

Delay, Delay the Communist Way

John Zabinski returned home from a trip to Europe in early September last year and left a newly-acquired wife behind the Iron Curtain in Poland.

"She'll be joining me here on the farm (on the Cass River, south of Cass City) in about a month," John told the Chronicle on his return, obviously pleased about his good fortune.

But the month has stretched into seven and the new wife is still in Poland. "It's been one delay after another," Zabinski reports.

I received a letter saying that she should positively be here by Thanksgiving . . .

then it was Christmas . . . and we both knew that she would be on the farm by Easter.

The trouble? . . . investigation by Communist authorities. They have gone back 10 years in her life to check her background. When one is satisfied, someone else always delays the departure. The American Consul is trying to help, but it is hard, Zabinski reports.

The latest letter reports that she should be able to leave in about two weeks, if no other delays come about at the last minute.

It looks as if she will be here for Memorial Day for sure, unless ---?

For Village Police Chief

Council to Consider 3

The search for a replacement for Bill Wood as Cass City Police Chief has been narrowed to three men and a final decision is expected at a special meeting Friday.

Wood's resignation not only required action by the police committee of President Andrew Bigelow and Trustees Jim Seals and Lee Rabideau for a new man, but it also sparked a review of the entire police program.

The man selected will be required to work in close harmony with the sheriff's department, the state police, and the local police committee.

A checking-in and checking-out daily of the officer will be required and the police car will be left nightly at a specified location.

From an original list of 15 names, the committee has recommended three men for consideration Friday. They are Carl Palmateer, deputy sheriff of the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department in Caro, Dick McBride of Bad Axe and Ed Anthes, currently filling the post on a temporary basis.

In addition, a part-time man will be hired for some 30 hours a week at $1.50 per hour. The chief will receive about $95 weekly for 60 hours of work.

Both Palmateer and McBride have indicated that they will move to Cass City if they are hired. The principal objection to Anthes is that his home is not in Cass City where trustees feel he would be more available for calls.

The program, as outlined, will be within the budget of $7,800 yearly, the committee pointed out.

New Program

In another move, trustees authorized the abandonment of the traditional policy of having the local officer confine his work almost entirely to the village.

They okayed an agreement with the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department where the local officer will make a call when requested on cases within eight

Fire Department Started in 1884 Rotarians Told

Elkland township fire chief Al Avery and Fritz Neitzel, treasurer, gave Cass City Rotarians a brief run-down on the history of the Elkland fire department and demonstrated fire equipment at a Rotary meeting Tuesday at the New Gordon Hotel.

Neitzel told the group that the original Elkland fire department was started on October 29, 1884, and was called the Artic No. 1.

The department currently belongs to the Tuscola County Firemen's Association. As a member of the association, the area served by the fire department is served by the Caro and Gageton fire departments in case the Elkland township fire department has to leave the vicinity.

Since 1950, the department has handled an average of 35 fires per year. The peak was in 1957 with 44 fires and the low was in 1952 with 27 fires. There have been 25 fires reported this year.

Avery gave a demonstration of the department's rescuator and the working procedure for three types of fire extinguishers.

Free Swim Returns

Free swimming has returned to Cass City. The unpopular decision of the village to charge for the use of the pool daily has been rescinded for the summer and area youngsters will again use the facilities daily, except Sunday, free of charge. The action was taken Tuesday night at the regular council meeting at the Municipal building.

In order to regulate the use of the pool so that it will not be overcrowded in the 2 to 4 p.m. free period, the use will be restricted by age groups on specified days to be announced. Jerome Root, of the park committee, said. Paid swimming will be from 4 to 6 p.m. daily, he added.

Supervision will remain the same. Dick Carroll will again be the head man. He has arranged for lifeguards.

Park Program

The park program is not arranged. The committee was not sure whether or not Mrs. Mike Yedinak will be available to help supervise. When her plans are definite, the park plans will be completed.

This year the $400 ordinarily given by the school for the program was given from Community Chest funds. Elkland township also gives $400 and the village chips in an equal amount to run the summer recreation.

New Location

In other action concerning the park, a new Little League diamond was authorized.

Eli Holes and Milt Connolly appeared before the trustees and explained that the present location was not as safe as it could be because of the traffic problem. Because it is part of the school playground, the field is not available as soon as the league authorities would like to have it.

The new field was authorized for a location at the east side of the park, south of the village's pump house. In a final action concerning the Little League program, Eli Holes was signed as umpire for $10 nightly.

Cass City May Get Jaycee Club

The possibility of organizing a Junior Chamber of Commerce in Cass City will be discussed at an open meeting scheduled for Friday (tomorrow) night at Ann's Restaurant, Cass City, at 8:00 p.m.

Sponsored by the Caro Jaycees, the meeting has reportedly been set at the request of several Cass City young men who have expressed an interest in forming a Jaycee unit in the village.

Letters have been sent to an estimated 180 Cass City men eligible to join such an organization. The meeting is also open to any young men who were not notified but are interested.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce is a civic service organization whose membership is open to all young men between the ages of 21 through 35.

At the briefing meeting, Caro Jaycees will explain various phases of their own operation, community and membership benefits resulting from Chamber operations and chapter and membership requirements.

A question and answer period will close the meeting.

The letter sent to the area young men read in part: "In brief, the objectives of the Junior Chamber are four-fold: To make the community a better place in which to live. 2. To develop leadership among its own members. 3. Offer education, recreation and social activities to men of similar age. 4. To give young men a voice in affairs of their community, state and nation."

According to the letter, the Cass City Chamber of Commerce has indicated its support.

Yedinak Signs at Alpena High

Okay Travel Allowance for Village Personnel

After narrowly missing appointment at two other Class A schools, Coach Mike Yedinak last week was signed as head football coach at Alpena High School.

The Alpena school is a small Class A school with a high school enrollment of about 1,400 pupils (roughly about three times the size of Cass City).

Coach Yedinak, who announced early in the year that he would not return, will leave behind an excellent record at Cass City.

His football teams won 50 games, lost 12 and tied two in the eight years he has been at the helm. He won the Thumb B Conference championship four times, was second twice and third once, finishing in the second division only once in his eight years at Cass City.

His track teams have been even better. In the seven years he has been the coach, Cass City has won seven titles.

Yedinak said that he will be very sorry to leave his many friends in Cass City, but the school circumstances in Cass City and a salary increase at his new post dictated the move.

He will move into a challenging position. Alpena grid squads have won only two games and tied two games in the last four years.

Before coming to Cass City, Yedinak was coach for two years at Millington and three years at Oxford. He has a Master's degree from the University of Michigan.

The coach and his popular wife, Lillian, have five children: Marty, 16, Diane, 14, Donna, 11, Dorothy, 10, and Mike, 7.

Detroit Couple Buy New Gordon Hotel

Month-long negotiations by a Detroit couple for the purchase of the New Gordon Hotel, Cass City, will culminate Tuesday, May 1, when Mrs. A. B. Fleming takes over as manager of the hotel.

The sale of the hotel has been announced by Mr. and Mrs. Ken Cumper, owners of the business for the past 17 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Fleming boast 20 years of hotel management experience in Detroit and the surrounding area.

Mr. Fleming, prior to purchasing the hotel, was manager of the food division of the Prophet Company, a catering service firm out of Dallas, Texas. The company handles the catering service for such companies as General Motors.

Mrs. Krueger New Zonta President

Mrs. Marie Krueger, wife of Cass City industrialist Al Krueger, was installed as president of the Cass City Zonta Club during ceremonies at a club meeting held at the New Gordon Hotel Tuesday, April 17.

The installation, by Lucille Bauer, past president, followed the election of the club's 1962-63 officers.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Wilma Fry, vice-president; Mrs. Helen Baker, secretary; Mrs. Helen Stevens, treasurer; and Mrs. Bette Bassett, Mrs. Edith Little and Mrs. Mary Leeson, board of directors.

The Senior Girls Tea, sponsored annually by the Zonta Club, will be held at the home of Mrs. Keith McConkey Sunday, June 3, from 3:00-5:00 p.m.

The May meeting will be at Mrs. Krueger's home.

COACH MIKE YEDINAK looks wistfully at the team trophy for the Gavel Club Invitational scheduled Saturday afternoon and evening at Cass City Recreation Park. It will be Yedinak's last chance to win the trophy as he this week signed as head football coach at Alpena High School. (Chronicle photo)

Annual Gavel Club Invitational Set

The fourth annual Gavel Club Invitational is set for Saturday afternoon and evening at Cass City Recreation Park when nearly 30 teams from Michigan schools are expected to compete.

Cass City's chances to win are the slimmest this year that they have been at any time since the meet was organized, Coach Mike Yedinak reports.

In the three previous years, Cass City has finished second twice and third once. Class A schools have dominated the meet.

Flint Kearsley won the event twice and Flint Beecher won once. A giant team trophy will be presented, as well as trophies for the mile, sprint, 880 and distance relays.

From the Editor's Corner

Quail are said to be a wary bird. A pair we saw Monday night, two miles south and a mile west of Cass City, apparently had not read the script.

We passed these two birds which were on the railroad tracks. Despite the fact they were within a few feet of us, they made no effort to hide or fly and were still plainly visible as we drove out of sight.

The two-car family is no longer unusual -- and in Tuscola county the three-car family is no novelty. According to a census by the United States Department of Commerce, 428 families in the county have three or more automobiles. A whopping 2,571 families own two cars and there are 7,704 "unfortunates" who own just one measly old vehicle.

Other interesting tidbits of information in the report: of the 11,903 occupied homes in the county, 9,770 were occupied by the owners and only 2,133 by renters. There are 401 trailer homes and 444 homes with air conditioning. There are more TVs than telephones. The ratio is 11,094 to 8,750.

Coach Mike Yedinak's new job at Alpena means that the entire Cass City High School coaching staff will have to be replaced for 1962-63.

There are applicants galore for the basketball-baseball job and it's a certainty that an equal number of applications will be coming in for the grid-track post.

Despite the quantity it's unlikely that the departing mentors will be replaced with two as good.

We have always felt that Cass City has been blessed with the finest coaching in the Thumb in the 11 years we have been an observer of the high school sports scene.

What it is doing at Farm Bureau Services we wouldn't know, but Manager Gene King has an interesting display of facsimiles of six of the world's most famous diamonds.

The facsimile stones range from the 530 carat "Cullinan," cut from one and a third pound stone, to the "Shah of Persia" of 89 carats. Together with the display is an informative book about diamonds and their care.

The beaver can cut down enormous trees with his chisel-like teeth but just the branches and smaller trees are used for building their dams and lodges.

Each fall, the colony stores up a food supply by anchoring branches and young trees to the bottom of their pond. After the pond freezes over and they can no longer leave it, the beaver feed on the bark of the submerged branches and trees.

The beaver in Huron county have become a nuisance, according to Tubbs, particularly to those residents on the lake shore.

Area Colony One of County's Five Beaver Population Climbs in County

Nature's construction engineer, the beaver, is one of Michigan's least seen animals, because of his alertness and the out-of-the-way places he builds his home.

Most people, except for the farmer whose land is flooded from the back-off of a beaver dam, are not aware that the beaver population in the county and state is on the upswing.

One of the county's five known dams is located right in Cass City's back yard, less than three miles northeast of the village.

The beaver is an amphibious rodent (genus Castor) which, according to Webster's Dictionary, "has webbed hind feet and a broad, flat tail, noted for building dams to protect its underwater lodges or winter homes."

Colonies range from four to six animals. The normal litter is two but three and four are not uncommon.

When the young are a year and a half to two years old, the adults drive them from the area. They, in turn, start a colony somewhere else.

According to Harold Tubbs, district game supervisor, Caro, the beaver, although rarely seen, is no newcomer to Tuscola county.

Although county records state that there were no beaver dams when the first settlers came, Tubbs reports that he has found beaver dams that are at least 100 years old.

He thinks that the great fires of the 1880's destroyed the beaver's food supply and the beaver.

He presumes the local colony migrated down from Huron county sometime during the past year. The lack of beaver-cut trees in the area would tend to bear him out.

Each fall, the colony stores up a food supply by anchoring branches and young trees to the bottom of their pond. After the pond freezes over and they can no longer leave it, the beaver feed on the bark of the submerged branches and trees.

It is expected that the freshman class next fall will number about the same as this year's 135 enrollment.

Each voter may sign no more than two petitions and each petition must have at least 50 signatures of qualified electors.

The elector's full legal name and address must be used. Initials are not acceptable and initialed signatures will be marked off. Diftined addresses will also be marked off.

May 11 Deadline For Board Petitions

Cass City School district voters will select two Board of Education trustees when they go to the polls for the annual school election on June 11, according to a report from the office of Willis Campbell, superintendent.

Persons wishing to file for the three-year and four-year positions have until 4:00 p.m., Friday, May 11, to present their petitions to Secretary of the Board James Milligan.

The four-year post is being left vacant by Lester Ross whose term expires this year. Ross, an 18-year veteran on the board, has stated that he will not seek re-election.

"Clean-up Days" Slated in Village

The village council has set Monday, April 30, and Tuesday, May 1, as "Clean-up Days" in Cass City and the village truck will pick up, without charge, all refuse and debris piled conveniently in alleys and on curbs.

The Chamber of Commerce is urging residents and merchants to take part in the annual program, designed to make Cass City a better place to live and shop in.

Chamber of Commerce President Dick Erla announced that the merchant doing the best job will receive special recognition.

Dump Trout Again In White Creek

For the third year in a row trout have been dumped into White Creek at Deford. Late last week, 1,200 trout were planted between Decker-ville and Phillips roads. . . the same number that was planted the previous two years.

The Michigan Conservation Department said that the planting included 600 Browns and 600 Rainbows.

The fishing is strictly of a put-and-take variety as the trout do not live over the winter.

Trout season opens Saturday at 12:01 a.m. and local anglers are reminded that a trout stamp ($2.00) as well as a regular fishing license ($9.00) are needed to fish.

Knight Receives Two-year Probation On Forgery Charge

Milford Knight, Mayville, charged with forging a $50.00 check in Mayville last December, has been put on a two-year probation and ordered to pay a $150.00 fine and costs of $150.00.

The decision was handed down by Circuit Court Judge Timothy Quinn in a court session Wednesday, April 18. Knight was ordered to pay the fine and costs at a rate of $12.50 per month.

A Clio man, Sylvester Neeley, had his probationary period extended to September 24, 1962. Neeley is charged with probation violation because he reportedly failed to pay court costs and fines and to report to his probation officer as ordered.

He was originally charged with breaking and entering in Arbela township on August 17, 1958. He has until September to make restitution of back payments.

Freeman G. Fox, Jr., Vassar, appealing a guilty verdict on a speeding charge, had his appeal reinstated and set for May 4, 1962.

He was found guilty in Vassar Justice Court, March 25, 1961, on a speeding charge.

A "guilty as charged" verdict was rendered in the jury trial of Dale Pike, Caro, charged with breaking and entering the Caro Community School Elementary building on December 27, 1961.

The verdict was handed down during a court session Thursday, April 19. Judge Quinn ordered a pre-sentencing investigation.

Slate 3rd Hearing In Graham Case

Tuscola County Probate Judge Henderson Graham was slated to have attended Wednesday another session of the House Rules and Resolutions Committee, this time to hear a rebuttal by Supreme Court Administrator Meredith Doyle.

At a previous session held Wednesday, April 18, for Doyle's rebuttal, Doyle was absent.

Doyle reportedly became infuriated at a Tuesday, April 17, meeting because a committee member told him the legislators would make up their own minds on the facts of the Graham affair, and not take the Supreme Court's word that he had acted "intolerably."

The case, which has attracted state-wide attention, stems from a Supreme Court charge that Graham attempted to borrow $20,000 from an estate under his jurisdiction.

The Court is asking for Graham's removal. By constitution, Graham would be removed if two-thirds of both the House and the Senate passed a resolution asking the governor to remove him.

The Supreme Court can enjoin Graham from performing his duties but his salary would continue.

BEAVER DAM

net result is too low to attract the average trapper. In Huron county, where the beaver has gotten out of control, dams are blown up in the hope that the beaver will migrate somewhere else.

If this fails, the remaining beaver are shot.

Cass City's colony is located off Milligan Road and can be reached by following the dredge cut just at the east end of the road.

The dam, about four feet high, is an ingenious tangle of small branches and mud. It is located on the south side of the junction of the dredge cut and the north fork of the Cass River.

Ordinarily, three dams are built, a primary, a secondary, and a tertiary. In case one of the other dams breaks, the next two will keep the lodge safe. Because the Cass City colony is relatively new, only one dam has been built.

The lodge at the local dam is approximately 100 yards upstream, hidden in a slight jog in the river, behind a stand of brush. It is surrounded by water and inaccessible without a boat.

Brad Gardiner, conservation officer, fears that the location of the dam may make it necessary to destroy it if it causes a nuisance in coming years.

Sometimes even a short sermon has a mighty long reach.

WHAT THE WELL DRESSED fire chief wears when called out of Good Friday services is modeled by Elkland township fire chief, Al Avery, as he beats out the last remnants of a grass fire that burned off an estimated 80 acres early Friday afternoon. The fire was at the Bill Wilson farm six miles east of Cass City and started when a controlled fire jumped a plowed firebreak. Later that same afternoon, firemen answered another grass fire call four miles east and six and a half south at the residence of Mrs. Mable Bailey. (Chronicle photo)

Mr. Cumper plans to continue his roofing and septic tank business. The Cumpers are in the process of moving to their new residence on Maple Street, according to Mrs. Cumper.

The couple started in business in Cass City at the Rendezvous Restaurant, 18 years ago. The restaurant was originally located at what is now the Detroit Edison building.

Don't Mix Spring and Winter Wheat

Tuscola county farmers who have lost portions of their winter wheat crop to winterkill are advised not to plant spring wheat in the spots killed by severe weather. This practice would lower the quality of Michigan's white wheat crop, according to Leyton V. Nelson, Michigan State University farm crops specialist. Combined with the normally low yield of spring wheat this also would put farmers at a price disadvantage.

It would also reduce the supply of wheat of the customary special quality for Michigan flour mills, Nelson says.

The decision not to plant wheat in the winterkilled spots will not make any difference in the farm's wheat acreage history unless the farmer had planted excess wheat acreage last fall and wants a new acreage measurement this spring.

Aside from planting spring wheat in the winterkill areas, Nelson recommends three other alternatives which are open to the farmer.

First, the farmer can let the weeds come up in the winterkilled spots and then control them by mowing at a later date.

Second, he can put in a spring planting of oats or barley to be harvested separately from the wheat.

Third, he can plant seed for forage grasses and legumes, and later eliminate any weeds with a chemical weed killer. This would contribute to the "normal conserving acreage" history for the farm if the farmer has signed up for the Wheat Stabilization or Feed Grain Program for 1962.

Lower Milk Price

A Cass City area dairyman who read a release in the Chronicle from Michigan State University stating that farmers receive about 12 cents a quart for milk challenges the statement.

"I have a better than average herd and my milk check for the last three months was less than 10 cents per quart," claimed the dairyman who asked that his name be withheld.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Papp

Friendship Missionary Baptist Church, Lincoln Park, was the setting Saturday, April 7, for the marriage of Lois Nanney and Stephen Papp.

The double-ring rite was performed by the Rev. W. Paul Dailey.

The bride chose a gown of white lace over taffeta fashioned with a fitted bodice, three-quarter sleeves and Sabrina neckline. The bouffant skirt was ballerina-length. A satin cummerbund encircled the waistline.

A two tiered veil of silk illusion billowed from the bride's sequin and pearl crown. She carried a bouquet of white roses and carnations in a cascade arrangement.

Patricia Willman, of Taylor Township, was her cousin's maid of honor. She donned a blue chiffon dress made with a sequin bodice and ballerina-length skirt. A matching lace jacket completed her ensemble. Miss Willman wore a blue sequin crown with a short circular veil and carried a bouquet of blue carnations.

Track Record Broken

Records of a track and field meet held on June 2, 1905, between the high schools of Bad Axe, Elkton, Harbor Beach and Cass City indicate a definite mastery of the affair by our local athletes. The boys who "brought home the bacon" that day were:

Guy W. Landon: 1st in 220-yd. dash. 1st in half-mile run.

Morton H. Orr: 1st in 220-yd. hurdles. 3rd in one-mile run.

Angus Duncanson: 1st in 50-yd. dash. 2nd in 100-yd. dash.

Arthur Cooley: 1st in shot put, 1st in hop, step and jump, 1st in running broad jump, 1st in standing broad jump.

Lloyd Yakes: 3rd in shot put, 3rd in hop, step and jump, 3rd in running broad jump, 3rd in pole vault.

Dan Duncanson: 3rd in 100-yd. dash, 3rd in 220-yd. dash, 1st in 440-yd. hurdles.

Leslie Koepfgen: 1st in high jump (a tie), 2nd in 220-yd. hurdles.

Roy Phillips: 1st in high jump (a tie).

E. Bradfield: 3rd in 440-yd. hurdles.

Of the thirteen events, which featured the competition, ten were won by the Cass City team, second place was captured twice and third place was won eight times. Using the 5-3-1 scoring method, Cass City received 64 points. The remaining 53 points were divided among the three other competing schools.

1840 Election Was First in Tuscola County

The presidential campaign of 1840, one of the most exciting in the history of American politics with its battle cry of "Tippecanoe and Tyler, too," made necessary the first general election in Tuscola County. The polls were kept open three days and seven votes were cast. The poll list disclosed that Dennis Harrison, Samuel H. Downs, Lovira Hart and Martin L. Miller were Whigs (Harrison) while Ebenezer Davis, Edwin Ellis and Jarvis Freeman were Democrats (Van Buren). James H. Davis, a resident of Tuscola and a Democrat, voted in Saginaw County, otherwise there would have been a tie vote.

On a Sunday evening in 1860, Rev. John Baker, of the Watrousville Circuit of the Methodist Episcopal Church, held a preaching service in the log home of Andrew Walsley. This is believed to have been the first such service in Elkland Township. Settlers came from seven miles around and the Walsley home was filled.

Arrangements were subsequently made for services to be held every two weeks - first at Mr. Walsley's, then at John Striffler's and later at the schoolhouse that stood at that time where Wood's Drug Store now stands. (Source: "History of Tuscola and Bay Counties.")

Four Nimrods of Early Years in Cass City Area

Various excerpts from the diary of Mr. O. H. Perry concerning his 1852 hunting expedition along the Cass River have been printed in earlier "Pages"-this week's photograph depicts a group of nimrods all set to indulge in one of their hunting expeditions. These men with their dogs enjoyed the sport of hunting in the early 1900's as much as Mr. Perry did in 1852—and as much as do the hunting enthusiasts of today. Michigan is truly the land of "woods and waters." The men in the photograph are, left to right, Sam Champion, Ernie Reagh, Calvin Landerbach and John Ball. The names of their canine friends are unavailable at this writing!

Select Tuscola County Girl as Delegate to 4-H

Four of Michigan's future leaders will join 200 similar delegates from each of the 50 states and Puerto Rico in the Nation's capital, April 21 to 27, for an unsurpassed opportunity to study and appreciate their country's heritage.

The youth have been selected to share this rich experience and take its values back to the 2,296,000 4-H Club boys and girls they represent in every nook and cranny of the land. They were selected because they've excelled in citizenship, leadership and community development; and in scientific farming, homemaking and other learn-by-doing projects that make up the 4-H program.

Michigan delegates are Suzanne Garner of Tuscola County; Diane Phillips, Barry; Richard Haist, Whittensaw, and Lewis Bourdeau of Gogebic in the Upper Peninsula.

Conservation Official Warns Against the Keeping of Wildlife

Persons who make pets of or keep young fur-bearing or protected wild animals without a permit are subject to prosecution, according to Bradford Gardiner, Caro Conservation officer assigned to Tuscola county.

Gardiner has issued a warning to county residents that those found in possession of fur-bearing or protected animals during a closed season can be prosecuted.

To keep such animals, he states, a permit must be obtained from the Conservation department. The permits can be issued only on animals captured during their respective seasons.

Young animals found wandering around or whose parents have been killed are to be reported to the Conservation department which will in turn take the animals to zoos or other public institutions.

Gardiner also warned dog owners that the season for training their dogs is now closed and that the owners are responsible for any damage to wildlife caused by the dogs.

Dogs may be trained between the hours of sunrise and sunset from July 15 to April 15. The season is set to protect newborn animals and birds.

Look out for yourself or you'll probably never get a look-in.

When the chips are down a man's conduct is the expression of his true character.

The fellow who can express common sense in plain words is on his way to the top.

Virus Disease Hits Swine in State

Swine producers should be on the lookout for a rapidly spreading virus disease which has been reported recently in widely separated areas of Michigan. The disease has been responsible for heavy pig losses during the recent late winter and early spring months.

TGE stands for transmissible gastroenteritis. The virus is a type of diarrhea which is practically always fatal to young pigs. Diarrhea is always present with the virus and vomiting also will occur in most cases.

Death usually occurs within two to six days in more than 75 per cent of the pigs under one week of age. The death rate rapidly decreases with the age of the animal. Improvements are usually noticed in older pigs four to six days following the first sign of the symptoms.

There is no dependable treatment for the disease, according to Dr. Glen Reed, extension specialist in animal disease control at Michigan State University. Many veterinarians feel that sulfa drugs or antibiotics are an aid in controlling the virus outbreak—especially with older pigs.

Some swine men have tried exposing the pregnant sow to the virus in order to develop an immunity. This is not completely effective, but seems to get more pigs to live beyond the critical point when they survive.

Pigs can shed the virus for eight weeks or longer after recovery and usually no symptoms are observed during this carrier period. However, conditions are right for maximum spreading. Trucks or equipment used with sick pigs should not be used for healthy pigs during this time.

Breeding stock introduced into a herd near farrowing time is particularly dangerous during this period. Two or three months are needed after symptoms of the outbreak have disappeared before it is safe to bring in other pigs.

An entire herd of pigs can show symptoms of the disease within a period of two or three days. The incubation period of the virus can be as short as 18 hours under certain conditions. The virus dies rapidly outside the animal body at room temperature, but can remain infective for at least five years when frozen.

TGE can be distinguished from other types of swine diarrheas by its early occurrence, rapid spread and failure to respond to treatment.

BULEN TALKS Cars

THE EDUCATED PUBLIC

The first thing that impresses European car marketing authorities about North American car buyers is how expert they are at price buying.

Well, the public can't take all the credit. They must thank the car dealers themselves, who really taught them. They taught them so well that for the last four years bankruptcies among auto dealers have exceeded all other businesses and the average profit on sales is less than one per cent.

One thing has never changed, however, in all the years of car selling: the dealer must make a profit to stay in business. How he makes it is the only thing that has changed.

Until a few years ago it was common practice among dealers fighting to survive cutthroat price competition to balance over-allowance offers on used cars by "padding" the price of the new one.

When padding ceased to be fashionable due to legal and other reasons, new gimmicks flourished among so-called volume dealers. They all added up to this: keep prices down to attract price buyers but deliver less to keep profits up.

Ethical dealers met the competition by reducing overhead and concentrating on service. They still are. Volume operators substituted heavy advertising, ruthless selling and cheaper substitutions in radios, heaters and tires. Pre-and-after-delivery service was virtually eliminated. In this way, up to $200 can be shaved off the dealer's cost of a car.

The educated public are NOT experts on value. If you wish to make the best deal you can, THEN COMPARE THE FEATURES OF THE CAR ITSELF, THE ACTUAL SERVICE RENDERED AND THE DEALER'S REPUTATION FOR KEEPING HIS PROMISES. That's the only way to buy at the lowest possible net price!

We are most proud of our Customers who come back time and again. We know we must be giving the satisfaction for which we constantly strive.

No More Pictures of Genus Castor's Dam

By Dave Kraft

Well, I've done it all. There's nothing else left for me to see or do in this world. I may as well hang up my camera and break the lead in my pencil. Last Thursday I walked through fields full of snakes, climbed trees with a camera strapped to my back, saw trees that looked like they'd been cut by midget lumbermen and walked on water. According to Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary, a beaver is "an amphibious rodent (genus Castor) having webbed hind feet and a broad, flat tail, noted for building dams to protect its underwater lodges or winter houses." I'd call him a long-haired, duck-footed, flat-tailed trouble maker. In private I'd call him worse. Beavers like privacy and to get it, build their homes in out-of-the-way places far from man's prying eye and malicious hand. Consequently, pictures of beaver dams and houses are newsworthy. Thursday I set out with a set of directions I never really understood, camera in hand and with a heart full of love for the beaver clan. I was going to take a picture of his dam and by the time I got through, I had said a few of my own.

True to the Kraft tradition, I started out by going to the wrong place. After stomping around in swamp water up to my navel for a half-hour, I determined I was in the wrong place and reread my directions. "The dam is located where the dredge cut and the river join." Obviously, since I couldn't find the river, the thing to do was find the dredge cut, which I did. I followed the dredge cut for about a mile, over logs, through brambles and under bushes. As I went, I noticed that the cut was getting wider and deeper, clear signs that I was getting nearer the dam. Suddenly I heard it. But I couldn't see it. I was surrounded by water. I couldn't go any farther. I was on the wrong side of the cut!

After spending nearly an hour trying to find the dam, I was stranded just a few yards from it. I was going to throw myself on the bank and have a good cry but I got control of myself. Getting a good grip on my camera, I turned around, trudded back over logs, through brambles and under bushes, crossed the cut on a rock and then trudded back up the cut over logs, through brambles and under bushes to the dam. To get a really good picture, I had to climb a nearby tree. I took my belt off, looped it around the camera and then put it over my head and shoulders. I stuck my film holder, sun shield (for the lens), flash bulbs and a sandwich in my pocket and took a run at the tree. A large limb elbowed out about eight feet off the ground and I grabbed it. Thus situated, camera on my back, hanging from a tree limb, in front of God and an undeter-

Cass City Pupils Dominate Annual Forensic Contest

Red Hawk speech students copped two firsts and a second place in the Region J Speech Contests held at Cass City, Wednesday, April 18, giving Cass City the honor of being the only school to take more than one place in the contests. There were five possible first and second places. Cass City winners were: Bill Dobbs, first in original oratory; Wayne Dillon, first in humorous reading, and Sharon Profit, second in declamation. Other firsts went to Caroline Miller, Yale, extempore speaking; Lou Ella Dove, Akron-Fairgrove, interpretative reading, and Sharyn Kern, Marysville, declamation. An estimated 100 persons, including coaches and students, heard the 39 contestants from 16 participating schools give their speeches and readings. Banners were awarded for the five first places. The banners read: "Michigan High School Association, Regional Honors, (category), The University of Michigan." Dobbs' topic was "Will Your Child be a Communist?" Dillon read "The Treasurer's Report" and Miss Profit's declamation topic was "The Greatest Challenge!"

I counted eight, from a foot to 14 inches long and decided I was needed back at the office. I didn't see a single, solitary beaver the whole time I was out there. I know they were watching me, but I didn't see any. It's just as well. I was really in no mood to see a beaver. I used to be impartial about beavers... I mean I could take them or leave them... but no more. If you should run onto a beaver dam, I'd appreciate it if you didn't tell me about it. We'll just let it be your little secret.

Plug Up the Spending A Familiar Cry in Legislature

By Elmer E. White
Michigan Press Association

State Government spending causes a controversy every year without exception.

Every year, also, there are cries to "plug up the spending end of the money barrel and we may not have to add new taxes at the other end."

A proposal which gained little note this year was designed to plug the spending hole in the barrel. It was proposed informally by Sen. Lynn O. Francis, a Republican from Midland, but made little impact, perhaps because of timing.

Francis tried to get attention for his "cut the budget" proposals at the same time a bitter fight on taxes was in the works.

The Midland Senator gave his colleagues suggestions of ways to reduce the state spending by a maximum of $181 million.

Francis said he was serious about all his proposals, although some suggestions drew remarks that he was going to a lot of trouble to be sarcastic.

Ideas which might raise serious consideration in the future involve about $6 million in savings, but budget-writers feel every "little bit" helps.

A $1 million saving could be realized if bookkeeping and accounting systems were improved, Francis said. There are now about 21 separate computer systems in state government for bookkeeping. The Senator said reduction of this to three systems could do the same job more economically.

An "emergency appropriations commission" within the Legislature has received a $100,000 appropriation each year, but has had no expenditures in the last three years. Dropping this, as Francis recommends, would result only in a "paper saving," however, because this budget item has not been used.

Another $65,000 saving could be accomplished, according to Francis, if the functions of the Civil Defense Department were taken over by existing police agencies. Gov. John B. Swainson also recommended this action.

A 10 per cent increase in college and university fees would result in a $2.5 million saving on the budget if the revenue from the hike were used for recommended salary increases, Francis said.

Lessened state contributions to various retirement systems; county contributions to support of patients and inmates in mental hospitals and prisons, and elimination of duplicating efforts in public and private agencies also were suggested in the Francis plan.

Michigan Week, the ninth annual "brag week" in the state, will add a new feature this year for the May 20-26 celebration.

In the past years, there has been an award for the product which contributed most to making Michigan known throughout the nation.

This year, some community organization will receive an "Achievement of the Year" award.

Organizations of a community nature, serving a town, village, county or large area, will compete for the prize.

"Many community organizations have made outstanding contributions to the state by attracting new business or industry or otherwise having advanced or improved the area they serve," said Milton Kendrick, chairman of the awards unit of the Michigan Week planning committee.

"It is this kind of community accomplishment which we will recognize in the new award competition," Kendrick said.

Entries in the new contest will compete in the same way products do. They will be judged on a regional basis, with the 16 final regional winners competing for the state prize.

The ground rules for the new contest are broad. They provide that the achievement need not be entirely accomplished in a single year.

Michigan's service clubs, 1,156 at last count, will play an especially active role in Michigan Week this year. The state lists some 400 Lions clubs, 280 Rotary, 210 Kiwanis, 90 Exchange, 80 Optimist, 20 Civitan and 5 Sertoma clubs. There are also five women's service clubs: Zonta and Seroptimist have 20 chapters each; Altrusa has 15; Quota has 12 and Pilot has 5.

Each club was asked by Edwin O. George, a vice-president of Detroit Edison and the Week's general chairman, to help find ways to promote the state. He has already received about 30 suggestions which are available to service club chairmen.

Tourist interests are up in arms over a proposal by the President to tax pleasure boats to provide revenues for development and purchase of national parks and recreation areas.

The proposed tax would cost Michigan residents an estimated $4 million, according to the Federal authorities.

Michigan people are even more concerned about the long-range costs such a tax would impose on the state's economy.

Boat registrations in Michigan were the highest in the nation last year as about 430,000 pleasure craft are owned by state residents.

The money spent by these boat owners, and those coming into the state to use the many inland lakes and Great Lakes connecting waters, is uncountable, but considerable.

Tourist association officials are fairly certain of one thing, however. Such a tax would cut down the spending by boat owners, in addition to its likely impact of decreasing the number of persons who buy boats.

To Write (or Not) About Kings & Stuff

By Irene Warren

Some time ago when this column was more frequently sprinkled with references to various historical occasions, a fellow criticized my efforts with "Why do you write about history? Nobody's interested in that kinda stuff!" On the other hand, last week a friend commented, "Why don't you write more about history? I really enjoy your column when you have something like that in it."

Just goes to prove, to paraphrase Abraham Lincoln, you please some of the people all of the time and all of the people some of the time, but you can't please all of the people all of the time.

Only a fool will try - and I'm no fool. I think.

Do you have a private place all your own wherein no one can intrude? One fellow told me his was in the bathroom because it was the one place he could go and not be disturbed.

While we are social creatures, there are times when we need to be alone. We need a place for solitude - a time to curiously our thoughts, dream a bit, plan and to do some downright thinking. My places of solitude are the riverbank, the dog pen (where I'm not really alone but the dogs are silent companions) and, not a place but a time, the wee early hours of the morning.

When I was a child I had an apple tree. It was low-croched and its branches sprawled almost straight out from the trunk so that perching was quite comfortable. The tree stood in the last row of trees to the south and was the fourth tree from the west end of the rather large orchard. There I could sit and silently gaze into the infinitesimal beauty of the sky from which dreams are woven, sometimes from fragile blue lace - sometimes from soft white cotton - other times from gray wool. Agent's Corner

Frances T. Clark
County Home Demonstration Agent

The annual Home Economics Extension Achievement Day was held in Mayville, a very colorful and enthusiastic group of women enjoyed the program.

As I have tried to evaluate the program, I can say, I think it was the best all around Achievement Day program since I've been the Tuscola County Extension Agent in Home Economics.

Rev. William Lutz of the Mayville Methodist Church gave a very inspirational invocation followed by a warm welcome by Don Smith, the mayor of Mayville.

Recognition of the Standard groups was given by Mrs. Lee Steele, Home Economic Extension Council's president. The first 10 placings with the groups' chairmen are as follows: Gilford Group, Mrs. Elwood Finley; Silverwood, Mrs. Ernest Hutchinson; Wisner, Mrs. Oscar Cosens; Northwest Fairgrove, Mrs. William Hamilton; Mayville, Mrs. Marjorie Wiley; Moreland and Cass City tied for 7th place, Mrs. Kenneth Culbert is the chairman of the Moreland group while Mrs. Ralph Gauer is Cass City's chairman; Watrousville, Mrs. Kenneth Hess; Dayton Center, Mrs. John Garner, and Reese, Mrs. Donald Farver.

Frank Pliska, Music Director of Mayville Schools, directed the Mayville High School Girls' Glee Club in the music part of the program.

Mrs. Albert Heath, Milan, Michigan, President of Michigan Home Economics Council, gave a very interesting review of the State Home Economics Organization, the National Organization as well as the international Organization.

To end the forenoon program, the Tuscola County Home Economics Extension's "Woman of the Year" was chosen from the thirty-one names submitted by the different Home Economics Extension groups. Mrs. Lynn Hall of the Hinson group was chosen and was presented with a lovely planter.

The Mayville Band Mothers prepared and served the noon-day meal. Mrs. Ralph Brown chairwoman of the Band Mothers.
