U.P.'s Rolling Museum Scheduled For 10-Hour Showing in Ord Today

A history book on rails comes to Ord today (Thursday) when the Union Pacific's Golden Spike Centennial Expo Train arrives in town.

The train contains two old steam engines like those that met 100 years ago at Promontory, Utah, as well as a mobile museum of railroad and American history. It will be on display from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Ironically, the train comes here one day after a hearing was held to determine whether full-time service at one of the city's two depots—the one operated by the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad—should be eliminated. Another hearing is scheduled Oct. 16 to determine if service at the Union Pacific depot should be scrapped.

And even more ironically, the Expo Train comes to town at the invitation of the Ord Chamber of Commerce, which is active in opposing the railroads in their efforts to eliminate full-time depot service.

In conjunction with the Expo Train's visit, many Ord merchants are offering special bargains to visitors in town. Their ads may be found throughout today's Ord Quiz.

The four-car Expo Train was built by Union Pacific to celebrate the driving of the golden spike at Promontory, Utah, on May 10, 1869, when the Union Pacific met the Central Pacific and forged the nation's first transcontinental railroad line.

UP's Centennial motion picture, "Tracks of the Iron Horse," will be shown free in the Exhibition Car during the Expo Train's stay.

Visitors will see a mobile museum with 19 exhibits and three flatcars carrying steam locomotives and railroad cars from the Golden Spike Era.

Star attractions are the two black and red antique steam locomotives. These "iron horses" are almost identical to the two locomotives that faced each other when the last spike was driven in 1869. They date back to the 1870s themselves, when they began their labors on Nevada's Virginia & Truckee Railroad. They are now the property of Paramount Pictures.

Also on loan from Paramount and refurbished by UP for its Expo Train are an 1869 coach and three 90-year-old cars—a derrick car, blacksmith car, and boxcar. All this equipment came from the Virginia & Truckee, which hauled out $600 million in silver and gold from the Comstock Lode before its tracks were pulled up.

The old equipment sits on 60-pound rail and ties, similar to the track that was laid on the original Union Pacific.

The orange- and tan-colored mobile museum has a circus flavor on the outside with the Golden Spike name splashed across its sides. But inside, there's a serious story to see—the story of a railroad.

The Nebraska State Historical Society prepared the exhibits, using documents, artifacts, and material provided by the Union Pacific. The story begins in 1813 when Thomas Hart Benton, a St. Louis editor, foresaw the need for a transcontinental railroad. It ends with a 10,000-mile U.P. Railroad providing three services—transportation, industrial expansion, and development of natural resources—and looking ahead to its second hundred years.

In the Indian exhibit is the scalp of William Thompson, a U.P. telegrapher who was wounded by desperadoes but lived to tell how he recovered his hairpiece from his fleeing attackers. The train robbers who shot it out with the U.P. also have their nostalgic niche.

Railroad buffs will be delighted by the section on scale models of locomotives, freight cars, and passenger trains from early days to modern. An easy comparison can be made in the growth of U.P. locomotives—from the tiny No. 119 of 1869 to the world's most powerful locomotive, the 6,000-horsepower diesel Centennial of 1969.

Opponents of Depot Closing Outnumbered at Ord Hearing

At a hearing conducted by the Nebraska State Railway Commission in Ord Wednesday morning, officials of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad presented their case for the establishment of a base agency and mobile unit that would serve several communities which presently have a local depot and agent.

The base agent would be located at Loup City with a mobile unit to serve Ord, Burwell and Sargent. Full-time depots in the three latter communities would be closed. CB&Q also proposed to provide service to towns which do not now have a depot or agent, namely Elyria, Comstock, and Aureka.

Appearing for the railroad were W. R. Essex, assistant superintendent, of Lincoln; R. A. Kokes, transportation inspector, Lincoln; and Jack Ulrey, statistician in the accounting department, Chicago. They were represented by R. L. Anderson, attorney from Lincoln.

Protesting the change and represented by Attorney Leonard Cronk were the City of Ord, Koupal & Barstow, Sack Lumber Co., and the Chamber of Commerce.

No witnesses were presented by Cronk. He had planned to call in favor of the proposed change. State Senator Rudolph Kokes addressed the hearing and stated that he wanted to make sure service would be maintained as well, if not better, if the proposed change is approved. He said the mobile unit should be looked into closely.

The hearing adjourned at 12:30 to be resumed in Burwell Wednesday afternoon at 2 p.m.

Duda Sees Best Through Crystal Football

The spell has been broken. In this week's Quiz football prediction contest, there wasn't a single Vancura among the top five finishers. The first two weeks of the season Vancuras finished not only first, but second as well.

Ray Duda is this week's top pickin prognosticator, having picked 21 of 23 games correctly. He missed only when he picked Alliance over Sidney and Lexington over Ogallala.

The 24th game in this week's contest was thrown out because of a scheduling error. The Quiz had Superior playing a doubleheader against both Aurora and Nebraska City. The poor Wildcats had a tough enough time just against Aurora, losing 33-0.

Duda was the only player to pick 21 games correctly, but four others had 20 right choices. The best of that group was Jim Stabz, who inched his way up from fourth last week to second this time. He came the closest to forecasting Albion's runaway over Ord, calling the tiebreaker 24-8. It was actually 54-0.

Other 20-game pickers, in order of best tiebreaker score, were Roy Nelson, Mrs. Roy Nelson, and Bill Earnest.

All of this week's top finishers are from Ord except Earnest, who'll receive his winning check at North Loup if he continues to improve.

Legion Convention Scheduled Sunday

American Legion and Legion Auxiliary members from 43 Central Nebraska posts will crowd into Ord this weekend for Sunday's District 6 meeting at the Veterans Club.

The activities will begin at 10 a.m. with a memorial service. It will be followed by programs on child welfare, Americanism, and rehabilitation. Both Legion and Auxiliary members will participate in these sessions.

A noon luncheon will give delegates a break before they plunge into the afternoon activities, which begin at 1 p.m. A social hour will follow the close of the afternoon meetings, with the evening meal being served from 6 to 7:30.

Dancing to the music of Ernie Kucera will conclude the day-long program.

Rev. Louis Trebus New Ord Minister

Added to Ord's list of newcomers are Rev. and Mrs. Louis R. Trebus. Rev. Trebus is the new pastor of the Bethany Lutheran Church. He replaces Douglas Makhathini who served as temporary pastor the past several months.

Rev. Trebus and his wife Karen moved here last week from Columbus, Ohio where he attended the seminary. Both natives of Ohio, the young minister claims Youngstown as his home. She is from Fairborn. They are now getting settled in the church parsonage located on North 18th Street.

This was an all-too-frequent sight Friday night as Albion blasted Ord, 54-0. Tom Neidhardt is the Albion pass receiver turning on the steam here as a pair of Chants give chase. Ord hopes for better things tomorrow night (Friday) against Aurora. For more on both games turn to the Quiz sports section.

School Bids Close to Estimate; Kansas Company Appears Low

Apparent low bids generally in line with the architect's estimate were accepted on a conditional basis Tuesday night in construction of Ord's new grade school.

Bids totaling $634,500 were approved by the District 5 Board of Education for general construction, mechanical work, and electrical work. The bids are subject to further analysis by the architect, Shaver & Co., to insure that they comply with all specifications and requirements.

Busboom & Rauh of Salina, Kan., apparently will be the general contractor for the project. Hansen Plumbing & Heating of North Platte appeared to be low in the mechanical bidding, and Holdrege Electric of Holdrege submitted the low figure for electrical work.

The total of $634,500 included an alteration from original plans which will cost $11,055. This alteration is a change from an electrically operated air conditioning system to a gas operated one.

Part of the crowd that heard bids read eagerly awaits first opening.

Architect Happy Without the change, the three low bids totaled $623,535. This was slightly more than $10,000 above the architect's estimate, but Herald Holding of Shaver & Co. pointed out that it included some site development costs. In the budget an additional $50,000 was allocated for site development.

Holding, who is chief of design for Shaver, expressed satisfaction at the outcome of the bidding. He indicated that the district should be able — without cutting too many corners — to keep total cost of the building within the $640,000 approved last February by the voters.

Bids for carpeting, kitchen equipment, furniture, and other furnishings were also opened at the special meeting. The board did not accept any of them even on a conditional basis, however, choosing rather to pass them on to Shaver for further evaluation.

More than 50 individuals representing hopeful contractors were present for the opening. A total of 48 companies submitted bids in the various categories, with the "furniture and equipment" area the most popular. Thirteen firms submitted bids in that category.

To Start Next Week Harold Larson, who called himself a "project coordinator," represented the winning general contractor — Busboom & Rauh — at the opening. He told the Board of Education that ground leveling will begin next week and that his firm will have a job superintendent here in 10 days.

Board members and school officials were already familiar with the type work performed by Busboom & Rauh, since the company was also the general contractor for the lunchroom-gymnasium addition to Ord's present high school. That was completed in 1957.

In addition to submitting the apparent low monetary bid, Busboom & Rauh also promised to complete the building in fewer days than any of its competitors. It specified 345 calendar days as the maximum time needed to finish the project.

"If we don't have too bad a winter, we think we can have you in the building by next September," Larson told the board members.

$100 a Day Penalty Earlier the members had considered specifying that the work be finished by the opening of the 1970-71 school year. But they decided not to do so for fear that contractors would raise their bids if they had to meet a school-imposed deadline. Instead, each of the 10 firms submitting general contractor bids were required to state the maximum number of days they would need to complete the job. The times ranged from the winning company's 345 days up to 525 days.

Should it fail to meet its self-imposed deadline, Busboom & Rauh will forfeit $100 to the school district for each additional day it needs. However, provision is made for any time lost because of unusually bad weather or strikes. The contract deadline will be extended on a one-for-one basis for each work day lost because of these reasons. Shaver & Co. will have the final say in deciding whether a day may be considered as lost or not for contract purposes.

Both Holding and Willis Bell, chief of engineering for Shaver, expressed confidence in Busboom & Rauh of Holdrege Electric. They said they had only limited experience with Hansen Plumbing & Heating — the low mechanical firm — but they saw no reason why that company's bid should be rejected.

"Hansen is presently handling the mechanical work on a new hospital we're to build at Ainsworth," Holding said, "and so far we have had no problems."

Although that project is not yet very far along, Bell said the North Platte firm "is going about its job in a workmanlike manner." He added, "Usually if a firm is going to have trouble it starts dragging its feet from the start. As things now stand, I have no reason to suggest that you not accept Hansen's bid."

As for Busboom & Rauh, Holding stated:

"It's a good firm. It's doing work all over the United States for us, and we've had very good relations. Its officers know what to expect of us, and we know what to expect of them."

Coordination between the architectural firm which will continue to ride herd on the project — and the prime contractor should be particularly easy, since both have their headquarters in Salina, Kan.

About Holdrege Electric, Holding commented:

"They've done several jobs for us, including the Platte Community College, and we're real happy."

Plaster Walls While change in the change from electrical to gas air conditioning, the school board turned down a second proposed alteration. That would have substituted sheet-rock walls for plaster.

The change was intended as an economy move, but it didn't work out that way. Instead of reducing its basic figure, Busboom & Rauh said in its bid that it would have to add $9,375 for sheet-rock walls. Some of the other bidders did reduce their figures, but they were still higher than the winning firm's total.

Holding said he thought plaster walls were superior to sheet rock, and because they would also be less expensive he advised against altering the alteration. The board agreed unanimously.

The total bid accepted from Busboom & Rauh was for $374,995. It included a base figure of $373,840, plus $1,155 for the electricity-to-gas alteration.

The Busboom & Rauh bid was $3,405 lower than the next best apparent offer, made by Paul Sen Building & Supply of Cozad. That company's base bid was $384,750, but it was willing to reduce that figure by $7,000 if it could use sheet-rock walls. However, it added $650 for the electricity-to-gas proposal, bringing its best offer to $378,400.

The eight other bids ranged up to a high of $420 after the alterations were figured in. That represented a spread of nearly $70,000 from the bottom bid to the top.

Of the three apparent low bidders, Hansen Heating & Plumbing said he would contact Hansen immediately to determine if the bid was a valid one. However, because the board has already taken action to accept the bid, Holding said the 5 percent surety bond required at the time the bid was submitted would be forfeited if the firm should back out now.

Six other mechanical bids ranged up to a high of $224,003 after the electricity-to-gas alteration was figured. This represented a spread of more than $62,000 from top bid to bottom.

The bidding was closest among the electrical firms, where Holdrege Electric submitted a base bid of $97,695.

These companies also submitted figures for both the proposed alterations, but only the electricity-to-gas change had to be considered. Since the plaster-to-sheet-rock proposal had already been rejected in the general contract, it did not have to be figured for the electrical firms.

Wanted Different Clock Holdrege Electric said there would be no change in its base bid if the board chose gas air conditioning. That of course left its total at $97,695.

It was a mere $2,305 lower than Genera Electric of Geneva. The runnerup firm submitted a base bid of $99,890 with a $190 addition for gas instead of electricity. That brought its total to $100,080.

In a footnote to its bid, Geneva Electric added that it would knock off $2,500 if a standard time clock were used instead of the Simplex system specified. Had the board and the architect accepted that provision, Geneva's bid would have been $97,620 — or $75 lower than that for Holdrege.

Three other bids ranged as high as $118,000, representing a top-to-bottom differential of more than $20,000.

Calvin Bids on Carpet Only one local firm submitted a bid in any category. Calvin Furniture of Ord tried for the Distinguished Service Awards are presented each year to a select group of agents who have made outstanding contributions to agriculture and rural living for a period of at least 10 years.

Perry has been in Extension work for 14 years. He holds Bachelor of Science and Master of Science degrees from the University of Nebraska and has served as vice-president of the State Assn. of County Agricultural Agents.

In between his tenures here and at Hastings, he served as an agent at Fullerton in Nance County.

He trained three county agents who are still active in Extension work.

Tragedy Strikes Twice for Ellis Douthits; Daughter, Granddaughter Both Meet Death

A three car accident near St. Edward Sunday, involving the Jerome Tuma family of Columbus was added tragedy to the Ellis Douthit family.

As members of the Douthit and Hosch families arrived in Cedar Rapids after accompanying the body of Mrs. Imogene Hosch from California they learned of the serious accident, which occurred only a short time earlier.

The Tumas were enroute to Cedar Rapids for a family dinner. Mrs. Hosch and Mrs. Tuma are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Douthit, Sr. of Ord.

Lynn Tuma, 20, died in the Albion hospital shortly after the accident. She was in the car driven by her father and occupied by his wife, Lucille, and two other children Brian, 15 and Tracy 5. Mr. Tuma, Brian and Tracy were dismissed from the hospital this week. Mrs. Tuma has been transferred to the Columbus hospital.

Mrs. Hosch died Sept. 25 in a Van Nuys, Calif. hospital while undergoing open heart surgery.

Funeral services for Mrs. Hosch were held Tuesday morning at the United Methodist Church in Scotia. The services for Miss Tuma have been set for 10:30 a.m. Friday, at the Episcopal Church in Columbus.

Imogene Bernice Douthit was born at Horace on July 14, 1927. She graduated from the Scotia High School as salutatorian of her class. On April 26, 1946 she was united in marriage to Henry Hosch, Jr. To this union were born two daughters, Linda Jean and Sonia and a son Michael.

She is survived by her husband and two children Sonia, 15, and Michael, 7, of Simi, Calif., her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Douthit, Sr. of Ord, two brothers, Ellis Douthit, Jr. and Edwin Douthit of Cedar Rapids, three sisters, Lucille Tuma of Columbus, Bettie Willoughby of San Antonio, Tex. and Verneda Renken of North Platte. A daughter, Linda Jean, preceded her in death.

The Rev. Leonard S. Clark officiated at the 10 o'clock service Tuesday morning. Mrs. M. G. Williams was organist and accompanied soloist Mrs. Rolland Esmann in "How Great Thou Art" and "Going Down The Valley."

Pallbearers were Con Swanson, Verlin Smith, Leonard Murphy, George Ulrich, Maurice Johnson and Gene Bonsall. Interment was in the Mount Hope Cemetery at Scotia with arrangements by T. J. Finn & Sons Mortuary of Greeley.

Colene Vogeler, Merlyn Williams Say Vows In Quiet Family Ceremony at North Loup

Aller baskets of white mums and yellow gladioli flanked the sanctuary of the Seventh Day Baptist Church in North Loup for the Sept. 20 wedding of Colene Vogeler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Vogeler, and Merlyn Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Williams, all of North Loup. The 8:30 p.m. ceremony was solemnized by Rev. Myron Soper and Rev. Duane Davis in the presence of the immediate families. Mrs. Billie Vogeler, sister-in-law of the bride, sang "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer." She was accompanied by Mrs. Soper, who also presented appropriate wedding music during the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride's gown was designed of white satin peau and Venice lace. The basque bodice with high waist featured a mandarin collar, and the long-puffed sleeves were cuffed at the wrists. Venice lace border with satin ribbon insert was artfully placed on the front of the gown, on the sleeves, and bordered the chapel-length mantilla veil which was caught by a camelot matching-lace headpiece. Yellow orchids on a Bible formed the bride's bouquet.

Deb Edwards — attired in a floor-length yellow gown with empire bodice, mandarin collar, and long sleeves — served as maid of honor. She carried a bouquet of yellow orchids.

Kenneth Williams, brother of the groom, was best man.

Carol's Corner

by Carol Leggett

An interesting chat with Eleanore Lenker this week told of a recent vacation she and her husband won't want to forget. The Lenkers always travel with their pickup and camper, taking as many side trips as possible in order to truly soak up the sights of the country.

Their latest jaunt lasted six weeks, taking them first to Glacier National Park and up into the Provinces. Unexpected vehicle trouble necessitated a trip back home where Ted mended the trouble in his own garage; and then they were off again, aiming their sights at New Jersey where friends awaited their visit. Labor Day was enjoyed in New York City with these friends (perhaps a good time to be there as many of the city folks had headed toward the beach for the holiday, leaving the place less congested).

Eleanore was impressed with the beauty and friendliness of the New England states offered, as the Lenkers enjoyed a drive through the White Mountains in New Hampshire, East of Harrisburg, Pa., they discovered three of Ted's cousins at the Lenker Brook Dairy, a pleasant surprise. A swing around Mill Town, Conn., to the cemetery where an ancestor was buried was a "must" in Eleanore's book of places to go. However, because of locked cemetery gates and a high, pointed post fence, the Lenkers did not locate the actual gravestone!

After circling the coast and stopping at Bar Harbor, Me., the traveling Ordites angled on through the Niagara Falls area before returning home. In order to remember these fun times, Eleanore makes jottings of out-of-the-ordinary instances — "so I can tell my kids about them," she says. Her notes this time tell of seeing a woman from Connecticut make room in the rear of the station wagon she was driving to carry home a tumbledweed, evidently a remembrance from the Midwest. Another surprise occurred when a woman driver cruised by in a car gaily splashed with unusual slogans such as "Mother . . . Flour Power" and "Smile . . . God Loves You."

If you are weary after canning so many tomatoes, but still have a few more to do something with, why not try making some Tomato Soup (it will be a welcome treat some winter noon or evening). This recipe has been passed back and forth among several in the area, but in case you haven't heard about it, here it is:

1 peck tomatoes, peeled
1 bunch celery
6 onions
1 green pepper
Chop, bring to boil and add:
½ c. sugar
¼ c. salt
Cook about 5 minutes, then add:
½ c. melted butter
½ c. flour
Stir and cool 5 minutes.
Put into jars. Seal.

I'm wondering why money is called "dough." After all, isn't dough something that sticks to your fingers?

COFFEE CUP PHILOSOPHY: Actually, there is only a slight difference between keeping your chin up and sticking your neck out, but it's worth knowing.

Mena Jorgensen Has Eye Surgery

By Berenice Cornell
Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ahnstedt of Sedwick, Colo., and Chris Hansen were at Mena Jorgensen's Friday evening when lunch was served. Monday Mena was a guest for supper at Mr. and Mrs. Steve Berens, and Tuesday she went to Hastings and entered the Mary Lanning Hospital to have eye surgery. It was to be performed yesterday (Wednesday). Mena plans to spend some time after leaving the hospital with her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Collison of Braning.

Questions
Church services were conducted Sept. 25 by Pastor Ronald Graff of the Evangelical Free Church. Scriptures read included portions of Psalm 1, 66, and 72. A poem entitled "Jesus Christ and We" was also read. The sermon was taken from Micah 6 and was titled "Work With Our God." A Litany of Thanksgiving was read responsively. Mr. Graff left the following questions with the 11 persons who were present to think about: Is your religion your way of life? How much does my religion affect my dealings with people? How can I walk humbly with my God? Are you consistent in the way you believe? Do you try to be relevant with God? Are we honest in our dealings with others? What do I do when it is difficult to walk with my God? He said no one but ourselves and God can answer these questions.

Young Chants Learn Rough Lesson; Albion Barrage Produces 54-0 Win

Passing Yardage	174

A solid licking turned into humiliating embarrassment for Ord Friday night as Albion scored a 54-0 victory over the Cardinals.

The Cardinals ran up a 54-0 victory over the Chanticleers, pouring across 22 points in the last quarter. But despite its lopsided victory, boosting its season record to 3-0, Albion still found itself on the outside looking in when the top 10 ratings were announced this week by Nebraska's two big-city papers.

"We will learn from our mistakes," Coach Chuck Squier of the Chanticleers promised Monday. "If we can't learn from a 54-0 defeat, we might as well give up. That kind of score is not only giving us a lesson, it's driving it home."

Squier said Albion was a good football team, "much better than we thought." However, he was somewhat rankled that few clean uniforms appeared in the Cardinal lineup until just before the final gun.

"No team I've ever coached deserved to get humiliated like that," he said. Despite the 54 points, which was so overwhelming, "the Chants got only two first downs all night and none till the fourth quarter. They had a net rushing yardage of minus 37 and a passing total of 7.

Still, they were very much in the ball game until just before halftime when three Albion defenders bolted through the middle of the line to block a punt and recover it in the Ord end zone. That let the Cardinals go to the dressing room with a 2-0 lead instead of just 14-0, and they used the first 10 minutes of the second half in a long drive that eventually raised the score to 26-0.

After that the touchdowns came thick and fast, and suddenly it was 54-0. Only a penalty in the closing moments kept the score from getting into the 60s, as Albion scored a final touchdown that was called back.

"That third-quarter drive was what ruined us," Squier said. "When we got behind by four touchdowns with just over a quarter to go we started a lot of grab-bag stuff, and they rammed it down our throats."

Although the Chants couldn't move the ball, they stayed respectable in the first half with their defense. On its first possession Albion moved 60 yards to go out front, 6-0. The score came on a 14-yard pass from Chris Nelson, who had a banner night in the airways, to Tom Borer, Ron Levander, who had been heralded as a one-man attack for Albion, ran over the two-point conversion before being injured later in the first quarter. He did not play anymore, but his teammates never seemed to miss him.

"I think Borer was as good as never," said assistant coach Fred Williams of the man who took up the slack. Meanwhile, Squier had highest praise for Nelson, the 6-4 quarterback who apparently had no trouble with a knee ailment that had slowed him the first two games. But it was yet another white-jerseyed back, John Riley, who got the second touchdown. He went over from three yards out midway through the second period to make the score 14-0. That's the way it stayed until just before the half when the blocked punt came.

"We were trying to get on the scoreboard before the half and took some chances we ordinarily wouldn't have," Squier said as he explained events leading up to the third touchdown.

As a result of the chances, Ord lost ground and found itself backed up deep in its own end of the field when fourth-down came. Bill Miller, whose kicking was the one bright spot in an otherwise dismal night, was standing just inside the end zone when his protection gave way. The kick was blocked, and Jerry Fishhammer fell on the ball for the third Albion score.

Despite that kick — which went into the record books as zero — and another which went only 20 yards, Miller would up with a 37-yard punting average. He had eight of 52, 50, 50 and 45 yards to hike the average.

Albion consumed most of the third quarter with the long drive which culminated in its fourth touchdown. Nelson got it on a four-yard keeper.

Thus by the time Ord got possession for its first play of the second half, only two minutes remained in the quarter. Playing catch-up, the Chants then found even more passes than before going astray, as well as fumbles popping loose.

In the last 14 minutes Albion scored on a 23-yard pass from Nelson to Tom Neidhardt, a 66-yard pass from Nelson to Jim Bolin, a 45-yard run by Borer, and a 2-yard run by Nelson. All were first-stringers.

Bruce Hurlbert was the only productive ground gainer for Ord, but he carried only four times as Albion's ball-control and defense gave the Chants few cracks at the ball.

Another Tough foe Awaits Chanticleers

Having to come back from a 54-0 beating against the defending state champion is not an enviable task. But that's what Ord Chanticleers must do this weekend.

The Chants host Aurora, which lost its opener to powerful Cozad but has come back strong to win two in a row. Recovering after losing most of the stalwarts from their top-rated club of 1968, the Huskies lost to Cozad, 23-0, but then blasted Grand Island Northwest, 60-37, and Superior, 33-0.

They're not rated quite yet in this year's state polls, but they're lurking just outside the select circle.

Ord, on the other hand, has lost two in a row after whipping Gotlenburg in its opener.

Jim Naeve puts a rare stopper on Albion ace Chris Nelson.

Loup City Posts First Triumph As Solid Defense Halts Burwell

Loup City spotted Burwell a quick 3-0 lead Friday night, then turned its rapidly improving defense loose to gouge out a 14-8 victory.

The triumph was the first for the Red Raiders this season after two defeats. They evened their Lou-Platte Conference record at 1-1. Burwell is now 0-3 for the year and 0-2 in conference play.

Rod Johnson got the Longhorns off to a quick start when he scored on Burwell's first play from scrimmage, rambling 43 yards. Mark Robinson ran over the two-point conversion, and it looked as if the Longhorns might be going to pick up their second win in two years.

But that was not to be as Tim Eureka, Al Kowalski, and Rog Obermiller led a fired-up Raider defense that kept the home team at bay the rest of the night.

The Raiders cut the Burwell lead to 8-0 at halftime when Mike Rowley ran over from 12 yards out.

Then, early in the final quarter, Bob Guzinski passed 25 yards on fourth down to Obermiller for the winning touchdown. Both conversion attempts failed, but it didn't matter as the Loup City defense took things from there.

Burwell showed a fairly potent running game, picking up 185 yards, but the more balanced Raider attack proved superior. Fumbles hurt both teams, and Loup City in particular suffered from penalties at key moments.

"We must work to eliminate these errors," Coach Don Wagner stated afterwards as he

Blue Jay Rally Fails To Overtake Oconto

Two fourth-quarter touchdown passes were not enough to offset an Oconto's domination of the first three periods Friday night as Elba bowed 28-18, to the Custer County team.

Lynn Jacobson threw Elba's late scoring strikes — for 24 and 12 yards — to Roger Pedersen. Oconto had put the game out of range, however, with 14 points in the third quarter after holding a slim 6-0 lead at halftime.

Tomorrow night (Friday) Elba hosts the vastly improved Loup County Wildcats. Although they lost last week to Halsey-Dunning, 26-14, the Wildcats are probably the most improved team in this area over last season. They won their first two games by shutout after going winless through the 1968 campaign.

Arcadia Boosts Season Record With 24-0 Win

Showing its best form of the season, Arcadia raced past Greeley Sacred Heart Friday night, 24-0.

The Huskie defense was outstanding as it shared in the point-making while holding Sacred Heart scoreless. Pat Murray tackled Greeley's Tom Nordhus in the end zone for a two-point safety to give the defense some unusual recognition.

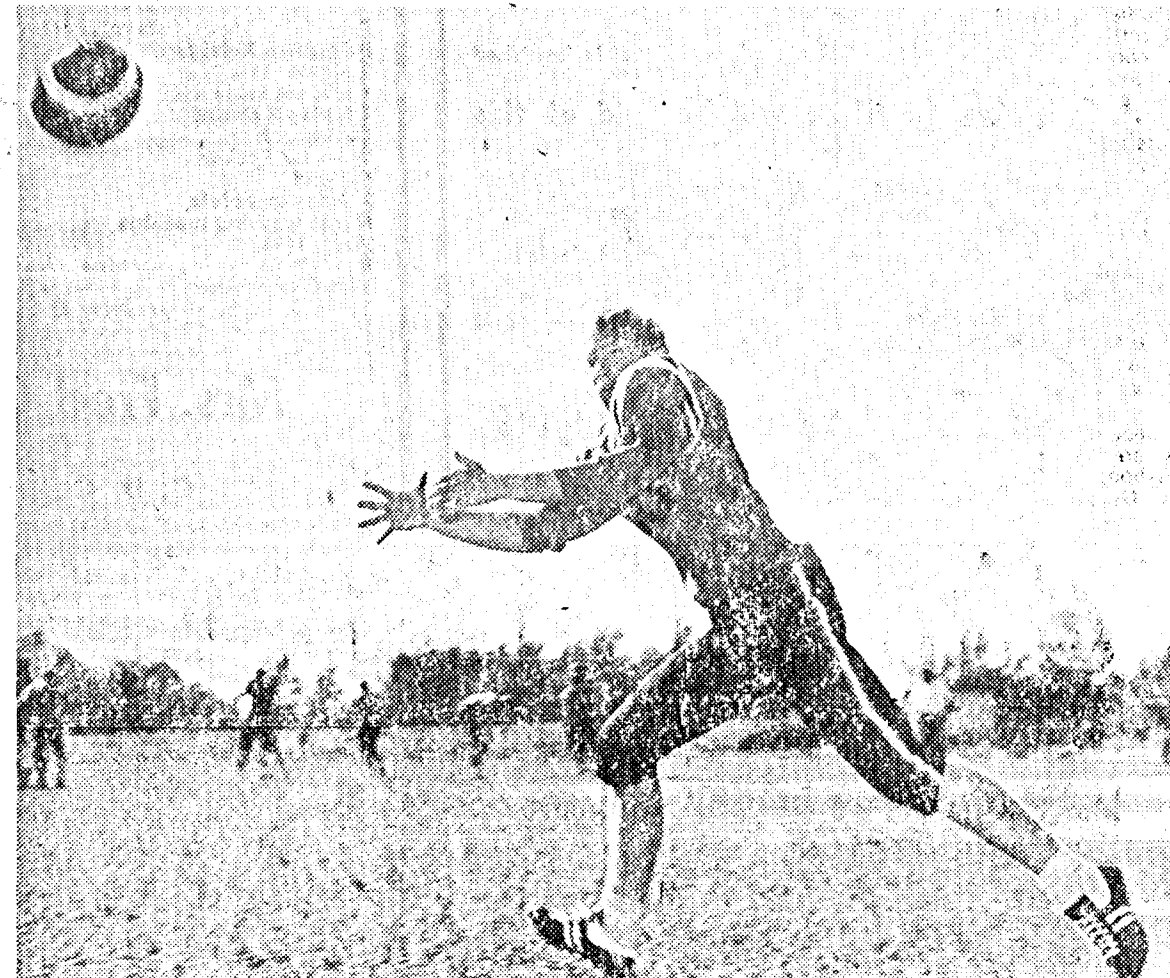

Arcadia touchdowns were split between Dan Hurlbert and Dennis Ohme. Hurlbert has now scored in all three of Arcadia's games, which have resulted in two victories and one loss.

Friday night he ran for touchdowns of 41 yards and 1 yard. Ohme scooted 3 yards for the other score.

The Huskies will take this week off as they prepare for an Oct. 10 battle with Litchfield at Arcadia.

Bronco Passing Attack Produces, But Orchard Takes 38-28 Victory

Lack of depth continued to plague Wheeler Central last week as the Broncos lost, 38-28, to Orchard.

The Bartlett team held its highly regarded foe to a 14-14 deadlock in the first half, but couldn't keep pace after intermission.

Senior Quarterback Tom Majors figured in all 28 points for Wheeler Central as he connected on seven of nine passing attempts, with four of them going for touchdowns. He also ran over one good conversion attempt and threw to Scott Patrick for another.

In three games this year, Majors has now thrown eight touchdowns passes.

Versatile Gene Schmeits, who doubles as backup quarterback for Majors when not playing his usual end position, was the most productive receiver Friday night. He caught three passes and turned them all into touchdowns. The plays covered 15, 17, and 61 yards.

Fullback Jerry Childers got the other Bronco sixpointer on a 30-yard pass from Majors.

Although vulnerable to Wheeler Central's passing attack, the Orchard defense was alert enough to pick up three Bronco fumbles and return one punt for a touchdown.

Randy Wilson was the do-everything man for the Orioles as he scored from scrimmage on a 1-yard run, picked a fumble out of the air and raced 33 yards for another marker, and returned a punt 60 yards for still another. He also ran over three two-point conversions.

Larry Butterfield and Jerry Manning scored the other two Orchard touchdowns, both on short-distance runs.

After three games Wheeler Central now owns a 1-1 record. The depth-sky Broncos have been hit hard in the second half every game.

Those three contests were just a warmup, though, for action in the Sandhill Gateway Conference. That will begin tomorrow night (Friday) with Stuart visiting Bartlett. Both teams are in the Western Division of the conference, which will send its champion against the Eastern Division winner at the close of the regular season.

School Bids . . .

carpeting contract but appeared to be out of range. Its bid of $35,791.80 was more than $6,000 above that of the low firm — Orchard & Wilhelm of Omaha. However, because of possible large differences in quality, Holding requested that his company's carpet experts be allowed to evaluate all bids in more detail before the board made a decision. This too was agreed to unanimously.

Three other companies also submitted carpet bids. Although only three bids were turned in on kitchen equipment, they were extremely close. Springer Fixture & Supply Inc. of Grand Island was some $100 below Buller Fixture Co. Inc. of Omaha. Springer's bid was $14,050.63.

To Hire Local Help

Furniture and equipment was divided into 10 categories, and firms were allowed to bid on any one of them, all of them, or any combination. The board passed a resolution advising Shaver & Co. to evaluate these bids and make recommendations, just as it was to do with carpeting and kitchen equipment.

The bids are good for 30 days, although Holding said the evaluations should be completed within two weeks.

Dr. William Gogan, superintendent of schools, said equipment would be one area where the board most probably would not want to accept the low offer in all cases.

In response to a question, the Busboom & Rauh representative — Harold Larson — said his firm would hire as much local help as is available.

Started in Fairbury, he said it currently has about $16 million worth of construction under contract, including a $3½ million high school in Salina, Kan.; a $2½ million school in Clarksville, Tex.; and a factory in Ellsworth, Kan.

When asked by board member Merrill Mason if this didn't spread the company too thin, Larson answered: "Not if you've got good supervisors."

He said Jerry Wolf, who is just finishing a hospital in Gothenburg, will be the superintendent here.

Larson said that his company originated in Fairbury as Busboom Brothers. That was in 1918, but five years later one of the brothers died in an airplane crash. Joe Rauh later bought into the firm, and he and Frank Busboom have been partners for more than 40 years now.

'It's All Money'

Because the Ord project will be smaller than several others Busboom & Rauh is working on, Dr. Gogan pointed out that "we don't want to be the baby on the end" and receive less than adequate attention.

"It's all money," Larson answered, "whether it's a big job or a small one." He then pointed out that the company is "40 to 50 days ahead of schedule" on the Salina school project and added: "When a company can finish ahead of schedule, that's when it makes money. And that's what we want."

Afterwards Bell, the engineering chief for Shaver, advised the board members and school officials not to become embroiled in day-to-day decisions that will have to be made.

Service Key to Air Conditioning

"Many of you will be out at the site almost every day," he said, "and there's a natural tendency to get involved. But if you make a decision and it turns out to be wrong, the contractor can say it was your decision and you'll be stuck with it."

Holding said that Shaver will have a field man assigned to the project who will act as coordinator. He advised the board members to keep in close contact with him, "and if the contractor asks you for a decision turn him around and send him to us."

He also asked that his firm be notified as quickly as possible should local authorities wish to make any changes.

Aaron Harman, area supervisor for Kansas-Nebraska Natural Gas Co. Inc. and Ivan Sorenson, manager of the firm's local office, both were present and urged the board to accept the proposed change to gas air conditioning.

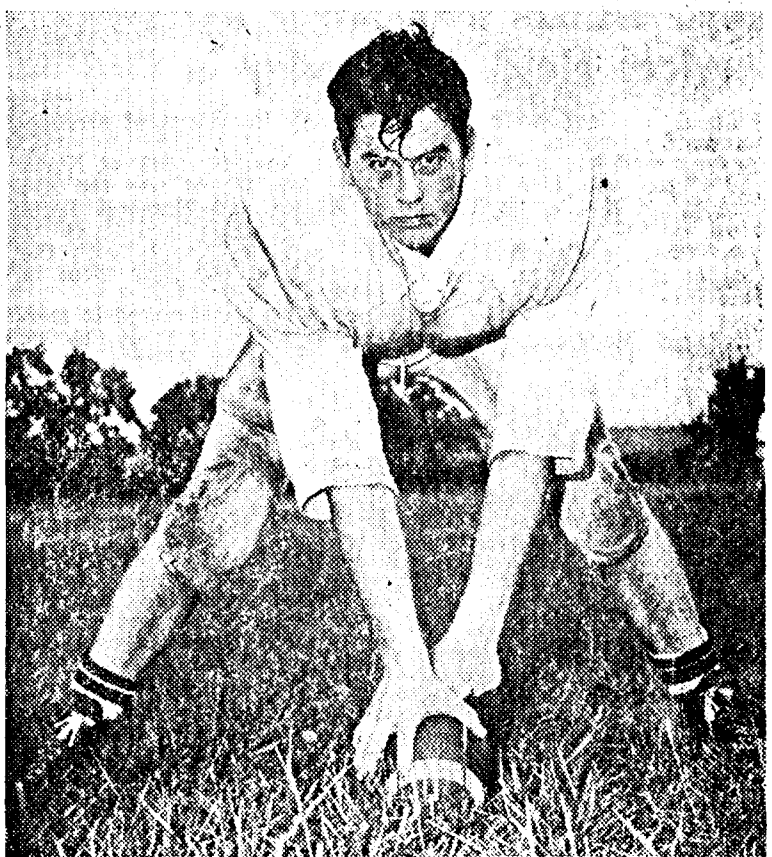

"What we've got to sell is service," Harman said, pointing out that his company will have servicemen available on short notice should any maintenance be required. He said with an electrically operated system a repairman would have to come from Omaha, and that current charges for such service include a $1-a-mile fee both ways plus an hourly rate while the repairman is at work as well as in transit.

Sorenson said Kansas-Nebraska would not charge to service the unit unless parts were needed. He also promised to assist school custodians in learning how to make minor adjustments to the system.

Jaycees Reactivated

Ord Jaycees Ron Rice, Jerry Bauer, and Dale Zadinia attended the reactivation and orientation banquet in Loup City for the Jaycees of that community. Featured speakers were the state president, Dr. Don Blank of McCook, and the vice-president, Lynn Weaver of Grand Island.

Mrs. R. F. Mettenbrink spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pauly, at St. Paul.

Bruce Bergman is a dependable two-way man who has been instrumental in both North Loup-Scottia football victories this fall. The Wildcats bumped Anselmo-Merna, 14-0, in their first outing, then tripped Spalding Academy, 27-14, last week. Tomorrow night (Friday) they'll visit Greeley for a game with Sacred Heart. Bergman also started on offense last year.

Time Growing Short To Rid Cattle of Grubs

By John Schade

Time is short for safe treatment of native cattle with systemic. Treatment should be completed no later than Oct. 15, and Oct. 1 is the preferred date.

1,000 square feet is usually sufficient. The fertilizer should be applied when the grass blades are dry, and the lawn should then be wet immediately after application.

Hogs Need Water
One of the most essential nutrients for hogs is water. About 75 percent of the muscle tissue formed during growth is water. Blood contains 90-95 percent water, and sow's milk is over 80 percent water.

Hogs consume just under two pounds of water for every pound of feed.

Baby-Sitting Clinic Planned This Month

The Ord Jaycee-Ettes will sponsor a baby-sitting clinic commencing Oct. 9 for girls 12 years of age or over. Girls 11 years old also may attend but will not be eligible for a list of qualified baby-sitters to be published in the Quiz.

To qualify for this list girls must attend all meetings and pass a quiz covering all material presented. Meetings will start at 7:30 p.m. and will not last later than 9 p.m.

Women who baby-sit in their homes also have been invited to attend.

The program topics and instructors are as follows:

Oct. 9 — "Child Behavior," Rev. Ronald Griff.

Oct. 16 — "First-Aid Procedures," Dan Johnson.

Oct. 23 — "Holding, Feeding, Bathing, and Diapering a Baby," Stephanie Hurlbert, R.N.

Enrollees will be given their final quiz at the Oct. 23 meeting.

On Oct. 30 there will be a graduation tea and a film, "Occupation: Baby Sitter."

The clinic will be held in Room 108 at Ord High School. To register girls may call 728-5015 or 728-5143. Girls who have already done baby-sitting will be given pointers on questions to ask parents and ways to deal with the child who needs discipline.

Legislative Session Jolts to Close With Public Behind Tax Eight Ball

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Assn.
LINCOLN

Although they staggered to the finish line, the state senators finally adjourned their 1969 session.

Budget problems which plagued the lawmakers throughout the last three months of their session caused a flurry of controversy again on the final day.

But after an awkward moment or two, the problems were settled and the final rap of the gavel ended the longest session in Nebraska's history at 3:21 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 24.

That was the 166th legislative day. The senators had considered 1,440 bills, 859 of which had been enacted into law by adjournment day. Eleven others were passed and sent along to Gov. Norbert Tiemann.

The decision to pass Legislative Bill 1096, the last of the big budget measures, raised the total amount of general fund, or tax-generated, money appropriated to more than $385.7 million.

That could mean a sales tax of about 2 1/2 percent and an income tax of 14 or 15 percent next year.

For a brief period it looked as if L.B. 1096 wouldn't get passed — at least with the 33 votes some senators were determined it should receive.

It came up for its showdown vote on the morning of the last day. And on the first roll call the $17 1/2 million bill carried an emergency clause, which would make the appropriations effective at once.

The emergency provision required at least 33 votes — the same number needed to avoid constitutional questions about appropriations exceeding the governor's recommendations.

The vote was 30-9. The bill had failed, and for a while a stalemate existed. But finally it was offered again — this time without the emergency clause.

The vote, to the surprise of nearly everyone involved, was 33-4.

Although there would be administrative difficulties because the appropriations wouldn't be valid for three months, the constitutional requirement had been reached.

Failure of two other budget bills to earn 33-vote support on passage put them in legal never-never land. An omnibus capital improvements bill and a measure authorizing the University of Nebraska to construct a new home economics building both passed with fewer than 33 "yea" votes.

The courts will be asked to hand down a final decision on the validity of those appropriations.

Tiemann Gives Good Grades
In a message to the lawmakers

ers just prior to adjournment, Tiemann praised them for "reviewing and passing such a great amount of far-reaching legislation."

"We had some disputes this session," he acknowledged. "I think that is natural. No session as long as this one involving as many bills could be free of such disputes."

"As governor, I feel strongly about the power of the executive branch as outlined by the constitution. I recognize that you, as senators, feel just as strongly about the powers of the legislative branch."

"In such instances," he said, "our disputes can be traced to differences of opinion concerning the relative powers of these two branches."

"Fortunately, the framers of our constitution provided an arbitrator for such disputes, namely the Supreme Court. Over the next few months I'm sure that the court will decide many of these disputes."

Tiemann said the bill passed by the 1969 session which was "most important" to him was the open housing bill.

The governor also singled out legislative approval of a package of highway bills as a significant accomplishment. Those bills set up management and financing procedures designed to bring every road in Nebraska up to standard within two decades.

"Future generations will benefit from your foresight in this field," he said.

Also winning gubernatorial praise were bills dealing with penal corrections, investment of state funds, personnel, mental health, reorganization of government, state planning, and "many other areas."

Tiemann said many of the new laws "not only will provide better service to the citizens of our state, but will permit long-run savings of tax dollars."

After describing the session two years ago as "excruciatingly difficult," the governor said the current session "necessarily built itself on the foundation of that earlier session and will be judged historically in relationship to that session."

"A flood of legislation has been urged upon you by your constituents, a flood that probably became as large as it did because of last session's focus on fewer and individually more momentous bills. You have survived that flood well."

THE Ord Quiz

Pass the Hat

We knew Ord was not overly popular with the Nebraska State Game and Parks Commission after the city failed earlier this year to lure the state agency here. But we're just now starting to realize how unpopular we've become.

Each week the Game Commission sends a packet of publicity materials to the various newspapers throughout the state. This week the Quiz packet arrived with six cents postage due.

Oh well, we see where the State Building Commission has refused to give the City of Lincoln permission to go ahead with the headquarters building it so generously offered the Game Commission earlier this year. That offer, you'll remember, came only after Ord and several other out-state communities offered to take care of the Game Commission in a decent manner.

The reason for the holdup is that President Richard Nixon has announced a cut-back in federal construction funds (which, by the way, are federal taxes paid by rural Nebraskans as well as city dwellers).

So maybe the Game Commission and the City of Lincoln need that six cents to go in their building fund. If so, they can have it with our best wishes. It won't break either the Quiz or the City of Ord.

Protecting the Innocent

Again we find it necessary to point out that the editor and/or publisher of the Quiz—and they alone—are responsible for editorials appearing herein.

Usually other persons do not even know the subject matter of an editorial until it appears in print, much less specifically what will be said. That was definitely the case with regard to the recent piece on the Central Nebraska Community Action Program.

We therefore request that any person with complaints about an editorial's subject matter or content contact either the editor or the publisher.

This request is made to protect the innocent.

'Just Like His Dad'

The following poem was passed along by Sheriff Clarence Fox. We think it bears repeating.

*Well, what are you going to be, my boy,
When you have reached manhood's years?
A doctor, a lawyer, or actor great,
Moving through to laughter and tears?
But he shook his head, as he gave reply
In a serious way he had:
"I don't think I'd care to be any of them;
I want to be like my Dad!"*

*He wants to be like his Dad! You men,
Did you ever think, as you pause,
That the boy who watches your every move
Is building a set of laws?
He's moulding a life you're the model for,
Ask whether it's good or bad
Depends on the kind of example set
To the boy who'd be like his Dad.*

*Would you have him go everywhere you go?
Have him do just the things you do?
And see everything that your eyes behold,
And woo all the gods you woo?
When you see the worship that shines in his eyes
Of your lovable little lad,
Could you rest content if he gets his wish
And grows to be like his Dad?*

*It's a job that none but yourself can fill;
It's a charge you must answer for,
It's a duty to show him the road to tread
Ere he reaches his manhood's door.
It's a debt you owe for the greatest joy
On this old earth to be had;
This pleasure of having a boy to raise
Who wants to be like his Dad!*

Geranium Joe Fellers Say Congress Should Get Busy, But Doing Nothing Just Might Be Better

Vietnam

There have been additional developments within the last week to de-escalate the war in Vietnam—primarily President Richard Nixon's announcement to bring home 35,000 additional American fighting men. On top of the 25,000 men already returned, this will make a total of 60,000.

In addition, the President has canceled both the November and December draft calls which totaled 32,000 and 18,000 respectively.

Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird has also announced a reduction of personnel in all branches of the military.

I am sure that Americans everywhere, who heartily support not only the new cutbacks, but also the statement of the President to the world, "that the time for meaningful negotiations has therefore arrived."

Student Loans

The House of Representatives last week passed the Student Loan Bill which will allow banks to participate in the guaranteed student loan program.

This program has been in effect for some time, but had a ceiling of seven percent on the interest. In view of higher interest rates prevailing today, banks were reluctant to continue making loans at seven percent. The new legislation allows an increase of three percent over the present seven percent maximum interest rate.

Many hundreds of thousands of students have been assisted in attending college through this program.

Automobile Registrations

The Department of Transportation this week estimated that there would be a total of 104,702,000 motor vehicle registrations in the United States by the end of this year. This is an increase of 3,662,887 over 1968.

Nebraska figures, according to the department, showed a total of 909,123 registrations during 1968, or an increase of 2.4 percent. In 1968 the state registered 19,113 motorcycles, and the 1969 estimate is 20,460.

Estimates of future increases are almost astronomical, and will require the construction of additional high-speed highways in order to handle the traffic.

Counting that money before we get it is another way we worry about things that usually work themselves out, Joe said.

He recollected back when he was a young feller, folks had just three things to worry about—religion, starvation and the tariff. Nowadays, the government feeds them that ain't got plenty to eat, religion don't seem so urgent on a full stomach, and nobody ever heard of the tariff.

Richard Lukesh told the fellers there still is a heap of things you can find to worry about in this country, if you put your mind to it, and you don't have to go to Washington or Lincoln fer 'em either.

Along about this time of year, Richard allowed, he likes to do a little hunting. But said he's always worried about getting a load of buckshot from some of them pleasant hunters who shot at anything that moves.

The discussion got out of hand after that, Mister Editor, and the fellers started worrying about such things as how lipstick won't stay on a gal's mouth and it won't come off a feller's shirt.

Personally, I didn't take no part in that kind of worrying. My old lady says when a feller gets my age he ain't nothing but a maintenance problem, and I have enough worries trying to keep body and soul together.

Yours truly,
Geranium Joe

Dear Editor:

Aren't you rather proud to report so many of our youth going on to various colleges and universities? We really like to read about youth who have ambition and desire to improve their lot. So very often the news media have nothing to say of stable and ambitious youngsters, but great headlines for the minority who stir up trouble, riots, and treasonous acts.

Why did the news media have so much to say of the one-and-a-half hour speech by the controversial Dr. Benjamin Spock at the University of Nebraska last week?

As reported by a Lincoln television station, Spock said in effect that the youth should not fight as our country asks but instead should fight the authorities who ask them to serve. He also gave the impression that this nation is all wrong, and the worst part of it is the F.B.I. It sounded very much like treason, and how did Spock get out of prison so soon as he was convicted of anarchistic acts in Massachusetts? He surely knows, as the listeners do, that the F.B.I. is the best law enforcing body of any nation in the world, and it protects the rights of the people. Even freedom of speech.

Now how about hearing more of our fine youth who keep their moral, Christian, and patriotic cool in spite of some instructors and lecturers who teach anarchy and such that sounds un-Christian and unpatriotic. These youth are in the majority, so I'd like to hear and read about them the majority of the time.

Mrs. Esther Williams
North Loup, Neb. 68862
(Editor's Note: Dr. Spock was convicted of conspiring to obstruct the draft, but the conviction was later overturned by a United States Court of Appeals.)

KERRY ON

—freaking out—

At my most recent count, I've talked to about 38 high schools in Nebraska during the past year and another 32 groups of young people not included in the high school assemblies.

For a while I thought I'd either talked to every group in the state—or crossed the line of communication that puts the over-30s out of hearing with today's young people.

Slowly the invitations are starting to come in again. Nothing could make me happier! If I said it once, I've said it a hundred times—there's nothing more rewarding than working with today's youth.

If you wonder where you fit into the complexities of the world, get involved in youth work! That's exactly the problem confronting these young people—finding their place in the world and what it's all about. If you learn anything at all, it will be about YOURSELF!

Last week's Time magazine had a cover story on drugs. Time neither condones nor condemns the use of drugs and other escape mechanisms used by BOTH adults and youth alike.

As I pondered the closing paragraphs of the article, I couldn't help but think of my own discussions with young people today. Much as a lecturer on drugs discovered in his talks to high school students, these young people are not so much concerned with use of drugs as with finding a greater challenge that will "turn them on."

Following each talk I give on alcoholism, the young people don't want to know so much about that problem as they do with the problems of life itself. Little did I stop to realize it, but the talk seldom centers strictly on drinking. Of more concern to these youth are the problems their own parents can't seem to face—moreover solve!

As Time states, education on the problem of drugs is one good way to start combating the problem. But where do you start the "education?" An ad recently put out by the National Institute of Mental Health pictured a litter of cocktail glasses, pill bottles, and an ashtray overflowing with cigarette butts, asking parents: "Ever wonder why your kid doesn't take you seriously when you lecture him about drugs?"

Though I never got "turned on" with drugs, I turned out many times using alcohol. The motive of "escaping" from a complex and frustrating world was still the same. It hasn't changed. Drugs or booze, the user is still "freaking out" on the uncertainties of an arduous process of mending the social and political ills of the world.

I fully concur with Time's summation that "the goal probably should not be to eliminate drugs entirely (nor booze), but to control them and diminish their allure by offering the only valid alternative—a life of challenge and fulfillment."

Rochester

ROCHESTER, Minn. — This whole town of Rochester is dedicated to health. In every way the sick are considered, and considered first.

- Curbs are cut away so that wheel chairs can slide across the street smoothly.
- Traffic signals are carefully set.
- Automatic doors move gently — and stay open a goodly spell, crutch and cane traffic doesn't have to hurry.
- Doormen help invalids in and out of cars.
- Wheel chairs are available everywhere, and orderlies to push them.
- At the Mayo Clinic, at the hotels, at the hospitals, attendants are ready to help. They are carefully trained.

There is a big IBM plant here, which hires hordes of people.

The health business also hires thousands. Young girls and men are delighted to get a chance with the Mayo Clinic, or with St. Mary's or Methodist Hospitals. They should be pleased, for not only are they beautifully trained, but after a certain period of employment their college tuition is paid — sometimes in part, sometimes in whole.

Rochester is very proud of its junior college. Many young aides are working until they gain help with their tuition. It's a wonderful program.

Rochester has been aided in other ways too by the Mayos.

There is a fine symphony orchestra here, much musical interest.

There is a fine art gallery also, and would-be artists are welcomed. For example, the halls of this hospital and of most rooms have a pleasant picture and if you shouldn't care for it, a cart comes by weekly to offer you a choice of other art efforts. You may trade.

The Mayo Clinic itself — 20 floors of it — commissioned vast murals, each different, each interesting and suitable. There's a big one on each big wall, mostly by noted artists. Tours through the building point them out to visitors.

To those who need help, this is a beautiful town.

The Scott Report

People's Attitudes Due for Renovation Under New 'Model Cities' Plans

By Paul Scott

WASHING-TON—If government social planners get their way, the multi-billion dollar Model Cities program will be used to finance much more revolutionary objectives than the rebuilding of American cities.

Several programs contained in pilot projects now being considered by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) provide for use of federal funds to change values and attitudes of residents in entire communities.

The "social engineering" will be attempted through controversial projects ranging from "sensitivity training" for community leaders, teachers, social workers, and police to federally financed art, theater, educational, and health programs.

A striking illustration of the new programs to change people as well as cities is the one being proposed for Wichita, Kan. It recommends that a sensitivity training laboratory be established there during the proposed five-year rebuilding program.

The Wichita plan provides for employment during the first year of "outside" workshop leaders qualified in sensitivity training, such as those certified by the National Training Laboratory, to handle the job of changing values and attitudes of city residents.

"The format for such workshops," the proposal states, "would be to hold them in residential facilities far removed from the Wichita area for three days at a time."

Since the Wichita Model Cities plan places part of the blame for many community ills on the conservatism of its residents, this conservatism is one of the city's "hang-ups" that the sensitivity training sessions will be designed to change.

As in many of the other Model Cities programs under consideration by HUD, federally financed art and theater programs are to be used in Wichita as "social engineering" weapons to encourage "new goals and objectives" for the residents.

Significantly, the Wichita plan notes:

"Plato, a great philosopher, was especially sensitive to the impact that art can have upon a society, when he observed 2,400 years ago in 'The Republic' that changes in the style of poetry or music will ultimately create changes in the political and social realm. Shelly, in agreement, wrote that 'poets are the unacknowledged legislators of the world.'"

"In our time it may well be that Elvis Presley, Bob Dylan, and the Beatles have been a prime catalyst of social change or that the film and television media are the real revolutionary forces in our world."

Changing the Schools

Education programs under the Model Cities projects are being shaped by government social planners to cover ways of bringing about changes in local school curriculum while reforming teaching techniques and providing new school buildings.

Under several of the Model Cities programs, communities will be offered federal aid and encouraged to develop "black studies, sex education, and sensitivity training" courses for high school students.

Health programs under several of the Model Cities proposals are being designed to vastly expand the government's birth control services, making them available to both married and unmarried women.

The Wichita plan includes a bold new experiment in socialized medical care for inner-city residents. Under this plan, 1,000 families (representing approx-mately 3,500 persons) with incomes ranging from $3,000 to $6,000 will be selected to receive medical and dental care services partially paid for by the federal government.

Families with incomes from $3,000 to $3,999 would pay 25 percent of their medical and dental costs while the federal government would pick up the tab for the other 75 percent. Families in an income range from $4,000 to $4,999 will split the costs, while families in the $5,000-to-$5,999 bracket will pay 75 percent with the federal government picking up the rest.

For prescription drugs, the experimental program calls for the government to split the cost with each of the 1,000 families.

The cost to U.S. taxpayers for financing the program during its first year is estimated at $1,500,700.

If this medical-care program is well received in Wichita, HUD officials are planning to recommend that it be adopted in other cities with President Richard Nixon proposing it at the national level in 1972.

It may be remembered that the President's proposed guaranteed income plan was generated by a similar experimental program under the government's anti-poverty agency.

Preparing the Way

One of the most interesting innovations in most Model Cities programs now under consideration by HUD is a provision to permit 18-year-olds to vote and serve on neighborhood councils.

These councils, which are stirring up considerable controversy, are locally elected groups designed to increase citizen participation in programs and decisions of Model Cities projects.

Inclusion of the 18-year-old voting privilege in the Model Cities program is expected to generate new pressure at the city level for lowering the state voting age requirement from 21 to 18.

Cities applying for Model Cities funds are being urged by the government social planners to include in their rebuilding proposals a program for establishing local civilian review boards over the police.

Other programs being pushed under the Model Cities cover would involve additional police control. They include projects urging the preparation of "situation manuals," which offer guides for police officers dealing with minority groups, and sensitivity training programs for all officers.

Making Ends Meet

The Labor Department reports that students at a number of universities are going to school on jobless pay. Little-known loopholes in laws of many states allow students who earn more than $800 during vacation to file for unemployment compensation under certain conditions. Some are drawing up to $50 a week.

At present not many students know of the loopholes, so few take advantage of it. But some industrial-relations professors at the big universities are encouraging students to sign up, if they're eligible for checks.

Their argument is that it helps students pay the cost of their education without borrowing against future pay.

Early requirements are increasingly commonplace. Almost half the men who retired under Social Security in 1968 were not yet 65 — the age for retiring with full benefits. The Social Security Administration reports that most who field for early retirement (at an average 17 percent reduction in benefits) were not regularly employed at the time and were unable to get full-time work. Others had accumulated enough personal reserves to retire without worrying about reduced Social Security checks.

Bobbles by Bertha

The Don Clement family came up from Kearney Saturday and after a choir session and visit with the George Coxes of North Loup they spent the night with us. Sunday forenoon my niece Joyce, her husband Dick, and their boys John and Jeff of McCook visited us. The boys soon grew tired of listening to the big folks chatter and went outdoors where our three grandsons were working with minibikes. What fun!

In the afternoon the Ken Clement family came out and grandson Tom joined the apple pickers (Don and his boys). Cindy thought picking small gourds more to her liking. Grandson Rex put the seeds in the garden last spring, and the result was unusual shapes in orange or green, or both. Some with shiny red crab apples and an ear of yellow corn in a brown wooden tray, make an attractive arrangement for my table. Two sets of grandchildren were making similar plans for their homes.

George and Mary Bell also stopped by for a chat. And then it was evening.

Contacting Christ's Blood

Romans 6:3 "Know ye not, that so many of us as were baptized into Jesus Christ were baptized in his death?????????"

Strange but true, there are still people who do not know that when they were baptized they were baptized into his death. Stranger yet, is the fact that a great many of them claim to be Christians. All fundamental Christians believe as the Bible teaches that it is Christ's blood which takes away the sin of the individual. However, I am shocked at the few and when I say few I mean few, who can point to a verse of scripture to prove this important doctrine. When I say few, I am talking in terms of about 1%.

In my study of the Bible I have found that there is only one verse & one verse only which shows HOW, WHEN and WHERE the individual comes in contact with Christ's blood. The scripture text, Romans 6:3, is that verse of scripture which shows we contact Christ's blood or his death in any other way. In fact, some people have offered a $100 reward to the first person who can do so, but to date after scores of years no one has been successful at it.

Now I say his blood or his death. The reason being that it was in his death that he shed his blood. Therefore, to come in contact with Christ's death one automatically comes in contact with his blood. And Paul says without any reservation or hesitation that we contact Christ's death when we are baptized into Christ. And who, with any amount of intelligence is going to argue with the Apostle Paul.

Some people do not interpret Romans 6:3 to mean this. But let it be understood, I'M NOT INTERPRETING ROMANS 6:3, I'M QUOTING WHAT IT SAYS. The Bible means what it says and it says what it means. And it says "KNOW YE NOT, THAT SO MANY OF US AS WERE BAPTIZED INTO JESUS CHRIST WERE BAPTIZED INTO HIS DEATH!"

When this verse of scripture upsets man-made doctrine those who hold to that man-made doctrine immediately fall back on the crutch that Paul is speaking of a spiritual baptism, the baptism of the Holy Spirit. Indeed, I do believe that it is a spiritual baptism and more important the scriptures testify of that same doctrine. However, to say it is a baptism of the HOLY Spirit is to do so without careful examination of the word baptize.

It seems strange that seemingly religious people will quickly resort to a crutch to hold a doctrine that cannot be proved. I trust that they would do so out of ignorance. For anyone to purposely twist the scripture to support man-made doctrine is to become a servant of the devil and not of Christ. It is to be a wolf in sheeps clothing.

I never have and never will (with God's help) be guilty of the sin of teaching and preaching a doctrine which cannot be found in God's holy and inspired word. I'm sorry to say that it has been my misfortune to be confronted with people who believe that by faith you contact the blood of Christ; yet have not been able to produce a scripture verse to prove that doctrine. GOD HELP US WHEN WE PREACH, TEACH & BELIEVE A DOCTRINE THAT CANNOT BE FOUND IN THE BIBLE.

To be honest, baptism is not what saves you. It is God's grace. No matter how much faith you have, or how many times you've repented and confessed Christ and have been baptized—none of these will save you by themselves, for Paul wrote to the Ephesians saying, "For by grace are ye saved". Of course that grace comes about through faith & obedience but even then it is still God's grace that saves the individual.

Baptism is the avenue by which you contact Christ's blood. Christ's blood is that which washes away your sins—not the water. Sin is that which will keep you from spending eternity in Heaven. And right now I want you to answer this question, "Am I ready for eternity?" If you're not, now is the day of salvation. Now is the time to make that decision for Christ.

Don't get alarmed, hunters, those are only blackbirds. But they're a sure sign that another bountiful harvest is near for farmers in the North Loup Valley. This is a milo field near Elyria, and it's thick with birds feasting on the ripening grain.

Farmer Banquet Planned Oct. 16

Valley County merchants will pay their respects to area farmers Oct. 16. That's the date of the annual Farmer Appreciation Banquet.

This year's banquet will again be held at St. Mary's Auditorium in Ord. Farmers may pick up their free tickets at either of the banks in Ord, the North Loup or Arcadia bank, Janda's Liquor in Ord, or from individual merchants at Arcadia. The county's businessmen are picking up the tab.

The banquet will be a stag affair.

Dr. Donald Clifton, a professor of educational psychology at the University of Nebraska, who doubles as vice-president of King's Food Host, USA, will be the guest speaker. Dr. Clifton is currently on leave from the university.

Sod House Society To Convene Sunday

All history-minded persons of the North Loup Valley are invited to the 10th Annual Meeting of the Nebraska Sod House Society scheduled for Sunday, Oct. 12 in Ord.

The sessions will be held at the Ord Elk's Club with registration beginning at 9:30 a.m. First on the program at 10:30 a.m. will be a song and worship service conducted by the Rev. Kenneth J. Bunnell, pastor of the Ord First Presbyterian Church. The day's activities include the showing of slides by Dr. and Mrs. Glen Auble, taken from Nebraska and Iowa during the past five years and western and folk singing by Ben and Gaye Cowring of Lincoln. The afternoon feature will be a tour of Fort Hartuff. A noon meal will be served at the Elk's Club.

According to Dr. Glen Auble, local chairman, attendance at these meetings usually nears the 100 mark. Original qualifications for membership included that a person must be born in a sod house; lived in a sod house or attended school in a sod building. However, today, anyone interested in history is welcome to participate.

Two sod houses reportedly still stand in this area — one on the Phillip Dowse farm three miles southeast of Comstock where Mr. Dowse was born, the other nearer to Arcadia, situated about five miles west of the village.

Youth Activities, Other Subjects Discussed at Legion Convention

Approximately 275 men and women gathered in Ord Sunday to discuss and make suggestions for improving the various youth programs sponsored by the American Legion and Legion Auxiliary. Joint meetings attended by both Legion and Auxiliary members were also conducted on the subjects of Americanism, child welfare, and rehabilitation.

The occasion was the District 6 convention of the Legion and its Auxiliary, held at the Veterans Club.

Among the youth activities the Legion sponsors is a junior baseball program. County Government Day, Boys State, and a new program called "Law and Order for Youth." Youngsters will gather in Lincoln for the latter activity, which will be coordinated with the Nebraska State Patrol.

Auxiliary sponsored projects include scholarship assistance to girls entering nursing, Girls State, and help with hospital functions.

The day-long activities were capped with a dinner and dance. Mrs. Gerald Green entertained after dinner with an accordion solo, and she accompanied Mrs. Bill Meese and Jim Ochsner in a presentation of their award-winning musical scene from "Carousel."

Earlier the Kings of Clover, 4H purple ribbon winners at the State Fair, had entertained during an afternoon ladies meeting.

The convention was hosted by Post #38 from Ord. Post #285 of North Loup presented the colors opening the convention, and Auxiliary Unit #299 of Spalding led a joint religious and memorial service.

Nebraska's State Tax Rates Defined At 2 1/2% on Sales, 13 on Income

By Melvin Paul
The Nebraska Press Assn.

LINCOLN — Starting Jan. 1, Nebraska's sales tax rate will be 2 1/2 percent and the income tax levy will be 13 percent.

The new rates — up from 2 percent and 10 percent — were set last week by the State Board of Equalization.

In what is officially described as a mechanical procedure, the board took the money needs as defined by the legislature's budget and found tax rates which would produce the right amount. Here's how Tax Commissioner Murrell McNeil explained it to the board:

Start with $346 million as a carryover balance. Add an expected $102 million in revenue from miscellaneous taxes (such as liquor and cigarette taxes) through the 1969-71 biennium. That's $136.6 million.

A 13 percent individual income tax is expected to bring in $128.6 million more. The sales tax at 2 1/2 percent will account for an additional $159.3 million. The corporate income tax is slated to yield $17.1 million at a 2.6 percent rate.

The grand total now is $441.6 million to meet expenses authorized for the two fiscal years of the 1969-71 biennium.

Now subtract a total of $55.4 million. Of that total, $15.9 million represents sales tax revenue on motor vehicles, which is to be credited to the highway program; $20 million for sales and income tax refunds; and $19.5 million in aid to cities and counties.

That leaves $386.2 million in cash available for spending on other appropriations during the biennium.

One of the problems in figuring tax rates, according to officials on the commissioner's staff, is that taxes are computed on a calendar-year basis, while spending is on a fiscal-year schedule.

Both sales and income are tied closely to the health of the economy, so predictions of what various rates will yield for the treasury are really estimates of what Nebraska's economy will be like in the coming year.

McNeil said the expected sales tax return is based on a growth of 8 percent per year in sales. However, he warned that this "is somewhat optimistic, particularly in view of construction cutbacks, high interest rates, scarce loan money, and a general tightening of the economy."

If Nebraskans don't buy as much as expected, for these and other reasons, revenue from the sales tax won't reach the projected totals.

On the income tax side, the commissioner's statistics are figured from an annual growth rate of 8 percent. That means personal income for Nebraskans is expected to be 8 percent greater next year than it has been in 1969.

"Due to the progressive rate structure of the federal income tax, upon which the Nebraska tax is based, receipts from this source," McNeil said, "will tend to increase at a somewhat faster rate than receipts from the sales tax."

The corporate income tax is fixed by law at 20 percent of the rate for individual income tax. That means the rate for 1970 will be 2.6 percent.

In figuring what a 2.6 percent rate will bring in as tax revenue, McNeil said the statisticians anticipated a growth rate of only 2 percent. That isn't as large as in previous years.

Rates Set Early

Under a new law adopted by the 1969 legislature, the equalization board had until Nov. 1 to set the sales and income tax levies. But Gov. Norbert Tiemann and other administration officials said all the information they needed to establish the rates was available, so they did the job early.

Almost 5,000 persons viewed the Union Pacific Expo Train while it was in Ord last week. The official count for those going through the exhibition car was 4,707. Many of the boys viewing the historical exhibits were intrigued with the scalp of William Thompson, a U.P. telegrapher who lost his hair but lived to tell about it — and even recover the scalp from a Cheyenne Indian who took it. David Bills shows a friend exactly where he thinks the knife fell. The young ladies were impressed with more refined displays, like the silver dining utensils used in an early-day passenger train. That's Bonnie Hornickel viewing them below.

Fines for School Stop Light Violations Will Stick; Building Code, New Police Car Occupy Council

Those controversial stop lights near Ord High School proved to be only temporary, but the fines assessed for running them apparently will be permanent.

The subject was discussed at Monday night's City Council meeting, and Mayor Bill French said officials in the Traffic Division at the State Department of Transportation had advised him that violators were responsible for paying their fines. Those same officials directed the city to withdraw the red stop lights and change them to yellow caution lights.

However, Mayor French said that they did not declare the red lights "illegal."

"They said they wanted to make school lights uniform throughout the state," he told the councilmen. "That is why they directed us to change them."

As for hearsay that people who had run the lights would not be required to pay the fines or would get their money back if they've already done so, the mayor stated:

"The state officials compared it with the change in age for minors in possession of alcohol. It used to be that anyone had to be 21 to purchase liquor, but now the legal age is 20. Just because the law has been changed, those persons who were fined under the old standards will not get their money back."

"The same thing is true of the stop light. Anyone who ran it while it was red is guilty of running a red light."

Starling Lee, a member of the City Council, had raised the question. He said he had received several inquiries about whether violators would still be expected to pay the fines, since the state directed that the lights be changed.

The councilmen eventually concluded that the decision was out of their hands anyhow — that the city judge had the final say as to whether the fines would stick. However, the judge — Mrs. Frances McCall — said Wednesday that this was not the case. She said that she decided only if a red light had been run, and if it had she assessed a fine.

She said the city attorney, Leonard Cronk, filed all the charges and any decision not to prosecute would have to come from him.

At the meeting Mayor French also disclosed that two more yellow caution lights have been ordered so that lights will eventually be operable on all four corners at the site in question. Presently the two lights are located a block apart, on opposite sides of the street.

Last month the mayor told the Ord Chamber of Commerce that "the state" had recommended that the red lights be put in. He explained Monday that the Department of Transportation's local office had given those directions. However, officials in the Traffic Division countermanded the orders after investigating the situation.

Lack of adherence to city building requirements was another prime topic at Monday night's council meeting.

This subject arose because of a building being constructed by Henry Lange on the southwest corner of M and 16th Streets, caddy-corner from the courthouse square. Because the site lies within the city's nine-block fire district which encompasses the downtown area, a building permit is required in advance of construction.

Lange had not secured one before starting work. He did make application at the meeting, however, and it was granted.

George Allen, city inspector, also appeared and said that Lange was not complying fully with the fire code in constructing the building. Lange acknowledged that the building was not strictly according to the code, but said he felt he would have the most fire-safe building in town. He also pointed out provisions in the code that he thought were generally disregarded by most businesses in town.

Allen said that Lange had presented him merely "with a floor plan and outside profile," and with no information about materials to be used in construction.

"If you let one case arbitrarily set up his own rules, what will happen next time?" he asked.

The councilmen seemed more concerned about how to make sure permits were obtained in advance of construction than with the particulars of Lange's building. However, in approving the permit, they did instruct him to confer with Allen and reach an agreement on roof requirements.

The councilmen pointed out that Lange was not alone in violating the permit requirement. In fact, the general consensus was that construction is begun more often than not without a permit.

City Attorney Leonard Cronk said that the requirement had been "on the books" since 1938, "and it's just a matter of educating the public."

Lange suggested that the city get some standard forms that would be available for anyone intending to build. Currently, each citizen prepares a written request for permit in his own format.

The intent of a permit is to reach an understanding on plans and materials before construction starts, councilman Merle Van Zandt stated.

The city is having unusual difficulty in securing a new police car.

Bids had been requested from all local dealers on a new car and were to be opened Monday night. However, only two firms — Todsens Chevrolet and Lee Motors — submitted bids. And Todsens only submitted a bid on a no-trade-in basis. Bids had been requested on both trade-in and no-trade-in basis.

Todsens' bid of $2,430 was lower than Lee's no-trade-in offer, but the councilmen decided they did not want to keep the old car. So they voted to accept Lee's trade-in bid of $2,046 with Starling Lee abstaining because he owns Lee Motors.

The following day, however, it was discovered that a city statute prohibits a councilman from doing business with the city for more than $2,000. The councilmen then met again Tuesday afternoon in special session and voted to disregard all bids. Presumably new bids will be requested.

Seventh-Rated Central City Next Foe For Weakened Chanticleer Gridders

Coach Chuck Squier has discovered — of necessity — that he does have some depth on this year's Ord High School football squad after all. He no doubt will need every bit of it tomorrow night (Friday) in Central City. The Chanticleers will meet the Bisons in a 7:30 p.m. contest there. Central City is rated seventh this week among Class B teams by the Omaha World-Herald.

Lack of depth was a prime concern when the season opened this fall. With several injuries to key players, it has become an even more critical problem. But so far the youngsters Squier has inserted, of necessity, into the Chant lineup have performed well.

It's reaching a point, though, where sheer numbers alone are becoming a factor, Squier said Wednesday the traveling squad might be down to 25 players for the Central City game.

"With one exception, we had to use every underclassman — even those who were starting for the varsity — in our reserve," he said. "We don't really have enough boys to play a varsity schedule, much less a reserve schedule too."

The casualty list Wednesday included Paul Markowski, starting end, who suffered a dislocated elbow on the third play of last week's game against Aurora and is lost for the season; Stan Axthelm, starting offensive tackle and defensive end, who suffered a slight concussion in the Aurora game; Danny Timmerman, starting defensive tackle, who suffered an ankle injury two weeks ago against Albion and did not suit up last week; Bill Miller, starting offensive end and defensive linebacker, who has been lost for all practical purposes since the opening game; his latest ailment is a recurrence of an old back injury; David John, who's been logging a lot of defensive backfield duty and doing the punting while Miller is sidelined, with a knee injury; Tom Klancecky, reserve back, who lost a toe and a finger; Jim Martin, starting defensive guard, who had a case of pleurisy and Darrell Farmer, who had a case of flu.

Some of them will be able to play Friday, but Squier wasn't sure how many or which ones.

Offensive end has become the most critical spot on the team with Markowski out for the year, and Miller and Farmer doubtful.

"We've moved Bob Peterson from center to end, and he's looked okay in practice," Squier said, "though he's awfully slow. Either he or Miller will play one side, and Farmer or Carl Suminski the other."

Jeff Hrobly did double duty last week, filling in for Timmerman at defensive tackle. Timmerman, if he's ready by Friday, may get the call to fill Axthelm's shoes at offensive tackle. Dale Peterson, who filled in last week after Axthelm was hurt, is also a possibility.

"We don't like to move boys around like that, but we don't have any choice with the injury situation," Squier said.

Central City will bring a 40 record into the game. Last week the Bisons stopped Class C Hebron, 12-6. However, Hebron was an ordinary Class C team, since it had not been scored on until Central City did it.

Tailback Steve Zikmund, a 165-pounder, is the big gun for the Bisons. He gained 249 yards rushing earlier this season against St. Paul.

"We think our young kids did a real good job against Aurora," Squier stated. "They don't want to be counted out before the game starts."

Mikki . . . Ak-Sar-Ben Countess

Mikki Markley Selected Countess For 1969 Ak-Sar-Ben Coronation

Michelle Jeanne (Mikki) Markley, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Murray Markley of Ord, has been chosen to serve as a countess to the Court of the 1969 Ak-Sar-Ben Coronation and Ball.

The 22-year-old brown-eyed brunette, whose plans include graduate work on the West Coast, received her bachelor's degree from the University of Nebraska this spring. She was an English major and was affiliated with Alpha Omicron Pi sorority, the University of Nebraska State Educational Assn., Young Republicans, and Builders. She is also a past member of the Red Cross and holds junior membership in the Nebraska Council, Teachers of Education. She is a former finalist for Valley County queen.

As a senior Miss Markley was employed as assistant teacher and counselor for Mexican-American migrant workers participating in the High School Equivalency Program. Through UNSEA she was also involved in a tutoring program for delinquents at the Lincoln City Hall.

During her leisure hours Mikki enjoys water skiing, swimming, reading, and flying (she soloed at age 16).

Her roommate and best friend in college, Sandy Bernhard of Shelton, was also named a Countess. They were traveling companions on a tour of Europe last summer.

The coronation ball will be an Oct. 17-18 event at Ak-Sar-Ben Coliseum in Omaha.

'Total Football' Pays for Essman

Rolland Essman was thinking football all the way last week, and it paid.

Essman, the vocational agriculture instructor at North Loup-Scottsbluff High School, used the new football centennial stamp to mail his entry for the Quiz football selection contest. When the results were tabulated, he had been just as thoughtful about what he put inside the envelope and had picked 21 of 24 games correctly. That won him the $5 first prize.

He was the only selector to pick as many as 21 games correctly.

Even Paul Revere could get confused trying to predict the manner of attack for this year's Wheeler Central football eleven. Revere was the American patriot who hung two lanterns in a Boston church steeple one April night in 1775 to signal his fellow colonialists that the British would come by sea. But based on the past two games, he might have had a tough time figuring out which way Wheeler Central would come.

The Broncos came by air in a game two weeks ago with Orchard, accumulating 172 yards of offense and scoring four touchdowns via passes. But last week against Stuart they came by land, amassing 312 yards and five touchdowns on the ground. The net result was a 20-0 triumph, boosting their season record to 2-1-1. It also got them off to a winning start in the Western Division of the Sandhill Gateway Conference.

Bronco fans will be waiting anxiously to see what route their heroes take tomorrow night (Friday) against Chambers. The two teams will play at Bartlett. That game will be another which counts in the division standings.

Chambers was winless in eight games last season and was beaten 103 in 10. End quarterback Gene Schmeits was also productive, gaining 72 yards on six carries. Each member of that trio scored a touchdown, all of them coming from long range. Childers ran 60 yards, Olson 43, and Schmeits 68.

Quarterback Tom Majors got the other Wheeler Central scores on short plunges of one and two yards. Majors, who had hit on seven of nine passes for four touchdowns the previous week, threw only six times against Stuart and completed but two for a net gain of nine yards.

The passing attack really wasn't needed, though, as the Broncos jumped out to a 20-0 halftime lead. Their lack of depth hurt once again in the second half, but not nearly so much as it had in other games this year. Stuart came on to score 20 points, 12 of them coming on a pair of guard-around plays which covered 40 and 28 yards. Tom Scholz was the ball carrier on the tricky scoring maneuvers.

But while the visitors were scoring their 20 points, Wheeler Central was also staying busy and getting on the board for 14 more. That was why Stuart's outburst was not so alarming.

Scott Patrick had an outstanding defensive game for the Broncos as he made 11 tackles and had four assists. Olson and Childers were also credited with fine defensive games.

Mike Childers, younger brother of Jerry, received recognition too for a fine game. Only a freshman, he has replaced guard Dwaine Green in the starting lineup. He was credited with some fine blocks that helped spring the Wheeler ball carriers loose, as well as a pair of important fumble recoveries.

Green, a 180-pound junior, was lost for the season when he broke an ankle against Elgin. He became the third possible starter

Burwell Falls Short As St. Paul Rallies For 17-6 Triumph

For the second game in a row, Burwell was first on the scoreboard last week, but again the Longhorns failed to post their first victory of the season. In doing so, they suffered their fourth consecutive setback, falling to St. Paul, 17-6.

Just as he had done the week before against Loup City, Rod Johnson got the first six points of the game as he went over teckle for 48 yards. But also like the Loup City game, the Longhorns were shut out the rest of the way.

St. Paul came back, taking advantage of a Burwell fumble to score the tying touchdown. The fumble was picked up on the Longhorn 30, and from there the Wildcats drove to the 1. Then Ralph Herbig carried the ball across the goal line, and ace kicker Steve Hameloth kicked the extra point that gave St. Paul a 7-6 halftime lead.

The Wildcats boosted their margin with 10 fourth-quarter points. They drove 59 yards for six of them, and Hameloth got the other four with a pair of kicks. The first was for the extra point, making the score 14-6, and the second was a field goal in the closing moments of play that boosted the final tally to 17-6.

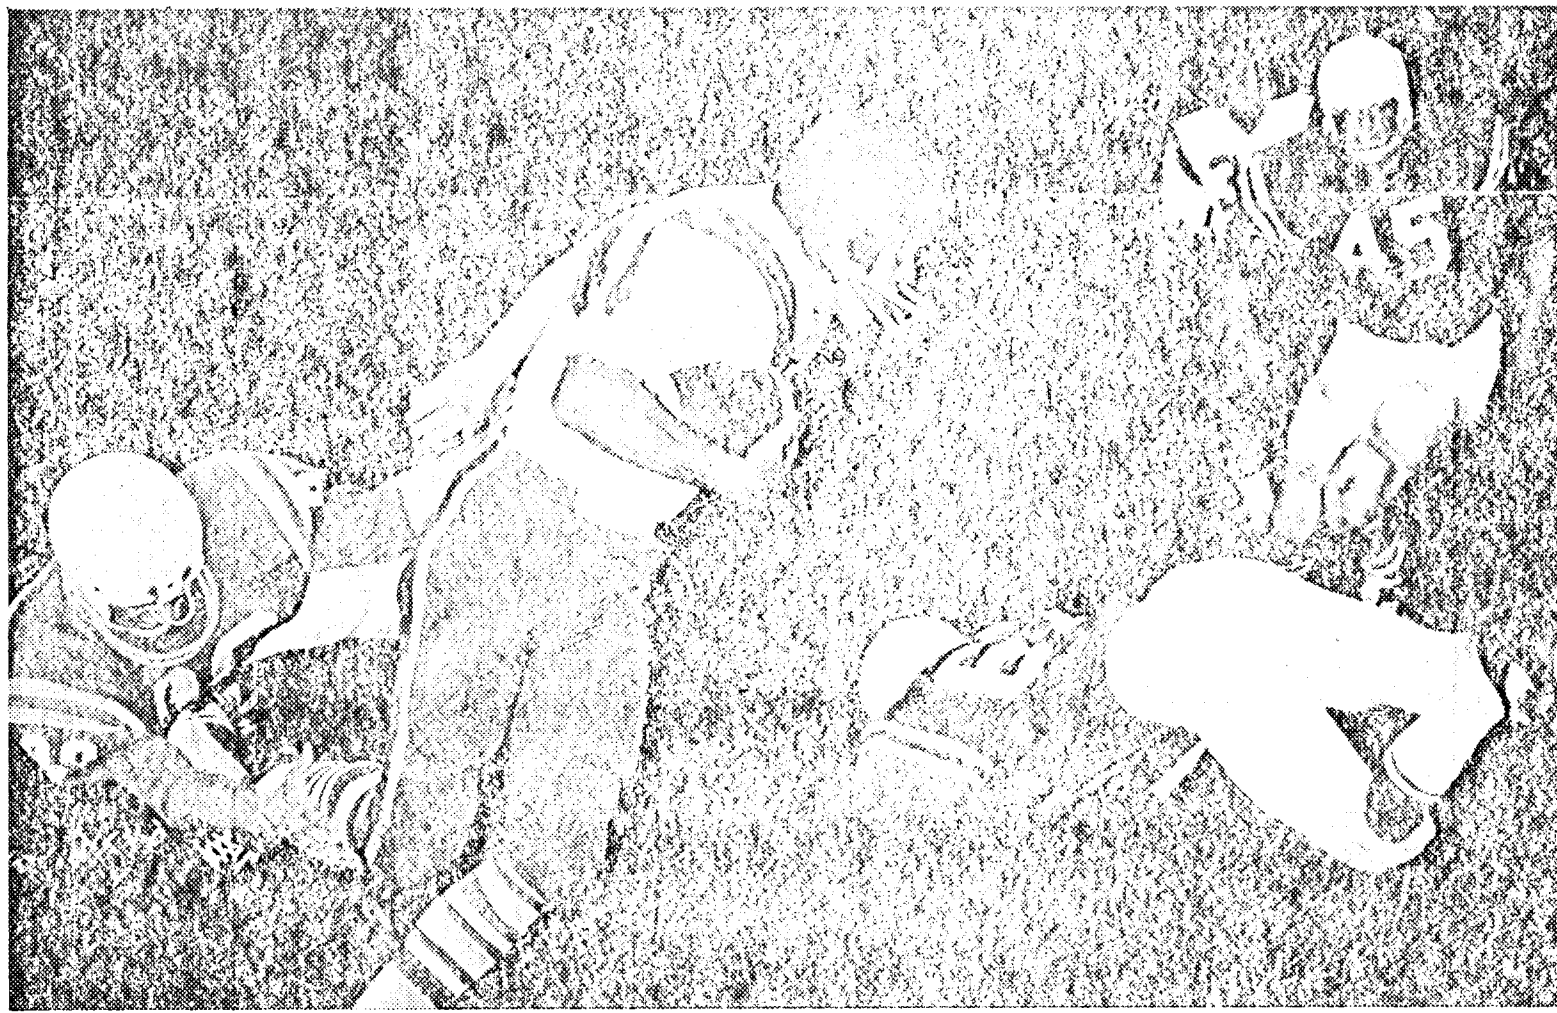

Burwell returns to Lou-Platte Conference action tomorrow night (Friday) as it journeys to Cairo for a battle with Centura. The Redskins are 1-2 in the conference and 1-3 for the year. They were beaten last week by Loup City, 14-6. Earlier they defeated Gibbon, 12-6, but lost to powerful Columbus Scotus, 50-6, and Fullerton, 12-6.

Ord's young Chanticleers showed up well on the mental portion of a toughness test administered Friday night by the powerful Aurora Huskies, but they did not fare so well on physical attitude.

Aurora ran up a 27-0 halftime lead, but that was not the remarkable mental toughness as they came back and fought the Huskies to a standstill in the second half. Most Chant fans were satisfied with the final 27-0 score after Abbon had run up a 34-0 tally the week before.

On a strictly physical basis, though, the game was not so gratifying. Already, woefully short on depth, the Chants came out of the contest with serious injuries clouding the future for several key players.

Hardest hit were the two starting defensive ends, Paul Markowski and Stan Axtell. Markowski dislocated an elbow in the opening minute of play, and his future availability is doubtful. Axtell was knocked senseless in the second quarter and had to be revived with smelling salts. He too is definitely out for tomorrow night's clash with Centura.

Several other players received lesser injuries in the hard-hitting contest.

Chants Got Hurt Needlessly "They were really a well coached team," Coach Chuck Squier stated afterwards of Aurora. "They really went out and hit."

He said most of his boys got hurt "standing around."

"We had told them that was going to happen if they didn't start thinking tough. Usually you get hurt when you're standing around — not when you're in there hitting."

Aurora was quick to take advantage of Ord's weakened flanks, scoring two touchdowns around the ends and gaining valuable additional yardage there.

"Our kids are competitors, and I was really quite proud of the way they played," Squier stated. "But the ends are the key people in breaking up reverses and screen passes, and Aurora just took advantage of our inexperience."

ing half.

Obviously a superior team physically — one which left the impression that it could gain what it needed by running straight at the Chants — Aurora still had to use some breaks and trickery to score its four touchdowns.

The first came with slightly less than five minutes left in the opening quarter. The Huskies had threatened on their first possession, driving from their own 35-yard line to the Ord 34 before Dennis Kamarad recovered a fumble. When neither team was then able to move, they traded punts and Ord came into possession for the second time at its own 29-yard line. On first down Paul Markley tried to run the quarterback option, but his pitch-out to a trailing back never got to the intended receiver. An Aurora defender got a hand between Markley and his target, and the ball flew away. A mad scramble followed with players from both sides getting shots at the ball. When the referee finally blew his whistle, the ball had been kicked all the way back to the Ord nine-yard line and Aurora was in possession.

On the first play Bill Whitney hit Ken Nelson with a touchdown pass.

Huskie Fullback Impresses Aurora scored again on its next possession, driving from its own 48-yard line to the Ord 10 on a 23-yard pass from Whitney to Ed Steenburg, carrying from the 50-yard line to the Ord 27. Steenburg juggled the ball and possibly could have been separated from it at that moment if a Chant defender had been near enough to give him some static, but no one was.

Another key play was a nine-yard run by Aurora's powerful 215-pound fullback, Tom Kropp. He ran directly over Ord's 145-pound David John. Kropp was probably the most impressive of the Huskies as he gained 95 yards on 24 carries. He also played a terrific defensive game at line-backer.

"Kropp is probably the best football player we'll see all year," Coach Squier said of the prize Huskie junior. "He really hits — not just when he carries the ball but on defense too."

The second touchdown actually came on a one-yard sneak by Whitney. Four seconds were left in the first quarter when he went over.

Six Fumbles Lost Aurora hiked its margin to 21-0 with just under three minutes left in the half. Speedy Rick Miller clinched a 64-yard drive with a 20-yard sprint around end.

Another Huskie threat had been thwarted at the Ord 14 when a group of Chant linemen swarmed over Whitney as he was trying to pass, shaking him loose from the foot. Kamarad was jarred loose from the ball, and Aurora recovered at the Ord 31.

It appeared that the Chants were going to hold when fourth down came and the Huskies still needed 10 yards. But that was when the visitors really dug deep into their bag of tricks and came up with a reverse. Miller was on the business end, and as he circled to his left he picked up a convoy of four or five blockers. The Chant defenders had all followed the visitors' lead and were on the opposite side of the field, but even if some of them had been in the path they most likely would have been steamrollered by Miller's escort.

Speed Blends With Power The 150-pound Miller was a perfect compliment to the giant Kropp, blending speed and shiftiness with his teammate's brute force. During the game Miller carried six times and gained 63 yards.

The well balanced Huskies, who're supposed to be in a rebuilding year after losing most of the players that made them Class 1's top-rated team each of the past two years, also boasted another outstanding running back — Deryl Lantz. He gained 50 yards on 14 carries.

Ord made only one first down in the opening half. Little Jim Naeve scrapped and clawed his way for a 12-yard gain.

The story of that half was told in the ball-control statistics. Aurora ran off 42 plays against 24 for Ord.

Chants Reach Aurora 8 The second half obviously was much more equal, and Ord treated a number of times. However, the Chants could never cash in.

Markley brought the local fans to their feet on the second play when he got off a 28-yard run that carried to the Aurora 38. But on the next play he was thrown for an 11-yard loss, and that drive died.

Moments later Bob Peterson gave the Chants their best opportunity of the night. He recovered a Huskie fumble at the Aurora 23, and on the following play the visitors were penalized for a personal foul. That gave the Chants a first down at the 8, but they were eventually thrown back to the 19 before yielding possession.

Darrell Farmer, who caught five passes for 57 yards, had a step on his defender at least twice during that series but Markley couldn't hit him.

Huskie Never Threaten On their next possession the Chants moved from the Aurora 48 to the 23, but again they had to yield. Then Carl Suminski recovered another Huskie fumble at the Aurora 36, but the 31 was as far as the Chants could get that time.

They did put together one sustained drive late in the game, moving from their own 26 to the Aurora 19. But a fourth down pass fell incomplete. One two plays earlier had skidded off Farmer's fingertips as he raced into the end zone.

Aurora never threatened in the second half, getting across midfield only once. That time the Huskies could only reach the Ord 43.

Taylor Eleven Bows to Elba In 20-12 Frey

Elba's Blue Jays struck a prestigious blow for the Central Nebraska Conference last week as they edged Loup County of the Sandhill Gateway Conference, 20-12.

Roger Pedersen, Lynn Jacobson, and Roger Deisinger each scored a touchdown for the winners. Pedersen got his on a 30-yard pass from Jacobson, who later scored himself on a seventy-yard end sweep, and Deisinger tallied on a five-yard run. Deisinger's touchdown was the important one, since it and the two-point conversion that followed put the Blue Jays out of reach.

The two extra points were scored on a Jacobson-to-Pedersen pass.

Elba returns to 11-man action tomorrow night (Friday) when it journeys to Callaway. The home-team Bears own a 1-3 record, having lost to Arcadia, 14-12; to Ansley, 40-8; and to Theoford, 49-0. In between the Ansley and Theoford thumpings they shut out Lithfield, 12-0.

Loup County hosts rapidly improving Oconto at Taylor. The Tigers opened their season by bowing to Halsey-Dunning, 22-0; then tied Tryon, 14-14; and the last two weeks have beaten Elba, 28-18, and Eustis, 42-0.

On the other hand, Loup County has been going in the opposite direction. The Wildcats opened with successive 40-0 and 14-0 shut-outs over Spalding and Ewing.

millar on a 40-yard scoring play. The reception was one of four Obermiller had during the game.

Centura came back to tie it on a 17-yard pass from Rich Barry to Tom Grimm.

Both teams were plagued with injuries, as Loup City was missing six varsity players and Centura its top quarterback and fullback.

Loup City stands an excellent chance to go over the 500 mark this week as it hosts Wood River in a Friday night contest. The Eagles were winless in eight games last year and have scored but one touchdown in four 1969 contests. That came in their last outing against a good Gibbon team, however, showing that they are improving.

"We scored first and were never behind," Coach Wegner stated. "It was the first game this season in which we had scored first."

He called his defense, which has given up but one touchdown in each of the last two games, "sound." It was led again by Jack Van Slyke, Tim Eurek, and Ed and Al Kowalski.

"While gaining fewer total yards than in our two previous games, the offense still showed improvement too," the coach added. "It was playing against a defense which was better than we had faced in some of our other games."

That offense was sparked by the passing combination of Bob Guzinski to Rog Obermiller, and the running of Van Slyke, Mark Eurek, and Ken Kuszak.

The two Eurek boys — Tim and Mark — played key roles in Loup City's winning touchdown. Mark scored it on a two-yard burst that climaxed a 35-yard drive. The drive began when Tim recovered a fumble at the Centura 35-yard line. He also had a key pass interception to thwart a Redskin bid.

Loup City drew first blood when Guzinski passed to Ober-

Senior halfback Dave Edwards has been a key cog in the North Loup-Scotia football machine this season. Edwards plays in both the offensive and defensive backfields, and has helped the Wildcats post a perfect 3-0 record so far this season. Their latest conquest was a 19-12 triumph Friday at Greeley over Sacred Heart. They'll be on the road again this week, traveling to Columbus for a Friday night contest with Lakeview. The Discoverers should provide Edwards and his teammates with their severest test to date.

Why 99 out of every 100 new homeowners heat with gas.

They know it'll be cheaper, for one thing. Cheaper to operate all winter long. Like 1/3 the cost of electric heat. Cheaper in the long run to maintain, too.

But there are other important things to consider. Cleaning and redecorating costs, for instance. Over the years, they'll be lower than with other kinds of heat because a central gas system forces stale, used air back into the furnace where it passes through a filter. The filter takes impurities out that shouldn't be there, making the air fresh again. And don't forget the proven reliability of gas heat.

Gas heat. It's best for a lot of reasons. At least 99 out of every 100 new homeowners think so. Modern gas heating equipment is available from Kansas-Nebraska... easy terms on your gas bill if you like.

The warning bell on old Jupiter was a favorite with the youngsters who visited the Union Pacific Centennial Expo Train when it appeared in Ord last week. Most of them had to try their hand at ringing it — just like the engineers who piloted it when it roamed Nevada's Virginia & Truckee tracks almost a century ago.

Where the Action Is!

By Nancy Hopkins
There is so much to learn from 4-H, not only at the local and state levels but at the national plateau as well.

This summer I got to see 4-H in action in a different part of the country. I was a member of the Nebraska Sandhills 4-H Exchange which took a group of Nebraska 4-H members to Minnesota, where we spent a week with a 4-H family from that state.

While I was there I looked at their 4-H manuals, which are different from ours. I also attended a club meeting which they called Home Ec. Check-Up Day. The county agent was there giving hints on how to improve their projects.

Minnesota 4-H clubs average around 50 members each, so they are much bigger than the ones here in Valley County. I also saw many points of interest, such as the Mayo Clinic and a Hormel meat-packing plant.

The climate there is different, so the people live differently. Instead of wide-open spaces, they reside close together with cities every few miles. But even though they live differently, I found that people everywhere have many of the same goals.

From this trip I learned a lot about how people live, the different 4-H methods Minnesota uses, and how I can apply these methods in my own local clubs. It was an interesting and educational trip, and I would like to thank all who helped me obtain it.

So you see, people everywhere are after the same goals and many are obtaining them through 4-H. Why don't YOU?

4-H 'Clover Power'

By Betty Nelson
Today you hear a lot about "flower power," but I would like to tell you about "clover power." While I was at the Ak-Sar-Ben Livestock Show in Omaha, people had signs all through the buildings saying "Clover Power." No doubt many of you do not know what this means. However, we in 4-H understand it well.

The clover is the symbol for 4-H, and the four H's stand for head, heart, hands, and health, as stated in the following 4-H pledge:

"I pledge my head to clearer thinking,
"My heart to greater loyalty,
"My hands to larger service,
"And my health to better living."

"For my club, my community, 4-H is not just an ordinary group of people and youngsters, but a really special group working for the betterment of country and community. Through this organization, youngsters learn to become better citizens, help others, and work for what they earn.

4-H is not all work. There is lots of fun at the fairs, 4-H gatherings, and 4-H exchange trips. There were dances, group discussions, speeches, recreation, and talks presented by some very prominent people.

By participating in the exchange trip, I was given a chance to use these newly acquired tools. I lived with a wonderful family and enjoyed them a great deal. I wouldn't trade these memories for anything in the world.

4-H Experiences

By Duane Kovarik
I attended the State 4-H Club Week this past summer in Lincoln as a result of winning a state award in Boy's Record. I received an all-expenses-paid trip from the Folger Coffee Co.

The activities were varied, from workshops to guest speakers to recreation. I was enrolled in workshops concerned with credit, college preparation, and a "look at the future."

Gov. Norbert Tiemann and a former Miss America, Marilyn Van Derbur, were the featured guest speakers. Banquets were given by the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce and the Omaha Livestock Exchange. One day we boarded buses and went to Omaha, where we toured a profession we would be interested in as a career.

For recreation there was a hobo party with a barbecue and dance, and tours were given of the Capitol building and the University of Nebraska city campus. There were a total of 400 4-H members in attendance at Club Week.

I also attended the State 4-H Conservation and Leadership Camp for one week at Halsey this summer. I received this expenses-paid trip from Farmland Industries.

During my nine years of 4-H I have completed 19 different projects. There are many opportunities for 4-H members in this fine state. So if you are not enrolled in 4-H, join now, and if you already are enrolled, make the best of it.

4-H: Opportunity for All

(Editor's Note: Oct. 5-11 is being observed throughout the United States as National 4-H Week. The theme of the week is "4-H: Opportunity for All." To acquaint outsiders with local 4-H activities, the following articles have been prepared by outstanding club members.)

This Land Of Opportunities

By Jan Bredthauer
Very seldom does a day go by that one does not hear some teenager demanding more freedom. But little do some know that responsibilities go hand in hand with freedom.

One opportunity for teenagers to begin accepting responsibilities is by joining a 4-H club. The projects are designed for independent study; in this way each individual can work at his own pace. The projects are just a beginning, and each 4-H member must accept the responsibility of completing them on his own.

The first jobs are very simple, but they become more difficult, and before long you are helping younger members of the club. Not everything in 4-H is work. In addition to social gatherings, there are many honors that can be earned. Awards, scholarships, camps, and trips are all sponsored by the 4-H organization.

This summer nine Valley County 4-Hers — including myself — and a chaperone, John Schade, went to Steele County, Minnesota, for a week. In addition to different types of farming, many other things were learned.

Overall, the main lesson gained from this experience was that if we understand how other people live we can better communicate and see their point of view on many problems that face the world today.

Maybe you say you can go on a trip, learn to sew, work with animals, or figure out how a motor runs without 4-H. Probably you could, but you would have to have much more will power and the goals would be small.

On the other hand, if you are in 4-H, everything is built and connected together to form one broad, far-reaching goal, which will help you become a more responsible citizen.

4-H camp has been a learning experience for me, and it can be for every 4-H member.

The Trouble With Bull

By Stan Axthelm
Lung pneumonia is one of the worst killers of cattle. So how does this pertain to 4-H and me? I'll tell you.

Dad came rushing in one day during the spring. "I've got bad news. Your stocker feeder is dead up in the pasture."

My heart felt like it was going down to my big toe. For some unknown reason he had bloated and died.

This tragedy increased my interest in a 4-H project on animal science. One other member in our club was also taking this veterinary science project, so we got together every few weeks with Dr. Dale Karre and talked about diseases and the biology of animals.

At the end of the project we decided to give a demonstration on pneumonia. We went down to Cetak's and got a lung to cut up and study, and we practiced the demonstration with it.

County Fair time arrived, and we were in the back room with a big hunk of bull — the lung. It was our turn. Everything went well for awhile, but as we were going to cut into the larvx the scissors just wouldn't budge.

I guess that bull'd a lot of bawling because we couldn't cut through that voice box of his. What embarrassment! As you can tell, we weren't too well prepared.

When it was all over we were luckier than we thought. Look at what we learned — what causes pneumonia, treatment for pneumonia, to get ready on time, and last of all, to know "from whence cometh the bull."

4-H Story

By Rita Wojtaszek
The time has come, "National 4-H Emphasis Week," when each 4-H member has an opportunity to evaluate his efforts during the past year and to set new goals for the coming year. Our projects are completed, our record books and stories have been sent in to the office. Now we can take a moment to sit back and ask ourselves, "What have I achieved in this past year?"

This is my sixth year in 4-H, and I believe it was my greatest. The biggest thrill of the year was being a participant in the local, district, and state speech contests. The immense interest shown by local and state people in my winning the contest was very encouraging and most gratifying.

As an award for winning the contest, I was a guest at State 4-H Club Week in Lincoln, courtesy of Radio Station KFAB of Omaha. This week was most educational and enjoyable.

I begin my next year, I will set higher goals and work with more determination. One of my goals will be to encourage young 4-H members to participate in EVERY activity that is offered, and I will strive to promote larger enrollment.

Interest in 4-H in Valley County is very strong, but we can always strive to "make the best better."

4-H 1969

By Susan Thompson
Through 4-H I was fortunate enough to take part in State Club Week at Lincoln and a 4-H exchange trip to Minnesota.

Club Week was a wonderful experience. We learned a great deal about how to live our lives as 4-Hers' while having a great deal of fun. There were dances, group discussions, speeches, recreation, and talks presented by some very prominent people.

By participating in the exchange trip, I was given a chance to use these newly acquired tools. I lived with a wonderful family and enjoyed them a great deal. I wouldn't trade these memories for anything in the world.

4-H on the Go

By Chris Foth
This summer I was part of the 4-H Nebraska Sandhills Exchange to Steele County, Minnesota. The purpose of this trip was to exchange 4-H ideas so that we could better our own programs.

After filling out a form we were matched with a Minnesota family, with whom we spent the week. I spent June 21-28 with the Orville Young family of Medford, Minn.

We chartered a bus to Minnesota, which took approximately 12 hours to get there. We picked up youths from Atkinson, Taylor, and Burwell on the way. Our bus route went through South Dakota where we saw Fort Randall Dam and many other scenic sights.

During my stay in Minnesota, I went on a 4-H tour and attended a 4-H booth meeting, where I picked up many interesting ideas that I can put into practice in my own 4-H club.

One of the highlights of my trip was touring the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn. I found it to be a very educational and a very large place. The subway under this building was interesting, because it held many little tailor shops and curio shops.

4-H is a rewarding experience that everyone should encounter. I enjoyed this trip very much, and I want to thank everyone who made it possible for me.

4-H Experiences And Achievements

By Jean Foth
"A thing of beauty is a joy forever. A yard of beauty requires care forever."

I realized the truth of the above statement this year when I took yard beautification as a 4-H project. Being somewhat of a tomboy and loving the outdoors, I enjoyed this program even more than the gardening project.

Let's Talk Responsibility

By Bill Bray, Missouri Press Assn.
(Editor's Note: We've heard much in recent weeks about moral responsibility and cigarette advertising. There's not much question in our minds about the ethics involved — our answer would be a simple "no, we won't accept cigarette ads."

Senator Frank Moss of Utah, chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee's consumer sub-committee, is afraid the $240 million currently going into cigarette broadcasting commercials will shift to newspapers. He suggests that newspapers accept some responsibility for the harmful effects of cigarettes if the newspapers choose to run ads promoting them.

We wonder how long the American public is going to put up with this "back-passing." The senator knows where the real responsibility lies. That's right in the manufacturing of the product itself.

But, like many other problems on Capitol Hill, Senator Moss doesn't want to tackle that. Instead, like everyone else, he prefers to make advertising the whipping boy.

It's okay, it's legal, it's above-board to manufacture cigarettes. It's okay, legal, socially acceptable, and all of that to buy and smoke them. It's just to tell someone about them that's so terribly wrong.

Hogwash, Senator!
If cigarettes are bad, why don't the folks in Washington outlaw the sale and manufacture of them? Are they afraid of the millions the growers of tobacco make? Or is it the millions the manufacturers make? Maybe they're afraid of the thousands of jobs involved. Perhaps it's the millions in tax dollars (part of which pay that nice salary and expense account Senator Moss and his cohorts have) that keeps them from getting to the guts of the issue.

Responsibility, indeed! The Congress hasn't done anything about the millions in subsidy it gives tobacco growers. The responsibility in this matter rests tight there in Washington where they have the power to make legal the manufacturing and sale of a product.

You can put it in a bag and shake it up any way you want. It all comes out that if it's legal to make and sell, then by golly, in our free enterprise system it's legal to advertise. Advertising is nothing more than freedom of speech.

It isn't really the advertising of cigarettes that is dangerous. Kids see more cigarette vending machines in the street than they do cigarette ads. Why aren't these vending machines outlawed? Why does the government pour millions into the tobacco subsidy? Why isn't the sale and manufacture of paper used in cigarettes outlawed? Why isn't interstate transportation of cigarettes prohibited? Why is only the freedom-of-speech aspect — the advertising — outlawed?

Senator Moss asks the publishing industry, "What policy does your publication have with respect to cigarette ads?" His plan calls for pledges against widespread diversion of ad funds from broadcast to print media. What he is asking is for the newspaper industry to refuse to accept cigarette ads.

The answer, should be, "When the product is illegal, we won't advertise it and when the government stops the widespread diversion of tax money into tobacco subsidies, we'll consider curtailing the money we get from the advertising." On this ratio of cigarette advertising to anti-cigarette advertising, which the senator asks about, how about taking some of that government subsidy given to growers and buying some anti-smoking ads? If cigarette advertising is responsible for the ills of the situation, then anti-smoking advertising in the same proportion should correct them.

Responsibility, responsibility — who's got the responsibility? To outlaw advertising of cigarettes is just sweeping the dirt under the rug where you can't see it. Senator Moss and those guys in Washington are really something else. They make the product legal. They even pay the growers a subsidy. Then they ask the publishing and broadcast industries to save the country from their own irresponsible actions.

Fellers Have Difficulty Understanding Why Women Think 'Nothing' Is So Stylish

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:
The fellers put women on their agenda again Saturday night.

It was Martin Sonnenfeld who said he had gotten a look at his old lady's fall and winter order books and he wanted to know what kind of fashion women will come up with when their hair gets longer than their skirts.

Skirts are getting shorter every season, Martin allowed, and what little women wear with 'em you can see through.

Martin reported he had seen by the papers where some feller that runs a rag company is against miniskirts, cause there ain't enough cloth in one to make a decent wide rag. This feller said he lost money trying to clean and re-sell miniskirts for cleaning cloths, and Martin added that women who buy 'em fer clothes lose money in the first place.

The fellers agreed with Martin that skirts have gone as high as they can go without being belts, and Ray said it's just a matter of time afore some slick feller with a wax mustache in New York City figures this out. Then, declared Ray, there's going to be a full reverse in fashion, and skirts probably won't stop till they are down around the ankles.

When the skirts are going up, said Ray, women who have more style than money can trim off an inch or two every season. But when the hems are going down, there ain't nothing to do but buy new ones.

Of course, Ray went on, women throw away everything now. He said he had seen where the Salvation Army is getting more fur coats and near-new evening dresses given to 'em than ever before.

"Women in this country have got more money than they got sense, no matter how poor they are," were Ray's words.

That was when Junior Meese got the floor and said he had seen by the papers where that Russian spacewoman, Valentina something, had come out with another one of her wise sayings. She said that naturally women would go into space with men 'cause without women there could be no order.

Junior said Valentina might of meant ordering the men around, but he figured she was talking about keeping things organized. He was of the mind that Valentina's idea of order in space or on earth makes as much sense as women's ideas on fashion.

Practically speaking, Mister Editor, there ain't no use to give women our ideas on clothes. Whoever said women dress to please the men didn't know women. They dress to please each other, and the men pay the bills.

Personally, I think the fellers might as well have spent the session talking about the national debt fer all the good they done. A feller has got as much chance talking to a woman that's made up her mind as he has stopping a hen that's trying to set.

Yours truly, Geranium Joe

Dear Editor:
RE the poem appearing in the editorial column of Oct. 2, 16, entitled "Who Killed Cock Robin?", reprinted here in full:

"Who killed Cock Robin?"
"I, said the Sparrow.
"So the Supreme Court let him go free. He was denied counsel, and prior to his confession."

The Supreme Court's ruling in the controversial Miranda case was designed to give substance to the fifth amendment right of defendants against self-incrimination. The court reasoned that if defendants are not advised of their rights prior to interrogation, confessions will not be extracted by threat or physical coercion as they often were in American police stations before counsel was guaranteed.

The court thought it better that some guilty men go free than to have many innocent men tortured into confessing crimes they did not commit.

The attitude reflected in this poem, I think, is widely shared by residents of this area. Admittedly there is room for argument about the wisdom of the Miranda ruling. However, the argument must be informed, and I doubt that it is in other words, how many who hold that the Supreme Court has erred in this case have read the Miranda decision? Do they believe that they are capable of rendering an intelligent opinion without having studied the case? Do they argue strongly that they are wrong?

Congress, and it should remain with Congress and not be given to a commission.

Federal Employees
According to the Joint Committee on Reduction of Federal Expenditures, August saw a welcome decrease of 33,795 in the total number of federal employees.

Under the proposed amendment, shipment of strategic materials to any Red nation could only be barred if the President determined that such exportation is capable of a significant military application which might prove detrimental to the national security and welfare of the United States.

The Ashley-Brown amendment is similar to legislation which Senators Walter Mondale (D-Minn.) and Edmund Muskie (D-Me.) succeeded in getting the Senate Banking and Currency Committee to approve earlier this year. This legislation is now pending on the Senate calendar.

Efforts of the Ashley-Brown group to get the House Banking and Currency Committee to approve their proposal were defeated by a bipartisan group of House Democrats and Republicans on the committee. Opponents successfully argued that the U.S. should not increase trade with Soviet Bloc nations while those countries are supplying arms to North Vietnam.

Strong Stand Urged
In their meeting with the President, the House GOP lawmakers reported that the chief executive would have to take a strong public stand if the Mondale-Muskie proposal were to be defeated.

"Mr. President, if you want to save the Export Control Act, the Mondale-Muskie bill must be shown up for what it really is," stated one House Republican leader. "You must publicly point out that their legislation, if adopted, will benefit countries now sending arms to North Vietnam to kill American soldiers."

The GOP legislative leaders told the President that if he took this strong public stand a majority of Democrats in the House, including Speaker John McCormack (D-Mass.), would support him.

Senate Republican leaders were not as optimistic. They reported that if information gathered by American Naval intelligence, 22 Soviet Bloc ships were in Hainan Harbor unloading military supplies for North Vietnam forces.

Tax-Sharing Debate
Nixon Administration financial experts are using pretty strong language as they try to put down a rival Senate proposal for sharing federal revenues with the state and local governments.

Should U.S. Trade With Countries Which Are Helping To Kill Americans?

By Paul Scott
WASHINGTON — A showdown over a U.S. trade policy toward the Soviet Bloc is shaping up in Congress.

The outcome, which congressional leaders say is still in doubt, could have a far-reaching effect on President Richard Nixon's bargaining power in future negotiations with Communist nations.

The crucial battle will be over legislation extending the Export Control Act, which authorizes the President to regulate trade with the Soviet Bloc. The legislation is scheduled to come up on the House floor within the next two weeks.

A two-year extension of the present law, which expires Oct. 30, is being vigorously supported by the President on the grounds it will give him a strong bargaining weapon in future negotiations with Russia and East European nations.

White House meeting of Republican congressional leaders. The conference was called to discuss methods of combatting a well coordinated drive by liberal Democrats in the House and Senate. These Democrats are planning to turn the Export Control Act into a law that encourages increased trade with Communist nations without other considerations.

The President warned that weakening of the Export Control Act, as proposed by the liberals, would completely gut this policy to trade as a major negotiating weapon against the Communists.

Specifically, the President asked GOP House leaders to begin rallying bipartisan support to block an expected move by Representatives Thomas Ashley (D-Ohio) and Garry Brown (D-Mich.) to amend the extension bill when it comes up in the House.

Under strategy adopted at a series of private meetings, the Ashley-Brown group decided to give a new declaration of policy into the Export Control Act which would encourage trade with Communist nations. It would also greatly weaken the President's powers to ban the shipment of strategic materials to Communist nations.

etary undertaking in view of stabilization policy requirements and available revenues," said Weidenbaum. "It would just about wipe out the carefully developed budget surplus (3.8 billion) for this year."

For Big Cities Only
But the "most basic difference" between the two plans, according to Weidenbaum, is the Muskie-Goodell proposal that federal funds be shared only with cities and counties of more than 50,000 population, with special bonuses for cities over 100,000.

Weidenbaum termed this "indefensible," observing: "We decided it was not for the administration to decide that the city or county is too small to deserve a share."

The administration bill shares funds with every general-purpose local government of whatever size — but not with school districts.

The 50,000 cutoff, Weidenbaum said, would mean that 43 percent of all city dwellers, 27 percent of all county residents, and 100 percent of township residents would live in communities ineligible for this form of federal aid — which would be free from restrictions as to how it could be spent. # United Methodist Women Study 'Need' - How To Satisfy It

Guest Day for Mira Valley United Methodist Church's Women's Society of Christian Service was held in the church parlors Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Edwin Lenz, as president, opened the meeting; and during roll call members introduced their guests. The program was prepared by Mrs. Arden Koelling and Mrs. Richard Knapp. Mrs. Koelling showed a film "The Captive." This is story of a man without a job in Appalachia. A skit about heart, hand, and house gave those present an insight of need and how this need should be dealt with. Mrs. Russell Hackel and Mrs. Richard Knapp played the parts in the skit.

After a "parts" reading — "They'll Know We Are Christians by Our Love" — participated in by all present, Mrs. Knapp closed the program with a prayer. Members and their guests were then seated at tables decorated with autumn flowers and served lunch by Mrs. Dan Cook and Mrs. Glen Warner. Others helping on that committee were Mrs. Orel Koelling and Mrs. Roger Arnold.

Our son Don and his family, of Kearney, came Friday evening and spent the weekend with us — that is, when they weren't in North Loup attending the Mid-functions at the Seventh Day Baptist Church.

Phyllis (Mrs. Don C.), Theresa, Edwin and Victor, along with Grandpa George, sang in the Friday evening cantata, "The Sound of Singing." Don's voice wasn't up to par, and Rex isn't quite choir age. Me? The less said the better. I really enjoyed my part, which was "stealing."

My young friend Brenda Abel did her part too when she turned page after page of music for the pianist. It won't be many years till she'll be singing in the choir. After the Friday evening cantata and communion service to one we miss wasn't ready to go home.

We heard many nice things about "The Sound of Singing," the Boulder Bell Ringers, the speakers, George's chalk picture with background of poetry and music, and other parts of the weekend program. Our grandchildren thought the time between the Saturday evening roller-skating party and Youth Breakfast at the church was short. We enjoyed the weekend rain — even the mud. Rainfall in the valley was near the two-inch mark. Some had more — some less. We are grateful.

The Head of The Church

Colossians 1:18 "And Jesus is the head of the body, the church."

Today in America over 200 different denominations are found. This is tragic enough but add to that the individual beliefs and doctrines, and you've got one big, fouled up mess. And the only way confusion can be eliminated is for ALL to return back to God's word: is to restore the church back to its original beginning.

This illustration beautifully shows how this can be accomplished. A blueprint is used to construct a building. After the building is finished it burns. Thus what is left is the original blueprint. And if the owner desires, an exact replica of the building can be rebuilt by using the same blueprints. If the same blueprints are followed both times, then both buildings will be exactly the same.

This is exactly what God has done in the scriptures. He has left for man a blueprint about how His church is to be organized and governed. When the church was first born it matched the blueprint found in the Bible. In other words, when the church was first established it was organized perfectly.

And I say that it is time the church returned to that blueprint and organized the church exactly as it was in the beginning. The reason I say this is because God has not authorized one solitary person to take it upon themselves to divert from his original blueprint. When the church is rebuilt according to the original blueprint which is the scriptures, I say unto you that the 200+ denominations will no longer exist and that all Christians will be united at the foot of the cross.

In the beginning Paul the apostle tells us that Jesus Christ was the head of the church. Ephesians 1:22, 23 says, "and hath put all things under his feet and gave him to be the head over all things to the church, which is his body, the fullness of him that filleth all in all". And this is the way it should be.

But this is not the case. Man has departed from God's word. They have taken it upon themselves to either choose or elect some man as the head of each particular denomination. Then this individual is looked up to as the leader of that group and whenever he speaks, he often speaks for the entire denomination. And indeed, it is strange that nothing like this was ever commanded in the scriptures. In fact, the exact opposite is told to the believers.

I have discussed this with many people and have asked them who was the head of their church. Very few times have I been told that it was Jesus Christ. Rather, the name of some man has been mentioned. And I say that according to Colossians 1:18 JESUS CHRIST IS THE HEAD OF HIS CHURCH.

Many denominational leaders deny that they have placed another individual other than Christ as the head of the church. But anyone who does much thinking realizes that whoever is the leader must also have some headquarters.

Some of the different denominations have their headquarters in Salt Lake City, Utah; Springfield, Missouri; Bombay, India; Athens, Greece; Chicago, Illinois; and on and on until you find around 400 different headquarters.

However, Christ's church has no earthly headquarters. In the Bible there is not one verse of scripture commanding that an earthly headquarters be established. In fact, there is not one instance where in the beginning the churches had an earthly headquarters.

Think about it. Does your church have a national or world-wide leader? Is there a national headquarters? The only true leader the church has is Jesus Christ and his headquarters are in Heaven!

Winter Makes Early Call On Loup Valley Residents

Old Man Winter brushed a snowy white hand across the North Loup Valley Sunday, then came back Wednesday to apply a second coat. The two heavy snowfalls were a full 10 weeks ahead of the calendar, which says winter won't officially arrive until Dec. 21.

Reactions were mixed among those people that the storms affect most — cattlemen and ranchers. They generally were glad to get the moisture but fearful of the possible effects on corn, milo, and cattle.

Very little wind accompanied the Sunday storm, and as a result little damage was done.

"We didn't have many crops so down," Lloyd Zikmund reported Wednesday morning from the Agriculture Stabilization & Conservation Office. "But if the wind comes up with this snow today, the crops will be flat."

Zikmund said the Sunday snow alone was enough to stop fall grazing on temporary pastures, since the heavy snowfall had many sudan sorghums and similar type grasses "down flat."

"The moisture was just wonderful for winter wheat and regular pastures," though Zikmund reported. "The ground isn't frozen, and the moisture is just seeping right down."

Horace Travis, local weatherman, reported 3 1/2 inches of snow here in town as a result of the Sunday storm. The accumulation seemed to be pretty even throughout the area with 5 to 6 inches reported in most places. Travis measured moisture at 72 of an inch. Another 24 inch of moisture had been measured by 10 a.m. Wednesday.

Biggest danger from the early snow may be to cattle, especially just-weaned calves. Dr. Dale Karre said Wednesday that there's always some respiratory trouble this time of year, and exposure to the wet snow will increase the chances of serious problems.

However, he cautioned farmers against shutting their cattle up. "If they're shut up in a tight place the humidity is high and they get sweaty," he said. "That's almost worse than being out in the weather."

He suggested a windbreak as the best aid.

"Protection behind a windbreak or in a grove of trees is probably the best solution," he said.

County Agent John Schade said Tuesday he had not been out in the county since the snowfall, but that he had received few reports of damage.

"It will slow up corn picking," he said, "by at least five or six days. It was just about ready for harvesting." He made his comments prior to Wednesday's snowfall.

Schade also reported that some farmers had harvested a little milo before the bad weather struck.

Generally, though, he called the snowfall "not much worse than a good rain."

A few townspeople had tree limbs broken off because of the snow, and Schade said this was probably because the trees still had so many leaves on them. This caused greater accumulations of snow — and consequently heavier weights — on the limbs.

The John Meese home was a winter wonderland Sunday.

One Individual Apprehended In Narcotics Investigation Here

An Ord resident was picked up early Sunday morning in connection with a narcotics investigation being carried out by local lawmen.

Sheriff Clarence Fox confirmed Tuesday that the suspect—a male—had been apprehended and released on $500 bond. He declined to name the individual until formal charges are filed.

The sheriff said his investigation began Oct. 4 when a local farmer called him and said he had found five burlap sacks containing marijuana in one of his farm buildings. The area was immediately placed under 24-hour surveillance, which continued until the suspect appeared about 12:45 Sunday morning.

Sheriff Fox said other area lawmen, as well as members of the Ord Volunteer Fire Department and private citizens, assisted him in the stake-out.

When the suspect appeared Sunday, the two individuals then assigned to the stake-out closed in to apprehend him. He escaped on foot, but an automobile was left at the scene and was subsequently impounded, the sheriff said. The suspect was taken into custody about an hour later.

Sheriff Fox said a small amount of additional marijuana was found inside the car.

He said he did not know when formal charges would be filed. County Judge Rollin Dye, in whose court the charges will be brought, will not be back in his office until Oct. 27.

The marijuana in the burlap sacks apparently had been picked locally, the sheriff said. He added that it was "unprocessed."

Accuracy Level Falls in Grid Quiz As Jimmy Hyde Takes Top Prize

Upside sparked the fifth round of high school football play in Nebraska last week, sending the averages of Quiz contest participants tumbling.

After two straight weeks of 21-game selectors, this week's top expert was able to name only 19 of 23 winners correctly. Three persons were able to get that many right, however, and the $5 first prize eventually went to Jimmy Hyde by a mere three points on the tie-breaker score.

Hyde predicted Central City would beat Ord, 36-7, and the final score was 36-8. That was just slightly better than Mrs. Florence Janda, who called it 34-6 for Central City.

The third 19-game expert was Mrs. George Fryzek, and she too was close with a tie-breaker score of 33-0, Central City.

The 24th game in the selection contest became a throw-away when it was cancelled because of heavy rains in southeastern Nebraska. That was the contest between Fairbury and Nebraska City.

Giving contestants the most trouble were the Burwell-Cairo Centura, Grand Island-Lincoln Southeast, and McCook-Scottsbluff match-ups. All three of the top finishers missed on these as they failed to see Burwell winning its first game of the year, 24-8; Grand Island upsetting high-rated Southeast, 20-8; or McCook bouncing back from disappointments to nip Scottsbluff, 22-20.

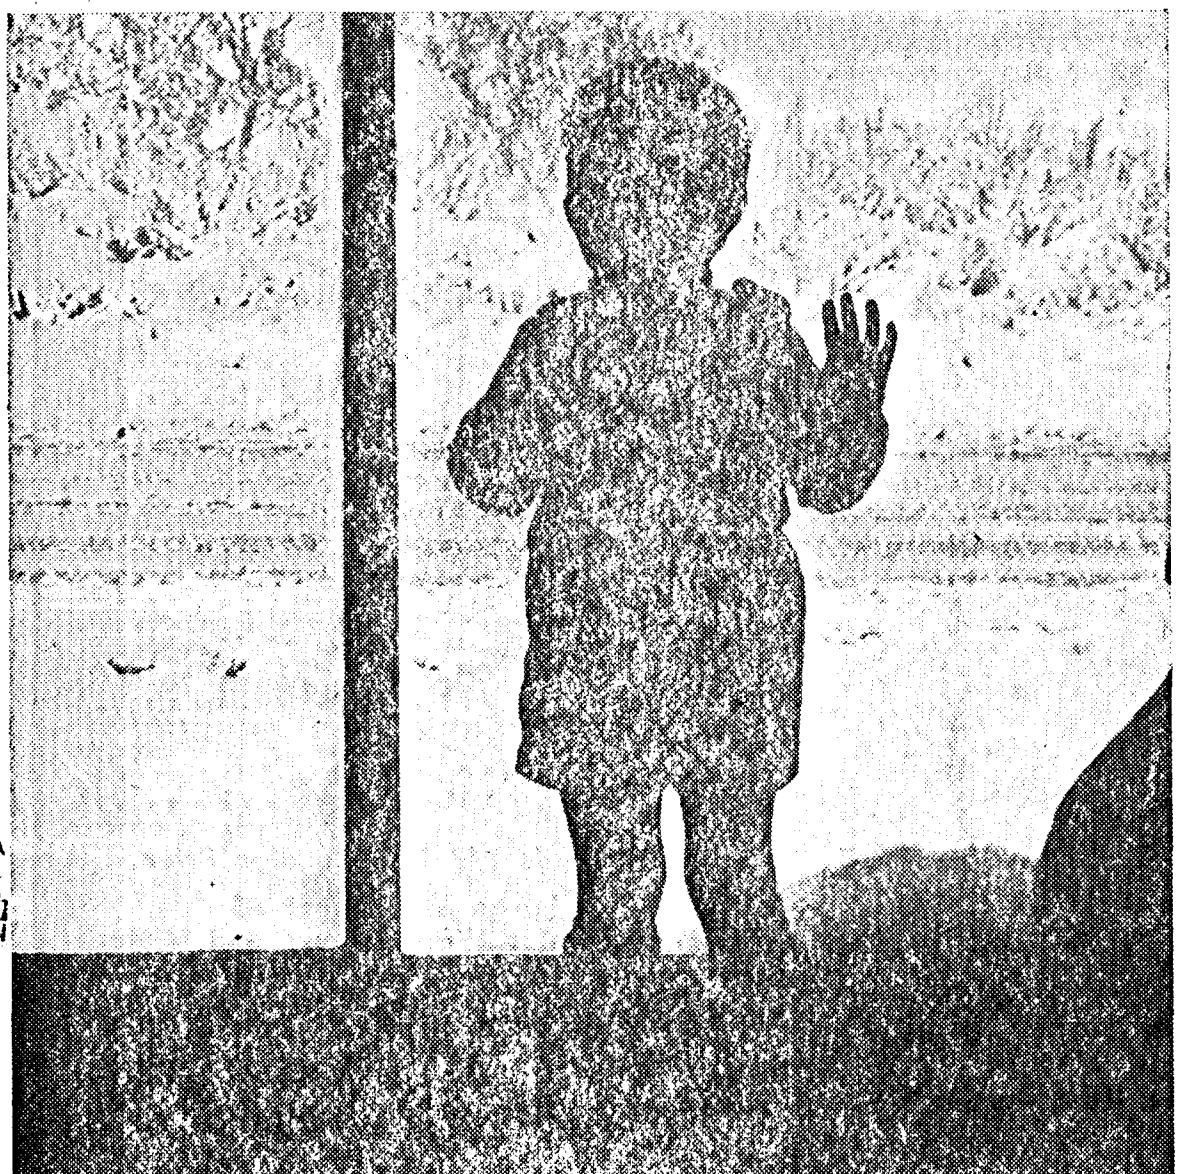

In addition to those three games, Hyde missed on Hastings-versus-Columbus. He foresaw a Hastings upset that never came off, as Columbus increased its season record to 4-1 and dropped Hastings to 0-5. The score was 32-6.

Mrs. Janda got that one right but erroneously picked North Loup-Scotia over Columbus-Lakeview (Lakeview rallied to win it, 21-20), and Mrs. Fryzek missed on Kearney-versus-Norfolk (Norfolk won that one, 22-0).

This week's entry blank and contest rules may be found on Page 6 of Section 2.

Local VFW, Rotary Club Speak Out Against War Moratorium

Two local organizations have waded into the controversy surrounding the nationwide Vietnam War moratorium. And both of them support President Richard Nixon in his stand against those who advocate immediate and complete withdrawal of United States forces.

The two organizations are Post 7029 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Ord Rotary Club. Clarence J. Fox, commander of the VFW post, issued a general statement last week calling for the "silent majority" to speak out and let Hanoi know "that the President has the support of the people in this country."

The Rotary Club unanimously passed a resolution at its Monday night meeting calling on all citizens of Ord and Valley County to fly the flag on the day of the moratorium "as an open display of trust in our government."

However, yesterday's rainy weather kept a lot of flags indoors that otherwise would no doubt have been flying.

The complete text of the Rotary Club resolution reads as follows:

"Whereas the Ord Rotary Club supports the United States government in this and all crises; "Whereas the armed forces of the United States are actively involved in the defense of the free world; "Whereas certain college students and business leaders are planning a Vietnam War moratorium in protest of our government's policies; "Whereas this moratorium will unquestionably be interpreted by the Viet Cong and Communists as a weakness in our belief in man's freedom; "Whereas the display of the United States flag symbolizes our faith and trust in the United States of America; "Now therefore be it resolved that the Ord Rotary Club go on record as opposing this moratorium, and, as an open display of our trust in our government, urge all citizens of Ord and Valley County to display the flag on Oct. 15; "Further let it be resolved that copies of this resolution be presented to Ord Mayor Bill French, the Commander of the American Legion, the adjutant of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the President of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, and all other leaders of service organizations of this area."

Fox said he urged all citizens to "speak out in support of the President and the efforts of the United States government to stem the flow of Communism in South Vietnam."

His statement was actually an outgrowth of the VFW's national convention last August, held before the moratorium had received widespread publicity. At that convention the delegates passed three separate resolutions supporting the government's position on the war.

"Delegates attending the national convention unanimously urged that our government continue to seek victory in Vietnam," Fox said, "and that all our citizens lend their full support to the men on the fighting front."

"Frankly, we are sick and tired of listening to a very vocal minority undermining the bargaining position of our President and in so doing endangering the lives of our men on the fighting front," he continued. "It is my belief that the time has come when the much talked about silent majority should speak out."

We must let the men on the battlefield know that they have the support of the people at home, and we must let Hanoi know that the President has the support of the people in this country."

Fox also urged other individuals and organizations to speak out on the Vietnam issue.

"It is my hope that the people of this area will speak out on this issue and that other patriotic, civic, and fraternal groups will join with us in this crusade," he said, adding, "I am firmly convinced that if we fail to speak out now, the vocal minority in this country will most certainly take over all that is meaningful in this land of ours. No one seeks peace more urgently than the Veterans of Foreign Wars, but we will not seek peace at any price, which is what the vocal minority is calling for today."

Six Youngsters Answer Charges In County Court

Six Ord youngsters have appeared in court on charges of County Judge Rollin Dye to answer juvenile delinquency charges.

Records in such cases are closed to the public, meaning that no names will be released. Sheriff Clarence Fox, who conducted the investigations, said that Sections 43-202 through 43-239, State of Nebraska Statutes, deal with juvenile cases. He said Section 43-206.04 specifically states that records in such cases will not be open to inspection without a court order.

The youths were involved in eight different breaking-and-entering incidents dating back to mid-July, the sheriff said. Six businesses and two homes were involved, he reported.

Although no names can be released, more information will be given later, Sheriff Fox said. He indicated that his investigation is continuing and charges may yet be brought against "three or four" other youngsters. Because of that, he did not want to disclose any additional information at this time.

Leroy Olson of Broken Bow was not hurt when this cattle truck overturned Saturday night on the north curve going into North Loup. But he did have a long day Sunday rounding up cattle. He was hauling 23 head when the truck rolled, and 11 of them were still at large Sunday morning and one had to be destroyed after suffering a broken leg. Olson said he was watching a car coming toward him on the county road that feeds into Highway 11 and did not see the curve in time. Snow was also falling at the time.

Local Girl Scouts Number 70 Members

Activities for October were the topics of discussion Friday when members of the Girl Scout Neighborhood Committee met with Mrs. Wayne Zlonke.

Scheduled Oct. 27 at the Interstate Holiday Inn in Grand Island is a leader's conference and annual meeting. The conference will be a morning event, followed by the meeting that afternoon.

Also on the calendar of events this month is the District 3 and 4 leader's training meeting set for Oct. 30 at the Odd Fellows Hall basement in Ord. Other activities include the Investiture, Fly-Ups, and re-dedication ceremonies to be held within the next two weeks.

Records indicate an all-time high enrollment among the three troops in this locale — a total of 70 girls — necessitating the addition of two new assistant leaders.

All groups meet once each week at the Odd Fellows Hall basement. Troop 110 meets each Tuesday after school with Mrs. Leo Thomsen as leader. Her assistants are Mrs. Edward Bosworth and Mrs. Harlan Green.

With the opening of duck season Saturday Mrs. Cash Welniak's 90 home-grown mallards will be the envy of every gun-foter in the area. At the back of the flock above is Oscar — a Canadian goose. Mrs. Welniak said Oscar surprised her recently with a nice big egg. She is considering selling mallards to unsuccessful hunters — and there may be plenty if the snows stick around and the ducks don't.

Betty Kula-Richard Kush Exchange Vows In Morning Ceremony at Krakow Church

Mrs. Kush ... Oct. 11

Seven branch candelabra with gold and white carnations set the scene for the morning ceremony, Oct. 11, at St. Peter and Paul's Catholic Church in Krakow when Betty Kula became the bride of Richard Kush of Snyder.

The 9 o'clock nuptial mass, officiated by the Rev. Stefan Flisiak, was followed by a dinner for 200 guests at the National Guard Armory in Columbus, a reception for 450 guests and a wedding dance at Silver Creek.

Parents of the bride are Mrs. Alex Kula of Silver Creek and the late Mr. Kula. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Mike Kush of Ord.

Carol's Corner

by Carol Leggett

Everybody complains about the high cost of living. To find out what besides prices bugs the housewife about grocery shopping, a New York advertising firm sent questionnaires to 5,000 housewives in 50 cities. The survey was designed to uncover what housewives do not like, in order to help improve products and services.

The survey turned up a total of 44 pet peeves. Of these 44 gripes, 12 were cited most often. Here are the favorite frustrations:

- (1) Inability to tell freshness of such products as bread, cakes, and dairy products because of lack of coding;
- (2) Drippy meat packages;
- (3) Cartons that leak;
- (4) Prewrapped meat, vegetables, and fruit that hide the bad side or soft spots;
- (5) Packages that say "push here" but can't be pushed and often break fingernails;
- (6) Packages that say "tear here" but won't tear;
- (7) Twist-off tops that don't twist off;
- (8) Spray cans that won't spray;
- (9) Plastic wrap that sticks so closely you lose the end;
- (10) Cookie boxes containing crushed cookies;
- (11) Toilet tissue that can't be unrolled without ripping several feet of tissue.
- (12) Cans with tear-off tabs that cut fingers.

When Mrs. Joe Osentowski — busy helping with details for the surprise anniversary party honoring Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fafelita called the Ord Quiz office last week to ask if a picture of the anniversary event could be published so that the Fafelitas' son Jim and family (who had not planned to attend) could see it. I regrettably explained to her our policy of not using anniversary pictures unless it is a 50th (or more) celebration. Was this what persuaded Jim and his wife to fly from Los Angeles, Calif., especially to share the excitement of the surprise dinner party held at the Veterans Club last Tuesday evening?

Whatever the reason, Frank and Lydia are really "just wonderful" having Jim and Joyce home for the joyous occasion.

Usually a Christian takes the heavy burdens of life more hopefully, he said, adding that God thinks of Christians as being normal rather than radical, as some persons seem to think. In closing he read a poem by Myra Brooks Wells, "Fouch of the Master's Hand," followed by the hymn, "Have Thine Own Way, Lord."

"We think Albion is best." That's the word from Coach Chuck Squier concerning the fabulous triumvirate atop the Central 10 Conference football standings. Between them, Albion, Aurora, and Central City have won 14 games and lost just 1. They start playing each other this week when Albion and Central City, both with 50 records, get together.

Squier should be qualified to talk about who's best, since his Chanticleers have now played all three. They were beaten by Albion, 34-6; Aurora, 27-0; and Central City, 36-3.

"We asked the boys too, and they seemed to think Albion was best," Squier added.

Fortunately, he and his fellow coaches don't have to worry about what that trio is doing this week. They get back in against somebody more their own speed when they go to St. Paul for a Friday night game.

In last week's action Ord made its finest offensive showing against any of the contenders, rolling up a total of 223 yards. Its rushing game was particularly effective, accounting for 143 yards. But mistakes kept the Chants from getting on the scoreboard more than once during the evening.

Four interceptions were especially painful. They came when Ord was at the Central City 34-yard line, 23-yard line, 21-yard line, and 28-yard line.

In spite of those errant throws, Coach Squier said he thought sophomore quarterback Paul Markley played one of his best games. His play-calling was especially improved, Squier said, although he acknowledged that more than the usual number of plays were sent in from the bench.

While Ord was having difficulty in the air lanes, Central City was doing just the opposite. The Bisons showed a wonderfully balanced offense as they made 191 yards rushing and 190 passing.

A superb passing combination of Dale Abel to Mike Henney was the biggest problem for the Chanticleers. It clicked seven times over distances ranging from 13 to 55 yards. And some of the completions came at times that give coaches gray hair. A 29-yarder, for example, came when Central City faced fourth and 20.

Ord opened and closed the game impressively, and had streaks of success in between. But the big play hurt.

The Chants dominated the opening minutes of play, holding Central City without a first down on its first two possessions. Meanwhile, their offense moved from its own 40 to the Central City 26 the first time it had the ball. But then came the first of the four interceptions.

On its third possession Central City moved swiftly to its opening score. After feeding tailback Steve Zikmund into the line the first two series, quarterback Able kept himself on the third series and went around end. It worked twice, once for 21 yards and the second time for 36 and the touchdown.

Even though Central City still had its first lead in Ord controlled play in the fourth quarter.

Central City's first team stayed in the game until 40 seconds were left on the clock. The Bisons almost suffered a catastrophic injury as Abel led the game holding his wrist with 3 1/2 minutes showing on the clock. However, he was back in later.

North Loup-Scotia Can't Hold Lead In 21-20 Setback

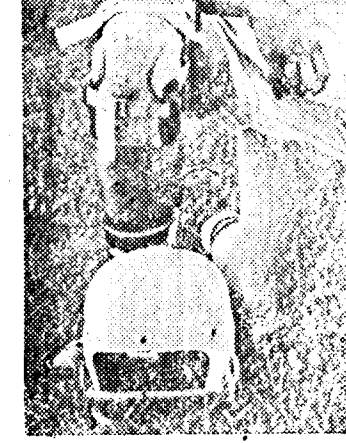

Coughing up a 12-point lead in the fourth quarter, North Loup-Scotia lost its first game of the season Friday night.

The Wildcats were beaten by a strong Columbus Lakeview team, 21-20. The win hiked Lakeview's season record to 4-1 and dropped North Loup-Scotia's to 3-1.

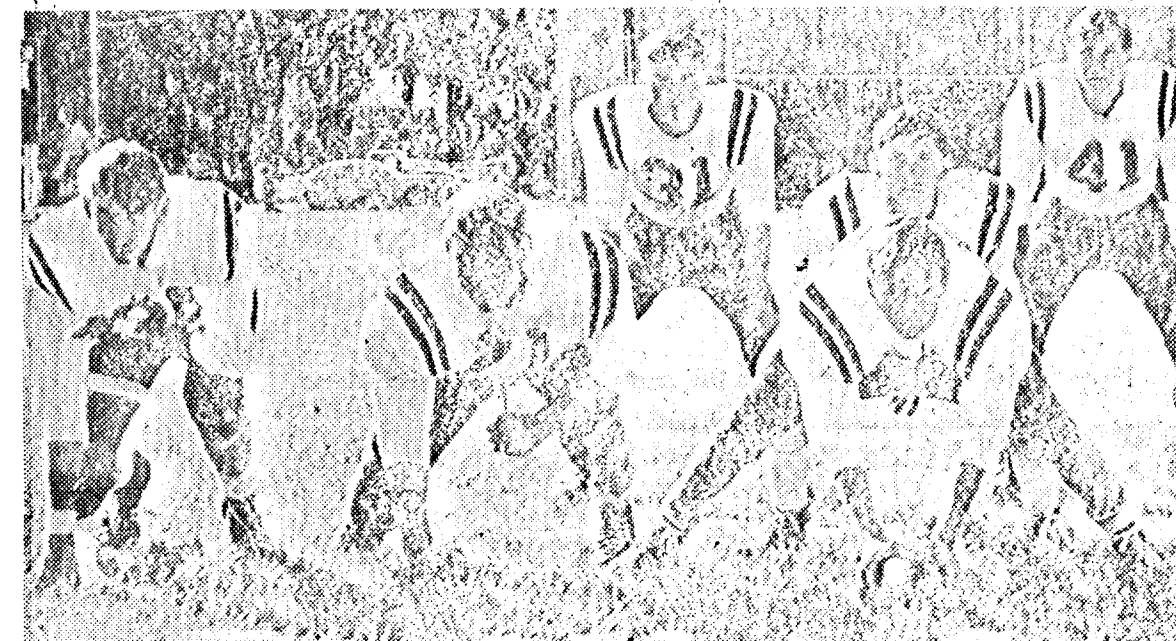

There's more trouble ahead for Coach Keith Stehr's Wildcats this week as they host rapidly improving Ansley. The Warriors rolled over Sargent, 20-12, last week.

Dave Edwards and Gordy Krieveld helped North Loup-Scotia build its lead over Lakeview as they divided the three touchdowns. Edwards got two of them, on runs of 69 and 8 yards. Krieveld also scored on an 8-yard play.

Providing North Loup-Scotia with fine tackle play this season are, left to right, Roger Otto, Steva Rasmussen and Dana Wert. All are seniors. They will be in action for the Wildcats tomorrow night against Ansley.

Key figures in the three victories posted this season by the Loup County Wildcats have been these eight offensive starters. Left to right across the line are Marlin Ferguson, Jim Glidden, Bob Peterson, Dan Shapland, and John Reynolds. The quarterback is Larry Blouch, and the halfbacks are Dvane Schneider and Veip Johnson. The Wildcats defeated Oconto, 38-20, last week and will meet Wheeler Central tomorrow night.

Jerry Childers scored on offense and defense both.

Ansley jumped off to a 14-point lead in the opening quarter Friday night against Sargent, then made it stand up for a 23-12 LIHTC Conference victory.

Mistakes hurt Sargent badly as the Bulldogs lost the ball six times. They turned over two fumbles and had four passes intercepted.

Still, Tim Griebel's aerial game was good for 112 yards and both Sargent touchdowns. He hit Howard Cooper on an 11-yard throw and Mark Cooper on a 5-yard toss.

Broncos Reverse Trend, Roll in Second-Half Play

Wheeler Central's football team has discovered a complete cure for the second-half ailments it was experiencing, earlier this year.

After losing one game and tying another because of second-half scoring outbursts by their opponents, the Broncos found out two weeks ago that they aren't nearly so bed off if they can keep scoring in the last half themselves. They ran up a 200 half-time lead against Stuart and eventually won by a 34-20 count, despite the usual comeback by their foe.

Then last week the Broncos learned that continuing to score themselves is fine, but holding their opponents scoreless is even better. And that's exactly what they did as they won over Chambers, 42-6, after leading by only 14-6 at halftime.

Ends Brian Hinze and Jerry Childers were outstanding in Wheeler's best defensive effort of the season. Besides harassing Chambers running backs most of the night, they were prime reasons that the enemy passing game connected on just five of 22 attempts.

Their strong rush also helped cause four interceptions. Two of them were made by Childers himself. He turned one into a touchdown, returning it 12 yards to the Chambers end zone. On that play Hinze hit the ball first and knocked it straight up, giving Childers time to run under it and intercept.

Gene Schmeits and John Olson each had an interception too as the entire Wheeler Central defense glittered.

After all the second-half troubles experienced by his team earlier in the year, Coach Tom Majors was also heartened by a net gain of six yards that the Wheeler Central defense limited their foe to during the last two periods.

In addition to his fine defensive game, Childers was a big factor in the Bronco offense. From his fullback post the 180-pound senior rambled for 63 yards on nine carries, or an average of 7 per tote. He scored one touchdown this way too, carrying the ball in from 24 yards out. Olson was the biggest offensive gun, however, rolling up 142 rushing yards on 19 carries. He averaged 7 1/2 yards per rush and scored two touchdowns, one on a 45-yard run and the other on a 35-yard play. In addition, the blond-haired junior ran across three two-point conversions, giving him a total of 18 points for the night and raising his season output to 56 in five games. He thus went ahead of Schmeits in the team scoring battle for the year.

With one touchdown Friday, Schmeits now has 50 points for the year. He scored on a 3-yard carry.

Childers is third in scoring for the year, with his 12 points last week giving him 26 for the season. Scott Patrick, who scored on a 17-yard play against Chambers, has 18 for the year.

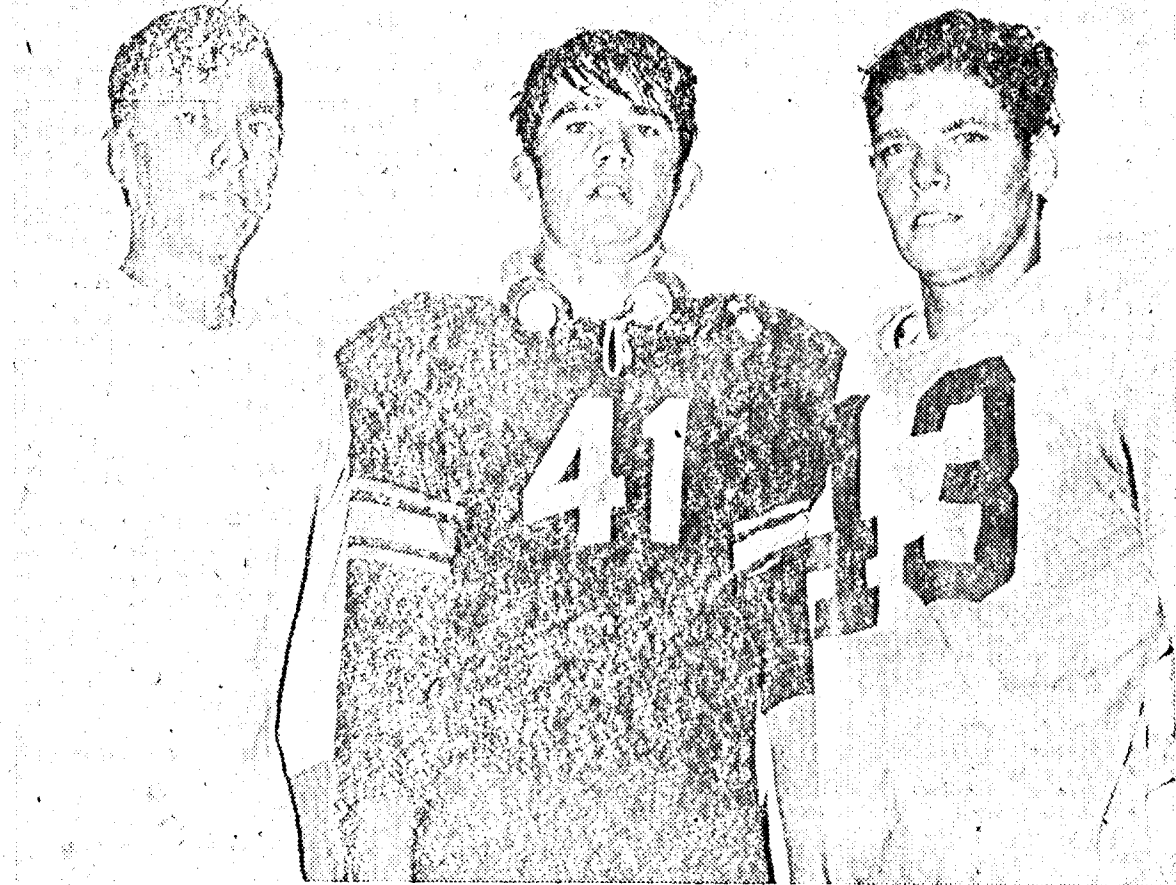

Quarterback Tom Majors did not score Friday night, and his 14 points overall are low among the starting backs and ends. However, his passes have helped the others score seven touchdowns and a pair of two-point conversions — or 46 of the 104 points posted by Wheeler Central this fall. Friday night he connected on four of seven throws for 65 yards.

Chambers, which remained winless for the year, was handicapped by the absence of junior end Loren Butterfield, who did not play at all because of an injury. The Coyotes also lost Frank Lambert, a junior center, who hurt an ankle in the first half and did not return to action.

Ed Durre scored their touchdown on a two-yard smash. Now 3-1-1 for the year and 2-0 in the Western Division of the Sandhill Gateway Conference, Wheeler Central goes on the road this week for a big game with Loup County at Taylor.

Doormats of the division last year when they failed to win a game, the Wildcats may be Wheeler's toughest opponent for division honors this time. They're 3-2 for the season and 1-0 in games that count.

An important factor in the four victories Arcadia has posted this season has been the Huskie end play. It has been far above average, with the three fellows shown above primarily responsible. They are, left to right, Paul Dietz, Pat Murray, and Mike Chelowski. The Huskies defeated Litchfield, 20-8, last week and will put their 4-1 record on the line tomorrow night (Friday) against Elba.

Winless Wood River was beaten badly in the statistics but used a tenacious defense to stay within two points of Loup City Friday night, 8-6.

The victory was the third in a row for the Red Raiders after a pair of opening defeats. They'll go for No. 4 tomorrow night (Friday) at Gibbon. Their Lou-Platte Conference record is now 3-1.

Loup City mounted two fine drives — one in the first quarter and one in the fourth — against Wood River. But in between the Raiders tried to show much offense.

Coach Don Wagner was also concerned about mistakes. After being plagued early in the year, his team had virtually eliminated them in subsequent contests. But against Wood River penalties particularly impeded. Raider progress, as a total of seven were stepped off for 65 yards. The winners also lost one fumble and one pass interception.

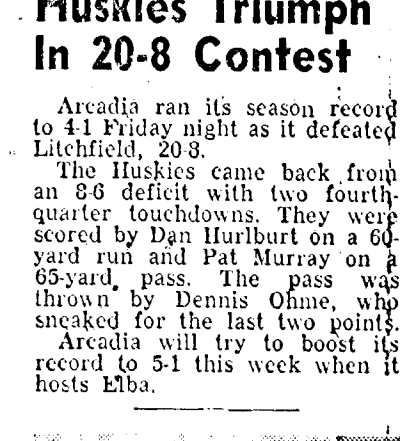

Despite the problems, Coach Wagner called the first-quarter touchdown drive the best of the season for his team. It consumed 16 plays, but more importantly it used up over half of the first quarter. Mark Eurek was the workhorse in the drive, carrying seven times. He also got the last

Huskies Triumph In 20-8 Contest

Arcadia ran its season record to 4-1 Friday night as it defeated Litchfield, 20-8.

The Huskies came back from an 8-6 deficit with two fourth-quarter touchdowns. They were scored by Dan Harburt on a 64-yard run and Pat Murray on a 65-yard pass. The pass was thrown by Dennis Ohme, who sneaked for the last two points.

Arcadia will try to boost its record to 5-1 this week when it hosts Elba.

This has been a banner year for area anglers in search of big catfish. The latest to achieve success was Bill Plock, who caught a 12 1/4-pounder from the North Loup River.

Elba Goes Down, 36-6 To Explosive Callaway

It was a "down" night Friday for Elba's erratic Blue Jays as they lost to Callaway, 36-6.

After teammates Jim Dodge and Jim Bristol had given Callaway enough points for victory, quarterback Terry Myers made things secure with three running touchdowns. Dodge scored the first eight points and Bristol the next six on a 50-yard pass interception.

New Dairy Law Details State Milk Requirements

By John Schade The 1969 session of the Nebraska Legislature has enacted two measures that will have a considerable impact on the state's milk producers. They are the Manufacturing-Grade Milk Law and the Dairy Price Control Law.

The first of these laws will particularly affect those farmers who are selling whole milk to cheese or bulk powder plants. Milk sold for this purpose is commonly referred to as "manufacturing-grade milk."

The major portion of fluid milk produced in Valley County is sold as manufacturing-grade milk. The new law sets up sanitary standards and procedures for both the farmer who produces and the dairy plants that process this grade of milk.

Main provisions of the law pertain to herd health, milk quality as determined by certain tests and observations; physical facilities, such as milk houses, barns, equipment, etc.; conditions in which these facilities are to be maintained; procedures to be used in producing and storing the manufactured product; and methods of enforcement.

The law states that "all animals in the herd shall be maintained in a healthy condition and shall be properly fed and kept." Specific requirements relative to tuberculosis, brucellosis, and mastitis are spelled out.

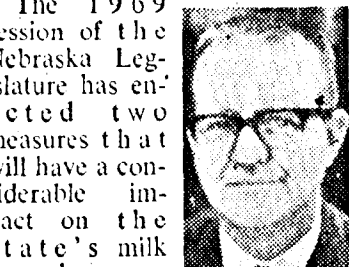

The law also states that "milk shall be free from objectionable feed and other off-flavors and off-odors that would adversely affect the finished product. Standards are set up for permissible amounts of sediment and numbers of bacteria. The law requires the use of a milking barn meeting certain physical requirements, a milkhouse or milkroom for handling and cooling milk in cans or bulk tanks, and adequate facilities for washing and storing milking equipment.

It further states that "milk in cans must be cooled immediately after milking to 60 degrees Fahrenheit or lower unless delivered to the plant within two hours after milking." Milk in bulk tanks must be "cooled to 40 degrees Fahrenheit or lower within two hours after milking and maintained at 50 degrees Fahrenheit or lower until transferred to the transport tank."

The Bureau of Dairies and Foods, State Dept. of Agriculture, is responsible for the enforcing the manufacturing-milk law.

Move Over, California and Reagan— Nebraska Has Acting Governor Too

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Assn.

LINCOLN — If Gov. Norbert Tiemann decides against continuing his political career, he could go back to his bank in Wausa. Or he could move into some other business venture.
Or, he could consider the theater. That's not too likely, but the Nebraska chief executive did get a taste of the theater last week.
The talent scout was pretty Julie Sommars of Fremont. Miss Sommars plays Dan Dailey's daughter in the television series "The Governor and I". She was visiting her native state while back and was Tiemann's seat-mate at the Nebraska Southern California football game. It was then that a real governor was recruited to appear on the television show.

Tiemann was flown to Los Angeles for the filming of a segment of the show. The portion featuring him is to be shown later in the season, at a date not yet determined. The program is carried on the CBS television network.
Miss Sommars' father, L. F. Sommars, and three brothers live in Omaha.
Getting back to Tiemann's future, he continues to be silent about a 1970 election campaign. Most political observers at the statehouse, however, are convinced he will seek another four-year lease on the governor's mansion.
They point to the new series of town-hall meetings he launched this week as one clue. The schedule continues almost until the May primary election.
The 25 town-hall meetings will take Tiemann throughout the state and give him an opportunity to speak before many voters.
Meanwhile, the first candidate for Congress in the 1970 elections has officially filed.
He is George W. "Bill" Burrows, an Adams farmer, who has entered the Democratic primary in the 1st District. Burrows, the Nebraska vice-president of the National Farmers Organization, seeks the seat now held by Rep. Robert Denney, a Republican.
Although Denney has announced he will seek reelection, he hasn't filed officially.
There is a possibility Denney could face opposition in the GOP primary from Tiemann's executive counsel, Robert Barnett. Barnett admits he is considering the race.
The governor hasn't made public his views on the possibility of his top aide tackling an incumbent Republican congressman.

Ord Supports Jaycees At Hastings Meeting

Eight persons represented the Ord Jaycee and JC-Ette chapters at the statewide fall convention held last weekend in Hastings. The Friday evening session began with a state board meeting followed by a get-acquainted meal and dance. The Midlands Motel was the main convention site, but Saturday meetings for Jaycee and Mrs. Jaycee members were held at separate meeting spots. After a meeting of chapter presidents, the Jaycees attended an interesting panel discussion presented by Governor Tiemann's staff. This was followed by viewing of state chairman booths, and separate luncheons for Jaycees and Mrs. Jaycees. Mrs. Iris Mullen, president of the Ord JC-Ette chapter, attended a local president's session Saturday morning.
At the women's luncheon physical fitness and the need for medical check-ups were stressed. This is a project which the local chapter plans to support. Special guests at the main banquet Saturday night were Mel Pfau, Colorado state Jaycee president; George Schlegel, a Jaycee vice president from the United States; and Dr. Don Blank, president of the Nebraska Jaycees.
The convention closed Sunday noon following a prayer breakfast and three-hour business meeting. Those attending from Ord were

Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Sich, Mr. and Mrs. Gaylor Boelsen, Mr. and Mrs. Elison Mulligan, Gerry Bauer, and Dale Zadina.
Ord JC-Ettes Help With Varied Tasks
At a meeting last week Ord JC-Ettes voted to contribute to the Mrs. Jaycee fund of the Chappell chapter. That group is supporting a young Chappell lad who will undergo a kidney transplant soon.
Special guests at the meeting held in the lower level of the Veterans Club were Mrs. Henry Kusek and Mrs. Andy Kusek, who appeared in behalf of the Special Services School of Ord.
Other items of business included a report by Mrs. Janet Mella on the baby-sitting clinic being held in Ord through Oct. 30, the mailing of cookies and candy to servicemen in Vietnam, and Honey Sunday, which will be observed Nov. 23.
Mrs. Delores Sich urged members to give toys for the Children's Memorial Hospital project. Mrs. Jeanne Graff was named chairman for the Special Services School project.
On Oct. 22 following the football game, the local chapter will be hosts to the Broken Bow Jaycees and Mrs. Jaycees at an exchange courtesy in the Elks Club.

Despite Melancholy Objections, Jungman Hall Will Be No More

The past can never be recaptured, and that point has been driven home to members of Jungman Z.C.B.J. Lodge No. 161. Their beloved Jungman Hall — the social and cultural center of a three-county area for many years — was sold Saturday at auction. It brought a measly $1,060.

"We're looking for someone to keep it going," Jim Rejda of Burwell said several months ago as he talked of possibly selling the building and the acres of ground it stands on. "We could sell it any day for scrap, but that's not what we want."

The hall was closed about five years ago, after it and an earlier one which burned down in 1923 had served Valley, Custer, and Garfield County residents for almost 60 years.

No One To Carry On
"The older members were not able to take care of it anymore, and we couldn't get any cooperation from the younger members," Rejda said as he explained the reason for the hall's closing. But he still held out hope that some young man or a group of young men would buy the hall, open it again and recapture the glories of a by-gone era.

But no such individual or group of individuals came forward, and the building finally went on the auction block Saturday. Elmer Brockman, who bought it, said he would move it to Burwell and either make it into a house, cut it in two and make two houses of it, or make a machine shed out of it.

Whichever route he chooses to go, it will be a most unifying end for a state structure that has probably seen more good times than any other building in these parts. Nestled deep in the Polish Alps — that rolling hill country of northwest Valley County which is so dear to many an Ord-timer — the hall once served as beer parlor, theater, and even athletic center for the surrounding community.

It is located approximately 17 miles northwest of Ord, 11 miles southwest of Burwell, and 11 miles northeast of Comstock.

Hills Were Full of People
An estimated 20 to 30 persons wandered through the building Saturday before the auction. A few were there to bid, many were just curious, and a few were old-timers who had fond memories of the place.

"One of the latter was Joe J. Bruha, a giant of a man who grew up and still lives almost in the shadow of the building. As the crowd moved downstairs for the auctioning of equipment in the basement, Bruha and another old-timer — Emil Krbel — remained behind to relive the past.

"I've seen this place when it was full of people," Bruha said with a thick accent, made so by the Czech language which was often spoken at home when he was a boy. "These hills were full of people then," he added. "There was somebody on every 100 acres."

"But my dad predicted it would turn out this way. He said the land was no good, and he was right."

"A fellow can't make a living on a quarter-section now," he added. "Not the way people want to live today," Krbel chimed in. Then he went on, "The automobile is what ruined these hills. With the automobile people can go too far away for their entertainment."

Then the two started remembering how it used to be in the hills.

"A fellow could dry some corn and make a barrel of plum butter and really have a good time," said Krbel.

"And a little wine," added Bruha with a twinkle in his eye. "And an accordion," his friend responded.

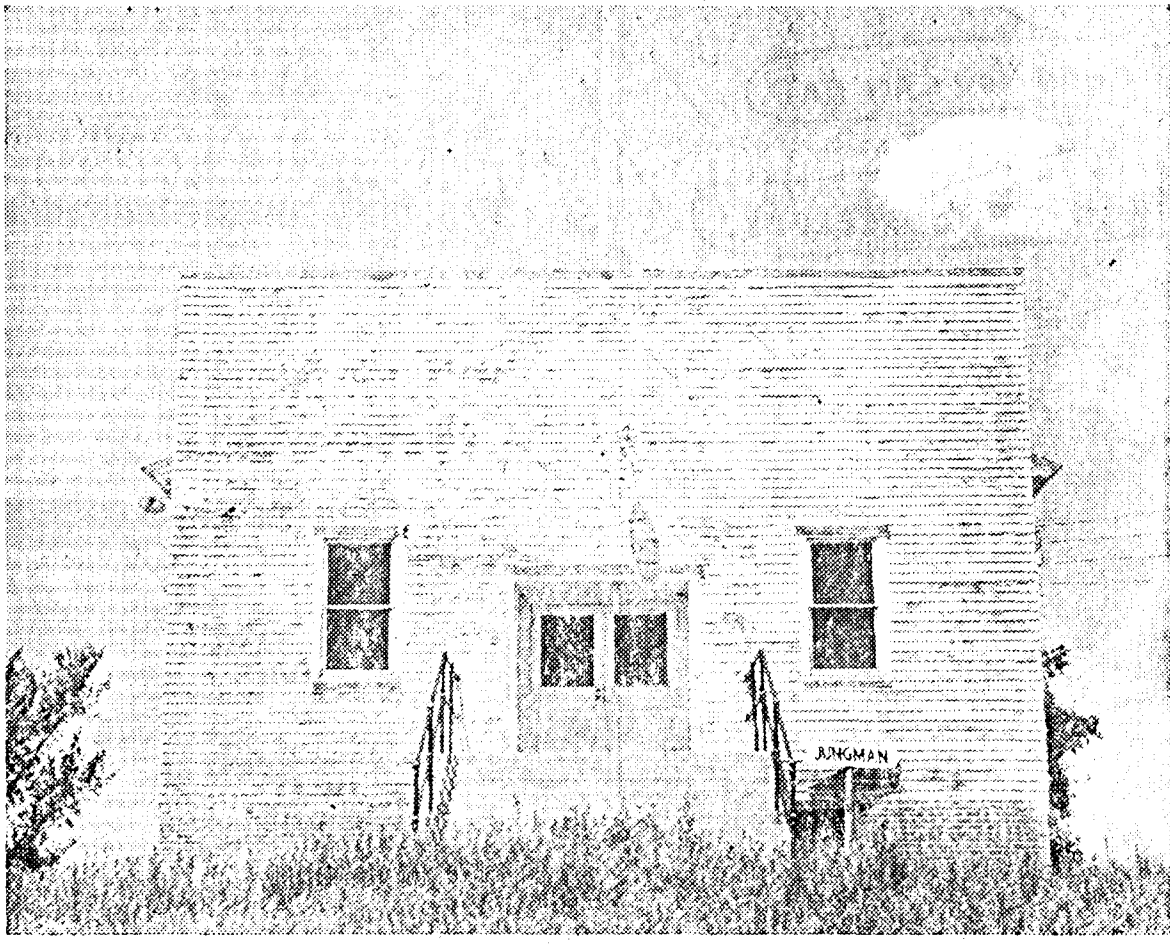

They were still talking as the reporter slipped away.

New Hall Built in '23
The current Jungman Hall was built in the spring and summer of 1923, after its predecessor burned down on a cold February night earlier that year. Joe Rousek and Joe Kriz were elected to oversee construction of the new building.

Roughly $1,350 was donated to finance the construction. "As there were no trucks in 1923, it took hundreds of wagons pulled by two and four-horse teams to haul the building materials from Burwell and Comstock," Rejda wrote earlier this year after doing considerable research on the history of the lodge.

"The sand and gravel all came from the Appelt pasture on Sioux Creek. It could be had merely for the trouble of getting it."

The lodge itself had a much earlier beginning, however. Records show that Joseph Jungman Lodge No. 161 was instituted Oct. 28, 1906. Its first officers were John Sibol, president; Frank Kriz, vice president; Joseph Hulinsky, recording secretary;

Once the social center of its community, Jungman Hall now faces a new future.

Frank Dobes, financial secretary; Frank Kolar, treasurer; Joe Rousek, overseer; Frank Nedbalek, guide; Vavrin Novak, inside guard; and Joe Kriz, outside guard.

A total of 71 persons were charter members. Five of them are still alive today. They are Mrs. Mary Fajmon, Albert Hulinsky Sr., Mrs. Francis Hulinsky, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Rousek.

The original hall was built by the Literary Club. This organization later lay dormant for many years before it was dissolved in 1943. However, through the years it did manage to accumulate a small but valuable library. Among the books on hand when the dissolution came were an early history of the United States translated into Czech, and a number of books written from Czech legends.

Rejda says he does not know where the books are now. The members wasted no time in making their new hall a true center for the community. In 1907 Elizabeth and Minnie Lukes, Jungman and Lodge Slavin of Comstock. The two groups got together and organized a sokol. This was an auxiliary to the lodge, and it supervised gymnasts who put on athletic exhibitions and stage programs. Much of the athletic equipment was among the items auctioned Saturday.

"Everyone worked with much zeal and enthusiasm," Rejda recalls. "There was a team of girls and one of boys, each doing its own kind of gymnastics and calisthenics. Then the boys and girls would get together and practice dancing the Beseda, a very pretty and graceful folk dance that's still being done every year at the Czech festivals."

Sokol Fame Spread
Stage plays were also a favorite sokol activity. The first was a one-act affair called "Under the Red Umbrella," directed by Joe Kocourek. More than 600 persons attended.

The plays then became an annual affair with the format expanding to three-act productions sokol had a trainer who came regularly for one or two weeks each year all the way from Czechoslovakia. His name was Frank Chmelik.

Rejda remembers as outstanding athletes the late James Kriz, Stanley Kovarik, Albert Kamarad, and Ed Hulinsky.

The sokols thrived for a number of years before the great depression of 1929 and the early 30s started them downhill.

"Drought and depression put the sokols into a low ebb, and the Second World War finished them," remarked Rejda.

Name Change
After fire destroyed the old Jungman Hall, the new one was built and officially opened Oct. 28, 1923. It was called simply Community Hall, but the handle reverted to Jungman some 19 years later. The switchback was approved because the Community Hall tag caused the building to frequently be confused with a similar hall in Ansley.

A number of individuals played key roles in the history of Jungman Lodge and Jungman Hall down through the years. Rejda remembers them as generous with both their time and money.

Specifically, he wrote in his research paper:

35 Ord Seniors Given Preview Of College Life
Thirty-five Ord High School seniors attended the University of Nebraska's Senior Information Day Oct. 4 in Lincoln.

The program designed to acquaint seniors with some aspects of college life.

After registering the students attended three lectures of their choice. The first two gave them an opportunity to review study areas of interest, and the third provided them an opportunity to review the particular college or school that they're interested in.

Massive Gifted Pen
"One untiring leader who stands out from the rest was the late Frank Masin Sr., who presumably on his own intuition suggested the name Josef Jungman for the Literary Club. That was way back near the turn of the century. Later the Z.C.B.J. Lodge assumed the same name."

"Mr. Masin was actively interested in planning and building both halls. In the old one, when the Literary Club was in its heyday, he acted as a librarian. He was an able writer and speaker and would be on hand with an appropriate address for every occasion."

"For some 40 years he conducted Z.C.B.J. rituals at funerals for some of his friends and neighbors. There were many times that he did not conduct the services in person, but the lines were from his pen."

"From the very beginning till some 30 years ago Memorial Day was celebrated with alternate programs presented by the Modern Woodman Camp Geranium, Z.C.B.J. Lodge Slavin, and Jungman Lodge. After the program we would go to the national cemetery to decorate graves, and short rites were held there. If the celebration were observed at Jungman Hall, the pilgrimage was to the Bohemian Brethren Cemetery."

Belina and His Brew
Another prominent figure in the molding of Jungman Hall history was Jacob Belina of Burwell. Originally an emigrant from Poland, Mr. Belina was well educated in the Polish language when he came to this country. He also mastered the Czech and English tongues and could speak any of the three fluently.

A tailor by trade, Belina is remembered by Rejda as a "very popular man around town for his wit and poetry."

"In fact," Rejda added, "when the Burwell Sokol came into its own he was a very ardent lover of the group. The sokol really caused him and inspired his poetic aspirations so that he wrote their theme song, 'Burwell Sokol,' to the tune of the 'Prune Song' which was very popular in those days. We sang the song at all our celebrations, and it was also borrowed by a sokol unit in eastern Nebraska as an opening number for their festival."

"Often when the sokols would put on a play Jake would come around with a song of his own composition to fit the occasion. That is, if the play was a love affair, he would write a love song."

"He was always happy and carried the audience away with his comedy. One time during a Fourth of July celebration he was putting on one of his highly inspirational acts. The sign, Spirit of '76, was hanging overhead. While making a gesture with his walking cane he knocked the poster off the hook. Although slightly embarrassed, he went on with the show. Some years later while rehearsing the old days, he remarked, 'I even knocked the republic down.'"

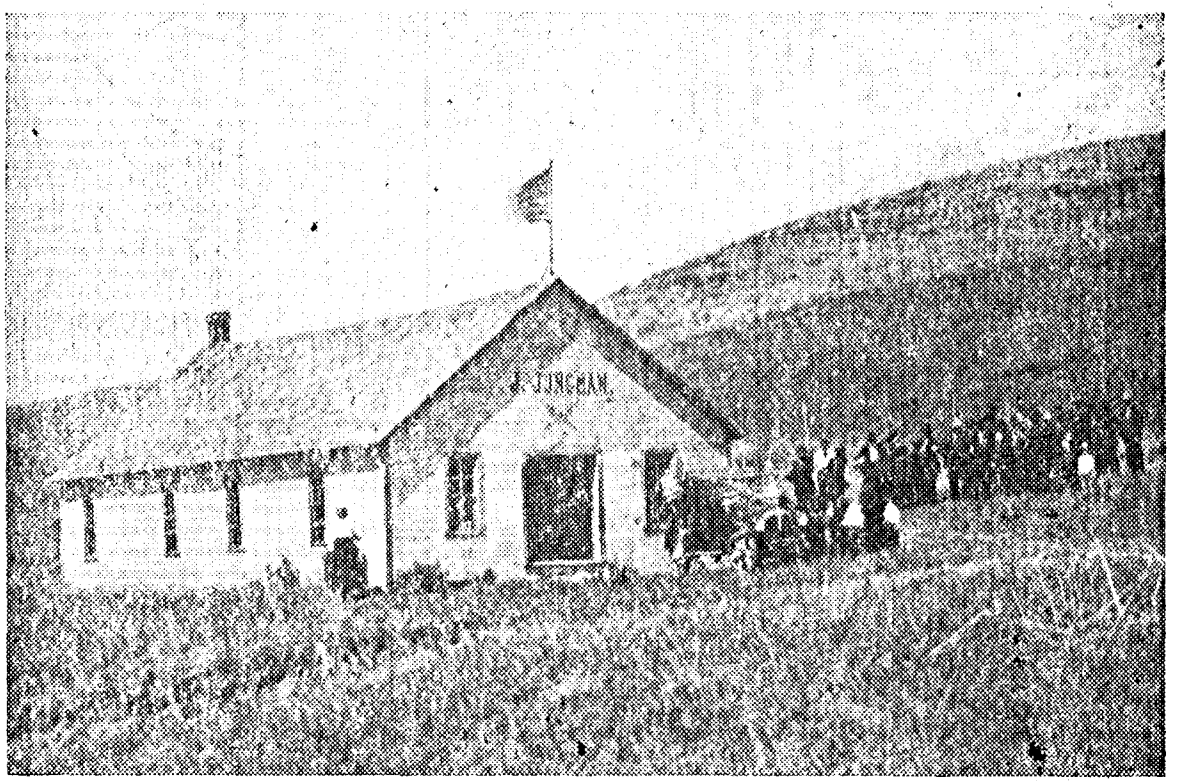

"Then there was the time before the Burwell Rodeo when the town was putting on mighty programs for the entertainment of the pre-rodeo crowd. When it was Jake's turn to stage a program, he appealed to his beloved sokols, who came to his rescue with a well-timed two-hour program."

"The opening number was a march around the square in uniform. As the leader, for a baton he naturally used his famous walking cane."

"What was not premeditated was a brisk shower at the beginning of the march, when the group opened up with the 'Rain Rain' song. Then there was a full program of calisthenics and breath-taking but graceful exercises on parallel and horizontal bars, as well as other drills and games that were routine with the sokols."

"When the show was over, old Jake took the sokol members to the basement of his tailor shop, where he was fortified with a couple of tubs of bottled homebrew on ice. Those were the days of prohibition, so the Volstead Act had to be suspended for the time being."

Atmored for Literary Man
Finally, there was the man for whom the hall was named, Josef Jungman lived from July 16, 1773 to Nov. 11, 1847. He was a Czech linguist and literary man, and made great efforts to awaken the Czech spirit of nationality and to interest the people as a whole in the national language.

This was the old hall which burned the night of Feb. 3, 1923.

"To prove his literary capacity," wrote Rejda, "he made translations from English, French, and German. His original work consisted of a history of Czech literature and language and a dictionary of the Czech language."

"His influence for good was very powerful on his own language, and his help to philology is considerable."

On a trip to Czechoslovakia prior to last year's Soviet takeover, Rejda visited St. Ventslav Square in Prague. There was a statue there of a later-day Josef Jungman, a World War II hero who helped keep the Czech spirits up while they were under Nazi domination.

As a finale to his research, Rejda wrote: "The Jungman boys can't carry on, but the old spirit remains in countless hearts."

Many a merry note once rolled off this piano, which sold for $1.

plus Anna Rejda, were appointed to put on a play. Admission was 25 cents for adults and 15 cents for children, and the lodge still made $14.00.

1915-33 Was Hey-Day
Other interesting notes from those first lodge meetings tell that the club's financial secretary was discharged for embezzlement in 1907, and that admission to a dance on Oct. 13 that year was 75 cents for males, with beer provided free.

Rejda recalls the 1915-1933 period as the real "hey-day" of Jungman Hall. But unfortunately, the journal containing minutes of that period cannot be located.

Rejda asks that anyone with a knowledge of the journals whereabouts get in touch with him. Even without minutes, however, Rejda recalls some activities of the 1915-33 period. One of the most important was a cooperative venture between Lodge after that first big success. Rejda was a featured performer.

"We got so popular that we played in Ord, Ravenna, St. Paul, and Spencer," he remembers. "After a successful performance in Spencer we were approached by a group of Z.C.B.J.'s from Colome, S.D. They wanted us to come to their city and put on our show there. They guaranteed us a full house, which meant some $200 in cash."

"But there were some in the group who were too far from home already and wanted no part of it." So the trip was never made.

Depression Hurt
The sokol teams went each year to the annual state competition for their groups, held usually in some town of eastern Nebraska.

"We always brought back certificates, merit prizes, and such," Rejda recalled. In addition, the Gymnastic and stage performances were regular fare.

The Sokols flourished in the 1920s with both male and female performers.

THE Ord Quiz

It Takes Two To Tango

Coming on the day of the Vietnam War moratorium—or the day after, depending on when you get your Quiz—Mrs. Jewell Buoy's "Vox Pop" letter printed elsewhere on this page is particularly timely.

Along with her letter Mrs. Buoy enclosed an editorial she had clipped from the Kearney State College newspaper, and it too is reprinted in full. The editorial says that warfare has become obsolete as a means of resolving differences, and Mrs. Buoy adds her approval of this sentiment. She calls the editorial "a very sensible approach to the 'war' question" and cites it as proof that some college students "are doing some very good reasoning."

First, it is obvious that the editorial does not represent any original thinking by Kearney State College students, since the attribution line at the bottom clearly states that it was rewritten from the Tippecanoe Press, Inc.

Nevertheless, because of its timeliness we will offer it the respectability of comment.

Nothing New

As a lofty, high-sounding treatise the editorial offers some points with which no one will argue. For example, war is inefficient—at least it is when it's conducted the way the one in Vietnam has been. Furthermore, it is expensive, wasteful, cumbersome, and inhumane—for proof of this just ask any of the 413 American servicemen who are known to be prisoners of war in North Vietnam, or any of the 918 others who are missing and believed captured. We'll even admit that war is sometimes inconclusive, especially when pursued without a clear-cut goal of victory, as in Vietnam.

But these are not enlightening new conclusions suddenly conjured up by the bright young liberals of 1969. They are simply another way of stating what famed Civil War General William T. Sherman said almost 90 years ago:

"There is many a boy here today who looks on war as all glory, but boys, it is all hell." Or, as the statement subsequently has been shortened to, "War is hell."

War, in and of itself is not to be desired. Those who advocate victory in Vietnam and a continued strong stand against Communism wherever it attempts to encroach upon free peoples do not say that it is.

Let's Be Realistic

But is it a "very sensible approach" to call war obsolete as an instrument of government policy, as Mrs. Buoy contends?

In an idealistic world it undoubtedly would be. In the realistic world we live in it is not.

The plain truth is that war can be obsolete as an instrument of government policy only when other nations are willing to accept it as obsolete too. As of today that is not the case.

Had we decided that war was obsolete prior to World War II, the entire world would probably be under the yoke of tyranny today. Had we decided that war was obsolete prior to the Korean War, 24 million South Koreans who are free today would know no such freedom.

Using war as a means for implementing aggression is an awful thing. But using war as a means for defending freedom is a noble gesture of which this entire country should be proud.

Mrs. Buoy's editorial says that "we are never proud of war, of what we do or suffer to be done." Yet most servicemen who took part in World War II are proud of what they did—proud that they could have a hand in preserving freedom. The same is true of World War I, the Korean War, and yes—the Vietnam War.

Is U.S. Action in Vietnam Justified?

Let there be no doubt that war as it is being waged by the United States in Vietnam is just, let us review briefly the history of that conflict.

Quoting from the 1969 issue of the Reader's Digest Almanac: "As a result of the Geneva Conference on Indochina, North Vietnam came into being in 1954, created out of Tonkin and the northern region of Annam. The early years of its existence saw the imposition of Communism and the collectivization of farms, the latter reportedly entailing the execution of more than 100,000 farmers. Armed peasant revolts against collectivization in 1956 were suppressed militarily.

"In 1959 North Vietnam instigated a campaign of terror and subversion in South Vietnam, hoping to annex that state and unify Vietnam under Communist rule. The southern segment of the Communist Lao Dong Party, which had remained clandestinely active in South Vietnam after 1954, spearheaded the insurgency, which was directed and supplied from the north. The United States helped South Vietnam to defend itself, providing military supplies, technicians, advisers, and, since 1965, fighting men.

"As resistance to the insurgency grew, North Vietnam increased its infiltration of soldiers and weapons into the South. The U.S. retaliated with air attacks against North Vietnam. . . . Despite claims to the contrary, the United States is not conducting an immoral war in Vietnam; nor are we interfering in a civil war that is none of our business, as some would have us believe. Furthermore, our government has gone to great lengths in a one-sided effort to bring peace to Vietnam.

"We therefore join the ranks of those opposing the moratorium, and we suggest that war be declared obsolete and made extinct when aggression and tyranny become obsolete and extinct.

Order . . . What Order?

That statement credited to Andre Previn's press agent Tuesday has to be the quote of the week.

Wendy Hanson, the press agent, told newsmen that Previn had authorized her to disclose that he and actress Mia Farrow are expecting a baby. (Miss Farrow is not one of the two women to whom Previn has been married.)

Miss Hanson then went on to say that Previn did not wish to discuss marriage plans in public at this time, but "it will all proceed in due time."

It sounds here like the order is already pretty well jumbled.

Dear Editor: I was reminded again Sunday evening — just at milking time too — how very much we take for granted until we are in trouble. So here's a special thank you to the R.E.A. crew for the excellent service we received from them. When the weather is bad and the roads are tough, they are on the go and so accommodate.

Dear Editor: Enclosed is an editorial clipped from the Kearney College paper, the Antelope. I think it is a very sensible approach to the "war" question. I get awfully tired of the hysterical approach Extinction of War?

Warfare has finally become obsolete. That statement didn't startle you as much as it should, because you read it as "war is bad," and who argues with that? One might as well say, "Sin is naughty" or "Hooray for motherhood."

But "OBSOLETE" is our word. Listen. If American business methods were as ineffectual as warfare, how long could business exist? We're not talking about the technique of warfare—Z-brand kills three times more rapidly than X-brand, our flame-throwers burn hotter than your flame-throwers. We're talking about warfare itself, as a means of resolving differences.

Warfare is an unsatisfactory, inefficient, expensive, wasteful, cumbersome, inhumane, and inconclusive means of settling any difference between men or nations.

Unsatisfactory — There is no joy in the doing of it. Any person doing a job likes to do a craftsmanlike job, and be proud. We are never proud of war, of what we do or suffer to be done.

Inefficient — It consumes out of all proportion to its product. The vast bulk of time and materials consumed is in "making ready" — getting in position to do something. And the ultimate military package is delivered to an area rather than an individual, like burning down the forest to drive out the wolf.

Expensive — Read your tax statement again. Read your national budget figures for any recent year. Read any nation's budget figures.

Wasteful — It destroys more than the opposition's war potential. It destroys people — civilians, old men, women, babies. It destroys the land, and the land's productivity. It destroys the future of "winners" as well as losers. Winners, after all, end up refinancing the losers.

Cumbersome — It moves slowly but massively; it involves the entire nation, often the entire world, regardless of the size or importance of the triggering cause. It is like carrying a locomotive engine on a trailer to power your car — hard to steer, harder to stop, and always behind, pushing you into unforeseen situations.

Inhumane — Who can doubt that there are more humane methods of reasoning than the club, the knife, the gun? And who is convinced of an opponent's essential rightness by the loss of an eye or a life?

Inconclusive — This is the judging, sentencing, damning word. For what was has been conclusive? The immediate points in argument may be awarded to the stronger by treaty or seizure. But in 20 or 30 years' time, a rematch occurs. No title of land ownership, no political idea, no economic philosophy, is established by warfare.

War as an instrument of government policy is obsolete. What we need to do now is find ways to change the word to "extinct." This is not impossible. Unprecedented, perhaps. But within our own century, elimination of polio, cancer, and malaria was considered impossible. Men on the moon — impossible. Pictures through the air — impossible. That word impossible is itself becoming obsolete.

U.S. Ally, Rather Than Enemy, Is Target of Proposed Senate Resolution

By Paul Scott

WASHINGTON — From the resolutions being pushed by anti-war liberals in the Senate, you would never know that North Vietnam is the nation refusing to negotiate and the one responsible for killing thousands of Americans.

Nearly all the anti-war resolutions would lead one to believe that the real enemy of peace and the United States is the present anti-Communist government of South Vietnam.

An alarming example of this move to create a "new enemy" in South Vietnam is the "Sense of the Senate" resolution being pushed by Senators Harold Hughes (D-Ia.) and Thomas Eagleton (D-Mo.)

The resolution is scheduled to receive priority treatment during the televised hearings on Vietnam that will be conducted soon by the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee. It calls on the Nixon Administration to terminate all military, political, and economic assistance to South Vietnam "unless major reforms are taken by that government within the next 60 days."

Significantly, most of the main reforms being demanded by Senators Hughes and Eagleton are those being advocated by Hanoi. One calls for the establishment of a provisional government in Saigon which would be made up of all groups in South Vietnam, including Communists.

Sensors Hughes and Eagleton, who have been strangely silent concerning hundreds of Americans held prisoners by Hanoi, also demand that the Nixon Administration pressure the Saigon government "to grant liberty and amnesty to political prisoners."

Records of the Saigon government show that most of these "political prisoners" are known Communists or persons who advocated a coalition government with the enemy during time of war. The others broke wartime laws.

State of Economy Has Fellers Worried; They Fear Taxes May Soon Top Wages

DEAR MISTER EDITOR: I have heard it said that when big men get together they study ideas, when average folks meet they talk about things, and when little minds talk they gossip. Well, Sir, from what come out of the session at the sale barn Saturday, you would have to look hard to find a brain in the bunch.

First off, there was Elmer Lukesh, who is always ready to talk as long as the fellers will listen and then some. Elmer had a usual pocketful of clippings from papers and magazines he reads, and he was prepared to give another of his economy speeches.

Elmer had seen that since 1940 the number of federal workers has gone from just over 1 million to more than 22 million, so that more than one in every 10 people in this country now is on the federal payroll. The government, he allowed, is growing a heap faster than the country, and he was worried about what will happen when taxes are more than wages.

Back early this year, reported Elmer, the administration found out it was costing more not to have federal workers than to have 'em. When Congress ordered federal jobs frozen at 22,386,004, the government agencies started contracting work they couldn't get done to private outfits.

It turned out that it cost $250 million more to hire that work done than it did to pay folks on the payroll to do it.

Then Elmer had seen where the government had approved a $265,000 loan to a Mississippi golf club in a county where 40 percent of the folks are living below federal poverty levels. Elmer said he wondered how many of them 40 percent were happy to get out and play golf when they were hungry and couldn't find work.

Joe Rutar was at the meeting too, and he reported that work done had said garbage soon was going to be a natural resource like gold and gas. Joe said we must run out of everything if we got to dig up our garbage and "reprocess" it for valuable materials.

Finding out they've been paying to have valuable garbage hauled away ain't going to set good with big-city voters either, Joe added.

Ed Novak said he wasn't surprised at anything these days. He said he had seen where some towns were spending $6,000 a year to sweeten the smell of its sewage disposal plant and where they're bringing out makeup to give women the natural look.

Ed said we got the whole thing turned around when we got so used to smelling sweet and soon-en looking like nature made 'em.

Yours truly, Geranium Joe

Something Different

Hard to Be An Angel

Trying to operate with crutches is crazy and full of unexpectedness. It's rather like having four stiff legs.

I get ready to lean over something, and I remind myself of the pictures of giraffes I've seen with their four legs all spraddled out, trying to get to a water hole.

If I forget to shift the darned crutches when I go to sit down, I am likely to rip out my armpits. It seems those crutches are always in the way. And likely to be for some time to come.

There are all kinds of rules about using them. To go upstairs, put your best foot up; then later here comes the poor foot or the new leg or whatever, along with the pair of crutches.

To go downstairs, the troublesome leg goes first with the crutches. To remember all this, I heard the young therapists tell a little boy, "Remember, the good little angels go up, like your good foot; and bad little devils go down, like your bad foot."

I learned a host of other rules too, but most of them not so interestingly put.

And may I mention, to be an angel and go upstairs still gives me trouble?

When I was a little girl, I used to think it great sport to borrow my grandmother's crutches and hobble around. She was a tiny person, so they fitted me very well. They had very soft, padded top pieces.

I find it isn't nearly so much fun to use crutches when it is mandatory.

I also find it isn't such sport to wear white knee-high socks, tightly fitted, but this Mayo's insist on for all surgical patients for many weeks. It is supposed to cut back the big incidence of embolisms, and the men must wear them too.

But when I get them off . . . difficult, next to impossible . . . I find I freeze. So I may have to take the darned things up permanently.

U.S. air defense forces have been cut back on the theory that Russia would gradually decrease its bomber force as its land-based missile force grew to match that of the U.S.

So far that has not happened. The Russians are now believed to have about 250 long-range bombers. In addition, they have some 700 medium-range Badger and Blinder bombers that could be used in one-way attacks on this country.

Reports that several of these medium-range Soviet bombers have re-appeared in Cuba are also being investigated by Representative Rivers and his committee. If a MIG-17 can be flown undetected to the United States, according to Rivers, so can a Russian bomber.

KERRY ON By Kerry Leggett

Always looking for something "new" to use with opening, closing, and illustrating my "standard" speech material, I often run across most interesting little stories. If I could remember just half of them, I'd be in good shape behind the podium. Like all speakers I write one talk, give another one, and then give the one I SHOULD have given when I'm on my way home and all by myself.

This search for new material necessitates constant research on my part. Probably the time devoted to research is the most rewarding part of public speaking. It involves the greater part of my leisure time. But it is time well-spent in developing new ideas and looking at life from many viewpoints.

The inability to communicate is what has caused our generation gap today. Today's demonstrations are only a means of trying to communicate. Words are far more powerful than physical violence. Unable to express themselves verbally, the youth of today revert to physical expressions in everything from dress to violence on the streets.

Dr. E. C. Nance in his speech, "The Power and Glory of the Word," best expresses the power of words:

"Words, as symbols of ideas and ideals, have the power to make people fall in love or out of love; to be faithful or unfaithful to their vows and pledges.

"Words can bring a song to the lips or a sting to the soul.

They can produce tears or laughter, success or disaster. They can bringuster and brightness to the face of a child or send him to bed sobbing and sorrowful.

"Words can change the face of a city, build churches, schools, playgrounds, boys' clubs, scout troops, civic forums, civic clubs, little theatres, civic music organizations, garden clubs, and better local governments.

"Words can turn a sinner into a saint or a saint into a sinner. They can engender self-respect, hope, and constructive ambition in a friend, acquaintance, or employee; or words can discourage and frustrate him.

"The force of words is great, good, glorious, or terrifying. . . . Civilization is where it is today by the force of words. Man's present moral behavior is the fruit of the word. Everything on this earth created by the mind and hand of man was first an idea brought out in the minds of the world on the wings of word.

"We still remain dependent upon speech. We need words that will make us laugh, wonder, think, aspire, and hope. We need words that will leap and sing in our souls. We need words that will cause us to face up to life with a fighting faith and contend for those ideals that have made this the greatest nation on earth."

To this I can add only one word: AMEN!

Community Residents Long for Indian Summer

By Wilma Nagorski

The people in this community woke up Sunday morning to find to their surprise a blanket of about six inches of snow.

This meant that the work of mowing the fourth cutting of alfalfa was done and some cane fields will be hard to mow — if they can be cut at all.

Most driveways were drifted in, and even some roads were blocked because of drifting snow. The mail truck was late Monday getting to Comstock, and the school buses were battling the bad roads once again — just like last winter.

Local residents hope to wake up to Indian summer again one of these mornings.

Dyes Have Busy Week

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Dye and Alan, plus Judy Forbes, all from Ralston, left Monday afternoon after spending several days with Mr. Dye's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clint Dye, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Dye and Lisa left for Omaha Thursday after spending a week with the Clint Dyes. Mark is also their son. He and his family left Omaha about 3 a.m. Saturday for their home in Indianapolis, Ind., and arrived at their destination about 3 p.m.

The Clint Dyes also drove to Omaha where they and the Mark Dyes visited with Mr. and Mrs. Mike Cosentino and baby son, Mike. They stopped to see the Keith Dyes at Ralston. The Comstock residents returned home Saturday forenoon.

Receives Forestry Honor

James Proskocil, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Proskocil Jr., was chosen from among 17 forestry students at the University of Missouri to take part in the Northeastern Old Foresters Conclave Contest. It was held Friday and Saturday on the northern tip of the Michigan peninsula.

Young Proskocil returned to Columbia, Mo., Sunday afternoon. He said he enjoyed the trip and contest very much.

The weather is a little unfavorable at Columbia, he reported. Heavy rains were causing lowland flooding when he called, with many trailerhouses already partly under water. His was, for it is situated at a higher level.

None Left for Goldlocks

The American Legion Auxiliary of Comstock served a soup supper at the Community Hall Saturday evening. The supper was very well attended with hardly any leftovers.

Ord City Council

Ord, Nebraska
October 7, 1969
The Mayor and Council met in special session at the city hall at 5:00 P.M. for the purpose of the examination and consideration of the bids for the police car.
The Mayor presided and councilmen present were: Christensen, Sears, Oentowski, Lee. Absent: VanZandt, Zapp.
Notice of special call on October 7, 1969 at 5:00 P.M. was posted on the door of the City Hall prior to said meeting.
Councilman Lee, present, informed the mayor and council that the bid of Lee Motor Company Inc., of which he is an officer and interested, submitted in response to notice to bid, was for the purchase of a new police vehicle in the amount of $2,065.07. The maximum consideration provided by law by any officer or bidder having a direct or indirect interest and that therefore Lee Motor Company, Inc. requested that any acceptance of said bid by the action of the Council at the General Meeting of the Council on the date of October 6, 1969 be withdrawn and rescinded.
It was moved by councilman Lee, seconded by councilman Oentowski, that the action taken on the bid of Lee Motor Company, Inc. at the meeting of the council on the date of October 6, 1969 be revoked, rescinded and said bid withdrawn and consideration of the council. Upon roll call vote the following: councilman voted Yes: Christensen, Oentowski, Lee. Voting No: None.
Thereupon the mayor asked for discussion and the examination and consideration of the sole and only other bid on file by Todd Chevrolet Co. Inc. of Ord, Nebraska. Upon consideration thereof it was determined and found that said bid as filed was not in the alternative, with and without trade, and is based on outright acquisition, without any trade, on the old police vehicle. That it was the intent of the Mayor and Council that any notice to bidders require bids in the alternative despite any discrepancy or ambiguity in notice to bidders given and that therefore said bid should be withdrawn from consideration.
It was moved by councilman Christensen, and seconded by councilman Sears, that for the reasons considered and determined that all bids for the acquisition of a new police car filed by bidders, opened and examined at the general meeting of the Mayor and Council on the 6th day of October, 1969, be and the same hereby are rejected. Upon roll call vote the following councilman voted Yes: Christensen, Sears, Oentowski, Lee. Voting No: None.

Moved by Christensen, seconded by Oentowski and carried that the meeting adjourn.

Richard Rowball kept his sense of humor Friday, despite extensive damage to his plumbing and heating shop caused by a hit-and-run driver.

Shades of Daytona! Hit-and-Run Driver Has Mouths Agape

Amateur detectives in Ord had a merry time Friday trying to figure out the comings and goings of a hit-and-run driver who struck Rowball Plumbing & Heating early that morning.

As finally pieced together by Valley County Sheriff Clarence Fox and a host of amateur lawmen, a car was traveling south on Highway 11 when it left the roadway opposite the Elks Club. It continued down the highway and eventually careened at right angles across the Rowball yard. It smashed through Rowball's building, doing extensive damage.

The driver then backed across the highway and into the ditch on the opposite side. Tracks showed the car continuing down the ditch for a way, then crossing the highway again and passing over some shrubbery. It eventually got back on the highway, presumably still being driven in reverse, and then backed into the driveway of the Ord Animal Clinic. It passed over a hedge row and eventually came to rest about three feet from the Animal Clinic's big front window.

Sheriff Fox said Tuesday that charges of reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident involving property damage are being prepared against an elderly Ord resident, Jim Hejsek.

Despite the damage to his property, Rowball still maintained his sense of humor. After a quick repair job on the building, he borrowed a sign from the State Highway Department and posted it on the side of the structure. It read "Road Closed."

Four Females Flash Fine Form For Forecasting Football Fights

Friday was Ladies Day in the weekly Quiz football selection contest.

The four top finishers in last week's competition were members of the fairer sex. They were led by young Jeanne Hyde, whose father John had won the previous week.

A 13-year-old eighth grader, Jeanne is an avid football fan. At school she serves as a cheerleader for the Ord Junior High team.

She was followed by Mrs. Charles Vancura Jr., Debbie Fryzek, and Mrs. George Fryzek. Both Misses Vancura and Fryzek are previous runners-up this year.

Not only was Jeanne's scorecard the best of the week, it also equaled the most accurate turned in this year. She had only two misses — those coming in the Aurora-versus-York and Loup City-versus-Gibbon contests. Jeanne picked Aurora in a battle of rated Class B teams, but York prevailed by a 16-6 score. In a key Lou-Platte Conference get-together she chose Loup City. But Gibbon won that one, 12-0.

One game — Burwell versus Ravenna — was thrown out of the selection contest. The Burwell field could not be cleared of snow and dried out sufficiently for the game, so it was rescheduled to Nov. 11 at 2 p.m.

That gave Joanne a record of 21 correct picks out of 23 games listed.

Both Mrs. Vancura and Debbie Fryzek had 19 right choices, with Debbie's mother calling 18 correctly.

Contestants get an opportunity this week to sharpen their prognosticating skills on the big boys — the professionals. Because of the various teachers' conventions around the state today and tomorrow, Nebraska high school teams saw action early in the week. So in place of high school games, professional matches were substituted in the Quiz contest. The entry blank may be found on Page 6 of Section 2.

City Will Cut Street Through to School

Ord's new grade school apparently will have two motor vehicle access routes after all.

Enid Penas, told the District 5 Board of Education Tuesday night that the City of Ord would extend 16th Street onto the school property. The street presently terminates at its intersection with S Street.

Penas is the city street commissioner. He said the city would build a road and pave it up to the school property line. The school plans to pave and gutter from the building down to that point.

Earlier school officials had queried representatives of their architectural firm about extending the street. They were told that the project would be too expensive to undertake on the budget that had been allotted for the school building.

City officials had also been pessimistic earlier. However, Penas said, Tuesday they did not realize then that so much waste dirt would be available to fill low areas and build a road-bed.

Ground clearing and leveling has been underway at the site for several days, and a huge amount of excess dirt is becoming available.

"We thought earlier we would have to haul dirt in from I don't know where," Penas explained to the school board.

Dr. Donald O. Clifton... expert on buckets.

'Fill Other People's Buckets,' Farmers, Merchants Are Told

A crowd of 375 was entertained at Thursday night's Farmer-Rancher Appreciation Banquet. It was held at St. Mary's Auditorium in Ord and was sponsored by the Arcadia Community Club, the North Loup Lions Club, and the Ord Chamber of Commerce.

Valley County merchants purchased tables and hosted their rural neighbors at the third annual event. Howard Paulsen was the committee chairman.

Dr. Donald O. Clifton, a professor of educational psychology and public relations specialist with King's Food Host, U.S.A., mesmerized the group after dinner with a talk on communicating, at both the individual and community levels. His serious points were intermingled with countless jokes that kept his listeners in laughter.

"These are trying times," Dr. Clifton said in one of his serious moments, "but we have hopes and opportunities that have never been before."

Other points made by the doctor:

- Always put people first—"What's important about Arcadia, North Loup, or Ord? It's the people!"
- Make use of your ideas—"Ideas are peeping all the time, and our greatest challenge is to make use of them."
- Be careful what you say—"Who knows the most about your community? The kindergarten teacher!"
- Listen to the young—"Listen, even if you don't agree with what they say."
- Get to know your neighbors better—"We need to know what turns people on. Hot buttons open lines of communication, and in the community we've got to keep the lines of communication open. We have to work together."
- Call people by the name they like—"Fifteen percent of the people in the United States are called by names they don't like."
- "Look on the bright side—"It's easy to be right about what's wrong with people. That's because we have so much practice at seeing what's wrong."
- Don't boss people—"It's not a day when we can tell people what to do. People are supposed to know what to do."
- Be a bucket filler—"There are millions of things that fill people's buckets (make them happy). And when your bucket is filled, other people can get their dippers in it. When your bucket gets empty, you're a different person. When your bucket is empty and you need somebody most, that's when you're the most obnoxious. Why? Because you keep trying to fill your bucket by getting your dipper in somebody else's bucket. It feels good, and that's a trap. But the only way you can fill your own bucket is by filling someone else's. Communities that are bucket filling communities are the ones that are going to grow and thrive."

Homecoming Observed At Broken Bow Game
The excitement increased among Ord High School students this week as final preparations were completed to celebrate the second fall homecoming.

Each student was entitled to a vote Wednesday morning to determine which of five finalists would be honored as this year's royalty.

The crowning of the queen was one of the half-time attractions of the Broken Bow Ord football game Wednesday evening.

Calvin Gets Carpet Bid

Part of the $900,000-plus which local taxpayers are spending on their new grade school building will stay at home. The District 5 Board of Education made sure of that Tuesday night when it approved a carpet bid submitted by Calvin Furniture Co.

Meeting in special session, school board members finished the work started three weeks ago when general construction, mechanical, and electrical bids were conditionally okayed. At Tuesday night's session they retraced their steps on the mechanical bid and then okayed offers on carpet, kitchen equipment, and other furnishings.

The action brought the latest estimate on total cost of the building to $899,465.79. Voters approved a $940,000 bond issue last February.

That means the district still has more than $40,000 to cover unforeseen costs that could arise. This is considerably more than the $25,000 contingency fund set aside in the original budget.

Plumber Switch
In its most significant move Tuesday, the school board reversed its action of three weeks ago when it awarded the mechanical contract to Hansen Plumbing & Heating Inc. of North Platte. After cancelling that action the board voted unanimously to award the contract to Kinning & Reil Inc. of Norfolk, which was third in the original bidding.

When the bids were initially opened, Hansen Plumbing & Heating was almost $19,000 below its nearest competitor. However, representatives of the company later claimed they had omitted a $12,950 chiller unit from their final computations. Hansen's total bid to $174,950.

In the meantime officials of the architectural firm handling the project — Shaver & Co. of Salina, Kan., contacted representatives of Kinning & Reil. The Norfolk company had been third in the original bidding, but its officers agreed to reduce their figure by $7,550 after being contacted by Shaver. That brought their bid to $180,532, which was $38 lower than the lowest bid. Platte Valley Plumbing & Heating Co. of Scottsbluff, however, it was still more than $5,800 above the altered figure presented by the original low bidder, Hansen Plumbing & Heating.

No Bond Forfeiture
Acting on the advice of the architects — which was relayed through Dr. William Gogan, school superintendent — board members voted to award the mechanical contract to Kinning & Reil despite its higher bid. Dr. Gogan said the Norfolk company was a much larger firm than the North Platte one which had submitted the low bid, and that it had worked satisfactorily with Shaver & Co. on many previous jobs.

"For the extra $5,000 we'll be getting a firm we know will do a real good job," he told the board members. "According to Shaver & Co., it has proven itself many times. Hansen has not, although that doesn't necessarily mean it couldn't if you should decide to go ahead and select it."

Dr. Gogan said he had talked with an attorney representing Hansen, and had received the impression that the company would be happy to get out of the picture.

Despite renegeing on its original bid, Hansen will not be required to forfeit the 5 percent surety bond it had posted. When the bids were opened, Herald Holding of Shaver & Co. advised the board to accept the low offers immediately. By taking this action, he said, the school district could require any company which subsequently backed out to forfeit its bond.

'Honest Mistake'
After the $13,000 omission became known, attorney Weems was consulted for advice. But after looking for precedents in previous legal proceedings, he told the board to forget about trying to make Hansen forfeit its bond.

Weems said court action would be required if the district wanted to pursue the matter, and legal precedent indicated that it would probably be unsuccessful if it did. He said it was highly doubtful that the district could win, as long as there was "no evidence to prove anything other than an honest mistake."

Dr. Gogan presented a worksheet submitted with the original bid showing where the $12,950 had been listed in one column but not transposed to the one from which final tabulations were made.

Furthermore, even if it could win Hansen's bond money in a court case, Weems said, the school district could be tied up as long as a year in legal proceedings. That means construction could be delayed that long too, he added.

After being convinced that the mistake was an honest one, the board members generally agreed that they did not want to take the money anyhow.

"If it was an honest mistake, I'm not in favor of holding him to it," commented Howard Paulsen.

Calvin Third Lowest
The reversal action means that the three prime contractors on the project will be from Norfolk: Holdrege, and Salina. Kan. Holdrege Electric of Holdrege will do the electrical work, while Busboom & Rauh of Salina will be the general contractor.

Their bids, which were also approved previously on a conditional basis, have since been examined in detail and found to meet specifications.

Other than changing course on the mechanical contract, the highlight of the evening Tuesday was the awarding of the carpet bid to Calvin Furniture Co. of Ord.

Calvin was the only local contractor submitting a bid in any of the categories. Its original offer of $35,791.00 was second highest of 11 bids submitted. However, closer checking showed that only five of the bids met specifications, and Calvin later lowered his figure by more than $3,500. That gave him a final bid of $32,291.10, which was third best of the five acceptable offers.

Less Carpet Required
However, board members reasoned that a local man would provide better service and be more inclined to do a top-quality job since his reputation would be at stake. They also indicated their satisfaction with Calvin's work in the new addition to Ord High School, which was completed a year ago.

They therefore chose the local firm over Empire Equipment Co. of Wichita, Kan., and Midwest Rug Co. of Springfield, Mo. Empire's bid was some $1,300 below Calvin, and Midwest Rug Co.'s was approximately $400 lower.

Dr. Gogan said Clayton Calvin, who owns Calvin Furniture Co., had indicated his original bid was based on "no butt-seaming" and laying carpet throughout the building all in the same direction. With his new bid he will use butt seaming, and will lay carpet in some walled-off areas perpendicular to that in the main body of the building.

By "no butt-seaming," Dr. Gogan explained that he meant the carpet would be laid from one wall to another all in one continuous piece. With butt-seaming, wherever one roll of carpet runs out another is started. This of course means there will be more seams but fewer small pieces of left-over carpet.

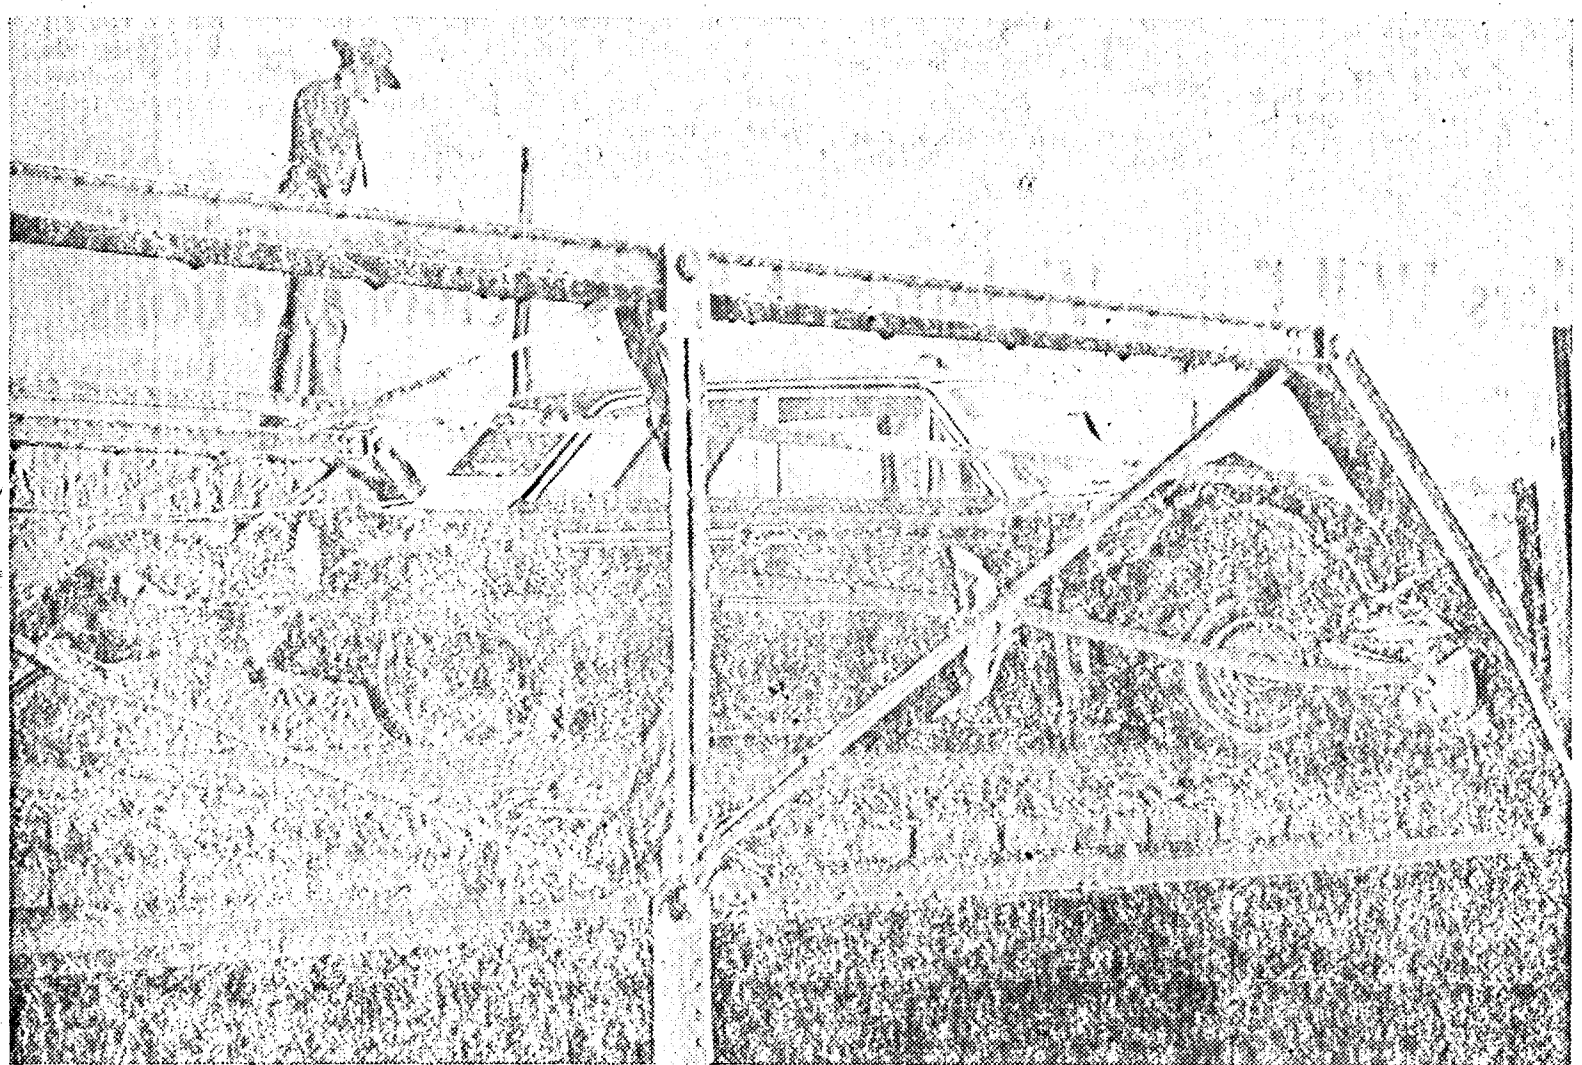

By laying carpet in the manner prescribed in his revised bid, Calvin indicated he could save 100 square yards of material.

Kitchen Bid to Omaha
In answer to a question, Dr. Gogan quoted the architects as saying they have no way of knowing whether the other four contractors planned to use butt-seaming and cross-seaming.

"However, the architect says (Continued on Page 8)

This bridge southwest of North Loup had a full load Sunday afternoon. A car driven by Jerry Hanson of that community became wedged in sideways after it went out of control. Patrolman Gerald Schmitt had to walk the bridge railing to get to the other side of the car and complete his investigation. Schmitt quoted Hanson, 16, as saying he hit a slick spot in the muddy road just before reaching the bridge, causing him to lose control. The youngster received severe cuts on both lips and was detained overnight at the Valley County Hospital in Ord. The accident scene was approximately three miles southwest of North Loup, just off Highway 11 on a bridge north of the Emmett Frazer farm.

Why Not Let the Boys Do It Themselves?

Running the score up on a hapless opponent is generally frowned on in civilized football circles. But that practice is perpetuated by Nebraska's two big-city newspapers with their asinine rating systems.

Twice during the past month Ord fans have had to suffer as their favorites ran into teams trying to impress the raters. At both Albion and Central City opposing coaches risked serious injuries to key players by keeping them in the game until the final seconds, even though their teams held insurmountable leads.

But turn to the sports page of either the Omaha or Lincoln papers on Tuesday, and you see why they did it.

"Albion passes Central City on the basis of a comparative score against Ord," Virgil Parker wrote in the Nebraska State Journal following Central City's triumph by "only" at 36-8 score. Albion had won by 54-0. (As it turned out, Parker's rating that time was right since Albion later defeated Central City, 30-18. But it doesn't always work out that way.)

Then in the Omaha World-Herald we read such gems as this written by Conde Sargent:

"Cathedral, last year's state Class B champion, also shows up well in Class A score comparisons with Pius X."

"Cathedral bumped Class A Millard, 41-8. Millard lost to Fremont by a touchdown. Pius X edged Fremont, 7-6."

All that is supposed to mean that Omaha Cathedral is better than Lincoln Pius X because Cathedral beat somebody worse than somebody else did who barely lost to Pius X. Did you follow all that?

Furthermore, this discrediting of Pius X comes just one week after both Sargent and Parker had proclaimed it the state's best Class B team. Why? Because it was undefeated? Nope, simply because it had played four Class A teams. Then Friday night Pius X was defeated by Heelan of Sioux City, Ia., by a 54-6 score, dropping its record to 2-2-1. Yet it is still rated the third best Class B team in the state. Hogwash!

Don't misunderstand. We're not against having a state champion in the various classes, but the only correct way to do it is on the field with the different contenders meeting one another—not seeing how much they can run it up on a few patsies or how many Class A teams they can get on their schedules.

Undoubtedly Nebraska's high school athletic system is one of the most confusing in any state. For example, there are 10 teams in the Central 10 Conference. Yet Ord never plays more than five of them. And there's never a playoff between the East and West Division winners to determine a conference champion.

In basketball the Chanticleers play 18 games during the regular season, six of them against conference teams. But they're all just for practice, because the teams that go to the state meet are determined by three games in a district tournament, where several of the competing squads aren't even from the same conference.

And why is Class C David City in the Central 10 Conference with nine Class B schools? Or how can Grand Island High compete in both the Trans-Nebraska Conference and the Big 10 Conference?

Nebraska should take a look at some of its neighbors and update this confusing morass. It would be a simple matter to assign every team in the state to a conference with other schools in its class and arrange round-robin schedules so that a definite champion could be determined. After the regular season ends the conference champions could begin a series of eliminations that would culminate in two survivors from each class meeting for the state championship.

In the same manner conference champions in basketball could comprise the state tourney field, or if need be the field could be weeded down by having conference champions play each other in eliminations.

Texas has had such a system for years, with state championships being decided in four classes of football and five of basketball. And that state has 769 high schools with gridiron programs, besides those in the smallest class which don't play to a state championship in football.

Kansas has implemented state playoffs in football this year. With only 387 schools, a Nebraska program would be easy to work out. And the boys wouldn't have to play till Christmas either.

Some undoubtedly will argue that this would be overemphasizing athletics, but would it be in reality? It would merely give each team a goal to shoot for, and it would give the boys themselves a chance to decide with a football what some sportswriter now decides with a typewriter. And finally, it might eliminate some of those 34-0 monstrosities.

TRACY CITY, TENN., HERALD: "What is an editorial? In a word, it is the viewpoint of a newspaper. Why are editorials published? They are published . . . because . . . every newspaper has a duty to stimulate public concern of important problems by expressing at least one point of view. The newspaper which declines to be a part of discussion about items of major importance in its community is not living up to its duty."

The Quiz welcomes communications from readers. The briefer they are, the better is their prospect of publication. All are subject to condensation. We assume no responsibility for statements in letters.

Dear Editor:

A recent "Vox Pop" letter by one of my former classmates took exception to the editorial column poem entitled, "Who Killed Cock Robin?" So I'll say I enjoyed very much the humor conveyed by the poem.

Contrary to the opinion of the letter writer, I don't feel that I have to read every government bill and Supreme Court decision to be a well informed citizen or to realize that I disapprove of some of our recent legislative and judicial tendencies with regard to welfare appropriations, military spending, foreign policies, and criminal justice. I would also object that liberalism is not always the only characteristic becoming to the well educated man, nor is conservatism the banner solely carried by the impoverished.

It is unfortunate that verbatim accounts of government affairs are not more easily accessible to the average citizen. I would not, however, go so far as to accuse residents of this area of falling short of their obligations of remaining well informed citizens within the time limits imposed by their occupation, religion, and social position. A good news source is supposed to assist a citizen in the task of remaining informed.

I have just read a Department of the Army Commander's Bulletin on the subject, "Guidance on Dissem," and am within my military limits when I say I don't approve of all governmental actions occurring in this era.

I am using my own pen, my own paper envelopes and stamps, as well as my own free time, to write this so that I might not receive the treatment afforded a local official when he took the time to send the Ord Quiz a congratulatory note for its receipt of some newspaper awards. A belated congratulations anyway, and keep up the good work.

Dear Editor:

In this age styles, behavioral patterns and ideas travel rather rapidly over the world. For centuries man has been brainwashed to believe that wars were noble. Our nation fought a war to end wars. Does peace come by fighting for it?

Former U.N. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg says, "War never settles anything. We move from crisis to crisis." He likes to quote a man from another nation, who states, "The noble art of losing face may someday save the human race, and bring into eternal merit what weaker minds would call disgrace."

In this light what about Vietnam? Might it be that the moratorium, idea is divinely guided so as to encircle the world and prohibit governments from maintaining armies to start wars? Would it not be great if youth in Communist and other countries would develop this movement which is starting here? If students of all the countries under Communist Russia's rule would simultaneously rebel, could that government control them?

Have our youth launched a new era?

Dear Editor:

In answer to Mrs. Buoy's letter last week about the "hysterical approach of the Scott Report": I hope she read the "Scott Report" which was printed on the same page of the Quiz as her letter. It told of the anti-war resolutions and senators Harold Hughes (D-Ia.) and Thomas Eagleton (D-Mo.). The main reason for their resolution "are those being advocated by Hanoi."

It must give our enemies comfort to know they have such diligent "doves" working for them in our government.

The "Scott Report" also tells that these two senators "have been strangely silent about our prisoners but want liberally and amnesty granted to our political prisoners — our enemies over there." Has anybody thought of what will happen to our boys be-

Fellers Find That Things Aren't Always What They Appear

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

It's bad enough that our money in this country keeps getting inflated, but to make matters worse everything we buy with this cheap money keeps getting deflated.

The fellers took this item under discussion Saturday night, and they agreed somebody better do something before money blows up to nothing and everything else shrinks down to nothing.

What brought this inflation and deflation to their attention was a promise Ernest Maly made to his preacher back in the summer. The preacher, who was pretty thick around the middle, allowed as how he needed to take off a few pounds but was having a hard time getting started.

Ernie and a couple of other fellers in the church promised him a new suit if he would trim down to wear trousers with a 36-inch waist.

The preacher had some 36s he had gotten out, and he kept trying to button 'em after he really began cutting back on the groceries.

Last Thursday, he announced he was ready for the suit. They all went into town and told the preacher to pick out any suit in the store with a 36 waist.

Well, Sir, he couldn't come close to meeting them new 36s in the front. Furthermore, he had a hard time getting 'em up over his hips.

The preacher was wearing his old 36s, so he asked the clerk what the trouble was.

What it was, Ernie reported, was the 36s nowadays ain't near as big as 36s five years ago. They don't put as much material in the legs, the middle, or the waist, and there ain't no cuffs at all.

Ernie said they measured the preacher at 36 all right, so at least the inch was deflated.

They finally wound up getting him a suit with 38-inch trousers ing held prisoners if we pull our troops out of Vietnam without negotiations? And read on about the new Russian bomber reported as being so fast that American planes cannot intercept it.

I do not think Paul Scott's approach is hysterical, although the truthful and enlightening facts he digs out tend to make the mind hysterical.

Being a sister of Paul Scott would seem to make me biased. But it also allows me the opportunity of knowing how honest and sincere he is, and how he double-checks the facts which he puts in his column. May there be many more columnists like him to keep American truthfully informed.

Anti-War Leaders Will Force Violence at Next Demonstrations

By Paul Scott

WASHINGTON — Hanoi's boldness in publicly endorsing last week's anti-war demonstrations is causing deep concern among President Richard Nixon's advisers.

The defiant action is being taken as a clear indication that North Vietnam will try to turn President Nixon's "planned withdrawal" of American forces from South Vietnam into a full-scale political rout for the United States.

so he can wear 'em and breathe at the same time. Ernie said he figures they got 15 percent less suit for 30 percent more money than they could of just five years ago.

Cleon Hansen said the same thing is happening to lumber. Cle had seen where a 2-by-4 always was three-eighths inch shy on every side, and now the government is cutting it down a full half inch every way. With the price of lumber already sky high, Cle said, we'll be paying a heap more money for a lot less board.

The same deflation is going on with stuff in packages and boxes, allowed Joe Knapp. He had seen by the papers where Congressman Benjamin Rosenthal of New York figured out a "quiet shrinkage" of 10 percent in consumer goods during the past five years.

Mister Editor, I see in England where they're working on stronger cuss words "cause the old ones are inflated and weakened from overuse." I reckon inflated cussing puts the stopper in this week's jug.

Yours Truly,

KERRY ON

—self—

After I was put to task last week by one letter writer for my "odes to milady's eyebrow" (whatever that means), it was heartening to get some personal mail this week supporting my feeble attempts at writing.

First let me say I've been remiss at thanking the few that DO write me—occasionally—expressing their pleasure or displeasure with the content in this corner. I'd like nothing better than to thank them all personally, but time and my load of business correspondence simply doesn't allow it.

Unless I get particularly embroiled in the "meaty issues," it's difficult for me to sound off under a personal column. It has always been my opinion that the editorial side of this page is the place for material issues. Therefore I've tried to restrict my own writings to the immaterial . . . my feelings and thoughts and that "one small voice" from within that seeks expression.

Writing, as I do, on the inner side of life has been a tremendously rewarding experience. Reader reaction has been the most illuminating and interesting part of my attempt at self-expression.

Seldom, if ever, has anyone publicly acknowledged their pleasure over my "personal" writings. Several times I've been cornered on the street or in a store and readers have expressed an "admiration" for my attempt to write what I "feel." This prompts me—in itself—to think that there are many people who would like to express themselves openly and frankly, but are restrained from doing so by fears of being criticized by their closest friends.

The inherent fear of EVERYONE today seems to be the ostracism that might be suffered if anyone knew how they really feel. We've developed an emotionless society that represses the truth about love and desire and hate. Any open display of these basically human traits fills theatres everywhere and puts novels on the best-seller list. But they bring a public denial that they are anything within the realm of reality.

"I've considered—many times—dropping this column from the paper. More often than not it's difficult to get behind the keyboard of a typewriter and come up with anything NEW . . . especially when you're "out of touch with society." Not that I wouldn't like to be more worldly, because I WOULD. But when 90 percent of your waking hours are spent in the solitude of trying to run a business such as this, it's difficult to know anyone better than you know yourself.

For lack of a subject that would offer the "meaty fare" some are desirous of, I remain bound primarily in self-knowledge. Too often, I think, people know less about themselves than they do about those around them.

Actually getting to know yourself is quite interesting. Self-acceptance is life's greatest reward.

Something Different

Hospital Tales

Surely there are a thousand interesting life stories to be heard around a big hospital. And nearly every person is dying to tell you of his career and fortunes, good or bad as they've been. In fact, it is rather difficult to keep from hearing these tales. Some are interesting, some are merely boring, but most are incredible.

On our corridor at Methodist Hospital in Rochester there was a wealthy woman from Florida. She had come and gone from home 10 or 11 times this year, with another trip in prospect. She was lovely looking, older, beautifully dressed, in a wheel chair all the time. She was the only patient I met who had a private nurse. And in case you haven't heard, there aren't any private nurses any more; they are simply non-existent. This private nurse was very old and stooped—but I feel sure she was an old-line, no-nonsense, extremely competent nurse, for I watched her bustling back and forth to the nurses' station just outside my door several times a day, between the hours of 3 and 11 p.m. As she worked I could see how comfortable her pretty patient was being kept.

Also in our area—which contained all bone cases—was a handsome dark 14-year-old boy who whisked himself about in his wheel chair.

The lad had been sitting on a river-bank fishing, when a tree toppled over on him, crushing his leg in several places. He was back at the hospital for the third stay when I left, for infection kept showing up in his damaged leg. But he was cheerful, peppy, full of life, interested in every pretty little aide and student nurse — he pestered them all.

There was a young man, 26, with a pretty pregnant wife and a small daughter. He had one of the only two private rooms in our wing. He was put there because of the terrific pain he had; he could not stop screaming, since hypnos didn't get through to him.

It seems he, his brother, and their father had been repairing some power lines when he fell back on a live wire, grasping it with his hands. Both hands had to be amputated that night.

There was a nice elderly soul who was determined to get a sample of blood from me every morning. I hated it because she kept telling me how much scar tissue I had and how hard it was to do . . . and because she shook like a leaf as she approached me with That Needle.

One morning she jabbed me eight times but got no blood, and that did it!

Next day she was on the same elevator as I was being hauled down for therapy, and she remarked, "She (ME) doesn't like me." I answered briskly "That's right, I don't." So I never saw her again; they sent younger, handier girls.

(I felt a little guilty, the old gal was probably only trying to work until the proper day when she could retire. But I'd had it.)

Laboratory Technician Jean Newland told me that she has set up a rule at our hospital in Ord: they get three pokes to draw blood, and if they fail the job automatically goes to another technician or nurse.

I prefer the Ord way, believe me.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Carroll of O'Neill were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Norman.

Beverly Mattern, Earl Listebarger Wed In Sunday Afternoon Nuptials at Burwell

Beverly Kay Mattern, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Mattern of Burwell, became the bride of Earl R. Listebarger Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl R. Listebarger Sr. of Springville, Ia., at an afternoon wedding Sunday, Oct. 12.

Two seven-branched candelabra with turquoise and silver candles and baskets of white gladioli and white carnations tipped in turquoise decorated the altar. Large bows of turquoise and silver ribbon adorned the pew ends for the double-ring ceremony, performed by Rev. Dean Donner of Glasco, Kan., a friend of the bride's family.

Rev. Carroll Guderson gave the benediction for the ceremony, which was performed in the First Christian Church at Burwell. Keith Kovanda sang "One Heart" and "The Wedding Prayer," accompanied by Mrs. Sally Edgill at the organ.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore a gown fashioned of white lace and organza. It had a bodice of chantilly lace glowing with seed pearls and French sequins. Lace motifs, touched with sequins, cascaded across the A-line skirt which was taffeta lined. The chapel train was scalloped and bordered with lace. Miss Mattern's elbow-length veil of English illusion was held by a cluster of petals trimmed with sequins and pearls. She carried a bouquet of white tipped carnations, stephanotis, and white sweetheart roses tied in the center with white streamers.

Eileen Ivors of Grand Island was maid of honor, and Mrs. James Burlington Jr. of Lincoln was bridesmatron. Both wore identical floor-length gowns of turquoise with sheer flowing "waiteau" back panels and cotton lace bodices accented with satin. Their headpieces were a turquoise rose with matching English illusion.

Larry Darling of Berwick, Ia., was best man. The groomsmen were Wayne Conard of Thayer, James Burlington Jr. of Lincoln and Randy Conard of Thayer served as ushers.

Flower girl was Chellana Henry of Lincoln, and Richard Walters was ring bearer. Lighting candles were Phyllis Listebarger of Springville, Ia., and Randy Packowski of Hastings.

The bride's colors of turquoise and silver were carried out for the reception in the church parlor.

Mrs. Larry Darling of Burwick, Ia., had charge of the guest book; and Mrs. Helen Hurs of Burwell baked and decorated the cake, which was cut and served by Mrs. Don Mattern and Mrs. Albert Conard of Burwell. Mrs. Lumir Hulinsky of Lincoln served refreshments. Mrs. Elsie Corner of Grand Island served coffee. Mrs. Harry Brun of Lincoln served the ice cream, and Mrs. David Sartain of Burwell presided at the bridal table. Beverly Brun of Lincoln and Kay Baller of Grand Island were in charge of the gift table.

After a short wedding trip to Texas and the Ozarks, the couple will reside in Omaha where the groom will work at Offutt Air Force Base as an aircraft electrician.

Carol's Corner

by Carol Leggett

It has been said, and it's true I'm sure, that children learn primarily by observing their parents' behavior — and it is never too early to begin setting examples for them. So don't pay attention to the rule not to fight in front of the kids. How else is your daughter going to learn how to win an argument?

Getting serious now, the following creed — if followed faithfully by Mom and Dad — can't help but make better men and women out of the young people of today. It's titled "Children Learn What They Live."

If a child lives without criticism, he learns to condemn.

If a child lives without hostility, he learns to fight.

If a child lives without ridicule, he learns to be shy.

If a child lives with shame, he learns to feel guilty.

If a child lives with tolerance, he learns to be patient.

If a child lives with contempt, he learns to have faith.

If a child lives with confidence, he learns to believe.

If a child lives with praise, he learns to appreciate.

If a child lives with fairness, he learns justice.

If a child lives with security, he learns to have faith.

If a child lives with approval, he learns to like himself.

If a child lives with acceptance and friendship, he learns to find love in the world.

Something new to me in the cookie line were Potato Chip Cookies. I tried this recipe from Mrs. Ed Marshall and the results were delicious. Now see what your family thinks of them.

Potato Chip Cookies
 2 c. brown sugar
 1 c. shortening
 2 eggs
 1/3 c. milk
 2 t. vanilla
 2 1/2 c. all-purpose flour
 1/2 t. soda
 2 1/2 c. crushed potato chips
 1 c. chopped pecans or walnuts (optional)
 Cream sugar, shortening, and eggs thoroughly. Add milk and vanilla to creamed mixture and mix well. Spoon (un-sifted) flour into measuring cup. Level off and pour this measured flour onto a square of waxed paper. Add soda to flour and stir to blend. Add to creamed mixture and blend well. Stir in potato chips and nuts, and drop by teaspoons-full, on ungreased baking sheet. Bake at 400 degrees for 10-12 minutes. Yield 7 dozen cookies.

Are they really so cute in PJ's with Teddies, or is it because they're so near their beddies?

A group of 4-H singers from Ord and their leader, Ahlene Wojtaszek, entertained the group with four numbers — two of which had won them a purple ribbon at the Nebraska State Fair. Sargent made the most of its meager 130 yards of offense Friday night, sloshing to a 32-2 triumph over Mullen on a muddy field.

Jim Ash scored three times on running plays, getting more than two-thirds of his team's net rushing yardage on those three carries alone. Together with a pair of long-range touchdowns scored by Sargent defenders and one successful two-point conversion, they added up to 32 points and an easy victory.

Ash and his teammates actually made 74 yards on the ground, but after taking 27 off for losses they came out with a net of 47. Ash had 32 of that total on his touchdown runs of 5, 3, and 24 yards. The first two got Sargent off to a fine start, and the Bulldogs increased their margin to 18-0 before the first quarter ended. That third score came on a 75-yard punt return by Bob Anderson.

Mullen grew steadily tougher on defense as the game went along, granting but one touchdown in each of the second and third periods and none in the fourth.

Dan Slagle got the second-period marker, returning an intercepted pass 60 yards. Ash's 24-yard run followed after interception.

Sargent was scheduled to host Arcadia Wednesday night, then

Broncos Earn Crack At Conference Crown

Assuring themselves of a 10th game this season, the Wheeler Central Broncos roared past the Loup County Wildcats, 40-18, Friday night.

John Olson scored four touchdowns and Gene Schmits two as the explosive Wheeler offense rolled up 436 yards. The victory gave the Broncos a tie for the Western Division title in the Sandhill Gateway Conference and reserved them a shot at the Eastern Division champion after the regular season ends.

The Broncos were aiming for the full Western Division crown in a game Tuesday night at Ewing. If they won that one, they completed their divisional schedule undefeated.

The victory over Loup County was almost a costly one for Wheeler. Jerry Chricht, a bruising fullback and fine defensive end, suffered a slight concussion and was hospitalized overnight at Burwell. He was listed as doubtful for the Ewing game, but Coach Tom Majors hopes he'll be back in action for Wheeler's Oct. 31 game with Humphrey.

Chants Lose Fifth Game of Year As St. Paul Captures 23-6 Verdict

With one lethal punch, Ralph Herbig exploded a fine defensive effort for the Ord Chants Friday night. Herbig broke loose on a 50-yard pass-and-run play late in the third quarter to start St. Paul on the way to a 23-6 victory.

The loss dropped Ord's record for the year to 1-3. The Chants were still looking for that second win as they entertained Broken Bow last night (Wednesday) in a homecoming contest at the Ord field.

Ord had finally shown some offensive spark, driving from its own 30-yard line to score and take a 6-3 lead, when Herbig came along to spoil things. He took a short pass from Doug O'Keefe about eight yards upfield, then ran right through the center to the end zone and the Ord secondary to put St. Paul back in front, 9-0. After that the Wildcats rolled pretty much at will, scoring the next two times they got the ball.

Until that point, the Ord defense was enjoying a fine night. And even the final statistics do not show the defense up too badly, as St. Paul was able to get only 111 yards rushing and 90 passing.

The Chants were having even less offensive success than the Wildcats, however, as they sorely missed Bruce Harbert. Harbert did not make the trip after coming down with a case of pleurisy.

Without the speedy little halfback to the backfield, the opposing forces and loosen up their defenses, Ord was pretty much without offensive weapons. Dennis Kamrad had the only success at all, getting 34 yards on 11 carries, and without Harbert's threat St. Paul was able to watch him seclude.

Quarterback Paul Markley did get away once for a 56-yard run, but those were the only yards he gained all night. He eventually wound up with a net of just 14 after being thrown several times for losses while trying to pass.

Except for a brief two-play interruption, St. Paul controlled the ball the first 7 1/2 minutes of the game. The Wildcats took the opening kickoff, drove from their own 33-yard line to the Ord 36, where Bill Miller pounced on a loose fumble for the Chants.

But two plays later sophomore David John, making his first offensive start of the year, had the ball pop out of his arms and back to St. Paul. That time the Wildcats drove to the Ord two before the Chants finally held, and Steve Hameloth kicked a field goal.

The rest of the first half was pretty much of a defensive struggle, with Ord posing the threat scoring threat. John redeemed himself for fumbling by intercepting a St. Paul pass and making a fine return to the Wildcat 24-yard line. Only 34 seconds showed on the clock when the play was completed.

That was still time enough for Markley to drive his team to the St. Paul five-yard line, but an incomplete pass and eighty-yard loss on another pass attempt used up the final seconds.

Markley's 56-yard scamper sparked the Chants briefly in the second quarter. The sophomore quarterback went back as if to pass, then started up the middle of the field. After getting through the line he cut to the right and raced down the sideline before being knocked out of bounds at the Wildcat 14.

From there he drove his team in for its only score, with the big play being a third and five pass to Miller which gained seven yards. Larry Wells scored the touchdown on a two-yard slash off right guard.

The success was short-lived, however, as St. Paul came back on its second series to score the go-ahead touchdown.

St. Paul 23, Ord 6.

SP — Herbig 50 pass from O'Keefe (kick failed).

Mistakes Kill Loup City Hopes As Gibbon Takes 12-0 Verdict

Loup City's Red Raiders are wishing this week that their half-time in the Gibbon game Friday had begun 15 seconds earlier and ended 15 seconds later.

In those crucial 30 seconds the Raiders gave up two touchdowns, a football game, and their hopes for a share of the Lou-Platte Conference championship.

With 11 seconds to go in the half, a Loup City secondary man fumbled a Gibbon punt. A Buffalo pounced on the ball, and before the 11 seconds were gone Dick Stroup had poked to Dean Platz for the touchdown that broke a scoreless tie.

The half-time apparently wasn't long enough for the Raiders to recover from that shock, since they got another at the outset of the second half. On the opening kickoff the Raiders executed poorly, and Larry Jurgens took advantage of the lapse to run 60 yards for another score.

That was the scoring as the game ended 12-0.

"Errors were the key," Coach Don Wagner of Loup City said later in explaining the loss. Besides those two critical ones his boys made on defense, they also missed several opportunities they had to score themselves. Penalties, dropped passes, and poorly

Thrown Passes Were the Main Culprits

"At times both the offense and defense played as well as they had at any time all year, but the errors killed us," Coach Wagner stated. His team threw a season high of 33 passes, connecting on just 11. Still, the Red Raiders out-gained their foe in total yards, 233 to 141.

The loss evened Loup City's record at 3-3 for the year. Its conference mark is 3-2.

Ord Junior High Loses Again To Broken Bow

Ord's spunky junior high football team ran out of punch before half-time Tuesday night and went down to its fifth consecutive defeat. The score was 30-12 at Broken Bow.

Trailing 18-12, the Chicks got a first down at the Broken Bow one-yard line. But four plays later they turned the ball over to the Pipooses at the six-inch line. Broken Bow then went on to its victory.

Earlier in the year the Chicks lost to Albion, 22-0; Grand Island, 64-12; Grand Island Northwest, 20-6; and Burwell, 16-14.

"We've been making mistakes at the wrong time," Coach Rich Thompson said recently in appraising his team's season. "We started off with a real inexperienced squad and they really showed up. We've been improving as the season progressed, though."

Despite the 0-5 record, Thompson thinks he has some boys who can help the senior high team next year.

The top prospects are Lynn Sevenker, an offensive halfback and defensive linebacker; Don Jones, a center and linebacker; Rod Veskerna, tackle and linebacker; and Dennis Urbanovsky, fullback and defensive tackle.

"Sevenker has played real well this season," Thompson said, and Urbanovsky has come a long way since the start of the season. At 170 pounds, the latter has good size.

Going on down his lineup, Thompson says his guards—Mike VanNordheim and Keith Paulsen—are little, but they're good hitters. VanNordheim, an eighth-grader, weighs in the 120-pound range and Paulsen "will do good to weigh a hundred."

Another eighth-grader, Doug Wolf, has more quarterbacking the club. "More size would help him too," Thompson says. "He's so short we can't use any drop-back passes—he can't see over the linebacker. He throws the ball well, though, but he's inexperienced too."

Another late-comer is Mike Wells, a halfback and defensive end. He was injured the first part of the year but has been playing a lot better lately.

Thompson says Wells is a better linebacker than end, "but we're strong at linebacker and weak at end so we play him there."

Other starters are Ed Gibbons, a tackle ("one of our most improved players"); Tom Kusek, offensive end ("he catches the ball well"); and Ernie French, end and defensive halfback.

A couple of other boys have been injured most of the year, but Thompson thinks they too are varsity material.

Dick Karm was the starting center until he broke an arm in the Albion game. "He should be able to help the varsity," Thompson said, "if he can make up for the lost year."

Doug Fuss has been bothered with a bad ankle and pulled muscle, but had "a good half against Northwest before being hurt."

bride are making their home in Ord.

With hopeful aspirations of exposing Ord residents to an epidemic of great Christmas spirit, the Job's Daughters of Bethel No. 54 will begin contacting Ordites this week in an attempt to sell colorful decorations for holiday display. Kick-off time for the door-to-door selling will be 5:30 p.m. today (Thursday). Through this Community Betterment project, it is hoped that each home in Ord will be decorated in some way this yuletide season. Proceeds of the sales will go to the Ord Bethel. Eager to do their part in this special Christmas project are the five newest members of Bethel No. 54: Roxann Barnes, Debbie Barnes, Sharon Stephens, Kim Wolfe, and Sheri Grove. They are shown, left to right, with Mrs. Clark Weckbach, Community Betterment chairman.

In almost all the furniture areas, the board also refused to take the low bids. Buller Fixture Co. Inc. of Omaha was selected to provide kitchen equipment over Springer Fixture & Supply of Grand Island. Springer's bid of $14,050.63 was more than $100 lower than Buller's, but Dr. Gogan said the architects recommended the Omaha company.

Four Share Furniture Orders General furniture and equipment came to a total of $87,270.77. That could be reduced by $1,000 if the board decides later to choose desks rather than small individual tables for use by students in the classrooms.

In accepting the furniture bids, the board divided its business among four different companies. They were Stephenson's School Supply Co. of Lincoln, University Publishing Co. of Lincoln, Hoover Brothers Inc. of Kansas City, Mo., and Triangle School Service of Sioux Falls, S. D.

The board in all cases accepted the recommendations of Dr. Gogan and Gerald Decker, principal of the grade school. In a number of instances these recommendations differed from those of the architect.

"In making our decisions about what to recommend," Dr. Gogan stated, "Mr. Decker and I observed two rules. First, we wanted a good product, and secondly, we wanted to buy from Nebraska people who have called on us in the past and know we can count on in the future."

He said all four of the firms, even the two out-of-state ones, had men stationed in Nebraska who called at the Ord schools on a regular basis.

Most to Kansas City Hoover Brothers of Kansas City got the lion's share of the furniture and equipment bids. It was awarded the contract for general casework (permanently installed cabinets) at $34,160, mobile cabinets at $8,651, and individual study carrels at $2,398.

Stephenson's School Supply of Lincoln will provide foldup tables for the all-purpose room (among other things these tables will be used by the students to eat lunch on) at $4,381.40 and classroom furniture (desks or tables, chairs, etc.) at $11,564.66.

University Publishing Co. of Lincoln was awarded contracts for office furniture at $7,667.75 and chalkboard, tackboard, and pinwall at $6,100.

Triangle School Service of Sioux Falls will provide lockers in the physical education department at $2,916, folding portable room dividers at $6,853, and lounge furniture at $2,770.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Penas were guests of the Vencil Hotel family in Grand Island overnight Wednesday. On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Penas visited another daughter and her family, the Frank Bruhas, at Scotia.

Wesley Miska, 77, Succumbs At Loup City; Burial In Ord

Funeral services for Wesley Miska, 77, of Loup City were held Wednesday at the United Methodist Church in Loup City. The 2 p.m. service was officiated by the Rev. Earl Reed and Rev. Franklin Eiser. Burial was in the Ord City Cemetery with the Steele Funeral Home in charge.

Mr. Miska — a brother to Mrs. Leon Woods of Ord — died Oct. 19 at the Loup City hospital.

Born Oct. 29, 1891 at Ord, Mr. Miska was the son of Joseph and Kate Kasper Miska. He attended grammar school in Valley County and the Agriculture College for two years. On June 1, 1921 he and Lola McClatchey were married at Ord. They lived on a farm north of Ord until 1945 when they moved to a farm near Loup City. In 1948 they left the farm to live in Loup City.

His survivors are his wife Lola; three children Mrs. Earl (Catherine) Baillie of Loup City, Gerald Glen Miska of Burnie, Md., and Richard Miska of Holdrege; a brother Ed Miska in California and three sisters, Emma Alderman of Washington, Agnes Jensen of Omaha an Edva Woods of Ord. Also 13 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. He was preceded in death by a son in World War II, his parents, two brothers and two sisters.

Area Parish Study The area-wide Larger Parish Study Group is scheduled to meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the United Methodist Church at Loup City. The group of about 40 persons is composed of elected representatives from some 12 churches in the Ord, Scotia, and Loup City areas.

Losses in Newly Purchased Cattle Can Be Reduced With Proper Care

By John Schade

Handling each bunch of cattle is a challenge — you'll be lucky if you don't have some sickness — but you can, by careful management, reduce weight and death losses that normally occur in new cattle.

Stress, during the period beginning with the roundup of cattle and continuing through the first week in the feedlot, has a strong influence on disease which occurs. Early treatment of sick animals also is very important in reducing weight and death losses.

Even before the purchase of new cattle, plan your disease prevention, immunization, and treatment program. We would advise that you consult your veterinarian and involve him in your final plan. The plan should include:

- Management for preventing stress;
  - What immunization is to be given and when;
  - Plans for feeding preventive medicines;
  - Plans for regular observation by the veterinarian;
  - Plans for handling and treating of the sick.
- You can prevent stress in newly arrived cattle by:
- (1) Sorting, weighing, loading, and moving the cattle from ranch to feedlot as quietly and quickly as possible.
  - (2) Giving the cattle an adequate fill of both hay and water before loading.
  - (3) Providing sufficient clean water and good quality prairie hay upon arrival at your lots.
  - (4) Turning a few older, gentle cattle in with the new arrivals.
  - (5) Confining new arrivals close to feed and water to insure adequate fill.
  - (6) Not vaccinating or treating for grubs or worms until your new cattle have become accustomed to their surroundings. Your immunization program should be guided by the experience of your local veterinarian. It would be well to immunize against blackleg, malignant edema, and red nose.

Where excellent handling facilities are available and cattle arrive in a healthy state, the trend is to treat cattle within the first week after arrival. Remember too that diseases can be transmitted by using non-sterile needles.

Preventive medicine looks more promising now that the combination of Aureomycin and Sulfamethazine have been approved for feeding to cattle. Tests with this combination look promising enough that it deserves your consideration.

It is also wise to have your veterinarian observe newly arrived cattle periodically. How often he comes will depend on how busy he is and how carefully the cattle are checked by your and your feedlot personnel.

You can normally expect sickness to show up shortly after new careful management during shipment and the first week after they arrive will reduce both the number of sick cattle and the severity of disease when it occurs.

Grazing Frost-Forage Plants

We have had a number of inquiries about pasturing Sudangrass and Sudan X Sorghum crosses following frost.

Sudangrass and Sudan X Sorghum crosses do contain prussic acid. However, following a frost or hard freeze, such as we experienced this past week, the danger of prussic acid poisoning is greatly reduced. It is advisable to wait at least one week, following frost, before pasturing these crops.

If plants have not been killed by frost, as would be the case with only a light frost, young shoots would come up from the base of the old plants. These small plants are likely to be very high in prussic acid. Don't graze cattle if these young shoots are present.

There is little danger, however, of prussic acid poisoning from dead plants.

Students March on Nebraska Capitol During Demonstrations Against War

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Assn.

LINCOLN — The State Capitol was the scene of a major demonstration during last week's Vietnam moratorium.

About 4,000 rain-soaked students gathered on the statehouse steps and listened in silence as the names of more than 300 Nebraskans who have died in the southeast Asian war were read. Most of the young people who participated were students at the University of Nebraska and Nebraska Wesleyan University.

Rain was falling in sheets as the students mobilized their march at Love Library on the NU campus. Wearing black armbands, they sloshed about 11 blocks to the statehouse.

Although some high school students wearing red-white-and-blue armbands staged a small counter demonstration, the march and the "peace vigil" were quiet and orderly.

Speeches and "teach-ins" were held on both campuses before and after the march. At Wesleyan, about 900 were on hand for a keynote address delivered by Robert Koehane, a professor from Swarthmore College.

Koehane said the United States government has deceived the American people with false charges of aggression, deceptions about the Geneva accords, and claims there were defensive alliances to protect South Vietnam.

The other side was given during a symposium later at Wesleyan by Frank Landis, a Lincoln attorney and former state American Legion commander.

Landis said the United States effort in Vietnam is designed to "stop the spread of Communism. I am a member of the generation," he said, "which is alarmed as one by one a number of nations has slipped quietly under the cloak of Communism. We have a moral commitment to be there."

"If the people of the world can't look at our country as a beacon and banner of freedom," Landis said, "we have failed."

He proposed that the war be settled "by force of arms" if negotiations fail. It could all be over within three weeks, he said, if the proper effort were made to earn an American victory.

Gov. Norbert Tiemann wasn't in his statehouse office when the peace marchers arrived. The night before he had received cheers when he told a town hall audience at Blair:

"Dissent is part of our society. But I support President Nixon in his withdrawal of troops from Vietnam."

In other statements on the subject, the governor said the participants in the moratorium "could be creating dissent, even of a peaceful nature, that could be interpreted by our enemy as criticism of the President and the American form of government."

Town Hall Series Starts
The Blair town hall, at which Tiemann received a 20-second burst of applause for his comments about the moratorium, was the second in the new series.

The governor launched the series at Omaha where fewer than 100 persons showed up. At Omaha and the next night at Blair, Tiemann was asked about his political future.

"The decision has not yet been made," he told both audiences. The decision may still be unmade, but some observers commented that Tiemann might be laying the groundwork for a reelection campaign in some of his remarks at the town hall meetings.

He stressed that the budget adopted by the 1969 legislature was larger than the budget he had recommended, implying that the senators — not the governor — were to blame for the new, higher tax rates.

Tiemann ducked a question about a constitutional amendment which will be on the 1970 general election ballot. The amendment would permit state tax funds to be used in support of non-public schools, including parochial schools.

"There are three topics to avoid in politics," the governor said. "They are money, religion, and children. This involves all three. You have the say in 1970. It would be pointless to take any position for or against."

The amendment was put on the ballot by the legislature. Throughout the 1969 session, Tiemann and the legislators had a running battle on a number of issues. But the governor told the Blair town hall audience "there is a lot of mutual respect" between him and the legislators.

However, Tiemann did renew his stand in favor of a partisan legislature. That issue isn't going to be on the 1970 ballot, the way it looks now. The Republican Party, which fell far short in a 1968 petition drive, isn't expected to renew its efforts next year.

Another legislative reform which Tiemann does back will be on the 1970 ballot, however. That's an amendment to have the legislature meet annually in sessions limited in length.

And that little life is priceless.

The latest addition to our family — I should I say my sister's family — is Loy Christopher, the son of Loy and Joan Marotz who was born Oct. 15. Joan is one of my favorite nieces. I have many. She flew from Georgia recently to be sure and get to Grand Island before the blessed event. Her husband drove the car from Georgia and will have some leave before being assigned to a new location. Meanwhile, my sister Lydia can help spoil her newest grandchild. Memory takes me back some years when Joany (then Bredthauer) and another favorite niece, Patricia Bell (now Miller), spent part of their vacation at our house. How quickly little girls grow up!

From down Mexico way our daughter Kathleen writes that she is having another art show beginning today and lasting through November. It will be held in San Angel (the old part of Mexico City where they live) in an old Spanish Museum gallery called Gallery del Centro Cultural Isidro Fabela. Wonder if I have that name right! She writes that she'll be busy getting some pictures framed and taking care of a lot of details that don't meet the eye. I see where she'll be busy.

I found the article, "A Village Within the City," in the October issue of Mexican World very interesting. The pictures are typical of that section of Mexico City. The article mentions the narrow cobbled streets — I walked those streets. Officially that section has been renamed "Villa Obregon" but to us it is San Angel, the home of Kathleen and her family.

Long Air Force Career Ends for General Tolen

A 1932 graduate of Ord High School, retired from the Air Force Sept. 30 as a brigadier general. The retirement ended 33 years of military service for Adrian (Woody) Tolen.

The general's mother is Mrs. Iri Tolen, who still resides in Ord. An aunt, Miss Ruth Tolen, also lives here.

General Tolen and his wife, the former Mary Catherine Chappell of Lincoln, plan to make their home in Lake San Marcos, Calif. He said last week that he has not made employment plans yet, but he hopes to be admitted to the bar in California. He holds a law degree from the University of Nebraska and has served the Air Force in a legal capacity for the past 22 years.

For the last five years General Tolen held the title of staff judge advocate for the Air Force Systems Command. In that capacity he was the senior legal counsel for the Air Force's principal procurement agency. He provided legal advice on procurement, patent, labor relations, personnel, and fiscal problems, as well as supervising the administration of military justice and claims programs.

AFSC headquarters is at Andrews Air Force Base, Md.

General Tolen was born in Ord and was 33 years old Oct. 31.

After graduating from high school here he attended the University of Nebraska, and in 1936 was commissioned as a second lieutenant in the Army. He received his commission through the university's Reserve Officer Training Corps program. The general's first assignment was with the 3rd Infantry Division at Fort Snelling, Minn. The following year he was detailed to duty with the Civilian Conservation Corps, serving in that role until 1939 when he returned to law school. But in 1940 he was ordered to active duty at Seventh Corps headquarters in Omaha. Eventually he was detailed to duty with the Air Corps and served as a squadron commander and personnel officer at various bases in the Technical Training Command.

Later he was assigned to the B-29 program and became assistant chief of staff for personnel with the Eighth Bomber Command. He held that post until January 1948, when he again returned to civilian life.

Seven months later General Tolen completed his legal education and started practicing law in Montrose, Colo. He remained there almost a year before receiving a regular commission in the Judge Advocate General's Department of the newly organized U.S. Air Force.

Since that time he has served as staff judge advocate in a number of major Air Force organizations. He was with the Twentieth Air Force on Guam, the Fifth Air Force in Japan, the Fourth Air Force at Robins AFB, Ga., and the Fifteenth Air Force at March AFB, Calif. He also has served as chief appellate defense counsel in the Office of the Judge Advocate General at Air Force headquarters in Washington, D.C.

General Tolen is a member of Phi Alpha Delta, a professional legal fraternity, and the Federal Bar Assn. He also has been active in the Elks Lodge and Lions Club.

His military decorations include the Legion of Merit and the Air Force Commendation Medal.

Brig. Gen. Adrian Tolen Retires after 33 years.

North Loup-Scotia Shows 43 Students On First Honor Roll

Forty-three scholars at North Loup-Scotia High School are off to good starts this academic year. They were named to the school's honor roll for the first six weeks of the fall semester.

The roll includes five all-A students — Emily Schudel from the 12th grade, Barbara Bredthauer and Rod Van Slyke from the 10th, and Janice Goodrich and Matt Schudel from the 9th. Grades are supposed to slip a bit during the senior year when students become involved in more school activities. But that's not the case with the Class of 1970, as it has more honor students than any undergraduate class. Of the 43 honor roll students, a dozen are seniors. The complete honor roll, with all-A students in bold-face type:

12th Grade
Cynthia Bredthauer, Susan Cadek, Joyce Hackel, John Jacobsen, Cliff Joyce, Nichole Keller, Anita Loh, Arnold Moody, Sharon Morrow, Mike Rasmussen, Emily Schudel, Cindy Shoemaker.

11th Grade

John Gogan earned his Bronze Star the hard way.

Arcadia Man Receives Bronze Star for Heroism

Ten months ago John Gogan gave an arm and a leg to save a friend's life. In recognition of this heroic feat, the former Navy Seabee was recently awarded a Bronze Star with combat "V" for valor.

Gogan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gogan of Arcadia. Now equipped with artificial limbs to replace the real ones that were amputated, he is enrolled at Kearney State College.

The former football player and 1964 graduate of Arcadia High School was injured on Dec. 16, 1968, while working on a construction project at Cu Viet in the Republic of Vietnam. He threw himself in another Seabee to protect him from fragmentation when their work area was hit by an artillery and rocket barrage.

Gogan's parents said Saturday that their son remembers little of the actual circumstances surrounding the action. After he was injured he was taken aboard a Naval hospital ship and later spent several months in state-side hospitals.

"He is learning to use his artificial limbs real well," Mrs. Gogan said. "He can even dance again, and drives a car without any special devices."

At Kearney young Gogan is pursuing a major in industrial arts. After finishing high school he had attended Milford Technical School where he learned welding, and that was his work with the Seabees. He is still interested in it and hopes to teach, his mother said. That is the reason for the industrial arts major.

Mrs. Gogan said her son has learned from a friend who visited the area later that the installation where he was working when he was injured has since been abandoned by the Allied Forces. It was near the Demilitarized Zone separating North and South Vietnam.

The Bronze Star was presented to Gogan in a ceremony at the Naval Reserve Training Center in Lincoln.

Former Chanticleer Wins Grid Contest

Eugene Markowski has proved he is still as knowledgeable about football as he was five years ago when he was catching passes and destroying ball carriers for the Ord High School team.

Now employed in Syracuse, Markowski had the winning entry in last week's Quiz Football selection contest. He called 19 of 23 games correctly. (The 24th game, Oklahoma versus Colorado, had been played the previous week and so was not counted. A number of fans still miss it, though.)

Markowski was a member of the 1964 Ord High School team which was the last from here to win the Big 10 Conference championship.

He was the only selector to pick 19 games correctly.

High School Pupils Will Have Chance To Consider Future Plans, Opportunities

Ord High School's annual Educational Planning Night will be held Tuesday with activities beginning at 7 p.m.

Purpose of the program is to acquaint high school juniors and seniors and their parents with the educational programs offered by various institutions of higher learning.

The program will begin with a general assembly in the boys' gym, where final instructions and assignments will be made. During the evening's three class periods, students and parents may attend sessions of the schools they are primarily interested in.

Representatives of some 30 colleges and vocational schools plan to take part in the program. They will be representing academic colleges throughout the state, as well as nursing and medical, beauty and barber, and business and vocational-technical schools.

In addition, members of the various armed forces and local representatives of the U.S. Department of Agriculture will be on hand to present materials and information on careers in their respective fields.

Eldon Buoy, counselor at Ord High School, said he felt the program would be quite helpful to juniors and seniors as well as their parents, and he urged them to attend. Students and parents from surrounding towns may participate also, and specific invitations have been sent to the schools at Arcadia, Burwell, Taylor, Bartlett, and Scotia.

Tax Session Scheduled

Contractors, lumbermen, electricians, plumbers, and individuals in related fields of work have been invited to a 10 o'clock session tomorrow morning (Friday) at the courthouse in Ord. A representative of the state tax commissioner's office will be there to discuss changes in the state sales tax law as it applies to the program in Nebraska. However, full details are not yet available as to how that sum will be divided among the state's 93 counties.

Robert Timmerman said Tuesday, though, that the county ASC committee will proceed with approval of requests for cost-sharing improvements. Timmerman is chairman of the county committee.

Conservation Assistance May Be Applied for Now

Applications to participate in the federal government's "70 Agricultural Conservation Program" are being accepted now by the Valley County ASCS Office.

This is a program whereby the government will split costs of needed conservation work with individual farmers on an approximate 50-50 basis. Slightly over $5 million has been allocated for the program in Nebraska. However, full details are not yet available as to how that sum will be divided among the state's 93 counties.

Robert Timmerman said Tuesday, though, that the county ASC committee will proceed with approval of requests for cost-sharing improvements. Timmerman is chairman of the county committee.

District BPW Clubs Gather at York For Autumn Meeting

Mrs. Opal Burrows, Mrs. Ella Marie Carson, and Agnes Cernik attended the fall conference of the District 4 Business and Professional Women's Club Sunday in the city auditorium at York. The district includes clubs in Ord, Central City, Grand Island and York.

The welcome was given by Mrs. Cecilia Geis of York. Mrs. Burrows of Ord gave the response. The Grand Island Luncheon Club was responsible for devotions. Edna Widman, district director from Central City, presided over the meeting.

State officers present included Mrs. Margaret Hart of Omaha, president; Mrs. Martha Messersmith of Gering, first vice-president; Miss Olga Cherry of Lincoln, second vice-president; and Miss Pauline Yost of Hebron, treasurer, and Miss Erma Harvey of North Platte, president-elect.

Agnes Cernik, member of the State Nominating Committee from District 4, presented the ballot for election of a new district director and member of the State Nominating Committee. Helen Erickson of Central City was elected district director, and Mrs. Jean Dougherty of York was named to represent District 4 on the State Nominating Committee.

The luncheon speaker was Rev. Frank Kirtley of the First United Methodist Church of York, whose field is psychology. His subject was "The Disturbed Child."

Following adjournment, members of the Grand Island club served coffee and cookies for the social hour.

The 1970 district meeting will be held in Central City.

Decision on U.P. Request Expected Within 30 Days

A decision will be rendered within 30 days on the Union Pacific Railroad's request to close its depots in a number of Loup Valley communities.

Arguments for and against closing the Ord depot were presented Wednesday morning at a meeting in the district court room of the Valley County courthouse.

The Union Pacific Railroad was represented by its attorney, Jerome Given of Omaha, and the protestors were represented by local attorney L. W. Cronk. Specifically the Union Pacific is asking for permission from the Nebraska State Railway Commission to close the Ord, North Loup, Scotia, Loup City, and Dannebrog depots, leaving the present agent in St. Paul to operate a base agency. Service to the other towns would be provided with a mobile unit.

This mobile unit would be available to railroad customers at all times, according to the company, and would precede the train into each of the towns. The mobile agent would assist in spotting cars for unloading, and attend to outgoing shipments.

A feature of the mobile units would be an Enterprise telephone system by which the St. Paul agent could be reached each day until 5 p.m. After 5 the phone would be answered directly from Grand Island. It would be toll free to customers.

M. W. Gronberg, station supervisor for the UP at Omaha, said he had contacted shippers the first of this month and explained the proposed plan, and it had been accepted by everyone contacted.

In his protest presentation, Cronk presented Virgil Benke, manager of the Farmers Co-Op Elevator, who stated that his company has almost daily contact with the local agent in Ord and that they do their shipping principally by rail. He was assured that the mobile unit would be available at any time assistance was needed. Benke also asked if the present schedule would be kept in the future and was assured that it would. Benke concluded by saying he felt there was a large enough volume of business in the Ord community to justify a local agent. However, he said he would be willing to try the mobile agency and hoped to adapt to the situations which might arise.

"Another witness, Charles McMillan of Grand Island, represented the telegraphers and agents from Council Bluffs, Ia., to North Platte. His appearance had been opposed earlier by the railroad's attorney. McMillan said it was his personal opinion that there is enough business to warrant a full-time agent in Ord, and also an agent on a full-time basis at St. Paul, in addition to the mobile unit.

Cronk pointed out that Ord does far more business with the railroad than does any other community on the branch line.

In summarizing, Railroad Commissioner Joe Brown stated that the presentations of the hearing would have to come before the five members of the commission, or a majority thereof, who would arrive at a decision. The decision must be rendered within 30 days.

Mrs. Lydia Bartunek and Mrs. Phyllis Garnick receive praise from BPW members for outstanding work and service.

BPW Club Presents Awards During Week Recognizing Two Outstanding Ord Women

Two annual presentations were passed out Tuesday evening at the dinner meeting of the Ord Business and Professional Women's Club held at the Elks Club. Winners of the awards were Mrs. Phyllis Garnick and Mrs. Lydia Bartunek.

Woman of Achievement

Chosen to receive the BPW Woman of Achievement award was Mrs. Phyllis Garnick, the daughter of Mrs. Agnes Dodge of Ord, wife of Harold Garnick and mother of four. Mrs. Garnick is well known in this community, and through her achievements has made herself known in a much larger capacity.

Mrs. Garnick grew up in Valley County, attended Elyria grade school and graduated from Ord High School where she was drum major. A recipient of the Union Pacific scholarship, she graduated from the University of Nebraska with a major in Nutrition.

Circumstances changed her plans from becoming a dietitian to serving as Valley County Home Extension Agent. After a year, she accepted the position of Home Economics instructor at Ord High School and continued teaching several years after marriage. Her teaching profession was interrupted for a time while her children were small.

When her youngest child was of school age she resumed her teaching career at Ord High School which she has continued to skillfully maintain. Several years ago she assisted with the planning, building and furnishing of their new farm home near Ord.

During her tenure as Home Economics teacher, the Homemaking Department has expanded immensely, and each year several future teachers do their practice teaching with Mrs. Garnick. Recently she assisted a State committee in evaluating the Homemaking Departments of the Grand Island schools. A helpmate and guide to FHA girls on both the local and district level, Mrs. Garnick took time from her busy schedule a year ago to sponsor a group to the National FHA Convention at Miami, Fla. A proof of her popularity was realized last year when she was named Outstanding Home Economics Teacher in Nebraska. She presently serves as president of the State Home Economics Teachers' Association.

In addition to the required tasks in her own department, Mrs. Garnick has often served as junior class sponsor. Students showed their respect and appreciation by dedicating the OHS Annual to her last spring.

Since becoming a member of 4H at an early age, Mrs. Garnick has maintained that interest by assisting in local and state 4H work. An active member of the First Presbyterian Church in Ord, she also works diligently with the P.E.O. Sisterhood and holds membership in Chi Omega Sorority and the Delta Kappa Gamma Society.

Heart of Gold

A verse from Proverbs was used in describing Mrs. Lydia Bartunek, recipient of the "Heart of Gold" award — "She is far more precious than jewels."

Mrs. Bartunek and her husband Alfred have opened their country home to numberless friends in time of sorrow and need. Always faithful in remembering children on their birthdays, Mrs. Bartunek helps friends in time of illness and makes regular visits to the hospital and rest homes. Thoughtful enough to share her garden vegetables and flowers with friends and shut-ins she also takes time to chauffeur people in her car on a close errand or to a distant city.

Lydia — as everyone knows her — remembers with special concern, the Sisters of St. Mary's School and the housekeepers of Our Lady of Perpetual Help Parish on birthdays and holidays. Her countless acts of love obviously extend from early childhood.

Added entertainment for the evening program was a musical presentation by the Melody Mums — Sharon Fuss, Dee Meese, Phyllis Rasmussen, Hejosee Breyer and Charlene Schauer with Kay Green as pianist. A sixth member of the group, Lois Ziomke, was unable to be present. Their selections were "Love Is Blue" and "People."

'Working Girl' Selected by Ord Students as Homecoming Queen

A pretty brunette who's helping to earn her own way in the best American tradition is the 1969 homecoming queen at Ord High School.

Joyce Bogus, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Syl Bogus, was crowned at halftime ceremonies of last week's football game between Ord and Broken Bow. She was selected for the honor in a vote among her schoolmates. daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Garnick; Sue Greenway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cork Greenway; Julie Winterfeld, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Winterfeld; and Marilyn Vodehnal, daughter of Ernest Vodehnal and the late Mrs. Vodehnal. All are seniors.

"The voting was extremely close," Principal Bob Norton stated afterwards. "With the switching of a few votes, any of the girls could have been selected." Queen Joyce stands 5 feet, 5 1/2 inches tall and has dark brown hair and eyes. She lives with her sister Stephanie (Mrs. Ron Hurlbert) and family.

While keeping up with her schoolwork and an assortment of extracurricular activities, the new queen finds time to work four nights each week at the Valley County Hospital. She is also participating in nurse's aid classes there. At school she is a squad leader for the Ordettes; serves as editor of the school newspaper, the ORACLE; participates in the Dramatics Club; and is the business manager for the school yearbook.

Miss Bogus says her hobbies are listening to stereo music and reading poetry. She is the youngest of four sisters. The other three are all married.

IMPORTANT NOTICE
Two years ago the government changed the laws governing Ambulance Service.
We had been operating under transportation laws, then ambulance service was put under hourly wage laws.
Ambulance service is a 24-hour-a-day service and it takes 2 men for each call. Under the new laws they can work only 8 hours a day.
THIS FORCES US OUT OF THE AMBULANCE SERVICE
Until now we have continued our service by receiving help from the county, but they have decided they can no longer help us.
Therefore we must discontinue our ambulance service as of the 1st of December 1969.
Others have turned to fire departments, the city or the county for ambulance service. We feel this is the best recourse for the citizen.

Carol's Corner

by Carol Leggett

Goblins, witches, and jack-o-lanterns seemingly decorate windows of Ord residences more abundantly this season than ever before — reminding us that Halloween time is just around the corner.

Unfortunately we failed to tell readers last week of Ord's Halloween parade set for this Friday, Oct. 31. Consequently several anxious mothers telephoned me inquiring as to whether or not a parade was planned in Ord this year.

I consider this a real "goof" on my part, since I understand so perfectly the time element involved, especially with the working mother who must complete projects such as these the weekend before the event actually takes place. This has always been the case at our house anyway, and on several occasions the problem has been complicated further by "Little Miss" who easily changes her mind. For more than a week she can be perfectly thrilled with the thought of being Little Orphan Annie, but minutes before the celebration begins she starts shedding tears because she can't be an Indian.

Yes, there will be a Halloween parade in Ord this year. Actual parading will be at 2:30 p.m.; however, all youngsters are to assemble at the grade school at 2 p.m.

If you are looking for something different to give to those Halloween night spooks who will innocently demand "trick or treat," why not make up a batch or two of these Pumpkin Cookies. For this recipe you'll need:

- 1 c. shortening
  - 1 c. sugar
  - 1 c. canned pumpkin
  - 2 c. flour
  - 1 egg
  - 1 t. baking powder
  - 1/2 t. salt
  - 1 t. vanilla
- Bake 12 minutes at 375 degrees.

A note from the Richard Priens who now live at 1611 S. 16th St. in Lincoln asks that their name be entered on the Ord Quiz mailing list. Frances writes, "As the old saying is so true — you never miss the hometown paper until you move away."

Once more a reminder to the families of Valley County servicemen in Vietnam. If you haven't telephoned or sent the address of your serviceman to Mrs. Doug Wert, you'd better do so today. How can the Ord JC-Ettes complete this Christmas project without your help? The deadline is Nov. 6.

Loup City Girl Marries Richard Bilka In Catholic Ceremony Saturday Afternoon

St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Loup City was the scene Saturday for the wedding of Kathleen Wojtaszewski and Richard Bilka.

The 1 p.m. nuptial mass was performed by Rev. James O'Kane of Loup City and was followed by a reception at the V.F.W. Hall.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wojtaszewski of Loup City. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lew Bilka of Burwell.

Nuptial music was played on the organ by Mrs. Stella Wardyn, who accompanied vocalists Shelby Skibinski and Archie Markwick in "Now Joined by God" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, appeared in a gown of Chantilly-type lace. The basque bodice featured a battan neckline outlined with handclipped, scalloped border lace. The long sleeves of lace were wristlet length. A voluminous skirt with front lace panel extended into a Cathedral train. A crown of seed pearls and crystal held the elbow-length illusion veil.

Miss Wojtaszewski carried a Bible bouquet of yellow gold carnations.

Cindy Wojtaszewski served as maid of honor for her sister's wedding, and Mrs. Betty Hulinsky of Grand Island was the bridesmatron. They were dressed in floor-length gowns styled alike in Mediterranean blue chiffon over taffeta. Long puffed sleeves were featured with the fitted waists, rounded necklines, and controlled skirts.

Flower girl Connie Wojtaszewski, another sister of the bride, wore a gown of similar style. Headpieces of the three attendants were of helio tulle accented with pearls in a flower effect. Yellow carnations made up their floral arrangements.

Larry Bruha of Comstock was best man with Jerry Hulinsky of Grand Island serving as groomsman. Dennis Bruha of Burwell was ring bearer, and altar boys were John Wojtaszewski and Michael Oltman.

Joan Wojtaszewski presided at the guest book. Gifts were in charge of Mrs. Evelyn Michalski, Mrs. Patsy Schmidt, Rita Augustyn, and Linda Wojtaszewski.

Assisting at the bridal table were Mrs. Florence Peterson, pouring coffee; Mrs. Marie Pect, serving punch; and Mrs. Virginia Phelps and Mrs. Dovie Reed, cutting and serving the cake. Other helpers were Diane Spotski, Margaret Quandt, Julie Kwiatkowski, and Jean Kwiatkowski.

Following a wedding trip to the Ozarks the newlyweds will be at home on a farm near Burwell.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clemence Lewandowski of Loup City. Mr. and Mrs. John Smedra of rural Loup City are the groom's parents.

Barbara Kusek of Omaha was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Margie Gorecki of Farwell Ferry, Vanderberg of Omaha, and Rita Augustyn of Loup City. Kelly Kuta, a niece of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. Corinna Smedra, niece of the groom, and Kevin Kuta, nephew of the bride, served as flower girl and ring bearer.

The bride's attendants wore identical empire floor-length strawberry saki gowns with high filagree necklines and bishop sleeves, wide-cuffed and edged with filagree lacework. Their matching headpieces were minibus with shoulderlength cascades of net. Each attendant carried a bouquet of strawberry carnations and mums.

The flower girl was attired in a gown styled identically to the attendants. She carried a basket of flowers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor-length empire silhouette of Peau with pearled Alencon lace motifs trimming the bodice, redingote front, and cuffs of the bishop sleeves. The dress featured a front pleat and detachable Watteau chapel train with an oversash.

Miss Lewandowski's chapel-length veil was accented by a shoulder-length bouffant veil which fell from a cluster of Peau petals and pearled lace motifs. She carried a cascade of mums,

Ord To Host Lexington 11

0-0 Tie With Broken Bow Fires Chants; Minulemen Own 4-2-1 Record for Year

Bolstered by a morale-building scoreless tie with Broken Bow, Ord's Chanticleers will be seeking to better their 1968 season record when they host the tough Lexington Minutemen tomorrow night (Friday).

The Chants will need to be in top mental condition for the contest, since their physical condition continues to deteriorate each week.

Lexington has won four, lost two, and tied one this season. The Chants are 1-5-1.

In last week's homecoming contest Ord gained a definite moral victory, even though it failed to put any points on the scoreboard. The Chants showed an edge in statistics and prevented their foe from topping the .500 mark for the year. The Chiefs are now 3-3-1.

Also by winning, the Chants made it possible in this rebuilding year to better the record posted by last season's team. The 1968 Chants were 2-and-7, a win in either of its remaining games this year will put the 1969 club over that.

Ord was inside the Broken Bow 30-yard line on five occasions but could never find the key that would open the door to a winning touchdown. Their deepest penetration was to the 2. On the other hand, the favored Chiefs were inside Ord's 30-yard line only twice—and then they got only to the 25 and 27.

Injuries undoubtedly hurt the visitors, as they lost five men at various points in the game. Starting quarterback Pat Knoell—a two-way performer—went out in the first quarter when he was hurt tackling his opposite number, Ord quarterback Paul Markley. The injury was diagnosed as a possible shoulder separation.

The Chants were shedding no tears for their foes, however, as they played their second straight game without starting halfback Bruce Hurlbert. He was still suffering from a case of pleurisy.

Earlier in the season the Chants had lost their top-flight defensive end, Paul Markowski, for the year. Markowski's duties led a terrific Chant surge on that occasion.

However, Coach Chuck Squier's offensive unit was again unable to generate any telling offensive punch, as it turned the ball right back to Broken Bow on the next play. Markowski's pass was intercepted at the nine-yard line.

Ord also had one gamble that worked and one that didn't. The Chants made it on a fourth-and-one situation at the Broken Bow 45 but failed on a play of roughly two inches at their own 42. Jim Novotny, who was held to 11 yards on nine carries, didn't get an inch as he tried the right side of the Ord line.

But the Chant defense did its work too, as Jim Naeve intercepted a pass to halt the mild Indian threat.

By game's end the tough Ord defenders had Broken Bow so intimidated that the visitors punted once on third down from their own 31-yard line.

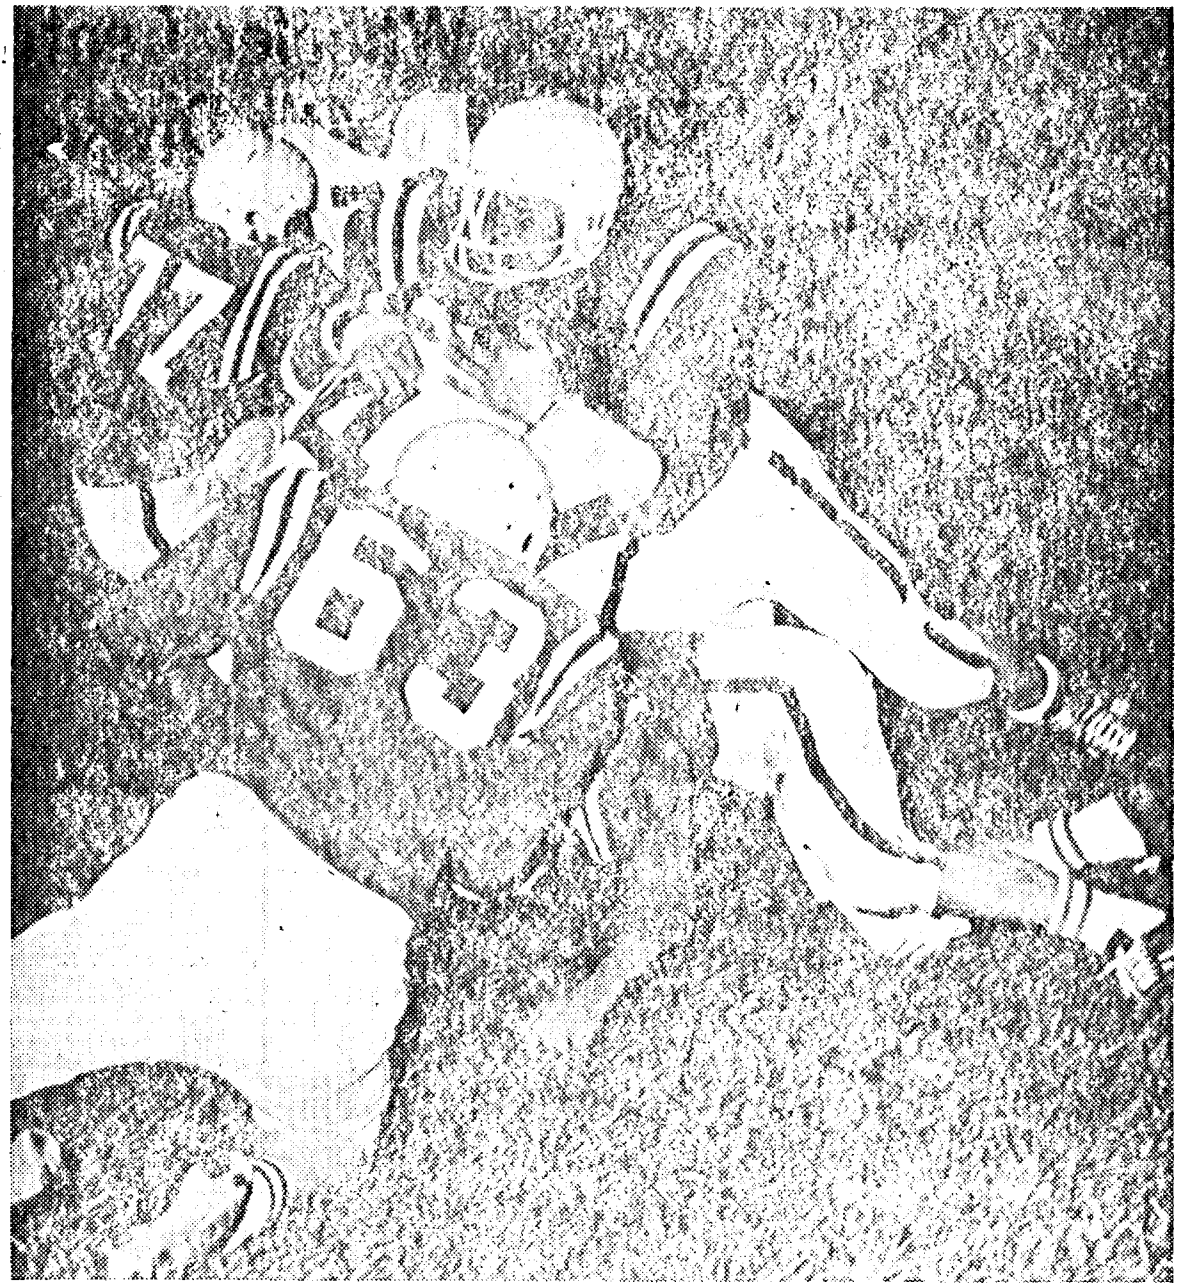

Besides reaching the Broken Bow 2, the Chants penetrated on other occasions to the Chief 12 and 13-yard lines, and twice to the 26.

Their last hope came with less than two minutes to go when they got to the 12. But Markley was caught from behind trying to unload a pass on fourth and four. Ord had gotten that opportunity when Wells picked off a Broken Bow pass and returned it to the Chief 18-yard line.

A defensive starter all year, Wells made his first offensive start in the contest and finished as the game's leading rusher. The star of last year's undefeated junior high team picked up 49 yards on 14 carries.

The man he unseated, Dennis Kamarad, gained 35 yards on just seven totes. Markley had his busiest rushing night of the year, carrying 19 times for 43 yards. Broken Bow's best offensive effort was a second-quarter drive that carried from its own nine-yard line to the Ord 25.

Arcadia Hikes Season Record to 6-1; Powerful Wolbach Is Next Opponent

Raising its own season record to an impressive 6-1, Arcadia played the spoiler for Sargent's homecoming last week. The Huskies prevailed, 14-8.

The victory set the stage for Arcadia's showdown this week with mighty Wolbach, the state's No. 1 Class D team. The game will be played tomorrow night at Wolbach. In last week's activity the top-ranked Mustangs broke open a close game to give a fine Class C team, North Loup-Scotia, its worst beating in two years. The score was 38-16.

Sargent hosts that same North Loup-Scotia team this week in the big game of the year in the eastern half of the LITC Conference. Now 4-2 for the year, the Wildcats can win the eastern title with a victory. Sargent is 3 and 4.

Arcadia and Sargent both warmed up for their big games with fine defensive showings against each other. The Huskies were particularly tough when it counted—they stopped two Sargent threats in the fourth quarter when the Bulldogs had first-and-goal situations. The Huskie defenders also set up their own team's two touchdowns.

Sargent, meanwhile, was holding Arcadia outside the 28-yard line the entire second half.

All the scoring was done in the second quarter. Arcadia's alert defenders pounced on a fumbled punt to set up the first touchdown, which came on a three-yard run by Dan Hurlbert. Then, with just over a minute to go in the half, Hurlbert picked off a Sargent pass and returned it 60 yards to the Bulldog five-yard line. Dennis Ohma got the ball across the goal line, scoring from two yards out. His run for two points was also successful.

A 51-yard drive culminated in Sargent's only touchdown. The Bulldogs got six points on Tom Keefe's 12-yard run, climaxing the drive, then added two more on a conversion run by Keefe.

The contest was a hard-hitting affair with both teams moving the ball well between the 10-yard lines. Arcadia had 23 first downs and Sargent 22. Both, however, were also bothered by penalties. A total of 67 yards were stepped off against Arcadia, and 75 against Sargent.

Friday were limited to driving a convertible for one of the homecoming queen candidates.

Ord held an 82-yard edge in total offense, getting 145 on the ground and 64 in the air. Broken Bow had 70 on foot and 57 overhead.

The Chants made their most serious threat at the beginning of the second half. Larry Wells made a fine kickoff return to the Broken Bow 43, and from there the Chants methodically worked it down to the Chief 4-yard line. But on a fourth-and-goal play from that point, Markley could get but half the needed yardage. His eight-yard first-down sneak was the biggest gain in the drive.

Both teams showed unflinching confidence in their defensive units, as they gambled on fourth down two times apiece.

Broken Bow did it on its first possession at the Broken Bow 41-yard line. That time the Chiefs got the two yards they needed. But the next time they tried it—needing a half foot—they turned the ball over to Ord at their own 26-yard line. Danny Timmerman

Loup City Bumps Ansley, 26-12; State Power Ravenna Is Next Foe

Showing its most potent offensive thrust of the season, Loup City bounced back above the .500 mark with a 26-12 triumph over Ansley last week.

The victory served as a warm-up for what could be Loup City's two toughest games of the year. The Red Raiders close their season with Ravenna and Shelton.

Ravenna, which had led state Class C ratings much of the year before being upset last week by St. Paul, will be tomorrow night's foe. The game will be played in Loup City. Ravenna holds 4-1-1 record for the year and is undefeated inside the Lou-Platte Conference.

Then on Nov. 7 Coach Don Wagner's Red Raiders journey to Shelton for the season finale. That team is 5-2 at this point in the season.

Loup City now owns a 4-3 record for the year.

The touchdowns came early for the Raiders in their triumph over Ansley, as they rolled up a 26-0 halftime edge. Their total yardage for the game was 428, easily their best of the year.

With his top individual effort of the year, Jack Van Slyke led the rushers. He scored twice on runs of 35 and 10 yards.

Mark Eurek was dependable as usual and got the other running touchdown — on a two-yard smash.

The fourth six-pointer was actually the first one, coming in the opening minutes of play. On that occasion Bob Guzikinski hit his favorite receiver, Rog Obermiller, on a 70-yard pass-and-run play.

Mike Rowley and Arch Markvicka also caught well for the Raiders.

Litchfield Wins Over Elba, 8-0

Suffering its third straight loss, Elba found Litchfield's defense too solid to crack last week. The final score was 8-0.

Elba's defenders also played a fine game, but gave up a three-yard touchdown just as the third quarter ended. Marvin Beck scored it, and then John Backus ran across the two-point conversion.

The game was a Central Nebraska Conference affair.

Elba goes outside the conference tomorrow night (Friday) for a game at Roseland. That team won last week, 28-14, over Campbell.

Finishing Western Division play with a perfect 4-0 record, the Wheeler Central Broncos now turn their attention to the other half of the Sandhill Gateway Conference.

The Broncos met two Eastern Division teams early in the year and will complete their regular season with contests against the other two. Then they'll meet one of the four — whichever wins the Eastern Division title — in a playoff for the conference championship.

Humphrey is the next eastern team on the Wheeler schedule. The Bulldogs will be in Bartlett for a game tomorrow night (Friday). Then Wheeler faces a Nov. 7 assignment with Clearwater before the playoff contest. In last week's action the Broncos rolled over Ewing, 40-14, in their final Western Division game. The champions showed amazing consistency in their victory margins as they rolled through divisional play with 34-20 triumphs over Stuart and Chambers, a 40-18 victory over Loup County, and the 40-14 verdict over Ewing. Their record for the year is 5-1-1.

Combining good running and passing with another fine defensive effort, Wheeler Central had little trouble in the Tuesday night game at Ewing. The Broncos scored 22 points in the first quarter and went on to a 28-6 half-time lead.

Gene Schmeits put them on the road to victory when he scored on a 42-yard pass-and-run play in the opening moments. The pass was thrown by Tom Majors, who later lofted a 31-yard scoring strike to John Olson. For the game Majors hit on seven of 14 throws for 111 yards.

Wheeler's most frequent receiver on the short pass, Scott Patrick, proved he can catch the ball regardless of who puts it in the air. Except for the two touchdown throws, he caught all of the Wheeler completions. And on defense he intercepted an Ewing pass and returned it 23 yards for his team's second score.

The third touchdown came on a three-yard run by Schmeits, the fourth on a three-yard keeper by Majors, the fifth on Olson's pass from Majors, and the sixth on a two-yard run by Jerry Childers. Childers had been listed as a doubtful participant after suffering a slight concussion just four nights earlier against Loup County.

Ewing scored in the first and fourth quarters. Larry Reiter got the first period touchdown and Larry Barlow the fourth period one. Barlow's was on a 16-yard pass from Bob Pruden. In addition to Patrick, a fine defensive game was turned in for Wheeler by Steve Harkins. A 155-pound sophomore guard, Harkins missed the first three games this season with a broken hand. But in Tuesday night's contest he was credited with nine tackles, and his hard rush on pass plays caused a number of incompletions.

Coach Tom Majors said the return of Harkins has added welcome strength to the center of the defensive line, which had been weakened earlier by the loss of three other performers.

On defense the Broncos seem to come up with a pair of new stars each week. In their previous game against Loup County the leaders were Schmeits and Brian Hinz.

Schmeits forced a pair of fumbles deep in Wheeler territory to stop Loup County drives, while Hinz was credited with 13 tackles. He also had an outstanding game on offense as he repeatedly offered key blocks that sprang Wheeler ball carriers for good gains. In fact, on at least two known occasions it was his blocks that produced touchdown runs.

A pair of Sophomores have been important cogs in the North Loup-Scotia backfield this fall. Rod Van Slyke, starting quarterback, hands off to Gerdy Kriewald, starting fullback. They and the entire Wildcat team were shackled fairly well last week by Wolbach, 38-16, but they hope to bounce back tomorrow night against Sargent. For the year North Loup-Scotia is 4-2.

In Memoriam

I cannot say, and I will not say
That he is dead—he is just away!
With a cheery smile, and a wave of the hand,
He has wandered into an unknown land.
And left us dreaming how very fair
It needs must be, since he lingers there.
And you—O you, who the wildest yearn
For the old time step and glad return,
Think of him faring on, as dear
In the love of There as the love of Here;
Think of him still as the same, I say:
He is not dead—he is just away!

Try as they might, the Ord Jaycees couldn't push their "purple shaft" onto the Broken Bow Jaycees last week following a scoreless tie by the two teams. The visitors did concede Ord a moral victory but insisted that the shaft stay here as a result of last year's Indian triumph. That's Lynn Kerchal and Dale Zidina leading the Ord delegation at right, with Lyle Pollard (in fur cap) pushing hard for Broken Bow.

Ruling in Cass County Pollution Case Could Establish a National Precedent

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Assn.

LINCOLN — The Nebraska Water Pollution Control Council will consider evidence at its Nov. 14 meeting in a case which could have national implications.

Three council members held a hearing last week to take evidence on complaints that a huge feedlot near Manley in Cass County was polluting Cedar Creek. Three members — John Sanson of Omaha, T. C. Reeves of Central City, and Walter Slack of Omaha — will report their findings and recommendations at the Nov. 14 council session.

If the council decides that a lot owned by the Midwestern Feeding Co. is the source of pollution, it could order operations contributing to the situation be ceased.

The Midwestern operation is huge, although William Foxley, the general manager — declined to say at the hearing how large it is. Neighboring landowners estimated there are between 20,000 and 28,000 head of cattle feeding there on the average.

According to T. A. Filipi, director of environmental health for the waste from these animals is washed into Cedar Creek any time there is a heavy rain. Filipi said if the number of cattle on feed is about 20,000 head, the amount of waste would be equivalent to that produced by 300,000 human beings.

Cedar Creek feeds into the Platte River not far from the Midwestern lot.

Neighbors testified at the hearing that Cedar Creek water was black after a rain. They said the color was undesirable and that fish were dying in the stream.

One neighboring landowner said his cattle refused to drink from Cedar Creek anymore and sometimes refused even to walk across it.

Filipi and Ralph Langemeier, a stream biologist for the Health Department, said scientific findings indicated the creek was being polluted by runoff from the Midwestern feedlot.

Foxley didn't deny the scientific findings, but he said feedlot pollution wasn't considered a problem in 1966 when the Midwestern operation was established at Manley. He testified that his firm had checked with state and local officials to be sure it met all specifications.

After the pollution problem was discovered, he said, the firm invested $25,000 for the construction of two lagoons to catch runoff water and allow solid wastes to settle. The lagoons didn't do the job, he said.

Foxley added that he was reluctant to invest further money in attempts to solve the problem without more assurance they would work. Filipi said larger lagoons would work.

Foxley, on the other hand, maintained a better solution was around the corner and asked the council members to permit him to await their development. He said his firm wanted to be a good neighbor and was willing to make any practical efforts to solve the problem.

He said Midwestern was welcomed into the area when it arrived. Because of the feeding operation, he said, grain and hay prices in the area have risen and the addition of Midwestern property has resulted in lower mill levies for the county.

The council will consider the case under a 1956 water pollution control act. Sanson said this is over held under the 13-year-old act.

Foxley wouldn't comment on it, but sources indicated Midwestern was determined to fight the case assuming a council ruling against the firm — to the Supreme Court if necessary. The results — should the case be taken through the courts — could provide legal guidelines for the future.

Revisionists Meet
The constitutional revision commission held an organizational meeting last week and elected State Senator Ramey Whitney of Chappell chairman.

The commission will study the state constitution and make recommendations for amendments to the 1971 legislature. The lawmakers this year decided to have the study made by a commission instead of a constitutional convention, which could recommend amendments directly to the voters.

Representatives from the legislature, the public, the judicial branch and the administrative branch all serve on the commission.

Sex Education Meeting Slated
A meeting of a committee studying sex education is scheduled for this week.

The committee was named by Education Commissioner Cecil Stanley at the direction of the State Education Board.

Representatives from professional education organizations, the Nebraska Medical Assn., and lay groups will take part.

Included in the professional education category are representatives of the Nebraska State Education Assn., the Nebraska Assn. of School Administrators, and parochial schools. The lay group includes some parents, plus representatives of parent-teacher associations, the Nebraska School Improvement Assn., the Nebraska State School Boards Assn., the Nebraska Assn. of Schools, and chiefly organizational in nature.

A Beaming Queen

Happiness and excitement were present in equal proportions as Joyce Bogus was crowned last week as the second annual homecoming queen for Ord High School. At left Joyce is still agasp with excitement as Greg Marlin prepares to place the crown on her head. That's Connie Peterson, the retiring monarch, offering congratulations as Dennis Radli waits to escort the new queen to her throne. Above, Queen Joyce takes a convertible tour of her domain.

Ord Musicians Receive Honor

Five Ord High School students have been selected by the Nebraska Music Educators Assn. to participate at the state level. They were chosen following district try-outs held in Grand Island about 10 days ago.

Selected in the instrumental division were Sonja Swack, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chet Swack, and Dan Chichester, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Chichester. Vocalists selected were Don Sedlacek, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Sedlacek; Jon Dale, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dale; and Pam Riddle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Riddle of Comstock.

At the end of November they will go to Omaha for a state-wide clinic which will last about three days with a mass concert on the weekend.

The Nebraska association is affiliated with the Music Educators National Conference.

Local Senator Assists In Search for Treasurer

Mrs. Elmer Wallwey of Emerson was a weekend guest in the Rudolph Kokes home while her husband, Senator Wallwey, went turkey hunting with Senator Kokes and Ed Blaha. The men got their turkeys near Fort Robinson and assisted in the search for State Treasurer Wayne Swanson. Mr. Swanson was found safe in a haystack after straying from his hunting party in the same general area. The Wallweys left Ord Tuesday morning.

Sunday dinner guests of the Kokeses in addition to their house guests were Mr. and Mrs. Norman Garter and family of Albion.

Brother Killed

Stanley Iverson of Long Pine, a brother of Mrs. Wayne Zlomke, died early Sunday in an auto collision near Long Pine. The two-car collision at the junction of U.S. 20 and the Long Pine spur killed one other person, and a third was hospitalized.

Funeral services for Mr. Iverson were held Tuesday at Bassett.

High-Nitrate Roughages Can Be Used, Provided..

By John Schado
High Nitrate Roughages Can Be Fed:

Feeds that are high in nitrates can be fed profitably without harm if proper precautions are taken.

Ruminant animals (cows and sheep) can convert nitrates to ammonia with adequate energy from grain, and they can form protein with the help of bacteria.

However, as has been pointed out in this column earlier, nitrate poisoning may occur when the nitrate content of roughage is unusually high or when a build-up of nitrate occurs.

It has been proven that rations containing less than 1/2 of 1 percent potassium nitrate equivalent are safe. Those rations which contain more than 1 1/2 percent potassium nitrate equivalent may cause death.

Death occurs in animals when nitrate (an intermedial substance in the breakdown of nitrate to ammonia in the digestive system) ties up the oxygen-carrying capacity of the blood, resulting in suffocation.

Several weeks ago we reviewed harvesting forages which are suspected of containing excessive nitrates. Today we would like to list practices that can be followed in the feeding of forages known to contain excessive nitrates.

sound for any feeding program. They are especially important where you have forage that is known to be high in nitrates and must be fed to livestock.

Not All Pleasant

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Guggenmos of Sioux City, Ia., recently returned from a nine-day holiday in Spain and Portugal. The trip—sponsored by the Helena Curtis Co.—was a salesmanship prize to Mr. Guggenmos, who owns a beauty supply shop in Sioux City. The vacation included regular tours of the country which Mr. and Mrs. Guggenmos reportedly enjoyed.

The son of Mrs. Hazel Guggenmos, Bernard and his family formerly lived at Ord.

The Solution Proposed By the 'Get-Out-Nows'

Despite the renewed debate in this country over Vietnam, one fact has become irrevocably clear: the United States is definitely going to pull out. The only questions are when and at how fast a rate.

In view of this withdrawal course that President Richard Nixon has committed the country to, a question raised by one of today's "Vox Pop" contributors is especially important.

"I believe the question that needs to be discussed is what is our responsibility to the South Vietnamese when we pull out," Darwin Blue writes. Then he goes on to mention one proposal that has been suggested.

"It has been proposed that we offer to resettle any South Vietnam civilian who does not feel secure under a coalition government," Mr. Blue says. This is the same proposal that has been included in a couple of disengagement resolutions offered in the United States Senate.

Those who advocate such a course cannot have considered the consequences of what they are proposing.

Since this country has no colonial empire, there would be only one place to "resettle" those South Vietnamese who did not wish to live under a Communist government. That is here in the United States.

(And have no doubts about it—a coalition government would be one which would shortly be controlled by Communists who would precipitate a massive extermination of all those who had opposed them. Even the resettlement advocates acknowledge this. If not, why the need to offer asylum in the first place?)

When Vietnam was divided into North and South in 1954, a million or more refugees fled south to escape Ho Chi Minh's Communist regime. The official figure was listed at 860,000, but other tens of thousands escaped who went uncounted.

Should resettlement in the United States be offered, it is safe to assume that at the minimum a million persons would accept the offer. More likely a majority of the country's 18 million people would be waiting for the first ship or plane.

Besides those seeking to escape Communist persecution, the number would include those merely wanting to come to the great utopia—the United States. And that is precisely what this country is thought of in underdeveloped regions of the non-Communist world. It's the land of plenty, where everybody drives an automobile . . . and has a television set . . . and flies in airplanes . . . and eats meat three times a day.

Many "rich" U.S. servicemen, in fact, have had difficulty explaining to their Korean or Vietnamese or Filipino friends why they personally cannot take them to America.

Obviously, resettlement on a scale of the magnitude that would ensue if asylum were to be offered to all South Vietnamese would be preposterous.

But even if it could be accomplished physically, would we not be doing a great disservice to those we claimed to be helping?

Possessing no skills useful in our society and in many cases not even able to speak the English language, these "resettled" South Vietnamese would become parasites on this country's already burdened taxpayers. Vast new pockets of poverty would be created, and it would take generations—even centuries—before these people could be absorbed into the American mainstream.

It seems like mere fantasy to even consider such possibilities. But the resolutions that have been introduced by certain United States senators (Jacob Javits of New York is one and Claiborne Pell of Rhode Island is another) are not fantasy. Those resolutions are real, and their contents are being advocated openly by a small but very vocal group of people.

Yes, Mr. Blue's question about what our responsibility should be to the South Vietnamese is an important one. And we agree with him that those persons who would not feel secure under a "coalition" government should not be abandoned. But insuring that such a coalition government is never imposed in the first place is a far, far better solution than any offer of resettlement.

Kudos to School Board, Administrators!

Last summer the Quiz pointed out editorially that unofficial meetings of the District 5 Board of Education had been held for quite some time. A couple of months later the board was criticized for the skimpy official minutes it turned in to be printed.

Since that time board members and school administrators have gone out of their way to see that the public is made aware of each meeting in advance, and that proper minutes are compiled and printed afterwards.

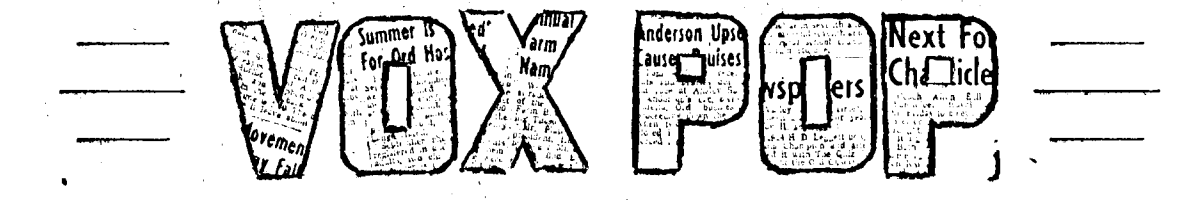

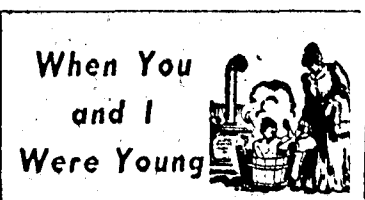

Proving that we can throw bouquets as well as bricks, we congratulate the school board and administration for the excellent job they are doing in these areas.

In fact, if there is any criticism to be leveled at this time, it would have to be aimed at the general public. Over the past year and a half, we have seen only one bonafide "visitor" at any school board meeting—except for last month's bid opening when a number of businessmen showed up for the actual openings but left immediately afterwards before the board began deliberations. Admittedly, the Quiz has not been represented at all the meetings either, but it has been at most of them.

Part of a citizen's responsibility is to keep himself informed of what his elected representatives are doing. Reading about those actions is one way, but it rates a poor second to actually being there and hearing for oneself.

School board members—like city councilmen and county supervisors—draw their share of criticism when they make decisions that their constituents do not approve. Yet most of the critics never come around to express their opinions when the decisions are being made, or to find out the reasons for them.

Open meetings are essential to the democratic process. Yet one wonders how essential they are when meeting after meeting no one shows up except those that have to be there.

Dear Editor:

Your Oct. 16 editorial on the Vietnam War has spurred me to write a reply. I feel your reasoning in support of the war is somewhat fallacious, and I would like to respond.

You continuously compare the Vietnam War to other wars such as the Korean War. The Korean War was a rather clear case of aggression across an internationally recognized boundary line.

In Vietnam the 17th parallel between North and South was accepted in the Geneva accords of 1954 only as a temporary line until free elections were held in 1956. The elections were never held because President Diem and the United States blocked them.

In his memoirs President Eisenhower acknowledged the Communists would have won. This evidence that the war is a civil war contrary to what you say in your editorial.

You speak of defending freedom in your arguments to support our actions. However, the Thieu-Ky regime doesn't seem too concerned with freedom. They imprisoned their closest election opponent, and they put newspapers out of business if they do not support government policies. This is not my idea of freedoms that we should commit thousands of lives and billions of dollars to.

I believe the question that needs to be discussed is what is our responsibility to the South Vietnamese when we pull out. It has been proposed that we offer to resettle any South Vietnam civilian who does not feel secure enough under coalition government. Incidentally, this would cost less than our conduct of the war.

Millions of Americans are now saying the Vietnam War is a colossal mistake. I think it is especially important that many high officials in previous administrations are having second thoughts about this war. Is it worth the massive effort this nation has put forth to keep the Thieu-Ky puppet regime in power? I say not and that is what over a million people were saying on Wednesday, Oct. 15.

Dear Editor:

J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the F.B.I., has warned us many times that we are at war. Not a shooting war but a deadly, ideological war of trickery. A war that the freedom-suppressing Communists have used for years.

Part of this ideological war of trickery is to get FREEDOM LOVING Americans to contribute BILLIONS OF DOLLARS to Communist nations. And we have been doing just that, through UNICEF Halloween tricking. Innocent boys and girls—and some not so innocent churches—collect money on Halloween which is sent to the murdering Communists.

Bloody Red China—about whom only the naive would question whether or not she is our enemy—received from UNICEF in 1961 a total of $1,538,109.46. This same year, $205,000 to the Communist government, and the dictators spent it as they saw fit. We can only take their word for where it was spent. And might I remind you that Lenin once said, "Promises are like pie crust, made to be broken."

In March of 1960, a few months after the bloody takeover of Cuba by Fidel Castro, UNICEF leaders voted to send his Communist regime $170,000 for "health services" and "environmental sanitation." In 1964 UNICEF sent Castro another $125,000 to spend on anything he wanted, plus spare parts to keep them in condition. This was in addition to UNICEF's emergency appropriation to Communist Cuba of the same year of $205,000.

The Daughters of the American Revolution magazine for April 1969 contained an article about UNICEF which said, "The general public looked with jaundiced eye on UNICEF gifts of $51 million worth of food and drugs to Cuba, where underground sources in that unhappy island reported 'that the drugs are already aboard a Russian ship on their way to the Soviet Union.'"

It's the Communist governments that get this money. Do you think the slavemasters use it to feed starving children, or to strengthen their power over the slaves? History proves that they use any means possible to control the people.

Yet, some ask, "What's wrong with UNICEF?" Only the uninformed or pacifists and socialists would ask what's wrong with the Communist program of UNICEF. An editorial in the Birmingham Post Herald of Sept. 12, 1962 said there is nothing wrong with UNICEF except "their funds are used for the furtherance of Communist aims" and "the people running UNICEF are predominantly Communist or Communist accommodating."

The Bible says, "By their fruits you shall know them." Funds from UNICEF totaling $10 million were used to make war on the Christian anti-Communists of Katanga, where hospitals were bombed and women as well as children were shot down in the street by the UNITED NATIONS "peace force." Is this what you want your money used for?

This Halloween there will probably be children knocking at your door asking for contributions to UNICEF. Two years ago my reply was, "No thank you, I never give aid to the Communists." I urge all loyal Americans to take the same stand. If you have children, do not let them help further Communist programs.

A big plea is made that the money "buys milk for hungry children all over the world." But if that's the real reason, why has UNICEF been sitting on a $30 million surplus for years? I'd suggest they use that money to buy the milk, and not money from the American taxpayer's pocket.

Time was, when anyone gave support to the enemy, it was called treason and the culprits were dealt with accordingly. It's time we dealt with these traitors who give support to our enemy, whether it be by giving money to UNICEF or blood to the Viet Cong.

U.S. Aid Offer Boosts Totalitarian Regime in Czechoslovakia

By Paul Scott

WASHINGTON—President Richard Nixon has handed Moscow a far-reaching psychological victory in Czechoslovakia.

Under his policy of "reconciliation" with the Soviet Bloc, the President recently put his stamp of approval on Premier Orlach Cernik's hard-line Communist government in Prague.

Helping the Communists

Although President Nixon's far-reaching offer of aid to the Cernik regime received little mention in the American press, it was the big news of the week in Czechoslovakia.

The government-controlled press and radio in Prague gave the Nixon offer wide circulation.

According to Czech refugees in Washington, the Cernik government's objective in playing up the Nixon offer was to dampen all hope among its opponents that the U. S. might use diplomatic or economic pressure to ease their plight.

The refugees were shocked that the President would offer aid to the Cernik regime at a time it was being bolstered by the presence of more than 100,000 Russian troops.

The President's aid offer also comes at a time that the Cernik government is increasing its economic and military aid to North Vietnam and North Korea, whose military forces are killing Americans trying to establish peace in Asia.

Republican congressional leaders, who inquired about the unexpected aid offer, were told by White House aides that it is part of Kissinger's new policy to establish closer relations with Communist governments.

The plan is to use offers of increased U. S. trade, aid, and credits in an effort to ease East-West tensions. If this can be done, the GOP legislators were promised, large-scale reductions in American troops abroad can be made during the next two years.

The New Era

Kissinger, who is President Nixon's chief foreign policy adviser, believes that the election of Willy Brandt as chancellor of West Germany will usher in a new era for all of Europe.

In private talks with other Cabinet members, Kissinger is

Something Different

I am getting a complex about all the things that won't work around here. A syndrome, would you call it?

First I'll say there's the water softener; is it working at all? I have lime-y crusts around the drains in the lavatory, sink, etc. and etc. Why?

Then loose spindles in some chairs made me suspect the humidifier; is it working? Or is everything drying up in this house? Is that crack in the ceiling bigger?

Next came the disposal. It quit. Now what? Could it be those streamers of celery? No, that sounds metallic, clanky—is it the family diamonds?

"The over-load switch kicked off," declared the plumber, so now you know.

Then what happened to my phone?

All at once no one could call me. I could phone out, so I didn't notice the silence for a couple of days. In this length of time a number of people were informed that I had said I didn't wish to receive any phone calls! Me, who loves to talk? Ha.

Well, I think that back in August when I went to Minnesota I probably called the telephone company and had my phone put on stand-by. Or possibly I did this in September when I went to Rochester.

At any rate, I've been home more than three weeks now, and have received numberless calls all that time, so why would I suddenly get snooty? Or sick—that's what people thought I was. Anyway, I didn't like missing those long-distance calls.

When I finally got in touch with the repair department, second time, I got it straightened out. So now my friends have quit saying, "Why doesn't Irma pay her telephone bill?"

And there was a little trouble with a letter or two that bounced back and forth between here and Rochester, but I'll have to say the Post Office people did everything they possibly could, both here and there, and I appreciate this extra service very much.

Then, my electric heating pad stopped working to my great disgust. I sent one of my willing slaves to get a new one. It proved temperamental, with many bright buttons, but punch them all—and lo, it heated up.

That night the electric blanket stayed cold. Gee whiz! What next?

Oh dear, next day I discovered I had never turned it on.

Finally I concluded . . . Well, why should things work around here. After all, I'm not working . . . setting a very poor example just now.

By Kerry Leggett

—one won't hurt—
I read. I listen. I wonder.
Marijuana. LSD. Bennies.
Heroin.

Where are you going, America? Why are you running? What do you expect to find?

You remind me of a boy I knew, once. Born in Kansas City, he spent his early life in a small Midwestern town.

Though he didn't know words like festivity and fantasy—nor that each is a part of every human life—observation and imagination soon supplanted any definitive requirements.

Watching his parents—and other adults—he observed that festivity was the reward for success. He later learned the elements of festivity—the capacity for genuine revelry and joyous celebration. But in his youth he understood festivity as a self-imposed bit of backslapping.

At his house—and most others—festivity almost always involved the use of alcoholic beverages. People worked hard, and they deserved a festive occasion once in a while. He even learned at Sunday school that jubilation in Biblical times meant festivals with wine, women, song, food, and dancing. He couldn't wait until he was old enough!

For him festivity was a little harder to understand. No one had ever explained it as the faculty for envisioning radically alternative life situations . . . nor would he have understood them if they did explain it in this way. He knew, though, when he pulled up the covers and the lights were out at night he could lay there for hours and imagine all the things he was going to be . . . someday.

Fantasy was fun. He didn't discuss it with anyone, though. What would people think? You just don't tell people that YOU rode the white horse and rescued the king's daughter. They'd think you were nuts!

As he grew older he had occasion for festivity. With it came wine and women and song and food and dancing. It was fun—usually. In fact, it was the closest he'd ever come to LIVING the fantasy he'd dreamed about. For a while he could be all the things he'd ever envisioned. With the help of a few drinks he could live the fantasy he'd so long dreamed possible. Now he knew what he'd so long observed—that you can temporarily be someone you aren't. It was possible! It was festivity and fantasy combined.

He liked what he saw, and he saw what he liked. All this was possible with the help of a few drinks. Others around him said it was possible, too, with drugs. But he didn't have needle-marked arms, nor did he have to hide to use alcohol. And he got the same effect from a bottle. He could alter his thinking—tune out that Guy that kept telling him what was right and what was wrong. He could "BE HISSLER!"

One day he awoke. The party was over . . . the fantasy ended. It had lasted three years, and that's a long time for any party. Some of it had been fun . . . and some of it he didn't remember. He did remember, too much. He remembered that someone said, "One won't hurt you." "Everyone does it." "You've got to let your hair down once in a while!"

He remembered, too, some of his thoughts. "You aren't hurting anyone but yourself." "You can quit whenever you want to." "It's none of their business!"

Yes . . . he remembered. Some things you NEVER forget.

He remembered an old Chinese adage. It was one of the first he learned after the party ended. The longest journey begins with a single step.

He wondered about the first step Diane Linkletter had taken. He wondered, too, about the last one.

"One won't hurt you . . . you aren't hurting anyone but yourself . . ."

Focus on China

The State Department is not taking too seriously that talk about Communist China's interest in the United Nations.

The Canadians touched it off by circulating a report that Peking would like an invitation to join the U.N. Since the report was circulated, Peking has let it be known that it would only accept the invitation if the Chinese Nationalist government on Formosa was ousted.

MOVING FORWARD... In the olden days when life was simple, people didn't know about such things as personalized checks, savings accounts and insured loans. They kept their money in cigar boxes, walls, mattresses, and even under floor boards. People didn't know much about banks either. In fact, about the only thing a bank was good for, was to get robbed. Things have changed. Today we have brick walls, and it's kind of hard to store money under wall-to-wall carpeting. That's why you should depend on NEBRASKA STATE BANK for your banking needs. They have a solution to every banking problem and will keep your money safe until you need it. Offices In The Lord's Church Matthew 28:19 "All power is given unto me, in Heaven and in earth" The church of Christ was founded in A.D. 30 in the city of Jerusalem. Jesus Christ was the founder and he founded his church upon himself. And Christ is still the head of HIS church even unto this day. In Matthew 28:19 Jesus said, "all power is given unto me in Heaven, and in earth". As the head of the church he does possess that power. By looking in the Bible we find that in Christ's Church he has passed certain responsibilities on to different offices in HIS church. Now Christ does not sit in Heaven and send forth telegrams or radio messages to tell mankind what he desires the church to do. Rather, he has established offices within the church and given those offices certain responsibilities. Whenever a man is elected to one of these offices the responsibility of that office automatically becomes his. Christ knew what he was doing when he created these different offices. He has organized his church far better than any human being could ever do. It would be good if those men who are continually trying to reform the church would stop and examine the scriptures to see what God said about the matter. When MAN starts CHANGING the church; always remember THAT IT'S MAN and NOT GOD WHO'S DOING THE CHANGING. The same is true whether it be the name of the church or its practices. The office of Christ's Church that I have been speaking of are Evangelists, Elders and Deacons. And let it be understood, these are the only offices authorized by Christ. Ephesians 4:11 says, "and he gave some Apostles, and some prophets, and some evangelists and some pastors and teachers." The office of Apostle has been abolished. For a person to be an apostle it was necessary for the person to have seen Christ. Thus everyone realizes that there is no one left to fill that office. The office of the prophets has also been fulfilled. For God no longer speaks through prophets as he did in the Old Testament times. However, there are those who claim to be an Apostle and there are those who claim to prophecy, but I ask you this question, "Isn't it strange that if they are an apostle or a prophet of Christ that they sometimes disagree with God's revelation?" Certainly it's exciting to be a gift winner but . . .

Beware Of The Home Improvement "Gyp"

Property owners would do well to read the following home improvement hints:

Check any "bargain" offer presented by a stranger that seems unrealistic BEFORE you deposit any money or sign any agreement.

Let NO ONE begin ANY work on your property before you ascertain the reliability of the firm they represent.

Beware of the "bargain job", or any idea that your home will be a "model home" for advertising purposes, entitling you to a rebate or commission, or a "Special Offer" that will soon expire.

Insist on knowing the TOTAL cost of labor and materials . . . don't rely on verbal promises. Require the solicitor to leave proposed forms with you for further consideration, and refuse to deal with him further if he is unwilling to comply.

Remember that the firm may not be too greatly interested in the matter of materials, quality or payment because it will have a mechanic's lien on your property in case of nonpayment.

Before you purchase any home improvement deal from strangers consult a local attorney, merchant, contractor, financial institution or the Chamber of Commerce.
