President coming to Kentucky on Monday

United States President Bill Clinton is probably coming to Kentucky over the fourth of July weekend.

While the Whitehouse will not confirm that the President will be in Southeastern Kentucky on Monday, many people are gearing up for his arrival and members of his advance team are in the area, making preparations.

From all indications, the President will land in London on Monday, and then fly by helicopter to Jackson County where he will visit Mid-South Electronics in Annville.

The President then may or may not go on to McKee for a stop at the high school or the courthouse.

The President then may travel on to Hazard in Perry County. The White House advance team was there on Wednesday.

President Clinton is apparently coming to Kentucky to see the benefits of the federal empowerment zone program, which dumped millions and millions of dollars into three Kentucky counties, including Jackson County.

President Clinton will also likely discuss his program "New Market Initiative", which encourages businesses to locate in poor areas of the nation.

Marijuana found in traffic stop

A Covington man was arrested Sunday night after police found two pounds of marijuana in his vehicle.

According to Sgt. Steve Walker of the Kentucky State Police Post in London, David Didonato, 29, was initially charged with driving under the influence of drugs, by Trooper Lave Owens and members of the Mt. Vernon City Police department, during a road check at the junction of U.S. 25 and Hummel Road in Renfro Valley.

Walker said that when officer searched Didonato's vehicle they found the marijuana.

Didonato was originally held in the Boyle County Detention Center before he posted a $10,000 cash bond or $500, on Wednesday.

Commonwealth Attorney's office receives $41,000

State and federal officials continue to "divvy up" the proceeds of a October 1997 raid at the residence of Gary Rogers, 41 and his mother Estelle Rogers, 76, of Flatwoods School Road, near Bea Lick.

Acting Commonwealth Attorney Eddy F. Montgomery announced Tuesday that his office had received $41,150 in forfeiture money from the United State's Attorney's Office in Lexington.

According to Montgomery the money was part of over $200,000 cash seized from the Rogers' residence during the police raid.

Both Rogers were indicted by a Lincoln County Grand Jury on October 24, 1997, for the offense of cultivating marijuana over five plants and

$6,150 raised in WHAS Crusade

The Rockcastle County WHAS Crusade for Children Fund Raiser for 1999 was another huge success.

Prior to and during the memorial day weekend, local volunteers raised more than $6,150. Local chairperson, Linda Gregory, said that besides the money collected at the road block at Hwy. 461 and Hwy. 150, $1,700 was also donated by local businesses.

Since the fund raising event began in 1991 the county has received $92,000 from the WHAS office in Louisville for various projects.

Judge Venters does not release Lovell on bond

By Richard Anderkin
Accused murderer David Lovell remains in jail this week, after a hearing in the case last Thursday.

Rockcastle Circuit Judge Dan Venters issued an order on Wednesday ruling that Lovell should not be released from bond, although he and his parents brought $50,000 cash to the Rockcastle Circuit Clerk's office on April 12.

Lovell, 33, and his wife Barbara, 25, were indicted on March 12, for the murder of Charles "Tody" Baker, 32, of Mt. Vernon, who was shot to death. Baker had been missing since May of 1997.

The day that David Lovell and his parents attempted to post the $50,000 cash bond, an agent with the Federal Drug Enforcement Agency, seized the money. The agent told Lovell's the government had reason to believe the money was generated through the sale of illegal drugs.

Venters ruled that because the bond was never completed and because Clerk Teresa Vanzant did not actually accept the money, the bond was not posted and Lovell cannot be released from jail.

Judge Venters did agree to change the requirements of both the Lovell's bond from a cash bond to a property bond.

Venters ruled that they could post another $50,000 cash bond or a $50,000 property bond each and be released while proceedings in the case continue.

As part of the bond agreement the Lovells cannot travel outside Rockcastle County and can have no

Burnside man arrested

A Burnside man was arrested on Tuesday and charged with illegal transportation of alcohol in a dry territory.

According to a news release from the Kentucky State Police, Roy E. Ashcraft, 59, of Burnside was stopped by Kentucky State Trooper John Yates, who noticed that Ashcraft's tags had expired on the 1982 Dodge van he was driving along Hwy. 461.

When Yates stopped Ashcraft, he found 35 cases of beer and four fifths of whiskey inside the van.

Besides being charged with illegal transportation, Ashcraft was charged with expired plates, no registration receipt, no insurance and failing to wear a seat belt.

Patriotic Day

Mt. Vernon Church of the Nazarene, 40 Fair Street, is having "Patriotic Sunday" on July 4th, Sunday School at 10 a.m., Morning Worship at 11 a.m. Everyone who comes will receive a flag, a flag key chain, and a brochure explaining our Founding Father's position concerning the phrase "separation of church and state." Do you know that the statement "separation of church and state" is not in our Constitution or Bill of Rights?

Two teachers hired at RCMS

Two new teachers were hired at the Rockcastle County Middle School during the last meeting of the site based council there last week.

Karen Powell was hired as a language arts teacher and Scott Parkey was hired to teach social studies.

The council also designated August 5, as orientation day for grades 6, 7, and 8. The orientation will be held from 6:00 to 8:00 p.m.

New company to relocate in Rockcastle

By Richard Anderkin
Another employer is apparently headed to Rockcastle County.

Bigge Towery, Executive Director of the Rockcastle Development Board told the Rockcastle Fiscal Court on Tuesday that Integrity Mold and Die Inc., of Berea would be relocating in Rockcastle County.

Towery said he wasn't sure when the company would be in operation, but officials had reached agreement for Integrity Mold and Die to locate in the current industrial park.

Third district magistrate Bill McKinney said that he had talked to some of the employees that currently work at Integrity in Berea and they told him they hoped to be in the park by the first of the year.

The new industry will locate next to the current building that houses Rockcastle County Home Health Agency and Hospice and will take the last available space in the Industrial Park number one.

Integrity Mold and Die will be the third tool maker to locate in the county in the past year or so, following B & H Toolworks and EST Tool and Machine.

Towery's comments came during an annual report to the fiscal court concerning the first year's efforts of the Rockcastle County Development Board.

The board was formed last year as a spin-off of the Rockcastle County Industrial Authority in an effort to attract new industry and businesses to the county.

Members of the Industrial Authority were joined by other members of the community to form a 14

Body not found in lake search

Garrard County Emergency Management coordinated search efforts Saturday at Lake Herrington for the recovery of the body of Jesse Harness, 39, of Nicholasville and formerly of Bee Lick, who has been missing since May 22.

The search began at 8:30 a.m. and lasted until around 5:30 p.m.

In addition to members of the Garrard County Emergency Management team, assisting in the search were Kentucky Search Dog Association, Somerset-Pulaski County Rescue Squad, Wayne County Rescue Squad and divers from the Cincinnati Diving Center.

"Unfortunately we were not able to recover anything at this time, the family was very pleased with the efforts made on Saturday. We will be attempting to contact another rescue team that has offered assistance and will be having another recovery operation later this week, if possible."

member board and Towery was appointed Executive Director. Local attorney John Clontz is chairman of the industrial authority.

Since the establishment of the board, members have met with Governor Paul Patton, U.S. Representative Harold Rogers and several members of the state's economic development cabinet.

Towery told the court that for economic development to happen in Rockcastle County everyone must work as a team and show a united front.

Towery said that the development board had made a long term commitment to and was in the process of developing a long term plan of action that involved the entire county.

Towery also told the court that the development board, along with the court's help had made tremendous progress in improving Rockcastle Industrial Park number two, which is located off Old Hwy. 461, near Mt. Vernon.

"Included in the process have been landscaping, a new sign and regular mowing and efforts will continue to make the park show well and impress any potential clients," Towery said.

Towery told the court that often times potential employers will call and want to come to see the park and the county the very same day.

Library board votes not to run Centernet

A somewhat disgruntled John Clontz told the Rockcastle County Fiscal Court on Tuesday that the Rockcastle County Development Board was very disappointed in the fact that the Rockcastle County Library board had voted not to be the governing body for a project that would bring video conferencing to the county.

The Centernet project would enable companies, schools, doctors, lawyers, or anyone to hold meetings or attend conferences with other people all around the world.

Clontz told the court that the project was being funded and administered by the Center for Rural Development in Somerset and that forty counties in southern and eastern Kentucky would probably participate before it is finished.

There of course has to be a place to house the Centernet and Judge Carlotis told Clontz he thought the library was by far the best place.

Clontz said that some development board members had already begun raising funds to construct an extra room at the library, but that the library board's vote had put a snag in the project.

Integrity Mold and Die has reached an agreement to locate its Berea company in the Rockcastle Industrial Park #1. They will take up the last acreage in the park.

Points East

By: Ike Adams

Over the last couple of years there's been much moaning and groaning in northern Garrard and Southern Jessamine County about their horrible isolation from the rest of the world.

You see, these horribly deprived individuals live on a four lane or improved two lane road where the speed limit is only 55 miles per hour. It's a virtually carless road, but from Nicholasville and Lexington somebody had the audacity to install half a dozen traffic lights at various intersections.

Once you get to the outskirts of Lexington you have to take another four lane, again with speed limits and traffic lights to get over to I-75. Depending on where you live in Garrard County it's a trip that can sometimes take over thirty minutes. But if you listen to the griping and moaning of a few well-heeled political supporters and the puppets they send to Frankfort, you'd think they lived at the bottom of a deep dark canyon and the only way out is a path up the side of a cliff.

The only solution, they maintain, is a more direct route to I-75 so they've been putting pressure on Patton and Pals to do just that. Fortunately, however, up until just recently, common sense has prevailed. Common sense being held by land-owners and rural citizens who love their way of life and who also have enough money to hire some lawyers.

But a politician never saw a road project he didn't like and as a result, the desperately needed I-75 connector has moved to Lancaster Garrard County and suddenly we've got a handful of folks in Lexington and Leitchfield who can't live without it. And, of course we've got a few politicians who see all that bacon and they can't wait to get in the frying pan.

Granted, Highway 52 has a few miles that need straightening out for safety, but we've already got that funded and approved and construction scheduled to commence and so forth. There are also a few places on I-295 between Lancaster and Richmond that could use a little widening and straightening, also for safety reasons.

Unfortunately there are also some absentee land owners who recognize that their farm land might be worth considerably more if a new 50-million dollar road were built instead of taking the common sense approach. To make a long story short, the peaches and cream crowd from the Kentucky Department of Transportation and their hired bull-manure spreaders called a public meeting at the Paint Lick Elementary school where they could with great excitement and enthusiasm explain how wonderful things were going to be when they finished wreaking a few dozen homes and run the fast lane through the rest of our laws.

Highway 52, as it now exists, is itself a community. Our little town of Paint Lick is the center of that community complete with a bank, post office, garage, grocery store, fire department, half a dozen churches and so forth. We like it just the way it is and that's the reason we love living here.

However, we don't have the money that the more northern folks have. We can't afford the lawyers and we don't have the political clout so we are easy pickings for the road crew. Or so they think right now.

There are any number of ways to build a road that would leave us alone and be a straight line from Highway 27 to I-75 that wouldn't require moving more than a few homes. It might split up some of that farm land that is currently dancing around as visions of subdivisions in the heads of a few landowners who are the only ones who want the road in the first place.

I suggest to the politicians and the road freaks that they rent a plane and fly about a while if they want to see where a road could go that wouldn't destroy our way of life and our peace of mind. Then build the darn thing even though it's needed less than we need English saddles for every head of beef cattle hereabout. But leave us alone.

In the meantime, I just hope they get that bull manure stench cleaned up at Paint Lick Elementary School before classes resume this fall. Teachers and little children shouldn't have to put with the odor. And the next time the same crowd comes to town, I suggest we have the meeting at the stockyards. At least somebody is hired to shovel it out once in a while.

Chapter 20

Getting used to my new home back in 1937 was a pleasure but there were also many trials attached to finding the right place for all my belongings and how to handle the chores attached to making a brand new place livable and comfortable. Luckily we had a bedroom suite that had plenty of drawers for there was no closets to hand things up in. There was also no doors as yet to close off the rooms for privacy. Mat did not believe in nails being driven into the walls but my insistence a few were driven in obscure places to hand a few of the heaviest garments on. All others were folded and placed in the drawers. Between the living room and kitchen a small cupboard with shelves was built which was soon filled with linens and on the bottom shelf was Judy's diapers. In the kitchen next to the stove several big deep shelves were installed to take care of the pots and pans, groceries, canisters and any other things associated with the work in the kitchen that I could crowd in. These two cupboards filled the space on each side of the chimney built between the living room and kitchen and at that time the only built in storage area in the house.

In desperation for a place for my treasured glass dishes, many of which were fancy wedding gifts, I used one of the two big antique book cases. The glass doors, which could be locked but seldom was, protected the dishes from dirt or careless hands. It was used as a divider between the dining area and storage area. An oak kitchen cabinet took up a little more valuable space but was sorely needed for the purpose of which it was built, it held flour, sugar, meal, bread flour and rolling pin, plus the two shelves for every day dishes. This had to be placed in the dining room since the kitchen was too small for it.

Beneath the kitchen window a mental topped table was placed to hold the water bucket and wash pan. A full white skirt with trimming that matched the curtains was fastened around the table. This was my hiding place when I would be scared by strange noises late at night before Mat would get home from town. I would put a lighted lamp, the rifle, and Judy beneath the table and crawl under the curtain so the light couldn't be seen from outside and wait for the sound of his truck nearing the house before I'd draw a sigh of relief, unfold my legs, set the lamp and rifle out side the curtain caddy-hole, arouse the baby and crawl back out in time to meet him when he came in. For several years I was desperately afraid of strange noises when I was alone. I had heard so much about the violence in the area, and knew some of it was still going on my life became a torture when Mat was gone till after dark. Then, I took control of my fears and with the protection of my dog and rifle put them away till some future time when they may be needed.

The taking care of fresh milk each morning and night was chore I had not been accustomed to so room had to be found for milk bucket, gallon jars to store it in, and a handy place to do the straining took any stray bits of hair or foreign material that may have fallen into it. And oh yes, it was clean. Then it was taken to the spring to be cooled. There is nothing better than fresh milk cooled in a spring. Or buttermilk made from it when it was a few days old. More about churning later.

Beside the cook stove was a wood box which held coal as often as it did wood, and a bucket for ashes. Oh yes, this little room was crowded but I managed to do a lot of cooking in it. The living room was just as crowded with my antique piano and M's other book case taking up most of the space and the heating stove taking up the center of the floor. Yet we found room for a couple of chairs and at various times a couch or half bed, a table to set the radio on and room for visitors for the welcome mat was always out.

I always thought our bedroom was the nicest of all. It was the biggest and I tried to arrange our five piece bedroom set and Judy's baby bed so each piece showed up in its best advantage.

All the floors in the house as well as the ceiling were made of pine. The floors would later be covered with hard wood and the ceiling varnished. But for now sweeping the wide pine boards was all that was needed to freshen it up. Of course the kitchen had to be cleaned with soap and water and occasionally the living room when I could catch Mat away long enough to do it. He never approved of getting a wood floor wet. But what else could I do with all the dirt carried in from the barn and fields? I survived.

When we moved into the house in the fall of '37 Judy was crawling and exploring everything she could find. One day when she had been quite for awhile I found her in the bedroom kissing and patting the face of the baby that grinned back at her from the full length mirror of the vanity. On the bottom shelf of the vanity I kept my scant makeup supply and she had found the powder and her curious baby fingers had quickly learned how to open it and experiment with the soft white stuff inside. There wasn't much wasted but it was time for lesson number one in training a child what it can and cannot do. I scolded enough till she knew I was unhappy then explained it was not to happen again. She was a dear baby and seemed to understand what I was telling her. It was not put up out of her reach and she never bothered it again even though that became her favorite place to play with "the other baby."

One of Mat's workhounds stopped by occasionally and while there would play with Judy till she became attached to him enough so when he came in she would crawl up to him and reach up, knowing he would pick her up. Then he would stand her on the floor close to his legs and say in his funny voice, "Come on now lets walk a little Mat began telling her about the same thing but I think he had more influence than we did for one day after one of these visits I heard a hesitant tap tap on the floor close to where I was working in the kitchen and looked up to see my baby tottering there.

Then she plumped down but got back up immediately and never again did I find her crawling. Now she had a real world to explore. One that could be reached by tipping and tugging at pretty things beyond her reach before. And she quickly learned where her diapers were and would go to the bottom shelf where they were stored, get one and bring it to me when she needed a change. In the evenings she and I would sit on the front step and watch the stars and moon light up the sky. Even though she was only a baby it was at this time in her life Mat began telling her about the constellation. He was an avid believer in it was never to early to begin filling the mind of a child with worthwhile things.

Dear Citizens,
Make sure you use registered garbage haulers to have your garbage taken off. Because I was a victim of a person who took my garbage off and dumped it in an illegal dump. As a result, I faced fines and cleaning up a dump. Be careful who you get to haul off your garbage, it could be dumped on the side of the road.

Sincere apologies,

In Loving Memories

In Memory of My Beloved Mother, Aene S. Harper

On her Birthday, June 30 I remember, when you called things chick.

I use to act, As if it made me sick. And country music, I use to love.

But having it now was surely my fate. In my memories, I can see, your face though demanding, was always kind and understanding. Whenever I happen

To soar of fall, You stood beside me, Through it all.

You understood, All I tried to do, I never had to, lie to you.

I could tell, you anything, With all good times, All life could bring.

Though time does pass,

My memories shall last. "Mother Always knows best (most of the time)," Is both present and past. Mother,

The best of my memories, Arc of the days, We turned to Jesus, And were saved.

Into God's hands, Our souls were laid.

On May 8th '98, You left this world, for a better place.

One sweet day, With the Lord and you, I'll rise up the sky,

And we'll never, Have to say goodbye. I love you Mother, I always will,

This poem with love, I've tried to fill. On this very special day,

I wish you a very Happy Birthday.

With love always, Janie Dale

Fairview News

By Mrs. Fubert Chasteen

Hello everyone. Hope you are well and happy. First of all I want to thank God for the good rain that we have received. It has been so dry for quite a while, but the gardens and crops are doing very well. And it has been a real good hay season. If we could only thank God for what we have, instead of complaining about what we don't have, we would be better off. And as we all know God blesses us more than we deserve. So let's try to be more thankful O.K.?

Rev. Kale Conner of Berea is still filling in as our pastor at Fairview. He is doing a good job and we appreciate him. We thank God so much for him. Bless his heart and Mrs. Conner are such good Christian people.

Our attendance was good over the weekend and 136 attended Sunday School. Thank the good Lord.

We hope and pray that all you sick folks are feeling much better. Just keep hoping and trusting in God. He is able and willing to do all things.

The Repperit Reunion held in Berea, Sunday, June 13 was enjoyed so much. More on this event will come later.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Alexander and son, Cody of Mareburg have returned home from a nice vacation in Tennessee.

Mrs. Ardilla Tinch of Franklin, Ohio recently spent a few days with her mother, Mrs. Edith Mullins of Snider.

Guests in the home of Mrs. Hallie Alexander have been Mr. and Mrs. Woody Gabbard of Berea, Mr. and Mrs. Junior Ward of Fairborne, Ohio and Rev. and Mrs. John Dodson of Madison County.

Visiting Mr. Raymond Phillips in the Central Baptist Hospital, Lexington, were Mr. and Mrs. Gillis Gregory and Mrs. Hallie Alexander. Mr. Phillips underwent major surgery last week and needs the prayers of God's people.

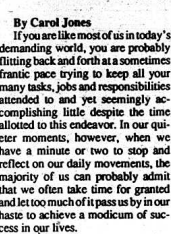

Visitors in our home Monday, June 14th were Myrtle Whelan of Berea and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Pogorelec of New London, Ohio. I enjoyed seeing my two sisters and spending time with them. I now only have three sisters Ruth, Myrtle and Dorothy and I love them so much.

Myrtle, Dorothy and Bob also visited our brother, Tip Repperit of Seaford, C.A.

We have now received more good rain since I started writing my column. Thank the Lord again.

Please remember Church and Sunday School and pray for one another. God bless you.

Library News

By Carol Jones
If you are like most of us in today's demanding world, you are probably flitting back and forth at a sometimes frantic pace trying to keep all your many tasks, jobs and responsibilities at once and yet remembering to do a compelling little despite the time allotted to this endeavor. In our quieter moments, however, when we have a minute or two to stop and reflect on our daily movements, the majority of us can probably admit that we often take time for granted and let too much of it pass us by in our haste to achieve a modicum of success in our lives.

True, it's a fast-paced world that we live in, and few of us can afford to sit idly by and ignore our responsibilities. But there's no reason why we can't attempt to pace ourselves somewhat and organize our activities so that we can enjoy the free time we do have. Perhaps I'm old-fashioned, but I still believe in the old adage to "stop and smell the roses."

Consequently, there is no better place, in my opinion, of course, than a library in which to spend quality time. Many of you have learned this over the years, and we at Rockcastle County Public Library see lots of familiar faces on a regular basis. For those of you who do not visit us, however, we especially invite you to come in and look around at some of our sections, see for yourselves the many enjoyable things a library offers that can enhance the quality of your lives.

Apart from the magic of books themselves, the computers represent a whole new world of our patrons. We have one particular gentleman patron who knew nothing about computers before he started coming to the library. Now, after spending several hours per week working with the computer he has become quite confident with the knowledge he has acquired.

Pearlie, Lynda and I will surely need the continued computer training classes we are required to take occasionally to keep up with motivated individuals such as this gentleman.

Who one appreciates more than I do the miracle of computer technology, and how important it is in today's world! Despite the endless, mind boggling capabilities of computer technology, however, I sincerely hope it never takes the place of books. There is a particular gratification one feels when perusing a book that can be attained through no other medium.

Books can be and are life-filled, aesthetically informative, entertaining and relaxing. They induce in their readers a plethora of emotions from the most heart-wrenching sadness and deepest anger to the ultimate extremes of joy and delight.

There has never been nor ever will be anything to compare with the personal fulfillment of reading a good book.

Let reading become your way of "smelling the roses" if you have no other relaxation outlet. You'll find that you will become not only better educated, but more relaxed and well-rounded, and definitely a more interesting person.

Moreover, it has been and will continue to be a busy summer for those of us who work at the library. The Summer Reading Program closes on July 15th but will culminate in the long-anticipated Artfest for the children between 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. on the same evening. I'm sure the children will enjoy the many activities and prizes in store for them. Please continue to bring your children to the library after the Summer Reading Program has ended. Lynda will undoubtedly have many more exciting things to do throughout the summer.

Also, I would like to thank all those who have donated books to the library over the years. These are not only supplements to the books on our shelves, but can be added to our FOR SALE caddy and our FREE BOOK giveaway box if we have duplicates. Nonetheless, we would like to ask that if you donate books, please bring only books that are in good condition and up-to-date. Textbooks are extremely out-dated and are of no use to our patrons and we have difficulty disposing of them. Also, books that have been stored in damp places for many years are often moldy and unusable. We cannot use those. Thank you all of you for your generosity.

Some of the new books we have to offer for you this week include Lake News by Barbara Delinsky. At its center is Lily Blake, a talented singer who shuns the limelight and cherishes her privacy. Tricked by a news reporter into unwittingly giving an interview about her friends with a distinguished churchman - a newly appointed Cardinal - she finds herself accused of having had an affair with him.

Shocked and dismayed, Lily becomes a pariah and suffers the brutal, ultimate violation of her privacy as headlines all across the country proclaim her guilt. Hounded by the press, fired from her job, deprived of all public freedom, Lily has no choice but to flee. She returns in secret to her hometown of Lake Henry, in a remote, beautiful part of New Hampshire.

But, idyllic as it may look, Lake Henry, too, has its secrets. Some were the cause of her leaving home in the first place, so returning to her birthplace and her family is not without its own stress and pain.

Driven by the need to exact justice - and, for herself, some kind of closure - from the media that changed her life forever, Lily forms an uneasy alliance with a former journalist. As she and he were born and raised in Lake Henry's poorest neighborhood. His successful career as a big-city reporter has ended disastrously, and John has come back home to edit the local newspaper, Lake News. At first he sees Lily as a victim, as well as a subject for the book he hopes to write. But soon she becomes someone whose appeal and courage he admires, even at the risk of taking on his former colleagues in her defense.

Set against the physical beauty of New Hampshire and against the complex web of family and community in a small town, Lake News moves triumphantly toward a surprising and deeply satisfying conclusion.

One Last Dance by Ellen Gowdie. A shot is fired one night and a husband is left dead. His devoted wife of forty years is jailed for his murder. The sleepy, seaside town of Miramonte, California, reacts from the shocking news. Vernon and Lydia Seagrave appeared to be the ideal couple, still in love as they approached the eve of their ruby anniversary. What could have gone wrong?

Their three grown daughters struggle to find the answer. Daphne, Alex and Kitty must bury their father and bring to light the ugly truth that could have saved their mother. At the same time, they must struggle to find their lives. Daphne is torn between family loyalty and her first love, Johnny Devane, the assistant DA prosecuting Lydia. Kitty's passionate affair with a much younger man is complicated by her fervent hope that his pregnant teenage sister will choose her to adopt the child she so desperately wants. And Alex battles with ex-husband she still loves as she comes to terms with the damage inflicted by the father she cherished more than any man on earth.

As illusions are stripped away, three women must steel their hearts against the check of exposed family secrets and lies. They must risk the rain of rebuilding lives that are honest and open their hearts to love that promises everything but offers no guarantees.

And, lastly, although it isn't a new release, we have acquired our first copy of an autobiography by Jesse Stuart, The Year of My Birth. It begins as simply the story of a man's fight for life. But it becomes the unique autobiography of an extraordinary personality and the vivid chronicle of an age gone by.

"I will not die. I will not die." These were the words Jesse Stuart uttered to himself as he was struck down by the severest type of heart attack just after completing a lecture in a Kentucky college auditorium. And though his face had turned blue and his heart was beating 250 times a minute when they got him to the hospital, he did not die. Just like thousands of others who survive heart attacks every year, this heart attack lecturer, novelist, short story writer, poet, lecturer, farmer and man of enormous energies faced the dilemma of beginning a new life drastically changed by his illness.

Quail Homemakers meet

The Quail Homemakers held their regular monthly meeting, Monday, May 17, at the home of Teet Stevens. Shirley Martin served as co-hostess. Sixteen members were present and three visitors.

The devotional was read by Betty Lou Whitaker.

Each member answered the roll call by naming their favorite spring flower.

The Eaton gave a report on the State Meeting.

Directions for Magnolia Blossom, Painting the Girl and Indian Corn Pin were distributed.

A trip to Horse Cave to see Outdoor Drama is planned in September. Plans were made to widen the entrance to the Quail Park.

The lesson on "Grandparenting" was given by Lorene Laveng.

The next meeting will be June 21 at the home of Norita Thompson.

Agricultural News

By Warden Alexander, FSA Director
TODAY'S FLOOD LEASING DEADLINE IS TODAY!

July 1st is the deadline to sign buyback tobacco leases! Producers are reminded leases filed and/or on file in the county must have all signatures (transferring farm and receiving farm) by the deadline to be approved. Leases with all signatures not obtained by the deadline of July 1st shall be disapproved.

FLOOD COMPENSATION PROGRAM ENDS JULY 2ND

On September 10, 1997, the Secretary of Agriculture declared a major disaster in the State of Kentucky based on damages and losses to crops due to heavy rains and flash flooding, that occurred on June 16 and 17, 1997. Rockcastle County was one of the five counties that were declared eligible for Federal disaster assistance including FSA (Farm Service Agency) (EOM) loans.

There was $2 million dollars made available for eligible producers who have incurred multi-year crop and grazing losses because of flooding. Twelve million will be used to compensate livestock and nonlivestock producers with eligible flooding losses (inaccessibility or incapable of production, grazing or haying during FY 1998, and 30 million dollars for all eligible producers who have insured multi-year crop and grazing losses because of flooding. Eligibility criteria is if a farm was inaccessible or incapable of production at all times during FY 1998 because of flooding and has incurred continuous flooding since October 1, 1992.

Signup for FCP is scheduled to begin on May 17, 1999 and end on July 2, 1999. Producers may file an application for benefits anytime during this signup period in the county where the loss occurred. If there are any questions please call 606-256-2525 or stop by the Farm Service Agency during normal working hours.

NONINSURED CROP DISASTER ASSISTANCE PROGRAM

The Noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program (NAP) provides crop loss protection for growers of many crops for which FCIC insurance is not available.

Eligible crops are commercial growers for food and fiber. Also included are livestock, ornamental nursery, Christmas tree crops, turfgrass, seed, crop, aquaculture (including ornamental fish) and industrial crops. Also, losses resulting from natural disaster not covered by (transferring farm and receiving farm) eligible for NAP assistance. NAP does not include trees grown for wood, paper or pulp products.

NAP crops are eligible when the expected "Area Yield" is less than 65 percent of normal. NAP payments are made to eligible producers when individual crop losses are in excess of 50 percent of the individual's approved yield at 60 percent of the crop's average market price (determined by FSA). Producers must report losses within 15 days of the crop loss.

Inlike previous disaster assistance program, producers must file an acreage and production report with the local FSA office prior to the crop reporting date of July 15th. If acres and yields are not reported on time, producers may not be eligible for NAP assistance.

ACREAGE REPORTS

Farm acreage reports of crops are approved yield at 60 percent of the crop's average market price (determined by FSA). Producers must report losses within 15 days of the crop loss.

Producers who have produced or sold land need to contact the local FSA office for proper reconstitution of farm acreage and benefits and/or to file. The final reporting date for all other crops, except small grains and tobacco is July 15th. After the final reporting date, a late reporting fee will apply.

FARM CHANGES

Producers who have produced or sold land need to contact the local FSA office for proper reconstitution of farm acreage and benefits and/or to file. The final reporting date for all other crops, except small grains and tobacco is July 15th. After the final reporting date, a late reporting fee will apply.

OFFICE CLOSURE:

FSA Office will be CLOSED MONDAY, JULY 5th, in observance of Independence Day. The office will reopen Tuesday, July 6th.

Bike-A-Thon July 16th

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital announced that Day Camp has agreed to be the coordinator of the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital's Bike-A-Thon Mt. Vernon on July 16th.

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital was founded by entertainer, Danny Thomas. The institution opened its doors to the patient in 1962 to care for catastrophic diseases that afflict our children. St. Jude Hospital is non-sectarian, non-discriminatory and covers all costs of care beyond those reimbursed by insurance. In 1962, Hodgkin's lymphocytosis, leukemia, the most common form of childhood leukemia, was only survived by five percent of our patients; the current cure rate is now 80 percent.

At St. Jude, scientists and physicians are working side-by-side seeking not only a better means of treatment, but also the causes, cures and prevention of these terrible illnesses. All findings and information gained at the hospital are freely with doctors and hospitals all over the world. Thanks to St. Jude Hospital, children who have leukemia, Hodgkin's disease, sickle-cell anemia, and other child-killing diseases now have a better chance to live.

The Bike-A-Thon program this year is dedicated to eleven-year-old Justin Salat, who represents one of more than 15,000 patients who are being treated at this world-renowned pediatric research and treatment facility.

Justin has one of those smiles that "light up" a room, and in spite of a long battle with cancer, his remarkable courage has never faltered. Justin's battle began in September 1990 when he was diagnosed with thyroid cancer, a malignancy rarely seen in children. In fact, when Justin was only a year old, his mother noticed a knot on his neck, but the doctor thought Justin had a strep throat infection and prescribed antibiotics. Ultimately, after his tumor and thyroid gland were surgically removed, Justin was admitted to St. Jude Hospital where he began radioactive iodine treatments. He has suffered two relapses of his cancer, but at this time he is doing well. He loves playing basketball and is a member of his church choir. He also loves his younger sister, Jasmine.

In Kentucky, 418 children and their families have come to St. Jude Hospital and received total medical care for a catastrophic illness. Thousands of others have benefited from the research findings that have developed better and more successful treatment methods.

We sincerely appreciate the concern that Day Camp has for our work to help children like Justin, and we hope the citizens of Mt. Vernon will support this year's Bike-A-Thon on July 16th to help provide the funds needed to preserve the world's greatest asset... its children.

Rachelle Hammond named Rogers Scholar

Rachelle Burnae Hammond, a junior at Rockcastle County High School, has been chosen as a 1999 participant in The Center for Rural Development's Rogers Scholars program.

Rogers Scholars is a unique and exciting learning opportunity for forty-eight rising juniors from forty counties in Southern and Eastern Kentucky. During the intensive one-week session students take classes in engineering, computer networking, video production and webpage development. They also participate in entrepreneurial training sessions in which they are challenged by some of the leading business professionals of the region.

"We want to teach the young people of Southern and Eastern Kentucky confidence, skills and a deeper commitment to their hometowns and this region," says Hilda Gay Legg, executive director and CEO of The Center.

The heart of The Center for Rural Development's mission is "that no young person will need to leave home to find his or her future." These words, spoken by the program's namesake, Congressman Harold Rogers, frame its goals of encouraging youths to seek job opportunities at home while increasing their marketable skills in the field of telecommunications.

During the week, Hammond will also take part in exercises designed to build leadership and cooperation. "There will be serious instruction, but it will be presented in a fun, exciting learning environment," says project coordinator Margaret Sloan. "Students will develop bonds and relationships that they can carry throughout their lives."

According to Sloan, one of the most exciting aspects of the program is the individual community action plan. Through brainstorming about the needs in their communities, scholars develop projects that they take home and then implement in their various counties. The Center for Rural Development tracks their progress. Last year's successful projects include opening a teen center, beginning an entrepreneurial library and assisting a community in building its CenterNet site.

Being chosen for Rogers Scholars involves a highly competitive process. Hammond had to have a 3.5 grade point average or above and complete an essay entitled, "How telecommunications will affect rural Kentucky in the year 2025?" Showing active participation in the community is also a requirement.

Rachelle Burnae Hammond is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry B. Hammond of Mt. Vernon.

Dyehouse and Adams attend IFAL

John William Dyehouse, son of Kathy and Kenneth Dyehouse and Roy Donovan Adams, son of Roy E. and Judy Adams, all of Brodhead, were two of 46 students that attended the Institute for Future Agricultural Leaders (IFAL), held on the University of Kentucky Campus in Lexington, June 20-24. The event was sponsored by the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation and the UK College of Agriculture.

The main purpose of the IFAL was leadership development and to expose the youth to the many possible career opportunities in agriculture.

Highlights of the week included speeches by Kentucky Farm Bureau State President, Sam Moore and professional speaker, Joe Washington.

The youth attended sessions on team building, speaking skills, adjusting to college, citizenship, the Internet and goal setting. They also toured the UK Research Labs and Farm, the William T. Young Library and the Winchester Dairy.

Schied-Young makes Grove City College Dean' List

Ralph Gregory Schied-Young, majoring in Chemistry at Grove City College has made the Dean's List with Distinction for outstanding academic performance during the Spring 1999 semester.

To qualify for the Dean's List, a student must have an average of 3.4 out of a possible 4.0, or better than a B+ grade.

In all, 879 students attained the Dean's List. The total number of Presidential Scholars was 277. There were 35 listed with Distinction and 267 were on the Dean's List. A special letter of congratulations has been sent to them by Dr. Garth Runion, executive vice president and dean of the college.

In its category, Grove City College has made the U.S. News & World Report as third in its "Best Value" ranking and fourth in its "America's Best Colleges" ranking. Grove City College is listed among America's "50 Top Liberal Arts Schools" in The National Review College Guide because of its "solid values, the quality of its academic program, and its outstanding core curriculum."

Schied-Young is a 1998 graduate of Christian Liberty Academy High School. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Schied-Young of Brodhead.

Pittman named to Dean's List at Lindsey Wilson

A Rockcastle County resident has earned academic honors for the 1999 Spring semester at Lindsey Wilson College.

Named to the Dean's List is Angelica K. Pittman, a human services senior from Brodhead. Students named to the Dean's List must be enrolled in at least 12 hours of classes and earn a 3.5 to 3.999 grade point average on a 4.0 scale.

SCC announces Dean's List

Somerset Community College is pleased to announce that 249 students enrolled for the Spring semester, 1999, have been named to the Dean's List. Qualifying students must earn a 3.5 scholastic average out of a possible 4.0 in order to be recognized.

Those students making the Dean's List from Rockcastle are Melissa Harris, Sharon Moore, Melissa Kidwell, Jerry Moore and Michael Vaughn.

Durham among 1999 SCC grads

Somerset Community College is pleased to announce that 149 Associate degrees were awarded to graduates at the end of Spring 1999 semester. Beth Durham from Rockcastle County was among these graduates.

Mt. Vernon Message

Another exciting and productive summer school has concluded at MVES. Approximately 80 students attended this year and took advantage of an excellent learning opportunity to reinforce concepts taught during the regular school year by participating in various hands-on and performance activities.

Along with reduced student-teacher ratios and a moral informal teacher support, students had the opportunity to excel in enrichment areas such as art, technology and guidance. Students were also afforded the opportunity to work with high school student tutors.

Prizes were given to those students who attended every day. The following students were eligible for and won attendance prizes: Cody Cameron, Charles Abney, Matthew Miller, Zachary Abney, Robert Carpenter, Kenny Mason, Brandon Sutton, Derek McCown, Brandon Reynolds, David Baker, James Gleisner, Leahy Haling, Charles Dickerson, Christopher Winn, Glenn Hembree, James Hensley, Michael DeBorde, Dylan Holden, Bryan Marler, Matthew Renner, Andrew Robbins, Wesley Robinson, Jonathan Alexander, Jacob Langford, Dusty Miller, Shane Cameron, Cody Hazelton, Andy Hembree, Raymond Carpenter, Matthew Fearing, William Lovell, Nicole Shepherd, Miranda Ferguson, Jennifer Kirby, Sonya Ray, Nancy Dickerson, Juanita Barron, Stephanie Graves, Cynthia Langford, Crystal Barnett, Tiffany Barnes, Samantha Miller, Tiffany Reynolds, Kena Coates and Rachel Halcomb.

Have a safe and fun-filled summer and we'll see you back at school on Wednesday, August 11!

Judge Carlotis said he too was somewhat surprised by the vote because three or four months ago, the library board seemed all for the placing of the Center at the library.

Carlotis, who was scheduled to appoint new people to the library board at Monday's meeting, said he would remind the board that Rockcastle Library was the only library in the state to not pay any rent to the fiscal court. He said that the fiscal court pays half of the library's utility bills and provided most of the maintenance on the building.

Carlotis was supposed to either nominate current library board chairman Allen Pensol or Hans Lindblom for a four year term or Serena Stratton or Norma Eversole for a four year term.

Carlotis told the magistrate he would wait to make his nominations to them.

Pensol said Tuesday that the library board was certainly in favor of the Center project and that if the county so desired to build on to the library that was their decision.

"We simply voted not to be the governing body for the project, because you are talking about separate budgets and more staff," he said.

"We are in the process of completely automating the library and updating our own technology center so we have a time frame on those projects so that we do not lose any matching money," Pensol said.

Clontz suggested that all parties involved, the fiscal court, the library board, the development board and people from the Center for Rural Development meet and discuss the project, so that everyone knows where everyone is at and all questions are answered.

Third district magistrate Bill McKinney also pointed out that if the center was located at an educational facility such as the library or one of the schools, the center would receive an 85 percent discount on the charge for the high speed phone lines that have to be used. That would amount to about $8,000 per year.

Clontz told the court that it was the plans for the development board for the Center to be self-sustaining, because their would be a charge to use the video conferencing.

"New company"

are ready, because there is 170 industrial parks in Kentucky trying to lure new companies," he said.

Clontz told the court that he appreciated their cooperation in the past year and that everyone needed to continue to work together to make the county's economic growth plan become a reality. Clontz emphasized as did Towery that things weren't going to happen overnight, but that if everyone stayed on the same page, good things would happen.

Clontz also told the court that they should keep in mind that more space may be needed in the future, for possible larger employers.

He said that industrial park number two had the capability of housing a factory with 50 or so employees, but it would be difficult for the park to hold a factory large enough to employ 200 people.

Clontz told the court that they may have to consider purchasing more land, such as farm acreage that adjoins park number two or even another site completely separate from the park. He told the court that was something they needed to keep in mind.

In other business the court voted to accept the 1999-2000 county budget of $4.7 million.

The largest items in the budget are the Kentucky Country Music Hall of Fame project with a price tag of $2 million, the road fund where $743,000 will go, the general fund will disburse $794,000 and the jail fund, $647,000.

The court also did not act on a pay request from Architecture Plus for $41,000 for bills they say should have been submitted by the site manager in February.

No one from Architecture Plus was at the meeting to explain why the county was just now seeing the bills and the court agreed unanimously not to pay them until further explanation.

Rockcastle County Jailor James Miller suggested to the court that they take some type of legal action against Architecture Plus because of the delays in opening the jail, but Judge Carlotis told Miller the most important thing was getting the jail open and he did not want to delay it any further.

"We would also like to thank Dwight Cotton of Chimney Rock Marina who loaned us two ponions and a workboat for the search operations," East said.

Gary Rogers was indicted for the offenses of trafficking in marijuana, five counts of receiving stolen property over $300 and possession of drug paraphernalia.

According to Daryl K. Day, assistant commonwealth attorney, who prosecuted the cases, Estell Rogers pled guilty a misdemeanor offense and Gary Rogers was convicted by a Lincoln County jury for the offenses of cultivating marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia on May 24 and a sentence of one year in prison was recommended.

Clontz said that it was vital in the county's efforts to attract new industry to have video conferencing capabilities and he could not understand the library board's decision.

Clontz said that the Center for Rural Development would provide the equipment at a cost of $50,000 or more and that whether or not the library board changed their minds, the project would be completed by the development board.

Our Readers Write

Dear Editor,

I wonder if your readers still remember Mrs. Nelly Colson? She has been kind of out of circulation for awhile because of a car wreck and more recently heart surgery. She is doing well but still has a way to go before she can get out like she used to. She worked at the health department years ago and gave shots to the school children. She may have given me one. If so I am sure I like her a lot more today than I did then. Mostly she has been a housewife and mother. She is a devoted follower of Christ and is always thinking of others. I first met Nelly in the mid fifties when I became a member of the Broadhead Christian Church. I was always impressed with her grace and sincere love for people even then. I moved away and changed churches and lost track of her. I recently started staying with her in the mornings. She and her husband, Clay are both such wonderful Christian people.

Mrs. Nelly has not been idle although she has been sick. She with Gods help has developed a very unique ministry she has been doing for fifteen years now. She gathers all kinds of greeting cards and reconstructs them by cutting off the part that has been written on, writes a nice Bible verse on it and makes a new card out of it. She also has pretty pictures, cuts them out and glues them on paper plates and puts hangers on them to be given to others to hand on their hospital or nursing home rooms. I watch her with her precious head bent over her work, so loving, so dedicated, hoping that the little messages of love from her and her Heavenly Father will cheer someone in a stressful time in their life or bring a new member to the family of God. Hoping that the recipients of the cards will understand just how much she and her Father loves everyone in the world.

Mrs. Nelly then sends the cards to area hospitals and nursing homes to be put on the food trays. She calls them her tray cards and will very quickly tell you that it wasn't her idea at all. "The Holy Spirit gave it to me" she will say. It is so good to see someone so dedicated to following the lead of the Holy Spirit.

I have had the pleasure of delivering some of Mrs. Nelly's tray cards and although she is eighty-five-years-old I hope to deliver them for many years to come. SO if you readers have cards you were just going to throw away you know where to take them or bring them to me and I will take them. What a great lady! We love you Mrs. Nelly. Keep up the good work. I wish everyone could meet you. You have blessed many people with your life.

Sincerely Impressed with Mrs. Nelly,

Neville Hacker

Dear Editor,

I feel that too often the citizens of a City complain to the City Fathers about the things they do not like, but when things go their way they do not express thanks and appreciation.

Well, last week Rose Hill Road was paved covering up the deep truck holes and the residents appreciate it greatly. I, for one, called the Judge Executive to thank him for the work so that he could pass along the sentiments to those actually performing the job.

It was an excellent job and I will be able to keep the front end of my car lined up a little longer now.

Keep up the good work.

Sincerely,

Joe Jarvis
Mt. Vernon, KY

Dear Editor,

I would like to address this letter to the person(s) who stole the stop sign and arrow sign at the intersection of Cove Branch Road and Highway 1912. I just want you to be aware that in November, my two sons wrecked there when they missed the curve. They totaled the car and are very lucky to be alive.

Since November I have written a letter and made several phone calls to the Kentucky State Garage in Somerset to have the signs put up and I am still working on a guardrail.

This past week when the road signs went up, I was so happy knowing the roads would be safe not only for my teenagers who travel it everyday going to work, but also for the whole community. Since so many others have also wrecked there.

Thanks to you the road signs stayed there three whole days, before you stole them.

You can't have a conscience, if you did you never would have stole the signs.

I want you to be aware that the next person that wrecks there or worse, dies there, it is totally your fault and your fault alone.

Congratulations to Curry Express Mart

At Citizens Bank we are always ready to applaud the efforts of all local business people who work hard to improve and expand their businesses.

The folks at Curry Express Mart certainly fall into that category because of their endless efforts to expand and improve.

Curry Express has opened another new store in Rockcastle County.

The third Curry Express Mart is located at Burr, on U.S. 25, just south of I-75.

With three stores and 37 employees, Curry Express Mart has certainly made a commitment to doing business in our county. Thanks for your continued hard work and good luck at your third store.

What Is Blackshank?

Blackshank is a fungal disease which affects the roots and lower stem of tobacco plants. By damaging the roots ability to absorb water and the stems ability to move water up into the plant, this disease can lower production or even kill plants.

The first signs of blackshank are very similar to drowning. A wilted plant scalds and dies. Blackshank affected plants will wilt during hot afternoons but return to normal overnight. After 2 to 4 days wilting, many plants will scald and die. Upon further investigation, the roots and lower stem may show dark brown to black diseased areas. The key to positive identification is splitting the stem and finding pith separated in disk. You could describe this as if dimes were stacked one upon the other with a small space between. A lab test is available to confirm visual identification. Only one other thing normally causes disking of the stems pith. When lightning strikes tobacco, disking occurs. However, the mid-vein of leaves will turn black, distinguishing it from blackshank.

The fungus which causes blackshank is moved from one infected field to another by several methods. Anything that can move dirt or plant trash can move the blackshank fungus. Most typically, we see blackshank moved to a farm by borrowing infected transplants from a farm with blackshank. However, this is not the only means. Sharing plows, disk harrows and setters can allow soil from one field to be moved to another. Mud and dirt clinging to tires can move soil from infected fields. Even cattle can possibly move soil from fields. Fields located in flood prone areas plus soil to be moved in to streams as well as downstream fields in the flood plane. Farmers themselves can be the biggest mover as they spread stalks and stripping room trash on fields.

Blackshank has the ability to survive in soil for many years. Farmers consider this the worst of tobacco diseases because it stays around and causes such high losses.

The best method for control is to return infected fields to sod. Move to fields that have not been in tobacco and use resistant varieties. If you are limited in land for rotations, use resistant varieties plus Ridomil.

Since blackshank can cause large losses, require lower yielding resistant varieties and expensive amounts of chemicals, the best control method is one of prevention. Do not borrow plants and clean all equipment used in other tobacco fields.

Knowing how and when to let the child go is one of the difficult parts of parenting. Letting go too soon is not good. I have seen thirteen-year-old children who have no parental guidance, and this is not fair to the child. On the other hand I have seen thirty-five-year-old adults still looking to Mom and Dad to make their decisions. And I have seen parents who continually interfere in the lives of their adult children, making it difficult for these young adults to grow up and causing misery for everyone involved.

As the parents of two fledgling adults, I know the difficulty of keeping the proper balance. I pray for the wisdom of the father in the parable, so that I can discern when it is time to let them go.

By Dr. Don Whitehead

Allowing Children to Leave is Difficult

My son spent some time with us this summer and then returned to Northern Kentucky University where he is a student. His leaving reminded me of our leave-taking four years ago when we left him standing in the parking lot of his dorm at the beginning of his freshman year. My dad told me that the hardest thing he ever did was leave me standing outside the dorm at Georgetown College on the first day of my freshman year. When children leave for college or a job or marriage or the military, we parents hurt.

The only thing worse than having your children leave home is having your children not leave home. The following quote is from the play Dearlly Departed:

One thing about Tiny, that boy's a worker. He moved the front yard, the side yard, the back yard, plus them six acres I've got out behind the house, restacked the firewood, cleaned out the garage, and hoed in the garden until it was too dark to see. Since his birthday is coming up next week, I gave him three dollars, instead of the usual two. It's hard to believe Tiny will be turning thirty-seven. They grow up so fast.

Few parents want a thirty-seven year old around the house permanently.

The teenage years are an important time of preparation for leaving for both parents and children. The struggle between parents who want to help and control and young people who want to be independent are often a part of these years. Adolescence can become a power struggle which both sides sometimes take to the extreme.

I remember the "Cereal Bowl War" at our house. It began over whether the boys would put their cereal bowls in the dishwasher. It ended as a power struggle as I laid down the law, "Oh yes, you will take that bowl to the sink, because I told you to!" This battle had little to do with cleanliness and responsibility and a lot to do with who was in control.

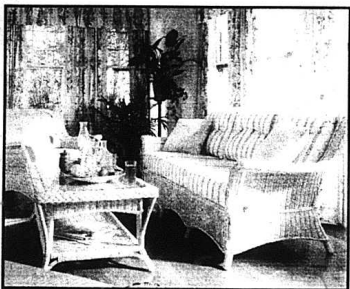

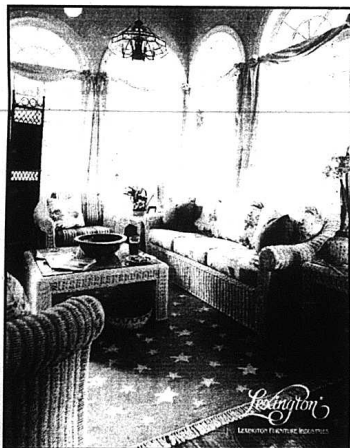

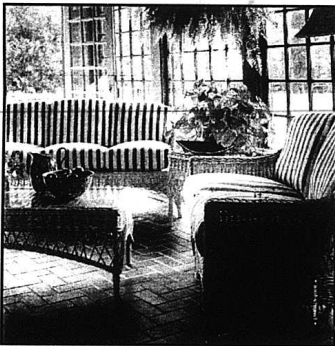

The father in the Parable of the Prodigal Son (Luke 15) knew how and when to let go. When his younger son asked for his inheritance and wanted to leave, the father allowed him to do so. Even though he knew his son was making a mistake and even though it broke his heart, he did not turn this into a power struggle.

The father could have berated his son, "You're not going anywhere! You're going to stay here and work on this farm like your brother does. I've worked and slaved to provide for you, and I'm not going to let you throw away half of what I have built. Now get out there on that tractor and get to work!"

PERSONAL NEWS
Mrs. Alice Tate is on the sick list. Mrs. D.B. Southard is numbered among the sick. U.G. Baker is in Louisville this week buying goods. Mrs. R.B. Mullins is visiting in Livingston and Corbin. Miss Maud Graham is recovering from a two week illness. Dr. S.W. Adkins reports Mrs. Raymond Dowell very sick. Mrs. Charlotte Jarrett is visiting Jailer and Mrs. O.V. Jarret. Judge J.T. Adams was in Crab Orchard and Stanford Monday. W.A.B. Davis is spending a few days at Somerset and Burnside. Miss Virgie Dolan is visiting her sister, Mrs. R.A. Welch of this place. Elbert Hiatt, of Indiana, is visiting the family of his uncle, G.S. Hiatt. Mrs. W.L. Richards and son, Ramey, spent yesterday at the shopping. James Davault, L&N brakeman is spending a few days with homefolks. Clay Gentry has job butchering his run between Louisville and Norton. Jonas McKensie moved yesterday to the Sparks' property on North Main. Mrs. Fred Krueger, Jr., after an illness of several weeks is able to be up again. Charlie Lechleiter has about recovered from the injuries he received some time ago. Mrs. W.M. Poynter visited her daughter, Mrs. R.E. Thompson near Crab Orchard. E.B. Cox has been confined to his room for several days on account of his throat. Mrs. Kittie Smith has returned from a visit to her sister, Mrs. A.W. Soward, at Barbourville. Charles Durham, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. M.L. Durham is recovering from his attack of fever. Mrs. C.C. Miller, who has been sick for several days we are glad to report much better. Misses Agnes and Nell Jones, of Pittsburg, were here Wednesday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Hansel. Mrs. Susan Butler went to Brodhead yesterday on account of the serious illness of Mr. Albert Butler. E.T. Wheeler is here from Kuttawa. We are glad to know that he is doing a fine business at his new location. Mrs. Nannie Albright was called to Brodhead Wednesday on account of the serious illness of

Albert Butler. Mrs. Cleo Brown will leave tomorrow for Louisville and Cincinnati to spend two weeks getting the latest styles in millinery. Deputy Sheriff, T.J. Nicely and John Robins, took to the Children's Orphan Home in Louisville, the three Whitney children of Livingston. Miss McIntyre, of the Brown Memorial Facility, will leave today for Cincinnati where she will visit her mother for a week. Miss Jennie Davis is providing a most satisfactory acquisition to this office. As a compositor she is almost breaking the record. Beginning last Friday afternoon, she has learned the cases and on the fifth day put up one column ten point. (As a youngster in Brodhead in the 40's, I knew her as Mrs. Jennie Davis Robins, memory serves me right, she was the Brodhead correspondent to the Signal a number of years.) G.C. Fish returned Wednesday from a visit to his brother, Judge J.B. Fish at Williamsburg and reports on a very sick man. The stay of one month at Hog Springs relieved the Judge of his rheumatism, but is anything left him in a worse condition than before, as he is now suffering from muscular congestion.

LOCAL NEWS
Mt. Vernon can boast of having one of the finest Masonic lodges in the state. J.M. Craig sold at Stanford Monday a nice bunch of cattle at 3 and 3 1/2 Cts. NOTICE: You owe and I must have the money. Come in and settle. G.T. Johnson. Work of piking Richmond and Main streets North and South of the railroad has begun. Three cheers for the board of trustees. Let the good work go on. Rev. Campbell, for one year the pastor of the Christian Church at this place, will preach at Buckeye Saturday afternoon, Sunday morning and Sunday evening. Nelson Bank and Robert Chandler, the two young men who froze to death in South Dakota, on Feb. 1, were never citizens of this county. Their homes were in North Carolina and about five years ago while on the road to the West stopped off here and stayed with their uncle S.E. Chandler, of near Level Green for several months. The bodies arrived here Saturday afternoon, but were taken on to North Carolina for burial, the brothers of the deceased boys having decided to go on over reaching this point. HANSEL ATIGHT o'clock Monday evening the death knock knocked, and the spirit of Mrs. Sarah Hansel, wife of Mr. Z.T. Hansel, took its flight to God who gave it. Mrs. Hansel was 57 years of age and her life a noble, Christian one. For three years she had been a sufferer of that terrible disease, consumption, and as the end drew nearer, she realized it more forcibly than she, yet with that composure, characterized by only the Christian, she met death without a murmur. On January 8, 1878, the deceased were born, Elbert, L&N brakeman, Emmett, section foreman for the L&N at Lawnwood, and Misses Maggie and Maud who are with her father. The burial took place Wednesday in the Mt. Vernon cemetery. CARDS OF THANKS TO The people of Mt. Vernon and vicinity, who were so very kind to us during our recent sad affliction in the loss of our beloved companion and dear mother, we desire to express our heartfelt thanks. Z.T. Hansel and Children. Born to the wife of Hiram Hurd twin babies. One of them lived only a short time. George Owens, the tombstone man, put up a nice monument at the graves of the children of Uncle John Flynn at Brodhead. It was a handsome piece of work.

LIVINGSTON NEWS
Mrs. R.B. Mullins is down from Mt. Vernon visiting Mrs. Rome Adams' Mrs. Mullins and Mrs. Adams' visit Mrs. Luther Mullins at

Corbin Saturday and Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Dock Oliver came down from Lebanon Junction Monday night to attend the funeral of little Herbert Oliver. Mr. and Mrs. James Hocker are rejoicing over the arrival of a fine girl baby on the 8th. Mrs. Georgia McClure attended the funeral of little Herbert Oliver Tuesday afternoon. Miss Lela, the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Agerbight, heard a very quiet tap at the door last Friday evening and expected to see her best beau, rushed to the door very eagerly. But my, what a surprise, for there stood twenty-five or thirty young ladies and gentlemen waiting to welcome her to a "surprise party." An exceedingly good time was reported. Miss Cora Adams has been very sick, but we are glad to say she is some better at this writing. Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bell were the guests of Mrs. Childress Wednesday. They were on their way to West Virginia. Mrs. Dudley Rowlett and little son were visiting Mr. and Mrs. James McGuire from Saturday until Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Rowlett will move from Paris to Lexington this week. Mr. Rowlett having a position with the C&O.R.R. at that place. Mrs. Sue Mullins and Mrs. Susie Hicks are still on the sick list. Chas. Rice is down from Lebanon Junction looking after the postoffice department. The Ladies Aid Society was organized at the Christian church Thursday last. They will meet at the Christian church every Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Everyone cordially invited. Dr. W.J. Childress is quite sick with the grippe. Mrs. J.B. Hayes is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Ed Quinn, at Paris. John Preston is spending a few days with his son, George, at Corbin. Mrs. W.F. Tubbs and children are spending a few days with their friends at this place. Mrs. Tubbs will visit her daughter, Mrs. Roy Mullins, at Lebanon Junction before returning to her home at LaFollete, Tennessee. Mrs. Eliza Southard, aged 74, died Tuesday night of pneumonia. She was a Christian woman and will be greatly missed by her son, Jim Southard and her great granddaughter, Eliza, whom she was left to meet their loss. The remains were taken to the old family burying ground on Skeggs creek for interment. Miss Ethel Hayes returned from a visit with friends and relatives at Jellico last Friday. Rev. Griffey will conduct a series of meetings at the Christian church. Everyone cordially invited to attend. Mrs. Jas. Taylor went to Pine Hill Friday to see her cousin, Mrs. Nelse Griffin, who is quite sick.

GRIFFINS MILL NEWS
Feeding and wood-getting has been the order of the day this past week. J.L. Hasty is suffering very severely from heart trouble. Emmett Hasty will move in a few days to a farm he recently rented from G.B. Sutton on the Pulaski side. Dan Miller's heading mill at the X roads, has been silent during the snowy weather. P.H. Shuts has been sled-ding sawlogs to John Riddle's sawmill the past week. O.J. Mullins better known as "Red," the hustling trader of Level Green, was in our midst

Saturday and bought of Elmer Cummins a sow and pigs paying $12.00 for them, also five 100 pounds sows from J.B. Cummins paying six cents a pound. W.E. Burton, of Plato, and J.M. Craig, of Quail, drove a nice bunch of cattle to Stanford Saturday to put on the market Monday. Much complaint is being made among the farmers about their meat spoiling during the warm rainy weather. Say, Bro., let me suggest that we all fatten our hogs just a little bit earlier; say, have them ready to butcher by Thanksgiving or at the furthest by the middle of December. I bin, by adopting this method we would have better and cheaper meat, for we all know that hogs are easier fattened in warm weather than cold. W.G. and J.B. Cummins went to Plato Saturday on important business. Elmer Cummins and wife visited relatives in Pulaski county Saturday and Sunday. Casper Owens, of Bromo, visited the family of W.G. Cummins' Saturday night.

Misses Grace and Nellie Owens, daughters of A.J. Owens, of Bromo attended church at this place Sunday. TID BITS
A preacher came at a newspaper man this way: You editors do not tell the truth. If you did you could not live. Your newspaper would be a failure. The editor replied: You are right and the minister who will at all times and under all circumstances tell the whole truth about his members, alive or dead, will not occupy the pulpit more than one Sunday and then he will find it necessary to leave town in a hurry. The press and the pulpit go hand in hand with white wash brushes and pleasant words, magnifying little virtues into big ones. The pulpit, the pen and the grave stone are great sin-making triumvirate. And the great minister went away looking very thoughtful while the editor turned to his work, and told of the unsurpassed beauty of the bride, while in fact she was as homely as a mud fence.

"What Saith The Scriptures"

Last week began a study of the high priesthood of Jesus. Today we want to look at 3 reasons why his priesthood is superior to the Levitical priesthood under the law of Moses
First, priests under the law died, and new ones had to be appointed. In Heb 7:23-25 we read: "And they truly were many priests, because they were not suffered to continue by reason of death. But this man, because he continueth ever, hath an unchangeable priesthood. Wherefore he is able also to save them to the uttermost that come unto God by him, seeing he ever liveth to make intercession for them." Those priests died, but Jesus is an unchangeable priest, for he ever liveth.
Secondly, those priests had sins of their own, but our high priest is sinless. In Heb 7:26-27: "For such an high priest became us, who is holy, harmless, undefiled, separate from sinners, and made higher than the heavens. Who needeth not daily, as those high priests, to offer up sacrifice, first for his own sins, and then for the people's: for this he did once, when he offered up himself." They offered sacrifices for their own sins, and then the sins of people. But Jesus, was holy, harmless, undefiled, separate from sinners.
Thirdly, the sacrifices those priests offered, was animal blood, but Jesus offered himself. In Heb 9:25-26: "Nor yet that he should offer himself often, as the high priest entereth into the holy place every year with blood of others. For then must he often have suffered since the foundation of the world, but now once in the end of the world hath he appeared to put away sin by the sacrifice of himself." Again in Heb 10:4: "For it is not possible that the blood of bulls and of goats should take away sins." Animal just could not take care of the sin problem, only the blood of Christ has the power to take away sin!
Yes, these are 3 powerful reasons the priesthood of Jesus is superior!

One Nation Under God America's Christian Heritage

By Andrew Lell

The heritage of this nation is one that historically has been undeniably intertwined with religion. Beginning with accounts of the Spanish Explorers and going on to the Pilgrims, the Colonists, the Civil War and after, religion has had a strong positive effect both on our history and on the successful development of our nation. Our national life is surrounded with the evidence of religion's positive influence on our nation and its people. Our National Anthem reflects our reliance on God; our coins reflect our faith in God; our Pledge of Allegiance reflects our testimony to God's importance in this nation. The Supreme Court has made numerous decisions affirming that this country was founded on religious principles and faith. Despite the extended history of God's involvement in this nation on June 17, 1963 Separation of church and state was made a law. Separation of church and state will not be forever because the constitution was meant to perpetuate a Christian order. Separation of church and state has no legitimate grounds. It was taken from a letter from Thomas Jefferson, and the meaning was twisted to fit the wants of a certain group of people. Separation of church and state was and will forever be unconstitutional.

It is true, of course, some would say that America was founded by man not by God, and that God has never been a factor in America. The Constitutional Convention of 1787 proves that God working through men like Ben Franklin, George Washington, and many others, was the true founder of this country. The early portion of the Convention had been marred by dissension, hopeless deadlocks, and each state's unyielding selfish desires. The Convention manifested all the symptoms of a complete failure. A portion of the New York delegation had already left in disgust and other delegations were preparing to follow. It was obvious even to the casual observer that such a setting no profitable or lasting solution to our young nation's uncertain future would be found. It was at this point that the elder statesman, Ben Franklin, rose to speak and quietly said, "In the beginning, we had contest with Britain, when we were sensible of danger, we had daily prayers in this room for Divine protesilience, balance and timelessness of the Constitution and most of the framers knew it.

Furthermore our brilliant Constitution and its Bill of Rights, the basis of our on-going Union, could not have been put into effect without the dissent-filled atmosphere that first pervaded the Convention. It would not have been successful had not Franklin stood and called for prayer. The success of both the Convention and the Constitution was indirect result of the delegates turning to prayer "every morning before proceeding to business."

Moreover, George Washington also vividly related the importance of prayer. Numerous paintings show him in prayer; even the stained glass window in the U.S. Congressional Chapel portrays him kneeling in prayer. In his inaugural Address, after the selection as the first President of the United States, he told Congress: "It would be peculiarly improper to omit, in this first official act, my fervent supplication to that Almighty Being, who rules over the universe, who presides in the councils of nations, and whose providential aids can supply every human defect, that His benediction may consecrate to the liberties and happiness of the people of the United States. Every step by which they have advanced to the character of an independent nation seems to have distinguished by some token of providential agency... We ought to be no less persuaded that the propitious smiles of Heaven can never be expected on a nation that disregards the eternal rules of order and right, which Heaven itself has ordained."

For eight years Washington with the help of God wisely and skillfully guided our nation to a position from which its continued strength and development would be assured. In his farewell Address, Washington warned: "Of all the dispositions and habits which lead to political prosperity, religion and morality are indispensable supports... And let us with caution indulge the supposition that morality can be maintained without religion... reason and experience both forbid us to expect that national morality can prevail in exclusion of religious principle. This simply is not the case. In fact the phrase "wall of separation" is not found in the Constitution, nor is the term "separation of church and state." Thomas Jefferson used the phrase "wall of separation between church and state," in a letter written in 1802. There is ample historical evidence to prove that the original intent of our founding fathers was exactly what has been asserted in the First Amendment to the Constitution and not what our courts and legislatures have interpreted it to mean in recent years.

Our forefathers were very adamant that government (the "state") not be permitted to: (1) establish a federal, "state" religion, or (2) prohibit the free exercise of religion (according to the dictates of the individual conscience). Today there are those with their liberal ideology that have been successful in twisting the concept of the separation of church and state to mean separation of God from government. They have convinced us that church should not expose corruption and immoral legislation and that Christians should not be active in "politics." They insist that the moral standards of God's law have no bearing on the laws of our land, and that government has not asserted its control over the churches! Actually, the Supreme Court and our Congress have violated the guarantees of the First Amendment! Though forbidden from establishing a "state" religion, the federal government is subsidizing the public schools of our nation with millions of dollars to teach "humanism," which is defined as a religion in a 1961 Supreme Court ruling! Humanism is defined by Webster's Dictionary as, "a non-theistic, rationalistic movement that holds that man is capable of self-fulfillment, ethical conduct, etc. without recourse to supernaturalism. Humanism is also to be described as the intellectual and cultural movement that stemmed from the study of classical literature and culture during the Middle Ages and was one of the key factors giving rise to the Renaissance."

Also, though forbidden to prohibit the free exercise of religion, our Supreme Court and Congress have outlawed prayer and Bible reading from our schools, which used the Bible as the primary textbook from their inception. The First Amendment was required by the states in order to limit the power of the federal government, and to prevent it from establishing a national denominational church, such as existed in England. It was designed to protect state-established churches or state-preferred Christian denominations, since at the time of the First Amendment in 1791 over one third of the thirteen colonies had established churches. In his 1805 inaugural address, Jefferson clarified that his statement separation of church and state referred to the separation between church and the Federal government. He was simply saying that the Federal government should not impose a church upon its people as England had done.

Thomas Jefferson's "wall of separation" phrase has not only been grossly misinterpreted in its original context, but it has now been tragically misapplied to mean separation of God from government. God has never been apart of government explain to my why the phrase, "In God We Trust," appears opposite the President of the Senate, who is the Vice President of the United States. The same phrase, in large words is inscribed in the marble, backdrops in the House of Representatives. Above the head of the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court are the Ten Commandments, with the great American eagle protecting them. Moses is included among the great law givers in Hemmels A. MacNeil's marble sculpture group on the east front. The crater who opens each session closes with the words, "God save the United States and the Honorable Court." Engraved on the metal cap on top of the Washington Monument are the words: "Praise be to God." Lining the walls of the stairwell are such biblical phrases as "Search the Scriptures," "Holiness to the Lord," "Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it." In the Library of Congress numerous quotations from Scripture can be found within its walls. One reminds each American of his responsibility to his Maker: "What doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly and love mercy and walk humbly with thy God" (Micah 6:8). Another is, "The light shineth in the darkness, and the darkness comprehendeth it not" (John 1:5).

At the Lincoln Memorial millions have stood and gazed up at the statue of the great Abraham Lincoln. The sculptor who chiseled the features of Lincoln in granite all but seems to make Lincoln speak his own words inscribed in the walls, "... That this Nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, by the people, shall not perish from the earth." At the opposite end, on the north wall, his Second Inaugural Address alludes to God: "The 'Bible,' 'providence,' 'the Almighty' and 'divine attributes.'" It then continues: "As was said 3,000 years ago, so it still must be said, 'The judgements of the Lord are true and righteous altogether.'" At the Jefferson Memorial on the south banks of Washington's Tidal Basin, Thomas Jefferson still speaks: "God who gave us life liberty. Can the liberties of a nation be secure when we have removed a conviction that these liberties are a gift of God? Indeed I tremble for my country when I reflect that God is just, that his justice will not sleep forever." Senator Byrd cited these words of Jefferson as "a forceful and explicit warning that to remove God from this country will destroy it."

Ben Franklin clearly expressed the need to include Christian principles in public aspects of our nation when he stated: "He who shall introduce into public affairs the principles of primitive Christianity will change the face of the world. We must return to the place where we believe this wholeheartedly. We had Christian principles in government and experienced its results. To choose the better way is as easy as having no choice. Christian principles in government benefited everyone. We must return to our roots."

Vanzant participates in clerk's education program

Circuit Court Clerk Teresa Vanzant participated in the Circuit Court Clerks' continuing education program held June 16-18, 1999 at the Radisson Plaza Hotel in Lexington. The program was organized by Administrative Office of the Courts.

The Circuit Court Clerks' Association Education Committee helped develop an agenda for the conference which covered a wide range of topics. Of particular interest to the clerks this year was a discussion of election finance laws, presented by Rosemary Center, general counsel for the registry of election finance. Other topics included an in-depth discussion of the legislative and budget process; preparation of the record for cases on appeal; driver licensing; and an update on the trust for life organ donor campaign.

Chief Justice Joseph Lambert, of the Ky. Supreme Court, was featured as the keynote speaker for the conference. Court of Appeals Judge R.W. Dyer, III participated in the conference as an instructor. Jim Nealey, president of the Circuit Clerks Association, also addressed the conference. Additional speakers included representatives from KY Circuit Court Clerks' Trust for Life, The Department of Transportation, The KY Employees Deferral Compensation Authority, to name a few.

Where does all your money go?

So you think you know where your money goes? Well, financial experts say that most people spend about 20 percent more than they think they do. One of the first steps to financial stability is knowing how you spend your money. Here are some tips to keep track:

1. Write it down in a small notebook for at least a month.
2. Save receipts and write what you bought on them.
3. If you have a checking account, use checks, for all purchases above $10.
4. Record all checks and ATM withdrawals in your check register.
5. Give yourself and all members of the family a small weekly allowance. If you keep track of the total amount, you won't need to account for how every penny was spent.

At the end of the month identify the following:

- Where does most of your money go?
- Are there areas where you're surprised by how much you're spending?
- Are there areas where it would be easy to cut back?

The Bank of Mt. Vernon cares about your financial potential. Stop by to see a Customer Service Representative to open a BMV Checking Account today. We hope these "tips" help you.
