Tina Heimann went where few people have a chance to go - an up-close visit with President Barack Obama.

Sen. Bill Nelson's office invited Heimann, who coowns the B&W Rexall store in Inverness with her husband, Ken, to meet with Obama during his visit Friday to the Port of Tampa.

Heimann said Nelson's office called Thursday with the invitation. Heimann said she didn't know why she was chosen, though she and her husband have hosted Nelson at their store and they know each other.

She said about 500 people gathered at the port terminal, and then were bussed to a large vacant lot a few miles away.

"It was absolutely in the middle of nowhere," she said. "It was like an abandoned parking lot with containers of ships.'

Dr. Bob Brockett rides his bicycle along congested County Road 486 Tuesday afternoon on his way home. Due to automobile traffic along the highway, riding on the road can be a dangerous proposition.

Biking the roads of Citrus County a way of life for local doctor

Staff Writer Dr. Robert Brockett's lifelong love affair with cycling began when he was 11 years old working a newspaper route. Even through college and during his residency, Brockett said a bicycle has always been his primary means of transportation.

When Brockett, an oral surgeon, purchased a home inside Meadowcrest close to his practice, he began walking a little more and playing golf. However, in 1994, the fear of turning 40 jerked him out of his placid lifestyle, and he started entering triathlons.

To get in shape, the 57-year-old began cycling even more and running. Then Brockett moved to Lecanto. Now he rides his bicycle to work every day, rain or shine.

The 10-mile roundtrip ride is typically peaceful along the residential roads of Pine Ridge. Yet when Brockett pedals onto active thoroughfares like County Road 486 and North Meadowcrest Boulevard, survival mode kicks in as he shares prepavement fast-moving pieces of machinery. In the years Brockett has braved the ride from his home to his office, he has injured his shoulder after being hit by a truck that failed to yield to the right of way, he's broken his collarbone after being clipped by a mirror on a passing truck and he's had a number of near-hits.

Still, he said he would not trade cycling for anything. With the high gas prices and health benefits, cycling is a great, alternative way to

However, with Florida having the highest number of fatal bicycle accidents of any state, Brockett said he believes the key to lowering the number of cyclist fatalities on the road is increased education and awareness for both cyclists and motorists.

Sometimes motorists don't notice a cyclist on the road because of their size in comparison to a car or truck, Brockett stated. That is why it's important for cyclists to take every precaution to make themselves highly reported to authorities.

INVERNESS — A Citrus County Sheriff's Office deputy was fired Friday and immediately arrested on a charge of felony do-

According to the report, the couple, who had been residing together, was having relationship difficulties.

The alleged victim had recently informed Haynes that she intended to move out, resulting in a series of verbal disputes, according to the release. On the Sunday of the incident, Haynes and the woman were reportedly arguing over items she was removing from the home they shared.

The woman alleged Haynes grabbed her around the neck, constricting her airway and leaving her neck sore and red. She told family and friends about the battery, but did not report it to the sheriff's office. Detectives reportedly initiated a criminal investigation and sought out the victim for the purpose of determining exactly what happened, according to the release.

Witnesses and others related to the case also were interviewed.

The agency completed a domestic battery intake with the State Attorney's Office on March 30 and made arrangements for the alleged victim and witnesses to complete their intakes on April 2, the sheriff's office said.

Havnes was subsequently arrested and transported to the Citrus County Detention Facility on no bond per the domestic battery statute. According to the sheriff's office, Haynes was a fiveand-a-half-year veteran of the agency and has no prior disciplinary action.

INVERNESS — The Inverness Historical Society plans to bring a little rock, a little roll and a lot of Elvis back to town.

The play "When Elvis Came to Town" will be performed at 8 p.m. Friday, April 20, noon and 7:30 p.m. Saturday, April 21, and 2 p.m. Sunday, April 22.

In August of 1961, the small town of Inverness was transformed into a hotbed of action when Elvis came to film the 9-minute courthouse scene in the movie "Follow that Dream."

Although Elvis was still a shy, soft spoken 26-year-old and fairly new to Hollywood, he caused quite a stir.

U.S. team practicing at Dunnellon airport

DUNNELLON — More than 60 years ago, the Dunnellon-Marion County Airport served as a key training facility for the U.S. Armed Forces as the military busily trained bomber pilots for America's efforts in World War II.

This weekend, the airport will once again serve as a training ground for another American force preparing for a battle in the skies this summer at the Nyiregyhaza Airport in Hungary.

The U.S. National Aerobatic Team has descended upon the facility for practice, and will wrap up its practice sessions Sunday, as they prepare for the 10th annual FAI Advanced Aerobatic Championships, slated July 26 through Aug. 5 at the Nyiregyhaza Airport in Hungary.

Scott greets Obama on 'work' day

TAMPA — Gov. Rick Scott took time off from carrying luggage, working the ticket counter and other airport tasks to meet a familiar traveler who had just jetted in from Washington, D.C.

President Barack Obama found Scott waiting for him Friday when he emerged from Air Force One after it landed at Tampa International Airport.

They shook hands and chatted briefly. The president then toured Tampa's seaport before continuing on to a Latin American summit in Colombia.

Scott then went back to his eighth "Let's Get to Work! Day.'

Vetoes sought for $149.6M in state budget 'turkeys'

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — A research and advocacy group with close business ties urged Florida Gov. Rick Scott on Friday to veto $149.6 million in spending "turkeys," including hometown water projects, college buildings and senior centers that lawmakers added outside the normal budget process or that serve strictly local or private purposes.

Florida TaxWatch also questioned the validity of $21.3 million earmarked for 16 economic development projects, including a rowing center and soccer training, but did not ask for vetoes because they went through some review process and each was approved on one chamber's budget bill.

Instead, TaxWatch is asking that Scott and state economic development officials assess each project to determine what return the state can expect for its investment in terms of jobs and other economic activity. TaxWatch turkeys often, but not always, are the equivalent of pork barrel projects or earmarks in Congress. "This is not about waste per se," said TaxWatch president Calabro as he stood next to a stuffed wild turkey at a news conference.

in government or efficiency

As a result, the list of 143 projects recommended for launch a new state university although TaxWatch opposes the project financially wasteful.

Besides the budget, the Legislature passed a substantive bill that would immediately the University South of polytechnic Florida's branch at Lakeland into the state's 12th public university. That would sidestep accreditation and other requirements the Board of Governors had set for the campus before it could gain independence.

Scott last year vetoed $180.9 million of $203 million of TaxWatch's turkeys, or 89 percent. That's the highest percentage in the last decade. This year's list, totaling $171 million if the economic development projects are included, is still the third-lowest in the past 10 years.

This Legislature did better than many others across the land," Calabro said. Still, lawmakers could have done better, he added.

Calabro also said the list is surprisingly large for another austere budget year. Lawmakers cut $1.4 billion ment projects listed as in spending to balance the $70 billion budget.

The biggest turkey on the list is $14 million to build a Public Safety Institute at Brevard Community College, which was not included in either chamber's original budget but added line-item vetoes does not by a joint conference com- seum in St. Petersburg.

include $33.5 million to mittee. It is a low priority for the state college system and Scott vetoed the project last year as well. The college once employed Senate President Mike Haridopolos, R-Merritt Island, and it's in his home county. Some projects listed because lawmakers bypassed the competitive contracting process. They include $2 million for ARC of Florida, and $1 million each for the Loveland Center in Sarasota and Brevard Achievement Center, which all provide services for disabled people.

Appropriations of $1 million and $500,000 for the Mildred Pepper Hialeah senior centers were listed because they are private facilities. Also, the Legislature has no process for determining capital needs for senior centers. Twenty-three local water projects valued at $19 million scattered across the state also made the list because the Department of Environmental Protection never reviewed them to determine their validity.

Stocks fall on higher European borrowing costs Associated Press

Poor's 500

It was another losing week on Wall Street after worries about Europe returned.

Stocks closed lower on Friday and closed out their worst week of the year so far. The Dow Jones industrial average lost 1.6 percent for the week; the Standard & Poor's 500 index fell 2 percent.

The Dow is still ahead 5 percent for the year after a gangbusters first quarter. After the kind of returns investors have enjoyed so far this year, "it's not surprising that we sort of slosh around here for a bit," said Jim Dunigan, managing executive of investments for PNC Wealth Management.

On Friday the Dow was down all day, but the losses got worse in the last halfhour. The decline wiped out much of the Dow's 181-point gain the day before. Investors had several reasons to wonder about the prospects for global economic growth. Higher borrowing costs in Europe reminded investors that the continent's debt problems aren't over. Growth slowed in China. And a closely watched gauge of consumer confidence came in weaker than analysts were expecting. European markets fell broadly. Indexes in France and Germany fell more than 2.4 percent. The FTSE 100 index in Britain fell 1 percent. nese economy grew at an 8.1 The worries are concentrated in Spain and Italy, and it showed up in their financial markets Friday. Spain's main stock index fell 3.6 percent and is now down 15 percent for the year. The yield on its 10-year government bond rose to 5.93 percent, and Italy's rose to 5.52 percent. That's a sign that investors' confidence in those countries' finances slipped. It also means those countries will have to pay more to borrow money. New data showed the Chi-percent pace in the January-March period, the slowest in almost three years. In the U.S., a closely-watched gauge of consumer confidence came in weaker than analysts had been expect-

The stock declines were broad. All 10 market sectors tracked by the S&P 500 index fell, led by a 2.3 percent drop in financial stocks.

Bank of America Corp. fell 5.3 percent. Wells Fargo & Co. and JPMorgan Chase & Co. both reported betterthan-expected profits, but each fell more than 3.5 percent as investors focused on comments that said the overhang from bad loans would continue.

Among stocks making big moves:

■ Apple Inc. fell 2.8 percent after reports that a German court ruled against it in a patent fight with Motorola over mobile e-mail technology.

■ Google fell 4 percent after the company said it would issue new non-voting stock to shareholders.

■ Coinstar, which runs the Redbox DVD rental kiosks, rose 7.3 percent after it raised its revenue forecast.

■ Dow Chemical rose 1.6 percent after it raised its quarterly dividend 28 percent. The company said last week it would eliminate 900 jobs and close several plants. The dollar and Treasury prices rose. Oil dropped 81 cents to $102.83 per barrel.

—— Hot Corner: PARKING FEES —

Be happy it's open

So some people are whining about the parking fees at the Chazz boat ramp. I have no problem paying the fee, practically or philosophically, but here are some things to consider: You can access the same fishing areas in the Gulf, generally, by using the Mason Creek boat ramp. While you're there using this totally free boat ramp parking area, compare and contrast it in your head to Chazz and realize you get what you pay for. The Chazz boat ramp is actually free to use. It's just parking that costs. So make an arrangement to park outside the Chazz campground entrance and get your butt on a bike or walk a few blocks. Finally, go use the boat ramp at Jake's Bar in Chazz. They would love to have you. At great expense, the Chazz boat ramp was recently improved. Be glad it's still available at all. The county was losing money on the whole operation.

It's absurd

I think it's absurd that you charge the people from Citrus County a fee to park in their own lot which their taxes are paying for. And what's with this company you got there? ... And who are these other people down there running the kayak service? ... I don't understand what's going on. The county should be giving permits out for the people in Citrus County.

swered: "I think it's fair to say. That is almost guaranteed."

There's no "almost" about it. Without a doubt, Congress would be a better place with more female members. Of course, women can be fierce partisan warriors (see Bachmann, Michele, and Pelosi, Nancy), but they often bring to male colleagues. One striking example: The female members of the Senate (now 12 Democrats and five Republicans) meet privately for dinner once a month. These days they can seem like renegade soldiers, meeting secretly in noman's-land under a truce flag while rival armies dig deeper trenches and hurl more incendiary invectives at each other.

Cokie and

'We are all a team as women,' Sen. Olympia Snowe, a Maine Republican, told CNN's Dana Bash. We may not agree on every issue, but that's not the point. We know how to work together in the give-and-take of it and achieve results.'

The percentage of women in Congress has risen steadily but very slowly, and now stands at about 17 percent. On the state level, the numbers have dropped a bit. Today, women account for 23 percent of statewide officeholders, down from 28 percent in 2001, and 24 percent of state legislators, off one point from two years ago. One reason for this the hyperpartisanship that inasked recently. Then he an- capitals. Snowe recently announced her retirement by denouncing the "political paralysis" gripping Capitol Hill and the "all or nothing" philosophy of congressional leaders in both parties.

Sen. Lisa Murkowski, an Alaska Republican, and former Sen. Blanche Lincoln, an Arkansas Democrat, were both attacked as heretics by primary opponents two years ago for daring to work with members of the opposite party. Lincoln barely survived the primary but then was clobbered in the general election; Murkowski lost the primary but retained her seat by running as a write-in candidate.

It's more important than ever for women lawmakers to keep lines of communication open between the trenches. In this Congress, for example, Snowe and Sen. Barbara Boxer, a liberal Democrat from California, have cooperated on two useful transportation bills: a traveler's bill of rights, and a law mandating tougher sleep rules for pilots of small planes.

Over the years, however, women have been most effective in highlighting measures that relate to their gender. Cokie's mother, Lindy Boggs, spent 18 years in Congress, and she was serving on the House Banking Committee in 1974 when male members brought up a bill banning loan discrimination based on race, age or military service. Without telling anyone, she inserted the words "or sex or marital status" into the draft. She recounted what happened next in her memoir, "Washington Through a Purple Veil.'

"Knowing the members composing this committee as well as I do," she recalls saying, "I'm sure it was just an oversight that we didn't have 'sex' or 'marital status' included. I've taken care of that." Her amendment passed unanimously — but it never would have been offered if Lindy had not been at that table.

The civilizing effect of women goes far beyond their specific legislative priorities. Murkowski told CNN that women listen better than men, and "the listening part of it is an important part of how we get results." They are better at sharing, too: "I don't think we have as much ego attached with who's getting the credit."

The monthly dinners are a critical part of the listening and sharing process. They were started by Sen. Barbara Mikulski, a Maryland Democrat who just became the longest-serving woman in the history of Congress. Capitol Hill can be a "lonely place" for females, she says — when Mikulski was elected to the Senate in 1986 there was only one other woman, Nancy Kassebaum of Kansas – and the dinners have always served both social and professional goals.

They allow the lawmakers. notes Mikulski, to find "common ground" outside the spotlight of rancorous floor debates or TV shout-fests. As a result, says Texas Republican Kay Bailey Hutchison, the women are able to "resolve conflicts the way friends

Now there's a concept. Treat rivals as friends, and actually listen to what they have to say. Washington needs a whole lot more of that, and the women's team can lead the way.

Too many signs

Signs, signs, everywhere are signs! Beautiful Citrus County is beginning to look like a beach town. Everywhere one looks is a sign. Billboards, yellow mobile road signs, stick-in-the ground signs, signs posted on utility poles, trees, fences, wind signs, large for-rent signs by strip mall owners, etc. Signage in Citrus County has been an issue for years, only seemingly worse as time moves on. In these economic hard years, I can understand businesses wanting to attract customers with extra signs. However, this attempt is ruining our county roadsides. We tax-paying residents would prefer to keep Citrus County as pristine as is possible. The sign ordnance is "not" being adhered to, nor monitored by the county.

Signs in violation are numerous up and down roadways -County Road 491, C.R. 486, U.S. 19, State Road 44, etc., you name the road, you will find signs everywhere. Needed is a vigilant watch, warnings, then hefty fines to help clean up this sign problem.

Along with signs everywhere in the county, there is roadside trash. The beauty of Citrus County that we residents love is being lost to signs and trash.

The minute we walk away from any purchase site, with any purchased product, it is worth less than we paid for it.

It is now "used," or in a newand idiotic — use of the English language, "preowned."

With the exception of heirlooms, or collector's items, most of what we acquire loses value over time. We buy a car to drive, we buy clothes to wear, food to eat, appliances to use, and do not expect them to increase in value.

Why should our expectation for housing differ?

It seems to me that we should buy a house to live in only if that is the most efficient way to provide shelter for us and those in our care.

Expecting a product to increase in value without any additional input of capital or work, as many have, makes little sense if you think about it.

With the advent of property taxes, we no longer "own" our property anyway. We are leasing it from the taxing authority at rates they set. If you don't believe that, don't pay your property taxes.

The process of purchasing a residence should involve the same economic process as that of buying any major nonconsumable item.

Before the government with our full endorsement, in the form of Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac, stepped in to distort the marketplace, the rule of thumb was that at most, 20 percent of gross income should be devoted to housing.

By distorting the free marketplace, the government, with our full cooperation, caused the very predictable and moronic "housing" crisis, which should be named "the economic intelligence" crisis.

Until the inventory of houses is reduced to reflect true demand, house prices will continue to decline.

Count on it.

One injured in accident

A motorist was injured in a vehicle accident that happened at 2 p.m. Friday in Crystal River. According to Bill Larder, he was driving a company truck on County Road 486 when a late model Scion driven by Gavin Ramaswami attempted to pass a line of cars and crashed into his truck as the Scion merged back in the westbound lane. The accident happened in a construction area. Both vehicles were heading west on C.R. 486 in front of the newly constructed LKQ complex. After hitting Lader's truck, Ramaswami crashed his car into the new landscaping trees planted for LKQ. Ramaswami was transported to a hospital with non-life threatening injuries.

Obamas' effective tax rate: 20.5 percent

WASHINGTON - Pressuring Mitt Romney on taxes, President Barack Obama's campaign re-released more than a decade of tax records Friday, a political maneuver designed to pressure the Republican presidential candidate to divulge tax records beyond two years and to stop "hiding" details of his personal wealth.

Obama's own tax return for last year showed he and his wife paid $162,074 in federal taxes on $789,674 in adjusted gross income, an effective tax rate of 20.5 percent. Their income plunged from $1.7 million in 2010, with declining sales of the president's books. In 2009, the Obamas reported income of $5.5 million, fueled by the best-selling books.

Romney's campaign has projected he will pay more than $6.2 million in taxes on $45 million in income in 2010 and 2011 but has not released tax information prior to the past two years.

N. Korea admits launch was a failure

PYONGYANG, North Korea North Korea's much-touted satellite launch ended in a nearly $1 billion failure, bringing humiliation to the country's new young leader and condemnation from a host of nations. The United Nations Security Council deplored the launch but stopped short of imposing new penalties. The satellite's disintegration Friday over the Yellow Sea brought a rare public acknowledgment of failure from Pyongyang, which hailed the launch as a show of strength amid North Korea's persistent economic hardship.

President Barack Obama said the failed rocket launch shows the country is wasting money on rockets that "don't work" while its people starve.

Obama told a television interviewer that the North Koreans have "been trying to launch missiles like this for over a decade now, and they don't seem to be real good at it."

He said in an interview with the Spanish-language network Telemundo that the U.S. will work with other nations to "further isolate" North Korea.

Obama stops in Tampa before heading south

Associated Press

TAMPA, Fla. — President Barack Obama, determined to connect his upcoming Latin American travels to voters back home, told port workers in Florida that he was headed to Colombia to find more customers for U.S. companies to help fuel the broader economic recovery at home.

Obama toured the Tampa Bay port Friday on the first leg of a weekend trip to Cartagena, Colombia, for the Summit of the Americas, a gathering that the president said would allow him to connect the needs of U.S. workers with trade opportunities in a growing region.

"While I'm in Colombia talking with other leaders, I'm going to be thinking about you," Obama told sprawling concrete port ringed by containers and three large cranes. "I want us selling stuff, and I want us putting more Americans back to work."

The president's stop in Tampa on Friday was driven not just by Florida's trade connections to the region south of its borders. Obama, in an election year, also wanted to stop in a politically important state to drive home the point that his work at the Summit of the Americas in Colombia would have ramifications in the U.S.

The short visit also provided an image the White House desires: Obama with his shirt sleeves rolled up, surrounded by cranes and shipping containers, before he ventured out of the country.

Vietnamese policeman hangs onto bus while driver flees

Associated Press

HANOI, Vietnam — A Vietnamese traffic cop went on a wild ride in Hanoi, clinging to the windshield wipers of a moving bus for approximately a half a mile after the rogue driver tried to avoid a ticket, police said Friday.

Traffic police 2nd Lt. Nguyen Manh Phan ordered the bus driver to pull over the 39-seat passenger coach Monday, said a police officer in Ba Vi District outside Hanoi. The officer spoke on condition of anonymity, citing policy.

The driver allegedly refused to show his paperwork and drove off - but not before Phan leaped onto the front, he added. The officer said the bus reached a top speed of about 30 mph.

A video shot by one of Phan's fellow officers shows him trying to get his footing and dangling from the moving bus as oncoming traffic whizzes past. Phan can be heard yelling, "Call the police!"

The driver, Phung Hong Phuong, eventually pulled over after being chased by police and residents.

Even with the bus stopped, Phan stood calmly in front of it, still hanging on to the wipers.

Phuong was arrested for allegedly acting against public officials, an offense that carries a maximum three-year prison sentence, the officer said. He previously served nearly four years in prison for a fatal traffic accident.

BEIRUT — Syrian forces used live fire, tear gas and clubs to beat back tens of thousands of protesters who took to the streets across the country Friday in powerful and often jubilant displays of defiance. But a U.N.-brokered truce largely held up without the widespread, bloody offensives that have pushed the nation toward civil war.

Activists said security forces killed at least six people, a lower-than-usual toll. The rallies, described as some of the largest in months, stretched from the suburbs of Damascus to the central province of Hama, Idlib in the north and the southern province of Daraa, where the uprising began in March 2011.

Vt. governor chased by bears in backyard

MONTPELIER. Vt. — A latenight encounter with four bears trying to snack from backyard birdfeeders gave Vermont's governor a lesson in what not to do in bear country.

One of the bears chased Peter Shumlin and nearly caught the governor while he was trying to shoo the animals away, he said Friday.

"I had a close encounter with a bear — four bears, to be exact," Shumlin said.

Shumlin said he had just gone to bed inside his rented home on the edge of Montpelier late Wednesday when the bears woke him up. He looked out the window and saw the bears in a tree about five feet from the house trying to get food from his four birdfeeders.

"I open up the window and yell at them to get away from the birdfeeders. They kind of trot off," Shumlin said Friday. "I go around to the kitchen to turn the lights on and look from the other side and they're back in the birdfeeders. So I figure I've got to get the birdfeeders out of there or they're going to make this a habit."

He said he then ran out and first grabbed two of the feeders. As he grabbed the other two and made his escape, "one of the bigger bears was interested in me."

"It was probably six feet from me before I slammed the door and it ran the other way." he said.

Forecasters issue high-risk warning

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. — In an unusually early and strong warning, national weather forecasters cautioned Friday that conditions are ripe for violent tornadoes to rip through the nation's midsection from Texas to Minnesota this weekend.

As states across the middle of the country prepared for the worst, storms were already kicking off in Norman, Okla., where a twister whizzed by the nation's tornado forecasting headquarters but caused little damage. It was only the second time in U.S. history that the Storm Prediction Center issued a high-risk warning more than 24 hours in advance. The first such warning was issued in April 2006 before nearly 100 tornadoes tore across a large swath of the southeastern U.S.

Pakistan to send bin Ladens to Saudi Arabia

ISLAMABAD — Pakistan will deport Osama bin Laden's three widows and their children to Saudi Arabia next week after they finish a 45-day prison sentence for illegally entering and living in the country, their defense lawyer said Friday.

The family has been in detention since American commandos killed bin Laden in a large house in the Pakistani town of Abbottabad last May, but they were only convicted on April 2. The women and children will be deported on April 18, a day after they finish their sentence, said their lawyer Mohammed Amir Khalil.

'Canes baseball fends off Pirates

Suicide squeeze the difference in 4-3 victory

> SEAN ARNOLD Correspondent

INVERNESS — Citrus junior Trevor Cypret laid down a squeeze bunt in the bottom of the sixth inning to score senior center fielder Zach Gufford and help lift his baseball club to a 4-3 victory over county rival Crystal River on Friday.

standing on third after lining a single to center and advancing on a grounder and passed ball, Cypret entered as a pinch hitter to face Pirates senior Weston Pope, who just entered in relief of senior Tyler Humphreys. Cypret reached up high out of the zone for the bunt and dribbled it on the ground to the right side, allowing Gufford to race

Citrus senior pitcher Mark Pullen settled in after throwing 47 pitches in the first two innings. He struck out five and allowed six hits and three walks in a complete-game effort.

"Coach was preaching to keep the ball down and try to hit my spots," Pullen said. "So that's all I ally have my off-speed in the first couple of innings, so I had to rely on my fastball. But it got better from there.'

Crystal River (15-7) senior center fielder Donnie Dewees walked, stole second, and scored on a single by junior second baseman Michael Kidd to put the Pirates ahead in the top of the first.

Beckett rebounds, Price rocked in 12-2 outcome

Associated Press

BOSTON — The Red Sox dominated their historic homecoming.

Josh Beckett pitched eight strong innings in Boston's 12-2victory over the Tampa Bay Rays. The lineup finished with 16 hits, and outfielders made several diving grabs on Friday. Everything seemed to go right for the Red Sox in the home opener of their 101st season at Fenway Park.

Almost everything.

Jacoby Ellsbury, runner-up in last year's AL MVP voting, hurt his right shoulder on a slide into second base in the fourth inning and is expected to miss some time. He went to Massachusetts General Hospital, but there was no update on his condition.

"Hopefully, the MRI doesn't show anything structurally damaged or anything like that (and) the soreness can go away in a few days and he'll be back in a few days," Adrian Gonzalez said.

Ellsbury hit .321 with 39 stolen bases last season, but the Red Sox didn't miss their center fielder's hitting or running on Friday. Gonzalez and Kelly Shoppach had three hits apiece, and Shoppach was successful on the first stolen base attempt of his career when he made an awkward, bouncing slide.

Beckett's performance was the most impressive for the Red Sox, who came home after a 1-5 road trip that included a 10-0 loss to the Detroit Tigers in which he allowed five homers.

But Beckett (1-1), troubled by a thumb injury in spring training, limited the Rays to one run and five hits. He struck out just one, getting Carlos Pena in the eighth and extending his streak to 281 games with at least one strikeout since the start of his career. Only Dwight Gooden has a longer streak to begin his career, 349 games from 1984 to 1997.

"It's just what the doctor ordered," Bobby Valentine said after his first home game as Boston's manager. "We were wondering and hoping and he relieved all doubt. He threw great curveballs, had terrific control, threw all his fastballs over 90 mph."

Beckett improved to 4-0 with a 2.41 ERA in five home openers for the Red Sox.

"The guys played really good defense," he said. "They gave me the confidence to go out there and really pound the strike zone."

David Price (1-1) lasted just three innings for Tampa Bay, departing after he allowed three runs in the third.

"I'm going to have 33, 34 starts this year," he said. "There's going to be one or two starts (when) you don't have it. My body felt good, my arm felt good.'

The Red Sox put the game away with eight runs in the eighth when the first 10 batters reached.

"I wasn't displeased," Rays manager Joe Maddon said. "It was a 4-1 game in the eighth, then, all of a sudden, it turns into a bad baseball game."

The Rays went ahead 1-0 in the second on a single by Ben Zobrist and a double by Jeff Keppinger. That was Tampa Bay's last hit until Matt Joyce singled with two outs in the sixth. Jose Molina added a two-out single in the seventh before Beckett retired his last four batters.

"Obviously he wasn't throwing 96, 97 (mph) like he has in the past," Joyce said. "He's using that changeup and throwing that curveball."

Zobrist also hit his first homer of the year, a solo shot in the ninth.

The Red Sox took the lead for good in the third.

"I was looking for something inside," the junior catcher said. "She hadn't pitched me inside all game. I saw it and zoned in and nailed it.'

The homer, a line drive over the right field fence, was Atkinson's third of the season and the fifth of her career, both Lecanto records. It was also the first time she could remember delivering a shot like that in such a clutch situation.

INVERNESS — The Citrus softball team defeated the Ridgewood Rams of New Port Richey 8-2 in the regularseason finale Friday night at Vicki Overman Field.

The Hurricanes continued their hot play going into the District 6A-6 tournament.

"The girls are playing really well," said Citrus head coach Larry Bishop. "I'm pleased the way we finished, and pleased with coming in tied for second in the district, and I look forward to the district tournament."

Lecanto senior to play D-II volleyball at Concord

J.M. SORACCHI Staff Writer

After looking at no fewer than 20 different colleges across the nation, Lecanto senior Annamaria DiLascio had a difficult decision to make. But after careful consideration, one institution of higher learning became the clear-cut choice.

DiLascio will play volleyball for Concord University, a public liberal-arts school in Athens, W. Va., that competes athletically in the NCAA's Division II.

A leader on the Panthers' volleyball team, DiLascio will join the Mountain Lions as a lefthanded hitter playing the right side. That's a position the athlete is familiar with from her club volleyball experience on the Citrus Heat, although DiLascio was a middle blocker for Lecanto.

Concord appealed to DiLascio for several reasons; chief among them were the picturesque campus and pre-med program the university offers.

"They have a very good

New York blanks L.A. Angels

Angels at Yankee Stadium on Friday in New York.

NEW YORK — Alex Rodriguez hit his 630th home run and tied Ken Griffey Jr. for fifth place on the career list and Hiroki Kuroda pitched excellently in his pinstripes debut as the New York Yankees beat the Los Angeles Angels 5-0.

Nick Swisher lined a three-run double off Ervin Santana (0-2) in the first inning soon after recently retired teammate Jorge Posada threw out the ceremonial first pitch and hugged all his old pals.

Curtis Granderson added a Yankee Stadium-friendly homer. New York has won four in a row overall and 14 of its last 15 home openers.

Albert Pujols singled in four atbats. The slumping Angels slugger is 6 for 27 (.222) with no home runs this season. Los Angeles has lost three

White Sox 5, Tigers 2

CHICAGO — Jake Peavy pitched effectively into the seventh inning and Dayan Viciedo homered and made a key catch as the Chicago White Sox defeated the Detroit Tigers 5-2 in their home opener.

Peavy (1-0) took a one-hitter and a 3-0 lead into the seventh. He walked Miguel Cabrera and Delmon Young's two-out, two-run homer finished him.

Alex Avila singled off reliever Will Ohman and Jhonny Peralta followed with a double against Addison Reed before Viciedo made a diving catch of Andy Dirks' sinking liner to left field to end the inning.

Indians 8, Royals 3

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Michael Brantley had a pair of hits during a seven-run first inning, and the Cleveland Indians roughed up Luke Hochevar before knocking him from the game in an 8-3 victory that spoiled the Royals' home opener.

Shin-Soo Choo and Jason Kipnis each drove in a pair as the Indians scored more times in the opening inning than they had in any of their first five games. Asdrubal Cabrera added a solo homer in the ninth for good measure. The seven runs allowed by Hochevar (1-1) in the first inning matched the number of runs that Kansas City starters had allowed during a six-game road trip to begin the season.

Derek Lowe (2-0) allowed three runs on 11 hits while surviving 6 2-3 innings for Cleveland.

Orioles 7, Blue Jays 5

TORONTO — Wilson Betemit hit a two-run single in the eighth inning and the Baltimore Orioles rallied to beat the Toronto Blue Jays 7-5, snapping a threegame skid.

Darren O'Day (1-0) worked one inning of relief for the win and James Johnson closed it out for his third save as the Orioles opened a 10-game road trip by winning for just the sixth time in their past 35 games in Toronto.

The teams combined for seven home runs, all solo shots. Robert Andino, Adam Jones and Nolan Reimold connected for the Orioles, while Edwin Encarnacion, #### Yunel Escobar, Kelly Johnson and Colby Rasmus went deep for the Blue Jays.

Wainwright's first start at home since Sept. 19, 2010, was a total mess from the get-go and tied his worst ever from a statistical standpoint — eight earned runs in just three innings.

His outing unraveled just moments after pregame pomp and circumstance that featured 91-year-old Hall of Famer Stan Musial waving from a golf cart to fans who gave him a standing ovation.

Giants 5. Pirates 0

SAN FRANCISCO — Matt Cain threw a one-hitter, allowing only a single by Pittsburgh pitcher James McDonald in the sixth inning during a near-perfect performance as the San Francisco Giants beat the Pirates 5-0 in their home opener.

Aubrey Huff homered. Buster Posey hit an RBI double in his first regular-season game at AT&T since his season-ending collision at the plate with the Marlins' Scott Cousins last May 25.

Mets 5, Phillies 2

PHILADELPHIA — R.A. Dickey threw seven sharp innings, Jason Bay hit a tworun homer and the New York Mets beat Cliff Lee and the Philadelphia Phillies 5-2 on Friday night.

fending NL East champs are 3-4. Dickey (2-0) allowed just one run despite nine hits. The knuckleballer struck out seven and lowered his ERA against

Philadelphia to 2.40 in seven career starts. Marlins 5, Astros 4 (11 innings)

MIAMI — Gaby Sanchez doubled in the 11th inning to score Chris Coghlan from first base, and the Miami Marlins beat the Houston Astros 5-4 Friday night.

Coghlan started the 11th with a sharp single that deflected off pitcher Brandon Lyon (0-1) for an infield hit before Sanchez pulled an 0-2 pitch that hit off the base of the fence in left field, and Coghlan slid home without a throw.

The game was the Marlins' first at home since manager Ozzie Guillen began serving a five-game suspension for praising Fidel Castro. Announced attendance for only the second game in the 36,442-seat ballpark was 30,169.

Braves 10, Brewers 8

ATLANTA — Brian McCann equaled a career high with four hits, including a homer and four RBIs, and Dan Uggla's broken-bat single in the eighth inning gave the Braves a wild 10-8 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers in Atlanta's home opener. A three-run homer by McCann highlighted a six-run fifth that put the Braves up 8-3. Milwaukee rallied, tying it on Corey Hart's homer in the eighth.

a force out, scoring the run. The Leopards took a 2-1 lead in the third on one-out singles by Bre Molly and Tana McDaniel, Molly mov-

Philadelphia jazz lovers seek to repair Coltrane house

Associated Press

— PHILADELPHIA usic enthusiasts in the City of Brotherly Love are looking to rekindle a love supreme for the deteriorating John Coltrane House, a preservation effort that mirrors a broader mission to reclaim and promote Philadelphia's rich jazz heritage.

Cultural officials gathered more than 100 local jazz musicians on Friday for a group photo in front of the rowhouse where Coltrane, a renowned saxophonist, lived from 1952 to 1958. It became a national historic landmark in 1999.

"We are serious about our music here in Philadelphia, and jazz has meant a lot to this city,' Mayor Michael Nutter said.

He and other city officials hope jazz lovers will donate money to save the brick house in the tough Strawberry Mansion neighborhood. Unoccupied for the past several years, the Coltrane home has fallen into severe disrepair homes on either side are boarded up.

The run-down property is an apt symbol of Philadelphia's jazz history, "a legacy that has certainly been too often neglected and not celebrated," said Gary Steuer, the city's chief cultural officer.

Philadelphia claims jazz greats including Coltrane, Billie Holiday, Stan Getz, Dizzy Gillespie, McCoy Tyner and Grover Washington Jr. Last year, musicians and club owners formed the Philadelphia Jazz Coalition to promote the current scene and the city's musical legacy.

Coltrane played with the Miles Davis Quintet for part of the time he lived here on 33rd Street. He later became known for a pioneering jazz style that incorporated Indian and African influences. Seminal recordings include "A Love Supreme," "My Favorite Things" and, with Davis, "Round Midnight."

Coltrane eventually moved to New York but continued to own the Philadelphia house until his death in 1967. It remained in the family, and a cousin lived there until several years ago; she sold it to devoted fan Norman Gadson in 2004.

However, Gadson died before he was able to rehabilitate the property. His family recently created a nonprofit organization to spearhead a revival. Local and national preservation groups are supporting the effort and hope to raise $50,000 for immediate repairs and stabilization. Ideally, future plans for the home will include programming and neighborhood engagement, said Walter Gallas, director of the northeast field office for the National Trust for Historic Preservation.

Gallas, who attended Friday's vent, said historic homes-turned museums often struggle with attendance and finances because they fail to take on interactive. broader roles in the community.

"They have to become more relevant," Gallas said.

Friday's events were part of National Jazz Month. The mayor declared it "Jazz Appreciation Day" in Philadelphia and presented a proclamation to 92-year-old drummer Charlie Rice, who still plays in local clubs. Coltrane was among many notable musicians with whom Rice has performed.

"John Coltrane was one of the nicest human beings you ever wanted to meet," Rice said. "He really (rose) from the bottom on up to the top."

CITRUS COUNTY CHRONICLE

Sailors get rare opportunity to celebrate Mass aboard Virginia-class sub

MICHAEL MELIA Associated Press

— HARTFORD, Conn. s venues for religious services go, the Rev. Thomas Hoar says you could do worse than a submarine.

Hoar, who presided over a Mass aboard the USS Missouri last Sunday, said there was a quiet calm to the sub as it surged through the Atlantic Ocean, and he was touched by the thanks from sailors who crowded into the officers' ward room to pray.

When I started I said, 'Let us remember we're in the presence of God, even though we're 650 feet beneath the surface of the ocean," Hoar said.

It was a first for Hoar and the Navy, which had never before had a Mass performed on a Virginia-class attack submarine. Unlike sailors on the Navy's surface ships, which are large enough to accommodate chaplains during deployments, submariners almost always rely on specially trained members of the crew to provide services as lay leaders.

Hoar, the 60-year-old chaplain to the Roman Catholic community at Naval Submarine Base New London in Groton, was looking for an opportunity to learn more about the work of submariners. He was invited to join the crew of the Grotonbased Missouri, one of the Navy's newest and most advanced submarines, as they took it on a four-day sea transit.

Since American war ships are Catholic priest on board," Roa dry, he was apprehensive about bringing aboard wine for the service. But his small bottle did not set off any alarms.

The service itself was no different from Mass at Hoar's chapel in Groton, with two exceptions: He kept the homily shorter than usual, in a nod to the many duties awaiting the sailors, and there was no collection. He also heard confession, but with space at a premium, he had to do it sitting on the floor of a passageway behind computer equipment.

The Catholic lay leader for the Missouri, Lt. Anthony Roa, did readings for the Mass as roughly 18 people crowded around a table in the ward room. "It meant a lot to me to have a said.

U.S. submarines, which have crews of about 130 people, each have at least two lay leaders one Protestant, one Catholic and some have lay leaders who are Jewish or represent The Church of Jesus Christ of Latterday Saints, according to Navy Cmdr. Steven Moses, the Hawaiibased chaplain for the Navy's Pacific submarine fleet.

When chaplains are made available, Moses said submariners are particularly grateful, perhaps because of their isolation at sea.

"It doesn't matter about the size," says Faith Johnson, a 13-year member. "It's almost like nobody else is in that church, but me."

It takes some help for leaders of the largest megachurches and national ministries to make believers reject the idea that a smaller church is more intimate and personable. A big staff of associate pastors and elders is indispensable.

Catholic churches, barren pews

arly in Father William Byron's research into why millions of Americans are leaving Catholic pews, he heard about one woman's tense encounter with a parish receptionist and he's been sharing the horror story ever since.

The woman wanted to tell a priest about her feelings that she had lost "the Catholic church I grew up with." However, she wasn't sure she wanted to share the details with the woman who answered the parish telephone — who kept pushing for specifics.

1970s it was rated in the top 10 among Florida's commercial attractions, but then Bible says that the devil was fell into disrepair until the city of St. Petersburg took it over in 1999 and fixed it up. Now there are more than 50,000 tropical plants and flowers and all kinds of butterflies and waterfalls. We were there around 1991 or '92 when it was rundown and pretty tacky. Alison cried and we haven't been back.

Every so often when my husband and I go to the beach in the St. Pete area, we'll pass Sunken Gardens and one of us will say, "We've got to go back there one day." So far, we haven't.

But we want to. We want to go back to the garden — the Garden.

Years ago, Crosby, Stills, Nash and Young sang a Joni Mitchell song that talked about getting back to the garden. It was about Woodstock and "joining in a rock on something more intrinsic to our human nature, namely a yearning to return to our intended state.

The end of the song says, "We are stardust, we are golden, we are caught in the devil's bargain, and we've got to get ourselves back to the garden.'

As theology goes, that's half correct.

We are golden. We were created in God's image, the product of his love and longing, to be reflections of him.

When God placed the first humans in his perfect, fertile garden at the headwaters of the Tigris and will cry. Euphrates rivers, breathed life into them and said, "It is very good."

No tacky souvenir shop in Eden. Just beauty and innocence and naked communion with each other and with God.

That's who we once were golden.

Then we got "caught in the devil's bargain," or something like that. The once golden as well, until he rebelled against God and took legions of angels with him. God cursed him and cast him to earth until the day he's bound and thrown into an eternal fire.

He has hated and still hates God and hates what God cherishes, which is us. And in our weakness, we chose to follow the cursed one, which caused us to be evicted from Eden.

The song goes on to say, We've got to get ourselves back to the garden.'

Yes, we've got to get back there — we want to get back there. That's the inner drive that makes us do everything we do, the drive to quiet our inner turmoil and our lack of peace. There's a Gardenvoid we are all trying to fill.

But we cannot get ourselves back there. Instead, it's Jesus who left heaven to 'n' roll band," but it also hit come and bring us to the garden — and to God himself.

The night before he died, Jesus was in another garden, agonizing over what was about to happen to him. But for the "joy set before him," the Bible says, he endured the cross.

That joy was having us and him all together one day in a garden paradise, the river of the water of life running through it, with the tree of life on either side of the river yielding its fruit for all of us to eat (Revelation 22:1-2).

business at St. Joseph's University in Philadelphia.

The Trenton study, he explained, grew out of his contacts with a corporate leader who, as a Catholic layman, thought it would be constructive for priests and bishops to start doing "exit interviews" with former Catholics. Someone. Byron said, needed to ask why Catholics drop out or take their spiritual business elsewhere.

The numbers are hard to avoid. A 2009 survey by the Pew Forum on Religion and Public Life found that one in 10 Ameradults are former Catholics, with four exiting for every one that converts into the church. Meanwhile, weekly Mass attendance has fallen from 75 percent or higher in the 1950s to about 25 percent Researchers know that roughly 70 percent of Catholics who leave simply drift away, while others follow their convictions into liberal mainline Protestantism or into various evangelical flocks. The goal in the Trenton study was to find through advertisements in secular and church media — forvolunteer to answer a detailed "exit interview" survey.

"These folks didn't drift away. They gave us reasons why they left," said researcher Charles youth programs, shallow Chris-Zech of Villanova University's tian education classes, rude re-

Management, which conducted the study.

The result was what Zech and Byron called a non-random 'convenience survey" built on 298 usable surveys collected from Catholics who said they had left their local parishes, the Catholic faith or both. The typical respondent was a 53-yearold woman.

"This is a very critical demographic for the church," said Zech. "If we are losing 53-yearold women, we are at risk of losing their children and their grandchildren. I think that it makes a lot of sense to listen to what they have to say.'

No one was surprised, said Byron, that many of the ex-Catholics — when asked to cite church doctrines that troubled them — complained about issues such as birth control, celibacy for priests, "conservative haranguing" about homosexuality and the ban on female priests. Several respondents said they had separated themselves from "the hierarchy," but not the church.

complaints Some harder to label, said Byron. Many complained that the church had hidden clergy who were guilty of sexually abusing young children and teenagers. Some wanted to see local bishops make public apologies. Othmer Catholics who would ers said they wished they had a chance to personally tell their bishop to "go to hell."

Others simply complained about lousy music, inadequate

Center for the Study of Church ceptionists and frequent pulpit appeals for money. Some respondents said they wanted to find churches with better preaching and more enthusiastic worship services.

The researchers were surprised that just as many participants praised their priests as complained about them. Nevertheless, any bishop would flinch when reading the words of an ex-Catholic who was convinced that the local priest had 'crowned himself king and looks down on all."

Another simply requested that the diocese "give us an outwardly loving, kind, Christian Catholic pastor."

The research team hopes, in the near future, to be invited to do similar "exit interview" work in other dioceses. Two bishops have already submitted requests.

It will be tempting for priests and bishops to glance at these results and simply say, "There's nothing new here," said Byron.

"There is a lot that's new here and there's a lot that should be paid attention to. You can't let what is an internal denial crop up and say, 'We've already heard it.' You've got to listen. You've got to re-

Fight cancer, win island getaway

Effort supports Lecanto Relay

Special to the Chronicle

Cancer never sleeps and raising money to find a cure for the killer disease never should either; however, everyone needs some time to rest and relax in their own paradise.

very well find themselves enjoying a week's vacation in paradise.

Nature Coast Charities, a fundraising team for the Lecanto Relay For Life, along with cooperation from Paradise Found Island, will offer chances on a seven-night, island in Crystal River.

The value of the weeklong vacation for four adults is valued at about $2,750. Nature Coast Charities will be selling tickets through May 1 for $10

There will only be 500 tickets sold, leaving the odds of winning rather good. The winning ticket will be drawn at the 2012 Lecanto Relay For This May, someone could eight-day stay at the private Life event at Lecanto High School on May 4 (winner need not be present to win). Proceeds from the drawing will benefit the American Cancer Society.

Tickets can be purchased from the Paradise Found Island booth at Howard's Flea Market every Saturday and Sunday in April, or tickets can be purchased online at the Lecanto Relay website, www.lecantorelay.org.

Barbershopper of 69 years

At a recent dinner, longtime member Artie Lemieux of the Highlands in Inverness renewed his membership in the local Citrus County chapter of the Barbershop Harmony Society "Chorus of the Highlands." Lemieux was surprised by chapter president Bob Spence, when he was presented with a handmade clock with the dates of the Citrus County chapter engraved on the clock. This is Lemieux's 69th year as a barbershopper. He has sung in many quartets through the years and is originally from New England. Lemieux is one of the founding members of the local chapter. He encourages men who like to sing and have fun to visit with the group at 6:30 p.m. Tuesdays at the First United Methodist Church on Pleasant Grove Road. For more information, call 352-382-0336.

Seeing life lesson in happy babies

just had breakfast. The weather was to go hand in hand with the lifestyle perfect if you were into a dry, sunny and the parents' ability to take care of morning. (The farmer side of me was agonizing for rain.) We have all seen what I have seen. But what keeps changing is what I think when I see it. Yes, I know. We all want to pick him up and hold him for a while to see if we get a little joy from someone so young and precious. Pinching the cheeks is a bonus. The grandparents all smile, thinking of their own grandchildren. As usual, I think of homeless children. We have not been able to help a was looking at a baby on Easter more but not be able to. Homeless services just ended and we had they need to go the clinic. It just seems the child. In children less than a year old, if they are not sick, they're fine. Happy. The babies are similar. They are happy to be alive and want to taste, touch and see everything they can.

Deep emotions come out of all of us. We want to protect, nourish and guide the child and it does not matter where the child came from or how it got here. I have been asked a couple of times, why would a loving God allow the suffering he does in this world? I know a lot of reasons but I lot of homeless children this past year. also think that people cause suffering, It grieves my heart to want to help too.

DuWayne Sipper

THE PATH

HOME

Do we know the real reason for morning. He was happy. Sunrise children usually come to us sick or Easter? Jesus was hoping we would get it, so that suffering might be less in this life. He also offers another life after this one. These are big promises but in my life, he made them true.

So, I looked again at this baby. He was a happy baby. I think about God, with souls waiting to be born and not been given the chance to be a happy baby. Some will be homeless and all will eventually suffer. Just for a brief moment I wondered if this trial of life and all of its tribulations would be easier if we knew that there is a better life after this one, and we have to wait until every soul is born to get their chance at being a happy baby?

DuWayne Sipper is the executive director of The Path of Citrus County, a faith-based homeless shelter. Contact him at 527-6500 or sipperd@bellsouth.net.

We have been studying tempo on defense. Usually the defenders should fandango, dancing quickly to gain the tricks needed to defeat the contract. But if the opponents have stretched to their contract or the dummy is relatively balanced, then the defenders should fox-trot, moving slowly and awaiting their winners.

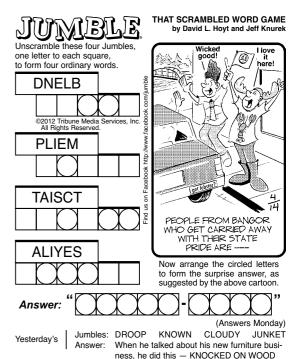

Which applies in this deal? How should the defense proceed against four spades after West leads the heart king?

It has been said that a four-heart pre-empt is a transfer to four spades for the other side. Here, South does not know who can make what, so he bids four spades as a three-way shot: Maybe he will make his contract; perhaps West would have brought home four hearts; possibly the opponents will misjudge, going to five hearts and failing when four spades is also going down.

Seeing two losing hearts in the dummy, East should not thoughtlessly encourage with his heart seven. South will happily ruff West's heart continuation, draw trumps, and run the diamond nine. Yes, the finesse loses, but declarer wins 11 tricks: six spades, four diamonds and one club.

Knowing West has six hearts for his opening bid, East should realize that there is only one heart trick for the defense. And that diamond suit in the dummy is threatening. Rather than signaling with his heart two and hoping partner will shift to a club at trick two, East should overtake with the heart ace and lead the club queen himself. That results in one down instead of one over.

When you can see the best defense, try to take charge.

my doctor prescribed an antidepressant, it was like someone flipped a switch. Chicago: As woman in her eighth year of hot flashes and night sweats, I have learned some coping skills. Many women cannot take hormone replacement. I have yoga, breathing techniques and mindful meditation. I suggest the wife find a room she can call her own and keep it at a temperature that is comfortable for her. This time is a natural progression in women's lives and should be embraced. I hope her journey is a short one.

California: Thirty years ago, due to surgery, I had hot flashes. An acquaintance told me her obgyn recommended vitamin E. It worked! It took six weeks to kick in, but, oh, the relief!

Georgia: I urge you to exercise extreme caution in recommending natural remedies for hot flashes. These treatments are unregulated and can contain a variety of harmful substances, and they don't have to have any of these on their labels. People should be very careful. For further information, contact the Centers for Disease Control toxicology division in Atlanta.

Upstate New York: What an inconsiderate husband. It's his house, not "my" house. California: I have had brief hot flashes since 2008. They only seem to last forever. I have a hand fan by my bed and recliner, and I carry a folding one in my purse. In the winter, I step outside for a few minutes. I take care found some relief in of myself without inconveniencing anyone else, but I will be glad when they are over.

> Florida: I've been in that gentleman's shoes for a number of years and had the same complaint. Six months ago, however, I suffered male hot flashes as a result of a hormone imbalance. Having been on the other side, I can tell him that it is a very unpleasant experience and one over which you have no control.
