H.A.U. CHAIRMAN'S MESSAGE

Haitian Heritage Month is a time when Haitians and Haitian Americans can gather in memory of our rich past, a past that has largely been hidden from us and forgotten by many. It is a time when we are given the opportunity to learn about many of our contributions and accomplishments, which have historically been denied, neglected, and taken for granted.

Haitian Heritage Month is a period when the younger generations can take time to listen to current community leaders about their own experiences and struggles when they were young. It is a time when all can come together to remember all those thousands of brave men and women who laid down their lives to give us the freedom that we enjoy today.

It is also an opportunity to clarify many of the misrepresentations about our rich and vast history and culture and the misunderstandings and false assumptions regarding our resilient, hardworking Haitian people. This month promotes and provides opportunities for open dialogue and personal interactions among many cultures. While we are honoring our past, embracing the present and celebrate the many contributions to this great America, as Soren Kierkegaard puts it "Life can only be understood backwards; but it must be lived forwards." We would like to invite you to begin and engage into meaningful conversations and interactions that can lead to a better understanding of the experiences and daily dilemmas each of us goes through as we contribute to our families and to our larger society. "As Haitians and Haitian-Americans, the upheavals created by then current sociopolitico-economic environment impacted our lives on many fronts with far-reaching consequences. In the face of adversity, however, we were resilient, and we remained steadfast in our pursuit for social justice for our compatriots. As we are moving forward, we must promise to renew our efforts in our fight for justice and equality for all.

This year marks the 19th anniversary of the Haitian-Americans United, Inc., which coincides with the 215th anniversary of our flag. When he was betrayed and forced to resign as the Governor of the Colony, Toussaint Louverture, the precursor of our independence, said: "In overthrowing me, you have done no more than cut down the trunk of the tree of the black liberty in St Domingue. It will spring back from the roots, for they are numerous and deep. His solemn and prophetic declaration would not take long to become reality, as the Indigenous army, led by Jean-Jacques Dessalines, decisively defeated the great Napoleon army at Vertières on November 18, 1803 to create the first independent black republic. To this day, their collaborative efforts remain the only successful slave revolt in the history of the world. Let us salute our heroes of independence, who so valiantly fought for our freedom while we also honor those who are still fighting for a better Haiti. Yes, the fight to improve the quality of lives of our compatriots is still on. Whether it is to prevent the breakup of families through effective immigration policies, or to preserve culturally and linguistically adapted education, or to establish a Haitian Cultural Center in Boston, we must heed the glorious example of our forefathers. So, in the spirit of solidarity, I am exhorting all of you, including our partners and elected officials, to coalesce around a common cause with a firm commitment to propel our community to new heights and to empower our future generations.

Happy Heritage Month. Bón Fét Eritaj Ayisyen Heureuse Fete de l'heritage Haitian

Grand Marshall's Bio:

Dr. Geralde Gabeau, founder and executive director of IFSI-USA, is a community advocate dedicated to helping recent immigrants to successfully integrate into the social and economic fabric of the United States. Dr. Gabeau has been charged with leading the strategic direction and vision for IFSI-USA and, most recently, with fighting to ensure that Haitians with Temporary Protected Status (TPS) can remain in the U.S.

Dr. Gabeau's advocacy is informed by her personal experience as a first-generation immigrant and her extensive work in public health initiatives, particularly those focused on women and children, both in the U.S. and in her native Haiti. She excels at building collaborative strategic partnerships to address the needs of children and families within our communities. Since 2003, she has played various leadership roles in the Haitian community, developing and directing multiple programs, supervising staff, ensuring effective partnerships, providing fiscal accountability, and managing numerous federal grants.

Dr. Gabeau has a doctorate in strategic foresight from Regent University, a master's degree in public health from Boston University, and a master of science in management from Cambridge College. Her research portfolio includes Leading from the Future for Leaders, a new approach to understanding the present through a futurist lens. Dr. Gabeau lives with her husband, Evans Gabeau, their daughters, Gevaniah and Angie, and their son, Gevans, in Boston, Massachusetts.

Dr. Gabeau is a linchpin in the Haitian community, an ally of the broader immigrant community, and a key partner to advocates across Eastern Massachusetts. She has received multiple awards for her work as a steadfast leader and a voice for those who cannot speak for themselves.

Grand Marshall's Message

Dear Compatriots, Friends and Allies of the Haitian Community,

May 18, 1804 – May 18 2018- 214th anniversary of our Independence.

How fitting it is to choose "Embracing our Past and Celebrating Haitians' Contributions to America" as our theme for the 2018 Haitian Heritage celebration. In fact, one needs to look no further than to our cover page magazine to understand the symbolic nature of our celebration. On one side, the great Toussaint Louverture, representing all of those who bled and fought for freedom and justice, and on another side, we have Pierre Toussaint, a former slave from Haiti, who became a philanthropist in New-York and established an orphanage for refugees while offering them employment opportunities. Those two iconic figures help us share brilliantly our narrative as a people of courage, determination, love and compassion. We fought against oppression and we cared for and welcomed those in need. We were among the very first nations to give temporary protective status to various groups of people in need of resettlement. Throughout history, we put into application what the bible says: "Do not oppress a foreigner; you yourselves know how it feels to be foreigners, because you were foreigners in Egypt." (Exodus 23:9).

When we look at our past, we cannot help it but to honor and celebrate our forefathers who fought for liberty and justice for all. Proclaiming Haiti as the first Black independent republic in 1804, was not an easy act. In fact, it caused the opposition of every nation, including the United States of America, against us. However, it sent a signal to the entire world that slavery was wrong, and all men were created equal in God's image and deserve to live in a free and just world. This act put us on the map as the beacon of freedom for all occupied nations.

The second part of our theme is "Celebrating our Contributions to the US." We cannot do justice to this topic in this message because it will take us a lot of pages to talk about the social, economic and cultural contributions of Haiti not only to the world but to the USA in particular. We have inspired so many through our various forms of arts, films, books, paintings, music, etc. In 1779, we contributed to what we know today as the United States of America in the Battle of Savannah. We helped shape various generations of educators, lawyers, physicians, through the wave of Haitians professional who immigrated to the US in the early 1950's. A Haitian born by the name of Jean Baptiste Point du Sable is considered the founder of Chicago. To this date, every year, we, as proud and hard-working people, contribute millions to the US economy. This year, we are celebrating more than a flag, we are celebrating more than a moment in our history, we are celebrating the legacy our forefathers left for us. We are celebrating the prowess of our Heroes Toussaint Louverture, Jean-Jacques Dessalines, Henri Christophe, and so many others who shed their blood for this freedom we so enjoyed today. We embrace our past, we celebrate our contributions and we look forward to the future. This future will not be possible without the involvement of our new generation of Haitians and Haitian Americans living in the USA today. We sincerely hope this message inspires you all to continue the fight. The fight did not end and should not end with the passing of our ancestors, because the struggle has taken and continues to take many forms today in our new society. Remember the last words of Toussaint Louverture, before taken to prison in France: "In overthrowing me, you have done no more than cut down the trunk of the tree of the black liberty in St. Domingue—it will spring back from the roots, for they are numerous and deep." You are the roots, you must continue to learn about your past and make a determination to leave a legacy for your children and grandchildren. You must uphold this tradition of fighting for social and economic justice.

May God Bless the people of Haiti, May God Bless the People of the United States of America!

Temporary Protective Status (TPS): What if Haiti's Jean-Jacques Dessalines had started the Temporary Protective Status (TPS) concept in the Americas?

Charlot Lucien – January 12 2018

The Department of Homeland Security, under pressure from the White House announced early this year the termination of the "Temporary Protection Status" (TPS), granted to Haitians in the wake of the Haiti 2010 earthquake. Such status has been offered since the early 1990s to citizens from countries that have been impacted by major tragedies – from natural disasters to persecution stemming from war or discrimination.

Of course, no one should be in the painful situation of leaving their country, memories to relocate an entire family in a foreign land under duress. But "stuff happens" - as they say. Natural disasters, war, epidemics... Ask Europeans through history who have seen droughts, wars, persecutions. So the temporary protective status is at time the humane thing to do. To allow people sufficient time to transition. A dignified transition back home; or a transition to become citizens in the land unforeseen circumstances forced them to flee for protection. All these options can be viewed as pragmatic, honorable policies to pursue, without maligning, slandering individuals who have lived honorable lives in their host communities. That includes "those" Haitians, Hondurans, and Salvadorians, various victims of tragedies from Caribbean, Asian or African.

While a certain quote from a the President of the United State made wave, back on January 11, 2018, the irony is that Haitians may have started the TPS concept as early as 1803 in the Americas with Haiti's independence founder Jean-Jacques Dessalines. Better, he made the TPS concept a permanent protective status. Let's borrow a few facts from History:

- 1803: Polish soldiers of the armies of Napoleon Bonaparte sent to restore slavery in Haiti, deserted and joined the rebellious Haitian troops of General Jean-Jacques Dessalines in their struggle against slavery. Unable to return to Poland after the defeat of the French troops, they were offered land and protection as citizens of Haiti by Jean-Jacques Dessalines.
- 1804: After Haiti's independence of Haiti, Jean-Jacques Dessalines offered the equivalent of $40 to American or British ships captains who would deliver slaves from Jamaica or from the US to Haiti... Haiti continued Dessalines's tradition later throughout the 20th century.
- 1916-1918: Arabs from Lebanon fleeing WWI migrated to America; a number of them settled permanently in Haiti and their descendants are today prosperous Haitian citizens. In the forties, during WWII, Jews fleeing NAZI persecution went to the Haitian embassy in Poland where they received "citizenship documents" to travel to Haiti and establish permanent residency. Part of it explains how Israel was among the first countries to land in Haiti after the 2010 earthquake, bringing tangible solidarity.
- 1948: After the creation of the State of Israel, Palestinians leaving the region also migrated to America, and some relocated in Haiti, joining the previous cohort of Arabs residing in Haiti.

Haiti "invented" the TPS concept so to speak, back in 1803. Exactly 190 years before the US, making it "Permanent status" not just "Temporary". Enslaved Africans from the US, Europeans from Poland, Germany fleeing persecution... Arabs, Jews from the Middle East fleeing war... to cite a few.

Countries such as the United States, Canada can claim a humanitarian tradition of hospitality during the 19th and the 20th century. They can surely not afford to undermine such tradition by the voices of ignorance, bigotry prejudice or blatant racism in their interactions with Haiti, the nation that possibly first initiated the TPS concept, the nation that welcomed citizens from all nations throughout history and the nation that did not hesitate to name streets after the bravest and the best souls of the US from Senator Charles Summer, abolitionist John Brown, or Nobel Peace Winner Martin Luther King.

FROM NH STATE REPRESENTATIVE JEAN L. JEUDY

To all Haitian youth,

Today it is a pleasure for me to talk to you; I hope all of you are doing well. I take time in my busy schedule to tell you young men and women that you are very powerful in the world but especially in the US. I know sometimes it is hard for you because of discrimination of gender, color, national origins in some of America's most conservative states, but do not let nobody stop you from achieving something good. Get involved in your communities, be a volunteer in your district and ward, get to participate in the state and local politics. I believe that you can do it by reaching out for the young people in your area, register to vote, talk to your friends, family members and neighbors; with your determination and efforts you can definitely lead young voters like you in political races.

Young Haitians you can do it by building a real movement. You only need to have faith and determination, believe in yourself, and listen carefully to the politician because some of them are anti-immigrants.

Best regards, State Representative of NH Jean Jeudy

Today, we remain connected by a Haitian-American community that contributes greatly to the economic, social, cultural, scientific and academic fabric of the United States...

President Barack Obama From his Statement on Haitian Flag Day 2009

Our Nation is blessed by the diversity of our citizens. The hard work, values and contributions of Haitian Americans have made America stronger and better.

President George W. Bush From His 2005 Greetings to Haitian Americans Celebrating Haitian Heritage Month

Yrvanie Joseph: Winner of the 2018 Toussaint Louverture Scholarship

Like a "rose that grew from concrete," a phrase coined by Tupac Shakur, my motivation comes from the difficult circumstances I faced throughout my life. There were times where I could have "wilted" and gave up, but instead I used the challenges around me as inspiration for improving my life. Back in 2005, my dad, the most important man in my life, cheated on my family as my brother was newly born and made my mom a single mother. From then on, my mom's advice to me was be strong on my own. I held on to her advice throughout life because I never wanted to falter, losing myself in the process. I knew that if I let any obstacle, whether it was big or small, conquer me then I would not be able to be successful in the real world. However, in 2010, something struck me that deeply affected my life and my ability to be optimistic. On Valentine's Day, my grandpa died. I never anticipated how much it would impinge my life. My family started to argue a lot as if he was the glue to the family. As they started drifting apart, I started feeling like I no longer had a true support system to push me. I lived life feeling down, and although I knew I had to be strong on my own, it started to seem impossible.

In high school, I made friends that helped me fill the void of a broken family. I enjoyed my first two years, but in January of my junior year, it took a drastic turn. I was emotionally, mentally, and physically hurt by someone who took advantage of me without my consent. Seeing the person everyday reminded me of the pain; at times feeling as if this person had ruined me. I battled with this burden, all the while, trying to maintain my academic performance. I was not able to focus the same anymore, I started to lack sleep, and a troubled memory. Although I still struggle with trauma of feeling like a victim, I have chosen to use this experience in a positive way. I refused to let this make me weak. I want to flourish into the flower I perceived myself to be. I started looking towards the positive aspects of my life, despite the negative that seem prominent. That was the real moment I learned how to be indomitable. It still is a challenge sometimes to love and appreciate myself, but I know I will get there. Most significantly, this experience taught me the importance of lifting up those around me. People view me as an optimistic young woman, who shares her message of positivity with anyone who may need it. As I reflect on this experience, no matter how difficult it was, I would not change the fact that it happened to me. These events helped me see my true potential. If I had a simple life with simple circumstances, then I would be a simple person. My determination to be strong prevented me from giving up on myself in my most difficult moments. Overall, I believe in the saying "everything happens for a reason." Without these factors, the girl you see in this essay would never have the motivation to even hope to bloom into the aspired flower.

I detail this experience to connect to the leader, Toussaint Louverture, who rose from his adversity by choosing to take lead out of it. He used his experience to unite others to reach for their own freedom. My personal experience is very common in society and is often overlooked.

As I grow up to go to college, I know there will be others worried about the same happening to them at parties and will need someone to reach out to. I am being open about what I faced to unite others, and shed light on the difficulties that come along. Being this person, helps me become stronger and promote those to be free in their own way by no longer holding sexual abuse within themselves. Today, I am still working on myself, to learn from what has happened and even if it has affected me long-term, I believe there are better things to look forward to Ahead.

Duckens is currently working for the MBTA as a Bus Operator. He has actively volunteered for several political campaigns. Duckens Petit-Maitre is driven to support his community and the people that he believes in.

Duckens is determining to bring safety in our community by expanding after school programs. He believes that schools should offer Comprehensive Education that provides information about the consequences on having any type of weapons including pros and Con's on having dangerous tools that can create disorderly. When it comes to substance abuse, he does not believe in what they called "Safe Injection Sites" especially for the Opioid crisis. Instead of creating that sites, which he also believe that out of the equation he proposing to have some Safe rehab Centers, where the people can get the exact help with their addictions. No ones should be encouraged to get sick, when someone is sick, and that person is looking for help treatment is the only best remedy to treat that person.

No one can represent the community better than Duckens Petit-Maitre. We are running a campaign focused on the issues that matter most. This election is so important to our community; we have an opportunity to make a real difference for families, children and seniors. I am running for State Senate in the First District to continue my record of service to our community. I want to improve the quality of this District, and help to move it forward for all of us. Leaders can certainly make a real difference. When elected, I will work extremely hard to create more affordable housings, and to modernize our community as a 21st century.

THANK YOU IN ADVANCE FOR YOUR SUPPORT!

Help Us Help Haiti to Addressing the Burden of Neurologic Disease

We developed an interdisciplinary global health team at Boston Medical Center, including residents, fellows, attending neurologists, nurses, and interpreters to provide care in Haiti. Through collaboration with the American Academy of Neurology and the St. Luke Foundation we are able to provide a continuous presence at a Haitian-run, non-profit hospital and rehabilitation center where neurologic care is provided for one week each month.
