WASHINGTON — The war in Afghanistan appears in dis-

The commanding general's disrespectful remarks about President Barack Obama and his team are the latest setback for a nine-year war rocked by rising casualties, declining public support, growing doubts among allies and feuding between Washington and Kabul.

Whether he fires Gen. Stanley McChrystal or lets him survive with a harsh scolding, Obama opens himself to further political attack as he struggles to keep his balance in the midst of the nation's economic woes and the environmental devastation from the Gulf oil spill. The Republican opposition will likely seize on the Mc-Chrystal flap as evidence of Obama's weakness as commander in chief, even though the party supports the president's Afghan policy.

Liberal Democrats were already disenchanted with Obama for continuing to fight the war against daunting odds and at huge cost.

The White House would not say on Tuesday if McChrystal will be fired, but declared he had made an "enormous mistake" in the unflattering Rolling Stone magazine article and that "all options are on the table.'

McChrystal's immediate boss. Defense Secretary Robert Gates, called the commanding general's remarks a "distraction" from the United States' "singular focus" of "fighting a war against al-Qaida and its extremist allies, who directly threaten the United States, Afghanistan, and our friends and allies around the world." McChrystal's troubles with Obama are not new and began shortly after he was named commander in May 2009. The general sent Gates a report that concluded the Afghan mission required 40,000 more troops or the United States faced mission failure. The assessment was leaked and deeply angered the White House, which was in the midst of a protracted study of how to prosecute the war. Some said McChrystal was bullying the administration. In the end, Obama agreed to send 30,000 additional troops, giving Mc-Chrystal nearly all the resources he wanted.

McChrystal had already been called to account once by Obama after the commander publicly derided Vice President Joe Biden's position that called for a small troop increase with a heavy emphasis on counterinsurgency efforts to win over the Afghan people. Since then, U.S. troop deaths in the war crossed the 1,000 mark late last month. A mission to take control of the city of Marja in the south has not been the clear success promised by the military. Rolling Stone said McChrystal calls it a "bleeding ulcer."

And McChrystal seems to have sided with Afghan President Hamid Karzai — who's clearly on the outs with the administration — on how to conlong-promised offensive on Kandahar, the biggest city in the south and a Taliban stronghold. The Kandahar operation is considered crucial to the U.S. strategy to chief and Obama's top aides. The meeting was a last-ditch moment for the general once considered the war's brightest hope.

If not insubordination, the remarks in a forthcoming Rolling Stone magazine article were at least an indirect challenge to civilian management of the war in Washington by its top military commander.

"I think it's clear that the article in which he and his team appeared showed a poorshowed poor judgment," the president said, surrounded by members of his Cabinet at the close of their meeting. "But I also want to make sure that I talk to him directly before I make any final decisions.

The eruption comes as the war and public support for it are at a tipping point, a perilous time to change military leadership. A majority of Americans now say the war is probably not worth fighting, and Defense Secretary Robert Gates has said that public dissatisfaction means the U.S.-led international coalition must show progress this year.

In the article, McChrystal did not criticize Obama directly but called the period last fall when Obama was deciding whether to approve more troops "painful" and said the president was handing him an "unsellable" position.

McChrystal also said he was "betrayed" by Ambassador Karl Eikenberry, the man the White House chose to be his diplomatic partner in Afghanistan. He accused Eikenberry of raising doubts about the reliability of Afghan President Hamid Karzai only to give himself cover in case the U.S. effort failed.

'Here's one that covers his flank for the history books," McChrystal told the magazine. "Now, if we fail, they can say 'I told you so."

And he was quoted joking that he doesn't recognize Vice President Joe Biden's name. As support for the general drained in Washington, the showdown was set to take place in two parts — as part of Obama's regular monthly war meeting, in which Mc-Chrystal usually participates videoconference, and a separate discussion with Obama in the Oval Office. A senior U.S. military official in Afghanistan told The Associated Press the general has been given no indication that he'll be fired — but no assurance he won't be. The official spoke on condition of anonymity to describe internal discussions between Washington and the general's office in A crucial military push to pacify the Tal-

POSSIBLE REPLACEMENTS

- Marine Gen. James Mattis, commander of U.S. Joint Forces Command in Norfolk, Va. He has command combat experience in Afghanistan and Iraq. He was passed over as commandant of the Marine Corps this month.
- Marine Lt. Gen. John Allen, the deputy commander of U.S. Central Command, under Gen. David Petraeus, since 2008. From 2006-2008, Allen commanded the Second Marine Expeditionary Brigade in Iraq.
- Army Lt. Gen. David Rodriguez, Mc-Chrystal's No. 2 in Afghanistan. The two men were sent to Afghanistan as a package deal, with plans for Rodriguez to run the war dayto-day while McChrystal focused on the bigger picture. He previously served as a military adviser to Defense Secretary Robert Gates.
- Army Gen. Martin Dempsey, commander of the Army Training and Doctrine Command since December 2008. Dempsey commanded the effort to train Iragi security forces for two years, ending in the summer of 2007. He stepped in as acting commander at Central Command after Adm. William Fallon was forced out. Fallon was done in by an article in Esquire magazine, which described him as the bulwark between the Bush administration and war with Iran.
- Navy Adm. James Stavridis, the top NATO commander in Europe. He assumed duties as Commander of the United States European Command in June 2009 and as the Supreme Allied Commander, Europe in July 2009. From 2006-2009, he commanded U.S. Southern Command in Miami, focused on Latin America and the Caribbean.

weeks arguing that the U.S.-led military effort is gaining momentum against the Taliban, while Gates argued for time to show that McChrystal's many changes in strategy and tactics can succeed.

McChrystal publicly apologized Tuesday for using "poor judgment" in the magazine interviews, words echoed later by Obama. He then left Afghanistan for the meeting in There has been no similar public contretemps between a president and a top wartime commander since Truman relieved MacArthur of his Far East command in 1951. MacArthur bid farewell in an address to Congress in which he quoted a line from a ballad: "Old soldiers never die; they just fade away."

MacArthur had openly flouted the Truman administration's policy of limited war during the Korean War, arguing that the "police action" against North Korea's invasion of South Korea should not be contained to the Korean peninsula but expanded to China and Asian communism in general. Braced for the political fallout to follow, the unpopular Truman fired his popular gen-McChrystal has spent the past several eral rather than allow MacArthur to resign.

Local thrift shop to close

Salvation Army says other needs more pressing

CHRIS VAN ORMER Chronicle

The struggling economy and the volume of competitors have taken a toll on the Salvation Army Family Thrift Store.

"It has closed," said Lt. Vanessa Miller, Citrus County Corps officer, of the facility at 3400 E. Gulf-to-Lake Highway, Inverness. It was the charity's only thrift store in the county. "The thrift store's overheads were too high, and it was pulling funds from our social services budget," Miller said. "So we had to close it in this economic climate, in hope of being able to open it again later."

Miller said the problem was that the thrift store just wasn't paying for

"All our stock is donated," Miller said, "but we have to pay employees' salaries and benefits and rent for the building. We couldn't make it. We needed our resources to help those in need with their own bills, electricity, rent and mortgage."

Citrus County has a large number of charity thrift stores, a fact that impacted the Salvation Army

"There are so many thrift and dishard to compete," Miller said.

The charity's work will continue. Through flood and fire, people in need have looked to the Salvation Army for help with food, clothing and shelter. Its thrift store had long generated funding for emergency and disaster relief and other programs.

Three years ago, staff and volunteers spent a week sprucing up the To donate or volunteer, contact the Salvation Army at 3975 W. Grover Cleveland Blvd., Homosassa. Mailing address: P.O. Box 1630, Lecanto, FL, 34461; or call 621-5532.

thrift store and reopened with the goal of bringing in $1,000 a day in sales. The re-launch worked initially to increase sales, but the lengthy recession finally caught up with the store.

"We find we are getting support in count stores in this county that it is volunteers and donations," Miller

> The thrift store of each corps serves three distinct purposes, according to the Salvation Army's mission. The stores provide quality clothing, furniture and other goods to the community at bargain prices. The Salvation Army's Adult Rehabilitation Centers are completely funded from the proceeds of the thrift stores, allowing them to be self-sustaining. A major part of the men's and women's involvement in their own rehabilitation is work therapy. Some of this is done in the thrift stores.

Commercial resale stores seem to do well during a slow economy, according to Adele R. Meyer, executive director of the National Association of Resale and Thrift Stores, and that, too, may work against the charity thrift stores.

'People who previously gave away clothing, household goods and furniture are seeking other ways to dispose of unwanted items during an economic pinch," Meyer said in a media release issued in February. 'Some donate merchandise to a not-for-profit thrift shop and take advantage of the tax deductions while helping a charity raise money. Others may choose to sell or consign merchandise at a local resale shop, turning their no-longer-needed articles into cash.'

Man charged in younger brother's death

Authorities in central Florida said a 20-year-old man has been charged with the murder of his brother after their father discovered the victim son's body buried in their yard.

The Hernando County Sheriff's Office said Stanley Elias Eckard was arrested Monday. He is being held without bond in the death of 19-yearold Sean Paul Eckard.

According to investigators, the younger brother hadn't been seen since Friday. On Saturday, the victim's mother saw the older son burying something in the yard of their Spring Hill home.

The suspect allegedly said he was burying items of an old girlfriend.

Detectives say the father started digging into the depression at the urging of an older sister Monday. He uncovered the hand of his son and stopped digging. The family called

Hospital launches compliance hot line

Special to the Chronicle

The Citrus County Hospital Board of Trustees has launched a 24-hour reporting hot line service to ensure employees, physicians, volunteers, vendors and other individuals will have the opportunity to communicate any concerns or complaints with Citrus Memorial Health System. The compliance/complaint hot line number is (888) 394-2281.

An outside company monitors this hot line 24 hours a day, seven days a week. This company will ensure that all calls will be handled with respect and shall remain confidential if requested, and in an ethical and legal manner.

All reports and information from these phone calls will be shared simultaneously — but kept confidential — with members and staff of the Citrus County Hospital Board of Trustees, as well as a designated individual at Citrus Memorial Health System for follow-up and action.

According to the trustees, the intent of the hot line is to minimize and/or eliminate areas of concern related to health-care practice, waste, fraud and abuse, employee abuse and employee harassment. In addition, employees and others are now provided an avenue to seek immediate review of all concerns and complaints.

Findings and actions will be shared in a monthly anonymous report to the trustees and Citrus Memorial Health System officials. The appropriate administrative staff of the respective boards will review the concerns and complaints.

People with questions about the hot line may call the board of trustees at 726-5111.

School board members did just that last year. The Legislature then determined the only way the school board could keep that additional 0.25 mills was with voter approval, which is what the Citrus County School Board decided to do.

State law would not allow the school board to place the measure on the ballot without county commission approval.

Emergency responders look for storms

The News Service of Florida

TALLAHASSEE — Florida emergency responders are looking into the Caribbean as they prepare for what could be the first storm of the 2010 hurricane season, an arrival that would not only curtail recovery operations but could require them to open up the partially capped oil leak in the Gulf of Mexico.

Meeting with a group of local

David Halstead said Tuesday there is a possibility that a tropical wave developing in the Atlantic will intensify into a tropical cyclone within 48 hours, though by late Tuesday afternoon, the National Hurricane Center said the probability was only about 20 per-

Though the preliminary forecast calls for the system to move further west into Mexico, the storm's path could veer northward and state officials, Florida Direc- and might then require cleanup tor of Emergency Management crews to cease operations until weather conditions improve. And that's a problem.

Officials are in the process of replacing the current, rigid well containment and oil collection system with another that is more flexible. Though that will allow them to collect more oil, it does not help in the event of bad weather. In the event of a storm, the recovery vessels and their crews will have to detach themselves from the collection system, leaving the oil free to spew into the gulf again.

State emergency responders will have a much better bead on usual for the agency that at one the issue in the next 48 to 72 hours as they continue to track the tropical wave now located south of Cuba. Conditions remain favorable for tropical cyclone formation over the next week or so.

On Tuesday, state emergency response team leader Mike Dereminded state Lorenzo emergency responders that they needed to better focus on hurricane preparation while not taking their eyes off spill recovery efforts. Such a dual role is not un-million in Florida.

State officials are gearing up fora big meeting today as BP executive Darryl Willis joins in a daylong series of presentations on the BP claims process. State oil spill task force members will also get reports from officials on how the spill is affecting employment and food stamp enrollment.

To date, BP has paid nearly 18,000 claims worth nearly $16

Democrats renew special session call

Three legislative Democrats on Tuesday renewed calls for Gov. Charlie Crist to call a summer legislative session to address the BP oil spill.

Lawmakers should return to give the attorney general authority to prosecute certain environmental crimes, provide small business relief, create a compensation commissioner to oversee the claims process and to ban drilling in Florida waters, the Democrats — Sen. Dan Gelber, D-Miami Beach, Rep. Keith Fitzgerald, D-Sarasota and Rep. Rick Kriseman, D-St. Petersburg — said.

The last idea had been put forth shortly after the spill began, but Republican leadership resisted that proposal, saying a ban is already in place and isn't likely to be lifted anytime soon because of the antidrilling sentiment that has arisen since the spill

Earlier this week, Crist said he would like to bring lawmakers back to Tallahassee for spill-related legislation, but that the House has resisted.

Tea Party candidate polls for Grayson

A state House candidate said Tuesday that he doesn't know whether a Tea Party candidate in his race was put there by Democrats, but said it doesn't make sense for the Tea Party to run against him because he fits in with what Tea Party voters want.

"I'm that guy - I'm the conservative, never-run-for-officebefore, non-politician type," said Republican Larry Ahern, who is running against incumbent Democratic Rep. Janet Long in St. Petersburg-area House District 51. The race also last week drew a surprise last minute entry from Victoria Torres of Orlando — a fair way from the district, Ahern noted in an interview with The News Service of Florida on Tuesday.

Washington D.C. newspaper

State BRIEFS

Roll Call reported Tuesday that Torres started a polling company in 2008 called Public Opinion Strategies Inc., and that Democratic U.S. Rep. Alan Grayson paid her firm $11,000 this year for polling. Republicans have alleged that Democrats are behind some of the Tea Party candidates, with hopes of shifting votes away from GOP candidates.

Torres didn't return a call earlier this week from the News Service of Florida. A Grayson spokesman, Todd Jurkowski, told Roll Call that there wasn't any proof that any money went from Grayson to the Tea Party, and that the idea he was bankrolling a Torres candidacy was "conspiracy theory."

Fasano to Crist: Don't pick Bane for PSC

Outspoken Florida Public Service Commission critic Sen. Mike Fasano urged Gov. Charlie Crist to cross one name off the list of possible appointments to the panel he recently received from the PSC Nominating Council: former Executive Director Mary Bane.

A PSC employee since 1978, Bane led the PSC's full-time staff from 2002-2009. She was one of eight candidates to replace former PSC Commissioners David Klement and Benjamin "Steve" Stevens to survive vetting from the Nominating Council. But in a letter to Crist Tuesday, Fasano said that Bane should not be a PSC commissioner because she was at the helm of the panel when staffers were alleged to have sent off-the-record cell phone messages to utility employees during rate increase requests. "Probably more than anyone who may be seeking this position, she stands out as the one person who would not be able to carry out your mission of cleaning up the image and integrity of the commission," Fasano wrote. "It was during her tenure as the Commission's executive director that the well-publicized ethical lapses at both the staff and commissioner level took place. My legislation introduced during the 2010 legislative session to overhaul the Commission was inspired by the various incidents of poor judgment and ethical misdeeds that occurred under her watch."

Sam was born in Cincinnati, Ohio, on March 7, 1915, to Charles Cooper and Florence Schuster Cooper. As a teen, he moved with his family to Fort Lauderdale, FL, where he lived and worked for 50 years. He owned and operated Angelo's Seafood and Cooper's Finer Foods. and was a past president of Southeastern Fisheries Association. He was a member, elder, and trustee of the First Presbyterian Church of Fort Lauderdale.

He maintained perfect attendance of Rotary International for over 50 years and was awarded the Paul Harris Fellowship. Fellow Rotarians will remember him for his weekly "Happy Dollar" to celebrate "just being alive today!"

He married Helen Tucker in 1933 and they enjoyed 43 years of marriage until her sudden death in 1976. In 1980, Sam married Jeanette Toomer and moved to Key West, FL, where he became very active in the community and remained involved in the seafood industry. At the age of 90, he and Jeanette moved to Inverness to live with her daughter and son-in-law.

Sam enlisted in the Army in 1943, completed Officer Candidate School and was honorably discharged with the rank of Captain in 1946. He commanded a tank destroyer vehicle with the 716th Tank Battalion on Mindanao during the liberation of the Philippines. He was awarded the Asiatic-Pacific Campaign Medal with Bronze Battle Star, the American Campaign Medal. the World War II Victory Medal, the Philippine Liberation Ribbon and a Presidential Testimonial. He was a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Military Order of the World Wars.

In addition to his first wife, he was preceded in death by his brothers, Walter and Joe Cooper, and his sisters. Dora Florev and Sara Calvetto.

He is survived by his wife, Jeanette Toomer Cooper; his brothers, Ben and Leo Cooper: his daughter and son-in-law, Jan and Jim Fortune: his son. Dr. Stanton T. Cooper; five grandchildren, Ashley Fortune Whitehurst, Anne Steele Fortune Hinshaw, Aaron Cooper, Joshua Cooper and Ashton Cooper: and two great-grandchildren, Leila Hinshaw and Thomas Whitehurst. His step-children include Gene and Jeanie Roberts, Eddie Toomer, Roy and Gina Toomer, Ricky Toomer and Colleen and Edward Gartenmayer.

Sam spent many hours of his life donating to those in need. In lieu of flowers at his memorial, he would be pleased to know that contributions be made in his name to any of your favorite charities.

ANTI-APARTHEID RELIGIOUS LEADER

JOHANNESBURG—The Rev. Nico Smith, a white pastor who challenged South Africa's apartheid system by moving with his wife into a black township in the 1980s, has died of a heart attack, one of his daughters said Sunday. He was 81. Smith collapsed while attending a friend's birthday party Saturday in Pretoria, and died before he could be taken to a hospital, said Marita Laubscher, the eldest of his three daughters.

In the tumultuous '80s, Smith was one of a tiny handful of clerics who left the white Dutch Reformed Lauryn Afrikaners who then held

Smith, who had been a missionary in the far north of South Africa and later a theology professor at the University of Stellenbosch, preaching began Mamelodi, the main black township outside Pretoria, in 1982.

He moved there to live a few years later, along with his wife, Ellen, a child psychiatrist. They were the first whites officially permitted by the government to live in a black township in an era where apartheid laws rigorously segregated residential areas, schools, hospitals and public amenities.

In 1988, Smith was one of the principal organizers of what at the time was an unprecedented experiment in trading places. About 170 whites lived in Mamelodi for four days, sharing cornmeal dinners, outside toilets, and middle-of-the-night visits from the police.

At the time, few whites knew firsthand how blacks lived because they seldom ventured into the townships located on the periphery of the cities.

Laubscher, in a telephone interview, said her father was dedicated to the goal of racial reconciliation in South Africa, which dismantled apartheid in the early 1990s.

Smith's funeral is scheduled for Thursday at a church in Pretoria where he and his colleagues helped build a multiracial congregation.

Marcel Bigeard, 94

FRENCH COMMANDO LEADER

PARIS — Gen. Marcel Bigeard, who led France's elite parachute forces in colonial wars in independence-seeking Indochina and Algeria after serving in the French Resistance in World War II, has died at age 94.

"He has been called the best paratrooper in the world, and whatever the truth of that, he most certainly has a claim as the most battle-proven," said Martin Windrow, a British military historian and expert on France's colonial wars.

But Bigeard also was captured by insurgents while land, of Inverness, FL; son, fighting in Vietnam, and he was accused of being ruthless against POWs in Algeters, Stephanie Marlene ria, in a conflict his country eventually lost.

Born Feb. 14, 1916, in Toul in eastern France, Bigeard went into German captivity as a warrant officer in 23rd Fortress Infantry Regiment in June 1940. He escaped on Nov. 11, 1942, made his way to Senegal, in what was then French West Africa, and was commissioned into Gen. Charles de Gaulle's Free French Forces.

Bigeard rose to fame during France's ultimately doomed effort to reassert control over its colony in Vietnam, after it proclaimed independence in 1945. He served three combat tours there, and his crack 6th Colonial Parachute Battalion became France's spearhead in the war against President Ho Chi Minh's nationalist guerrillas.

Bigeard argued — unsuccessfully—that the colonial army could only defeat the insurgents if they matched their enemy's aggression, endurance and fieldcraft.

Obama to Europe: Don't slash spending

Many nations making tough budget cuts

Associated Press

LONDON — A trans-Atlantic rift is growing over the right medicine for Europe's financial crisis, with Britain announcing its steepest cuts in decades Tuesday and Germany defending its own austerity measures after a warning President Barack Obama that budget-slashing could threaten the global recovery.

Britain's emergency budget is the latest in a string of deep cuts in public spending and reflects new resolve in Europe, after Greece was pushed to the brink of bankruptcy and even threatened the bloc's economic union, to tackle debt before worrying about growth.

As leaders of the Group of 20 economic powers prepare to assemble later this week in Canada, that single-minded focus is worrying the United States. Obama wrote a letter to world leaders Friday warning against excessive spending cuts.

German Chancellor Angela Merkel fought back this week, defending her government's $80 billion savings plan as British treasury chief George Osborne forged ahead with his own grim budget.

Many European analysts agree that taming deficits is the more urgent priority. Obama "has a point, but there are some countries that don't have a luxury of a choice, they have got to get a grip and start cutting quickly because the alternative of becoming the next Greece is not palatable to them," said Jonathan Loynes, chief European economist at Capital Economics in London.

wealthy people will be hit for higher capital gains taxes and banks will be charged a new levy on profits, a move already approved by France and Germany. Even Queen Elizabeth II accepted a freeze in her support from taxpayers.

Germany, In spokesman for Merkel said she talked by phone Monday with Obama about a letter he wrote to G-20 leaders in which he cautioned against hurting the fragile global economic recovery by trimming spending prematurely.

The letter was seen as a criticism of Germany's plan to reduce its deficit, but the spokesman said Obama did not pressure Germany to continue stimulus spending by piling up more debt. The spokesman spoke on condition of anonymity in keeping with government policy.

Europe's leaders are stuck in a quandary: They must bring down mammoth debt through spending cuts to ward off economic panic, but the measures are bound to stunt growth. And it will probably take years to determine whether they chose the right medicine and dosage.

"My suspicion is that it will be a major drag on the economy for a few years, and it may be we decide in the future whether they went too aggressively, but the political and market climate right now is such that they had no choice," Loynes said.

The realization that Europe is bound to implement spending cuts that will hurt growth for years has weighed on the euro, pushing it to four-year lows earlier this month. On Tuesday it traded at about $1.227, down somewhat from Monday.

Economic stagnation in Europe would hurt the U.S. by crimping its exports just as America is trying to limp out of its own slump. But in The British budget aims Europe, Obama's concerns to sharply reduce record are trumped by a desire to public debt. Shoppers will stabilize the European WINDERMERE — The brochure promises a "monument to unparalleled success," clearly not the usual property squeezed into the real estate pipeline.

The catch? It's not finished.

Nicknamed "Versailles" by owner and timeshare tycoon David Siegel, the massive mansion hit the market recently as the largest home for sale in the United States. Construction was halted last year to save money in a recession that proved particularly hard on Siegel's once-booming industry, so there's an option to buy the completed property at $100 million.

"This mansion is a great anecdote of the overconsumption that led to the housing bust, and it might be the poster child of such overindulgence," said Jack McCabe, a Florida-based real estate analyst.

Others see the mansion as a sign of the economy's comeback — if there's a buyer.

"There has been a lot of interest already," said Lorraine Barrett, a Coldwell Banker real estate agent who has the listing.

The palace at 6121 Kirkstone Lane is more an all-inclusive resort than a home. The mansion's design is so — it makes Tiger Woods' like a guest house.

The Versailles mansion sits on 1,200 feet of waterfront on Lake Butler, the largest in a chain of lakes that draws star athletes and celebrities to the neighborhood. There are 66,800 square feet that are climate controlled.

To the naked eye, the structure might not look so massive from the front. The foundation actually sits some 20 feet below the rest of the block — making the entrance to the home on the second floor — because there's a 47-foot height restriction. In reality, the mansion is 67-feet high.

It's not cheap to maintain, either.

Taxes alone on the Versailles property if sold at $100 million would be between $1.45 million and $1.74 million annually, according to the Orange County property appraiser's website. The yearly upkeep also would likely fall in that range, real estate agents said.

The unfinished structure might be an eyesore for neighbors now, but that also gives buyers a chance to put their mark on the final touches.

"It's going to take a very unique kind of buyer to purchase the property," said Carol Ann Hewitt, who has listings for high-end homes in Windermere for Oxford Realty. "I'm not going to say it's impossible, but it could

Group to sue over Happy Meals

McDonald's blamed for obesity

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Are the toys in your child's Happy Meal making him fat?

The Center for Science in the Public Interest says they are. The Washington-based consumer advocacy group threatened to file a lawsuit against McDonald's Tuesday, charging that the fast food chain "unfairly and deceptively" markets the toys to children.

"McDonald's marketing has the effect of conscripting America's children into an unpaid drone army of word-of-mouth marketers, causing them to nag their Donald's," CSPI's Stephen Gardner wrote to the heads of the chain in a letter announcing the lawsuit.

The center, which has filed dozens of lawsuits against food companies in recent years, is hoping the publicity and the threat of a lawsuit will force McDonald's to negotiate with them on the issue. The group announced the lawsuit in the letter to McDonald's 30 days before filing it with the hope that the company will agree to stop selling the toys before a suit is filed.

McDonald's Vice President of Communications, William Whitman, said in a statement that the company "couldn't disagree more" with CSPI's assertion that their toys violate any laws. He said McDonald's restaurants offer more variety than they ever have and Happy Meals are made smaller for kids.

New housing data depresses stocks

Associated Press

NEW YORK — Stocks dropped for a second day Tuesday after home sales fell unexpectedly and the White House said it would fight a court ruling that lifted its ban on offshore oil drilling.

The Dow Jones industrial average fell 149 points, its biggest drop in about two weeks. Treasury prices climbed after demand for safe investments rose.

The National Association of Realtors reported that sales of existing homes fell 2.2 percent in May. The report surprised analysts who thought sales would get a lift from a homebuyer tax credit. Sales fell to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 5.66 million from a revised 5.79 million in April. Homebuilder Toll Brothers Inc. slid 3.2 percent, while Hovnanian Enterprises Inc. fell 3.5 percent. Oil stocks fell after the administration said it would appeal a judge's decision to overturn a six-month ban on deepwater oil drilling in the Gulf of Mexico. Baker Hughes Inc., a supplier of oil drilling parts and services, fell 4.4 percent, while oil-services company Halliburton Inc. fell 3.9 percent.

The Dow fell 148.89, or 1.4 percent, to 10,293.52, its biggest point and percentage loss since June 4. It was up as much as 51 points in morning trading. The index is up 4.9 percent from its 2010 closing low of 9,816 on June 7

The S&P 500 index fell 17.89, or 1.6 percent, to 1,095.31, while the Nasdaq composite index fell 27.29, or 1.2 percent, to 2,261.80.

as investors opted for the safety of U.S. Treasurys. The yield on the benchmark 10year Treasury note, which moves opposite its price, fell to 3.17 percent from 3.25 percent late Monday.

The Dow on Tuesday crossed the unchanged mark 74 times. Peter Tuz, president of Chase Investment Council in Charlottesville, Va., said trading likely will be choppy until July when companies start to report earnings from April-June quarter.

"It's kind of like summer doldrums until earnings season," Tuz said. "Once that begins, you start to get clarity.

The euro resumed its slide against the dollar after rising for most of the past 10 days. The euro fell to $1.2267.

The stronger dollar hurts commodity prices by reducing demand from foreign buyers. Crude oil fell 71 cents to $77.90 per barrel on the New York Mercantile Exchange Technology shares fell less than the broader market after Apple Inc. said it sold 3 million iPads in the first 80 days the tablet computers were on sale in the U.S. The stock rose $3.68, or Bond prices rose Tuesday 1.4 percent, to $273.85.

Health costs, buyout trim Walgreen 3Q net income

NEW YORK — Walgreen Co., the biggest U.S. drugstore chain, said Tuesday its profit sank 11 percent in the third quarter because of higher costs related to the nation's health care rules and its $623 million buyout of rival Duane

Those costs, CEO Greg Wasson said, converged with a weak economy, lower reimbursement rates and fewer new low-cost generic drugs.

In addition, the latest results compare with a strong showing last year when drug stores got an added boost from the swine flu pandemic as treatments flew off shelves.

Orszag says he's leaving as budget head in July WASHINGTON — White House Budget Director Peter Orszag says he's stepping down next month, positioning him to be the first highprofile member of President Barack Obama's team to depart the administration. Orszag confirmed his planned resignation in a brief interview with The Associated Press on Tuesday. He said he views passage of last year's economic recovery act as his most significant accomplishment.

White House Press Secretary Robert Gibbs said Tuesday that "a number of very talented candidates" were being considered to replace

Adobe posts higher 2Q profit as revenue soars

NEW YORK — Software maker Adobe Systems Inc. posted higher net income for its most recent quarter, driven by strong demand for the software package it sells to professional designers and developers.

Adobe earned $148.6 million, or 28 cents per share, in the fiscal second quarter, which ended June 4. This is up 18 percent from $126.1 million, or 24 cents per share, in the same period a Adjusted earnings were 44 cents per share.

On that basis, analysts surveyed by Thomson Reuters had expected a profit of 42 cents per

Time to save Three Sisters for eternity

will take place Thursday.

The Florida Communities needed to save the land. Trust board will meet in Tallathe purchase of the land sur-traditionally stood on opposite rounding springs. It is critical that the FCT board approve the $2 million that was identified by Sen. Charles Dean, R-Inverness, during the recent legislative session. The $2 million is the final piece of funding that is needed to rescue the property from becoming a high-density residential community. Citizens and local community groups have contributed money along with west Florida Water Manage- preservation purposes. ment District, the Felburn Foundation, the U.S. Fish and failed. Wildlife Service along with dozens of private businesses.

Three Sisters Springs is one of the most unique environmental landmarks in the entire state of Florida. If this highdensity development takes place, it will forever turn a public treasure into the backyard playground of a minority.

During the cold winter we just endured, the environmental importance of Three Sisters was illustrated when more than 100 endangered manatees crowded into the relatively warm water around the springs.

This property must be preserved for a public purpose.

If you take the long view, finalizing this purchase will be the most important environmental accomplishment we've had in a decade. We ask the FCT board to show leadership It has been a long and bumpy and take this final step.

No answers

This is Saturday, June 19. I'm responding to your article concerning the workshop held to calm fears in Citrus County regarding the oil spill. Firstly, the truth about all aspects of this spill has been in short supply since the inception of this catastrophe back in April, and BP representatives have been the prime culprit. Secondly, government officials at all levels, from here to Washington, have no clue as to what, when and in what amount oil will impact our area. In fact, even in Louisiana, where conditions are the worst, are there any definitive answers as to these questions?

In a rut

I live on a dirt road and they have fixed it six times since February. I've lived on it since 1998 and they fix this road 10 times a year. They say the only policy that they have to pave a dirt road is if the neighbors pay for it. Well, if we don't pay for it, they're going to continue to fix it 10 times a year. As far as I'm concerned, they're wasting my tax money. It's not a cost-effective thing to fix the road six times since February when they could have just paved it once. I'm sure they (could have) paved this road since 1998 and saved money.

Oil aplenty

This is for all the negative people who always claimed that we didn't have oil off our coastlines. Well, guess what? There seems to be plenty of oil floating around nowadays. I'm wondering if their minds have been changed on whether or not we should drill. Yeah, we need to come up with an emergency plan on how to solve an emergency like the one we're dealing with, but no one can say now that we don't have enough oil. So that puts an end to that ar-

Emergency rides

In regards to the comment concerning the overabundance of police cars being driven home: As a former law enforcement officer, it is very important that in an emergency, that you have quick access to be able to respond in an emergency situation. That means having a car available to you, not having to drive somewhere to pick up a car.

Trying to gain momentum he might have had in the initial days following the BP oil disaster, the president took aim at several targets. He is unlikely to hit any of them, with the possible exception of BP, which could conceivably be forced out of business if retribution becomes the goal. Liberals love to beat up on big business, but beating up BP to the point of bankruptcy will not only cost U.S. jobs, but also threaten thousands of pensioners in Britain.

After pledging massive efforts to help clean up the continuing mess while acknowledging damage will continue for a long time, the president turned to his real agenda, which is known as cap and trade, or to conservatives, "cap and tax." He erroneously said, "We are running out of places to drill on land and in shallow water." No we're not. We are running out of places environmentalists will allow us to drill. There's plenty of oil (and gas) to be found under the earth, but the far-left greenies in pursuit of their cowardly new world will have none of it.

The president tried to coin a phrase, saying we need a "national

speed and profit. The accident was an aberration. It appears most offshore oil platforms function safely and efficiently. Allowing for the construction of new ones closer to shore with proper oversight is an important step the president should take. Allowing existing oil rigs to continue pumping will preserve jobs.

Nuclear power is the future. This president is correct when he says we can't rely on oil forever. But the way to lead us away from our dependence on foreign oil is not by using the BP disaster to pass his fantasyland cap-and-tax legislation. Instead, he should use the threat of more terrorism as a motivator. But this administration won't label the terrorists for who they are, so don't look for any courage along those lines. A patriotic push, not just punitive punishment, is what's needed, but you've got to show love for America to rally patriots and this president is no George Washington.

The president seems to want a replay of his big government health care bill by using this "crisis" to push "cap and tax" legislation. He promised to listen to Republicans, but that's what he said about the congressional health care bill. In the end, he didn't much. We are living on borrowed money and if it keeps up we will also be living on borrowed time. Replacing dependence on oil with greater dependence on our Chinese debt-holders exchanges one addiction for another.

Now to style. The opening TV shot made the president look small. He was seated too low behind his desk and could have used a booster seat. Rather than fill the Oval Office with his presence, the scene appeared to dominate him. Everything around the president seemed larger than him: desk, flags, window, even his suit.

His gestures resembled a local TV news anchor. Gestures are better used when a speaker is standing. When one is seated, they become a distraction. And his voice never seemed to change. There was no cadence, no variation of tone, no pausing for em-

The president doesn't know where he's going, but he assures us we'll get there. It sounds like a joy ride, but without the joy.

9/11 memorials

Recently, I met with the Chronicle editorial board regarding the governmental entities of Citrus County, Crystal River and Inverness to have 9-11-01 memorials.

I have been in contact with the director of the state 9/11 Foundation, Mr. John Pedalino, who promised parts from the New York World Trade Center for each government entity.

After contacting all three governments, the City of Crystal River has shown leadership with the city council giving consensus agreement for a 9/11 memorial in the lobby of City Hall. Soon, hopefully, Pedalino will provide the WTC part. I have also received word that Citrus County and the City of Inverness plan on having 9/11 memorials.

It will soon be nine years since 3,014 innocent U.S. citizens and citizens from 70 countries were brutally murdered by Muslim terrorists.

At least 200 of these people jumped to their deaths from New York's Twin Towers, 441 emergency workers died there at what became known as Ground Zero. Also, there were 189 people killed at the Pentagon in Arlington County, Va., and a fourth plane crash at Shanksville, Pa., which killed 220. Since 9-11-01, our country has endured many terrorist threats, including a recent attack at Fort Hood military base in Day airline terrorist threat and a Times Square terrorist threat. If there ever was or will be a time for U.S citizens to unite in defense of our country and honor those who have passed due to terrorist threats, now is the time.

The 3,014 innocent victims killed on 9-11-01 did not sign up to fight terrorist enemies of the United States, or fight in war. They were only at work. Our country and armed service should have protected them. Our country failed them.

There is no official 9-11-01 memorial for the victims in Citrus County, even though there are 38 in other counties in Florida.

Thank you, Crystal River, for caring and showing respect for 9-11-01 citizen victims by planning a memorial for them.

I have heard that there are many family members of 9/11 victims and at least one survivor who live here in Citrus County. At least they will know that the citizens of Crystal River, Citrus County and myself care.

It's obvious that our president, with his legal background and community organization skills, is more experienced and focused on litigation than problem-solving. Needless to say, this oil gusher is a major environmental disaster. Shouldn't his primary focus be on solving the problem rather than litigation? The Brits got it right in labeling this administration as "litigious."

Based on America's financial dilemma and this environmental disaster, isn't it time to change the makeup of politicians who represent us from lawyers to successful business executives and engineers?

My name is Darryl Willis and I'm responsible for overseeing BP's claims process in the Gulf coast. I was born and raised in Louisiana. At age 70, my mother lost her home to Hurricane Katrina. Afterwards, she experienced enormous frustration. So I know first hand that when tragedy strikes on a scale like this, people need help without a lot of hassles.

Independent Claims Compensation Fund

Working with the President, we've created a $20 billion fund to satisfy all legitimate claims. This fund will be administered by a highly respected independent overseer and will not come at any cost to taxpayers.

How To File A Claim

To speed help, BP's Claims Center is open 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. The number is 1-800-440-0858. When someone calls, they'll find out how to submit their claim and can schedule a face-to-face meeting with one of our claims specialists. After meeting, we will be in touch in four days or less and can issue them a check right on the spot. They can also file online at bp.com/claims.

Replacing Lost Monthly Income

Our focus has been on helping the fishermen, small businesses and others who aren't able to work until the spill is cleaned up, by making payments to replace their lost monthly income. These payments will continue for as long as needed.

We have already paid tens of thousands of claims amounting to more than $100 million. We have recently simplified and accelerated the payment of commercial large loss claims. Over one thousand people are here to help in 33 walk-in claims offices in the Gulf. We have promised to honor all legitimate claims and we will.

Our Responsibility

The Gulf is my home. Doing this right is important to me. My commitment is that we will keep you informed, and we'll be here as long as it takes. We may not always be perfect, but we will make this right.

Whether they're deepfried, baked or served on grown from the Northeast's the half-shell, most of the oysters eaten by Americans start their journey to the gullet in the Gulf of Mexico.

But with the Gulf now awash in oil, the supply is down, prices are up, restaurants are going oyster-less, and there appears to be no quick fix to the crisis. After all, suppliers on the Atlantic Coast and in the Pacific Northwest can't simply make more oysters.

"In general, it takes us two to four years to grow oyster crops, so it's hard to respond when there's a surge in demand from something like this," said Bill Dewey of the Seattle area's Taylor Shellfish Co. "The Gulf, and Louisiana in particular, is the leading oyster-producing area in the country, and so when they go down it creates a up about 40 percent at the huge void."

Louisiana's oyster indusry has been brought to a April. Oyster beds have been closed — mostly as a precaution — and fishermen have been put on oil spill duty.

Red Lobster said Tuesday it is taking oysters off its menus when its supply runs out in a few weeks. "Passing along a higher cost to our customers is something we're not going to do," said Rich Jeffers, a spokesman for the nation-

Though oysters are Long Island Sound to Humboldt Bay in California, industry officials estimate that 60 to 70 percent of the oysters eaten in the U.S. come from the Gulf. Those Gulf oysters grow in submerged beds from Texas to Florida, with Louisiana accounting for more than half of the supply.

Mike Voisin of Motivatit Seafoods in Houma, La., said only a small fraction of Louisiana's roughly 7,500 miles of shoreline has been touched by oil. But because of the closings and the diversion of fishermen, he estimated that only 30 to 40 percent of oyster farms are open.

"It has created confusion in the market, shortages in the market, higher prices," he said. "Pricing has gone dock.'

People who make their living off oveters say there standstill since oil began is no full-blown nationwide gushing into the Gulf in shortage at this point, but dealers and growers on the Pacific and Atlantic coasts say they have been fielding calls from a new set of potential customers.

Judge lifts offshore drilling ban

Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS — A federal judge struck down the Obama administration's six-month ban on deepwater oil drilling in the Gulf of Mexico as rash and heavyhanded Tuesday, saying the government simply assumed that because one rig exploded, the others pose an imminent danger, too.

The White House promised an immediate appeal. The Interior Department had imposed the moratorium last month in the wake of the BP disaster, halting people and supplies and provide approval of any new permits for deepwater projects and suspending drilling on 33 exploratory wells.

White House spokesman Robert Gibbs said President Barack Obama believes that until investigations can determine why the spill happened, continued deepwater drilling exposes workers and the environment to "a danger that the president does not believe we can afford."

Several companies that ferry other services to offshore rigs argued that the moratorium was arbitrarily imposed after the April 20 explosion that killed 11 workers and blew out a well 5,000 feet underwater. It has spewed anywhere from 67 million to 127 million gallons of oil.

U.S. District Judge Martin Feldman, who was appointed by President Ronald Reagan and has owned stock in a number of petroleum-related companies, sided with the plaintiffs.

A lost opportunity

Woods, Mickelson, Els all missed shots at taking U.S. Open

Associated Press

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. — Even with 21 majors, they still had everything to gain by winning the U.S.

For Tiger Woods, a chance to end six months of bad publicity with a 15th major. For Phil Mickelson, a golden opportunity to win something other than silver in the U.S. Open. For Ernie Els, a muchneeded reminder that his best golf in the majors is not behind him.

Forgetting about Sunday at Pebble will not be easy.

Woods didn't know this when he started the final round with a threeputt bogey, but he had to shoot only par-71 to join Jack Nicklaus, Ben Hogan and Bobby Jones as fourtime U.S. Open champions.

He shot 75 and remains tied with Hale Irwin.

Els was tied for the lead in the final round, for about only 15 minutes, but he had not been in that position at a major in six years. Worse than his bogey-double bogey-bogey stretch along the coast was missing three putts inside 8 feet in a fourhole stretch late in the round.

As for Mickelson?

He started with a birdie and never made another one the rest of the day. Mickelson knows as well as anyone that bogeys are acceptable in a U.S. Open. What hurt him were a series of pars in the first hour, none more painful than the 328yard fourth hole. He hit a 3-wood to 15-feet for eagle and three-putted for what must have felt like a bogey.

The winner was Graeme McDowell, who made only one birdie in his round of 74 to win a U.S. Open where the stars didn't shine.

It wasn't the first time this has happened in a major.

Tiger Woods drops his club after his drive on the 15th hole during the third round of the U.S. Open golf tournament Saturday at the Pebble Beach Golf Links in Pebble Beach, Calif. A par round in the final day would have won the tournament for Woods but the golfer fired a 75 instead and watched Graeme McDowell claim the major.

Seven years ago in the British Beach. Open, three of the top 10 players in the world challenged for the claret jug on the back nine of Royal St. George's — Woods, Davis Love III and Vijay Singh — only to finish in the top five behind surprise winner Ben Curtis.

For all the majors that Woods, Mickelson and Els have won, they know something about losing. All of them have had close calls at least a half-dozen times in majors, when the championship turns on a putt or a bounce.

In this case, it's a question of whom it hurts the most.

Woods is desperate for a victory to shift focus from his personal life, and to establish anew some form of intimidation he once had. Instead, this was the third straight major that Woods teed off in one of the final two pairings without winning. He made bad swings at Augusta.

No one should have been surprised that Woods did not play his fifth time. best golf Sunday, even after his 66 in the third round in which he finally delivered so many special shots that have defined his career. He keeps talking about a "long process" in getting his game back together, and there's some truth to that. But he's not there yet.

There is too much uncertainty over too many shots, and way too much commotion inside his head from outside forces, namely the state of his marriage and the unending fallout from his affairs. "The two major championships I finished, I had a chance to win both of them," he said. "So it's not too bad."

Mickelson took another step toward becoming his generation's Sam Snead, who never won the U.S. He made poor decisions at Pebble even better opportunity than Lefty had last year at Bethpage Black, when he was runner-up for a record

"I wanted to win," he said. "I'm glad it wasn't a second.' The humor veiled great disappointment, for this U.S. Open opportunity came with much more than a trophy. Mickelson could have gone to No. 1 in the world for the first time, and gone to St. Andrews with great hype about a Grand Slam. Only five other players had ever won the first two legs of the modern Grand Slam. Aside from missing key putts, Mickelson didn't do much wrong. He three-putted from 20 feet on the 10th, missed an 8-foot par putt on the 14th that he struck perfectly, and picked up his last bogey when he had to make birdie, aiming at the flag on the 16th. What stings for Els is that of those

Open. This might have been an three, he had the best chance of winning.

Florida Marlins shortstop Hanley Ramirez delivers a two-run double against the Baltimore Orioles in the second inning Tuesday in Baltimore.

Marlins 10, Orioles 4

BALTIMORE — Hanley Ramirez had three hits and three RBIs to back an effective pitching performance by Anibal Sanchez, and the Florida Marlins defeated the Baltimore Orioles 10-4 on Tuesday night.

Chris Coghlan scored twice and drove in a run for the Marlins, who have two won straight for the first time since June 10-11. Florida is 17-5 against Baltimore in interleague play, including 9-1 since 2000.

After sitting out Sunday's game with a tight right hamstring, Ramirez marked his return with his first three-hit game since May 19. He has three RBIs in each of his last two starts.

Sanchez (7-4) allowed three runs and seven hits in 6 1-3 innings. His only glaring mistake came in the second, when he yielded a three-run homer to Matt Wieters.

Orioles starter Jeremy Guthrie (3-9) gave up six runs and seven hits in 6plus innings to lose his fifth straight start Guthrie issued two walks, to the leadoff hitter in the second and seventh innings and both came around to score.

The game was tight until the seventh when the Marlins scored two runs to take a 6-3 lead. After Coghlan walked and Gaby Sanchez chased Guthrie with an RBI double, Ramirez greeted Jason Berken with a run-scoring single.

In the bottom half, the Orioles got two runners on for pinch-hitter Jake Fox, who was obtained in a trade with Oakland earlier in the day. Fox hit a drive to center that Cody Ross snagged on the warning track.

Florida added an unearned run in the eighth, and Baltimore answered with a sacrifice fly by Luke Scott — making this the 28th time in 70 games the Orioles scored more than three runs.

Ross singled in two runs in the ninth before Wes Helms hit a run-scoring grounder to complete the rout.

Phillies 2, Indians 1 PHILADELPHIA — Jamie Moyer tossed eight crisp innings and the Philadelphia Phillies beat the Cleveland Indians 2-1 on Tuesday night.

Moyer (8-6) limited the Tribe to just two hits, including Russell Branyan's 10th homer, while earning win No. 266, tying him with Bob Feller and Eppa Rixey for 35th on the career list. The 47-year-old left-hander recorded 14 of his 24 outs on ground balls.

J.C. Romero relieved Moyer for the ninth but was replaced by Brad Lidge when Cleveland put runners on first and second with one out. Lidge then struck out Austin Kearns and Jhonny Peralta, completing the three-hitter and earning his fifth save in six tries.

Philadelphia shortstop Jimmy Rollins came off the disabled list and went 0 for 4 in the leadoff spot. Rollins has been hampered by an injured right calf.

Mitch Talbot (7-6), coming off the worst start of his career, allowed two runs and four hits in seven innings for Cleveland. The rookie right-hander was tagged for eight runs and 13 hits over 5 2-3 innings in his last outing, an 8-4 loss to the Mets last Wednesday.

Philadelphia, which managed just four hits for the second straight game, got both of its runs in the first. Rvan Howard singled in Placido Polanco and Jayson Werth drove in Chase Utley with a sacrifice fly to center.

Cardinals 9, Blue Jays 4

TORONTO — Matt Holliday brought his hitting tear to Toronto, connecting for one of four home runs by the St. Louis Cardinals in a 9-4 victory over the Blue Jays on Monday night.

Felipe Lopez, Yadier Molina and slumping Colby Rasmus also went deep for the Cardinals to back rookie left-hander Jaime Garcia (7-3).

Jose Bautista hit two home runs for Toronto, giving him a major league-high 20.

Holliday was selected NL player of the week after batting .435 (10 for 23) with four homers and eight RBIs from June 14-20. He kept his streak going against the Blue Jays with a single in the first inning, a homer in the third and a double in the fifth. He finished 3 for 5 with two RBIs.

Molina hit a solo shot in the second and Rasmus a two-run, pinch-hit drive in the eighth, snapping an 0-for-17 slide. Lopez capped the outburst with a solo homer in the ninth.

Garcia allowed three runs and six hits in six innings. He walked none and struck out four.

Kyle McClellan pitched 1 1-3 innings of relief. Trever Miller got two outs and Mitchell Boggs worked the ninth.

Giants 3, Astros 1

HOUSTON — Tim Lincecum outpitched Roy Oswalt in a matchup of National League aces, and the San Francisco Giants managed just enough offense for a 3-1 win over the Houston Astros on Tuesday night.

It was San Francisco's seventh straight victory over Houston this season and Lincecum's third of the year against the struggling Astros. He improved to 5-0 in eight career outings against them.

Lincecum (8-2) allowed seven hits and no earned runs over eight innings while striking out seven and walking two. Brian Wilson pitched a perfect ninth for his 20th save in 22 chances.

Juan Uribe scored when Pablo Sandoval grounded into a forceout in the seventh to put the Giants ahead 2-1. San Francisco tied it at 1 earlier in the inning on an RBI single by Pat Burrell. Aubrey Huff singled and Uribe walked before Burrell's hit.

Oswalt (5-9) yielded six hits and two runs with five strikeouts in seven innings.

Houston prospect Jason Castro, a catcher selected with the 10th overall pick in the 2008 amateur draft, made his major league debut. With the season not going as they'd hoped, the Astros brought up Castro and fellow rookies Chris Johnson, a third baseman, and Jason Bourgeois, an outfielder, from the minors this week.

S. Carolina knocks ASU out of CWS

Associated Press

OMAHA, Neb. — Usually, Ray Tanner is cautioning his team about the perils of the big inning.

This time, the South Carolina coach was celebrating

Bradley and Jackie Adrian Morales homered during an eight-run second inning that propelled the Gamecocks to an 11-4 victory over No. 1 national seed Arizona State on Tuesday, knocking the Sun Devils out of the College World Series.

"That second inning for us — eight runs — and eight hits is the most we've had in one inning the entire season," Tanner said. "We don't score runs like that very often, but we had some big, big at-bats in that inning and gave us an opportunity to get some great runs."

The Gamecocks were able to give starter Sam Dyson a wide comfort zone and hold off an Arizona State team that left 10 runners on base and always seemed on the verge of breaking out.

"They kept fighting back," Tanner said. "I say many times to our team that we'll give up some runs, let's not give up the big inning. They tried to make it a big inning a number of times, but we were able to get some pitches or a play to stay out of it. I knew you were going to have to get 27 hard outs, and that's what it ended up being.'

The Gamecocks (49-16) play either Oklahoma or Clemson on Thursday in another elimination game. Those teams played a Bracket 2 winners' game late Tuesday night.

ARLINGTON, Texas - Josh Hamilton extended his hitting streak to 17 games with a home run and a double, Julio Borbon hit a three-run homer and the Texas Rangers stretched the majors' longest winning streak to nine with a 6-3 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates on Tuesday night. Michael Young also homered in his first home game since becoming the franchise's career hits leader last week at Florida during the Rangers' eight consecutive victories on the road. Hamilton doubled in the fifth, when he scored on Borbon's second homer of the season that made it 4-2. An inning later, Hamilton homered onto the grassy hill in center for his 17th of the season and majors-best eighth in June. Tommy Hunter (3-0) struck out six without a walk in six innings. He threw 68 of his 88 pitches for strikes while allowing three runs (two earned) and nine hits. Rookie Neftali Feliz worked the ninth for his 20th save in 22 chances after Darren Oliver worked two perfect innings.

Ross Ohlendorf (0-6) is winless his past 15 starts, 10 this season, since a victory on Aug. 18 against Milwaukee.

Ohlendorf retired the first 10 Rangers batters before Young's oneout homer in the fourth.

CHICAGO - John Danks settled down after a shaky start to outpitch a Tommy Hanson as the Chicago White Sox won their seventh straight game, 9-6 over the Atlanta Braves on Tuesday night.

In snapping Atlanta's five-game winning streak, the White Sox won for the 11th time in 12 games. They improved to 35-34 — the first time they have been over .500 since they were 1-0.

Chicago had 13 of its season-high 16 hits during Hanson's 3 2-3 innings. The first 10 were singles before Carlos Quentin's three-run homer put the White Sox up 9-3 in the fourth. It was their first home run in nine games since Alex Rios went deep June 12.

All seven victories during Chicago's longest winning streak since last July have come against NL teams. The White Sox are 11-2 in interleague play; the Braves are 7-3.

Danks (7-5) spotted Atlanta a 3-0 lead before retiring 15 of the last 18 batters he faced. He ended up allowing six hits in seven innings to win his third straight start.

Hanson (7-4) surrendered a careerhigh nine runs as his four-game winning streak ended. He had been 4-0 with a 0.75 ERA against AL teams and had a string of 23 consecutive scoreless innings in interleague play before A.J. Pierzynski's two-run single.

Washington Nationals pitcher Luis Atilano throws during the first inning Tuesday against the Kansas City Royals in Washington. The Nationals won 4-3 after a rain delay.

Nationals 4, Royals 3

WASHINGTON — Josh Willingham and Adam Dunn homered, Luis Atilano pitched into the sixth inning and the Washington Nationals beat the Kansas City Royals 4-3 on Tuesday night. Matt Capps held on for his major league-leading 22nd save in 26 chances despite a rocky ninth inning. Scott Podsednik hit a two-run single to get Kansas City within one before Jason Kendall fouled out with two runners on to end the game. Anthony Lerew (0-1) allowed four runs and 10 hits in 5 1-3 innings for the Royals, who have lost five straight. The right-hander, who had Tommy John surgery in 2007, is still searching for his first major league win after seven career starts. Willingham led off the fourth inning with his 13th homer and No. 100 for his career. He also doubled twice for his third three-hit game of the season. After Willingham's homer, Washington loaded the bases with no outs on consecutive singles by Ivan Rodriguez, Roger Bernadina and Adam Kennedy, but only managed one run on Nyjer Morgan's sacrifice fly. Dunn extended the lead to 4-1 in the fifth with a drive to center for his 17th homer. Ryan Zimmerman also had an RBI double in the third for Washington.

Atilano (6-4) allowed one run and six hits in 5 1-3 innings, ending a threestart losing streak. The rookie righthander struck out five and walked none in his first win since May 31. Podsednik also had a sacrifice fly in the fifth inning and Jose Guillen singled twice for Kansas City, extending his career-long hitting streak to 17 games.

Argentina sweeps through Group B

South Americans score twice and shut out Greece

Associated Press

POLOKWANE, South Africa -Look out, world. Even playing mostly backups Argentina looks good.

Martin Demichelis and Martin Palermo scored second-half goals Tuesday as Argentina beat Greece 2-0 at the World Cup to win Group B.

Coach Diego Maradona replaced seven starters from the Albiceleste lineup that ran up a 4-1 victory over South Korea — the other team to make it out of the group — but it didn't matter much. Argentina still won its third straight game.

many of the things you (journalists) said were wrong," Maradona said, referring to predictions that his team, which struggled in South American qualifying, would do the same in South Africa.

they have on the pitch, they're 100 percent professionals and they make the people happy.

Captain Javier Mascherano and strikers Carlos Tevez and Gonzalo Higuain were all among those given the night off. That gave player of the vear Lionel Messi the chance to wear the captain's armband for the first time. Turning 23 on Thursday, he's the youngest captain ever for the two-time world champions.

Midfielder Juan Sebastian Veron

"This is an incredible sensation," "We're showing ourselves that Palermo said. "I have no words to describe the feeling I had on the pitch."

Demichelis scored from short range in the 77th minute after his header bounced off Diego Milito and back into his path. Palermo's came in the 89th from a rebound after Greece goalkeeper Alexandros Tzorvas had saved a shot by Lionel Messi.

Asians move on as runner-up in Group B

DURBAN, South Africa -South Korea has been a regular at the World Cup. All but one of its previous seven appearances ended disappointingly in the first round.

There was, however, the 2002 tournament it cohosted with Japan, when the South Koreans went to the semifinals. On Tuesday, they added another memorable chapter to their soccer history by ad vancing out of Group A with a 2-2 draw against Nigeria.

"Our goal was to reach the last 16. We succeeded in doing this for the first time away from home," South Korea captain Park Ji-sung said. "So I'm very happy we accomplished this in South Africa. All of the players know how important this is."

Lee Jung-soo and Park Chu-young scored for South Korea after Kalu Uche had given Nigeria the lead in the 12th minute. Ayegbeni Yakubu netted a 69thminute penalty kick to draw Nigeria level again — moments after Yakubu missed a wide open net.

Argentina won Group B by beating Greece 2-0, and plays Mexico on Sunday at Johannesburg, while South Korea plays Uruguay on Saturday at Port Elizabeth.

"During the game, we conceded the first goal and that was a tough situation, South Korea coach Huh Jung-moo said. "But the players stayed cool and leveled the score.'

Nigeria was the second African team to fall out of the first World Cup held on the continent. Host South Africa was eliminated earlier Tuesday.

draw with Uruguay, and a single goal. Worse, it has become the shame of a proud nation.

On Tuesday, the 2006 runner-up was forced to play with 10 men after Yoann Gourcuff was ejected for elbowing Macbeth Sibaya in the 25th minute.

French soccer has been a mess ever since sports daily L'Equipe printed details of striker Nicolas Anelka's expletive-filled rant at coach Raymond Domenech during halftime of last Thursday's

2-0 loss to Mexico. The French soccer federation sent Anelka home Saturday and the French players protested by refusing to practice the following day. Footage of the players refusing to come out of the team bus was beamed home to stunned fans.

Not even a dressing down by French sports minister Roselyne Bachelot on the eve of the match could inspire Les Bleus. Bachelot called an emergency meeting Monday to tell the players they had let the country down and had one last chance to redeem themselves.

'It's your kids, our children, for whom perhaps you will no longer be heroes,' said Bachelot, who told reporters she left the players in tears

— LOS ANGELES he money is rolling in. The bills are being paid. And all those people who said Michael Jackson might earn more in death than in life are being proved right.

Like the estates of Elvis Presley and Yves Saint Laurent, Jackson's has grown immensely since he died on June 25, 2009.

Without Jackson's lavish spending sprees, and with the help of new revenue pouring in from nostalgia over the reign of the King of Pop, estate coexecutors John Branca and John Mc-Clain have dramatically turned lion. around Jackson's finances.

collapse from more than $500 million in debt now looks to be able to support his three children and his mother and donate healthily to children's charities.

The estate has earned more than $250 million in the year since he died. Executors used some of that to pay off $70 million in debt, including the $5 million mortgage on the Jackson family compound in Encino, part of Los Angeles. The interest payments on the remaining debt are now covered by a steady flow of cash.

"They're off to a spectacularly good start," said Lance Grode, a former Jackson lawyer and adjunct professor at the University of Southern California Law School. He added, however, "there's a long way to go before they pay off all of their debts."

A rundown of deals suggests that Jackson's fortune will be even bigger than could have been realized by a planned series of comeback concerts:

■ A posthumous deal to sell unreleased Jackson recordings with Sony Music guaranteed $200 million over seven years. It has already brought $125 million to the estate.

■ The film "This Is It," based on his final concert rehearsal footage, grossed $252 million worldwide. Sonv Pictures paid the estate $60 million in advance, with an undisclosed amount more to come from DVD sales.

■ Licensing deals on merchandise sold by Universal Music Group's Bravado unit and a new dance game by Ubisoft Entertainment brought in $26 million in advances. More is possible if unit sales are high.

■ The Mijac Music catalog of copy-ness manager, the new deals follow a rights, on songs that Jackson wrote, generated $25 million in the past year, thanks to heavy airplay on radio stations and song and album sales.

■ Music publisher Sony/ATV, the copyright holder of the Beatles' and other artists' songs, posted doubledigit percentage revenue gains in the year through March. That netted Jackson's estate, which owns a 50 percent stake, $11 million.

■ Other income, including from a rerelease of Jackson's autobiography, "Moon Walk," and sales of commemorative tickets to his canceled concerts, brought in another $25 mil-

The tally does not include a deal A kingdom that was on the verge of with Cirque du Soleil for shows inspired by Jackson's music, in which the estate will share half the costs and profits when the performances begin in late 2011. Nor does it account for a deal in the works to nearly double the estate's income from Sony/ATV. That cash goes to pay down most of Jackson's remaining debt.

script the two set out shortly before the singer died.

"When I met with him before he died we went through an agenda. John (McClain) and I are really executing on that," Branca told The Associated Press. "We're doing the things we think Michael would have wanted."

Several people have been paid for overdue bills after spending years trying to track the singer down. Others who haven't yet been paid say they have been treated professionally by the estate; a night and day change from his old regime.

"We couldn't (collect) until unfortunately he passed away," said Joseph Akhtarzad, a Jackson family friend who owns the Santa Monicabased Video & Audio Center. Last month, the estate settled a $128,429 tab with Akhtarzad for electronics goods owed since 2007.

Thomas Mesereau, who successfully defended Jackson in his 2005 child molestation trial, said the estate recently paid his law firm $341,452 for services provided after the trial, when Jackson moved to Bahrain. The firm revived its claim in September because it gave up dealing with Jackson's previous managers.

Sony Music said more than 31 million Jackson albums have sold worldwide since he died, a stratospheric number for a music industry in decline.

With 8.3 million albums sold in the U.S., he was the top-selling artist in 2009, easily topping Taylor Swift's 4.6 million. It marked the most albums sold in a year since Usher topped 8 million in 2004, according to Nielsen SoundScan.

Even since the start of this year, Jackson songs have been played on American radio stations 140,000 times, about 10 times the pace before he died, according to Nielsen. Nearly a million Jackson albums have sold this year and a new album of unreleased material is set to hit stores in November, roughly in tandem with a new video game in which fans can mimic his signature moves.

"In the year that Michael has gone, we realize how incredibly talented he was," said Marty Bandier, the chief executive of Sony/ATV. "The guy was the King of Pop and more.'

Today is Wednesday, June 23, the 174th day of 2010. There are 191 days left in the

Today's Highlight:

On June 23, 1960, the Food and Drug Administration formally approved Enovid as the first oral contraceptive for sale in the U.S.

On this date:

In 1931, aviators Wiley Post and Harold Gatty took off from New York on a roundthe-world flight that lasted eight days and 15 hours.

In 1969, Warren E. Burger was sworn in as chief justice of the United States by the man he was succeeding, Earl Warren.

In 1972, President Richard M. Nixon and White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman discussed a plan to use the CIA to obstruct the FBI's Watergate investigation. (Revelation of the tape recording of this conversation sparked Nixon's resignation in 1974.)

In 1985, all 329 people aboard an Air India Boeing 747 were killed when the plane crashed into the Atlantic Ocean near Ireland, after a bomb widely believed to have been planted by Sikh separatists exploded on board.

Ten years ago: Secretary of State Madeleine Albright, during a visit to South Korea, said American troops would remain in the country indefinitely to maintain strategic stability in the Pacific area.

Five years ago: The White House defended presidential adviser Karl Rove against Democratic demands he apologize or quit for saying "liberals saw the savagery of the 9/11 attacks and wanted to prepare indictments and offer therapy and understanding for our attackers.'

One year ago: Hardening the U.S. reaction to Iran's disputed elections and bloody aftermath, President Barack Obama condemned the violence against protesters and lent his strongest support yet to their accusations the hardline victory was a fraud.

Today's Birthdays: Musical conductor James Levine is 67. Actor Ted Shackelford is 64. Actor Bryan Brown is 63. Supreme Court Justice Clarence Thomas is 62. "American Idol" judge Randy Jackson is 54. Actress Frances McDormand is 53. Actress Selma Blair is 38. Singer-songwriter Jason Mraz is 33.

Thought for Today: "To have felt too much is to end in feeling nothing." — Dorothy Thompson, American journalist (1894-1961).

Today's HOROSCOPE=

Birthday Today: A greater emphasis than usual could be placed on your social life in the year ahead. You could end up playing a more serious role in the affairs of special friends, which would end up affecting your own situation in a most positive way.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) — It wouldn't hurt for you to try something different when it comes to a goal you're trying to achieve that has to do with your work or career larger than usual gains could be realized.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) — Take some time to reorganize your affairs and it will pay off handsomely, both with your relationships with others and what you get out of it. A fresh approach can do the trick.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — Things could start to pay off in two separate arrangements that you've been diligently laving the groundwork on in hopes of making things easier for yourself. You'll see the first signs today.

In addition to a number of galleries for visitors to enjoy the underwater world — with more than 20,000 aquatic plants and marine animals — in a traditional aquarium setting, The Florida Aquarium also offers programs for guests to actually dive a coral reef or swim with sharks.

Tom Wagner, an aquarium spokesman, said, "I really love the

"Swim with the

anyone age 6 and older who is comfortable in the water. Wagner said
participants spend

floating just below the surface of the aquarium's largest exhibit, the coral reef tank, which has about 150 creatures including moray eels, tarpon, green sea turtles, grouper and barracuda.

"These are the types of fish that you would see at a typical Florida reef dive or snorkel down in the Keys so it's native animals to Florida," he said. Cost is $85 including aquarium admission.

For certified scuba divers age 15 and older, the "Dive with the Sharks" program allows participants to share the water with live sharks. Scuba equipment is provided for both underwater programs. Wagner noted that these programs are very popular so those interested should call (813) 273-4015 in advance to reserve a spot. Cost is $150 for the 90-minute program to swim with the sharks, including aquarium admission.

A shark-feeding program is offered at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday and Sunday. Guests have the opportunity to help feed these mysterious creatures. Cost is $50 for members and $65 for non-members.

Another interactive program allows visitors to spend time with creatures with friendlier reputations. Wagner said "Penguins: Backstage Pass" is offered three times a day at 11 a.m., 1 p.m. and 2:15 p.m. A maximum of eight visitors at a time go behind the scenes into the penguin suite to learn about and interact with African black-footed penguins. Cost is $25 per person, $20 for members.

Wagner explained that because the penguins are from a warm climate, they do well in Florida.

In this program, visitors can pet them, watch them swim and take plenty of photos.

"The penguins are very curious; they love to interact with people.
They're very social animals," he said.

Outdoors, the younger set can splash around at Explore A Shore, a 2-acre outdoor water adventure park complete with water cannons, a 15-foot-tall water-spouting eel, geysers, rope climbing and a two-story waterlogged pirate ship. Parents can earby cantina.

"It's kind of just a real fun area for the kids to play," Wagner said, "and it's all water-based."

FROM TOP: The two-acre water adventure zone features a lot of fun for the family. Kids can climb aboard a pirate ship, fire water cannons or splash around in the water geysers. • African Black-footed penguins are the stars of the red carpet in the Aquarium's Penguin Promenade, but guests can also get an up-close look at these tuxe-doed animals in "Penguins: Backstage Pass." • The Bay Spirit II, the Florida Aquarium's new 72-foot catamaran, sails out into the bay to view dolphins, manatees and other native wildlife.

CLASSES AND COURSES

■ The Florida Department of Environmental Protection's Ellie Schiller Homosassa Springs Wildlife State Park will offer a weeklong Nature Academy summer camp program. The programs are sponsored by the Friends of Homosassa Springs Wildlife State Park and Progress Energy.

The program is for children ages 10 through 12, and runs July 12 through July 17.

The program includes four half-day camp sessions from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. Monday through Thursday. The Friday session starts at 4 p.m. with an overnight stay in the park. Parents and guardians may stop into park office to pick up an application or call Allyssa Kordon at (352) 628-5445, ext. 1006.

■ Citrus County Parks and Recreation is introducing JazzerKamp, a Jazzercise Dance, health and fitness day camp for children ages 10 to 16.

JazzerKamp will be in session the week of July 19 through July 23 and will run from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The cost for this week long camp is $75. Pre-registration is required by Monday, July 12 and is limited to the first 50 children who register. For more information, call 465-7007.

■ The College of Central Florida will offer a LEGO robotics camp to middle school students in July.

Girls ages 11 to 13 are invited to apply for Camp No. 1, which will be held Monday through Thursday, July 19 to 22. Boys and girls ages 11 to 13 are invited to apply for Camp No. 2, which will be held Monday through Thursday, July 26 to 29. Camps will meet from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Ewers Century Center. The $50 fee includes lunch each day.

The camps will introduce students to the world of robotics and automation. Students will learn how to program Lego Mindstorms robots to follow specific commands and be part of robotic team challenges. They will learn about mathematics, physics and scientific principles required to work with this technology and have the opportunity to examine careers in modern manufacturing where robots are utilized.

Camps are limited to 20 students per session. Applications are available by calling Mercy Alvarado at (352) 854-2322, ext. 1693.

■ The Live Oak Theatre Company, a not-for-profit, family oriented theater company, will conduct a summer program at Faith Evangelical Free Church, 5338 Freeport Drive, Spring Hill.

The camp will have two weekly sessions: July 19 to July 23 and July 26

Edgar Allen Poe wrote, "There are certain themes of which the interest is all-absorbing, but which are too entirely horrible for the purposes of legitimate fiction."

Based on the popularity of noholds-barred horror movies these days, that dates Poe. (He died in 1849.) This week's columns have a certain interesting theme: suit preference. Where does it occur in this deal? What should West lead against five diamonds?

North should open one club. The major-suit honors might be worthless, but North has a comfortable two-club rebid should South respond one heart or one spade. When, though, South bids one diamond North raises that suit Then South uses Blackwood before passing out five diamonds when he

West, now knowing his partner must have an ace, can see how to defeat the contract: his trump ace, partner's ace and a club ruff. So West leads his singleton club. What should East do?

First, he should realize his partner has led a singleton. With Q-J-2 of clubs. West would have led the queen; and with a doubleton, West would have led the higher card. Next, East must recognize that West wants to know where East's entry lies. Since East has his ace in hearts, the lower-ranking of the other two side-suits, he must play his club four at trick one. (With the spade ace, East would play the club 10.) Then West will grab the second trick with his diamond ace, shift to a heart, and receive the club ruff that gives the defense the setting trick.

teenage girls. On the morning of my grandson's departure, he noticed that a $100 bill from his wallet was missing. He also found a hair barrette on the floor near the dresser.

The 17-year-old is the only child who wore barrettes. But our 16-year-old granddaughter has a history of lying. None of the bedroom doors has a lock, and with all the confusion of changing clothes after swimming, anyone could have entered the bedroom and stolen the money. We reimbursed our grandson for his loss, but here is our dilemma: Our sons were notified of the missing $100, but they both said they did not believe their children were involved. We don't know if either of the girls in ques-things. At any given moment, there are 10 such magazines in bathrooms frequented in some cases by guests, and also by our growing children. I have spoken to him about this, and he either changes the subject or tells me to stop nagging. He says the magazines will be collectors' items one day. Is this true? Could I just toss them?

I am ready to take whatever action is necessary to get the magazines out of my home, even if it means I have to do it without his knowledge. I know more will take

Dear Annie: Your response to Concerned Grandparent" really aggravated me. She asked whether a 7-year-old girl was right to tell Dad that she saw her mom kissing another man. I agree that a 7-year-old couldn't possibly know what sort of response is appropriate. However, you blamed Dad for not controlling his emotional outburst, which was directed at the child. At no point did you address the cheating wife.

She is the only guilty party in the entire mess. The father's reaction was understandable. But it's the mother who caused the problem. Quit covering for the bad behavior of cheating wives. Lafayette, Ind.

Dear Lafayette: No one's covering for anybody. The question was how to help the child. After three years, Dad still cannot control his reaction in front of his daughter, which makes her feel responsible. The entire family needs help.
