Representative cites health as withdrawl; Hernando County sheriff to seek seat

MICHAEL D. BATES Hernando Today

BROOKSVILLE — U.S. Rep. Ginny Brown-Waite will not seek re-election and is supporting Hernando County Sheriff Richard B. Nugent in his bid for election to the Fifth Congressional District seat.

In a statement, Brown-Waite cited persistent health problems. The four-term congresswoman said she encouraged Nugent to run "because I know him to be a strong conservative who will continue my fight for veterans and seniors.'

After five months of searching, Terry Neil Davis, the 47-year-old inmate who escaped the custody of a Citrus County

bill dies in House Item doesn't get third reading

The much-ballyhooed Citrus Memorial Hospital legislation, poked and prodded by lawmakers and lawyers, fell victim Friday to parliamentary procedure.

The House adjourned without taking up final reading of the bill that would transfer much control of the hospital from a non-profit foundation to the governor-appointed board of trustees. State Rep. Ron Schultz, cleared the way a week ago for passage, said the bill got hung up in the voting process and never reached the floor.

Energy company says it is postponing major construction on Levy facility

Special to the Chronicle

ST. PETERSBURG — Progress Energy Florida customers will see lower nuclear costs on their 2011 bills, according to the company's nuclear cost-recovery estimates filed Friday with the Florida Public Service Commission (PSC). The reduction is due to a decision by the company to postpone major construction activities on the proposed Levy County nuclear project until after the federal licensing is complete, which will lower near-term costs for customers.

"Slowing work on the Levy project until we receive the license is the right decision for our customers and our company, said Vincent M. Dolan, president and chief executive officer of Progress Energy Florida. "In addition to lowering near-term price impacts on customers, the change in the construction timeline will allow for greater clarity on federal and state energy policies and will allow the economy more time to recover before the company completes major construction work on the project.

Schultz at first opposed the bill because it contained numerous clauses that "whereas" Schultz said could not be proven as fact. He met last week with Dean and attorneys from both sides in the dispute to craft legislation that Schultz could support.

The Senate passed the amended bill earlier this week.

The bill was scheduled for a final vote on Thursday, but delayed because of an abortion bill that had returned from the Senate with amendments and required another House vote.

CMHS BACKGROUND

OSPITAL BOARD OF TRUSTEES: Citrus Memorial Hospital was founded in 1957. It is a 501 (C) 3 charitable organization. It became known as Citrus Memorial Health System in 2005 as it added specialized and freestanding services. It is a not-for-profit community hospital chartered by the state with ad valorem taxing authority. The five members of the board of trustees are appointed by the governor and have the authority to levy ad valorem taxes up to 3 mills per calendar year without voter referendum or county commission approval. The board of trustees leases the hospital to the foundation to operate it.

ITRUS MEMORIAL HEALTH FOUNDATION: Citrus Memorial Health Foundation is described as the fundraising arm of CMHS and has operational authority for the hospital. It is a not-for-profit, private corporation. It was established in 1987 by the board of trustees to save the hospital about $300,000 a year in retirement contributions by being able to use a private pension fund and to streamline future joint business arrangements with health care providers. It is comprised of the five members of the board of trustees and eight other members. The foundation leases the hospital from the board of trustees and manages the fundraising and charitable giving for the hospital. It also issues investment bonds to raise funds for hospital improvements. A $10-million bond was issued in September 2008 for expansion and upgrading of the emergency department and the construction of the recently opened health care facility near Sugarmill Woods.

DMINISTRATION: Hospital officers have been employed by the foundation for their education and experience in operating the hospital. These officers maintain the day-to-day functions of the hospital and advise the board of trustees and the foundation about providing present and future care.

HERE TAX MONEY GOES: CMHS provides care to patients who meet the criteria of its charity care policy without charge or at amounts less than its established rates. The administrators do not pursue collection of amounts determined to qualify as charity care, and these amounts are not reported as net patient service. The board of trustees hired the foundation to assist with funding for uncompensated care.

HAT CAUSED THE CONFLICT: In 2006, CMHS was granted sovereign immunity status, which caps the liability of its doctors at $200,000. However, the question raised by the board of trustees is whether the foundation should enjoy sovereign immunity if it does not answer to the board of trustees. The benefit of sovereign immunity is awarded by government to public bodies and means that a public body is immune to lawsuits unless it gives its consent. Therefore, the trustees want greater oversight of the foundation's operations, because it the foundation can enjoy the benefit of sovereign immunity, it should comply with the Sunshine Law, as does the board of trustees. The foundation directors believe the current structure maintains an independent hospital free of political influences and agendas.

On Friday, the USMS started interviewing people. While talking with one of Davis's acquaintances, Davis reportedly called the acquaintance. He said he had been in Dothan — a town south of Troy — doing some work and was heading back to the Troy area.

The marshals spotted and positively identified Davis driving a blue Chevy truck on U.S. 231 between Dothan and Ozark, according to officials. They conducted a traffic stop in Ozark and took Davis into custody around 9:30 a.m.

Tierney said after being apprehended, Davis said he had seen himself on America's Most Wanted and thought it was "pretty Davis was not handcuffed at the time of the escape, which led the CCSO to conduct an internal investigation. Because of the investigation's findings, Emrick was suspended four days without pay and has since returned to work.

Nugent, 58, said Brown-Waite called him late March 31 and asked if he would be willing to run for her seat because of health issues and a problem with her pancreas.

He didn't give her an immediate answer until this past Saturday.

"It took me by surprise," Nugent said. "It was not something I was anticipating. When she called me you could have knocked me over with a feather.

"It took me a long time, talking with my wife, talking about the pros and cons of it — because, obviously, this is a change for us. I'm a home kind of guy, I like being at home."

"I have three sons serving in the U.S. Army so I think I have an even greater stake in providing for our veterans."

If elected, Nugent said he would press for more long-term jobs in his district. "I don't think anyone's really happy with what's going on (in Washington)," Nugent

Nugent had planned to retire at the end of 2012, when his term expires. If he wins the House seat, he said he would step down as sheriff at the end of this year and the governor would appoint someone to complete his term. The sheriff stressed that his run for Congress does not mean his office is not interested in taking over operations at the Hernando County

"We stand ready to work with the county," he said.

Republican Jason Sager and Democrat Jim Piccillo are also running for the congressional seat.

Sager called Friday's political turnaround good news for

"It benefits us because we're not having to challenge the juggernaut machine of an entrenched incumbent." Sager said. "At the same time it's disappointing that my political party (has) continually sion Friday night and issue a discounted me and chosen to hand-pick a candidate who has never shown any interest in national politics. "It's obvious there's a power struggle in place that is trying to protect itself," he added.

Sager said he will pit his record of fiscal responsibility against Nugent's track record as sheriff, who saw a budget increase every year in office.

Sager said Nugent may have name recognition in Hernando County but not in the entire district, which includes Citrus, Lake, Levy, Marion, Pasco, Polk and Sumter counties.

"I look forward to challenging the sheriff in any debates coming forward." said Sager. who describes himself as a Jeffersonian Republican who adheres to the country's founding precepts.

He also espouses the concepts of the growing Tea Party movement.

Piccillo, who lives in Land Nugent said he agreed to O' Lakes, said he sees Nugent's entry into the race as a "token gesture" by the Republicans and doesn't believe the sheriff will attract many votes.

> "I wish him the best but I don't think he would do well in this seat," Piccillo said. "I think this was a friendly gesture and Jason Sager will come away with the nomination.'

> Piccillo also cited Nugent's many issues with the Hernando County Jail.

> In March, Nugent surprised county commissioners by proposing to take over the operations of the jail from Corrections Corporation of America and said he could run it more efficiently and save the county money.

> On April 13, he withdrew his proposal, saying the jail was in too bad of shape and needed an estimated $2 million in repairs.

> And this week, Nugent said he would consider running the jail now that CCA has opted out of its jail contract in 120 days.

CCA representatives said the county's overture to Nugent was one factor in leading to its contract termination.

Brown-Waite's means the Fifth District is no longer a "safe" Republican seat and the election is now a toss-up, Piccillo said.

The City of Inverness announces the grand opening of its Water Reclamation Facility, one of the largest and most technologically advanced projects undertaken in Citrus County.

Urged by the Florida Department of Environmental Protection in 2004 to improve the quality of discharged wastewater, the City rolled up its sleeves to find processes, options and funding, to design and build a long lasting facility. The City was awarded in excess of $12 million, with a final project cost to be approximately $17 million, including $2.2 million to build a 17,000 linear foot reclaimed water transmission line to the Inverness Golf and Country Club for irrigation demands.

The public is encouraged to tour the facility during the open house from noon to 2 p.m. Saturday, May 8, at 3900 S. Florida Ave., south of the fairgrounds. Comfortable clothing and shoes are recommended.

Cell video catches teacher looting lockers

A Florida high school student's cell phone secretly recorded a teacher accused of swiping cash from lockers. Forty-nine-year-old Steven Simmons was arrested Thursday on a grand theft charge.

North Marion High students had complained for years someone was stealing out of their lockers. To catch the culprit, a student put his phone in one of the lockers in an otherwise empty locker room.

Simmons, the physical education teacher, was arrested 20 minutes after students showed the phone recording to a school resource officer.

The sheriff's office says Simmons admitted to stealing for years, taking some $400 so far this year.

House, Senate approve budget

Associated Press

TALLAHASSSE — A new Florida budget of nearly $70.4 billion that has received final approval would increase spending for the first time in four economically challenging years.

But the budget (H.B. 5001) for the fiscal year starting July 1 that passed Friday in the House and Senate is still being called austere.

It would spend $3.9 billion more than the current budget, but that's still $3.6 billion less than lawmakers authorized for 2006-07, the last time spending increased. Here's a look at the details of the budget:

SPENDING BREAKDOWN

- Education: $22.5 billion. ■ Health and human services:
- $28.5 billion. ■ Transportation: $6.93 billion. ■ Criminal justice and correc-
- tions: $4.65 billion ■ General government: $4.9 billion. ■ Natural resources and environ- ment: $1.8 billion. ■ Courts: $462 million.
- Reserves: $1.4 billion.

FEDERAL STIMULUS

$2.3 billion in stimulus dollars are included in the budget. If Congress approves a six-month extension of additional stimulus for Medicaid that money — $880 million — would be used to offset state dollars committed to the state-federal health care program for low-income and disabled people. Of that amount, $730 million would go into reserves and the rest to spending projects in various parts of the budget including health care, college scholarships and transportation.

KINDERGARTEN THROUGH 12TH-GRADE EDUCATION

State and local funding in kindergarten through 12th grade will increase by $1.22 per student to $6,843.51. That's $283 below the peak funding level in 2007-08. State funding is up by $848.9 million over current year spending to offset a drop in local property taxes due to falling real estate values

HIGHER EDUCATION

Tuition is going up by 8 percent for community and state college and university students. That would raise university tuition to $4,945 a year, still well below the $6,585 national average. Individual universities, but not the colleges, can add another 7 percent for a 15 percent total. Universities also can raise fees by 15 percent. It's also going to be more difficult to obtain Bright Futures scholarships due to an increase in minimum test scores and the value of each award will drop by $1 per credit hour to $125 for the full scholarship and $94 for a partial scholarship. About 184,000 students currently receive Bright Futures aid.

HEALTH CARE

Health care funding is going up 9.35 percent due mainly to an expected increase of more than 300,000 people who will be eligible for Medicaid, bringing total enrollment to about three million. Medicaid reimbursement rates for hospitals (except children's hospitals) and nursing homes will be cut by 7 percent. If Congress approves additional Medicaid funding for states the hospital

LIBRARIES

The House had sought to eliminate state aid to public libraries but backed off during budget negotiations and agreed to provide $21.2 million, the minimum needed to draw down $9 million in federal matching funds.

TRANSPORTATION

The transportation trust fund would lose $160 million being diverted to other spending. Road builders say that will cost the state thousands of jobs, but House Republicans who sought an even larger cut say it would have only a minimal effect on projects. If the extra federal Medicaid money is approved, the transportation trust fund would get back $40 million.

TRUST FUNDS

The $160 million taken out of the transportation trust fund is part of an overall $506.9 million "raid" on trust funds that make up most of the budget. These funds are supported by specific funding sources and earmarked for specific purposes such as fuel taxes for transportation and utility taxes for education construction projects. The state's affordable housing trust fund was hardest hit, losing $174 million. Others included $26.6 million from an anti-fraud trust fund, $23.2 from a fund dedicated to cleaning up leaks from underground fuel storage tanks and $8 million from a fund to combat invasive plants.

STATE WORKERS

The House backed off its proposal rate reduction would fall to 5 percent. for a 3 percent pay cut, but state employees will go a fifth straight year without an across-the-board raise while co-payments for their health care insurance will increase. About 27,000 — mostly middle-management employees, but including lawmakers — no longer will get free health insurance. The payments, though, still will be relatively modest: $100 a year for an individual and $360 for family coverage.

FISCALLY CONSTRAINED COUNTIES

Small rural counties will get $27.9 million in state money to offset losses in property taxes due to falling real estate values.

CORRECTIONS

Due to a leveling off of the prison population at 111,710, the Department of Corrections will get no funding increases for operations and construction and 447 vacant positions will be eliminated for an expected savings of $22.8 million. Some wings and dormitories at state prisons will be closed and up to 2,224 inmates transferred to the new privately operated Blackwater River Correctional Facility in Milton. That's expected to save $1.65 million.

ENVIRONMENT

Funding for the popular Florida Forever land buying program that was suspended last year will be resumed at a reduced rate of $15 million. Everglades restoration would get $10 million but that figure could increase to $50 million if Congress approves the additional Medicaid money. Beach restoration would get $15.5 million.

Lawmakers counter redistricting proposals

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — The Republican-controlled Florida Legislature voted Friday to put its own redistricting proposal on the November ballot.

The state constitutional amendment (H.J.R. 7231), which won final passage by a largely partisan Senate vote, would compete with a pair of citizen initiatives also dealing with redistricting that are already on the Nov. 2 ballot.

The lawmakers' proposal passed 25-14 — one vote more than the minimum needed — becoming the ninth amendment that will go before voters in November.

The citizen initiatives, one each for congressional and legislative redistricting, are designed to curtail gerrymandering that favors incumbents and political parties. That's a provision lawmakers refused to put in their proposal.

Supporters said the amendment is needed to clarify the initiatives and protect minority rights.

Opponents argued it's designed to protect lawmakers' self interest and undermine the initiatives, sponsored by a group called Fair Districts Florida. They also said the initiatives have even stronger minority protections than the Legislature's amendment.

A key provision of the legislative proposal would let lawmakers use "communities of common interest" as a factor in drawing districts. Supporters say that means they can draw districts to assure minority representation.

The House approved the amendment Monday also by a largely partisan vote of 74-40 — just two more votes than required.

The citizen initiatives also say districts must be contiguous and cannot be drawn to deny racial or language minorities from having equal opportunity to participate in the political process and that "where feasible," lines should follow political and geographical lines.

Economic development bill heads to Crist

TALLAHASSEE — A wideranging economic development bill championed by Republican lawmakers is on its way to Gov. Charlie Crist, who plans to sign it.

The Florida House signed off on Senate tweaks and passed the bill (S.B. 1752) Friday, the last day of the legislative session.

The so-called "Jobs for Florida" bill includes a long menu of tax cuts and incentives designed to stimulate business and create jobs, including tax credits to companies that hire unemployed Floridians. It also sets aside millions for the aerospace industry and retraining workers affected by the retirement of the space shuttle program.

Tax breaks also will be offered to the entertainment industry for producing movies, TV shows or media in the Sunshine State.

Anti-abortion bill heads to Crist

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Charlie Crist, already embroiled in his own political drama, will have the final say on a health bill that included some antiabortion measures that popped out of the Legislature shortly before Friday's adjournment. The House passed the broader measure (H.B. 1143) on a 76-44 vote after four hours of emotionally charged debate. Democrats said it was little more than an attempt to persuade women they shouldn't have an abortion. The Senate passed the bill Thursday, also largely along party lines.

Democrats were upset the most with an amendment added late Wednesday that was not heard in committee and would require women seeking an abortion to have an ultrasound exam in the first trimester of the pregnancy and pay for it even if they don't want to see the live image.

Freshman Rep. Rachel Burgin, a 27-year-old Brandon Republican educated at Bob Jones University and the Moody Bible Institute, estimated the costs of such procedures between $750 and $1,500, depending on location and status of the pregnancy.

Women seeking an abortion would also have to provide legal documentation to prove they were a victim of rape, incest or domestic violence in order to refuse to hear a physician's description of the ultrasound image during the exam.

Parents using text, IM, e-mail

LEANNE ITALIE Associated Press

Parents who want a way to talk so little ears can't hear have moved beyond s-p-e-l-l-i-n-g in favor of a new kid-proof system: the text message.

E-mail, text and instant messaging have become the go-to technology for parents on family outings or at the end of a long day, when mom's chilling on the couch in front of the TV and dad's reading in the bedroom more than a whisper away.

"There was a time when I would get really upset if I was IMed from another room in the house. Now it's a complete parental survival tool," says KellyAnn Bonnell, whose kids are 10 and 15.

Tammy Gold, a parenting coach in Short Hills, N.J., says phones and online tools are particularly important in tight spaces like apartments, where there are fewer secluded spots, and especially with older kids who stay up as late or later than the grown-ups.

Tve had parents who say it's weeks before they can speak," she says. "Parents these days put 'sex' into each other's phones or else it won't happen."

Parents in two-BlackBerry households are using the company's free text service and relying on the messaging features on Facebook since they're logging on frequently anyway. Others have come up with languages all their own.

"Should we partake in a visit to the place with aluminum obstacles or cages containing mammals?" Greg Abel and his wife value their synonyms that's the playground and the zoo when their kids are listening, especially when more open discussion would likely lead to a sibling spat or major disappointment.

We have a bright 5-year-old who can spell, so we can't spell out words in front of him," said Abel, from Baltimore, Md. "If we're trying to decide if we should give him ice cream, but only after his younger brother has gone to

With a 2-year-old, Melissa Kaupke in Nashville, Tenn., can still spell that and lots of other things, but she wishes her husband was on board with her own parents' secret language of "Ob." You know the one — http://bit.ly/az19n4 — it sounds like you've got rocks in your

'My parents always used Ob," she says. "My dad's parents did the same thing when he was little. Unfortunately, my husband thinks it's too silly to do, because it works really well."

Foreign languages, made up or the regular kind, are not only handy but can whip up interest in kids who want in on the secret.

bed, we might say, 'Should we give the structors, so we spoke French around our two children," says Robert Magnan of Madison, Wis., of his now grown kids. "Since they didn't understand French, the system worked well. It also motivated them both to learn French and become fluent in it."

Not everyone's on board the technology train in excluding kids. Sharon Hirsch, a child and adolescent psychiatrist at the University of Chicago Medical Center, thinks parents lose a lot when they rely too much on instant technology.

"Texting or e-mailing is fine for brief informational exchanges like I'm picking up Jimmy at 7," she said. "But the best way to communicate complex ideas, issues and concepts is directly, "My wife and I were both French in-face to face. You don't do that in an IM."

N.J. teens hope to dump driver decal law

Associated Press

TRENTON, N.J. — New Jersey teens opposed to the nation's first state law requiring young drivers to display license plate decals that identify them as inexperienced have gained support for their cause from several state lawmakers and a national youth rights advocacy group.

The statute known as Kyleigh's Law takes effect Saturday. It requires New Jersey drivers ages 16 to 20 to have a $4 pair of detachable fluorescent red decals on their front and rear license plates during a yearperiod. Failure to do so could result in a $100 fine.

to help police enforce licensing restrictions on firsttime drivers, which limit the number of passengers they can carry and the hours they can drive. They gradually earn full driving privileges under the state's Graduated Driver License program.

Congress debates Puerto Rico referendum on future

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The House of Representatives approved legislation Thursday that could set in motion changes in Puerto Rico's 112-year relationship with the United States, including transition to statehood or independence.

give the 4 million residents of the island commonwealth a two-step path to expressing how they envision their political future. It passed 223-169 and now must be considered by the Senate. Initially, eligible voters, including those born in Puerto Rico but residing in the United States, would vote whether they wish to keep their island's current political status or opt for a different direction. If a majority were in favor of changing the current situation, the Puerto Rico gained Rican government would be authorized to conduct a second vote and people would choose among four options: statehood, independence, sovereignty in association with the United States or the current commonwealth status. Congress would have to vote whether Puerto Rico would become vote, topping the other op-

NEW YORK — Stocks ended April with a big loss Friday on disappointment with two economic reports and worries about a criminal investigation of Goldman

Investors lost some of their optimism about the economy after the government's weaker-thanexpected gross domestic product report and news of a drop in consumer sentiment. Reports that the government has started a criminal investigation of Goldman sent financial stocks tumbling. Investors feared that possible charges against the company could have a chilling effect on the banking indus-

While the GDP was up for the third straight quarter, it was down from the fourth quarter's 5.6 percent, a rate that was inflated by government stimulus spending and companies restocking their depleted inventories. For the economy to show healthy growth, it would have to grow at a faster pace than it did the first three months of the year. Growth would have to equal 5 percent for all of 2010 just to lower the average jobless rate for the year "The market may just be a by 1 percentage point.

Federal regulators shut three Puerto Rican banks

WASHINGTON — Regulators have shut down three banks in Puerto Rico, bringing the number of U.S. bank failures this year to 60. The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. on Friday took over the banks: Westernbank Puerto Rico, based in Mayaguez, with about $11.9 billion in assets; R-G Premier Bank of Puerto Rico, based in Hato Rey, with around $5.9 billion in assets; and San Juan-based Eurobank, with $2.5 Banco Popular de Puerto Rico agreed to acquire the deposits and about $9.4 billion of Westernbank's assets. The FDIC will keep the remainder for eventual sale. Scotiabank de Puerto Rico agreed to buy all the assets and deposits of R-G Premier Bank. And Oriental Bank and Trust is acquiring all the assets and deposits of Eurobank.

Amazon adding Twitter, Facebook to Kindle e-reader SAN FRANCISCO — Amazon.com Inc.'s Kindle e-reader is getting access to Facebook and Twitter, along with several other enhancements, as part of a software update being sent wirelessly to the devices.

In a posting on Amazon's site, the company says the new software will let users share book passages on their Twitter and Facebook accounts. The update will also let people sort books and documents into collections and lock their Kindle with a password. There also will be larger font options and the ability to zoom in on PDF docu-

The update comes shortly after Apple released its iPad tablet, which could be the Kindle's biggest competition. Both can wirelessly download books. Amazon said it has released the software to some Kindle owners and expects to send it to all users in late May.

China still No. 1 foreign holder of U.S. Treasury debt

WASHINGTON — The government's latest accounting of holdings of Treasury securities shows China still in first place as the largest foreign holder of U.S. government debt.

The Treasury Department said Friday that China's holdings at the end of December stood at $894.8 billion, exactly the same amount it reported in a preliminary benchmark revision of the data in February.

That revision returned China to first place, a spot it appeared to have lost to Japan before the data was revised. Japan's holdings in the latest update stood at $765.7 billion in December, $3.1 billion lower than the $768.8 billion reported in February.

Avon Products 1Q profit drops with currency hit

NEW YORK — A currency devaluation in Venezuela, costs related to a bribery investigation in China and restructuring charges drove Avon Products Inc.'s profit down 64 percent in

But consumers in many international markets spent more on Avon's cosmetics and other products, and its revenue climbed 15 percent, the company said Friday. Avon, whose force of thousands of independent sellers ballooned during the recession as unemployed workers sought new income, increased its marketing spending during the quarter and continued to recruit sellers to promote its low-price products, some of which sell for less than $5.

Its outside sales force grew 6 percent, and it spent 23 percent more than a year earlier marketing its brands, which include Skin-So-Soft and Mark, as well as Avon. Avon's revenue fell 2 percent in North America, and units sold were flat, hurt by weakness in its non-beauty business.

= Hot Corner: OIL SPILL =

Not quite right

Two cries from a different time. First one: Drill, baby, drill. The second: Burn, baby, burn. Something's not quite right.

Total cost

To all you "Drill, baby, drill" fans out there: You think it's going to be worth it to have thousands of gallons of crude oil washed up on our Florida beaches? I don't think so. Forget about it.

No drilling

This call is for everyone that was in favor of offshore oil drilling: I hope you have your eyes open and you're looking at the front page of the paper and you see what lies ahead. So stop going for the offshore oil drilling. Tell your politicians no, it's absolutely out of the question, because that could happen to us. In fact, it might still happen to us if it flows wrong. So do something. Tell your politicians. Vote no for offshore oil drilling.

Plan ahead

I'm calling Sound Off in reference to the offshore drilling on our Gulf Coast. I think any type of drilling off anywhere off the United States coast, before they do any type of drilling, they should have a contingency emergency plan for every possible scenario. And if they don't have it, then they should not drill for oil, period. They should be able, once they have a leak, have a plan intact, go in and seal it, over and done with. This is ridiculous. Stop drilling until you have contingency plans to cover all aspects.

Beach goo

Surprise, surprise. Does anyone remember what happened in 1942 to Jacksonville when Uboats sank oil tankers off Jacksonville beaches? Oil covered the beaches and dunes for a long time. Not knowing it was there, you're walking along the beach, you got a heavy black goo on your feet that had to be scraped off. I was a witness to this incident.

Dead in the water

I imagine that Sarah Palin's chant and the Republicans' chant about "Drill, baby, drill," is drastically going to change because that oil slick, which is thousands and thousands of square miles being taken up by the oil, is very, very close to reaching the Gulf Coast and all of the states that are involved in the Gulf Coast. It is going to be a horrible situation for the fish, for the oysters, for the shrimp, for the wildlife of all kinds, and also for the reefs, the coral reefs, which will be destroyed. And a lot of those areas will never again be able to be what they are now, especially the wetlands. They're going to be destroyed.

The new Know-Nothings

jamin Franklin, except they share one of our most repellent and recurring prejudices — xenophobia, fear of foreigners. Throughout our history, Americans have been profoundly ambivalent on the subject of immigration. We get misty-eyed seeing the Statue of Liberty, or hearing about our own foreignborn ancestors, and then periodically erupt in spasms of nativist nonsense.

The country is going through one of those spasms right now. Witness the measure passed in Arizona that requires law-enforcement officers to question anyone they "reasonably suspect" of being illegal. Sponsors say that would not lead to racial profiling, but their denials ring hollow. Of course it would. That's what they want.

Pearce is a former sheriff's deputy who sponsored the bill in the state legislature. As the New York Times reported, he has "long been considered a politically incorrect embarrassment by more moderate members of his party." He's proudly posed for pictures with neo-Nazis and circulated an anti-Semitic e-mail from a white supremacist group - which he later said was an ac-

"Invaders, that's what they are," Pearce calls undocumented workers. "Invaders on the American sovereignty and it can't be tolerated." He was once shot arresting gang members, and in an interview with NPR, he insisted: "It's not that they're Hispanic; it's because the culture is different. The gangs are bigger. There's more violence, kidnappings are way up.

Fortunately, Pearce's hate mongering has provoked an immediate outcry. President Obama branded the law "misguided" and Americans during World War II.

ussell Pearce is no Ben-jamin Franklin, except notions of fairness." Cardinal Roger Mahony of Los Angeles termed the legislation "meanspirited," and Mayor Phil Gordon of Phoenix called Pearce and his supporters "bitter, small-minded and full of hate."

All true, but mean-spirited small-mindedness is part of our tradition, which brings us to Benjamin Franklin. In 1753, he called the German immigrants flocking to Pennsylvania "generally the most stupid sort of their own nation" and warned: "They will soon outnumber us (and we) will not, in my opinion, be able to preserve our language, and even our government will become precarious.

convict or a pauper and the chances are you tickle the skin of an Irish Catholic." In 1856, the Know-Nothing Party's "anti-Papist" platform drew 25 percent of the presidential vote.

Fifty years later, Italians and Jews inherited the title of despised newcomer. Ellwood P. Cubberley, a New York educator, wrote in 1909: "These Southern and Eastern Europeans are of a very different type from the Northern Europeans who proceeded them. Illiterate, docile, lacking in self-reliance and initiative, and not possessing Anglo-Teutonic conceptions of law, order and government, their coming has corrupted our civic life."

In 1913, California passed the first of many state laws barring Asians from owning property, and they lasted until the Supreme Court threw them out in 1948. Meanwhile, the U.S. government had interned 120,000 loyal Japanese-

The know-nothings have been remarkably consistent. In every era, their reasoning has been the same: America is now perfect. It's time to slam the gates shut, because the next wave of immigrants will "corrupt" "culture." That's exactly what people like Pearce are saying today about Hispanics.

To be fair, illegal immigrants do cause problems in Arizona, the prime entry point for smugglers from Mexico. While crime statistics do not support Pearce's scare tactics about violence and kidnappings, undocumented families do crowd schools and hospital emergency rooms. And they can push down wages in industries like construction. Any serious attempt at legalizing the status of 12 million aliens must seal the border as part of the deal.

We also share another concern: Because Spanish is now so prevalent in many states, newcomers lack an incentive to learn English or integrate into civic life. But that has always been true. In his fine book "The Long Way Home," David Laskin documents the story of Joe Chmielewski, who never spoke English in Fifficktown, Pa., until he was drafted during World War I: "There was really no need or opportunity. Everyone he knew or had to deal with at the mine, at home, in the tavern, in church spoke Polish."

The basic point is this: Benjamin Franklin was wrong in 1753, and Russell Pearce is wrong today. The great genius of America is that we are never perfect, never finished and never static. Germans enriched our country and our culture 257 years ago, and Latinos do the same today.

No U.S. oil

to the Editor ====

The recent oil rig disaster is dumping 42,000 gallons of oil a day into the Gulf of Mexico. Do we really want to drill off the coast of Florida? So much for the "Drill, baby, drill" bunch and their claims that we need to lessen our dependence on foreign oil. Shell Oil is Royal Dutch Shell. CITGO is owned by Venezuela. Oil leases and offshore drilling is done by, and the prices controlled by, multinational and foreign-owned companies. Oil, no matter where it comes from, is priced on a world market. The idea that oil drilled in Alaska or offshore will be available to the United States at a lower price than that is simply not true.

After immigration law, Arizona faces boycott

PHOENIX — Civil rights leaders are urging organizations to cancel their conventions in Arizona. Baseball's Arizona Diamondbacks are encountering protesters on the road. And the AriZona iced tea company wants everyone to know that its drinks are made in New York.

Arizona is facing a backlash over its new law cracking down on illegal immigrants, with opponents pushing for a tourism boycott like the one that was used to punish the state 20 years ago over its refusal to honor the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. with a holiday.

"The goal is to as quickly as possible bring to a shocking stop the economy of Arizona," former state Sen. Alfredo Gutierrez said Friday as a coalition called Boycott Arizona announced its formation.

The outcry has grown steadily in the week since Republican Gov. Jan Brewer signed the nation's toughest law against illegal immigration. The measure makes it a crime under state law to be in the

It's comeback time for U.S. auto parts makers

Associated Press

DETROIT — Companies that crank out gears, hoses, gauges and other parts for U.S. automakers are making a comeback.

Many are profitable again, and some are cautiously hiring after months of layoffs. They've also accomplished something that two of their biggest customers, General Motors and Chrysler, haven't: They've repaid everything they borrowed from the government.

In the past two weeks, large suppliers such as Gentex Corp., BorgWarner Inc., and Federal-Mogul Corp., have reported millions in profits for the first quarter, reversing huge loses from early last year when the auto industry nearly collapsed. The revival is driven by rising auto sales and the suppliers' own painful cuts during the recession.

companies among more than 2,000 in the U.S. that make just about all the 10,000 parts in a single car or truck, components that are bolted into vehicles by the Detroit Three or Asian and European automakers. You name it and the suppliers make it transmissions, belts, speedometers, wires even plastic bags that keep seats clean in the factory. Many are concentrated around the Great Lakes, but thousands have set up in southern states like Kentucky, Tennessee, Georgia and Alabama. They're also in Texas and California. Together they employ more than 420,000 people and form links in a complex supply chain that turns sheet metal and plastic into Chevys and Corollas.

The suppliers' profits stand in contrast to 2009, when at least 54 went into bankruptcy protection and the government approved loans to help them buy raw materials and meet payrolls. Many couldn't borrow elsewhere because of frozen credit and doubts that they would be paid by General Motors Co. and Chrysler Group LLC as the pair headed into Chapter 11.

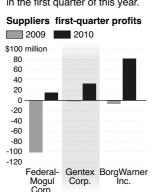

"There is no doubt whatsoever that there is a recovery both in the global economy and the auto industry," says Federal-Mogul CEO Jose Maria Alapont, whose company saw revenue rise 20 percent in the first quarter while results swung from a $101 million loss to a $15 million profit.

Many companies, like Federal-Mogul, used the recession to shed staff and excess factory space. Now they can make money even though U.S. auto sales this year could be more than 30 percent below the 2000 peak of 17.3 million vehicles, says Jim Gillette, an analyst with the firm CSM Worldwide,

Last year was brutal for suppliers. Their trade association asked the federal government for a $25.5 billion bailout, including guarantees the GM and Chrysler would pay their bills.

The government offered $5 billion in loans, to be administered by GM and Chrysler. But speedier payments by the automakers, increased production due to Cash for Clunkers incentives and restructuring helped most suppliers outlast the recession. They only borrowed $413 million from the government, all of which was repaid by March 31,

Even though GM CEO Ed Whitacre has bragged in ads that his company has repaid its government loans in full, GM and Chrysler have yet to return the full amount of federal aid they received. GM has paid back about $6.7 billion in loans, but the remaining obligation from both companies is about $55 billion. The government has turned that debt into a 61 percent ownership stake in GM and 10 percent in Chrysler. But that won't be repaid until the companies sell stock to the public, later this year at the earliest.

Meanwhile, some suppliers are starting to add back some of the thousands of jobs they cut. There's even a billboard along a freeway west of Detroit that says "GENTEX IS HIRING" in big block letters.

Gentex, which makes mirrors and other auto parts, is adding about 100 full-time production workers and engineers. During the recession, the company laid off about 400 people. Federal-Mogul, based in Southfield, Mich., laid off 11,000 workers during the recession and has added back 2,000 since late last year, 80 percent of them temporary hires.

U.S.: Honduras' prez was erratic

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras U.S. officials who voiced strong opposition to Honduras' coup last June now say the ousted president took an "erratic and imprudent course of action" in the months leading up to his overthrow.

The comments from U.S. Ambassador Hugo Llorens mark the first time U.S. officials have so directly criticized former President Manuel Zelaya for his pre-coup actions.

Llorens told about 300 community leaders at a Thursday meeting of the Honduran Cities Association that the November election of President Porfirio Lobo was a crucial step toward putting this poor Central American country back on track.

"We understood very well that former President Zelaya pursued an erratic and imprudent course of action in the management of the country, and the growing opposition to his polarizing style," Llorens said.

"At the same time, my government was firm in our belief that the constitutional rupture was a setback for democracy in Honduras, and in no way justifiable," Llorens added.

That was why Washington refused to recognize the in-

Choppy seas frustrate effort to contain oil spill

Associated Press

MOUTH OF THE MISSISSIPPI RIVER — High winds and choppy seas frustrated efforts to hold back the oil spill seeping into Louisiana's rich fishing grounds and nesting areas Friday, and the government desperately cast about for new ideas for dealing with the nation's biggest environmental crisis in decades.

President Barack Obama, meanwhile, halted any new offshore drilling projects unless rigs have new safeguards to prevent a repeat of the disaster that was set in motion when an offshore platform exploded and sank $50 \ miles$ out in the Gulf of Mexico.

As the mile-deep BP well continued to spew an estimated 200,000 gallons of crude a day, the seas were too rough and the winds too strong to burn off the oil, suck it up effectively with skimmer vessels, or hold it in check with the miles of inflata booms strung along the coast.

The floating barriers broke loose in the choppy water, and waves sent oily water lapping over them.

"It just can't take the wave action," said Billy Nungesser, president of Louisiana's Plaquemines

The spill — a slick more than 130 miles long and 70 miles wide threatens hundreds of species of wildlife. Louisiana closed some fishing grounds and oyster beds because of the risk of oil contamination. As of Friday, only a sheen of oil from the edges of the slick was washing up at Venice, La., and other extreme southeastern portions of Louisiana. But several miles out, the normally bluegreen gulf waters were dotted with sticky, pea- to quarter-sized brown beads with the consistency of tar. ■ Florida Gov. Charlie Crist, who surveyed the massive oil slick this week, backed off his support for offshore oil extraction "It's the last thing in the world I would want to see happen in our beautiful state," said Crist, adding that there is no question that lawmakers should give up on the idea this year and in coming years. ■ And there are three types of beaches in the oil's path: sandy, rocky and marshy. Sandy beaches, like those in Florida, are the easiest to clean. By far the hardest are marshlands and that's where the oil is heading first. Marshes are so delicate that just trying to clean them causes damage. A big storm could actually help by dispersing and diluting the worst of the oil.

Workers secures inflatable oil containment booms Friday on the deck of an offshore service vessel at the Mississippi State Port in Gulfport, Miss. The equipment will be deployed along the west end of Ship Island, south of Gulfport. State and federal officials are making efforts to protect delicate ecosystems from oil spilling from a sunken rig in the Gulf of Mexico.

Oil rig had history of problems

Associated Press

During its nine years at sea, the Deepwater Horizon oil rig operated by BP suffered a series of spills, fires — even a collision because of equipment failure, human error and bad weather. It also drilled the world's deepest offshore well.

But Deepwater Horizon's lasting legacy will undoubtedly be the environmental damage it caused after it exploded and sank, killing 11 crew and releasing an estimated 210,000 gallons of oil a day into the Gulf of Mexico.

What likely destroyed the rig in a ball of fire last week was a failure or multiple failures -5,000 feet below. That's where drilling equipment met the sea bed in a complicated construction of pipes, concrete and valves that gave way in a manner that no one has vet been able to explain.

Oil services contractor Halliburton Inc. said in a statement Friday that workers had finished cementing the well's pipes 20 hours before the rig went up in flames. Halliburton is named as a defendant in most of the more than two dozen lawsuits filed by Gulf Coast people and businesses claiming the oil spill could ruin them finan-

Remote-controlled blowout preventers designed to apply brute force to seal off a well should have kicked in. But they failed to activate after the explosion.

Scott Bickford, lawyer for several Deepwater Horizon workers who survived the blast, said he believes a "burp' of natural gas rose to the rig floor and was sucked into machinery, leading to the explosion.

Halliburton's said "it is premature and irresponsible to speculate on any specific causal issues.'

Wie takes 2nd-round lead at LPGA event

Associated Press

MORELIA, Mexico Michelle Wie held her game together with the wind hollowing through the mountainside ravines at the Tres Championship, shooting a 5-under 68 on Friday to take a one-stroke

Brittany Lincicome (67) and Japan's Ai Miyazato (72) were tied for second.

But the gusts and the emotional ups-and-downs got to Lorena Ochoa, who fell five strokes off the pace with a 73 in her farewell tournament.

This is the last event for the top-ranked Ochoa, under some pressure to deliver a victory for her adoring fans in Mexico — she has won the event three times before stepping away.

"I'll take it I guess with these conditions," Ochoa said. "With all the emotions I am going through and the adrenaline it's been a little bit tough.'

Wie beat the wind, and seems to love playing in Mexico where she won her first LPGA event 5½ months ago in the Lorena Ochoa Invitational in Guadalajara — Ochoa's hometown.

'It's fun over here," Wie said. "It's a good attitude over here; relaxed, great weather, great people and hopefully I can keep it

It could have been even better for Wie, who pulled off a spectacular birdie on the 541-yard 16th, but then stumbled with two bogeys.

She hit a booming drive downwind on 16 — father B.J. Wie estimated it at 380 vards — but hit an 8-iron approach from 165 yards over the green into loose gravel. She chipped out, but knocked it across the green into a bunker. She then holed out from 70 feet, lifting both arms skyward to celebrate the shot.

"Holing out the bunker shot was kind of funny," said Wie, breaking into a smile.

Ochoa tried to force a few laughs, but it wasn't easy even for a player recognized as one of the most likable and humble on the LPGA

"I try not to think (about the retirement), but of course it is in my head," said Ochoa, who has 27 career one on the par-3 13th, using victories — including two a pitching wedge to hole the majors — and has held the 125-yard shot. It was her first No. 1 ranking for three on the LPGA Tour.

"Today when I was struggling a little bit more, I was But you try to smile. Trying to keep myself together and focus on the tournament is difficult.'

The 28-year-old Ochoa chose to play Thursday and Friday with Miyazato and Natalie Gulbis. She called Miyazato "the nicest girl on the tour," and she grew up playing junior golf, and college golf at Arizona with Ochoa said her mind was wandering, walking with Gulbis and talking about the old days. Then she'd pull herself back to reality.

"All of a sudden I'd say: 'Hello, but you are here,' she said. "It was not my best day, I guess. I only have five or six players in front of me so I'm trying to be positive."

Miyazato, who has won two events of the season and has reached No. 5 in the rankings, missed too many

"The fairways were really firm today, and the greens were a little bit drier, so it was tough to make adjustments about my distance," said Miyazato, who is from Japan's southern island of Okinawa. "But I still had many chances out there." Lincicome had a hole-in-

SAUCIER, Miss. — Bob Tway and 63-year-old Leonard Thompson shot 5-under 67s on Friday to share the firstround lead in the Champions Tour's inaugural Mississippi Gulf Resort Classic.

Tom Purtzer, David Peoples, Brad Bryant and David Eger opened with 68s at Fallen Oak. Mark O'Meara, coming off his first Champions Tour victory last week with Nick Price in the Legends of Golf team event, was two strokes back at 69 along with Eduardo Romero and Ted Schultz. Price had a 70.

Thompson, who won the last of his three Champions Tour titles in 2001, has cut his tournament schedule, but has been playing almost every day at home in Ponte Vedra Beach, Fla., at Sawgrass Country Club and TPC Saw-

"I think it had something to do with it. Yes I do." Thompson said. "I really do. ... You can't find too many places that you go from one to the other that are as difficult as those two on a daily basis. That's where we've been playing. I'm not saying that that was the be all, end all, but it certainly helps."

The 51-year-old Tway birdied Nos. 12, 14 and 16 to match Thompson at 5 under.

Tampa Bay starter Jeff Niemann throws during the Rays' 3-2 loss to the Kansas City Royals on Friday night in St. Petersburg.

Royals 3, Rays 2

ST. PETERSBURG - Not even a loss could diminish the Tampa Bay Rays' outstanding opening month.

An error by reliever Randy Choate helped Kansas City score twice in the ninth inning, and the Royals held on to beat the first-place Rays 3-2 on Friday night.

The Rays lost for just the third time in the last 17 games and ended April with a 17-6 record.

"It was a fabulous month," manager Joe Maddon said. "All we talked about was to get off to a good start. I could not be happier with the group."

After reaching the World Series in 2008, Tampa Bay went just 9-14 in April last season en route to missing the playoffs.

Evan Longoria homered and had two RBIs for the Rays. He nearly won it in the bottom of the ninth, but his long drive to left with two on was caught at the wall for a sacrifice fly that made it 3-2.

With runners at first and second, Joakim Soria retired B.J. Upton on a fly ball to end it.

Alberto Callaspo had a tiebreaking sacrifice fly and Mitch Maier added a run-scoring single in the ninth for the Royals, who won for only the second time in 12 games against Tampa Bay since the start of last season.

"It's a win here in the house of horrors," manager Trey Hillman said.

> Scott Podsednik reached safely when Choate (0-2) misplayed his comebacker to start the ninth. After Billy Butler singled and Jose Guillen was hit by a pitch from closer Rafael Soriano, Callaspo gave the Royals a 2-1 lead with his sacrifice fly.

Yankees 6, White Sox 4

NEW YORK — Derek Jeter hit a tiebreaking two-run triple in the seventh inning to give him four RBIs, helping the New York Yankees beat the Chicago White Sox 6-4 on Friday night.

Jeter also hit a tying, two-run homer in the fifth for New York, which opened a six-game homestand with its third consecutive win. The All-Star shortstop went 3 for 4 and is batting .538 (7 for in his last three games.

Paul Konerko set a White Sox record with his major league-best 11th homer in April and Gordon Beckham added two hits as Chicago lost for the 12th time in its last 14 games in New York.

The Yankees shook off a shaky start by Andy Pettitte to finish the first month of the season with a 15-7 record, a solid beginning for the defending World Series champions. New York went 12-10 in April last year, when it finished with 103 wins.

The White Sox (9-14) lost for the third time in four games, closing a difficult April on a down note. Manager Ozzie Guillen said he was "very disappointed" with the results before the series opener.

With two on and one out in the seventh. Jeter sliced a 2-2 pitch from Matt Thornton (2-2) past diving right fielder Jayson Nix and into the corner.

Tigers 10, Angels 6

DETROIT - Scott Sizemore and Brennan Boesch hit their first career homers in an eight-run fourth inning, and the Detroit Tigers went on to beat the Los Angeles Angels 10-6 Friday night.

Sizemore's homer, which came one pitch after Gerald Laird's first of the season, tied the game at four. Miguel Cabrera added an RBI single later in the inning before Boesch's grand slam to center field.

A third Tigers rookie, Austin Jackson, went 5 for 5, making him the first Tigers rookie with five hits in a game since the player he replaced, Curtis Granderson, did it on Sept. 18, 2005.

Rick Porcello (2-2) won despite allowing five runs on eight hits in 5 1-3 innings. Joel Pineiro (2-3) gave up a career-high 10 runs in 3 1-3 innings.

Hideki Matsui's RBI groundout gave the Angels a 1-0 lead in the first, but Johnny Damon drove home Jackson with a triple in the bottom of the inning and then scored his 1,500th career run on Magglio Ordonez's sacrifice fly.

Torii Hunter's three-run homer off Porcello gave the Angels a 4-2 lead in the third, but Detroit took control in the fourth.

Brandon Inge led off with a walk before Laird and Sizemore hit their back-to-back homers. With one out. Jackson singled and scored on Damon's double.

Twins 9. Indians 3

CLEVELAND — Justin Morneau made an instant impact in his return to the Minnesota Twins' lineup, launching a two-run homer in a 9-3 win over the Cleveland Indians on Friday night.

Morneau had missed two games with a stiff back. The Twins said it was unrelated to the stress fracture that kept him out of the final 20 games last season and the playoffs.

After Joe Mauer singled with two outs in the first, Morneau hit a 444-foot homer over the center-field wall against Fausto Carmona (3-1).

Kevin Slowey (3-2), moved up in Minnesota's rotation, pitched five innings for the win. He filled in for Nick Blackburn, who was placed on the family medical emergency list to deal with a personal matter.

Slowey improved to 4-0 in his last four starts against Cleveland. The right-hander allowed three runs and eight hits, striking out six without issuing a walk.

Orlando Hudson's two-out, two-run single capped a three-run second for a 5-0 lead.

Hudson singled to open the fifth, stole second, and scored on Michael Cuddyer's two-out broken-bat single to make it 6-0.

BALTIMORE — Adam Jones doubled and scored on a two-out single by Miguel Tejada in the 10th inning, giving the Baltimore Orioles a 5-4 victory over the Boston Red Sox on Friday night.

tying homer in the eighth after Baltimore blew a 3-1 lead.

Tejada had three RBIs, including a

The win improved the Orioles' home record to 2-8 and ended a seven-game skid against Boston at Camden Yards.

J.D. Drew hit two solo homers and Dustin Pedroia homered and drove in two runs for the Red Sox, whose threegame winning streak ended. The defeat left Boston with its first losing April (11-12) since 1996.

After Jones doubled with one out off Ramon Ramirez (0-1), Nick Markakis was walked intentionally. Hideki Okajima came in to face Matt Wieters, who struck out.

Tejada then grounded a single up the middle off Manny Delcarmen.

Matt Albers (1-3) pitched a perfect 10th for the Orioles, whose 5-18 record is still the worst in the majors.

Blue Jays 10, Athletics 2

TORONTO — Alex Gonzalez hit two home runs and Vernon Wells also connected, leading Brandon Morrow and the Toronto Blue Jays over the Oakland Athletics 10-2 Friday night. Gonzalez hit a three-run homer in the second inning and led off the sixth with a drive down the left-field line. It was the eighth multihomer game of his career.

Gonzalez has hit seven home runs this month, a team record for a shortstop in April. Marco Scutaro hit five last April. Wells hit his eighth home run and a pair of singles. Toronto, which came in with an AL-leading 32 homers, sent the A's to their sixth straight road loss. Morrow (2-2) struck out nine and allowed two runs in six innings. The righthander retired 12 of his final 13 batters.

John Buck, who hit three homers in Toronto's win Thursday night, had two hits, including a two-run single. He was hit by a pitch in his final plate appearance.

Kevin Kouzmanoff's RBI single gave Oakland a 1-0 lead in the first. Toronto took the lead in the second when Gonzalez homered off Trevor Cahill (0-1).

Oakland cut it to 3-2 on Cliff Pennington's RBI grounder in the fourth.

T-2:37. A-25,195 (36,973).

MIAMI — Ryan Zimmerman homered twice and the Washington Nationals won their third straight game, beating the Florida Marlins 7-1 Friday night.

It was Zimmerman's first start since April 21 due to a hamstring injury, and he quickly made up for lost time, connecting both times on a full count against starter Ricky Nolasco. Scott Olsen (2-1) pitched six scoreless innings, giving up five hits and striking out four. He got his first win in four starts against his former club since being acquired by Washington in November 2008. Nolasco (2-1) gave up five runs on eight hits over a season-low four innings, while striking out seven. The Nationals took a 2-0 lead in the first inning on Zimmerman's two-out solo shot to left.

Adam Dunn followed with a triple, then scored on Josh Willingham's single.

Zimmerman's second homer drove in Adam Kennedy, who led off the inning with a single, and made it 4-0.

Braves 4, Astros 2

ATLANTA — The Atlanta Braves turned to their youngest stars to end their longest losing streak in four years.

Jason Heyward hit a tiebreaking, two-run homer and Tommy Hanson pitched eight innings to help the Braves end their nine-game losing streak by beating the Houston Astros 4-2 Friday night.

Heyward homered for the second consecutive night to break a 2-all tie and Nate McLouth also went deep against Brett Myers (1-2).

The 23-year-old Hanson (2-2) gave up two runs in the second inning and then retired 20 of his last 21 batters. He allowed four hits and struck out seven without a walk. Billy Wagner pitched a hitless the ninth for his second save. He walked Pedro Feliz with one out before Carlos Lee hit into a double play.

The Braves snapped their longest losing streak since dropping 10 straight from June 11-22, 2006. This season's streak included an 0-7 road trip, the Braves' first winless trip of at least seven games since 1949, when the franchise was based in Boston. The Astros have lost four straight.

Hanson, in his first full season, has allowed no more than two runs in each of his first five starts and has a 2.17 ERA.

PHILADELPHIA — Rod Barajas homered twice, Jonathon Niese pitched seven impressive innings and the surging New York Mets routed the Philadelphia Phillies 9-1 on Friday night for their eighth straight victory.

David Wright and Jeff Francoeur also homered for the Mets, riding their longest winning streak since a 10game run in July 2008.

Coming off a 9-1 homestand that produced a surprise lead in the NL East, New York dominated its first meeting this season with the rival Phillies, winners of two consecutive pennants and three straight division titles.

With the Phillies already down big in the ninth, Brad Lidge was hit hard in his first outing of the year. Francoeur came out in the seventh with a bruised left elbow, soon after he was hit by a pitch from Danys Baez. In the eighth, Mets rookie Jenrry Mejia plunked Chase Utley on the leg. Niese (1-1) shut down Philadelphia's powerful lineup, allowing one run and four hits for his third major league win and first since July 25, 2009, at Houston. He matched a career high with seven strikeouts. The left-hander yielded Carlos

Ruiz's RBI single in the second, then retired 14 straight until Jayson Werth's single leading off the seventh. Wright and Francoeur connected during a three-run second inning against Kyle Kendrick (0-1). Jason Bay

Keselowski dominates, wins at Richmond

Associated Press RICHMOND, Va. — Brad

Keselowski raced to his second straight NASCAR Nationwide Series victory, dominating all night and then rallying from fourth in a green-white-checker finish Friday at Richmond International Raceway. Keselowski began rebuilding his series points lead, cut to 10 points after he won at Talladega last week and then failed postrace inspection and was docked 50 points. The victory gave Keselowski a 59point advantage over Kevin Harvick. Keselowski, an eight-time winner in his Nationwide career, was on pace to lead the last 192 laps, but pitted with five laps to go, handing Kyle Busch the lead. But Keselowski reasserted his dominance by powering through the field on new tires to pass Busch and teammate Justin Allgaier, who had also stayed fore the last dash, had no chance to slow Keselowski. "The 22 was coming like gangbusters. I held him off as long as I could," Biffle said. The dramatic ending served only to reinforce that Keselowski had the best car.

Earlier, he was leading by more than 3.5 seconds when a crash by Jason Leffler brought out a late caution, and gave Busch an opportunity to make amends for an earlier error on pit road as the leader under caution that dropped him from second to sixth. This time, he went into the pits fourth and came out second, lining up to the outside of Keselowski on a restart with 57 laps left. It hardly mattered.

Tebow enjoys first camp with Denver

Associated Press

ENGLEWOOD, Colo. — Tim Tebow is accustomed to living under the media microscope. Now, his every move on the football field is being scrutinized by the Denver Broncos.

A team videographer was at his feet Friday when Tebow took snaps and threw passes as the three-day minicamp for rookies got under way.

"Oh, it's great because we can go back and watch it," said the ever-excitable Tebow following the 90minute workout on a chilly morning. "We can look at every play, every throw, go back and see what I did good, what I did bad, what I have to work on and what I need to change."

The most intriguing pro prospect since Michael Vick, Tebow has plenty of work ahead of him.

Some scouts think it could take two years for Tebow to make the transition from combination college quarterback to prototypical pocket passer — if he ever does. Others argue his success in college, his passion for football and his work ethic will make the transition smoother and shorter.

Broncos coach Josh Mc-Daniels, who made waves when he traded three draft picks to Baltimore to take Tebow with the 25th selection in last week's NFL put a timetable on Tebow's transition.

the notion of moving Tebow to H-back to start his pro career. And with Kyle Orton, Brady Quinn and maybe even Tom Brandstater ahead of him on the depth chart, many expect Tebow's contributions as a rookie will come in wildcat formations.

Although Tebow is a Heisman Trophy winner and a two-time national champion whom some call the greatest college player ever, he is an NFL enigma, a big question mark because of his notready-for-prime-time throwmechanics footwork, and the spread offense he ran out of the shotgun with the Gators.

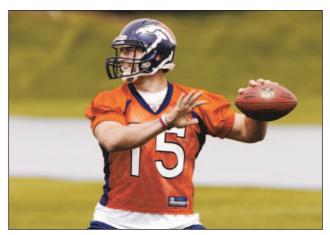

So, Tebow donned an orange No. 15 jersey and hit the field at Dove Valley for the first time to begin his NFL education. With the offense in white on the south end of the field and the defense in blue at the north end, all eyes were on Tebow in the middle.

During the 25-minute period in which more than 50 reporters, photographers and cameramen were allowed to observe, Tebow ran agility drills and then threw several passes under the watchful eyes of Mc-Daniels and his younger brother, Ben McDaniels, who is Denver's new quarterbacks coach.

Both had plenty of advice for Tebow.

"It was just everything draft, said it's unrealistic to from the plays to footwork to getting my body in position to throw and just different McDaniels has dismissed things like that," Tebow said.

Denver Broncos rookie quarterback Tim Tebow looks to pass the ball on Friday at the football team's headquarters in Englewood, Colo. The Broncos will hold their rookie camp through the weekend.

Pennsylvania bound?

A 16,000-square-foot home in New Ringgold, Pa., in Schuylkill County, is seen Tuesday. Many residents of the area believe celebrity couple Beyonce and Jay-Z are moving into the house, which is on the market for $11.9 million.

Small town engulfed by rumors about Beyonce, Jay-Z

Associated Press

- NEW RINGGOLD, Pa. ey, didja hear the news? Beyonce and Jay-Z are moving to Schuylkill County, Pa.!

That's the rumor swirling around these parts: That the singer and her rap mogul husband, Grammy Award winners both, are planning to buy a multimillion-dollar spread on 210 secluded acres in eastern Pennsylvania.

What began as idle gossip has turned into an article of faith among many here.

People are talking about it in grocery stores and pharmacies, at the fitness center and kids' T-ball games, online and over the phone. One fan even posted a welcome message on Beyonce's official website.

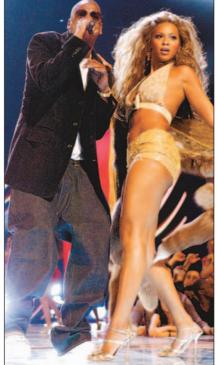

No one seems to know how the rumor got started. No deed has been recorded in the courthouse, no real estate transfer tax has been paid, and the celebs have yet to request a showing, according to the real estate agent listing the house.

But the gossip persists, supercharged by unconfirmed sightings of Beyonce at several businesses, from Boyer's supermarket to Heisler's dairy bar. And who was riding in that black Lamborghini seen tooling around town?

Beyonce fans Brooke Shilling and Anne Tomtishen, college students from nearby Pottsville and Ringtown, drove up to the front gate after class one day this week, excited by the prospect of one of the planet's bestknown celebrity couples making a home in Schuylkill County.

"I'm gonna tell everyone I'm their neighbors. It's insane!" gushed Shilling, 20.

Added Tomtishen, 23: "Maybe she'll the idea has a certain logic.

have babies. That would be awe-

Jay-Z and Beyonce.

At first, the notion they would buy a house here seems farfetched, even ludicrous. Schuylkill County is an economically struggling region best known for the Yuengling brewery, Mrs. T's Pierogies, the Molly Maguires and a coal mining industry that is a shadow of its former self. In other words, it's a celebrity-free zone. "I don't believe they'll be here, unless they get a taste for Yuengling,' scoffed Jonathan Moss, 54, of nearby Orwigsburg.

Upon further inspection, though,

Beyonce and Jay-Z could do a lot worse than the unique wood-andstone hillside contemporary at the heart of the matter. Listed at $11.9 million, it's got 16,000 square feet of living space and stunning views of Hawk Mountain, a popular birdwatching spot. The property comes with a vintage eight-bedroom Sears house, a one-bedroom guest house, a restored bank barn and frontage on the trout-stocked Little Schuylkill River. (Does Beyonce fish?)

It's also convenient — just over two hours west of Manhattan by stretch limo, even closer by helicopter or private plane.

And the region does have a few celebrity claims to fame, including 1930s bandleaders Tommy and Jimmy Dorsey and Muhammad Ali, who had a training camp a few miles away in Deer Lake.

The rumor has brought plenty of attention to the ultra-luxe property, but Beyonce and Jay-Z haven't expressed an interest in it, said Ericka Kirkpatrick, the agent who is listing the house.

have no idea what the deal is or where it got started. ... We are just being bombarded with craziness. This is so absurd!"

Jeff Faust, chairman of the local board of supervisors, said no one has approached the township about putting in a helipad — another rumor making the rounds.

"It's amazing what people will come up with," he said. "Believe me, I'd love for that property to sell. The township gets a nice chunk of change from the realty transfer tax.'

The stars' reps aren't commenting, which means this rumor will likely persist at least until the house is sold.

Birthday: The quantity of opportunities that pop up in the year ahead won't matter so much as their quality. Recognize the ones that have much to offer and concentrate only on them if you want some major successes.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) — Instead of merely hoping that everything will turn out well, take control of whatever you can. If you don't, you can expect things to go another way. Gemini (May 21-June 20) — Mouthing words without any intent of taking action will count for nothing today. All the boasting in the world about your skills and knowledge won't complete one thing.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) — Be smart and do all the nastiest jobs or assignments first, because then if you tire, and you probably will, the easier ones won't be so bad to handle. Reverse that order and you won't finish.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) — Chances are that it will be far too easy to be self-indulgent instead of self-sufficient. It might take a lot of discipline to overcome being too lax and letting all your good intentions go by the boards. Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — Keep an open mind and at least listen to the suggestions of others. Much of the advice they offer can be helpful, even if what you want to hear is only an idea on how to get out of doing what you must.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) — If you expect others to listen and do what you tell them, you will first have to set an example. Unfortunately, you might be far better at issuing orders than you are complying with them.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — In reality, one doesn't have to spend a lot of money in order to have a good time, but you aren't likely to want to believe this, much to the dismay of vour wallet and checkbook.

CITRUS COUNTY CHRONICLE -

Path leads to home

BRIAN LaPETER/Chronicle

Once homeless, Sherry Knight will soon be the owner of a Habitat For Humanity home, the 56th in the county.

Woman's six-year journey culminating in new Habitat for Humanity house

NANCY KENNEDY Chronicle

s she wields a hammer, Sherry Knight can't stop

In possibly a month or two, Lord willing, she'll be moving into her own home, Habitat For Humanity's 56th house in Citrus County.

It's an accomplishment for every Habitat homeowner, but for the once homeless Knight, it's a statistical long shot.

According to DuWayne Sipper, executive director of The Path, only one out of 1,000 homeless ever become homeowners.

"Ironically, as The Path approaches its 1,000 number (of people) that have been through The Path shelter, Sherry will be in her own home in June," Sipper said.

Knight just smiles and says God did it.

Right now her house is in progress, but on a recent Thursday morning, Knight stopped working long enough to give an impromptu tour of the threebedroom house under construc-

For years, she's had to share a living space with family when she had nowhere to go, with 40 other women in jail after a DUI arrest, with other women at The Path while she got help for the alcohol addiction that ruined

"I'm just going to enjoy the space," she said. "I'm excited about having a bathtub!"

She said she's not sure of a décor style. She had gone so many years without. As long as she has a bed and a table, she said she will be content.

Knight, 54, liberally punctuates her sentences with "Amens" as she talks about the path God has led her on thus far.

She grew up in Michigan, married and raised two daughters. She worked various jobs at Mc-Donald's, at a school with special needs students. She and her husband divorced 17 years ago.

She came to Florida 14 years ago to be near her mother and grandmother, waiting tables at local restaurants, running a cleaning service — and drinking herself into an addiction.

"It's something I did my whole life," she said. "It progressively got worse, as alcoholism always does, and it came to a head five and a half years ago when I went to jail again."

While in jail, having lost everything, Knight cried out to God after remembering hearing about Jesus as a child in vacation Bible school.

It was Aug. 17, 2004, the day of her sobriety and the day her new life began.

However, once she got out of jail, Knight had nowhere to go. She had lost her driver's license, a place to live, her possessions, and her lifestyle.

She needed help with sobriety and knew she needed more than a 30-day program, which was all her insurance would cover.

Sunday is his official retirement date, although ministers never really re-

"They're making me 'Minister Emeritus' of the senior citizens," Bledsoe said. "I'll go to the hospitals and visit for a few years and then I may go back up to the Panhandle.'

'The church has been our family for 25 years, and they still are. That's why we're staying," said Bledsoe's wife, Lorraine.

Taking Bledsoe's place is As he faces retirement Richard Aldret, who most recently served as associate minister at First Christian Church of Homosassa Springs.

"He's sort of like me, laid back and easygoing," Bledsoe said. "He's younger than me, and that's what I wanted. I think we're going to work good together. I told him whatever he wants me to do, I'll do."

"I'll still lead the music if he wants me to. I'm not going to be his boss — he's the leader," he said.

he other day I told a pastor friend about the time God put me in Time Out.

I had gone to speak at a church women's event, and at the time I thought I was the second coming of Beth Moore, a superstar Bible teacher with an almost cult-like following.

I went expecting that, after the event, I'd be hoisted onto people's shoulders and carried through the streets to shouts of "Hooray for Nancy!"

Um, that didn't happen, but some humbling and humiliating stuff did. Plus, for two years after that, I didn't get a single invitation to speak, not even for

I always figured that God was punishing me for being a wretched sinner too full of myself to be filled with him.

Frankly, I deserved much worse than just a two-year Time Out.

The story of Bar Kochba is very name is the stuff that legends 👢 are made of: Bar Kochba, son of a star. "A star rises from Jacob" (Numbers 24:17), a messiah, a savior for Israel. The year is 132 C.E. The Romans again have imposed tyrannical rule over the province of Judea. Jews are forbidden to practice circumcision. Roman promises of a Temple rebuilt have gone unfulfilled and the people long for sovereignty in their own land. The mood is ripe for rebellion and with the people behind him, Bar Kochba rises to the occasion in open rebellion against the might of Rome. The people flock to this charismatic leader, having hoarded arms for such an occasion. They come from all parts of Palestine and other lands as well, eager to fight against Rome for self-determination. As in the time of the Maccabees, the Jewish warriors built fortifications using a network of subterranean caves aiming to quell Roman opposition.

phone book, she found The Path homeless shelter and gospel rescue mission in Beverly Hills.

Before The Path accepts a person into the program, he or she commits to abiding by strict rules, which includes intensive Bible study and church attendance several times a week.

"I call it Bible boot camp," Knight said. "It's intense. but it's what I wanted. It was great — it was awesome.'

She lived there for almost time she helped with yard much like unloading and loading trucks full of household goods and clothing, but looking back, she now realizes it was training for the job path God was about to lead her down.

Sipper put her in charge of running The Path thrift store in Lecanto and even provided a place for her to live within walking distance of the store.

"I've got a car now," she said. "The Path gave me a

After five years of not driving and trusting God to furnish her needed to go, she was content to continue.

But a friend convinced her that getting her driver's license would be helpful and Sipper suggested she apply to be a Habitat homeowner. She said with her own car, she could live anywhere and

Throughout the inside of her house, friends and visitors have written comments, good wishes and favorite Scripture verses on the wooden frames that will be covered by drywall.

Knight's favorite verse, with rides where she the one she centers her life around, is Isaiah 40:31, about waiting on the Lord and mounting up with wings like eagles, about running and not being weary, walking without fainting.

She said she's spent the past five years waiting for God's direction and guid-

She's staying connected to The Path as she travels the path God has set out for her. She attends weekly 12-step meetings, saying she's sober now, but she'll "forever be an alcoholic until Jesus Sipper said The Path's thrift store doesn't make much money, but all Path clients serve the store as part of their program to get ready for real world work, and Knight manages every one of them and has probably told her story to at least half of them.

"The store has become famous for the pink flamingoes and she even made me dress up in a 6-foot flamingo costume and stand on the highway. I got a lot of horns honked at me that day," Sipper said.

"Because of the way we run the shelter, many people in Citrus would not know that we have a shelter if it was not for the store," he

"It's been an awesome journey," Knight said. "It's like, if God's done this much in five and a half years, what's next? It's exciting. Amen?

But my friend, whom I respect immensely, said that was balderdash, that if God punished either one of us for being full of ourselves whenever we spoke at an event, neither one of us would ever speak anywhere

I don't know. I still think I was being punished, or at least disciplined. Isn't that the same thing?

Last week I wrote about God being a good Father, For example, he said, you and good fathers punish their children when they misbehave. So, wouldn't God do the same?

friend, he explained that the spot a long time ago. there's a lot of manipulative teaching and bad theology out there regarding how God deals with his children.

Hebrews 12 talks about the discipline of God, that God disciplines everyone he considers his child and how we're not to despise the hardships we go through, but to endure them, even embrace them, as from the hands of a loving Father.

But, as my friend pointed out, not every bad thing that happens is a direct result of the bad we do or have done. don't get cancer because you were mean to your mother. If God kept score, if he played tit for tat, we

My friend also said it's neurotic to think that God's when you get out of line, yet that's common thinking in some churches.

Isn't it true that whenever someone is caught committing one of the really big sins terrible happens there's a buzz around the church? "Well," someone will say, "he probably lost his busihis wife a few years ago. don'tcha know.'

In many churches there's line then God will 'administhe seat of learning."

There's a sense that God is strict, no-nonsense discigoing to break your face plinarian who's constantly watching for people who step out of line so he can whack them, and the whacking is called "God's discipline.

But is it?

That brings up another and then later something question: If God still punishes us for our sin, what was the cross all about? When Jesus said, "It is finished," and later the writer ness because he cheated on of Hebrews wrote that God says he "will remember our After all, God disciplines sins no more," doesn't that everyone he calls a son, mean the penalty for our sin is gone?

Freedom from the penalty an underlying, even an open of sin isn't free if we have to fear, that if we don't toe the continually "mind our P's and Q's" lest God rap us on grace if we have to strive to maintain it.

Even so, the Bible is clear that hardships come to God's people as part of his discipline for us, but it's for our good and for our training in making us better, not because we've been bad.

My pastor friend told the story of an American who went to a Middle Eastern country and saw a man driving sheep across a street, hitting them with his staff and yelling at them. The American said, "I thought shepherds led sheep with their staff, but you're hitting them." The man replied, "I'm not their shepherd; I'm their butcher.' I don't presume to know

In talking further with my would all have been fried on ter the rod of correction to the knuckles. Grace isn't why hardships and suffering come to us, nor if any are punishment for sin. I do know that if I get caught shoplifting, I will get arrested.

But I also know that just as shepherds don't hit their sheep, God doesn't hit his people. His discipline toward his children is from his unfailing love and not from a need to avenge. As the psalmist said, "his rod and his staff, they comfort me."

For a short time, Bar Kochba gained victories. Egged on by the noted Rabbi Aviva who believed he was the messiah, Bar Kochba continued to fight the Romans. Although not a religious man by nature, his cause was supported by Rabbi Aviva, who probably gave him the name of Bar Kochba, meaning "son of a star." Archeological documents and letters found in the 1950s suggest his name was really Bar Koziba, meaning a son from Koziba, a place name in Israel. Rotary club honors youth

At the April 14 meeting of the Rotary of Central Citrus County, two special guests were welcomed. Former District Governor Russ Miller came to present a special award to our club, recognizing members giving to the Rotary Foundation. One hundred percent of the membership donated to the Rotary foundation in an amount that averaged in excess of $100 per member. This award was presented to immediate Past President Tony Palumbo, as the accomplishment came under his watch.

Our second guest was Lecanto High School junior Marlee White. White will participate in the Rotary Youth Exchange and will spend a year in Brazil, sponsored by all the Rotary Clubs in Citrus County. White gave an outstanding share her experiences with the Wednesday at Black Diamond. For presentation about the program, her goals and aspirations and promised to return next year and rus meets at 7:30 a.m. every Stephenson at 746-4355.

Boys & Girls Clubs gearing up for annual summer camp

Lane Vick

BOYS &

Aug. 6, promises to be exciting and fun for children look forward to seeing you and the kids who attend.

Club directors Beth Klein, Jamie Tanzinni, and AnnMarie Teel, and Executive Director Heidi Bressler are busy planning lots of exciting activities and field trips. Each of the 10 weeks has a theme — such as Aloha to Summer, Minute to Win it, Ooey Gooey, Survivor, Safari, Stars and Stripes, and so forth with games and plans focusing on the wild and wacky ideas.

Field trips include bowling, GIRLS CLUBS skating, snorkeling, a trip to Medieval Times in Orlando, a trip to the Museum of Science and Industry, a trip to the Santa Fe Teaching Zoo and Planetarium, a trip for the younger members to Uncle Donald's Farm, and a summer's end visit to Wild Waters for all. And we are still planning for more fun things to do!

As we plan, Boys & Girls Club directors are hiring additional qualified personnel for the summer. BGCCC policy is that we maintain a 1:15 staff-to-child ratio at each club and a 1:10 ratio for fieldtrips. We do our best to hire the smartest, most dedicated staff members to work with our kids.

Volunteers welcome

Of course, we always need volunteers to work in our clubs. Come and share your

PHILLIP ALDER Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

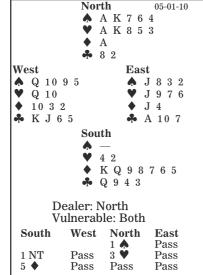

French film director Robert Bresson said, "Cinema, radio, television, magazines are a school of inattention: people look without seeing, listen in without hearing."

That makes an interesting contrast to "People talking without speaking / People hearing without listening," Paul Simon's lyrics from "The Sounds of Silence."

Bridge players must listen to the bidding and "see" the unknown hands without looking at them.

In this deal, you are West, defending against five diamonds. You lead the club five. Your partner takes the trick with the ace and returns the club 10, which South covers with his queen. After winning with your king, what would you lead to trick three?

The deal is a trap for North-South. North has that fabulous Bridge major two-suiter, but with no help from partner, game in a major is impossible (assuming East would lead a club against four hearts).

South, knowing he was a tad weak to respond two diamonds, bid one no-trump. Then, when North rebid a game-forcing three hearts, South guessed well to jump to five diamonds.

You should realize that South has at least seven diamonds to insist on making that suit trumps when North might be void. And if he seven diamonds and takes dummy's four major-suit winners, he will make his contract. You must get a trump trick.

To that end, continue with the club jack, forcing dummy to ruff with its bare ace.

This will promote your diamond 10 as a trick if partner has the king, queen or jack either singleton or doubleton.

I don't know if she's been like this for years, if it's her age or if she has become bitter since my father died, but she simply wants to be important and is truly difficult to be around. If my husband and I take her out to dinner, she will complain that the food isn't as good as she could have made at home. One might be to hire a personal trainer to find a level of exercise he is capable of doing. Even a little upper body movement could be a beginning. Often, someone from outside the family can have more influence.

Also, the family might consult with Portly Pop's doctor to see how they could best assist him, including working on meal preparation, exercise, therapy, whatever. — No Stone Left Unturned in Boston

Dear Boston: It's definitely worth a try, but keep in mind, Pop must be willing to make the necessary changes.
