

BOBBY BARE A New Country Star

Bobby Bare started singing professionally on a local T.V. show in Charleston, West Virginia, when he was only seventeen years old. Since that auspicious occasion he has been invited to appear on nation wide television shows including "Ed Sullivan" and Dick Clark's "American Bandstand." His traveling has taken him to all parts of the country where he appeared on other local T.V. shows such as Cliffie Stone's "Hometown Jamboree" and "Town-Hall Party." He was also a regular performer in The Army Show while he served his time with Uncle Sam.

"Detroit City" is Bobbie's greatest song to date. Written by famous country song writers Danny Hill and Mel Tillis, the song sky-rocketed into the top ten in a few weeks. In the shadow of this hit are Bobbie's "Down On The Corner Of Love," "Darlin' Don't," "All American Boy" (one of his biggest), "Book Of Love," "Sailor Man," and "Brooklyn Bridge".

Bobbie's talent doesn't stop at singing, however. A song writer himself, Bobby has written songs that have been recorded by such artists as Ferlin Husky, Rose Maddox, Wynn Stewart, June Carter, Ralph Emery, and Billy Walker. He was also the writer of three of the rock and roll songs featured in the motion picture, "Teenage Millionaire," starring Chubby Checker, Vicki Spencer and Jack Larson.

As you can see Bobby has been connected with many big names in show business and he keeps learning new things every time he meets new people. These have only been a few of the "Bare" facts. There is much more to come for this young man will grow and grow into one of our finest stars.
