By MARC VALERO

SEBRING — When hiring a physical education teacher and coach in August 2018, Heartland Christian Academy administration and staff were unaware the new hire was someone who had worked for The School Board of Highlands County until being fired for disciplinary reasons.

Also, Heartland Christian didn't know that their new teacher, Jack Charles Howard III, had his educator's certificate revoked by the state for five years effective March 2016.

Howard was arrested Jan. 9 on one count of lewd and lascivious behavior against a minor who was between 12 and 16 years of age at the time. Additional charges of four counts of lewd and lascivious behavior and one count of battery were filed on Feb. 7.

Howard entered a plea of "not guilty" on Jan. 14 to the initial charge of lewd and lascivious behavior. He entered a plea of "not guilty" on Feb. 18 on the subsequent four counts of lewd and lascivious behavior and one count of battery.

Howard was released on bond after his initial arrest on Jan. 9 and then released on Feb. 8 after posting a $105,000 bond following his Feb. 7 arrest on the additional charges.

His employment at the academy was terminated following his arrest.

The charges stem from incidents that occurred on the school's campus between August 2018 and January 2019 involving a total of four female victims between the ages of 12-16, according to Assistant State Attorney Courtney Lenhart.

Heartland Christian Academy Director Rebekah Kogelschatz said Wednesday that Heartland Christian did not know the state had revoked Howard's educator's certificate prior to him being hired at Heartland Christian.

"We found that out after his arrest," she said. "When he was arrested, a staff member found it online. We had not been given information that he had been working in Highlands County before."

Highlands News-Sun asked if Howard filled out an employment application and did not list The School Board of

Second bomb scare in less than a month

Authorities investigating; not sure if two incidents are related

SEBRING — For the second time in nearly as many weeks, the Sebring Walmart store was evacuated due to a bomb threat. At approximately 4 p.m. Tuesday the store closed down. According to Sebring Police Cmdr. Curtis Hart, several calls were made to the store stating a bomb was on the premises.

Law enforcement blocked off all entrances to the shopping center at 3525 U.S. 27 North and Sebring police officers directed traffic away from the scene. Further complicating the traffic patterns was a wreck that occurred around 4:15 p.m. in the middle of Schumacher Road and U.S. 27 between a Sebring police officer responding to the bomb threat and another vehicle.

This incident occurs almost two and a half weeks after another bomb threat was made against the same store on Friday, March 8.

Hart said authorities received calls for help about 4 p.m. Tuesday. Sebring Police Department was able to enlist one K-9 unit from Polk County Sheriff's Office and another from the State Fire Marshal's Office.

The K-9 units were directed by their handlers to sniff the outside boundary and the inside of the store. Officers walked the perimeter of the building while the K-9s were working the scene as well. After a thorough search, the K-9s did not detect anything out of the ordinary, authorities say.

If the K-9s were to detect any materials used in bombs, or if the officers found anything suspicious, the bomb squad would have been called in, according to Hart. However, the store was declared safe around 6:15 p.m. and Walmart's management team and employees were allowed back into the store. The store reopened fairly quickly after that, Hart said.

Certain evidence has led to Sebring Police looking at potential persons of interest.

"We are continuing to investigate," Hart said on Wednesday morning. "We are continuing to track evidence. It is still too early to tell if the previous bomb threat was related to this one."

According to Hart, investigators are still looking into the first bomb threat.

On March 8, the store was evacuated around 10:30 a.m. when a bomb threat was received, prompting a response from many law enforcement agencies including two bomb disposal units from Polk County. The store reopened around 2 p.m. after the business and law

AP Station building eyed for museum

To honor firefighters statewide

By MARC VALERO

AVON PARK — The Church Service Center/Station building, which was once a firehouse, may become a fire department museum, according to City Manager David Flowers.

At Monday's City Council meeting, Flowers said members of the Florida State Firefighters Association have a "great interest" in turning the building into a fire department museum. Not necessarily for the Avon Park fire district, but statewide.

There is only one known firefighter museum in the state, which is at the Florida State Fire College in Ocala, he said. It is in a room half the size of the Avon Park Council Chambers with one piece of old fire apparatus and hand-operated fire apparatus in display cases.

The Firefighters Association officials said they could fill the Station Building with memorabilia and old fire trucks, etc. and would probably rotate the pieces on display because they get donations all the time, Flowers noted.

The city's insurance claim for the building's damage from Hurricane Irma will be $300,000, he said. With the insurance money, the city can remove the damaged portions of the interior and get a roof dried in on it to where the Firefighters Association can decide where they want to go with it.

"If they do this, this would actually become a destination point for many, many people around the state who are interested in fire department memorabilia and firefighter memorabilia," Flowers said. "I am excited about the

South Sebring site ready for Wawa

Demolition complete on south Sebring site

By PHIL ATTINGER

SEBRING — Land slated for a new Wawa station at U.S. 27 northbound and Highlands Avenue is now clear and ready for redevelopment.

Demolition crews in heavy equipment finished taking down the last of the old buildings on the site of the former outpatient surgery center on that corner. It is now ready to have the ground moved and reshaped into a gas station parking lot and convenience store building.

The new store has been anticipated, eagerly.

Work crews on backhoes started clearing trees on March 11, just days after the company closed the sale on the south Sebring site, according to their Realtor.

Greg Karlson of Advantage Realty #1 posted on social media that the sale had closed on the second of three sites for future Wawa stations in Highlands County.

The other two sites are at the northwest corner of U.S. 27 and Dal Hall Boulevard in Lake Placid and on the northeast corner of U.S. 27 and Valerie Boulevard in Sebring, across from Sun

'n Lake of Sebring Special Improvement District and AdventHealth Sebring.

Karlson has said the Lake Placid site, formerly Bank of America, still needs to close, but there's nothing holding it up, not even talks with Highlands County Engineering and Planning Departments on dedicating frontage

Wreck delays officer responding to bomb threat

SEBRING — Sebring Police Corporal Matthew Cloud was delayed Tuesday afternoon while heading to the scene of a bomb threat at the Sebring Walmart store. He was involved in a wreck around 4:15 p.m. at the intersection of Schumacher Road and U.S. 27.

Sebring Police Department is investigating the crash. The department's public information officer, Cmdr. Curtis Hart, said Cloud was driving west on Schumacher Road in his marked vehicle, a 2014 Dodge Charger, with the lights and sirens on. Cloud entered the northbound lanes of U.S. 27 to cross over to the Walmart store where the bomb threat was taking place. Witnesses at the scene told officers that Cloud stopped in the intersection with his lights and sirens on before attempting to enter the southbound lanes of U.S. 27.

Dorothy Lesage was driving her

2018 white Dodge Ram pickup truck southbound on U.S. 27 when she and Cloud's vehicles collided. Lesage has a Sebring address but an out-of-state license. Both vehicles had heavy front-end damage and ended up facing south in the middle of the intersection and partially in the innermost southbound lane of U.S. 27.

"The drivers only had minor injuries; no one was transported (to hospitals) and both cars were towed away," Hart said. "The investigators will look at the dashboard camera to determine who was at fault."

According to Hart, Lesage said she saw the lights but thought they were the lights on the police cars further down the road, which were stationed at the store entrances to block traffic from entering the parking lot.

The wreck is still under investigation. If Lesage is found to be at fault, she will be given a citation for failing to yield to an emergency vehicle with lights and sirens going, Hart said.

Sex offender re-arrested for parole violation

By KIM LEATHERMAN

SEBRING — Matthew Caleb Tucker, 24, of 1216 Ramona Ave. in Sebring, was arrested Monday by Highland County sheriff's deputies. Tucker was found to be in violation of his parole.

Tucker was originally arrested for four counts of lewd and lascivious conduct on a child between 16 and 18 years of age and three counts of lewd and lascivious exhibition with a victim between 16 and 18 years of age.

On March 20, a deputy met Tucker's parole officer while they verified his address. The parole officer knocked on Tucker's bedroom window while the deputy waited at the front door for the parolee to show up. At the front door, Tucker gave consent for the deputy and parole officer to search his home.

In the bedroom, the arrest report states the deputy found four smartphones, two in a dresser drawer and the other on top of his bed. The phones can be used to access the internet, which is against Tucker's parole. In addition, the deputy found four adult sex toys.

TUCKER

The arrest report shows the deputy found WiFi signals by testing them out on his own phone.

The parole officer found the WiFi signals were emanating from the gaming station and the device's status showed it was on.

Tucker said the phone was one he bought as a wedding present for his wife as a wedding gift. He also said he pays $60 per month for it and gets unlimited data for internet.

The parole officer asked Tucker why he had the phone if it was his wife's. The deputy noted Tucker became very nervous and said she had an additional phone. The parole officer asked Tucker where the phone was that he told HCSO he used. He allegedly told the parole officer that it was broken so he transferred the phone number to one of the smartphones.

In the meantime, Tucker's wife arrived at the residence. The parole officer asked her to unlock the phone. She was able to unlock the phone with a code she said was secret. She handed the phone over to the parole officer who read some emails.

Some emails were addressed from a pornographic website. The website congratulated the user on the purchase of a "Premium Order" on March 20 at 2:30 a.m. Tucker said the emails weren't his as he does not subscribe to any pornography sites, according to the heavily redacted arrest report.

Tucker's wife tried to shut the phone but was told to stop intruding in the investigation. The parole officer told the deputy he thought a condition of Tucker's sex offender parole was he couldn't use the internet or have sex toys either. Tucker's probation was not up until July of 2020.

After reading Tucker his Miranda rights, the deputy spoke with Tucker about the phone and internet. It was determined there were violations to the parole conditions and Tucker was arrested.

The deputy found him in violation of several things. At that time, Tucker wanted a lawyer and the interview stopped. As of press time on Tuesday, Tucker was in the Highlands County Jail without parole.

Brickell Building cleanup completed

By MARC VALERO

AVON PARK — The effort to clear out the moldy drywall from the Brickell Building is now complete.

At Monday's City Council meeting, City Manager David Flowers said after 17 days of work, 862 man hours and 210 cubic yards of moldy drywall were removed, the cleanup is finished.

"I personally inspected it and it looks a whole lot better. You can actually see the bones of the building right now," he said.

The city ordered an indoor air quality kit that arrived Monday, Flowers said. They will take six samples to be sent to a lab to determine if there is any presence of fungal growth in the structure.

Highlands News-Sun asked Flowers Tuesday about the building's overhang over the sidewalk, which has no plywood or covering underneath it.

Flowers responded there will likely be some repairs to improve its appearance, but the city won't spend too much if it is decided to sell the building, which is owned by the Main Street Community Redevelopment Agency.

The structure incurred significant water intrusion from Hurricane Irma in September 2017. The building got a new roof soon after the hurricane, but the mold persisted when no cleanup work was done on the interior. The moldy smell affected an adjacent restaurant.

SMARTER

1. Goats were one of the first animals to be tamed by humans and were being herded 9,000 years ago.
2. Goat meat is the most consumed meat per capita worldwide.
3. Counter to the dominant stereotype about goats being willing to eat anything, they are actually very picky eaters. They have very sensitive lips, which they use to "mouth" things in search of clean and tasty food. They will often refuse to eat hay that has been walked on or lying around loose for a day.

4. Goats are herd animals and will become depressed if kept without any goat companions. So, it is unhealthy for a goat if a family just owns one as a pet.

5. Goats, being mountain animals, are very good at climbing; they've been known to climb to the tops of trees, or even dams.

Property rezoned by Nucor plant

Applicant wants consistency with nearby facility

By PHIL ATTINGER
STAFF WRITER

SEBRING — Land located next to the proposed Nucor plant has been rezoned and given a land-use change to make it compatible with its new neighbor.

At its last meeting, the Highlands County Board of County Commission granted a request from the C. Elton Crews Family Limited Partnership LLLP to change the land use on an 8.55-acre portion of a 10.58-acre parcel from commercial/industrial mixed use (CI) to industrial (I).

It sits between the railroad tracks and U.S. 27, just south of Sun Pure Road.

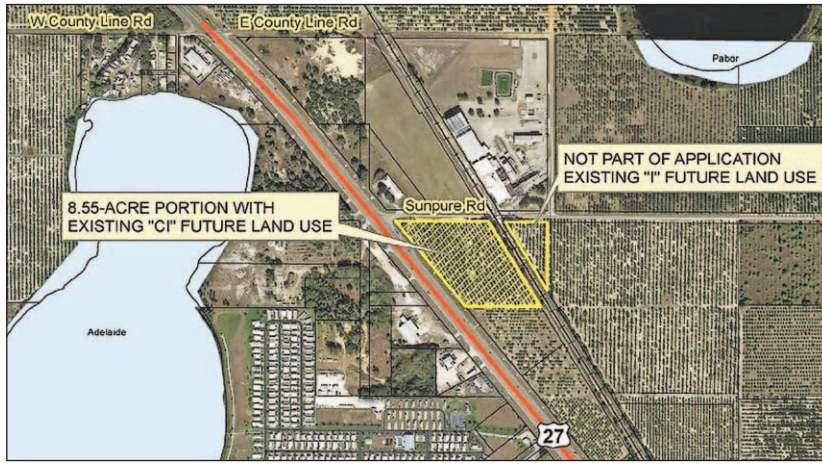

County commissioners also voted, in a separate public hearing, to rezone that property from business district with a conditional use (B-4 CU) to industrial district (I-2), again because of the proximity of the proposed Nucor plant.

Both votes were 4-0. Commissioner Arlene Tuck abstained from both votes, because her son is employed by the Crews family.

Bob Swaine, attorney for the Crews family, said the proposed Nucor steel plant is “just down the street” from the land.

It seems like an appropriate land use change for that area, Swaine said.

In January, the city of Avon Park, with the help of the Highlands County Economic Development office and the Central Florida Regional Planning Council, received a $971,500 grant to fund water and wastewater infrastructure improvements in order to serve businesses north of Avon Park.

COURTESY GRAPHIC/HIGHLANDS COUNTY BOARD OF COUNTY COMMISSION

Property indicated on the map got changed to Industrial/I-2 land use and zoning. Bob Swain, attorney for the applicant, said the owner, C. Elton Crews Family Limited Partnership LLLP, wanted to make the land consistent with the new industrial development in the form of the Nucor steel rebar plant, due to hire staff and start operations this year.

That extension will serve Nucor's steel rebar mill, slated to be in operation by July 2020, directly on the northern side of the Highlands County line near Frostproof. Company officials have said the mill will provide 250 new high-paying jobs, and since the plant will be accessible through Highlands County, it is expected that many new hires will be Highlands County residents.

The grant came from the Florida Job Growth Grant Fund. The project will extend a 12-inch water main for 2.25 miles along U.S. 27 and an 8-inch sewer force main for approximately two miles to the county line, according to Highlands County Economic Development.

It was expected, between the arrival of the plant and the extension of water lines to the site, that the area will become a hub for job growth in the north part of Highlands County.

It was also expected, with the extension of water lines, that land in the area would become far more attractive to developers, especially industrial developers.

Chris Grandlienard, Planner I, presented the application to the board. In his presentation, he said the property is divided, with an approximate 2.03-acre portion on the east side of the railroad tracks.

Grandlienard said that smaller portion already has the same Industrial/I-2 land use and zoning configuration.

All of the 10.58-acre parcel is currently in use as a citrus grove, Grandlienard said.

AP Charter revisions nearly finalized

By MARC VALERO
STAFF WRITER

AVON PARK — As the City Charter revisions near completion, it is yet to be determined whether the city's residents will vote on approval in the upcoming general election this November or in 2020.

City Manager David Flowers noted that Mayor Garrett Anderson and Deputy Mayor Jim Barnard's terms will be up for re-election in November. If they have no challengers and there is no city election, the voter turnout would likely be low.

So if there are no challengers, the Charter referendum will be placed on the 2020 ballot — a presidential election year — which will have a higher voter turnout, he said.

Anderson said Wednesday he would be seeking another term as mayor.

Barnard said Wednesday, “I am absolutely running for re-election.”

“I ran on a platform in 2016 supporting the fire department to make sure we keep them fully staffed and getting rid of the ex-city manager and I believed we performed both of those duties,” Barnard said.

“It took us two years to get there, but we finally got there. I will continue to support the fire department as well as all citizens of Avon Park because they are the ones who voted me in and I want to continue to have their support and I will support them anyway I can,” he said.

There are just a few minor language changes for the City Charter revision, Barnard said.

“I think we are close; I wouldn't be surprised if at one of the [council] meetings in April we will go ahead and make an agreement on that so we will have it to give to Penny Ogg [Highlands County elections supervisor] if we need to put it in this year's election or not,” he said.

The Charter revisions address city employee employment contracts and the interaction of

He moved to Sebring to work for Engine Support Inc., an engine overhaul facility for Pratt & Whitney, Curtiss Wright, Lycoming and Continental engines. Over time he became president and owner. He respected all his employees, which numbered 110 people in the late 1970s, and admired their loyalty.

The overhaul shop eventually was surpassed by the jet age and closed in 1986 with just a small staff. Paul was raised in the Roman Catholic church and was active at Blessed Trinity in Miami Springs, Florida. He received his Last Rites from St. James Catholic Church of Lake Placid.

Paul was preceded in death by his two brothers, Michael and Steven Salinder, and is survived by his brother, Richard (Gwen); former wife, Helen Salinder of Miami Springs, Florida; his son, P. T. Salinder (Joy), and granddaughter, Kristin Salinder.

Interment will take place at Sarasota National Cemetery with a private ceremony. A special thanks to David Smith, administrator, and all his staff at Lake Placid Health and Rehabilitation. You all are truly amazing.

Highlands County as one of his employers? Kogelschatz replied, "Yes."

Following Howard's arrest, it was shared at a parent meeting that he had an incident in the Highlands School District that was unrelated to students, which Heartland Christian found out about after the fact, she said.

The State of Florida Education Practices Commission revoked Howard's educator's certificate for five years based on a complaint that he was a substitute teacher in the Highlands County School District on Nov. 5, 2014, when he had sexual intercourse with a female teacher on campus in an area that was accessible to students.

Private schools in Florida don't have the same requirements as public schools concerning teacher certification. Private school teachers don't need a state educator's certificate as required in public schools.

FILE PHOTO

Heartland Christian Academy administration says it did not know that Jack Charles Howard III had his educator's certificate revoked by the state for five years effective March 2016.

Kogelschatz said Heartland Christian seeks teachers who have college degrees in the area of the subject they are teaching.

"But, I am not under the obligation to hire a certified teacher," she said. But, if she knew his certification had been revoked, Howard would not have been hired, she said.

Highlands News-Sun asked what type of background checks did the school utilize for new hires and have there been any changes in those procedures since Howard's arrest?

Kogelschatz said she would not immediately respond. She replied later with an emailed statement: "Heartland Christian Academy values the safety, protection, education, and well being of the students and we have taken necessary steps to ensure our students have a safe and meaningful educational experience."

St. Catherine Catholic School (Sebring) Principal Nicole Loseto said certification is not required of teachers upon hiring, if the new hires can show proof that they have applied for a least temporary certification and have an application in process.

Parkview Pre-K and Prep Academy, in Avon Park, states its teachers have a minimum of a bachelor's degree in a childhood education field or field related to the subject they are teaching, and is a certified teacher (or currently pursuing certification).

Lakeview Christian School, in Lake Placid, does not list possession of an educator's certificate as a qualification for its teachers.

City Council members with city employees.

Anderson said, "My main objective particularly with the employee contracts is to try to avoid some of the 'sweetheart deals' that were done with previous employees."

Those previous contracts put the city in a bind, he said. The Charter revision is aimed at making the employees earn their keep a little more with the city being a little more responsible with taxpayer money.

Also, the Charter revisions limits the City Council's ability to conduct its own investigations, Anderson said.

We need to rethink our bloated athletic programs

The universities caught up in the fraudulent-admissions scandal are undoubtedly looking at ways to prevent such problems in the future, focusing in many cases on their athletic departments, where coaches in soccer and water polo and other sports allegedly took bribes from wealthy parents hoping to secure admission for their children.

But the schools involved — and all colleges with hefty athletics programs — should be thinking beyond the details of the recent scandal and examining more broadly the oversized role that varsity sports have played at U.S. institutions of higher education.

A review is long overdue. Even two decades ago, nearly 1 in 5 slots at highly selective universities went to recruited athletes, said Jonathan R. Cole, a Columbia University professor who has studied and written about college sports. The percentage is probably slightly lower now, he said, simply because the numbers of students accepted has risen. Still, that's a lot of recruited athletes, considering the number of academically qualified students pounding at the doors of these schools.

A 2016 report by the Jack Kent Cooke Foundation found that the preference given to recruited athletes gives an advantage — a further advantage — to white, wealthy students. This makes it even harder for low-income teenagers and students of color to compete for a spot in the freshman class.

At all but a handful of schools, intercollegiate sports, including football, cost more money than they bring in. And at a number of the universities where they are moneymakers, scandals have erupted over both the financial exploitation of players and illegal gifts to them.

Meanwhile, some colleges subvert their own rules to keep their teams in place. The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill created fake classes with artificially high grades that were disproportionately "attended" by campus athletes, a fraud that went on for 18 years. Yet less than 2 percent of college football and basketball players will make it to the pros; they need meaningful degrees. Cole says that universities regularly recruit a large number of team members who will never actually play; they're lesser athletes with stronger academic records whose role is to keep the team's average grades looking good.

It's also a myth that schools will see alumni donations plummet if they cut back on varsity sports teams. Welch Suggs, a professor at the University of Georgia who specializes in sports journalism, says studies don't bear that out. Cole agrees.

Some college applicants might be drawn to schools with a lively football or basketball team and enjoy the camaraderie that comes with rooting for the team, but few people show up for sailing or fencing competitions. And at highly selective schools, students generally are drawn to a strong academic reputation rather than a winning team.

In fact, through the years, more than 150 schools have dropped their intercollegiate football teams, including about 60 Division I schools. They include selective schools such as Boston University and New York University, UC Santa Barbara and Caltech, and they don't appear to have suffered loss of reputation or applicants as a result.

Sometimes the reason has been the expense of a losing, unpopular team. But in 2000, academic powerhouse Swarthmore College cut its football team simply because it didn't want to allot that many of its spots to athletes. Because the school is so small, maintaining a football team meant that 1 in 10 male students were recruited for that one sport.

In Europe, Cole said, colleges have little to nothing in the way of intercollegiate sports, which is one way they keep costs down. Future athletes in those countries join a kind of farm-team training system that is paid for by the sports industries, not the country's educational institutions. Right now in the United States, that sort of training system is being financed by colleges — and their students.

This isn't to say that football and other intercollegiate sports have no place on college campuses or that talented scholar-athletes ought to become a thing of the past. But the recent scandal hasn't just cast light on the side door to admissions that college sports programs left ajar. It should have schools examining, from the ground up, what is the right number of recruited athletes, how much money varsity sports should receive and how big that side door ought to be.

An editorial from the Los Angeles Times.

Quibbling about Quinn

HARRIS & CO

Dorothy Harris

Suggesting he be farmed out to a friend, she'd have none of it. Dad, ever the accommodating one, assured her he would care for Quinn. Happy to leave the details to them, I went back to my keyboard. I had long cared for all manner of creature and was taking a hiatus this time.

True to his word, my husband diligently handled the fish. Likely this will astound many who have inherited pets from their youngsters. Most dads aren't big into pet care, but there's a bit of back story here.

She bought Quinn and Mr. Harris decided he wanted a Beta fish too. Despite specially curated accommodations, his fish chose to sit boldly on top of the filter canister for several days then disappeared.

A search began and at first we thought he had jumped out and perhaps became sushi for the cats. Weirdly, it was discovered he had buried himself under the rocks. Why our fish chose to go underground, working his way beneath the gravel we will never know. It was really thoughtful of him though, handling burial arrangements and all.

Now tasked with fish number three, it is a tough gig. This critter keeps feigning death. For reasons unknown, he likes to sleep up against the filter section tube.

Other times he hangs out the window of his underwater pineapple flapping in the current.

It was a bit unnerving to Mr. Harris, but he soon was able to go with the flow. As long as Quinn kept swimming, we were good. Then it happened. Hubby departed town for a week of training and I was left with the critter crew, including Quinn the temperamental fish.

Schooled as it were on when to feed and how to never show him the fish on the food canister because it fluffs him out, I nodded and hoped for the best. With a hectic work schedule, demanding furry freeloaders, deadlines and a moping dingo, it did not look good.

Quinn was at the bottom of the pond so to speak, but I'm thankful to share he made it. It really helped that the dog sat at the front window every night pining for

Mr. Harris. I'd go try and cheer her up and then see Quinn flapping in the current. "Oh, fish needs food," I'd recall.

In the mornings my bed buddy cat would be springing about the house before landing near the tank chattering. Apparently fish meal smells like cat snacks or something. Whatever, I'm just glad she was willing to help out and remind me. Eventually I took no chances and created a sticky note near the coffee maker. That ensured I'd be reminded regularly.

Years ago our home boasted a huge freshwater tank and it was a real chore to keep up. Still, the beauty and grace of those slippery flashes of light often beckon us back to aquatic life. Fish keeping is addictive. For now I'm holding a hard wrack line in hopes of not succumbing to the siren song.

Dine and discuss new clubhouse

Attention all owners and residents in Highlands Park Estates: I want to inform you of a spring dinner (ham and drinks will be provided). This will take place on Sunday, March 31, 2019 at 1 p.m., to be held at the Highlands Park Estates Volunteer Firehouse, located at 1317 Columbus St., Lake Placid. (Bring your own plate and flatware.)

I am providing this letter in the newspaper with the hopes of getting a larger turnout for the purpose of discussing the newly constructed, over half a million dollar clubhouse.

It has been unfortunate that under the direction of a "non-recorded association" (approximately 20 people), the Highlands County Board of Commission spent the money out of the Highlands Park Estates Special Benefit District Fund — a tax on all HPE Real Estate Tax Bills, paid into since 2001. Even after I asked the BOCC to send letters/surveys out to get input from a majority of owners/residents, they told me they oversee the HPE SBD, and they were building the clubhouse.

The non association only sends out newsletters to their "club members," therefore nothing is posted as to when, where and time of any and all meetings they claim to hold. I understand that most people in HPE seem content not being involved in community happenings.

I hope this letter brings awareness of your community, and current and future expenses, mainly due to our tax money being spent without a majority of owners' input.

Help with fundraiser was appreciated

I just want to thank the Lake Placid Elks for hosting our Murder Mystery. They were so generous and furnished the food, accessories and all the things that made this play such a success.

I have a special thanks to Marge, Evelyn, Pat, Jan, Dick, the kitchen preparers and servers and all who helped and all those who willingly donated the delicious food.

I am so proud of the cast who did such a great job delivering their lines and making the audience laugh. Having the K-9 division there to show us their beautiful dogs and demonstrate the training and the results of all their efforts was just the best and the audience was simply enthralled.

Not the least is my gratitude to Nancy of the Tomoka Realty who produced all the graphics and printing for our tickets, posters and playbills. What a terrific job.

Thanks to all of you who came and supported our play and our K-9's. Your generosity for this project far exceeded our expectations. I am so happy to say the play was a "smash."

Wouldn't it be nice?

A few days ago I read a letter titled Bad Nightmare, which started out "Wouldn't it be nice," and then went on to lament the presidential election. It got me to thinking about a few things like:

Wouldn't it be nice if the citizens who voted for Hilary Clinton would respect their fellow citizens' choice and lived with it, like they were quick to tell us to respect the last president?

Wouldn't it be nice if they quit trying to push God out of our country and minimizing His hand in our country's history?

Wouldn't it be nice if they understood that if they even tried to eliminate the electoral college there would be outrage against the elites on the coast and three fourths of the States would be left without a vote?

Wouldn't it be nice if they stopped asking us to believe in fantasies like the Democratic party is the same party that used to actually care about the average worker and average American?

Wouldn't it be nice if every politician had to work until age 65 to receive their pension like the rest of us and had the same health care as the average person?

Wouldn't it be nice if the special investigations by Congress with ridiculous charges would end just because they didn't like who we voted in office?

Finally, if they realized that this president has tried to keep every promise he's made, while up to his neck in snapping alligators?

Wouldn't it be nice!

possibility." The skateboard park across the street would probably have to become a parking lot for the facility, he added.

Flowers said he would be working on it and wanted the council to know that there is something better than the possibility of tearing the building down.

The two-story building was damaged and later shuttered by Hurricane Irma.

The building at the south end of Butler Avenue housed the Church Service Center, which has been operating from a metal storage shed behind the building.

Flowers said Jahna Concrete will be moving out of its office downtown to a new office north on the truck route. The building they are vacating, which is not far from the old fire station, will be given back to the city.

His immediate future plans call for relocating the Church Service Center to the old Jahna office, Flowers said. Files and items will be removed from the office within the next three weeks.

The Florida State Firefighters Association is interested in putting a firefighters museum in Avon Park's Station Building.

Director John Jeffo said he was very interested in relocating to the Jahna office, Flowers said. That is probably a temporary solution for them because they have other plans in the works.

Jeffo was at the storage shed Tuesday where food and clothing are distributed to the needy. He pointed out the Jahna office just to the north where they will be relocating. Jeffo noted, that with the help of USDA food donations and donations from 18 churches, the center assisted 5,000 families last year.

for use as future right of way.

"They're just taking their time," Karlson said.

He said land purchases and development often have more complications than most expect, including multiple owners, tenants and utility easements.

The Valerie Boulevard site, he said, had multiple sellers throughout the 2.3-acre parcel. It closed on Sept. 5, 2018, for $2.2 million, total.

The Board of County Commission had to vacate utility easements there, and a church there will have to relocate, Karlson said.

The Highlands Avenue site, he said, also had multiple sellers over a total of 2.7 acres. It closed March 7 with a total sale price of $1.93 million. Pennsylvania-based Wawa, a popular gas-line, convenience and sandwich/coffee shop, has made inroads into south central Florida over the last six to seven years.

Karlson said Wawa and other such stores are trying to reach a "critical mass" to get the most business they can from relatively untapped markets like Sebring and Highlands County as a whole.

PHIL ATTINGER/STAFF

Demolition continues on Monday at the site of a future Wawa station at U.S. 27 and Highlands Avenue, soon to be Sebring Parkway Phase 2.

Lions dominate Panthers

Heartland blanks Ocala in semi-pro football

By JIM TAYLOR
CORRESPONDENT

AVON PARK – The Heartland Lions, a semi-pro football team based out of Avon Park, avenged their only loss of the season with a convincing 12-0 win over the Ocala Panthers on Saturday at Memorial Field.

The win improved the Lions to an impressive 6-1 on the season with three games left. The Lions have already earned a playoff spot and doubled their revenge over the Panthers by knocking them out of playoff contention.

Surprised by how the season has turned out, after taking over the reins just before the season when the original head coach dropped out, Heartland Head Coach Rashard Samuels, who also coached Lake Placid senior youth football, stated he was a bit intimidated at first.

“Through the course of the season we have built relationships and we are doing good,” said Samuels.

Samuels noted that the main thing that they did different against the Panthers that they didn't do the first time was to play together.

The Lions had an opportunity to score on their opening possession, though they ended up turning the ball over on downs after a potential touchdown pass perfectly thrown over the defenders slipped through the hands of the potential receiver.

They did not miss their opportunity on their second possession after they forced the Panthers to punt.

After getting the ball back on their 45, the Lions traveled 31 yards on three straight running plays, two by Terrance Williams for twenty yards. The Lions capped off the five-play, 55-yard drive when quarterback Terrance Hill rolled to his right and found Jay Harris in the end zone for a 31-yard touchdown pass.

The Lions came up short on the two-point conversion run to take a 6-0 lead with 5:16 left in the first quarter.

The Lions threatened twice in the second quarter, reaching the Panther 14 early in the second only to turn the ball over on downs after three incompletions and a sack by the Panthers.

Late in the second quarter, the Lions dropped another pass in the end zone to thwart another scoring opportunity as they went into the half holding a 6-0 lead.

Heartland scored on its first opportunity of the second half, putting together an 11-play drive that lasted over seven minutes. The first nine plays were running plays for 61 yards that was highlighted by Hill's second touchdown pass, this one for 17 yards to Bo Comadore to put the Lions up 12-0 after a failed two-point pass attempt.

The game came to a screeching halt on the Panthers next possession with 2:55 left when a Panther player suffered an apparent broken leg.

Both teams and the umpires decided to stop the game at that time, giving the Lions the 12-0 victory.

The Lion defense manhandled the Panther offense to that point, allowing just 52 total yards, 21 on the ground on 12 attempts and 2 for 13 in passing for 31 yards and two interceptions.

Chris Wilkerson picked off one pass off a deflection and Jamaa Massaline picked off the second.

Calling in back-up support for the immune system

The transition between seasons, especially one as extreme as winter to spring, can take a toll on people's health. Think about it for a minute — not only is your body trying to adjust to changes in the climate, but allergies are at their peak!

So how are you supposed to defend yourself against seasonal changes and pollen laden spring air that seems to induce one too many sneezes? The answer is simple — build your immune system. When you give your body what it needs to create a strong wall of defense to withstand the attacks, your body will do better than just hoping for the best! Isn't it great that we can be proactive in the fight against seasonal allergies?

To help build a strong immune system, understand that what is in your diet will have a direct impact of how well (or poorly) your body immune system functions.

One of the most important nutrients on the list for nutritional assurance in aiding your immune system is vitamin C. Vitamin C increases the production of infection-fighting white blood cells, antibodies, and interferon, major factors for building a strong immune system. Vitamin E, zinc, garlic and omega-3 fatty acids, are also major contributors to immune system health.

Remember, start with a diet rich in healthy proteins (beef and fish are rich in zinc and omega-3 fatty acids), lots of veggies and fruit (citrus, broccoli and peppers are chocked full of vitamin C), olives and blueberries (great sources for vitamin E).

A varied, healthy diet is the key, always, isn't it? Remember, eating single ingredient, highly identifiable foods without relying on processed foods will never serve you wrong.

Leanne Ely is a New York Times bestselling author and the creator of SavingDinner.com, the original menu planning website, bringing families back to the dinner table for over 15 years.

Sustainable eating made easy

By Family Features

The needs of grocery shoppers are seemingly always evolving, and now more than ever, they want to know where and how their food is produced and what impact it has on the environment. This is commonly referred to as "sustainable eating," and its popularity is growing among shoppers.

Plant-based diets are a tenet of sustainable eating and mushrooms are often included as part of the movement. Known for their inherent umami flavor and nutrition properties, mushrooms are recognized for their unique growing process and need for minimal natural resources used during production, which makes mushrooms both healthy on the plate and gentle on the planet.

In addition, mushrooms are a versatile ingredient, and with so many fresh varieties to choose from, it's simple to incorporate them into most meals. Three Mushroom and Garlic Grilled Pizza can satisfy the entire family, while favorites like Sauteed Mushroom and Sun-Dried Tomato Avocado Toast may hit the spot morning, noon and night, and quick sides such as Roasted Mushroom and Wheat Berry Salad can be an easy addition to dinner plates.

For more information on mushroom sustainability as well as additional recipes, visit mushroomcouncil.com.

Why breakfast really is the most important meal of the day

By StatePoint

You've probably heard the saying, "breakfast is the most important meal of the day." While there is some conflicting research that questions the importance of eating breakfast for weight loss, many other researchers conclude there are, in fact, many benefits for starting your day with a morning meal.

Briana Rodriguez, a Registered Dietitian with Jenny Craig, offers the inside scoop on breakfast and why there's still truth in that old saying, especially for those trying to improve their health.

Breakfast Basics

"Breakfast literally means 'breaking the fast,'" Rodriguez explains. "Blood sugar, also known as glucose, powers your muscles and brain. After 7-9 hours of sleep, blood sugar is naturally low and you need to replenish your energy stores."

But what if there's no time to spare in the morning? Rest assured, there are quick, easy breakfasts you can grab on-the-go.

Why Breakfast Matters

Although skipping meals or eating very little in the morning may seem like a sure-fire way to lose weight, Rodriguez explains it's not so simple.

"When you skip breakfast, you'll likely overcompensate later, eating your largest meal at night because you're extremely hungry. And that's not good if your intention is weight loss."

Making breakfast your largest meal of the day, also known as "front-loading," can lead

How to add some excitement to outdoor entertaining

By StatePoint

It's time to take the party outdoors. Here are some fun ideas for entertaining on the balmy days and nights ahead:

Whether it's to incorporate a specific seasonal ingredient into every dish or to only bring dips, the possibilities are endless. Use online tools to help you organize, such as perfectpotluck.com, which gives guests an opportunity to sign up for a specific item ahead of time so there are no duplicates.

• Outdoor Movie Night: It's easy to turn the backyard into an outdoor cinema. Grab some lawn chairs and blankets and host a movie night outdoors under the stars. Simple Holiday Hams

Ideas for an easy Easter menu

FAMILY FEATURES

Whether you're new to hosting or simply looking for ideas to make Easter entertaining easier than ever, there are plenty of ways to save time and stress in the kitchen.

Go with what you know. Trying out new recipes is fun, but it can also add stress when they don't turn out like you expected. Stick to tried and true dishes you can prepare and serve with confidence and save the experimenting for another time.

Take shortcuts. At the center of many Easter feasts is a ham that has been expertly cured and cooked to perfection. Even so, starting with a full-cooked ham is a shortcut that no one is likely to notice, especially if you heat it properly. For exceptional quality and a variety of flavor profile options to choose from, turn to America's Original Butcher, Omaha Steaks. The meats are fully cooked then frozen before being delivered to your door for maximum convenience.

Work ahead. Plan your menu to incorporate items you can make ahead of time so you're under less pressure the day of your dinner. Even handling the prep work like slicing veggies the night before can buy back precious minutes, that way when guests begin arriving, you can step out of the kitchen and enjoy the day right along with them.

How to Heat a Frozen Ham

Many frozen hams are fully cooked and can be served as soon as they're properly thawed, which is an ideal solution for a casual brunch with mini sandwiches on the menu. However, if you're serving an elegant holiday dinner, you're more likely to prefer a warm centerpiece dish. A fully cooked ham is still a time-saving option; you'll just need to allot time to heat it in the oven once it's thawed.

Start by thawing a fully cooked ham in the refrigerator for 24-48 hours.

To keep your ham extra moist, always put the cut-side down. You might also consider placing a baking rack in the pan and adding a quarter-inch of water before placing the ham on the rack.

For a spiral-cut, bone-in ham, heat the oven to 325 F. Remove ham from film and foil. Place ham cut-side down on a raised edge baking pan lined with foil. Heat uncovered 60-75 minutes for the entire ham or 10 minutes per pound for smaller portions.

For a boneless ham, heat the oven to 350 F. Place the ham, cut-side down, on a raised edge baking pan lined with foil. Cover the ham tightly with foil and heat 35-40 minutes.

Another option for adding extra juicy flavor is a glaze, which can be as simple as dissolving three parts brown sugar into one part honey in a small saucepan. Or for a more elegant affair, consider a fruit-infused glaze to complement the savory pork.

A Host of Hams

If you always thought a ham is a ham is a ham, it's time to think again. From the type of meat to the smoking preparation to specialized slicing that makes serving easy, there are plenty of options to consider from a supplier like Omaha Steaks when choosing the right ham.

Savory

For an elegant gathering that demands premium ingredients, an all-natural Duroc Boneless Country Ham may be the answer. These hams tend to feature more marbling for an exceptionally rich flavor and texture, making for a tender, savory and juicy main course with no basting or injection needed.

Smoky

Put a little flair in your Easter meal with a uniquely flavored ham like the Pecanwood Smoked Flank Ham, smoked with real pecan wood for 8 hours to add a rich yet mellow smoky flavor. This tender, juicy uncured whole-muscle ham earns its place of distinction on your holiday table. Complementary sides with subtle nutty notes, such as a sweet potato casserole, can enhance the menu even more.

Sweet

Each Spiral-Sliced Ham is slowly smoked with real wood up to 24 hours to infuse flavor and maximize juiciness then generously brushed with a sweet and sticky brown-sugar crust that is torch-glazed to create a flavorful, crunchy crust. It's spiral-sliced before delivery, so once it's thawed and heated, it's ready for quick service to your guests.

Celebrate Hispanic culture at the dinner table

By Metro Creative

Hispanic heritage is a celebration of the people who trace their origins to South America, Central America, Mexico, Spain, and certain areas of the Caribbean. Each Hispanic country has its own unique cultural traditions, and many of these traditions revolve around food. Those who want to toast Spanish culture and cuisine can whip up the following recipe for Morcilla con Setas (Blood Sausage with Mushrooms, Spring Peas and Mint Oil) from James Campbell Caruso's "Español: Exploring the Flavors of Spain" (Gibbs Smith).

Morcilla con Setas (Blood Sausage with Mushrooms, Spring Peas and Mint Oil)

Serves 4
1 pound morcilla blood sausage
1 pound mushrooms, sliced
2 tablespoons olive oil
4 cloves garlic, slivered
Salt and pepper to taste
2 tablespoons white wine
1 cup shelled spring peas
1 tablespoon chopped fresh mint
2 tablespoons mint oil
Mint Oil
1/2 cup extra-virgin olive oil
1/2 cup chopped mint
Pinch of salt
Cut the blood sausage into 12 slices. Saute the mushrooms in olive oil with garlic, salt and pepper for 5 minutes.

Add the wine and cook for 2 more minutes. Boil the peas for 2 minutes and drain. When mushrooms are done, remove from heat and stir in the peas.

In a cast-iron skillet, sear the morcilla in a dry pan for 2 minutes per side. Arrange the slices of morcilla down the middle of a platter. Surround with mushroom/pea mixture and drizzle the plate with the mint oil.

For the mint oil: In a small saucepan over medium heat, heat olive oil to warm. Remove from heat and add the mint and a small pinch of salt. Allow to rest for 1 hour. Drain through a sieve. Reserve extra mint oil for other uses, such as vinaigrette.

Sneaky ways to get your kids eating healthier

By BRANDPOINT

Every parent knows it can be a challenge to get kids to eat healthy foods. Serving piles of vegetables, whole grains and lean proteins might be our goal, but it might not guarantee that children will actually eat them.

Registered dietitian Dawn Jackson Blatner offers tips for upping the nutrients in family meals without your kids suspecting a thing.

Pack the meatloaf with vegetables. If meatloaf is a family favorite, you're in luck. It's easy to add finely grated vegetables like carrots into your meatloaf mix without anyone being the wiser. Carrots are loaded with nutrients such as fiber, potassium and beta-carotene. Or try adding minced celery, green peppers or spinach to meatloaf (or meatballs!) for a nutrition boost. You can also combine cooked lentils with your ground beef for a leaner meatloaf without sacrificing flavor.

Italian favorites with added veggies. When cooking Italian dishes like lasagna, adding chopped broccoli or spinach to one of your layers is an easy way to increase its nutritional value. Boost nutrition of jarred pasta sauce for any Italian dish by pureeing in your favorite cooked veggies like broccoli, carrots, squash or peppers without anyone noticing. This powered-up sauce is great for making homemade superfood pizza, too.

Asian stir fry at home. Instead of relying on Asian takeout meals, make stir fry at home. It's quick and easy, and you can buy pre-cut chicken or beef to speed up your prep time. Get fresh or frozen veggies like sugar snap peas, grated carrots, broccoli florets and peppers and stir fry with soy sauce and a bit of ginger and garlic powder. It's a high-veggie, craveable meal loaded with vitamins and fiber. Serve with brown rice instead of white for even more nutrition.

Use the best ingredients. Choosing your ingredients with care makes a huge difference in nutritional value. Blatner says that using Eggland's Best eggs makes any recipe more nutritious, as they contain more than double the vitamin B12 when compared with ordinary eggs. "Vitamin B12 transforms food to energy that kids need to play and grow," says Blatner. They also contain more vitamin D, which helps a child's body absorb calcium, a mineral that bones need to stay strong and grow properly, according to the National Institutes of Health. Compared to ordinary eggs, they have 25 percent less saturated fat, plus contain more than double the omega-3s and 10 times more vitamin E.

To celebrate National Nutrition Month this March, Eggland's Best and Life Time 60day are challenging families across America to Plus It Up when it comes to their overall nutrition and wellness routine. For the chance to win prizes such as free product coupons, gift cards, fitness trackers, cooking equipment and more, enter the Eggland's Best "Plus It Up" Instant Win Sweepstakes at EBPlusItUpSweepstakes.com. One grand prize winner will receive $5,000 to plus up their family's fitness routine!

4 easy tips for nutrition

By BrandPoint

Focus on real, whole foods

Stay away from fast food and artificial ingredients and instead stock up on whole foods like leafy greens, nuts and fruits. Find recipes that help you recreate your favorite comfort food recipes in a healthy way, like a vegan fettuccine Alfredo. If you're entertaining guests, a plant-based entree ensures that most guests can share in the meal. For example, a vegetarian nut loaf is a dense and hearty base that you can spice up by roasting Brussels sprouts, carrots and sweet potatoes, with rosemary for added fiber and nutrients.

Find the right tools

When you're hungry, you need cooking tools that will help you get the job done faster. LG's smart ovens with ProBake Convection(TM) ensure even baking and consistent browning every time, and their large capacity allows you to cook several dishes at once. You can roast a pan of veggies and your lean protein all at once — you won't have time to snack on junk food. You can also check the status of your dish from your smartphone, instead of spending so much time in the kitchen.

Plan ahead

Plan your meals ahead of time so you know what's on the menu. You won't be tempted to stop and pick up takeout if you have all the ingredients for a delicious meal at home. But despite your best efforts, life gets in the way of even the most perfectly planned meal. Select LG electric oven models allow you to preheat remotely from your phone when you're stuck in traffic or in a long line at the store.

Keep healthy snacks on hand

Encourage yourself to make healthy choices all day with packable snacks on hand. Put pre-portioned carrots and hummus or tuna and crackers in your refrigerator for when you need an energy boost. The LG InstaView refrigerator's Door-in-Door feature allows you to reach in and grab items without opening the main door and dispelling cold air. It's ideal for putting nutrient-packed snacks and beverages front and center.

A nutrient-dense diet doesn't have to mean giving up your favorite foods.

It's Time for a Spring Fling

The Popcorn Board • www.popcorn.org

The sleepy lull of the winter solstice has finally come to an end. Whisk away the cobwebs, pack away the parka and haul out the patio furniture--spring is underway and not a moment too soon! Everywhere you turn, the earth is teeming with life. It is an unabashed season of rebirth; an awakening of the dormant spirit that calls for celebration.

Now is the perfect time to welcome the outside world back into your home. Plan an afternoon tea with friends and neighbors who've been in hibernation these past few months. An afternoon tea gives you the perfect excuse to 1) get your spring cleaning done 2) use your seldom seen china and silver and 3) pretend you're a British royal and wear a fashionable hat.

Of course, Americans have favored coffee over tea since 1773, so you'll want to have both available. Additionally, offer guests finger sandwiches and sweets. The following recipe tops a shortbread-type base with the sweet goodness of strawberry preserves, popcorn for an added whole grain bonus and drizzled chocolate for an elegant touch.

Popcorn Strawberry Bars

Yield: 24 bars

- 4 cups popped popcorn
- 2 cups flour
- 1/2 cup confectioners' sugar
- 1 cup (2 sticks) butter, cut into pieces
- 1 egg white
- 1 (10 oz.) jar strawberry preserves
- 1 cup chocolate chips

- Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease a 9" x 13" pan; set aside.
- Process flour and confectioners' sugar in food processor several seconds. Add butter and process until dough comes together.
- Press mixture evenly into prepared pan. Lightly brush egg white on top of the mixture. Bake 25 minutes, or until golden.
- Immediately spread preserves evenly over warm crust. Press popcorn into preserves; let cool.
- Melt chocolate chips in small zip lock freezer bag. Heat in microwave 30 seconds, or until melted.
- Snip corner of bag and drizzle chocolate over cooled popcorn.
- Cool and cut into bars.

Tea Party Popcorn

Yield: 2 1/2 quarts

- 2 1/2 quarts popped popcorn
- 1/4 cup melted butter
- 2 tablespoons instant lemon-flavored iced tea mix
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- Put freshly popped popcorn in a large bowl.
- Drizzle butter over it and toss.
- Combine tea and sugar.
- Add to buttered popcorn and toss again.

Simple ways to curb carbs when eating on the go

By BRANDPOINT

Whether you are trying to reduce carbs or eat more protein, eating well on the go can be a challenge.

Quality carbohydrates like whole-grain breads, milk, yogurt, fruits and legumes are an important part of a balanced diet, especially for children and teens. For adults, reducing the amount of empty carbs you eat can be a great way to meet your personal wellness goals. It's important to replace those carbs with lean meats, healthy fats and nutrient-dense vegetables.

Here are a few simple suggestions to eat on the go while still following your current diet.

Keto-style

A ketogenic diet, also known as keto, is a popular diet that balances protein, fat and carbs roughly in the following breakdown:

- 10 percent or less of their calories from carbs
- 70 to 80 percent of their calories from fat
- 10 to 20 percent of their calories from protein

One good way to follow a ketogenic diet is with a salad starting with a lean meat such as rotisserie-style chicken, turkey breast, steak or roast beef. Add in some veggies like lettuce, spinach and onions. Then top it all off with a dressing that has less than 2 grams of carbs like ranch, savory Caesar, oil and vinegar or Chipotle Southwest.

BRANDPOINT

It's important to replace empty carbs with lean meats, healthy fats and nutrient-dense vegetables.

Carb-conscious

If keto sounds too ambitious for you, there are other simple ways to reduce carbs in your diet, like asking for a lettuce wrap instead of a sandwich. You can make any Subway sandwich into a nutritious salad with five servings of veggies.

Visit subway.com and use the nutrition chart to see how your favorite salad stacks up, or try these favorites:

- "Spicy" Steak Salad: Order a steak salad with your favorite veggies plus jalapenos, shredded Monterey Cheddar and Chipotle Southwest sauce. This has 380 calories, 17 grams of carbs and 21 grams of protein.

"Cobb-style" Oven Roasted Chicken Salad:

Try a salad with oven roasted chicken, guacamole, your favorite veggies and top it off with ranch dressing. This has 420 calories, 20 grams of carbs and 21 grams of protein. You could also add a strip of bacon for an additional 35 calories.

If you're in the mood for a sub but would like to cut down on carbs, you can always ask to have your bread scooped out.

Quality carbs

Trying to improve the overall nutrition quality in your diet, but don't want to cut carbs? Try these easy swaps:

Swap white bread for wheat. Select whole grain-certified 9-Grain Wheat

Swap sweet sauce for savory. Try mustard, oil and vinegar or mayo

Swap sweet drinks for water. Choose bottled water or unsweetened fountain drinks

Are meal delivery services right for your family?

By Metro Creative

Working parents are busy with commitments to work, family and their children's school and extracurricular activities. As a result of such commitments, families may find they have little time to devote to cooking, let alone shopping for food.

As an alternative to dining out, which can be expensive, many families are exploring home-delivery meal kits. For those who value convenience and fresh foods, meal delivery services could be the way to go. Consumer research firm Pentallact predicts the meal-kit business will grow by as much as 30 percent over the next five years. Here is a look at the advantages and disadvantages to them.

Pros

Meal delivery kits' biggest selling points are convenience and ease of preparation. Such kits may it possible for even novice home cooks to prepare restaurant-quality meals in their own kitchens. The boxes are filled with a week's worth of ingredients for various recipes. The recipes spell out, step-by-step, how to create delicious meals.

Meal kits can provide a great way to try new foods, enticing eaters to try different recipes. They're also a good idea for families or singletons who may be bored preparing their typical staples.

Another advantage to meal kits is the portions of the meals are already determined, helping people better control how much they eat. Meal kit users also are unlikely to waste food, which might be common for those accustomed to preparing large meals they rarely finish.

Cons

Cost is usually the biggest detriment to meal kits. Even though meal kits may cost less per person than dining out, they're still on the expensive side. Meal kit devotees pay for the convenience of having someone plan, package and ship high-quality meals to their doorsteps. Meals may cost anywhere from $50 to $200 per week, with the average at about $10 per meal, per person, says Pentallact. People who can get great deals at grocery stores may feel meal kits are not worth the cost.

Another potential problem with meal kits is that consumers may be at the mercy of the company in terms of the variety of foods available to them. Picky eaters may find the kits include items they will not eat, which can make kits a waste of money and food. Also, it may take some research to find companies that offer foods that fit with dietary preferences, such as those that cater to food allergies or vegan diets or companies that provide organically sourced ingredients.

Environmentalists may frown upon the excess packaging and cooling packs used in some meal kits. Consumers must be committed to recycling or reusing packaging to make meal kits more eco-friendly.

Families who want to give meal kits a try are urged to read reviews on services and check out available menus to ensure the investment is worth it. If convenience is key, meal kits may be the ideal fit.

metabolism at its peak, helping support weight loss efforts naturally."

An added bonus? Weight loss isn't the only potential benefit of having a good breakfast; a 2013 study published in "Obesity" suggests other health gains in addition to weight loss, such as decreased risk of heart disease and Type 2 diabetes.

How Should Your Day Look?

The quality of food you eat also matters. Here's an example of what Rodriguez suggests a typical day look like:

- Breakfast and lunch should be satisfying, protein-rich and include a small amount of healthy fats and carbohydrates.
- Think: an egg and veggie scramble with a piece of fruit for breakfast or chicken with veggies and pasta alongside a green salad for lunch.
- Dinner should be light and include a lean protein and lots of non-starchy vegetables. Rodriguez suggests decreasing carbs in the evening.
- Think: meatloaf with veggies or something like Jenny Craig's Three Cheese Macaroni with Broccoli and Carrots.

- Snacks are an important part of the equation too. Rodriguez recommends snacks under 200 calories, spaced between meals. Choose something with protein and fiber to help keep you feeling full.
- Think: a small apple with a teaspoon of nut butter, or nonfat Greek yogurt with a handful of berries.
- Consider weight loss programs that embrace the science around the body's natural circadian rhythm, such as Jenny Craig's newest program, Rapid Results, to help optimize metabolism and accelerate weight loss. Also, look for programs that offer satisfying breakfasts with just the right amount of proteins, carbohydrates and fats. The Jenny Craig program offers over 20 chef-crafted, nutritionist-designed breakfast items. For more information, or to book a free appointment with a personal weight loss consultant, visit jenny-craig.com.
- Eating breakfast may improve your health in more ways than one. The next time you're rushing out the door in the morning, don't forget to grab something good to eat — your body will thank you!

Prime Minister May says she'll step down if Brexit deal OK'd

She would quit within weeks if agreement is passed and Britain leaves European Union

By JILL LAWLESS and DANICA KIRKA
ASSOCIATED PRESS

LONDON — British Prime Minister Theresa May offered up her job in exchange for her Brexit deal Wednesday, telling colleagues she would quit within weeks if the agreement was passed and Britain left the European Union.

May's dramatic concession that "there is a desire for a new approach — and new leadership" was a last-ditch effort to bring enough reluctant colleagues on board to push her twice-rejected EU divorce deal over the line.

It looked like it might not be enough, as a key Northern Ireland party said it would not be supporting the deal.

May's announcement came as lawmakers held an inconclusive series of votes on alternatives to her unpopular deal. It was the first step in an attempt by Parliament to break the Brexit deadlock and stop the country from tumbling out of the bloc within weeks with no exit plan in place.

May has been under mounting pressure from pro-Brexit members of her Conservative Party to quit. Many Brexiteers accuse her of negotiating a bad divorce deal that leaves Britain too closely tied to the bloc after it leaves.

Several have said they would support the withdrawal deal if another leader took charge

Alaska's Tlingit Code Talkers praised for secret WWII work

Army veteran Richard Bean Sr. of Hoonah, Alaska, died without anyone knowing that he and other Alaska Natives had used their Tlingit language to outsmart the Japanese during World War II

Serviceman George Lewis Jr. of Sitka, Alaska, was one of the servicemen who helped the military outsmart the Japanese with Tlingit codes they could not break.

ANCHORAGE, Alaska — Army veteran Richard Bean Sr. died without anyone knowing that he and four other long-deceased Alaska Natives had used their Tlingit language to outsmart the Japanese during World War II.

Now, they are finally being hailed in their home state for their lifesaving efforts as servicemen.

Earlier this month, legislators passed a formal citation honoring the Tlingit Code

Talkers. State flags were flown at half-staff and later presented to the men's families.

Bean and the others had been forbidden to speak Tlingit as schoolchildren in their southeast Alaska villages. Later, they used it to provide the military with unbreakable codes, as did their more well-known peers, Navajo Code Talkers.

The language of the Alaska Natives had been suppressed by missionaries and teachers trying to "civilize" them, said Rosita Worl, president of the Sealaska Heritage Institute. The Juneau nonprofit works to preserve and enhance the cultures of southeast Alaska's Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian tribes.

Punishments for students who spoke Tlingit included having their mouths washed out with soap and their hands struck with rulers, Worl said.

"We're finally ecstatic that there is this recognition that our people served this country, even served this country that wasn't always good to them," she said.

The men's contributions went

Charlottesville attacker pleads guilty to 29 hate crimes

Man drove his vehicle into a crowd of counter-protesters

By DENISE LAVOIE
AP LEGAL AFFAIRS WRITER

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. — An Ohio man pleaded guilty Wednesday to federal hate crime charges in a deadly car attack at a 2017 white nationalist rally in Virginia, a case that stirred racial tensions across the country.

Under a plea agreement, James Alex Fields Jr. of Maumee, Ohio, pleaded guilty to 29 of 30 federal charges stemming from the "Unite the Right" rally in Charlottesville on Aug. 12, 2017. He did not plead guilty to one count that carried a potential death penalty. His plea agreement says the death penalty was taken off the table.

Fields appeared stoic, with hands folded in front of him for much of the hearing. He did not speak, except to repeatedly respond "yes, sir," when U.S.

US will reassign 750 border inspectors as illegal crossings rise

By CEDAR ATTANASIO
ASSOCIATED PRESS

EL PASO, Texas — The Trump administration said Wednesday it will temporarily reassign several hundred border inspectors as beleaguered forces already stationed along the U.S.-Mexico border struggle to keep pace with the growing number of migrant families who are showing up at the border in poor health and turning themselves in to agents to request asylum.

Customs and Border Protection Commissioner Kevin McAleenan said the reassignment of 750 border inspectors would mean longer waits at crossings as the busy Easter holiday nears but that it was necessary to address what he called "an operational crisis." The reassigned officers will process migrants,

Parkland looks beyond therapy to reach teens after suicides

Community trying to connect with teens who are averse to traditional therapy

By KELLI KENNEDY
ASSOCIATED PRESS

PARKLAND, Fla. — Days after the suicides of two student survivors of the Parkland school shooting, community leaders were frantically putting extra services in place Wednesday to try to connect with those hard-to-reach students who are averse to traditional therapy.

A local nonprofit had planned to open a teen wellness center near Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School on April 30, offering free activities like karaoke night, yoga, kickboxing and acupuncture for students who weren't interested in talking to a therapist. But Eagle's Haven opened ahead of schedule Monday to address emergency needs of students and their families.

"One teen just wanted to cry yesterday and didn't want to talk. Another teen wanted to tell his story about the actual shooting," said Julie Gordon, a licensed therapist and program director of Jewish Adoption and Family Care Options, the nonprofit behind Eagle's Haven.

The first Parkland suicide took place March 16. Cara Aiello told WFOR-TV her 18-year-old daughter Sydney had suffered from survivor's guilt — her friend, Meadow Pollack, died in the attack. Coral Springs police Officer Tyler Reik confirmed Monday that a Stoneman Douglas sophomore apparently killed himself Saturday, but officials were still awaiting autopsy results. The boy's name was not immediately released.

The newly opened wellness center in a nondescript, mostly empty office space offered cookies, fruit and coffee for those who want just to check it out until they start holding after-school activities. The students are on spring break this week, making reaching them outside a central location more difficult.

In the aftermath of the Valentine's Day shooting that killed 17, well-intentioned therapy groups have struggled to get traumatized students in the door. Some feel re-traumatized talking about it; some only want to talk to friends who were there and understand what it's like; others still perceive a stigma around seeking help.

"One of the challenges has been is that the parents want to bring the kids in to talk and then the kids come in and they don't really want to be here because we're just another therapist," JAFCO executive director Sarah Franco said.

Their hope is that the wellness activities will get students in the door and offer an outlet to release some of those emotions, emphasizing that talk therapy is not the only solution. But free traditional therapy also will be offered for those who want it, and therapists will even go to students' homes, if that's more comfortable.

NEWS FROM AROUND THE STATE

Hail dings windshields, breaks windows in Florida

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — A series of hail storms in central Florida dinged up car windshields and blew off pool screens in an unusual sight for the Sunshine State.

In tiny Trenton, the streets were covered in so much hail that it resembled a snow covering Wednesday morning. Workers from the public safety department in the city west of Gainesville posted photos to Facebook showing a backhoe cleaning up the icy mess.

Florida Today reports that pool enclosures were shredded, and windows were broken along the Space Coast.

Deputy shoots, wounds teen during domestic violence call

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Authorities say a Florida deputy shot and wounded a teen during a domestic violence call.

The Tampa Bay Times reports that the shooting occurred Tuesday night in Tampa. The teen was hospitalized in critical condition.

Hillsborough Sheriff Chad Chronister says Deputy Daniel Estanislau responded to the Jasmine Terrace Apartments following two calls about someone bleeding after an attack. After the deputy arrived, he reported spotting a 17-year-old male who matched the description of the attacker from the calls.

Teen dies after falling out of truck bed

FREEMONT, Fla. (AP) — Authorities say an Alabama teen has died after falling out of the bed of a pickup truck in Florida.

The Northwest Florida Daily News reports that 15-year-old Kaden Johnson of Pell City, Alabama, died Tuesday morning on the Clyde B. Wells Bridge near Freeport.

The Florida Highway Patrol reports the truck was crossing the bridge when Johnson fell out and was hit by a car. The car's driver pulled over, but the truck's driver kept going, not realizing Johnson had fallen. The driver filed a missing person's report with the Walton County Sheriff's Office when he reached his destination and noticed Johnson was missing.

Florida may allow legal papers to be notarized online

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The Florida legislature is considering making it possible for people to have legal documents notarized online.

The bill, HB 409, would make signing official documents, such as a will or power of attorney, quicker and more convenient in the state. Critics have expressed concerns that greater convenience could lead to more fraud, especially among the elderly.

The bill, proposed by Rep. Daniel Perez, R-Miami, moved Tuesday through the House transportation and tourism appropriations subcommittee and will be considered next in the Judiciary Committee, the final step before a House vote. A Senate version hasn't made as much progress.

Perez said he had traveled to Colombia recently, and he realized as he boarded the plane that he forgot to assign power of attorney to his in-laws. Requiring his appearance in person before a Florida-commissioned notary made it impossible to fix his oversight, he said.

Folice officer jailed on child rape charge

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Authorities say a Florida police officer faces rape charges after an image of a nude girl was found on his cellphone.

Jacksonville Undersheriff Pat Ivey says 39-year-old Officer Matthew Harper Butler was charged Tuesday with capital sexual battery of a victim under 12 years old. He remains in jail and bond was set at $1 million.

Florida Senate: Limit constitution changes to 1 subject

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Florida voters could be asked to restrict the state's Constitution Revision Commission from placing items on the ballot that contain more than one subject under a resolution unanimously passed by the Senate.

Senators from both parties expressed concerns that voters are being forced to vote for constitutional changes they don't support in order to approve changes they do support.

The commission meets every 20 years to suggest changes to the state constitution, which require approval from 60 percent of Florida voters. This year it placed seven items on the ballot, five of which bundled different subjects together. An example is an amendment that bans oil drilling and state waters and also vaping in places where smoking is banned.

Florida could expand size, scope of Alzheimer's committee

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The Florida Alzheimer's Disease Advisory Committee could be expanded in size and scope under a bill unanimously approved by the state House.

The House applauded Wednesday after passing the bill sponsored by Republican Rep. Scott Plakon, who lost his wife to Alzheimer's disease last year.

The bill would expand the committee from 10 members to 15, and it would have to include a sitting House and Senate member. The committee now makes recommendations to the Department of Elder Affairs. If the bill becomes law, the committee would have to also submit an annual report to the governor, Senate president and House speaker and make recommendations on Alzheimer's policy.

Florida House, Senate panels OK budget plans $400M apart

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Florida House and Senate budget writers on Wednesday approved spending plans for next fiscal year that are about $400 million apart and both short of the $91.3 billion proposed by Republican Gov. Ron DeSantis.

The legislative budget plans easily cleared appropriations committees in both chambers, readying them for a floor vote. Ultimately, the House and Senate will convene a conference committee to work out a final budget for the fiscal year that begins July 1. The budget is the only bill lawmakers must pass during the 60-day legislative session, which ends May 3.

The House budget clocks in at $89.9 billion, with the Senate proposing about $90.3 billion. Counting the governor, all three plans are significantly higher than the current Florida budget.

Key differences include overall spending levels on education and the environment, a $30 million split on school mental health services, Hurricane Michael recovery, affordable housing and whether to keep the Visit Florida tourism promotion office alive. It's set to expire in October under current law.

Ultimately, the legislative budgets moving out of committees Wednesday represent only the first markers in a debate that will consume much of the next month in Tallahassee.

NEWS FROM AROUND THE WORLD

Drug suspect caught fleeing Australia by Sea-Doo

SYDNEY (AP) — A British man wanted on drug charges has been thwarted in a daring bid to flee Australia for Papua New Guinea on a motorized personal watercraft.

Australian police said the 57-year-old man set out Monday on his Sea-Doo craft from the northern tip of Australia's Queensland state, carrying enough fuel to make the 86-mile trip across Torres Strait, and possibly armed with a crossbow.

But after an Australian Border Force vessel was deployed to search for him, he was located only a few miles from his destination at Saibai Island, an Australian territory near the southern coast of New Guinea.

Mozambique confirms 5 cases of cholera after cyclone

MAPUTO, Mozambique (TNS) — Authorities in flood-ravaged Mozambique confirmed five cases of cholera on Wednesday, after aid groups warned of a possible outbreak of the waterborne disease in the wake of cyclone Idai.

National Director of Medical Assistance Ussene Issa confirmed the cases of cholera to dpa by phone, saying all five were reported in the Munhava area of Beira.

The World Health Organization has already shipped some 900,000 doses of an oral cholera vaccine to Mozambique. The WHO is also providing expertise to set up three cholera treatment centers, including an 80-bed facility in Beira.

"Given the sheer amount of water that passed through Beira during cyclone Idai and the volume of damage caused, it's not surprising that there are outbreaks of waterborne disease like cholera in the city," the charity Doctors Without Borders said in a statement Wednesday.

The United Nations also warned of the risk of diarrhea and malaria.

"Flood waters are beginning to recede west of Beira City. ... The outflow of flood waters, however, poses new challenges, as the area that was previously underwater is now a large muddy swamp," the U.N. Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs (OCHA) said in a statement.

It has been almost two weeks since the cyclone hit southern Africa, with Mozambique bearing the brunt and parts of Zimbabwe and Malawi also devastated.

More than 700 people have died in the three countries combined, and hundreds of thousands have been displaced. The death toll is expected to rise considerably.

At least 3 million people have been affected in total, according to U.N. figures, by what has been called one of the worst cyclone-related disasters ever to hit the Southern Hemisphere.

On Wednesday, the first of three planes from the U.N. refugee agency (UNHCR) carrying relief items like tents, plastic tarpaulins, blankets, mosquito nets and solar lanterns landed in Mozambique.

The U.N. World Food Program on Wednesday also called on the international community to step up support, warning that the storm's victims would need at least six months to get back on their feet.

India says it successfully test-fires anti-satellite weapon

NEW DELHI (AP) — India successfully test-fired an anti-satellite weapon on Wednesday, Prime Minister Narendra Modi said in an unexpected announcement just weeks before a general election.

Modi said in an address broadcast live that Indian scientists had destroyed a low earth orbit satellite with a missile, demonstrating India's capacity as a "space power" alongside the U.S., Russia and China.

Pallava Bagla, a science writer at the New Delhi Television Channel, said that by successfully hitting the fast-moving satellite, India had crossed a "very significant threshold."

"India demonstrated that we can, if threatened, bring down an enemy satellite in space," Bagla said.

The announcement is Modi's latest bid to flex India's military muscle as his party seeks to retain power in polls beginning April 11.

After 40 Indian soldiers were killed in a February suicide bombing in disputed Kashmir, India said it retaliated with a "surgical strike" on a terrorist camp in Pakistan.

Afterward in an air skirmish, Pakistan shot down one of India's Soviet-era fighter jets, prompting scrutiny of India's aging military hardware.

Modi said Wednesday that the new capability is "not against anyone," and that India's policy remains against the use of weapons in space.

Norway cruise ship engines failed from lack of oil

AP PHOTO

A cruise ship that was the focus of a daring rescue operation off Norway's frigid North Sea coast became disabled because its engines didn't have enough lubricating oil, the country's top maritime official said Wednesday. Low oil levels were the "direct cause" of the engine failure that stranded the ship during a storm Saturday, Lars Alvestad, the acting director general of the Norwegian Maritime Authority, said. Sensors detected the oil shortage and automatically shut down the Viking Sky's engines to prevent a breakdown, he said.

FTC crackdown stops billions of illegal robocalls

By RON HURTIBISE
SUN SENTINEL

Operations responsible for more than a billion illegal robocalls, including one based in South Florida, have agreed to permanently stop the harassing activities, according to the Federal Trade Commission.

The four operations, each comprised of numerous affiliated companies, are defendants in civil lawsuits by the FTC aimed at seizing their assets and stopping them from making fraudulent calls. Each faced charges they violated the FTC Act and the agency's Telemarketing Sales Rule, including its Do Not Call provisions.

Under court orders announced Tuesday that have been finalized or are expected to be finalized in coming days, the four companies are barred from robocalling and most telemarketing activities, including use of automatic dialer programs, and will pay financial judgments.

One of the companies provided the software that the FTC is blaming for making more than a billion illegal robocalls.

Robocalls remain a large and growing problem in the U.S., as sophisticated operations have learned to target mobile phones with spoofed caller IDs.

Last week, phone service providers AT&T and Comcast announced successful completion of a test of a new Caller ID authentication system using digital certificates to verify that an incoming call's display ID isn't being spoofed.

The two companies said they planned to make the services available to their customers later in the year.

Boca Raton-based Pointbreak Media was shut down in May 2018 amid allegations the company falsely claimed to represent Google and threatened businesses with removal from Google search results unless they paid a one-time fee ranging from $300 to $700, the FTC said.

Defendants affiliated with Pointbreak that agreed to settle with the FTC include Michael Pocker and companies Modern Spotlight LLC, Modern Spotlight Group LLC, Modern Internet Marketing LLC; Steffan Molina and companies Perfect Image Online LLC and Pinnacle Presence LLC; and Ricardo Diaz.

The Pocker settlement orders him and his companies to pay more than $5.5 million in fines to the FTC, but those will be suspended after Pocker pays more than $18,000. Likewise, the Molina settlement orders him and his companies to pay more than $5 million in fines, but those fines will be suspended upon payment of about $103,000.

Diaz was hit with a $1.81 million judgment, which will be "partially suspended" upon payment of $690,817, the FTC said.

The other companies that agreed to permanently end robocalling activities are:

- NetDotSolutions and numerous affiliated companies that operated "TelWeb," a computer-based telephone dialing platform that can be used to blast out a large number of robocalls in a short time. Billions of robocalls were made using TelWeb, including calls to numbers on the National Do Not Call registry and calls with fake, or spoofed, caller IDs, the FTC said.

- Higher Goals Marketing, based in Orlando, pitched fake debt-relief services, promising to substantially and permanently lower consumers' credit card interest rates and save them thousands of dollars in interest payments, the FTC said.

- Veterans of America was shut down as part of an enforcement effort dubbed "Operation Donate with Honor," a crackdown on fraudulent charities that gain consumers' trust by promising that donations will help veterans and servicemembers, the FTC said. This scheme also used the names Saving Our Soldiers, Donate Your Car, Donate That Car LLC, Act of Valor and Medal of Honor.

None of the names is a real charity, the FTC said. The operation's ringleader, Travis Deloy Paterson, faces a $541,032 monetary judgment which will be suspended after he provides significant assets, including eight vehicles, to the FTC.

Man pleads guilty to kidnapping Jayme Closs, killing parents

By STEVE KARNOWSKI
ASSOCIATED PRESS

BARRON, Wis. — A Wisconsin man pleaded guilty Wednesday to kidnapping 13-year-old Jayme Closs and killing her parents, in a move that spares the girl held captive in a remote cabin for three months from the possible trauma of having to testify at his trial.

Jake Patterson, 21, sniffling and his voice caught as he pleaded guilty to two counts of intentional homicide and one count of kidnapping. As part of a plea deal, prosecutors dropped a count of armed burglary. Patterson faces up to life in prison when he is sentenced May 24; Wisconsin does not have the death penalty.

In a bizarre remark as he left the courtroom, Patterson turned back and said "Bye, Jayme." His victim wasn't there.

Patterson had said he would plead guilty in a letter sent this month to a Minneapolis TV station, saying he didn't want the Closs family "to worry about a trial."

AP PHOTO

Patterson admitted kidnapping Jayme after killing her parents, James and Denise Closs, on Oct. 15 at the family's home near Barron, about 90 miles northeast of Minneapolis. Jayme escaped in January, after 88 days in Patterson's cabin in near the small, isolated town of Gordon, some 60 miles from her home.

The plea, coupled with an earlier decision by prosecutors not to bring charges in the county where Jayme was held, increases the chances that the details of her time in captivity will remain private.

Patterson stoically answered "yes" and "yeah" to repeated questions from Barron County Judge James Babler about whether he understood what he was doing. Later, as he responded "guilty," to each count, he could be heard sniffing. He paused for several seconds after the judge asked him about the kidnapping charge before stuttering, "guilty."

Defense attorney Richard Jones told Babler that Patterson "wanted to enter a plea from the day we met him" and brushed off strategies presented to him, including trying to suppress his statements to investigators.

"He rejected all that and has decided this is what he wants to do," Jones said.

Trump Fed pick Stephen Moore owes $75,000 to IRS

By CHRISTOPHER CONDON and JOE LIGHT
BLOOMBERG NEWS

WASHINGTON — Stephen Moore, whom President Donald Trump said he'll nominate for a seat on the Federal Reserve, owes more than $75,000 in taxes and other penalties, according to the U.S. government.

A federal tax lien filed in the circuit court for Montgomery County, Md., where Moore owns a house, says that the government won a judgment against Moore for $75,328.80. The January 2018 filing said it was for unpaid taxes from the 2014 tax year and could accrue additional penalties and other costs.

An IRS spokesman said he was prohibited by law from commenting on the case. A White House spokesman declined to comment. Moore referred questions about the tax debt to his wife, Anne Carey.

Carey said the dispute originated with a deduction on Moore's 2014 tax return in which he accidentally claimed the sum of his alimony and child-support payments to his former wife, when only alimony is deductible. Because Moore had moved, he never received notifications from the IRS after the agency audited the return, she said.

The IRS disallowed the entire deduction and added penalties and interest, Carey said. She said she and Moore have now resolved to pay the lien as quickly as possible but will continue to press their dispute with the IRS.

She said the couple had overpaid their taxes in more recent years by about $50,000 and will seek that amount in a refund when they file their 2018 tax return.

"It was not an attempt at defrauding the U.S. government," Carey said.

Carey said the White House hasn't raised alarm about the tax lien, which was reported earlier by the Guardian.

Trump announced last week he would nominate Moore, a senior fellow at the conservative Heritage Foundation, for an open seat on the Fed's board of governors. The White House hasn't yet officially submitted Moore's nomination to the Senate, which must vote to confirm him.

DeVos defends plan to eliminate Special Olympics funding

By COLLIN BINKLEY
AP EDUCATION WRITER

Education Secretary Betsy DeVos on Wednesday defended a proposal to eliminate funding for the Special Olympics, pushing back against a storm of criticism from athletes, celebrities and politicians who rallied to support the organization.

DeVos became a target on social media after Democrats slammed her plan to remove the group's funding as part of nearly $7 billion in budget cuts for next year. The Special Olympics received $17.6 million from the Education Department this year, roughly 10 percent of its overall revenue.

In a statement responding to criticism, DeVos said she "loves" the organization's work and has "personally supported its mission." But she also noted that it's a private nonprofit that raises $100 million a year on its own. Ultimately, she argued, her agency can't afford to continue backing it.

"There are dozens of worthy nonprofits that support students and adults with disabilities that don't get a dime of federal grant money," she said. "Given our current budget realities, the federal government cannot fund every worthy program, particularly ones that enjoy robust support from private donations."

Special Olympics

Chairman Tim Shriver on Wednesday pushed back against the proposed cut.

"This is not the old Special Olympics, it's not my mom's Special Olympics in some ways," he said on MSNBC. "This is a new Special Olympics. We are actively engaged in the educational purposes that the country has articulated at the federal level."

The Trump administration tried to eliminate Special Olympics funding in its previous budget proposal, too, but Congress ultimately increased funding for the group. Lawmakers indicated that the latest attempt will also fail.

DeVos is expected to present her budget Thursday, just days after being grilled over it in the House. Democrats on a House subcommittee asked DeVos how she could cut Special Olympics funding while calling for a $60 million increase in charter school funding.

FAA defends its reliance on aircraft makers to certify jets

WASHINGTON (AP) — Under fire from lawmakers on Capitol Hill over the two deadly Boeing crashes, the head of the Federal Aviation Administration on Wednesday defended the FAA's practice of relying on aircraft makers to help certify their own planes for flight.

Acting FAA Administrator Daniel Elwell said the strategy has "consistently produced safe aircraft designs for decades." And he said the agency would need 10,000 more employees and an additional $1.8 billion a year to do all the work now done by designated employees of the companies it regulates.

Under the self-certifying program, these employees perform tests and inspections needed to win safety approvals, with the FAA overseeing their work. The approach is credited with holding down government costs and speeding the rollout of new models.

But in the wake of the air disasters involving Boeing's new 737 Max jetliner in Ethiopia and Indonesia, that practice has been seized on as evidence of an overly cozy relationship between the FAA and the industry.

Sen. Richard Blumenthal, D-Conn., said at a Senate subcommittee hearing that delegating safety work to the companies puts "the fox in charge of the henhouse."

"The fact is that the FAA decided to do safety on the cheap, which is neither safe nor cheap," Blumenthal said. He vowed to introduce legislation to change the system.

At the same hearing, the Transportation Department's inspector general, Calvin Scovel III, said the FAA plans to significantly revamp its oversight of aircraft development by July. But the department gave no indication it intends to abandon the collaborative approach.

Federal judge blocks Medicaid work rules in two states

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge blocked Medicaid work requirements in two states on Wednesday, dealing a blow to one of the Trump administration's marquee efforts to push the poor toward self-sufficiency.

U.S. District Judge James E. Boasberg in Washington issued two decisions finding that Medicaid work requirements for low-income people in Arkansas and Kentucky pose numerous obstacles to getting health care that haven't been adequately resolved by federal and state officials.

He sent the federal Health and Human Services Department back to the drawing board.

Work requirements are already in effect in Arkansas, but Kentucky's program has been on hold because of lawsuits. Both states want "able-bodied" adults who get health insurance through the Affordable Care Act's Medicaid expansion to work, study, volunteer or participate in "community engagement" activities.

But advocates for the poor say that Medicaid is a health care program and that work requirements have no place in it. Boasberg did not resolve that core issue.

Instead, he wrote that HHS approval of the Arkansas requirement was "arbitrary and capricious because it did not address ... whether and how the project would implicate the 'core' objective of Medicaid: the provision of medical coverage to the needy."

He used similar language in his ruling on Kentucky.

Nationally, some 12 million people are covered by the Medicaid expansion, accepted now by more than 30 states. Officials in GOP-led states have argued that work requirements and other measures such as modest premiums are needed to ensure political acceptance for the expansion.

US stocks stumble, erasing some gains

(AP) — Technology and health care companies drove a broad slide in U.S. stocks Wednesday, erasing some of the market's solid gains from a day earlier.

The sell-off put the Dow Jones Industrial Average on track to end the month with a loss and marked the second drop for the benchmark S&P 500 index this week.

While U.S. stocks remain on track to finish the quarter with solid gains, investors remain anxious over the slowing global economy and worrisome signals coming from the bond market.

The yield on the benchmark 10-year Treasury note continued to decline Wednesday, dropping to 2.38 percent from 2.41 percent late Tuesday. That remained below the yield on the three-month Treasury bill. When that kind of "inversion" in bond yields occurs, economists fear it may signal a recession within the coming year.

The S&P 500 dropped 13.09 points, or 0.5 percent, to 2,805.37. Even with the latest slide, the index is up 11.9 percent so far in 2019, an unusually strong start to the year.

The Dow slid 32.14 points, or 0.1 percent, to 25,625.59. That came after a day of wavering, having been up as much as 100 points and down as much as 232 points.

Volunteers should err on the side of vaccination caution

DEAR DR. ROACH: I am a 74-year-old female who would like to volunteer at one of the local hospitals.

My bloodwork indicated that I have an immunity for measles, German measles and chickenpox, but not for mumps. My personal physician believes that it would be smart to get the MMR vaccination and that the benefits outweigh any possible side effects, which are uncommon.

What is your advice, given the fact I can opt out of getting this vaccine with a physician's OK? I am hesitant about possible side effects, especially at my age, and because there is not a single vaccine only for mumps, I'd be getting injected with vaccines I do not need. I also have not heard of any outbreaks of mumps in this country, unlike those of whooping cough. — M.M.

ANSWER: People born before 1957 generally are considered to be immune to measles, mumps and rubella. However, perhaps 1 or 2 percent of people may still not be immune to mumps, whether by waning immunity from natural infection over time or never having been exposed.

For a health care worker (that includes the very valuable volunteers who help in many hospital areas), it is reasonable to consider revaccination. There is no clear rule for someone in your unusual situation.

Unfortunately, there have been recent outbreaks of mumps, many associated with colleges. In the U.S. in 2018, there were over 2,000 reported mumps cases. My opinion is that you should either get the MMR vaccine (the risks for someone in their 70s are still small), or absent yourself from the hospital in the unlikely event of a mumps outbreak near you.

DEAR DR. ROACH: I have not seen any comments on cyanoacrylate for wound treatment in your column.

My wife cut her finger recently, and it took quite a long time for it to clot (she is a healthy and fit 70, walking 1,500 miles a year). That situation prompted thoughts of cyanoacrylate when there recently was a sale on single-use tubes at a local store.

Are there any negatives to keeping some in our first aid kit for sealing a deeper cut after cleansing? — L.V.L.

ANSWER: Cyanoacrylate is used in hospitals for wound closures (Dermabond is the name of one such prescription medication), as they are waterproof, have antimicrobial properties and are easy to use — for experts. Cyanoacrylate isn't appropriate for home or field use, as the wound needs to be appropriate in size, depth and shape, correctly prepared and very clean. Closing an infected wound is a terrible idea, and trying to glue a wound that is too deep is not likely to be effective. Lori Boyle, an advanced nurse practitioner and wound care expert I spoke to, said, "The only time that should be done is after the zombie apocalypse and there's no medical provider available."

A consumer product that I think is a better fit for a first aid kit is a liquid formulation bandage made with an antiseptic, benzethonium chloride, in a formulation with nitrocellulose and castor oil, which dries to protect the wound (New-Skin is one brand name).

Dream of joining Marine Corps is shot down by mom

DEAR ABBY: I'm originally from El Salvador. I have been living in the U.S. for five years, have been studying English for four years and I have my GED.

I want to join the U.S. Marine Corps because it is my dream. I want to do it because I think that service to this country is the best thing I can do. I want to protect this country, and I want my family to be proud of me.

Here is the problem: My mom and my wife don't want me to do it because they say it is dangerous. What should I do? — Dreaming in Houston

DEAR DREAMING: If joining the United States Marine Corps is your dream, then following your dream is what you should do. Now is the time to have a heart-to-heart talk with your wife because this decision will have an impact on her life as well as yours.

DEAR ABBY: I raised my children to be respectful, responsible adults who are career- and family-oriented. Both are college graduates, married and successful.

My eldest daughter recently announced that she has been "going through something" and surprised us with a tattoo on her shoulder sporting her children's names on a colorful, rather large background.

Dear Abby

I was shocked because she works at a large banking firm and was recently promoted as a senior financial investor. I'm now afraid it will impede her career advancement, and also concerned it will encourage her two young daughters to get tattoos.

Am I overreacting? — Disappointed in North Carolina

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: Yes, you are overreacting. In a situation like this, a mother should ask her daughter what "things" she has been going through, and what that tattoo means to her. The mother should also recognize that her daughter is an adult now, and her choice to apply body art is just that — a choice.

Know your doctor's details

Dear Heloise: I work at a busy surgery center in a medical complex. Multiple times a day, PATIENTS WANDER IN looking for their physician's office. They don't know the doctor's name, phone number or address, and their ride has dropped them at the door.

This leaves us in a difficult spot.

I don't have time to find a wheelchair and take the patient to a building on the far end of the complex for an appointment.

Please make sure you have the doctor's office information and phone number when you come to an appointment. I have no problem helping people, but unfortunately, I can't help when I don't have the information necessary.

Hints from Heloise

Along these same lines, please don't drop people off and drive away unless you know for absolute positive that they are in the right place. — Janey Mae, Omaha, Neb.

HOROSCOPE

ARIES (March 21-April 19). You're giving a performance of sorts, and you're not exactly sure how well it's going. If you ask too many questions, it might tip the other person off to your feelings of insecurity. But you can afford to ask one or two.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). With your vast projects, deep thoughts and complicated ventures of late, it may feel like the way you're living your life is unsuitable for small talk. But when you're with the right people, all flows naturally.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). The friendlier the environment, the more you worry someone is about to sell you a timeshare. And then there are the shark tanks. If you seem like you don't belong, they'll eat you alive. Act as if you've been there.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). People do different things to get through the tension of a workday. Some joke around. Some socialize. You'll have the easiest time of it when you isolate, turn on some tunes and focus hard in your own little bubble.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Rumination is unhelpful. But if you never think about the past, how can you learn from it? You'll split the difference. Think it over until you come up with one thing you could have done differently, and then move on.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Remember the time you heard of someone's good fortune and didn't feel the least bit happy? It's something to consider before sharing your own good news. Shield yourself from the repercussions of jealousy.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). You want to give voice to your admiration but are apprehensive about doing so, as you're afraid your flattery will sound foolish. The more specific and reasoned your compliment, the better it will land.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Some people can't write because they are blocked. You're the opposite today. You feel blocked in another area of life, and you'll write your way out of it. Getting your feelings down, if only to be read by you, will liberate you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). While no one is against you, there are those who are adamantly for themselves who happen to be positionally opposed to you. Someone will have to move to the side.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Persuasion is a subtle art. When the point of influence is detected, it ceases to work. You are most persuasive when you don't even realize it's what you're doing.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). It's time for another you-to-you review on the topic of caring for yourself. It's easy to forget, with so many people around wanting and needing things from you, that self-care is your No. 1 job on the planet.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Top lawyers don't build their entire case in the opening statement and neither should you. Your audience will stick with you today as you present your information in a thoughtfully ordered way.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (March 28). You'll discover new resources inside yourself. It comes about when you give yourself tasks that require great concentration and stamina. To turn inward for periods of time will build a core of strength you'll apply in many areas of life. You'll sign an important document in June. A stellar career move happens in August. Gemini and Scorpio adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 8, 10, 4, 39 and 18.

Modern players routinely transfer into a five-card or longer major suit. Tournament players also transfer into the minor suits, and that's what happened here. North's four-diamond bid was a mild slam try, promising at least a six-card diamond suit. South leaped to slam based on his three first-round controls and his big honor in diamonds. The slam was a good one, needing only for East to hold at least one of the two missing club honors. However, after West's normal king of hearts lead, South found a line of play that didn't rely on East's club holding.

South discarded the jack of spades from dummy while winning the opening heart lead with his ace. He ruffed a spade, cashed the ace of trumps, and led a trump to his queen. South discarded a low club from dummy on the ace of spades and ruffed another spade.

A club to the nine lost to West's queen, leaving West with the unpleasant choice of leading a club back into declarer's ace-10, or leading a heart from his queen. He chose a low heart. South discarded a club from dummy and won with his jack for his twelfth trick. Well done!

Note that if West had another spade, the lead of that spade would be ruffed in dummy and South's long spade would be established as a winner.

Trump appoints Wall Street executive to arts board despite sexual misconduct scandal embroiling his business

By CHRIS SOMMERFELDT
NEW YORK DAILY NEWS

NEW YORK — President Donald Trump tapped a wealthy Wall Street executive this week to serve as a trustee on a prestigious performing arts board — even though the financial honcho's company is embroiled in a sexual misconduct scandal.

Marc Stern, a major Republican donor and the chairman of Los Angeles-based asset management business TCW, was appointed by Trump on Tuesday to serve a six-year term as a trustee on the board of the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C. As a trustee, Stern will play part in administering the center's programming. It's unclear if the president knew before tapping Stern to the spot that his company has since January 2018 been ensnared in a court battle stemming from sexual misconduct allegations made by a former employee.

A White House spokesman declined to comment. Sara Tirschwell, who used to work as an investor for Stern's asset powerhouse, alleges in a lawsuit filed in Manhattan Supreme Court that her former boss, Jess Ravich, pressured her into having sex on multiple occasions. When she began refusing his advances, Tirschwell alleges Ravich stopped backing her asset fund, making it nearly impossible for her to adequately do her job.

Tirschwell says she then filed a complaint with the company's head of human resources, who pledged to investigate the matter. But just nine days later, the company abruptly fired her, claiming she had violated company policy by tipping off an investor in another department of a possible deal.

Tirschwell contends in her suit that her firing was the result of her coming forward with sexual misconduct allegations and is demanding $30 million in damages from TCW, claiming gender discrimination, contract breach and retaliation. Ravich still works at TCW.

Iraq war hero's family presented Medal of Honor

WASHINGTON (AP) — The son of an Army staff sergeant awarded a posthumous Medal of Honor by President Donald Trump on Wednesday said he wants his father to be remembered as the best parent and best soldier anyone could ever ask for.

And that's exactly how Travis Atkins will be remembered, Trump assured Atkins' son, Trevor Oliver.

Atkins, 31, of Bozeman, Montana, died in June 2007 while trying to subdue a suspected Iraqi insurgent in a town near Baghdad.

After realizing the man was trying to detonate a suicide vest, Atkins wrapped his body around the man and threw him to the ground, away from three of his soldiers who provide transportation and perform hospital watches for migrants who require medical attention. It is unknown when they will return to their regular duties.

McAleenan spoke in front of the metal fencing that separates El Paso from Juarez, Mexico, after a delay that followed the apprehension of several migrants who had crossed a shallow spot on the Rio Grande nearby and turned themselves in.

Arrests along the Mexican border jumped to 66,450 in February, up 149 percent from a year earlier, while arrests in the Border Patrol's El Paso sector, which stretches across New Mexico and much of West Texas, were about eight times higher than they were a year ago.

March is shaping up to be even busier. McAleenan said the agency was on track to make 100,000 arrests or denials of entry during the month, up about 30 percent from February and about double the same period last year. About 55,000 will have arrived as families, including 40,000 children.

The commissioner said the border was at "a breaking point," language that is consistent with the administration's portrayal of a state of crisis. President Donald Trump last month declared a national emergency to obtain military funds for construction of his prized border wall.

While arrests are still well below highs of the early 2000s, the surge of families and children has tested U.S. authorities.

Customs and Border Protection is taking more than 60 migrants to the hospital each day, McAleenan said. In the previous four days, he said infants have had 105-degree fevers, a 2-year-old suffered seizures in the desert and a 40-year-old man suffering organ failure refused surgery.

A few hundred yards from where McAleenan spoke, about 600 migrants were held in a football field-sized pen lined with concertina wire under the shade of a bridge that connects El Paso to Juarez.

of their race, color, religion, or national origin.

Urbanski scheduled sentencing for July 3. Fields faces a life sentence. Fields, 21, was convicted in December in a Virginia court of first-degree murder and other state charges for killing anti-racism activist Heather Heyer and injuring dozens of others. A jury found that Fields intentionally plowed his car into a crowd of people protesting against the white nationalists.

The "Unite the Right" rally drew hundreds of white nationalists to Charlottesville to protest the planned removal of a statue of Confederate Gen. Robert E. Lee. Hundreds more turned out to protest against the white nationalists.

President Donald Trump sparked a national uproar when he blamed the violence at the rally on "both sides," a statement critics saw as a refusal to condemn racism.

After Tuesday's plea hearing, U.S. Attorney Thomas Cullen said, "The defendant's hate-inspired act of domestic terrorism not only devastated Heather Heyer's wonderful family and the 28 peaceful protesters ... but it also left an indelible mark on the city of Charlottesville, our state and our country.

"While nothing can bring Heather back or make the other 28 victims whole, it is our hope that this plea provides some closure and helps these victims move on with their lives."

Heyer's mother, Susan Bro, said she and Heyer's father agreed that they did not want prosecutors to seek the death penalty.

"There's no point in killing him," she said. "It would not bring back Heather."

undisclosed for decades because the U.S. military had kept the unbroken codes secret in case they were needed in future wars.

"Their orders were not to talk about it," Ozzie Sheakley, an Army veteran and Tlingit leader, said about the five Alaska Natives. "They took those orders seriously."

Even their closest relatives had no clue about the wartime endeavors of Richard Bean Sr. of Hoonah and Robert "Jeff" David Sr. of Haines; Sitka brothers and Navy men Mark Jacobs Jr. and Harvey Jacobs; and Sitka resident George Lewis Jr., who served in the Army.

Bean's wife died before Congress posthumously recognized the men. His 85-year-old nephew, Ron Williams, never knew either, even though the two were close.

Williams said there was only one hint. His uncle told him a platoon leader had overheard him speaking Tlingit with Jeff David while the two served together in the Philippines. They were in the same company but different platoons.

The Army official asked how the men would like to handle communications then gave each a walkie-talkie.

That was all Bean said, and Williams never pushed for more, sensing his uncle didn't want to talk about it. Richard Bean died in 1985.

"Even the guys that knew him all his life, you know, they didn't know what he did either because he never said anything about it," Williams said.

David never said anything about the wartime duties to his son, Jeff David Jr., either.

"He just said he was in special services," the son said.

The military declassified the Navajo Code Talker program in 1968. But it was Sheakley, commander of the Southeast Alaska Native Veterans, got a call from Department of Defense officials.

They told him the five Alaskans had been identified as Code Talkers from the Tlingit tribe, along with others from 32 Lower-48 tribes. Soon they would get the recognition long afforded the Navajos, who made up the largest group of Code Talkers.

of the next stage of negotiations, which will determine Britain's future relations with the EU.

In a packed meeting of Conservative legislators described by participants as "somber," May finally conceded she would have to go, although she did not set a departure date.

"I am prepared to leave this job earlier than I intended in order to do what is right for our country and our party," she said, according to a transcript released by her office.

Anti-EU lawmaker Jacob Rees-Mogg, who has clashed with May throughout the Brexit process, said she had been "very clear" that if Britain leaves the EU as foreseen on May 22, she will quit soon after.

He said the prime minister had been "very dignified."

"She put her case well, and reiterated that she had done her duty," he said.

It was unclear whether May's offer to resign would be enough to win backing for her deal, which was defeated by 230 votes in January and by 149 votes earlier this month.

High-profile Brexitier Boris Johnson announced soon after May's statement that he would support the agreement, which he has previously called a "humiliation." Johnson is a likely contender to replace May as prime minister.

But other hard-liners said they would continue to reject the deal, and Northern Ireland's small but influential Democratic Unionist Party refused to budge in its opposition to the deal.

Boo light special? Market defends against ghost claim

WILMINGTON, Mass. (AP) — A New England supermarket chain is spiriting away rumors that one of its stores is haunted.

A spokeswoman for Market Basket says in a statement to The Boston Globe that "as far as we know all of our stores ghost-free" after someone posted on social media this month about seeing an apparition at a store in Wilmington, Massachusetts.

The person said the ghost was "an old Victorian era woman in her nightgown ... near the frozen peas." Hundreds of people weighed in, including others who claimed to have seen a ghost in the store.

Justine Griffin, the Market Basket spokeswoman, says that if there is anything to the ghost story, it's probably because she's "attracted to our Victorian-era prices."

Seminoles face Zags without emotional leader

Cofer, Florida State's senior forward, is on leave following the death of his father

By JOE REEDY
AP SPORTS WRITER

ANAHEIM, Calif. — Phil Cofer is not with Florida State but he was very much on the minds of his teammates as they practiced Wednesday.

The Seminoles are in the Sweet 16 for the second straight year but the senior forward is in Georgia preparing for his father's funeral on Saturday. Mike Cofer died on March 21 following a long illness.

Florida State (29-7) will face top-seeded Gonzaga in the West regional semifinal Thursday, with the winner facing either Michigan or Texas Tech on Saturday for a spot in the Final Four.

Fellow senior Terance Mann said he has talked to Cofer over the past couple days and said he is doing better.

"He just wished us luck, told us he will be watching, just talking about the game and what our game plan was," Mann said.

Cofer received a call in the locker room in Hartford, Connecticut, after Florida State's first-round victory over Vermont informing him of his father's death. Mike Cofer, who played 10 seasons in the NFL for the Detroit Lions, battled amyloidosis for over a decade. It is a rare disease in which an abnormal protein builds up in organs with the potential to cause many health issues. It is the same disease which caused Matt Millen to get a heart transplant last Christmas Eve.

Phil Cofer remained with the team for their second-round victory over Murray State before flying home the following day.

Coach Leonard Hamilton said Cofer originally intended to join the team in California, but those plans changed once he returned home and learned about the arrangements.

"Once they sat down as a family and discussed it, it became obvious that the best thing for him to do was to sacrifice being out here with his teammates and take care of the family business, and I agree with him," Hamilton said.

Cofer has been the team's emotional leader the past two seasons. He led the team in scoring last season, averaging 12.8 points as Florida State made the Elite Eight. Cofer has been plagued by injuries this season. He averaged 7.4 points and missed 11 games due to a foot injury.

Cofer also did not play in either NCAA Tournament game last week due to a right foot injury.

"Phil has always been a great teammate," said sophomore forward Mifondu Kabengele, who leads the Seminoles in scoring (13.4 points per game). "Whatever he has been going through this season has been tough. We understand. We are going to play hard for him and get him through it this time."

Koch goes the distance, stops Shamrocks' bats

After retiring first nine batters, Tarpons' ace gets first complete game, posts five strikeouts

Charlotte pitcher Cam Koch began the game against Dublin Coffman by retiring the first nine batters. He earned the 3-1 victory by throwing a complete game with five strikeouts.

By CHUCK BALLARO
SUN CORRESPONDENT

PUNTA GORDA — It was going to take a lot of convincing from Charlotte High School pitcher Cam Koch to keep coach Lovell Cudjo from taking him out of the game.

But his teammates had his back, and Koch talked him out of it, and it turned out to be the right move as he slammed the door on the Dublin Coffman team from Ohio in a 3-1 Charlotte win Wednesday.

Koch allowed two hits, an unearned run and a walk while striking out five for his first career complete game.

But after surrendering a leadoff walk in the seventh, Cudjo came out with the intent of pulling him with the tying run coming to the plate.

"I asked him if he wanted the game and he said yes. I told him he had to finish it. The team came in and told me they had it," Cudjo said.

The move paid off as Bryce Hostetler hit into a 4-6-3 double play to end the Shamrocks' final chance.

"It was all about confidence. I was more worried about getting ground balls and letting my teammates get the outs," Koch said.

Koch retired the first nine batters. However, Dublin Coffman (1-1) had its own ace, Ryan Ebeling, who matched Koch pitch for pitch, striking out nine of the first 11 batters as the teams went scoreless through three with help from the strong wind blowing in.

The Shamrocks finally broke the tie in the fourth. Spencer Eiselt reached on an error and was bunted to second. Luke Bartemes singled to put runners on the corners before James Bartman drove in a run with a single to make it 1-0.

Charlotte (6-3) responded in the bottom of the fourth as Bryce Hayse doubled and came home on Aaron Martins triple to tie the game. John Dominguez drove in what turned out to be the game-winning run on a single to make it 2-1.

Kevin Conway added an RBI single in the fifth to give the Tarpons an insurance run.

"We have to make adjustments. We've pitched well, but we've waited until the fifth or sixth inning to start hitting the ball," Cudjo said. "We were taking pitches we should be hitting and decided to just hit the fastball."

Hayse had two hits and a run scored for Charlotte. Ebeling pitched five innings, striking out 10 while allowing six hits without allowing a walk for the Shamrocks, who have been training at Charlotte during their spring break.

"We were trying to save Ryan tonight to about 70 pitches. It was nice to see him get some strikeouts," said Dublin Coffman coach Tim Saunders. "We played well, but they're a talented team and we're not used to throwing now against live hitters like this."

Rays realize importance of strong start to season

Tampa Bay hosts Opening Day against the Astros with last year's 4-13 start behind them

By EDUARDO ENCINA
TAMPA BAY TIMES

ST. PETERSBURG — As the Rays open their season against the Houston Astros Thursday at Tropicana Field, they don't need to be reminded about how important it is to have a strong start.

Their fantastic flurry to a 90-win season is what most will remember about 2018, but the difference between a third-place finish and potentially a postseason berth was a horrid beginning to the season that saw the Rays open 4-13.

This year, they open up with their first two series at home. Their first seven games will be against an Astros team that won 103 games last season and a Rockies club that had the fourth-most wins in the National League with 91.

"It's like a little taste of the playoffs right there to see what they got and how they went to the playoffs last year," shortstop Willy Adames said. "That makes us work harder because they went to the playoffs and that's where everybody wants to be."

The Rays' first nine games last season were against division heavyweights Boston and New York, and after winning Opening Day, they lost eight straight against those teams. By the end of that 17-game stretch, the Rays were already 10 1/2 games back in the American League East. They would then win eight straight to get back to near .500 and within 6 1/2 games of the division lead, but they wouldn't get any closer for the rest of the year because of their poor start.

"We got off to a rough start, a horrible start and we were able to come back from that," manager Kevin Cash said. "But ideally we'd like to flip the script a little bit. ... But this team has weathered that, or some of them have."

Gators' Polite moves on from 'terrible' combine

Weight, hamstring cited in subpar effort

GAINESVILLE — Former Florida edge rusher Jachai Polite described his performance at last month's NFL scouting combine the same way many draft pundits did.

Terrible.

The all-SEC talent arrived in Indianapolis as a projected top-20 NFL draft pick and left as someone who might slip into the third round. Polite was slower than expected. Heavier, too. He tweaked his hamstring, bombed his news conference and struggled through his conversations with NFL personnel.

Woods wins opening round of Match Play

Puts away Aaron Wise in return to format for first time since 2013

By DOUG FERGUSON
AP GOLF WRITER

AUSTIN, Texas — Tiger Woods made a successful return to the Dell Technologies Match Play with a victory.

Jordan Spieth found some success with a tie.

The most unpredictable tournament in golf began Wednesday with only a few surprises as only four of the top 16 seeds in group play failed to win their opening match at Austin Country Club.

Woods, a three-time winner of this World Golf Championships, had not played since losing in the opening round in 2013. He had a wild time with Aaron Wise until putting him away on the 17th hole.

“The way we were playing today, we’re very thankful it’s not stroke play,” Woods said with a laugh.

Wise gave away the opening two holes with a double bogey and a bogey. Woods went from 2 up to 1 down around the turn, and then he regained control when Wise missed too many short par putts. Woods closed him out, 3 and 1, when Wise three-putted the par-3 17th.

But it was tough on everyone. A sturdy wind through the trees and valleys, along with some pins set along the mounds on the putting surfaces, made mistakes costly.

Justin Thomas at No. 5 was the only player from the top 10 seeds to lose, falling behind to Lucas Bjerregaard of Denmark, who never gave him much of a chance to get back in the match. It ended on the 16th, when Thomas hit what he thought was a perfect wedge only to see it carom off the flag stick and into the rough.

There were quick shifts in momentum, and a few big rallies at the end.

One of those belonged to Spieth, and it was badly needed. Spieth, the No. 4 seed in this event last year, is now at No. 28. He has not finished better than a tie for 35th in his six tournaments this year, alarming as the Masters nears.

And he was 3 down after just six holes to Billy Horschel.

Spieth squared the match with five holes to play when it seemingly fell apart with a tee shot along the banks of the Colorado River that he chopped out into the bunker left by a bird. He lost that hole. And then he turned a chance to tie the match into another loss of hole when he three-putted from about 20 feet on the 15th.

Horschel helped the cause by missing a 3-foot par putt on the 16th that would have kept him 2 up with two to play. Spieth took it from there. He made a 6-foot birdie to match Horschel and send it to the 18th, and he lofted a wedge to 2 feet for birdie to win the 18th.

It was only worth a half-point from a match he never led, and it’s just one out of three matches in group play.

“To birdie the last two holes is really big for me right now as I’m looking to gain confidence under pressure and kind of test some of the stuff I’ve been working on,” Spieth said. “It feels like you’re battling to try to win a golf tournament on a Saturday or Sunday toward the end of these matches. So it was really cool to hit some clutch shots and pull off a tie there 2 down and three to go.”

Couturier’s late goals lift Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Sean Couturier scored in regulation and provided the only goal in a shootout as the Philadelphia Flyers beat the Toronto Maple Leafs 5-4 Wednesday night.

Radko Gudas, Travis Konecny and Ryan Hartman also scored for Philadelphia, which remained mathematically alive for a playoff berth. The Flyers moved within eight points of idle Montreal for the final playoff spot with five games remaining.

Auston Matthews, Connor Brown, Nazem Kadri and William Nylander scored for Toronto.

After the first four Flyers missed in the shootout, Couturier deked to his forehand and beat Frederik Andersen. Carter Hart secured Philadelphia’s third win the last eight games when he stopped Nylander’s attempt.

It looked as if the Flyers had the game won in overtime when Travis Sanheim poked the puck over the goal line 2:34 into the extra period. But the officials disallowed the goal because they said the whistle had blown to stop play, even though Andersen never appeared to have control.

Nylander evened it at 4 with 8:27 left in the third when his turnaround shot from the slot, following a turnover by Shayne

Gostisbehere, went high over Hart.

Hartman had put Philadelphia ahead 4-3 with 11 minutes left in regulation. He took a pass from Scott Laughton from behind the net and scored with a shot between Andersen’s legs.

Matthews tied it at 3 by following his own miss and converting from a sharp angle 1:43 into the third.

The Flyers took a 3-2 lead with second-period goals from Konecny, Gudas and Couturier.

Konecny’s wrist shot on the break whizzed over Andersen’s left shoulder 3:39 into the period, pulling Philadelphia within 2-1.

Gudas evened the score 3:36 later when his long wrist shot got past a screened Andersen. Couturier netted his 32nd of the season on a deflection of a shot by Sanheim with 4:14 left in the period.

Cirelli adding scoring touch to compliment his defensive focus

Tampa Bay rookie earning respect as two-way center

By DIANA NEARHOS
TAMPA BAY TIMES

TAMPA — Derek Lalonde, still in his skates after a recent practice, makes his way to the dressing room, laptop in hand.

The Lightning assistant coach searches for Anthony Cirelli, but can’t find him.

Lalonde returns later and the two sit down at Cirelli’s stall, the latter without even removing his pants, shin pads or skates, to review video clips selected by Lalonde. They look at Cirelli’s recent play, offensively and defensively, and other clips to prepare for upcoming opponents.

“He’s always hounding for video,” Lalonde said. “There’s days I don’t have video for him and he’s literally down on me.”

Coaches and players alike have a lot to say about Cirelli, but they universally compliment his work ethic. Tampa Bay’s Jon Cooper he has the potential to be another Patrice Bergeron, one of only two players to be a four-time winner of the Selke Trophy as the game’s best two-way forward.

If Cirelli rises to that level, it’ll be because of his work ethic. Lalonde didn’t find Cirelli the first time because he was still on the ice.

Bet on Cirelli being one of the last players off the ice, often with Yann Gourde and Mathieu Joseph. The trio enters the room with a burst of energy that feels like it must come from a bigger group.

“He never cheats you on effort,” Cooper has repeated about Cirelli this season more times than you have fingers to count on.

That effort pays off defensively. Cirelli, 391 days into his NHL career, has quickly made a name for himself as a defensive center.

“He’s going to find his scoring touch,” Alex Killorn said after Cirelli assisted his short-handed goal Saturday. “To be that good defensively this young in the league is something that’s really rare.”

That scoring touch is starting to come. Cirelli scored the winner in Monday’s comeback against the Bruins, ripping a one-timer over Tuukka Rask’s glove into the top right corner of the net. Not an easy goal, and definitely a timely one.

The coaches have worked with Cirelli on offensive confidence. The focus of the most recent video work has centered on developing Cirelli’s offensive game.

“It seemed like he was content with puck possession,” Lalonde said. “He was content with chances. Now it’s another level: finishing, making plays.”

Lalonde wants Cirelli to have more poise with the puck and work on handling the puck in tight places. The rookie has made strides in that respect.

Although Cirelli played 18 regular-season and 17 playoff games last year, he’s still a rookie.

The NHL says a season doesn’t count at fewer than 20 regular-season games. He’s young in age (21) and in terms of seasons played, but his play belies his inexperience.

“It was great to get that taste,” he said. “Just knowing what to expect and everyday life, coming to the rink, practices, obviously the games and the intensity of games, seeing how good everybody is up here.”

As for Cooper’s comparison to Bergeron, it could end up being a meaningful analogy even though Bergeron did draw attention from scouts at a young age.

Host of local players selected to all-star games

Prep basketball season extended as eight players will play in SFABC games this weekend

By JACOB HOAG
SPORTS WRITER

Heartbreaking losses ended many players' seasons this year and brought the end to some careers. But the high school basketball season gets extended for 12 local athletes who will play in multiple all-star games over the next two weeks.

Charlotte High forward Ahmad Johnson will play in Saturday's SFABC vs. Dade/Broward All-Star game put on by the South Florida Association of Basketball Coaches. In addition, Sunday's SFABC North vs. South game will feature seven kids from Port Charlotte, Lemon Bay, Charlotte and Community Christian.

In addition to this weekend's games, three

North Port players — Eric Baker, Mitch Tossi and Albert Iribarren — were selected to compete alongside Venice player Chason Rockymore in the Manatee vs. Sarasota All-Star game on April 3 at Lakewood Ranch High School.

Johnson had a stellar season with the Tarpons and was the heartbeat of the offense, averaging 21.7 points and 7.3 rebounds per game as a senior to help lead Charlotte to a 22-8 record.

"I feel honored and excited to be able to play once more," said Johnson, who also played in Florida Athletic Coaches Association All-Star game last week.

"They're more laid back because most of us aren't used to playing with each other so we can try to do some dunks that we probably wouldn't try in a real game and just try to have as much fun as possible."

Johnson's game will tip-off at 6 p.m. at Bishop Verot High School and his squad will be coached by Lehigh's Greg Coleman.

The biggest group will be playing in the Sunday game that pits players from the local area against players as far as Naples.

Making the roster were Port Charlotte's Alex Romero, Shemar Fleurissant, Brandon Gainey and Tyler Perry; Lemon Bay's Gunyr Morrill, Charlotte's Makai Reaves and Community Christian's Sam Battle.

"When I heard I was in it I was pretty excited until I realized three of my four other starters was going to play with me. Then I was really looking more forward to the event," Romero said. "It should be a lot of fun. I feel like I worked really hard all three years being at Port Charlotte and things are starting to pay off, so not too much more I can ask for."

It's a unique scenario for the Pirate players, who also get the luxury of having coach Kip Rhoten at their bench once more. Rhoten led the Pirates to a 26-2 record and a Regional Finals berth in his second season as head coach.

So, minus one starter, the Pirate gang is back together and will most likely get some time as a unit. After a tough loss to Lehigh in the playoffs, that's something Romero is very grateful for.

"It means more than anything to me to get on the court with them one more time," Romero said. "Of course I wish Rondell (Adderly) could play too. Ending my high school career with a one-point loss was tough, so getting another chance with my guys is great."

Rounding out the group is Morrill, Reaves and Battle. Battle was a do-it-all forward who averaged 15 points, 8.5 rebounds, and three steals a game as a senior. Reaves made the game-winning free throws to clinch the district title and averaged 12.2 points per game. Morrill played tough offensively and defensively as the Mantas' point guard. Being selected for the game was a big honor for the senior.

"It means you meant the most to your team on and off the court to improve your team and yourself everyday," Morrill said. "I thought my season was good just some days shots didn't fall, but overall was a good season and it was fun doing what I do and winning games. Wish I could play another year with the same guys."

The North/South game will tip off at 1 p.m. on Sunday, also at Bishop Verot.

Venice 15, Hinsdale Central 5

The Venice baseball team has now won its first two games of the IMG National Classic. The four-day tournament features 16 high school teams from around the country at IMG Academy in Bradenton.

The Indians dispatched Hinsdale Central High, 15-5, in their first game of the tournament on Tuesday and kept the offense rolling into Wednesday, using a six-run fifth inning to beat Florida Christian, 8-2.

Venice's offense churned out 11 hits, with multi-hit days from Mac Guscette, Michael Robertson, Kevin Dubrule and Reegan Jackowiak.

After allowing the first five batters of the game to reach base and two runs to score, Danny Rodriguez settled in to pitch 5 2/3 of scoreless baseball. He struck out six batters and let only two more batters reach base from that point forward.

Venice will play Flanagan High School (Pembroke Pines) today at 4 p.m. with a trip to the tournament championship game on the line.

Lemon Bay 5, DeSoto 2

Early runs helped the Lady Mantas (6-4) earn a win on the road against DeSoto on Tuesday.

Lemon Bay got things started in the first inning when an error scored one run.

The errors continued in the first. A fielding error later in the inning scored Karlie Sweiderk and Destiny Ashcraft to make it 3-0.

Lemon Bay added two in the second. One came off a sacrifice-groundout from Christain Chandler and a passed ball enabled Leanna Kelly to score from third.

one had more to gain — or lose — than Polite.

"I had to prove that I could come out here and compete," Polite said, "because it wasn't that good of a combine for me, which we all know."

Polite owned up to that not-so-good combine Wednesday and addressed its ugly details head on.

After being listed at 242 pounds during his junior season, the 6-foot-2 Daytona Beach native was up to 258 at the combine.

"I just wanted to get my weight up, knowing that the next level, they're bigger, stronger, faster," Polite said.

But Polite wasn't used to running at that size yet. The extra weight cost him some of his explosiveness and speed.

That showed up in one of the few drills he attacked at the combine: the 40-yard dash.

His time (4.84 seconds) was the second slowest at his position, ahead of Oregon's Jalen Jelks. Pro Football Reference lists 191 defensive ends/outside linebackers/edge rushers under 260 pounds who ran the 40 over the last seven combines. Only 29 were slower than Polite.

Polite attributed some of that subpar result to the right hamstring injury he suffered a-week-and-a-half before the combine while training at ASPI in Tampa.

The poor interviews, both at the podium in front of reporters and in private rooms with NFL teams?

Polite said he didn't prepare well enough and was a little intimidated by the setting.

He took criticism too personally, answered questions too briefly and didn't act like himself.

"I just wasn't ready at all," Polite said. "I just wasn't ready mentally."

Not being ready for a multi-million-dollar job interview is a major problem, even for an elite pass rusher who tied UF's single-season record with six forced fumbles and ranked third in the SEC with 17 1/2 tackles for a loss.

That's why Wednesday was so crucial for Polite. It was his biggest opportunity to correct his public perception.

"He knew he had to have a good day so that the attention would go back to his performance on the field more than a 40 time at a combine," UF coach Dan Mullen said.

It was hard to gauge just how good his day was, but he showed signs of growth.

Polite weighed in at 254 pounds — about halfway between his combine measurement and ideal weight.

He tried to improve on his 40 but tweaked his hamstring again after his first and only attempt (which barely cracked 5 seconds).

A trainer wrapped it up, and Polite was able to participate in almost all of his position drills.

Most importantly, he was ready for the questions about his struggles at the combine. He owned his mistakes and didn't make excuses.

It might be too late to keep Polite in the first round, but it's better than never.

"In my head I feel like I'm still there," Polite said.

"Where they pick me, I don't know. But I believe in myself, first and foremost. Whoever gets me, whoever's taking a chance from my terrible interviews and combine, they're going to get a great player."

Last year was unlike most because the Red Sox had one of the best starts in years, going 17-2. But they were also remarkably consistent throughout the season, losing more than two straight games just once, and that didn't happen until the Rays swept them in late August. The Yankees opened the season 9-9, showing a strong start isn't necessary to long-term success, but then went 23-5 over their next 28 games and were 20 games over .500 by June 5.

"It's something, in this division especially, it's hard to have those tough stretches because you can lose ground on those two (teams), the Yankees and the Red Sox," centerfielder Kevin Kiermaier said.

"The best teams in the game are the most consistent ones where they're rattling off six or seven-game win streaks all the time but they're avoiding those rough stretches where they are 2-11."

The Rays' early slate conceivably gets easier after Houston and Colorado, as their road trip to San Francisco, Chicago and Toronto begins a stretch on which just six of their next 28 games are against teams that had winning record last season.

"When we hop on that plane (for the first road trip), we want to be feeling good about ourselves when we head out to San Fran. So, for us to get off to a good start, its going to be huge," Kiermaier said.

New era: No players left from 20th century

By BEN WALKER
AP BASEBALL WRITER

Four-man outfield. High-tech anti-spying rules. A starting pitcher facing just one batter in a playoff game.

But beyond all the shifts, analytics and social media outreach, here's the best way to tell Major League Baseball has zoomed into a new era: There's not a single active player left from the 20th century.

Not one. Adrian Beltre and Bartolo Colon were the last, the Elias Sports Bureau said. And with all 30 teams set to play Thursday — from Bryce Harper's home debut at Citizens Bank Park to Mookie Betts and the champion Boston Red Sox visiting Seattle — this year MLB becomes the first of the four major sports without someone still around who played in the 1900s.

The last time that was true in the big leagues? Back before even the World Series existed.

Already this season, the great Ichiro Suzuki has retired, done at 45 after two hitless games last week as the Seattle Mariners swept Oakland at the Tokyo Dome.

"I really wanted to play until I was 50, but I couldn't do it," he said.

Yankees lefty CC Sabathia says it's his last year, and so does Giants manager Bruce Bochy.

Vladimir Guerrero Jr., Fernando Tatis Jr. and Eloy Jimenez lead a strong rookie crop of boppers who might stick around for a while.

Will they be the next Mike Trout or Joe Mauer, or the future Manny Machado or Chase Utley? We'll see over the years.

After a long winter of waiting, it's time for everyone to play ball.

"Opening day, since I was a kid, I feel like it's a celebration of our sport, so it's something I always look forward to," Yankees manager Aaron Boone said.

A look at the lineups going into Thursday:

MARQUEE MATCHUPS

Jacob deGrom, fresh off a big contract boost from the New York Mets, starts against Washington ace Max Scherzer at Nationals Park. DeGrom earned his first Cy Young Award last season, and three-time winner Scherzer finished second. It's a similar duel at Tropicana Field — AL Cy Young winner Blake Snell of the Rays faces runner-up Justin Verlander and the Astros.

DANDY DEBUTS

Harper takes his first swings since signing a $330 million deal with the Phillies (that was a record until Trout got $426.5 million from the Angels soon after). Harper has five career home runs on opening day, tied with Albert Pujols and Ian Kinsler for most among active players, and will take on Julio Teheran and the NL East champion Braves. Harper is 18 for 50 (.450) with a personal-high eight homers against the Atlanta right-hander.

Machado starts up with San Diego, Paul Goldschmidt is with St. Louis, Robinson Cano got traded to the Mets, Nelson Cruz swings for Minnesota and the excitable Yasiel Puig is in Cincinnati.

Josh Donaldson joined the Braves and is expected to be in action this weekend — it'll be Atlanta vs. Philadelphia in the first Sunday Night Baseball matchup on ESPN, with those games starting an hour earlier this season.

EXTEND THEIR SUCCESS

Chris Sale, who struck out Machado to end the World Series and seal Boston's fourth crown in 15 seasons, starts the opener for the 108-win Red Sox. Sale, Trout, Verlander, Goldschmidt and Rockies third baseman Nolan Arenado were among the stars whose teams locked them with rich, long-term deals.

But not every big name got a big contract — All-Star closer Craig Kimbrel and former Cy Young winner Dallas Keuchel were free agents all winter and went into opening day without jobs.

OUCH!

Cleveland shortstop

Francisco Lindor sprained an ankle while recovering from a strained calf and will miss opening day. Dodgers ace Clayton Kershaw and Yankees starter Luis Severino are out, too. Astros star Carlos Correa, unlikely World Series MVP Steve Pearce and Reds sparkplug Scooter Gennett are ailing.

Angels two-way sensation Shohei Ohtani, the AL Rookie of the Year, won't pitch this season while returning from Tommy John surgery but will hit. Yankees shortstop Didi Gregorius is expected back in midseason.

PARK IT HERE

The Arizona Diamondbacks have converted their field from grass to artificial turf, joining Toronto and Tampa Bay as teams playing on synthetic surfaces.

The gaudy and gargantuan Home Run Sculpture at Marlins Park is gone. Well, just not inside the park anymore. It's outside in a plaza.

Overall, MLB attendance has dropped for Philadelphia Phillies right fielder Bryce Harper has five home runs on opening day, tied for the most with Ian Kinsler and Albert Pujols.

three straight seasons and last year the average fell below 30,000 for the first time since 2003.

"We're a little down off where we were last year, but we're optimistic that things are going to pick up," Commissioner Rob Manfred said.

Goodell, with Payton's help, gets replay right

Pass interference review addition fixes hole exposed during Rams-Saints playoff game

By BARRY WILNER

AP PRO FOOTBALL WRITER

PHOENIX — Roger Goodell got it right.

NFL fans rarely feel that way. Right now, they should.

Many times, perhaps most of the time, the NFL commissioner is doing the bidding of the owners. That's led to plenty of criticism of Goodell when it's the guys who run the 32 franchises who deserve more bad reviews than he does.

When it comes to league probes, the NFL so often has fallen short — Ray Rice, Kareem Hunt, Saints bounties — that Goodell takes the arrows rather than the investigators who should be blamed.

And yes, there are instances, particularly when it comes to handing out discipline, in which Goodell is the correct target.

So when the guy uses his power for the good of the game, for the players, the coaches and the fans, then praise is due.

Two months after one of the most embarrassing moments of his regime — or that of any other commissioner — Goodell pretty much made sure a deeply necessary change to the rules was passed.

Don't underestimate the significance of the addition of pass interference, whether flagged or not, to the video review officiating system. Such calls and non-calls now can be challenged by coaches and reviewed by officials. It was passed for one season, by the astounding margin of 31-1. It almost certainly is here to stay, and Goodell is a major reason.

"I told the owners we need to get to a place, and I felt strongly we should have OPI and DPI and that we should be able to throw flags (that were not thrown on the field)," Goodell said Tuesday. "Everyone in there finally got to understand through a long process and a lot of discussion, everyone wanted to get it right. Some had to remove themselves from long-shared views."

A short-shared view among fans, especially those in the Big Easy, has been that an egregious missed call in the NFC championship game cost the New Orleans Saints a trip to the Super Bowl. Their case was strengthened by this decision.

Yet, in a way, this is a more important victory for the Who Dats and for all pro football fans. The sport has become so fast, so complex and so wide open that the officials struggle to keep up.

Even worse, technology is so advanced that the errors made in real time become exacerbated when examined in the close-up, super-slow motion shots available to viewers.

The NFL needed a leap forward like this. Indeed, it's more like a long Drew Brees to Michael Thomas touchdown pass than an Alvin Kamara run for a first down. Both plays move the ball, but the TD throw can be an instant game changer.

Credit Goodell for laying down the law to get the video review rules enhanced. Also credit Saints coach Sean Payton, who helped lead the charge to progress not only because he was the victimized guy with the head set on the sideline for the blown call, but for catalyzing the movement.

New Orleans Saints head coach Sean Payton was able to push for changes to video replay for pass interference calls in his role on the NFL competition committee.

"There were just a lot of great healthy discussions about our game," said Payton, along with Pittsburgh's Mike Tomlin the only coaches on the powerful competition committee that recommends rule adjustments.

"When you are on this committee there is a little bit of a responsibility just to the game and football fans in general.

"Anytime, I think, if we have gone through a process like this and with an open heart tried to look at doing what is right, and after much discussion came to a conclusion where ownership, league office, coaches, general managers felt real good about, certainly fans won, knowing that, man, those guys are working hard at the right decision."

AAC signs ESPN deal

By RALPH D. RUSSO

AP COLLEGE FOOTBALL WRITER

American Athletic Conference Commissioner Mike Aresco says the league's new media rights deal with ESPN gives the AAC a platform similar to having its own branded network.

The American and ESPN announced Wednesday a 12-year agreement that runs through the 2031-32 school year.

Financial terms were not disclosed, but previous media reports put the total value of the deal at $1 billion, paying each school about $7 million per year. AAC and ESPN's previous six-year deal, which expires in 2020, allowed the league to distribute about $2 million per year to the school.

The new deal puts more than 1,000 events per season exclusively on ESPN-plus, the network's new digital subscription service, including about 30 football games and 135 men's basketball games. Currently, ESPN-plus costs $4.99 per month.

"ESPN-plus is very important to ESPN and very important to us," Aresco said. "As far as we're concerned, ESPN-plus is the future. It's an innovative digital platform that you want to be on. In fact, we still have more coverage on the priority networks of ESPN than we had before. But the fact is there are going to be more sports offered on ESPN-plus than ever before. It's as though we have our own branded network on that platform."

The deal calls for at least 40 football games per season airing on ESPN's linear TV networks, 14 more than in the previous contract. At least 20 of those games will be on ABC, ESPN and ESPN2, which is also an increase. In addition, the new deal gives ESPN the rights to Navy's semi-annual home game with Notre Dame.

ESPN cable networks will air at least 65 regular-season men's basketball games and at least 13 regular-season women's basketball games per season from the American.

Under the previous agreement, other networks sub-licensed some AAC events from ESPN. CBS Sports Network carried a handful of AAC football games each season and most UConn women's basketball games were carried by SNY, a regional sports network partially owned by the New York Mets.

The powerhouse program already has many of its games shown on ESPN networks.

Mets, deGrom agree on five-year, $137.5M deal

By HOWARD FENDRICH

AP SPORTS WRITER

ARLINGTON, Va. — All it took were some beef-and-cheese taquitos and 10-for-$2 mini-tacos from 7-Eleven to seal NL Cy Young Award winner Jacob deGrom's $137.5 million deal with the New York Mets.

"I only had a couple bites," deGrom said with a smile Wednesday at a hotel outside Washington, where he discussed his new five-year contract on the eve of the Mets' season opener against Max Scherzer and the Washington Nationals.

After weeks of back-and-forth dating to before spring training, it wasn't until Monday that deGrom and the Mets were able to work out terms, including a guaranteed $52.5 million deferred into the 2030s. There is a team option for 2024 that, if exercised, would raise the total to $170 million over six years, including $67.5 million deferred.

It was an unusual negotiation from the get-go, given that Mets general manager Brodie Van Wagenen used to be deGrom's agent.

"I know a lot of people were worried about Brodie — which side he would be on and how that would all work out," said Jeff Wilpon, the club's chief operating officer.

"Jacob and I did smile a couple times with what was going on in the room. But we got it done."

The agreement was finalized during a session that lasted about nine hours at the airport in Sarasota, Florida, where the team played its final Grapefruit League exhibition on Monday.

When the deal was done, deGrom flew to New York for a physical exam. His teammates went to Syracuse for a workout.

"Long day," deGrom said.

"At one point, we hadn't eaten for about six or seven hours," Van Wagenen said, "so I had to make a 7-Eleven run."

DeGrom, a right-hander who turns 31 in June, had a 1.70 ERA in 2018 and allowed three runs or fewer in his final 29 starts. His record was 10-9 on a Mets team that went 77-85.

He is 55-41 with a 2.67 ERA in five seasons in the majors.

"It's a relief. It definitely is," deGrom said about reaching a deal. "When it's talked about, every time you throw, you do think about it. But it's a relief, and I'm looking forward to getting the season started."

That'll happen today with a marquee matchup at Nationals Park between him and Scherzer, the runner-up in last year's NL Cy Young voting and a three-time winner himself.

It also marks the start of life for the Nationals without Bryce Harper.

his 31st year as a college coach and 17th at Florida State, has faced plenty of situations over the years, but he said this is the first where a parent of one of his players has died during the NCAA Tournament or this late in season.

Hamilton credited sports psychologist Joseph Carr with helping the players and staff once they learned of Mike Cofer's death.

"Kids talked about and shared their experiences, and I think it did a lot to bring us somewhat back into the right focus," Hamilton said. "You never really know when you're dealing with those types of things how it manifests itself in different responses. Grief appears, raises its ugly head sometimes in different forms. I hope we have addressed it properly."

Mann, who had "Mike Cofer, 3-21-19" scribbled on his left shoe for the Murray State game, said he plans to do the same thing Thursday. Mann, Cofer and center Christ Koumadje have led the Seminoles to three straight NCAA Tournaments and a school-record 98 wins.

"All the trials and tribulations that we have been through have brought us closer," Mann said. "I think the Elite Eight run last year solidified our class and how close we are."

Hamilton hopes his team can overcome the adversity and advance to the Final Four for the first time since 1972. The Seminoles have already dealt with injuries and a 1-4 start in Atlantic Coast Conference play to win 16 of their last 18.

"It's been very challenging, but our guys are focused, and we're hopeful that how we represent ourselves will be a reflection of the respect we have for Mike Cofer and the Cofer family," Hamilton said. "I think for the most part our guys have grown and we have turned our attention to the game preparation as it relates to Gonzaga."

Florida State's Phil Cofer, who has been plagued by injuries this season, will not be with the team when they take on Gonzaga, Thursday, in the Sweet 16. Cofer, who didn't play in the team's last game due to a foot injury, has taken a leave of absence due to the death of his father, the former Detroit Lions linebacker Mike Cofer.

East race: Five teams separated by two losses

Three playoff spots sought by Brooklyn, Charlotte, Detroit, Miami and Orlando

By TIM REYNOLDS

AP BASKETBALL WRITER

MIAMI — The last game of the Miami Heat season, the last regular-season game of Dwyane Wade's career, is April 10 in Brooklyn. If he had his way Wade would play for a few largely ceremonial minutes, get a ton of shots up and then grab a seat on the bench to watch the clock run down to the playoffs.

Odds are, it won't happen that way.

This race for the bottom of the Eastern Conference bracket is likely going down to the wire. For the Heat, that means the end of Wade's career could come quicker than they wanted.

There are three unclaimed playoff spots in the East, with five teams still in the thick of the race, the whole batch separated by two losses. No. 6 Brooklyn (38-37), No. 7 Detroit (37-37), No. 8 Orlando (37-38), No. 9 Miami (36-38) and No. 10 Charlotte (35-39) have two weeks left to decide who's in and who's out.

And Wade can envision that Heat at Nets game deciding playoff fates — as well as his own fate.

"I think we all know it's going to come down to the end," Wade said. "It's not the way I wanted it to be. I'd like the last game not to be that way so I could just shoot all my shots. Now we'll have to play a good basketball game. It is what it is."

Everybody's playing for something bigger right now.

The Magic are trying to reach the postseason for the first time since 2012. Brooklyn, for the first time since 2015. Charlotte and Detroit haven't been to the playoffs since 2016. Miami went last year, and want to get Wade there for a 14th time in his 16-year career. At minimum, two of those droughts are going to end whether the Heat qualify or not.

"There's no reason why we can't win," said Magic coach Steve Clifford, whose team has won six straight — its longest such streak in more than eight years — and beat Miami on Tuesday to leapfrog the Heat into the No. 8 spot. "We have more than enough talent and we're playing well. So, to me, that's it."

There is, of course, a financial incentive for making the postseason as well.

The NBA hasn't announced the 2019 playoff pool dollar figure, but since that amount never seems to decrease from one year to the next it's reasonable to expect that it'll be $20 million again this season. That means all playoff teams, at minimum, would receive $298,485 apiece to split among players and staff. By finishing sixth in the East, the minimum figure for that club to share would be $433,748.

For some NBA guys, a share of that is merely pocket change. To lower-paid players and staff, it definitely matters. Plus, with every team guaranteed two home games that will likely sell out, that's some more serious revenue opportunities through tickets, concessions and souvenirs for clubs.

"There is no room for error right now," Detroit coach Dwane Casey said when asked about the playoff push.

Based on opponent winning percentages, Brooklyn has the toughest remaining schedule in the NBA — six games against teams that have already clinched East playoff spots and then the finale with Miami. But the Nets could catch a huge break if any of their remaining opponents, including Milwaukee twice, rest stars to get ready for the postseason.

A slate that looks daunting on paper really might not be so tough.

"The only way to learn about it is to go through it," Nets coach Kenny Atkinson said. "And we're going through it right now."

Brooklyn came from 27 points down last week to beat Sacramento. Charlotte's hopes stayed alive on Jeremy Lamb's gamewinning 50-footer to win at Toronto. Teams are clearly fighting for everything.

"It's competition," Heat coach Erik Spoelstra said. "It's what you want."

The lone downside to fighting for the playoffs?

By making it in, you likely won't have a shot to draft Zion Williamson, Ja Morant, R.J. Barrett or any of this year's presumed can't-miss picks. The only exception to this rule is Boston, which is playoff-bound and still could draft as high as No. 2 overall this year if Sacramento gets lucky — or unlucky — and bucks the lottery odds to move way up the list.

But then again, the odds are already stacked really high against the bottom-of-the-East-race clubs in the race for a draft-night splash.

Had the draft order been set on Wednesday, Miami would have a 1 percent chance for the

No. 1 pick and Charlotte would have a 1.5 percent chance. Odds are, if the season was over now, Miami would be picking 13th. By making the playoffs, the Heat would probably pick 15th or 16th. Not exactly a huge difference, and the Heat desperately want to get Wade to the postseason.

"No one is going to give it to us," Heat guard Dion Waiters said. "We've got to go out there and take it."

Federer reaches quarterfinals, Halep to semis

By TIM REYNOLDS

AP SPORTS WRITER

MIAMI GARDENS — Roger Federer is finally through to the quarterfinals of the Miami Open.

The fourth-seeded Federer had little trouble defeating 13th-seeded Daniil Medvedev 6-4, 6-2 in 61 minutes on Wednesday, earning the three-time Miami champion a spot in the quarters against sixth-seeded Kevin Anderson.

The Federer-Medvedev match was originally scheduled for Tuesday and wound up being delayed a day by rain. That means if Federer is to win the tournament, he'll need to win four matches in a five-day span.

Federer broke Medvedev in the ninth game of the opening set, survived being down 0-40 to close out that set on his serve and then broke the Russian again in the first game of the second set.

Also Wednesday, women's No. 2 seed Simona Halep defeated 18th-seeded Qiang Wang 6-4, 7-5 in the quarterfinals.

Halep won the final six games against Qiang and would return to No. 1 in the world if she wins her semifinal match.

UConn's Auriemma reflects on unpredictability of March, tougher road to reach Sweet 16

By KELLI STACY

THE HARTFORD COURANT

HARTFORD, Conn. — Coming off a dominant win in the first round of the NCAA Tournament that was partially fueled by feelings of disrespect after being named a No. 2 seed this year, UConn coach Geno Auriemma reflected on his love of March and the unpredictability that comes with it.

"I always enjoy this time of the year," Auriemma said. "It doesn't matter if we're undefeated and have a team that no one thinks they can beat. I've been there a bunch of times, obviously. Or having a team where people are a little bit counting us out. I've been there too. I enjoy both. Differently, but I enjoy both. I enjoy knowing that if we just show up and play anywhere near the level we played all year long, no one can beat us. Even if they play their best game. We've been in that situation a lot."

"The difference in this year is we know even if we play our best game we can lose because we just don't have enough pieces," he said, "which is OK because then the goal becomes let's see how close we can get to playing a great game and then take our chances. Because then the other team still has to play great, and there's no guarantee of that. So it's going to be a little bit of fun for however long this one lasts. ... I'm enjoying watching these guys reap the benefits of a lot of hard work this year. Am I getting ready to go back to that party at the Final Four where I stay out until 4 o'clock in the morning before the championship game? No. I'm not having a party before Sunday night's game against Buffalo. Those days are over."

Auriemma was right to hold off on the party last weekend, because the unpredictability factor he loves so much was present inside Gampel Pavilion for the Huskies' second-round game against 10th-seeded Buffalo. UConn barely escaped a late comeback attempt, beating the Bulls, 84-72, to advance to their 26th straight Sweet 16. The win reminded the Huskies just how hard the NCAA Tournament will be for them this year.

UConn has been at the top of women's college basketball for a quarter-century, winning 11 national titles, making 19 Final Four appearances and making 31 consecutive tournament appearances. The Huskies have made the Final Four the past 11 seasons; the last time they didn't make it came in 2007 when they lost to LSU in the Elite Eight.

UConn's success, especially in the NCAA Tournament, has created expectations faced by no other program. The Huskies are expected to not only make the Final Four every year, but also win the national title. They're expected to go through the tournament with ease, crushing everyone in their path until they claim a 12th trophy. This year just isn't like that, though, and Sunday's game against Buffalo was evidence of that.

"Obviously a lot of new fans don't remember that winning these games is not easy. It's a struggle, and it's supposed to be a struggle," Auriemma said. "I told our players that. It's a struggle for a lot of different reasons. All the sudden shots that we make regularly, we don't make. Why? Because it's the NCAA Tournament. We've been shooting 80-something percent from the free-throw line and all the sudden they don't go in. It's the NCAA Tournament. You play against another kid and that kid goes 4 for 100, but not in the NCAA Tournament. Things that aren't fouls are fouls. Things that are fouls aren't fouls. You just need to prepare. Prepare for everything, but expect anything. Prepare for anything, obviously, but you've got to expect the unexpected in the NCAA Tournament."

It might not feel like it, but UConn has struggled in the past — and they did so while building their dynasty. Auriemma pointed to the 2002-03 season, where he had arguably the best player in the country in Diana Taurasi, but he also had no other returning starters. It was a tough season that involved Taurasi having to score 34 percent of UConn's points in the tournament, including a 35-point effort against TCU in the second round. In three of the next four games UConn would have to grind out wins that eventually led to a national title.

Then, in 2004, things were even closer. UConn was more experienced and still had Taurasi, but they lost multiple games before the tournament and had another stressful tournament run filled with close games. Once again, UConn won a national title, but once again it was not easy.

This season, things haven't been easy either, and that's not going to change as UConn gets further into the tournament. The Huskies lost two regular-season games and played multiple close games. Much like 2002-03, where UConn set what was then a record for fewest rebounds in an NCAA championship game with 22, the Huskies are struggling on the glass. Just like then, they aren't a team that has all the pieces to the puzzle. But there is one glaring difference between the past seasons and this year — UConn doesn't have a Diana Taurasi.

The Huskies do have a lot of really good players, though. They've come to rely on senior Napheesa Collier's consistency, which has produced 22 double-doubles this season and leads the team in scoring and rebounding. Collier was recently left off the Naismith Trophy's list of finalists, which drew criticism from Auriemma.

The Huskies also have the veteran leadership of Katie Lou Samuelson and Crystal Dangerfield, who have played in the tournament before, as well as promising young starters in Christyn Williams and Megan Walker.

If the Huskies want to keep advancing in the tournament and make their 12th consecutive Final Four appearance, they're going to have to find the same grit and determination that Taurasi's teams found. They weren't the best teams that UConn ever produced, but they had a lot of fight in them that they used to push through tough games.

The road to the Final Four won't be easy — Sunday's game proved as much.

"Obviously it's not going to get any easier," Collier said on Sunday, "so having this game and being able to see how a new team plays, that's always good for us because we can always learn something from that. It's just realizing that it's crunch time now and you have to go to every ball and meet every pass and be strong around the basket. I think this game just kind of reinforced that for us."

Schedule changes deliver winners and losers

Iconic races, which were tied to the same date for decades, get freshening

By JENNA FRYER
AP AUTO RACING WRITER

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — An entire generation of NASCAR has spent its life tuned to a schedule so predictable events could be planned years in advance and race dates marked milestones. Daytona meant the beach — a week out of school in February, the Fourth of July for vacation — while Memorial Day was spent at Charlotte. Labor Day meant South Carolina sweet tea at Darlington Raceway. Seriously, nearly every weekend has been the same for as long as an entire generation remembers. But 2020 will be different, the first radically changed schedule in practically forever, as NASCAR did the best it could in answering an urgent need to freshen its product. NASCAR was not blessed with a blank sheet of paper for this Jim France-driven project because binding contracts with its existing track operators limited NASCAR's power. NASCAR legally could only force a track to move two weeks forward or backward from its existing date; anything more drastic needed track approval. That handcuffed NASCAR's effort in demanding the fixes fans have demanded, but the series still made a huge right turn for 2020. "A lot of that is a product of Jim France, wanting to make some bold moves, wanting to make moves quickly, trying to answer some of the questions or some of the asks of the fans. We feel like we were able to do that," said Steve O'Donnell, NASCAR executive vice president and chief racing development officer.

BIGGEST WINNER

Martinsville Speedway in Virginia gets the overall win because it got Saturday night before Mother's Day under its state-of-the-art LED Lighting system AND the final race before the championship round. Drivers can and will use fenders to win at Martinsville, and the schedule changes gave the shortest track on the NASCAR schedule two can't-miss events.

BOLDEST MOVER

Pocono Raceway agreed to try a doubleheader and run a pair of 400-mile races on one weekend. The move helped NASCAR shorten the season by one week, ending on Nov. 8 on Veteran's Day weekend — the date NBC Sports requested for the finale. The Pennsylvania track took on an opportunity to build something from scratch as the first venue to host a doubleheader. Pocono, if inclined, can turn its event into a pretty neat outdoor festival by bringing in musical acts and making the infield the place for the New York City market on one June weekend. How the two events in two days will be pulled off is still in planning stages, and Pocono has already signed on for a heavy and new undertaking. But, why not make it a weeklong event and give IndyCar a share of the stage? Have IndyCar come in a few days ahead of time, as an appetizer to this new doubleheader and run on Thursday night, thus encouraging fans to show up early and stay awhile.

BIGGEST SURPRISE

Do not accuse NASCAR of being too tied to tradition to make a strong move because Dale Earnhardt Jr. can't remember the last July 4th weekend he didn't spend in Daytona. You went to the beach when you weren't at the speedway and that's just how it always has been because Daytona International Speedway has hosted a race on July 4th or the Fourth of July weekend since it opened in 1959. The speedway gave up that date equity to take Daytona International Speedway, which has raced on July 4 every season since it opened in 1959, gave up that date this year so that it can host a race in late August that finalizes the playoff field.

the last race of the regular season, the one that finalizes the playoff field, in late August. O'Donnell said the industry, drivers included, supported ending the season at Daytona even though the track has insane racing and wrecks dozens of cars. The holiday race instead went to Indianapolis Motor Speedway, host of the Memorial Day event of the year 42 days earlier with the Indianapolis 500.

The loudest gripe so far has been concern about temperatures at Indianapolis next July 5th, but IMS for 13 years raced NASCAR during the first weekend in August and then raced 11 seasons in late July. It was only last season, just one time, the race was run in September as the regular-season finale. It is always hot in Indianapolis in the summer, but the speedway for more than 100 years has proven to be an iconic symbol in honoring the nation during patriotic events.

BIGGEST LOSER

It is easily Homestead-Miami Speedway, host of the finale since 2002. Homestead was built from the 1992 ruins of Hurricane Andrew, got a Cup date in 1999 was a marquee venue four years later. The track layout is unique, the racing considered among the most competitive of the year, and the NASCAR champion has been the race winner every year since the elimination format began in 2014. The racing at Homestead is very good, and it became ISC's sacrificial lamb as it was rescheduled to a random Sunday in March.

Homestead never caught on with the South Beach set and the appeal of hosting the championship there was essentially the racing. NASCAR should have made it the second race of the season, and kept the Daytona 500 winner in Florida for a whirlwind trip through NASCAR's birthplace to open the 2020 season.

BOTTOM LINE

NASCAR did the best with what it could, and there are more positive changes than negative ones in this first big overhaul in forever. NASCAR itself gets a victory for its commitment to legitimate change.
