Solus Self watering planter is the perfect way to irrigate indoor plants. This system allows you not to have to water your plants as often and also keeps the soil moist if you are going away on holiday or just want to save time.

Using a self watering planter also reduces your gardening duties to a minimal. As the roots grow and reach the bottom of the planter, they receive nourishment from the water in the reservoir.

Soil is kept moist by a wick that dips into the water of the reservoir; the Solus reservoir holds approximately 8 gallons or 30 liters of water, which is enough to water your plants for up to 12 weeks, depending on plant type and location.

HOW TO USE

Add potting soil to the planter, insert plant with roots, and fill the planter with soil. Compact the soil well. During the first three months, continue to water the plants from above through the soil. After this period of time you can use the fill dispositive and the plant will supply itself from the reservoir. After three months, your plant's roots will have grown far enough into the moist area that they will be able to obtain water from the reservoir without your assistance. Refill the water reservoir only after the water level indicator is at "Minimum". It is also a good idea to sometimes add some water soluble fertilizer.

GOTA

DESIGNED BY NATURE ...

The planter Gota ('Drop' in portuguese) bears the name of its inspiration, the drops of rainwater. When dripping, they create different designs, like a mosaic, a grid, a large sculpture. Gota brings the same proposal with its symmetry: enable the creation of different forms, free or organized, adapting to each environment and making it unique. Just as in nature, it provides an endless number of layouts.

Inspired by the movement of sunflowers, Globo ('Globe' in portuguese) is the articulated planter that allows the placement of plants in order to take optimal advantage of light and growth of the species. Compositions with different positions between vessels create unique and memorable scenes.

ANGRA

DESIGNED BY NATURE ...

The planters Angra make up, with its modularity, the design of archipelagos. The collection makes reference to the rock formations presented on the landscape of the islands of Angra dos Reis. Joining the smooth design of the units, Angra makes the perfect sculptures as if carved by the waves and tides.

JARDIM

DESIGNED BY NATURE ...

The Jardim line ('Garden' in portuguese) is composed by Folha, Flor, Tulipa and Lírio planters ('Leaf', 'Flower', 'Tulip' and 'Lily' translated from portuguese, respectively). This collection is about the elegance of nature itself. The Jardim Line is born from the appropriation of beauty by the vase over the plant.

GOLF

DESIGNED BY NATURE ...

The Golf planter was inspired by the tee that supports the golf balls.
We propose to plant the Golf, whose root column is open and maintains the flow of water, following what nature asks. The concept allows own and stable forms.

ROTOMOLDING PROCESS

Japi planters are made out of polyresin by rotational molding process in many different colors such as Coffee, Sandstone, Charcoal and Terracotta, with the possibility of white wash and patina finishes. Inspired by Italian terracotta planters and following the most recent tendencies of the international market, we perfectly reproduce the color, texture and appearance of the traditional garden clay planters.

Our raw material is non-toxic, UV protected and 100% recyclable. The Planters do not chip or crack when exposed to the most diverse weather conditions. We are proud to make a lightweight, all-weather, and unbreakable product.

Rotational Molding Process

The rotational molding process is a high-temperature, low-pressure plastic-forming process that uses heat and biaxial rotation (angular rotation on two axes) to produce hollow one-unit parts. A feature of the process is its long cycle times - only one or two cycles per hour can typically occur, as opposed to other processes such as injection molding, where parts can be made in a few seconds. The main advantages of this process are its capacity to manufacturing resistant, lightweight and large units, like planters and water tanks. Little quantity of material is wasted, making it a environmentally viable manufacturing process.
