Holstein Farmer's Market returning

by MICHAEL HOHENBRINK MID-AMERICA PUBLISHING he Farmer's Market in Holstein will be back, albeit in a different location for the summer.

Members of the Holstein Chamber of Commerce heard recently that Christina Kjar Hanson has taken over duties for the farmer's market. Up this year is a venue change, now heading to 2nd and Highway 59 in the area of CornerHaus 101.

Branding for the farmer's market will see it now called "Market on Main" with hours every Tuesday. Kickoff will be June 7 for patrons hoping for a tasty treat or something homegrown.

Some visible changes could be in the works for downtown with the city looking to update its stop light poles.

Right now, Holstein is in the process of seeking grant funding for the effort.

Additionally, chamber is seeking $10,000 to update the Christmas lights used.

OABCIG board: Not looking to close Odebolt center

■ by MICHAEL HOHENBRINK MID-AMERICA PUBLISHING

Rumors have been swirling, but OABCIG officials insist no plans are in place to shutter the school in Odebolt.

"The district is not looking to close the Odebolt elementary," said Superintendent Matt Alexander. And again these are the numbers we have right now. We all know those could change Day One of school, but we have to make plans and preparation for it.

Galva beginning RAGBRAI planning

■ by MICHAEL HOHENBRINK MID-AMERICA PUBLISHING

While the chill in the air might still feel like winter some days, this summer's RAGBRAI passage through the area is already hot on the minds of many with Galva City Council looking at how best to get ready for the ride.

RAGBRAI kicks off Sunday, July 24 and will end the day in Ida Grove after venturing through Battle Creek as well in Ida County with the Monday, July 24 portion heading into Galva. From there, riders will head to Schaller and Nemaha and Fonda.

For its parts, Galva expects to welcome thousands during the day with vendors out to greet visitors.

During the April 11 meeting, city council talked about regulation for the vendors who set up shop for the day. Locals will pay a $50 vendor fee while non-locals will be charged $100.

A $50 clean up fee will be in place for all.

The city will provide 10 port-a-potties for the day for visitors with the order being placed.

During the day, riders will travel 71.2 miles as they climb 1,694 feet on their way to overnight in Pocahontas before ending Rather, balancing declining enrollment and budget constraints is on the minds of officials.

"What we are facing is a large number of kindergarten students in our Odebolt building, 30 I believe is the number," said Alexander.

The district does not want to have to hire an additional staff member, a burden for the district's budget.

Splitting into two sections each in Ida Grove and Odebolt is the plan, said Alexander.

As such, nine preschoolers and five TK would be moved into the Ida Grove building as part of the plan as the district looks to move a preschool instructor, who is also certified to teach kindergarten, up to teaching kindergarten.

over to Ida Grove. That additional time, for a four-year-old to be stuck on a bus, was questioned, particularly with Iowa law's cap on how long a child can be on a bus daily.

"Why does Odebolt always have to make the accommodations for their students?" asked one parent.

Alexander said that once a child has been bused in and is waiting at the Odebolt center ahead of being taken to the Ida Grove building, the clock restarts for bus time for the day, so the plan would not run afoul of the law as long as it's not continuous.

That parent then raised the idea of just skipping sending the child to preschool and waiting to begin with kindergarten.

Concern over how Odebolt students are treated by other children was also raised. "[Other students] make fun of their book bags, make fun of their hairstyles, Call them 'slick'," complained one parent. "Those kids don't belong together."

Lawsuit alleges sexual harassment

■ by MICHAEL HOHENBRINK MID-AMERICA PUBLISHING

A civil lawsuit filed in Ida County is seeking damages after a woman was allegedly subject to sexual harassment at her Holstein-based employer.

VT Industries has been named as a defendant in the case filed by Cheryl Maynard, of Charter Oak.

The plaintiff complains she was subject to repeated sexual harassment during the time of her employment.

According to the filing, Maynard suffer both verbal and physical harassment including groping and profanity, her filing alleges.

Efforts to work through company channels were not successful.

"Plaintiff's complaints were continuously not taken seriously," said Maynard's filing.

Maynard's employment with the company began in 2009, and she is still employed, according to her filing.

Back in June 2020, Maynard initiated a complaint with the Iowa Civil Rights Commission.

After a review, Maynard received authorization from the Iowa Civil Rights Commission in January of this year with a Right to Sue letter.

VT Industries has facilities in multiple states with locations in Iowa including Clarksville and Sac City along with Wisconsin, Oregon, Texas and Georgia and in Canada.

Maynard's filing was made in Ida County District Court.

No hearing date has so far been set.

xpansion and renovation of emergency and laboratory areas at Horn Memorial will be aided by a $1 million grant.

Grant funding from the United States Department of Agriculture was announced recently with Horn Memorial among recipients.

The hospital's expansion is expected to create more room for testing equipment, a help for processing testing as well as vaccine storage.

Ida County's grant tied with two others for the largest single grant award in Iowa with the awards. Shelby County's Chris A. Myrtue Memorial Hospital, of Harlan, and Regional Health Services, of Cresco, both also took grants of $1 million.

The Harlan hospital will use its award for emergency room work including both addition as well as renovation while the Cresco hospital will building a new clinic with 3,900 square feet with nine examination rooms, three nurses' station and three offices as well as a procedure room.

Also regionally, Pocahontas Community Hospital was awarded grant funding as well.

That hospital received $344,200 for the purchase of equipment including

X-ray machines, chemistry analyzers, cardiac rehab, monitoring systems, ventilators and ultraviolet disinfection.

"These grants are big investments in Iowa's healthcare infrastructure, so that we can care for the people in our hometown communities and rural areas," said Theresa Greenfield, state director USDA Rural Development in Iowa. "As an advocate for rural Americans, USDA is funding critical facilities to make medical services more modern and accessible. By moving fast to improve rural hospitals, we are helping create more positive healthcare activities and outcomes for our family, friends, and neighbors all across Iowa."

Ida Grove's Weber Sees Team Earn Second Place Honors

Iowa State University's meat judging team returned home after a successful week of judging contests with second place at the Midwestern Invitational Intercollegiate Meat Judging Contest.

ISU earned second place honors behind the Illinois team (five teams in contest). In division results, the team finished first in lamb judging, pork judging and total placings and finished second in beef judging, reasons, and specifications. Ty Houston (Mondamin) was high individual in the contest and won beef grading and specifications; was third in pork judging; fourth in total placings and finished fifth in lamb judging. Jacob Ludeking (Norway) was third in lamb judging; Kylee Weber (Ida Grove) was third in total placings and Danielle Winslow (Culver City, CA) was third in beef judging.

At the Southeastern Intercollegiate Meat Judging Contest hosted by The Ohio State University and the University of Kentucky, the ISU judgers returned home as the Reserve Champion Team behind the University of Illinois - Champaign (14 teams in contest). The team won the beef judging and total placings divisions; was second in overall beef; third in beef grading; fourth in lamb judging and pork judging; and fifth in reasons and specifications. Houston was eighth high individual in the contest, as well as fourth in pork judging and eighth in beef grading. Christina Speicher (New Hampton) was ninth high individual in the contest, fourth in total placings, and seventh in beef judging and overall beef. Winslow was tenth high individual in the contest, fifth in total placings, ninth in beef judging, eighth in overall beef, and ninth in pork judging. Weber finished ninth in lamb judging and total placings. Claire Cunningham (Trumbull, CT) was third in beef judging and eighth in total placings.

Shelby County State Bank ("SCSB") has closed its merger agreement with First State Bank, headquartered in Ida Grove. SCSB is headquartered in Harlan, with eight bank locations in Harlan (2), Elk Horn, Panama, Portsmouth, Irwin, Shelby, and Avoca. With the merger, SCSB expands its footprint to a total of six counties throughout Southwest and Northwest Iowa, adding five locations to SCSB, including offices in Ida Grove, Battle Creek, Danbury, Mapleton, and Odebolt. The merger brings SCSB's total assets to approximately $550 million, with $500 million in deposits, and a total of 86 employees. "First State Bank, like SCSB, is a strong community bank, with a proud history and great reputation, sharing our values and commitment to the rural communities we serve," said Kevin Campbell, SCSB President & CEO. "Both banks share a common vision of providing superior customer service and improving the quality of our communities. Joining forces is a natural progression of our institutional growth and will provide mutual benefits to our customers."

There will be no changes to existing customer accounts at FSB during the initial transition. Following a system conversion which is scheduled to take place sometime in the next year, all First State Bank locations will operate as SCSB, with its suite of products and services.

Conservation Corner with Ida County Conservation: Creating a pollinator paradise

by DANIELLE BENNETT NATURALIST Ida County Conservation Board

Imagine a peanut butter and jelly sandwich without peanut butter or jelly, lemonade without lemons, chips and salsa without tomatoes, peppers, or onions. This would be our plate without pollinators such as bees, humming birds, and butterflies. One out of every three bites of our food comes from a pollinated plant. Pollination is also critical for many of the animal products we consume, including dairy and beef. These animals consume insect-pollinated legumes such as alfalfa and clover.

Bees are considered the most important pollinators because they actively collect pollen to feed to baby bees. Most pollinators are seeking the flower's nectar and are only passively collecting pollen. Bees also exhibit flower constancy. They forage for pollen, travelling from flower to flower of the same species. For instance a bee will fly from apple blossom to apple blossom to apple blossom. They will NOT go from apple blossom to dandelion to clover to apple blossom. The next foraging trip the same bee may go from clover to clover to clover – thus being selective for the same species of flowers on each foraging trip. This ensures pollination of the flower and development of the fruit/seed.

Honeybees are an essential, non-native pollinator insect. They live in colonies that can contain tens of thousands of individual bees. Honeybees can tell time, distinguish flower shape and color, and communicate with their sisters. These abilities have evolved as a means of increasing honey bees' efficiency as flower foragers. Managed hives of the European honeybee can take credit for most crop pollination, but there is trouble in relying on a single pollinator. Honeybees face many problems, including mites, diseases, pesticides and habitat loss. Most native bee species are solitary, unlike the social honeybee. North America has 4,000+ native bee species. Most native bee populations are in decline. One factor in their decline is habitat loss. The diverse prairie has been replaced with monoculture lawns and farms, as well as buildings and pavements. Another factor in their decline is herbicides which kill native plants often deemed as weeds, as well as insecticides intended for crop and garden pests that inadvertently kill bees.

There are steps you can take to help reverse the decline in native bee populations. Plant native plants that bloom throughout the growing season, especially early spring and late fall. Avoid buying plants at garden centers labeled to contain neonicotinoids. If you must spray insecticides, spray them close to dawn or dusk when bees are less active. Dandelions are one of the first blooming flowers in the spring and are an important food source for pollinators. Wait to spray the dandelions in your yard until later in the spring when other flowers are blooming. You can also help by placing a bee house in your garden for native bees. Ida County Conservation is hosting a bee house building workshop on Sunday April 24th at 1pm. Please register by Wednesday April 20 by calling 73-364-3300, or emailing idacountynaturalist@gmail.com.

Out of the Past

40 years ago Autotrol says 'no' to city's offer

Ida Grove's negotiations with the Autotrol Corp. in regard to defective shafts at the waste treatment plant entered another round when the Milwaukee company rejected a counter offer the city had advanced. In February, the city rejected a settlement offer from the company, and in turn made the counter offer. The city's next move will be to decide whether it wants to come up with a final settlement figure and offer that to the company, or to take the matter directly to district court and bypass further negotiations. City council members are planning to meet sometime next week with their attorney and engineer to make that decision.

Autotrol is the supplier of the shafts in the RBC unit of the plant. It notified the city in May, 1980 that the shafts were defective and could break. However, in order to replace the shafts, the city discovered it would have to either jack up the roof of the building, or remove it, and then replace the roof once the shafts were replaced. One of the shafts, which support the large rotating bio disks in the plant, broke in February and still isn't operating. When it first told the city the shafts were defective, Autotrol offered to provide the four replacement shafts for free, although the city would have had to pay the shipping costs from Milwaukee, and would also have had to pay the replacement costs. In the proposal considered by the city council in February, Autotrol offered basically a materials and cash settlement. However, the city rejected units, nor did we participate in the supply or erection of the building." The Autotrol letter continues that the company can't accept the city's counter offer because it "would require Autotrol to underwrite the cost of extensive modifications and improvements to a building which we did not recommend and did not supply."

30 years ago School board okays sharing issues

The Ida Grove school board heard from Kate Kramer, the high school student council advisor, who reviewed results of polls taken at Battle Creek and Ida Grove high schools regarding a mascot and school colors. The student bodies of both schools favored by more than 90 percent black and silver for school colors, rather than the blue, red, and white approved by the boards. Both student bodies also approved the "falcon" as the school mascot. Most board members felt that if the students favored the colors and mascot choice by such an overwhelming percentage, they should be allowed to have them.

Contingent on the Battle Creek board's decision, the board voted to purchase football jerseys in black and silver with the Falcon mascot, since football jerseys were needed immediately. The board also recommended current Ida Grove and Battle Creek uniforms be used for the other sports throughout whole grade sharing, and be replaced with black and silver as the old ones wear out.

Several Ida Grove coaches discussed their concerns about conducting practice during the 45-minute middle school activity period. Most indicated that would not provide enough time to suit up and practice. Sheldon Groote pointed out the board would need to commit itself to either participation or quality programs, and indicated that achieving both would be tough to do, based on the time allotted and the space available. Groote said he would prefer to see quality programs. He pointed out that seventh graders would need at least an hour of court time for basketball and eighth graders would need an hour and 15 minutes court time. "Assuming these students learn the fundamentals and teamwork, at the varsity level practice can be accomplished in one and a half hours," Groote reported.

In other sports discussion, the board reviewed a breakdown of basketball sportsmanship ratings for the Maple Valley district. Ida Grove received the lowest average ratings of players, fans, and coaches for both girls and boys basketball. In girls basketball, Odebolt-Arthur carried the highest average ratings, while Galva-Holstein had the highest in boys basketball. It was noted that Ida Grove's low ratings were "unhealthy for the school and community" and the board should encourage an improvement in sportsmanship.

20 years ago City council discusses sirens

The Ida Grove City Council discussed warning sirens with emergency management coordinator Ed Sohm. Sohm told the council he is looking into why the warning sirens in town are not working properly. They failed to operate during the recent statewide tornado drill. Sohm noted that schools, hospitals, nursing homes, and some city halls do have old pagers purchased from the Ida Grove Fire Department. In case of severe weather, they can be used to warn those facilities. Sohm said the state Emergency Management Agency currently supports the use of weather radios, rather than outdoor warning sirens. The only problem is Ida Grove gets poor weather radio reception. The state is promising to install another tower near Storm Lake, which would improve reception for Ida Grove, but that plan hasn't formulated as of yet.

"It will be a nice solution once they get it going," that offer, and made a counter offer that asked Autotrol to "replace the RBC units with Autotrol units, raise the height of the roof and replace the roof, and a four-year warranty on the new RBC shafts be included based on the actual costs as determined after obtaining cost estimates."

Autotrol's letter to the city council dismissed that counter offer, saying "we cannot consider the offer made in your letter to be a serious offer." Specifically, the company said it's troubled by the city's requirement that it pay the costs of replacing the shafts. The firm says it's under no obligation to do any work at the treatment plant, and adds "We did not recommend the use of a building to house the RBC

Sohm said. He added the current National Weather Service response time is unacceptable for Ida County. Warnings originate in Sioux Falls and from there go to Des Moines, then Denison before getting to Ida Grove 13 minutes later. Sohm and the council noted that, for now, the best option for residents in severe weather is to watch TV weather Doppler reports. Sohm was asked, if the TV says Ida County is in a tornado warning, at what point do you turn the sirens on? Sohm said it would be up to the city. After some discussion the council and Sohm agreed 15 miles was a safe distance.

"If a tornado is 15 miles from Ida Grove, I expect to hear sirens," said Mayor Dennis Ernst.

Bottle Bill compromise needed

The late emergence of the Bottle Bill this session sparked hope among myself and others that we could make an effort to save the remaining redemption centers and even expand the locations to return cans on which you have paid the deposit. The Senate bill brought all the industry groups together and addressed the handling fee, got dirty cans out of our food retailers, and modernized language to allow mobile redemption systems to make it even easier and less expensive for redemption centers to expand.

We had a few setbacks this week. After the Senate sent our bill over to the House I began speaking to the House members about differences of opinion in how to best save the bottle bill. Different sections of the bill would be compared, and we were starting to understand the other chamber's perspective. That changed when something changed in the House and suddenly they version without an agreement that we would accept the more complicated ideas.

The Senate bill was designed to be as simple and clear as possible. This was both to make it easy to explain and administer. We streamlined who would enforce provisions and provide specific computer support. We set a simple standard as to when retailers would be required to take cans and when they could stop. We made it easy to set up a mobile redemption system and get more locations quickly.

The now-passed House bill takes a few points, such as a three-cent handling fee and mobile redemption language, but it complicates the retail redemption by retaining the old system of a retail store having to take cans unless they are within a number of miles of a redemption center. Iowa counties are divided between large and small counties, making a difference in stores having to be either ten or fifteen miles from a redemption center to be excluded from redeeming cans.

Worse, other retailers are exempted if they have a certified "Certified Food had decided to run their Safety Specialist." It is another complicated system the private sector and Iowa Dept. of Natural Resources will have to work through.

The worst part of the process is, that while talks were progressing, suddenly a deadline was imposed by the House. In the course of an afternoon, an amendment replacing the language in the Senate bill was offered and adopted.

Procedurally, I'm afraid this action may lock everyone into difficult to bridge positions. I'm guessing this decision was made in the Speaker's office, as the House bill manager had been open to conversation.

It is common for one chamber to want to put their fingerprints on a popular subject when a bill is received from the other chamber, but adding complications and short-circuiting productive negotiations is rare. As we move toward the last weeks of session, the bottle bill will be added to the list of end-of-session bills that often get tabled and must be refiled next year. If so, I would pursue a different strategy to try to keep the whole bill from being held hostage for one or two sections

Working To The End

By Matt Windschitl House Majority Leader We are approaching the 100th day of session at the Statehouse, which is the typical end date during the second session of the General Assembly.

Unfortunately, it does not appear as though we will be able to make this deadline for final adjournment. This has happened in previous years so it is not unusual; however, it is disappointing to many legislators who have worked hard all session and need to get back to their day jobs and families.

The usual hold up is negotiations on the budget and policy pieces that are part of final deliberations.

At this point in time, House Republicans have sent all of our budget proposals to the Senate, with the exception of the final budget bill (Standings), which is typically reserved until the final days of session as a catchall bill. The Senate however has yet to send a single budget proposal to the House for continued negotiations.

The House Republican caucus has worked tirelesslv to get the job done you sent us here to accomplish. We have passed numerous policy bills this year that address concerns we have heard from constituents back home. We have also passed budget proposals that focus on the needs of Iowans while still balancing the budget in a responsible and sustainable manner. I would be remiss if I did not also highlight that we passed a monumental income tax cut that leaves your money in your pocket and not the government's.

House Republicans will continue to work hard on your behalf to conclude session in a timely fashion. While there is still work to be done, we remain committed to the principles and priorities you elected us to uphold. Smaller government, balancing the budget, returning your tax dollars to you, protecting Iowans' freedoms and making Iowa the best place to live, work and raise your family.

Golden Horizons plans Spring Health Fair

Golden Horizons in Ida Grove is sponsoring a Spring Health Fair Thursday, April 28. This event is open to the public from 1 to 7 p.m., and admission is a food item for the food pantry.

There are several local agencies and vendors who will have information about their services and products. Health services include Golden Horizons Asst. Living, Ida Co. Community Health, St Croix Hospice, Angels Care Home Health, Crittenton Center, Willow Dale Wellness Village,

Care Initiatives Hospice, Cherokee Regional Medical Center and Holstein & The Ridge Senior Living. There are also agencies that provide multiple services to the area such as Connections Area Agency on Aging and Ida County Farm Bureau. Wilsch Family Farm, Jared and Lauren Schmidt, will have samples of their home-grown pork products; Phyllis Groth will have Tupperware for sale and the Ida Co Sheriff's Office will be present to talk about safety and the local neighborhood watch programs.

"With everyone being home bound during the past two years of Covid, we thought it was time to re-introduce the agencies in our area," said Karla Meier, marketing manager at Golden Horizon. "People need to know there are programs to help them and that local resources are available. This will be an afternoon where people can come in, meet those who can answer questions, and see what assistance is available in our surrounding area."

At-Home Medication Safety

Spring cleaning takes on an entirely new meaning when talking about getting rid of expired or unsafe medicines. Although this is not something most have on their yearly to do lists, it is something we should all consider

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration says the medicine expiration date is critical when determining if a product is safe to use and will work as intended. Medications past their expiration date may not be as strong as intended, and even their chemical composition may change, making them risky to keep around. Furthermore, keeping too many medications in a home - particularly pain prescriptions - can lead to misuse and abuse, as the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration says that rates of prescription drug abuse in the United States have risen considerably in recent years.

er they are prescription or over-the-counter medicines. The best way to do so is to take medication to a hospital or pharmacy for proper disposal. It is not recommended to dispose of medicines in the garbage or flushing them down the toilet.

•Discard any unmarked containers or pill foils that are not in their original packaging.

•Test any medical devices, such as a nebulizer, blood pressure monitor and glucose testing equipment to ensure they are in working order.

•Relocate medical supplies to an area that isn't high in humidity, as steam from showers can speed up the expiration of medication. Storing medicines in the refrigerator won't help, as that is a high-humidity area, too.

Secretary Mike Naig comments on federal E15 waiver

Iowa Secretary of Agriculture Mike Naig issued the following statement today in response to President Biden's planned announcement of a federal waiver allowing yearround sales of E15. This announcement comes after a July 2021 D.C. Circuit Court of Appeals decision reversing the Environmental Protection Agency's 2019 rule allowing yearround access.

"Today's announcement by President Biden is a step in the right direction, but it's long overdue and needs to be permanent. Iowans have been asking the administration to allow year-round sales of E15 long before fuel prices spiked, yet the President has prioritized electric vehicles powered by Chinese-built batteries," said Secretary Naig. "Renewable fuels have a multitude of benefits for our state and help our country re-establish energy independence. Year-round access to E15 means stronger markets for Iowa's farm families, more jobs in rural communities, cleaner burning, lowercost fuels for consumers and less dependence on foreign energy. It is a win for Iowans and Iowa agriculture."

Secretary Naig also reiterated his support for Governor Reynolds' E15 Access Standard legislation, House File 2128, which will increase consumer access to higher blends of ethanol and biodiesel.

"I want to thank Governor Reynolds for putting forward a bold plan to ensure Iowans have access to lower-cost, homegrown fuels. I'm hopeful that this critical piece of bipartisan legislation makes it to the Governor's desk for her signature very soon."

The Iowa renewable fuels industry accounts for more than $5 billion (roughly 3 percent) of Iowa's GDP, generating $2.5 billion of income for Iowa households and supporting almost 50,000 jobs throughout the state.

The Renewable Fuel Infrastructure Program (RFIP) has invested more than $50 million to help fuel marketers and retailers convert equipment to dispense and store renewable fuels.

Preparing for Spring Chicks: Tips and Resources for Success

Extension specialist answers common questions about rearing chicks

AMES, Iowa – As Easter approaches and spring chicks begin to appear at local farm stores, Iowa State University Extension and Outreach Youth Animal Science Education Specialist Amy Powell offers some tips and resources for those looking to try their hand at chicken rearing.

The first step to introducing poultry into a backyard farm is selecting a breed. Most backyard breeds are considered "dual purpose," which means they are raised for both meat and eggs.

"Most chicks available at farm stores are pretty hardy," explained Powell. "They're usually Rhode Island Reds, or a crossbreed like Black Star or Red Star."

Those looking to introduce several new chickens, or a special breed of chicken, can also use catalogs or an online service to order chicks. However, most ordering services require a minimum of six chicks in order to ship. Powell recommends using a local hatchery. "In my experience, it's less likely that a rooster might accidentally slip into the mix when you order from a hatchery rather than getting chicks at a farm store, but you will likely get healthy chicks either way," said Powell.

Housing is also an important consideration when building a flock. Chicks younger than six weeks require a brooding period, where they will need to be kept inside and warm. Powell recommends a 4-H publication from the University of Tennessee Extension, which addresses specific temperatures for brooding based on the chicks' age and answers other common questions about the process.

A chicken coop should also be safe from predators, including neighborhood cats and dogs. "Anything will eat a chicken, including dogs and cats, so predator awareness is essential," warned Powell.

While chicks generally tend to be healthy, in order to keep both people and poultry safe, it is important to maintain hygienic practices to keep them that way. It is important to have clean clothes, boots and hands around poultry to prevent illness.

"One thing to keep in mind is promoting good biosecurity, since chickens can carry salmonella," said Powell. "It is also important to be aware of highly pathogenic avian influenza, or HPAI, since there has been an increase in detections lately."

Poultry owners are encouraged to consult extension resources outlining good biosecurity practices and answering questions about HPAI. stages of growth. Chicks under six weeks should be given starter feed, which has a higher level of protein to promote healthy growth.

After six weeks, chicks being raised for meat should be given a finisher diet until they are processed, while those being raised as layers or for breeding purposes should be given a grower diet. At 20 weeks, or after hens begin laying, hens should be switched to a layer diet.

Finally, it is important to check local restrictions before bringing home chickens. In Ames, there are no restrictions on backyard chickens so long as they are being held in safe, sanitary housing and being kept reasonably quiet and healthy. However, different areas may have different restrictions.

Raising chickens is a fun and educational way to engage with agriculture and food production, especially for children. Powell recommends that children interested in raising poultry get involved with 4-H, where they can learn more about livestock and enter competitions. A short course offering advice on getting started with chickens is also available through the Iowa State University Extension and Outreach Extension Store. Keeping some simple tips in mind can make chicken ownership a rewarding experience.

Gerald Schmidt

ANTHEM, ARIZONA - Gerald Schmidt of Anthem, Arizona formerly of Ida Grove, Iowa went to be with his Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ on Jan. 19, 2022. As per his request, he was cremated. A Celebration of Life was held in Cave Creek, Arizona on April 2. Gerald Duane Schmidt, the fourth son of Walter and Helma (Schultz) Schmidt of Battle Creek, Iowa came into the world on April 5, 1945, during a spring blizzard. He grew up on the farm doing all the things farm boys did. He was baptized and later confirmed at St. Paul Lutheran Church at Midway which he faithfully attended until moving to Ida Grove. He attended Cushing public schools, and graduated with the class of 1963. In August, of 1963 Gerald began working at The Ida County State Bank, which later became the United Bank of Iowa. He held various positions within the bank with the Director of the Emerald 1945 - 2022Club and Trust Officer, being the one he enjoyed the most. Gerald and Pat have many great memories of the trips, outings, luncheons, card parties, movies, and other activities with the members.

After nearly 47 years, Gerald retired in 2010 from the only job he ever had. Gerald and Pat then moved to sunny Arizona where they enjoyed retirement together for almost 12 years. On May 2, 1965, Gerald and Patricia (Miller) were united in marriage at St. Paul Lutheran Church in Ida Grove. That day, saw a record temperature of 91 degrees which is still the record.

During the next few years, Gerald got his wish when they were blessed with two daughters. Kimberly Kaye was born on August 26, 1968, and Kristi Lynn was born on Nov. 28, 1972. He loved his two girls and was their biggest fan no matter what they did as they grew up. He is still their biggest fan. Gerald was a faithful member of St. Paul Lutheran Church in Ida Grove and later King of Kings Lutheran Church in Omaha, Nebraska. He willingly gave of his time and talents to both churches. After moving to Arizona, he became a member of Christ's Church of the Valley where he enjoyed attending Neighborhood Group. He was also very active in Jaycees and Kiwanis while living in Ida Grove. Gerald was an avid hunter. He hunted fox, deer, ducks, geese, pheasant, turkeys and even ground squirrels. He also enjoyed playing cards, golfing, fishing, bowling, movies and spending time on the pontoon at Lake View.

In later years he enjoyed anything to do with his grandkids and their activities. He was very proud of his grandchildren. After moving to Arizona, he became a huge fan of Cardinals football and Diamondbacks baseball. Gerald is survived by his wife of 56 years, Pat, two daughters, Kim (Bob) Hesselgesser and Kristi (Darrell) James, and three grandchildren, Nicholas, Emily, and Garrett Hesselgesser. He is also survived by two brothers, Ron (Elsie) and Cordell (Kristy) as well as extended family and friends. He was preceded in death by his parents, Walter and Helma, and brother, Burdette. Gerald struggled with many health issues and chronic pain but he never let it define who he was. He would say "it is what it is, but I'm still here." He always had such a positive attitude. When we would say to him "love you" he would say "love you more." May he rest in peace in his heavenly home.

Burial: April 2, A celebration of Life, Cave Creek, Arizona

by MELISSA R. COLLUM MID-AMERICA PUBLISHING

For the past 50 years, Earth Day has been celebrated by billions of people around the globe, annually every April 22, to join together in promoting awareness for the health of our environment. Why should we continue to celebrate this holiday? Some people may view it as just another holiday, or an excuse to wear green and a flower crown, but with serious concerns about our changing environment being studied and addressed today by prominent scientists, politicians, and young climate change activists alike. Additionally, many people are adapting to more environmentally friendly ways of living, every day, not just on April 22. For example people are participating in garden composting, recycling, repurposing, carpooling, thrifting, and using metal straws to save the turtles.

The idea for Earth Day was originally born in 1969, when U.S. Senator named Gaylord Nelson, witnessed the effects of a massive oil spill in Santa Barbara, CA. He called to action all Americans to take a stand for the environment in 1970, and thousands of colleges and universities across the United States organized protests for a healthy, sustainable Earth. This included air pollution from factories and freeways, as well as the loss of habitats for animals and animal extinction. As a result of these national rallies, the first Earth Day, April 22, 1970, helped create the United States Environmental Protection Agency and the Clean Air, Clean Water, and Endangered ed States) for his role as Earth Day 2022 founder. Today, it is now observed in 192 countries, and coordinated by the non-profit Earth Day Network.

Today, there are many similar concerns related to the health of Earth and unfortunately they are even messier than that original oil spill. Increasing natural disasters, extreme weather, and rising global temperatures may seem impossible for one human, let alone millions or even billions of humans, to slow down, or stop the changes happening to the planet. But one small action, picking up litter, participating in recycling, and many more individual actions have a huge impact. See Protecting the Planet Starts With You chart or check out EarthDay.org

Facts about the planet: There are 5.25 trillion pieces of plastic waste estimated to be in our oceans; 269,000 tons float, 4 billion microfibers per km² dwell below the surface. The largest trash site on the planet is the Great Pacific Garbage Patch, twice the surface area of Texas, it outnumbers sea life there 6 to 1. There are 300 million tons of plastic created yearly, and this weighs the same as the entire human population, and 50% is single-use only. Annually we discard 1 trillion plastic bags worldwide; joining them together would circle the globe 4,200 times. According to the World Health Organization air pollution kills an estimated seven million people worldwide every year. WHO data shows that almost all of the global population (99%) breathe air that exceeds WHO guideline limits containing high levels of pollutants. The Center for Disease Control states that climate change is projected to harm human health by increasing ground-level ozone and/or particulate matter air pollution in some locations. Ground-level ozone (a key component of smog) is associated with many health problems, such as diminished lung function, increased hospital admissions and emergency room visits for asthma, and increases in premature deaths.

Here are ten simple things you can do to help the planet:

1. Reduce, reuse, and recycle. Cut down on what you throw away. Follow the three "R's" to conserve natural resources and landfill space.

2. Volunteer. Volunteer for cleanups in your community. You can get involved in protecting your watershed, too.

3. Educate. When you further your own education, you can help others understand the importance and value of our natural resources.

4. Conserve water. The less water you use, the less runoff and wastewater that eventually end up in the ocean.

5. Choose sustainable. Learn how to make sustainable food choices. totaste.com/eating-sustainably

6. Shop wisely. Buy less plastic and bring a reusable shopping bag.

7. Use long-lasting light bulbs. Energy efficient light bulbs reduce greenhouse gas emissions. Also flip the light switch off when you leave the room!

8. Plant a tree. Trees provide food and oxygen. They help save energy, clean the air, and help combat climate change.

9. Don't send chemicals into our waterways. Choose non-toxic chemicals in the home and office.

Species Acts into law. When 1990 approached, a group of environmental leaders asked Denis Hayes to organize another big campaign. This time, Earth Day went global, mobilizing 200 million people in 141 countries and lifting environmental issues onto the world stage. In 1995, President Bill Clinton awarded Senator Nelson the Presidential Medal of Freedom (the highest honor given to civilians in the Unit-

Iowa DNR Fishing Report

Black Hawk Lake

Water levels are about 15 inches below the crest of the spillway. Water temperatures are in the upper 40s. Black Crappie- Fair: Most fish are 8- to 12-inches. Use small live minnows and marabou jigs fished from shore in Town Bay. Areas along the stone Pier floating T dock, the fish house and along Ice House Point are the most popular spots. Expect fishing action to slow as water temperatures cool with the recent colder temperatures. Walleye- Slow: Walleye action has been slow with cooler water temperatures. The walleye bite usually turns on mid-April through early May. Yellow Perch- Fair: Anglers are picking up some perch while targeting crappie with small live minnows and jigs. Some fish are 8to 10inches.

Brushy Creek Lake

Courtesy docks are in. The fishing action has been slow with the cool water temperatures. Expect more panfish action as water temperatures warm the next couple of weeks.

Storm Lake (including Little Storm Lake)

Water temperatures are in the mid to upper 40s. Anglers are fishing along shore and in the marina; the bite has slowed with the recent colder temperatures. All walleye between 19 and 25-inches must be immediately released unharmed at Storm Lake; no more than one walleye longer than 25-inches can be taken per day. Channel Catfish- Fair: Use cut bait along shore. Walleye- Fair: A few walleye are starting to be picked up in the marina. Yellow Bass- Fair: Anglers are catching keeper-sized yellow bass; bite is hit-or-miss. Yellow Perch-Fair: Use small minnows in the marina.

Water temperatures are in the upper 40's in most areas lakes. For more information, contact the Black Hawk District office at 712-657-2638.

OABCIG Mentoring: OABCIG High school mentors and their OABCIG Ida Grove elementary mentees enjoyed an hour of skating at the Ida Grove Skate Palace last week. Ninety students are involved in the program, which matches select high schoolers with elementary students who would benefit from the extra support and encouragement a high school 'buddy' can provide. 'Matches' meet weekly at the elementary from late October through the end of April. A generous donation from Larry and Tappy Hultgren provides physical support for our selected children, and also funds the mentoring shirts in the picture. These shirts are a gift of gratitude for the high schoolers and a source of pride for their mentees. Mentoring continues through the end of April.

If You Feel Different, You Drive Different

■ by MELISSA R. COLLUM MID-AMERICA PUBLISHING Drug Impairred Driving on 4/20

On Wednesday, April 20, there will likely be an increase in marijuana use. With an uncertain history, April 20 (more commonly known as 4/20) has become synonymous with marijuana use and, in some circles, the date is a marijuana "holiday." What 4/20 stands for varies from person to person. Some people just want to get high and have fun. Others see the day as a moment to push for legalization, or celebrate legalization that has occurred across the U.S.

To help keep drug-impaired drivers off the roads, the U.S. Department of Transportation's National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) is working to spread the message that drug-impaired driving of any kind is dangerous and illegal. NHTSA wants to remind all drivers: if you feel different, you drive different.

Like drunk driving, drug-impaired driving is illegal nationwide. According to NHTSA, between 2009 and 2018, of those drivers killed in crashes and tested for marijuana, the presence of marijuana had nearly doubled. In 2018, 46% of drivers who were killed in crashes and were tested for drugs, tested positive. In 2020, 56% of drivers who suffered serious injury from a car or motorcycle crash had tested positive for one or more illegal drugs. In 2017, Iowa State Patrol reported 40 deaths in drug-related collisions as compared with just 22 in 2014; a nearly 82% increase. This is why it's so important to spread this life saving message.

It does not matter what term is used: If a person is feeling a little high, buzzed, stoned, or wasted, they should not get behind the wheel. Driving while high is dangerous. According to the National Institute on Drug Abuse marijuana may impair judgment, motor coordination, and reaction time. Studies have found a direct relationship between blood THC concentration and impaired driving ability

Those who plan to use marijuana on 4/20 should have a plan in place and refrain from driving. Here are a few tips to help prepare for a safe night.

• If you have used an impairing substance such as marijuana, do not drive. Passengers should never ride with an impaired driver. If you think a driver may be impaired, do not get in the car.

• If you are drug-impaired, pass the keys to a driver who has not used marijuana and can safely drive you to your destination. Like drunk driving, it is essential that drug-impaired drivers refrain from driving a vehicle. It is never okay to drive while impaired by any substance.

• Do you have a friend who is about to drive while impaired by drugs? Take Regulatory Utility Commissioners, Iowa One Call, and Common Ground Iowa to remind Iowans during National Safe Digging Month to always schedule a utility location request through Iowa One Call or by calling 811 prior to beginning any digging work. Calling 811 is free - and it's the law.

Whether you are a resident, contractor, or professional excavator, a call to 811 or submitting information online to IowaOne-Call.com notifies operators with underground utility facilities of your intent to dig. Iowa law requires that any resident or professional excavator contact 811 or Iowa One Call a minimum of two business days before digging to prevent serious injuries, utility service disruptions, and possible costly repairs that could occur when buried gas, electric, communications, water, or sewer lines are damaged.

Once a locate request is submitted, utility companies visit the site, typically within two business days, to mark the underground utilities with color-coded flags and paint that indicate where utility lines are buried. The Attorney General's (AG) office enforces the One Call law and the IUB assists the AG by investigating One Call complaints. The IUB recommends following these steps before starting any digging project:

Plan ahead and always call 811 at least 48 hours before digging anywhere.

Consider relocating any digging project that is near utility line markings.

Confirm that any contractor you have hired has called 811. Don't allow digging if utility lines aren't marked.

Iowa's 811 call center is available to receive locate requests and assist with damage prevention needs. Learn more by visiting the Iowa One Call or Call 811 websites. Safe digging information is also available on the IUB website.

Ridge View performing 'The Diviners'

A unique offering will take stage at Ridge View as "The Diviners" opens.

The Diviners is the story of Buddy Layman, a 14-year-old boy who suffered brain damage after a traumatic accident when he was very young and his friendship with a backsliding preacher.

The story is set in rural Indiana during the Great Depression, The Diviners is a beautiful story of faith, doubt, love, and grief. Both dramatic and comedic, Buddy's story is heartwarming and heartbreaking. The ensemble cast features well-meaning friends, family members, and neighbors, all of whom are divining in their own way. The play contains mature themes and is recommended for ages 12 + .

Show dates are Friday and Saturday, April 22-23 at 7 p.m.

OABCIG students busy with inaugural year of FBLA Chapter

■ by MICHAEL HOHENBRINK MID-AMERICA PUBLISHING

Students with a taste for business have been busy as OABCIG's Chapter of Future Business Leaders of America works through its first year.

That includes a successful fundraiser for charity.

"We just got it started this fall," said Kari Hadden, an OABCIG teacher for High School Business Education who is the advisor for FBLA at OABCIG.

FBLA allows students a chance to get an experience with leadership, and students have a chance to learn about business careers.

Along those lines, students are heading out to United Bank of Iowa in the coming days to see what types of careers the banking sector can offer as members look to start their professional lives after graduation.

The chapter has also seen action with FBLA's main annual competition.

"We did participate," said Hadden. "That was in January."

Among highlights, student Jackson Godbersen first place in two competitions, economics and business calculation.

Also, the chapter recently took part in a fundraiser for March of Dimes.

"We didn't choose that individually," explained Hadden.

Rather, March of Dimes has a long history with FBLA

"So, we decided to do the bucket challenge," said

Hadden.

Decorating buckets, the students placed those buckets in student SUCCESS rooms a few weeks ago to collect coinage.

Over $400 was raised, with the money then donated.

Hadden said the chapter was pretty happy with the success.

Coming up down the road, additional competitions take place during the school year, so members would have even more chances to gain experience.

touch of class is the aim with the 2022 OABCIG Prom. This year's theme is

'Draped with Luxury." "Juniors host the senior class at the Skate Palace decorated to create a bit of luxury with sparkling chandeliers, glass, mirrors and rhinestones," said Donna Rasmussen. "A white background with silver shimmering highlights, will finish the scene."

An open house will kick off at 2:30 p.m. Saturday, April 23. The open house runs until 4 p.m.

A highlight will come with the Grand March as the couples show off their finery for parents and the cameras.

The Grand March begins

Mayor Pierce called the meeting to order. Motion by Vermeys seconded by Wingert to approve the agenda and meeting minutes. Motion carried unanimously.

Several guests were given the floor to discuss the current ambulance status. Those included Barb Padavich, Denise Carlin, Roger Kropf, Dalton Williamson, Corev Trucke, and Todd Riessen. The council expressed their desire to have an operating ambulance service available in town. After a lengthy discussion, a motion by Vermeys, seconded by Holmes to approve Corey Trucke as Service Director until May 8. He will receive no compensation, nor will he be involved with financial or personnel decisions. Motion carried unanimously. This will keep the service in compliance with the state while a new permanent Service Director can be determined. Anyone interested in the position of Service Director needs to contact the City Clerk at 365-4646 and a Prospective Member History Form is to be completed for that position and anyone who wishes to join the Battle Creek Ambulance Service. Those forms are available on the Battle Creek Ambulance Facebook page or at City Hall. Motion by Holmes to issue pay to Sandy Tollufsen to continue doing the office bookwork. Motion died for a lack of second. Other options were discussed. Motion by Holmes, seconded by Vermeys to offer Sandy 125 per month to continue doing the bookwork on a timely basis and to ensure they are brought up to date. Motion carried unanimously. The council has set a RAGBRAI community meeting for Tuesday, April 26 at 6 p.m. in the Community Hall Anyone interested in volunteering or being a vendor during RAGBRAI on July 24 is encouraged to attend.

proceeding. Nuisances are Additional complaints have been received and will be addressed.

Clean Up Day has been scheduled for Saturday, June 11. More details will follow. Please contact city hall if you wish to volunteer.

Craig reported that he contacted Blacktop Services. He is also working on a back up battery for the new wells and an updated emergency notification system. Charlie stated he had heard concerns about flooding in the ditch along Center Street due to the trees. It was noted that the area is in a floodplain and the trees help combat erosion. Weight limits on Center and Clara Streets continue to be an ongoing concern and the county will be contacted to patrol.

A letter from Henry Jessen was reviewed requesting an adjustment on his water bill at 600 Chestnut Street. Motion by Dausel, seconded by Meek to adjust his bill in the amount of 79.90. Motion carried unanimously.

Motion by Meek, seconded by Wingert to make the discussed changes in the Nextlink lease. Motion carried unanimously.

Motion by Wingert, seconded by Vermeys to approve a building permit for 310 6th Street for a fence. Motion carried unanimously.

Motion by Wingert, seconded by Holmes to approve the liquor license renewal for Sparky's. Motion carried unanimously.

Motion by Meek, seconded by Dausel to approve the liquor license renewal for Fred's Place. Ayes -Dausel, Meek, Holmes, Wingert; Abstain - Vermevs. Motion carried.

Motion by Dausel, seconded by Vermeys to approve the reports and bills. Motion carried unanimously.

Holmes moved to adjourn at 8:55 p.m. Dausel seconded. Motion carried unanimously.
