the school next year. Last year, the school was allocated 8.5 mills for operation.

Campbell explained that a portion of the increase was reflected in increased salaries, need for two new buses, additional maintenance and a cut in tuition.

Specifically, the breakdown is as follows: increase in salaries - $14,000; two new buses - $14,000; additional maintenance - $2,000, and a $2,000 drop in tuition.

Whether or not the school will break even in 1962-63, as it appears it will do this year, depends on how much is allocated by the allocations board and whether current legislation under discussion is passed.

If one of the four or five bills under discussion is passed, Campbell reported, it will mean an increase of $10.00 per student or about $12,000 for the school.

The next step for the budget will be the allocations board for study, prior to the setting of the annual allocations.

The board also directed Campbell to ask the Michigan Financial Commission, Lansing, for permission to take $5,442.04 that has accumulated in the 1950 bond issue through increases in valuation and put it in the general fund. The money would be used to purchase a bus.

The eight districts of the Council have tentatively been divided into 38 neighborhoods. They will be serviced from the central office in Saginaw.

Test Oats, Barley For Germination

It will pay farmers to test oats and barley seed for germination before planting this year, according to Alfred Ballweg county extension director. Testing can prevent many crop failures.

A considerable number of oat seed samples which have been tested this year by the Farm Crops Department, Michigan State University, have had low germination. Some samples had extremely low germination, and would be almost certain to produce poor crops.

Because of bad weather at harvest time last summer, many oats went into the storage bins at moisture levels higher than normal. High moisture caused heating in the bin, which in turn has caused a reduction in the germination of a great deal of grain.

One way a grower can be assured of high germination and top quality seed is to purchase only certified seed. All certified seed will have a germination rate of at least 90 per cent, said Ballweg. Buying good seed may pay big dividends.

The fellow who aims to set the world on fire sometimes leaves only smouldering ruins in his wake.

BULEN TALKS Cars TAKE IT EASY AND SAVE GAS

If you're an average driver who'd like to save three miles per gallon of gas on highway driving there's a painless way to do it. Maintain an even, moderate speed and stop trying to get there in a hurry.

Matter of fact, if you're really average - that is to say nervous, given to fast starts, bursts of speed and occasional passing - you'll also save the odd speeding ticket. To the money saved on gas you can add the money saved on fines.

A friend of mine who usually drives his medium-sized sedan at the limit the law allows, plus another ten because he's always in a hurry, recently found himself some 600 miles from home on a Sunday with barely enough money to pay for the gas he would require to cover the distance.

Calculating his mileage and gas reserves closely, he decided to chance it and drove so as to save gas. He stayed with the speed limit to the letter, slowed down for stops and accelerated slowly. Psychologically, he didn't count his journey from point to point as most travellers do because he knew he had to limit his speed to the economical maximum. Result? He saved three miles per gallon; he beat his usual time for the trip by 30 minutes because of less fatigue stops; arrived much more rested while he ENJOYED the trip.

Our service department will do a fine job, economically, of tuning your engine to maximum efficiency. But as you can see, you are still the biggest gas saver.

BRAG DEPARTMENT!!!!!!

We hope you noticed in last week's Mobil Oil Economy Run from Los Angeles to Detroit, Chevrolet won two classes:

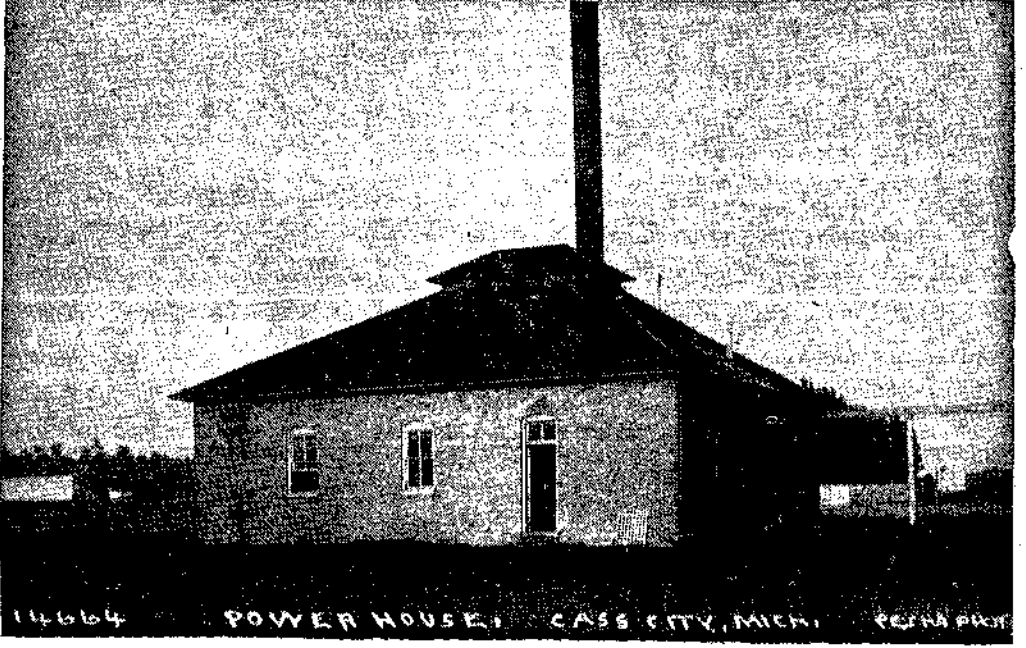

- 1. Corvair with Automatic Transmission averaged 27.02 miles per gallon to win it's class. 2. Chevrolet Impala V-8, also with Automatic Transmission, delivered 20.78 to win.

Sure, these were professional drivers, but it does show the potential in the various cars entered.

Earliest Census Depicts Area

In 1860 the Elkland Township population was 51, composed from 13 families, according to the earliest census record. There were 12 dwellings and 9 occupied farms, with 228 improved acres. There were 2 horses, 12 cows. Harvested were 158 bushels of wheat, 415 bushels of corn, 170 bushels of oats, 551 bushels of potatoes, 1125 pounds of butter and 19 tons of hay.

Naming of Novesta Told

In 1869, steps were taken to set up a township government for Township 13 North, Range 11 East, which had been attached to the town of Elkland up to that time.

Upon application made by the required number of freeholders, the County Board of Supervisors ordered an election, approved a board of registration and designated a name for the new town. It is said that some members of the county board were assembled in Farley Crow's store at Centerville (now Caro). The discussion centered around a name for the new town. Mr. Crow glanced at the stove in the room, pointed to its name "Vesta No." and suggested that the words be reversed to form the name "Novesta." The suggestion was adopted and the township received its name.

Power History of Cass City

This week's picture is of the original powerhouse, built in 1893, that date marking the entry of the village into the utility business. The southeast corner of the Church and Maple Street intersection was its location. Bert Spindler was the first electrician in charge. The dynamo for carbon-arc street lighting would carry 40 lights of 2,000 candlepower each, while the other, for servicing private customers, would carry 1,200 incandescent lights of 16 c.p. each. Two 16-foot boilers furnished the steam power for these dynamos, as well as for operating the pumps which delivered water to residents through the newly installed system of iron watermains and branches through the village. The water came from 28 driven wells, each about 40 feet deep.

Early service was far from today's standards, for the dynamos were shut off each night, about 10:30 o'clock. Lamps still remained a household necessity, for late night use. To have the street lights burn all night was unthought of - such a horrid waste. The picture was sent to us by Mrs. Warren Sherk of Pontiac, whose father, John Epplett, was employed therein a few years prior to 1910, at which time William Straube was superintendent.

In 1914 a larger powerhouse was built where Pine Street meets the railroad, facilitating delivery of coal. Electrical service was then placed on a 24-hour basis, except for Sundays.

In 1923 the management of village utilities passed to C. U. Brown, who remained in charge until recent years. The village, however, withdrew from the electric business when the meters and lines were sold to Great Lakes Power Company in 1924. Subsequent sales saw Michigan Electric Power Company take over the business, then in 1937 the Detroit Edison Company became the owners.

Nowadays we think little of the source of our electricity, other than flipping the switch when entering a room.

The village has continued to own and operate the water system, however. During the mid-1930's a sanitary sewer system, including a disposal plant a mile southwest of town, was built. The latter installation was considerably enlarged in 1955.

Shortly after World War II an important addition was made to the water system when water softening equipment was installed. Our supply today comes from deep wells located at the Municipal Park, and of course the system of water mains has been greatly enlarged to keep pace with the growth of the village.

Adequacy of the supply is again a current problem, however, and it may need important additions during the 1960's.

Noted Speaker Set for 4-H Achievement

The Tuscola County Home Economics Extension Women have an outstanding speaker for their annual Achievement Day, April 18, at Mayville High School. She is Miss Irene G. Meyers from Fort Wayne, Indiana.

Irene Meyers has been described in many ways. An article in American Magazine called her, "A baffling mixture of Joan of Arc and the old woman who lived in a shoe. She is at once a perennial crusader for more recognition for women in industry and a tireless explorer forever searching out new worlds to conquer."

John B. Crane, after interviewing her in the Hague, Holland, wrote in his syndicated column: "What Europe really needs is not more dollars, but women like Irene Meyers if it is to save itself from socialism and communism."

Fortune Magazine described her as, "Not a woman of cramped imagination — an irresistibly commanding personality."

A native of Fort Wayne, Indiana, Miss Meyers joined the General Electric Company in 1919 as a factory clerk. Shortly thereafter, she was transferred to factory work at her own request. There, she learned to know and love the women of industry.

She was later named Supervisor of Women's Activities of General Electric in Fort Wayne, a post she held for more than 20 years. She is best known, however, for her work as advisor to the Elix Club, believed to be the largest organized club for industrial women in the United States. Its hundreds of members, under the leadership of Miss Meyers, served a threefold purpose: social, service and education.

During her years as advisor to this club, she directed 33 trips for women, the best known of which was "The Magic Flight to Europe" in 1953. At that time it was the largest civilian group ever to cross the Atlantic Ocean by air, and the first trip of its kind to be recorded in the Congressional Record.

More recently, she conducted two more tours of Europe in 1956; a trip to Mexico in 1957; a tour of the Hawaiian Islands in 1958; 1959 brought a tour to the West Indies, and again in 1961 to the Hawaiian Islands.

Miss Meyers was selected "Woman of the Year" by the Pilot Club in 1953 and was twice named Fort Wayne's "Citizen of the Week." She was also chosen by the students of Purdue University as one of their "Old Masters" in 1954.

Miss Meyer left the General Electric Company January, 1955, after 35 years of service. At present she is touring the country lecturing about her experiences with Women in Industry.

This meeting is open to any woman in the county.

Vassar Man Pleads Guilty to Forgery

Milford Knight, Vassar, charged with forgery, pleaded guilty when arraigned before Circuit Court Judge Timothy Quinn during a court session held Wednesday, April 4.

Judge Quinn ordered a pre-sentencing investigation and set Knight's sentencing for Wednesday, April 18.

Knight reportedly forged a $50.00 check last December in Mayville and signed the check "Mrs. Mona I. Miller."

Cass City FFA Names New Officers

Four members of the Cass City Chapter of the Future Farmers of America have been named Regional Farmers at a Leadership Training Camp at Slesper State Park Saturday and Sunday.

The four are: William Miller, John Shagena, Russell Barriger and Gordon Mitchell.

Receiving the regional farmer award is necessary before boys can become eligible for the coveted State Farmer award.

At the meeting, Bill Miller of Cass City was selected treasurer of the area group from among 100 boys attending.

In other action, the local chapter elected officers. They are: John Shagena, president; Bill Miller, vice-president; Russell Barriger, secretary; Dave Parrott, treasurer; Gordon Mitchell, reporter, and Dave Livingston, sentinel.

GUINEA PIGS GALORE—Milton Erard, Decker, offers some lettuce greens to a very small portion of his 2,500 guinea pigs. The Erards' oldest daughter started the business five years ago with seven breeders and with breeding and buying, the colony has grown to its present size. The guinea pigs, also called Cavies, are used primarily in scientific laboratories.

Cavy Colony Can be Commercial Crop

Herbert Ludlow, Cass City Detroit Edison official, has been named as one of 10 directors of an association formed to seek improvement and designation of M-53 as an all-season highway without load limits.

A meeting was scheduled last night (Wednesday) at Martin's Restaurant to complete the organization and to elect officers. The association, originated by "Cap" Lott of the Huron County Extension Service is comprised of residents of five counties, Tuscola, Huron, Sanilac, Lapeer and Macomb, served by the road.

At present, only about 50 miles of the 125 miles of M-53 between its southern terminus at Detroit and northern terminus at Port Austin are listed for "all-season" use.

During the spring, according to Ludlow, load limits are in effect on the other 75 miles and other out-of-the-way routes have to be used for hauling heavy loads. Where this is not possible, loads must be reduced. This results in added costs for the shipper.

Only the eastern part of Tuscola county would be affected by the improvement and designation as an all-season road. Those in the western portion of the county, Ludlow explained, are served by M-23, out of Saginaw.

Ask most persons what a Cavy is and they'll probably reply that it is a hole in the side of a mountain.

Ask Milton Erard, Decker, and he'll tell you that it's a guinea pig. He should know... he has 2,500 of them at his 40-acre farm southeast of Cass City.

Erard raises guinea pigs commercially for scientific laboratories throughout the state and neighboring states. He also, on occasion, sells them to individuals as pets.

The Erards began raising Cavies five years ago when their oldest daughter, Betty, purchased 10 "breeders" for a cash outlay of $70.00. After she graduated from high school, she turned the business over to her parents.

Since then, the business has mushroomed to its present proportions and current plans call for more expansion, including a new 24x60 foot pea building.

For the uninitiated, guinea pigs are small, tailless animals of the Cavia porcellus rodent family. Depending on the breed, they come in all shapes, sizes and coloring.

Wonderful Pets.

"They make wonderful pets," Erard remarked, "better than rabbits or white rats, because they never bite." They sell to individual parties according to size.

Sales to the laboratories are generally restricted to the white Cavy, called the American white. Laboratories use them for testing drugs, studying diseases, extracting serums and other scientific studies.

They sell to laboratories in Detroit and Midland and have sent shipments to Indiana and Pennsylvania.

Perhaps the most outstanding thing about the guinea pig is its cry, which is something akin to a whistle. They are prone to whistle when excited, when not excited and when conversing with each other.

Male Cavies are called boars and female Cavies are called sows, just like their farmyard namesakes. There is nothing distinctly recognizable about either sex in general appearance and it's hard to tell which is which, unless you're a Cavy.

They live in colonies in hutches. A building containing a number of hutches is a Caviary.

The young, when born, average about two ounces and measure, on the average, three inches long. The gestation period is 65-70 days and the number of young per sow varies from two to five.

On very rare occasions, the Erards report, a sow will have up to seven or eight young. This can create a problem because each sow has just two place settings.

A peculiarity of the sow, as compared to other animal mothers, takes care of any such problems. They will nurse any young, regardless of whose it is, Erard points out. The young are weaned after three to four weeks.

Originated in Peru

Cavies first were domesticated by the Indians of Peru. It is believed that the Spanish conquerors of South America introduced the Cavy to Europe.

The Peruvians, and later the Europeans, ate the Cavy, which was considered a delicacy. The Peruvians also used the Cavy for sacrifices and rituals.

Earlier species ranged up to 10 pounds, but now, according to Erard, "it takes a mighty big one to weigh three pounds."

To the Editor:

After attending the Supreme Court hearing, which was held in Lansing for the purpose of removing Probate Judge Henderson Graham from office, it was hard to believe the reports that the court has ruled against him.

We heard several charges brought against him which, in our opinion, were not proven. It seems reporters felt the same way, as no reports were published that would lead the public to believe that Judge Graham was guilty.

We feel the people of this county should register their protest by contacting either or both Senator Arthur Dehmel or Representative Allison Green at the State Capitol, urging them to do all in their power to keep this man in office, whom we have twice elected and who has served the people of this county in many other capacities without anyone having reason to doubt his integrity.

NEW HOLDING YARD is expected to boom the lumber industry in Tuscola County and the Thumb. Dave Jones of Otter Lake (left) points out pulpwood harvested in the Murphy Lake area of Tuscola County to Alfred Ballweg, Tuscola county extension director.

Wilmot Yard to Boom Lumbering

Tuscola county and the Thumb area of Michigan are on the threshold of greatly expanding the harvest of "pulpwood", one of our little-used natural resources, reports Alfred Ballweg, county extension director.

The Detroit division of the Scott Paper Company recently announced the purchase of a 40-acre tract of land two and a half miles north of Wilmot along the Grand Trunk railroad. This area will be made ready as soon as conditions permit to receive and hold pulpwood delivered to yard. The yard will be operated year around and will purchase peeled and unpeeled poplar and heavy hardwoods.

According to figures made available by Allen Boelter, district forester for the Michigan Department of Conservation, there are available for harvest in the counties of Huron, Lapeer, Sanilac, St. Clair and Tuscola, 73,300 acres of aspen, classified as pole timber. In addition to this there are 65,500 acres of well-stocked seedling aspen and 10,800 acres of poorly stocked, making a total of 150,600 acres. Figuring an average of four cords per acre in pole-size timber, we find 293,200 cords in the five county area. Using a stumpage value of $1.25 per cord, this amounts to $366,500.

Research indicates growth will produce four-tenths of a cord per acre per year. Applying this growth rate to the pole-sized acreage (73,300) and the well-stocked seedling and sapling acreage (66,500) results in 55,920 cords of growth per year. To maintain a good stand of timber, harvest will be about eight-tenths of the growth, which in this case would be 44,736 cords. This growth is more than Scott's present annual needs of 30,000 cords. However, the pallet and crating industry could use some of the remaining growth. The stumpage value of this annual growth is nearly $56,000.

It may also be used in early weaning of late-farrowed litters, for orphan pigs or under-size pigs at normal weaning age. In six tests on 616 Pigs, Early Weaning Chow-fed pigs gained as fast as pigs on sow's milk and creep feed from the 3rd to 6th week. They gained .77 lb. per pig daily - made 1 lb. gain from only 1.27 lbs. feed. In On-The-Farm Tests, pigs followed the same pattern... weighed 23-33 lbs. at 6 weeks. Feed cost per pound of gain on good pigs raised under good management, ranged from 12c to 14c.

This year the annual home economics extension Achievement Day will be held at the Mayville High School auditorium on April 18 from 10:00 to 3:30 p.m. On April 16 I will have the last advanced clothing construction workshop for this program year. It will be held in the evening.

The beginning of spring means that the fresh pineapple season is here. Did you know that the pineapple is a symbol of hospitality? In the early colonial days in New England a likeness of the pineapple was carved on gateposts and doorways to show hospitality.

It takes about 20 months, after planting, before the mature fruit is ready for harvesting. Pineapple does require a tropical climate for growth. The soil needs special care and extra nourishment in order to continue producing good fruit, and continued care must be exercised during the planting, cultivating and harvesting periods.

Pineapple is shipped to the U.S. from Puerto Rico, Hawaii and Mexico. Shipments usually begin in February, with increasing amounts in March and April, reaching the peak shipments in May. The fruit is shipped in crates, according to size. The sizes range from 8 to 18 per crate. The smaller the number, the larger the fruit.

When you select fresh pineapple, you should look for those which are heavy for their size. They should smell like a good, sweet pineapple. The ripeness can be determined by color, deep yellow to orange. The leaves of the crown will pull out easily when the fruit is ripe. The eyes should be almost flat and there should not be any mold or decayed spots at the base or around the eyes.

If you do purchase a pineapple that is slightly green, let it ripen at room temperature, in a dark place. A ripe pineapple does bruise easily, so it should be handled as little as possible.

Fresh pineapple can be served in many interesting forms. Slice it right down the center through the crown, scoop out the core and fruit and use the halves for individual fruit bowls. Or, cut off the crown and bottom, cut in halves and quarters. Remove the core, cut free from the shell and slice in bite sizes. Serve it in or out of the shell.

Other serving ideas are: stand long spears of pineapple in a small glass, of orange or grape juice. Combine fresh chunks of pineapple and fresh strawberries, fold into sweetened, whipped cream and serve. To freeze fresh pineapple, just cut in thin slices or cubes, pack in freezing containers and cover with a 30 per cent syrup (2 cups sugar and 4 cups of water) and freeze.

Complete Supreme Court Opinions In Henderson Graham Hearing

STATE OF MICHIGAN Supreme Court

In the Matter of Henderson Graham, Judge of Probate, Respondent.

Before the entire bench, except Adams, J. Souris, J. (concurring) I concur in my Brothers' finding of facts, the conclusions reached therefrom and the recommendation to the legislature and to the governor that respondent be removed from office as provided by 6 of art 9, Const. of 1908. However, our constitutionally mandated duty to exercise general superintending control over inferior courts (4, art 7) requires - more from us. We should forthwith enter our order enjoining respondent from exercising the powers and duties of his judicial office pending the legislative and executive action recommended, or until further order of this Court.

We have found that respondent's misconduct, related to the performance of his judicial duties, was shameful, unpardonable and intolerable and for such misconduct we have recommended his removal from office. How, then, can we justify his interim exercise of judicial authority, authority which rests alone upon the public's continuing confidence in the moral integrity of its judgments? I cannot. Nor can I justify exposing the citizens of this state, not alone of Tuscola county, to the possibility of continuing deprivations by this respondent until the legislature and the governor are able to act.

STATE OF MICHIGAN Supreme Court

In the Matter of Henderson Graham, Judge of Probate, Respondent.

Before the entire bench (except Adams, J.) Per Curiam June 5, 1959, this Court adopted its currently effective rules for superintendence of the judiciary of Michigan. Such rules were prepared and submitted to the Chief Justice, with due recommendation of adoption, by the Board of Commissioners of the Integrated Michigan Bar. A transcript thereof may be found in Volume 366 of Michigan Reports, xv through xxi. They were designed as implements of procedure and due process for the constitutional mandate of superintendence. See Const. 1908, art 7, s 4.

Following an investigation which had been instituted and concluded by the attorney general, and reference by his office of the results of such investigation to the court administrator, the present proceeding* was authorized by the Chief Justice under Rule 3. Since Rule 8 requires in presently indicated circumstances that the hearing court make written findings of fact and law, and that such court determine such corrective and disciplinary measures as in the judgment of the court are warranted by such findings, we respond with the following findings and determination.

Henderson Graham, respondent in the present proceeding, is the duly elected, qualified and acting probate judge of Tuscola county. He was serving his second four-year term during the period of judicial and personal action brought into present scrutiny.

Edwina Dering, by recent marriage Edwina Green, became 21 years of age since the hearing of January 23. By guardianship proceedings instituted in the Tuscola county probate court under date of January 27, 1958, one William Walkiewicz was appointed guardian of Edwina's estate. Mr. Walkiewicz submitted his final account as such guardian and was duly discharged after having paid over to the successor guardian the accounted amount remaining in his hands, namely, $3669.51. Shortly before such discharge Edwina's older sister, Sylvia Goszkowski, a resident of Detroit, was appointed successor guardian of Edwina's estate by order of the respondent judge dated September 21, 1959. The amount of her bond was set by respondent at the sum of $3,000. Mrs. Goszkowski's bond was approved and filed and letters of guardianship were duly issued to her by order of the respondent.

Under date of October 8, 1960, Mrs. Goszkowski filed with said probate court an inventory of the ward's estate. The inventory disclosed then, as the testimonial record does now, that the parents of the 2 sisters had been killed in an automobile accident and that there had been distributed, to Mrs. Goszkowski as guardian of Edwina, the total sum of $16,666.67 representing Edwina's distributive share of the re-covered proceeds of death actions which had been instituted, in the Livingston circuit, by the personal representatives of the 2 parental estates. Such proceeds, added to the amount previously received, made up - on the face of the probate record - a net total of liquid assets, in the hands of the guardian, of $20,294.18 (from the added amounts we have deducted $42, consisting of allowed administration expenses).

In early February of 1961 the respondent judge, at Caro, that being the county seat of Tuscola county, telephoned guardian Goszkowski at Detroit. The purpose of his call was to open negotiations with the guardian for a personal loan, to him, from the ward's estate as reported in the probate record, in the sum of "about $20,000." Mrs. Goszkowski advised respondent that she would discuss the proposal with her sister (the ward, then a student at Michigan State University) and that she would return respondent's call. The proposal to Mrs. Goszkowski seemed "unusual." She called her attorney for advice. Her attorney thereupon called a member of the attorney general's staff, whereupon the attorney general's department undertook and concluded the investigation to which we have referred. Details of the latter follow:

Mrs. Goszkowski was directed to call respondent, as she had agreed, in the presence of 2 officers of the State Police. The call was made. In the course thereof Mrs. Goszkowski accepted respondent's offer to come to her home, in Detroit, to discuss his proposal. It was agreed that he come to her home "the following Wednesday," which was February 8. Respondent came to the Goszkowski home as arranged, where the conversation between judge and guardian was secretly recorded by the officers. Mrs. Goszkowski testified that respondent "brought with him several documents about his real estate and insurance policies, and he was going to show that this would be a very good investment as he was - he certainly could cover the $20,000 if I ever needed it, provided that we went through with the investment." The security offered by respondent for the loan as proposed was to be a promissory note signed by himself and wife, "And he said, well, we could have - we could hold the mortgage on his home or his property, and he said - but he would just as soon not, that all really that would be necessary would be his signature and his wife's." Mrs. Goszkowski went on to relate that respondent said that "if my sister insisted upon a mortgage he would give it to her and he said we could keep it in the house, and that it wouldn't be necessary to register it."

"The following testimony, which is found established by clear preponderance, is significant at this point: "Q. All right. Now I am still on the Wednesday conference. At any time during this day was the question of your bond as the fiduciary, the guardian, talked about? "A. Yes. "Q. What was said about that? "A. That seeing that the assets were now increased from $3,000 that I would have to increase my bond, provided I did not make this loan to Judge Graham. "Q. To him? "A. Yes. "Q. Now there is no question about that at all, is there, Mrs. Goszkowski? "A. No. "Q. - in your mind? "A. No. "Q. Do I gather, then, that if you agreed to make this loan to him your $3,000 bond would continue as adequate in his court? "A. Yes."

The conference of February 8, at the Goszkowski home, was left "with no decision made." Respondent appeared desirous of an answer "at some early date" and Mrs. Goszkowski agreed to get in touch with him later. Two days later, by appointment, Mrs. Goszkowski went to the Detroit office of the attorney general. There she placed a call to respondent. On that occasion she told respondent "that we would not discuss this any more because we would not go through with any type of a note or an investment with him personally." Later that day respondent called Mrs.

Goszkowski again and expressed a desire to discuss the proposed loan with the ward, suggesting that "he could go to East Lansing and talk to her." Mrs. Goszkowski then advised that she would discuss the proposal with the ward and "would return his call." That she did, later in the day. Respondent was advised "That my sister would be in Detroit the following day and that if he would like to come to my home he could speak to her." Respondent replied that he would be there at the appointed time; one o'clock in the afternoon. The meeting as arranged was duly held. The 2 sisters were present, along with respondent. Officers Whalen and Denkel were present in the home. Their presence was not disclosed to respondent, and the entire conference was tape recorded by them.

The same proposal, to borrow approximately $20,000 from the ward's estate, was presented by respondent and discussed for approximately one hour. The 2 sisters finally told respondent that their decision was "No", whereupon respondent told the two that the guardian's bond would have to be increased from the then amount of $3,000 if the proposed loan was not made and if made the $3,000 bond would remain without ordered increase of the amount thereof.

It is unnecessary to detail further the evidence of respondent's design. It was proven clearly and is not categorically denied. And we cannot help noting, with a feeling of shame, the secrecy this judge of a court of record employed as he sought to take over and apply, to his own use, funds of which he was a primary as well as judicial trustee. Courts of record usually act in open court or at chambers, on the record with respect to judicial duties and matters subject to their jurisdiction. The judges thereof do not usually arrange by telephone, with no record made of such doings in the court file, for distant and off-the-record conferences with fiduciaries appointed by them and remaining under their jurisdictional control. Nor do they deal in such manner with the subject-matter of appointment and jurisdictional control, that is, estate assets.

This Court finds that, on and prior to February 11, 1961, the respondent judge sought affirmatively if unsuccessfully to obtain from an estate subject to his lawful control and orders, in the sum of approximately $20,000, and to use his official position in furtherance thereof. Such conduct on the part of a judge is both intolerable and unpardonable. We shall say more of this later.

The respondent judge was given full opportunity to explain and excuse his conduct. An all day hearing was provided with all eligible members of the Court participating. No further time for presentation of additional proof was requested. Respondent's defense, submitted by testimony and with the aid of able counsel, is that he is not legally schooled, that he was not versed or familiar with the canons of judicial ethics, that he was guilty at worst of poor judgment, that he was activated by honest if ill-advised motives, that adequate security for the proposed loan would have been provided, and that no injunctive or recommendatory order should issue as prayed in the court administrator's petition. "The prayer is as follows: "WHEREFORE, your petitioner prays that the Court forthwith enter its order commanding respondent to desist and refrain further from exercising the powers and functions of said office of Judge of Probate or in any way, directly or indirectly, interfering with or impeding the orderly operation of said office of Judge of Probate of said County of Tuscola until the further order of the Court; and further, that the Court forthwith direct a written communication to the legislature of the State of Michigan requesting the adoption of a concurrent resolution of two-thirds of the members elected to each house thereof, under and by virtue of the provisions of Article IX, Section 6 of the Constitution of Michigan, demanding of the Governor the immediate removal of said respondent, Henderson Graham, from said office of Judge of Probate of the County of Tuscola."

For reasons already indicated and others to follow, this position is found wholly untenable. In matters of superintendence particularly, our normal instinct is that of sympathetic consideration of ethically questionable conduct and, where some doubt exists, that of leaning toward application of the presumption of innocence and of crass ignorance on the part of one who should but does not know better. In such instances the inclination of a constitutionally charged superintendent might well be that of ordering a judgment of censure and reprimand only. But there are other facts, shown here beyond fair dispute, which require forceful action. We simply cannot overlook a disclosed pattern of secretly attempted and unsuccessful "borrowing," by a probate judge, from estates under his jurisdiction. Once such pattern is discovered, the opportunity of continuity thereof must be concluded with firmness and resolution.

It was established testimonially, during the hearing of January 23, that the respondent actually took over and commingled with his own funds certain cash which at all times belonged of right in the hands of a duly appointed fiduciary of another estate under his jurisdiction. Study of such testimony has resulted in our calling in, for examination, the Tuscola county probate file entitled in the matter of the estate of "John Prief aka John Brief," deceased.

A few days after Mr. Prief's death a Mr. Montague brought in, to the Tuscola county probate court, certain amounts of cash belonging to the decedent. The first amount was $2,990. It was brought in November 25, 1959 and accepted for as estate funds by the probate register, Mrs. Douglas Putnam (a witness during the hearing of January 23). The next amount, $661.51, was brought in by Mr. Montague on November 27, 1959 and accepted for by respondent as estate funds. No special administrator was appointed" and it was not until October 31, 1960 that Claude Sirdan, another witness who testified during the hearing of January 23, was appointed executor of Mr. Prief's will upon order of respondent. Mr. Sirdan promptly asked respondent for the money belonging to the estate and, shortly after such request, received $2,990 thereof from respondent. On the first occasion thereafter, when Mr. Sirdan asked for the balance, respondent said "I'll have a check in the mail shortly." No check was sent. Still again Mr. Sirdan asked the judge for the balance. The judge replied "You don't need the money too bad right now, and I'll have it to you shortly." It was not until the estate was ready for closing and

"When the funds were brought in it was the plain duty of Judge Graham to appoint, immediately, a properly bonded special administrator of Mr. Prief's estate to take charge of such assets. See CL 1948, S702.60, as amended by PA 1959, No. 126. distribution that respondent paid the balance and, being in doubt respecting the amount owing by him to the estate, "did so by his personal "blank check" sent to the attorney for the estate. The latter was told to compute what was due from the judge and to fill out the check as to amount, which he did. The only explanation offered by Judge Graham, for retention of the remaining six hundred odd dollars received by him from Mr. Montague, was that "It apparently got into a compartment where I kept some of my own personal money at times." We cannot accept this as an excuse for such judicial misconduct and find as a fact that the respondent appropriated, to his own improper use, between November 27, 1959 and the distribution of the Prief estate on May 16, 1961, indeterminate amounts of money belonging to the estate.

The judgement of this court is sufficiently indicated by findings of fact and law aforesaid. Our constitutional obligation is clear. The "unlimited" extent of exigent duty arising under the constitutional mandate was unanimously considered and plainly defined in In Re Huff, 352 Mich. 402. It includes no power of or duty to remove or impeach a judicial officer, a function belonging to other branches of government under article 9 (Const. 1908), yet it brooks no shrinkage.

*Judge Graham apparently kept no record of the amounts received for November 25 and 27, 1959. It was by resort to the receipts given Mr. Montague that the attorney for the estate was able to compute the amount owing and thus ready the estate for distribution.

from that which was pressed upon this Court, by the people, on 2 separate occasions, once in 1850 and again in 1908.

In modern times the present proceeding is the second occasion only when disciplinary action under the superintendence section has become imperative. This speaks volumes to the general credit of Michigan's judiciary. It shows, too, that the duty of disciplinary superintendence is, as it should be, sparingly and carefully administered. We regret, then, that action of such nature has to be taken now against a judge of a subordinate court. Regret, however, relieves us no whit from duty. Here it is shown, abundantly by proof we have seen uttered, heard uttered, and then have examined with requisite reading care, that a judge of one of our courts of record has been guilty of that kind of misconduct which would require firm animadversion of any responsible superintendent.

Judgement and Order

It is the judgement of this Court that there is reasonable cause within meaning and purpose of § 6 of article 9 of the Constitution, for recommendation under Rule 8 that the Legislature, after due hearing (see CLS 1956, S168.443), adopt a concurrent resolution for removal of Henderson Graham, judge of the probate court of Tuscola county, from such judicial office.

It is adjudged accordingly that this court does so recommend.

Upon due consideration of the foregoing it is Ordered that certified copies of the foregoing opinion, and of this appended judgment and order, be forthwith transmitted by the clerk to the Governor, and to the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and Ordered further, that the records and files of this Court in the matter of the proceeding entitled above, including the transcript of all testimony taken during the hearing of January 23 and the State Police tape recordings marked Exhibits 1 and 2, and expressly including the 2 Tuscola county probate files that are now in custody of the clerk, be made available under supervision of the Chief Justice to such committee or committees of the Legislature as may have need for same.

It is further ordered that the question whether this Court shall employ its power and authority to enjoin said judge of probate, from exercising the powers and duties of said judicial office, be held in abeyance pending the result if any of legislative action, as recommended above, during a period of 30 days from and after delivery of such certified copies to the Governor, the President of the Senate, and the Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Sez:

Dear Mister Editor:
The fellers at the country store Saturday night was wondering if you'd got that letter off to our Congressman about them Chinese feathers. In case you ain't dispatched it yet, some of them wanted a item or two added to it.

Ed Doblittle allowed as how them bureaucrats in Washington has wore him down and brain-washed him complete on the idea we got to have one tax-eater fer ever tax-payer in the country. If we can just hold this one-fer-one ratio, claims Ed, we can keep the national budget unbalanced till judgement day. You can't explore new frontiers, says Ed, with a balanced budget. And he says he'll go along with the one-fer-one system that calls fer ever office holder to have a assistant, and fer ever assistant to have a helper, and fer ever helper to have a 30-hour week, port to port pay, retirement benefits at 50, a month's vacation onct a year with full pay, and a "fact-finding" pleasure trip around the world from time to time.

Furthermore, says Ed, he ain't raising a finger agin that million-dollar grant the tax-payers give them science fellers to study if baby monkeys loves their mothers. But Ed is pritty upset over the fact that four months has gone by and we ain't had no report on this monkey-love project. Ed claims that, fer a million dollars, the tax-eaters ought to be giving the tax-payers a report about onct a month, maybe onct a week, on this matter.

When you send that letter off to Washington, Mister Editor, see if you can git the latest news on this monkey-love project. All the fellers will appreciate it.

Clem Webster said to tell his Congressman he's strong in favor of our stockpiling program. Clem says Sampson did the biggest job of slaughtering till the A-Bomb, and he done it with the jaw-bone of a ass. Somewhere between Sampson and the A-Bomb, claims Clem, you'd have to put Senator Byrd fer trying to do a jaw-bone job on our fine stockpiling program.

Bug Hookum was lamenting one thing about this program. He said he was reading a list of them things we was stockpiling and he was shocked over the absence of one item. Bug said, according to the list, we been stockpiling everthing from humming bird eggs to grandfather clocks but they ain't a frying pan on the whole list. Bug allows as how the frying pan, next to fire and the wheel, was the greatest invention ever made by man. He wants you to ask his Congressman how come we ain't stockpiling this strategic item. Bug says if war comes he'd rather have one frying pan as a car-load of them Chinese feathers.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Michigan Mirror

Reapportionment Is Very Necessary To Ease Problems Before November Election

By Elmer E. White
Michigan Press Association

Voters probably will elect a Congressman-at-large in November along with the other state-wide offices.

The Legislature's first attempt to reapportion the state's Congressional districts to create a 19th seat met a veto on the Governor's desk.

Republicans in the Legislature admitted the plan was a "status quo" measure, which would have left most of the districts as they are now. The new district would have been created with the southwestern section of Macomb County and the southeast portion of Oakland County.

Gov. John B. Swainson and other Democrats want a general redistricting of the state. Michigan's 12th district, the western section of the Upper Peninsula, is the nation's smallest with 177,481 people, and the 16th district, in Detroit, is the largest in the nation with over 800,000 people.

The Legislature is expected to try again in the remaining three weeks of the session but it appears doubtful the "old guard" of the GOP ranks will go along with an apportionment plan proposed by Sen. Carlton H. Morris, R-Kalamazoo.

The Morris plan was tentatively approved by Swainson and other Democrats before it was introduced but met strong Republican opposition because it included a general shift of all districts.

It would appear logical that both parties would be inclined toward settling the redistricting problem before November's election.

The problems of running a state-wide campaign are known only to politicians, perhaps, but the difficulties of being a good representative for some 8 million people should be obvious to all.

If no redistricting plan is approved in time for the fall election, the candidates for the Congressman-at-large seat most likely will fit one of two categories—either someone who has been in the Michigan political spotlight and succeeded, or a relatively new and ambitious individual.

Three persons already are being mentioned as likely candidates for the office.

Secretary of State James M. Hare declines to say whether he is seriously thinking about the position, but Democrats are anxious for him to seek the spot. This perennially good vote-getter could very likely beat any opposition.

On the Republican side, both a relative newcomer and a veteran candidate have indicated some interest in the seat. They are State Rep. Gilbert E. Bursley, Ann Arbor, and Constitutional Convention delegate Alvin Bentley, Owosso.

Bursley, who is concluding his first term in the State House, has had wide and varied experience in government positions although his present post is his first elected office. His activities as chairman of a legislative committee on economic growth have enhanced his position somewhat. The committee has held hearings in every corner of the state.

Bursley openly admits he is interested in running for Congress but apparently he does not want to face a primary fight with 2nd District Rep. George Meader, who also lives in Ann Arbor.

Bentley was unsuccessful in his bid for the U. S. Senate seat held by Democrat Patrick V. McNamara so might not be willing to attempt another state-wide campaign, but he makes no bones about the fact that he wants to stay in public life. He gave up a seat in Congress to make the Senate race in 1960.

The early months of 1962 gave the Michigan Economic Development every reason for optimism. So far this year, the ratio of industries moving in as compared to shifts out of the state is running 6 to 5. Dr. Paul Herbert, chief of the department's research division, termed this "a distinct improvement" over the same period last year.

Indications are that the trend noticed in the latter part of 1961 in southeastern Michigan is continuing, Herbert said. The trend showed the Detroit Metropolitan area and the southeastern counties were staging a comeback in industrial location.

The department is planning to emphasize individual community efforts in industrial growth during the entire year, Herbert said.

"Cities and villages that have been doing outstanding work in local industrial development are being singled out for meetings of the Michigan Industrial Ambassadors," he said.

The Ambassadors is a group of nearly 300 businessmen who travel throughout the country promoting the industrial advantage of Michigan communities.

Among the notable local efforts in the limelight recently have been the attempts by Port Huron, Jackson, Detroit and several other cities to get a new district processing center planned for the Midwest by the Internal Revenue Service.

Port Huron is offering a 30-year site where a new building will be constructed and leased to the government for $1 a year. The Jackson Industrial Park officials have offered 15 acres and a building for lease.

Herbert said several other cities have also offered free sites in an attempt to secure the 1,400 year-round jobs to be available at the new government office.

KOMMENTS BY KRAFT

"S" is for the Silly Things She...

By Dave Kraft

"S" is for the silly things she does. "A" is for the awful time she gives me. "L" is for the little lop-eared stuffed puppy that she loves. "Y" is for the yells that come at 2:00 a.m.

Put them all together, they spell SALLY and mean a worn-out old dad.

That sounds vaguely like a song I once heard. Maybe I should put it to music.

Before I go any further, let me explain one thing. I am a father and breadwinner. I am not a housewife and a mother. I leave that to those better equipped, physically and mentally, for it than I.

It is my belief that there are certain duties that go with being a mother and are definitely not a part of being a father.

They include feeding, diaper changing, bathing and pacifying. Unfortunately, my wife is neither aware nor cares about my feelings in the matter.

I dislike feeding Sally, especially baby foods. She seems to have the idea that what goes in must come out, immediately. She can spit strained baby food farther than any five-month-old I've ever seen.

I'd rather take a beating than change Sally's diapers. When I hesitate, my wife says that's exactly what I'll get if I don't change her diapers.

Besides the slightly nauseated feeling and other unpleasanties, it is a very dangerous job. One wrong move on the baby's part will send the "safety" pin into your finger clear up to your elbow.

Bathing her is very much like an evening at the beach. As a matter of fact, ever since the first time, I wear my swimming trunks. (This causes considerable comment when I answer the door.) The problem stems from the fact that it hasn't been made clear to Sally who is bathing who.

Besides that, any fool knows that when you're sitting in a sink full of water, the only natural thing to do is to see how much you can splash out... which she does.

Things don't get any better as the bathing progresses. Trying to handle a well-soaped baby in a sink full of water is like trying to separate the yolk from the egg with your bare hands.

The first time I tried to bathe Sally, things got completely out of hand and I was going down for the third time when my wife stepped in with a towel.

As far as pacifying her goes, she and I just can't reach a point of agreement.

The adult approach has no effect. When I tell her to shut up or I'll bust her in the britches, she just screams louder.

There is one trick that works, but if she thinks I'm going to stand on my head in a corner all night, she's just as goofy as her mother.

No solution to these problems seems soon to appear, so one of us will have to give in, and I'm afraid Sally has more patience than her old dad.

Many teachers would, at some time or other, like to tell their students to get lost.

Cass City High School Librarian Jerry Shea has taken the bull by the horns and done just that.

On the Library bulletin board is a sign ordering, "Get Lost..." Below a display of new book covers, the sign continues "in a book!"

Anti-Litter Campaign Launched

A CAMPAIGN TO eliminate litter along Michigan's highways has been started by Gov. John B. Swainson (right) who recently named a special Anti-Litter Committee to study the problem. Swainson met with State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie (left) and State Police Commissioner Joseph A. Childs to discuss an educational program to be conducted soon. Childs is Chairman of the Governor's Anti-Litter Committee.

Get A Permit Before You Burn

Getting ready to burn leaves and rubbish around your home or cottage this spring? If so, don't forget you'll need a burning permit from the Conservation Department. It's easy to get one provided, of course, conditions are safe. Just drop into your nearest Department district or field office. A telephone call to either office will also do; your permit will be filled out over the phone and mailed to you. Permits are also available from conservation officers, fire officers, and towermen. An issued permit means that weather conditions are "A-OK" for burning in your area. It also tells Department field men where you'll be burning so they can come to your rescue in a hurry if things get out of control. It's an important piece of paper. And, it's free.—Mich.
