SO LONG - - -

It is with regret that I must say "so long" to you as the many years I have lived here and have been a part of the Ord business picture have been most pleasant.

Personal health reasons have made it imperative that I withdraw.

I have sold my business and stock of merchandise to Mr. Stanley Rutar, whom all of you know, and who needs no introduction to you. I know that he will give you the same wonderful service that he did in the past.

Thanks to all of you for your friendship.

ANNOUNCEMENT

I have purchased the business and inventory of the Ord Hatchery from Wm. Goff.

Frankly, it feels rather good to be back in the harness again, and I hope that all of you will stop in to say hello—new customers and old customers.

As you all know, work of this kind needs to be handled by a younger, more active man, so on September 1st, Lee Krepel will join me. He will be active manager. Formerly with the Holcomb Hatchery of Grand Island, he is well qualified for his job.

++ Something Different ++
When the George Parkins, Jr. family visited in Ord last week, the former Mildred Jacobsen told a catchy little story of the day she was to attend a "white elephant" sale, and couldn't think what to take.

They just happened to have a new batch of kittens, more kittens than they needed.

And Mildred cleverly solved her problem by tying a pink bow on the neck of each kitten, popping three of them into a basket and taking them to be sold for her "white elephant" contribution.

So spirited was the bidding, Mildred related, that a fellow (I think it was church) worker exclaimed "Why, we have five kittens we're just DYING to get rid of! I never thought of contributing them!" ... and off she rushed to bring the five little spares.

And they too, sold promptly!

It has always seemed to me that there is a home for every little kitten and pup, if you'll only take the trouble to inquire a little.

But the wickedest thing is to dump these little strays out to shift for themselves, as a few hard-hearted souls do. I have seen pups I know were brought to Ord and dumped out, too little to find food for themselves, left to starve.

And I know some times kittens are hauled out to the country and dumped to shift for themselves.

A phone call or two, a mention at your next club meeting, will find a good home for the little animals.

Or, (Beesness, Now) ... a want ad in the Quiz will get you many appreciative pet takers!

John Ward wrote about the famed Bishop Beecher last week. Well, I can do the same, having listened to him preach many a time as a small girl, when he often came to Alliance.

And two days before he died, I came through Mount Pleasant, Ia. on the Burlington Zephyr. About that time, through the train came an old friend who had taught me journalism in high school days, a devout Episcopalian, deeply devoted to Bishop Beecher. After our first greetings, meeting unexpectedly, almost the first words she said were "Oh, how I'd like to get off here and say hello to Bishop Beecher! How I'd like to see him; I can hardly bear to go through and not stop!"

We discussed him, not knowing that he was in the hospital at that time, and desperately ill.

I was inspecting that countryside for another reason: my mother's family came from there. They have a little family cemetery there. So I was gazing with great interest at the rolling landscape, which is much like our own beautiful country of hills and valleys. Not quite so many cuts, perhaps.

Did you see the air view of Nebraska's erosion pattern in LIFE last week? If not, get hold of it. It was fascinating, and shows exactly what we do when we neglect our land.

You can't see Mr. Nash and his conservation practices too soon in this country, I believe. It seems the minute the topsoil is broken into, water and wind begin their ill drain, eating away something that is more precious than diamonds, if we but knew it.

Though that isn't the way I greet Valley county dirt when it blows down the street! Diamonds, phooey.

Editor Heads North Seeks Warmth, Sunshine For more than 30 years the Quiz proprietor and his family have each summer made it a practice to go to a certain small lake named Cullen, near Nisswa, Minn., for a few weeks. The northward trip has usually been made between June 20 and July 4, whenever mercury in Ord's official thermometer began flirting with the 100 mark in mid-afternoon and failed to fall below 80 at midnight. The trip is being made as usual this summer but a bit late. Editor Gene Leggett and family will leave Friday morning for Cullen but instead of seeking cooler weather the trip is being made in search of warmth, sunshine and succrose from rain. Weather reports from northern Minnesota put temperatures consistently 10 to 15 degrees higher than Ord's and weather has been delightful there all spring and summer. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Jablonski, Mrs. Eleanor Copeland and her two children and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dworak and Bob took a covered dish supper Sunday and surprised Mrs. Joe Sedlacek on her birthday. We want to thank all who brought gifts and visited our two daughters, Maxine and Leona, during their stay in the hospital, and especially Dr. R. J. Lynn, Frank Perry and the other nurses. Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Wadas

Mustangs Blast 13 Hits to Beat G. I. All-Stars 8 to 3

Novosad Hurls Neatly Paced Game As Mates Give Airtight Support

Its a long road that has no turning back and the Ord Mustangs made the turn July 4, when after four straight defeats due to listless batting they suddenly came to life and blasted out 13 hits, many of them for extra bases to beat the Grand Island All-Stars 8 to 3 in an exhibition game played on the home field.

In their hitting spree the Mustangs were led by Bud Novosad, Dan Dilla and Bill Dugan, who got 3 safe blows each, and Bob Philbrick, who got 2. Only members of the starting line-up to go hitless were Koll, Rol Johnson and D. Beran.

Bill Novosad did the pitching chores for Ord and hurled a nicely paced game, in which he gave up 7 hits, struck out 10 and issued only 2 walks. He also had one wild pitch. Only Ord errors were by Johnson and Koll and neither were costly.

Ord presented a revised line-up which seemed to have more fire and hustle than any used previously. One new player, Vic Jensen of the Greeley-Horace area, played third base, fielding his position perfectly and getting one long hit.

Gene Wells the Grand Island pitcher, was in constant trouble and in the sixth was relieved by his brother, Bob Wells, who walked 2 but gave up only 1 hit and no runs in the space he worked. Spieths, catcher, was heavy hitter for the Islanders with two blows, one of them a double.

Th performance of Bob Philbrick in center was a bright spot for all spectators. He caught every every fly, trapped every ball that came his way, and his beautiful throw from deep center to the plate in the 3rd nipped G. Wells with feet to spare and brought spectators to their feet with a round of applause.

Mustangs Drop Two More Games With Season Half Over

Ravenna Wins, 2 to 1, and Wood River 8 to 3 to Push Ord Lower

The Ord Mustangs looked good in losing to Ravenna last Wednesday evening, 2 to 1.

Sunday night they looked terrible in losing to Wood River, 8 to 3.

But regardless of the way they record, both games went into the record book as losses for Ord, giving them a percentage of only .333 for the first half of the season and pushing them down to sixth place in the league, with only Boelus below them.

Against the Mustangs Ravenna presented a star-spangled line-up of hired players including Al Karle and Ray Johnson, Rol Jensen, Sajevic, Sticney and Art Treischman, with only Svanda, Boucher and Zeller as home boys in the line-up.

Beasley had only one bad inning against them, the 2nd, in which Ravenna scored twice on 3 hits and a wild pitch. The rest of the way Beasley had them eating out of his hand, distributing 4 hits throughout 8 innings.

Art Treischman allowed Ord only 4 hits and was in trouble only in the third inning when the Mustangs' only run was scored on 2 hits and a fielder's choice.

The game was an excellent one to watch—big league baseball throughout, with players on both teams turning in circus stops and catches and handling the ball generally like professionals. It took only 1 hour and 40 minutes to play this game.

In contrast, the Wood River-Ord game Sunday night required 2 1/2 hours to play and was marred by disputes between players and with the umpires, a threatened protest by Wood River, and by injuries to two key Ord players.

Bill Novosad started on the mound for Ord and most of the damage was done in the two innings he tolled. He struck out Buettner, the lead-off man, but Klavan and Schweiger followed with singles. Prince was safe on a fielder's choice which nipped Schweiger at second but Ator walked and then N. Wells cleaned the bases with a vicious double to center. Karle flew out to end the inning but 3 Wood River runs had scored.

In the top half of the second Ord scored twice on a single by R. Beran, followed by Stan Johnson's over-the-fence home run to center field, and the score became 3 to 2, with Ord fans beginning to perk up.

G. Wells greeted Novosad as a single as the second frame opened. B. Wells struck out but Buettner got a line single that Bob Philbrick was lucky to stop on the greatest play of the evening. Wells springing. The next man, Klavan, walked, and Beasley entered the game replacing Novosad.

The stocky fastballer retired Wood River without further damage and blazed them down again in the 3rd but in the top half of the 4th, trying to run out a grounder, Beasley injured his foot so severely that he had to leave the game.

Dick Beran then took over the pitching burden for Ord but he was tagged hard, giving up 3 hits and 1 run in the 4th, 1 hit and no

As wind, rain and cool weather combined to check McConaughy's bass fishing in recent days, the scene of Nebraska's most productive waters shifted to the northwest and eastern parts of the state.

According to the Game Commission's weekly fishing roundup, Leon Cunningham reported fishing good and fishing pressure heavy in Box Butte, Sioux and Dawes counties and the west edge of Sheridan counties.

No. 1 water in Cunningham's district was Walgreen lake which provided "excellent" bullhead fishing. Other top waters were Box Butte reservoir, good for crappie, and Whitney lake, good for catfish.

Fishing was described as good in Dodge, Colfax, Saunders and Butler counties in the north half of Lancaster county by Conservation Officer V. B. Woodgate. The better waters were the Platte river (catfish, carp), Fremont state lakes (black bass, crappie, bullheads, bluegill, carp), Dead Timber lake (bluegill) and Elkhorn river (catfish, carp).

Warden Loron Bunney reported that wind, rain and cool weather checked the fishing success at McConaughy, particularly for white bass. Bunney said warm weather and sunshine is needed to revive the outstanding fishing success experienced the previous week. He added the walleye fishing, however, was about as good as the previous week.

Outstanding catches were taken by Bill Scheer of Cedar and Bud Duger of Superior. Scheer took the best haul of crappies reported yet this year. He landed four 2 1/4 pound crappies at Fremont. Duger found chubs excellent for catfish. He hauled in four large yellow cats, weighing 18 1/4, 8, 6, and 3 pounds respectively.

Other good catches were a 14 1/2 pound carp by Donald Bozarth of Fremont and a limit of bluegill by Jack Adams of North Platte.

Mustangs Drop Two More Games With Season Half Over

Ravenna Wins, 2 to 1, and Wood River 8 to 3 to Push Ord Lower

The Ord Mustangs looked good in losing to Ravenna last Wednesday evening, 2 to 1.

Sunday night they looked terrible in losing to Wood River, 8 to 3.

But regardless of the way they record, both games went into the record book as losses for Ord, giving them a percentage of only .333 for the first half of the season and pushing them down to sixth place in the league, with only Boelus below them.

Against the Mustangs Ravenna presented a star-spangled line-up of hired players including Al Karle and Ray Johnson, Rol Jensen, Sajevic, Sticney and Art Treischman, with only Svanda, Boucher and Zeller as home boys in the line-up.

Beasley had only one bad inning against them, the 2nd, in which Ravenna scored twice on 3 hits and a wild pitch. The rest of the way Beasley had them eating out of his hand, distributing 4 hits throughout 8 innings.

Art Treischman allowed Ord only 4 hits and was in trouble only in the third inning when the Mustangs' only run was scored on 2 hits and a fielder's choice.

Two Ord Players Suffer Injuries

Two members of the Ord Mustangs were in the Ord hospital for X-ray examination by Dr. R. J. Lynn Monday morning, the two being Stan Johnson, catcher, who injured three fingers of his right hand on a foul tip in the Wood River game Sunday night, and Bill Beasley, pitcher, who suffered a foot injury.

Dr. Lynn found torn ligaments in Johnson's hand and a severe bruise to Beasley's foot, but said no bones were broken. Both are under heat treatment and hoped to play against Grand Island Wednesday night.

The umpiring of Hulbeisen and Brady was unsatisfactory to both teams, especially the calls on bases. Ator, Wood River manager, protested the game on an interference play which was correctly called by the umpires, and failed to protest another interference decision incorrectly made an inning later. When Wood River won Ator of course withdrew his protest.

Ord got 9 hits to 13 for Wood River but made 6 errors to only 2 for Wood River. This team is developing into one of the league's best and will be fighting it out for leadership with Ravenna and Loup City before the season ends, if it continues to play the calibre of ball shown against Ord in their two encounters, both of which have been losses for the Mustangs.

Legion Junior Baseball

It is now just 25 years since the American Legion, feeling the need of such a program, put into effect a national teenage baseball program. This plan was designed to offer well organized, well led baseball competition for boys during the months when they were not in school. The aim was to keep youngsters out of mischief and help them develop as citizens. It was a fine aim, but there was the question whether such a program would achieve those aims.

In the current issue of the American Legion Magazine Robert B. Pitkin tells the story of this idea, how it started, how it grew, and the results it has achieved. Since its beginning a quarter of a century ago Legion Junior baseball has grown steadily, with an increasing number of boys having the privilege of playing each year. Last year was no exception, when 14,456 boy teams competed in Legion baseball. Nearly 35,000 watched the little world series in Omaha last year.

Today Legion Junior baseball is acknowledged as the cradle of major league stars. Back in 1928 Baseball czar K. W. Landis okayed major league underwriting the legion's sectional and national tournaments with a guarantee of $50,000 against loss during the year. That guarantee was one of the best investments ever made, for last year no less than 270 ex-Junior Legion players were playing in the major league teams, while 30 of the fifty players in the world series had been Legion Junior.

This in itself was a great accomplishment, but what about the average boy, the boy who played through a year or two of baseball and then went into other employment, as it is obvious that all of them could not, and would not want to play big league ball. The statisticians and publicists did not know, so they asked the coaches, managers and sponsors who had been in close touch with the boys during their playing days and the answerward.

The results were gratifying indeed. These men had worked with the boys after their Junior Legion days were over, and had reason to know what kind of citizens they turned out to be. This spring a jury of experienced Junior Baseball men looked back upon a quarter of a century of achievement and found it good. Junior baseball does the job, according to the consensus of opinion.

Coach Charles Beasley of Richmond, Va. had handled nearly two thousand boys over a period of 20 years and he never knew one of them to get into trouble. Bob Malcolm of Curtisville, Pa. knew 200 boys and had this to say of them: "They were all kinds of boys, but I never knew any to get in trouble with the police or courts. Without exception they are good and valuable citizens today—engineers, salesman, teachers, accountants, a minister and some professional players. In War II 98% qualified for service, from colonel on down."

While an occasional bad boy becomes better through the influence of Legion Junior baseball, the baseball men want it understood that they are running no reform school. They boys know they must play according to the rules of life and baseball or get out. There are a few real "problem" boys, and there are "problem" years in the life of many boys. If they have something to divert them during those years, they become useful citizens later on.

Ord had had Junior Legion baseball for years, and there is no question of the effect the game has had upon those boys. Baseball is the great American game, and it is only fitting that it be used to build good American citizens. Without exception every boy who has ever played baseball under the Legion system is a better man for the training the game gave him; conversely, the boy who did not play today because of the class of players that are, constantly going up from the Legion Junior ranks. They represent the biggest league in the world.

People Gullible

The dictionary defines gullible as "capable of being easily deceived." It is the perfect word to fit the average American, whether he be from the lower stratum or the upper or from Missouri or any other state. This fact is recognized by swindlers of all kinds, and thousands of them reap a rich harvest, working in about every field of the human endeavor. So long as there are dogs, there will be fleas. So long as there are people who can be fooled, there will be those who will take it away from them. This tendency of the public is shown in the many "Quiz" and similar programs put out over the radio, in which a great many items are given away each day. It seems innocent enough in itself, and the practice has been investigated by the authorities, who claim there is nothing they can do about it, as no law is being broken, and no new law can be enacted that will prevent the practice.

Then there are the many items you can get by saving box tops, items usually useful, but all designed for the purpose of making the one product more popular than others in its class. If one manufacturer does it, the battle for existence compels all other makers of similar products to follow his example. Actually, they are not giving you anything, as the cost of the item given is added to the price you pay for the product.

There are the nation wide contests in which thousands of dollars in prizes are given away, the contestant being required to send in some part of the container of the item being advertised. Those prizes seem well worth working for, but it has been estimated that your chances of winning even a small prize are about one in fifty thousand. This means that the work done by the vast majority of contestants is time wasted.

—Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Beranek and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Anderson were in Omaha Thursday for a day at the Ak-Sar-Ben horse races.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Ferguson left Saturday for McCook. On Sunday they were met by Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Meation from Eurusville and the two couples left on a vacation trip to Denver and Colorado Springs.

Ward's Cookin' Column

The other day I got called, right out in public, for whistling. I know it must be pretty disagreeable for people with no ear for music to have to listen to high class music when they would rather listen to Lovers, but can I help it if the Ord built me for whistling. You see, when I was a young fellow and the other boys were getting kissed by the sweet young things, I very seldom got the call. But, like all the other fellows of those days, I would stand around all puffed up ready in case some girl should send a kiss my way. You can imagine how a fellow would look standing there all puffed up and waiting and hoping that some pretty girl would take pity on his condition.

To relieve the tension I took to whistling, first the wolf call type, which did no good except to merit me a slap occasionally. Finally finding those too-whoos weren't getting me anything but a good time, I hit upon the idea of whistling a tune. That is the way it started, friends, and today I am rather distinguished by the fact that everybody from Burwell to Borneo, I mean, Honolulu, knows that whistle. Which reminds me of the young service man who was looking for work one day in Hawaii. He came to a door, and I was around a corner working on some job and whistling. I heard him say: "I don't see him, but I'll bet John Ward is in here, I'd know that whistle anywhere."

But I haven't told the truth and must pay the consequences. The fact is, when I was a kid I was afraid of the dark. Now that I am an old man, I still take to the dark, and I used to go about with confidence so long as the sun was shining, but when the evening shadows lengthened I would begin to look about apprehensively. To keep those awful things that creep up in the dark away from me, I hit upon the idea of whistling to keep them away. I do not know whether it worked or not, but it sure fooled me, and that was the important thing. I am not so much afraid today, but I still whistle for force of habit. If you do not like that habit, please remember there are a lot of habits much more disagreeable. I do not use tobacco or liquor, for example.

Henry Hudson, discoverer of the river that bears his name, was quite a fellow. I can imagine how his noble chest swelled with pride when he steamed up that stream on the Clemon, the first steam vessel, which by the way was not invented by Ely Whitney until a couple of hundred years later. One thing has always puzzled me, though. Why was the stream named for the man, and not the man for the stream? Hudson was about 40 years old when he found the river, and the river was at least 40,000 years old. Furthermore, the river is still going strong, and Hudson is long dead. Nobody knows for certain. The last seen of him he was floating around in a small boat in which his crew put him to shift for himself.

Perhaps Henry found the river. In a sense, he did, and that is one way of putting it. The fact is, the river had been right there all the time and was not lost. People find things that are lost or misplaced, and the river was neither one. If anything or anybody was lost, it was Henry Hudson, who didn't know where he was going, didn't know when he got there and didn't know where he was when he arrived. He bolstered up his courage by naming the river for himself instead of finding out from the Comanches what the correct name of the river really was. The result is we have the name of a man who lived less than half a century tied forever to a river that will probably have a life of a million years.

Speaking of Henry Hudson reminds me that we have some Hudsons right here in North Loup. Roy and his son, Edward, better known as Bus. They are quite an addition to any town, although neither did any exploring, so far as can be learned. They run the North Loup Lumber Co. in case you do not know, and Mrs. Roy helps them out part of the time. When it comes to about them is the fact that in 1931 the two men started to put a coating of aluminum siding over the lumber on the north side of the lumber sheds. That year they got one 16 foot section on, between rushes of business. Last week they got on another section, and hope to put on another next year. At that rate they should get the job completed by 1960, anyway.

Now after the lapse of considerable time, it can be told. It could have been told much sooner, but the boys threatened to boil me in oil if I told, and I never did care much for being boiled in oil. In fact, I am running a long chance by telling it at this late day, but I have only one life to lose, and if I lose it, I will run a Want Ad in the Quiz, which is a profitable investment any time. The incident happened away back last winter when a group of North Loup men decided to drive to Omaha and take in one of the ice hockey games that were going strong at that time. They made one mistake. They failed to take me along with them to vouch for their character, and that oversight got them into trouble, for I am a tiptop vouch.

It seems that six men in a red Mercury had just finished committing some kind of depredations in David City, and as is the usual thing, they had left town in a great hurry. The patrolmen were on the lookout for a red Mercury and Siegel's car fitted the description, besides containing the necessary number of men. After the investigation the patrolman decided they were not for the amusees and their grandmothers. No wonder every year sweeps to the grave so many young women who have been sickly and effeminate ever since they were born into the world; and death will continue to select them as his victims till they learn their duty, and pursue that course which insures health, strength and long life. Our great-grandparents lived to a great age—and never thought of lying down to die, till they had at least reached the meridian of life. They were strong, happy and hearty. Why? They rose early, worked like beavers, and never spent the midnight hours in dancing.

"How have their daughters degenerated? What female is there who does not spend the midnight hours in dancing? Instead of being frightened at a mouse at their feet, a beetle on their necks, a fly's foot on their arm, in the absence of their fathers and husbands, they would load their guns and shoot bears and catamounts, and keep at bay a party of savages.

I dearly love to listen to sports events over the radio, and I do use razor blades. What I object to is having my intelligence insulted by having to listen to a long harangue telling one type of blade is so much better than any other kind. I suppose that is the price we all have to pay to hear a ringside report of a couple of pugs pushing each other around the ring in a ten round feature event. But when they tell me the best of product is the best in the world, I know better. I just finished my sixth shave with a blade I bought at the rate of one hundred for a dollar. Come to think of it, they were advertised on the radio also.

I tried their much ballyhooed product not long since, and I found that the most could get out of one of their blades was four shaves, making a balance of two extra shaves in favor of the cheaper blade.

"We like to look upon a healthy woman. Yet wherever you go you see scores and hundreds of spicney, sickly, feeble girls, who can hardly muster courage to make their beds, wash their faces, or drive an intruding cow from the yard. Tell them about early rising, fresh air and healthy exercise, and they have a sigh as long as the moral law, and are ready to faint away.

"You expect them to get up before day—to work in the kitchen—to breathe the fresh air of the morning! Preposterous and absurd! They have never seen the sun rise, and would hardly know the sun continues to shine forever, if it were not for the almanacs and their grandmothers. No wonder every year sweeps to the grave so many young women who have been sickly and effeminate ever since they were born into the world; and death will continue to select them as his victims till they learn their duty, and pursue that course which insures health, strength and long life. ... watch for me next week when I begin my hilarious adventures as a model in the pages of this paper.

n nowadays who wouldn't run from a gun, even if it had no lock! The ladies of the olden times outlived their husbands years and years, how is it now? Widows are few and far between.

"It was no singular thing for our grandmothers to have three or four husbands in the course of their lives. Now it is the reverse. Men have about so many wives—diseases of late have been so fatal among the female sex. Do you know the cause? It is found in listless idleness, inactivity, late hours, thin shoes, muslin dresses, a horror of fresh morning air, and in that detestable stuff, stitched in pink and yellow covers, which is flooding our country.

"If they will do nothing else, young ladies will sit and read from morning till night, that sickly, sentimental, impure and licentious trash that is thrown in such abundance from the press. This shrivels the mind, wraps the affections, chills the better feelings and makes the life wretched beyond description.

"Let females look into this subject, and act like reasonable beings, and we should see quite a different state of things. We should hear of no fainting away, no sickly consumption, no affection of lungs, no suicides."

(Before you start throwing bricks, it was published in the Nebraska Palladium, Bellevue, on November 15, 1854. What a heller great grandma must have been!)

Greeley Plans Sewer System

Greeley citizens will hold a public hearing on the question of installing a new sewer system. An estimate of expense submitted to the town board was $90,000. Assessments against property in the curb and gutter district recently completed in Greeley was tentatively set by the board at $1.40 per front foot. A prior estimate had put the amount at $1.50 per front foot.

Western Ghost Town Has Ord Visitors

Knott's Berry Farm and Ghost Town in Buena Park, Calif. were recently visited by Minnie Timmerman, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Arnold and Marlow and Mrs. Arnold's two sisters, Betty Denny of Oakland and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McLain of Downey. On their way to California for their two week vacation, Dick Arnold was picked up in Albuquerque, N. M. where he is stationed with the air force. For the first time in 11 years, Mrs. Arnold saw her sister, Betty, who flew from Oakland to visit them in Downey.

At the Berry Farm they tried their luck, like the forty-niners, at panning real gold in the sluice box at the old Gold Mine. Later, the wagon camp was visited where covered wagons in a circle were lighted by the flames of a camp fire. From there they went through the music hall, general merchandise store, the covered wagon show and other buildings erected as a monument to the pioneers of the early west.

Lyle (Bud) Novosad was born in the Ord vicinity and as a youth played baseball on the sand flats and other country teams. During World War II he served in the Navy and played with a service team in the Philippines. After returning home he played with Ericson, Ord and Loup City town teams. In the spring of 1950 he attended the Rogers Hornsby baseball school at Hot Springs, Ark., and there was offered a contract to play professional baseball at Pennington Gap, Va., a New York Yankees farm club. But found both climate and pro ball distasteful and returned home in time to play a full season with the Ord Mustangs.

He is a versatile player, performing well behind the plate, in the outfield, at any infield position or as a pitcher.

Mgr. R. M. Johnson

Manager R. M. Johnson is 37 years old, was born in Horace, and is the son of Glenn Johnson, one of the best ball players ever produced in central Nebraska. He started playing baseball on the Horace town team, played later with Scotia and Ord and then played one season under Joe McDermott at Grand Island in the old Nebraska State league. Then followed 2 years at Clay Center, Kans., and two seasons with the Kearney Irishmen, where he was top hitter the year Kearney won the state semi-pro championship. Dick Nelson

Dick Nelson, 19, is utility infielder on the Ord team. He has been used considerably at shortstop and 3rd base but can also take over at 1st or 2nd if needed. Dick got his start in Jr. Legion ball and as soon as he gets used to hitting against the fast pitching of the Mid-Nebraska Night league, Dick should find himself and develop into a real star. Manager Johnson has confidence in him and is using him whenever possible.

Ord Finance Co.

Jim Finley

Jim Finley, Ord's first baseman, got his start in baseball here in 1946 and has played only on Ord teams. A natural athlete who starred in football, basketball and track while in high school, Jim has the speed and the eyesight of a great batter and is leading the Ord team with an average of .357. He is dreaded by all opposing pitchers, not because he is a long ball hitter but because he is so hard to get out. He fouls off the corner balls, lets the bad ones go by and waits for the pitcher to give him what he wants, with the result that he gets many sharp singles. Unusual in a lefthander, he hits to all fields. Jim is only 21 years old.

Bob Philbrick

Bob Philbrick, born in Ord, is 32 years old, married and has two children. His baseball experience includes several seasons of play with Ericson, Burwell and Ord teams and he is one of the fastest outfielders in the Mid-Nebraska league and possesses an excellent throwing arm as well. Any pitcher is glad to find Bobby back of him in center field and knows the ball will have to clear the fence to get away from this ballhawk.

No. Loup Alumni Banquet Wednes. Brilliant Affair

A circus tent, made with colored streamers, centered with colored balloons, formed the setting for the annual alumni banquet Wednesday evening at the community hall. Tables had been placed to form a large N. L. and were decorated with circus animals, colored balloons and gumdrop giraffes as favors.

Bill Sims, alumni president, dressed as a clown, was ring master. Nearly one hundred alumni and their friends attended. Classes graduated in the years ending in one were honored classes. The class of 1931 had the largest representation, and received a prize. There were eight members present and twelve of the non-resident members were heard from by letter. Ord Trips Wood River; Meets Scotia Sunday

Mustangs Go In Tie With Fifth Place Shelton

The Ord Mustangs rapped out eight hits and cashed in on five Wood River errors to dump Wood River 7-3 on the local field Sunday evening.

Novosad and Dilla were the big sticks for Ord, each getting 2 hits in five trips to the plate. Both of Dilla's were two baggers.

Ord had a big second inning when they bunched 4 hits and two walks to push over five runs. The locals scored again in the 5th inning to cinch the game.

Wood River made the 5th their only big inning, when they combined four hits and an error to score three runs. Big blow of the evening was Klavon's triple for the losers.

Bill Beasley, on the mound for Ord, pitched tight ball for seven innings but got into trouble in the loser's big eighth. He struck out nine. Novosad had no trouble in the 9th when he replaced Beasley, setting the batters down one, two, three on a strikeout, a week grounder to third, and another strikeout.

The Mustangs apparently found their batting eye Sunday night, and Manager Robbie Johnson is hoping that trend will continue Wednesday evening the locals journey to Loup City for a league mix, and Sunday, an open date, will entertain Scotia here in an exhibition game.

Scotia comes to Ord fresh from a 7-1 victory over Ashton, leaders of the first half of the Sherman-Howard League. Baseball dopsters in the area are positive the game will provide some good baseball. A large contingent of Scotia fans are expected to follow their team to Ord Sunday evening.

Sunday night's win over Wood River put the locals into a tie with Shelton for fifth place in the Mid-Nebraska loop ladder. Haveria and Loup City are tied for first, with Beles in the cellar.

Ed Tully Hit By Burlington; Seriously Hurt

Ord Man In Hospital Where Condition Is Rated Fair To Good

Ed Tully, 60, farmer living in the Turtle Creek neighborhood between Elyria and Ord, is in Ord Cooperative hospital with serious injuries. His condition is rated as fair to good.

Tully's car was struck by the Burlington freight train at the spot where the road crossed the track near the Ray Hurlbert farm. His auto was carried about 100 yards, but Tully was thrown out about fifty feet from the point of impact.

Tully is hard of hearing and it is believed the aged Ord man failed to hear and see the train until it was too late. The Burlington freight makes only three runs a week on this line.

His injuries included concussion, internal injuries and his right leg was broken, according to Dr. Robert J. Lynn.

Both deputy sheriff Emanuel Petska and sheriff Bob Hall were at the scene of the accident shortly after it happened at about five o'clock Saturday evening.

Burchard Has Operation

Bill Burchard, former Ord photographer, underwent major surgery for tumor of the spine Tuesday in St. Vincent's Hospital in Sioux City, Ia. He expects to be confined for about two weeks.

George Vavra, right, and his son, Marlin, look glum as they announced the closing of their market due to lack of meat to sell. In their meat case at the time this picture was snapped by John Wozab, were a few pieces of beef and pork, about a hundred pounds of cold and cured meats.

OPS Rollback Causes Ord Merchant To Close Doors; Nothing To Sell

The Office of Price Stabilization can claim a major victory in Ord this week in its effort to regulate and control our economy.

Because he has no meat to sell, George Vavra, owner of George's Meat Market in Ord, announced today that he was closing the doors of his establishment Saturday night, July 11.

Mr. Vavra, who is one of five retailers of fresh and cured meats in Ord said that the packers from which he has purchased meat in the past had no meat for him.

"Last year I averaged about 2000 pounds of fresh pork and beef a week. Now my shipments have fallen off to about 200 to 300 pounds. That's all there is to it," Mr. Vavra said.

"The government is my shepherd, I shall not work. It alloweth me to lie down on good jobs; it leadeth me beside still factories. It destroyeth my initiative; it leadeth me in the paths of the parasite for political sake. Yea, though I walk thru the valley of business and deficit spending, I will fear no evil; its doles and vote-getters will comfort me. It pre-empt an economic Utopia for me by appropriating the earnings of my grandchildren. It bludge my head with bologna, my inefficiency runneth over. Surely the government shall care for me all the days of my life and I shall dwell in a fool's paradise forever.

The market, one of Ord's oldest business institutions, has been owned by Mr. Vavra only a few years. Founded originally by the late James Misko it has been a favorite shopping spot in Ord for nearly a half century. Mr. Vavra bought the store from Otto Pecenka his employer at that time whose father, in turn, had bought it from Misko. For years the shop sold little but its own home cured and home butchered products, to the last several years, due to lack of help, Vavra ceased slaughtering of local cattle and hogs, and started buying from packers.

Frank Fajmon Dies Tuesday

Hopalong Cassidy Visits Dennis Vodehnal in Omaha

It took a siege of polio to do it, but young Dennis Vodehnal had a thrill on July 4th that most every pint size cowboy in the Loup Valleys would give up his "shootin' arm" to experience.

July Fourth, Hopalong Cassidy, in the personage of Bill Boyd himself, visited the Children's hospital in Omaha and talked briefly to Dennis and other patients.

Dennis was reported on the road to recovery Sunday when he was visited by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Vodehnal, his grandfather, Vincent Vodehnal, and Phyllis Cummings. The Ord youngster is being kept in an oxygen tent for an hour, and then out of it for one and a half hours.

Cool, Wet Weather Bad Prospect For Grain Harvesting

Rains To Continue Is Forecast; Some Grain Ready To Harvest

The weather this week continues cool and wet, with a total of 1.24 precipitation for the week, according to Weatherman Horace Travis. The heaviest rains came Sunday, Monday and Tuesday nights.

The rain Monday night was accompanied by a strong wind all over the area, but no damage has been reported to date with the exception of a hog house on the Frank Norman place, which was badly damaged, according to the insurance agent, John R. Haskell. A picture of the building is published elsewhere.

The rain Tuesday evening was not heavy at Ord, but more than an inch is reported from the North Loup territory. Rains further down the valley have put the two detours between Scotia and Elba in bad condition. Busses have been running late.

The average high for the past week was 72 degrees, while the average low was 59 degrees and the general average was 66 degrees. It has been a very pleasant week, but not a good week for corn or small grain. Some wheat is about ready to harvest, but no cutting is reported, and none will be until drier weather comes.

As was the case last year, the problem of grain harvest is rapidly becoming serious, especially in the low ground. With more rains predicted for the next several days the early harvest will probably have to be put off until the last possible moment, thus increasing the danger of mold and the possibility of the grain going down. A few reports of grain harvest have been coming in from other parts of the state. These show the yield is well up to pre-harvest estimates, and the quality is good.

Dean has leased the Chas. LeMasters garage and equipment, and will house his new business there. LeMasters will go to work for Dean as a mechanic.

Ben Nelson

Transfer of implements and parts from North Loup to Ord is now in progress, and the new firm hopes to be ready for business in a very short time. A crew from O'Shea-Rogers in Lincoln, Ford tractor distributors in the state, are helping with inventory and moving.

Mr. Dean told the Quiz that he expects to employ four or five additional persons in his new establishment, and that they will come from Ord, North Loup and Arcadia.

The new owner hopes to move his family from Arcadia to Ord, if housing can be secured before school starts. If not, the Dean family will live in Arcadia until spring, and Mr. Dean will commute.

At North Loup Ben Nelson said that he was retaining his interests in the Loup Valley Motors, Mercury dealers, which firm will now occupy the former Loup Valley Tractor & Equipment building. He plans to add a line of implements to the firm at an early date. Nelson also operates an automotive and implement agency in Burwell, in charge of P. O. Peterson, which has the Ferguson franchise.

Alvin Bailey Shot with .22 Rifle Saturday

Second Trip To Hospital With Gunshot Wound

Alvin Bailey, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Bailey, was shot with a .22 rifle Saturday evening, and is now in University Hospital in Omaha where his condition is pronounced as not serious.

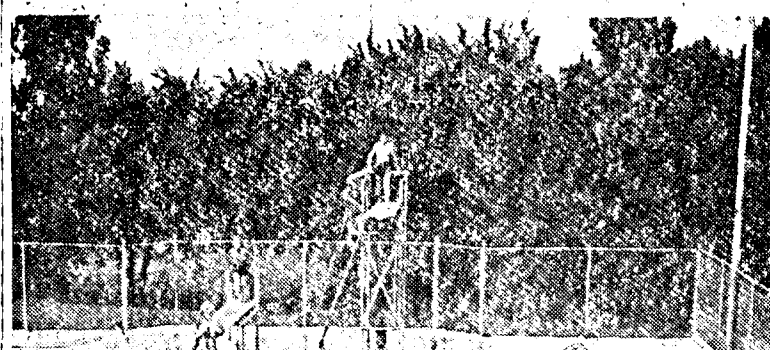

It was the second trip for Alvin, who suffered a badly injured eye last December when a BB shot glanced off a telephone pole and struck him. A younger brother had handled the air rifle.

Saturday's incident came about when Lyle and his brother Charles "Bud" were playing at the city dump and found an old .22 caliber rifle. Bud, 14, was examining the gun when it was discharged. Alvin was close enough to him that powder burns showed on his clothes.

The bullet entered Alvin's body just below the left shoulder blade. He was taken to the University Hospital in the Hastings-Pearson ambulance where he was given two transfusions. The bullet has not yet been removed.

Sumter Bridge Talk Revived By Delegation

Want County To Levy Sinking Fund for Bridge

A delegation of North Loup business men and farmers from the Olean-Sumter area met Tuesday at 11 a. m. with the Valley county board to consider the possibility of having a levee established for the purpose of building a bridge across the North Loup river at Sumter.

W. O. Zangger spoke briefly and introduced Roy Hudson, North Loup lumberman. Mr. Hudson went over the facts concerning the bridge proposition briefly stating that the old bridge was abandoned for the reason that no funds were available for reconstruction at the time the north end of the bridge was carried away by flood waters some two years ago.

Discussion in district court Judge E. G. Kroger suggested that the county board establish a sinking fund that would become sufficient in a reasonable amount of time to replace the bridge. This was not done at the time, and the delegation pointed out that the board gave the judge's suggestion favorable consideration.

It was pointed out by Mr. Hudson that many farmers living on both sides of the river have use for such a bridge; that two mill routes, one from Ord and one from North Loup, crossed over the bridge at the time it was washed out; that the mill is now being carried under a temporary arrangement pending repair of the bridge; and that a milk route supplying the North Loup Cheese Co. crossed the bridge.

Since the bridge was abandoned the remaining timber has been sold, so a new bridge will have to be built, if anything is done. It was also pointed out that it would not be necessary to build the bridge on the old site and that there were other locations, both above and below that site which might be more favorable both to building and to traffic when built.

Because of Reds, Czech National Holiday Seems Thing of the Past

By Rev. J. F. Balzer July 6th as a Czech national holiday appears to be a thing of the past. The latest word coming from the land of Jan Hus is strangely disquieting.

Josef L. Hromadka has recently spoken. The article that brings his message is entitled "A Voice from the Other Side" and so it is. A distinguished protestant, well known in America, he is reconciled to seek his place in his homeland, even when under communist control. His reasons for this reconciliation of his religious faith with a Marxian revolution should be studied by every thoughtful American and even more by every earnest Christian.

A few quotations from his message may prove revealing. In one place he says: "A pagan society with a 'Christian' veneer and trapping is much more dangerous to a real freedom of faith than a society disclaiming any Christian interest and religious goal."

He continues: "The pressure resulting from the new non-normal (not abnormal) situation is evident, at times uncomfortable and irritating, but also liberating—making the air fresh and clean. Whereas the Christians in 'Christian' countries under the political governments 'claiming their adherence to a Christian heritage, are often suffocating under public opinion; under at times decent, at times shameless, atmosphere of self-complacency and self-righteousness."

His sense of urgency is revealed in this further word: "They are outwitting and do not know about it. Are we ready to face the situation in all its brutal, unyielding, shattering aspects, without flinching and complimenting one another? Are we ready to acknowledge the present time as a time of judgement, of terrible judgement also upon the Western church?"

Space forbids any further quotations but we allow ourselves a few comments. We had better listen to Hromadka's judgments upon the west. Then, too, let us not forget that Hromadka has not run away from his task. And finally, his own counsel of perfection for the west has all too many followers in the west. It is doubtful whether Hromadka speaks for all sections of the Czech Church. —Reprinted from The Chete News.

Each member brought an assorted plate of cheeses, olives, crackers, etc. Gerry Brown, president, dropped out of the club so new there are only six members. COMING TO ORD!

SEE JOIE CHITWOOD'S "AUTO DAREDEVILS" demonstrate the RUGGED DURABILITY that's built into FORD CARS!

This year we have the most thrilling exhibition of precision driving we have ever offered. Altogether we have developed 27 different acts, including such spine-chilling feats as: The 85-foot ramp-lap-hump—Blazing barrier crashes—Snap roll crashes—The slide for life... and many, many more spectacular demonstrations of outstanding skill and daring!

We have been using stock Ford Cars in our acts for the past 3 years. And by "stock" cars I mean Fords that are exactly as some of those sold to the public by Ford Dealers. The only difference is that we move the gas tank into the trunk and add skid plates to some of our cars.

We use Fords because our experience has proved that these sturdy cars have what it takes to stand up under the terrific punishment we give them. They have the quick, abundant power and positive-action brakes essential to the success of our stunts. And Ford's "Life-guard" body—rugged construction—and the over-all balance of Ford Cars offer an extra margin of safety for our drivers.

I hope all of you can come to our show... for I'm sure the "Daredevils" will thrill you just as they have more than 5,000,000 folks throughout North America during recent years.

Twenty-three Nebraskans Have Been Awarded Nation's Highest Honor

The proudest case in the entire museum of the State Historical Society in the capitol is the honored ranks of the nation's most honored heroes when President Truman awarded him the Medal of Honor, May 19. His act of gallantry, as all of you know, occurred while covering the withdrawal of United Nations forces in Korea, August 31 and September 1, 1950.

The addition of Sergeant Kouma's name to this Nebraska brings the number on the list to twenty-three—a small number when you consider the thousands of Nebraskans who have served in the armed forces since the medal was authorized in 1861. Nevertheless, that's a rather high figure when you consider that less than 2,500 have been awarded in the nation at large.

In making up the list, we have included those who were born in Nebraska, who lived in Nebraska, or who won honors for service in Nebraska. The total of 23 is derived as follows: Civil War, 4; Indian Wars, 14; World War I, 1;

World War II, 2; Korean conflict, 1, and peacetime, 1.

The first Nebraskan to receive the Medal of Honor was Gen. Victor Vitquain, who was honored for gallantry in the action for the capture of a Confederate flag at Fort Blakely, Alabama, April 9, 1865. General Vitquain, a Saline county pioneer, returned to Nebraska after the Civil War to play an important role in the building of the new state.

Both of Nebraska's awards during World War II were made posthumously—the recipients were killed in the action for which they were honored: Ensign John J. Parle of Omaha in the Sicilian invasion, and Pvt. Robert D. Booker of Callaway in the Tunisian campaign. Private Booker previously had won the Distinguished Service Cross.

The comparatively high number who received the award during the Indian Wars is accounted for by the fact that a number of battles in those wars were fought in Nebraska, so men serving in Nebraska as well as Nebraskans themselves are included.

From General Vitquain to Sergeant Kouma it is an honored list of the state's greatest heroes.

Blessing Hits 267 Yard Hole-in-One

A warm hearted gentile must have been riding on Al Blessing's golf ball Monday when he drove toward No. 2 and sank a hole-in-one from a distance of 267 yards.

Ed Sands and J. B. Ferguson were witnesses to the feat, no doubt the longest hole-in-one ever made on the Ord course, or a good many other courses.

But it wasn't all luck, as Blessing's record shows. So far this summer he has been the winner of the Fullerton tourney, second at O'Neill and winner of the first flight at the Woodland country club meet in Grand Island.

Damascus Gun Barrels Not Safe for Modern Loads, Bruha Convinced

When a modern, high power shotgun shell was used in a 12 gauge shotgun, Emanuel Bruha of Ord lost the thumb on his left hand. The hand was badly mangled when the gun barrel blew open, making it necessary to amputate the thumb.

John J. Wozab, Ord abstracter, who has a hobby of guns, told the Quiz this week that it is positively dangerous to use modern high power shotgun loads in old guns.

"Damascus barrels were at first manufactured from scrap iron and old horseshoe nails. Later, the barrels were made from new steel and a better grade of gun iron drawn out in rods, or wire, and these were twisted or coiled on a mandril and shaped and welded together," he said.

"In its day these damascus barreled shotguns were fine, as the powder used in loading the shells at that time was manufactured for that particular type of gun. However, the modern loads of today contain an entirely different type of gunpowder whose characteristics are not safely adaptable for use in a damascus barrel.

"Loads can be obtained for damascus barreled guns from England, or, by handloading your own. Better be safe than sorry. Hang that damascus barreled shotgun on a peg, or sell it to a collector.

"I have a number of friends still shooting this type of shotgun with modern loads, and despite all warnings, the barrel will sooner or later, undoubtedly blow up and the doctor will have another case and I will take another picture," Wozab warned.

Farwell Leading Sherman-Howard

The second games in the last half of the season finds Farwell taking the lead in the standings, with two wins and no losses. Four teams, North Loup, Ashton, Palmer and Scotia are in a tie with one win and one loss each, while Elba brings up the rear with two losses and no wins.

In last Sunday's games North Loup took a close one from Elba, 6 to 5 and Farwell won a thriller from Palmer, 3 to 1. The leaders of the first half, Ashton, were handed a one-sided defeat by Scotia to the tune of 7 to 1.

The coming Sunday, July 15, will find Palmer at Elba, Scotia at North Loup and Farwell at Ashton. These games will also show if the present trend is to continue. Ashton is about due for a win, and Farwell for a loss, so that game will be watched with interest.

Valley County Board Meets In July Session Lets Contracts For Gravel, Lumber For Bridges

The Valley county commissioners in regular session Tuesday, awarded contracts to Ernest Ulrich for furnishing 7,000 yards of gravel, and Glen Hill of Polk, now operating in this county, was awarded 5,000 yards.

The gravel will be placed in various places over the county, mostly on mail routes and state roads. The Midwest Lumber, Bridge and Supply company won the contract for supplying the lumber for bridges and culverts.

The Island Supply company of Grand Island had entered a qualified bid, and for this reason the board did not consider it.

The board also voted perpetual care for a lot owned by the county in the cemetery at North Loup. In the past this care has been voted from year to year.

Friday the full membership of the county board, County Clerk Leonard, Mrs. Woods and Mrs. Opat Burrows went to Lincoln to consult the state board of control, and they also paid a visit to the office of the state highway engineer.

Collections in all departments in the county totaled $517,610.81 with disbursements of equal amount including a balance on hand as of June 30 in all funds in the county of $407,224.61. The proposed county levies for 1951 total 4.96 mills, as compared with 3.0 for 1950. This includes the highest permissible levy on roads.

Albert Kirby appeared before the board in behalf of roads in North Loup township, Arnold Tuning and Fred Christensen with regard to roads in Arcadia township, and Walter Jorgensen, Adam Augustyn and Steve Papiernik in regard to the Bresley-Haldeman road. Action was taken by resolution on two roads, one in Independent township and one in Noble, and a third was laid over until the road committee took action on it.

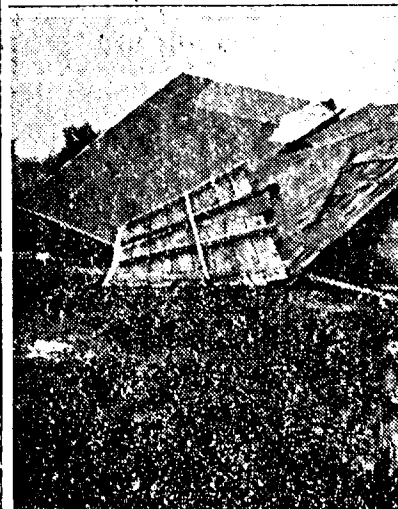

The budgeting committee was meeting Wednesday afternoon for the establishing of the levies. As soon as the county assessor gets the various valuations established in the several divisions of the county, then the clerk will figure the levies and present them to the county board for their approval at the August meeting.

After checking the records in the district court office and finding remarks attributed to District Judge Kroger with regard to the Sumter bridge must have been made off the record, the board took up the matter of a special levy for the building of said bridge, and were informed by the county attorney that the only way, in his opinion, that such a fund could be raised would be through a bond issue.

Ammonium Nitrate

We expect another carload of Ammonium Nitrate to be delivered in the next week. Since it is rather late in the season there will be a few tons available for someone that has some very late corn. It is remarkable what a little Nitrate will do for a cornfield in the way of forcing growth and maturity. Let us urge you to use Nitrate if you have corn that is small enough so that you can apply it.

Regarding Fertilizer for the coming season, we expect to have our quota cut but do not have the figures as yet. Here is what we have in sight for the next few months. We have this car in July and another in August and probably will not get another till in Dec. or Jan. If you are going to use fertilizer on your wheat field, you should get your order in now.

The fertilizer supply has been too low the past season and many have had to take a type of fertilizer that was not the best suited to their needs. About the only way to have what you want in fertilizer is to make delivery several months in advance of the time that you will use it.

Alfalfa Seed

Nebraska grown alfalfa seed for fall seeding is very scarce. And the prospects for a crop this year is not very encouraging. We believe the 1951 crop will be smaller than in 1950 and in many cases South and California seed was used because local seed was not available. If you plan to sow alfalfa this fall or next spring we believe that the stock of seed that we have on hand is a very good buy. Our supply is very limited.

Grain

The grain fields will soon be ready for the combine and we hope the weather will cooperate. No doubt wet grain will take a very heavy dockage this year as the cost of drying is heavy and the loss from damage grain is very great. Don't expect the local buyers to take grain that is so wet that it might spoil in their bins. The peace talks have had quite an effect on the grain markets.

Just at present we have a number of truckloads of No. 1 yellow corn on hand.

Senseless Slaughter.
For no better reason than that it is the proper thing to do and that statistics demand it, too many editorials on slaughter on the highways cannot be written. It is a trite subject, because it is mentioned so often, but too much mention cannot be made of a thing that is demanding more and more lives as the days go by. More lives are being lost through this cause and, if a few paragraphs from time to time can save a life here and there, the effort is well worth while.

Everything has been said about reckless driving, but it can be said again, for the one who fails to heed today may read and heed tomorrow. On the other hand, he may have joined the host of those who have become victims to the god of speed. The insane desire to get there ahead of the other fellow, to save a few minutes on a long trip, to keep on the highway when in no condition to drive, one of these or some other cause may have claimed his life.

As this is written, the statistics for the July Fourth holiday are not all in, but it is certain that the list of deaths on the highway will be high, probably because quite a percentage of the drivers will be high. Liquor has been found to be responsible in many of the fatal accidents in the past, and will continue to be in the future, but there are many wrecks that happen to people who have not been drinking.

The speed problem is difficult to handle. There seem to be two contributing factors to the high death rate on the highways, the condition of the highways, and the condition of the drivers, as well as the chronic habit of some people of driving without proper regard to driving regulations. A very high percent of drivers break the laws of the road at some time during the day, and the most common infringement is the question of speed.

It would seem that improvement of our highways would tend to decrease the death rate on them, but this does not seem to be the case. In fact, it has been found that there are fewer accidents on the roads that are in bad condition. It seems that most people pay attention to the signs put up by the highway department indicating bad roads, and drive with more caution over them. It is not pleasant to drive over a road that is not in good condition, but it seems to be safer.

Improved highways is not the direct answer to this loss of life. Today, over mediocre highways, fully fifty percent of the drivers habitually exceed the speed limit much of the time. All new autos are made to run at speeds in excess of one hundred miles per hour. Give the average driver better highways and he will drive at increased speed, thus making the good highways even more dangerous than the poor highways were before.

More stringent laws for traffic is not the answer, either. We have adequate laws at the present time, but it would take ten times the number of patrolmen we have now to see that the laws are adequately enforced. That, in turn, would mean a heavy expenditure of funds by the state highway department, and the department does not have additional funds for such a purpose.

More stringent requirements for drivers might help to some extent were it not for the fact that the fellows who have the accidents in the majority of cases are amply able to pass any required examination for a driver's license. The poor driver is usually self-conscious enough to take his driving seriously, and he actually drives more carefully than the man who passes the best driving examination.

The answer, if any, is in more thorough education. The public must be brought to realize the necessity of driving with all possible care. If every driver could realize that he has a definite obligation to every person he meets on the highway, he would take his responsibilities more seriously. The man who drives more carefully today so that you may live to drive tomorrow.

The Prairie Schooner.
The prairie schooner was an institution in the days when the west was young, and a most important part of the settlement of the mighty plains region. It was the development to meet a necessity, a means of transportation from the east to the "free land" country. The earlier wagons were all hauled by oxen, and the majority of those that brought the settlers into Nebraska used that means of locomotion.

Oxen were plentiful in those days and horses were scarce and high priced. It was only natural that the immigrants from the east should use the most economical means of locomotion. Travel by ox team was slow, but the element of time was not as important then as we seem to think it is today. The people lived largely off the country through which they passed, and the cattle go their living in the same way.

The household goods and supplies were kept in the wagon, which also served as a place to eat and sleep in case the weather was stormy. In fair weather a fire was built on the ground for cooking food, and was carefully extinguished after it was no longer needed. Also, in fair weather, part of the family slept under the wagon, while some of the more well to do enjoyed the luxury of a tent.

One of the necessities in most cases was the old prairie breaking plow, which was usually tied on the back end of the wagon. It was the first implement the settler used for the double purpose of breaking the sod to get ready for a crop of sod corn, and also to furnish sod with which to build the first dwelling, which was either a sod leanto or a complete sod house, without which Nebraska could not have been settled as early as it was.

When the settlers arrived on their land they continued to use the wagon until the sod house or dugout was built. The dugout served until the more substantial "soddy" was finished. In most cases the first home was little more than a hole dug in a bank. The covering was of poles and dirt. In time, the sod house gave way to a permanent building of wood or stone. The wagon was also used in making trips to town to bring home supplies.

The day of the prairie schooner has gone long since, and most of the younger generation have never seen one except at some exhibition or frontier fair. But in its place has come an institution dear. In deed to the heart of the wanderer and lover of the great outdoors is the trailer. Today, trailer camps are to be found in hundreds of cities and towns, and thousands of families live in trailers and trailer camps the year around.

Like the covered wagons of old, they are built for the rich and for the poor, and there is a trailer for every pocketbook. The rich travel and live in them to get away from the city and, at the same time, take the luxuries of the city with them. The poor travel in them from place to place, following the harvest or keeping near whatever work is available for them. Like the covered wagon, the trailer was developed because of popular demand for something of that nature.

In Bible times the families traveled from place to place in nomadic fashion to follow their flocks, a custom that still prevails in those regions. The human race since the dawn of recorded history has taken pleasure in traveling from place to place, partly from necessity, but more because of the joy of being out of doors and of the enjoyment of seeing new places.

But the once popular prairie schooner is gone, never to return. It served its day and its clientele and completed its purpose. Like its namesake, the schooner, the vessel with the great, white sails, it has given way to the more modern inventions of man. Even the men and women who once rode in the wagon with the white cover are now few and far between, and they will also soon be gone, never to return.

It is sad to think that these institutions of man must pass, but the destiny of mankind is to forge constantly forward, and those who would preserve the old ideas soon find themselves outdistanced in the race of life. Mankind is ever reaching forward to bigger and better things.

Cute little rules the Geneva, Nebraska editor thought up for the boys and girls of that vicinity. I reprint below.

1. Boys—don't waste city water by taking baths at home during the summer. Waite until you take your shower at the pool before you take your daily swim.
2. Always arrive at the pool 30 minutes before it opens so you can entertain the employees with your clever talk while you wait for them to let you in. They love it.
3. Bring the longest towel you can find. Short towels make poor snappers.
4. Don't bring water wings, beach balls, inflated toys such as ducks, inner tubes or similar water toys. You can always take them away from the small fry and save carrying them back and forth.

5. When playing tag, add 25 points if you are able to knock down an innocent bystander, 35 points if the bystander is an older woman.
6. When "ducking" other swimmers, be sure to pick on some one smaller than you are; otherwise, you may not be able to hold him under the full minute and there'll be no need to have a lifeguard around.
7. When running in the grass or on the ground around the pool, be sure to wash your feet in the kiddies' pool before re-entering the large pool.
8. Don't permit people fully clothed to stand around the edge of the pool. Push them in, especially if they are girls.
9. If you can't swim, don't waste your time in shallow water. Get out where it's deep. Then you'll learn to swim, or else.
10. When you're thoroughly exhausted and can't swim another stroke, don't go home. You're a sissy if you do. Stay until your mother calls three times on the telephone before you give up. Then put your clothes on over your wet swimming suit. That saves time and also keeps you cool longer.

As soon as the park board has one dollar to put on top of another dollar, I hope to get back to the pool, that we can have some seats beside the pool for spectators.

Year after year, I admire the way the Burwell folks get behind their radio and boost and boost and this is no exception. They found a good formula for a community show and they stick to it, and it has become nationally outstanding. And they deserve the success they've built it.

As I have just learned of the quiet but thoughtful gift the Bernicks made to the patients of the hospital: subscribing to the daily World-Herald, for their pleasure while spending long hours convalescing.

Some magazine subscriptions given to the hospital would also be welcome, I feel sure. Even one little get-well-quick greeting is so welcome when you're ill . . .

How do you think it would be if we each sent a get-well card to young Benny Vodehnal, in Children's Memorial Hospital Omaha in an iron lung?
There are so many shut-ins who would be delighted to receive such a card shower; we should arrange them more often.

More people than ever before are enrolled in the Red Cross swimming classes at the Ord pool, in spite of the fact the weatherman is so very hostile.
Now, do you know there is a class for housewives? And why aren't you in it, Sticks-in-the-mud? Yes, I do too mean you!

There is a new automatic electric light turner-on-and-offer at the park now, which will be a help for evening picnickers.
If we just had a band shell, and adequate parking, how pleasant our band concerts would be. There is no more relaxing, delightful evening than to lol on the grass, or lounge comfortably in a car and listen to music.
Personally, I belong to the school that likes to be a little way from the band music. It is a bit loud for my taste. Now my dad, who played 50 years or more with the band at Alliance, likes his band music as close and as loud as possible, he wants to crowd right up and catch every single instrument. No, he isn't deaf. He likes bands, that's all.

needed touch to a costume in perfect taste and harmony.
The groom's trousers were of dark worsted and fell from the waist in a straight line almost to the floor. The severe simplicity of the garment was relieved by the right pantalolette, which was caught up about four inches by a garter worn underneath, revealing just the artistic glimpse of brown socks above the genuine leather shoes, laced with string of the same color. The effect was chic.

Beneath the vest the groom wore blue galluses, attached fore and aft to the trousers and passing in a graceful curve over each shoulder. This pretty and useful part of the costume would have passed unnoticed had not the groom muffed the ring when the groomsman passed it to him. When he stooped to recover the errant circlet, the blue of his galluses were prettily revealed. His neck was encircled with a collar, characterized by a delicate pearl tint of old-fashioned collared, and around the collar was a gravel, loosely knitted, exposing a collar button of bright metal. The gravel extended up and down under the left ear with the studied carelessness which marks supreme artistry in dress.

Mr. Brown's costume was essentially like the groom's and as the two stood at the altar a hush of admiration enveloped the audience at the complete harmony. Actually, one could hardly have told one from the other, had it not been for a patch of court plaster worn by the groom's and as the nick in his chin made by a safety razor. Neither Mr. Jones nor Mr. Brown wore a hat at the ceremony. As Miss Elizabeth Smith led the groom from the altar, it was noted that she wore the conventional veil and orange blossoms.

Just about every time I see him, Doc Norris comes across with a piece of advice. The last time he saw me talking to Ord's popular tinner, Jay Nelson, and told me to watch out for these "crazy slickers." I'll take that advice, Doc, and keep a sharp lookout for all of them, including Clarence Davis and yourself. Some of these times Doc is going to make me mad enough to tell about the time he and I went out "cooning" melons and got lost and wound up in a swamp. We had an awful time, as I recall, and didn't get home until morning. We had on our good clothes and had them about ruined. Doc had his suit cleaned and has been wearing it for good ever since, but I had to turn mine into a work suit. Yes, some day I'm going to tell about how that birdshot stung us when the farmer cut loose at us with his 12 gauge. The only reason I haven't told all this about Doc is that I am afraid he will tell some of the things he knows about me, and besides, the story isn't so

Right along this same line, there is Judge Ellsworth Ball, Jr. I have been noting lately how the judge's manly form has been filling out. I commented on it the last time I saw him, and he told me that he weighed a trim 196 pounds—or was it 296? Anyway, he seems to be doing much better since he got away from his trucking, and he tells me his health is much better also. All of which goes to show that the fellows who pronounced to make it unhealthy for him if he got the office didn't know what they were talking about. The judge, before he was judge, that is, used to make me very angry

My route to the Quiz office took me past the Methodist church last week and I noted to my surprise that somebody had been trying to turn it into a Chinese restaurant. At least that was the impression I got when I saw half a basket of rice scattered all around the front door. Now, if they had saved that rice and given it to the couple as a wedding present, perhaps it might have helped them keep the wolf from the door. Rice is our oldest grain and is called to more respect than to be thrown around that way. It is a good food, but only the Chinese know how to cook it. My Chinese friend, Shun Loy Ching, used to bring rice along for four of us sometimes for our dinner. He would get up very early and cook it about three hours, and that is the way to make it really good. Rice is first mentioned in Chinese records about the year 2,800 B. C., but nobody around here can remember that far back.

I heard a supposedly bright remark about Highway 11 between Ord and North Loup the other day. This intelligent young man said: "All the highway department has to do is to roll up the white line and run a new paving in under it." Yes, everybody, including the highway men, are agreed that that stretch of road is in bad condition. Please remember, when you are taking the bumps, that twelve years ago you were making the trip on gravel all the way, and you were turning about two miles farther. That won't lessen the bumps but it will make them more bearable.

Also, in connection with that highway, it might be well to take a broader view and note the way the sides of the highway look. Quite some time ago the department sowed the sides of the grade to bromegrass, which is certainly flourishing now. Whenever it needs cutting, those two nice looking young men who work for the highway department come along with their cute little mowers, and they do a beautiful job of cutting the grass. They are doing their best with the funds available and deserve credit.

I also heard a pretty good one about the Hall county cars that travel over Highway 11. This fellow said that they were either traveling south as though they had to hurry home for a meal, or they were going north as though the sheriff was after them. I have noted one thing about them: occasionally a Hall county car driver is pinched for speeding, but I have never heard of one of them obstructing traffic. And this in spite of the fact that the Grand Island Independent has reports of four to six or even more arrests every day for traffic violations. In spreading scandal of the way drivers from Hall county must be glutted for punishment.

indeed by calling me an "old scandalmonger," and maybe I was. Speaking of scandal-mongers, that brings up another train of thought. They are a despicable type, those gossip, and not all of them are women, either. I can think of several I have known who wear long pants and talk in a bass voice. They can give the female variety fifty yards' start and beat them to the finish any time. Just why any man would want to peddle scandal is beyond me. Most men have trouble enough cleaning up their own back yards without going over and plowing up their neighbors'. But, be they male or female, I can think of the comment of no class of people I have less respect for. The thief takes a man's goods and he can replace them, but the gossip takes a man's reputation and that is something very difficult to replace.

Once, in a vindictive mood, I wrote a poem on the subject, and recite it is:
The scandalmonger has no friends;
No secrets are entrusted to her;
And, wasted is the time she spends
In picking gossip from the sewer;
Yet, by her clever calculations,
She ruins people's reputations.
In spreading scandal of the way
She far exceeds the daily paper;
And little that she says to pass
Amounts to more than morning vapor;
Yet, some accept her words as True,
Which makes it tough for me and
I think the method, tried and old,
Should, in this town, be resurrected;
We'd gag her, as they did the scold,
And thus have character respected;
Poets could return, if so inclined,
The mud she throws at all mankind.

P.S. Some males are worse by far for they use less discrimination. More subtle than the women are, they gable with determination. Few men by women are deceived. But men's tales always are believed.

I take pleasure in reporting a visit from our old friends, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Sawdye, pnce of Burwell, but now living in San Francisco. They were neighbors of ours in both places, and Dave worked in the same shop I did at Hunter's Point.

This girl is on dangerous ground!

Somebody has failed to teach this girl the right way to walk along a public road. Always walk facing traffic, keep an eye on approaching cars. At night be sure to wear something white so you can be seen more easily.

Be careful—the life you save may be your own!

...prove Mercury best!

3-WAY CHOICE!
For "the drive of your life" Mercury now proudly makes available a triple choice in transmissions. Merc O Matic Drive, the new simpler, smoother, more efficient automatic transmission—or thirty Touch O Matic Overdrive are optional at extra cost. There's also a standard transmission.

1. Road-Test a Mercury for Proof of Performance!
Get into a Mercury and out on the road—and you'll find power, putting V-eight power—more of it than you may ever need.
Now, swing into traffic and discover what a joy it is to handle. Climb a hill. Try an S-curve. Turn down the roughest road and see how Mercury's springing smoothes the bumps.
Comfort? There's more-around space for six. It's room with a view; big windows for extra visibility. Drive a Mercury a mile or two and you'll want to drive it home.

Try it today—MERCURY for "the buy" of your life!"

2. Budget-Test a Mercury for Proof of its Rock-Bottom Economy!
Does it have a down-to-earth first price? Mercury's price tag you can understand—gives you a big dollar's worth for every dollar invested.
Will you be sure of good gasoline mileage? Mercury has proved its more-miles-per-gallon by winning officially sponsored economy tests.
Is it famous for long life? It is indeed! 92% of all Mercurys ever built for use in this country are still on the road, according to latest annual official registration figures.
Will trade-in value stay high? Mercurys keep their value; used car market reports consistently prove it.

Water Dispute Leads to Jail for Ord Man

J. J. Campbell Gets 60 Days, Fine and License Suspension.

A neighbors' squabble over water drainage that has been going on for several years led to J. J. Campbell of Ord receiving a jail sentence of 60 days, a driver's license suspension of 90 days and fine of $75.00 and costs in county court Wednesday.

Campbell, pleading innocent to charges of resisting and assaulting an officer of the law, and to driving while intoxicated, was found guilty by Judge Ellsworth Ball, Jr.

Sheriff Bob Hall, chief complaining witness, said that he had been called out to the Stewart farm about two o'clock Wednesday morning to get Campbell who had been threatening the Stewarts.

According to Ord police chief Harry Clement, Campbell had been in Ord until past midnight, and had been warned by the officer to go home and sober up.

Both Sheriff Hall and County Attorney Ralph Norman testified that Campbell had called them on the telephone earlier in the evening and said that he was going to remonstrate with the Stewarts about a water dispute. The Stewart land adjoins that of Evert Smith, Campbell's father-in-law, and a small dam on the Smith land had to be cut this week, because of water backing up on the Stewart land. The Stewarts had complained to authorities about this.

On their way to the Stewart farm home to answer the call, Hall and Clement met Campbell on the way back to Ord. They turned around to follow him, and located his truck on the street near the Avers Furniture store.

Campbell stopped his truck at their order, but when the sheriff attempted to put him under arrest, threw the truck into reverse and backed it into the plate glass window of the furniture store. Both Campbell and the sheriff fell from the truck.

"I tried to pull him out of the truck," Hall told the court. "I had my arm around his neck, and then I don't remember what happened next. I was momentarily knocked out and when I came to I was lying on the sidewalk under the truck with my arm still around his neck. One wheel of the truck was on Campbell's foot, pinning him down."

Clements came running up with the car jack, and we got the truck off Campbell and put him in jail."

Both police officers, and Ray Stewart were called to the stand and testified that Campbell had been drinking.

County Attorney Ralph Norman filed two charges against Campbell, one for resisting an officer, another for a second offense of driving while intoxicated. Campbell had been previously fined in 1948 for the latter offense.

Campbell and Hall each received cuts and bruises. Both were hospitalized when they appeared in court. Judge Ball assessed Campbell 60 days in jail and a fine of $25 and costs, on the first count, a driver's license suspension of 90 days and a fine of $50 and costs on the second count.

Hopes Dim for Bridge Across Middle Loup

Steel and Concrete Span to Be Delayed Until a Later Date.

The present policy of the state highway department has doomed the plan for a state aid bridge across the Middle Loup between Valley and Custer counties, it is believed. About the only possibility of building the bridge would be favorable action on the part of the next session of the state legislature.

Plans worked out here were to have this bridge made a state aid project, with each county bearing one-fourth of the expense and the state one half. Both counties had passed resolutions asking that the road crossing this bridge be made a secondary federal highway, which would thus make the bridge a partial state responsibility.

The proposed bridge was to be of steel and concrete construction and would have been a permanent bridge if the original plans could have been carried out. A bridge of the trusty type could be installed for considerably less money, slightly more than $20,000 according to the estimate of an Omaha firm.

Taylor-Burwell Graveling Up For Bids August 9th

Grading, Bridge and Culvert Work Progress on New Highway

Gravel surfacing of the 13 1/2 miles of Highway Nebraska No. 91 now under construction between Taylor and Burwell is one of the projects on which contractors will bid at a State Highway Department letting August 9.

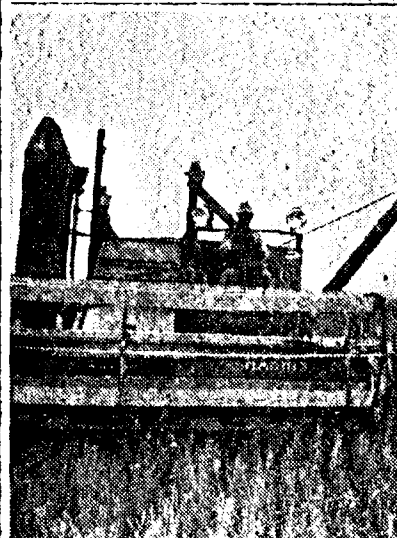

Contractors will bid on supplying and placing about 16 thousand cubic yards of gravel on this reconstructed highway between the Loup and Garfield county seats.

Contracts for grading, bridge and culvert work on this project were awarded Oct. 30, 1950. As of July 7, 45 per cent of the work on the bridges had been completed, the culvert work was 36 per cent finished and 23 per cent of the grading had been done, according to the construction progress reports received in the Lincoln office of the Highway Department.

Three Get Fines in County Court

A speeding charge against Duane K. Meyers of North Loup made by the highway patrol, resulted in a fine of $10 and costs of $4 in county court Monday. The same day, Lewis B. Lipman of Omaha, was fined $6 and costs of $10 for issuing a bad check to the Hotel Ord. Lipman paid the fine and made good the check for $10.

Wednesday morning, the case of Arthur Malotke, continued from last week, saw Malotke pleading guilty to driving while intoxicated. He paid a fine of $25 and costs of $4.

Wheat Combining on Foot Farm

Generally speaking, Valley county wheat fields are a week away from being ready to combine, but a 58 acre field planted by Lee Footwangler south of Ord ripened faster and Tuesday afternoon it was combined by Leonard Marks and the grain was hauled to the Noll Seed company and sold.

Yield was only 15 bushels per acre, the wheat weighed 61 pounds per bushel and has a moisture content of 12 per cent. Most wheat will yield higher in this area than did the Footwangler field, believes Emil Kokes, though he points out that with wheat worth $2.20 per bushel a 15 bushel yield gives a nice return per acre, in dry land farming.

Oats cutting is under way throughout Valley county and yields are good. Some fields of barley are ready for combining and heavy yields are looked for.

Heavy rains or a windstorm right now could bring losses of thousands of dollars to Valley county small grain growers, who right now anticipate the best crop in several years.

Farmers Happy As Rain Stops, Mercury Soars

Harvest Weather From Friday on Was Badly Needed.

The first spell of summer weather in 1951 came at the very time it was most needed, and the farmers are very happy about it. Those who had corn to lay by and alfalfa to cut and stack have been busy with it until now, when the grain harvest has begun.

The last rain preceding the warm spell came Thursday afternoon, a light .38 of an inch at Ord, and not much heavier elsewhere. Following this the clouds cleared away, and there were no more signs of rain until the thunder shower Tuesday evening, which brought one-third of an inch.

The first grain cut in this area was cut early this week with a binder on the Union Pacific right of way, and looks like a good crop. However, cutting with a binder has been going on all over the county since Saturday.

The first wheat combined and delivered came in to the Noll Seed company from a field of 68 acres belonging to Lee Footwangler in Mira Valley. The grain ran 12 1/2 moisture, weighed 61 pounds to the measured bushel and was of good quality. Leonard Marks was running his combine on the Footwangler job.

The Nolls also made two tests of wheat which is not yet being harvested. One for Marvin Rice on the Wise place showed 18 to 21 per cent moisture. For this reason he is waiting a few days. The other test came in from Walter Huebner, with a moisture content of 15.96, but weighed only 55 lbs. and was somewhat shriveled. The rain Tuesday evening will delay combining for another day or two, it is believed.

It is interesting to note the large amount paid each May, when the dens are dug out. This year the season was later than usual, and the number coming in in June almost equaled the record of May. The large number paid for in August, 1948, is accounted for by the fact that many of them were held over from preceding months when no bounty was paid.

Recently the state game commission wrote Leonard Woods, county clerk, asking him for a record of coyotes on which bounty had been paid for the past ten years. The record above goes back only to September, 1947, as funds were not available prior to that time. Mr. Woods made out the list of the number of records of coyotes on which bounty had been paid since that time, with the exception of the period from January 21 to August 11, 1948, in which time there was no funds to pay the bounty.

Pitcher Celebrates Birth of Daughter by Hurling 1-Hitter

Bill Novosad, one of the Ord Mustangs' ace moundsmen, had something to celebrate Sunday night—the birth of a daughter the night previous in the Ord hospital. The little girl was named Darlyn. Mother and child are both doing fine.

The father celebrated the addition to his family by letting Scotia down with only one hit in a game played between Ord and the Greeley county team on the Ord field.

Nelson Rogers, 52, Critically Wounded by Shotgun Blast

Son Henry, 52, Fired at Estranged Parent; No Arrests Made Yet.

Nelson B. H. Rogers, 52, of Comstock was wounded Monday afternoon by a charge from a shotgun held by his son Henry, 13, and is in critical condition in a Loup City hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Rogers had been separated for six or eight months and their four children had been living with their father, Mrs. Rogers was living with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Artie McIntosh. A week ago, according to Custer county officials, Henry ran away and went to live with his grandparents. Monday morning his younger sister Ethel, left her father's home and also went to live with her grandparents. Neither parent had been given custody of the children.

Upon learning of his daughter's disappearance Monday noon, Rogers went to the McIntosh home and started firing at the house. Henry obtained a 22 caliber rifle and fired one shot at his father's car. The gun empty, the boy ran for a shotgun and fired one shot which entered his father's abdomen.

Marshal Janulevics was in Broken Bow on official business, Sheriff Fox was summoned but was found to also be out of town. County Attorney Kelly and an assistant arrived. Dr. McDaniel of Sargent was called and the elder Rogers was taken to the Loup City hospital by ambulance. His condition is reported as being very serious.

Pending further investigation, no charges have been filed and no one is in custody.

Court Acts Upon Drainage Case in North Loup Area

Judge Spikes States Waterway in Contest A Natural Outlet

A suit brought by Darold E. Bussell and his wife, Esther M. Bussell, against Clifton McClellan, Merrill McClellan, Arnold Malotke, Wilbur Fuss, Dean Fuss and Rose Fuss, and also the operator of the dragline, Julius Jensen of Holdrege, in which the plaintiffs asked a permanent injunction against the digging of a drainage ditch by the defendants on their land southwest of North Loup, was heard before District Judge Wm. F. Spikes in Greeley Thursday and Friday of last week.

The judge gave judgment in favor of the defendants, on the grounds that the place into which water was to be emptied was clearly a natural waterway, and that they were within their rights in using it. The entire case seemed to hinge on this question, and the judge cited the following section of the law in making his decision:

"The owners of land may drain the same in the general course of natural drainage by constructing an open ditch or tile drain, discharging the water therefrom into any natural watercourse or any natural depression or draw, whereby such water may be carried into some natural watercourse; and when such ditch or drain is wholly on the owner's land, he shall not be liable in damages therefor to any person or corporation."

The plaintiff was represented by P. J. Barrett of Greeley and H. Blackley of Holdrege, and the defendants by Davis and Vogeltanz of Ord and John Daugherty of York. Witnesses for the plaintiffs were Mr. and Mrs. Bussell, R. E. Burrows and Clyde Keown. Among those for the defendants were the soil conservation men from both Valley and Greeley counties, Glen Beerline of the irrigation district, A. J. VanAntwerp of Broken Bow and Julius Jensen, operator of the drag line.

The land in question lies in Section 17, Independent Township, Valley county, and in sections 5 and 6, Scotia township, Greeley county. The land being drained lies nearly level, and has two meandering streams of what is commonly known as slow water. The object of the defendants was to give a more direct route for the water and thus reclaim considerable land now being wasted.

Packers Tell OPS Head He's "Misinformed"

Vavra Closing Here Starts Controversy Among Omahans.

When George Vavra, owner of George's Meat Market in Ord announced he was closing his place due to inability to get meat to sell, he started a controversy among Omahans—Edwin Moran, OPS head, and managers of the big three Omaha meat packing companies.

Moran started the fuss when he issued a statement saying that Vavra had quit "a few hours too soon" and claiming that packers were now taking all the meat orders they could get.

Firmly convinced that OPS would be the salvation of the nation, Mr. Moran said: "I know of no reason in the world why any OPS regulation should be causing Mr. Vavra to close his business," Mr. Moran said. "Other places have been getting maybe not all the beef they want but some beef."

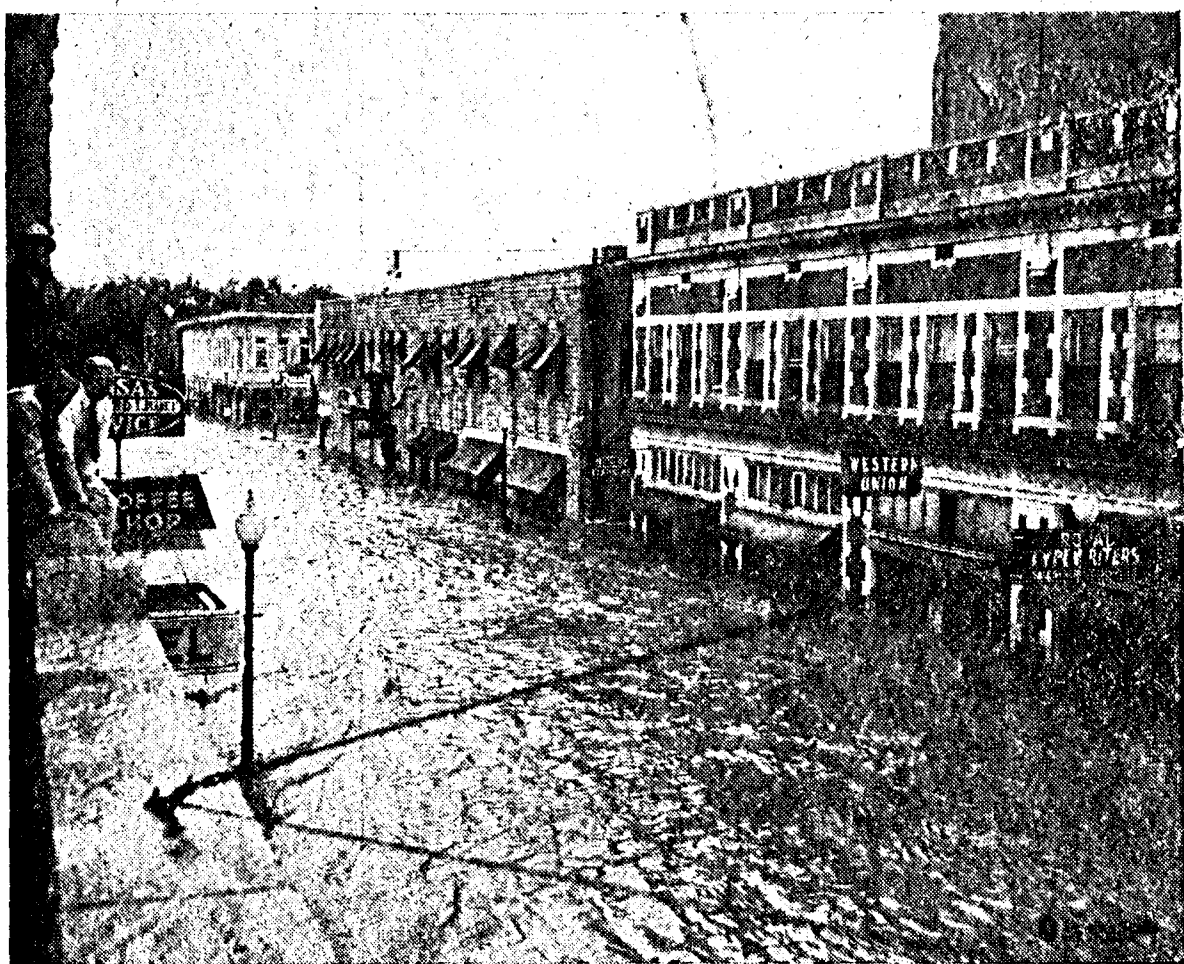

Commented E. G. Hinton, general manager of Armour & Company: "He doesn't know what the hell he's talking about. Our beef kill is only about 45 to 48 per cent of normal."

"We are not taking all the beef orders we can get. We are not giving our customers all the beef they want."

Swift & Company Manager E. E. Borchers said: "Heaven's no! We're way below normal. I doubt if any of the packers around Omaha are buying anywhere near their quota."

Ed Trowbridge, Wilson & Company manager, commented: "We absolutely are not. We're a long way from it."

Mr. Moran said he got his information from his butcher in Nebraska City, Neb., whose son is a salesman for a major packer.

The coffee shop of the hotel, in which the water came up within 1 1/2 feet of the ceiling, is at the left. Pawleska is in the 1st Cavalry Division's 5th Cavalry Regiment that smashed the Chinese encirclement of 2,500 French and American GIs at Chipyong in February, ending one of the boldest attempts of the enemy to close deeply into UN forces on the central front. It was at this time that Sgt. Pawleska was wounded.

Clyde Harris Is Hurt Saturday

Left Leg Broken But Present Condition Reported Good.

Clyde Harris, well known Ord carpenter, suffered a broken left leg Saturday at about one o'clock when he was hit by an auto on the crossing between the Clement Service station and Hotel Ord. Mr. Harris was walking west at the time and was near the center of the street when hit.

The driver of the car, Jpe Rygavy, Ord blacksmith, was returning to his shop and was driving down L street and had turned north. As Mr. Rygavy was about to make the turn a west bound car on L street was turning south, and another car was parked about out from the hotel corner.

These two required his attention, according to Rygavy, until he was making the turn, when a blinding glare, probably from glass in some automobile, made it impossible to see anything, and he did not see Harris until the car had hit him.

He stopped the car as quickly as possible, called help for Mr. Harris at once, notified the officers and John R. Haskell, insurance man. He felt very badly about the accident, especially as Clyde Harris is one of his best friends.

Sell Three Farms Near Cotesfield

The John G. Tuma estate land was sold at public auction at Cotesfield last Monday. Philip Tuma is the executor of the estate. Ted Tuma of Grand Island and John Tuma of Herman bought the 14-acre farm a mile north-east of Cotesfield for $168.50 per acre. The place is well improved. Bud Tuma was the high bidder on the 156-acre farm 1 1/2 miles south of Cotesfield. His bid was $100 per acre. The farm is improved. Adam Tuma bought the 160 acres just west of Cotesfield for $56.50 an acre. The farm is improved.

Property Values in County, 1951, Higher than 1950

Gain of Two Million but Figures Subject to State Revision.

Figures from the report sent in to the state by the county assessor's office here but subject to revision and correction by the state board of equalization show that there is considerably more wealth in Valley county this year than in 1950.

The figures for 1951 on all tangible property, including real estate but not including the railroad assessments, are $17,976,100. The same figures for the year 1950 are $15,642,905. This indicates an increase of $2,333,195, or nearly 15% over 1950.

However, this increase cannot all be laid to prosperity. First, the new land valuations went into effect this year, with a slight overall increase over the values of 1950. Second, the valuation of several different groups, including livestock, has been increased.

A third item which shows a healthy growth, is the increase in the number of livestock this year. While the exact figures are not yet available, it is known that there are more cattle in the county and probably more hogs, as well as an increase in intangibles. It does mean more tax money, and that is important this year.

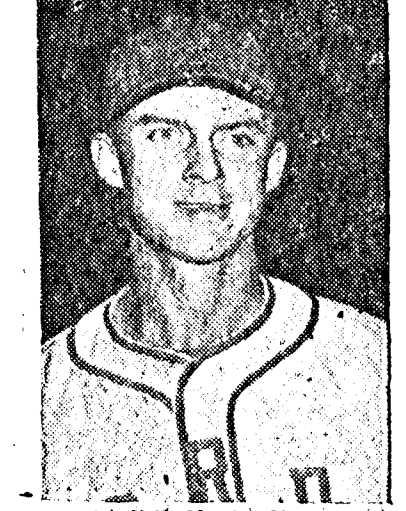

Rasmussen Buys Farm

Pete Rasmussen, who rents the place, bought the Lorenz estate unimproved 80 acres 8 miles north of Scotia which was sold at public auction at Grand Island Saturday.

Bill Beasley.

Bill Novosad.

Ord's two Bills, Beasley and Novosad, provide the 1-2 punch that Manager Rollie Johnson is counting on to down at least two of the three teams whom the Mustangs play in the next five days. Beasley, recovered from his painful foot injury, will oppose St. Paul on the home field tonight. Novosad who pitched masterful baseball in taming Scotia Sunday, will get the starting nod at Loup City Friday night.

The Mustangs will be right back in the pennant race if they can defeat these three league leading teams.

Tells Harrowing Tale of Human Suffering, Property Destruction.

wide came floating along, with a toad on board. The board would turn this way and that, sometimes completely around, but that toad always kept turning so he was facing down stream. He certainly looked small indeed in the midst of so much destruction. For three days and three nights the floods went through the streets. Wednesday night Swopes and his classmates left their class and drove down as near as they could get to their hotel. Then Swopes got into a small motor boat and tried to get to the hotel for the purpose of picking up some necessary articles, but the boat tipped over. They got to the hotel after much difficulty, and then wondered if they would not have been better off elsewhere. There are 8 steps leading up to the hotel lobby, and at first the boys above water. In a short time three were submerged, and the water kept rising and finally started running into the lobby. The men helped put valuable items up on the counters and other places, but in time the water got up to 1 1/2 feet deep on the floor, and they carried the stuff up to the second floor. In the coffee shop, level with the street, the water came within 1 1/2 feet of the ceiling. Having little else to do, they watched the flood from the upper floors, and were especially interested in the work of the helicopters which were used to drop food to the hotel and other places where people were marooned, and also to pick up people and take them to places of safety. They would get the harness around a person and haul him to safety without even getting him into the machine. They saw six small boats capsized by the flood, and these broken into such small pieces that they could not be recognized afterward. They heard the glass break in a big window, and about the same time heard a horrible scream. They learned that a man had received a broken arm and a broken leg and was also badly cut by the falling glass. Looting was going on everywhere, and the guards were ordered to shoot to kill in an effort to stop it. This shooting went on at intervals day and night, partly by the guards, and some probably by people in need of assistance. Only the most powerful boats were permitted to operate, and these were in constant danger. He said to tell Glen Auble that they ought to put heavier material into the pianos. It takes a good man to move one, but they floated in that flood like they had no weight at all. He saw one big tow truck whose owner had been busy pulling cars to safety and which he finally had to abandon when it got stuck. The water got up so high that only the tip of the crane showed, and then the flood washed it away. Several 1,000 gallon oil drums were washed down the street and one lodged under the marquee of a theater, where it stayed. They watched the windows go out of a

A Garfield county shipper, Frank J. Smolik, had high-selling feeder steers at the Omaha market last week, 10 weighing 764 that sold at $34.00. Supreme Court Says School Land Leases Illegal

Must Be Sold at Public Auction Is Decision.

A decision of the Nebraska supreme court handed down Tuesday of last week will affect about 40 percent of all school land leases in the state, it is believed. The state board of education lands and funds will be faced with the problem of selling some two thousand school land leases. In 1947 the legislature passed the automatic renewal provision for the protection of lease holders who had been good tenants. This is the piece of legislation that has been termed invalid. The effect of the court's decision is to throw on the market almost all the leases made since 1947. Those leases rendered invalid by the decision will now have to be sold to the highest bidder at auction. A member of the state board predicted that the school fund would be about two million dollars richer as the result of the decision. When asked about the proposition Saturday County Treasurer Lloyd Wilson said he was taken completely by surprise, as he had not read the news item, and he had no notification from the state at that time. He could give very little information on the subject he said, but would gladly give what he had available. The fact is that, in the handling of these school land leases, the state deals more or less directly with the lessees, and the country's only responsibility is the collection of the rentals on a semi-annual basis, the county retaining one percent of the amount for the trouble of acting as collection agency. For this purpose Mr. Wilson has a list of leases on the 17 pieces of school land, the location, the acreage, the appraised valuation and the amount of rent to be collected semi-annually. The total acreage is 3,448.63 and the appraisal value as of July 1, 1951, is $60,520. The semi-annual rental amounts to $1815.60, or a total of $3631.20 for the full year. The highest semi-annual rental is on a section of farm land leased by Tom Augustyn, and located near Elyria. The amount is $495. The lowest rental is on 30 acres about 7 miles north of Arcadia on which P. S. Dunlap pays $24 each six months. Mr. Wilson asks that the Quiz request those owning leases to just sit tight until they receive whatever information the state board may have to offer, when and if any changes are necessary in Valley county. It will do no good to come to the treasurer's office, as he has no information whatever at this time. Since nearly all the Valley county leases were made prior to 1947, it is believed that little, if any, land here will be affected by the court's decision. A conversation with Guy Lewellyn of Burwell, who knows as much about Garfield county land as

Rev. Olson Tells About Long Trip To Baptist Conference in Oakland

Rev. Eugene Olson, Mrs. Olson, Verlean, Janelle and Juanita and his mother, Mrs. Elso Olson, returned home July 6 from a trip of 4,380 miles to the west coast which started from Ord June 12. Their destination was Oakland, California, where the 72nd annual Boplist General Conference of America was held.

When You and I Were Young

Ten Years Ago - Threshing had begun and the small grain crop was proving one of the best in years. Potatoes and beets were also fine. National defense boards were being organized in every county in the state.

Twenty Years Ago - One of Ord's earliest business men, Frank Misko, passed away at his home in Ord at the age of 78 years, but the business founded in 1882 is still carried on by his son, William, in the old location.

Thirty Years Ago - The Quiz ran a very interesting and correct story of a wild man found up in Wheeler county, illustrating it with a picture of the said wild man and of the bluff in which he dug his cave-like home.

By adding to the south end of the building and giving it the required floor space. Also along the line of auto regulations, the state gave out the information that home made lenses for auto headlights would not be approved, but that these must be made by some approved manufacturer to make them legal.

Fifty Years Ago - Mr. and Mrs. Ben Davis of North Loup had the prairie twins. The item did not state whether they were boys or girls, but they probably were. Mr. and Mrs. Peter set sail from New York for their visit to Denmark.

Sixty Years Ago - J. M. Provens sold a half interest in the Democrat to Byron Griffith, who had been employed in the office setting type for some time.

West side of the square were putting some good, substantial walks fourteen feet wide, in front of their places of business. Those walks were made of lumber, of course. G. W. Milford was offering a ten dollar prize for the best and most elegantly dressed lady appearing on the Valley Fair grounds on the second day of the fair.

Galka Shoe repair shop is today. Because the county board had permitted everybody who needed lumber to haul away the lumber of the old river bridge, the Quiz recommended that two six year old boys and an old woman be elected as commissioners.

These People Met for the Annual Ord Picnic Held at Bixby Park, Long Beach

The usual large crowd was present last month for the annual Ord picnic, which has been held for years at Bixby park in Long Beach, Calif. The older persons present lived in the Ord territory at one time, but many of the young people never were in Ord except for a visit. Like their ancestry, they like to keep alive the memory of Ord. Quiz readers will doubtless recognize some of those present, or can by looking at the original picture, which was loaned the Quiz by Bud Martin.

Letters from Quiz Readers

Mrs. Rahlmeyer Writes
Prairie Du Sac, Wis.
July 10, 1951

Dear Mr. Leggett and Family: Just a few lines to say we are renewing the Quiz by sending you a check for it. We are always glad to hear from our Valley county friends, and the Quiz always brings a lot of interesting news to us. We are fairly well and are enjoying the beautiful Wisconsin scenery. We have rather cool weather, had a dry spell before the Fourth of July and now we are now having rain again. However crops are looking good. West best wishes. Sincerely,
Mr. and Mrs. E. Rahlmeyer

Something Different

Water up here in Minnesota is much different than water in Nebraska, well, than water in Ord. It is soft, because it is sifted through sand, layers and layers of sand. It is very cold, and it tastes extra delicious.

Years ago, the two brothers-in-law, Judge Clements and H. D. Leggett had a standing rib they pulled on one another each time one of them preceded the other to Cullen Lake, where their cottages were next door.

The early arrival would rush forth with a nice big glass of cold water to greet the second-comer. The joke being, each of them felt sorry for the other one because HIS well was so much better, and so on. It went on for years.

So when the boat came in to the dock, hours later, he stretched and climbed out most gingerly-like, yawning. "Gosh it feels good. I've been sitting on a pair of pliers all afternoon, and am I glad to get off those darn things!"

It is easy to tame blue gills. They soon learn that foot falls on the clumsy wooden dock means bits of bread to eat, and they boil up to the top of the water every time we go down to get into a boat, or to swim. But we haven't tamed them now for several years.

The water comes from the sandy ground extra cold. If you don't believe it, you have only to start washing fish under the pump. After the first 5 fish, if you aren't complaining of aching hands, you're indeed an iron man.

In swimming condition, the water is clear and pleasant. It reflects the sky exactly, so if the day is gray, the lakes are leaden. If the sunshines, the water dances with sparkles.

Our lake is a sandy-bottomed one but some weeds have grown in it, and there is a thin layer of mud on top of the sand.

Still, the water is clear, and you can see bottom unless the lake is very deep. Which it is, in some places, for there's a 65-foot hole near us, and another down near the lower end of Middle Cullen. Middle Cullen is shaped like a somewhat wobbly letter L, with a long, oval lake adjoining to the west and south. One of these, of course, is called Upper Cullen, and one Lower Cullen.

When anyone drowns, in these Minnesota lakes, the water is so clear that the body can usually be spotted from a plane before it can be found any other way.

There aren't many drownings, however. Only when some darn fool stands up in a boat, rocks it for fun (?), or something like that. We have all been brought up to be careful of such foolishness.

Did I ever tell you about the Ord man who came up here and was scared to death to get in a boat and go out to fish on one of these lakes? He had been cautioned to sit very quietly, not to move or jiggle the boat.

So when the boat came in to the dock, hours later, he stretched and climbed out most gingerly-like, yawning. "Gosh it feels good. I've been sitting on a pair of pliers all afternoon, and am I glad to get off those darn things!"

catch fish for pan-frying, see? So we are never fish-hungry. And how good they are, fresh caught and fresh fried, and served crispy hot!

Oscar Nay often goes out after panfish.

And Tom Anderson is a good fisherman; he can get you a good mess of fish any time you want them, quickly too. He can also dress them and I think maybe fry them too.

Clover Blossoms Picnic

The meeting of the Clover Blossoms was not held, but a picnic party at the park was enjoyed by Mr. and Mrs. Vic Kerchan, Leanne and Lynn, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ulrich, Mary and Jerry and a couple of Omaha cousins, Joan and Jerry Manfitto.

Everyone brought a covered dish, sandwiches and own plates. There was a large number of delicious things to eat, including fried chicken. All those present had a good time, and decided they should get together and have another picnic at Bussnell park.

Funeral Rites for Frank Fajmon, 72, Held Here Friday

Native Nebraskan, He Spent Entire Life in Loup Valleys.

Funeral services for Frank Fajmon, who died July 10 at the home of his sister, Mrs. Mary Bartos, were held July 13 at 2 p. m. at the Hastings-Pearson chapel. Rev. Thomas Siodowski officiated at the services. Music was played by Mrs. Orin Kellison. The pallbearers were Jim Petska, Stanley Absalon, Al Parkos, Jerry Puncoschar, Jim Wachtrie and Frank Kriak.

Frank Fajmon, son of Frank and Anna Fajmon, was born in Saunders county Dec. 16, 1878, and died July 10 in Ord, at the age of 72 years, six months and 24 days. The family moved to Custer county when Frank was but a small boy.

He was married Sept. 12, 1909, to Frances Kral of Omaha, and to this union five children were born, Joe of Ord, John of Portland Ore, and Anne, also of Portland, two sons dying in infancy.

Mr. Fajmon started farming in Garfield county, but moved to St. Paul in Howard county in 1914. In 1920 he moved his family to Ord, which was his home until his death. He retired from active work in 1935.

In addition to his wife and children he is survived by three sisters: Mrs. Mary Bartos of Ord, Mrs. Anna Dykast of Burke, S. D., and Mrs. Frances Vasicek of Castle Rock, Wyo.; one brother, Joe Fajmon of Burwell; also three half-sisters, Mrs. Emma Bartos, Burwell, Mrs. Tillie Haba, Nampa, Ida, and Mrs. Agnes Hosok, Comstock; and one half-brother, Jim Hejsek of Ericson. He also leaves a great many nieces and nephews and many sincere friends.

Land Corners Were Put There for a Purpose; Do Not Destroy the Record They Are Keeping

In a letter addressed to the Pierce County Leader, L. P. Barnes, deputy state surveyor, who recently worked in Pierce county, told of some deplorable conditions he found in the part of the county in which he worked. He says there had been a lot of hunting for land corners, the hunters looking for stones in the corners.

"He says there were no stones put in the corners by the original surveyors, just charred stakes. The only stones to be found in corners were put there by the very early settlers and by surveyors, as the only stakes rotted off, but the mound built from the pits around the original corners should be easily found, if not destroyed.

He adds that those old corners belong to the public and are of some value to every piece of land in the state, but the closer they are to any one piece of land, the more value they are to that piece of land. In many cases Federal Agencies have made these conditions worse.

Nothing should be done with a land corner or a county road corner without the presence of the county surveyor, or at least not without his knowledge and consent. People hunting for a corner stone will dig up the ground and in doing so destroy the very evidence they are trying to find.

In the original survey all section corners were at least marked by a stake, usually charred, of wood not easily rotted, and where preferred where possible. This stake was driven deep and dirt from four witness pits located a few feet to the northwest, north east, southeast and southwest.

In hunting for original corners the surveyor takes a sharp spade or flat shovel and shaves the top dirt until the level of those witness holes is reached. Unless disturbed, they always show up because the dirt in them is darker and not so solid. The corner is in the center between them.

All persons who have made a study of the science of surveying know about these corners and how they are marked, and know what procedure is gone through to locate them. Uninformed persons all too often use the spade for digging instead of shaving and thus they are certain to ruin the very evidence they are seeking to find.

In connection with a story of this nature it might be well to take a short look through the history in Nebraska, which will give a better idea of when these corners for both land and roads were made, by whom they were made, and what procedure should be used in looking for a corner.

The first map of Nebraska immediately available was one now in the possession of the writer, drawn in 1862 by Aug. F. Harvey, civil engineer and published by the Lithographic Map Publishing company of St. Louis, Mo. This map was labeled "A New Map of the Principal Routes to the Gold Region of Colorado Territory."

Towns in Nebraska territory at that time were few and far between, and not all of them were shown. Included in the list of leading towns were St. Louis, Kansas City, Brownville, Plattsmouth, Omaha and Sioux City. The only now familiar name west of Columbus was Fort Kearney, which was shown approximately where the site still is today.

Written below where North Platte is today was the notation: "From Denver to Nebraska City, good ranches all the way." There were no official counties until 1867, when Nebraska became a state, although many in the southeast part of the state were designated as counties immediately after that date.

The first surveys in Nebraska, probably less than one hundred years ago, ran the county lines, six miles apart each way. While not all counties are that size, this seems to have been the original intention of the surveyors. This practice was definitely established when the first surveys were made in this section of the state.

These first surveyors were followed by others who ran the township and range lines in the counties, six miles apart each way. Finally and just before the counties were officially designated by the state, still another crew of surveyors would divide up the townships into sections and quarters.

There appears to have been quite a number of surveyors in those early days. In 1874 there were four besides E. G. Davis—Levi G. Pierce, E. H. Davis, C. H. Webster and Mansel Davis, the latter the father of Horace M. Davis. All these surveyed roads in that eventful year.

Mingerson Coombs was the official surveyor in 1875, Henry W. Nelson in 1877, John Case in 1879, Charles J. Nelson in 1882, D. C. Way in 1886 and Bennett Seymour in 1887. From 1889 until 1932, with the exception of a few years in the '90s when E. T. Harder held the job, Charles J. Nelson was county surveyor.

In all Nelson surveyed over a period of fifty years, and in that time probably walked every foot of road in Valley county, over some of them many times. He did a splendid job with the records also, and there was seldom any complaint of his work.

After Mr. Nelson's death in 1932 a man named Bill Ayres was elected county surveyor, and he was succeeded a few years later by H. O. Strombon. Our present surveyor, Emanuel Petska was the next and the last in the office.

A final word: The county surveyor is elected for a definite purpose, and that is to look after the location of the roads and land corners in the county. Consult him before you start out looking for the corner of your farm. If you fail to do so you may find yourself and your immediate neighbors without a corner. A land corner is cheap to maintain, but expensive to replace.

Gardens

After winter garden plants are up to a stand, a light application of nitrate of soda will help them grow. For quickest results, dissolve a heavy tablespoonful of soda in a gallon of water and pour it along the row. A teaspoonful of soda to 100 feet of row will be enough.

Lightning Strikes Griffith Home

In the storm Monday night of last week lightning struck the chimney in the Lloyd Griffith home near Elyria. The chimney toppled over and broke through the roof, the stove pipes were blown down and soot thrown over everything. The glass was blown to pieces in every light bulb in the house. And finally, the glass was blown out of a mirror hung over a chimney opening, the flue stop was blown across the room, and Mrs. Griffith was deafened for several hours.

Masons from Four Towns Gather Here

Masons and Eastern Star members from Ord, Broken Bow, Arcadia, Burwell and Scotia, numbering more than 200, met Sunday at the Ord park for a picnic and to hear an address by Rev. Thomas A. Barton, chaplain at Grand Island Veterans hospital and grand chaplain for Nebraska of the Masonic order.

A line of chairs and tables from the Masonic hall were taken to the park to augment facilities there. A piano and organ also were trucked to the park and a music program was given by Irwin Underberg and another Broken Bow man, who have a Friday radio program each week from the Broken Bow station.

The Russell park picnic grounds were filled to capacity both Sunday noon and Sunday evening. Though 45 new tables have been added this summer, park board member A. A. Able estimates that an additional 20 could have been used to advantage Sunday.

Wait Word from Relatives in Kansas Flood

Mrs. Gertrude Michener, Ericson correspondent of the Quiz states that she and her husband have been unable to contact their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Harvie Michener, who live in Topeka, Kan. Because of the Kansas flood, fears are felt for their safety.

The couple visited their parents at Ericson from July 3 to July 10. They left for home via auto Tuesday morning, July 10. They had a card received from them. They had got as far as Manhattan, Kan., Tuesday evening and were sent back by the authorities to Clay Center, Kans., and were to go on to Topeka Wednesday.

No further word had been received from them up to Monday of this week. Several telephone calls were cancelled. It is presumed that they got to their home Wednesday and that conditions are so bad there that there is no out service by either mail or telephone.

They live at 822 West 8th, and are located on high ground. They should be out of danger, but in such flood conditions nobody is really out of danger. Just recently, May 1st, Mr. and Mrs. George Michener were experiencing the floods in Sioux Falls, S. D. Their home was in the flood area and was damaged.

Mustangs Lash Out 10 Hits to Beat Scotia 7 to 0

Novosad Gives Up but 1 Safety; Philbrick Is Fielding Star.

The bats of the Ord Mustangs were potent weapons Sunday night as they pounded out 10 hits, several of them for extra bases, and enabled Ord to defeat Scotia 7 to 0 in an exhibition game played on Ord's lighted field.

Bill Novosad gave Scotia only one hit, a double by H. Johnson, in the 4th inning, and had to bear down only three or four times in pitching to only 29 Scotia batters. Wysocki, of Ashton, pitched for Scotia.

Fielding star of the game was Bobby Philbrick, whose running one-hand catch of Goldfish's pop fly in the 6th was the finest outfield performance seen here in a long time and brought forth a spontaneous ovation from the crowd, which was repeated when the inning ended and Philbrick came to the bench. He also made a great catch of M. Johnson's long fly in the first inning.

Dugan and Rol Beran led Ord's attack with 10 hits each, but Bud Novosad's three-bagger was the longest hit of the game. Ord's R. Johnson and Philbrick went hitless for Ord.

The Scotia team looked good afield, especially the infielders, and had their hitting been up to snuff a keen contest would have resulted. As it was, a big crowd remained until the final out in the ninth inning.

4-Team Softball League Will Be Organized Here

Lighting System Will Be Installed on Lots Owned by Church

An organization meeting for a new softball league will be held at 8:30 p.m. Thursday, July 19, at the lighted picnic table east of the drive in Bussell park. It is stated today by George Dworak, one of several Ord men interested in this sport.

Softball is now being played evenings and Sunday afternoons on the Catholic church lots in northwest Ord. It is now planned to install a lighting system there so that play may continue after dark. A softball league which flourished here during the 30's purchased poles, lights and reflectors and they have been in storage for years. By buying three or four more poles the system can be used again and expense will be light, says Dworak.

Once the lights are in use a 4-team league will begin operations, prophesies Dworak. One will be a rural team, one an Ericson team and two will be Ord teams. A regular schedule will be played on nights when there are no baseball games in Ord.

All men and boys interested in softball are urged to attend the Thursday evening meeting.

Blessing to Build on Wentworth Lot

Dr. F. L. Blessing has purchased from the Mrs. Margaret Wentworth estate the lot and small house west of the Wentworth residence, on L street. He plans to move the house to a lot which he owns in northwest Ord, modernize it and either sell or rent it, and on the close-in site he will build a combined home and office, from which he will conduct his dental practice.

The house will be moved immediately and Dr. Blessing hopes to start construction within a few weeks on his new building and complete it before cold weather this autumn.

Ord's New Score Board Now in Use

The new score board for which the Ord Auto Sales company provided funds was installed last week at the Ord baseball field and was used for the first time Sunday night. It was built and painted by Syl Furtak, measures 30 feet in length and 8 feet in depth, and was erected in center field by Beard and Pierce, city linemen. Figures used with the board are about 12 inches high, are black, and on the board's white background they are clearly visible from all parts of the field. It is a fine improvement to the baseball field and one which has been needed for a long time.

St. Paul Bringing Huge Crowd to Ord; Jensen Will Hurl

Ace Pitcher Given a Full Week of Rest, Saints Seek a Win.

St. Paul is sending a huge delegation of baseball fans to Ord for the Saints-Mustangs tussle tonight (Wednesday), according to Harold McDermott, secretary of the Mid Nebraska Night league and a St. Paul resident. The Saints' manager, Lyle Leth, knows his team must knock Ord out to be assured of a third or fourth place position in the play-offs.

Dayton Jensen, ace hurler on the St. Paul staff, has been given a full week of rest for the Ord game. The Saints used Schenck in beating Shelton Sunday and lost to Boelus with Les Davis Monday rather than to chance Jensen being in top shape for Ord. He is one of the league's top pitchers and always tough for Ord to beat.

Right now St. Paul stands third in the league, with Ord in fifth, but an Ord victory could reverse the standings, depending on what happens to Wpod River, now in 4th spot. Loup City and Ravenna have play-off berths clinched, for all practical purposes, though not necessarily in the 1st and 2nd spots they now occupy.

Except for Jim Finley, who still has a leg and back ailment but can be used as a pinch hitter, Manager Rollie Johnson's Ord team is in top condition, physically and mentally, for the St. Paul game. The Mustangs know this is the crucial week of the season for them and that victories are needed over the top three teams if they wish to rise higher in the league.

Given good weather, Ord officials expect a sell-out crowd at Bussell field tonight. Better go early to be assured of a seat or a parking space.

Farwell Still Ahead in Sherman-Howard

Farwell knocked off Ashton 4-3 Sunday to continue undefeated in 2nd half play, while Palmer and North Loup took over a 2nd place tie when Palmer won over Elba 10-4 and North Loup won over Scotia 7-8 in 10 innings of play. Games next Sunday find Elba at Scotia, Ashton at Palmer and North Loup at Farwell. The line scores:

Ord Plugs Beat Arcadia 7 - 4

The Ord Plugs defeated Arcadia 7-4 on the Ord diamond Friday evening. Ord collected 10 hits off Arcadia, while Nelson, Jensen, Severson and Clements, pitching for Ord, gave up only two hits.

Clements and Stoddard gathered five hits for Ord, Clements getting three hits for four at bat, and Stoddard hitting two for two.

Boelus Extends Win Streak to 4

Boelus, currently the hottest club in the Mid-Nebraska Night baseball league, extended its consecutive win streak to four games by beating St. Paul 4 to 1 Monday night, playing off a game postponed by rain. The previous night they knocked off the league leader, Ravenna, 8 to 1.

Addition of the two Guzinski brothers filled the Boelus weak spots and Andy Jensen's club, in spite of a bad start, is serving notice that it cannot be counted out of the pennant chase.

Four Ord Golfers Competed in State Sand Greens Meet

Blessing Eliminated by Champ in Semi-Finals, Others Earlier.

Four Ord golfers, Al Blessing, Doug Dale, J. D. Ferguson and Don Hill, went to North Platte Sunday to compete in the Nebraska state sand greens tournament and made the best record there of any city's delegation, though they met with defeat. Blessing, veteran North Platte player.

Best record for Ord was made by Al Blessing, who went to the semi-finals where he was eliminated 4-2 by Canda, who shot 7 under par on his home course to do it. In the quarter-finals Canda had knocked Doug Dale out of the league, 3-1.

To win his way to the semi-finals, Blessing drove 269 yards and then sank a 25 foot putt to beat Ray Kriger, of North Platte, 1 up.

J. D. Ferguson, who won his way to the quarter finals, forfeited to Jack Moore Tuesday morning when he was called home because of illness in his family.

Don Hill won his first match but lost in the second round. Canda was opposed in the final Wednesday by John Schumaker, Nebraska City veteran.

Ord swept the bench using 18 players and playing errorless ball. They collected 11 hits off of K. Conrad for their 17 runs. Burwell got only four hits off of Flock and Fiskorski who have been pitching fine ball all season.

Batteries for Ord were Flock, Piskorski and Douthit, for Burwell, K. Conrad and Butts.

The midgets and Legion will play a twilight double-header on the Ord diamond Thursday against Loup City.

Admits Theft of Stationary Engine

At a preliminary hearing Monday in Custer county court, Harold Willard of Comstock, admitted stealing the engine in the old elevator on the northwest part of Comstock Friday night. The engine was torn apart to be sold for scrap iron. His trial was to have been held Monday, July 16 at 2 p. m. in county court but because of the Rogers shooting, it was postponed until July 25.

New Wheat

Local new wheat began to arrive at our elevator Tuesday and it is very good quality and fairly dry. Four truckloads graded No. 1 both as to moisture and weight with one truckload grading No. 2 and another sample grading No. 3. We would like to urge you to let your grain dry off in the mornings before you start the combine. The discount this year is very heavy on wet wheat and we believe that you can make yourself a couple of cents per bushel if you combine only when the grain is dry. The railroads expect to have a better supply of cars this year but we may have some trouble on cars again this year. If you have some good wheat take good care of it. Remember our elevator is closed all day on Sundays. We have a couple of trucks for hauling grain.

Small Grain Rates for Valley County Announced

Wheat Rates $2.23 Per Bushel for Grain Stored on Farms.

The CCC loan rates for small grain produced in 1951 in Valley county were announced Wednesday by Paul Owens, chairman of the PMA county committee.

The loan rate is $2.23 per bushel for No. 1 wheat stored on the farm. This includes the seven cents storage which in previous years has been paid at the time the wheat was delivered to the CCC.

The rate on oats stored on the farm is 68 cents per bushel. On barley stored on the farm the loan rate is $1.14 per bushel, and that of rye stored on the farm is $1.27.

Grain Treatment

If you have had trouble with weevils in your grain bins be sure to spray it before storing grain. This is the only safe way to store grain. A small amount spent for bin spray will be well spent. You can also use a liquid chemical to help keep your grain cool in the bins. We have this in stock and it is not very expensive; you can treat about 100 bu. for $7.00. If you store grain that is 15% or more in moisture try this chemical treatment. We have had good success with it and it is easy to use.

Sweet Clover and Alfalfa Seed

We have a good stock of sweet clover and alfalfa seed for fall sowing. The sweet clover that has been sowed in the cornfields this fall is showing up very well. It would be too long till time to sow the alfalfa for fall seeding. This is also a good time to sow Bromo and Crested Wheat Grass, Alsike Clover, Timothy and Red Top.

Peace in Korea

Arrangements are being made for a meeting somewhere near the 38th parallel in Korea. At this meeting diplomats from the United Nations and from North Korea will sit down together in an endeavor to work out the terms of cessation of war in Korea. The word "peace" is not used here. Peace as we know it in America will be impossible.

These men will meet at a place designated by North Korea, under domination of the soldiers of North Korea, and North Korea will set down the terms under which peace must come. Perhaps it might be well to use the words "Communist China" in place of "North Korea" or even go back to the original source and say, "Joe Stalin."

After all, what is the difference? The communists of the world will be trying to dictate a peace with the United Nations, and Stalin is the head of all communism. As the world nations seeking real peace, the United Nations will be dealing, somewhere in North Korea, with delegates who are taking their orders directly from the Kremlin.

Do not hope for too much from this peace conference. Peace will come only if the communists of the world desire peace, and it will come on terms laid down by the communists. The communists will demand what they will as a price for peace, for the communists of the world have little to lose if the war in Korea is continued indefinitely.

In fact, they stand to gain. It is true the communists there are losing perhaps ten times as many men as we are, but, from a war point of view, the men they lose are worth only about one tenth as much. The United Nations, particularly the United States, is losing far more in the cost of war than the communists are.

The fact is that the United Nations could continue the war in Korea until all of them were bankrupt and the communist nations would still have plenty of power left to fight. Is it reasonable to suppose that, under these circumstances, the communists will make any important concessions in the conference that is about to take place?

Note: This editorial was written some time ago, before plans had been made and details worked out for the meeting of the United Nations and communist diplomats. Since it was written several predictions then made have come to pass.

Poor Judgment

Not long ago four top communists, let out on $20,000 bail each, failed to show up and their bonds were declared forfeited. Thus, for the comparatively small price of $80,000 four men heading a party working for the overthrow of our government are at large and probable will eventually get to some safe haven in Europe.

That was bad enough but a certain rich man who knows who furnished the money for the bonds for the four men, refuses to tell the names and is held in contempt of court. Believe it or not, the judge in the case set his bail at $10,000, which he has no trouble in raising and he is, or was at large when this was written.

Any judge has the right to use his discretion in allowing bail for any enemy of this nation. If he thinks public security requires it he can refuse bail entirely. The writer is not up on the fine points of law as it concerns the big crooks, but it is a fact that small crooks can and are held in jail when they would be able to furnish any bail within reason.

If it were not for the fact that we have a dozen committees already checking into the questionable maneuverings of our government, it might be well to have some committee check into this proposition. One hundred and fifty million people would like to know all the details.

Yes, we would all like to know why, in a nation where all men are supposed to be equal under the law, the bigger the crook the easier it is for him to get out of the clutches of the law. The FBI spends years getting evidence against these big offenders only to have some judge set it all at naught by leaving a loop hole for them to crawl through.

There is no greater offender against our laws than the man who openly advocates the overthrow of our government by force. Since he has no respect for our laws, he is not entitled to the protection of those laws as are other offenders. Such men should never be permitted to give bond or get out on bail.

The Perfect Town

Most Quiz readers live in some small town or in the area served by a small town. In that town are business men of various kinds, some good, some only fair. But among the group are one or more who are outstanding in their line of work. Every town has these superior men. No one town has a monopoly on them.

The suggestion was made recently that the way to perform a perfect town would be to get these outstanding citizens in the various types of store or office all assembled together in one town. Get the best small town banker in the state, the best hardwareman, the best lawyer, the best doctor, the best minister, the best from every field.

Get these men to move to one town or, perhaps, get them to found a new town to be called Utopia, no doubt. This would make the ideal town, in the opinion of the man who suggested the plan. It might be well, also to select the citizens of Utopia as carefully as the business personnel are chosen taking one here and another there, choosing them much as queens of beauty are chosen.

Now that the idea has been suggested, it might be well to ask what would be the object in having such a town. Why the best out of all towns, leaving them beggared, just to form a town superior to others? Would such a town be the ideal place in which to live, in which to raise a family?

The answer is "No". As Abraham Lincoln once said, "The Lord must have loved the common people, he made so many of them." The Lord also intended the world to be populated by people, some good, some great, some weak, some strong, some good and some bad. He meant people to live together in harmony.

The great were to act as a moral support for the small, the strong were to defend the weak, the good were to make the bad better. This can best be done by living mixed together in every community, the way it is done here in America more than in any nation in the world.

A town is no better than its citizens, it is true, but it takes all kinds of people to make a town. The measure of a town is not so much the quality of its citizens as how all its citizens work together for the good of the town. People are attracted to a town whose citizens work the town in building up the town.

There is no such thing as a perfect town, for a town is the component of its citizens, and there are no perfect citizens. The fact is, nobody would want to live in a perfect town if there were one, for nobody could live up to the requirements of citizenship in such a town.

We love our neighbors, not because they are perfect, but in spite of their imperfections. A perfect town could not be complete, for it would have no jail or need of one, no law enforcement officers or need of them. The answer is a personal one, for the man who is a good neighbor will find plenty of good neighbors.

The more general answer is to take the town as it is, strive to make the weak citizen stronger, the bad citizen better and the poor citizen more self-dependent. A town becomes stronger when and if more citizens can be taken off the relief rolls and put on the pay rolls, when sick citizens can be returned to health, when the morally weak can be kept from going to jail.

A town becomes stronger, not by the number of arrests made, but by the number of arrests prevented by the support of the weak by the strong, the good by the bad. Law enforcement is not the first answer, nor is it the best answer in the war against crime. Arresting a man should be the last resort, not the first in the effort to reform him.

No, my friend, your suggestion for the perfect town is not realistic. First and foremost, those men whom you consider to be perfect men may have clay feet. In spite of the appearance of perfection, they may be no better than anybody else. In the eyes of the law they should be no better. In the eyes of God they are no better.

Ward's Cookin' Column

For a long time we thought it was the rats that were getting the little chickens, and then we caught a yellow tomcat in the act. We failed to catch the cat, however, and he has disappeared after accounting for 23 chickens. Then one day we had to chase a hog out of the garden, with the help of Village Marshal Brennick. If this keeps on I would not be surprised to find a cow or a horse running around, or maybe even an elephant, since the republicans seem to be making a comeback. What I can't figure out is that a cat has no standing under the law, you can't own a cat legally, and chickens do have legal recognition, and you pay tax on them. But, cats do pretty much as they please, and, if anybody objected, we would have to dispose of the chickens. Thank the Lord nobody has made any objections to date.

We don't see John Viner and his fine wife fishing at the Ord dam these days. I asked John about it and he claims he is getting too old. He is right. In five years or so he will be as old as I am, and that is old enough for anybody. Maybe I am old. I don't work nearly as long as I once did, but I make money in less time than I ever did in my life. And that reminds me that a man spends a lifetime getting the experience necessary to hold a good job, and then is so old nobody will give him a job.

Several complaints have been coming in about the "When You and I Were Young" column being omitted. That is just one of those things that can't be helped, I guess. It is written every week, whether it gets into the paper or not. I will be on the Quiz news job ten days beginning July 9, but can't say anything about it in this column, since it is written up two weeks ahead and the last day will be printed the last day I work.

A CHAPTER OUT OF THE PAST: Ed Beranek is always looking for something unusual to display in his drug store window. For the Fourth of July he resorted to the Fourth always claimed hundreds of victims. This year was our first really safe and sane observance of the day, and most people enjoyed it. There was still a little noise and some illumination but nobody was disturbed.

It has been a peculiar summer, but, at least, had a perfect day to observe the Fourth of July. I said "observe" and I did so accordingly. We used to "celebrate" and that meant that everybody was shooting off every conceivable type of dangerous weapon to the terror of everybody else. The Fourth always claimed hundreds of victims. This year was our first really safe and sane observance of the day, and most people enjoyed it.

The usual long list of casualties was noticeable by its absence. It is true that there were a few accidents, but that one of them took the lives of five kids, but that was probably due more to lack of supervision than to the parker that caused the trouble. The overall list is much smaller than usual, and what is more surprising, the list of those killed in highway accidents was far below the pre-Fourth estimate. It all goes to show that we can live sanely if we decide to do so.

Now that Rusty Petersen who runs a service station in North Loup is a man after my own heart, as the missionary said when he was running away from the cannibal. Rusty has done the impossible and has made a thing of beauty out of a boxelder

I am especially interested in those photos because I took all of them myself. I set my 5 by 7 view camera in an east upstairs window of the Midwest building, fastened it so that it would not move with a view of the street along which the parade would pass. I had 24 double plate holders and a man to hand them to me. Francis Keating, I believe it was. When the procession came along I shot those pictures so fast that I did not miss a single float. After that I took some pictures from a front window and some from a window upstairs in the old court house, from which I got a view of the crowd watching a fellow named Schoning from North Loup perform on a slack wire. He shows in two of the pictures.

Now for a few words about some of the floats. There was one of Parkins, the Jeweler, who deals with eyes exclusively these days. There was one all rigged up with Advo Foods, but the store name is noticeable for its absence, and I couldn't tell you now what store it is. The Ord Fire department figured all through the parade, with the band marching, with the hook and ladder truck all decorated, with a bunch of the boys marching down the street with a young fellow named Bud Shirley walking along in his long tailed Chief's coat. The Ord Commercial club had a float drawn by horses, and some of the leading business men had places on the float, although they cannot be recognized in the picture.

There was a patrol wagon for the obvious purpose of picking up malefactors, except that the cage was too small to get anybody into it. Immediately following the patrol wagon were Mut and Jeff ably presented by the Long Marcus Sorensen and the Short Floyd Collins. Koupal and Barstow had a float of a house built complete or around an auto. Both the original men of the name are gone, but the firm still does business under the old name. There was a nice float advertising Jerry Cernik, the Tailor, who has been away from Ord for a long, long time, and is probably dead and gone.

Auble Bros., still very much in the running, had a float advertising their business, but Garabdi and Peryman, then in their heyday, have long since disappeared from the scene. The Ord Sutorium had a nice float, but I seem to have forgotten who was running it, they, possibly Harry Bartley, Highland School District 67 was well represented, and so were P and O implements, but the dealer's name was absent. Members of the Grand Army of the Republic were mounted on horses. The Bohemian band was playing on the float, and a flat was drawn by a team of mules. In the background was the old Ord court house, now only a memory.

I was only lost once in my life, and that time I knew where I was. The only trouble was that I simply couldn't get from where I was to where I wanted to be. It happened down on the Mexican Border in 1916, and I was out on a little hunting trip, granted by Major Crossan because I had finished my sketching job ahead of schedule and was entitled to the trip. I borrowed a 12 gauge gun and some shells and found my way to a cutoff lake which was bordered by a heavy growth of timber. It was a cloudy day, and there was no wind. I got lost in about 15 acres of underbrush and did not find my way out for more than two hours. That was an experience I would not care to repeat.

I got lost in about 15 acres of underbrush and did not find my way out for more than two hours. That was an experience I would not care to repeat.

I was only lost once in my life, and that time I knew where I was. The only trouble was that I simply couldn't get from where I was to where I wanted to be. It happened down on the Mexican Border in 1916, and I was out on a little hunting trip, granted by Major Crossan because I had finished my sketching job ahead of schedule and was entitled to the trip. I borrowed a 12 gauge gun and some shells and found my way to a cutoff lake which was bordered by a heavy growth of timber. It was a cloudy day, and there was no wind. I got lost in about 15 acres of underbrush and did not find my way out for more than two hours. That was an experience I would not care to repeat.

The tree in question is just a little fellow, probably second growth after the big tree died, and Rusty has trained the limbs into an almost perfect ball about five feet in diameter. It is pretty to look at and attracts a lot of attention from people traveling through North Loup. Anything that will do that is a project well worth the trouble.

It happened a good many years ago, 1912, in fact, but it will bear telling. You have heard of the fellows who were shingling a shed roof on a foggy day and shingled right out on the fog. This was like that. I and a young fellow whose name I have forgotten were helping Tom Rogers shingle the roof of the chicken house. It was one of the foggiest days I ever saw in Nebraska. The young man started at one end of a row and I at the other end and shingled until we met in the middle. Then we would walk back and start over. Everything went well until the young man made a mistake and walked right off the roof. He was lucky, as it was only 8 feet down, but he said he simply failed to see the edge of the roof.

I remember only one other day when it was that foggy in Nebraska. That morning I got up and started out into the pasture to bring in the milk cows. I kept walking and walking and not getting anywhere, so I turned around and started back to the house. After about ten minutes and at a time when I thought I would be coming out the pasture near the house, I came to the fence, but I was at the far side of the pasture. To prevent getting lost again I followed the fence around and found that the cows were not as lost as I was. They were in the corral waiting to be milked.

Just another illustration of that old saying, "The left hand knoweth not what the right hand . . ." A news release from the Custer county P.M.A. office advises farmers to save water to hike production. Mebbe it was just a matter of poor timing.

A traveling man in Al Carroll's hotel last week was rather peevish. "Just how long do your rains last here, anyhow?" he questioned. "Well, now," said Carroll, "I hardly know. I just bought this hotel a year ago."

I'm sneaking this into type while the boss is in Minnesota. Of course, he thinks my hobby of stamp collecting is rather a waste of time, too.

The hunter crouches in his blind. "Neath camouflage of every kind. He conjures up a quacking noise. To lend allure to his decoys. This grown-up man with pluck and luck, is hoping to outwit a duck.

"But why are you so angry with the doctor, Mrs. Blank?" "I told him I was tired, and he asked to see my tongue!"

Lately my wife and other hawk eyed family members have been making a mountain out of a molehill campaign against my slightly expanding waist line, coupled with allusions to my staying powers—in a prone position. Now I find a London physician states that often weight is lost more rapidly when a person is at rest in bed. If that's the kind of ideas promoted by socialized medicine . . . maybe? . . . I wonder?

We are sitting here feeling sorry for Major General Lewis B. Hershey. The general is the head man of the draft system, and he spoke in Kentucky the other day and said the work of his office is going to be seriously hampered if the shooting stops in Korea. Everybody will start yelling for the end of the draft, he said, and it's going to be pretty tough for him. Try to bear up, General. We got troubles, too.

We're just about recovering from the shock of being accused of putting original material in this column. Didn't know it was that bad.

The government is putting new employees on the payroll at the average rate of 1500 a day, so there is little wonder that there is a demand for more taxes from one and all. Why do we need more civilian employees in the government now than we did even during world war II? Surely, you must have heard that there's a national election coming up next year.

Rosie Ann Bruha Weds Jimmy Kruml

Monday, July 2, Miss Rosie Ann Bruha, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bruha of Burwell, became the bride of Jimmy Kruml, son of Jim Kruml of Sargent. Judge Ellsworth Ball performed the double ring ceremony. Miss Betty Bruha of Burwell, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and the bridesmaid was Miss Wilma Bruha of Constock, cousin of the bride. Miss Bruha wore a gown of white marquisette of satin, a gathered skirt and two rows of lace that fell into a train. She wore a rhinestone necklace and matching earrings, a gift of the groom.

The maid of honor wore lime green tulle and tulle gown, while the bridesmaid wore a gown of yellow. Eddie Bruha of Constock was best man and Joe Kvetensky of Elyria was the groom's attendant. The groom wore a blue-gray suit and the attendants wore blue suits. That day a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. A four tiered wedding cake topped with a bride and groom was baked and decorated by Mrs. Ladislav Kvetensky and Mrs. Laddie F. Kvetensky. The newly weds were honored at a wedding dance at National Hall in the evening. Mr. Kruml is engaged in farming. They will make their home seven miles east of Sargent.

Nebraskans May Well Be Proud You can be proud that your state has no bonded debt as many others have—no state income tax—no general sales tax. You can be proud that Nebraska has one of the lowest per capita taxes in the nation—about 27% less than the national per capita state average! This bespeaks sound planning and good management. You can be proud, too, that your state is noted for other achievements. Nebraskans are known, far and wide, for operating clean wholesome places, well within all legal requirements, and for shouldering their share of the responsibility to build a better community and state. This is a result of the brewing industry's educational program for retailers, now in its eleventh year. NEBRASKA DIVISION United States Brewers Foundation 710 First Nat'l Bank Bldg., Lincoln

Barns Wrecked and Crops Damaged by Wind Storm

Rain Friday Night Heavy at Burwell, Taylor and Ericson

A severe electric storm hit the Loup valleys in the night Friday, following a hot, sultry day. Some damage resulted from lightning. At North Loup a part of the circuit was out as the result of blown fuses for a period of two hours. Also in North Loup a number of telephones were put out of commission and had to be repaired.

In all parts of the county the damage to trees was severe, with reports in several places of loss of fruit blown off the trees or branches blown off. Corn was blown badly everywhere, and especially out in Mira Valley, where the more advanced fields are so flattened that they will not straighten up.

The damage to standing grain was not serious, since most of it was either ripe or nearly so, and it was able to withstand the wind, something it would not have done earlier. Damage from the heavy rain is reported in places, but was not too serious in Valley county.

Ord insurance men are receiving reports of storm damage. John J. Wozab tells of two buildings badly twisted on the Ed Elisk place in Geranium township. They are still standing, but will be expensive to repair. He has other numerous reports of minor damage in that part of the county.

D. J. Armstrong reports damage to St. John's Lutheran church, now under construction. The stone work at both ends was blown down, and will have to be rebuilt. At the Henry Vasick place three miles west of Ord a combination crib and granary was wrecked, and the same thing happened at the Ernest Zabloudek place.

At the Henry Donat place the side was blown out of a barn, while a barn was moved off the foundation at the John Chipps place, a few miles northeast of Arcadia. Mr. Armstrong has also numerous reports of garages and other small buildings blown down or damaged, and chimneys blown down.

John R. Haskell reports that at the Oscar Travis place a section of a barn and a granary were blown down. At the Emil L. Dlugosh farm 7 miles southwest of Ord a steel grain bin was picked up and carried half a mile from home and left on the Emil Kokes place. Dlugosh also lost shingles off nearly all his buildings.

Emil R. Pafetta had little to report except damage to screen doors, awnings, shingles, etc., since he writes only town insurance. The over-all picture shows some damage to practically every farm in the storm area and things small losses, when added together, will make a large total of damage.

Other farm losses include a barn and granary on the Ed Tvrdek farm, 7 miles out on the Arcadia highway. The hay shed at Saunders Mills, Inc., lost the entire roof and one side, and the hay stored in it was wet by the rain.

The REA office reports some trouble all over the project, mainly caused by tree limbs down on the line and similar causes grounding the circuit. The maintenance crew was out on the job at 2:30 a. m. and continued to work until 4 p. m. Saturday, when everything was working again.

Most of the trouble occurred at Arcadia, Comstock, Scotia and Ericson with some at Burwell. In one case a shed blew into a meter pole and broke the meter, but did not break the pole. In this case a new meter restored the circuit at once.

In Ord city there were the usual number of interruptions that must be expected in a storm of this magnitude, but the repair crew and Manager Allen got busy at once, and nobody had to do without energy for any great length of time. Telephone companies had their share of outages, also, but these were soon corrected.

Donkey Baseball To Be Played Here

Baseball on donkey-back, that perennial flourish which causes so much amusement whenever played, is coming back to Ord this week. An Oklahoma donkey raiser will furnish the trained animals and equipment and Ord men interested in baseball and softball are sponsoring the game.

Carson Again Gives County 4-H Awards

For the fourth consecutive year State Senator Hugh Carson of Ord is giving $400 in 4-H club awards to be divided equally between Valley, Greeley, Wheeler and Howard counties.

The money is turned over to 4-H club committees in the counties who spend it as they see fit. "There are no strings to it," Senator Carson said, "as long as it goes to promote 4-H club work. Last year one county used the money as additional county fair prizes, another used it to send four leading 4-H boys and girls to a state 4-H camp."

"I'm firmly convinced that 4-H club work is doing a lot for the future of this country," Carson said. "A boy or girl who belongs to one of these clubs never has time to get into trouble."

First wheat at Farmers Elevator

This shows the first load of wheat to be dumped at the Farmers Elevator in Ord in 1951. It came from the farm of Lloyd Geweke, tested 58 pounds to the measured bushel, with 13.17 moisture. The 80 acre field made 15 bushels per acre. In the picture, left to right are Donnie Geweke, son of Lloyd, Fred Clark, manager of the elevator, and Archie Geweke, Lloyd's father. Lloyd was busy out in the field.

Valley Co. Wheat Crop Light but Quality Good

First Reports Show Yield Better Than Early Expectations

The first wheat to be brought into the Farmers Elevator at Ord came from an 80 acre field of rough land farmed by Lloyd Geweke, reports Fred Clark, elevator manager. This wheat weighed 58 1/2 lbs. per measured bushel, had a moisture content of 13.17 and the entire field averaged 15 bushels per acre.

The moisture content probably would have been less and the weight higher, but the load was brought in from wheat combined from quitting time in the evening until about 11 p. m. Emil Bonne had 61 pound wheat, that made 13 bushels per acre, but the stand was thin. Harry Plock harvested 5 or 6 acres that made 37 1/2 bushels per acre.

Clark reports the best yield to date was reported to him by Will Foth, who had some certified Pawnee wheat on the Squires place that made 50 bushels per acre. He put this in the bin, as he is planning to sell it for seed wheat. Ed Janus has some wheat which he believes will make 25 to 30 bushels per acre.

The rain Friday night put a temporary stop to the wheat harvest, but the work started again Sunday, and was expected to keep in full swing this week until all the grain has been harvested. A small field of oats just north of North Loup went into the shock over the week end, and most oats is ready to cut.

Wheat harvest at Cotesfield began last Tuesday when Tud Tuma began hauling his crop to the Farmers Grain and Supply company there. This Pawnee wheat tested 59, had a moisture content of 13 1/2 to 15 and made 20 bushels per acre. Joe Skoll of the Olean neighborhood harvested some barley that same day, but it was too wet to sell and he took it to the Slier at the Johnson Elevator at North Loup.

Fireplace Falls on Child and Causes Fatal Injuries

Was Granddaughter of the Kovandas Ord Residents

Janet Warner, 2 1/2 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Warner of Central City and a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Kovanda of Ord, was killed in a home accident Friday noon. The little girl was playing in an inside fireplace when it fell on her. Their six month old baby, playing nearby, narrowly escaped injury.

Funeral services were held at Central City Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Kovanda drove to Central City Saturday. Mrs. Warner is the former Elizabeth Kovanda. She grew to womanhood in Ord and is a graduate of the Ord schools.

J. A. Brown Is Very Sick Man

A report from J. A. "Jack" Brown shortly after noon Wednesday brought the word that he is still dangerously ill and is not able to receive any visitors. He was able to sit up in a rocking chair for just a few minutes earlier in the day.

Elmer Bredthauer Hit With Axe, Hurt

Elmer Bredthauer, Mira Valley farmer, had his hair parted in a novel manner Saturday when he and his son were cleaning up blown down tree limbs after the Friday night wind-storm. Mr. Bredthauer was holding a limb and his son was wielding the axe when the axe bounced and cut a three inch gash in Mr. Bredthauer's scalp. The accident was painful but not serious, and after getting first aid he was back at work as usual.

Airport Beacon Being Erected at Ord Field

Federal Government Leasing Equipment to Local Airport

A group of Ord air enthusiasts went to a point three miles from Polk, Nebr., Wednesday and spent the afternoon and part of the night dismantling a 51 foot beacon tower there, loading it and bringing it back by truck to Ord. The beacon and tower are on lease from the federal government.

Those going down on this first trip were Joe Fajmon, Al Radke and son Bill, Junior Jablonski, Ellis, Vere and Duane Carson, Vernon Nay and Harold Marshall. They got at the job at 1:30 and by dark they had everything down level with the ground. It took until 11:30 working by car lights, to dig up the big anchor posts from soil that was really muck.

The truck was being unloaded Thursday and the erection of the tower will be done by volunteer help as rapidly as possible. It will be located near where the old office building was situated, between the hangar and the old administration building. It will be necessary to double the speed of the beacon and this is being done.

It took several trips to work out a plan for the removal of the beacon to Ord, and Airport Manager Ellis Carson figured in all of them. First a group of three went down to look the situation over. Next Carson and Al Radke went down and got the beacon itself from the Fairmont airbase, where it had been stored.

Still another trip was made to Fairbury to talk to some men who had taken down one of the beacons at York and Lincoln. At the latter place they had a talk with CAA officials in regard to the speed at which the beacon must turn and other details concerning its operation.

Meanwhile, the new administration building is nearly finished, and the rest of the painting was being done last week. The new beacon will be a new attraction bringing airmen to the Ord field, as well as a guide to pilots traveling around the country.

Greeley Church to Picnic Here Sunday

From 150 to 200 are expected here Sunday when members of the Greeley Methodist church and their families hold their annual church picnic Sunday at the Ord City Park.

The Greeley group has reserved the large horseshoe table, and adjacent small tables for the event.

Photos Prove Sweet Clover Pays

The above photos prove that it pays to use sweet clover as a land building crop. They were taken by John L. Andersen on the farm E. J. Lange recently purchased from E. E. Wise. It was under the management of the Murray Real Estate Agency last year, and Mr. Murray had 20 acres of a 40 acre tract sowed to sweet clover, while the other 20 acres was in wheat. It is all in wheat this year. The pictures on the left are from last year's wheat ground, on the right from last year's sweet clover tract. Murray appears above and Andersen's hat below.

Frank M. Miller, Scotia Resident, Passed Sunday

Ran Scotia Hardware With Brother Harry for Thirty Years

Frank M. Miller, 74, passed away Sunday afternoon in a Lincoln hospital following major surgery performed Tuesday morning. Mr. Miller had been in poor health for some time.

The Miller family came to Scotia in 1892, the elder J. J. Miller entering into the hardware business which he passed on to his sons in 1913. 1942 marked the first business anniversary. Miller Bros. dissolved partnership in the fall of 1945 after carrying on their father's business for 32 years.

Frank M. Miller

Frank Miller was married to Ethel Cook in 1897, to this union 4 children were born, Damon of Los Angeles, Calif., Donald of Lincoln, Jerry of Sidney and Mrs. Vera Hatch of Mitchell.

Survivors are his wife and four children and 4 grand-children. Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 p. m. from the Scotia Methodist church with Rev. Merle Jones in charge of funeral arrangements, handled by Ashley Mortuary and with burial in Scotia cemetery.

Business Men Generous in Support of Ord Mustangs; More Funds Needed

It costs money to keep a good independent baseball team in the field nowadays, even when hired players are held to a minimum. The Ord baseball club learned this lesson last season and it is apparent again this year. When two games are played weekly, one away from home, the gate receipts from one home game do not pay costs on the two games.

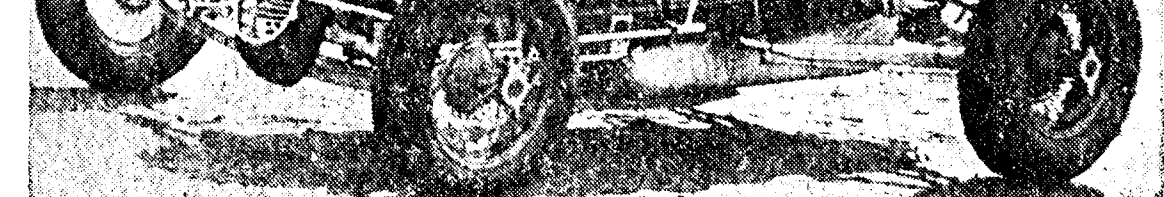

Crowds have been fairly good at home games since the rainy spell ended but in early games receipts were light. And a 50c admission fee of which 20% goes to the federal treasury doesn't produce the amount of money needed.

Pilots Must Have Identification

From September first on, all current holders of pilot licenses must have a CAA identification card. On Wednesday, Aug. 1, from 10:30 a. m. to 2:30 p. m., the CAA inspector will be in Ord to make up the identification cards.

Big Car Action on Speedway Here Aug. 2 - 3

Here's big car action on the speedway, as it will be seen on two afternoons at the Valley County Fair in Ord. Thursday, Aug. 2 and Friday, Aug. 3 are the days set for the seven-event racing programs, the first to be presented there under the sanction of a national racing organization for some years. Fair officials hope to return the Valley County seat to the position of national prominence it once held in the racing limelight. The two afternoons of competition are expected to draw entries from the top drivers in the country.

Huge Crowd Expected for Fair Aug. 1 - 2

Advance Sale of Tickets Now 1500 Thrills Expected

One of the old-time record breaking crowds is expected here Wednesday, August 1, when the Valley County Fair gets underway for three days packed with entertainment.

Advance sale of grandstand tickets is now past the 1500 mark, fair board officials told the Quiz. Most of the tickets have been purchased by Ord business firms to give to their employees and customers.

Sale of reserved seat tickets began this week at Beranek's Drug Store. Only 500 seats have been reserved for each of the four big grandstand performances, the Chitwood Auto Daredevil exhibition Wednesday and Thursday evening, and the auto races Thursday and Friday afternoon.

The County Fair shows will have a midway and carnival set-up a bit bigger than last year, according to fair officials.

Auto Wreck Fatal for Kansas Man

David Heinz, 33, 359 1/2 West 7th Russell, Kansas, died of injuries in the Burwell Hospital Sunday evening, following an auto wreck on Highway 183, 12 miles north of Taylor Sunday.

His wife, who was driving the car, received sprains and bruises. According to the state highway patrol a flat tire as the car was entering a curve caused the driver to lose control, and the car left the road and rolled over several times. The couple were enroute to the Black Hills for their vacation.

Ed Whalen Home Burned in Fire Wednesday Eve.

Owner Tried to Smoke Bees Out of Walls, Fire Resulted

A five p. m. alarm called the North Loup fire department to the Ed Whalen home Wednesday, where they found the attic of the one story house filled with flames. The firemen had the blaze just about under control when they ran out of water. While they were filling the tank at a nearby pond the fire destroyed about half of what was left.

Whalen had been trying to subdue a colony of bees in the side of the house so that he could paint it, and for this purpose used smoke. Unknown to him a little fire had caught somewhere inside. While he was painting around the corner of the building he snuffed smoke and discovered the fire, which had by then made considerable headway.

The building had only recently been wired for REA, and the Whalens are expecting to continue to live there, although they have another set of buildings on a farm a short distance south. The loss will be up to three thousand dollars, but replacement costs would be twice that amount.

Big Car Races Here to Draw Professionals

Famous Drivers and Cars Slated for August 2 - 3

Officials of the Valley County Fair to be held at Ord on August 1, 2, and 3 announced today that they have made a move to place that city back in the position it once occupied as the mecca for auto racing fans throughout the Midwest.

The Valley County seat had a national reputation several years back as something of a phenomenon for the sizes of the crowds that gathered there for big car racing events. Speed fans from all parts of Nebraska and from all neighboring states attended the racing programs.

During the years previous to the war the crowds began to drop off, however, victims of the most part of poor promotional activities and transportation difficulties.

Fair officials, determined to put Ord back on the map as a racing center, have announced that this year's three-day fair will feature two days of first-class big-car auto races. The fair officials have contracted with Frank R. Winkley, the country's leading promoter of speed events, to present seven-event race programs on the afternoons of Thursday, Aug. 2, and Friday, Aug. 3.

The races will be held under the official sanction of the International Motor Contest Association, the world's largest governing body in the sport. This assures the country's leading promoter of the competition will be first class, and that entries will be drawn from among the top dirt track driving talent in the country.

Backing this statement is the fact that an early entry in the hands of race officials bears the name of "Deb" Snyder, Kent, Ohio driver who holds the world's record for 1 lap, 10 laps and 12 1/2 miles on the dirt track. Snyder will pilot his famous number 3 Offenhauser, giving those on hand a look at one of the most beautiful race cars currently in competition.

Also on hand for the two days of speed will be Pete Folse, the "Flying Frenchman" of Tampa, Fla. Folse will bring the renowned Buckner Offenhauser here. He is widely known for his colorful style of driving.

This picture shows what was left of the barn on the Ed Tvrdek place about 7 miles out on the Arcadia highway after the windstorm Friday night. Nothing in the barn was damaged. Other damage on the farm included a granary which was rolled off the foundation and landed on its roof, but suffered little damage.

Equalization Board Raises Cattle Rates

Price of Classes Made Same Over Entire State

The biggest news story in Nebraska, according to Governor Val Peterson, is the tax problem. He may well be right. At the present time more people seem to be interested in it than any other problem in the state.

The state board of equalization, now in session in Lincoln, added another chapter to the story Monday when they ordered cattle assessments in the 22 northwestern counties of the state to be raised to the level of the 71 other counties.

In so doing "the board" stated that the increase in actual taxes would be about 60c per head. The board does not think this unreasonable in the interest of state wide uniform cattle assessments. The average valuation in the 22 counties was about $20 less than in the rest of the state.

Recently ranchers from the range country went to Lincoln to protest the original finding of the board, under which some classes of stock were raised as much as 80%. Under the present ruling the books in 22 counties will have to be corrected.

If the valuation had been graded down to the lower level of the 22 counties, then the books in 71 counties would have required correction. If a compromise had been found somewhere between the two, the books in every county in the state would have required revision.

While the valuation of cattle in Nebraska is much higher than it was ten years ago, it is still much lower than the actual market value of the cattle. The laws of Nebraska require that stock be assessed their full market value.

The counties affected by the order include Thurston, Merrick, Wheeler, Holt, Brown, Blaine, Logan, Thomas, Hooker, McPherson, Arthur, Grant, Cherry, Sheridan, Garden, Deuel, Cheyenne, Box Butte, Dawes, Sioux, Scotts Bluff and Kimball. Valley county remains unchanged.

W. J. Johnson of Alliance declared Monday that "The Board of Equalization Order upping cattle assessments in 22 northwest counties is not equalizing. They simply set valuations." Mr. Johnson is secretary-treasurer of the Nebraska Stock Growers association.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Return From Trip

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Dale returned Friday from a ten day trip to visit their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lehr and Stevie at Decatur, Ill. They also spent a day in Springfield and at New Salem, where they saw the memorials to Abraham Lincoln, all of which are being restored at the present time.

They went to Chicago, where they got to see a double header between the Chicago White Sox and the Philadelphia Athletics, all of which was very exciting. Mr. Dale also spent a day with the district soil conservationist and the county adviser, the Illinois name for county agent. He spent some time checking over data and in the field trying to figure out what makes land tick that costs $500 to $600 per acre.

He says the crops in Illinois looked wonderful, but that the floods had ruined the crops in Iowa, and the low ground was grown up to weeds. Some of the corn apparently was planted about July 1, and is very small and yellow. It was hot most of the time they were away.

Ord Ice Plant Still Operating But Outlook Poor for Future Years

When the pioneers first came to Valley county, they had to make their own facilities for keeping things cool. The cave or cellar was the simplest and most convenient of these. But those who had running water on their homesteads could make use of a spring, if it were available.

refrigerators were just getting a start, but people kept their ice refrigerators for many years, and gradually turned from the pond ice to the more sanitary manufactured ice.

New Marquee for Yost Men's Wear
Last week-end Charles Kretwald and his crew of carpenters tore down the heavy marquee front in front of the Bouthitt building on the east side, occupied by Mike Yost, Men's Wear and Mode-Of-Day Frock Shop. It is being replaced by one of the Aulsebrook's.

The old marquee, put in about 20 years ago, was sagging between the supports and dampness getting in was causing some of the boards to start rotting. The all-metal marquee will be free from these defects.

Kruger Still Ord's Nemesis, Ekes Out 3-0 Whitewash Job

Mustangs Hit Him and He Gave 4 Walks but Helpless in Clutches

Neither Dale Kruger nor the Loup City Redwings were up to par Wednesday night but their old jinx on Ord was in full operation and for the third time this year the Mustangs were licked by this team.

The score was 3 to 0, Loup City getting one in the first and then two insurance runs in the 8th. Ord got 6 hits, were given five free passes by Kruger and were helped along by 4 errors committed by the Redwings, but although they had men on bases in 7 innings and four times pushed their sinners as far as third, they couldn't tally.

Dilla and S. Johnson, with 2 hits each, led Ord's attack while Al Krolkowski and Hogg had two each for the Redwings. Ord made only two errors, by Dugan and Koll in the 8th which helped Loup City's first run, which was scored by Cady on Babbitt's sacrifice and Krolkowski's hit.

The game was played at Loup City. The Mustangs had a chance to tally in the first when Bud Novosad, who went all the way to third when Dilla got life on an error, but died when Dugan grounded out and Stan Johnson whiffed. In the 4th Dilla doubled but was put out at third on Dugan's grounder. Bud Novosad got as far as the 8th in the 6th but Dugan's caught fly left him stranded there. And Nelson made it to third in the 9th, only to die there as his mates grounded out in order. No Ord player could hit when a hit would have meant a run. They had 12 men left on bases.

Loup City's final two runs came in the 8th on 3 hits and a walk. It was the only inning in which Bill Novosad was in trouble. He pitched nice ball all the way, giving up 6 runs, scattering 3 bases on hits and fanning. Ord had one double play. Loup City made two. It was a good game to watch, as all the Loup City-Ord clashes this year have been, but the victory-hungry Ord fans are tired of the Kruger-Loup City jinx and want to see the Mustangs win.

Well, there's one more chance this year during regular league play. Mark Sunday, August 5, as that important date on your calendar. The game is on the Ord field.

Legion Wins Two Midgets Unbeaten

The Junior Legion and Midget teams each won their games in a double-header against Loup City on the Ord diamond Thursday.

The Midgets continued their winning string to eight games and have only one league game left to make it an undefeated season.

The Junior Legion won by a 3 to 1 score with Patrick pitching and Wolfe catching. The Midgets shifted Loup City 5 to 1 behind Piskorski and Flock's pitching.

The Junior Legion traveled to Sargent Sunday where they defeated the Sargent Legion 14 to 4. Midget pitcher Igo, Piskorski pitched the whole game for the Legion and did a very fine job. Croley got three hits for four times at bat to lead the Legion hitters.

The last game of the season for both teams will be a double-header against St. Paul on the home diamond Thursday evening. The teams will then go into tournament play.

Catch 15 Pound Catfish in Loup

Although it took both of them to land him, Bobby Krause, 18, had the rod and reel when he and his father, Buck Krause, right, caught this 15 pound plus catfish in the North Loup Monday.

The big boy weighed in at slightly over 15 Monday evening, Tuesday morning, when weighed on test scales, still tipped the beam at 14 pounds 6 ounces. He was 31 inches long and measured 19 inches around the belly.

Krause used a shrimp for bait and regular rod and reel. The catch was made near the Kent bridge, about 10 miles west of Burwell. The same evening, Turk Freeland, marshal at Burwell, landed a 12 pounder on a set line near the Burwell dam.

Mustangs in Fourth Spot, Need Beat 3 Tail-End Teams

Ord 2 Games Back of St. Paul, 2 Ahead of Wood River; 8 to Play

By winning 2 of their last 3 games, the Ord Mustangs advanced in Mid-Nebraska Night league standings to 4th place where they are two games behind 3rd place St. Paul and 2 games ahead of 5th spot Wood River.

Games played by Ord in the past week included a 2 to 1 win over St. Paul, a 3 to 0 loss to Loup City, and a 8 to 2 win from Ravenna.

There are eight league games to be played and if the Mustangs can take two, or perhaps all of their next 3 games, they will have 14th place berth in the Mid-Nebraska league's Schaunussey playoffs practically cinched.

At present the Mustangs are two full games ahead of Wood River, whom they play again tonight, and are four games ahead of Boelus and Shelton, who are tied for last place. Boelus comes to Ord Sunday and Ord plays Shelton on the 30th in connection with that town's Harvest Festival, so mathematically they could cinch a play-off berth in this week. Games won against the leaders after that would only boost the Mustangs in the standings.

The current league standings and results of Sunday night games follow:

Ord Mustangs Outlast Saints, Win Thriller 2 to 1 in Twelfth

Beasley Bests Jensen in Pitching Duel, Crowd Pleased

By a score of 2 to 1 the Ord Mustangs defeated the St. Paul Saints in 12 innings on the Ord field Wednesday evening in about the finest baseball game seen in these parts in 10, these many years.

The game had everything, including a red hot pitching duel between Bill Beasley of Ord who whiffed 15 Saints and allowed 8 hits and Dayton Jensen of St. Paul who fanned 8 Mustangs and made 10 hit puny grounders to him.

St. Paul made 3 errors, Ord made 1 but none of them figured unduly in determining result of the game. Each team made a double play.

Ord scored in the first inning when Moore was safe on the St. Paul shortstop's error and came on Dilla's vicious double to the fence in 7 innings. Ord led 2 to 0, then Lukasiewicz singled, stole second and came in on Spiels' double. From then until the last of the 12th the score remained in a 1-1 deadlock.

Not that both teams didn't have chances to score. The Saints led 2 on in the 9th, loaded the bases in the 10th and had 1 on in the 11th, but couldn't pound the deciding run across the plate. Ord filled the bases in the 9th and 11th without avail.

Manager Hollie Johnson was the hero of the game for in the 12th, after Bill Novosad, batting for D. Johnson, had been put on when hit in the ribs by Jensen, he went in as a pinch hitter for Moore and slanted a line drive single into right on the third pitch, sending Novosad across with the tie-breaking and winning run.

Both teams played top grade baseball throughout and so tense was the game that scarcely a fan left the crowded stands until the end. The Mustangs demonstrated that they can play air tight ball under heavy pressure in this game.

Boucher Singles in the 9th to Ruin Perfect Game for Ord Hurler

The Ord Plugs defeated Comstock 12 to 8 on the home diamond Tuesday night. Each team collected 11 hits but errors and walks on the part of Comstock seemed to make the difference.

Severson pitched the first six innings for the Plugs and struck out 12 batters. Gallagher then came in and finished the game for Ord, giving up only two hits. Gibbons and Plock did the pitching for Comstock and Nelson and Wells caught.

Stoddard, catching for Ord, got two hits for two at bat and Wozniak hit a triple to lead the Ord batters.

True, Treischman was on second as result of a walk and a passed ball and Clipper Boucher, a Ravenna clean-up man, was batting but Beasley had caused him to both of them out, along with another Ravenna player, and seemed to have a no-hit no-run game on his hands.

Farwell continued undefeated in second half play as they dropped strong North Loup, 6-5 in 10 innings of close play. Ashton came in on a 6-2 victory over Palmer while Elba continued to hold cellar spot in the league as they lost, 4-5 to Scotia. CIVIL DEFENSE QUIZ:

Q. Why should I know about fire prevention?

A. If bombs fall, fire will cause four times more damage than blast!

Careless habits make our cities a "setup" for raging fires if an enemy drops bombs. But there are simple steps you can take to minimize fires. And remember, current home fires hurt America, too. So when you practice good fire prevention habits, you help keep America strong.

- Clean out rubbish from attics, cellars. Turn waste-paper into salvage depot.
- Make a fire "safety-check" of your home today.
- Keep matches away from children.
- Never smoke in bed.
- Have frayed electric cords replaced.

Don't gamble with fire—the odds are against you!

COMING TO ORD!

SEE JOIE CHITWOOD'S "AUTO DAREDEVILS" demonstrate the RUGGED DURABILITY that's built into FORD CARS!

This year we have the most thrilling exhibition of precision driving we have ever offered. Altogether we have developed 27 different acts, including such spine-chilling feats as: The 85-foot ramp-to-ramp jump—Blazing barrier crashes—Snap roll crashes—The slide for life . . . and many, many more spectacular demonstrations of outstanding skill and daring!

We have been using stock Ford Cars in our acts for the past 3 years. And by "stock" cars I mean Fords that are exactly the same as those sold to the public by Ford Dealers. The only difference is that we move the gas tank into the trunk and add skid plates to some of our cars.

We use Fords because our experience has proved that these sturdy cars have what it takes to stand up under the terrific punishment we give them. They have the quick, abundant power and positive-action brakes essential to the success of our stunts. And Ford's "Lifeguard" Body—rugged construction—and the over-all balance of Ford Cars offer an extra margin of safety for our drivers.

I hope all of you can come to our show . . . for I'm sure the "Daredevils" will thrill you just as they have more than 5,000,000 folks throughout North America during recent years.

Civil Defense

The nation has just gone through one of the worst disasters in its history in the devastating floods that swept through eastern Kansas, demolishing or ruining everything in their path. It has been roughly estimated by General Pick that the loss will amount to at least $750,000,000. All other national disasters pale into insignificance when compared to it.

While it was beyond human power to keep the flood waters from doing the damage they did, it was possible to prevent large loss of life, such as could be expected in such a catastrophe. The people were warned, and they obeyed the warning. Most of the cases where people were injured came because some one refused to obey orders.

But floods have not always been handled so successfully. Perhaps floods are not always so easy to handle. The credit for the handling of this flood is being given to the present civil defense program, and the Red Cross, which in time of need is made a part of that program. The saving of human life comes first always, for a man's life cannot be measured in terms of dollars.

Whatever the cause, the flood was combated with such success

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS WASTE

Nagging backache, loss of spontaneity, headaches and dizziness may be due to slow-down of kidney function. Doctors say good kidney function is very important to good health. Minor bladder irritations due to toilet or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages. Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Deane's Pills—a mild diuretic. Use successfully by millions for over 50 years. It's amazing how many times Deane's Pills have helped thousands of people—help the thousands of kidneys and filters flush out waste. that only a very few lives were lost, so few that it has become a modern wonder. It is true the people had warning, but they have had warnings at other times and failed to observe those warnings. This time they heard and obeyed, and were saved!

There seems to have been little or no panic, but a graphic picture is drawn of people doing as they were told and thus saving their lives. They obeyed because they were wise enough to realize that was the only thing to do. They helped their rescuers to bring order out of chaos. They gave a splendid picture of people in concerted action.

Over in China, for example, they have such floods every few years. Their losses in property are usually not as heavy as are ours, for the property they lose is of less value. Yet it amounts to the same thing, for the people lose all they have and start over. In money their losses may not be high, but they lose all they have, and that is about all a person can lose.

What shocks the world, when and if the world hears about it, is the terrible loss of life in these floods. The poor Chinese, drawn by the thousands and thousands more from the exposure and starvation that always follows. This has been going on since the time of recorded history, and little has been done about it. The Chinese are fatalists, they believe that whatever will be, will be.

A flood such as that in Kansas, occurring in the crowded Chinese areas, would have drowned people by the hundreds with very little effort being made to save them. Here in America we place a high value on human life, especially when disaster strikes. We believe that each is his brother's keeper, and we act accordingly. Further, we have the facilities to translate our desires into action. With the telegraph, telephone and radio spreading the alarm everywhere, nobody had excuse for not knowing the floods were coming. The civil defense forces were alerted at once to help the people and the people helped themselves by obeying orders. There is no power greater than that of intelligent people working in concert.

The lessons learned in the Kansas flood will be worth while. In the future disasters will come, but they will claim fewer lives, and we hope they will not cause such a gigantic loss of property. Already flood control is being urged in congress. Now that the horse is stolen, many congressmen are in favor of locking the barn door against future loss.

The people of Kansas have cause to remember the winter of 1948-49. That winter of the big snows. That year every possible facility was mustered to help the people in distress, and to prevent the loss of livestock. Many were lost, but the loss was lessened by the prompt and tireless action of the hay lift and other aids that could be and were used.

The army moved into the area and took over. Airplanes flew scouting trips. The radio, including short wave, and the telephone where available, were used in getting word to and from the isolated ranchers. Food was dropped to dozens of outlying farms. Hay was hauled in the big boxcars and dropped where the cattle could get it.

This was humanity in action. Much valuable property was saved, and the value of that service to the public in the snowbound areas cannot be measured in dollars and cents. It must be measured in the lives of the many people saved from death, who will now live to become useful as well as grateful citizens.

It was not so in the early days. The pioneers had the desire, but not the facilities to help each other in time of storm. For this reason the blizzard of 1888 claimed more lives than the blizzard of 1948-49. Yet the earlier blizzard was only one storm, and it was of short duration, while the more recent one lasted all winter long.

It is not a pleasant picture to look back and think of the early settlers and the trials they had to endure, the sufferings they had to meet. But they had it to do, because there was no other way. Mankind had not developed the many means of communication we have today. They were unable to keep informed as to each other's needs.

People are still willing and largely able to take care of themselves. But when the emergency comes, we find that they have a highly developed ability to take care of themselves. They have found the answer to the question of Cain: "Am I My Brother's Keeper?" Today, as the result of that so recent blizzard, a series of radio towers have been erected all over the area, and these will be available in time of need to keep storm-bound people informed as to what is being done for them.

Here is the third and final example of the long way we have come in civil defense since the days of the pioneer. This is an example that brings the subject right home to us, for it happens every time. At 5 p. m. Wednesday, July 18, the fire whistle blew in North Loup. Less than 20 minutes later the firemen were out at the Ed Whalen home pumping water on his house.

The firemen assisted the neighbors in saving all the furniture. It is true that not much of the house was saved, but it might be well to remember that, in pioneer days, a house located that far from town would have burned to the ground and the people would not have heard about it until a day or two later.

This rural and village fire truck was paid for by the public and is available for the public use whenever needed. There are hundreds of similar trucks throughout the state and nation, and they save loss of property, and often loss of life. The firemen of Ord are subject to call with their inhalator at any time, and they always respond to the call of distress.

These are examples of humanity at work, the spirit of Christ within man, if you please. They can happen only in a country whose people believe in God. These men who help in time of need are merely following the lead of the Man of whom it was said, "He Went About Doing Good."

The King Is Dead
Yes, the king is dead—the king of Nebraska newspapermen. Edgar Howard, the oldest editor in the state not only in age but in point of active service went to his reward Thursday from a bed in a Columbus hospital, at the age of 92 years. That reward should be large indeed to be in fair proportion to the service he rendered his public while he was editor of the Columbus Daily Telegram.

The king is dead, but nobody can say "Long Live the King." Where is there a man who can step into the shoes of Edgar Howard and fill them as ably as he did. There are many great editors in the state, but Howard was the king of them all. His opinions and ideas were sought and respected by other editors, regardless of political affiliation.

Edgar Howard began his career in the printing field as a printer's devil at Glenwood, Ia., in 1872. He attended a private school and the Iowa College of Law, but disagreed with his teachers a short time before commencement and did not graduate. Later he took an examination and was admitted to the practice of law in Nebraska.

A man of firm conviction and an old line democrat, Howard usually lined up against the republicans, but he came out against a number of the pet ideas of the New Deal. He was one of the earliest champions of William Jennings Bryan. In his day he served as a state legislator, lieutenant-governor of Nebraska, and was a member of Congress for twelve years.

He owned the Columbus Daily Telegram for more than 50 years and made his paper one of the best known in Nebraska. Mr. Howard visited Ord once, with the boosters from Omaha. All who know him at that time will never forget his large, loosely hung frame, his long frock coat flapping in the breeze, his wide-rimmed black hat or his hair, which in those days swept down to his shoulders. On still another occasion he talked at a Father-Son banquet in Ord, making an inspirational talk.

Yes, the king is dead, but his influence will be felt for a long time to come. There is no other man to take his place at this time, and it may be a long time before another figure as striking as he rises to the high place of held in the esteem and respect of his fellow editors of Nebraska. His life was a warfare for the ideas he thought to be right. May he rest in peace.

Something Different

We have always believed what we read at our house, and suitably so, since we are publishing people.

So we have lots of signs around to direct activities.

And I guess it must be catching, for the other evening the young fry at our Minnesota house, in the Ted and Vonnie Anderson, got busy and made up a slug of signs, installing them all over the yard and driveway. On the kitchen counter it now says "Dishwashers, Inc."

A close-by sign on a steep little hill, reads "Cory's Speedway." At any turn you're likely to find "Dead End."

In the front yard we have "Octopus Point." Over my bed I learn from a sign that I am "Mistress of Dish-water Hollow."

A certain important little house out in back has one sign and another indicating "Emergency Door." Not far away is a sign that reads "Danger! Mosquitoes at Work."

One reads "Ye Olde Garbage Pit." And one "Caution: Armed Skunks!"

And another sign is painted "Fishes Dressing Room" and points out the fish dressing counter.

Toward the dining table is one "Mess Hall," and in parenthesis and smaller: (What a Mess!) I think you get the idea by now.

All over the place, no telling what sign you'll read next, as one sharp idea sparks another! Such an all-day lark as they had doing it, Tom assisting.

We always enjoy the young things up here.

This year we again admire a Mama Mallard as she steams majestically across the lake, six or eight youngsters striving to paddle as easily as she does, in her wake. So cunning!

The old fool! She steams stupidly in front and well enemies of ducklings know this. Turtles, for instance, slip up and gobble off the rearmost baby duck in the procession. And I don't suppose the mother duck ever misses one duck baby!

One summer we grievously watched almost a whole Mallard family vanish, day after day, a turtle. Each day, as she went across our "front yard" there would be one duck less.

I read a pointed Kin Hubbardism that sticks in my craw; so I'm going to post in a newspaper office should you feel too Giveviny, Mr. Publisher.

"Tilford Mools wuz over t' th' Henryville poor farm th' other day t' see an ole' friend o' his that used t' publish a newspaper that pleased ever'buddy!"

One quality the human race holds in common is the capacity for making mistakes. The person who doesn't make them, someone remarked once, does nothing. If he makes too many, he loses his job.

The newspaper fraternity has often and loudly been accused of not only too frequent errors but of being guilty of gross negligence as the cause. Naturally this has called forth rebuttal. One was pointed out that the editor by the very nature of his work was vulnerable, squarely on the spot, in other words. A doctor, this sage went on, buries his mistakes; the lawyer conceals his in a snarl of legal and complicated verbiage so none is the wiser. But the unfortunate editor! His mistakes are set down in deathless black and white for all the world to see and wonder!

These errors, usually typographical, are by no means all cause for mental agony except to the person who let them slip by. The humorous ones are grist for many a mill, and find their way into the Reader's Digest, for example, under the caption "Pardon, Your Slip Is Showing."

To find these tid-bits when you are looking for them is no easy job, the American Press reports, but a persevering soul, one W. L. Schmitt gathered these as a start for a collection:

Unsettled tonight, snow probable; not much change in temptation.

North Carolina has the largest peanut yield per acre.

The senator is tight on the job in Washington.

Fred Vance, deputy grand exhausted ruler of the Elks, will visit the city Thursday.

No governor in many years has been able to love on the salary paid him.

He was charged with soliciting and accepting bribes.

Mrs. W. . . is enjoying a visit with her mother. She says she may stay all winter.

Mrs. E. . . expects to have a garter removed by the Mayo Brothers.

Bruce Kennedy, when a journalism student at the University of Nebraska, made a study of this "ever-present threat to the editor's peace of mind."

not only are misplaced letters a hazard but words in unhappy conjunction can cause embarrassment as witness the UP dispatch concerning a Miami hurricane, "The mainland is prepared for the sea-son's first big blow as President Truman arrived for a speech to veterans." And a headline in a Washington paper bore, "TRUMAN SEEKS MORE DAM CASH."

And now shall we let Mr. Kennedy disclose more discoveries as his research led him hither and yon?

"Governor Fuller Warren of Florida went back to the hospital where he is recovering from physical and nervous exhaustion" after spending Christmas with his family.

Across the Atlantic a British publication stated: "His Lordship adjourned the court on counsel intimating that there were several pints to clear up."

What usually causes the grayest hair among the advertising managers are sentences similar to this one: "Due to illness of the owner, Milton's barbershop will be operated by a competent barber until the owner's return." Or this advertisement for a dry-cleaning service "Get them in Friday. We will have them back Saturday."

"Readers of an Illinois weekly many have nodded their heads in agreement at this statement: 'The fifth grade chorus sang, 'Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Been.' The Ohio Advocate announced that an eight and one-half pound daughter came to frighten the home of Mr. and Mrs. Brown."

"Society news seems to suffer especially. Here are some examples: 'Miss Opal McNary won first prize for the most original costume at the Hi-Jinx masquerade. Needless to say Miss McNary was quite pickled.' And this from the Septa, Ill. newspaper, Mrs. Bertha Bradley entertained the Ladies Social club. She asked the ladies to come dressed like tramps and that was easy for most of them."

"Then there are those stories and headlines which leave little to the imagination and seldom require it. In this class are: 'During the storm Mrs. T. M. Jones slipped on the ice and hurt her somewhat.' 'WEDDINGS HERE SHOW DROP, ISSUE MORE TRAPPING PERMITS' . . . 'BEAUTY UNVEILS BUST AT CEREMONY' . . . 'GIRL PASSENGER SAYS SHE WAS NOT BEING KISSED; DRIVER FINED FOR CARELESSNESS.'"

Ward's Cookin' Column I am indebted to my old friend, Merrill McClellan, for a copy of the Berlin Journal of Berlin, Wis., which contains the details of what proved a most interesting item at the time it first came out. It is about the Navajo Indian election held last March 4th and 5th for the purpose of choosing council members. Because so many of the Indians can neither read nor write, the ballot was made up with pictures of all the candidates with a square below each picture in which the voter could make his mark. Eighty percent of the legal voters turned out to express their choice, which shows that they appreciated the chance to vote far more than the regular citizens do. It shows that the Indians have more of the spirit of democracy than the people who came here from foreign lands and took their land away from them.

The paper has this to say: "The great white father who has taken the land from these Indians and penned them up in some of the most desolate regions of the southwest, has evidently neglected to supply enough funds for their proper education. Yet these peaceful Indians, who never made war as the Apaches and other tribes did, are willing to adopt the white man's method of government, and through the self-governing method hope to bring a greater advantage to every tribesman. The fact that a large proportion of the tribe came to the polls to express themselves with their votes, proves

Because of the number of contests of this nature, a new type of person has developed in the nation, the professional contestant, who does little or nothing but answer those contests. Many of them make a better living this way than they formerly did, while doing absolutely nothing to help out the economy of the nation. This group has a national organization, its members take a number of special magazines and helps of various kind, and they reduce the average person's chances of winning to almost an absolute zero.

Along with this idea it might be well to make it a misdemeanor or something of the sort for any candidate to distribute cards with his picture on them, thus giving all candidates an even chance at the polls, where the public would see their faces for the first time. Also, this would prevent the tacking up of thousands of election posters that remain long after the election is over to clutter up the landscape. Personally, I get to see all I want to see of most candidates for office by the time election is over without being tortured with having to look at their faces on posters for months after they have been elected or defeated.

Speaking of fishing, and I have been very, very good about leaving it out of this column for a long time. I know that most people do not like to fish, and they don't like to read about fishing. In fact, it is a subject that is not often spoken of in polite circles. Who wants to talk about sitting on the bank of a stream and pulling in the limit of any kind of fish? Who would think of talking about catching an eight pound bass or a six pound walleye? Nobody talks about those things. But the good fish are beginning to bite now, and there seems to be a chance of having good sport this year. Here is hoping that we, and all Quiz readers, will find time to do some real fishing this year, and that we may all have the pleasure of bringing home the limit a few times.

Nebraska Fishing Still Paying Off Northwest Nebraska continued to provide the state with some of its best fishing according to the Nebraska Game Commission's weekly fishing roundup released Thursday.

Top attraction on the northwest scene was Box Butte reservoir, where anglers found good crappie fishing. Bullheads were fair while carp fishing was good. Other good waters in the vicinity were Whitney lake (bullheads and carp), Niobrara river (trout), and White river (trout).

Fishing ranged from fair to good at McConaughy and the lakes in Brown, Rock and Keya Paha counties. From huge McConaughy, Conservation Officer Loren Bunney reports that fishing is generally better at this time of year than at the same time in recent years. "In the past years," Bunney said, "fishing got poor in July and August, but they are still going fairly good at this time."

The catch of walleyes at McConaughy were running larger in size than during the previous week. Bunney commented that it wasn't unusual to see a five-pounder in a string of five. White bass were still striking, but a little slower than the previous week.

The sandhills fishing proved most productive for bullheads, bluegill and perch. According to Officer W. J. Ahern, however, the roads leading to the sandhills lakes are still bad in spots.

Other productive waters were the Platte river (catfish), Elkhorn river (catfish), Fremont state lakes (bluegill), Kimball reservoir (black bass, crappie), Beaver creek (catfish), and Medicine creek (catfish, bullheads).

In fishing for catfish sometime, try using soap for bait. M. H. Wilks of Columbus baited his hook with soap and landed a 10-pound blue catfish.

Glenn Neubert and a party of three, all from Ames, together caught 21 catfish. Foy Rubeson of Fremont took six. Dr. Lorenzen of Benkelman paced the bass anglers with a 5-pound largemouth taken north of Benkelman.

Big Car Race at Valley County Fair Next Week

This is the type of action that those in attendance at the Valley County Fair in Ord can expect to see on Thursday, Aug. 2 and Friday, Aug. 3, when speedway type auto races, featuring the big professional racing machines, returns to the city that once was in national prominence as an auto racing center. Seven event racing programs are scheduled for each of the two afternoons. The fairtime competition will be the first racing sanctioned there by a national racing organization in some years. The high-banked dirt track at Ord is expected to provide some new records during the two days.

Ward's Cookin' Column

They had me in jail once, but they forgot to lock the door. Do you know what I was in there for? It might have been to paint the joint, but that wasn't it. No, I was in there, like a many a man before and since, because I had to have a place to sleep, and none of the regular hotels had room. I wasn't exactly born in a manger, but I did sleep on a cot in the main auditorium of the city jail at Brownsville, Tex. They have had many more noted visitors there, but none who appreciated their hospitality more than I did. Brownsville back in 1916 was not exactly an enjoyable place to be turned loose in without a place to sleep, and they wouldn't let us sleep in the streets. It was warm enough to sleep outdoors at that time, and it was certainly hot in that upstairs room where they had spread out perhaps fifty army cots, no blankets, and all you had to do to get the use of one was to apply for it while there was still room available. The night I was there most of the cots were taken when I arrived, and the locations nearest the windows were gone.

It was hot enough that night to make toast without a toaster. It would have been bad enough to have been cooped up there all alone, but the place was full, and every man was sweating. The place was full, and most of the men were full also. I don't drink, in case you didn't guess it, but I got enough of all kinds of liquor that second hand to last me the rest of my life.

I went down there from camp with a friend, who really made a night of it, as he kept going all night long and was still going strong when I saw him the next morning. At that he probably got more rest running around than I did trying to sleep. Oh, yes, I was in jail, all right, but they didn't lock the door. If they had some of the boys would have been jumping out of the windows to get away from it all.

Not long since I wrote a purely imaginary tale about the time Doc Norris and I went out cooning melons. I knew everybody who read it would get a kick imagining the staid and dignified physician running around at night, pifering citrons and cantaloupes from the neighbors. But the story has a sequel, I mean Sequel. One morning I stopped in at the Highway Cafe with Bob, that's my chauffeur, for a cupacawfee, and Doc and George Allen came in for the same purpose. Seeing me got them started, and you should have heard the "True Confessions."

Doc told a harrowing tale about his experiences in the melon patches of his early years, especially at night. He might have been pouring it on for my benefit, but I think he really thought he cooped all the melons in a radius of five miles of home in those days. That was good, but it is only half the story. Who would ever imagine that the city manager of Ord was once a young fellow who went about at night seeking what he might devour?

I would hardly believe my ears were it not for Bob and Doc being right there to corroborate what I heard. George (that's his front name) Allen sat right there swigging coffee and told of how he, too, fared forth in his youth and sought the solace of the fruit of the vine, the watermelon vine, that is. He was kind enough not to incriminate anybody else, but I gathered from his remarks that there were others with him at the time.

He told how he approached the patch with infinite care, crawled carefully under the fence, felt all around until he found a melon that filled his idea of what a good melon should be. Then, for no good reason at all, George got in a hurry. He figured speed was synonymous with safety, so he really mean time getting under that fence again. He went so fast that he ripped the shirt off his back. The next day he learned that the farmer was hauling the melons out and feeding them to the hogs. And now George Allen is city manager of Ord!

One thing leads to another, and talking of sleeping in jail made me think of that old cop, Herman Rice. I went up the west side of the square the other morning whistling as though my heart would break, and I heard his voice coming from the neighborhood of Beranks, advising me to "put out that noise." Now, I will admit that I whistle now and then, and it may be all right for cops to tell me to stop, but when Herman called my music "noise" that was going just a little too far. He had better look out how he treats me or I will not attend his sales when he gets them started again this fall, as he threatens to do.

One other thing about Herman. There he was, keeping the public from parking in the wrong places while George Dailey and Jim Larcina were doing a fine job of gathering up the summer's accumulation of dirt and sand from the gutter. Now, those boys do not have to be watched when they work, but there was Herman, his gun strapped to his side seeing to it that the boys didn't take time out to rest once in a while. The fact that he has to wear that gun while on duty may have had something to do with it. I sure hope Rice doesn't catch me in devilment of any kind. Even Clarence M. Davis would be unable to get me out of jail.

It has been my good fortune to know all the cops in Ord for the last fifty years and more, and they have been a great lot of officers, of which nobody need be ashamed. Of them all, I believe I liked old Detlef Heuck (Bill's) dad) about the best. He was a popular fellow with the young people, in spite of the fact that they knew they could not put anything over on him. Len Covens and Roy Parsons had the longest tenure of office of any of them, and they were a very efficient pair of cops. Today Harry and Herman will stack up with the officers from any good town in the state.

Just another paragraph, and I will be through with cops. I wonder just what's in a name anyway. After all, it is not the name, but the man behind the name that counts. An item in the Independent this week tells about a fellow, a convict and a "trustee," who was employed at the Soldiers Home. He got into a store, stole pennies, cigarettes and marshmallows. Later he stole a car, stole gas to run it and burned out a main bearing. They caught him because they found some of the marshmallows in the car when they located it. That fellow's name is Robert E. Hall, and he is strictly against the law. Robert G. Hall is the sheriff of Valley county, with a fine record for law enforcement.

I had the fact that people don't live forever brought home to me rather forcibly this week. I have a copy of Harold W. Fought's "Trail of the Loop," and I'm looking through it. In the back he had the biographies of a large number of the pioneers of the North Loup valley, all the way from Scotia to Taylor. There were 73 names from Valley county, 11 from Garfield county, 23 from Greeley county and 12 from Cheyenne county, 122 pioneers in all. Of that list there is one man, and only one, still living. He is Bill Stevens of Loup county. Bill was born in 1910, the year of the discovery of gold in California and he took up his claim in Loup county in 1938. He is still living on that farm.

There was another list which included some of the younger men who were building up the valley at the time the book was published, 1905. In this list were 92 people, and 14 of them are still living. They are: Charley Cornell, George R. Gard, George W. Taylor, Alta Jones and Dr. C. J. Holson, all then of Ord; Walter Sorensen of Arcadia; G. L. Hutchins, Frank Johnson and I. A. Manchester, all of North Loup; Joseph Rusko of Taylor; Dr. Charles M. Weekes of Scotia; and A. I. Cram, Guy Laverly and Dr. Eldon J. Smith of Burwell. Some of these have changed residence in the past 47 years, but they are all living. Doctors and dentists must be healthy people. There are two doctors and two dentists on that list, you will observe.

There are two classes of people in this world, dividing them roughly. They are the steady jobbers and the handy men. It takes perseverance to be a steady jobber, and the fellow who becomes one must love his job, for he is going to be with it a long time. He is financially secure, and, if he manages it right, he may be able to retire some time on what he has laid away. Then there is the other class, the handy men, the men who learn a little about just about every job on earth in the course of their lives. Like the rolling stone, they accumulate little bits, since variety is the spice of life, they ought to get their share of the mustard. He learns to be good at a lot of jobs, but the trouble is that by the time he has learned enough to be really useful, he is too old to hold a job, anyway.

For some time now I have been working out a plan to get rid of some of the difficulties under which an editor labors in writing his copy and getting out the paper each week. It applies to my present job as columnist as well, so I will benefit as much as if I were back at the old job, which I am not and for which I am truly thankful. For example, the REA has simplified itself for the benefit of the writers by using the three letters to mean Rural Electric Authority, or Association or whatever the three letters really stand for. Now, wouldn't it be just too sweet for words to write up a story on REA and have to write those three words out in full every time you came across them?

Well, this is what happens every time the poor editor sits down to write a story for the paper. The chances are that somewhere in that story he will run across one or more words that must be spelled out in full to make sense, words that would make Christofersen and Slobaszewski look like a picnic. For example, if the story is about a married couple, the only way to express it is to use the time-honored "Mr. and Mrs." It takes ten characters to tell you that the man and his wife are included in the story and you have to use shift twice, both times for capital "Ms." How simple it would be if we could only say MM Jones instead, or maybe even mm Jones. I mention this item first because it is the one thing that gives the writer gray hair oftener than any other.

One that always gives me a lot of grief is the one that goes something like this, "Ted Eip, county superintendent." It is possible to spell the person's name in half a dozen letters, but if you spell out the full title it takes twenty letters—count them. Of course, you can use the abbreviation, Co. Supt., but then you have to run the risk of having it come out in the paper Co. Supt. as I have seen it sometimes. Another favorite peeve of mine is "Ed Srb, secretary-treasurer." Of course it can be abbreviated to Secy-Treas, but that requires the shift to the capitals for the abbreviations and also for the apostrophe, so it takes about as long to type it out short as to make it full length.

Most long words can be abbreviated by using the first three letters but the editor who tried that on "association" would be run out of town. The art of writing, like the art of speaking, is to be understood, and there is always the question of whether a person's meaning is clear when abbreviations are used. Luckily for the human race, most of the words that are difficult to write are words very seldom used, such as interparliamentarianism or electrophotomicrography or even leptotarsus declinata. The editor who had to use such words as those in writing the common events of life would certainly be in for a hard time.

This idea of throwing junk into places along the creek to stop the water from washing the land away is a fine thing, when it works. The trouble is, it doesn't always work. With some of the floods we have had in recent years, the force of the water cuts through all opposition and tears out the obstructions, with the result that tin cans, bottles, all other kinds of junk is scattered all the way down to the mouth of the stream. That is just what has happened to Mira Creek. For many years the junk stayed where it was put and did no further harm. More recently the trash has been washed out into the current and is now scattered all the way to the mouth of the creek. Most of it does little harm except to clutter up the beauty of the landscape, but in some places the fishermen have a tough time keeping from getting their lines fouled up. When we consider what an important industry fishing is, this becomes a serious situation. Maybe some system can be worked out whereby the fish can be caught already canned.
