County nixes bid to secede

Board: Neighborhood can't change districts

By Darrell Clem staff writer

County school officials Wednesday denied a Canton Township neighborhood's attempt to pull out of the Wayne-Westland school district - a decision some residents indicated will be appealed to the Michigan Board of Education.

The decision angered residents of Greenbrook Village subdivision near Palmer Road and Canton Center - who had launched a petition drive in hopes of convincing county school officials to let them switch to the Plymouth Canton school district. In a landmark move, local school millage supporters and foes joined forces Tuesday in a cordial attempt to find ways to improve the embattled Wayne-Westland school district. Both sides appeared optimistic as Westland Mayor Robert Thomas called the first meeting of a blue ribbon panel he organized to study district problems and make recommendations to the board. "If this group of people can't come up with the answers, I'm not sure that anybody can," Thomas told the 18 committee members who gathered in his office for a 21/2-hour session.

The conciliatory tone among the staunchest critics and proponents of a school tax increase marked a dramatic departure from the fierce clashes that have dominated recent public meetings.

Though some disagreements emerged early in Tuesday's session.

group, and the anti-millage Wayne-Westland Citizens for Education Committee.

However, some panel members voiced strong concerns Tuesday that the membership - dominated by Westland residents - should include more representation from the three other communities - Wayne, Inkster and Canton Township - that the school district serves.

"THERE ARE an awful lot of people in the school district right now who feel left out," said panel member Tom Kelly, a Wayne City Council member appointed Monday as the panel's chairman. Under the panel's advice, Thomas agreed to send written invitations to his counterparts in the three other communities, asking them to join the committee or appoint a representative.

Inkster and Canton Township. "We're really disappointed with the decision," said Greenbrook spokesman Victor McGuire.

In rejecting the request, the county's Regional Educational Service Agency Board of Education cited the detrimental impact the attempted secession would have on the financially strapped Wayne-Westland district, which would lose $500,000 a year in state aid.

Moreover, county officials cited severe overcrowding in the Plymouth Canton district and said that Greenbrook residents had failed to prove that the secession would provide their children with a better education.

Wayne-Westland Superintendent Dennis O'Neill, who accused the residents of trying to bail out of the district amid repeated millage defeats that threaten school programs, hailed the county board's unanimous decision.

In a statement at Wednesday's meeting, O'Neill called on the residents to join efforts to pass a renewed 7.75-mill-tax hike in the June 10 school election instead of seeking a "Band-Aid approach of shopping

Westland fire investigators remain baffled by a blaze, blamed on arson, that destroyed one classroom and damaged six others at Adams Junior High School on Palmer, between Wildwood and Venoy.

"We have no suspects at this time," Westland battalion chief Kenneth Sharp said. "Any leads we've had, we've gone through."

However, fire officials remain hopeful that new leads will surface and help them solve the case.

Meanwhile, classroom repairs still are under way, and classes formerly held in the area damaged by fire have been moved to other areas of the school. The damaged area has been blocked off to prevent students from entering and possibly being injured, school officials sâld.

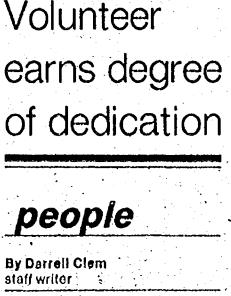

School officials hope the building repairs will be completed in the next few weeks, allowing the school to return to normal operations.

Elementary students to learn about AIDS

By Marie Chestney staff writer

Starting this fall, Westland-elementary students in the Livenia school district will learn about such communicable diseases as AIDS, or acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

The launching of the new health and physical education program, mandated by a Michigan law passed in 1990, means that students at all three levels in the district will learn about the deadly disease.

Livonia school officials, whose district serves the northern section of Westland, spent the last school year putting together their own program; the district will, not be using, the statewide program known as the Michigan Model....

TO ACQUAINT elementary parents with the program, the district will hold an informational meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday, May 6, in the Livonia Civic Center Library, on Five Mile east of Farmington Road.

One of the teaching aids the district plans to use, a video of AIDS vletim Ryan White, will be shown during the meeting.

Ryan White, a teenager, fought a long battle against AIDS - and To acquaint elementary parents with the program, the district will hold an informational meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday, May 6, in the Livonia Civic Center Library.

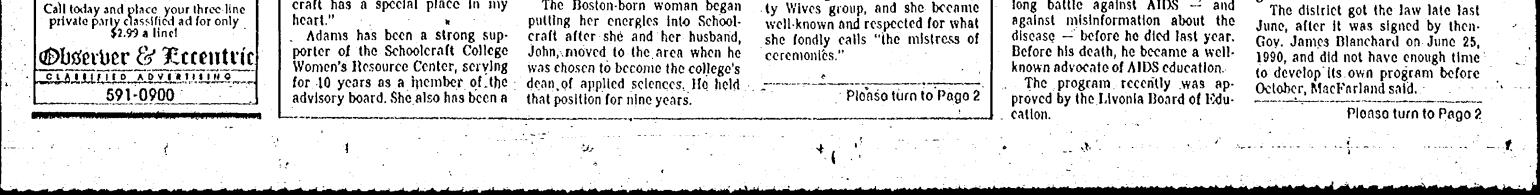

"I was concerned that it be ageappropriate and it seems to be," said school board trustee J. Richard Thorderson.

Information on communicable diseases will not be given to all elementary grades but will be given over a two- or three-day period to first, third, fourth and sixth graders.

"We don't need to do something at every grade level," said William MacFarland, district curriculum department director. "We chose to spread it around the grades."

By the time school starts in the fall, the district will be about one year late in meeting the deadline (Oct. 1, 1990) imposed by the state to start AIDS education for elementary move that drew opposition from other members, including Westland City Councilman Thomas Artley.

"I don't believe that this committee should be at the direction of the Wayne-Westland school board or administration," Artley said. Others agreed, saying such a move could damage the panel's credibility.

Some panel members stressed that several school officials already serve on the committee, and Superintendent Dennis O'Neill has been asked to attend the meetings.

Artley said he believed the blue ribbon panel emerged, in part, because of pressure that pro-millage forces placed on Mayor Thomas, ways to protect-school-programs-who came under severe criticism after he publicly opposed the 7.75-mill, five-year tax increase that failed in a special March 13 election. Thomas had voiced support for a smaller tax increase that would have amounted to a millage renewal.

Though some tax supporters blamed Thomas for the millage defeat, Artley said, "I think that's totally hogwash,"

ON TUESDAY, the panel steered clear of trying to reach a consensus on whether it should support or oppose another 7.75-mill tax increase, - this one for two years - proposed in the June 10 school election. Still, some members wanted to study that, if cut, could have long-lasting effects such as the loss of high school accreditation.

"I think we need to see what kind of effect we can have on September 1991," the start-up of fall classes, said panel member Margaret Harlow, co-chair of the pro-millago SOS group.

Though several panel members pointed fingers at the state and federal governments for failing to adequately pay for education, others noted that dramatic change for now must come at the local level.

"The reality is that there is no money in the state government-andfederal government," said panel member Bill Brown, the union representative for school district support staff workers. Mayor Thomas stressed the linportance of seeking local solutions because of the state, level paralysis that appears to repeatedly stall edu-- cation improvements.

In coming meetings, the mayor's panel plans to issue, a mission statement and divide members among several subcommittees to study specific Issues. Harlow already has agreed to head the public relations subcommittee, and David Moranty, chairman of Wayne-Westland Citizens for Education Committee, has indicated he wants to sit on the Panel member Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek, also a school board member, said the panel must try to address questions the public has about the school district.

"They want to know where their money is. They don't trust the school board. They don't trust the school administration," she said.

THE PANEL plans to meet again Wednesday, May 8. As Tuesday's meeting broke up, Mayor Thomas appeared pleased.

"From what has transpired here tonight," he said, "I think we have the right group of people."

Other than those mentioned, the panel also includes Fred Hagelthorn, a pro-millage-advocate; Elwood "Woody" London, school district finance manager, Norman Stockmeyer, former school board mem-ber; Laurel Raisanen, WWCE member; Tim McCurley, city budget director; Diane Klinebriel, city controller, Sharon Scott and Leonard Poscy, school board members; Charles Pickering, Westland City Council member; Randy Llepa, school district finance assistant; and Bill Mills, member of another citizens' committee studying district > finances.

John Hoben, Plymouth Canton superintendent, told county officials that schools in his district "do not have one empty classroom" and that new construction appears two to three years away. Schools closest to the Greenbrook neighborhood are that the subdivision wants to desert the Wayne-Westland district and said "we're not just trying to jump from a sinking ship."

"We live in Canton, and we feel isolated within our own community," he sald.

Greenbrook children have had difficulties developing friendships in the Wayne-Westland district, McGuire said, "because you can't jump on your bike and ride 20 miles to see your friends."

However, not all of Greenbrook's residents favored the attempted secession.

Resident Cherilynn Frost, who said she has been given a cool reception by neighbors for her views, said she decided to live in Greenbrook because "I wanted Wayne-Westland" schools. Frost said the district has smaller class sizes than many districts.

Greenbrook resident Alicia Embury, a junior at Wayne-Westland's John Glenn High School, commended her school's teachers and curriculum and said, "I really believe that Wayne-Westland has as much to offer as any other district - if not more."

Gallbladder removal is one of the most commonly performed surgical procedures in the United States, Spinale said.

.Until the new procedure became available, patients spent about seven days in the hospital and an additional four to six weeks at home during the recovery period. Now a new technique called laparascopy makes it possible for most patients to go

"THEY (PATIENTS) have nowhere near the same amount of pain," Spinale said of the new surgical technique.

School case goes to high court

By Tim Richard staff writer.

The Michigan Supreme Court has agreed to hear the appeal of out-of-formula school districts suing for state aid for "categoricals" and Social Security.

"The case will be argued before the court sometime in the fall," said Tom Farrell, the high court's public information officer. A ruling is likely sometime in 1992.

The 51 plaintiff districts get no general state aid because of theirhigh property tax bases. But their attorney, Dennis Pollard of Birmingham, argues they are entitled to at least $72 million, along with an order barring the state from further violating the 1978 Headlee amendment to the state constitution.

THE CASE is Schmidt-v. Department of Education et al., Gerald Schmidt being a trustee in-Warren Woods school district.

Plaintiff school districts from the Observer & Eccentric area are Avondale, Birmingham, Farmington, Livonia, Plymouth-Canton, Rochester, South Redford, Southfield, Troy and West Bloomfield.

• Social Security for employees. In 1956 the state agreed to pay the employers' share of federal Social Security taxes for school districts. But the Legislature, in the 1990 school aid act, cut them out.

The 1990 budget act deducted the funds and called them "recaptured revenues."

spend: They say efforts to raise state taxes to aid poorer district have failed consistently. So the only alternative, they say, is to have richer (out-of-formula) districts help poorer ones.

One method is to eliminate categoricals and put that money into the general state aid fund, as they did in 1990. The move would make more districts eligible for general state aid but still leave many at the top with nothing.

'A second method is called "tax base sharing." Richer districts generally have growing commercial and industrial tax bases. Under their plan, the state would take half the growth and spread itacross the state on a per-pupil ba-

Out-of-formula districts dismiss the plans as a "Robin Hood" approach. They argue the state should "raise the floor" for poor districts without "lowering the 'celling'' on them.

SC lobbyist pact causes concerns

By Wayne Peal stall writer

Thursday, May 2, 1991 O&E

Schoolcraft College trustees approved extending a $1,500-permonth contract with an area lobbying firm, despite concerns the contract represented a conflict of interest.

Trustees approved a contract retaining Government Affairs Counnsulting Group, Inc. as the college lobbyist though Robert Law, a main partner in the company, is also a partner in the college law firm, Law, Hemming, Essad and Polaczyk.

The dual role threw up a red flag for trustee Michael Burley.

"I SEE it as a conflict of interest," Burley said. "If we have a problem, Mr. Law isn't going to serve papers Burley and Greenleaf voted against on Mr. Law."_____ Law, who was not present at

Wednesday's board meeting, said he believed no conflict existed. "Many law firms are involved in lobbying," he said. "It's not that unusual a situation."

Attorney Judd Hemming, a partner in the Plymouth law firm, is Schoolcraft's legal representative, Law saids Another attorney, Robert Smith of Lansing, is involved in lobbying, Law said.

. "Actually, they're two separate entities," he said.

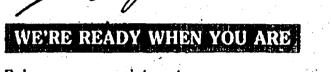

Trustee Harry Greenleaf said head was concerned the college lobbyist - formerly hired as needed - was becoming permanent.

"This started out as an ad hoc position," Greenleaf said. "Basically, what we're doing now is creating a retainer. Even our law firm isn't on a retainer."

Advocates rally to restore arts funding

By Corinno Abatt staff writer

Instead of sounding the battle cry. yesterday's Art Atlack on the lawn of the state Capitol came off more like a well-staged, multimedia pep 'rally for the arts.

Almost all corners of Michigan were represented in the crowd of some 500 who gathered on a cold, rainy morning to be informed, entertained and later speak with legistators

' In the first Art Attack last year, the goal was to affirm the importance of the arts to Michigan and insure continued state support. This year's mission, was far more dire.

Gov. John Engler's proposal to eliminate arts funding from the state budget and in essence do away with Michigan Council for the Arts. by putting it under the Department of Commerce created havoc among the hundreds of institutions and individuals receiving or expecting to receive state support.

Seeking to forestall a bitter controversy, Leon Cohan, MCA chairman, issued a statement just before the Art Attack asking for a meeting with the governor, legislative leaders and representatives of the arts community "to find a fair and balanced solution."

HIS ANNOUNCEMENT at Art Aftack that the governor had accepted his proposal and a meeting would be set up brought rounds of applause and cheers. Cohan called the loss of funding for art education "enriching the lives of all who attend our schools" one of the worst aspects of the present crisis. The Art Attack was sponsored by Michigan Advocates for the Arts.

Musician, composer and pops conductor, Mitch Miller, acting as arts spokesman and master of ceremonies, told the gathering, "Michigan has a positive and inviting reputation due to the quality, vitality and accessibility of its arts. Today, Michigan's reputation is in jeopardy."

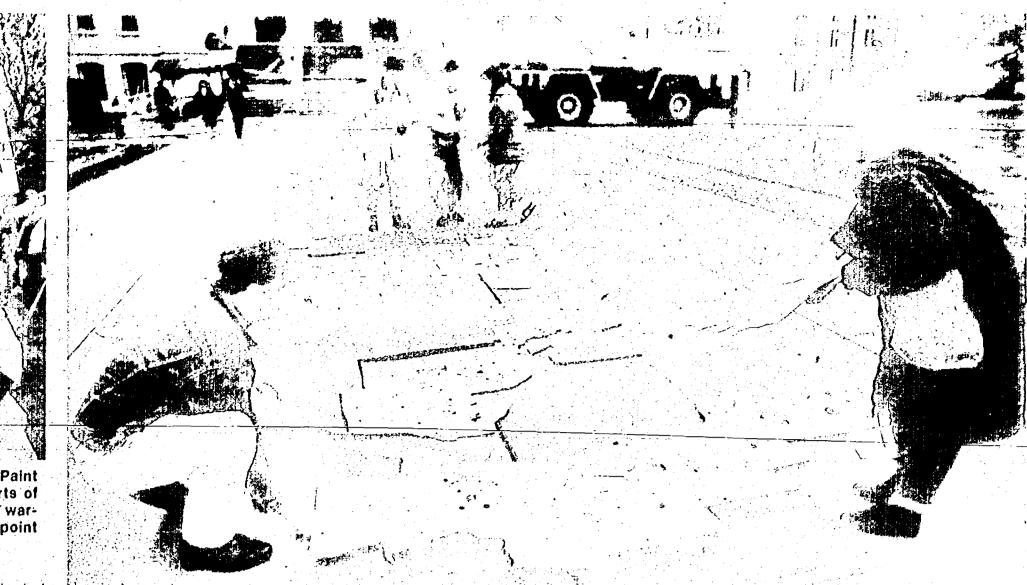

Winkie Covintree from Paint Creek Center for the Arts of Rochester borrowed a wartime slogan to make a point about the arts.

pect a lot of talented people to start saying no to Michigan." Then he put other groups such as developers and tourists in the "say no" category.

Miller, known as a consummate showman, told a cheering audience said the proposed budget cuts "tell us we haven't done a good job as arts educators" otherwise the significance, value and importance of the arts would be common knowledge.

"This is not an impossible task," he said. "Don't lose heart. Don't abandon the fight. . . don't forget a state without arts is a state without a soul."

BUNNY GOLDMAN, tenuously holding on as executive director of Using a parody of the "Say Yes to MCA, said she was there as a private Michigan" slogan, Miller said, "Ex- citizen with her mother Belle Kukes

Faxon rebuffed Bid to save existing arts council fails

By Tim Richard staff writer.

As state arts subsidy supporters prepared to raily on the Capitol steps, the state Senate Wednesday rejected Sen. Jack Faxon's effort to re-establish the Michigan Council for the Arts (MCA) as a semiautonomous agency.

The Senate voted 15 in favor and 20 against the effort by Faxon, D-Farmington Hills.

Faxon wanted the Senate Govcomment Operations Committee toallow h full Senate vole on his resolution that would overturn Gov. John Engler's Executive Order putting the MCA under the Department of Commerce.

An executive order stands unless overturned by the Legislature.

"Don't look at it as embarrassing the governor," Faxon told the Senate: "Look at it objectively. The governor's order has had a devastating effect on the cultural life of this state.

SEN. HARRY Gast, R-St. Joseph, who chairs the appropriations committee, asked Faxon, "Do you want paper cuts in home health care, foster care, mental-health and ADC? If you do, damn it, get up and say so and stop all these in-

PTAs back sales tax exemption bill

By Marie Chostney staff writer

Once again, Parent-Teacher-Assoclations around the state are hoping the Michigan Legislature will pass a bill exempting them from paying the 4 percent sales tax on items they sell at school fund-raisers.

Last year, the state's some 600 PTA chapters got a bombshell dropped on them when they were told they had to pay the tax, something they had never done before.

Since_then, all PTAs have been collecting and paying the tax.

And since then, they have campaigned to convince the state's lawmakers to pass legislation exempting their non-profit group from paying the state sales tax.

TWO BILLS with that goal in mind died in the Legislature last year. Another attempt has been made this year, this time by Rep. Terry London, R-St. Clair County.

London recently introduced a bill in the House that would exempt all non-profit groups from paying the sales tax on items they sell. House Bill 4551 is now in the House taxation committee.

Marc Katz, who serves on the. Michigan PTA's legislative committee, is happy the issue has been raised again.

But Katz also is fearful that the bill will not pass this year because, by including all non-profit groups, state.

"ONCE YOU start including every non-profit group, it would cost the state a lot of money," Katz said. "The state right now is in arrears of -one of the few groups in the state around $1 billion. These groups that decided to fight it.

would no longer be-charged the tax. The timing is not good. It would be nice if it only applied to the PTA."

London's bill would exempt all -non-profit groups, including religious, fraternal, charitable and benevolent organizations, from paying sales tax on items sold to raise money for the group.

For individual groups, the amount of money involved might be small. For Katz's own PTA in Berkley, the amount is between $200 and $300 a year.

But collectively, if sales from all the groups are added together, the amount would be significant.

State treasury officials have estimated the exemption would cost the state $100 million.

Carol Strom of Livonia, vice president for legislative affairs for the Michigan PTA, called the collecting of the sales tax "a thorn in our sides."

"This should not be applicable to us but we're still collecting it."

LAST YEAR, PTA officials at their state convention learned from agents of the state Treasury Department that the state would start collecting the tax.

Treasury officials had discovered that they were not enforcing an obscure section of an act passed in 1933. The act said that non-profit organizations should pay a sales tax on items bought or sold.

Treasury officials told PTA offithe exemption would be costly to the reals last year they intended to start enforcing the law.

'Special ed' label concerns parents

By Casey Hans

staff writer

Some area parents are concerned that their children with Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorden could be labeled as "special ed" unnecessarily.

Sandi Swerdlen, an Oakland County parent, is concerned about a recent federal ruling that requires the district to give special attention to ADHD, sometimes called Attention Deficit Disorder.

"It really bothers me that my child might be labeled. I think ADD needs to be more recognized but not as special ed. Now we're not only going to put our kids on Ritalin but we're going to label them, too."

JAN RICHARDS, special educa-

district, said she has had a number of calls from parents who have concerns similar to Swerdlen's.

Parents involved with the advocacy support group, Children with Attention Deficit Disorders or CHADD, say they aren't concerned about labeling as much as they are about getting their children help.

The disorder is believed to be neurological in nature and does not allow a child to properly filter or sort information.

The disorder was known for years as "hyperactivity" or "hyperkinesis" even though some of the children diagnosed show no hyperactive behavior.

The U.S. Department of Education's Office for Civil Rights recently ruled in the case of another and Sue Leon, that the public school district discriminated. against their son and other students with ADHD.

The district will now begin procedures for evaluating and placing students with the disorder in the special education program.

CHADD members, say "hundreds" of such complaints are being reviewed across the country and 40-50 districts have faced similar rulings.

BUT RICHARDS said because of the wide variations in ADD and ADHD students, some will be identified for special education services, while others will not Swerdlen said she is pleased with her child's education and treatment by the school's social worker and staff. ,

"To me, the school has been absolutely wonderful," Swerdlen said. "He's done fabulously."

Swerdlen said she took her child out of a private school because they would not help her. She said the social worker who works closely with her child, and that the principal helped ensure her child was placed in an appropriate classroom setting.

Swerdlen said she felt the Leons had gone too far in their efforts to get their son help. "To me, it sounds like they're giving the schools a lot of hassle instead of working with them."

Area chorus to present spring concert

"Meet Me in the Park" is the title of this year's musical variety show presented by the Livonia Civic Chorus Friday-Saturday, May 10-11.

The spring concert will feature the local debut of Keyin J. Blysma as director. A master's student at the University of Michigan, Blysma is a faculty member at Adrian College, pianist for the Adrian Symphony and an organ recitalist.

The concert will begin at 8 p.m. both days in the Louis E. Schmidt Auditorium of Clarenceville High, 20155 Middlebelt north of Seven Mile in Livonia. Admission is $5 for adults, $3 for students and senior citizens.

ALL OF THE songs performed elther were written during the early 1900s or appeared in plays or movies that depict the early 1900s. The chorus will be singing several songs from "Carousel," "The Music Man" and "Oklahoma."

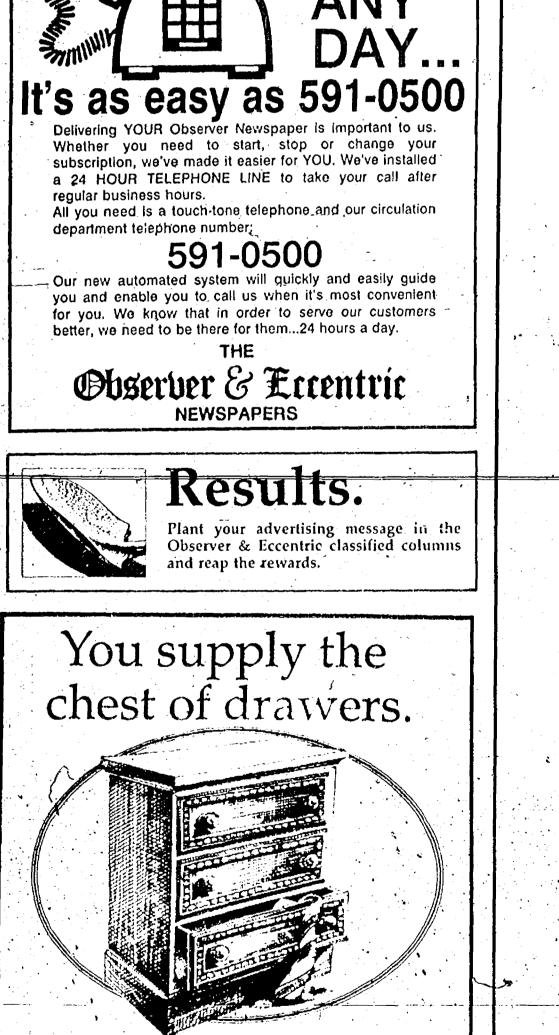

The show is full of other fun and lively songs, such as "Goodbye, My Coney Island Baby," "The Trolley Song" and "Sunny Side of the Street."

"The Livonia Civic Chorus does not simply sing songs," Blysma said, "but we expand our theme to present what we like to refer to as a musical variety spectacular.

"Our stage will be beautifully set to transport our audience to an oldfashioned town park setting. The chorus will be outfitted in costumes from the early 1900s."

Riegle: Don't settle for mediocrity

By Maria Chestney staff writer

- America is in serious economic trouble, trouble that is compounded by this country's high number of school dropouts and by its slide into mediocrity.

That was the message in U.S. Sen. Donald Riegle's Law Day talk Monday to students at Franklin-High School, which serves the northeast section of Westland.

Riegle, D-Michigan, stressed the difference today's students can make once they graduate and step out into the increasingly tumultuous working world.

"See how high you can get in areas that matter to you," Riegle said.

"You can be exceptional, even though that's not the norm in our society. America is leveling out. Don't level out. Each of us has a song to sing. Each of you has room to be everything that God intended you to be."

RIEGLE POINTED to two countries — Japan and Germny + that have forged ahead of the United States economically while we are content to be mediocre.

""We haven't been paying attention to our economic future like they have. Today, in America, 26 percent of our young people don't graduate from high school. In Japan, that figure is 2 percent."

What happens, Riegle said, is that those who graduate wind up subsidizing the 26 percent who don't.

"How lopsided can we get? You wind up producing extra for people not prepared to produce. That 26percent dropout rate means real damage to our future. We need to reverse this, so you won't have to carry the load for others who aren't in the game."

RIEGLE IS the latest in a long line of distinguished political and judicial figures to visit Franklin during the school's annual Law Day observance.

Previous visitors have included U.S. Sen. Carl Levin, D-Michigan, former Gov. and Supreme Court Justice G. Mennen Williams, Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano and Michigan Attorney General Frank Kelley.

In his talk, Riegle's topics ranged from the controversial free trade talks with Mexico to the lack of women in the U.S. Senate to whether lawyers or business people make the best politicians.

ONE STUDENT briefly questioned Riegle about his involvement in the Keating Five scandal. The student wanted to know if the scandal will hurt the senator's chances for re-election in 1994.

"That's a judgment people across Michigan will have to make," Riegle said. "You'll all be voters next time I run, It will be interesting to see what you decide."

AMERICA'S ECONOMY - and the jobs in it - will suffer greatly if. a free trade agreement is reached

ART EMANUELE/staff photographer

Franklin student Tony Faclone asked Riegle a question about the free trade agreement with Mexico.

between the United States and Mexico, Riegle said.

As a senator from Michigan, a' heavy union state, Riegle's stand on free trade is in step with the stand. taken by the country's labor unions, he said.

Unions believe manufacturers will desert in droves such high-paying slates_as, Michigan-for a' country where workers are paid 57 cents per hour.

"I don't want jobs to disappear and re-appear down there. If this passes, a tremendous number of jobs in the U.S. will roll into Mexico.

"You will have to find jobs and right now, there's not enough jobs to go around in America. We need more jobs, not fewer."

HOWEVER, CORPORATE America, and especially the banking industry, thinks free trade is a great idea. Riegle said. Not only would corporate America be able to cut its labor costs, but the banking industry would be able to recoup loans made to Mexico that have gone unpaid.

"Banks loaned money to foreign countries and they were not sound loans. They can't be paid back, and a way to get it back is to have a huge capital program going on in Mexico.

"The bankers see a way to get repaid. Me. I see a flashing green light for the workers in Mexico.'

WHEN HE sits in the Senate building in Washington, Riegle sees a huge imbalance in the number of men and women sitting around him. he said.

While women make up more than one-half the population of the United States, there are only two female senators to the 98 male senators, Riegle said.

"Why this fundamental imbalance? The bottom line is, if you're a young woman sitting here today interested in politics, you should pursue those interests. Get involved in campaigns, issues. It will take a change in thinking to do that."

ANOTHER STUDENT wanted to know the best route to take to get into politics — law or business.

Neither, said Riegle, who was an economics major in college. In this increasingly complex world, it pays to know a lot about a lot of things and be able to shift easily from subject to subject.

"There are two many lawyers in Congress and not enough people who know other things. I have to be prepared to talk about any subject, any time I get in front of a mike. You can't tap dance, or you're in the wrong line of work."

In any event, he said, most of the best lawyers are not in Congress but work as highly paid lobbyists for special-interest groups.

"They're doing things like getting involved in the free trade area.

"The best preparation is to know a vast spectrum of subjects, load up on as much knowledge as you can. Pursue your own interests. You'll find a way to blend into politics."

Congress, Riegle said, needs engineers, farmers and manufacturers just as much as it needs lawyers and business people.

Education grads face Coloration helps leadership challenge

In a year of history making, Madonna University will, in May graduate the first class of master's students in specializing in educational leadership. The students, many of whom are veteran teachers, will also be the first Madonna graduates to be certified by the state of Michigan as school administrators.

In its third year of existence, the éducational leadership specialty within the master of science in administration program was designed to focus on leadership as well as administration.

"Our philosophy is that as an educator, you don't have to be an administrator to be a leader," said Roy Montambeau, coordinator of the educational leadership program. It is significant that ourfirst group of students have been very initiatory," says Montambeau. "They have been as much of a challenged to us, as we have attempted to be to them."

This exchange and the combined use of textbooks and other materials has made for a special balance... The university has sought to focus on leadership and responsibility in a practical atmosphere bringing lead the courses.

Originally from Scotland where he served as assistant headmaster of a parochial schools, Moffat, of Novi, chose the Madonna program because it stresses what he belleves is important in his own classroom and those everywhere.

"My feeling is that we need more people to provide leadership skills - for students as well as teachers," said Moffat.

As part of his graduation internship, Molfatt, has initiated a student tutoring program and has worked at involving parents more In the education of their children.

"It's been slowly gaining momentum," says Moffat. 'I think people have a desire to do well. I am trying to set an example, that respect and understanding and success is a reciprocal process."

ward off predators

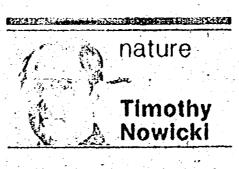

In the natural world, everything at one time or another is food for something else. Sinall animals like mice are food for animals larger than they are. But even large predators can be preyed upon by larger predators.

So animals and plants have developed ways to defend themselves. In some cases it is a bad odor, others depend on their speed, while some even intentionally loose an expandable part of their body, such as the tail of a lizard or salamander.

- Coloration has developed in animals to serve as another way to protect them from predators. Camouflage, or blending in with the surroundings, is a very effective method of defense.

SOMETIMES that protective coloration may not be as obvious as it is with some animals. Many mammals that inhabit open plains areas have a similiar pattern of coloration. They are dark above and light below.

The reason for this is that the bright sunlight from above brightens, or lightens the dark upper area while the shadow cast from the animal darkens the lower, light area. These two factors tend to diminish lower areas and allows the animal to blend in.

In Africa, the impala demonstrates this coloration very well. But even in the Detroit area, the common red-tailed hawk demonstrates protective coloration in a similar way. When a red-tailed hawk is searing overhead searching for food, the light underparts are in shadow.

This darkening makes it difficult for an animal on the ground to see it. Its light underparts blend in nicely with the light-colored sky.

A backswimmer is a small insect that swims through the water on its back using elongated, oar like legs, demonstrates this principle very well. Since backswimmers swim with their bellies facing upward they are dark on the belly and light ontheir back.

TIM NOWICKI/Riustration

man from below, its light back is hard to see against the light sky above. In contrast, if a predator comes from above, its dark coloration on its belly blends in with thedarkness of a pond bottom as seen from above.

Many ponds and lakes in the area have water-boatman in them, but you may have to use a net to catch them. Then put them in a pan for observation. A couple years ago 10 found them in the pond at Heritage Park in Farmington Hills.

Tim Nowicki is a naturalist at Independence Oaks County Park in Oakland County. He lives in Livonia.

Reverse rules

U.S., state officials hypocrites

HE U.S. Congress and the Michigan Leg-HE U.S. Congress and the michigan Legsmaller governmental units do what the federal and state officials refuse to do.

199 Some would call it hypocrisy. Others would describe it as sheer gall.

14A(W)

ba. The most recent example is the state Legislature and Gov. John Engler agreeing that property assessments would be frozen next year at this year's levels, meaning that if millage rates remain the same, property taxes would remain the same.

Most homeowners would see that as a positive move after watching their assessments soar 7 to 10 percent a year for the past few years.

The same Legislature last year adopted Public Act 25 which deals with telling local school districts what they should do - such as having-a school improvement plan for each building in the district, among other things.

LET'S LOOK at the assessment freeze first. The state is telling local units of government, mainly cities and school districts, that they should keep their spending levels next year at this year's levels. That sounds fine on the surface, but it leaves the solution in the hands of local city and school officials.

If the state wants the locals to control spending, why can't the state government do the same.

If a person changes jobs or gets a promotion and higher salary, he/she would pay more in state income taxes. But the state doesn't reduce the 4.6 percent income tax rate to offset the extra dollars it would otherwise receive.

But that's the principle that Lansing is imposing on city hall and the board of education, not to mention the county government and Schoolcraft College.

THE OTHER part of the hypocrisy is that the state Constitution specifically allowed property assessments to rise to provide cities and school districts with an automatic inflation-based source of new revenue to pay for their public services.

If the state legislators are feeling the public's anger on rising property taxes, then they could easily reduce the provision that allows property to be assessed at 50 percent of market value. That figure was done by the Legislature about 25 years ago and could easily be cut.

On Public Act 25, the state wants local schools to jump through hoops to improve the quality of education. That's fine and most persons would agree.

But what about measuring the quality of the Legislature? There aren't any plans made public on what the annual goals are for the House, Senate and specific state departments.

Congress is also a poor example of trying to resolve problems that it can't solve for itself.

WHAT COMES to mind is the current efforts by the House and Senate to limit cable TV rate increases.

Most people would rather have the federal government resolve its own money problems and adopt a balanced budget. But Congress prefers to divert the public's attention from its own financial failures.

In summary, our elected officials are great at telling someone else what to do, but can't do the same things for themselves.

Maybe there should be a set of laws for the Congress and the Legislature, prohibiting them from directing other governmental units what to do unless the federal and state officials demonstrate they have accomplished the same goals first.

That would be real progress.

Last week. Detroit voters turned down by a substantial margin the project to demolish the auditorim and use the site for a hotel/bank headquarters/other unspecified big building that would bring jobs to the city.

Maybe, just maybe, the voters in Detroit are beginning to get the the city was falling apart took this kind of language pretty hard.

They didn't move to Farmington because they were "hostile;" they moved because Detroit schools had become impossible and because nobody seemed to care about trying to improve them. They didn't buy a house in Rochester because they wanted the city which sustained their families to "dle;" they left because there were no more jobs in the city, because city services could not sustain them and because the pervasive crime made keeping a store open a dangerous occupation. - ---

But that's precisely what Coleman Young's rhetorical history makes it impossible for him to do.

I am convinced that Coleman Young, deep down, wants to ask the suburbs for help. But there's too

A beginning Voters will consider this effort

HE ANNOUNCEMENT by the Detroit Tigers that a new stadium in the city is under consideration, coupled with Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara's proposal to give voters a say in approving the plan, is encouraging.

Mike Duggan, McNamara's point man for the project, deserves praise for his efforts to bring the city and the Tigers together to keep a stadium within the city, whether it will be a new one or not.

Keeping the Tigers in Detroit is important to the county and state, and some say necessary for the city's future. With that in mind, voters will likely support a project on which the county, city and baseball club agree

If that plan includes a modern facility with good concessions, restrooms and parking in a neighborhood families can enjoy year round, then voters will think twice before turning it down.

Giving county voters a chance to approve or reject the plan will go a long way to restore confidence in the process, especially since any new stadium would likely include some public financing.

The need for public financing is expected, despite a vote by the Senate on Tuesday to prohibit any contribution from state coffers for a new stadium. The attitude may have been different about a renovated ball park.

Keeping the Tigers in Detroit is important to the county and state, and some say necessary for the city's future.

BUT THIS is a beginning. The city, county and ball club should follow through and make sure this project is a success by keeping the public informed. That will include:

• Opening the books on the actual-cost of the project, including parking and buying property.

• Letting the public know just how the project will be financed, including whether a surcharge on tickets or concessions will go toward paying off bonds for the stadium.

If the issue is not put to a vote, it will still be necessary to make the project an open book.

• Making sure there is development in the neighborhood surrounding any new stadium.

Adding restaurants and other businesses will make the neighborhood more attractive and not just a destination for baseball games. It will also ensure that fans will be at ease in a viable neighborhood.

Let's hope Detroit Mayor Coleman Young and McNamara can work together on the project, And let's make sure that if we build it, the Tigerswill come.

Denying drink violates rights

AITERS AND waitresses have no right to deny service to a customer, as did the Seattle pair who recently tried to dissuade a pregnant women from drinking an alcoholic beverage.

The wisdom of the woman's action in ordering the drink was questionable. Given a similar circumstance, it probably wouldn't have been our choice: It might not be yours, either.

But the woman in question had every right to demand service.

Denying her the drink violated her elvil rights, plain and simple.

There are health concerns about mixing pregnancy and alcohol. But even obstetricians disagree about the relative danger posed by a single drink.

Obstetricians are experts in the field. Waiters and waitresses are not. The Seattle pair's actions were based on personal conviction, however noble, but not on expertise and certainly not on law.

The wisdom of the woman's action in ordering the drink was questionable. Given a similar circumstance, it probably wouldn't have been our choice. It might not be yours, either.

ployee to deny selling a shotgun because he or she opposed hunting. It would be entirely permissible for a magazine store clerk to deny selling Playboy, Soldier of Fortune or even Christianity Today because he or she disapproved of the magazine's content. It would be entirely permissible for a drug store clerk to deny selling condoms because he or she disapproved of birth control.

This is not the kind of society to promote.

same idea that suburbanites have had for a long time: Coleman A. Young may once have been a great mayor. But that was long ago, and today he's badly out of touch.

- SUBURB BASHING has been a staple in the mayor's political style for many years. The suburbs have been "hostile," "wanted Detroit to ~die" and would have been a good place to "run criminals to."

Some people treated this kind of rhetoric with half-amused tolerance, reasoning that such racial rabble rousing was the price the mayor had to pay for continued support at the polls.

But a lot of people who were born and grew up in Detroit and who moved out to the suburbs because

To the editor

As a great supporter of PTA, I have always been very proud to work with the volunteers of the Wayne-Westland Parent Teacher Association. Over the years, I have watched them work for children and education unselfishly, giving time, energy and money so that children -can experience some of the extras that should be a part of childhood.

In the past, the Area Council of PTAs and the Local PTAs have been truly dedicated to this task. I believe the local PTAs are still working to support, children in that same way. But over the last two years I have seen the Area Council of PTAs move from a non-political position to one of controversy and political campaigning.

PTA Founders Day has always been celebrated in February for over 100 years throughout Michigan and the U.S. And it was the same here in Wayne-Westland until Mrs. (Linda) Pratt, the president of the Area Counch of PTAs, became its president and a candidate for school board.

· Last year, Mrs. Pratt ran for school board and changed the Founders Day banquet to May, at which time her husband got up to announce that she was rynning for office. Peo-ple were shocked that anyone would try to use such an occasion to promote themselves for political office.

In fact, it now appears clear that a major consequence of Mayor Young's rhetoric is to have driven out of Detroit precisely the kind of people who are now most needed to save it: educated, businesslike, community-oriented families, whether white or black.

OBVIOUSLY, that's too bad. It's stupid, too, because one of the elementary rules of politics is not to bite the hand that could feed you.

Many people who moved from Detroit to the suburbs, often in deep and intense ways, still regard Detroit as their city. Many people who treasure memories of the Detroit that used to be would be only too happy to help save the city, if only somebody in authority asked in a sensible and mature way.

much history, too many verbs over the dam, to make the request credible.

That's why the next mayor of Detroit, whoever he or she might be, has got to reach out to the entire region for help, beginning with the election in 1993.

That invitation might even go. down pretty well with the voters in . Detroit. After all, they voted down the mayor's rhetoric last week. And faced with the choice of living in an isolated city that's failing and a regional city that's coming back, they. might well choose economic self interest over racial politics.

To all those people who have purchased tickets to Founders Day, I feel badly that you have been misled by someone who should be thinking of honoring you, the volunteers of this district, but is in truth thinkingabout her campaign strategy and how best to use this event to her benefit.

I think this community and the PTAs should take the time to inform Mrs. Pratt that they will not stand. for her turning Founders Day into a personal campaign party for a school board seat. Last year was enough. I know there are some fine people out there who would love to lead the Area Council of PTAs for the right reasons - children.

B. Schmidt, Westland

Editor's note: Mrs. Pratt denied that she had anything to do with the change of the PTA dinner date. She told the Observer that the dinner date had been moved from February to May about five years ago, two years before she became PTA Council president. Also, when she ran for the board last year, the dinner's date had been set the year before.

Trustee is criticized

To the editor:

Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek (Wayne-Westland school board member) con- tinues to show us where her loyalty lies and it is not with the school : board. This was evident at the board [meeting on Monday, April 22.

She states that her motives are not 1 political. Come on, Sylvia. Who are you kidding? With your ties to the city of Westland? The board members are "trustees" representing the people.

Obviously, Sylvia represents only a small portion of the people in this school district because she can't represent the thousands of people who supported the school board's decision to place the millage proposal on the ballot for June 10.

Even after explaining her own proposal, it was clear that it would not work. The explanations by the other school baord members told evcryone why.

In order to educate the "whole, child," the 7.75 mills is needed to restore all programs. It is not fair forus to choose one specific area that the money should go for. It must go: for all programs.

Since Sylvia works for the city of Westland, I think she should look at: her city's motto because it appears that she also does not understand itsmeaning.

Lotteries hurt poor, minorities Consent law

P.T. BARNUM, the 19th Century circus entrepreneur, said, "There's a sucker born every minute."

A million suckers were born in 1972 when Michigan voters amendedtheir constitution to allow a government lottery.

There's nothing wrong with gambling if you keep the wagers small and friendly and can afford the loss without jeopardizing your family's welfare.

But there is something cancerous about gambling when government (1) encourages the get-rich-quick mentality and (2) discourages work, thrift and investment as the way to the good life.

Now comes the Heartland Institute, the conservative think tank. with research proving what many of us guessed - namely, the lottery is a sucker bet in which state government plays P.T. Barnum at the expense of the poor and minorities.

HORSES, AS political pundit Bill Ballenger has often told us, are a better wager. Bettors get back more than 80 cents on $1, said the former other things. state racing commissioner, who should know.

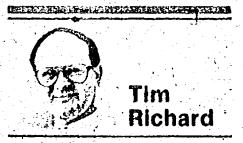

The Michigan Lottery has lousy odds, say Heartland researchers Robert Allan Cooke, a professor of philosophy at DePaul University and executive director of the Center for Business Ethics, and Sandeep Mangalmurti, a University of Chicago student.

Ticket sales from 1972 to 1989 totaled $9.5 billion, producing $3.9 billion for the school ald fund. That's after deducting administrative expenses. Bottom line: Bettors get back only about 50 cents on $1.

The suckers voted yes on the theory the lottery could help schools. They leaped to the conclusion the lottery would help schools. All the while, the money was intended for the general fund, only a fraction of which goes for schools.

The suckers demanded the lotterymoney go for schools, so in 1981 the politicians earmarked the lottery for education. The suckers figured the lottery really did help schools. Actually, the law enabled the state to use the freed-up general fund money on nations. What do lotteries do to people?

The poor, blacks and hispanics are proportionately bigger spenders on these sucker bets. Say the authors:

"Lottery advertisements tend to run in ethnic newspapers, not The Wall Street Journal; lotteries are promoted over rhythm and blues, not classical, radio stations.

"In some states lottery advertisements are most intense and frequent. at the beginning of the month, when Social Security and public assistance checks arrive. Such targeted adverlising often portrays the lottery as a plausible, easy, and even recommended way of escaping the ghetto. "The poor are told that success can be achieved painlessly, without hard work and perseverance . . . 49 percent of lottery players nationwide never finished high school."

THEY PRESENT a dizzying array of statistics demonstrating that lotteries are regressive - that is, they take a bigger chunk of lower incomes than higher incomes.

They tell the story of Rev. Thomas O'Gorman, a priest serving a poor black congregation in Chicago: "Curious about the amount of lottery play in his neighborhood, one Sunday he asked parishioners to save their losing lickets and bring them to services the next week. The following Sunday, he collected nearly $5,000 in losing ticket stubs."

 The authors say bad effects of lotteries could be mitigated by reducing promotions to the poor and paying out a bigger chunk of the wager. In practice, it won't happen. They want governmental lotteries eliminated.

In the meantime, we can all avoid suckerhood by not buying lottery tickets.

Tutors sometimes useful for students

QUESTION: We have been paying $20 an hour to have our seventh grade son get help in math at a prlvate tutoring school. He was a year behind in math. Now, since his private tutoring, he is doing much hetter in math and is at grade level. Why couldn't our own neighborhood middle school program bring him up to his grade level like the private tutoring school did? Do private tutoring schools do a better job than our public system?

ANSWER: Many educators avoid this question. It makes us look "bad." As an assistant superintendent for instruction, I was quite deSTORED LARS WANTED BALL AND A STORE STORES difficult for the student. 111 foundation in math makes it more

THE PRIVATE tutoring school, however, has one great advantage over your son's seventh grade math

The private tutor has a class load of one student, the perfect one-onone situation. The tutor is awarded the luxury or focusing full attention on one body for one hour a day on some singular skill your child has not mastered.

Most teachers, however, do spend as much time for individualized student instruction as possible, but it is not the one-on-one environment a tutor enjöys. For your middle school to pull this off, it would take some increased staffing - 17.5 more teachers (at eight students per day) or a cost of about $612,000. Not realistic.

school administrators as jumpy and nervous but become viewed as a legitimate support service for those students-who-benefit-most-in a oneon-one situation.

Many children have listening learning problems. They can't tune in to group lectures, math or otherwise. Some students are afraid or embarrassed to ask questions and literally go the entire year with their mouths shut to avoid looking dumb.

All this withstanding, education could benefit by working cooperatively with business entities.

PARDON ME if I'm a little bit confused, but that parental consent bill that got railroaded into Michigan law is causing all kinds of problems.

Thursday, May 2, 1991 O&E

• I love it. The bill, if you recall, was worked on in the Legislature.

· The guv - Jimmy Blanchard at the time - vetoed it.

Then the pro-life forces went on a signature-gathering campaign and collected enough John Hancocks to force the Legislature to reconsider the bill. If they passed it based on the voters' initiative, which they subsequently did, it would be veto-proof.

The only catch was that the bill could not be modified from its orlginal form - and that version included a provision that would allow girls to petition the probate court for a walver of parental consent and another provision that schools would be required to inform students in grades six through 12 of the existence of the law, the address and phone number of the local probate court and how to contact the court for assistance under the law.

Now everybody's yowling and howling and coming out of the closet.

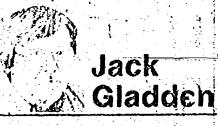

LOTS OF PARENTS, teachers, school administrators and board members are protesting the forms that have been sent to the schools to distribute to students.

Well, folks, some of you wanted a parental consent law and you got it.

And you can't just choose to enforce the part you like and ignore the part you don't like. (Although the pro-life forces in the Legislature are trying to do just that. They've introduced a bill in the Senate to defete that section of the law requiring schools to pass out the controversial forms.)

THEN THERE'S the judges! Can you believe some of them?

One judicial dude out in Clinton appoint a guardian for the fetus! He based his decision in part on a proclamation signed by then President Ronald Reagan that said medical technology "proves" that fetuses are human beings with a right to life. Now there's judicial precedent for you.

Then there's the Kalamazoo County judge who dismissed a 17-year-old girl's petition for an abortion and said the whole law was unconstitutional.

And now a Mason County judge has really stirred things up by saying that he resents the law and thinks that abortions should only be allowed in some cases - such as incest or the rape of a white girl by a black man.

SO WHAT'S IT all about, anyway? I think Carol King, the executive director of the Michigan Abortion Rights Action League, summed it up pretty well.

"It seems that one beneficial side effect of this horrible law has been to expose the bigotry and smallmindedness that we knew was there and now the general public is seeing it," she said.

"Of course, I think this exceeds even our worst expectations."

That's for sure. When you get judges, officers of the court who are sworn to uphold the Constitution and the law, saying publicly that they don't like this particular law and just aren't going to comply with it, that's more than small-mindedness. That's scary as hell. Jack Gladden is a County said if any young women copy editor for Observer & Eccen-fensive when parents related stories how their child improved when tutored in a private school. "Why do I have to pay $20 an hour for something my taxes and you should be doing?" ask the parents.

It was not infrequent for some board of education members to raise for years. Why not in education, if it helps the child?

Some of our children do reach the seventh grade, such as your son, and are behind in basic math skills. And it becomes more difficult to correct math deficiencies as a student moves up through the grades. The first thing he would do would be to ton Township.

Top gun Redford CC knocks off state's top-rated teams

By Brad Emons staff writer

Redford Catholic Central may not be-the-state's best tennis team, but the No. 4-ranked Shamrocks proved Saturday in the Ann Arbor Invitational that they can play with the best:

Taking advantage of a random draw, CC captured three of eight flights and finished second in two others.

The Shamrocks scored a teamhigh 23 points to upset No. 2-ranked Okemos (19 points) and top-rated Ann Arbor Pioneer (18). Roundingout the eight-team field was Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook (17), Kalamazoo Loy Norrix (13), defending cham-pion Grosse Pointe South (12), Saline (7) and Ann Arbor Huron (3).

"This is a tremendous boost for us," CC first-year coach Bob Miller said. "Even though Pioneer's No. 2 and 3 players were not there, it showed we could win in most flights. It shows that it's going to be a freefor-all at the state meet and it confirms that you've got to be ready when it comes to Midland (site of the Class A finals Saturday, June 1).

The Shamrocks displayed balance, scoring points in every flight, including No. 3 singles where freshman Jeff Haithcock, substituting for injured senior Scott Hazlett (knee), bounced back from a first-round loss to beat Pioneer's David Cho (6-4, 6-7, Observerland race Can Rockets orbit?

By Steve Kowalski staff writer

The Westland John Glenn boys track team, under new loadership, will try to continue an old tradition Saturday at the 21st running of the Observerland Relays.

First-year coach Jess Shough, who took over for the retired Rich Gordon, brings his undefeated team to the Livonia Churchill track for the meet, which begins with the field events at 3:30 p.m.

The preliminary round starts at 6:30, followed by the finals at 7 p.m. Admission is $2.

The Rockets have won the crown two of the past four years, and finished second in 1989 when the relays were called because of rain and hail with six events remaining Shough, who spent the past five years as Gordon's assistant, said it's been a smooth transition.

"IIE'S WANTED TO leave things in my hands and take it over," Shough said. "We've got a quality program, but it hasn't been as much pressure as I thought it would be. The kids know how to run and know how to win.⁴

But can they repeat as Observerland champions?

"We like going back with that kind of attitude," Shough said, "We know we have real good competition (to face). Compared to last year we don't have that outstanding speed but we have balance, so we can compete."

The Rockets are without the graduated Carl Lowe (now a sprinter at Eastern Michigan University) but figure to be strong in the discus, as they showed at the Monroe Relays where Dave Arbour and Jason Key finished 1-2 overall. Bill Griffiths cleared 6-foot-6 last year in the high jump and other standouts to watch from Glenn include long jumper Brandon Buck and sprinter Randy Seach.

Plymouth Salem, which finished fourth a year ago, has a chance to win this year's relays, according to some people in the know. Salem coach Gary Balconi watched his team win the Elks and Tiger relays, so the Rocks already are used to the winner's circle.

SALEM AND Glenn get a sneak preview of each other today in a dual meet hosted by the Rockets."

"Because we've had some success (winning the Elks and Tiger relays), people will be looking at us, but we've never gone into the Observerland meet thinking we couldn't win it," Balconi sald. "It's a senior team, and these guys are pretty good athletes. And therein lies the key.

"Our kids are going to find the field events at this meet are tougher than the first two. The distance comnetition will be tougher when you bring in (Redford)

boys track

WAYNE MEMORIAL, which came in second place last year and won the Observerland Relays in 1988, has some of the best individuals, but lack depth. Only 20boys have come out for coach Floyd Carter's team this year, in part, he said because of the pay for play rule in the Wayne/Westland school system.

The top runner is Allen Buford, who has the area's best time in both the 100-meter dash (10.7 seconds) and 200-meter dash (22.9) to date. Another burner is Shawn Ma'Azza, who has been hampered by a hamstring injury but will go Saturday. Hurdler James Grady also provides support as does distance runner Matt Johnson, but Carter is worried about some of the runners he doesn't have.

"I think spring sports is hit hardest from pay to play because a lot of kids who are in two sports would normally play a third but don't want to pay another $210," Carter said. "But we've got a nice team, with unity and spirit. We're going to be competitive."

One of the area's outstanding distance runners, Farmington High's Ben Goba, will miss the event because of a school commitment, Falcons coach Jerry Young said. The Falcons, who have challenged in the past, also will miss versatile Eric Meyer, out with a hamstring pulf.

Hurdler Joe Miller and long jumper/high jumper Jason Tucker could give the Falcons a strong shullle hurdle team.

"WHAT CAN you do about those kind of things?" Young said of Goba's and Meyer's absences. "We're not going to be one of the favorites, but we'll be there, that's for sure."

Livonia Churchill coach Fred Price believes this year's relays could be one of the closest in years. He has an opinion on several teams.

"I don't see one team dominating, but if Plymouth Salem gets rolling, it could dominate," Price said. "John Glenn will be strong again and Salem has depth all the way through, but loses points in the pole vault which could hurt. Wayne has outstanding individuals and CC is kind of impressive with (discus and pole vaulter) Al Barbarleh and (middle-distance runner) Eric McKeon, and could score a lot-of points. Northville will have the makings of a team to do well at Observerland."

And how about his team's chances?

"We have a young team," he said. "Our kids will

Madonna opens playoffs

By C.J. Risak staff writer

2B(L,R,W,G)

At least one thing was proven Sunday at Siena Heights by Madonna University's softball team - the Lady Crusaders can play with just about anybody in the NAIA District 23.

They'll get their chance to prove it again today, in the district playoffs hosted by Spring Arbor College. Madonna finished fourth in the district; it will face regular-season champion Siena Heights at noon in the double-elimination tournament, which will be completed Friday.

Against the Saints Sunday, Madonna didn't always look like championship material. Particularly in the second game, which ended after five innings with Siena Heights completing its perfect season in district play by thumping the Crusaders 17-2.

But in that first game'. . .

Madonna led 2-0 going into the bottom of the fourth. Only some sloppy defense allowed the Saints to get into the game. With two out, Crusader pitcher Joann Donehay walked a runner. Catcher Holly Brachel tried to pick her off first, but threw wildly and the runner reachedthird.

A PASSED BALL by Brachel scored the Saints' first run. A second Donehay walk and another Brachel passed ball put a baserunner on second, and a base hit - the Saints first of theinning — tled the game.

Siena Heights eventually prevailed 3-2, scoring the winning run in the seventh on a base hit by Cris Strehl, another passed ball and Nancy Hamlin's two-out single.

Madonna got its runs on Hughana Wilkie's runscoring double in the second and a triple by Jill Burt, followed by Angie Van Dyke's single, in the fourth. Burt had two hits for Madonna.

Donehay allowed seven hits and five walks in 63/3 innings. Siena Heights got a superb pitching performance from Shelly Lizyness, an all-district selection. Lizyness surrendered four hits and two walks, fanning seven.

The second game was, as the score indicated, all Siena Heights. The Saints got six runs in the first inning and three more in the second. Madonna committed six errors, and Donehay was tagged for nine runs in 113 innings and committed two errors herself. Brachel had four more passed balls in the first two innings.

MEGAN ARMSTRONG, Mandy Armstrong and Wilkle each had two hits for Madonna, which finished 7-5 in district play and 22-14 overall. Both Armstrongs were named to the all-district team in a vote by the coaches Sunday.

Reaching the district tournament was a goal for Madonna coach Dave Racer. How far the Crusaders can go is difficult to determine:

"There is an outside chance," said Racer, when asked if his team could upset Siena Heights and win the district title. "But it is an outside chance.

"All we have to do is play like we did in the first game Sunday. They didn't beat us, we beat ourselves. We've proven we can play with the best people in the district."

Problem is, as Racer pointed out: "Slena has a very good hitting team and a very good pitcher."

The Saints, who finished 12-0 in district play, are the favorites, with all-district players Lizyness, Hamlin, Strehl, Kim Rector and Shelly VanDerveen. Spring Arbor and Aquinas were both 8-4, and Racer figures "we could play evenly with them."

But, sooner or later, the Crusaders will have to topple Siena Heights if they hope to eventually advance to the NAIA National Tournament May 15-18 in Columbia, Mo.

Wayne grad fulfills his longtime dream

By C.J. Risak stall writer

Maybe it's what happened two years ago that has made Mike Heard hard to satisfy.

Two years ago, Heard was playing for a pretty good Wayne Memorial team. "We were ranked first in the state," he recalled.

But, even though he was one of the better players on a very good team, no one seemed to notice. Heard ended up signing with Siena Heights College, an NAIA school - and dreaming of something better.

"I always believed I could play (NCAA) Division I baseball," said Heard. "I just wanted to play Division I and play on scholarship."

AFTER A YEAR at Siena Heights, he still wanted to fulfill that dream. But he couldn't get his release from Siena Heights, so he stayed another year before transferring, last fall, to the University of Detroit-Mercy.

Heard has hardly missed a beat. He has started all 39 Titan games in center field and is batting clean-up - and he's doing it well. Through last weekend, Heard ranked seventh in the Midwestern Collegiate Conference in runs batted in with 31. He's batting .325, with nine doubles, a triple and six homers.

Heard leads U-D with 49 hits, and is second on the team in runs scored (28), game-winning hits (four), doubles and homers. And he has made just one error in the field for the Titans, who are 12-4 in the MCC, a half-game behind this weekend's league-leading opponent, Notre Dame. U.D is 24-14-1 overall.

AND HOW does Heard feel about his success? Neither satisfied nor surprised.

"I figured I could play," said Heard. "I haven't done anything that surprised me. I knew I could play against them. I did it in the summerleague."

Heard played for Adray Appliance in the now-folded Detroit Adray

League the last two summers. Appliance was coached by Bob Atkins, an assistant coach at U-D; the team consisted mostly of U-D players.

Why coaches didn't see his ability earlier, Heard can't figure. "I really don't know. I don't know if I didn't get any exposure or what. I was lost in the shuffle, I guess."

He isn't lost anymore, although Heard hardly believes he's done enough. "You can never be satisfied," he said. "I'll try to improve on everything, my speed and my throwing arm (especially), and I want to be a more patient hitter."

AS FOR his current performance: "I feel I should be (playing better), and hopefully I will be before this thing is over.

The Titans lost a lot of pitching after last season and were not expected to be enjoying their current status, near the top of the MCC. This weekend's four-game set at Notre Dame could be pivotal to their championship hopes.

"We're really focused," said Heard. "We'd like to take three-offour . . . I think we have to take ? three-of-four."

But while that assessment may sound pressure-packed, Heard insists it isn't. "This is really a relaxed atmosphere. Everyone has a lot of fun.

Road woes fall on baseball team

It's been a busy week for Madonna University baseball, but not a particularly happy one.

The Fighting Crusaders lost twice at Grand Valley State Tuesday, 12-7 and 11-1, to dip to 26-13-1. The Lakers are 25-20. Since Friday, Madonna is 2-5.

Mike Coleman was the losing pitcher in the opener, as Grand Valley broke open a 3-3 tie by scoring nine runs in the sixth inning. Wayne Wasilenski, the second of three Laker pitchers, got the win.

Joe Brusseau had two hits and two runs-batted in for Madonna, and Rich Roy drove in two runs with one hit.

In the second game, Lou McKaig suffered the loss in the six-inning mercy. Madonna's only run resulted from Ernie Bowling's 14th home run of the season.

On Sunday, the Crusaders won one of three games at the College of St. Francis Tournament in Jollet, Ill. Their win was a 1-0 pitching gem handed in by Mike Hocking over the host team Sunday. Hocking, now 5-1, fired a three-hitter, walking two and striking out one.

Madonna scored the game's only run in the sixth inning on a Brusseau single. Mike Bone was the losing pitcher.

EARLIER SUNDAY, the Crusaders lost a game that counted in NAIA District 23 standings, 5-3 to Aquinas. Chris Kloc (now 5-4) was the loser; Tim Sullivan got the win.

Madonna got run-scoring singles in the second from John Bonham and Brusseau and a solo homer from Brusseau in the sixth. Mike Wozniak also had two hits. The loss left the Crusaders at 8-4-in-the district; Aquinas is 12-3.

Also on Sunday, Madonna lost 6-1 to St. Francis. T.C. Raptis was the losing pitcher; Corey Rogers got the victory. Bowling's solo homer accounted for Madonna's only run.

The Crusaders split two games Saturday at the St. Francis Tournament, beating St. Ambrose (Des Moines, Iowa) 11-3 and losing to St. Xavier (Chicago) 7-1.

Bowling had three hits, including a solo homer, and three RBI in the win over St. Ambrose. Bill Terski and Jeremy Krol each had three hits and two RBI, Jeff Pendell had two hits (including a two-run dinger) and Mike Wozniak had two hits (with a solo homer). Rich Roy was the winning pitcher.

In the loss to St. Xavier, Madonna pitchers issued nine walks. Coleman absorbed the defeat; Dan Hancock got the victory. Terski had two of the Crusaders' six hits and scored their only run on a passed ball.

Gieselman awaits turn at C

By Steve Kowalski staff writer

Michigan State football coach George Perles keeps insisting there's a four-man race for the Spartans' starting quarterback job next fall.

Then why wasn't John Gleselman's name on the depth chart in MSU's spring football media guide?

Sophomore Jim Miller (Waterford Kettering) was listed first, followed by freshman Mill Coleman (Farmington Hills Harrison) and junior Bret Johnson (UCLA transfer).

Gieselman, a 1988 Birmingham Brother Rice graduate who has the most seniority of all MSU quarterbacks, isn't sure why but he understands.

"That's how it's been since high school," said Gieselman, a Rochester Hills resident. "I look at it, see it, it gets me kind of pissed off and makes me want to work harder. If anything, it helps me. It's something to shoot for and prove wrong.

before spring ball, the media said it . about a year (since last competing). was going to be a three man battle ... So much can happen over the sumsuddenly my name kept creeping in. I never was on an all-area team in high school. I've just been slipping through the cracks. When something is good or worthwhile, I guess you I friends and help each other out." have to wait for it."

THE SPARTANS finished spring practice Saturday with their annual Green-White game at Spartan Stadium. The Green beat the White, 22-10, but no clear-cut winner was announced at quarterback.

Miller and Coleman alternated series for the victorious Green team.

turns guiding the White. Gleselman said no animosity exists among the four quarterbacks.

"We get along great, even outside of practice," Gleselman said.

Whereas Gieselman is used to getting lost in the shuffle, the quarterback derby is a new experience for Coleman, the state's top-rated quarterback in 1989 who guided Harrison to three-straight Class B titles.

Coleman was 4-for-8 passing for 43 yards and led the Green team on a 55-yard, 11-play drive for its final touchdown in the fourth quarter. He completed 2-4 passes on the scoring drive and also scrambled 16 yards on third down deep in White territory to keep the drive alive.

"It was fun," said Coleman, who "I thought it was kind of ironic, was redshirted last fall. "It's been Then once spring practice started, mer. I've just got to keep working at it.

> "IT'S VERY competitive. All I can do is compete, because we're all

For the White team, Johnson, who some believe has the inside track at the starting position, completed 11of-18 passes for 156 yards and no touchdowns or interceptions. Gleselman, meanwhile, was 6-11 for 87 yards with two interceptions.

Gieselman's first pass interception was intended for tight end Mitch Lyons, while the second was meant while Gieselman and Johnson took for Tom Bodell. Bodell finished the day with seven receptions for 102 yards.

"The first one was definitely my fault," Gieselman said. "I watched the film today (Monday) and it was a little crowded in there. I should have thrown it to the (running) back in the flat. The second one was an in-route. There was an opening, but the receiver (Bodell) might have slowed down a bit - and I might have thrown it early."

Of all the Spartans' quarterbacks, Gieselman was the least recruited, by far, out of high school, receiving only -a-half-scholarship offer -from Ferris State University. As a preferred walk-on at MSU, he had to pay his own way through school as a freshman before going on scholarship starting with the 1989-90 schoolyear.

Being a familiar face with his teammates, he believes is to his advantage.

"I THINK WHAT will win the job are the intangibles. One of my stronger points is my relationship with my teammates," he said "I can control the huddle. I've been here longer than those guys and factors like those are important. When 10 guys look at you in the huddle and know who you are, they know it's time to go to work."

Coleman, who carries a 3.6 grade point average, said he has a job lined up as a sales assistant this summer for IBM in Southfield and will work out in the area in preparation for the upcoming season.

Gieselman plans to head home to Rochester Hills, where he'll work odd jobs and also work out with Mark MacFarland, his neighbor and teammate at Michigan State. MacFarland is listed_No. 2 on the_ Spartans' depth chart behind All-America flanker candidate Courtney Hawkins.

Gleselman and MacFarland (a Rochester High graduate) have been best friends since high school and are roommates at MSU.

"If it weren't for Mark I'd never be here, and I think he'd say the same thing about me," said Gleselman. "We didn't go to the same school but I can remember in 10th grade I'd go over Mark's after baseball practice in the spring and after. he got through with track and we'd ·throw until dark."

Actresses enjoy Shoeman' roles

By Joseph S. Hoffman special writer

WO AREA WOMEN have gotten a foothold in Hol-Daniels' latest theater production called "Shoeman."

Linda Parolini of Southfield was a shoo-in for the part of Jennifer, the lawyer's secretary in the play. "It's a comedy about golf, shoes and infidelity," Parolini said. "When I came in to read the playcracked up. It's a very funny play."

Joanne McGee of Farmington Hills has put her best foot forward in the role of Jeana Hopkins the promiscuous "other woman" in the play. "The character I play féels no guilt," McGee said. "It's a fun role and a very entertaining play."

"Shoeman" is an original play written by Daniels. It is set in a small Michigan town like Chelsea, where Daniels grew up.

"THE GEMS of information I get from Jeff are absolutely invaluable," Parolini said. "I have a great admiration for the people I'm working for."

The cast has been rehearsing six nights a week in preparation for its opening night performance Friday at the Purple Rose Theatre in Chelsea.

We have been rehearsing from 7-11 p.m. for over a month," Parolini said. "But people are so relaxed around here, making it all quite fun."

"We are here to serve a local ple, 96-seat theater is very typical of a 42nd Street off-Broadway theater in New York.

"I FIRST HEARD about the thelywood movie star Jeff ater at an Equity liaison meeting. I was excited right from the start," said McGee, who has been into acting for many years.

On the other hand, Parolini is a bit newer to the whole world of theater. "I'm not a professional actress. I feel very lucky," she said. "When I first read about Jeff Danbefore auditioning, I sat there and iels' new theater, getting a part in one of his plays was just a pipe dream for me, but here I am."

This is the Purple Rose Theater Company's second production since it first opened in January, and Daniels' first attempt at playwriting.

"We want to start a theater that matters regionally and, with a little luck and patience, nationally. We want to support Michigan playwrights, actors, directors and designers and give them a place to show what they could do," Daniels said. "When you ask what's the purpose of this theater, that's it. That's what we're all about."

Daniels is best known for his roles in movies like "Terms of Endearment," "Arachnophobia," and "Purple Rose of Cairo," the movie he did with Woody Allen which inspired the name for his theater company.

"BEING THAT it is Jeff's play, he has put quite a bit of input in the play, not to override the director, but he has put in ideas as to which way to go with the character, and

1-man show looks at Conan Doyle

Holmes' creator

Daedalos Productions, in conjunction with Dame Jean Conan Doyle, presents "An Evening with Sir Arthur Conan Doyle" at 8 p.m. Friday, May 10, at a theater-inthe-round at the Birmingham Unilarian Church, 651-Woodward -Avenue at Lone Pine Road. Loren D. Estleman, author of "Whiskey River," "Sudden Country" and the Amos Walker mystery series, will be master of ceremonies. Tickets are $10.

IR ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE was a spiritualist who believed in fairies and making contact with those in the Great Beyond. Yet ironically, Conan Doyle also created the great Sherlock Holmes, quintessential logician.

"Sherlock Holmes was a brain, a reasoning machine fueled by logic," says writer, actor and psychic investigator Mark McPherson who will present his one-man play "An Evening with Sir Arthur Conan Doyle" Friday, May 10, at the Birmingham Unitarian Church.

McPherson explains that after Conan Doyle lost a brother and son in World War I, his powerful sense of loss and yearning led to his belief in spiritual phenomena. In his later years, he spent a fortune, risked friendships and jeopardized his reputation to tour the world lecturing on spiritualism. Rumor/has it Conan Doyle was denied a petrage because the British found his lete-in-life fascination with spiritualism to be embarrassing. "Arthur Conan Doyle was a com-plex personality," says McPherson, and the show chronicles not only blographical facts but the tensions, ironies and contradictions in the life of the little-known writer who stood in the colossal shadow of his most fa-

McPHERSON SAYS the show "intertwines history with myth" to bring to life the Scottish physicianturned-writer. Seventy-nine years later, Dame Jean Conan Doyle, the youngest of Sir Arthur's five children, has befriended McPherson. When he interviewed her in London, she said the writer/actor clearly resembles her father.

McPherson gets particular about their similarities, "We have the same shaped skull, both of us have one eyelid that sags more than the other, we have similar hairlines and our eye folds are even the same." Both Dame Jean and McPherson also remark on the under-the-skin similarities between the 43-year-old McPherson and Conan Doyle, who died in 1930.

McPherson runs Daedalos Investigative Agency and he, like Conan Doyle, is fascinated by the Arthurian legends, psychic phenomena and the world's mysteries. He is affiliated with Scotland Yard and follows psychic investigations around the globe. McPherson's cases have taken him on nine expeditions to Loch Ness, Scotland; on excavations of the B-itish "Camelot" site, and on conventions to discuss the Shroud of Turin. Dame Jean says, "They would have gotten along well together, given their common interests.' In preparation for writing the play In which he portrays Conan Doyle, McPherson read 14 biographies and created a voluminous book of notes to organize the threads running Performances of the Farmington Players production of "The Musical Comedy-Murders of 1940" continue through Wednesday, May 8, at the Farmington Players Barn in Farmington Hills. For ticket information call 553-2955.

By Mark S. Carley special writer

In its production of John Bishop's "The Musical Comedy Murders of 1940," Farmington Players manages to make an entertaining evening out of some very trite material.

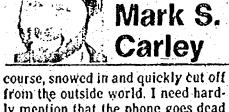

It used to be that murder mysteries were carefully crafted plays that included lots of twists and turns and just enough clues to allow the clever armchair detectives in the audience to figure out who-dun-it. The occasional wry witticism was thrown in to ease the tension.

Most of what passes for mystery in today's theater is really a feeble; attempt to parody the old masterpieces ("Sleuth," "The Mousetrap") with witless jokes, silly caricatures and plots so ridiculously convoluted that logic becomes useless in trying. to decipher them.

Sadly, "Musical Comedy Murders" falls into this ever-growing category. There are jokes aplenty but not many are funny. Quite frankly, I am hard pressed to remember who-dunit. The characters, all of whom have promising backgrounds, don't develop into too much.

WIIAT SAVES this show and makes the evening relatively enjoyable is a spirited performance by a talented cast. Margaret Gilkes leads the ensemble as the very rich and equally light-headed Elsa Von Grossenknueten (no, that is not a typo), a financier of Broadway musicals. When she invites a group of actors, directors and producers to her home for a backer's audition, they are, of from the outside world. I need hardly mention that the phone goes dead and the power fails.

Stand-out performers include Helen Morgan as Helsa the maid (and several of her siblings) and Kirk Hanley as fast-talking small-timecomedian Eddie McCuen. Hanely is so good with this schtick that you. wonder if he hasn't played the Comedy Castle.

Another big hand must go to the show producer, Bob McSweeney, who had to step into the part of Hollywood film director Ken de la Maize at the last minute. This semisuave, semi-slimy role seems made for McSweeney.

Director Cynthia DeWolf does a good job with the difficult task of maneuvering her 10-member cast around a very small stage. The set construction crew also deserves a nod_for_creating_several_moving bookcases and secret passageways. Now, lets all hope that fairly soon someone will write a mystery that's worth this level of effort.

Quick-kill artist takes on mercantilists --- and fails

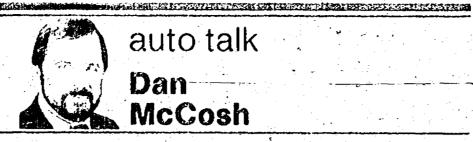

T. Boone Pickens isn't your average car guy. The corporate greenmail artist made his billions in the takeover mania of the 1980s by being so obnoxious nearly every corporation in America was willing to pay nearly anything to get rid of him after he became a major shareholder - setting a pattern that Ross Perot eventually raised to an art form with General Motors, Mainly, Pickens concentrated on airlines, which is one reason why you can't find your baggage at Metropolitan airport these days. But for the past two or three years, he has tackled the ultimate challenge for a fuhk-bond wheeler-dealer - plying his trade in Japan.

PICKENS MANAGED to buy up 26.4 percent of Koito Manufacturing Co., and demanded a seat on Kolto's board of directors, whereupon Kolto's board of directors responded with a familiar international hand gesture that is recognizable in Brooklyn. It was the corporate greenmail artists worst nightmare - they simply ignored him.

At this point, Pickens noticed he was confronting something particularly disconcerting to a U.S.-style junk bond artist - the Japanese may be inscrutable, but they're not ~ stupid.

· After two years, Pickens appears ready to throw in the towel in Japan, but now he is calling for a (U.S.) congressional investigation of the Japanese keiretsu.

Wheat

KEIRETSU IS a sort of pragmatic conglomerate characteristic of Japancse business arrangements. It has its roots in loyalty conceded Japanese warlords, which later was translated to a close-knit relationship between Japanese industry and banks. Once in a while, the keiretsu get a little carried away, such as the. time they took over the Japanese Diet and started World War II.

'Pickens' mistake was buying in to a company that was partially owned by Toyota and expecting it to put the squeeze on its major customer to enhance its profits, which would have benefited Pickens, but not necessari-, ly the long-range relationship with Toyota.

KEIRETSU IS, in fact, a philosophysioth at odds with much current U.S. management philosophy and in some ways illegal in the U.S. antitrust scheme of things. It also is an extremely pragmatic relationship that has resulted in the ability to orchestrate a deceptively loose-knit conglomerate into an amazingly efficient manufacturing enterprise.

The Keiretsu are classic mercantilists, operating with the goal of manufacturing as much as possible, buying as little as possible from outsiders, and concentrating their capital resources in production.

PICKENS HIMSELF represents the opposite pole, being a believer in paper liquidity and the dominance of highly mobile capital - the quick killing and the cornered market --as the way to create wealth.

It seems a bit much to portray Pickens' troubles as a battle be- " tween good and evil. But it's rare that such a classic confrontation between two basic economic philosophies becomes such a test of wills.

Clearly, he has zeroed in on one of the critical issues that will affect how the car business will be run in. the next century.

For that reason alone, he is worth listening to.

CEO recaps ups, downs of service years to Core

KIMASS

Marilyn Fitchelt-editor/591-2300-

By Doug Funke staff writer

108*(P,C-128)

Being in the right place at the right time paid big career dividends for Harold M. Marko, who rose from salesman to chairman and chief executive officer during a 40-year association with Core Industries.

Marko had no business degree and was in his mid-30s in 1960 when he took the reins of the struggling company then known as Soss Manufacturing.

Soss, incorporated in 1909, had just reported profits of some $12,000 on sales of $5 million. One customer accounted for 60 percent of sales and was making noises about taking its business elsewhere.

"A number of directors were disappointed with the progress and shook the company up," Marko said. "An outside shareholder. Nate guess I was a young, hungry guy. He sort of saw that."

So Marko got down to the business of business.

He diversified the organization through acquisitions, took the corporation through two name changes and saw its stock admitted to the New York Exchange for trading purposes.

Core Industries posted profits of $3.9 million on sales of $241 million during hudget year 1990.

Marko, a Bloomfield Hills resident, retired Tuesday.

HE RECALLED the gut-wrenching early years when he toiled day and night to turn the company touch of sadness cleaning house and firing a couple of dozen employees, many for resisting change.

"I went through a terribly difficult time," Marko said. "I felt if I didn't make it, the company would go bankrupt. I felt a terrible burden."

He also expressed disappointment over a couple of recent develop-ments — a quarterly earnings loss and dividend cut, both unwelcome firsts.

But Marko also remembered the good times - the acquisitions, growth and people he met along the way.

"It's been such a big part of my life," he said.

Today, Core consists of 19 companies manufacturing electronics products, farm equipment, fluid controls/construction products and industrial products. Virtually all were Cummings, took a liking to me. 1 -- acquired through-Marko's minimum -risk merger method.

> "IT'S A SIMPLE formula, but it. was novel at the time," he said.

> "We would pay no more than net worth as a fixed payment and guarantee payments (a percentage of profits) for an additional five years that could double the initial asking price.

"They had great incentive," Mars ko said of the sellers. "Generally, people ultimately made more after five years than they had asked in the beginning."

Marko's management style was to give the individual companies autonomy to make their own decisions within brood policy objectives estab-

"You try to get good people, then give them a lot of authority," he said, "We can't meddle in every decision or we'd go nuts. They operate in parameters we set for capital spending, expenses, methods of growth, budgets.

"You have to take this approach, -fundamentally, if you're a diversified company," Marko said.

ABOUT 30 work at corporate headquarters in Bloomfield Hills, some 3,000 in all divisions, he added. Marko agreed that it would be difficult today for people in their mid-30s with no business background to take over a struggling company as he did three decades ago.

Difficult, but not impossible. He identified three keys to success for any situation.

"What you need is A, ability; B, breaks or luck; and C. courage to make a decision. The most important to me is B.' And Marko's core belief?

"You never compromise your integrity for anything," he said. Alan E. Schwartz, senior member of a prominent Detroit law firm and a Core director for more than 20 years, has a long association with Marko.

"He's always brought to his role an enormous energy, dedication and commitment, and always great character," Schwartz said. "He had a vision of the type of company that should be created and persisted in that.

"HE WAS a natural leader of people and always a straightforward tegrity."

Harold M. Marko, chief executive officer at Core Industries for 30 years, recalls memorable moments --- successes and disappoint-thinker and person. He was a natural entrepreneur . . . a risk taker," Schwartz said.

Richard T. Walsh, a longtime protege, took over as president and chief executive officer at Marko's retirement.~~

"He's a very thoughtful man but very decisive," Walsh said. "He's very good, I think, at delegating authority to people. He has excellent business instincts and also, very important, he's a man of very great in-

Marko, who delayed his retirement for six months to help the company rebound from its 1990 woes, apparently leaves Core fairly well positioned.

The company is rated a low-priced speculative buy for income and growth investors by Dean A. Gulis, research director for the brokerage firm of Roney & Co.

The stock closed at 7% Tuesday. A target price of 10 was reported as "quite reachable" by Gulis. The anSTEPHEN CANTRELL/stall photographer ments - on the eve of retirement. "Strength of youth is wonderful. Experience is great, too. But you can't have both."

> Marko hopes to travel more in retirement with his wife, Barbara. He intends to stay active with various memberships in the Cranbrook Academy of Art, Bloomfield Open Hunt Club and Detroit Institute of Art.

> Marko also plans to continue serving Core as a director.

"I almost think of it as a person." Yoù have to treat it well, serve it well," he said of the corporation. "It's been so dear to me. I don't want

Pet hospitals rival solo practices

By David F. Stein special writer

To suburban-pet-owners,-Southfield-based Professional Veterinary Hospitals of America (PVH) is the new kid on the block that promises low prices and convenient hours.

To the veterinary profession, PVH is the corporate maverick that dares to advertise mainly on television at a $500,000-a-year clip.

PVH CEO and co-founder Martin M. Smith hopes to transform veterinary medicine along the lines of pharmacy and optometry. The premise: Let the vets practice animal medicine; let the corporation. run the business and reap the profits.

"We started in 1982. Veterinary medicine was still being practiced as it had been from the '40s, '50s and '60s - highly fragmented," said Smith, a Southfield attorney and CPA. "From the business standpoint, we have taken a vet and expanded his time, therefore his ability to generate revenue."

By June, majority owners Smith and Bloomfied Hills' vet Andrew Dworkis will have 16 area clinics, including three 24-hour clinics and a specialist center, staffed by more than 40 veterinarians. At the same time, they are beefing up a corporate structure-primed to support a nationwide chain.

PVH's new Garden City clinic, costing nearly $300,000 to outfit and supply, reflects Smith's philosophy of bringing the vets to the pets, backed by plenty of market research. Open more than 80 hours a week for routine care, the clinic has four exam rooms, surgery and treatment areas, an X-ray room, kennels and an isolation room for sick animals.

BUT NOT EVERYONE is sold on the PVH concept.

"I'd be surprised if corporate practice became a standard. Most vets would want to be able to do things the way they thought was the best," said Mary Beth Leininger of Plymouth, a vet and past president of the Michigan Veterinary Medical Association. "If it's a corporation, somebody has to make the bottom line decisions, whether it's the quality of vaccines or instruments."

It's PVH's aggressive advertising, especially of prices, that seems to upset vets the most.

nual dividend is now 48 cents.

"The jury's out; it is certainly very different from what's been appropriate _ for_professionals; advertising makes many vets uncomfortable and does not enhance the image of the profession in the eyes of consumers," Leininger said.

Smith agreed that PVH's advertising rankled vets, but he believes "the public has a right to know what something will cost them. We made vet services very affordable and let people know that."

Southfield vet Robert Jones gives PVH its due.

"To their credit, if they advertise they will neuter a cat for 14-15 bucks, they'll do it," Jones said. He said he has seen advertising come and go in the profession; he currently sends circulars using a computer list of clients.

PVH is also attractive to vet school grads, saddled with school debts averaging $33,000 and facing a $200,000 to $400,000 investment to set up a small animal hospital. At PVH, vets are paid a straight salary but can progress to clinic chief of staff and possibly non-practice positions in the future.

"I've been in practice five years; last year was the first I made a profit," said vet Michael C. Petty of Livonia, who has his own practice.

But Petty believes private practices will prevail.

"I'm not concerned. I provide good quality care. Clients like that. A certain type will go to PVH, the bargain hunter; clients tend to come and stay with me."

In Canton, vet Kenneth Harr said he wasn't threatened by PVH.

"I assume they are doing a good job, or people wouldn't go there. But if I do a good job, the rest will take care of itself. The ones who do well are making an extra effort."

BUT HARR SAID that the PVH concept may succeed in the future as the costs of starting a verpractice and regulatory complexities of running a small business continue to increase.

Harr belongs to the First Veterinary Clinics of Michigan; a group of vets who banded together for group purchasing and continuing education.

Utility shoots for stock growth

"It will not be our policy to pay large, utility-type dividends," CMS chair William T. McCormlck Jr. said at Friday's annual meeting in Dearborn.

Elena delivers her songs via the telephone lines

Don't look for Siler to show up at your front door, dressed in costume, armed with a balloon bouquet and the like. The Livenia resident plies her trade via the telephona lines, She is "the Singing Secretary."

"It's not a business; it's my hobby, a happy thing", said Siler, a Ford Motor Co. retiree. "I make a lot of friends doing this. I have people call for advice on how to make up with their friend."

Siler became "the Singing Secretary" in 1978, when she sang "Happy Birthday" to a co-worker at Ford's World Headquarters in Dearborn, where she worked as - what else - a secretary.

"He enjoyed it so much and I enjoyed it so much that it made me wonder why couldn't I do this for other Ford's American Road Magazine. "SHE GOT me started in dance and music," Siler said. "She lived her life through me."

But her singing career really took off when she decided to become "Elena, the Singing Secretary."

For a mere $2, she would sing her own version of "Happy Brithday," sung to the tune of the "Merry Widow Waltz," a divorce song based on "Happy Days Are Here Again" and "The Anniversary Waltz" or "True" Love" for anniversaries.

She even sang for her future husband Jack for his birthday when they first met. "He loved it," she said of the performance.

Siler was a novelty then, competing with the likes of Fat Bob the Plumber. She promoted herself, first by singing for J.P. McCarthy, then making appearances on television, including Channel 4's defunct "This Morning" show.

She laughs about her radio performance. On a fluke, she decided to call McCarthy from her bess' office.

"I didn't think they would put me on the air," she said. "Thank God my boss was away. The phone never stopped ringing that day."

Somewhere between B-27 and N-14. Larry Minard of Westland gets that forelorn look in his eyes. That stare everyone has when someone else gets their number.

"Another bingo?! Aw, must be a woman," says Minard, 75, out of the corner of his mouth.

Helena Yax of Wayne fixes a furrowed brow on the retired engineer, who turns to see how his remark went over with the predominantly female contingent.

"All of us are going to get together one day and scooch you right off the end of table," says Yax, 70.

"See what I'm up against," says Minard, pleading his case to an unsympathetic bystander.

Such banter goes back and forth between tables on this Tuesday morning. All of the ribbing is goodnatured, though This is just 40 seniors getting together for their game ... of choice.

church hall where older women chew on the end of cigarettes in front of 30 cards and snarl when their numbers aren't called. This weekly bingo game is played in the lobby of McDonald's restaurant in Westland.

The restaurant on the corner of Wayne and Warren roads has been hosting the card game since the place opened in 1986. Other McDonald's have bingo, some on a weekly or monthly basis.

But the kinship at this McDonald's is particularly interesting. People come from surrounding communities such as Plymouth, Canton and Wayne to play bingo as well as those from Westland.

Stakes aren't high. The booty are blue coupons, good for free food and drinks at McDonald's.

Games would hardly go down into the Bingo Hall of Fame, if there was such a thing. Some players have a difficult enough time keeping up with only three cards while tackling such bingo challenges as "postage stamp," "Little Joe" and "coverall."

The real jackpot is the players themselves, who chat, cackle and chortle while putting down their chips.

The people who come in are neat," said Suzanne Wieszkowiak, store marketing director for McDonald's. "You get to know them. Some people like this guy can give you grief, but it's all right."

THIS GUY is Minard, who between good natured quips with other players manages to keep track of the numbers and tell his story.

Minard lives in nearby Holliday Park, visiting McDonald's up to six times a week where he gets free colfee. His wife died in 1973. He retired as an engineer 10 years ago.

When not at the fast-food restaurant, Minard keeps busy ballroom dancing five times a week and "traveling around." Aside from visiting his girlfriend in Clearwater, Fla., he's been three-quarters around the world to Africa, Australia and Europe. He mentions how he was able ""They're out for blood," said Evelyn Hicks of Plymouth, 70, who's been coming to bingo since it was started at McDonald's. "We're just out for entertainment."

The McDonald's bingo games allow for friendships to develop. Or, in the case of Teresa Santiago and Antonia Sousa, for them to continue.

Both lived on Bagley Avenue in Detroit. In fact, Santiago recalls how when she was in the hospital giving birth to her first child, she turned to see Sousa doing the same.

But, as friends do, they lost track of one another later in life. Santiago moved to Puerto Rico for awhile before returning to the area.

A couple of months ago, Santiago had just gone through the line for breakfast when she noticed someone who looked familiar staring back.

"SHE SAID, 'Do I know you?' She started hugging me and people were watching us," says Santiago, recalling the day. "It was so beautiful." So, every Tuesday, Santiago and Shortly after 10:30 a.m., the game breaks up. Ziegler gathers up the cards and chips.

"You did really well, Maureen," says Helen Poet, 78, of Westland to the rookie. "You call the numbers loud enough to where everybody hears them. If they don't, it's because-they're not paying attention."

Minister uses music to reach out to congregation

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

In Ottumwa, Iowa, they were just opening their first shopping mall when the Rev. David Bevington left. Imagine what he found when he and his family arrived in Livonia. "In Iowa, when you leave the city" there's corn and soybeans until you get to the next city," Bevington said

'The biggest challenge is to get the youth involved, but that's a challenge with all the churches.

-Rev. David Bevington Livonia pastor

Through the ears of corn Beyington has found his way to the ears of the congregation, at Grand River Raptist Church in Livonia.

Bevington arrived at the church on Six Mile next to Stevenson High School in February, replacing the Rev. Ronald Carey, who left for a new position in Saginaw.

BEVINGTON, 53, has the storyteller's eye for detail. He has a way of pulling out a nugget of trivia to make conversation more interesting. . In discussing his background, he mentioned that Ottumwa and Kittanning, Pa., where he was raised, are both American Indian phrases for "next to a place of the great river." But one of his favorite ways of reaching members of the congregation is through music. Beyington is an accomplished keyboard player.

ment until his 30s, when an 85-yearold woman gave him plano lessons, He would go to nursing homes and play for the people there as well as the congregation at the church.

BEVINGTON LEFT Iowa for a new challenge; a new audience for whom to perform.

He describes the membership of Grand River Baptist Church as conservative but open to new ideas. He has a few of those. • 2

Some of those center around using the media. He talks of perhaps starting a cable television show and doing radio spots.

"THE BIGGEST challenge is to get the youth involved, but-that's-a challenge with all the churches. We have young couples, but I'd like to see more of them." Bevington didn't learn the instru- In order to increase interest Out of the small congregation, five

As a minister of an American Baptist Church, Bevington has more freedoni,

The church is not tied to a central governing body. The American Baptist Church is one of only a few Baptist denominations that allow women as preachers.

BEVINGTON HAS been ordained in the American Baptist Church for 25 years. He begin ministering at First Baptist Church of Ashland (Pa.), moving to Clarence, N.Y., where he was pastor for three years. Some 16 years of Bevington's career were spent in Springville, N.Y.

people went on to be ordained ministers.

His calling to the ministry came at 17 while attending a Youth for Christ meeting in Pittsburgh, Pa.

A MAN DID a chalk art ministry, leading Bevington to concentrate his studies in the seminary.

A chalk art ministry involves a person doing a picture in chalk on a blackboard. Black light and fluorescent lights are synchronized with music to provide a illuminated feel to the art work."

Until recently, Bévington had his own chalk art ministry. Instead, he focuses on his Yamaha keyboard.

"I thought he was very good, personally," said Max Paul Sassaman of Ottumwa, Iowa, who attends First Baptist Church, where Bevington was minister.

The Rev. David Bevington is the new pastor of the Grand River Baptist Church of Livonia.

"He was always active in the community. He'd go out to the nursing homes and put on programs there every month."

Mothers deserve credit for contributions

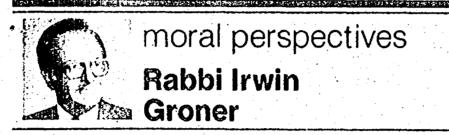

A mother is a woman who, one Sunday in May, is presented with a ruffled blouse or perfume. Or breakfast in bed. A phone call anyway. And honored with a Presidential Proclamation. A modern writer said "In America, one day each year is devoted to Mother, an entire week to pickles."

Mothers come in all sizes, shapes and conditions. Sometimes, as far as their children are concerned, they're the only game in town: almost-20 percent of all American households are maintained by women only. Married or single, more than half of those with chil-'dren under 18 work -- simply because they reed the money.

Many of them are mothers by choice; others aren't. Some have a talent for childrearing; others don't. But those who do everything right may turn out unsuccessful, while those who do everything wrong may be rewarded with jewels.

MOTHERHOOD IS more than a matter of bearing children. That's a biological experience. Motherhood is having a great deal of influence on the character of children, their approach to life, their values, and their ability to cope with the world. Talent, achievement and a fulfilling outlook on life itself are directly affected by the quality of the mothering process. Some years ago, a well-known actress accepted an Academy Award and declared "Thank you, mother, for whatever you did." Mom likes that kind of thanks. She tried her best. She is not too sure about what she did either. Depending on the decade, mothers are told to consult the experts or follow their instincts; to show their feelings or hide them; to allow the twig to bend or train it from the start. And no matter which route they choose, they're never quite sure the other wouldn't have been better.

can be covered with just a sprinkling of compost

Medium-sized seeds need to be planted just below the surface; a light dusting with soil will be. sufficient covering, while larger seeds need a little more. Generally, seeds are planted at a depth of 2-3 times their greatest diameter, but the methods just described work well. If covered too thickly a crust may form and make it hard for the young shoots to break through, especially if the weather is hot and dry.

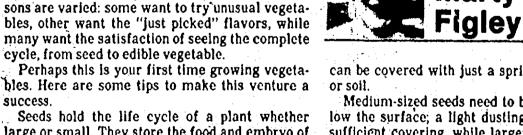

CAREFULLY WATER these furrows with a controlled stream. A sprinkling can with the head removed works well. Don't let soil dry out. One good way to help in this regard is to carefully position boards above the seed beds so that they are shaded; until the first sprouts appear. Plastic row covers are also available commecially.

These thinnings can be put in a bucket with approximately four inches of water to which has been added one tablespoon of a complete soluable fertilizer and later set in another area of the garden. They'll keep for a day or two in this water solution.

Early starters for outdoor seeding are considered "cool crops." These include carrots, peas, beets, cabbage and lettuco families, radish, onions, and swiss chard. When the ground becomes warmer, such things as beans, spinach, squash, melons, and tomatoes can be planted,

Try these vegetable garden tips

Seeds hold the life cycle of a plant whether large or small. They store the food and embryo of a new plant. After the seed is ripe and planted in soil, it will germinate and then become a plant. Mother Nature knows what she is doing.

Good Garden Tip: Fertilizer applied around

Although many gardeners begin with flowers, vegetables soon creep into our gardens. The rea-

Most seeds require light for germination, but some don't. Soll temperature requirements are different, too. Some have a hard coating and need to be scarified (scraped, nicked or soaked in water) before germination will occur. A good garden book will help in this regard and will also give germination times and spacing directions, There-Is also a wealth of information on the seed packels.
