AT CAPITOL, BUSH SALUTED AS 'GENTLE SOUL,' 'GREAT MAN'

The nation's capital embraced George H.W. Bush in death Monday with solemn ceremony and high tributes to his service and decency, as the remains of the 41st president took their place in the Capitol rotunda for three days of mourning and praise by the political elite and everyday citizens alike. See The News Wire

Lost Lagoon's site plan rejected again

Project includes downtown and water park

By BETSY CALVERT
STAFF WRITER

The county has once again rejected a site plan submitted by Lost Lagoon Development LLLP for a new downtown and water park near Murdock Circle.

Following the second extension since August, contractor Banks Engineering submitted information having to do with traffic flow, but nothing related to other deficiencies, said the county's permits manager, Maryann Franks.

"Based on looking at it, I rejected it," Franks said.

One thing still missing is a new survey to account for 2.5 acres missing from the first survey. Also still missing is the schedule of development and construction along with details on how much development will take place in various sections of the project.

Lost Lagoon's last two-week extension was granted in early November. Banks Engineering submitted a corrected site plan in mid-November.

Lost Lagoon, of Orlando, signed an agreement with the county earlier this year to develop the 157-acre site between State Road 776, U.S. 41 and Toledo Blade Boulevard. The site is laid out with streets from the 1950s or 1960s that were never developed, and now look more like a jungle than a development.

The county has been seeking to develop the area, considered economically blighted, for the past 13 years.

The spokesperson for Lost Lagoon did not return a call for comment. The company originally said they planned to start construction of the downtown commercial section by the end of the year, with the water park to follow. The plan also includes performance venues.

Fire kills 11 pets, destroys home

Family's Christmas presents, belongings also lost

By ANNE EASKER
STAFF WRITER

Community members have flocked to support a local family who lost their home in an electrical fire Sunday. Along with most of their belongings, the family lost 11 pets in the fire, including three dogs, six puppies, a kitten and a chinchilla.

Melissa Sabino said she had stopped to get ice cream with her kids on the way home from her 11-year-old son's soccer game when she got a call that her house was on fire. While she was gone with the kids, and her husband was at work, a neighbor saw the smoke and alerted her brother, who lives down the street.

"He said to call 911 because the house was on fire; he was going to break in and try to get the dogs," she said.

When he broke a window, it was already too late. The home was too smoky to enter.

Charlotte County Fire & EMS Spokesperson Todd Dunn said the first unit on scene saw smoke coming from the house. Inside, they determined it started as an electric wire, traveled up a wall, and into the attic.

Sabino said most of the flames burned inside the walls, but inside TVs were melted, paint was bubbly, and everything was covered in soot. The dogs had chewed up the door trying to get out.

The family had been

Victims say builder took more than $3 million

Home buyers say their dreams are smashed

By ELAINE ALLEN-EMRICH
COMMUNITY EDITOR

SOUTH GULF COVE — Tammy LePoer said she cried every day for two months.

The Virginia resident traveled to Charlotte County to describe how she paid $40,800 to Harden Dukes Custom Homes toward her dream house, and now all she has is a $150 building permit.

"My husband is a disabled veteran who spent 21 years in the Marine Corps. His pension is $1,200 a month," she said. "Every month for nearly three years, he paid $1,200 to HD Homes, and we have nothing. They've stolen our money. Then had the nerve to threaten to sue us for $15,000 in lost profits after they refused to build our house."

LePoer and her husband, Lee, met with more than 50 others at a home in South Gulf Cove, and most had similar stories to tell. They met on social media and decided to gather in person Friday to share their complaints about HD Custom Homes and

More than 50 people attend a meeting at the home of an HD Custom Homes customer last week. Many of the builder's clients spoke up about what was not finished or started with their homes, which are mostly in Charlotte and Sarasota counties. The group was so large, it spilled into the lanai and side room.

Sarasota thinks about cutting North Port routes

Opinions invited on SCAT bus changes

By WARREN RICHARDSON
SUN CORRESPONDENT

SARASOTA — It was 10 months ago that Sarasota County commissioners first discussed potential route changes to Sarasota County Area Transit.

Now, county officials are ready to hear from North Port and Venice residents about the changes.

The changes under consideration would eliminate or change three routes affecting the two cities.

In North Port, Route 100X, the express route between the city and downtown Sarasota and the Sarasota-Bradenton International Airport, is potentially on the chopping block for a savings of $97,900.

In Venice, Route 13 serving Venice and South Venice faces elimination, while changes would be made to Route 23 serving the Venice Island Loop. Elimination of Route 13 would result in savings of $118,471.

Scat officials are also considering elimination of Route 18 serving downtown Sarasota and Longboat Key Bay Isles, along with modifying Saturday service times to Sunday service times.

Commissioners discussed these changes during a budget workshop this past January when the county, faced with potential deficits and the need to replenish an economic uncertainty reserve fund, engaged in an expense-cutting exercise.

Interim SCAT Director Rob Lewis explained to commissioners that these reductions were classified as major service changes and required a Federal Transit Authority equity analysis and public

MEETINGS

SCAT officials have scheduled the required public hearings in North Port and Venice on Tuesday, Dec. 4:

From Noon to 1:30 p.m. at the Jacaranda Public Library, 4143 Woodmere Park Blvd., Venice.

From 5:00 to 6:30 p.m. at the North Port Public Library, 13800 S. Tamiami Trail, North Port.

In addition, a third workshop will take place Wednesday, Dec. 5, from 5 to 6:30 p.m. at the Venice Community Center, 326 Nokomis Ave. S, Venice.

Splash, splash at Ann Dever Regional Park

By STEVE REILLY
STAFF WRITER

ENGLEWOOD — Kids are finding a new way to have fun at the Ann Dever Park Pool.

Charlotte County opened its upgraded kids area at the pool last month, and it's been a popular spot as December temperatures hover in the 80s.

The new facility is inside the pool area at the southern end of the Ann Dever Park, at 7001 San Casa Drive, and features a shallow wading pool with a small slide, downspouts and bubblers. The pad cost $260,000 and was paid out of Charlotte County's 2014 1-percent infrastructure sales tax.

It's already proven to be a big hit.

"(The splash pad) has been well-received by the community and is generating record attendance at the pool," Jacque Hopkins assists Victoria Coloumb, 1, onto a waterslide.

Community Services director Tommy Scott said in a Nov. 26 email to the Sun.

"In the four weeks before the splash pad opened, the (Ann Dever) pool drew an average of 250 paid admissions and 132 pass-holder visits," Scott said. "Last week, the pool had 602 paid admissions and 272 pass-holder visits."

Since the new facility is inside the pool area, patrons must pay $3 for adults 16 and up, and $2 for children ages 2 to 15. The admission fees help to cut the costs to the county for the maintenance of the pools, Scott said. The eight-lane headed pool features diving boards, a basketball hoop, inflatable volleyball net and wheelchair access. There are restrooms, showers and changing rooms.

Charlotte County operates another splash pad at McGuire Park in Port Charlotte. It's free to the public since it is a stand-alone amenity and is not incorporated into a public pool facility. The city of Punta Gorda maintains its interactive fountain at Laishley Park. It's free to the public.

Venice's Interactive Children's Fountain is part of the city's Centennial Park on West Venice Avenue. There's no charge for adults or children.

"It's open 7 days a week, with the water turned on from 9:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m.," Venice spokesperson Lorraine

Anderson said. "It has multicolored lights at night, which is pretty cool looking."

North Port maintains its free splash pad at its Atwater Community Park on Skyway Avenue. The city is planning a splash pad as an amenity in its new aquatic center, now under construction at Morgan Family Community Center in Butler Park on Price Boulevard.

Warm Mineral Springs reopens after utility issues

By VICTORIA VILLANUEVA-MARQUEZ
STAFF WRITER

NORTH PORT — Warm Mineral Springs closed on Saturday and reopened midday Sunday due to utility issues.

Tricia Wisner, North Port parks and recreation manager, said the facility closed around 3:30 p.m. Saturday after the toilets stopped working properly. It reopened to the public around 11:30 a.m. Sunday.

Babe's Plumbing Inc. snaked the drain lines and SOS Septic Inc. pumped the baffle, removing all solids, to allow the facility to continue accepting toilet flushes.

Wisner said the restrooms were sanitized and the facility was reviewed and determined to be OK to reopen.

She said the city of North Port is developing a master plan for Warm Mineral Springs, which will consider upgrades to the facility including utility improvements.

"The utilities are old and that's why things of this nature happen," Wisner said. "The buildings, these were built in 1959, so through the master plan we're considering the needs of these buildings to meet the demands from the patrons of Warm Mineral Springs, and utilities will be something within that consideration."

its owners, Stephen Dukes and Matthew Harden.

They're also sharing plans to get help from county and state building and law enforcement officials.

The LePoers had planned to move from Virginia after Lee retired from his job in law enforcement two years ago. Instead, their property on Impala Circle remains vacant. They hired an attorney and say they've paid $5,000 so far to fight HD Custom Homes. They also filed reports with local and state agencies.

The couple documented $40,800 in payments to HD Custom Homes in a 98-page letter to the Florida Department of Business and Professional Regulation. The payments include $895 for administrative fees, $200 for energy calculations, $500 for additional color session fees and more than $9,894 in "marketing commissions." They also paid $4,800 in commission to a real estate agent who the couple said "refused to help" after them HD Custom Homes wouldn't start the job.

The couple is staying in town to testify Thursday before the Charlotte County Construction Industry Licensing Board.

They won't be alone. Charlotte County Building Department officials said they've received complaints from dozens of HD Custom Homes customers and numerous unpaid subcontractors throughout the region. Many subcontractors filed liens against the homeowners after HD Custom Homes failed to pay them for work they did, documents show.

HD Custom Homes claims it has built about 600 homes in the past few years. Currently the builder has 61 permits in Charlotte County, documents show. Their models closed recently, but the company website is active with contract solicitation and the promise of building dream homes.

On Thursday, Charlotte County is filing two charges against HD Custom Homes for financial mismanagement and misconduct.

Phil Jeleniewski, a 73-year-old Vietnam veteran, shows his signed contract with HD Custom Homes. He and his wife Diane gave the builder $10,000 in deposits in April. They said they sold their home up north before learning no permits had been pulled to begin construction of their new home here.

This photo on social media shows a pile of trash in front of a home under construction. The owners say the trash hauling company was not paid by HD Custom Homes, so workers retrieved the container, leaving the trash behind.

HOMEOWNERS TALK ABOUT EXPERIENCES WITH HD CUSTOM HOMES

Lynn Leboutillier said she has no roof, no window and no doors on her $330,000 home, for which she paid $160,000 to HD Homes. Instead, she has $62,000 in liens to unpaid sub-contractors. She hired an attorney.

John and Ellen Canton of Gulf Cove have $400,000 in structural claims against HD Custom Homes. "Our roof is wavy," John said. "They (HD Homes) made a mistake when they were building the roof. Now our house makes noise and it's a safety hazard."

Phil Jeleniewski is a 73-year-old Vietnam veteran. He and his wife Diane gave HD Custom Homes $10,000 in deposits in April. They sold their home up north before learning no permits were pulled to begin construction of their new home here. The couple now lives with Diane's 93-year-old mother.

"We live on a fixed income. We wanted to buy a modest home and I wanted to swim," Phil said.

Beth Piper flew in from Minnesota to be at Friday's meeting of people who said HD Custom Homes owes them either a finished home or their money back. She's already paid an estimated $150,000 on a home that's 80 percent complete and still missing half of the roof and electrical work.

"The Dumpster company didn't get paid by HD Homes, so they left all of the garbage in people's yard," she said. "It just adds insult to injury. The port-potties were removed too, because of non-payment. We estimate more than $3 million has been collected from homeowners and millions more for the subcontractors who weren't paid."

Jim and Jean Friend contracted HD Homes in 2017 to build their home. They planned on selling their home in Boston. Jim, 75, was finally going to retire. For 10 months, HD Homes collected money from the couple, they said. Now, with 85 percent of the home completed, it lacks plumbing and electric, they said, which they've already paid $52,000 toward.

"I can't quit working now," Jim said. "We can't move here. Every time we come down, we have to rent a hotel room and car to come check on the house."

"I paid $11,000 for appliances," said Erich Richey, a HD Custom Homes customer. "I never got them. I'm in the same situation as so many other victims of HD Custom Homes. We are trying to figure out how to get our money back."

"Most of us would just like these guys, their wives and anyone else involved in defrauding so many good, honest, and some elderly couples, to go to jail for a long time. We won't want them to do it to anyone else again."

estimate customers of HD Custom Homes financial mismanagement resulted in $919,000 in liens the homeowners are now responsible for after paying the builder for sub-contracted services including roofing, pools, concrete, Dumpsters, flooring, painting, cabinetry, windows, doors, sidings and appliances.

Mike Katz said he is one of those homeowners. Katz said he has $100,000 in liens against his house, which only is not much more than four walls right now. He paid $187,000 to HD Custom Homes for concrete, fill dirt, walls, rafters, and other work, and said none of those sub-contractors were paid.

"I'm 75 and have to do it (finish building the home) myself," he said.

Gregg Higgins, 61, also planned on retiring after he built his $360,000 home in Port Charlotte. The retired U.S. Navy veteran says he paid $343,000 and an additional $15,000 in upgrades to HD Homes. He said he still doesn't have tile, doors, stucco, a pool or numerous other contracted amenities in his unfinished house.

"I drained my retirement account," he said.

to a so-called Planned Development. County staff familiar with the detailed requirements for a planned development were not available for comment.

Virginia resident Tammy LePoer brought her file that shows canceled checks for a home that was supposed to be built in South Gulf Cove in Charlotte County. Nothing was done, she said.

Joni Kat listens and speaks up at the homeowners' meeting. She said she has $100,000 in liens on her unfinished home built by HD Custom Homes.

"Since I can't sell my home in North Port, I will owe $200,000 to the IRS. I've had to take out a $500,000 loan to finish building the house I was supposed to move into this month."

Higgins said he's angry. "I hope Stephen Dukes and Matthew Harden become famous," he said. "I hope everyone knows their names."

"Mr. Dukes indicated he doesn't have the means to pay for the contracted work," Mullen-Travis said. "The county cannot prevent HD Custom Homes from pulling permits because he is a state-certified contractor. Only the state can pull his license."

Anyone with a complaint can speak for five minutes at the 6 p.m. Thursday meeting at the Murdock Administration Center, 18500 Murdock Circle, Commission Chambers Room 119, Port Charlotte. The complaints will be added as evidence and passed on to a state investigator.

On Monday, the HD Custom Homes website was still active. The site promises a new model home, The Islander, coming soon. The two builder's bios about their years in the business and vision for customers were recently removed from the site. When calling one of the two numbers listed on the site, the mailbox is full with no room to leave a message and the other is Duke's number. Calls by the Sun to Dukes went unanswered Monday.

They also had six 6-week-old puppies — Chip, Yeager, Sage, King, Rocky, and Lola. Chip would have been Sabino's son E.J.'s dog, and Yeager would have been a Christmas present for her nephew. They planned to sell the others this week.

"My 9-year-old hasn't cried yet, but I know she will," Sabino said.

By Monday, the family had taken some clothes and photos from the home, but everything smelled strongly of smoke. Christmas gifts, along with nearly everything else, were lost.

"It makes me sick going in the house," she said.

Sabino said her insurance will not cover the damage because of the age of the electrical panel she didn't have the money to replace.

Friends, family, and other community members have been donating items and money to help and started a Facebook fundraiser under the name Sabino House Fire Relief.

Since the county receives federal funding as part of SCAT's budget, the county must comply with the federal rules and regulations.

SCAT officials have scheduled the required public hearings in North Port and Venice on Tuesday, Dec. 4:

From Noon to 1:30 p.m. at the Jacaranda Public Library, 4143 Woodmere Park Blvd., Venice.

From 5 to 6:30 p.m. at the North Port Public Library, 13800 S. Tamiami Trail, North Port.

In addition, a third workshop will take place Wednesday, Dec. 5, from 5 to 6:30 p.m. at the Venice Community Center, 326 Nokomis Ave. S, Venice.

Residents can talk to SCAT officials and learn more about the proposed changes and offer their thoughts and opinions during the sessions.

County officials did stress that these proposed changes are entirely separate from the potential privatization of SCAT, which is moving along on its own track.

SCAT officials, with the approval of commissioners, this past fall issued requests for proposals, seeking responses from the private sector about how they would operate SCAT as a private entity.

Commissioners have expressed interest in hearing from the private sector, but have not committed to making the bus service private as the did the paratransit service a few years ago.

It is anticipated that commissioners will discuss the results from the requests for proposals during a board retreat later this month.

Anne Learoyd Sisk

Anne Learoyd Sisk, of Punta Gorda, FL, passed away peacefully on Friday, November 30, 2018 at the age of 90. She was born July 20, 1928 in Beverly, Massachusetts. She graduated from Mount Holyoke College in 1950. Formerly Anne Page Learoyd, she married John Sisk in 1951. She was a devoted wife and mother, initially dedicating her life to her family. After her three sons left the nest, she became a successful real-estate agent. Anne and John retired to Punta Gorda in 1987. Active members of the Isles Yacht Club, John and Anne cruised the Gulf, Bahamas and as far away as Tonga over the ensuing 30 years.

Anne is survived by her sons Jonathan (Tanya), Robert (Aude) and David (Janet). Anne will also be fondly remembered by her eight grandchildren Matthew (Jenni), Geoffroy, Anne, Adélaïde (Matthew), Jean-Charles (Melanie), Katie, Morgan and Connor and her four great-grandchildren Eléonore, Joséphine, Laurie and Charles-Henri. She was pre-deceased by her beloved husband, John Lewis Sisk; parents, Ernest and Marion Learoyd; sisters, Betty Tintle and Janet Clapp; and her childhood nanny, Josie.

Anne will be laid to rest at the family cemetery in Danvers, MA. Much loved by all, she will be greatly missed.

Dawn M. Smith-Nichter

Dawn M. Smith-Nichter, 62, of Punta Gorda passed away

November 27, 2018. She was the daughter of Thaddeus and Esther Smith, born July 11, 1956 in Fremont, MI. Dawn married her best friend, soul-mate, and loving husband, Ernie, in 2000. They were inseparable; there is no love stronger than theirs. She enjoyed surrounding herself with family and friends; she had a big heart, always putting others before herself and going out of her way to see they were taken care of. Dawn's grandchildren played a huge part in her life; she spent every moment she could with them, showing them how much she loved them.

Dawn will be greatly missed by her husband, Ernie; son, Thad Smith and his wife Jessica; grandchildren, Maddie and Noah; sisters, Brenda, Judy, and Debbie; and brother, Tom.

Mom, you may be gone from this world, but we shall unite again with our Father in Heaven. We love you, Mom, and can't wait to walk with you again. You will always be our Delta Dawn. No services are planned. To express condolences to the family, please visit www.LTaylorFuneral.com and sign the online guest book. Arrangements are by Larry Taylor Funeral and Cremation Service.

Mary Joyce Thibodeau

Mary Joyce Thibodeau, born Mary J. Bickford on February 28, 1935 in North Conway, NH passed away at age 83 in Englewood, FL. Mary is survived by two daughters, Kim Trepp Christopher (John) and Patty Trepp Drummond, two sons, David (Jeannie) and Ralph (Dawn) Trepp and six grandchildren.

Growing up in the post-depression era, Mary was determined to better her place in life. She graduated from the Mary Hitchcock School of Nursing in 1957 and went on to a long career as a registered nurse. A working mom before such things were common, Mary worked the 11 p.m. - 7 a.m. shift for many years, so she could be there when her children got home from school. She married Jay Trepp in 1958 and later John Thibodeau, with whom she remained married until his death in 2004.

After spending the first part of her life in New England, Mary retired and moved to Englewood Florida in 1994. Always humble and generous, Mary volunteered at The Blessing Thrift Shop and helped distribute donated groceries to people in need. Mary was non-judgmental and always there for anyone who needed help, from family members to total strangers. Her courage and giving spirit will be greatly missed by all who had the pleasure to know her.

Those who wish may make a contribution in Mary's name to The Salvation Army or Tidewell Hospice. A celebration of her life will be held at a later date.

COMMUNITY NEWS BRIEFS

LLI celebrates the season

The Lifelong Learning Institute (LLI) will begin holiday celebrations with a fun-filled trip to St. Armand's Circle on Dec. 11 and the second "Behind the Notes" presentation in the FSW Campus Auditorium on Dec. 14, featuring "Sounds of the Season."

The visit to St. Armand's Circle on Dec. 11 will start with a narrated walking-tour of the "Circle" to learn more of the influence that John Ringling had on the development of this lovely island just across the Sarasota Bay. A progressive lunch in four different restaurants scattered around the "Circle" is planned to satisfy all palates and stuff all tummies.

On Dec. 14 at 4 p.m. Maestro Raffaele Ponti, of the Charlotte Symphony Orchestra, will again delight the audience by sharing how three components (composers, compositions and conductors) come together to create the enjoyment of a symphony concert. This is the second in the series of six sessions and will feature "Sounds of the Season."

Complete details and registration information can be found on LLI's website (www.lifelong-learning-charlotte.org) and by calling the LLI office at 941-637-3533. Admission fees are $20 per person and can be paid online or at the door — cash, credit card or check.

VIEWPOINT

OUR VIEW

Punta Gorda's future in hands of its citizens

OUR POSITION: Taking part in Punta Gorda's "Journey to the Future" is a must-do.

It's worthy of participation. In fact, if you care about the direction Punta Gorda will take in the future, it's a necessary first step.

If you care about the kind, pace and place of development, then you will want to know who might be interested in building and why.

If you want to express your opinion on what Punta Gorda should look like a few years from now, you will want to do some homework before making your voice heard.

TEAM Punta Gorda, in partnership with the city, is sponsoring a free seminar — Journey to the Future — Let's Learn Together — from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. Jan. 7, 2019, at the Event & Conference Center. TEAM Punta Gorda is an all-volunteer citizens advisory organization.

This is the first step toward a new Master Plan to replace the one developed in 2005 in the wake of Hurricane Charley. The seminar will be followed in February by a series of charettes, in which residents will have an opportunity to tell officials how they want their city to look and operate in the future.

The idea is to build the new Master Plan on the foundation of this seminar and the charettes. There may be Q&A sessions following the presentations at the seminar, but it will not be an opportunity for residents to speak. That will come later with the charettes.

"We're seeking to educate," said Nancy Johnson, CEO of TEAM Punta Gorda. "This is not the part where they get to give their opinion. There is a part where they get to give their opinion. It's called charettes. This is preparation for the charettes."

So far, the response has been good. But TEAM Punta Gorda is looking for more. It would like to get upwards of 600 residents to attend. Anything less, really, will indicate a measure of apathy that so far has not been a problem for Punta Gorda.

Registration is going on now. Call TEAM at 941-637-8326 or go to its website, TEAMPuntaGorda.org.

The program will feature John Redmond, Allegiant's Sunseeker guy, as keynote speaker. Rick Severance, CEO of Babcock Ranch, will speak along with an urban planner and a representative of the firm the city hired to advise in the Master Plan rewrite.

The event was not designed by TEAM Punta Gorda alone. The framing committee included representatives from the Punta Gorda Isles Civic Association, the Charlotte County Office of Economic Development, the Burnt Store Isles Civic Association, the Bethel-St. Mark Historic District Association and Smart Growth Punta Gorda.

So those who oppose easing building-height restrictions in downtown are represented, as are those with an interest in developing downtown business, those whose concentration is on the east side of town, and those concerned with the Jones Loop area.

The opportunity for everyone and anyone in Punta Gorda to learn — and eventually have their say — appears well thought out and fair in its approach. We're confident there will be a great turnout for the initial meeting and the charettes. That will give TEAM Punta Gorda and, even more importantly, the city a real feel for how citizens perceive their city in the coming years.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Francis Rooney a climate hero

Editor:

I appreciate your view that we should all heed the "Bleak Friday" report of the National Climate Assessment, which continues to show the dismal future we could all face here in Florida.

Some recent news is that a bipartisan group from the U.S. House has just introduced a new bill called the "Energy Innovation And Carbon Dividend Act" (HR-7173). Three of the five co-sponsors are from Florida (Deutch, Francis Rooney and Crist) with two being Republicans (Francis Rooney and Fitzpatrick of Pennsylvania).

As a former member of the local CCL group (which enthusiastically endorses HR-7173), I know that for four years we were never able to meet directly with Tom Rooney, but Francis Rooney in less than two years not only met with his local CCL chapter, but joined the Bipartisan Climate Caucus, and now has co-sponsored this historic bill. It's a tale of two Rooneys: "No-Show" Tom vs "Fast-Track" Francis, who has emerged as a leader for his district, Florida, and the whole country.

It's refreshing to see a Republican with moral courage, one who's trying to do the right thing, even if it means going against the party line. We can only hope that Greg Steube might be inspired to follow Francis in his courageous stand to help Floridians deal with our climate futures. To quote your Our View: "Future impacts and risks from climate change are directly tied to decisions made in the present."

Thank you, Francis Rooney, a real climate hero.

Don't deny patients relief from pain

Editor:

I am a RN who was a 3-11 charge nurse in a ER-Trauma, inner city hospital. This (OD crisis) isn't new. Latest trending news is correct! Many times we brought overdoses on death's door back with Narcan. Many times I got punched in the chest for ruining their "high." High to them, even on the brink of death! They'd rip the IV out and return eventually in same state, same outcome!

I predicted then that this would harm chronic pain patients. Now here we are, no personal responsibility. It's a "Not my fault" society today!

Blame doctors, sue drug companies! Chronic pain patients don't experience euphoria, only edge off the pain to function at least, that's it!

Now let's decrease their pain medication.

Collateral damage, needless suffering!

At the same time let's open clinics, clean needles to shoot up with, medical staff present to prevent ODs, then bye, see you soon! Oxymoron?

Many people take opioid responsibility seriously, don't confuse the two issues!

Don't deny them a semblance of life!

New cars distract drivers

Editor:

Now that it is almost impossible to find a driver who is not distracted (texting, phone call, applying lipstick), can you believe the auto manufacturers are building cars so that they force you to be distracted from your real job, driving? Want to adjust your radio or heater? Then take your eyes off the road to find out where you need to press your finger. That should be good for several seconds of driving without looking at the road (resulting in rear end collisions, people driving off the road).

Next, we have about a dozen lights on the front of the cars to make absolutely sure that you blind oncoming drivers. Then add outside little blinkers in the same pod with the headlights (and taillights). Now, in order to see the turn signal of an oncoming car, you need to look directly into the headlights to see if a little signal is blinking. I have also seen barely visible rear signals.

I was impressed with a rear turn signal I saw recently. It was not right next to a blinding taillight, but was placed down in the bumper so the only person who could see it had to be directly behind the car. No advance warning for anyone else.

I'm also impressed with the effort to make backing up safer. They are now installing video cameras so you can see what is behind you when backing up. Nice idea, but I preferred being able to see out of the car.

Glyphosate is bad for environment

Editor:

At first I was excited to see the article in the Nov. 28 paper, "Why does my grass look like it has snow?" This is the first year we have seen these patches in our yard, and have been wondering what it is.

Reading further into the article, I was appalled that it was suggested to use glyphosate to kill these weeds.

Come on, folks, the majority of the residents here know this is a huge contributor to feeding the red tide and the last thing we need to put on our lawns. Personally, I would rather, and will, leave it alone and am happy to learn the bees and butterflies are enjoying it. I am very disappointed with the master gardeners of the Extension Service promoting the use of glyphosate.

Sun: Please do not allow any articles encouraging our residents to contribute to our red tide disaster. As many of us say: "I would rather have a brown lawn and blue water, than a green lawn and brown water."

Christmas stories are welcome

The editorial board of the Sun is offering our readers an opportunity to have their favorite Christmas story published for everyone to read.

Send us a letter, 250 words or less, telling us about a Christmas that had special meaning for your family. Or, maybe you have a great Christmas story that is about another family or event.

Between now and Christmas we will publish as many stories as we have space for on our Viewpoint or Op-Ed pages.

Letters that are sent via email to letters@sun-herald.com will have a better chance of being published.

George H.W. Bush: Man of character

I first met the man who would become America's 41st president in 1968. He was a Houston congressman and I was a young reporter for a local TV and radio station. My first impression was how kind he was to this "kid," who had just moved to Texas from the Washington, D.C., area and was just starting to learn the "language," like "fixing to go" and "y'all."

Everyone who worked for George H.W. Bush, or knew him, has a story to tell. I have several.

Mr. Bush was a letter writer like none other. I think I have an almost complete collection of his notes and letters, some typed, some handwritten, from every position he held in public life. These include congressman, Republican National Committee chairman, chief liaison officer to the People's Republic of China, U.N. ambassador, CIA director, vice president and president.

When he became president, I wrote him a congratulatory note and he responded on White House stationery. I later told him I was keeping the letter "just in case you amount to something." He laughed.

One time we were scheduled to meet at Walker's Point, the Bush family compound in Kennebunkport, Maine, where they had vacationed for decades. Mr. Bush had to cancel due to an unexpected visit from an ambassador. Apparently concerned that my feelings would be hurt, he instructed an aid to get a phone number where he could call me. I gave him a payphone number at a local hardware store (this was before cellphones had become ubiquitous) and he called to apologize.

Our last meeting was two years ago at Walker's Point and this time he didn't cancel. My youngest daughter was with me. We were told that the president sometimes appeared to doze off, but that he was listening. We had a wonderful visit, recalling

HOW TO SUBMIT A LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Letters are welcome on virtually any subject, but we do have some rules. Please keep them to less than 250 words. Letters will be edited to length as well as for grammar and spelling. All letters must be signed with full name — not initials. An address and telephone number must be included. The phone number and address are not for publication, but must be provided. Due to the number of letters received, we are able to run only one letter per person per month.

The Letters to the Editor section is designed as a public forum for community discourse, and the opinions and statements made in letters are solely those of the individual writers. The newspaper takes no responsibility for the content of these letters. Please send or bring correspondence to the Sun, Letters to the Editor, 23170 Harborview Road, Charlotte Harbor, FL 33980. The 2020 field: An exercise in name-dropping Until now, there were, by my count, 44 Democrats who have either expressed interest in a 2020 presidential run, traveled to Iowa or New Hampshire, or otherwise managed to get themselves mentioned.

Washington Post
Dana MILBANK

But we can now stop the bidding. Because a 45th candidate has just emerged, and he is about to clear the field. Yes, the man Democrats have been waiting for, Sen. Robert Casey of Pennsylvania, says he has "an obligation to consider" running for president — and tacks on a Trumpian tease: "We'll see what happens."

Casey is the total package — assuming the Democrats' idea of a total package is mild, earnest and quite possibly the most boring person in politics.

This is why they should instead go with New Jersey Sen. Cory Booker — unless Democrats are concerned about their standard-bearer being a showboat who declares, with straight face, "I am Spartacus."

In this case, I say: Go with everyman Joe Biden — as long as they won't mind putting a 77-year-old former vice president up against a 74-year-old incumbent.

Otherwise, the best choice would be youthful California Rep. Eric Swalwell though the 38-year-old's main qualification is cable news overexposure.

Hence, the need for a candidate of substance: Minnesota's Sen. Amy Klobuchar — as long as her perceived lack of toughness isn't a problem.

If it is, combative Sen. Kamala Harris, Calif., is the best option. But she's not the person you'd want to have a beer with.

No, that person is Gov. John Hickenlooper of Colorado, who once ran a brewery. Except his name makes everybody giggle.

Better, then, to go with another white guy from Colorado, Sen. Michael Bennet — assuming the electorate is as excited as he is by filibuster reform.

If not, the fiery populist Sen. Elizabeth Warren, Mass., is top choice — unless Democrats think her DNA-test adventure means President Trump has her number with "Pocahontas."

If genuineness is the essential quality, Rep. Beto O'Rourke of Texas is the man, though he is a failed Senate candidate, which also probably knocks out West Virginia's Richard Ojeda, a failed House candidate.

Therefore, may I suggest Sen. Sherrod Brown or Rep. Tim Ryan, who win among Ohio steelworkers? Except there aren't that many workers left.

The Latino population, by contrast, is large and growing, making former Housing and Urban Development secretary Julian Castro ideal. If only Latinos turned out to vote.

This is why I would suggest an outsider, such as billionaires Howard Schultz (except he's not ready to mix it up with Trump); or Mark Cuban (except he's another reality TV guy), or Tom Steyer (except he, like Washington Gov. Jay Inslee, is a one-trick pony on climate change).

Sens. Bernie Sanders, I-Vt., or Tim Kaine, D-Va., or former Maryland governor Martin O'Malley would be perfect — if they weren't 2016 retreats.

Hillary Clinton herself would be ideal — if she weren't a 2016 and a 2008 retreat.

And California Gov. Jerry Brown would be the man — if he weren't a 1976, 1980 and 1992 retreat.

I therefore nominate former attorney general Eric Holder — though he's an Obama administration retreat. My fallbacks, then, are former governors Deval Patrick, Mass., and Terry McAuliffe, Va. — though they're both Clinton retreats.

May I propose, then, that Democrats go with a storied name, such as Rep. Joe Kennedy, Mass., or Gov. Andrew Cuomo, N.Y.? Although, the Clintons may have killed dynastic politics.

Hence, my first choice: Montana Gov. Steve Bullock. Except he's unlikely to turn out the 99 percent of Democrats who don't live on farms.

This leads us to former New Orleans mayor Mitch Landrieu, or Los Angeles Mayor Eric Garcetti — except Democrats need to appeal to people who live beyond city lines.

The ultimate pick, therefore, is Mayor Pete Buttigieg of South Bend, Ind., a gay Democrat in a conservative area. Or, he would be the ultimate pick if he weren't utterly unknown.

No one is better known than Oprah Winfrey, who would be terrific — if only she'd run. Otherwise, Democrats can have Oprah's friend, spiritual guru Marianne Williamson, who just announced that she's running.

Democrats, however, are not feeling their inner peace and harmony at the moment, so probably they should skip Williamson and go with a street brawler, Michael Avenatti — assuming he isn't himself among the prison population on Election Day.

Which is why the Democrats need somebody sober, predictable and even boring — such as Bob Casey.

Lessons from the limping Trump, Macron revolutions

If he had run in any other year, he probably never would have become president. Limited political experience, no real connection to a mainstream party and a resume that screams "out-of-touch rich guy." The majority of the electorate clearly had someone else as their first choice. But thanks to a series of historical accidents — notably, a late-breaking scandal that fatally damaged his opponent's chances — he now holds the highest office in the land.

Washington Post
Megan McARDLE

Given this unlikely path to office, it's hardly surprising that his approval ratings are dismally low. Or that he faces a swelling protest movement that occasionally turns violent. The country was voting against his opponent more than it was voting for him, and now that he's exercising the powers they reluctantly handed him, they're none too pleased.

I speak, of course, of Emmanuel Macron, the president of France. But you can be excused if you thought I was referring to President Trump. That the two men can appear so politically similar despite such wildly different philosophical commitments suggests a Western polity that's groping for a workable theory of government — and failing to find it.

To be sure, you have to squint a bit to see the fundamental similarity between the two presidents. It's fair to say that the educated center-left professional class that provides Macron's most enthusiastic support is, in the United States, among Trump's bitterest opponents. And Macron, whose background includes turns as a high-level bureaucrat and an investment banker, is exactly the type against whom Trump voters rebelled.

Trump and Macron, in other words, are nearly pure embodiments of the opposing currents that are reshaping politics throughout Western democracies: the rise of a consolidated cosmopolitan class that often has more in common with counterparts in other nations than with less educated countrymen, and the populist backlash that the rise has engendered.

Both enjoy power not because voters actually endorsed their purist visions, but because of scandal and the somewhat arcane structure of the elections they won: Trump sealed an electoral college victory without winning the popular vote because of 11th-hour questions about candidate Hillary Clinton's private email server; Macron walked to easy victory in a runoff election largely because a corruption allegation during the first round of voting dented the center-right candidate just enough to let nationalist Marine Le Pen slip by.

But some supporters nonetheless saw in these victories the sign that the time of the technocrats or the populists had finally arrived. And detractors will be equally tempted to see in the current struggles a sign that the final victory will be theirs. Those opponents should pause to look across the Atlantic.

French populists, for example, may be heartened by the widespread and vehement protests that erupted over fuel price increases caused by Macron's new carbon tax, forcing him into an embarrassing reconsideration. But these populists should study Trump carefully to see how great is the distance between rallying crowds and successfully governing.

Trump is strongest when articulating emotive goals, such as his promises to "Make America Great Again" by stopping foreigners from stealing all the good jobs. But his populist disdain for pointy-headed elites, which includes the administrative class needed to implement his proposals, has left him largely unable to put policy flesh on the rhetorical bones. And his fiery rhetoric has also inflamed his opposition, who promptly voted to give control of the House of Representatives to the other party.

However, those tempted to imagine that the cure for Trumpism is a bloodless "good government" platform, driven by the efficiency ethos and priorities of the professional classes, should be humbled by Macron's struggles. Technocracy has no constituency outside those classes on either side of the Atlantic. Unless technocracy can ally itself with less abstract kinds of politics — the grubby special-interest log rolling, the appeals to less rational and more visceral moral ties — it founders in a rising tide of voter hostility.

For the past two years, in Western democracies the old competition between the left and right has been realigning into a new battle between cosmopolitans and nativists, declining ethnic majorities and growing immigrant classes, educated elites and the salt of the earth. Both sides have experienced embittering defeats but also heady elation at the possibility of total victory.

Trump and Macron offer each side a glimpse of what that total victory might look like — and a rebuke to those who seek it.

Houston days. He asked questions and seemed lucid and interested in talking politics and world events.

On one visit to the Oval Office when he was president, he sat behind the desk and I sat in a chair next to him. When I showed his son, the 43rd president, that picture some years later, he motioned me over to the same desk, we sat down and the picture was replicated. I have both hanging in my office.

Mr. Bush was not a favorite of conservatives, who believed he would be the third term of his predecessor, Ronald Reagan. When he promised a "kinder, gentler nation," some thought he was being critical of Reagan. In fact, a case could be made that it wasn't Reagan who was unkind and ungentle, but his critics.

Mr. Bush faltered when he broke his "read my lips, no new taxes" pledge in exchange for a promise by congressional Democrats to cut spending. The Democrats got their tax increase, but didn't deliver on spending cuts. He also took heat for nominating David Souter to the Supreme Court. Souter was sold to him as a conservative by Chief of Staff John Sununu, but he turned out to rule with the court's liberal wing. Still, he gave conservatives Clarence Thomas, a solid constitutional originalist.

As president, Mr. Bush brought just the right attitude to the collapse of the Soviet Union, warning Americans they should not engage in triumphalism over the collapse of the communist regime (many celebrated anyway) and the end of the Cold War because of the uncertainty of what might follow. He also ordered the military to oust Saddam Hussein's forces after they had invaded Kuwait, a highly successful operation.

Any epitaph on the life of George H.W. Bush must include at least three words: character, honor and integrity. From his service in World War II, to his political career and post-presidency, not to mention his faithfulness to Barbara, his wife of 73 years.

Perhaps one of the reasons he seems so attractive is his contrast with the current bitter and corrosive political climate. We are not likely to see his kind again, but we will have his memory and example to recall when considering the definition of the word gentleman.

LAKEWOOD RANCH ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICE ACQUISITION

IMAGE PROVIDED

Executives with the Peace River Manasota Regional Water Supply Authority currently operate out of this building in the Lakewood Ranch area of Manatee County, 45 miles from the operations plant in DeSoto County. The authority rents the space, and would like to buy the building. Charlotte County commissioners object to the purchase.

County officials: Water authority doesn't need a building in Manatee

By BETSY CALVERT
STAFF WRITER

PUNTA GORDA — Charlotte County commissioners are not persuaded the regional water authority should buy a $2.1 million administration building in Manatee County. The board voted unanimously last week to vote no on the purchase. That means they instructed the county's representative, Commissioner Ken Doherty, to cast the one vote for the county this Wednesday.

The four-county board of the Peace River Manasota Regional Water Supply Authority will meet then at Charlotte County's administration building at Murdock Circle.

"I really have an issue with this," Commissioner Christopher Constance said of the proposed purchase.

The regional authority supplies water from the Peace River to Manatee, Charlotte, Sarasota and DeSoto counties. The actual water treatment and supply facilities are located in DeSoto County near the Charlotte County line.

The authority currently rents administrative offices in the Lakewood Ranch section of Manatee County, 45 miles from the plant. It is this building that the authority wants to buy rather than keep renting.

Initially, commissioners discussed other options such as cheaper buildings. In the end, however, several board members asserted that the water authority administration should be located in DeSoto at the plant site or nearby.

"I have an issue as to why they're not physically located out at the operations facility," Commissioner Bill Truex said. "It doesn't make any sense to me to have a satellite executive office, and maybe it's out of convenience for proximity for (executive director) Mr. Lehmans. I think that being amongst the facility that you're in charge of is extremely important for properly managing the whole process as well as the employees there." Constance agreed. "I really don't want to look at other options," he said. "We need to have the site at the plant."

Doherty said he will attempt to postpone a vote on a purchase in favor of spending more time to look at options. The board is made up of commissioners from each of the four counties. They meet quarterly. Water authority staff could not be reached for comment. Water authority reports, however, indicate that the cost to build at the DeSoto plant would be $3 million. The report states also that building in DeSoto could limit future expansion options, where the need for a new reservoir is anticipated.

"There's plenty of land out there," Constance said. "The majority of the work that gets done is at the plant ... the employees are at the plant. This is a utility that's going to continue to operate for decades to come."

It's time to plan for tomorrow's sewage

The county expects to treat a lot of wastewater in the coming years

By BETSY CALVERT
STAFF WRITER

Charlotte County is gearing up for a lot more sewage in future years.

Upcoming developments include the planned Sunseeker mega-resort as well as the future conversion of wooded land to large-scale community developments at Tuckers Grade in South County and Murdock Circle in the north.

Commissioners signed off last week on the first $7 million worth of design costs for two sewer expansions — one at the Burnt Store Road facility and one at the East Port facility near Harborview Road and Interstate 75.

The county calls them water reclamation facilities.

"Water reclamation is genteel for sewer plant," said Travis Mortimer, the county's Capital Improvement Projects director.

Construction at the East Port facility would begin next year, and would bump up capacity from the current 6 million gallons per day to 9 or 12 million gallons. At Burnt Store, capacity would be quadrupled at least, from a half million gallons per day to 2 or 2.5 million gallons. Construction is not anticipated for several years there.

The total cost of both projects is budgeted at close to $67 million, to be funded by sewer rate payers and not tax dollars.

Technology for processing sewage has not changed a lot in the past 100 years, Mortimer said, so the expansions will simply take advantage of the open land that the county has available.

These projects are not aimed at addressing current sewer issues, Mortimer said. Projects are currently underway to fix old sewer systems that tend to overflow in the rainy season. That includes a $22 million project to build a new sewer lift station in mid-county and a new sewer pipe running 3.5 miles along from Midway Boulevard to I-75.

Also, the county has sufficient capacity to handle the neighborhoods that are converting from septic to sewer.

"Current development is using up the available capacity, and current septic-to-sewer projects will use existing capacity," Mortimer said. "The projected developments of Sunseeker, PEG, Tucker's Point, and Tern Bay (now called Heritage Landings) will take the plants beyond current capacities."

The county has to plan ahead.

"Because building a plant is such a long and expensive process, we're required to address it way out in front of the actual need," Mortimer said.

"We're good today," he added, "but this work is so that we're ready to serve the population five years from now."

Keep pets holiday-safe

A dog is the only thing on earth that loves you more than you love yourself," penned 19th-century humorist Josh Billings.

David MORRIS
COLUMNIST

And Charles Dickens wrote, "What greater gift than the love of a cat?"

It appears we Americans crave that love from these four-legged companions. So much so, that in a recent national survey by the American Pet Products Association, 68 percent of U.S. households said they own a pet which includes some 94 million cats and 90 million dogs.

That's a lot of wet noses to keep happy, healthy and safe. Especially now, during the holiday season. Unfortunately, that's when there's also a spike in emergency trips to the vet. Whether or not you're a pet owner, their safety starts with you.

"Dogs eat first and think later," explains Dr. Erin Ramsdell at the Veterinary Emergency Clinic in Port Charlotte. The majority of those ER visits are because animals get things in their mouth that they shouldn't.

"During the holidays, when our own diets tend toward extra-rich foods, table scraps can be especially hard for animals to digest and can cause pancreatitis," warns the American Veterinary Medical Association.

For dogs, Ramsdell explains it's usually foods high in fat or sugar. Chocolate is especially toxic. Or rummaging through the garbage and chomping on the turkey carcass where bones can splinter and create bowel obstructions.

For cats, it's normally "anything stringy," says Ramsdell. Eating tinsel, for example, may cause intestinal blockage often requiring surgery. With live trees, keep the area clear of pine needles, which could puncture intestines if ingested.

Also, PetMD (www.petMD.com) warns that holly, mistletoe, and poinsettia plants are poisonous to dogs and cats, and should be kept in areas they can't reach.

For poison concerns, call the ASPCA's 24-hour animal poison control hotline at 888-426-4435. "Signs of pet distress include sudden changes in behavior, depression, pain, vomiting, or diarrhea," explains the AMVA.

And with holiday guests coming and going, an open door can be very inviting. And dangerous. Ramsdell has had injured pets brought in after running out of the house.

If you're planning on entertaining, the AVMA recommends having a safe place for your pet, like a kennel or crate, or in another room with toys and a comfortable bed.

If there's a pet medical emergency, and you can't reach your veterinarian, this area's only after-hours emergency facility is the Veterinary Emergency Clinic, 17829 Murdock Circle in Port Charlotte (www.veterinaryemergencyclinic.com), located in the out-parcel across from Sears Auto Center.

Clinic hours are daily from 5 p.m. until 8 a.m. the next morning, 24 hours on the weekend, and all holidays, including Christmas day. If possible, call 941-255-5222 to alert them you're coming. Keep this and your vet's phone number in your cell phone and conspicuously posted in the house.

Finally, think twice before purchasing a pet as a Christmas gift, especially online.

"At least 80 percent of the sponsored advertising links in an internet search for pets may be fraudulent," warns the Better Business Bureau. "In the typical scam, thieves impersonate pet sellers and instruct potential buyers to make upfront payments for shipping, insurance, and other fees associated with transporting the animals. In most cases, buyers never receive the pets, and lose their money."

Rather, think about adopting a shelter pet.

"But don't make it an impulse decision," cautions Karen Slomba, executive director of the Animal Welfare League in Port Charlotte. "You're making a commitment for the rest of the animal's life."

Not sure? Slomba says consider opening your heart and home during this giving time of the year and temporarily foster a shelter cat or dog. Choose any period between Dec. 21 and Jan. 2. There's no cost. Who knows? You may fall in love. For more information, call AWL at 941-625-6720.

Senior care organization launches new services

SUN CORRESPONDENT

Chelsea Place Senior Care is spreading the love around to more local seniors.

In addition to its assisted living and its senior day care, the rapidly expanding Port Charlotte organization now offers a free referral service and in-home care.

It all started, appropriately enough, with grandparents.

Shortly after local entrepreneur Kris Chana graduated from the University of Florida, a friend suggested that he and his wife, Chelsea, tour a little six-bed assisted living facility that the friend's father had started.

Kris, who'd never really considered an industry with such a depressing reputation, was instead captivated.

"That day, I had such a great time with the residents, making them smile and laugh," he recalled. "I think that passion was always there, because I loved hanging out with my own grandparents."

SCORE small business talk: It's all about customer service

The holiday shopping season has begun. Soon our friends and neighbors that have been vacationing in the north over the summer will return.

A lot of the small businesses in our area are dependent on these seasonal sales cycles.

The busy times, though hectic, can be highly profitable, however slow periods can create stress until the next sales uptick.

Although the business cycles will come and go, you can't assume your customers will always be there.

Customer service is one of the most important ways a small business can build loyalty with its customers. You connect directly with your customers, furnish the products or services that meet their needs, help them solve their problems and then follow up after the sale.

This generates more than just sales, it also creates relationships that will not only keep those customers coming back, but also lead to referrals and new business.

Remember how you were treated when you visited a local business. What made you want to come back, or to recommend the store to others? Was it a helpful, courteous salesperson, a clean well-organized store layout or ready assistance when you had a question or a problem.

Make sure the qualities that made a difference to you are adapted and fully engrained in your operation.

As more business is conducted online, retailers are less likely to have face-to-face contact with their customers. But that doesn't mean you should scrimp on customer service. Online customer service begins with a well-designed, easy-to-navigate, and fast-loading e-commerce website. Make sure the information about your business is clear and easy to find. Make certain product descriptions are timely and complete.

Explain any additional charges and fees up front. It can be frustrating to an e-customer to find surprises during check-out.

Face-to-face or online customer, simply saying "thank you" goes a long way toward securing customer's loyalty. Say thanks whenever you can. Think about how many times your business interacts with customers. Last impressions matter as much as first ones do.

There are other things you can do to express your gratitude as well. Send a thank-you note. The idea may sound corny. But a handwritten thank-you note, or a personalized email really makes a big impression.

Why Doctors Are Now Recommending Legal Hemp Oil

A new extract found in hemp has now shown to help relieve agonizing joint discomfort, muscle aches, and soreness; no prescription required

M. A. Boswell
Health News Syndicate

HNS – For many long time sufferers, their prayers may have finally been answered.

Now legal, SuperClinical Hemp Oil is helping soothe symptoms of joint pain, foot and leg discomfort, soreness, achiness and muscle discomfort – bringing relief to millions.

Research shows that SuperClinical Hemp Oil works by targeting receptor sites in your system with a therapeutic effect that brings welcome relief to your entire body

And because it's non-psychoactive it cannot get you high, so no prescription is necessary.

START FEELING BETTER IMMEDIATELY

Hemp oil is an extract made from hemp, a commonly used term for strains of the cannabis sativa plant without psychoactive effects.

Clinical studies found hemp oil can provide relief from a wide variety of symptoms - soothing discomfort, and healthy living, improving mood and much more.

Thanks to new legislation, known as the "Farm Bill," hemp oil is now approved for use and has led to the creation of SuperClinical Hemp Oil.

SuperClinical Hemp Oil uses high-potency, lab tested, pharmaceutical-grade hemp oil made from organic hemp cultivated in the USA using Supercritical Co2 Extraction.

Resulting in the highest possible purity, without a psychoactive high, that is legal across the nation and does not require a prescription.

And SuperClinical Hemp Oil's fast-acting tincture means you can start to feel a difference immediately, making it superior in every way.

WHAT IS HEMP OIL?

Hemp oil contains the non-psychoactive form of compounds called cannabinoids found in specific types of cannabis, and provides a variety of very important medicinal benefits.

Hemp Oil helps soothe symptoms associated with:

- Joint pain
- Foot and Leg discomfort
- Soreness
- Achiness
- Muscle discomfort

Plus, Hemp Oil has been shown to help improve mood, appetite, sleep, and more. It helps promote a boosted immune system.

Unlike other cannabinoids, the oil extracted from hemp provides consumers with the benefits of hemp oil without the risk of getting high.

MILLIONS FIND RELIEF: Discover the remarkable power of SuperClinical Hemp Oil, legal across the country, cannot get you high, no prescription necessary.

Since hemp oil has no psychoactive effect, it is an excellent option for people seeking relief without risking impairment or experiencing the stigma of seeking a prescription.

And the hemp oil that's found in SuperClinical Hemp Oil is quickly becoming the focus of widespread medical and scientific research.

According to many researchers, hemp oil may contain the single most important cannabinoid ever discovered and possesses great potential when it comes to relief without the psychoactivity experienced with marijuana.

HOW IT WORKS

Your body is designed to thrive off cannabinoids.

In fact, there are areas of your body that are made specifically to interact with cannabinoids. They are called cannabinoid receptor sites.

This vast network of receptor sites makes up your body's endocannabinoid system and are found in the brain and various other organs throughout the body.

The cannabinoids found in SuperClinical Hemp Oil work as an agonist and bind to these receptor sites creating a virtual balancing act where many beneficial effects are produced, providing much needed relief and improving mood, appetite, sleep, and more.

SuperClinical Hemp Oil uses high-potency, full spectrum, pharmaceutical-grade hemp oil made from organic hemp cultivated in the USA.

LEGAL ACROSS THE NATION

SuperClinical Hemp Oil cannot get you high and is legal across the country.

Hemp and hemp-derived extracts are food-based products. They are not sold as drugs in the United States.

Indeed, Hemp oil is legal in over 40 countries and consumed by millions of people around the world. And this number is rapidly rising as an increasing number of studies explore its many potential health benefits.

WHAT USERS ARE SAYING

But the most exciting reports come from people who use SuperClinical Hemp Oil every day.

For example, Norman, 75, says, "Since I've been getting older, I find just getting out of my chair is really tough. I tried SuperClinical Hemp Oil, and it worked. And now I am a true believer."

"It's really changed my life. Now I'm able to accomplish a lot of the things that I haven't been able to do in the last few years. I feel amazing!"

And Patti, 50's, says "For as many years as I can remember, I've had social anxiety in large crowds. I decided to try SuperClinical Hemp Oil, and I have to tell you that it has helped calm my mind so I can relax and enjoy myself... I'm much happier!"

HOW TO TRY SUPERCLINICAL HEMP OIL

This is the official nationwide release of SuperClinical Hemp Oil in Florida. And so, the company is offering a special discount supply to anyone who calls within the next 48 hours.

An Order Hotline has been set up for local readers to call. This gives everyone an equal chance to try SuperClinical Hemp Oil.

Starting at 7:00AM today, the discount offer will be available for 48 hours. All you have to do is call TOLL FREE at 1-800-687-5931. Operators are standing by all day and all night for your convenience.

Important: Due to SuperClinical Hemp Oil's recent media exposure, phone lines are often busy. If you call and do not immediately get through, please be patient and call back.

weeks, and I have a good job waiting for me in January. During the last few years, I've managed to save almost $25,000 from my part-time jobs while in school. My car is pretty beaten up and old, so I've been shopping at a couple of car dealerships recently. Every time I talk to a salesperson, they tell me I should finance something new instead of paying cash for a used car. What should I do?

— Ethan

Dear Ethan,
I hope you'll keep one very important thing in mind. This is your purchase, not theirs. The only reason they want you to finance something is so they'll make a lot more money off the deal. Forget what they want. You need to do what's best for you.

You've been a hard-working, smart guy over the last few years. The fact that you've been able to save nearly $25,000 is proof of that.

I don't think you want to throw a big chunk of your savings—or your new income—into something that's going to go down in value like a rock. New cars lose about 60 percent of their value during the first four years of ownership. That means a $28,000 car would be worth around $11,000 after that period. That's not a smart investment.

If I were you, I'd shop around and pay cash for a nice, slightly used $10,000 car. You can get a great automobile for that kind of money, plus you'll still have the majority of your savings.

Congratulations, young man. You've done a great job!

— Dave

Retirement contributions

Dear Dave,
As part of your Baby Steps plan, you always advise people to put 15 percent of their income toward retirement. Would you explain the details of this, please?

— Mallory

Dear Mallory,
For starters, Baby Step 4 of my plan involves saving 15 percent of your gross annual pay for retirement. You don't have to be a complete nerd about this figure. I mean, you probably won't end up in the poor house if you set aside 12 to 14 percent. The bottom line is you should be able to save $7,500 a year if you make $50,000 annually. That's just a little over $600 a month.

However, the only way you can do this is by giving up stupid things like credit cards and car payments. When you get out of debt, it's easy to set aside an emergency fund of three to six months of expenses — which is Baby Step 3 — and start throwing 15 percent at retirement during Baby Step 4.

Did you know you can retire a millionaire if you save 15 percent of a $50,000 a year income, and invest it in good growth stock mutual funds starting at age 30? Sounds worth it to me!

in business together for 14 years. We have a large 401(k) plan, in which we equally share, and I've been managing it since we took it over from an adviser in 2011. And it has done very well since. I decided to invest $60,000 in several marijuana-related stocks and told my partners. They strongly objected, saying it was too risky because marijuana is illegal and there's a negative social stigma attached to it. It's caused friction because I'd never been questioned on portfolio selections before. Do you have any comments or thoughts before I look for an alternative investment? And please tell me about some good pot-related stocks, in case I decide to personally own some. Why won't Congress legalize pot? — PC, Detroit

Dear PC: Wouldn't it be nice if all of you could just get a bong?

Howbeit, I understand how your partners feel. And after 14 years of working together and building a successful business, it's not worth risking a falling-out. Still, the marijuana movement has been unstoppable. Canada recently became the second country to legalize possession and recreational use. The U.S. has also witnessed a steady progression toward legality, and it's estimated that federal approval would generate $100 billion in tax revenue by 2022 and create over 1 million jobs. So far, 10 states and the District of Columbia have approved the recreational use of marijuana, and most allow pot to be used for medicinal purposes, even though the feds still classify it as an illegal Schedule I drug. A recent Gallup Poll survey found that 64 percent of Americans approve of the legalization of recreational marijuana, and 94 percent say it should be used medicinally. But be wise. Forget about stocking pot in your 401(k).

The most consequential reason Congress won't legalize pot is money. Sundry federal agencies would be forced to dismiss a large number of wage earners employed to arrest and detain pot users, suppliers and growers. Furthermore, courts across the nation are overloaded with pot cases, which consume an average of 50 percent of criminal courts' daily proceedings. Legalizing pot would force many lawyers, judges and court employees to stand in unemployment lines and look for productive jobs. It would also reduce our prison population by at least 30 percent. Imagine how that would impact the thousands of small businesses across the nation whose revenues from food, toiletries, office supplies, tobacco, etc., are sustained by local prisons. Then imagine how many prison employees, most with zero skills, would lose their paychecks. And legalizing pot would also reduce the ranks of most local police forces. Pot is a hugely profitable enterprise for law enforcement, and enforcing anti-pot laws hurts the earnings of too many families for Congress to make it illegal.

I can't shake a stick at all the worthless pot stocks because there are so many, and there are almost as many sweet-talking stockbrokers who want to sell them to you. Some well-known pot stocks to consider are Tilray (TLRY-$114), GW Pharmaceuticals (GWPH-$123), Cronos Group (CRON-$8.50) and Canopy Growth (CGC-$32). I know little about these issues, but I know they are enormously volatile. In the past dozen months, TLRY has traded between $20 and $300 a share, while CGC has traded between $17 and $60. That's scary stuff. So is it any wonder that your partners are pot stock-shy?

If you choose to buy a pot stock on your own, consider the ETFMG Alternative Harvest ETF (MJ-$29), a non-leveraged exchange-traded fund that owns 45 different pot stocks. It came public in December 2015 at $24. A month later, it had fallen to $21. Then it rose to $45 this past September. MJ's $600 million portfolio owns all of the above issues. It has 18 million shares outstanding and trades about 500,000 shares daily. Its portfolio turnover averages 44 percent, and it has a low 0.75 percent expense ratio.

You might propose Constellation Brands (STZ-$196), a pale-blue chip $8 billion beer, wine and spirits company listed on the New York Stock Exchange, to your partners. STZ took a $4 billion position in CGC earlier this year and hopes to offer cannabis-based drinks in the near future. Hmm.

Start your undersea adventure at Gaspar's Dive Shop

It's easy to become intrigued by the mysteries of the sea. We visit aquariums, we watch movies like "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" and "Aqua Man," we take our grandkids to Sea World. Well Stephanie Chlebowski and her husband Joe took their dreams with them into real life. Stephanie has lived in Englewood her whole life and always wanted to do something with all the water around her. Joe is relatively new to the area, and he thought with all this water, why not take advantage of it and start a shop devoted to something so prevalent here. With that simple thought, they created the full-service Gaspar's Dive Shop in Englewood. Since that humble beginning eight years ago, the shop has grown to the largest dive shop in Charlotte County. It attracts divers and customers from all over the area. I was quite surprised when I called on them and saw the vast array of scuba and diving gear on display. They have everything from attire to masks, to spear guns and, of course, tanks. They feature lines like Sherwood, JBL, Cressi, Sea Life and Mares. Everything is laid out in a way that makes it very easy for the experienced and novice diver to find exactly what they are looking for. The store, with its highly varnished floors and creative lighting, invites you to come in and look around. I promise you you will be surprised like I was on the size and the layout of Gaspar's Dive Shop. Classes for beginners are convened on a regular basis. After you complete the class on land, you are taken out for your certification for scuba or diving. They teach students from 10 years old to 80. The shop also organizes monthly trips to many of the diving areas like the Keys, the Bahamas, and Florida's East Coast. They even organized trips to the massive Disney World

Aquarium, which holds 5.7 million gallons of water. The well-laid-out store has its own aquariums, and though they're not on the scale of Disney's, they are pretty big in their own right. There's a 250 gallon tank, and that's 150 gallons. In one they have venomous lion fish and scorpion fish. People love to come in and get up-close looks at them, especially the lion fish, an invasive species in the wild that has become such a threat to our environment. If you have never gone, scuba diving, and always wanted to, Gaspar's Dive Shop has the staff and knowledge to help find you the right equipment and teach you the proper way to use it. That makes it one of the premier shops around. By the way, they're having a select 25 percent off Christmas Sale. Visit them in Unit 3 of San Casa Square, 2961 Placida Road. The phone number is 941-698-0499, and their website is www.gasparsdive.com. Lang Capasso is a Sun columnist. Email him at capasso@sun-herald.com.

'Chamber of Commerce' weather on tap for upcoming outdoor events

We are going to have "chamber of commerce" weather for our two big outside events this week, so grab a chair and plan to attend. At 5:15 p.m., we'll be lighting the Christmas tree facing U.S. 41, next to the Murdock Administration Building.

Julie MATHIS

Our thanks to sponsors: Centennial Bank (grilling hot dogs) and Shelley Johnson/Allison James Estates & Homes (cookies/cider), the Charlotte Stone Crabs/Tampa Bay Rays and music by Sum1s Got 2. Please bring your own lawn chair and enjoy this informal community event with us. On Thursday from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m., we'll have the November-December Business Card Exchange, sponsored by the Charlotte Harbor Rotary Club at the Cultural Center of Charlotte County. Remember to bring a small gift for additional face time and plenty of business cards to hand out. We're all set for our 40th Annual Christmas Parade on Saturday. Bring your chair and set it up along Taylor, then head downtown to shop and eat before the parade steps off at noon from Charlotte

High School. On Wednesday, Dec. 12 will be Networking at Noon at the Four Points by Sheraton Harborside. Please make a reservation in the Chamber store or call 941-627-2222. We hope you'll stop by the Freeman House, or office in Punta Gorda, before you head to work on Dec. 14 for Coffee Connections from 8 a.m. to 9 a.m. We'll have coffee and breakfast munchies as you catch up with colleagues. The Charlotte Sun will sponsor the Dec. 19 Third Wednesday Coffee from 7:15 to 8:30 a.m. at the Event Center. This is always a nice, festive morning when we give out awards for the Christmas Parade. The kickoff party for our "Hottest Business Day in Paradise" Business Expo 2019 will be held on Jan. 10, 2019, at Kingsway Country Club. During the workshop before the 5:30 p.m.

event, you'll learn ways to enhance your booth space for the Feb. 7, 2019, Expo. Sponsors will be recognized and there will be great networking with fellow exhibitors. CHELSEA FROM PAGE 1

Now the Chanas not only have dozens of adopted grandparents, they're expanding the services they offer them. Seven years ago, Kris, now 30, and Chelsea, 28, started Chelsea Place Assisted Living, a small local facility with 12 private rooms. In fact, they lived there themselves — with their dog, Dallas, and several seniors unrelated to them — for the first three years of their marriage. "It was a true test of our relationship, but a great way to bring love to others," said Kris. "It was like having 10 grandparents," added Chelsea. They lived with them, ate with them, cared for them and made Chelsea Place a loving home. "It might not be a hip or cool industry, but if you're passionate about it, you'll excel," said Chelsea. She reported that their first resident, who had severe dementia and was "lost in the shuffle" in a larger facility, regained weight and memory in the homelike environment of Chelsea Place. Her family thanked the couple for giving them back their grandmother. "In the same way, we wanted people to come to our Chelsea Place Senior Day Care and have a blast," said Kris. "I just love what this does for people." The day care, opened last year, improves not just members' physical, cognitive, social and emotional lives, but also those of their families at home.

"Families are still living with their loved one and going through the struggles of caregiving, but we're making that easier for them by giving them a break," Kris said. One member's spouse wrote to them, "I find his time spent at Chelsea Place is more beneficial than medication my husband had taken in the past." Forget everything you used to think about cold, institutional assisted livings or rehabs. Chelsea Place fills seniors' needs to continue being part of a fun, familial group. Chelsea Chana's cheerful Key West décor, with sky-blue walls, faux-driftwood flooring and "Surf's Up" signs, carries through both locations. The assisted living has the ambiance of a beachside B&B; the day care is like a tropical resort's activity center — meals, live music and all. And now Chelsea Place is making life even easier for caregivers and their loved ones. They've just rolled out a fuller menu of services, with a free Senior Care Expert Hotline referral service and in-home care. The new referral service is a natural evolution of something Chelsea Place provided all along — a "portal" consultation service that's a first step for families who don't know where to turn when faced with what can be a bewildering array of options. Key to the Chelsea Place expansion is new senior resource specialist Amie Conti, who'd known the Chanas for seven years before joining Chelsea Place Senior Care.

In her 13 years in the area, she's worked for an assisted living facility and a private-duty, in-home care agency, and is active in Our Charlotte Elder Affairs Network (OCEAN), Senior Outreach Sources (SOS) and the Alzheimer's Association. About the referral service, Conti said, "We aren't an 800 number referring people out of state. We're here, we're local, and we want to help provide the referrals people asked for — personal care, legal affairs, financial planning, veterans' benefits, long-term care insurance, Medicare versus Medicaid, even funeral planning." And now Chelsea Place comes to clients' homes, too. "We realized," said Kris, "that many of our target clients for home care were already day care members. Their families were already spending on home care or respite care services, and they could use their dollars in a more cost-effective way. Plus we can offer services 24-7, even on weekends and at night." Their caregivers are home health aides who provide showers, help with daily living activities, medication reminders, laundry and light house-keeping, transportation to shopping and appointments, even companionship at home, in rehab or in assisted living. Conti added, "We can meet almost any need, tailoring in-home care to the client." Kris Chana admits to having ambitious goals for the next 10 years — 100 day care locations, 25 assisted living facilities and 12 home care agencies. "It puts everything we're doing now into perspective," he explained. "It will be a slow process, though, because we want to continue serving people with the same attention to detail, whether in assisted living, daycare or home care." Clients can begin exploring Chelsea Place and other local services through their free Senior Care Expert Hotline (941-677-7233). The new Chelsea Place In-Home Care can be reached at 941-979-5288. Chelsea Place Senior Day Care (941-883-6600), 3626 Tamiami Trail, Port Charlotte, is open Monday to Friday 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Chelsea Place Assisted Living (941-676-3411) is at 315 Addison Drive, Charlotte Harbor.

3118 NOTICE OF ADMIN.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT IN AND FOR CHARLOTTE COUNTY, FLORIDA IN RE: ESTATE OF FRANCES MARIE GUEVARA,
Deceased.
PROBATE DIVISION
File No. 18-1152-CP
NOTICE OF ADMINISTRATION
(Testate)

The administration of the estate of FRANCES MARIE GUEVARA, deceased, is pending in the Circuit Court for Charlotte County, FL, Probate Division, the address of which is 350 E. Marion Ave, Punta Gorda, FL 33950. The estate is testate and the date of the decedent's will is March 14, 2017. The names and addresses of the personal representative and the personal representative's attorney are set forth below. The fiduciary lawyer-client privilege in Florida Statutes Section 90.5021 applies with respect to the personal representative and any attorney employed by the personal representative.

Any interested person on whom a copy of the notice of administration is served who challenges the validity of the will or any codicils, venue, or jurisdiction of the court is required to file any objection with the court in the manner provided in the Florida Probate Rules WITHIN THE TIME REQUIRED BY LAW, which is on or before the date that is 3 months after the date of service of a copy of the Notice of Administration on that person, or those objections are forever barred. The 3 month time period may only be extended for estoppels based upon a misstatement by the personal representative regarding the time period within which an objection must be filed. The time period may not be extended for any other reason, including affirmative representation, failure to disclose information, or misconduct by the personal representative or any other person. Unless sooner barred by section 733.212(3), all objections to the validity of a will or any codicils, venue or the jurisdiction of the court must be filed no later than the earlier of the entry of an order of final discharge of the personal representative or 1 year after service of the notice of administration.

A petition for determination of exempt property is required to be filed by or on behalf of any person entitled to exempt property under Section 732.402 WITHIN THE TIME REQUIRED BY LAW, which is on or before the later of the date that is 4 months after the date of service of a copy of the Notice of Administration on such person or the date that is 40 days after the date of termination of any proceeding involving the construction, admission to probate, or validity of the will or involving any other matter affecting any part of the exempt property, or the right of such person to exempt property is deemed waived.

An election to take an elective share must be filed by or on behalf of the surviving spouse entitled to an elective share under Section 732.201-732.2155 WITHIN THE TIME REQUIRED BY LAW, which is on or before the earlier of the date that is 6 months after the date of service of a copy of the Notice of Administration on the surviving spouse, or an attorney in fact or a guardian of the property of the surviving spouse, or the date that is 2 years after the date of the decedent's death. The time for filing an election to take an elective share may be extended as provided in the Florida Probate Rules. Attorney for Personal Representative:

NOTICE BY CHARLOTTE COUNTY, FLORIDA OF INTENT TO USE THE UNIFORM AD VALOREM METHOD OF COLLECTION OF NON-AD VALOREM ASSESSMENTS

Notice is hereby given to all owners of lands located within the boundaries of Charlotte County that Charlotte County intends to use the uniform ad valorem method for collecting the non-ad valorem assessments levied by Charlotte County as set forth in Section 197.3632, F.S., and that the Board of County Commissioners will hold a public hearing on December 11, 2018, at 10:00 A.M.

The purpose of the public hearing is to consider the adoption of a Resolution authorizing Charlotte County to use the uniform ad valorem method of collecting non-ad valorem assessments levied by Charlotte County as provided in Section 197.3632, F.S.

Charlotte County is considering adopting non-ad valorem assessments for 2019 and subsequent years for any of the following purposes: to fund local improvements and related services; fire/rescue services; municipal services; sanitation services; beach renourishment; water and sewer improvements; streets, drainage and lighting improvements and services; canal and waterway dredging, maintenance and improvements; operation, maintenance and financing of water and wastewater line infrastructure; and certain qualifying renewable energy, energy efficiency and conservation and wind resistance improvements.

These non-ad valorem assessments, are either existing non-ad valorem assessments that have been previously placed on a roll and collected; are assessments that may be levied for the first time; are being increased beyond the maximum rate authorized by law at the time of their initial imposition; or are related to a change in purpose for an existing assessment or in the use of the revenue for such assessment.

Interested parties may appear at the public hearing to be heard regarding the use of the uniform ad valorem method of collecting such non-ad valorem assessments.

If any person decides to appeal any decision made with respect to any matter considered at this public hearing, such person will need a record of pro-

Founders' Week celebrations underway

The Annual Punta Gorda Founders' Week celebrations are under way this week with many activities planned to celebrate Punta Gorda's history.

John WRIGHT
COLUMNIST

The history of this small city is critical to its future, so we invite you to see all the planned festivities on our website www.puntagordachamber.com clicking the Founders Week link under Vacation here or Quick Links.

Our ever-popular Christmas Light Trolley

Tours are back and the dates have just been released. The tours leave the Herald Court Parking Garage entrance at 7 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 9 through Dec. 13 with a final tour on Sunday, Dec. 16.

The tour lasts approximately two and a half hours, visiting illuminated neighborhoods in both Punta Gorda and Port Charlotte. Space is limited to 26 people per tour, so gather your friends and call us as soon as possible as these tours fill up very quickly and sell out each year. Cost is $35 per couple/$20 single.

The tickets for our 14th Annual Wine & Jazz Festival are now in so remember to check out the Festival set for Feb. 23, 2019 on our website www.puntagordachamber.com, featuring Gerald Albright, the Sax Pack and Matt Marshak. Guaranteed to be a great day, with great music and great wine. Now in its 14th year!

We have added an exciting attraction to visitors to our area, starting Jan. 10, 2019, through April 4, 2019, in conjunction with the Punta Gorda Historical Mural Society. Every Thursday, starting from the PG Chamber office located at 252 W. Marion Ave., Punta Gorda, we invite you to join us in a guided walking tour of our beautiful city, stopping at historic murals along the way.

Learn about the local history depicted in each mural, when it was painted and by whom. See if you can find the objects hidden in some of them!

You'll also get an overview of the Mural Society, their process of creating three historic murals and a sneak peak at upcoming additional projects. The tours starting at 9:30 a.m. and will last about two hours (with rest stops).

To purchase your tickets (tour size is limited), please call us on 941-639-3720 during office hours. Tickets are only $15 per person, benefiting the Mural Society. Our trolley and boat tours next year, in conjunction with King Fisher Fleet, will operate every Wednesday and Friday afternoon starting in early January.

Give us a call and we'll be happy to discuss the various options with you for these ever-popular trips 941-639-3720.

Networking

Join us in welcoming Tara Bella Boutique and Consignment Store to the neighborhood and Chamber as we conduct their ribbon-cutting ceremony on Dec. 11 at 5:30 p.m. at their location: 2705 Tamiami Trail, Punta Gorda. Please RSVP to 941-639-3720.

Whether you are local or just visiting, we have a weekly e-newsletter that can be delivered to your inbox every Friday full of events, programs and information to assist you. It's called the Friday Facts. To sign up, simply click the icon on our website www.puntagordachamber.com, call us on 941-639-3720 or email your details to chamber@puntagordachamber.com. You'll never be out of the loop again.

North Port Chamber conducting year-end membership drive

Bill GUNNIN
COLUMNIST

The concept of this membership drive is to encourage businesses that are not currently a member of the North Port Area Chamber of Commerce, to expand their efforts and make a commitment to help their business grow and be more successful.

The chamber wants to help by offering non-chamber businesses an opportunity to join the chamber and receive benefits that will help their business be more successful and grow.

Any business that joins the North Port Area Chamber of Commerce by Dec. 31 will receive three days advertising in the North Port Sun ($192 value); be entered a raffle to win a 55-inch smart television ($420.00 value donated by Walmart Supercenter) and the chamber will waive the $25 administrative fee.

This is also the last chance that a business can join the North Port Area Chamber of Commerce and claim the membership dues on their 2018 business tax return.

Any current and active chamber member that solicits and secures a new chamber member during the membership drive will receive a $50 credit to their chamber account (for each new chamber member secured) and be entered a raffle to win the "Business Spotlight" in the February 2019 Communicator Newsletter.

Annual Frosty Award

It's that time of the year again. The holidays are here! North Port will soon be ablaze with holiday lights and decorations.

The North Port Area Chamber of Commerce will award its annual Frosty Award to the business or organization judged to exhibit the most festive holiday decorations and lights inside and/or outside.

Businesses and organizations are required to be members of the North Port Area Chamber of Commerce in order to participate.

Judging will take place today.

The winner will be announced at the chamber's annual Awards Luncheon on Thursday, Dec. 13. You are welcome to visit the participating businesses and organizations to view the decorations and get you and your family in the holiday spirit.

The following businesses and organizations locations include:

- AAA Auto Club Group in Port Charlotte – 21229-A Olean Blvd, Port Charlotte
- Coldwell Banker Sunstar Realty — 14972 Tamiami Trail, North Port
- Cornerstone Integrated Healthcare — 13355S. Tamiami Trail — Suite A-E
- Harbor Cove — 1499 Imperial Drive, North Port
- Homeowners Association of LaCasa, Inc. — 300 El Prado, North Port
- Olde World Restaurant & Sherwood Forest Lounge — 14415 S.

Tamiami Trail, North Port

- Sarasota County Tax Collector — 4970 City Hall Boulevard, North Port

State Farm Insurance – Dean McConville Agency – 14506 Tamiami Trail, North Port

The Rock Box Music School & Stage — 5400 S. Biscayne Drive, North Port

Worksite, LLC – 2579 N. Toledo Blade Blvd., North Port

Annual Holiday Social

The chamber's annual Holiday Social will be held from 5:30-7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 11 at the Charlotte Harbor National Golf Club (formerly Bobcat Trail Golf Club) in North Port.

This is a great opportunity to celebrate the Holiday Season with your fellow chamber partners and to help support those less fortunate as we collect new, unwrapped toys for the Marine Corp League Detachment 948 Toys for Tots Program.

If you do not plan to conduct a Holiday Social at your place of business this is a great opportunity to offer a low-cost benefit to your employees and recognize the hard work that they provide to you and your business.

The cost is $20 per person or $35 per couple and includes heavy hors d'oeuvres, non-alcoholic drinks and karaoke entertainment.

A cash bar will be available. Word has it that there will be a special appearance by Santa Claus.

Annual Awards Banquet

You are invited to attend the annual Awards Banquet to be held from 11:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 13, at Heron Creek Golf & Country Club.

All nominees and winners of the 2018 Business-of-the-Year and the annual Frosty Award will be announced and all committee members that volunteered over the past year will be recognized.

The cost is $25 per person and includes a plated ham or turkey lunch and drinks. Table sponsorships are available for $250 (includes: seating for eight people) and ½ table sponsorships for $150 (includes seating for four people) and includes: recognition in the program, verbal recognition and a special table sponsor sign.

Come join us as we recognize the nominated and winning businesses for their accomplishments and success. Space is limited, so register for the luncheon now!

New chamber members

The North Port Area Chamber of Commerce would like to welcome the following businesses as new chamber members: M & S Precision Machine and Madelyn LaRosa — Keller Williams Realty Gold.

For more information, please call the North Port Area Chamber of Commerce office at 941-564-3040 or visit the website at www.northportareachamber.com.

Bill Gunnin is the executive director of the North Port Area Chamber of Commerce and can be reached at 941-564-3040 or email at wgunnin@northportareachamber.com.

Sometimes the obvious isn't so obvious

One of the joys of the holiday season is to spend time with visiting family.

Ed HILL
COLUMNIST

I recently had the opportunity to visit with my grown daughters. My youngest, Victoria, is an elementary school special education teacher, and my oldest, Leanne, works for a market research firm. It was enlightening to hear Victoria talk about some of the challenges she faces in the public school system. It made me appreciate our teachers even more.

Leanne recently finished a project that focused on tourism for the state of Hawaii. As someone who is involved with promotion of our community, I found my daughter's conversation to be extremely interesting. In particular was her comment that she feels sometimes the results of her data collection seems obvious.

For example, the researched showed that two of the most common reasons people go to Hawaii are the beaches and the sun. Seems obvious, right? The more we talked about it, she acknowledged that were a number of other reasons why people would make one of the Hawaiian Islands a vacation destination. The challenge is now for her firm's client to effectively communicate those other activities to a potential vacationer.

I must confess that what seems obvious to me, is not always obvious to everyone else. For example, I had someone recently suggested that the chamber needs to do some different things. This person was unflattering in their use of the phrase to the "same ol', same ol'." I started thinking about all the things we have been doing differently. We have a photo contest to determine the cover of the Community Guide. The Community Map is now free to anyone who wants one. We've got new events like Let's Eat! Englewood, the Englewood Beach 9 Putt-Putt. There's an exciting new theme for each year's Manasota Mystique. There's the All Star Program, the Past-President's Luncheon, the EnglewoodJobSearch.com website, and the online community calendar, www.ThinkEnglewood.com. The list goes on.

Another comment was made that the chamber only benefits the larger businesses and that smaller businesses don't really have a way to get their message delivered. I thought to myself, "Doesn't this person know that they can deliver a marketing message each week to hundreds of people for FREE in the Two-Minute-Tuesday?" Seems obvious, right?

The comment that really made me realize that we have not done a good job communicating the chamber's story was this: "The chamber should be helping people within our community who do not operate a business."

While it's obvious to some that we do this, it apparently is not obvious to all. For example, last year, following Hurricane Irma, the chamber launched an initiative call "Let's Help! Englewood." More than $6,000 was raised to help people who were impacted by the storm. This year, we are still distributing funds to those who have been affected by red tide.

One of our objectives in 2019 will be to not assume that what's obvious to us, is obvious to everyone. Your local chamber of commerce is going a number of great things for the business community and the community in general. We're going to make sure you know what those things are.

Networking

Networking Opportunities for December include:

- Dec. 12 is our Business Card Exchange. The party starts at Englewood Community Hospital at 5 p.m.
- Dec. 20 is our Bizz & Noon. This month's host is Prime Time Steak & Spirits. Reservations can now be made at www.EnglewoodChamber.com.

The World Famous

Glenn Miller Orchestra

LIVE IN CONCERT JANUARY 23, 2019

AT THE CHARLOTTE HARBOR EVENT & CONFERENCE CENTER

The legendary Glenn Miller was one of the most successful of all dance bandleaders back in the Swing Era of the 1930s and '40s with a matchless string of hit records which built and sustained the momentum of popularity.

Today, the 18 member ensemble continues to play many of the original Miller arrangements both from the civilian band and the AAFB libraries. Additionally, it also plays some more modern selections arranged and performed in the Miller style and sound. Just as it was in Glenn's day, the Glenn Miller Orchestra today is still the most sought after big band in the world!

North Port Symphony has concert set for 3 p.m. Sunday

STAFF REPORT

NORTH PORT — Every Saturday, the members of the North Port Symphony gather to get ready for the next concert.

"Jingle All The Way" is their next show — scheduled for 3 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 9 at the North Port Performing Arts Center, off Price Boulevard.

Alexa Lowrey would be back once again by popular demand, to perform favorite Christmas Carols.

The North Port High School choir, under the direction of David Sommer, will perform prior to the concert, on the Center Courtyard from 2 to 2:45 pm.

Tickets can be bought at the Performing Arts Center box office, located at 6400 W. Price Blvd., North Port. Box office hours are from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Tickets can also be bought by telephone at 941-426-8479 or 1-866-406-7722.

The group's website, www.northportsymphony.com, also has its schedule and a way to purchase tickets online.

WASHINGTON — The nation's capital embraced George H.W. Bush in death Monday with solemn ceremony and high tributes to his service and decency, as the remains of the 41st president took their place in the Capitol rotunda for three days of mourning and praise by the political elite and everyday citizens alike.

With Bush's casket atop the Lincoln Catafalque, first used for Abraham Lincoln's 1865 funeral, dignitaries came forward to honor the Texan whose efforts for his country extended three quarters of a century from World War II through his final years as an advocate for volunteerism and relief for people displaced by natural disaster.

President from 1989 to 1993, Bush died Friday at age 94.

In an invocation opening Monday evening's ceremony, the U.S. House chaplain, the Rev. Patrick J Conroy, praised Bush's commitment to public service, from Navy pilot to congressman, U.N. ambassador, envoy to China and then CIA director before being elected vice president and then president.

"Here lies a great man," said Rep. Paul Ryan, the House speaker, and "a gentle soul. ...

But political combatants set aside their fights to honor a Republican who led in a less

3 astronauts safely aboard International Space Station

By DMITRY LOVETSKY

BAIKONUR, Kazakhstan — Three astronauts who were launched into space aboard a Russian Soyuz spacecraft Monday entered the International Space Station nearly eight hours later, a relief to relatives and scientists months after a rocket failure aborted another mission.

The hatch of the capsule carrying NASA astronaut Anne McClain, David Saint-Jacques of the Canadian Space Agency and Oleg Kononenko of Roscosmos was opened while the station was flying over the southern coast of Yemen.

The three were greeted upon arrival Monday by the station's current crew members, who had waited outside the hatch after the astronauts' capsule docked and underwent safety checks.

Their Soyuz MS-11 spacecraft launched from the Russian-leased Baikonur Cosmodrome in Kazakhstan on Monday at 5:31 p.m. (6:31 a.m. EST) then entered a designated orbit just under nine minutes later. The spacecraft made four orbits over six hours as it chased down the space station for the docking.

Trump praises witness who refuses to testify against him

By MICHAEL BALSAMO and ERIC TUCKER
ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — President Donald Trump praised a key witness in the Russia investigation Monday for having the "guts" not to testify against him, and said his former lawyer — who cut a deal with prosecutors — should head straight to prison.

In a pair of politically charged tweets, Trump made clear that he is closely watching those who turn on him in the special counsel's probe, which has ensnared some of the president's closest advisers. So far, five people in Trump's orbit have pleaded guilty to federal charges.

The tweets add to mounting questions about whether Trump is taking steps to improperly influence witnesses in an investigation that has enraged him and shadowed his administration. Some legal experts, though, say they may not amount to witness tampering if Trump didn't directly tell others what to say or not say.

Trump already has come under scrutiny from critics who fear he may use his executive power to protect himself as well as friends and supporters. Last week, Trump told the New York Post that a pardon for his former campaign chairman Paul

US urges Europe to impose sanctions on Iran

By MATTHEW LEE
ASSOCIATED PRESS

BRUSSELS — The Trump administration is urging Europe to impose tough new sanctions on Iran over its ballistic missile program.

The call comes as Secretary of State Mike Pompeo is to meet European officials in Brussels this week and after the U.S. and others condemned an Iranian missile launch over the weekend.

Iran was also a topic of conversation when Pompeo met Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu in Brussels on Monday night.

Pompeo plans to talk about Iran when he meets his counterparts from Britain, France and Germany on Tuesday while he is in Belgium for a meeting of NATO counterparts.

U.S. special envoy for Iran Brian Hook rejected Iran's insistence that its missile program is defensive.

He told reporters traveling with Pompeo that Iran's continued missile development and testing is a threat to the region and beyond and in defiance of U.N. Security Council demands.

Hook said U.S. discussions with the Europeans about missile sanctions are gaining traction. Those talks center on slapping penalties on companies and people involved in Iran's program.

"It is a grave and escalating threat, and nations around the world, not just Europe, need to do everything they can to be targeting Iran's missile program," Hook said.

Hook's comments on Monday were the latest salvo in an escalating U.S. campaign against Iran since President Donald Trump pulled out of the 2015 nuclear deal in May.

"Iran is on the wrong track, and our campaign of maximum economic pressure is designed to starve the regime of revenue it needs," he said.

On Thursday, Hook accused Iran of violating a U.N. ban on Iranian arms exports by sending weapons to its proxies in Afghanistan, Iraq, Lebanon, Syria and Yemen.

On Saturday, Pompeo denounced Iran for test-firing a medium-range ballistic missile capable of carrying multiple warheads that could reach parts of Europe.

"We are accumulating risk of escalation in the region if we fail to restore deterrence," Pompeo said.

World leaders stress need to win support for climate measures

The UN's annual summit gathered in Poland for global climate talks

KATOWICE, Poland — As leaders attending the U.N.'s annual climate summit heard fresh warnings about the dire consequences of leaving global warming unchecked, a new issue emerged Monday as a pressing concern: how to persuade millions of workers their industry can't have a future if humanity is to have one.

Hosting the talks in the heart of its coal region of Silesia, Poland tried to set the tone for the two-week meeting by promoting the idea of a "just transition" for miners and other workers facing layoffs as countries adopt alternative energy sources.

"We are trying to save the world from annihilation, but we must do this in a way that those who live with us today in the world have the best possible living conditions," Polish President Andrzej Duda said. "Otherwise they will say, 'We don't want such policy.'"

The issue of a "just transition" isn't restricted to workers in energy industries who might lose their jobs. Many economists argue that ambitious curbs on greenhouse emissions require raising the cost of carbon fuels — one of the measures that triggered large-scale protests in France by motorists feeling the squeeze at the pump.

Scientists say the only way to keep average global temperatures from rising above 1.5 degrees Celsius (2.7 F) by the end of the century is to phase out the use of fossil fuels by 2050. That is the most ambitious goal set in the 2015 Paris agreement, which negotiators from nearly 200 countries have come to Katowice to finalize.

U.N. Secretary-General Antonio Guterres issued a dramatic appeal to leaders Monday to take the threat of global warming seriously, calling it "the most important issue we face."

"Even as we witness devastating climate impacts causing havoc across the world, we are still not doing enough, nor moving fast enough, to prevent irreversible and catastrophic climate disruption," Guterres told delegates from almost 200 countries on the second day of talks.

Famed British naturalist Sir David Attenborough echoed his warnings, telling the gathering that the "collapse of our civilizations and the extinction of much of the natural world is on the horizons" if no urgent action is taking against global warming.

The 92-year-old TV presenter blamed humans for the "disaster of global scale, our greatest threat in thousands of years."

Without naming specific countries, Guterres chided the nations most responsible for greenhouse gas emissions for failing to do enough to meet the goals set in Paris.

Citing a recent scientific report, the U.N. chief urged governments to aim for net zero emissions by 2050. Net zero emissions mean that any greenhouse gases emitted need to be soaked up by forest or new technologies that can remove carbon from the atmosphere.

Such cuts would require a radical overhaul of the global economy. But Guterres said governments should embrace the opportunities of shifting to a "green economy" rather than cling to fossil fuels such as coal, which are blamed for a significant share of man-made greenhouse gas emissions.

Leaders and negotiators from almost 200 nations from around the globe listen to speeches during the official opening of the key U.N. climate conference that is to agree on ways of fighting global warming in Katowice, Poland, Monday.

U.S. officials have kept a low profile at the talks so far. President Donald Trump has announced Washington's withdrawal from the Paris accord, saying it's a bad deal for Americans, and repeatedly questioned the science behind climate change.

By contrast, action film star and former California Governor Arnold Schwarzenegger drew crowds and applause at the U.N. conference Monday for insisting that many in the United States remain committed to the agreement.

"America is more than just Washington or one leader," he said, calling Trump "meshugge" — Yiddish for "crazy" — for deciding to withdraw from the Paris accord. Schwarzenegger said he wished he could travel back in time — like the cyborg he portrayed in "The Terminator" — to stop fossil fuels from being used.

The Netherlands, a country with a long history of pumping oil and gas from the ground, is also among the places most at risk from rising sea levels caused by global warming.

With millions of people in the Netherlands living in low-lying areas, "you have your evidence and your case in point to make, sure, that you prevent sea levels from rising even further" Dutch Prime Minister Mark Rutte told The Associated Press.

Asked about the recent protests in France, one of which turned into a riot in Paris on Saturday, Rutte said politicians must work to get all of society to back the measures needed to tackle climate change.

More talk is doubtlessly necessary, including at the international level. Poland's President Duda told reporters that his country, which relies on coal for 80 percent of its energy, would work to reduce its reliance on coal but never entirely give up its "strategic fossil fuel."

Among those addressing conference participants this week is a 15-year-old Swedish activist, Greta Thunberg, who has inspired students around the world to campaign against global warming.

Thunberg criticized leaders, such as Trump and German Chancellor Angela Merkel, who failed to come to the climate talks.

"I think that in the future we will look back and we will either laugh at them or we will hate them," she told The Associated Press. "It's very sad, but if they don't do anything right now that is the truth."

WHO says it can fight Ebola outbreak despite US withdrawal

By JAMEY KEATEN
ASSOCIATED PRESS

GENEVA — The head of the World Health Organization said Monday it can fight the deadly Ebola outbreak in Congo despite the withdrawal of the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, insisting: "We can cover it."

The comments by WHO Director-General Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus came in the wake of commentaries in two medical journals appealing to the CDC to return to the epidemic zone in Congo — saying its expertise is needed. The U.S. experts have been sidelined for weeks, ordered away from the region because of State Department security concerns.

Violence by rebel groups has complicated efforts to battle what is now the second-deadliest Ebola outbreak. The CDC — which is twice as large as WHO — has said its staff would return to the epidemic area once it is safe.

Tedros said the U.N. health agency mostly needs the United States to continue the financial and other support it has provided. He noted the U.S. and many other developed countries have security guidelines that prevent deployments in conflict-ridden zones like the Ebola-hit area of eastern Congo.

"We can mobilize from other parts, from those institutions who don't have very strict security provisions like that," Tedros told reporters at WHO headquarters. "We can cover it."

Tedros praised a commitment from U.S. President Donald Trump, expressed at the Group of 20 summit in Argentina over the weekend, about his administration's "support in any way possible" in the fight against the outbreak.

"They promise to continue supporting us in finance and other (ways), and that, I think, would suffice," Tedros said.

He said experts from the CDC are still helping, sharing data and analysis.

The Ebola response director for the International Rescue Committee, Dr. Stacey Mearns, said the absence of CDC experts can be felt acutely, telling The Associated Press on Friday

According to a WHO announcement, Congo's deadly Ebola outbreak is now the second largest in history, and predicted it will last at least another six months before it can be contained.

that they have rich experience in tracking cases, testing and treatment.

Tedros said WHO has now counted some 440 cases of Ebola and 255 deaths from the outbreak in Congo's North Kivu regions that first emerged in August. He said the risk of international spread remains.

Unlike the far-deadlier outbreak in West Africa that killed more than 11,000 people from 2014 to 2016, international health experts have this time deployed a new experimental vaccine to fight Ebola. Tedros said some 39,000 people have been vaccinated during the current outbreak.

Doctor, Navy reservist among 103 arrested in sting operation

BARTOW, Fla. (AP) — Investigators in central Florida have arrested 103 people on prostitution and human trafficking charges during a week-long sting.

Polk County Grady Judd told news outlets investigators focused on both prostitutes posting online advertisements and "johns" seeking prostitutes online.

Judd said those who were arrested were charged with 44 felonies and 130 misdemeanors. Detectives identified three women who could be victims of human trafficking.

Those arrested include 54-year-old Dr. Sarat

Sabharwal of Winter Park on charges of soliciting a prostitute. A lawyer wasn't listed on jail records for him.

Others arrested include a U.S. Navy reservist and a server at Disney's All Stars Movie Resort.

Judd said investigators worked closely with One More Child and the Department of Children and Families to provide services for those identified as victims.

Florida Highway Patrol says trooper hit by car on I-95

HOBE SOUND (AP) — The Florida Highway Patrol says a trooper has been seriously injured while investigating a crash along Interstate 95.

Lt. Alvaro Feola said the trooper was standing in a northbound lane early Monday when he was struck by a car.

Feola said the trooper was taken as a "trauma alert" to St. Mary's Medical Center in West Palm Beach.

The trooper's name hasn't been released. No additional details were available.

Man attacked by gator, not seriously injured

LAKELAND (AP) — An elderly man was attacked by an alligator in Florida but didn't have serious injuries.

Polk County Sheriff's Office spokesman Brian Bruchey said the alligator attacked the man's foot near a lake in Lakeland, Florida on Monday.

Bruchey said the man was taken to a hospital as a precautionary measure.

Officers with the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission were searching for the alligator at the lake in a retirement community.

US citizen says he was illegally arrested for ICE

KEY WEST (AP) — A Florida man is suing a local sheriff whose deputies detained him on behalf of federal agents who wanted him deported to Jamaica, even though he is a U.S. citizen.

Peter Brown filed the federal lawsuit on Monday, accusing the Monroe County Sheriff's Office in the Florida Keys of violating his constitutional rights.

Brown wasn't deported after a friend provided the federal Immigration and Customs Enforcement agency with proof of his citizenship.

Brown, who resides in the Keys, said he was arrested last April by deputies at the request of ICE agents. He said he repeatedly told deputies he was a U.S. citizen and offered to produce a birth certificate showing he was born in Philadelphia.

A spokesman for the sheriff's office said they don't comment on pending litigation.

Sheriff: Deputies revive overdose victim twice in 12 hours

PALM COAST (AP) — Deputies in Florida rescued the same overdose victim twice in 12 hours.

Flagler County Sheriff

Rick Staley said in a news release that deputies used Narcan to revive the man.

The Daytona Beach News-Journal reports a friend called deputies to the home of David Fisher after finding him motionless inside his bathroom. Deputies applied Narcan, which is an opiate antidote. It took three doses for Fisher to become responsive.

He was taken to a hospital where he was treated and released. But soon he was back in the hospital again, after deputies had once again revived him with Narcan.

Staley says so far this year, deputies have responded to 54 overdose calls and used Narcan dozens of times.

He said more treatment is needed for people struggling with drug addiction.

Woman killed while helping panhandler was known for kindness

By DAVID McFADDEN
ASSOCIATED PRESS

BALTIMORE — Relatives of a Maryland woman who was knifed to death in front of her family while trying to help a panhandler said Monday that she died the way she lived: looking out for others and trying to be kind.

Authorities say Jacquelyn Smith, an electrical engineer from Maryland's Harford County, lowered her car's front passenger side window in Baltimore early Saturday to give money to a young woman who appeared to be holding a swaddled infant and carried a cardboard sign reading: "Please help me feed my baby." Authorities say a man approached the car with the woman for the cash handoff. After a struggle over Smith's wallet, he stabbed Smith and fled on foot with the panhandler.

Smith's grieving 19-year-old son, college sophomore David Hood, described his mother as a strong-willed woman who always taught her children about the importance of generosity and family. He told The Associated Press that she was in the car with her stepdaughter and her husband when she was fatally stabbed in the torso. Her husband, Keith, was behind the wheel at the time. "I think it was a split-second decision of wanting to help somebody else. She really cared for everybody. She loved everyone and was very compassionate," her son said in a phone interview from the family's home in Aberdeen, a suburb some 25 miles northeast of Baltimore.

There have been no arrests in the murder of the Good Samaritan. A law enforcement team went Monday to the East Baltimore intersection where Smith was slain to hand out flyers and canvass residents. The young woman investigators are seeking appeared to be about 20 and the man was roughly 30.

Mayor Catherine Pugh described Smith's slaying as a "terrible tragedy" and said the city was "deploying all available resources within our police department to find and bring to justice those responsible for this senseless act." She urged altruistic people to be cautious.

"Particularly in this season when we are inclined to give to those we perceive to need a helping hand, we urge all to exercise extra judgment and caution," Pugh said in a Monday email.

Smith's husband, Keith, told WMAR-TV that she felt moved by the sight of what appeared to be a struggling young mother with a baby standing by an intersection on a cold drizzling night. After his wife waved the young woman over, he said a man emerged "out of nowhere" and came walking over to their car alongside the panhandler. With the car's windows down, he said the man asked him if he could thank his wife.

"And within that split second this guy commences to stab my wife," he told WMAR.

The Baltimore Police Department said the male suspect "reached in to grab the female victim's wallet when a struggle ensued." He stabbed her during the struggle, according to a police statement.

Jane Piliavin, a professor emeritus of sociology at the University of Wisconsin who authored a book on emergency intervention, said women are more likely to respond to a child in trouble than are men. She didn't believe there would be any sustained local impact making people less inclined to assist panhandlers after the Good Samaritan's murder.

"Probably there is a brief impact on others' interventions. Since most intervention is impulsive, I would not expect much of an effect," she said in a phone interview.

Exam: Black man killed by officer shot 3 times in back

By JAY REEVES
ASSOCIATED PRESS

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — A forensic examination shows a black man was shot three times in the back side of his body when an Alabama police officer mistook him for the shooter after gunfire erupted at a crowded shopping mall, the man's family said Monday.

The results of a report commissioned by the family are "devastating" to relatives of Emantic "EJ" Bradford Jr., their lawyer, Ben Crump, said at an emotional news conference.

Emantic Bradford Sr. angrily jabbed his finger at the TV cameras as he addressed the unnamed officer, saying: "You're a coward!"

The officer in the Birmingham suburb of Hoover should be charged with homicide, Bradford said, "because this is murder."

The Rev. Jesse Jackson also attended the news conference at The Rock, a small church EJ Bradford attended in north Birmingham. Jackson said authorities' refusal to release video evidence smacks of a cover-up.

Police in Hoover reiterated Monday that they won't release officer video or other evidence about the Thanksgiving night killing until the state investigation is complete.

Report: Maria had $43B impact on Puerto Rico's economy

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — A report from Puerto Rico's government says Hurricane Maria had a $43 billion impact on the U.S. territory's economy, $1 billion more than originally estimated.

The Puerto Rico Planning Board's report says its calculations took into account millions of dollars received so far in federal hurricane recovery funds and insurance money.

Overall, the board found that the capital of San Juan was among the six most-affected cities on the island after the Category 4 storm hit in September 2017, causing more than an estimated $100 billion in damage.

"Given the magnitude of the natural disaster, the economic sectors will keep feeling the impact for an undetermined amount of time," the report says.

The board said it came up with the $43 billion figure in part via questionnaires issued to the public and private sectors as well as statistics provided by professional associations through October.

Health chief: Pediatric deaths show communication problem

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Nearly two dozen children at a long-term care facility showed symptoms of a viral infection and two had died by the time New Jersey's health department was notified about the outbreak this fall, said Dr. Shereef Elnahal, the department's top official.

At a hearing Monday on the deaths of 11 children at the facility, Elnahal told a legislative committee that he has formed new internal policy requiring him and his principal deputy to be notified of any outbreaks where pediatric deaths have occurred.

"Leadership at the highest levels in the department need to be made aware of severe facility outbreaks immediately, in case deviations from protocol are warranted," Elnahal said.

Trump now wants $778,000 in legal fees and sanctions from Stormy Daniels

LOS ANGELES — Lawyers for President Donald Trump asked a court Monday for nearly $800,000 in lawyers' fees and penalties from porn actress Stormy Daniels for a failed defamation lawsuit against him.

Attorney Charles Harder defended ringing up a nearly $390,000 legal bill for the president and asked for an equal amount in sanctions as a deterrent against a "repeat filer of frivolous defamation cases."

Judge S. James Otero didn't immediately rule. He noted that fees by Harder's firm — as high as $840 an hour — were reasonable but the 580 hours spent on the case appeared to be excessive and might be trimmed in his eventual award. He didn't indicate how he felt about the requested penalties, but had questioned whether attorneys' fees alone would serve as a deterrent.

Harder had not put a dollar figure on sanctions he was seeking before the hearing and Daniels' attorney Michael Avenatti objected vehemently, calling it "absurd and outrageous."

"You can't just pick a number out of thin air in an effort to put my client under Donald Trump's thumb and intimidate her," Avenatti said.

US-China trade truce sends US stocks solidly higher

By ALEX VEIGA AP BUSINESS WRITER. A welcome truce in the escalating U.S.-China trade dispute put investors in a buying mood Monday, sending U.S. stocks solidly higher and extending the market's gains from last week.

Concerned parent seeks advice about vaping teenagers

DEAR DR. ROACH: My teens keep smoking all these flavored, ethereal wand vapors. They claim it tastes good and even try tricks with the vapor. I'm a concerned parent as I hear these are dangerous magic cigarettes. I would like to know more about them and get your advice on how to deal with these unruly teens. — H.R.

ANSWER: Vaping has become increasingly prevalent, with 1.7 million high school students (and almost 11 million overall adults in the U.S.) using these devices. One popular brand is called JUUL, but they also are called vape pens, e-cigarettes or e-hookahs. They are essentially drug delivery devices for nicotine, an addictive and highly toxic substance. (Not all liquids used for vaping contain nicotine, although some labeled "nicotine free" were found to have nicotine. Cannabis also may be used in a vaping device.)

Although teens and young adults perceive them as being not at all dangerous or only minimally so, the extent of health dangers is not well known yet. While it's clear that vaping is not as dangerous as smoking, that's hardly a stellar recommendation.

In addition to nicotine, there are several other health risks in the aerosolized liquid that is inhaled into the lungs. Toxic chemicals, including lead and formaldehyde, are present in the vapor. The usual liquid used, propylene glycol, can cause asthma and allergic symptoms in some users. Similarly, the flavoring agents used can act as lung irritants, both to the user and to those who inhale the vapor secondhand.

It is concerning that the flavors and packaging used in vaping liquid may be appealing to young people. It is possible but unproven that people who vape are more likely to take up smoking. Thus, vaping has modest dangers in itself, but also might lead to tobacco smoking with its much greater risk of heart disease and cancer, neither of which is yet described with vaping.

I am not an expert on unruly teens. I can provide data and education, which may not be the most effective way of stopping underage use of e-cigarettes. However, as of this writing, the Food and Drug Administration is looking at a host of regulatory actions, which may be more effective in reducing vaping among young users.

DEAR DR. ROACH: What are your thoughts on the effectiveness of oregano oil on the cold or flu? — D.L.G.

ANSWER: There is almost no evidence on the effectiveness of oregano oil for any condition. However, there are substances found in oregano that are known to have beneficial biological effects. It's not clear how well these beneficial substances are absorbed or whether they have helpful or harmful effects.

The known side effects of oregano oil seem to be mild; stomach upset and allergic reactions are reported.

The main concern I have about the use of alternative therapies is that they may prevent people from using traditional effective therapies. For colds, since there really aren't any therapies that significantly speed healing, I have no objection with using oregano oil if it helps with symptoms. However, since there is moderately effective prevention for the flu (the vaccine) and modestly effective treatment (oseltamivir), I wouldn't recommend that oregano oil be used instead of effective treatment for influenza. The flu was estimated to have killed 80,000 people in the U.S. last year.

Men's friendship changes when one finds a new job

DEAR ABBY: I thought I had a best friend. We got to know each other when we worked together for almost four years.

When I went to rehab for six weeks, he came to visit me. But when I celebrated my first year of sobriety a few months back, he never congratulated me. I found a new job almost a year ago, so we stopped seeing or contacting each other.

I feel hurt that he hasn't checked in with me, but I feel like my friendship should be valued and that friendships should be a two-way street.

Is it too late to reach out? — Friendless Guy In California

DEAR FRIENDLESS GUY: The fact you no longer work together may have something to do with his silence — out of sight, out of mind.

It's possible he may have met someone and be involved in a romance, or just busy. If you were the heavy lifter in your relationship, you should not expect him to change. I think it's time YOU reached out and checked in.

DEAR ABBY: Lately I have been feeling torn between staying in my relationship or leaving. I have always maintained I was doing the right thing for my kids by staying with their father. He's a good man, but he has always said he never wanted kids.

I don't want my kids to miss out on a full and memorable childhood, but he is more focused on his own wants and needs. We have a family vacation trip planned with my family, and he has chosen not to go and instead take a week for himself to do what he wants.

I don't know what to do. Help, please. — Wants What's Best In Idaho

DEAR WANTS: What you need to do is evaluate your options and not overreact. Discuss this with someone who is rational. Be careful before making any rash decisions. No one's perfect, and he may become more hands-on as the kids get older.

Your pipes under pressure

Dear Readers: Temperatures should be chilly over most of the country now. Have you given thought to the PIPES in your home? Water expands in the cold weather — this can put pressure on your pipes.

Which pipes are at risk for freezing?

Pipes on exterior walls with little insulation, pipes in unheated areas of your home such as the basement, and outdoor pipes for your pool or sprinkler system. Here are some hints to help keep pipes running and warm:

* Keeping kitchen and bath cabinet doors open can allow warm air to circulate.

Hints from Heloise

* When temperatures outside plummet, a dripping faucet can help prevent frozen pipes.

* Going away? Don't let the temperature in your home drop below 55 degrees Fahrenheit.

For more hints on pipes, contact a licensed plumber in your area. — Heloise

ARIES (March 21-April 19). The way it goes with patterns is that the elements have to repeat at some point. No repetition, no pattern. If things go on too long without repetition, it makes you uncomfortable. But maybe this is just a really involved pattern.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20). When you love someone, you want that person to be happy even if their happiness doesn't happen with you or as a direct result of anything you've done. Right now, another person's happiness might even come as a relief.
GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Some of the things you've been through now seem a little unbelievable to you. But just because an experience is uncommon doesn't make it less real. The unbelievable things are the best part of your story. Remember them now.
CANCER (June 22-July 22). Loss is a regular part of life, though not significantly impactful, as there is always something to be gained, too. You won't notice today's loss, and you'll benefit from what takes its place.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). The best part of a long journey will be the first and the last mile. The middle offers challenges and tests, which you'll overcome by remembering why you wanted to do this in the first place.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). The saying "No good deed goes unpunished" may come to mind as your kindness leads you down a complicated path. This is the stuff that makes you a broader, wiser and more knowledgeable person.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). How can you be happier at work? This is the question that will lead you to make a few small adjustments that are the start to what will ultimately lead to more smiles in your lifetime.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Has caring too much ever been a problem for you? Of course. In fact, it's a problem right now. And though it might be impossible not to care at all, it will help you to loosen your grip just a little... then, perhaps, a little more.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Puppy dog eyes are more adorable than spider eyes, though they may be no less dangerous. This is because humans can't help but be disarmed by cuteness — a fact you'll use to your advantage today.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Each person is a subject to be learned. It takes time, objectivity and focus. It takes seeing someone in many different kinds of scenarios.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). You'll come across those whose relationship with the truth is tenuous at best. Maybe half of what they say is real, but which half? Take the whole expression as metaphor and you may just understand it all.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). You want to fulfill the requests of people you like, but it's not always possible or practical to do so in the long run. Consider the bigger picture before committing to something.
TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Dec. 4). Your appreciation of beauty could inspire you to travel or to take personal and emotional risks that you will never forget. The great loveliness you witness will be richly rewarding. Other glories of this solar return will include a wad of money you stash away, a brush with fame and a legendary comedy of errors. Libra and Capricorn adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 7, 20, 4, 44 and 18.

Doubling a good player just because you have five trumps is usually a bad idea, especially when they are low trumps. You send a telegraph about the bad trump split that your opponent will use to help him. South in today's deal was Jill Meyers, from California, a seven-time World Champion. North was California expert Ed Davis, a longtime partner.

Note Davis's excellent three-heart bid. He would have raised earlier with three, so two good ones were enough to raise now. West continued with a second spade at trick two, forcing dummy to ruff with the queen of hearts. Meyers led a club to her jack and a heart to the king. When West followed with the 10, she started playing high clubs from the dummy. East ruffed the third club as Meyers discarded her last spade.

East led his last spade. Meyers ruffed and led a diamond to dummy's 10, another play suggested by the double. East won with his ace, but with only hearts and diamonds remaining, there was nothing he could do. He chose to return a diamond, which Meyers won in dummy and led high clubs. Eventually, East had to ruff and Meyers picked up all of East's trumps to bring home her contract. Well played, but East gave her the telegraph.

placed wreaths in the short ceremony before the rotunda was to be opened to the public. It was to remain open overnight.

Sent off from Texas with a 21-gun salute, Bush's casket was carried to Joint Base Andrews outside the capital city aboard an aircraft that often serves as Air Force One and designated "Special Air Mission 41" in honor of Bush's place on the chronological list of presidents.

Cannon roared again outside the Capitol as the sun sank and his eldest son, former President George W. Bush, stood with his hand over his heart, watching the casket's procession up the steps.

Bush was remembered just feet away from what he called "Democracy's front porch," the west-facing steps of the Capitol where he was sworn in as president.

He will lie in state in the Capitol for public visitation through Wednesday. An invitation-only funeral service is set for Wednesday at Washington National Cathedral. President Donald Trump and first lady Melania Trump are to attend.

Although Bush's funeral services are suffused with the flourishes accorded presidents, by his choice they will not include a formal funeral procession through downtown Washington.

The younger President Bush, his wife, Laura, and others from the family traveled on the flight from Houston.

On Sunday, students, staff and visitors had flocked to Bush's presidential library on the campus of Texas A&M University, with thousands of mourners paying their respects at a weekend candlelight vigil at a nearby pond and others contributing to growing flower memorials at Bush statues at both the library and a park in downtown Houston.

After services in Washington, Bush will be returned to Houston to lie in repose at St. Martin's Episcopal Church before burial Thursday at his family plot on the library grounds. His final resting place will be alongside Barbara Bush, his wife of 73 years who died in April, and Robin Bush, the daughter they lost to leukemia in 1953 at age 3.

Trump has ordered the federal government closed Wednesday for a national day of mourning. Flags on public buildings are flying at half-staff for 30 days out of respect for Bush.

Trump, who has not always uttered kind words about the Bush family, offered nothing but praise in the hours after the former president's death was announced.

"He was just a high-quality man who truly loved his family," Trump said Saturday while in Argentina. "One thing that came through loud and clear, he was very proud of his family and very much loved his family. So he was a terrific guy and he'll be missed."

Bush's passing puts him back in the Washington spotlight after more than two decades living the relatively low-key life of a former president. His death also reduces membership in the ex-presidents' club to four: Jimmy Carter, Bill Clinton, George W. Bush and Barack Obama.

A humble hero of World War II, Bush was just 20 when he survived being shot down during a bombing run over a Japanese island. He had joined the Navy when he turned 18.

Shortly before leaving the service, he married his 19-year-old sweetheart, Barbara Pierce, and forged the longest presidential marriage in U.S. history. Bush enrolled at Yale University after military service, becoming a scholar-athlete and captaining the baseball team to two College World Series before graduating Phi Beta Kappa after just 2½ years.

After moving to Texas to work in the oil business, Bush turned his attention to politics in the 1960s. He was elected to the first of two terms in Congress in 1967. He would go on to serve as ambassador to the United Nations and China, head of the CIA and chairman of the Republican National Committee before being elected to two terms as Ronald Reagan's vice president.

Soon after he reached the height of his political popularity following the liberation of Kuwait, with public approval ratings that are the envy of today's politicians, the U.S. economy began to sour and voters began to believe that Bush, never a great communicator — something even he acknowledged — was out of touch with ordinary people.

He was denied a second term by Arkansas Gov. Clinton, who would later become a close friend. The pair worked together to raise tens of millions of dollars for victims of a 2004 Indian Ocean tsunami and of Hurricane Katrina, which swamped New Orleans and the Gulf Coast in 2005.

"Who would have thought that I would be working with Bill Clinton of all people?" he joked in 2005.

The astronauts were the first sent to be sent to the space station since a crewed Soyuz launch was aborted in October after a booster rocket failed to separate properly, crippling the rocket. The families of the crew, other astronauts and space officials from several nations breathed a sigh of relief after observing the flawless launch.

NASA and Roscosmos said all onboard systems operated normally and the astronauts felt fine during the six-hour trip the space station. After two hours waiting in their capsule to confirm their ship was firmly docked to the station, they exited the capsule to join three astronauts already aboard the orbiting outpost at 1:37 a.m. (2:40 p.m. EST.)

The station's current crew of NASA's Serena Aunon-Chancellor, Russian Sergei Prokopyev and German Alexander Gerst were waiting to greet the newcomers. They are scheduled to return to Earth on Dec. 20.

McClain, Saint-Jacques and Kononenko will spend more than six months at the space station doing research and experiments in biology, Earth science, physical sciences and technology.

A Soyuz-FG rocket carrying NASA astronaut Nick Hague and Roscosmos' Alexei Ovchinin failed two minutes into its flight on Oct. 11, activating an automatic rescue system that sent their capsule into a steep ride back to Earth. They managed to emerge safely despite the harrowing ordeal.

A Russian investigation attributed the failure to a sensor that was damaged during the rocket's final assembly.

NASA announced Monday that Hague and Ovchinin will now launch to the space station on Feb. 28, along with NASA astronaut Christina Hammock Koch.

The Soyuz accident in October was the first aborted crew launch for the Russian space program since 1983, when two Soviet cosmonauts safely jettisoned after a launch pad explosion.

Russian space officials took measures to prevent the repeat of such a rocket failure. Since the October mishap, four successful unmanned Soyuz satellite launches have been conducted to clear the path for the crew's launch on Monday.

After Monday's successful launch, NASA Administrator Jim Bridenstine tweeted his thanks to his Russian counterpart Dmitry Rogozin and to NASA and Roscosmos space teams "for their dedication to making this launch a success."

The Soyuz spacecraft is currently the only vehicle that can ferry crews to the space station, but Russia stands to lose that monopoly in the coming years with the arrival of SpaceX's Dragon and Boeing's Starliner crew capsules.

Manafort was not off the table.

Prosecutors say Manafort torpedoed his plea deal with special counsel Robert Mueller by repeatedly lying to them, although Manafort denies that he lied.

In one of Monday's tweets, Trump took aim at Michael Cohen, his former personal attorney who once grandly declared he would "take a bullet" for the president but ultimately took a plea deal.

Cohen pleaded guilty last week to lying to Congress about negotiations he had on Trump's behalf for a real estate deal in Moscow.

Though he told lawmakers the talks were done by January 2016, he admitted they actually lasted as late as June — after Trump had clinched the Republican nomination and after Russians had penetrated Democratic email accounts for communications later released through WikiLeaks.

Cohen said he lied out of loyalty to Trump, who insisted throughout the campaign that he had no business dealings in Russia, and to be consistent with his political messaging.

On Monday, Trump ripped into Cohen on Twitter.

"You mean he can do all of the TERRIBLE, unrelated to Trump, things having to do with fraud, big loans, Taxis, etc., and not serve a long prison term?" Trump added that Cohen "makes up stories to get a GREAT & ALREADY reduced deal for himself."

Trump added: "He lied for this outcome and should, in my opinion, serve a full and complete sentence."

Minutes later, Trump lavished praise on his former campaign adviser Roger Stone. Mueller's prosecutors are investigating Stone to learn whether he had advance knowledge of WikiLeaks' plans to release hacked material damaging to Hillary Clinton's presidential effort.

Trump lauded Stone for saying he'd never testify against the president.

"This statement was recently made by Roger Stone, essentially stating that he will not be forced by a rogue and out of control prosecutor to make up lies and stories about 'President Trump,'" he tweeted. "Nice to know that some people still have 'guts!'"

Stone then posted a screenshot of Trump's tweet with a caption that said he was proud of their 40-year relationship and "prouder still of the amazing job he is doing making America Great Again!"

Sen. Mark Warner, the top Democrat on the Senate intelligence committee, said Trump's tweet was inappropriate.

"The President of the United States should not be using his platform to influence potential witnesses in a federal investigation involving his campaign," Warner said in a tweet.

Stone said the idea that Trump's tweet amount to witness tampering is "hysterical."

"I'm not a witness to any proceeding," he said.

David Weinstein, a former Justice Department prosecutor in Florida, said he was surprised by Trump's comments Monday, but didn't believe the tweets alone rose to the level of obstruction or witness tampering because Trump did not explicitly tell anyone what to say or not to say. Subjects of an investigation can still communicate to others entangled in a probe, and though they can encourage them to tell the truth, they cannot coach them to lie, he said.

"What he seems to be saying is that people who continue to show support for him, in some way, may be rewarded for that support," Weinstein said. "I don't think it rises to the level of obstruction yet, but it certainly would cause people who are conducting the investigation to start asking questions about whether or not the target has reached out to them."

Trump's message had an immediate effect on supporters. His remarks prompted Michael Caputo, the president's former campaign aide and a longtime Stone friend, to launch a "GoFundMe" account to help pay Stone's mounting legal fees.

Stone said he's paid about half a million in legal fees already and is projecting that total to reach $2 million.

"I require a small platoon of excellent lawyers and they're not inexpensive," he said.

A conservative author, who is an associate of Stone and in the crosshairs of Mueller's investigation, filed a complaint Monday with the Justice Department, alleging prosecutors tried to coerce him to give false testimony and threatened to indict him.

Investigators are looking into whether Jerome Corsi had contact with WikiLeaks or knew about their plans to release emails damaging to Clinton. Corsi has released documents showing Mueller's prosecutors offered him a deal to plead guilty to a false statements charge but he's rejected the offer. Corsi said he didn't knowingly mislead investigators and wasn't in contact with WikiLeaks. The Justice Department declined to comment on his complaint.

The Russia investigation has dogged Trump for two years. In recent weeks, Trump has sharpened his criticism, accusing Mueller's prosecutors of dirty tactics and pressuring witnesses to lie.

ALMANAC

Today is Tuesday, Dec. 4, the 338th day of 2018. There are 27 days left in the year.

Today in history:

On Dec. 4, 1783, Gen. George Washington bade farewell to his Continental Army officers at Fraunces Tavern in New York.

On this date:

In 1619, a group of settlers from Bristol, England, arrived at Berkeley Hundred in present-day Charles City County, Virginia, where they held a service thanking God for their safe arrival.

In 1918, President Woodrow Wilson left Washington on a trip to France to attend the Versailles Peace Conference.

In 1942, during World War II, U.S. bombers struck the Italian mainland for the first time with a raid on Naples. President Franklin D. Roosevelt ordered the dismantling of the Works Progress Administration, which had been created to provide jobs during the Depression.

In 1945, the Senate approved U.S. participation in the United Nations by a vote of 65-7.

In 1965, the United States launched Gemini 7 with Air Force Lt. Col. Frank Borman and Navy Cmdr. James A. Lovell aboard on a two-week mission. (While Gemini 7 was in orbit, its sister ship, Gemini 6A, was launched on Dec. 15 on a one-day mission; the two spacecraft were able to rendezvous within a foot of each other.)

In 1978, San Francisco got its first female mayor as City Supervisor Dianne Feinstein was named to replace the assassinated George Moscone.

In 1991, Associated Press correspondent Terry Anderson, the longest held of the Western hostages in Lebanon, was released after nearly seven years in captivity.

In 1995, the first NATO troops landed in the Balkans to begin setting up a peace mission that brought American soldiers into the middle of the Bosnian conflict.

In 2000, in a pair of legal setbacks for Al Gore, a Florida state judge refused to overturn George W. Bush's certified victory in Florida and the U.S. Supreme Court set aside a ruling that had allowed manual recounts.

Five years ago: A senior commander in the militant group Hezbollah, Hassan al-Laqqis, was shot dead outside his home in Lebanon, the latest in a series of attacks against the Iranian-backed organization, which accused Israel of the attack. Oscar De La Hoya was selected for induction into the International Boxing Hall of Fame; two of his contemporaries in the modern era — Puerto Rican star Felix "Tito" Trinidad and Joe Calzaghe of Wales — were also selected.

Bucs-Panthers: Meet the castoff crew that shut down the Panthers

By RICK STROUD
TAMPA BAY TIMES

TAMPA — Andrew Adams worked out for five NFL teams after being cut Sept. 1 by the Giants. He had been a starting safety in the league, but every trip ended the same.

Thanks, but no thanks. We'll call you if we have something.

"It's very nerve-wracking," Adams said. "You know you're a good football player and don't know why you're watching football games on Sunday and why you're not playing. It's a little demoralizing but you can't let it get to you."

"So I think that was the hardest part, to keep your head locked in and keep grinding. Just praying every day and knowing it's going to come."

Adams' prayers were answered Sunday. He had three of the Bucs' four interceptions of quarterback Cam Newton in Tampa Bay's 24-17 victory at Raymond James Stadium.

Certainly, the Bucs needed some divine intervention. All five players who started the season in the secondary were on injured reserve or inactive by the time safety Justin Evans left Sunday's game at halftime.

Adams joined the Bucs in Week 3 after safety Chris Conte was stiffed-armed to the I.R. list by Pittsburgh tight end Vance McDonald. But on Sunday, he was the leader of a rag-tag band of pickups that included Javien Elliott and Devonte Harris.

Brent Grimes, Carlton Davis and M.J. Stewart were all inactive with injuries, meaning the Bucs were down to their fifth, sixth and seventh cornerbacks. When Evans reinjured his foot, they were playing their third, fourth and fifth safeties.

"All those guys who came in and we're role players today, and stars today," Bucs coach Dirk Koetter said. "The D was fantastic today. Four turnovers, four interceptions, four sacks."

It was the Bucs (5-7) second win in a row. The turning point came with Carolina trailing 10-7 and driving at the Tampa Bay 25. Elliot jumped a sideline route to D.J. Moore, intercepted the pass and somehow maintained his footing to race 50 yards. That set up Jameis Winston's 13-yard TD pass to Chris Godwin with 13 seconds left in the half.

"I thought he was going to go down right after the catch," Koetter said of Elliott, who was cut just six weeks ago. "I told him at halftime that was a hell of a job just staying up. Then if he had any speed, he would've scored."

Koetter related how Elliott left the team in October to be with his family in Panama City after Hurricane Michael tore through the Florida Panhandle. The Bucs released him shortly after that because they need a roster spot, Koetter said, but resigned him to the practice squad by the end of the week.

"And here he is with the interception today," Koetter said. "That's perseverance by him."

Perseverance is the story of the Bucs revitalized defense that until last week, had not had a turnover since Sept. 24. Under Mark Duffner, serving his seventh game as defensive coordinator, the defensive line has come alive. The Bucs notched their third straight game with four sacks Sunday.

ENGLEWOOD — The first two goals were identical for the Lady Bobcats. Same through ball, same left juke past the keeper and same finish to the center of the net.

Most importantly, same result as the North Port High girls soccer team quelled Lemon Bay's hot start on Monday night with a 3-0 victory.

Both teams came in to the matchup with high confidence. Lemon Bay was 5-1 with 25 goals on the year. On the other side, North Port had yet to lose in four games and have averaged four goals per game.

Coach Gase's improbable Dolphins hang on in playoff race

By STEVEN WINE
AP SPORTS WRITER

DAVIE, Fla. — Only one NFL team has been outgained by nearly 1,200 yards and is still in the playoff picture — the underwhelming, overachieving Miami Dolphins.

They're 6-6 and part of the crowded AFC wild-card race despite statistics that would sink most teams. The Dolphins rank 29th in the NFL in offense and 29th in defense, 29th in third-down conversions and 28th in red zone scoring.

So how have they managed a lofty .500 record?

"Turnover margin," coach Adam Gase said Monday. "The amount of turnovers our defense is getting is what we need, and then we don't turn it over a whole bunch."

He's right. The Dolphins are tied for seventh in turnover differential at plus-eight, and third in takeaways with 25. The impact on the scoreboard has been "insane," Gase said.

Turnover differential was the difference Sunday, when Miami was outgained by Buffalo 415 yards to 175 but won the turnovers battle, 3-1, and the game, 21-17.

It also helped that the Bills' Charles Clay dropped a fourth-down pass at the goal line in the final minute.

"It's better to be lucky than good," Miami linebacker Kiko Alonso said.

small role in explaining the Dolphins' knack for outperforming the stats. It dates back to Gase's first season in 2016, when they were outgained by 798 yards but went 10-6. That's their only playoff team in the past decade.

TAMPA BAY TIMES

While fans (and sports writers) were clamoring for the possibility of a Florida-UCF matchup in the Peach Bowl, Gators coach Dan Mullen wasn't worried about it either way.

"I'm just thrilled for the opportunity to be in a New Year's Six bowl," Mullen said Monday.

That bowl pits his 9-3 Gators against 10-2 Michigan, whom Mullen praised during a teleconference. He hasn't been able to break down a lot of film yet but said the Wolverines' defense is "very aggressive and attacking" and rushes from many different angles.

That's quite a different matchup than the one the Knights would have presented. UCF has the nation's No. 6 scoring offense and is tied with Ole Miss for the sixth-most explosive plays in the country.

Not that Mullen was interested in talking about them.

"I don't care who we're playing. I didn't really care..." Mullen said. "If they rolled out anybody, we would go ready to play. I don't care who it was; they could roll out Notre Dame, Clemson, Oklahoma, Alabama; we're going to show up ready to go play."

Also Monday, Mullen said he doesn't expect any NFL-bound players to skip the bowl game. That includes defensive back Chauncey Gardner-Johnson, who has already declared his intention to enter the draft.

Monday evening.

"We had no intensity," said Clark Davis, Imagine boys basketball coach. "We beat them in the preseason 39-38 after a 13 point comeback."

The Port Charlotte Bandits are headed to the Pop Warner Super Bowl.

The Bandits won their fourth consecutive playoff game Monday afternoon, defeating the Marsh Creek Eagles from Lionville, Pennsylvania, 38-6, at the Wide World of Sports Complex in Orlando, and are headed to the 62nd Pop Warner Super Bowl on Thursday. They will meet the Almadan Mustangs, of San Jose, Calif., for the title at 1 p.m.

"The team we played was extremely physical, but our boys came to play," said Mike Barrett, Bandits football coordinator.

Bryan Augustine led the team with two touchdowns, while Connor Trim, Colby Lee, Schidens Goudette and Jakwon Pringle had one each. The Bandits have outscored their opponents 137-30 during the playoff run, and remain undefeated this fall.

Deotisha Whitfield had an interception for the Bandits in Monday's victory.

Golf

It's a time honored tradition.

The 20th anniversary of the Battle at Bobcat 15 will feature 36 eight-man teams vying for the prestigious title at Charlotte Harbor National Golf Club on Dec. 15 at 8:30 a.m. The format will be a shotgun scramble.

Each team will have a club member volunteer scorekeeper and a golf professional.

First place will receive $12,000; second place, $6,000; third place, $3,000 and fourth place, $600.

The payouts will be based on the full field of 36 teams. Amateurs are allowed and will receive their winnings in pro shop credit. Professionals will receive a check in the mail for their winnings.

The entry fee is $600 per team.

If you're mailing in a check, send it to 1350 Bobcat Trail, North Port, FL, 34288, and address it to the attention of Kris Andrue, Head Golf Professional or email him at Krisandrue1@gmail.com. If you wish to pay by credit card, you can phone your entry into 941-429-0500 and ask for Kris.

Flyers hire Fletcher as new general manager

By DAN GELSTON
AP SPORTS WRITER

PHILADELPHIA — The Philadelphia Flyers hired Chuck Fletcher as their general manager on Monday in hopes that he can resuscitate one of the worst teams in the NHL.

Fletcher, who will replace the fired Ron Hextall, had been working as a senior adviser to the New Jersey Devils after spending the last nine seasons as GM of the Minnesota Wild. The Wild had only two playoff series victories under Fletcher, a 25-year veteran of NHL management, and did not renew his contract in April. They went 15-29 in the playoffs during Fletcher's tenure, enough evidence that the roster wasn't built well enough despite all the success the team enjoyed in the regular

That didn't dissuade Flyers President Paul Holmgren from pursuing the 51-year-old Fletcher a week after he cut ties with Hextall following 4½ seasons. The Flyers are 11-12-2 and only the Devils are worse in the Eastern Conference. Holmgren fired Hextall citing "philosophical differences" and an "unyielding" approach toward sticking with his methodical rebuilding plan.

Holmgren and parent company Comcast Spectacor want to win now and have squirmed as the Flyers have seen attendance dip while they lose a popularity contest to the 76ers, their fellow Wells Fargo Center tenant.

"Chuck has earned success throughout his impressive NHL career and offers the right mix of expertise, business acumen and leadership qualities that the Flyers need today as we work to achieve our ultimate goal, the Stanley Cup Championship," Comcast Spectacor Chairman and CEO Dave Scott said in a statement.

The Flyers also purged the organization of their longtime assistant general manager and an assistant coach considered close confidants of Hextall. Hextall had distanced himself from many key figures inside the organization and cut off alumni access to the team, factors that led to his dismissal.

Fletcher will have to do more than play nice with the old Broad Street Bullies to bring the Flyers their first championship since they won consecutive Stanley Cups in 1974-75.

Holmgren said the new GM would decide the fate of coach Dave Hakstol, who is on the hot seat in his fourth season. Hakstol was hired by Hextall out of North Dakota and has led the Flyers to two first-round playoff exits. He has tried to mesh a roster heavy with pricey veterans like Claude Giroux, Wayne Simmonds, Jake Voracek and James van Riemsdyk with potential blossoming stars in Ivan Provorov, Shayne Gostisbehere and Nolan Patrick. The Flyers desperately need a true No. 1 goalie; they've already matched a franchise record with five this season.

Will Fletcher want to trade prospects for veteran help or will he start breaking up a core — Simmonds is a free agent at the end of the season — that hasn't won a playoff series since 2012?

Fletcher, son of longtime NHL executive Cliff Fletcher, also has worked for the Pittsburgh Penguins, Anaheim Ducks and Florida Panthers. With the Wild, he signed Zach Parise and Ryan Suter to 13-year contracts in 2012. Holmgren, Hextall's predecessor, made a serious run at both players and now seems to have found a GM aligned with his hockey philosophies. "Throughout his career he has helped shape teams that have consistently competed in the playoffs," Holmgren said. "In addition, Chuck's tireless work ethic, wealth of knowledge and experience in the hockey community will be instrumental in leading our team into the future."

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Daniel Sprong experiment is over for the Pittsburgh Penguins.

The Penguins sent Sprong to the Anaheim Ducks on Monday for defenseman Marcus Pettersson.

Pittsburgh selected Sprong in the second round of the 2015 draft, but the 21-year-old struggled to find a secure spot in Pittsburgh's forward group. He thrived at the American Hockey League level, scoring 32 goals in 2017-18 for Pittsburgh's AHL affiliate in Wilkes-Barre/Scranton, but had trouble duplicating that success in the NHL. Sprong has four goals and five assists in 42 NHL games, including no goals and four assists in 16 games this season.

Pettersson, 22, had six assists this season for the Ducks and one goal in 49 career games after making his debut with Anaheim last season.

TORONTO (AP) — The Toronto Maple Leafs traded forward Josh Leivo to the Vancouver Canucks on Monday for forward Michael Carcone.

In a corresponding move, the Maple Leafs recalled defenseman Travis Dermott from their AHL affiliate.

■ WRESTLING:

Hit the mat, wrestling season is upon us

By JACOB HOAG
COMMENTARY

I've been good at a lot of things in my young life, but there is usually something that has stood in my way.

That could be injury, boredom, having to get a job — the usual suspects of a high schooler.

If you've read my columns during football season, you know by now that I was a standout, NFL-bound left tackle at age 14, but my future Hall of Fame career was tragically cut short before high school due to an ACL tear (and also due to my desire to be in the marching band.)

I've been plagued by injuries.

By my 18th birthday, I had two reconstructed knees, a repaired shoulder and back issues stemming from a jump rope and trampoline accident. Don't ask.

I've always loved to play sports — either organized or backyard fun. Even now as an overweight, out of shape 24-year-old, I regularly drive up to Tampa to meet up with a group of friends and play football and ultimate frisbee.

Having joined the marching band as a freshman, the only sport I could compete in was wrestling, which I joined in the summer before my sophomore year.

I was athletic, but needed to cut weight to get down to 220 pounds, and knew nothing of the condition and technique accompanying the sport. Boy, was I in for a shock at the first practice.

We did what they called "25-20s." It started with 25 wide-set push-ups, then 25 military pushups, 25 tricep pushups and finishing with 25 squat thrusts.

Take a breath.

Then do 24, then do 23, all the way down to 20. Then curl up into a ball and cry.

By my first match, I had gotten stronger and picked up a few moves from wrestling our best guy, who was 10 pounds heavier than I was.

Wrestling at a preseason tournament at Brandon

High School, a program known for its 18-year state championship streak, I only wrestled one kid that day and beat him 6-4.

And, in true Hoag fashion, the next practice I tore my labrum in my right shoulder and didn't come back to the team, thus ending my undefeated wrestling career.

Oh well.

This week, area wrestlers start their bid for an undefeated season as the high school wrestling season kicks off.

Last year, Charlotte wrestler Donnie Cataldi did just that, going undefeated on his way to a state title. Teammate Lucas Willis joined him on the title hunt as well, winning a second consecutive state championship.

But don't be surprised if the next state title season comes from Lemon Bay.

Last season, in Mike Schyck's second season as head coach, the Mantas won their second consecutive regional championship and sent seven wrestlers to the state meet. Now, his son Lance Schyck joins the team from Imagine School, where he competed last year as an 8th grader.

The Tarpons and Mantas also look to be among the top area teams, with plenty of firepower returning. How will they fare?

I don't know, I haven't been around these parts long enough to have a gauge. But from what I hear, south Florida should be on the lookout.

The world will never know how good I could've been (probably not great), but wrestling is a very unique sport that you can't really grasp until you participate.

It's tough, but rewarding, and anyone who does it will tell you the same. Good luck to all who lay it all on the mat this year.

Try to make it more than one match.

Eleven minutes later, sophomore Emily Idoyaga found herself in the exact same scenario. Getting the feed in the center of the field, she charged in, cut left and shot right to give the Lady Bobcats a 2-0 lead.

"Our goal for tonight was to be able to finally control the midfield," Duque said. "If it's a through ball, they figure it out. Those first two goals were a photocopy of each other and it's not just because we practice that play. You see a lot in high school they will play back and send a ball in the air and hope the forward scores. We keep the ball on the ground and that's what worked today."

Despite the 2-0 hole, Lemon Bay was even in shots with five in the first half.

Just before halftime, the Lady Mantas (5-2, 1-0) got two prime opportunities on a pair of free kicks, but North Port keeper Jordan Wyatt was able to stop both attempts.

"It was kind of disappointing because I know we can play feet a lot better," Lemon Bay coach Katie Cooke said. "It seemed like every time we got the ball we were giving it away. We just couldn't get anything to fall our way. We weren't being patient enough on our one on ones. We were just firing them off without really looking for the pointers. A lot of just not doing what we should be doing."

After the break, North Port wasted little time, scoring on a kick just outside the box by Idoyaga in the first 45 seconds of play.

North Port finished with a slim 11-8 edge in shots on goal, but was able to make more with the opportunities they earned. Mason finished with eight saves. Wyatt had six.

With this test now behind them, the Lady Bobcats now look toward their road match against Venice with the district lead in the balance.

Chicago Bulls fire coach Fred Hoiberg; Boylen takes over

By ANDREW SELIGMAN
AP SPORTS WRITER

CHICAGO — The skidding Chicago Bulls fired coach Fred Hoiberg on Monday and promoted associate head coach Jim Boylen in hopes of lifting the team from the bottom of the standings.

Chicago is averaging 103.4 points — 28th in the NBA — and is getting outscored by 9.6 per game.

Hoiberg, who had to deal with a veteran roster that didn't fit his style early on and then injuries to key players starting in training camp, never found his footing in Chicago. It added up to a 115-155 mark with one playoff appearance in three-plus seasons — 5-19 this year. The only teams with worse records were Cleveland and Phoenix.

Even so, executive vice president of basketball operations John Paxson insisted this decision went beyond wins and losses, citing a lack of “energy and spirit.”

“We were in a similar situation last year at this time,” Paxson said. “But the entire energy about this group was different back then. We felt that here in the last several weeks, that something's different. What we're lacking ... is a spirit about our team.”

Paxson also said the Bulls are committed to Boylen as their long-term head coach and that general manager Gar Forman is “absolutely safe.”

“We can own ‘Bulls’ across our chest better,” said Boylen, who will be serving as an NBA head coach for the first time.

Hoiberg was in a tough position with four of the team's top players getting injured, a run that started early in training camp.

Forward Lauri Markkanen, the centerpiece of their rebuilding plan, missed the first 23 games after spraining his left elbow at practice in late September. His first appearance this season — a loss at Houston — came in Hoiberg's final game for Chicago.

Guard Denzel Valentine will miss the entire season because of a left ankle injury. Forward Bobby Portis (right knee) has played in four games and point guard Kris Dunn (left knee) has appeared in one, though both are expected back soon.

“For us to sit here and think that just because we're getting guys back, I think that would mask the problems that we've seen,” Paxson said. “We gave Fred an opportunity. He did a lot of good things for us. But I'm tasked with, Gar's tasked with, looking at the underlying things in the organization.”

Hoiberg played four seasons in Chicago and had a long history with Forman. He was hired as the Bulls' head coach in June 2015 after spending five seasons at Iowa State, where the former player was nicknamed “The Mayor.” Hoiberg went 115-56 with the Cyclones, including four straight NCAA Tournament appearances and back-to-back Big 12 tournament titles.

He replaced Tom Thibodeau, who was fired after five seasons, and the hope was that the free-wheeling style he used with the Cyclones would work in the NBA and that he would fare better than another former Iowa State coach, Tim Floyd, who went 49-190 record in three-plus seasons with the Bulls.

The circumstances were different, but the results were just as disappointing. Derrick Rose, Jimmy Butler, Pau Gasol and Nikola Mirotic were among the departures as the Bulls tried to find the right formula.

Butler called out Hoiberg in his first year, saying the team needed to be “coached a lot harder.” The Bulls then signed veterans Dwyane Wade and Rajon Rondo — odd fits for Hoiberg's offense — and got knocked out by Boston in the first round of the playoffs.

The Bulls finally went all-in on rebuilding when they dealt Butler to Minnesota in a 2017 draft night trade. They got Markkanen, Dunn and Zach LaVine and appeared to be on the right track last season, with their competitiveness and player development.

Boylen becomes the sixth coach hired by the current front office. He spent four years as the head coach at the University of Utah. Over 20 years in the NBA, he also has been an assistant in Houston, Golden State, Milwaukee, Indiana and San Antonio.

Dodgers and Dave Roberts agree to a four-year contract

By JORGE CASTILLO
LOS ANGELES TIMES (TNS)

LOS ANGELES — The Dodgers maintained their objective was to sign manager Dave Roberts to a long-term contract since their season ended in late October. They were confident they would cross it off their lengthy offseason-to-do list. It was just a matter of time. And on Monday, over a month after the team's season ended with another World Series appearance under Roberts, the Dodgers announced they signed their manager to a four-year deal.

Roberts was already under contract for the 2019 season after the Dodgers picked up the $1.1-million team option on his previous contract in early November. The new pact runs through the 2022 season, giving Roberts an additional three years under contract.

“When I was hired to lead this team three years ago, I said at the time that managing the Dodgers is truly the opportunity of a lifetime and I feel the exact same way today,” Roberts said in a team-issued statement. “We've worked hard to develop a team and culture that will put us in position to win the World Series every season, but we still have yet to achieve our ultimate goal and that is what drives me each day.”

Roberts, 46, stands to become the first person to manage the Dodgers for more than five seasons since Tommy Lasorda, who managed the club for 20 years. Roberts has led the Dodgers to three straight National League West titles and two consecutive National League pennants — becoming the first Dodgers manager to do so since Lasorda in 1977 and 1978. He was named the NL Manager of the Year in his first season in 2016.

“Keeping Doc as our leader on the field was a top priority this offseason and now that we've accomplished that we are excited to collectively shift all of our focus to doing all we can to bring a World Championship to our passionate fans,” Dodgers president of baseball operations Andrew Friedman said in the team-issued statement.

Mets get Cano, Diaz and cash from Mariners in 7-player trade

The Mets also got cash from the rebuilding Mariners in the deal Monday.

Seattle received

outfielder Jay Bruce, reliever Anthony Swarzak and three prospects: former first-round draft picks Justin Dunn and Jarred Kelenic plus right-hander Gerson Bautista.

Japanese star lefty Kikuchi available to MLB teams

NEW YORK (AP) — Star Japanese left-hander Yusei Kikuchi will be available to major league teams starting Tuesday, with the New York Yankees expected to be among those interested.

The 27-year-old Seibu Lions ace will have until Jan. 2 to sign a contract with a big league club. The Lions would then receive a posting fee based on the dollar amount of the pitcher's

If Kikuchi doesn't reach a deal with an MLB team, he remains with Seibu.

Kikuchi was 14-4 with 3.08 ERA this season, and was 16-6 with a 1.97 ERA the previous year.

Kikuchi, who played for the same high school as two-way star Shohei Ohtani of the Los Angeles Angels, is 73-46 with a 2.77 ERA in eight seasons in Japan.

Yankees owner Hal Steinbrenner said last month that he was aware of Kikuchi's ability.

“I saw film on him during the pro scouting meetings,” Steinbrenner said. “We talked about that individual. We've always been paying attention to that area of the world — some unbelievably great players came out of there. So it wasn't out of any different this year.”

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Tua Tagovailoa hasn't produced a so-called Heisman moment this season.

He didn't have one in the Southeastern Conference championship game. Hurt and not quite himself, the Alabama quarterback was sidelined for the climactic final minutes of the top-ranked Crimson Tide's comeback, 35-28 win Saturday over No. 6 Georgia in Atlanta.

So Tagovailoa, hampered by a high ankle sprain, didn't produce a defining play or performance in the biggest game of a season that Alabama has mostly dominated.

be among the Heisman finalists announced Monday evening.

"Tua's the best football player in the country," Alabama tailback Damien Harris said after the title game. "I don't think he needs a Heisman moment. That's some made-up thing, criteria, that people have invented to try to get people an award if they necessarily deserve it or not."

"Tua's the most deserving of the Heisman and I hope everybody sees it that way because what he's done for our team, for our university, for our community, for our fans, for everybody, is just irreplaceable. I hope that everybody realizes that."

Truth is, Tagovailoa started 2018 with a Heisman moment — just in a different season.

season in the national title game.

It gave the sophomore from Hawaii national name recognition and made him the betting favorite for the Heisman even before he started a game. He has lived up to the hype.

Tagovailoa delivered possibly the most dominating season of any quarterback at Alabama, which has never had a Heisman winner at the position. He was named AP's SEC offensive player of the year on Monday and was a unanimous pick as the first-team quarterback.

Tagovailoa has led the Tide back to the playoffs and a matchup with Kyler Murray and Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl on Dec. 29.

It was a season of terrific performances when Alabama was so dominant that Tagovailoa threw only three fourth-quarter passes during the first 12 games. There were plenty of dynamic plays from the left-hander, starting on the season's opening drive when he threw for a touchdown after spinning away from one Louisville defender and launching an off-balance, midair touchdown pass just before taking a hit.

Tagovailoa has passed for 3,353 yards and a school-record 37 touchdowns against just four interceptions. But two of those picks came near Georgia's goal line in the SEC title game in Atlanta's Mercedes-Benz Stadium.

He came into the game as the nation's most efficient passer and widely regarded as the Heisman front-runner but rolled his left ankle early and mostly struggled. Tagovailoa was helped off the field after his own offensive lineman landed on his right foot in the fourth quarter.

Jalen Hurts, who had started the past two years before Tagovailoa's emergence, ended up being the game's hero in a role reversal from the national title game in the same building against the same opponent.

Tagovailoa's day ended with a pedestrian 10-of-25, 164-yard, one-touchdown stat line. It remains to be seen how much it weighed into the decisions of Heisman voters.

It also remains to be seen how swiftly he'll be able to practice after having the ankle scoped, a process coach Nick Saban perhaps optimistically said could take about two weeks.

Tagovailoa hasn't talked to reporters since the game, but teammates voiced hopes that their star quarterback would be judged more on the first 12 games.

"I feel like he's one of the best players in the country," tight end Irv Smith Jr. said. "He showed it all season long. He went through some adversity (Saturday) night with some injuries and he couldn't really extend the plays with his legs. But he still did a great job."

Tagovailoa piled up five 300-yard passing games this season and accounted for a school-record six touchdowns — five passing, one rushing — in the regular season finale against Auburn. Despite all that, Harris calls him "the most humble guy that I know."

Even after completing 67.7 percent of his passes, Tagovailoa last week reflected on how many bad passes he's thrown by his own estimation.

"I've thrown a lot. A lot," Tagovailoa said. "Probably thrown more incompletions than I've thrown completions. You want to include practices, summer practices, spring practices?"

Just games. "I'd say I've thrown some balls that weren't catchable," Tagovailoa said, "but the receivers made me look good."

Florida State defensive end Brian Burns declares for draft

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Florida State defensive end Brian Burns has declared for the NFL draft.

Burns announced his decision Monday on Twitter. He told Yahoo! Sports his time at Florida State was "some of the best years of my life" but also says he can't pass up the opportunity to turn pro.

The 6-foot-5, 235-pound Burns was named a first-team All-ACC pick has been projected by some draft analysts as a potential first-round selection.

Burns had 23 career sacks, which places him in a tie for seventh on Florida State's all-time sack list. He had 10 sacks in his junior season and also set career highs with 52 tackles and 15.5 tackles for loss. He was often one of Florida State's most consistent players on a defense that struggled in the second half of the season as the Seminoles (5-7) missed out on a bowl game.

Florida State coaches are still waiting on decisions from a small group of draft-eligible juniors, including quarterback Deondre Francois, linebacker Dontavious Jackson and cornerback Levonta Taylor.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina State junior Kelvin Harmon is entering the NFL draft and won't play in the Gator Bowl.

Harmon announced his decision Monday through the school, with the receiver saying he and his family have decided "it is time for me to proceed to the next chapter in my football life."

Harmon caught 177 passes for 2,665 yards in his career, and his 1,186 yards receiving this year marked the fourth-best single-season total in program history.

Harmon's decision was expected. He took part in the Wolfpack's Senior Night ceremonies before the Wake Forest game last month.

N.C. State (9-3) plays Texas A&M (8-4) in the Gator Bowl on Dec. 31.

DOLPHINS

"Great," Gase responded, meaning the opposite of great. His team is on pace to surpass the franchise record disparity of 1,321 in 1967, the Dolphins' second season.

This year only Cincinnati (5-7) and Arizona (3-9) have larger yardage deficits. To which the Dolphins say: So what.

"It's all about us putting the ball in the end zone and having the most points at the end of the game," running back Kenyan Drake said.

Odds makers aren't impressed by that approach: Miami is a touchdown underdog at home Sunday against AFC East leader New England (9-3).

Gase believes the Dolphins actually should be 8-4. They blew double-digit fourth-quarter leads in losses at Cincinnati and Indianapolis.

As it is, Miami is tied with three other teams in the AFC, one game behind the Baltimore Ravens for the sixth seed and final wild-card spot in the AFC.

"Obviously, in order to stay in the hunt, we've got to win," receiver Kenny Stills said. "And we know that."

For a change, the Dolphins begin the week with no significant new injuries. Ryan Tannehill, playing in his second game since returning from a shoulder injury, shook off several jarring hits to throw three touchdown passes against Buffalo.

"He's as tough as they come," Gase said.

The Dolphins have endured so many injuries that Gase said it's a different team from the one that lost to New England 38-7 in Week 4.

The obvious goal this week will be to keep the score closer, and if the Dolphins do that, don't discount their chances. In one-score games Gase is 6-1 this year, and 19-6 in his three seasons with the Dolphins.

In other games he's 3-17. Sometimes relying on turnovers isn't enough.

Guy, Hunter lead No. 4 Virginia past Morgan State, 83-45

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — De'Andre Hunter and Kyle Guy scored 15 points each and Virginia beat Morgan State 83-45 on Monday night.

Nine different Cavaliers scored during a 24-6 first-half burst that turned a 23-14 lead into a 47-20 runaway. Virginia (8-0) then kept the defensive clamps on the Bears, who didn't make their third field goal of the second half until 1:57 remained.

Malik Miller and Victor Curry led the Bears (2-5) with seven points apiece. Morgan State was 5 for 28 (19.7 percent) from the field in the second half and missed all eight of its 3-point tries. For the game, the Bears shot 14 for 54 (25.9 percent).

Virginia was sloppy early with six turnovers in the first 12 minutes, but shot well from the start. The Cavaliers made 15 of 23 shots (65.2 percent) in the opening half, including 7 of 11 (63.6) from 3-point range. Braxton Key began the long run in the first half with a pair of free throws, and by the time Cody Statmann capped it with a 3-pointer, nine of the Cavaliers who scored in the half had done so during the run.

With the expected mismatch, Virginia coach Tony Bennett used his bench liberally, inserting 10 players in the first half.

The biggest cheer after halftime came in the closing minutes when team manager Grant Kersey, who gets to dress for home games, fed fellow walk-on Austin Katstra for a fast-break dunk. Moments later, Katstra fed Kersey for a layup and a three-point play.

Nick Ward scores 26, No. 10 Michigan State beats Iowa 90-68

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Nick Ward made all 10 of his shots, scored a career-high 26 points and grabbed nine rebounds to lead No. 10 Michigan State to a 90-68 win over No. 18 Iowa on Monday night.

The Spartans (7-2, 2-0 Big Ten) trailed for more than six minutes in the first half and were behind by as much as six points before a Ward-led surge gave them a 43-33 lead at halftime.

The Hawkeyes (6-2, 0-2) had no hope for a comeback because they missed 18 of 19 shots to open the second half.

Michigan State's Xavier Tillman scored a career-high 14 points and had eight rebounds off the bench. Nick Goins scored 19, surpassing his combined points from the previous five games, and Joshua Langford added 14 for the Spartans.

Iowa's Tyler Cook scored 15 points, Isaiah Moss had 13 points and Jordan Bohannon added 11.

The Hawkeyes, who came into the game averaging 82.6 points, made just 33 percent of their shots and allowed the Spartans to connect on 52 percent of their shots.

Niagara rides Towns, Tate to 71-67 upset over Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Keleaf Tate scored 17 points, James Towns added 12 points and a career-high nine assists and Niagara stunned Pittsburgh 71-70 on Monday night.

Dominic Robb, a Pittsburgh native and the nation's leader in blocked shots, finished with 12 points, five rebounds and four blocks for the Purple Eagles (3-4), who built a 12-point second-half lead and then fended off a late rally by the Panthers.

Xavier Johnson led Pitt (7-2) with 19 points but his layup just before the buzzer rolled out. The ball was batted to mid-court as time expired and Niagara's bench poured onto the court. Au'Diese Toney added 12 points and nine rebounds for the Panthers, but Pitt was outrebounded 38-31 and let Niagara shoot 48 percent (27 of 56) from the field.

The Purple Eagles, picked to finish ninth in the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference, won despite playing their fourth straight game without leading scorer and rebounder Marvin Prochet, who sat out his fourth straight game with a toe injury.

No matter. The Panthers couldn't contain Towns, who got into the lane to set up teammates when he wasn't knocking down shots. A step back 3-pointer by Towns gave the Purple Eagles a 58-48 lead with just over nine minutes to go and Niagara did not wilt when the Panthers turned up the pressure.

The Panthers came in off perhaps their best 10 minutes of the season in the second half of a 74-53 victory over Duquesne in the City Game last Friday. Pitt used a late 15-0 run to put away their crosstown rivals, relying heavily on a defense that has proven physical and disruptive early in head coach Jeff Capel's first season.

Yet Niagara hardly played the role of push-over, using a 10-2 burst at the end of the first half to take a 34-33 lead at the break, just the second time this season the Panthers have trailed after 20 minutes. It wasn't a fluke.

Duncan, Lamb each score 19 as Vermont holds off George Mason

FAIRFAX, Va. (AP) — Ernie Duncan and Anthony Lamb scored 19 points apiece to help Vermont hold off George Mason for a 72-67 win Monday night.

Stef Smith added 10 points for Vermont, including two free throws that capped the scoring with six seconds left. Duncan hit a 3-pointer that capped a 9-2 opening run and Lamb's 3 with 9:04 left in the first half pushed the lead into double figures at 18-8. The Catamounts (6-3) led by as many as 14 points in the second half and Duncan's foul shot with 2:56 to play made it 61-49 but Justin Kier scored 14 points from there, including a layup with seven seconds remaining, to pull George Mason within three before Smith's free throws sealed it.

Kier finished with a career-high 32 points on 12-of-15 shooting and Ian Boyd scored 12 for the Patriots (4-6).

Vermont shot 65 percent (15 of 23) from the field in the second half.

COLLEGE BASKETBALL: Michigan Wolverines

Impressive wins push Michigan to No. 5 in new AP Top 25 poll

By AARON BEARD

AP BASKETBALL WRITER

RALEIGH, N.C. — Maybe AP Top 25 voters were a bit too low on Michigan to start the season. That isn't the case anymore.

The Wolverines (8-0, 1-0 Big Ten) have made a rapid rise to reach No. 5 in Monday's latest poll behind Gonzaga, Kansas, Duke and Virginia after their latest impressive wins. They've beaten every opponent by at least 17 points, with three of those coming against ranked teams.

The Wolverines are off to their best start since winning the first 16 games of the 2012-13 season, a year that saw them play in the NCAA Tournament final. That's also the last time the Wolverines had cracked the top 5 before Monday.

The success has come amid the program's shift to a more defensive focus. Michigan ranks first in the country in KenPom's adjusted defensive efficiency, allowing an average of 86.8 points per 100 possessions.

"They're learning that sometimes you're not going to make a foul shot, you're going to turn it over, you're going to have a tough ref's call," Michigan coach John Beilein said after Saturday's home win against Purdue. "Your defense can be the one constant, as long as we keep embracing that, we can keep having success."

Michigan started the year at No. 19 but quickly leaped into the top 10 after beating reigning NCAA champion Villanova by 27 on the road on Nov. 14 in a rematch of last year's final.

Last week, Michigan was seventh before beating two more ranked opponents at home: North Carolina by 17 in the ACC/Big Ten Challenge, then Purdue by 19 in its league opener.

They also rank among the most efficient offenses in the country, while they've proven adept at defending without drawing whistles — ranking among the nation's best at avoiding fouls and keeping opponents off the foul line.

Yet Beilein chuckled when asked if he was having a difficult time finding things to critique with his team's play after the Purdue win.

"No, I'm finding things," Beilein said. "I'm the same way I'd always be: what can we do better?"

Same quartet

The top four remained unchanged in the poll, with Gonzaga earning 43 of 64 first-place votes. Kansas had 19, while Duke and Virginia each had one.

Top 10

Michigan jumped Nevada and Tennessee, which checked in at No. 6 and No. 7. Auburn, Kentucky and Michigan State rounded out the top 10.

Top risers

No. 12 Wisconsin and No. 13 Texas Tech made the biggest jumps of the week. The Badgers jumped 10 spots to No. 22, while the Red Raiders moved up seven from No. 20.

No. 11 Florida State and No. 17 Buffalo also had notable climbs, each moving up four spots.

Longest slides

Kansas State and Iowa had the biggest slides among ranked teams, with both falling four spots. The No. 16 Wildcats tumbled after a loss to Marquette, while the No. 18 Hawkeyes fell after losing to Wisconsin.

UNC and Ohio State each fell three spots. The No. 14 Tar Heels lost at Michigan a week after losing to Texas, while the No. 19 Buckeyes lost to Syracuse in the ACC/Big Ten Challenge.

Newcomers

There were three new teams in No. 20 Arizona State, No. 24 Nebraska and No. 25 Furman. It is Furman's first AP poll appearance and comes a little more than two weeks after the Paladins won at Villanova in overtime.

The Cornhuskers are making their first poll appearance since November 2014. Arizona State, however, spent much of last season in the poll and peaked at No. 3 last December.

Sliding out

Texas (No. 17), Oregon (No. 18) and Purdue (No. 19) fell out of the poll, with the Ducks and Boilermakers each losing twice last week.

While the Boilermakers lost against ranked FSU and Michigan teams, the Ducks and Longhorns each suffered surprising upsets. Oregon lost as a 24-point favorite at home to Texas Southern, while Texas lost at home to Radford.

Adams, Westbrook lead Thunder to rout of Pistons

DETROIT (AP) — Steven Adams scored 21 points, Russell Westbrook added 18 and the Oklahoma City Thunder ended the Detroit Pistons' five-game winning streak with a 110-83 victory Monday night.

Paul George added 17 points for the Thunder, who are 15-3 since losing their first four games.

Blake Griffin led Detroit with 20 points, while Andre Drummond added 13.

Detroit came into the game having won six straight at home, including the first five games on its current homestand, but fell six points short of its previous season low.

The Thunder led 50-40 at halftime behind 14 points from Adams and 10 from Jeremi Grant. Griffin had 15 points for Detroit, which shot 34.7 percent from the floor.

Detroit's offense continued to struggle in the second half without Reggie Bullock, who left the game in the first quarter with an ankle injury. The Thunder took a 71-51 lead midway through the third quarter and led by 28 at the end of the period. In the fourth, Oklahoma City led by as many as 35.

Adams made his first seven field-goal attempts, along with five free throws, and forced Drummond and Zaza Pachulia to the bench with four fouls each. The Pistons finished the third quarter with Griffin at center and 6-foot-7 Stanley Johnson at power forward.

Big Three leads Warriors to 128-111 win over Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP) — Stephen Curry scored 30 points, Kevin Durant had 28 and Klay Thompson chipped in with 27 as the Golden State Warriors cruised past the Atlanta Hawks 128-111 Monday night, snapping a six-game losing streak on the road.

With Curry scoring 18 points in the opening quarter, this one was never in doubt.

Golden State raced to a 34-17 lead in the first 12 minutes — Curry outscored the Hawks by himself — and the defending NBA champions won for only the fourth time in 10 games.

Playing for the second time since missing 11 games with a groin injury, Curry hit his first six shots, four of them beyond the arc. He finished 6 of 10 from 3-point range.

The Warriors led 61-47 at halftime and stretched the margin as high as 24 points, sending the rebuilding Hawks to their third straight loss.

John Collins led Atlanta with 24 points, and Trae Young added 20.

But it was a tough night for Young, the rookie guard who the Hawks are hoping to turn into their Curry-like centerpiece. He had seven turnovers and missed all five of his 3-point attempts.

Burks' late dunk seals Cavs' 99-97 win over slumping Nets

NEW YORK (AP) — Jordan Clarkson had 20 points and 11 rebounds, newcomer Alec Burks threw down a two-handed dunk with 3.2 seconds left in regulation, and the Cleveland Cavaliers avoided a fourth-quarter collapse and edged the Brooklyn Nets 99-97 on Monday night.

Tristan Thompson had 19 points and 14 rebounds for the Cavaliers, who snapped their four-game losing streak.

Cleveland led by 91-80 with 6:03 left in the fourth period after Rodney Hood hit an 18-foot jumper.

The Nets then went on a 17-6 run, tying it

97-all on rookie Rodion Kurucs' put-back layup with 18.9 seconds left.

Burks drove past Spencer Dinwiddie for the dunk that sealed it for Cleveland, which had been winless since beating Philadelphia and Houston on Nov. 23-24.

Dinwiddie's potential game-winning 3-pointer fell short of the rim.

D'Angelo Russell scored 28 points for Brooklyn, which has lost seven straight and nine of 11 overall, including their last six at home. Dinwiddie had 18 points off the bench.

With Olympics looming, surf star captures a bigger prize

AP NATIONAL WRITER

If Australia's Stephanie Gilmore captures the gold medal when surfing makes its Olympic debut two years from now, it might not be her most meaningful win. Gilmore, who is talked about as possibly the greatest athlete of all time in her sport, takes pride in being on the ground floor in the fight for a prize that could have a longer-lasting impact: equal pay for women on the professional tour where she and her rivals make their living.

the first U.S.-based global sports league to make that move. The fight for equal pay begun decades ago by Billie Jean King on the tennis courts — and still waged daily in corporations across America that have nothing to do with sports — has found a toehold on the beach. "Sports are the perfect platform to show equality," Gilmore said last week, after capturing her record-tying seventh season title. "In most workplaces, what people make is completely private. In ours, the prize money is public knowledge." When the 30-year-old champion started surfing on tour, women typically made around $12,000 for a win, while men — led by 11-time champion Kelly Slater — would rake in around $40,000. "Surfing was not a career path," Slater recalled of his youth, in the HBO surf documentary "Momentum Generation." "It was just something you enjoyed doing." Especially so for the women. And even next year, when women and men are both expected to make around $100,000 for a victory (men made $100,000 and women $65,000 in 2018), it's hard for anyone but those at the very top to get rich riding waves. Competitions are only a piece of the puzzle. Sponsorships, filming and free-surfing make up the rest. Could the Olympics change that? It's a debate coursing through the sport that is now experiencing some of the same growing pains as other so-called "lifestyle" sports — namely, snowboarding — two decades after their counter-culture vibe was welcomed into the stiff-suited, tradition-bound world of the Olympics. For the most part, snowboarders have accepted the Olympics and benefited from the platform it provides. "It's definitely new territory, and some people are a little unsure about it," Gilmore said. "They think it's not authentic surfing. I think it's kind of cool. I grew up watching (Australian 400-meter sprint champion) Cathy Freeman, thinking 'I want to go to the Olympics.' But I thought that, as a surfer, I'd never get that chance."

Now she will. Gilmore grew up only 400 meters (1,300 feet) from the beach. Her father loved surfing, and Gilmore and her sisters "really had no choice" but to learn how to ride, she said. By the time she was 11, she knew this was what she wanted to do for a living. The moment that triggered the run to her seventh world title came at the exact same beach where she learned how to surf. Gilmore finished a disappointing fifth in this year's season-opening event, the Roxy Pro Gold Coast in Queensland, Australia. Three years had passed since her last season title, and, she conceded, some doubt was starting to creep into her mind as to whether her best days were behind her. "It sort of killed the confidence and made me think, 'Do you still want this? Do you still have it?'" Gilmore said. "I got quite overwhelmingly emotional. And that's when I realized, 'You obviously still really care about this.'" Gilmore refocused. She won three events in 2018 and finished second in three more. After the season's final event in Maui last week, she had captured her seventh title, which ties her with another Australian, Layne Beachley, for the most for a woman. (The title came with a $150,000 bonus.) Only Slater, with 11, has more. Already a household name among surfing fans and her peers, an Olympic gold medal would clearly go a long way toward expanding Gilmore's reach. In many ways, though, she has already sent quite a powerful message. "Women like Stephanie are competing in the same conditions, on same waves, showing the same bravery as the men," said the WSL's CEO, Sophie Goldschmidt. "It's incredibly inspiring. They are positive role models, pushing boundaries and gaining audiences. But it's not where it should be. There's still room to grow."
