

Boy faces court hearing

8 vehicles crash in wild chase after 11-year-old

An 11-year-old Cass City area boy who wanted to get away from his brothers faces three charges in Probate Court, the result of his having taken his grandfather's pickup, driving it to Bay City and leading police in a wild chase that resulted in the smashup of eight vehicles.

The incident took place Saturday afternoon. Once caught, the boy first said he wouldn't talk until he saw a lawyer.

According to Hampton Township Patrolman William Edmonds, who apprehended the boy, he will be petitioned into Sanilac County Probate Court on charges of reckless driving, fleeing and eluding and no operator's license.

The decision on what charges to seek was a joint decision between his department and Bay City Police, he indicated.

Disposition of juvenile cases is normally handled in the county where the youngster lives, not where the offense takes place. The boy has a Cass City address but lives in Sanilac county.

Edmonds, who took part in the police chase, said the boy was only about 4 feet tall and presumably stood up to drive. To the rear of the pickup, he couldn't be seen and from alongside could barely be seen.

The incident began when the boy took the truck, which had the keys in it. The grandfather lives next door to the home of the boy's parents.

He noticed it missing about 3 p.m. but originally thought his son had taken it.

He reported it missing to Sandusky state police shortly before police in Bay City notified the boy's parents of what had happened. (State police at Sandusky declined to tell the Chronicle Tuesday whether the boy might also be charged with the theft of the truck. Presumably that would require the grandfather to first sign a complaint.)

POLICE FIRST BECAME involved when a motorist called Bay county central dispatch to report he had passed a slow-moving pickup on M-25 between Quinnessee and Bay City, driven by a boy who appeared to be about 12 years old.

Edmonds received the message over the police radio while in his patrol car at Hampton Square Mall, saw the pickup, turned on his lights and siren and gave chase.

The boy speeded up and Edmonds called on his radio for more help.

Bay City police headed for the Center Avenue area and a second Hampton township police car, driven by Sgt. Robert Gudenau, entered the chase several hundred yards behind.

Edmonds said he was going 75 miles per hour as the boy entered the downtown Bay City area.

Bay City Patrolman Richard Gonyea, who received the message over his radio, headed east on Center Avenue (M-25). He tried to use his patrol car to block the speeding pickup, but pulled away at the last minute to avoid a collision.

The truck sideswiped the cruiser and tore away its rear bumper.

THE FIRST HAMPTON township patrol car, driven by Edmonds, went by and Gonyea made a U-turn to join in the chase.

Instead, he and the second Hampton township car, driven by Gudenau, collided.

Gudenau's car then slammed into a parked pickup, resulting in an injury to the officer and demolition of the front end of his car. He was taken to Bay Medical Center, where he received 20 stitches in his forehead and was sent home to recuperate.

The impact sent the pickup and the two cars parked in front of it a full parking space forward in a chain reaction collision. A parked van also received damage. That took place in front of the J.C. Penney store.

Meanwhile, the boy had continued on Center Street but failed to make the turn where the street ended at Wenonah Park and turned onto Water Street. His pickup crashed into a parked car near the Mill End Store, which brought his vehicle to a halt.

The boy got out and started running, but was caught by Edmonds, who got out of his car and gave chase on foot.

It was about 5 p.m. when the chase ended, about 15 minutes after Bay City police first got the call.

WHEN EDMONDS GOT the boy back to his patrol car, according to the officer, the boy said, "I want a lawyer," then refused to say any more. (The officer told the Chronicle he didn't know if the boy knew the significance of what he had said about wanting an attorney.)

The name on the vehicle registration inside the pickup enabled police to notify the owner and the boy's parents and determine his identity.

After that, Edmonds said, he became talkative. He told the officer he had been in a fight with a brother and his brothers picked on him, so he wanted to get away.

The officer asked him if he lived on a farm and knew how to drive the pickup from driving a tractor. The boy replied he had driven a tractor "a little."

He complained of a headache, so was taken to Bay Medical Center, where he was checked. Nothing was discovered wrong.

It was originally thought the youth lived in Tuscola county, so Tuscola Probate Judge W. Wallace Kent Jr. was contacted. He gave permission to take the boy to the Bay county juvenile home.

The home was full, however, so he was turned over to the custody of his parents, who came and got him.

Police could not release the boy's name because he is a juvenile and declined to give his grandfather's name, as that would lead to identity of the boy.

Damage to all the vehicles involved was estimated by Bay City police at $20,000.

McDonald Dairy collapse costs farmers thousands of dollars

By Mike Eliasohn

The demise of the McDonald Cooperative Dairy Co. will mean a loss for some dairy farmers of thousands of dollars.

How much of a loss partly depends on how much McDonald's gets from sale of its assets and partly on how one defines a loss.

Lewis Babich of Gifford Road, Deford, had about $10,000 in stock in the cooperative, stock which is now worthless.

But Michael Walsh of Cumber Road, Ubly, says members never paid anything for the stock so "aren't really losing anything." He had more than $5,000 in stock certificates. He admitted, "It sure would have been nice if we had got something."

The dairyman has been a district director of the cooperative for several years.

operation using the McDonald's brand name.

It is leasing McDonald's facilities in Benton Harbor, Chesaning and Otsego, pending a future decision whether to keep them in operation. The MMPA did not assume any of McDonald's reported $24 million debt.

Rationale of the takeover from the MMPA's standpoint was to provide market stability.

According to its magazine, Michigan Milk Messenger, "McDonald Cooperative Dairy Co. has been the state's largest single processor of dairy products. Not more than half of the milk of McDonald's former members could be handled in all other Michigan plants combined."

McDONALD'S PAID milk checks to its members through October.

For the period Nov. 1-24, the MMPA paid the checks (proceeds from the sale of milk) to McDonald's members who joined MMPA in the form of an interest-free loan. (Reportedly, 625 joined; the rest of the cooperative's members deciding to sell their milk to Kraft or Michigan Producers Dairy.)

The amount was quite substantial. For Babich, semi-retired, who milks 60 cows with his son Bernard, the loan totaled about $6,000. Walsh and a son milk 28-30 cows and their loan totaled about $4,000.

(The average loan, according to the MMPA, was about $5,200, with the loans totaling more than $4.8 million.)

If McDonald's manages to sell its assets by March 15, it will pay MMPA the money that the latter loaned to McDonald's members.

If the defunct cooperative doesn't, the MMPA will take the money out of the new members' milk checks over a 15-month period. Once McDonald's does liquidate, it is supposed to reimburse its old members for the loan they got from the MMPA.

BUT WILL McDONALD'S be able to repay the loan to its ex-members?

Walsh is confident it will. "I feel certain farmers will get 100 percent on the money they've got coming."

Others had doubts, however, that McDonald's assets, once sold, will be enough to pay all its debts. "I don't think we'll get it all," was Babich's comment.

Those contacted by the Chronicle agreed the major reason McDonald's got into financial troubles was its purchase several years ago of a dairy in Detroit for $3½ million. It flopped, which cost McDonald's $4 million more to close it down, according to Leland Wendorf of Lamotte township, McDonald's district director for southern Sanilac county.

Closing its Bay City dairy cost it $1 million. High labor and energy costs were also crippling factors.

IN ADDITION TO THE loan money, there are also the stock certificates, which everyone concedes is money lost forever.

Twenty percent of McDonald's profits each year were divided among the members in cash. The rest went into shares of stock, which paid 5 percent interest per year. The longer the member belonged, the more shares of stock he owned.

That program came to an end about four years ago when there were no longer enough profits to divide among members.

Wendorf had only been a member six or seven years, so most of that period didn't receive any stock or dividends. He hasn't added up the value of his stock certificates yet, but figures his loss will be under $1,000.

But for Lewis Babich, who belonged more than 15 years, his stock certificates were worth about $10,000. The loss won't put him and his son out of business, he said, but obviously was money that would have been useful.

MEMBERS WERE GENERALLY critical of their not learning about the cooperative's financial predicament until late in the game.

Wendorf had sat on the McDonald's board since April and said the problems weren't obvious until fall. "There was stuff the directors didn't know that management didn't tell us."

Walsh said rumors about the troubles started in the summer, but everything didn't come out in the open until the Nov. 24 meeting in Lansing. Until then, "They always said everything was great and I went along with it."

Walsh strongly disagreed. Farmers were told at the annual and later, district meetings, of the co-op's profits and losses each year, thus they knew that for the last few years, it didn't make a profit. There were adequate reserves then to make up for the loss.

McDonald's problems, such as the Detroit dairy fiasco, he continued, were the fault of the old management, not those in charge at the time of the collapse.

The new management could have made a go of it, he felt, had interest rates not risen so high that it was prohibitive to borrow money to modernize the Flint dairy plant.

Ambulance service healthy in 1st year

One year after the Cass City Area Ambulance Service (CCAAS) began operation, "It's going as well as was expected," according to Jack McDaniel, operator of the service.

The chairman of the four-township ambulance board that oversees its operation, Elkland Township Supervisor Jack Gallagher, said the board is satisfied with its operation.

The ambulance serves Elkland, Novesta, Evergreen and Greenleaf townships, each of which contributed the equivalent of $2.75 per township resident in 1979 to subsidize the service. That totaled $15,220.

The ambulance board is anticipating that they may be able to reduce the subsidy this year to $2.25. (In addition to Gallagher, also on the board are Lucile Stine, Novesta township; Evergreen Township Treasurer Wayne Whittaker, and Supervisor Gerald Bock or Trustee Ron Fox representing Greenleaf township.)

Other revenue the first year was $13,551 in collections from individuals or insurance companies, $20,888 from the operators of the ambulance service and $1,082 in donations. The donations were used to buy certain equipment.

The $20,888 comes from McDaniel and his partner in the ambulance service, Wallace (Tim) Grassmann, part of which was a bank loan. That money helped pay for the ambulance, total cost of which was $26,546. That plus equipment came to a total of $30,000.

The townships paid the difference between the $20,000 and $30,000, plus are repaying the owners of the ambulance service for the money they invested.

The other first-year expense, $20,741, was for wages, insurance, taxes, gas and oil and disposable supplies, such as bandages and splints.

McDaniel is in charge of the service, while his wife, Ann, does the bookwork. That takes him about six hours per week and her, 6-10. Grassmann handles all the government paperwork, including taxes, but otherwise isn't involved with operation of the service.

The CCAAS -- the above named individuals -- receive 25 percent of the collections they take in. They view it as public service, not a money-making venture.

As mentioned, the collection rate is about 66 percent, which came to $13,551 in 1979.

THAT FIGURE CANNOT be improved on much, McDaniel explained, adding that "the majority of people are very good" about paying.

Medicare (federally funded health care for senior citizens) only pays 80 percent of a set amount for ambulance runs. The recipient of the service is supposed to pay the remaining 20 percent, but even if he or she does, the amount still does not cover the true cost of the service.

Medicaid (health care for the poor) only pays a set amount per ambulance run, less than the actual cost, and the CCAAS can't bill the person for the remainder.

Some private health insurance companies do not pay for ambulance service and others pay only a limited amount. Some persons, of course, don't have any health insurance.

The ambulance fee, unchanged this year from 1979, is $50 per person loading fee plus $1.50 per loaded mile for those living within the four townships which subsidize the service.

Those living outside the area pay $100 plus $2 per loaded mile. They can pay a subscription fee of $20 and then pay the same fee as those inside the subsidized area. So far, no one has chosen to subscribe.

Even if a person owes money, if he or she needs the ambulance again, they get it. "We don't refuse service to anyone," McDaniel said.

A TOTAL OF 314 RUNS were made last year (versus a projected 250), which worked out to about 10,000 miles on the ambulance. Average life expectancy of such a vehicle is 4-5 years.

Of the 314 runs, 46 were considered of a non-emerg-

MILKING TIME -- Bernard Babich at work. The stanchion milking system is used, with the cows standing still and the milking machines being moved from stall to stall. He and his father, Lewis, had about $10,000 in stock in McDonald's Cooperative Dairy, which is now worthless.

Hund, Kubacki wed in Argyle

Denise M. Hund and Daniel R. Kubacki were married Saturday, Dec. 22, at St. Joseph's Catholic church, Argyle.

Father Gerald F. Kukla performed the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. John Hund, Ubyly, and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Kubacki, Ubyly.

The altar was decorated with arrangements of white spider mums, red globe thistles and greens and poinsettias.

Music was provided by Arthur Glaza Jr., organist, and Sandy Vogel, soloist. Selections included "If," "Love Me Tender" and "The Wedding Song." Readings were done by Ray Hund, brother of the bride.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a white Qiana satin knit gown styled with a high neckline and sheer yoke, edged with chantilly lace and full sheer bishop sleeves with deep lace cuffs. It featured a fitted waistline with a chantilly lace peplum. The skirt fell to a chantilly lace hemline flowing into a full chapel train. Her fingertip length illusion veil was edged in sculptured chantilly lace and held by a cap of matching lace.

She carried a colonial bouquet of red roses, white carnations, baby's breath, holly and evergreens.

Janice Hund, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a long gown featuring a white chiffon bodice with a fitted cummerbund waistline falling into a deep flounced red satin skirt. Her headpiece was a white fur band accented with a red silk rose. She carried a white fur muff also accented by red silk roses.

Bridesmaids were Marilyn Osentoski, sister of the bride, and Carolyn Depcinski, friend of the couple. Tammy Hund, niece of the bride, served as junior bridesmaid. Their gowns, headpieces and muffs were identical to the maid of honor's.

Steve Glaza, friend of the couple, was best man.

Groomsman were Dave Kubacki, brother of the groom, and Gary Kubacki, cousin of the groom. Jeff Wojtalowicz, nephew of the bride, was junior groomsman.

Ushers were Richard Hund, brother of the bride, and Bill Bezemek, friend of the couple.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Hund wore a floor length gown of dark jade green polyester knit. She wore a corsage of red roses and white carnations.

The groom's mother wore a floor length gown of forest green polyester knit. She wore silver accessories. Her flowers were a corsage of red roses and white carnations.

A reception was conducted at St. Joseph's Hall, Argyle, for approximately 400 guests.

The bride is a graduate of Ubyly High School and is attending Central Michigan University. The bridegroom is also a graduate of Ubyly High School and is self-employed as a dairy farmer.

After a honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls, the couple is residing on Munford Road, Ubyly.

Your Neighbor says

I'm content with what I'm doing

Ex-President Richard Nixon has said he wishes he had been a sports writer.

Dwight D. Eisenhower wanted to be a railroad engineer and Senator Hubert Humphrey aspired to be a baseball manager. Comedian Bill Cosby would have rather been a teacher and country singer Charley Pride wanted to be a professional baseball player.

But if Geri Perry had her life to live over, she would have done it the same. "I'm very content."

A native of Cass City, she had high school and business school training in secretarial work, which she is doing and enjoys. "I'm happy with what I'm doing." Since September, she has been secretary for local insurance agent Ernest Teichman Jr.

If Mrs. Perry has one regret, it is that she didn't do the traveling she had hoped before she settled down and got married. She has done some since and hopes to go some day to Hawaii.

She worked until 1960, when she stopped in order to raise her family. For eight years, until it closed about two years ago, she kept the books for her husband's business, the Superior Collision auto body repair shop.

Husband Jim and their oldest son, Randy, 18, both now work at the same collision shop in Flint.

Daughter Karen works in the computer department at Walbro and Gary, 13, is an eighth grader.

The Perrys live at 6552 Kelly Road.

Rabbit Tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

To me the most bizarre aspect of the case involving the 11-year-old who swiped his grandfather's truck, was his reaction after he was stopped.

All he did was demand to see a lawyer and refused to even tell police his name.

Does that spell too much television to you as it did to me? It also tends to prove that the boob tube may have more effect on young minds than many of us believed.

All of us appreciate praise from our peers. Last week's column was one that drew approval from Jim Sherman, publisher of the Oxford Leader and other assorted papers.

It probably struck a responsive chord because it was about the publishing business. If you thought it was zilch, in all candor, I tend to agree.

The problem with column writing is that you need one every week and some weeks are better than others. That goes for trivial columns like this, too. If it didn't, items like this never would appear here.

Just when I was all puffed up because a washer was sold after it was advertised one week in the Chronicle, the owner informed me that the sale was made to an aunt. Maybe she read it in the Chronicle anyway?

Either the Calka girls are extremely photogenic or have a knack for being at the right place at the right time. About a year ago or so Carla Calka was a guest on one of the network television contest shows.

In the recent Hula bowl in Hawaii the cameras scanned the crowd and zoomed in on Mona Calka. She was spotted by Dave Asher.

For basketball statistic buffs. Before the season started, the prediction was that the Thumb B League would be weaker than normal. That prediction is supported only if you believe that the league is normally stronger than others. For in games to date, league teams are exactly even in games won and lost outside of the loop.

The averages were not helped Tuesday night when Caro, Marlette, Bad Axe and Lakers lost non-league games.

Just because much of this column has been about newspapering, let me say that my nomination for the best local writer appearing in the Detroit dailies is George Cantor. He writes a column for the Detroit News.

DeLong appointed new Novesta planner

The Novesta Township Board Monday night appointed Lucille DeLong as the new township planning director. She had been nominated by the township planning board.

She replaces Jean Clarke, whose resignation was accepted by the township board Monday.

Mrs. DeLong's duties will include issuing permits, attending all planning and zoning meetings and acting as liaison officer between the planning and township boards.

Some minor modifications to the zoning codes were approved by the board. Tabled until the Feb. 4 meeting was a decision on the planning board recommendation that certain property along Kelly Road in Section 4 be rezoned from industrial to residential.

Appointment of a new sexton was also delayed until the next meeting as David Moody, who had resigned, has agreed to continue until some later date. To date, two applications have been received for the job.

PLUSES AND MINUSES -- Winter has its advantages and disadvantages. A winter scene like this is one of the advantages, though admittedly not enough to outweigh the disadvantages.

Thieves foiled in radio theft try

Thieves apparently trying to steal a radio from a new car parked in the Rabideau Motors lot caused an estimated $250 damage, but didn't get the radio.

Keith Pobanz reported the damage to Cass City police last Wednesday morning. The dashboard around the radio of the 1979 Chrysler was damaged, plus wires under the dash were pulled away and broken.

Loss was estimated at $150 when someone stole a citizens band radio antenna from the trunk lid of the car of Kathryn Atkinson of Fairgrove and damaged the lid itself in attempting to remove the mount.

The theft occurred Nov. 15 or 16 while the car was parked at the Charmont, but wasn't reported to Cass City police until Friday, the owner of the vehicle having done so on the advice of her insurance agent.

The antenna and mount was valued at $50; the damage estimated at $100.

Glenn Guilds of 6178 Shabbona Road, reported to Cass City police Monday that part of the grill of his car was broken while it was parked at the Charmont late Friday and early Saturday. No monetary damage estimate was given.

Gerald Gatza of 4527 Oak Street reported to Cass City police early Monday that the outside rear view mirror was pulled from his car and that a tire was flat, possibly from a puncture. Damage was estimated at $40.

The incident took place while the car was parked in front of the Colonial Inn from 11 p.m. Sunday to 2:30 a.m. Monday.

Curt Strickland of the Thumb National Bank Cass City branch reported to village police Jan. 2 that a vehicle or vehicles had been driven over the bank's lawn.

A spruce tree, worth an estimated $80, was broken off and there was possible damage to the underground sprinkler system as one of the sprinkler heads was run over. The damage was done Dec. 31 or Jan. 1.

Carol Peplinski of 3101 N. Dodge Road told village officers Sunday that five gallons of gasoline was siphoned from her car's tank while it was parked at the Pizza Villa from 4-10 p.m. Saturday.

Rienstra promoted

Dean D. Rienstra has been promoted to the rank of major in the Idaho Air National Guard.

He serves as assistant flight commander and weapons system officer in an RF-4 reconnaissance jet. Rienstra is co-owner of a restaurant in Boise. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Rienstra of 4543 Oak Street, Cass City.

The Haire Net

Robots will be available for home use this year. That's the word from Quasar Corporation that will offer one for about $4,000 that will answer the door, sweep the floor, serve drinks and do a couple of other programmed household chores.

That sounds great. If one is invented that will empty the trash, mow the lawn and rake the leaves, I might be first in line to get one.

There are folks, I know, that love manicuring a lawn, growing a garden or trimming a hedge.

To each his own. That's just work. Playing is a golf game, a card game, a fishing stream, a good book or a good show, a good movie. Or just cruising around the country to see the sights.

So you can see just how much a robot would fit in nicely in my plans for how idle time should be used to best advantage.

The only trouble is that I don't believe that a robot is ready for the Haire household.

This business of answering the door, for instance. I fail to know how a robot will know that the front door sticks a little in the winter and that it must be jigged just right to open without taking the door jamb.

Or that this same door becomes a shade loose in the summer and that to close it tightly a jiggle directly opposite to the jiggle of winter is required.

When serving drinks how is that robot to know when it's diet time and anything but diet pop is verboten . . . except on special occasions that pop up when the will power is down.

Maybe these objections can be overcome by the electronic geniuses at Quasar. Anything's possible.

But there's one area in which I know it will fail.

If my wife can direct this mechanical marvel from the other room, how can I keep control?

Now when I want to watch the boob tube and she wants to vacuum the house I have a variety of strategies to keep the machine off and the tube on.

The first and usually successful play is to hide the cord. If that doesn't work I can push the circuit breaker that controls that phase of the current in the house.

If all else fails I can turn up the volume on the tube to compete with the sweeper and if the rug's not too dirty, outlast her.

But how can you outlast a pile of nuts and bolts and electronic circuits?

They'll just go on and on until the rug is spotless and never mind the important issues on the tube. The score could be tied with only 30 seconds to go and it would undoubtedly find a dirty spot directly in front of the screen.

When that happens you would be able to pick up a used (and battered) robot for a ridiculously low price. You could probably get it for nothing.

"If It Fitz. . ." The bus-riding game

By Jim Fitzgerald

Twice every weekday I play a game that even when I win, I sometimes lose. On a recent afternoon, on a Detroit city bus, I lost big.

Because it's only a 20-minute walk, and because walking is healthy, I am willing to walk to work and back on even the coldest days. But if there is a bus available, I feel it is my patriotic duty to take it. Our leaders in Washington say it is good citizenship to conserve energy by riding buses.

That's the game. When I leave home in the morning, I stand at the bus stop across the street and look up at my wife in the window of our apartment on the 26th floor. From that high perch, she can see miles down the street. If she signals there is no bus in sight, I walk to work. If she signals there is a bus coming, I wait for it, and I win the game. What I win is the satisfaction of saving energy for my country by riding the bus.

Sometimes my wife forgets to appear at the window with her semaphore flags, in which case I stand at the bus stop and shake my fist at our blank window in the sky, looking very much like an Iranian outside the U.S. Embassy.

Sometimes a neighbor kidnaps me on the elevator and forces me to ride to work in his car, which is parked in the apartment basement. When I never appear below at the bus stop, my wife thinks I fell down the elevator shaft and she is angry that she got out of bed for nothing.

Some mornings it is foggy and we can't see each other. Separated by 26 floors, we both can't help wondering what was the sense in getting married in the first place.

Fortunately, the game isn't so complicated at the other end of the line. After work, I simply look for my bus at the bus station. If it's not there, I walk. I'd wait for it, except I'm over 50 years old and probably don't have that much time left.

If my bus is at the station, I am able to conserve energy for my leaders in Washington, and I win the game. But, as previously stated, sometimes there is defeat in victory. Sometimes, for instance, there is a woman on the bus who is cracking her gum and she is sitting next to me.

And sometimes I get the bus driver who parks in front of a grocery store and makes his passengers wait while he goes inside to buy cigarettes. He thoughtfully parks in the middle of the street, even if there's room at the curb, so the nice motorists trapped behind him will have something to honk at.

When this driver gets back behind the wheel, he lights a cigarette and blows smoke at the sign which forbids passengers to smoke.

My worst bus ride occurred when a fellow passenger, a man who'd been boozing, recognized me from my picture in the newspaper. This happens very rarely and I'm always surprised, and embarrassed. Usually, I retain my built-in anonymity wherever I am, even at family parties. There is a woman whom I see at least three times every year and each time she has to hear my name before she remembers I'm her brother.

But this drunk man somehow spotted me and loudly and repeatedly insisted that I was a famous columnist and I should write about him because he was the "brokest man in town." The bus was jammed and people stared.

I retreated to the back of the bus and stepped down into the well in front of the rear exit. The brokest man in town followed right along, telling everyone I was going to write something that would improve his financial condition. The bus driver hollered for "the man in the brown coat" to get out of the exit well. He meant me . . .

My drunk friend yelled back: "Hey, this here is a famous man. You shouldn't holler at him like that." The bus driver hollered that he'd holler at whoever broke bus rules by standing in his well. From where I stood, I couldn't see if he was smoking.

People who were sitting down stood up to get a better look at me. I wanted to crawl into the pockets of my brown coat. Instead, I got off and walked, thus throwing the game. Let our leaders in Washington save their own dumb energy.

Ellington twp. accident sends two to hospital

A 2:30 p.m. accident last Wednesday in Ellington township sent two persons to Caro Community Hospital.

Treated and released were Gladys A. Bliss, 70, of 4454 Sherman Street, Cass City, and Andrew Scribner, 68, of Willington.

Both were passengers in a car driven by Lauri Ann Iartzell, 17, also of 4454 Sherman Street.

Sheriff's deputies said the Iartzell auto, headed southwest on M-81, south of Lazell road, ran into the rear of the car ahead of it, which had slowed for another vehicle, about to turn into a driveway.

Driver of the car which was hit was George F. Vans, 70, of Caro.

Miss Iartzell was ticketed by deputies on a charge of being unable to stop within an assured clear distance ahead. She suffered possible injuries, but didn't require hospital treatment.

Ben G. Kitchen, 48, of 4300 Green Road, Cass City, sought his own treatment after a mishap at 2 a.m. Saturday on Hurds Corner Road.

According to deputies, he was headed north, south of Tin Bill Road, when he lost control of his vehicle. The truck went off the west side of the road, rolled over and hit a barbed wire fence.

Kitchen was cited on a charge of violation of the basic speed law.

Charles L. Kretzschmer, 37, and his wife Geraldine, 28, of 3320 S. Gageton Road, Owendale, sought their own treatment after a collision Friday afternoon at Sebawaing and S. Bay Port Roads.

Huron county deputies reported their car, driven by the husband, was struck broadside by the auto of Lewis E. Perdue, 19, of Pontiac, who was northbound on Bay Port Road and didn't stop at the intersection.

Therese Miscisin, 17, of S. Bad Axe Road, Ubyly, was ticketed by sheriff's deputies on a charge of violation of the basic speed law after an accident at 6:02 p.m. last Wednesday.

Officers reported the Miscisin vehicle was westbound on M-46, east of M-24, when the driver lost control, crossed the centerline and collided with an eastbound car.

Driver of the other auto was Clarence Brock Jr., 44, of Mayville.

Brenda Snider, 17, of Elkton, was ticketed on a charge of no operator's license in her possession after a 5:30 p.m. accident last Thursday.

According to deputies, she was westbound on Bay City-Forestville Road, slammed on her brakes in order to turn onto Hurds Corner Road and her car was struck in the rear by the vehicle behind it.

Driver of the other auto was Brian Prior, 16, of Moore Road, Owendale.

At 12:25 a.m. Saturday, according to Cass City police, Carl G. Gibbard, 20, Wheeler Road, Ubyly, was northbound on Doerr Road and turning right onto Garfield Street.

Kevin Osentoski, 18, of Patterson Road, Ubyly, was passing Gibbard, but then swerved to the right, colliding with the other auto, in order to avoid colliding with an unidentified third vehicle, which was turning left from Garfield onto Doerr.

CAR-DEER

John Kostanko, 31, of 3878 S. Cemetery Road, Kingston, was northbound on Cemetery Road, south of Brief Road, at 8:35 p.m. Dec. 31, when his car struck a deer, according to Caro state police.

Troopers reported that Norman H. Cassie, 61, of 6100 Legg Road, Kingston, was eastbound on Bevans Road, west of Kingston Road, at 6:50 p.m. Jan. 1 when his car collided with a deer. At 3 a.m. that day, Kenneth G. Walkiewicz, 27, of 6115 Chapin Road, Deford, was southbound on Kingston Road, north of Bevans, when his car hit a deer. Sheriff's deputies investigated.

At 8:30 a.m. Friday, deputies said, Ricky L. Hartwick, 20, of 7621 Bay City-Forestville Road, Cass City, was southbound on Buehly Road, south of Reed Road, when his vehicle hit a deer.

Jackie L. Putnam, 35, of 4307 Mushroom Road, Deford, was eastbound on Mushroom, east of Plain Road, at 8:05 p.m. that day, according to deputies, when her car hit a deer.

PEDALING AROUND

Inside stuff

By Mike Eliasohn

Answers to questions about the Chronicle no one has ever asked, but maybe has wondered about:

Who writes what?
Publisher John Haire covers the Cass City School Board, Cass City High School sports, writes his two weekly columns and occasional other articles.

With the exception of the social news written by our correspondents, I do the rest of the reporting.

That doesn't mean I write everything else. Much of our "news" comes in the mail, which merely requires editing and sometimes rewriting.

As for stories I "go out and cover," a lot gets covered from my desk via telephone.

To use as an example, all information for the stories on the front page of last week's Chronicle was gathered by telephone with two exceptions: I talked to William Kolacz personally (on whose land drilling for oil or gas may take place) and some of the information about the accidental shooting was taken from the sheriff's department report.

News I cover in person on a regular basis consists of the Owendale-Gagetown School Board, Cass City Village Council and feature-type stories. The story on the snowmobilers in this issue is an example of the latter.

Each Tuesday, I go to the Cass City police station, Tuscola county sheriff's department and Caro state police post to go over the accident and criminal complaint reports. At the courthouse on Tuesdays, I get the circuit and district court news.

About the only time I put my byline (name) on a story I do is if there was more than the normal amount of work involved.

How new is the news?
Since Tuesdays are spent getting the police and court news, the last day for writing other than late-breaking stories is on Mondays.

The latest I can get any late-late news in is early Wednesday as the paper is put together Wednesday morning.

How does news get in the paper?

Some is routine, such as school board, township and village council meetings, police reports, etc.

Often, especially during slow news weeks, I (or sometimes John) come up with an idea for a story, for instance, the one last week on the current unemployment situation.

But often news gets in because someone tells us something is happening (or happened). It might be something as simple as club news or something more involved.

The story about possible gas and oil drilling in the Cass City area that ran in last week's paper was partially the result of a person asking me if I knew when they were going to start drilling for oil in Novesta township. (He knew more than I did.)

If something you thought should have got in the Chronicle didn't, chances are it's because no one told us.

Music to my ears is when someone starts a conversation with, "This would make a good story."

Meredith Auten remembers

I think my home life as a child was quite unique. There was a pipe with whistles on both ends running from the master bedroom to the kitchen below. If Mother wanted to talk to the maid, she blew through the pipe, which blew the whistle. The talking was perfectly plain.

Our maid was paid $2.50 a week and we had some good ones.

The maid never ate with the family. There was a button on the floor which Mother would press if she wanted the maid to clear the table for another course.

Father was an inveterate worker, frequently arising at 4 a.m. Breakfast was quite a meal, buckwheat pancakes and syrup, or cornmeal gems, or johnny-cake, or oatmeal gems. Oatmeal was also served.

Dinner at night was quite formal. Mother always had some interesting conversa-

Parsell heads Sanilac board

Stuart Parsell of Lexington was elected chairman of the Sanilac County Board of Commissioners last Wednesday.

Commissioners elected Donald Albrecht of Carsonville as their first vice-chairman and Donald Decker of Deckerville as second vice-chairman.

The vote electing Parsell was unanimous. He takes over from 1979 board chairman Harold Hobson of Sandusky.

Change in Social Security

The Social Security tax rate will stay at 6.13 percent for 1980 but there will be an increase in the earnings base, according to Susan Ludwig, Social Security field representative in Saginaw.

The earnings base is the maximum amount of annual earnings subject to the Social Security tax. The base will be $25,900 in 1980, compared to $22,900 for 1979.

Workers who earn less than $22,900 will pay no more tax in 1980 than they did in 1979. Those who have earnings of $25,900 or more in 1980 will pay an additional $183.90 in Social Security taxes.

The maximum 1980 Social Security tax will be $1,587.67 for workers with annual earnings of $25,900 or more. The maximum tax for 1979 is $1,403.77.

The tax rate for self-employed people will stay at 8.1 percent for 1980. Ms. Ludwig said, but the higher earnings base will mean a bigger tax bill for those with earnings of more than $22,900.

Schluckebier heads Farm Bureau drive

LeRoy Schluckebier of rural Frankenmuth, has been named chairperson of the Tuscola County Farm Bureau's 1980 membership campaign by Margaret Boyne, president of Tuscola County Farm Bureau.

Under the leadership of Schluckebier, volunteer farm leaders will aim at a goal of 2,318 member families, Tuscola county's portion of the Michigan Farm Bureau state goal of 65,940 family memberships.

Assault center sets meeting

The Tuscola County Assault Crisis Center will hold its next meeting Tuesday, Jan. 15, in the basement of the Tuscola County Advertiser, State Street, Caro, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Training sessions for volunteers will be planned, as well as future fund-raising activities.

Workshop for bread making

The first "Do-it-in-a-bag Bread Jamboree," sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service, will be Thursday, Jan. 31, at the Farm Bureau Building in Sandusky.

As well as learning a new skill, those attending will have the opportunity to learn the nutritional qualities of bread and learn about wheat. Everyone will take home one loaf of honeywheat bread to bake.

Reservations are needed one week in advance. The bread jamboree will be from 1:30-3:30 p.m. and repeated from 7-9 p.m. Costs are $2 each per person for supplies and materials. For more information, call the Extension Service at (313) 648-2515.

Dance on Saturday

The YMCA Thumb Singles Club of Sandusky will sponsor a dance Saturday in the Sandusky High School gym from 8:30 p.m.-12:30 a.m.

Music will be provided by the Noblemen. Refreshments will be served.

Anyone who is more than 25 years old, single, widowed or divorced is invited to attend and join the club.

Consumer calendar available

Consumers who want to be forewarned about common seasonal problems can now get a free copy of Michigan's 1980 consumer calendar released by the Michigan Consumers Council.

"Each month describes a problem consumers may encounter during the year," explained Executive Director Linda Joy. "It gives practical advice on what to do and where to go for help."

"For example, many consumers are in the market for home insulation in September," she said. "So for that month we suggest consumers look for the product label which tells how effectively the material retains heat."

The calendar also lets consumers know that the toll-free Consumers Council Guideline is available to counsel them on all types of consumer matters. They can dial 1-800-292-5680.

Consumers who would like a copy of the Consumer Calendar can write the Michigan Consumers Council, 414 Hollister Building, 106 W. Allegan, Lansing 48933 or call the toll-free Consumers Council Guideline.

Mayville crushed as Cass City preps for Vassar

The Cass City Red Hawks crushed an outmanned Mayville Wildcat team Tuesday night at Mayville in a non-league tune-up for the game with league leading Vassar Friday. The score was 80-51.

The Hawks had too much of everything for the Cats. Too much height, too much speed and too much ability.

The Hawks jumped into an early 10-2 lead with just over four minutes gone in the first period and went on from there.

The initial surge was paced by Rusty Hoag who connected for a basket and two charity tosses and some excellent feeds by Craig Tonti who appears to be taking charge of running Coach Ron Nurnberger's offense.

Nurnberger unveiled a variety of zone defenses in the first quarter and, mixed with Cass City's usual man-for-man, it throttled Mayville throughout the first half.

Whether it will be as effective, if used, against Vassar this Friday remains to be seen. The Hawks should be up for the game at Vassar as a loss would probably knock them from the Thumb B race.

If the Hawks play against Vassar like they did in the second period against Mayville the Vulcans will have their hands full.

With a minute gone in the second quarter, Cass City was in front 21-13. In the next four minutes and 33 seconds Cass City scored in just about every way possible while the Wildcats couldn't buy a basket.

Cass City used the press for turnovers for baskets. The Hawks drove the center for baskets, they hit pops from the side and they rebounded everything in sight.

When it was over Cass City was in front 42-14 and there was still 2:27 left to play in the third period.

After that it was mop up time and everybody played and 11 of the 14 players dressed scored. Tim Fahrner, 16, Ken Martin, 14, and Rusty Hoag, 12, were in double figures for Cass City. Tim Elenbaum scored 12 for Mayville.

JV WINS

We made some free throws tonight when we needed them, Coach Jim Mastie said after his charges had topped the Cats, 61-53. It was the second win in six starts for the JV after a series of close defeats.

MARLETTE GAME

It was a game of basketball monopoly Friday night at Cass City High School when the Cass City Red Hawks and the Marlette Red Raiders met in a Thumb B Conference tilt.

Both teams were trying to corner the market on bad passes, shoddy defense, poor rebounding and turnovers. Neither team succeeded and the battle for the zilch basketball game crown ended in a tie. Both teams were, in a word, terrible.

Cass City won the game, 59-40, but it wasn't a satisfying win for Coach Ron Nurnberger or Cass City fans.

Nurnberger tried various combinations throughout the evening and none played the type basketball that is expected from a title contender.

Cass City broke out in front midway through the first period behind a basket and a couple of charity tosses by Steve Richards and were ahead the rest of the way.

At the end of the first period the Hawks were in front, 16-8. Using balanced scoring Cass City ran the margin to 27-17 by the intermission as Tim Fahrner led the attack.

The two teams played on even terms in the third quarter and Cass City lengthened its margin in the early going in the fourth period when the team played its best ball of the night.

Midway through the final period both coaches cleared their benches to play out the string.

Fahrner led the Hawk rebounders with 16. Rob Clarke picked off 13.

JV LOSES

The Cass City Junior Varsity has to have established a record of some sort. The JV has lost four games in five tries. Friday it lost to Marlette, 45-44, a one-point defeat.

In previous losses the margin has been by a single point twice and once by four points.

Kinde turns tables on O-G 49-47 Tuesday

North Huron gained revenge for its loss to Owen-Gage in the latter's holiday tournament with a narrow 49-47 win over the Bulldogs Tuesday night.

host Owen-Gage spelled the difference, as the team managed only four of 20 field goal shots in the second half. It had led by nine points at halftime and by two at the end of the third quarter.

For the night, the Bulldogs shot 16 of 55 from the floor, 29 percent, and 15 of 24 from the free throw line, 62 percent.

The Warriors connected on 22 of 54 shots from the floor, 40 percent, and five of 12 at the charity line, 41 percent.

Jim Glidden led the Bulldogs with 17 points and 10 rebounds. Alan Haag scored 12 and Pete Klemkowsky, 10.

Top scorer for North Huron was Kevin Kennedy with 15, followed by Jon Binder with 11.

The loss drops Owen-Gage to 4-3 overall and 2-2 in the North Central D League. The team plays Friday at Caseville and hosts Uby in a non-league game Tuesday.

North Huron is now 3-4 overall and 2-1 in the league.

The Warriors won the junior varsity game, 70-45. Score by quarters:

Hawks third Birch Run captures 1st Cass City wrestling tourney

Cass City finished third in an eight-team tournament at Cass City High School Saturday as Birch Run ran away from the field to win.

Birch Run finished with 221½ points while runner-up Sandusky scored 150½ points. Cass City scored 136 points.

There was a wide spread in the point total between third place and the rest of the finishers.

The totals were: Merrill, 78½; Saginaw SS Peter and Paul, 78½; Lakers, 50; Standish-Sterling, 31½; Bad Axe, 29.

Cass City's Paul Brown was the lone winner for the Hawks. He took the 98-pound event by pinning three straight opponents.

Cass City had several second place finishers. Dolecki finished second in the 119-pound class with two pins before a loss in the finals to Driscoll of Sandusky.

Finishing third in the 155-pound class was Bob Sawdon. Jim Jensen finished third in the 198-pound class and Guy Nanney was second in the heavyweight division, losing in the finals to Ray Letterman of Birch Run.

NIGHT AFTER THE WEDDING, by the Gordons (fiction). The Gordons are back again—in company with their much-loved characters from "Night Before the Wedding." Recent college graduate Cathy Doyle is house-sitting for a vacationing Encino couple. The job seems like a stroke of good fortune until a night intruder demands the million dollars he claims she's hiding. Frightened and baffled, Cathy seeks help from attorney Frank Mitchell and his new bride. Their old friend police Inspector Hawk joins forces with them to solve the mystery. A confession from Cathy reveals that her father was an important and wealthy man—and further investigation reveals that there really is a million dollars somewhere.

THE COMPLETE BEGINNER'S GUIDE TO PHOTOGRAPHY, by George Laycock (non-fiction). The author tells the amateur photographer all he or she needs to know about getting started in the world of cameras and photographs. His instructions for choosing the right camera, setting up a darkroom, developing film, and mounting the finished product are clear and precise, and illustrated with photos that demonstrate the dos and don'ts. Laycock also points out the vast range of subject matter at the photographer's disposal—wildlife, landscapes, still-life, and portraits. His emphasis is mainly on the fun of photography.

THE COLOR DICTIONARY OF SHRUBS, by S. Millar Gault (non-fiction). This remarkable reference work includes over 500 color plates of the shrubs of the United States and a separate alphabetical listing in which each plant is concisely and accurately defined. Each entry contains a short horticultural history and a listing of the shrub's main characteristics. A very simple system of symbols helps guide the reader in choosing a particular plant for a particular site.

HEALTH TIPS

Good diet can mean good health

As we move into a new decade, more and more people are taking charge of their own lives -- making thoughtful choices of career and personal goals, and their whole lifestyle.

"A significant part of this is that people are beginning to take more responsibility for their health, rather than just waiting for some illness or degenerative condition to befall them," said Dr. Daniel Anbe, Henry Ford Hospital cardiologist and president of the Michigan Heart Association.

"Hopefully, this will mean further decreases in the incidence of cardiovascular disease. Research now seems to indicate that 6 of the top 10 killer diseases in the country -- things like heart disease, cancer and diabetes -- are linked to diet."

What, then, is a prudent diet for someone who wishes to reduce his risk?

"At the Heart Association, we have several recommendations for people who want to reduce their risk of heart attack or stroke," said Dr. Anbe.

--Control your intake of cholesterol-rich foods such as red meats, egg yolks and shrimp. Trim all visible fats from meat and drain off fat that cooks out of it. Broil, roast, stew and boil meat rather than frying it.

Instead of butter and other solid fats, use liquid vegetable oils and margarine, and substitute skim milk and skim milk cheeses for whole milk and whole milk cheeses. In the present American diet, fat accounts for about 40 percent of total energy intake, and this should be reduced to about 30 percent.

--Limit your sodium (salt) intake to five grams or less a day. The average American now consumes 4-15 grams per day.

--Increase your consumption of complex carbohydrates and naturally occurring sugars (whole grains, fruits, etc.) to about 48 percent of total intake, and reduce your intake of refined and processed sugars to no more than 10 percent of total intake.

--Watch your total calorie intake and maintain a desirable weight in proportion to your height.

"A diet such as this should reduce one's tendency to develop atherosclerosis--the buildup inside artery walls that can lead to having high blood pressure, heart attack or stroke," said Dr. Anbe.

"While there is no guarantee that following this type of diet will prevent getting cardiovascular disease, or any of the other 'killer' diseases," he said, "it should at the very least delay their onset."

Usually the things that seem too good to be true aren't.

Cheerleader from Uby win honors

Uby High School cheerleaders won high honors two competitions in December.

At the meet Dec. 1 Kingston High School Class A, B, C and D school the squad took first place among the nine Class schools.

The cheerleaders about 50 parents and friends journeyed to the Pont Silverdome Dec. 4 for the first annual Detroit Pistol competition.

The Uby squad won eighth place overall out of the 67 Class A, B, C and schools competing.

Preliminaries were before the start of the Detroit-Boston game, with the final conducted at halftime front of 12,000 spectators.

Uby cheerleaders are captain Kim Walsh, co-captain Shannon Forman, Kanaby, Colleen Schell, Lisa Kutter, Joann Block, Shelly Fligger and Laurie Voorheis.

Their coach is Judy Cotter.

Ney board chairman in Huron

By a 5-2 vote last Wednesday, Huron county commissioners elected Peter Ney of Bad Axe as chairman of the county board.

Also nominated was Bruce Kuhl of Bay Port, who was later elected vice-chairman.

Kuhl, whose district includes Brookfield township, was named to the public safety; social services; solid waste, and agriculture, roads and bridges committees.

William Nugent, whose district includes Grant, Sheridan and Bingham townships, will sit this year on the personnel, veterans affairs and adult probation, resolutions and legislative, agriculture, roads and drains, and solid waste committees. Nugent of rural Bad Axe, was county board chairman last year.

Also last week, Edward A. Swackhamer announced he won't run in 1980 for re-election as county clerk. The Port Austin resident was first elected to the position in 1948.

Community booster

Iseler helps in growth of Mutual Savings

Editor's note: this is one of a series sponsored by the Cass City Chamber of Commerce about community boosters who are members of the organization.

Lee Iseler came to Cass City in May 1979 and in the few short months that he has been in charge of the Mutual Savings & Loan Association office he has quickly become an accepted part of the business community.

The personable manager is quick to cooperate in all community affairs.

Before coming to Cass City he worked in the Pigeon branch of Mutual Savings for a year and a half.

The company opened its branch here with assets of $100 million and presently the firm has assets of over $400 million.

The reception of the company's policy of offering the highest interest rates allowed by law has resulted in a demand for more space.

Presently under construction is a new modern building with approximately 1500 square feet of floor space. It will also include a new drive-in facility at 6241 Main Street.

Mutual employs five persons in the Cass City office and has 23 other offices in Michigan.

Iseler is a member of the Lions Club. He and his wife, Ann, have a son, Charles, in school.

Set program for farm women

A special program for farm women, sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service, has been scheduled in Frankenmuth and Ubyly.

The program will be identical in both locations. It will be Tuesday, Jan. 15, at Zehnder's Hotel in Frankenmuth and Friday, Jan. 18, at the Ubyly Heights Country Club.

Owen-Gage retires hold meeting

Owen-Gage Senior Citizens met at the Gagetown Municipal Building last Thursday, for fellowship, bingo and euchre.

Refreshments were served. Mary Lewis took blood pressure readings assisted by Velma Kain.

Lucille LaFave and Harry Russell won the door prizes. A get-well card was sent to Roland Gettel. Birthday greetings were sung to Grace Clara, Myrtle Nelson, Stella Errer, Millie Munro and Dennis and Dorothy Rocheleau.

The next meeting will be a potluck lunch at the Owendale Community Building Thursday, Jan. 17, at noon. Committee members for January are: Mr. and Mrs. Harry Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Good and Roland Gettel.

No one can rise in this world until he settles down.

Letters to the Editor

Everyone can make mistakes

Dear Mr. Haire:

Please pass this on to Mike Eliasohn, if appropriate.

In your Dec. 27 issue, where Timothy Tuckey defends the Hawk Herald, it seems to me that the editor has perhaps tried to make a point regarding the Herald and Tuckey by not editing (or correcting) Tuckey's letter for grammar and spelling. His errors are, indeed, "numerous."

I hope, though, that this was not done with any feeling of superiority on the part of the editor. As the attached section of the article about Howard Bacon shows, errors can happen to anyone!

Best wishes for the New Year

Interlochen choir to perform here

The Interlochen Arts Academy choir will be performing Wednesday, Jan. 16, at the Cass City Intermediate School gymnasium at 9 a.m.

Teresa Scollon, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Edward Scollon, 4849 N. Seeger Street, is a member of the choir.

Persons not connected with the school can attend the program.

The choir will be singing Tuesday night in Bad Axe and will stop in Cass City while on its way to Jackson for a concert Wednesday night.

The program will be as follows:

9:30 a.m. -- Registration, coffee, milk and other refreshments, sponsored by American Dairy Association.

10 -- Remarks by host county agent.

10:10 -- The dairy diplomat's program: Implications for other commodity groups.

10:25 -- Recent changes in probate laws, designed to keep farm women informed on probate procedures so they can be properly prepared in the event of a spouse's death.

11:30 -- Modern management techniques: A review of the new Dairy Herd Improvement Association forms and tips on how they can be used to increase herd production.

Noon -- Lunch.

1 p.m. -- Farm office management: A discussion on the proper organization of a farm office so that it may be used more efficiently for making management decisions.

1:30 -- Managing farm labor: A look at the factors that affect employer-employee relationships so that employees can be handled effectively.

2:15 -- How much life insurance is really necessary? A look at life insurance as it relates to farmers and their business operations.

3 -- End of program.

Leaflets explaining the program are available at county extension offices. Reservations must be made with either Zehnder's or Ubyly Heights.

Restore senior swingout

Dear Editor, Last year a tradition was taken away from the class of 1980 and future senior classes at Cass City High School, swing-out.

Swing-out gave seniors a sense of pride and accomplishment. They had earned the right to wear their caps and gowns and parade down Main Street. Because the school board voted 6-1 to abolish swing-out, the class of '80 will not have this sense of pride.

I can remember when I was in junior high watching swing-out. I had respect for those seniors and I can remember how I looked forward to swing-out when I was a senior. I am now a senior and the school board takes it away from us.

The reason given for the abolishment of swing-out was disorderly conduct of seniors in the past.

The senior class theme is to "Act with dignity." Give us a chance to prove that we can act with dignity. One more swing-out could prove that seniors can act with dignity.

Snowmobiling a drag for Cass City duo

Snowmobile racing on grass -- in December. That's the way the 1979-80 season started for snowmobile racers Bob Brinkman and Terry Elenbaum.

It wasn't the Cass Cityans' day, however. A gasket blew early and they were done for the day. That was the week end before Christmas at Mason, near Lansing.

This past Sunday, the best Brinkman, who does all the driving, could do was second place in a heat race.

"I don't care to drive it," explained Elenbaum, who owns the snowmobile they race. "It kind of scares me." He is confident they will be doing better.

This is the second year of competition for the pair.

Last year they were part of a threesome and with Rick Ziehm doing most of the driving and Brinkman doing the rest, the trio won the Midwest International Racing Association season championship in the mini-enduro stock 1 class.

The mini-enduro races were usually on half-mile oval tracks with the feature race about 35 miles. The season, which ran from December through February, took the team to such places as Petoskey, Harrison, Gladwin, Gaylord and into Ontario, about 35 miles east of Detroit.

There are a lot of changes this year, in addition to Ziehm's decision not to continue with the team. He may race on his own.

THE BIG CHANGE IS that instead of mini-enduros, Elenbaum and Brinkman are drag racing.

It's done on an 800-foot straightaway and whoever has the fastest sled over the distance in a process of elimination wins.

There were various reasons for the switch. For one, the mini-enduros didn't pay that well in prize money, considering the time and expense involved.

Even though the races will be in Mason, Bath and Ovid, all in the Lansing area, they only consume one or at the most, two days. They also plan to compete in a few sprint races in the Grand Rapids area. Sprint races are done in a half-mile oval, with three-lap heat races and a five-lap final.

The schedule this year makes it practical to take the family along at least some of the time, which it wasn't with the enduros, which consumed two or three days.

Brinkman, 24, and his wife, Debra, have two children, Jamie, 6, and Matt, 3.

Terry, 29, and his wife, Omma, have a son, Chad, 4, and daughter, Amy, 3. Chad is a budding snowmobile racer, drag racing his mini-snowmobile against other youngsters.

Elenbaum is employed at Carmet Co. in Bad Axe. Brinkman is laid off from Evans Products in Gagetown, where he was a welder.

ANOTHER CHANGE this year is in the sled. Other than the first few races last year, done on a 1974 Sno Jet owned by Elenbaum, the racing was done on a snowmobile owned by Ziehm.

This year, the Sno Jet was revitalized.

For enduro racing, the emphasis had to be on reliability on making the machine last.

But for drag racing, the only need is acceleration, which means power and lightness (plus a change in gearing).

Everything was removed that wasn't essential, including the big seat (replaced with a small one), pan under the engine and chain case.

The machine was light to begin with as it was basically built for racing, but now weighs an estimated 225-250 pounds, probably 75 less than in stock form.

Extensive modifications were made to the 340cc Yamaha engine and it's possible to make even more, if necessary. Estimated horsepower is 75, versus 45 stock.

IN ADDITION TO THE original $1,000 cost of the machine, Elenbaum, who does most of the mechanical work, figures he has put another $1,500 in the machine.

The result is a snowmobile that at the end of 800 feet is going about 70 miles per hour.

It has so much power that Brinkman has to be careful not to apply too much power, lest he do a "wheelie." On a trial run last Thursday outside the Elenbaum home, he gave too much juice to the throttle. The machine reared up, depositing him flat on his back on the ground.

Elenbaum describes it as a challenge to make a comparatively old air-cooled machine competitive with the more modern liquid cooled ones. "We like to compare our work with others."

The machine runs in the 340 modified or open modified class. In the first event of the season, there were 19 or 20 others running in the same class.

Even if Brinkman and Elenbaum won about everything there was to win, this season, they probably wouldn't win more than $400, the latter estimates, not enough to pay their expenses. "It's just a hobby," he says. "Bob likes to drive it and I like to play around with it."

Snowmobiling's Fun on Michigan's 165 Marked Trails

TUNING UP -- Bob Brinkman (left) and Terry Elenbaum work on the engine of the latter's snowmobile. The highly modified engine, which runs on aviation gasoline, puts out an estimated 75 horsepower.

TEST RUN -- Bob Brinkman revs the engine in preparation for the start of a test run. At the end of 800 feet, the snowmobile can be traveling 70 miles per hour.

2 plead innocent Monday in Tuscola Circuit Court

James D. Sandoval, 21, of Saginaw, pleaded innocent in Tuscola County Circuit Court Monday to a charge of larceny in a building.

Judge Martin E. Clements entered a plea of innocent and scheduled a pretrial hearing Jan. 21. Bond of $3,000 was continued.

Sandoval is charged with the theft of $267 in cash from Doud's Standard service station in Richville Dec. 21.

Also Monday, Larry G. Dill, 29, of 1060 Riley Road, Caro, pleaded innocent to violation of probation. His plea was accepted and a hearing scheduled Jan. 21.

Dill was placed on 18 months' probation Feb. 14, 1979 for assaulting a police officer and resisting arrest.

He is charged with having violated probation by his guilty plea Dec. 4 in District Court to a charge of impaired driving and having consumed alcoholic beverages in Caro on or about Nov. 16.

Solons debate merits of sunset legislation

By Warren M. Hoyt
Mich. Press Association

The marks are now all in and the Michigan Legislature has received a mixed review for the 1979 half of the 80th Legislature.

Legislative leaders -- both Democratic and Republican alike -- seem to be in agreement over the major accomplishments, but they are at odds on what was not done properly and what needs priority billing with the new session dawning on Jan. 9.

The major accomplishments include legislation to deal effectively in the event of an energy emergency, enactment of the so-called essential insurance bill, preservation of the state's wetlands and Wayne County reorganization.

Also depending upon who is speaking, sunset legislation -- requiring periodic reviews of state departments, agencies, bureaus and programs -- is listed among the major accomplishments.

Democrats say the act will work to eventually reduce to limit any state agency or program that is no longer needed but Republicans say it will not work without actual termination dates to require positive action to maintain a program.

Minority Republicans say all the new act will do will be to increase legislative staff, thus increasing costs, for the ongoing review of all governmental programs.

This is a matter that will be decided by Republican Governor William G. Milliken. He has threatened to deliver a veto of the legislation without specific termination dates.

Left undone was legislation to restructure the state's giant health care insurance company, Blue Cross-Blue Shield, and reform of the campaign finance act and the unemployment and workers' compensation systems.

These items will be at the top of everyone's "hit parade" as the new session opens, but if 1980 is like every other year of partisan politics, these items are too great to solve to everyone's satisfaction.

This will satisfy no one. It will not satisfy management and it will not satisfy labor. It is a limited and balanced approach," the governor said.

Local street work rebid due Jan. 16

Meanwhile, Milliken is again trying to break the logjam on workers' compensation reform with the presentation of another proposal to a special task force.

Milliken said his so-called "balanced package" is not a final solution, but it is needed to get some sort of agreement on workers' compensation.

The package would eliminate minimum benefits for general injuries, increase maximum weekly benefits but with no cost of living escalator, provide for coordinating benefits with pension plans and Social Security and pay for retroactive benefits from the state's general fund.

The plan was not received well by either business or labor. Labor said the plan would take benefits away from workers and business said it would be too expensive for business and industry to handle.

Milliken said the proposal represented a backing off from his position of reform. He suggested if the package could be adopted, the reform could go forward.

"At least, let us go and get this balanced approach.

The Michigan Department of Transportation will open bids in Lansing Jan. 16 on 18 projects, including one in Cass City.

The local project is reconstruction of Doerr Road from Main to Garfield Street and Garfield between Doerr and the railroad tracks.

Estimated cost is $250,000, with a completion date in September.

It will be the second time the transportation department has opened bids on the project.

Cass City is to receive a federal grant to pay 77 percent of the construction cost up to a maximum of $180,000. The village is to pay the rest, plus engineering costs.

The first time bids were opened, in September, the low bid was $270,318, which would have made Cass City's share more than it can afford.

The project requirements have now been trimmed slightly in an effort to reduce costs.

Also, it is hoped this time a local contractor will bid on the project and submit a lower bid than happened last time, when all three bidders were from outside of this area.

The Deford Craft Club will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. The project will be a poodle dog and octopus. Materials needed for each one is a skein of yarn, eyes and scissors, while the dog requires a medium weight coat hanger and octopus, a 2 1/2" styrofoam ball. Ideas for quilt patterns are needed this month. Hostesses will be Sharon Vandembosche, Sally Wood and Edith Izydorek.

GOOD ATTITUDE

The minute a man begins to think things might have been worse, he's well on the road to success.

Regular meeting of Cass City Village Council

The regular meeting of the Cass City Village Council was held December 17, 1979 at 7:00 p.m. at the Municipal Building.

The minutes for the regular November meeting were approved as presented.

The November Financial Statement was reviewed.

It was reported that the Safer-Off System will be let in January.

A letter from Mrs. Winnifred Orr Bauman was reviewed.

A letter from A. E. Ellinger of General Cable Corporation was reviewed concerning the railroad crossing at Garfield St. The council asked that we consult the State to see about lighting or possibly a stop sign at the Garfield St. crossing.

A letter was read from Hubbell, Roth and Clark explaining the reason for their request to amend their contract for Engineering Service dated August 8, 1979. A motion was made by Trustee Helwig and supported by Trustee Hampshire to approve the increase on the contract from $349,000.00 to $389,000.00. Motion carried 6 years, 0 days.

A motion was made by Trustee Tuttle and supported by Trustee Stahlbaum to accept the recommendations of the personnel committee for the 1980 Wage and Fringe Benefits including the hiring of a fifth policeman. Motion carried 6 years, 0 days.

The matter was brought up of hiring a licensed mechanic. The issue was tabled for future study.

A motion was made by Trustee Stahlbaum and supported by Trustee Rawson to accept the resignation of Lynda McIntosh as Secretary and Village Clerk. Motion carried 6 years, 0 days.

A motion was made by Trustee Ware and supported by Trustee Helwig to appoint Joyce LaRoche as interim Clerk for the period of January 18 till March 10. Motion carried 6 years, 0 days.

A motion was made by

THIS BIG PILE of lumber was harvested near Snover by Steve Papp and trucked to the banks of the Cass River on River Road where it was picked up by representatives of a saw mill. Papp says that the lumbering business is becoming harder each year. One reason is that the grades of lumber produced here compete with use as firewood. As the price for the trees as fuel increases it becomes harder to buy a woodlot, and cut it and still show a profit, Papp says.

IRS will help with tax forms

The Internal Revenue Service reminds taxpayers that help with federal tax questions is available by phone and in person.

Hours for help by phone are 8 a.m.-noon and 12:45-4:30 p.m. The toll-free telephone number is 1-800-482-0670. The best time to call is early in the morning or late in the day. Try to avoid Mondays and Tuesdays as those are the two busiest days of the week. The Agency's phone system handles about 75 percent of the assistance needs of taxpayers.

Persons with more complicated tax problems can get free help at the IRS office at 100 S. Warren, Saginaw, from 8 a.m.-4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. Taxpayer service is offered in

Provincial House has new chief

Dona Strieter, RN, is the new administrator at Provincial House, Cass City.

She replaces Connie Schwadener, RN, who was promoted by the health care chain to regional manager in charge of its nursing homes in Cass City, Midland, Tawas City and Alpena.

Mrs. Strieter comes to Provincial House after 13 years as office nurse for Doctors Herbert Nigg, Edward Miles and Suresh Goyal in Caro. Prior to that, she worked for 10 years at Caro Community Hospital.

The Unionville resident and her husband, Richard, have three children, Julia, 26, Allen, 25, and Elizabeth, 18.

EMERGENCY CALL -- The Cass City ambulance, as it is backed into the emergency receiving area at Hills and Dales General Hospital. The unit cost $26,546. Added equipment brought the total to $30,000.

McDaniel: program doing OK

MOST OF THE TIME, two emergency medical technicians plus a driver go on each run. (Dispatching is done by the sheriff's department.)

That is an upcoming state requirement, but present rules only specify one EMT and one driver.

McDaniel presently has 10 EMT's (including himself) and four drivers -- all male. He would like to have more, male or female.

There may be an EMT training class at Hills and Dales some time in the future. EMT's require 140 hours of training. There has been one such class there already.

EMT's receive $7.50 per run, plus $5 per hour beyond the first hour. Driver-attendants get $5 per run plus $5 for each additional hour.

KEEPING AN AMBULANCE on the road means lots of paperwork. Looking over his records is Jack McDaniel, president and operator of Cass City Area Ambulance Service.

All Tuscola county roads now clear of snow

With few exceptions, all Tuscola county roads were cleared by Tuesday, according to Road Commission Engineer Bob Wellington.

The exceptions were places where the roads had drifted shut. He expects that all such drifts would be cleared by Wednesday morning. Area schools were closed Monday because of poor road conditions, but classes resumed Tuesday.

Commissioners re-elect chairman Nagy of Vassar

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners Tuesday re-elected Paul Nagy of Vassar and Ben Collon of Caro as chairman and vice-chairman respectively.

Each will be serving their second year in the positions. Nagy has been on the board five years; Collon, seven years.

Committee appointments were made. Commissioner Royce Russell of Elmwood township will be serving on the public affairs, departmental control and county affairs committees, the latter as chairman.

The board approved annexation of approximately 110 acres to the village of Caro. The property is at the southwest edge of the village.

In December, commissioners rejected the annexation when it consisted of 182.5 acres. Caro officials then deleted the property owned by people who didn't want annexation and resubmitted the petition to the county board.

Approved was the bid of a Minnesota firm of $720 for repair of the stained glass window at the courthouse.

College post awarded to Hendrick

Cass City native Shirley S. Hendrick has been appointed academic coordinator of continuing education at the Pennsylvania State University College of Business Administration.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Smith of 6634 Third Street.

She has been an instructor in management science and organizational behavior at Penn State and also served as administrative aide in the Division of Biological Health at the university.

She earned her bachelor's degree in business and master's of business administration degree at Penn State and is presently a doctoral degree candidate there in higher education.

Mrs. Hendrick, 43, is the wife of Raymond Hendrick, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hendrick of 4343 Leach Street. They have a son and a daughter and one grandchild.

In 1978, the College of Business Administration offered more than 1,000 continuing education programs, with more than 29,000 persons enrolled.

The university is in State College, Pa.

plus $1,762 for installing clear plastic over the outside for protection and insulation.

Approval was given to county Extension Director Bill Bortel to apply for funds for hiring of an agronomist as soon as the public affairs committee finds office space for the person to be hired.

To be paid with federal and Michigan State University funds, the agronomist will be evaluating the effectiveness of the federally-funded $400,000 water pollution control program in townships along or close to Saginaw Bay.

Road deaths decline in two counties

Traffic deaths declined in two of three upper Thumb counties in 1979, compared to the previous year, according to statistics compiled by the Michigan State Police.

Nineteen persons died in Tuscola county traffic accidents last year, compared with 25 in 1978. Nine died in Sanilac county, compared with twice that number in 1978.

In Huron county in 1979, 13 persons were killed, two more than in 1978.

For all of Michigan, the 1,810 traffic deaths last year compared to 2,076 in 1978. The all-time high was in 1969 when 2,487 persons met their death on the state's roadways.

Rust causes minor Sunday night fire

A rusted stovepipe where it went through the wall resulted in a fire Sunday night at a Kelly Road home.

Elkland township firemen were called to the home of Joseph Howley at the Tuscola-Sanilac county line about 9 p.m.

Assistant Chief Jerome Root Jr. said the rusted-out pipe allowed fire to get into the wall of the brick structure. The stovepipe led to a woodburning stove.

Firemen had to remove some of the inside wall to extinguish burning insulation.

Root estimated damage at $300.
