

Magnolia facility told to clean up

SEBRING — The Sebring Code Enforcement Board met Tuesday night to hear several cases and make judgments. Among those cases were two charged against the owners of Magnolia Retirement Home.

Co-owners Manuel and Priscilla Domisiw and Administrator Dennis Domisiw, the owners' son, have been in violation of city ordinances and were told to clean up their act by letter on April 26, 2018.

Code Enforcement Officer Joe Romanik was on the dais to present the cases. He said the owners communicated with him at first, which is why he worked with them to get their property cleaned up and in compliance. When the owners chose not to communicate with Romanik, he sent them a certified Notice of Hearing.

"Communication is key in code enforcement," Romanik said.

The first case was [18-0226] "for excessive rubbish and trash on the property, unlicensed and inoperable vehicles overgrown grass and weeds," Romanik said.

"I gave them written notice, starting with 15 days," he said. "I gave extensions."

Romanik fielded questions by the board members. He made them aware that the Notice of Hearing was sent certified mail on July 5 and it was signed and returned on July 9. The code enforcement officer had

Wells Roofing troubles mount

Customers wonder, What next?

LAKE PLACID — Robert James "Jimmy" Wells is sitting in the Highlands County Jail while several customers are wondering if their roofs will be started or completed or their money refunded.

Wells was arrested last week on several charges of grand theft, scheming to defraud, possession of cocaine and drug paraphernalia. The 45-year-old lives in Lake Placid.

Wells has a slew of unhappy customers he allegedly scammed into handing over half of the money for roof repairs or replacement after Hurricane Irma.

According to Highlands County Sheriff's Office, the money he scammed customers out of is more than $100,000 — and that's just from people who have come forward so far.

Wells was originally arrested for grand theft on July 13 and subsequently arrested again on July 20 while out on bond for possession of cocaine and paraphernalia. Wells' bond was revoked and an investigation has yielded additional charges.

The Town of Lake Placid has also been on the receiving end of Wells' unsatisfactory business practices. After Irma blew a few roofs off of buildings around the Lake June Ball Park area, the town decided to use Wells Roofing to have them replaced.

According to Recreation Supervisor Harry Durbano, the town sent Wells a deposit in the amount of $4,997.50 on March 13; the funds cleared the town's bank on March 30. The bid for the total project was

LP demands return of rec funds

Town to county: 'Live within means'

By PHIL ATTINGER

LAKE PLACID — Town residents demanded Tuesday night that the county not cut recreation funding to Lake Placid.

Darryl Wirick, president of Lake Placid Youth Baseball, said their player fees of $75 per child are not enough. They must generate $150 per kid total to pay costs.

A county proposal to cut each municipality's $110,000 annual recreation stipend to $60,000 each would force him to raise fees, which will shut out kids who need it, he said.

"Increased user fees are a detriment to lower income families," Wirick said. "Don't tell me recreation facilities aren't the biggest needed facilities you have here. They are."

Without youth baseball, young people get into trouble and the local crime rate increases, said Bill Brantley, Lake Placid resident and member of the Highlands County School Board.

Brantley said Sebring and Avon Park could take a $50,000 hit because they each have more than 10,000 people in city limits to cover it.

Lake Placid, he said, has 2,200 people in the town. The vast majority of facilities users, he said, live outside town limits.

"We're taking care of your residents," Brantley said.

One suggestion was having the town look to the Recreation and Parks Advisory Committee for funds, but Lake Placid Councilman Ray Royce said RPAC grants can build facilities, but not pay for daily operations.

Given the town's $650,000-$660,000 tax revenue, Royce said, $50,000 is a big hit.

Lisa Greene, town resident, said most county departments' budgets could take a $50,000

Candidates offer their views on district's issues

SEBRING — The District 1 School Board candidates, incumbent Charlene Edwards and challenger Isaac Durrance, touted their business experience and focus on kids and education when they spoke at the Highlands Tea Party on Tuesday.

There is only one contested School Board seat in the upcoming election. The School Board elections are non-partisan.

The winner of the District 1 seat will be decided in the Aug. 28 primary election.

Edwards provided her background, which includes a bachelor's degree in business administration and graduate degree in public administration. She worked for about 25 years with a child care organization that had 17 child care centers in Florida, three charter schools and 15 school-age summer and after-school programs.

"I got a lot of my work experience working with that organization with about a $65 million budget with 43 funding streams," she said.

About four years ago she wanted to stay in Highlands County and work with her passions of children's education, Edwards said.

"One of the things I decided to do was run for the School Board," she said. "I have a passion for transitioning to kindergarten; it was important to me in our child care centers that we work our way from the preschool level into the kindergarten level and try to bring those parents with us.

"It is my belief that parents are one of our largest untapped resources that we have," she said.

In order to help with that transition she became the executive director of the Healthy Start Coalition of Hardee, Highlands and Polk counties, which helps women have healthy babies, Edwards said.

Noting that she won her bid for a School Board seat, Edwards said it took her a little while to understand the district's different funding sources that comprise its budget, which is around $100 million. But, her background helped her with the fiscal matters of the district.

Durrance said he developed his work ethic from his parents at an early age. It was his goal to attend the University of Florida where he earned his bachelor's degree in sports administration and earned his master's degree in educational leadership from the University of South Florida and his doctorate candidate in educational leadership.

Durrance said he came to Highlands County about 25 years ago when his wife opened her dental practice here.

His first job here was as the marketing/public relations director at Highlands Regional

LP man charged with exposing himself

SANCHEZ-IBARRA

LAKE PLACID — On Sunday a Lake Placid man entered a closed business and exposed himself to an employee who was dropping off business supplies.

The Lake Placid Police Department arrested Francisco Sanchez-Ibarra, 20, of Lake Placid, who was charged with indecent exposure of sexual organs, burglary of an occupied structure while unarmed and probation violation.

Although the Lake Placid business was closed Sunday, an employee was dropping off supplies and had left the back door open, the arrest report stated. As the victim was dropping off supplies, Sanchez-Ibarra allegedly entered through the open door and appeared before the victim with his pants down, exposing his sexual organs.

"Sanchez-Ibarra made the motion of masturbating while standing in front of the victim," the report stated. The victim yelled and Sanchez-Ibarra fled the scene.

The victim described the suspect and his clothing, and Lake Placid police found the suspect in the same clothing as described by the victim, authorities said.

After Sanchez-Ibarra was located by police, authorities asked the victim to identify whether or not he was the person who had exposed himself to her, the report stated. The victim positively identified the suspect.

Sanchez-Ibarra was on felony probation for fleeing and eluding law enforcement.

AP poised to purchase wastewater system

By MARC VALERO

AVON PARK — A price drop has the City of Avon Park ready to purchase the Sebring Ridge wastewater system, which serves about 500 customers.

About two months ago, the owners of the utility, Chris and Julia Miller, presented a proposal of $650,000 to the city, which includes 17 acres of land that is zoned B-3 property and seven additional lots.

Without the B-3 property and lots, the sale price of the utility is $450,000.

The original agreement with the previous city manager, without the properties, was $500,000, according to the proposal.

At Monday's City

Council meeting, Utilities Director Josh Turner said he spoke with Chris Miller recently who dropped the price to $350,000.

The utility's infrastructure includes three lift stations with two of them requiring about $20,000 a piece to get them up to the city's standards, Turner said.

The other lift station would have to be converted into a master lift station, he said. That would probably cost more than $20,000 plus the cost of running a transmission line there, which would be close to $100,000.

So if the city purchased the utility for $350,000, it would likely be a total investment of $500,000, Turner said. With the city's rates, the utility would generate about $146,000 annually.

There may be some unseen costs, but on the plus side there are a lot of properties that have sewer service readily available, which would take just a little bit of work to install it to add more customers, Turner said. He estimates that it would take five to six years to make a profit on the system.

At some point the city should take over the sewer service because it goes hand-in-hand with the water, he said. The lowest Miller will go is $350,000.

"If it could be purchased for the right price, it would be strategic for the city to do so," Mayor Garrett Anderson said. "We need to formulate an offer."

5 THINGS That Will Make You SMARTER

1. Corals are not plants. They're actually animals and are relatives of jellyfish and anemones.

2. Corals rely on photosynthesis to survive. But the coral polyps aren't doing the actual photosynthesizing. Microscopic algae, or zooxanthellae, live within the cells lining the digestive cavity of the polyp.

3. They eat microplastics, and they like them. A new 2017 study finds that corals, like fish, mistake plastic found in the ocean for prey and ingest it. The surprising part, however, is that researchers found they also like the taste.

4. Coral reefs are one of the most biodiverse marine areas on the planet, housing hundreds and even thousands of species. The diversity is due to the fact that reefs are an important location for finding food, shelter, mates and places to reproduce.

5. Coral reefs are so valuable to the fishing and tourism industries, as well as protecting shorelines from storm damage, that destroying just 1 kilometer of coral reef means the loss of between $137,000 to $1,200,000 over a 25-year period, according to the World Resources Institute. Nearly 60 percent of the world's coral reefs are threatened by human activity.

Sebring man faces domestic violence, drug charges report, Tidwell struck his girlfriend and "pinned her to the wall by her neck." The victim stated that she defended herself and pushed him off of her. During the attack, their dog bit him in the face, the victim stated.

On Monday, HCSO arrested Tony Lee Tidwell, 44, of Sebring. Tidwell is charged with battery that caused physical harm, possession of a controlled substance without a prescription, and possession of drug equipment.

The deputy noticed a cut mark on the victim's neck, the report stated. However, the defendant stated he was merely defending himself from her. He did agree the injuries on his face were from the dog, according to the report.

The deputy stated he determined the suspect was the primary aggressor based on the physical injury to the victim. The suspect exited the residence and the deputy advised him to show his hands, the report stated.

The deputy noted the suspect bent down as if to set an item down, and then he stood and showed his hands. The report stated the deputy found a clear plastic bag nearby with a crystal-like substance inside, which field tested positive for methamphetamine.

$9,995; the bid was submitted on Feb. 13 and approved Feb. 26.

"I was told that once it (bid) was approved by the town, they [Wells Roofing] would bump us ahead of everyone since it was for the town. They said the roof would be done the following week," Durbano said. "It actually took four months to do the maintenance building roof, which hasn't been completed."

The maintenance building, called the barn, houses supplies and tractors. It had damage as did a picnic pavilion and a pump house — all had roof damage needing repairs.

The barn roof was complete except roofers ran out of drip edge material and have not trimmed the shingles. Roofers did not replace the soffit they took down and the old materials were thrown behind the building. The company did that work on July 12 and have not been back since, according to Durbano.

After workers were told that day not to leave until the job was done, Durbano had to turn on the lights at the field so the roofers could work that night. Work on the other two buildings has not been started; both are accessible without the need for staff to open gates.

Town Administrator Phil Williams said he estimates the project is half done. He hoped calling the company out in a public meeting would prompt Wells to complete the job.

Williams thought about firing the company and was talking to Durbano about it when the shingles were delivered.

"Switching roofing companies at their half-done point initiates a lot of concerns, such as warranty and civil concerns," Williams said.

The Sheriff's Office has messages on social media informing citizens about Florida State Statute 489.12, which deals with roofers, permits and payments. The gist of it is: if a roofer collects a deposit worth more than 10 percent of the estimated cost, he must pull a permit within 30 days and commence work within 90 days.

In the cases against Wells, along with the town's situation, deposits collected were a minimum of 50 percent of the estimated cost.

Anyone having roofer problems should call Det. Steven Ritenour at 863-402-7250 or email detectives@highlandsheriff.org.

Medical Center and then he was the director of Good Shepard Hospice for Highlands and Hardee, which had a big budget, he noted.

"Every job I had was mission driven," Durrance said.

He decided kids were his focus and became an ESE itinerant teacher.

His 18 years with the School Board of Highlands County included five years as a school-based administrator, Durrance said.

"That is the key; I have lived it," he said. "I know the intricacies of the school system because I have been a part of it."

His platform calls for efficient spending, Durrance said, noting that the district's fund balance needs to increase.

"I don't support going to the community and asking for an increase in taxes," he said.

Addressing teacher turnover is another focus of his and it is not always about money, Durrance said. Teachers are working extremely hard. Both candidates addressed school safety and the measures the district is taking to improve campus security.

The candidates were asked their opinion on state education money supporting private schools versus public schools.

Durrance said there was a rumor that he supported charter schools, but he does not believe charter schools are needed in Highlands County. There is a model for those schools that would work in bigger cities like Orlando, which is a big growth area.

Edwards said if it was a not-for-profit school and the public school system did not have the capacity for more students, she believes a charter school could start, but that is not the case in Highlands at this point.

OUR VIEW

There is still time

Part of being a republic is the right to vote. Democracy gives every citizen who is registered that right. It's a right that comes our way nearly every year from either the local municipal or county level, and from the state and national level.

It's a duty we should all participate in each time we are given the chance, not just when an election includes a candidate we do or don't like.

One slight call for urgency is that in order to vote in the Aug. 28 primary, you must be registered no later than Monday to vote.

The Florida Elections Division is extending the hours of its Voter Assistance Hotline following complaints and reports throughout the state that the state's online registration database was malfunctioning. This extension allows voters more time to register or make changes to their registrations before the primary deadline.

The division will provide customer service hotline hours from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, and will extend hours from 8 a.m. to midnight on Monday. This new online system, at registertovoteflorida.gov, has been set up to make it easier for Floridians to register and keep their voter information up to date.

In the upcoming election, Democrats and Republicans will be choosing candidates for US Senate, governor, two state cabinet races and a host of congressional and legislative seats. We are reminded that since Florida is a closed primary state, independent voters and citizens registered with minor political parties will not be allowed to cast ballots in those contests.

However, there are a number of non-partisan local races that everyone can participate in. One seat on The School Board of Highlands County will be decided Aug. 28. That seat is up for grabs between incumbent Charlene Edwards and her challenger, Isaac Durrance. The seat for County Commissioner District 4 will also be determined Aug. 28 between incumbent Jack Richie and his opponent, Arlene Tuck.

Highlands County has a total of 58,224 registered voters. Of that number, 17,825 are registered Democrats, 26,774 are registered Republicans and another 13,625 are registered as other.

According to the state Division of Elections, there are nearly 3.5 million Floridians registered with no party affiliation and another 82,000 who belong to minor political parties.

The state has nearly 13 million total registered voters.

We realize the right to vote also implies the right not to vote. Exercise your right as you wish, of course. We're all about freedom of choice.

We hope, however, if you are one who frequently complains about the way things are done by the elected officials that you will take a few minutes out of your day and vote. You have three options: by mail-in ballot, voting early, or voting at the polls on Aug. 28.

Early voting in Highlands County can be done from Aug. 18-25 at one of three locations: Kenilworth Operations Center, 4500 Kenilworth Blvd., Sebring; Avon Park City Council Chambers, 123 E. Pine St.; or Lake Placid Town Hall Council Chambers, 311 W. Interlake Blvd.

Become informed of the candidates and the issues they are pushing.

As Jack Levine, founder of 4Generations Institute, said, "Regret is preventable. The day after the election is one day too late and 'could have, should have' are sorry alternatives to acting." Your vote could be one in a slight margin to push a candidate forward just to enough to make it on the November ballot.

As Levine also said, "Non-voters are voiceless and by not participating can become victims of their neglect."

Don't be a victim.

Drinking the last bit of childhood

Milestone birthdays tend to have a lot of significance. With the youngest Harris just reaching her 21st birthday, society now welcomes her into official adulthood. Exactly what does this mean? Mostly that now of the legal drinking age, she is able to walk into a bar and be served or purchase liquor if she so desires. Legally able to partake in liquid things formerly forbidden, she now joins legions of other adults hopefully mature enough to do so wisely.

It's said that parents never stop worrying about their children and perhaps I believe this more now than I did when in her shoes. I just don't remember my parents being all that concerned about us. We were expected to grow up, get out and be independent.

Interestingly enough, most of the young adults I know are far too busy or engaged in school, work or life to knock down more than a token drink or two on their milestone birthday. That boozing on this occasion still seems to be the expectation surprises me. Alcoholic excess almost seems antiquated even in our American culture. This special day, if acknowledged at all, is celebrated in different ways across the globe.

In Australia, it is traditional for family members to give brief speeches as the cake is being cut and for the young adult to be presented with a key to the family home. This key symbolizes their adult freedom to come and go as desired, knowing they will always have a home to return to when needed.

South Africans gift a key as well, but made of simple materials and symbolizing the ability to unlock all the future holds for them. In the United Kingdom, the person being celebrated will be the one offering a speech thanking those who have assisted them on their path to adulthood.

A quick web search also suggests this turning point in age signifies young adults are no longer considered dependent upon their parental units, at least in a societal view. I'll give moms, dads, grandparents and guardians a moment to complete their noises, hand-flaps and under-breath remarks. It's OK, because we know the truth and we are right there with you.

Perhaps now, more so than any other time in history, our young adults remain dependent longer than ever before. For a whole host of reasons, age 21 is not the get out on your own it once was for previous generations. No longer is there a push for youthful marriages, settling down to raise children or running the family business. More independent and mobile than ever before, our adult children take time choosing their manner of growing up and settling into life, which we all seem OK with.

Knowledgeable and well-versed in all things technology, this generation's cumulative awareness at this coming of age is astounding. If knowledge is in fact power, they will prove to be most remarkable when history looks back upon their contributions.

Perhaps Millennials will also reinvent milestone birthdays just as they have done with everything else. Not content to follow traditional methods, their focus on the new and innovative promises smarter choices and better outcomes and that is something worth raising a glass to.

YOUR VIEW

The New America?

In the past year and a half, I have seen the U.S. steadily steer a course toward isolationism. America takes on a new look as a country who snubs and insults long time allies and who displays open hostility toward those who would make a better life here. Our cookie cutter religious model dictates that those of targeted faiths may not be acceptable. It's easier to paint all with a single brush.

The current administration goes out of its way to belittle NATO and to insult world leaders who, up until recently, were considered friends. It has become the norm to degrade a democratic judicial system and to shred the free press. Childish rants and fabricated tales make up the daily news. Any reports not agreed with are deemed "fake news." If the reported facts don't suit the purpose, "alternative facts" are conjured to save the day.

It's difficult to be confident in a public servant who changes direction like a weather vane and who will lie when the truth would better serve. When things don't go your way just find someone to throw under the bus. Anyone will do. Trade wars are Kabuki Theater which benefit no one but provide another deflection from the image our country is portraying to the world.

Some will say this administration is spawned of divine providence. That's stepping way up in class. I say that instead of placing so much emphasis on separating families and locking kids in cages, perhaps we should be taking a long look at those who aspire to absolute power.

"Power tends to corrupt and absolute power corrupts absolutely." — Lord Acton

A weak excuse

Donald Trump's submissiveness in the presence of Vladimir Putin at their recent summit meeting was frightening. Trump, cowering like a scared rabbit next to Putin, was a sickening scene indeed.

The uproar across the world among our allies and in Congress prompted Trump to offer a ridiculous explanation of his actions. His 'dog ate his homework' type of excuse was pathetic to say the least.

Smokey Bear visits Sebring Public Library

By KRYSTYL FARMER
SPECIAL TO
HIGHLANDS NEWS-SUN

SEBRING — On July 19, parents and children got up close and personal with America's iconic Forestry sidekick, Smokey Bear, at the Sebring Public Library.

Forest Ranger Adrienne Pierce spoke to the children about fire prevention and then showed a video that discussed Smokey's five rules for preventing fires.

- Smokey's five rules are:
1. Only you can prevent wildfires.
 2. Always be careful with fire.
 3. Never play with matches or lighters.
 4. Always watch your campfire.
 5. Make sure your campfire is completely out before leaving it.

Smokey Bear and Forest Ranger Adrienne Pierce spoke with children at the Sebring Public Library on July 19 about preventing forest fires.

Smokey came out to greet the kids and Pierce asked them questions about what they saw.

Pierce asked if anyone could guess how old Smokey was. Some of their answers were 50 years old, 25 years old and 60 years old. The whole audience learned he is actually 74 years old.

Smokey has been teaching kids about preventing wildfires for a long time. Let's hope that he keeps it going for many generations to come.

hit. When County Administrator Randy Vosburg asked if she would be willing to raise taxes, she said no.

"You have to live within your means," Greene said.

Brantley said he's fine with the other municipalities getting $60,000 while Lake Placid gets $110,000.

Royce said he'd pay 0.03 mills to raise $100,000 for recreation.

The recreation cut was one of several suggested by county staff given this year's requests from constitutional officers and county departments, and unfunded mandates.

Vosburg; David Nitz, Office of Budget and Management (OMB) manager; 10 other county employees, and two county commissioners presented those cuts and the recommended budget Tuesday night to 30-35 residents at Lake Placid Town Hall.

It was the third such town hall meeting in two weeks. A meeting to present suggested changes will be 5:30 p.m. Monday, July 30, at 600 S. Commerce Ave., Sebring.

Among of the biggest challenges, according to Vosburg and County Commissioner Don Elwell, are constitutional officer budgets, which the county commission can't control.

Elwell explained that 87 percent of the Highlands County Sheriff's Office budget, for example, is personnel. Sheriff Paul Blackman has to over-budget, given uncertainties of overtime, gasoline and equipment.

Greene asked if the county could just refuse to accept the sheriff's budget.

Vosburg said that could happen, but the sheriff can appeal to the Governor's Office, and would likely win back every funding request.

The relationship with Blackman, Vosburg said, has not been contentious, and Blackman has worked with the county thus far to help balance the budget.

also arranged for special sanitation pick ups at the retirement home to collect mattresses and furniture for the owner's convenience.

"They did get the majority of it," Romanik said.

A slide show presentation illustrated Romanik's descriptions. He took pictures on Monday, which showed building materials and a large screen television and furniture waiting to be hauled away. He advised the facility's maintenance man on Monday that the building debris will not be picked up by the county.

The three inoperable vehicles have been taken off the property. The grass is mostly mown.

"There are some areas where there are rubbish and trash still," Romanik said. "There's overgrown weeds and grass in the back, it's minor. There's a sink and an old barrel. When I did a walk around with the manager, Dennis, we did a complete walk around the property and I pointed out all the violations in the minimum maintenance and the rubbish and trash (cases)."

Roberto Ruelo is the family's lawyer, and he spoke at the podium on behalf of his clients.

"I would like to request, since they already started complying with correcting the violations, that we be given 30 days to complete the correction of the violation," Ruelo said.

"Is 30 days enough time for you to get it done," board member Ronald Rush asked.

Ruelo agreed that it was sufficient time.

Rush moved to give the owners 30 days to get the property to code or face a $100 per day fine. Board member Susie Teple seconded the motion and it carried.

The second case [18-0227] was for minimal maintenance. Some of the violations were mildew, peeling paint, rotten wood, siding needing repair, roof and soffit damage, stairs needing paint, fence repairs; the whole building was to have a neat and uniform appearance with new paint.

"We gave them written notice with 60 days to bring it in to compliance," Romanik said. "There are three structures on the property."

Romanik explained and showed pictures of rotten wood on buildings and rotten shutters, peeling paint. He pointed out the access stairs he wanted painted were only painted on the side and the handrails. He showed roof sections that were rusting through walls.

"Just about every window — this is just aesthetics, on the exterior is rotten," he said.

Teple asked what progress had been made.

"On the detached garage — that was the only thing that had seen any trim work and was starting to be painted and the stairway from the white to the gray. That was it as far as the maintenance," Romanik said.

The building that received the work is where Dennis Domisiw and his family live.

"In July 16, the owners recorded an order of commencement with the Clerk of Court," Ruelo said. "The contractor has been retained and we anticipate that the violation can be corrected within 90 days. If you give us that, we would appreciate it very much. I will furnish you a copy of the contract and notice of commencement to Mr. Romanik for his record."

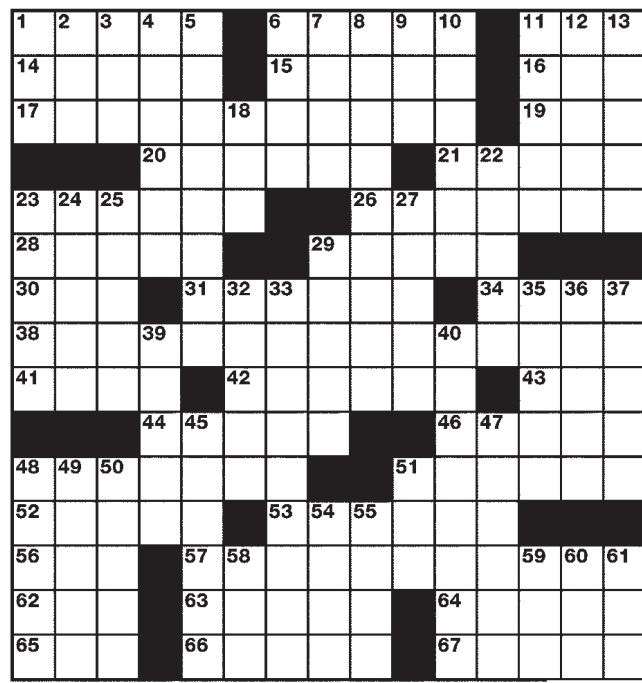

He also told the board that no permits had been pulled yet.

Teple made a motion to table the case until the next code enforcement meeting, at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 28, when they will hear an update. The motion was seconded and it carried.

Excitement builds as popular air show gets underway

Waking up early in the campground, it appeared there was an invasion overnight. All if the sites around us were filled and others had even more tents and campers of all sorts jammed in every available space.

Becky and I hit the shower house early and thought we might beat the rush at 5:00 a.m., wrong. The place was hopping with humanity. We were back at the Silver Bullet and getting ready for our volunteer shift at the EAA Chapter's "Blue Barn" at 8 a.m.

900 EAA chapters worldwide, and a great place to network and share ideas. This year there were even more refined program areas such as chapter resources, Young Eagle programs, Eagle Flights for those over 18, developing Flying

Clubs, and developing a Chapter Tool Crib, for chapter members who are building aircraft. In another part of the building there was a section of the building conducting forums and a variety of topics. It was a happening place. Becky and I had the morning shift, 8 to 12:30.

I was at the section on flying clubs and had many inquiries about what we have done after the article that appeared in the July EAA Sport Aviation magazine. Another topic often discussed was youth programs and how that approach is an effective method to involve families in chapter activities. I had not talked that much since I left the classroom and was a bit hoarse. I don't have another shift until Wednesday, so I'll recover by then.

Outside the building the EAA traveling trailer was set up with many "kid" activities. We had it in Sebring a few years ago during the US Sport Expo. One of the things youth were able to do was put together foam gliders out of pre-stamped foam boards.

Sertoma golf titles on the line

Junior Golf Tour summer season is winding down

By MARK PINSON
STAFF WRITER

The Sertoma Junior Golf Tour summer season is in its final stages with only two events left on the schedule. The Sertoma Junior Golf Tour, which is for youngsters ages 6-18, has held weekly tournaments since early June and each player earns points which accumulate during the summer.

"We've seen some excellent golf and it's hard to believe the summer season is almost over," said Sertoma Junior Golf Tour Director and Sun 'n Lake Golf Club professional Andy Kesling, who competed in this very same junior golf tour when he was growing up. "This is a great way for junior golfers to work on and improve their games at a very reasonable cost. I know I wouldn't be where I am today if I hadn't played on the Sertoma Junior Golf Tour."

Today's event is at the Country Club of Winter Haven and the two-day Tour Championship will wrap up the season on Aug. 18-19 at Sun 'n Lake Golf Club.

With the season almost over, every point is important with several of the age groups up for grabs.

In the boys 16-18 age group,

Hardee's Will Redding is in first place with 285 points, Dylan Crawford is in second place with 269, Zachary Deuberry has 220, Nick Piccione is at 210.5, Clayton Osha has 189.5, Zac Taylor is at 188, William Celentano has scored 180 and Andrew Graham has 176.

"Will has played well and Dylan is right behind him," said Kesling. "With two events left and the Tour Championship worth extra points, it's going to come down to who plays the best golf down the stretch. Dylan injured his foot and missed last week's tournament at River Greens and that hurt him. But anything can happen and that's what's great about the Sertoma Junior Golf Tour because you learn how to play under pressure."

Hannah Revell, who had a standout career at Hardee High School and will play golf for Webber International University this fall, has dominated the girls 14-18 division and leads with 275 points, former Sebring High golfer Samantha Payne sits in second placed with 259, Lake Placid linsker Ashley Engle has a 242 and Blue Streak golfer Alyssa Jordan is at 228.

"Hannah is an outstanding player and has shot in the 70s in almost every event this summer," said Kesling. "She is a hard worker and is the class of that age group. She is a great example of what hard work and practice can do for you and I know she'll be successful at Webber International University."

In the boys 14-15 division, Sebring sophomore Beckham Donovan is in first place with 279 points, Avery Hurst is second with 254, Lane Revell has 243, Zach Doorlag is at 230, Cade Scarborough has 222, Ranen Carmichael is at 218, Kaleb Revels has scored 168, Ashton Griffin is at 156, Owen Moses has scored 156, Ethan Kinney is at 147, Owen Schraeder has 122, Jace Bryan is at 98, Matthias Labritz has 72 and William Hunter scored 20.

"Beckham is in a good spot but has to finish strong," said Kesling. "There is a lot of talent in that age group and it's pretty close for second through fourth place as well."

Melanie Suarez has wrapped up the girls 11-13 division with two events still to play. Suarez leads with 300 points, while Madelynn Depner is second with 264.

Bradley Roy is all grown up

Special to Highlands News-Sun

There were quite a few bright-eyed kids wearing tournament jerseys and strolling the aisles last week at ICAST, hoping to catch a glimpse of their fishing heroes and maybe pose for a picture or two.

If it wasn't for his full beard and the unmistakable air of confidence he exudes, it would have been easy to think Bradley Roy was one of them.

But as young as he looks, Roy is no kid — and to be truthful, the term hasn't fit him for a long time.

Roy is 27 years old now and in his ninth year on the Bassmaster Elite Series, having qualified when he was just 18.

He was a kid back then. Today, he's the leader of the Toyota Bassmaster Angler of the Year standings with only two regular-season tournaments and the Toyota Bassmaster Angler of the Year Championship left to fish. He's a virtual lock to qualify for his third Bassmaster Classic presented by DICK'S Sporting Goods and one good paycheck away from pushing his career earnings past the half-million-dollar mark.

Though it seems strange to say about a 27-year-old angler, Roy's success has actually been a long time coming.

After earning his Elite

Series invitation through the Southern Opens in 2009, he debated whether to turn pro or stick with the Opens for a few more years to gain experience. He ultimately decided to take the plunge — and it was a jump from the high-dive, for sure.

"I decided to try the Elites because I didn't have a family to support, didn't have a house payment," Roy said. "Basically, all that was on the line then was entry fees."

"But my eyes were as big as they could be because I was putting the boat in next to people that I learned to fish from. I had been reading

There was young man just outside the doors of the blue barn that was holding his assembled glider in his hand "flying" it around right next to a real airplane tied down as a display. It was pure magic, and an adventure in imagination that surely will turn into something significant in future years.

AirVenture was wall-to-wall people very early, and non-stop aircraft noise from the B1-B bomber doing a low pass on afterburner to the magic of the P-51 Merlin powerplant. The four deep throat resonant sounds of the B-17 Aluminum Overcast was also a contributor to cacophony of aircraft noise. Meeting other chapter members from all over the country and Canada was a treat and realizing that we all have a common passion among many different venues. I gained an even deeper appreciation for the support we have in our community and how we are getting more and more youth involved aviation and aerospace programs. I am especially grateful for the support we have from the School Board of Highlands County.

We are doing more than flipping pancakes every second Saturday of the month. I think we are also "flipping" some lives of our young people as we introduce them to adventures and career opportunities they might never have considered. More from the Silver Bullet Base Camp coming soon.

articles about these guys and watching them on TV, and now I had to try and figure out a way to beat them."

Roy jokes that his early years on the Elite Series were like "paying for an expensive university." Having grown up in Kentucky, there were many types of bass fishing he hadn't experienced — and the Elites forced him to learn some techniques on the fly.

"My learning curve had to be sped up," he said. "In Kentucky, we didn't have a lot of grass to fish. There wasn't a lot of sight fishing going on. I had to learn those things pretty quick because it was costing me money."

Roy continued his success during the 2017 season, earning five checks once again en route to a second-straight Classic berth.

Since then, he's been one of the hottest anglers in the world. This year, he's earned paychecks in every event with five finishes of 26th place or better and a pair of Top 10s.

With 617 points for the season, he holds a narrow lead in the AOY race over Alabama pro and two-time Elite Series winner Justin Lucas (607). Next in line are Brent Chapman (602), a four-time B.A.S.S. winner and holder of the 2012 Angler of the Year title, and Josh Bertrand (597) — a young California pro who many believe has all of the same upside as Roy.

"Josh and I are in the same shoes, just wanting to win one so bad," Roy said. "You know Justin is gonna win one eventually, and Brent has already proven he can do it. With the race so close — and so many great fishermen in contention — you just can't afford to let up."

From there, he secured the race win and the lead in WeatherTech Championship GT Le Mans class standings.

Magnussen and co-driver Antonio Garcia, who'd won the pole position with a new track record, brought their Corvette C7.R home second. Porsche made it three different manufacturers on the class podium, as Earl Bamber and Laurens Vanthoor finished third in their 911 RSR.

"With elevation changes, six right-hand turns, just one left turn and an abrasive track surface, Lime Rock Park is the the closest thing that we have to a short oval 'bull ring,'" said Ken Payne, technical director, Motorsport, Michelin North America.

"Our GTLM class technical partners are the factory teams from BMW, Corvette, Ford and Porsche. They are very sharp and highly experienced and used the full range (soft, medium, and hard compound options) to creatively mix options from side-to-side and front-to-rear.

"Michelin did a great job today," Hand said.

Colton Cord is at 20 and Tripp Leidel and Ean Chang have 14.

"That's a deep age group and there is a lot of golf left to be played," said Kesling. "They are all pretty close in ability and I love watching them play."

Dillon Parnell leads the boys 9-10 division with 300 points, Devin Wortinger sits in second place with 264, Connor Darrow has scored 248 and Parker Rapp is at 150.

"Dillon is in first place and Devin has played well after moving up to an older age group," Kesling said. "They are good players and I think those boys will be cornerstones of the Sertoma Junior Golf Tour for years to come."

They are all outstanding youngsters and really it gives me a lot of satisfaction to see them playing a sport they can enjoy for a lifetime."

Liam McCann and Jordan Castillo both with 291 points, while Hannah Castillo is at 248, Jenesi Trevino has scored 220, Gabriel Perez is at 196, Ashlyn Wortinger has 166 and Liam Helms is at 28.

"That's a great battle between Liam and Jordan," Kesling said. "Jordan won last week's tournament to tie for first place and these last two events will decide who wins that age group."

After today's tournament at the Country Club of Winter Haven, the Sertoma Junior Golf Tour will take a two-week break and then close out the summer season with the Tour Championship. An awards banquet will be held after the final round.

"We've had a wonderful summer and been pretty fortunate with the weather," Kesling said. "It's a lot of fun to hand out trophies and awards

SFSC Library celebrates National Coloring Book Day on Aug. 2

SPECIAL TO THE HIGHLANDS NEWS-SUN

AVON PARK — For the second year in a row, the South Florida State College (SFSC) Library will join the celebration of National Coloring Book Day with a color-in, featuring a day-long coloring party, free coloring pages, and a drawing to win one of several coloring-themed prize packs.

While the library offers coloring pages and supplies to students and community members throughout the year, the 2018 celebration focuses on both the creative and social aspects of coloring.

"Every year, we have families, individuals, and coloring groups sharing time and creativity in our space," said Claire A. Miller, SFSC librarian. "The encouragement, creativity, and fun are my favorite part of the event." In fact, Miller has designed a custom coloring page promoting the Aug. 2 celebration. The coloring page can be downloaded from the SFSC Library Facebook page, @SFSCLibrary, or picked up at the Library circulation desk.

The Color-In will take place from 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 2 at the SFSC Library, which is on the second floor of Building Y on the Highlands Campus in Avon Park.

For more information about the National Coloring Book Day Color-In, contact Miller at 863-784-7305 or at millercc@southflorida.edu.

STP races forward with new singer

Teaming up with Bush, The Cult at Tampa show

BY ALLEN MOODY
HIGHLANDS SUN EDITOR

Few vocalists have ever had to fill such massive shoes as Stone Temple Pilots new singer Jeff Gutt. The former X Factor competitor not only had to replace Scott Weiland, but also his late friend Chester Bennington — two singers with immense talent but even bigger demons — which led to Weiland's accidental overdose in 2015 and Bennington's suicide in 2017.

Bennington was the band's singer for two years before returning to his full-time job with Linkin Park and the band simply posted an ad on their website for a new vocalist, which read, "If you think you have what it takes to front this band, record with this band, and tour with this band, we would dig hearing from you."

The band eventually settled on Gutt, who does have a bit of a following from his two seasons on X Factor, and sounds more like Weiland than Bennington, although Chester had more leeway with fans because he was Chester Bennington.

"We wanted someone who would not only do our earlier songs justice, but would also write new songs and carve out a different path forward with us," said STP founding member Dean DeLeo in a Rhino Records press release when Gutt was announced as the new singer. "It took some time, but we found our guy."

Stone Temple Pilots will be joined by The Cult and Bush for the Revolution 3 Tour, which began July 18 in Nashville and has a stop at the MIDFLORIDA Credit Union Amphitheatre on Wednesday, Aug. 8. The three bands will perform in a revolving order throughout the tour, so Stone Temple Pilots could be the first band to play on a given night or the last.

"We are looking forward to see everybody in the summer, Bush's Gavin Rossdale said in a statement. "This is a great tour for rock fans," STP played 12 songs at the tour's opening show, focusing on older material, such as

Loomis Bros. Circus brings new tour to Highlands

COURTESY PHOTO

SPECIAL TO THE HIGHLANDS NEWS-SUN

SEBRING — Loomis Bros. Circus, one of America's last traditional circuses, brings their 2018 Circus Is Alive! Tour to Sebring at The Highlands County Fairgrounds on Aug. 10 and 11. There will be one performance at 7 p.m. Friday and three performances on Saturday at 1, 4 and 7 p.m.

The Florida-based Loomis Bros. Circus has been keeping the circus tradition alive for over 20 years, and this year's show promises to be bigger and better than ever with a world-class cast of both human and animal performers assembled from all corners of the globe.

Presented in a traditional fashion, the show is over 90-minutes of sensational family entertainment featuring three rings of everything you would expect to see in a circus, including elephants, tigers, acrobats, clowns and motorcycle daredevils.

"Loomis Bros. Circus is currently the only show touring the United States to still have a full live band, animals, and three rings," said producer Justin Loomis, who also serves as the shows singing Ringmaster.

For as far back as he can remember, Loomis' happiest memories were seeing the circus as a child. Ever since he was 5 years old he has been hooked and knew the circus was where he wanted to be.

"The circus is deep seeded in American history and is “Plush” and “Interstate Love Song,” but did play two songs off their new album, which was recorded with Gutt, “Meadow” and “Roll Me Under.”

The Cult also checked-in with a 12-song set, opening with “Wild Flower” and ending with “She Sells Sanctuary.” Several songs off their most recent album, “Hidden City” were played, as well as “Elemental Light,” which was performed for just the third time in Nashville.

A slight disappointment would have to be Bush, who played a brief 10-song set that was missing numbers such as “The Sound of Winter” and “The Chemicals Between Us,” but you can’t really blame the band for having more good songs than time to play them. The setlist did include most of the band’s staples, such as “Little Things,” “Glycerine” and “Comedown.” Tickets are reasonable priced, beginning at $25 for lawn seating and reserved seating is $49.50 to $69.50, and it’s a good way to see three giants of the 90s alternative rock scene in one shot.

as much of an American tradition as baseball and apple pie,” said Loomis. He believes, “Every child deserves a chance to see the circus. It’s a truly magical place where you can get lost just for a little while and forget about your troubles, a place where even the adults get to feel like a kid again. Don’t miss what could be your last chance to see this living treasure known as circus.”

Full priced admission to Loomis Bros. Circus is $20 for adults and $8 for children ages 2-12. Coupons for “Free Kids Tickets” are available at many merchants throughout Highlands County. These coupons, along with additional offers, can be found on the show’s Facebook page located at facebook.com/loomiscircus. Tickets can be purchased in advance online by credit or debit card at loomiscircus.com or with cash only at the circus box office on the day of show. All seating is general admission and doors open one hour prior to each scheduled showtime. Patrons are encouraged to arrive early for best seat selection

Polk County to host Smithsonian exhibit

SPECIAL TO HIGHLANDS NEWS-SUN

The Florida Humanities Council continues its long standing tradition of support for the Polk County History Center in Bartow. Two recent grant awards have been made to sponsor new exhibits and encourage participation in programming.

Through a partnership between the Humanities Council and the Smithsonian Institution’s Museum on Main Street, a $5,000 grant to host the traveling exhibit, “Crossroads: Change in Rural America,” was given to the History Center.

In addition to a national focus on what happened when America’s rural population became a minority of the country’s population, the exhibit will serve as a launching point for storytelling and local pride, highlighting the changes that affected fortunes over the past century. The development and display of the story of Polk’s own unique rural communities and crossroads is an integral component. The exhibit will be on display from February through mid-March 2019, though the local display will become a permanent exhibit at the History Center.

A second grant award of $1,000 from Humanities Council will promote interest and encourage participation in Florida Stories Bartow, a walking tour app, originally developed in 2016 with funding provided by the Humanities Council. Florida Stories Bartow provides a narrated tour of 12 sites within 1.5 miles of the History Center, allowing visitors to walk through history on the streets of Bartow and learn what life was like in Central Florida between 1850 and the 1930s. Each stop on the tour is complemented by a unique soundtrack and historic photos that create a truly immersive experience. Downtown Bartow is one of 14 cities currently featured on the tour.

The Florida Humanities Council sponsors community based projects, facilitates important conversations among Floridians and shines a spotlight on Florida’s history, art and culture. Established in 1973, the Humanities Council is an independent, nonprofit affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities. For more than 40 years, Humanities Council has developed and funded public programs that tell the stories of both Florida and those that call the state home.

Funding for this program was provided through a grant from the Florida Humanities Council with funds from the National Endowment for the Humanities. Any views, findings, conclusions or recommendations expressed in this program do not necessarily represent those of the Florida Humanities Council or the National Endowment for the Humanities.

The Polk County History Center is open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday at 100 E. Main St. in Bartow. Visit www.polkhistorycenter.org or call 863-534-4386 for more information on exhibits and programming. All programs and events are free and open to the public.

In this Thursday, Oct. 22, 2015 file photo, park guests relax and cool off with a water mist under the globe at Universal Studios City Walk in Orlando, Fla. More than 70 million visitors came to the Orlando area in 2017, setting a record despite the closing of its theme parks and airports during Hurricane Irma. (AP Photo/John Raoux)

Record 72 million tourists came to Orlando last year

By MIKE SCHNEIDER
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

ORLANDO — Even though Hurricane Irma forced the closures of its theme parks and airports and filled its hotels with displaced evacuees, a record-setting 72 million tourists still flocked to the Orlando area last year, tourism officials said Thursday.

The 5 percent year-over-year increase in visitors was powered by domestic travelers, while visits from international travelers remained soft. With those numbers, Orlando held onto its title as the most visited destination in the United States.

"The success in Orlando is great, not just for this iconic destination, but for travel as a whole," said Roger Dow, CEO of the U.S. Travel Association, who was in Orlando for the announcement of the 2017 figures.

Tourism in Orlando, and other parts of Florida, shut down last September for almost a week during the preparations for and aftermath of Hurricane Irma on the peninsula. The area's theme parks closed for two days and planes stopped flying out of central Florida airports. Millions of coastal residents were ordered to evacuate, sending many of them inland to hotels in Orlando.

Despite the short-term closures, Irma didn't cause any widespread damage in central Florida, although the hurricane damaged other parts of the state, including the Florida Keys. After the hurricane, Visit Orlando, the area's tourism board, launched social media and publicity campaigns that showed central Florida was open for business.

Orlando's record number of visitors has been built on the continuous addition of new attractions and rides at the area's theme parks, said George Aguel, CEO of Visit Orlando.

The theme parks have been on a recent building spree.

Last year, Disney World opened up a new section of Animal Kingdom, Pandora-The World of Avatar, and Universal Orlando Resort opened a new water park, Volcano Bay. This year, Universal is opening a ride based on the "Fast and Furious" movie franchise and Disney World is opening another "Toy Story" ride.

Next year will feature the openings of a "Star Wars" land at Disney World and a "Sesame Street" land at SeaWorld Orlando.

"We've learned from history that it's not enough to just build it and hope they come," Aguel said. "We work really hard to keep that messaging, marketing globally."

With a strong dollar and economic struggles in some of Orlando's key markets, international travel was soft last year. Nationwide, international travel was down for the year by almost 2 percent last September from the U.S.'s 20 biggest tourist-generating countries, according to the National Travel and Tourism Office in the U.S. Department of Commerce.

Domestically, Visit Orlando put an added emphasis on marketing to the northeast United States last year. Orlando International Airport last year became Florida's busiest airport.

"You just have a huge population base there ... and they come for a good length of time," Aguel said.

Art of Kathie Mousseau on display in August

SPECIAL TO HIGHLANDS NEWS-SUN
 AVON PARK — The HCA Museum Gallery is please to present the premier showing of the Art of Kathie Mousseau. Artist reception from noon to 2 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 4, in the Peter Powell Roberts Museum of Art & Cultural Center, 310 W. Main St., Avon Park.
 Guitar instrumentals by Kenny Summers. Eatables and beverages served. Open to the public. Free admission. The show will be up through the month of August. Gallery hours Wednesday through Friday, 11 a.m. to 3 p.m., and Saturday, 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

 Mousseau was always interested in art and took the art classes offered in school. It wasn't until she retired, moved to Florida in 2016 and studied under the artist Beverly Marshall, that she felt inspired to do pencil drawing.
 Since taking Marshall's classes Kathie found a passion for art. This first exhibit of her work features animal portraits, florals, and landscapes.

Drawing by Kathie Mousseau. Her work will be on display at the Peter Powell Roberts Museum of Art & Cultural Center on Aug. 4.

Trump delays proposed Putin meeting

By MATTHEW LEE and KEN THOMAS
ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The Trump administration on Wednesday sought to fend off accusations the president is too soft on Russia, putting off a proposed second summit with Russian leader Vladimir Putin and declaring the U.S. will never recognize Russia's 2014 annexation of Crimea.

As members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee peppered Secretary of State Mike Pompeo with demands for details about last week's summit in Finland, the White House said President Donald Trump had opted against trying to arrange another meeting with Putin this fall. Putin already had sent signals that he wasn't interested in coming to Washington.

National security adviser John Bolton cited special counsel Robert Mueller's investigation into Russian interference in the 2016 election as the reason for the delay, although many members of Congress had objected to the meeting and said Putin would not be welcome on Capitol Hill.

"The President believes that the next bilateral meeting with President Putin should take place after the Russia witch hunt is over, so we've agreed that it will be after the first of the year," Bolton said in a statement, using Trump's favored but highly controversial term for the Mueller probe.

While the statement signaled optimism that the Mueller probe would be completed by the end of this year, no timetable has been given for when it will be wrapped up and it could very well stretch into 2019.

The White House said last week that Trump had directed Bolton to invite Putin to visit Washington in the fall, moving quickly for a follow-up meeting amid the backlash over Trump's performance at a news conference with Putin following their Helsinki summit.

In his testimony, Pompeo faced often-contentious questioning from senators demanding information about what Trump discussed with Putin while they were alone for nearly two hours with only translators present.

DOZENS OF DUCKKLINGS

Tears, hugs and help: Church groups assist reunited immigrant families

By NOMAAN MERCHANT
ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAN ANTONIO — The immigrant parents arrived at Catholic Charities in white vans with their children, their paperwork and almost nothing else.

They needed food, clothing, a place to stay and a way to travel to family in the United States. Many were still shell-shocked from weeks in government detention. One father carried an infant who didn't recognize him after two months apart. A mother held the hand of her 5-year-old daughter, who refused for a time to talk on the phone because she blamed her for their separation.

Scenes such as this are unfolding throughout Texas and Arizona as the Trump administration works to meet a Thursday deadline to reunite immigrant parents and children. The government is releasing hundreds of families to faith-based groups and leaving the groups to care for them.

The Associated Press observed newly reunited families spending their first day together Monday at Catholic Charities of the Archdiocese of San Antonio, which took them in after they were released from custody. The families included children as young as babies and old as teenagers, as well as asylum seekers fleeing violence in Central America and people who were shuttled around the country to various immigrant detention facilities.

THE REUNION

Natalia Oliveira da Silva, a mother from Brazil, waited nervously outside the immigration detention center in Pearsall, Texas, for her young daughter, Sara. She soon spotted the 5-year-old coming in a vehicle, a seatbelt over her chest.

Sara got out and was quickly in her mother's arms, asking her, "They're not going to take you away again, right?"

Russian hackers used phishing tools in 2017 attack on grid

By COLLEEN LONG
ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Russian hackers who penetrated hundreds of U.S. utilities, manufacturing plants and other facilities last year gained access by using the most conventional of phishing tools, tricking staffers into entering passwords, officials said Wednesday.

The Russians targeted mostly the energy sector but also nuclear, aviation and critical manufacturing, Jonathan Homer, head of Homeland Security's industrial control system analysis, said during a briefing.

They had the capability to cause mass blackouts, but chose not to, and there was no threat the grid would go down, the officials said. Instead, the hackers appeared more focused on reconnaissance.

The 2017 attack prompted a rebuke from the Trump administration earlier this year.

The victims ranged from smaller companies with no major budget for cybersecurity to large corporations with sophisticated security networks, Homer said. Vendors were targeted because of their direct access to the utilities — companies that run diagnostics or update software or perform other tasks to keep the systems running. The victims were not identified.

"This is a situation where they went in and said this is what they're looking for, and found weaknesses there," Homer said.

The newly disclosed details of the 2017 hack come amid growing concerns over Russia's efforts to interfere in the November midterm elections and the recent indictments of a dozen Russian military intelligence officers accused of infiltrating the Clinton presidential campaign and the Democratic Party and releasing tens of thousands of private communications.

Water is buried beneath Martian landscape, study says

By EMILIANO RODRIGUEZ MEGA
ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK — A huge lake of salty water appears to be buried deep in Mars, raising the possibility of finding life on the red planet, scientists reported Wednesday.

The discovery, based on observations by a European spacecraft, generated excitement from experts. Water is essential to life as we know it, and scientists have long sought to prove that the liquid is present on Mars.

"If these researchers are right, this is the first time we've found evidence of a large water body on Mars," said Cassie Stuurman, a geophysicist at the University of Texas who found signs of an enormous Martian ice deposit in 2016.

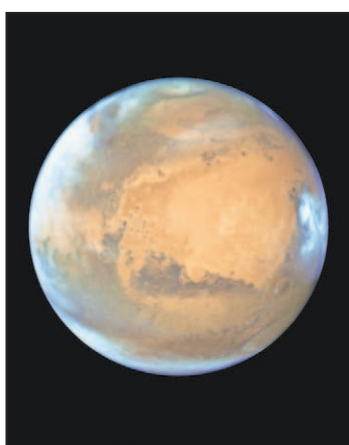

Scott Hubbard, a professor of astronautics at Stanford University who served as NASA's first Mars program director in 2000, called it "tremendously exciting."

"Our mantra back then was 'follow the water.' That was the one phrase that captured everything," Hubbard said. "So this discovery, if it stands, is just thrilling because it's the culmination of that philosophy."

The study, published in the journal Science, does not determine how deep the reservoir actually is. This means that scientists can't specify whether it's an underground pool, an aquifer-like body, or just a layer of sludge.

To find the water, Italian researchers analyzed radar signals collected over three years by the European Space Agency's Mars Express spacecraft. Their results suggest that a 12-mile-wide reservoir lies below ice about a mile thick in an area close to the planet's south pole.

Fraud claims overshadow Pakistan's vote for new parliament

ISLAMABAD (AP) — After an election campaign overshadowed by violence and allegations of fraud, Pakistanis voted Wednesday for a new government that will face challenges of a crumbling economy and ongoing bloodshed by militants whose latest attack saw a suicide bomber kill 31 people outside a polling station.

Official results declaring an outright winner were not expected before late Thursday morning. However, early unofficial results gave cricket star Imran Khan and his Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI) Party a commanding lead over his main rival, Shabbaz Sharif's Pakistan Muslim League.

Jubilant Khan supporters danced to the beat of drums at his party headquarters in Islamabad, sensing a victory. The sound of fire crackers echoed in the night sky.

Sharif, the younger brother of disgraced Prime Minister Nawaz Sharif, who has been jailed on corruption charges, disputed the election results even before they were announced. He charged fraud and vowed not to accept the results, generating fears that disgruntled losers could delay the formation of the next government.

The parliamentary balloting marked only the second time in Pakistan's 71-year history that one civilian government has handed power to another in the country of 200 million people. There also have been widespread concerns during the election campaign about manipulation by the military, which has directly or indirectly ruled the country for most of its existence.

"We will sweep the elections," said Abdul Basit, a supporter of Khan's, who watched the results on a large TV screen.

Hours after the polls opened, a suicide bomber on a motorcycle detonated his explosives in a crowd waiting to vote in the southwestern city of Quetta. In addition to the 31 dead, the attack wounded 35 people, said Dr. Jaffar Kakar, a hospital official. No one immediately claimed responsibility, but local officials were quick to blame the Islamic State group.

The attack in Quetta, the capital of Baluchistan province, underscored the difficulties the majority Muslim nation faces on its wobbly journey toward sustained democracy.

Baluchistan also saw the worst violence during campaigning earlier this month, when a suicide bomber struck at a political rally, killing 149 people, including the candidate Siraj Raisani. Another 400 were wounded. IS claimed responsibility for that attack. Baluchistan has seen relentless attacks, both by the province's secessionists and Sunni militants who have killed hundreds of Shiites there.

The military deployed 350,000 troops at polling stations across the country.

Fisherman: 'Chaos' as kids, elderly escaped Greek fire

RAFINA, Greece (AP) — The cries for help pierced the choking smoke. Dozens of people bobbed in the sea after vicious flames forced them into the water. Children as young as 8 held onto adults, and people who couldn't swim clung to those who could.

That was the scene confronting Tawefik Halil, 42, as he and other fishermen plucked young and old from the water after the overwhelmed Greek coast guard asked for help.

Halil is among dozens of volunteers being hailed as heroes for helping to save hundreds of people stranded on beaches and in the sea as deadly forest fires raged through holiday resorts near Athens Monday night.

"It was chaos, do you understand? Do you know what it's like to be in all that smoke, not being able to see anything and to have people asking for help?" Halil told The Associated Press on Wednesday.

He said he doesn't remember how many people he helped save, but he did what he could.

"You can't see anything in the smoke and fire — so much fire and so much smoke.

There was so much wind," he said. "We could not breathe. I almost fainted at some point from all the smoke, and it was very difficult, my friend, it was so difficult. I have never seen such a difficult thing before."

The fire razed holiday resorts east of Athens and killed at least 79 people. But more than 700 survivors were rescued by boat and taken to the port of Rafina through the night early Tuesday.

Many people on the beaches were forced to swim out due to the ferocity of the fire, said Halil.

"The people got trapped: behind them fire and in front of them the sea. What can they do? They got into the sea," he said.

The people in the water ranged in age from 8 to 70, he said, some clustered together and all pleading for help.

"There were all these people in the water, some knew how to swim and some didn't," he said.

"Those that could swim, we saved them. The other ones that did not know how to swim, we do not know if they are there, if they are alive and what happened. No one knows. But what we could do, we did."

No break for KitKat as trademark request rejected

STAVANGER, Norway (AP) — KitKat is not getting its break.

The maker of the chocolate bar has for 16 years tried to trademark its four-finger shape in the European Union, arguing that it is a distinctive feature that deserves protection — like Toblerone's pyramid blocks, which are trademarked.

But a European court ruled Wednesday against KitKat and its maker, Nestle, saying that its shape is not recognized throughout all the 28 countries of the EU.

The court instead sided with the makers of Kvikk Lunsj, a Norwegian snack that is a longtime favorite of hikers and skiers — and is shaped almost exactly the same as a KitKat.

That decision will allow Mondelez, the maker of Kvikk Lunsj, to market and sell the chocolate bar more widely throughout the bloc.

The court is the latest battleground in the feud between the chocolate bars, which began when the company Freia first introduced the Kvikk Lunsj — which translates to "Quick Lunch" — to Norwegians in 1937, two years after KitKat hit U.K. shelves.

Their battle intensified in 2006 when Nestle secured a

A Kvikk Lunsj chocolate snack in Oslo, Norway

trademark for KitKat's shape, only to be challenged by Kvikk Lunsj maker Cadbury, now owned by Mondelez.

In 2016, Nestle was stripped of the trademark since the shape of the treat was not considered recognizable throughout the EU.

The manufacturer appealed the decision in the bloc's highest court, which ruled Wednesday that though the shape was viewed as distinctively KitKat in many EU countries, consumers in Belgium, Ireland, Greece and Portugal did not recognize it. Norway is not part of the EU, but adopts many of the bloc's rules.

Nestle pledged to keeping fighting to secure the trademark and will ask the appeals board to re-examine the evidence.

South Sudan's warring leaders agree to share power again

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP) — South Sudan's government says President Salva Kiir and armed opposition leader Riek Machar have agreed to share power in a transitional government in the latest effort to end a five-year civil war.

Information Minister Michael Makuei Lueth announced the agreement to reporters in Sudan's capital, Khartoum.

Sudan's Foreign Minister Al-Dirdiri Mohamed Ahmed says the final peace agreement will be signed Aug. 5.

Authorities: Siblings angered over mom's death attack clinic

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Authorities say two siblings set off explosions at a hospital in Peru's capital, injuring at least 35 people in an apparent act of vengeance over their mother's death.

Officials say Alexander and Claudia Benites were both seriously injured in the explosions — and are now being treated in the intensive care unit of the hospital they're accused of attacking.

Investigators say the siblings had sued the Ricardo Palma clinic for negligence when their mother died after being operated on for a brain tumor. A Peruvian court fined the hospital $100,000 but the family wanted the doctors responsible for their mother's care to be punished as well.

WEATHER TRIVIA™

Q: What was the most hurricanes to strike the U.S. in one year?

Vitamin supplementation is low-risk, not rewards-filled

DEAR DR. ROACH: I read your recent column on vitamin C. I am 88 years old, and my family and I have taken supplemental vitamins most of our lives. Five years ago, I was diagnosed with prostate cancer and survived it with radiation treatments and a change of diet. I had taken a handful of vitamins every day for years, including 400 IU of vitamin E. My doctors told me that my prostate cancer probably was caused by taking too much vitamin E.

Dr. Roach

My sister took a handful of vitamins every day and recently died from liver cancer. I believe her liver cancer was caused from vitamin toxicity, too, but the family is not talking about it, so I don't know for sure. I have stopped taking vitamins altogether and instead rely on a healthier diet, but am considering going back to taking a low-dose multivitamin or just vitamin C and a heart-healthy fish oil. What is your opinion? — E.O.

ANSWER: A large randomized, controlled trial published in 2011 showed that 200 IU daily of vitamin E by itself increased the risk of prostate cancer. There were about two extra cases of prostate cancer per year found per 1,000 men taking the vitamin E (9.3 cancers per 1,000 men per year on placebo, 10.9 cancers per 1,000 men per year of men taking vitamin E). The risk is low, but since there has been no significant benefit from vitamin E shown, it is not recommended.

The evidence on liver cancer is more reassuring. A study from China did not show an increase in risk of liver cancer among vitamin users. People with large intake of vitamin E, either from diet or from supplements, had a small decrease in risk of liver cancer.

Fish oil (omega-3) remains controversial, with a new study due to be released soon.

As yet, the evidence is not compelling that it reduces heart disease risk the way that eating two or more servings of fatty fish a week does.

DEAR DR. ROACH: I have some questions about blood types. Is Type O universal for donations? If a person who is A-positive has a child with a person who is B-positive, what blood type would their child have? — L.M.E.

ANSWER: Blood types follow classical genetics. Each person has, at most, two proteins, A and B, on their red blood cells, one from each parent. However, Type O means there is no A nor B proteins on the red cells.

If a person is Type A, for example, you can't tell just from a person's blood type if he or she has an A from each parent (we call that an AA genotype) or just from one (an AO genotype). All Type O people are genotype OO.

Similarly, the D antigen (formerly called Rh factor) also has two copies, and if both are positive (a positive/positive genotype) or only one is (a positive/negative genotype), the person is positive.

So, in your example, if the A-positive parent had an AO genotype and a positive/negative genotype, and the B-positive parent had a BO and positive/negative genotype, their child could have literally any possible combination: A-positive, A-negative, B-positive, B-negative, AB-positive, AB-negative, O-positive or O-negative.

You can't get a blood transfusion from a person who has a protein you don't, so the only person who can donate universally is O-negative, but that person absolutely needs an O-negative donor.

Someone who is AB-positive can receive blood from anybody, but can donate only to another AB-positive recipient.

Visits with parents bring tears to daughter's eyes

DEAR ABBY: My parents live a simple life, enjoying their days as retirees. They invite me to join them for special occasions at their house (my childhood home) and although the house is organized and tidy, I become ill when I spend more than a few hours under their roof.

Their cleaning practices are questionable. They simply rinse plates and utensils after use, as opposed to using the dishwasher. Within an hour of arriving, the dust makes my allergies and asthma flare up. Their dog and cat have urinated throughout the house, and my parents claim to not be able to smell it.

Attributes of almond milk

Dear Readers: Have you seen ALMOND MILK in the refrigerated case? Here's the scoop: Cholesterol-, gluten- and lactose-free, almond milk is a sweet and nut-flavored alternative to dairy milk.

Original almond milk has about 60 calories per cup, and it's pasteurized just like regular milk, which means it's heat-treated to kill bacteria.

Almond milk is LOW in protein. This makes almond milk not appropriate for infant formula.

Almond milk is plant-based, just like soy milk. Suitable over cereal, in smoothies and as a base

HOROSCOPE

ARIES (March 21-April 19). You were lucky enough to come into this world with so much talent. Now you have to be talented enough to get lucky. Go where there are a lot of socially connected people, and talk about what you do.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). The known and unknown will come together in a beautiful yin-and-yang-type balance. So don't rush to know the next thing. Stay awhile in this mystery: It's quite literally "wonder"-ful.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). You said yes to something that, upon further reflection, now seems like a bad fit for you. The ink hasn't dried yet, so no worries. Go back and ask to be released. You'll be let off the hook.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Your environment has become too familiar. You're not seeing what's there, because it looks too much like what was there yesterday. For understanding and appreciation, look with your heart instead of your pupils.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). You'll be called to service, not by an official phone call but by the need you see in the world. It's not in your nature to stand by and witness incompetence when you know that you can do something about it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Seize the chance to speak publicly. Most people avoid this, and that's precisely what makes it such a fine opportunity for you. Maybe the reasons are not so obvious to you, but there's money to be made, and this is the first step.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Everything you own but don't want, need or love is a drain of your energy. Most things just take a tiny bit of your energy every time you look, touch or think about them, but that little bit adds up. What can you get rid of today?

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). There's a strong feeling of ennui, like you've already done all the rides in the theme park twice. That may be so, but you're missing something. To find out what it is, ask for help and advice.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). It's not enough for you to know that you're doing something. You want to see the results, and you want validation from others that the results matter. Build this into your approach and you'll succeed brilliantly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Of course you don't expect yourself to be perfect (which would be an absurd and immature sort of relationship to set up with yourself), but what you do expect may still be too stringent, or a little off the mark. Give it a think.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). People who give advice are a dime a dozen, but people who take it are extremely rare. That's because following advice is difficult! You have to lose your ego to do it.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Now more than ever, many young people know things that many older people do not, but that doesn't mean young people are smarter or wiser. Today works best when the generations help one another.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (July 26). A short trip in September will rekindle your adventurous spirit. You'll receive many invitations over the holiday season, and one special event will open an exciting network of relationships. Someone works hard to earn your favor. You'll finally get a chance you've been waiting for in February. Extra work will be lucrative. Capricorn and Aries adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 30, 45, 6, 28 and 49.

Opening lead: Five of ♦ West tried to muddy the waters by opening a 15-17 one no trump with only 14 points — a tactic seen more and more often these days. North-South had a delicate auction to their best game contract, though no game is particularly sound. South did well to choose a contract of three no trump, as even three spades can be defeated. Two high clubs and a club ruff, followed by a diamond shift, will see the defense come to five tricks provided West ducks his ace of spades when South leads that suit.

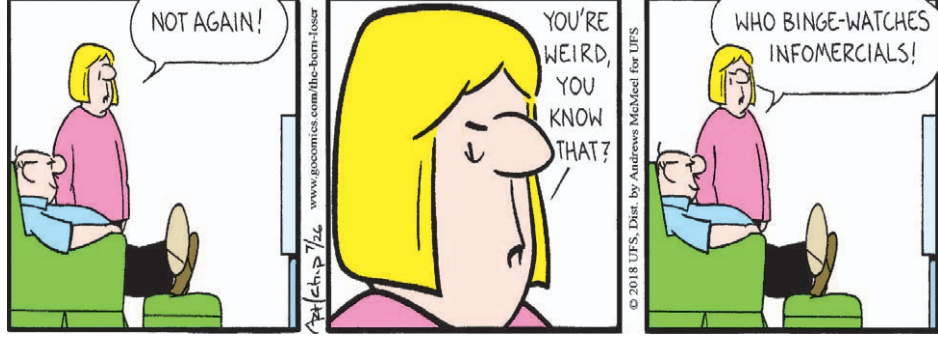

South won the opening diamond lead with his ace and led a low spade to dummy's king as West ducked his ace. A low club off the board was next. It is easy to see, looking at all four hands, that the defense would have defeated the contract had East risen with his jack of clubs. That play is not easy to make at the table, so let's give South credit for his deceptive play.

South's 10 lost to West's king, and West erred by continuing with another diamond. This allowed South another entry to lead a second spade. West ducked his ace again, but South won with dummy's queen and exited with the nine of spades. Whatever West did now, South had an entry with the eight of spades to cash his high diamond and he finished with nine tricks.

A better defense for West would be to shift to hearts instead of leading a second diamond. The play gets complicated after that, but it appears that South can get home with careful play.

Extreme heat sizzles across Southwest

PHOENIX (AP) — Extreme heat sizzled across the U.S. Southwest again on Wednesday after ramping up electricity use so much in the Phoenix area that a major utility broke a record.

The National Weather Service office in Phoenix said highs in southern Arizona and southeast California ranged from 113 degrees to 118 degrees on Wednesday, with a little relief expected Thursday for some in Arizona.

The Salt River Project utility that delivers electricity to some

2 million customers in Phoenix and the rest of central Arizona said demand was so great between 5 p.m. and 6 p.m. on Tuesday that it set a record of 7,252 megawatts to retail customers.

That topped the utility's previous system peak of 7,219 megawatts on June 20, 2017. One megawatt is enough to power about 225 average homes.

The utility said the increased demand was the result of this week's extreme temperatures, which on Tuesday reached 116 degrees in Phoenix, a tie with city's record high set in 2014. Most of Arizona and parts of California, Nevada and Utah have been under an extreme heat warning this week.

Las Vegas authorities said the city could see the hottest weather this year, while fire officials warned that conditions could be dangerous. Las Vegas reached a high of 112 degrees on Tuesday.

The National Weather Service said a new high of 127 degrees was set at California's Death Valley on Tuesday.

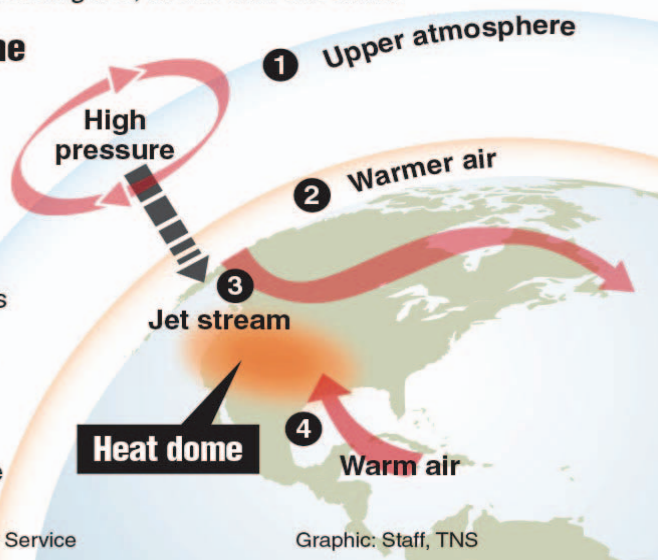

Tucson recorded 112 degrees on Tuesday, its hottest July temperature since 1995 and city's fourth hottest July day on record.

Heat dome blankets Western U.S.

Much of the U.S. Southwest is under a heat dome caused by a high pressure system compressing hot, moist air beneath it.

Heating up the dome

1. High pressure system develops
2. Compressed air below heats up under weight of system
3. High pressure moves jet stream with drier, cooler air farther north
4. Hot, humid air from Gulf of Mexico circulates around dome farther inland

US airlines cave to China's demand on referring to Taiwan

By DAVID KOENIG
AP AIRLINES WRITER

The Trump administration, several U.S. senators, and Taiwanese business leaders urged the three biggest U.S. airlines to stand up against China's demand about how they describe Taiwan on their websites.

The U.S. airlines, looking at the explosive growth in China's air-travel market, decided to ignore them all. American, Delta and United joined other global carriers and bowed to pressure from China on Wednesday and stopped listing the city of Taipei as being located in Taiwan. The airlines, however, didn't go so far as to say that Taipei is part of China.

"Like other carriers, American is implementing changes to address China's request," said Shannon Gilson, a spokeswoman for American, the world's biggest airline. "Air travel is global business, and we abide by the rules in countries where we operate."

Representatives for Delta and United made similar statements.

Taiwan split politically from mainland China during the 1949 civil war and is self-ruled. China, however, claims the island as part of its territory and has threatened military force to annex it.

In recent years, China has used its economic and political clout to pressure other countries and their businesses to stop recognizing Taiwan as a separate entity. In that effort, officials in Beijing targeted airlines, threatening unspecified punishment for carriers that did not heed China's demands.

The big U.S. airlines declined to say how much revenue they earn from flying between China and the U.S. In regulatory filings, they only describe revenue by region.

United Airlines, which has the most extensive service to China of the three, reported that 13 percent of its revenue last year came from Pacific service, which includes flights to Japan, Korea, Australia and Singapore. Delta Air Lines got 7 percent of revenue from the region, and American got 5 percent.

China, however, is a rapidly growing airline market with a booming middle class that is eager to travel. The International Air Transport Association, a trade group of global airlines, predicts that China could overtake the United States and become the world's biggest air-travel market by 2022.

"China is so strategically important to the U.S. carriers that they can't ignore what the Chinese government mandates," said Henry Hartevelt, a travel-industry analyst in San Francisco. "The U.S. airlines were put in an uncomfortable position. No matter what they decided to do, it was a lose-lose proposition."

US demands quick privatization of Puerto Rico power agency

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — Federal lawmakers demand Wednesday that Puerto Rico quickly privatize its bankrupt power company in a bid to end its turmoil and allow others to provide stable electricity in the aftermath of Hurricane Maria.

Frustration grew as consultants and local and federal officials testified during a hearing on the management crisis at Puerto Rico's Electric Power Authority held by the U.S. House Committee on Natural Resources in Washington.

Republican Rep. Don Young of Alaska urged the Department of Energy to set a timeline on how long it would take to privatize the U.S. territory's power company, saying that five or 10 years is "too damn long."

"We are going to privatize this unit," he said. "It has been a failure. Puerto Ricans deserve better."

A few hundred Puerto Ricans remain without power more than 10 months after the hurricane destroyed up to 75 percent of transmission lines.

Crews are still trying to repair and rebuild the grid in the middle of this year's hurricane season as the company struggles with a high turnover, naming its fifth director since Maria.

Before testimony began, Rep. Rob Bishop, a Utah Republican who is chairman of the committee, said the objective of the hearing was the health and safety of Puerto Ricans, who are U.S. citizens.

"We're not talking about federalizing anything ... or selling assets to the highest bidder," he said.

The statement appeared to be a response to Puerto Rico Gov. Ricardo Rossello, who declined to attend the hearing. He sent a letter to Bishop saying his administration has worked hard to overhaul the company, known as PREPA, and upgrade the still fragile grid.

"The transformation is a complex process, and it would be unnecessary and inappropriate for Congress to give the Department of Energy control of PREPA, effectively robbing the island of a critical resource at a perilous time for Puerto Rico," Rossello wrote.

The Federal Emergency Management Agency has so far allocated $6 billion for Puerto Rico's electrical grid, although not all of it has been spent, officials said.

Cat sitter dies after suburban Denver basement floods

DENVER (AP) — A woman died after rain from the latest round of strong Colorado storms flooded the suburban Denver basement apartment she was staying in to take care of a friend's cat, police said Wednesday.

People who live upstairs in the Englewood home called police Tuesday because they were concerned about their neighbor in the basement unit, police spokesman Chad Read said. The neighbor was not at home but officers found Rachael Marie Haber, 32, after searching in the murky water that reached up to the ceiling. No one else was in the unit.

Haber was unresponsive and taken to the hospital, where she died

Wednesday morning.

The coroner said an autopsy showed injuries consistent with drowning, but further tests on how she died were still pending.

Read told The Denver Post the water in the neighborhood was knee-high when officers arrived.

"There was water in the front yards, backyards and a car actually floated down part of the street and ended up in front of the house," he said.

The rain also caused a sinkhole to open in nearby Sheridan, swallowing a vehicle, but the driver was able to get out in time. The muddy and mangled Toyota RAV4 was pulled from the hole on Wednesday.

In southwestern Colorado, water and debris closed roads near an area burned by a large wildfire north of Durango. The flooding stopped the Durango & Silverton Narrow Gauge Railroad, leading about 800 passengers to be bused back to Durango, The Durango Herald reported.

Another sinkhole opened earlier Tuesday south of Colorado Springs after flooding washed out a culvert following heavy rain there on Monday.

A vehicle fell into the culvert and when the Hanover Fire Department responded to the cave-in, their fire truck also fell into the hole. Both vehicles were removed early Tuesday morning.

Two firefighters and the driver of the first vehicle were taken to the hospital.

5 sea turtles released after discovery in hotel trash can

TYBEE ISLAND, Ga. (AP) — Five rare baby sea turtles found in a hotel trash can in Georgia have been released into the Atlantic Ocean.

The Savannah Morning News reports the loggerhead hatchlings were freed early Wednesday on the beach at Tybee Island.

A hotel housekeeper on the island discovered six live loggerhead sea turtle hatchlings in a waste basket on Tuesday. State wildlife biologist Mark Dodd suspects someone picked up the animals after they hatched.

One of the animals remains at the Tybee Island Marine Science Center, which can raise the turtle until age 2.

Loggerheads are classified as threatened under the Endangered Species Act, and even touching one can result in a fine. Police and wildlife officials are investigating how the animals got to the hotel.

ACLU spends $720K in opposition to Joe Arpaio's Senate bid

PHOENIX (AP) — The American Civil Liberties Union is spending $720,000 in the U.S. Senate race in Arizona to send people into neighborhoods to hand out fliers and run a TV commercial critical of former Sheriff Joe Arpaio's treatment of immigrants.

The legal advocacy group normally stays out of political races, but it is getting involved in the Arizona campaign and other races across the country to emphasize the importance of civil liberties to voters, said Steve Kilar, a spokesman for the ACLU's affiliate in Arizona.

"Joe Arpaio's record in particular is so emblematic of what can happen if people aren't paying attention to civil liberty records of the people they are electing," Kilar said, adding that the group doesn't endorse candidates and instead gives voters information so they can make decisions on issues affecting civil liberties. The $720,000 spent by the ACLU in the Arizona race includes $400,000 in expenditures reported Wednesday.

The ACLU was the driving force behind a nearly 11-year-old lawsuit that challenged Arpaio's signature traffic patrols targeting immigrants, eventually leading a federal judge to rule that sheriff's deputies had systemically racially profiled Latinos.

The case brought the worst legal defeats in Arpaio's 24-year tenure as metro Phoenix's sheriff, including a criminal contempt of court conviction for intentionally disobeying the judge's orders to stop his immigration patrols. Arpaio, now 86, was spared a possible jail sentence when he was pardoned nearly a year ago by President Donald Trump.

Arpaio said the ACLU is worried that he'll win the Aug. 28 GOP primary and will move on to beat U.S. Rep. Kyrsten Sinema, considered the front-runner among Democrats, in the Nov. 6 general election.

In the past, local ACLU affiliates have done political advocacy, but the effort in the Arizona Senate race marks the first time the group's national office has participated in voter education efforts in a federal election, Kilar said. "Nationally, I will say that this isn't the last time you will see it happen," Kilar said.

Faiz Shakir, the ACLU's national political director, said the group's new emphasis on political advocacy was driven by a flood of new members who joined after Trump was elected and were concerned that the new president posed a threat to civil liberties.

MLB: Rays

Rays trade Nathan Eovaldi to Red Sox

By MARC TOPKIN
Tampa Bay Times

The Rays made the first of several expected trade deadline moves this morning, trading RHP Nathan Eovaldi to the Red Sox for LHP Jalen Beeks.

Eovaldi was slated to start today for the Rays against the Yankees.

RHP Ryne Stanek will take his place as the opener in what will be another bullpen day.

To take Eovaldi's place on the roster, the Rays called up RHP Austin Pruitt. They earlier activated LHP Jonny Venters off the DL and sent down RHP Chih-Wei Hu.

Beeks made his major-league debut in June with the Red Sox. In 16 starts at Triple-A Pawtucket he is 5-5, 2.89. He was the Red Sox's minor-league pitcher of the year in 2017, going 11-8, 3.29 between Double-A and Triple-A.

"I assumed there was a possibility, of course, especially where I am in my career and the way my contract was for this year," Eovaldi said before leaving Tropicana Field. "I was assuming that I would be traded, but as for what team it would be,

I wasn't thinking about that at all."

Eovaldi can become a free agent after this season.

The deal was announced less than 12 hours after Boston's main AL East rival, the Yankees, obtained reliever Zach Britton from Baltimore.

ST. PETERSBURG — Sergio Romo got to view the game from the perspective of Brooks Robinson, Mike Schmidt and Wade Boggs. And he got a save, too.

Romo relieved in the eighth inning, shifted to third base when Jonny Venters replaced him in the ninth, then struck out Brett Gardner to end the game with two on and give the Tampa Bay Rays a 3-2 win over the New York Yankees on Wednesday.

Romo became the 11th pitcher to also play third base in the same game since 1908, and the first since Philadelphia's Bill Wilson at Pittsburgh on Aug. 6, 1971, according to Baseball Reference.

"Just to be able to say I played third base in the big league, it's in the books," Romo said. "It was a fun game. Very, very fun game."

Scheduled Rays starter Nathan Eovaldi was traded to AL East-leading Boston about two hours before game time, and manager Kevin Cash used six pitchers to combine on a seven-hitter.

"Cash and the other guys around here aren't afraid to mix things up," Rays center fielder Kevin Kiermaier said. "They thought it was the best chance for us to win, and we did. So they look like geniuses."

MLB: Rays

Cash on trade market: 'We'll be very active'

By MARC TOPKIN
Tampa Bay Times

ST. PETERSBURG — That there is a lot of chatter swirling about the Rays with the non-waiver trade deadline less a week away is logical, obvious and expected.

Chris Archer and Nathan Eovaldi are, for different reasons, two of the more intriguing starting pitchers on the market. And the Rays have several other players who could be good complementary pieces for contenders, such as shortstop Adeiny Hechavarria; relievers Sergio Romo, Matt Andriese and Jonny Venters (who will be off the DL soon); maybe infielder Matt Duffy among others. Catcher Wilson Ramos is obviously a big chip, but a hamstring strain seemingly knocked him off the market until August.

What was a little surprising was how certain manager Kevin Cash was before Tuesday's game that the talk would lead to action.

"I would say, in all honesty, we're going to be very active," Cash said. "I think we'll be very active. I know there's teams calling non-stop. I'd bet Erik (Neander, GM) and Chaim (Bloom, senior vice president) have not slept."

Don't let the Rays' barely winning 51-50 record after Tuesday's 4-0 loss trick you, because it's not going to fool them. They are 19 games out of first place and nine from the second wild card, and they know enough about the risk/reward ratio to not make the mistake of holding on to an otherwise tradeable piece.

That's also not to imply they are headed for a clearance sale.

While they should be in take-what-they-can-get mode on some of the veterans, such as Hechavarria and Romo, there will be opportunity in dealing others to add some choice pieces. They are 19 games out of first place and nine from the second wild card, and they know enough about the risk/reward ratio to not make the mistake of holding on to an otherwise tradeable piece.

That's also not to imply they are headed for a clearance sale.

Teammates left to answer for Winston's actions

By RICK STROUD
Tampa Bay Times

TAMPA — A "silly mistake back in the day," Lavonte David called it. Ali Marpet said the Bucs were "one big family." Mike Evans said he was hurt by it, but called him "my boy," and one of his best friends.

Jameis Winston reported to training camp with all the other veterans Wednesday but he was not among the players discussing his three-game suspension.

Instead, the Bucs quarterback was the elephant in the locker room.

The plan is for Winston to speak about his suspension for violating the NFL's player conduct policy following Thursday's first workout.

So instead, the rollout to the 2018 season for the Bucs Wednesday was clunky, awkward and uncomfortable.

As camp opens, Bucs' Mike Evans promises to ease up on Fortnite

By GREG AUMAN

Mike Evans admits he's been playing a lot of Fortnite, but says he'll back off on the wildly popular video game as training camp arrives.

"My wife's not here right now, so I've been playing a lot of Fortnite and just working out,"

Evans said Wednesday as the Bucs reported for the start of training camp. "When I'm with my wife, we go on dates and things like that, take our girls out to do stuff. I get a little bit of time in here and there, but when I'm by myself, I play a whole lot."

HORSE RACING: Justify

Triple Crown winner retired from racing

Associated Press

DEL MAR, Calif. — Triple Crown winner Justify was retired from racing Wednesday because of fluid in his left front ankle.

Trainer Bob Baffert and Justify's owners said caution over the horse's ankle condition made it impossible to tell if he'd be healthy enough to race by the fall.

"He is just not responding quick enough for a fall campaign," Baffert said. "We all wanted to see Justify run again, but ultimately it is my responsibility to make sure he is perfect. Without 60-90 days, I can't be definite."

The goal was for Justify to run in a major race this summer, likely the Travers Stakes at Saratoga, and be pointed toward the $5 million Breeders' Cup Classic on Nov. 3 at Churchill Downs. Instead, he was taken out of training earlier this month because of swelling in his ankle.

"The timing is bad for another start in 2018, and therefore, we have to retire him," said Elliott Walden of WinStar Farm, which co-owns Justify. "Like (2015 Triple Crown winner) American Pharoah, we can't take the risk of running Justify as a 4-year-old. We all wanted him to finish his career in the Breeders' Cup Classic, but it was not meant to be."

Justify (1), with jockey Mike Smith up, crosses the finish line to win the 150th running of the Belmont Stakes and the Triple Crown in Elmont, N.Y.

Justify won all six career starts, becoming the first horse since Apollo in 1882 to capture the Kentucky Derby after not racing as a 2-year-old. He won the Preakness and Belmont Stakes to become the 13th Triple Crown winner and second in the past four years after Baffert's American Pharoah.

"There was never a time when I rode him that I felt like I was going to get beat," jockey Mike

Smith said. "There was no horse who could run with him without sacrificing themselves, and there was no horse who could come get him."

In addition to the Triple Crown, the Kentucky-bred Justify won the Santa Anita Derby and retires with career earnings of almost $3.8 million.

"It has been a great ride for all of us, and I have complete confidence Bob is doing the right thing by Justify," said Teo Ah Khing of China Horse Club, which is also a co-owner.

Walden said it's possible Justify's stud rights will be sold to Coolmore but added that won't be finalized until a later date. Justify is expected to return to WinStar Farm in Kentucky next month.

"Justify's extraordinary racing career — from maiden to Triple Crown winner in less than four months — was as brilliant as any our sport has seen," National Thoroughbred Racing Association president and CEO Alex Waldrop said. "We can't wait to have his first runners hit the track in 2022."

Chinese team takes over Texas minor league club

By STEPHEN HAWKINS
Associated Press

GRAND PRAIRIE, Texas — The starting lineups are announced in English and Spanish at home games for the independent Texas AirHogs.

And then the Chinese national anthem is played.

For about 30 members of the Chinese national baseball team, the suburban ballpark a few miles west of downtown Dallas has become their summer home and training ground in an unprecedented setup.

They are a revolving part of the roster for a professional team in the United States, playing more games and against tougher competition while working to improve for future international events such as the upcoming Asian Games and 2020 Olympics in Tokyo.

"The system that they've created here, where we work out in the morning, we've got weight training, the pitchers have a system where we throw on, the coaches have kind of set up a system that's really helped them to be able to make the adjustment to play more games," Sun Jianzeng, a 26-year-old right-hander, said through a translator.

Chinese players who professionally back home would play only 20-30 games a season make up about two-thirds of the expanded roster for the American Association team now formally known as the AirHogs powered by Beijing Shougang Eagles. The players ranging in age from 18 to 29 rotate on and off the active roster to play 6-7 games per week in one of the low-minor leagues not affiliated with Major League Baseball.

"It makes it workable, because we don't want to wear these guys down," said AirHogs manager John McLaren, a big league coach for three decades who has worked with Chinese teams since 2011. Players not on the active roster for games go through early workouts at AirHogs Stadium, 10 minutes from the home ballpark of the Texas Rangers. There are conditioning and weight training drills that are new to the Chinese players.

"They're trying to do something they've never done before, which is play this many games on a daily basis, and you throw into the fact that with the exception of maybe three or four pitchers, they're physically and experienced-wise over-matched," said Larry Hardy, a former Rangers pitching coach filling the same role for the AirHogs. "But they're getting better."

McLaren had a short stint managing Seattle in 2007-08 and was Washington's interim manager for three games in 2011. He was on the Philadelphia Phillies staff the past two seasons.

He also managed China at the World Baseball Classic in 2013 and 2017. Over that time, there would be gaps of six or seven months when he wouldn't even see the team — and players would barely play baseball. China has a 2-10 record in its four WBC appearances, getting outscored 102-18 in those games.

"These guys, I don't think they'd ever played twice in a week," McLaren said.

That changed when the Chinese Baseball Association made arrangement with the AirHogs, allowing them to focus on daily development.

They are now together all the time in a 12-team league that stretches more than 1,300 miles from Texas into Canada. The closest stop is Cleburne, Texas, where 53-year-old former big league slugger Rafael Palmeiro is starring for the Railroaders.

China's only Olympic berth was in 2008, going 1-6 in group play after an automatic berth as the host nation. That was the last time baseball was part of the Summer Games until its return two years from now in Japan.

The AirHogs are a league-worst 17-44 this season, but player-coach Na Chuang said the team has progressed faster than expected, increasing the confidence of the Chinese players who will leave with McLaren and some of their national coaches for the Asian Games in Indonesia before the end of the 100-game AirHogs season.

Kevin Joseph, who pitched in the majors briefly with the St. Louis Cardinals in 2002, is part of McLaren's staff as an assistant coach and invaluable translator. He learned Mandarin while spending more than eight years teaching baseball to young people after a friend with connections to baseball officials in China invited him there.

"The big need, I think, for China is they don't play a lot of games. So for them to be able to come, and to learn the rhythm of a baseball lifestyle, play against better competition, has been a great experience," Joseph said. "The players have really meshed well with the Chinese guys, they love them."

Hearing points to Putin's role in Russian doping scandal

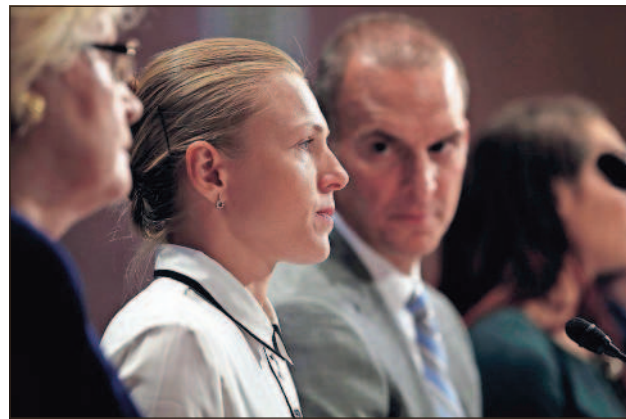

By BEN NUCKOLS
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Supporters of a bill that would make international sports doping a crime argued Wednesday that the legislation would deter scandals like Russian state-sponsored drug use at the 2014 Sochi Olympics.

Yulia Stepanova, a Russian former track athlete who became a whistleblower about the drug program, said at a congressional hearing that ending doping in her country would have to "start from the top" — with Russian President Vladimir Putin himself.

The bill was named for Dr. Grigory Rodchenkov, the Russian lab director who exposed the cheating in Sochi. Rodchenkov has said the doping stemmed from Putin's command to his sports ministry to "win at any cost."

Several European countries have passed similar legislation. The bill being considered in the House is stronger because it would allow the United States to police doping that occurs outside its borders. U.S. and foreign athletes would be subject to the law if competing in an event that includes four or more U.S. athletes and athletes from three or more countries.

The bill has bipartisan support but has yet to be introduced in the Senate, and its prospects for approval are unclear.

The hearing occurred while, in the same Senate office building, Secretary of State Mike Pompeo was questioned by lawmakers who accused President Donald Trump of being too soft on Putin. While the president has made conflicting claims about the extent of Russian interference in the 2016 election, the hearing on doping turned attention back to other ways in which Putin's actions have brought scorn from the international community.

In written testimony, Rodchenkov and Stepanova said that those who participated in the doping program were essentially following orders, fearing that to refuse or speak out would mean the end of their careers, or possibly even lead to their deaths.

"You will lose your job, your career and even fear for the safety of you and your family," Stepanova said. "You will be called a liar and a traitor if you stand up against the system that unfortunately still exists in Russia today."

Asked by Democratic Rep. Sheila Jackson Lee of Texas how to end Russian doping, Stepanova said, "It should start from the top because if it started from the top, they ... would stop doping."

"If Mr. Putin had a different attitude and expressed that, it would stop?" Jackson Lee asked.

"Yes, I think so," Stepanova said.

France says family is committed to running NASCAR

Associated Press

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — NASCAR Chairman Brian France insisted Wednesday that his family is dedicated to its racing properties despite a report the business is for sale.

France was asked on SiriusXM NASCAR Radio about a potential sale of NASCAR. Reuters reported in May the France family was exploring a sale of NASCAR's sanctioning body. Forbes last month said the France family was seeking only minority investors.

Both reports cited unidentified sources, and France referred to them as "rumors."

"The France family is locked and loaded in its dedication to NASCAR," France said. "We're focused on ruling and managing NASCAR. There's nothing to report on that. Rumors are always interesting, but they're seldom right."

France has not made himself available to reporters since the Reuters report. He occasionally calls unprompted into one of Sirius' NASCAR shows and his brief segment Wednesday covered several topics pertaining to the series his grandfather founded.

Brian France is the CEO and chairman of NASCAR. Jim France, his uncle, and Lesa France Kennedy, his sister, are executive vice presidents. France Kennedy is also the CEO of International Speedway Corp., and Jim France is the chairman. ISC owns 13 of the tracks on which NASCAR hosts 19 major racing events.

Jim France also heads IMSA, the sports car series, and was instrumental in NASCAR's recent acquisition of ARCA, a low-level stock car series.
