PREFACE.

THE experience of twenty-six years, and the united approbation of the most judicious instructors in our country, give ample testimony to the excellence of Adam's Latin Grammar. And it is worthy of remark, that, amidst the changes of almost every thing connected with education, this work has maintained its popularity throughout the country since the year 1799, when it was recommended by the University at Cambridge. But several typographical errors, which were adopted from that Edinburgh edition, from which the first American edition was copied, have been transmitted through subsequent editions to the present time with such scrupulous exactness, that they have now become canonized, and are received as authority. Besides these, other errors have been creeping in, till a thorough revision of the work has become necessary.

At the time this book was first compiled, the state of education in Scotland may have been such as to render the connexion of the Latin with the English necessary, in the manner they were blended by Dr. Adam; but that necessity does not exist in this country, where English grammar is separately taught from the more complete systems of Lowth and Murray. For this reason, and because what is not used in a manual becomes a hindrance, the portion pertaining exclusively to English grammar has been omitted in this edition; and some few additions and alterations have been made which were deemed important. But in all cases where it was practicable, the words of the original grammar have been preserved.

The following are some of the principal alterations in the present edition. The powers and sounds of the letters are explained—a few concise rules are given for the right

Pronunciation of Latin—the quantity of the penultimate vowel is marked in every word throughout the book, where it is not determined by being placed before another vowel, a double consonant, or two single ones. The rules for pronunciation are founded on the system of Walker; and are agreeable to the usage of the University at Cambridge. They are general, and perhaps may admit of some exceptions. But it is hoped they will do something towards bringing about a greater uniformity of pronunciation; an object greatly to be desired. For the vicious pronunciation, arising from an entire neglect of the subject in some schools, and from the whimsical peculiarities of others, affords no little trouble and vexation to the tutor, when all the varieties of it are brought together in collegiate recitations. Besides, it is all-important that a correct pronunciation should be adopted from the beginning. So strong is the force of habit, that it has been found almost impossible to correct the pronunciation of boys who have been allowed to pronounce incorrectly in the commencement of their studies. This is of much more importance than most persons imagine. All parents are not sensible, when they allow their children to learn their Latin grammar first at home, without attention to this subject, or to commence the study of Latin with persons avowedly unfit to carry them through the course proposed, that they are preparing years of labour for the instructor to whom they are ultimately destined. But it is nevertheless true, that years have been spent in correcting habits of corrupt pronunciation formed in a few months; and sometimes it has been found impossible to correct them altogether.

The article on Gender, which was very incomplete in the original, has been written anew, and remarks on it, which were scattered in different places, have been brought together. The English has been added to the Nouns and Verbs used as paradigms. A greater variety of Nouns of the third declension are declined as paradigms; and several defective, irregular, and compound words have also been declined. The lists of Defective Nouns have been carefully revised and corrected. In declining the Adjectives, all unnecessary repetition has been avoided, and an example in ns added. The table of Numeral Adjectives has been somewhat enlarged by the addition of the higher numerical letters. A few additional observations on the Pronouns have been subjoined. A paradigm has been given, in each of the four conjugations, of a Verb displayed in all its parts, and with the corresponding English annexed to all. An example of a Verb in io, of the third conjugation, has been added to the paradigms. In giving the English, a little more precision has been attempted than is observed in the original; particularly in the imperfect and future of the Indicative. A Synopsis of all the Modes and Tenses is subjoined to each Voice. The Formation of the Tenses, it is hoped, will be found more intelligible and practically useful than before. Some slight alterations have been made in the subsequent matter, in order to render more prominent certain portions which were thought confused and indistinct. To the Prosody has been added a Metrical Key, or explanation of the various metres and combinations of metres used by Horace, with an Index (after the plan of Dr. Carey) to all the Odes. The remarks, which stood at the end, upon English Versification, with the Latin rules of Prosody from Ruddiman, have been omitted as useless in that place. Instead of these are substituted a List of Latin Authors, arranged according to the golden, silver, and brazen ages of Roman literature; also Tables exhibiting the value of the Coins, Weights, and Measures, used by the Romans; with some Remarks on the method of computing Sesterces, and on the grammatical solution of expressions relating to them, which are drawn from the best treatises on these difficult subjects, and may assist young students to gain a more exact knowledge of them, than is to be derived from any other book in common use; and, lastly, Lyne's Rules for Construction, and for Position.

The editor hopes that this excellent compendium will be found to have derived some additional value, in a practical point of view, from the changes above-mentioned. The more he has examined the work, and compared it with other Latin Grammars, the higher it has risen in his estimation. There is contained in this little manual almost every thing that is necessary for the student at school or at college ; while at the same time the volume is so small as to be convenient for use, even where an abridgment would be sufficient. This is an important consideration ; for no abridgment or compend should ever be put into the hands of a scholar, who is afterwards to use the original work. The force of first impressions, and of local associations, renders it almost impossible to use a different Grammar from that first learned, with the same readiness. The page, the situation on the page, the type, and other circumstances connected with it in the memory, all contribute to facilitate the turning to any rule or observation desired. And no small loss of time is occasioned by that confusion which results from having learned two or three Grammars of the same language. Even a different paging in different editions of the same Grammar should be carefully avoided, unless there be some good reason for the change.

PRONUNCIATION OF LATIN.

It must be kept in mind, whilst applying the rules which follow, that Accent and Quantity are wholly distinct from each other, and must not be confounded; and also, that the quantity of the vowels in Latin is not supposed to be expressed by the long or the short sounds we give them in English. For, in that case, we should make short all vowels long by position; as we uniformly give the short sound to the first syllable of such words as the following; vannus, pignus, penna, longus, &c. In other words we give the long sound to vowels that are short in quantity; as in the first syllable of fēro, tūli, dātum, &c. all of which are short in quantity. Indeed, the sound of a vowel depends very much upon its situation in a word, and the place of the accent, as may be seen in the following words, and many others; dēcus, rēgo, ēques; in each of which we give the long sound to the first vowel, though short in quantity, but the short sound to the same vowels when the words become trisyllables; as, dēcōris, rēgēre, ēquitis;* notwithstanding they remain short as before.

For these seeming inconsistencies we can only answer by saying, we know not how the Romans sounded these vowels under like circumstances; and as we probably never shall know, it seems most rational to give vowels in Latin the same sound we should give them in our own language when similarly situated. If we take, then, the analogy of the English for our guide, the way is plain, and leads, perhaps, to a result as satisfactory as could be obtained by a more intricate process.

* This illustrates a pretty general rule, with respect to the sound of vowels, viz. that in words of two syllables, the first, being always accented, has the long sound before a single consonant; whereas in trisyllables, when the first is accented, it is generally pronounced with the short sound; as, Cesar, Cēsāris.

Rules for the Accent.

I. In all words of two syllables, the first is accented, without regard to quantity; as, hómo, béllum, érat.

II. In words of more than two syllables, if the penult be long in quantity, it is accented; if short, the antepenult is accented; as, radícis, amicus; témpōris, cónsūlis.

Obs. In prose, when the penult is common, the antepenult receives the accent; but in poetry it is placed where the verse requires it.

Rules for the Sound of the Vowel.

I. Every vowel has either the long or the short sound which it has in English, except a in the end of a word of more than one syllable; where it is sounded broad, like ah in Ramah; as, fama, penna.

The diphthongs æ & æ, ending a syllable with the accent on it, are pronounced like the long English e; as, Cæsar, Æta, as if written Ceesar, Eta; and like short e, when they are followed by a consonant in the same syllable; as, Dædãlus, Eddipus, as if written Deddãlus, Eddipus.

II. In monosyllables, when the vowel is the final letter, it has the long sound; as, da, me, si, do, tu; but otherwise the short sound; as, ac, sed, in, ob, huc.

Obs. All terminations in es, and plural cases in oa, both in monosyllables and polysyllables, are in England and in this country usually pronounced long; as, es, pes, homãnes; nos, hos, popũlos.

III. If the penult be accented, its vowel before another vowel, or a single consonant, is long in its sound; but before two consonants or the double consonant x, it has the short sound; as, mãter, fides, pietãtis; which are long: tandem, longus, mundus, respondens, buxus; which have the short sound.

IV. If the antepenult be accented, its vowel has the short sound; as, átãvis, édite, régibus, temporibus.

Exc. 1. When u comes before a single consonant, and when any accented vowel comes before another vowel, it has the long sound; as, júdices, consúlibus; océãnus, parietes, muliãres.

Exc. 2. When the vowel of the penult is e or i before another vowel, the antepenultimate vowel, except i, has the long sound; as, dóceo, aggrédior, palátium.

V. An accented vowel before a mute and a liquid has usually the long sound; as, sãcra, muliãribus, pátria.

OF LATIN GRAMMAR.

GRAMMAR is the art of speaking and writing correctly.

Latin Grammar is the art of speaking and writing the Latin language correctly.

The Rudiments of Grammar are plain and easy instructions, teaching beginners the first principles and rules of it.

Grammar treats of sentences, and the several parts of which they are compounded.

Sentences consist of words ; words consist of one or more syllables ; syllables of one or more letters. So that Letters, Syllables, Words, and Sentences, make up the whole subject of Grammar.

LETTERS.

A letter is the mark of a sound, or of an articulation of sound.

That part of Grammar, which treats of letters, is called Orthography.

The letters in Latin are twenty-five : A, a ; B, b ; C, c ; D, d ; E, e ; F, f ; G, g ; H, h ; I, i ; J, j ; K, k ; L, l ; M, m ; N, n ; O, o ; P, p ; Q, q ; R, r ; S, s ; T, t ; U, u ; V, v ; X, x ; Y, y ; Z, z.*

Letters are divided into Vowels and Consonants.

Six are vowels ; a, e, i, o, u, y. All the rest are consonants.

* In English there is one letter more. viz. W.

A vowel is properly called a simple sound; and the sounds formed by the concurrence of vowels and consonants, articulate sounds.

Consonants are divided into Mutes, Semi-vowels, and Double Consonants.

A mute is so called, because it entirely stops the passage of the voice; as, p in ap.

The mutes are, p, b; t, d; c, k, q, and g; but b, d, and g, perhaps may more properly be termed Semi-mutes; because their sounds may be continued, whereas the sound of p, t, and k, cannot be prolonged.

A semi-vowel, or half vowel, does not entirely stop the passage of the voice; thus, al.

The semi-vowels are l, m, n, r, s, f. The first four of these are called Liquids, particularly l and r; because they flow softly and easily after a mute in the same syllable; as, bla, stra.

The mutes and semi-vowels may be thus distinguished. In naming the mutes, the vowel is put after them; as, pe, be, &c. but in naming the semi-vowels, the vowel is put before them; as, el, em, &c.

The double consonants are, x, z, and, according to some grammarians, j. X is made up of cs, ks, or gs.

c, before a, o, u, is sounded hard like k: before e, i, y, æ, œ, soft like s.

g, before a, o, u, is sounded hard, as in the English words gave, gone; before e, i, and y, or another g followed by e, soft like j; as in gemma, gigno, agger.

In Latin, z, and likewise k and y, are found only in words derived from the Greek.

ch have the power of k.

h, by some, is not accounted a letter, but only a breathing.

ti, before a vowel, and unaccented, have the sound of si or ci; as in *ratio; prudentia.

Except in Greek words; as, asphaltion; and when preceded by s or x, as, istius, mixtio; or in the beginning of words, as, tidra; or in infinitives formed by paragoge, as flectier, mittier.

* Pronounced ra-she-o, pru-den-she-a.

DIPHTHONGS.

A diphthong is two vowels joined in one sound.

If the sound of both vowels be distinctly heard, it is called a Proper Diphthong; if not, an Improper Diphthong.

The proper diphthongs in Latin are commonly reckoned three; au, eu, ei; as in aurum, Eurus, omneis. To these some, not improperly, add other three; namely, ai, as in Maia; oi, as in Troia; and ui, as in Harpuia, or in cui, and huic, pronounced as monosyllables.

The improper diphthongs in Latin are two; ae, or when the vowels are written together, æ; as, aetas, or ætus; oe, or æ; as, poena, or pæna; in both of which the sound of the e only is heard. The ancients commonly wrote the vowels separately; thus, aetas, poena.

SYLLABLES.

A syllable is the sound of one letter, or of several letters, pronounced by one impulse of the voice; as, a, ad, hanc.

In Latin there are as many syllables in a word, as there are vowels or diphthongs in it; unless when u with any other vowel comes after g, q, or s; as in lingua, qui, suadeo; where the two vowels are not reckoned a diphthong, because the sound of the u vanishes, or is little heard.

Words consisting of one syllable are called Monosyllables; of two, Dissyllables; and of more than two, Polysyllables. But all words of more than one syllable are commonly called Polysyllables.

In dividing words into syllables, we are chiefly to be directed by the ear. Compound words should be divided into the parts of which they are made up; as, ab-utor, in-ops, propt̄er-ea, et-ēnim, vel-ut, &c.

Observe, a long syllable is marked with a horizontal line, [-]; as in amāre; or with a circumflex accent, [^]; as in amāris. A short syllable is marked with a curved line, [∪]; as in omnībūs.

What pertains to the quantity of syllables and to versè will be treated of hereafter.

WORDS.

Words are articulate sounds, significant of thought.

That part of Grammar which treats of words is called Etymology, or Analogy.*

All words whatever are either simple or compound, primitive or derivative.

The division of words into simple and compound is called their Figure; into primitive and derivative, their Species, or sort.

A simple word is that which is not made up of more than one; as, pīus, pious; ēgo, I; dōceo, I teach.

A compound word is that which is made up of two or more words; or of one word and some syllable added; as, impīus, impious; dēdōceo, I unteach; ēgōmet, I myself.

A primitive word is that which comes from no other; as, pīus, pious; disco, I learn; dōceo, I teach.

A derivative word is that which comes from another word; as, pīetas, piety; doctrīna, learning.

The different classes into which we divide words are called Parts of Speech.

PARTS OF SPEECH.

The parts of speech in Latin are eight; viz.

1. Noun, Pronoun, Verb, Participle; declined:
2. Adverb, Preposition, Interjection, and Conjunction; undeclined.†

* All words may be divided into three kinds; namely, 1. such as mark the names of things; 2. such as denote what is affirmed concerning things; and 3. such as are significant only in conjunction with other words; or what are called Substantives, Attributives, and Connectives. Thus in the following sentence, "The diligent boy reads the lesson carefully in the school, and at home," the words boy, lesson, school, home, are the names we give to the things spoken of; diligent, reads, carefully, express what is affirmed concerning the boy; the, in, and, at, are only significant when joined with the other words of the sentence.

† Those words or parts of speech are said to be declined, which receive different changes, particularly on the end, which is called the Termination of words

NOUN.

A noun is either substantive or adjective.*

SUBSTANTIVE.

A Substantive, or noun, is the name of any person, place, or thing ; as, boy, school, book.

Substantives are of two sorts ; proper and common names.

Proper names are the names appropriated to individuals ; as the names of persons and places ; such are Cæsar, Rome.

Common names stand for whole kinds, containing several sorts ; or for sorts, containing many individuals under them ; as, animal, man, beast, fish, fowl, &c.

Every particular being should have its own proper name ; but this is impossible, on account of their innumerable multitude ; men have therefore been obliged to give the same common name to such things as agree together in certain respects. These form what is called a genus, or kind ; a species, or sort.

A proper name may be used for a common, and then in English it has the article joined to it ; as, when we say of some great conqueror, "He is an Alexander ;" or, "the Alexander of his age."

To proper and common names may be added a third class of nouns, which mark the names of qualities, and are called abstract nouns ; as, hardness, goodness, whiteness, virtue, justice, piety, &c.

When we speak of things, we consider them as one or more. This is what we call Number. When one thing is spoken of, a noun is said to be of the singular number ; when two or more, of the plural.

The changes made upon words are by grammarians called Accidents.

Of old, all words, which admit of different terminations, were said to be declined. But Declension is now applied only to nouns. The changes made upon the verb are called Conjugation.

* The adjective seems to be improperly called noun : it is only a word added to a substantive or noun, expressive of its quality ; and therefore should be considered as a different part of speech. But as the substantive and adjective together express but one object, and in Latin are declined after the same manner, they have both been comprehended under the same general name.

LATIN NOUNS.

A Latin noun is declined by Genders, Cases, and Numbers.

There are three genders; Masculine, Feminine, and Neuter.

The cases are six; Nominative, Genitive, Dative, Accusative, Vocative, and Ablative.*

There are two numbers; Singular and Plural.

There are five different ways of varying or declining nouns, called the first, second, third, fourth, and fifth declensions.

The different declensions may be distinguished from one another by the termination of the genitive singular. The first declension has æ diphthong; the second has i; the third has is; the fourth has ûs; and the fifth has ëi, in the genitive.

Although Latin nouns be said to have six cases, yet none of them have that number of different terminations, both in the singular and plural.

GENERAL RULES OF DECLENSION.

1. Nouns of the neuter gender have the Accusative and Vocative like the Nominative, in both numbers; and these cases in the plural end always in a.

2. The Dative and Ablative plural end always alike.

3. The Vocative, for the most part in the singular, and always in the plural, is the same with the Nominative.†

* Various methods are used, in different languages, to express the different connexions or relations of one thing to another. In the English, and in most modern languages, this is done by prepositions, or particles placed before the substantive; in Latin by declension, or by different cases; that is, by changing the termination of the noun; as, rex, a king, or the king; régis, of a king, or of the king.

Cases are certain changes made upon the termination of nouns, to express the relation of one thing to another.

They are so called, from cædo, to fall; because they fall, as it were, from the nominative; which is therefore named cæsus rectus, the straight case; and the other cases, cæsus obliqui, the oblique cases.

† Greek nouns in s generally lose s in the Vocative; as, Thomas, Thoma; Anchtse, Anchtse; Pæris, Pari; Panthus, Panthu; Pallas, -antis, Palla, names of men. But nouns in es of the third declension oftener retain the s; as, ô Achilles, rarely -e; O Socrætes, seldom -e; and sometimes nouns in is and as; as, O Thais, Mysis, Pallas, -ædis, the goddess Minerva, &c.

4. Proper names for the most part want the plural :

Unless several of the same name be spoken of; as, duōdecim Cæsāres, the twelve Cæsars.

The cases of Latin nouns are thus expressed in English ;

1. With the indefinite article, a.

GENDER.

Things considered according to their kinds are either male, or female, or neither of the two ; and on this distinction of the sexes did gender originally depend. Males were said to be of the masculine gender ; females of the feminine gender ; and all other things of neuter gender ; or, as the word implies, of neither gender.

But in Latin, although males are masculine, and females feminine, there are many nouns having no sex, which are said to be of different genders, chiefly from being joined with an adjective of one termination and not of another. Thus penna, a pen, is said to be feminine, because it is always joined with an adjective of that termination which is applied to females ; as, bōna penna, a good pen, and not bōnus penna. The gender of these nouns depends on their termination and different declension.

The gender, as depending on the sex, has been called natural gender ; on termination and declension, grammatical gender.

Grammarians distinguish the genders by the pronoun hic, to mark the masculine ; hec, the feminine ; and hoc, the neuter.

Nouns which are used to signify either the male or the female are said to be of the common gender; that is, are either masculine or feminine, according to the sense. Such nouns as are not found uniformly of the same grammatical gender, but sometimes of one gender and sometimes of another, are said to be of the doubtful gender.

The common gender differs from the doubtful in this, that, as the signification of the noun includes the two sexes, it is always put in the masculine when applied to a male, and in the feminine when applied to a female; as, hic conjux, a husband; hæc conjux, a wife; and is confined to the masculine and feminine gender. Whereas a noun of the doubtful gender, being so only by usage, and not in sense, may be either masculine or feminine; as, hic finis, or hæc finis; feminine or neuter; as, hæc Præneste, or hoc Præneste; or may be either masculine, feminine, or neuter; as, penus, pecus, and others.

General Rules concerning Gender.

1. Names of males are masculine; as, Hômērus, Homer; pāter, a father; poëta, a poet.

2. Names of females are feminine; as, Hēlena, Helen; mūlier, a woman; uxor, a wife; māter, a mother; sōror, a sister; Tellus, the goddess of the earth.

3. Nouns which signify either the male or female, are of the common gender; that is, with reference to the sex, either masculine or feminine; as, hic bos, an ox; hæc bos, a cow; hic pārens, a father; hæc pārens, a mother.*

4. Nouns which are sometimes found in one gender and sometimes in another, without reference to the sense, are of the doubtful gender; as, dies, a day, either masculine or feminine; vulgus, the rabble, either masculine or neuter

* The following list comprehends most nouns of the common gender.

Adölescens,	} a young man or woman.	Cómes, a companion.	Martyr, a martyr.
Jüvénis,		Conjux, a husband wife.	Miles, a soldier.
Affinis, a relation by marriage.		Conviva, a guest.	Müniceps, a burgess.
Antistes, a prelate.		Custos, a keeper.	Nēmo, no body.
Auctor, an author.		Dux, a leader.	Obses, a hostage.
Augur, a soothsayer.		Hæres, an heir.	Patruëlis, a cousin ger man, by the father's side.
Cānis, a dog or bitch.		Hostis, an enemy.	Præs, a surety.
Civis, a citizen		Infans, an infant.	Princeps, a prince or princess.
Cliens, a client.		Interpres, an interpreter.
		Judex, a judge.

OBSERVATIONS.

Obs. 1. The names of brute animals commonly follow the gender of their termination.

Such are the names of wild beasts, birds, fishes, and insects, in which the distinction of sex is either not easily discerned, or seldom attended to. Thus, passer, a sparrow, either male or female, is masculine, because nouns in er are masculine; so aquila, an eagle, either male or female, is feminine, because nouns in a of the first declension are feminine. These are called epicene, or promiscuous nouns. When any particular sex is marked, we usually add the word mas or femina; as, mas passer, a male sparrow; femina passer, a female sparrow.

Obs. 2. A proper name, for the most part, follows the gender of the general name under which it is comprehended.

Thus, the names of months, winds, rivers, and mountains, are masculine; because mensis, ventus, mons, and fluvius, are masculine; as, hic Aprilis, April; hic Aquilo, the north wind; hic Africus, the south-west wind; hic Tibēris, the river Tiber; hic Othrys, a hill in Thessaly. But many of these follow the gender of their termination; as, hæc Matrōna, the river Marne in France; hæc Ætna, a mountain in Sicily; hoc Sōracte, a hill in Italy.

Sacerdos, a priest or Sus, a swine.

Vates, a prophet.

priestess.

Testis, a witness.

Vindex, an avenger.*

But antistes, cliens, and hospes, also change their termination to express the feminine; thus, antistita, cliēta, hospita: in the same manner with leo, a lion; leona, a lioness; equus, equa; mulus, mula; and many others.

There are several nouns, which, though applicable to both sexes, admit only a masculine adjective; as, advēna, a stranger; agricola, a husbandman; asseccla, an attendant; accōla, a neighbour; exul, an exile; latro, a robber; fur, a thief; optifex, a mechanic; &c. There are others, which, though applied to persons, are, on account of their termination, always neuter; as, scortum, a courtesan; mancipium, servitium, a slave, &c.

In like manner, opæra, slaves, or day labourers; vigiliæ, excubiæ, watches; noæ, guilty persons; though applied to men, are always feminine.

* Conjux, atque parens, infans, patruelis, et hæres,
Affinis, vindex, judez, dux, miles, et hostis,
Augur, et antistes, juvenis, conviva, sacerdos,
Muniqueceps, vates, adolescens, civis, et auctor,
Custos, nemo, comes, testis, sus, bosque, canisque,
Interpresque, cliens, princeps, præs, martyr, et obses.

In like manner, the names of countries, towns, trees, and ships, are feminine, because terra or rēgio, urbs, arbor, and nāvis, are feminine; as, hęc Egyptus, Egypt; Sāmos, an island of that name; Cōrinthus, the city Corinth; pōmus, an apple-tree; Centaurus, the name of a ship. Thus also the names of poems, hęc Ilias -ādos, and Odyssēa, the two poems of Homer; hęc Ānēis, -idos, a poem of Virgil; hęc Eunūchus, one of Terence's comedies.

The gender, however, of many of these depends on the termination; thus, hic Pontus, a country of that name; hic Sulmo, -ōnis; Pessīnus, -untis; Hydrus, -untis, names of towns; hęc Persis, -idis, the kingdom of Persia; Carthāgo, -inis, the city Carthage; hoc Albion, Britain: hoc Cære, Reāte, Præneste, Tibur, Ilium, names of towns. But some of these are also found in the feminine; as, Gelidā Præneste. Juvenal. iii. 190; Alta Iliōn. Ovid. Met. xiv. 466.

The following names of trees are masculine, ōleaster, oleasteri, a wild olive-tree; rhamnus, the white bramble.

The following are masculine or feminine; cŷtīsus, a kind of shrub; rūbus, the bramble-bush; larix, the larch-tree; lōtus, the lote-tree; cupressus, the cypress-tree. The first two, however, are oftener masculine; the rest oftener feminine.

Those in um are neuter; as buxum, the bush, or box-tree; līgustrum, a privet; so likewise are sūber, -ēris, the cork-tree; sīler, -ēris, the osier; rōbur, -ōris, oak of the hardest kind; īcer, -ēris, the maple tree.

The place where trees or shrubs grow is commonly neuter; as, arbustum, quercētum, escūlētum, sālictum, frūtīcētum, &c. a place where trees, oaks, beeches, willows, shrubs, &c. grow; also the names of fruits and timber; as, pōmum or mālum, an apple; pīrum, a pear; ēbēnum, ebony, &c. But from this rule there are various exceptions.

FIRST DECLENSION.

Nouns of the first declension end in a, e, as, es.

Latin nouns end only in a, and are of the feminine gender: (the rest are Greek).

GREEK NOUNS.

Nouns in as, es, and e, of the first declension, are Greek. Nouns in as and es are masculine; nouns in e are feminine.

Nouns in as are declined like penna; only they have am or an in the accusative; as, Ānēas, Āneas, the name of a man; gen. Ānēā, dat. -ā, acc. -am or -an, voc. -ā, abl. -ā. So Bōreas, -eā, the north wind; tiāras, -ā, a turban. In prose they have commonly am, but in poetry oftener an, in the accusative. Greek nouns in a have sometimes also an in the acc. in poetry; as Ossa, acc. -am or -an, the name of a mountain.

Nouns in es and e are thus declined:

Anchises, Anchises, the name of a man.

Singular.

Nom. Anchīsēs ,	Acc. Anchīsen ,
Gen. Anchīsēs ,	Voc. Anchise , or -a ,
Dat. Anchīsēs ,	Abl. Anchise , or -ā .

Pēnēlōpe, Penelope, the name of a woman.

Singular.

Nom. Pēnēlōpe ,	Acc. Penelōpen ,
Gen. Penelōpes ,	Voc. Penelōpe ,
Dat. Penelōpe ,	Abl. Penelōpe .

These nouns, being proper names, want the plural, unless when several of the same name are spoken of, and then they are declined like the plural of penna.*

The Latins frequently turn Greek nouns in es and e into a; as, Atrida, for Atrides; Persa, for Perses, a Persian; geometra, for -tres, a geometrician; Circa, for Circe; epitōma, for -me, an abridgment; grammatica, for -ce, grammar; rhētorica, for -ce, oratory. So Clinia, for Clinias, &c.

SECOND DECLENSION.

Nouns of the second declension end in er, ir, ur, us, um; os, on. (os and on are Greek terminations.)

Nouns in um and on are neuter; the rest are masculine.

* The accusative of nouns in es and e is found sometimes in em. We sometimes find the genit. plural contracted; as, Calicōlūm, for Calicōlārum; Æneādūm, for -ārum.

And likewise sätur, -ÿri, full, (of old, satÿrus) an adjective.

But most nouns in er lose the e in the genitive; as,

EXCEPTIONS IN GENDER.

Exc. 1. The following nouns in us are feminine; hūmus, the ground; alvus, the belly; vannus, a sieve.

And the following, derived from Greek nouns in os;

Abyssus, a bottomless pit.	Carbāsus, a sail.	Erēmus, a desert.

		Phārus, a watch-tower.

To these add some names of jewels and plants, because gemma and planta are feminine, (See Observations on Gender, page 20,); as,

Amethystus, an amethyst.	Sapphirus, a sapphire.	a saph.	Byssus, fine flax or linen.
Chrysolithus, a chrysolite.	Topazius, a topaz.		Costus, costmary.
Chrysophrasus, a kind of topaz.	Biblus, Papyrus,	{ an Egyptian reed, of which paper was made.	Cröcus, saffron.

Other names of jewels are generally masculine; as, beryllus, the beryl; carbunculus, a carbuncle; pyropus, a ruby; smaragdus, an emerald: And also names of plants; as, aspäragus, asparagus or sparrowgrass; ellebörus, elebore, raphanus, radish or colewort; intÿbus, endive or succory, &c.

Exc. 2. The nouns which follow are either masculine or feminine:

Atömus, an atom.	Barbitus, a harp.	Grossus, a green fig.

Exc. 3. Virus, poison, pëlagus, the sea; are neuter.

Exc. 4. Vulgus, the common people, is either masculine or neuter but oftener neuter.

EXCEPTIONS IN DECLENSION.

Proper names in ius lose us in the vocative; as, Hörätius, Höräti; Virgilius, Virgili; Georgius, Georgi, names of men: Lärius, Läri; Mincius, Minci; names of lakes. Filius, a son, also has fili; gënius, one's guardian angel, geni; and deus, a god, has deus in the voc. and in the plural more frequently dii and diis, than dëi and dëis. Meus, my, an adjective pronoun, has mi, and sometimes meus, in the vocative.

Other nouns in ius have e; as, täbellärius, tabellarie, a letter-carrier; pius, pie, &c. So these epithets, Dëlius, Dëlie; Tiryinthius, Tiryinthie; and these possessives, Laërtius, Laërtie; Säturnius, Saturnie; &c. which are not considered as proper names.

The poets sometimes make the vocative of nouns in us like the nominative; as, fluvius, Latinus, for fluvie, Latine. Virg. This also occurs in prose, but more rarely; thus, Audi tu, pöpulus, for pöpüle. Liv. i. 24.

The poets also change nouns in er into us; as, Evander, or Evandrus, vocative, Evander, or Evandre. So Meander, Leander, Tymber, Teucer, &c.; and so anciently puer in the vocative had puëre, from puërus.

Note. When the genitive singular ends in ii, the latter i is sometimes taken away by the poets for the sake of quantity; as, tuguri, for tugurii; ingeni, for ingenii, &c. And in the genitive plural we find deüm, libërüm, fabrüm, duümvirüm, &c. for deörum, liberörum, &c.; and in poetry, Teucrüm, Graiüm, Argivüm, Dänäüm, Pëlasgüm, &c. for Teucörum, &c.

GREEK NOUNS.

Os and on are Greek terminations; as, Alphëos, a river in Greece; Iliön, the city Troy; and are often changed into us and um, by the Latins; Alphëus, Ilium, which are declined like dominus and regnum.

Nouns in eos or ēus are sometimes contracted in the genitive; as Orphēus, gen. Orphēi, Orphei or Orphi. So Thestus, Promethēus, &c. But nouns in eus, when eu is a diphthong, are of the third declension.

Some nouns in os have the genitive singular in o; as, Androgeos, genitive Androgeo, or -ēi, the name of a man; Athos, Atho, or -i, a hill in Macedonia: both of which are also found in the third declension; thus, nominative Androgeo, genitive Androgeōnis. So, Atho, or Athon, -ōnis, &c. Anciently nouns in os, in imitation of the Greeks, had the genitive in u; as, Mēnandru, Apollodōru, for Mēnandri, Apollodōri. Ter.

Nouns in os have the accusative in um or on; as, Delus or Delos, accusative Delum or Delon, the name of an island.

Some neuters have the genitive plural in ōn; as, Georgica, genitive plural Georgicōn, books which treat of husbandry, as, Virgil's Georgicks.

THIRD DECLENSION.

There are more nouns of the third declension than of all the other declensions together. The number of its final syllables is not ascertained. Its final letters are thirteen, a, e, i, o, y, c, d, l, n, r, s, t, x. Of these, eight are peculiar to this declension, namely, i, o, y, c, d, l, t, x; a and e are common to it with the first declension; n and r, with the second; and s, with all the other declensions. A, i, and y, are peculiar to Greek nouns.

Exc. 5. Iens, going, and quiens, being able, participles from the verbs eo and quęo, with their compounds, have euntis: thus, iens, euntis; quiens, queuntis; rediens, redeuntis; nequiens, nequeuntis: but ambiens, going round, has ambientis.

Exc. 6. Tiryns, a city in Greece, the birthplace of Hercules, has Tirynthis.

T.

15. There is only one noun in t, namely, căput, capitis, the head, neuter. In like manner, its compounds, sincăput, sincăpitis, the forehead; and occăput, -itis, the hind-head.

X.

16. Nouns in x are feminine, and in the genitive change x into cis; as, lux, lucis, light.

Exc. 1. Polysyllables in ax and ex are masculine; as, thörax, -ăcis, a breast-plate; Cöraz, -ăcis, a raven. Ex in the genitive is changed into icis; as, poller, -icis, m. the thumb. So the following nouns, also masculine:

Apex, the tuft or tassel Cimex, a bug.	Pödex, the breech,
on the top of a priest's Codex, a book.	Pontifex, a chief priest.

Panax, -äcis, the herb all-heal.	Carex, -icis, a sedge.

Forfex, -icis, a pair of scissors.	furniture.

Exc. 2. A great many nouns in x are either masculine or feminine as,

Calx, -cis, the heel, or the end of any Limax, -acis, a snail.
thing, the goal; but calx, lime, is Obex, -icis, a bolt or bar.

Aquilex, -ëgis, a well-maker.	Phälant, -angis, f. a phalera
Conjux, or -ux, -ügis, a husband or Rämex, -icis, a rower.

Exc. 4. Greek nouns in x, both with respect to gender and manner of declension, are as various as Latin nouns; thus, bombyx, bombycis, a silk-worm, masc. but when it signifies silk, or the yarn spun by the worm, it is feminine; onyx, masc. or fem. onychis, a precious stone; and so sarabäyx; lärynx, läryngis, fem. the top of the wind-pipe; Phryx, Phrygian; sphinx, -ngis, a fabulous hag; strix, -icis, f. a screech-owl; Styx, -ygis, f. a river in hell; Hylax, -ctis, the name of a dog; Bibrax, Bibractis, the name of a town, &c.

DATIVE SINGULAR.

The dative singular anciently ended also in e; as, Esuriente lobus ex ore exculpère prædam, To pull the prey out of the mouth of a hungry lion. Lucil. Hæret pede pes, Foot sticks to foot. Virg. Æn. x. 361. for esurienti and pedi.

EXCEPTIONS IN THE ACCUSATIVE SINGULAR.

Exc. 1. The following nouns have the accusative in im :

Amussis, f. a mason's rule.	Ravis, f. hoarseness.
Bāris, f. the beam of a plough.	Sināpis, f. mustard.
Cannābis, f. hemp.	Sītis, f. thirst.
Cūcūmis, m. a cucumber.	Tussis, f. a cough.
Gummis, f. gum.	Vis, f. strength.
Mēphītis, f. a damp or strong smell.

To these add proper names, 1. of cities and other places; as, Hispāis, Seville, a city in Spain; Syrtis, a dangerous quicksand on the coast of Lybia;—2. of rivers; as, Tibēris, the Tiber, which runs past Rome; Bētis, the Guadalquiver, in Spain; so, Albis, Arāris, Athēsis, Liris, &c.—3. of gods; as, Anūbis, Apis, Ostiris, Serāpis, deities of the Egyptians. But these sometimes make the accusative also in in; thus, Syrtim or Syrtin, Tibērim or -in. &c.

Exc. 2. Several nouns in is have either em or im; as,

Aquālis, m. a waterpot.	Pelvis, f. a basin.	Sēcūris, f. an axe.
Clāvis, f. a key.	Puppis, f. the stern of a ship.	Sēmentis, f. a sowing.
Cūtis, f. the skin.	Restis, f. a rope.	Strīgīlis, f. a horse-comb.
Febris, f. a fever.		Turris, f. a tower.
Nāvis, f. a ship.

Thus navem or navim; puppem or puppim; &c. The ancients said avim, aurim, ovim, pestim, vallim, vītim, &c. which are not to be imitated.

Exc. 3. Greek nouns form their accusative variously :

1. Greek nouns, whose genitive increases in is or os impure, that is, with a consonant going before, have the accusative in em or a; as, lampas, lampādis or lampādos, lampādem or lampādā. In like manner, these three, which have is pure in the genitive, or is with a vowel before it: Tros, Trois, Troem or Troa, a Trojan; heros, a hero; Minos, a king of Crete. The three following have almost always a; Pan, the god of shepherds; āther, the sky; delphin, a dolphin; thus, Pana, athēra, delphīna.

2. Masculine Greek nouns in is, which have their genitive in is or os impure, form the accusative in im or in; sometimes in idem, never ida; as, Pāris, Parīdis or Parīdos, Parim or Parin, sometimes Parīdem, never Parīda.—So, Daphnis.

3. Feminines in is, increasing impurely in the genitive, have commonly idem or ida, but rarely im or in; as, Elis, Elīdis or Elīdos, Elīdem or Elīda; seldom Elim or Elin; a city in Greece. In like manner feminines in ys, ydos, have ydem or yda, not ym or yn in the accusative, as, chlāmys, -ydem or yda, not chlāmyn, a soldier's cloak.

4. But all Greek nouns in is or ys, whether masculine or feminine, having is or os pure in the genitive, form the accusative by changing s of the nominative into m or n; as, metamorphōsis, -eos, or -ios, metamorphōsim or -in, a change. Tēthys, -yos or -yis, Tēthym or -yn; the name of a goddess.

5. Nouns ending in the diphthong eus, have the accusative in ea; as, Thēseus, Thēsea; Tydeus, Tydeu.

EXCEPTIONS IN THE ABLATIVE SINGULAR.

EXO. 1. Neuters in e, al, and ar, have i in the ablative; as, sedile, sedili; animal, animāli; calcar, calcāri. Except proper names; as, Præneste, abl. Præneste, the name of a town; and the following neuters in ar:

Far, farre, corn.	Nectar, -āre, drink of the gods.
Hēpar, -āte, the liver.	Par, pārē, a match, a pair.
Jūbar, -āre, a sun beam.	Sal, sāle, or -i, m. or n. salt.

Exc. 2. Nouns which have im or in in the accusative, have i in the ablative; as, vis, visi, vi; but cannābis, Bētis, and Tigris, have e or i.

Nouns which have em or im in the accusative, make their ablative in e or i; as, turris, turre, or turri; but restis, a rope, and cūtis, the skin, have e only.*

Exc. 3. Adjectives used as substantives have commonly the same ablative with the adjectives; as, bipennis, -i, a halbert; mōlāris, -i, a millstone; quadrirēmis, -i, a ship with four banks of oars. So names of months, Aprīlis, -i; Dēcember, -bri, &c. But rūdis, f. a rod given to gladiators when discharged; jūvēnis, a young man, have e only; and likewise nouns ending in il, x, ceps, or ns; as,

Adōlescens, a young man.	Princeps, a prince.	Torrens, a brook.
Infans, an infant.	Sēnex, an old man.	Vigil, a watchman.

Exc. 4. Nouns in ys, which have ym in the accusative, make their ablative in ye, or y; as, Atys, Atye, or Aty, the name of a man.

NOMINATIVE PLURAL.

1. The nominative plural ends in es, when the noun is either masculine or feminine; as, sermōnes, rupes.

Nouns in is and es have sometimes in the nominative plural also eis or is; as, puppēs, puppeis, or puppis.

2. Neuters which have e in the ablative singular, have a in the nominative plural; as, capīta, imēra: but those which have i in the ablative, make ia; as, sedilia, calcāria.

* Several nouns which have only em in the accusative, have e or i in the ablative; as, finis, supellex, vectis, pūgil, a champion; mūgil or mūgīlis; so rus, occuput: Also names of towns, when the question is made by ubi; as, habitāt Carthagine or Carthagīni, he lives at Carthage. So, civis, classis, sors, imber, anguis, avis, postis, fustis, amnis, and ignis; but these have oftener e. Canālis has only i. The most ancient writers made the ablative of many other nouns in i; as, astāti, cani, lapīdi, ovi; &c.

GENITIVE PLURAL.

Nouns which in the ablative singular have i only, or either e or i, make the genitive plural in ium; but if the ablative be in e only, the genitive plural has um; as, sedēle, sedīli, sedūlium; turris, turre or turri, turrium; caput, capite, capitum.

Exc. 1. Monosyllables in as have ium, though their ablative end in e; as, mas, a male, māre, marium; vas, a surety, vādium: but polysyllables have rather um; as, civitas, a state or city, civitatum, and sometimes civitatium.

Exc. 2. Nouns in es and is, which do not increase in the genitive singular, have also ium; as, hostis, an enemy, hostium. So likewise nouns ending in two consonants; as, gens, a nation, gentium; urbs, a city, urbium.

But the following have um; parens, vātes, pānis, jūvēnis, and cānis. Horace, however, has parentium. Od. iii. 4, 23.

Exc. 3. The following nouns form the genitive plural in ium, though they have e only in the ablative singular:

Arx, arcis, f. a castle.

Caro, carnis, f. flesh.

Cohors, -tis, f. a company.

Cor, cordis, n. the heart.

Cos, cōtis, f. a hone or whetstone.

Dos, dōtis, f. a dowry.

Faux, faucis, f. the jaws.

Glis, gliris, m. a rat.

Lar, lāris, m. a household god.

Linter, -tris, m. or f. a little boat.

Lis, litis, f. strife.

Mus, mūris, m. a mouse.

Nix, nīvis, f. snow.

Nox, noctis, f. the night.

Os, ossis, n. a bone.

Quīris, -itis, a Roman.

Samnis, -itis, m. or f. a Samnite.

Uter, utris, m. a bottle.

Thus Samnitium, lintrium, litium, &c. Also the compounds of uncia and as: as, septunx, seven ounces, septuncium; bes, eight ounces, bessium.

Bos, an ox or cow, has boum; and in the dative, bōbus, or būbus.

Greek nouns have generally um; as, Mācēdo, a Macedonian; Arabs, an Arabian; Æthiops, an Ethiopian; monoceros, an unicorn; lynx, a beast so called; Thraz, a Thracian; Macedonum, Arabum, Æthiopum, monocerotum, lyncum, Thracum. But those which have a or sis in the nominative singular, sometimes form the genitive plural in on; as, Epigramma, epigrammatum, or epigrammatōn, an epigram; metamorphōsis, -ium, or -eōn.

Obs. 1. Nouns, which want the singular, form the genitive plural as if they were complete; thus, mānes, m. souls departed, manium; cælestes, m. inhabitants of heaven, cælitum; because they would have had in the sing. manis or manes, and cales. But names of feasts often vary their declension; as, Saturnālia, the feasts of Saturn, Saturnalium and Saturnaliōrum. So, Bacchanalia, Compitalia, Terminalia, &c.

Obs. 2. Nouns which have ium in the genitive plural, are, by the poets, often contracted into um; as, nocentium for nocentium: and sometimes, to increase the number of syllables, a letter is inserted; as, cælituum, for cælitum. The former of these is said to be done by the figure Syncōpe; and the latter by Epenthēsis.

EXCEPTIONS IN THE DATIVE PLURAL.

Exc. 1. Greek nouns in a have commonly tis instead of tibus; as, poëma, a poem, poemätis, rather than poematibus, from the old nominative poemätun, of the second declension.

Exc. 2. The poets sometimes form the dative plural of Greek nouns in si, or, when the next word begins with a vowel, in sin; as, Troäsi or Troäsin, for Troädibus, from Troas, Troädis or Troädos, a Trojan woman.

EXCEPTIONS IN THE ACCUSATIVE PLURAL.

Exc. 1. Nouns which have ium in the genitive plural, make their accusative plural in es, eis, or is; as, partes, partium, acc. partes, parteis, or partis.

Exc. 2. If the accusative singular end in a, the accusative plural also ends in as; as, lampas, lampädem or lampäda; lampädes or lampädas. So Tros, Troas; heros, heröas; Æthiops, Æthiöpas, &c.

GREEK NOUNS THROUGH ALL THE CASES.

Lampas, a lamp, f. lampädis or -ädos, -ädi, -ädem or -äda, -as, -äde. Plur. -ädes, -ädum, -ädibus, -ädes or -ädas, -ädes, -ädibus.

Troas, f. Troädis or dos, -di, -dem or -da, -as, -de. Plur. Troädes, -dum, -dibus or -si or -sin, -des or -das, -des, -dibus.

Tros, m. Trois, Troi, Troem or -a, Tros, Troe, &c.

Phyllis, f. Phyllidis or -dos, -di, -dem or -da, -i or -is, -de.

Päris, m. Päridis or -dos, -di, dem or Parim or -in, -i, -de.

Chlämys, f. chlämydis or -ydos, -ydi, -ydem or yda, -ys, -yde, &c.

Mëtämorphösis, f. -is or -ios or -eos, -i, -im or -in, -i, -i, &c.

FOURTH DECLENSION.

Nouns of the fourth declension end in us and u.

Nouns in us are masculine; nouns in u are neuter, and indeclinable in the singular number.

Anus, an old woman.	Mānus, the hand.	Spēcus, a den.
Dōmus, a house.	Pēnus, a store house.	Tribus, a tribe.

Pēnus and spēcus are sometimes masculine. Ficus, pēnus, and domus, with several others, are also of the second declension. Capricornus, m. the sign Capricorn, although from cornu, is always of the second decl. and so are the compounds of manus; unimānus, having one hand; centimānus, &c. adj. Quercus, an oak, has quercōrum, and -uum, in the gen. pl. Versus has versi, versōrum, versis, as well as its regular cases. Senātus has also -āti, in the gen.

Domus is but partly of the second declension; thus,

Portus, genu, and veru, have likewise ibus; as, portibus or portūbus.

Exc. 3. JESUS, the venerable name of our Saviour, has um in the accusative, and u in all the other cases.*

* Nouns of the fourth declension anciently belonged to the third, and were declined like grus, gruis, a crane; thus, fructus, fructuis, fructui, fructuem, fructus, fructue; fructues, fructuum, fructūbus, fructues, fructues, fructūbus. So that all the cases are contracted, except the dative singular, and genitive plural. In some writers, we still find the genitive singular in uis; as, Ējus anuis causā, for anūs. Terent. Heaut. ii. 3. 46. and in others, the dative in u; as, Resistere impētū, for impetui Cic. Fam. x. 24. Esse usū sibi, for usui. Ib. xiii. 71. The gen. plur. is sometimes contracted; as, currūm, for curruum.

FIFTH DECLENSION.

Nouns of the fifth declension end in es, and are of the feminine gender.

In like manner decline,

Acies , the edge of a thing, or an army in order of battle.	Inglūvies , gluttony.	Scābies , the scab, or itch.
Cāries , rottenness.	Mācies , leanness.	Sēries , an order, or row.

	Sānies , gore.

Except dies, a day, masc. or fem. in the singular, and always masc. in the plural; and meridies, the mid-day, or noon, masc.

The poets sometimes make the genitive, and more rarely the dative singular, in e; as, fide, for fidei. Ov. M. 3, 341.

The nouns of this declension are few in number, not exceeding fifty, and seem anciently to have been comprehended under the third declension. Most of them want the genitive, dative, and ablative plural, and many the plural altogether.

All nouns of the fifth declension end in ies, except three; fides, faith; spes, hope; res, a thing; and all nouns in ies are of the fifth, except these four; ābies, a fir tree; āries, a ram; pāries, a wall; and quies, rest; which are of the third declension. Requies is of the third and fifth declension.

IRREGULAR NOUNS.

Irregular nouns may be reduced to three classes, Variable, Defective, and Redundant.

I. VARIABLE NOUNS.

Nouns are variable either in gender, or declension, or in both.

Heterogeneous Nouns.

Those which vary in gender are called heterogeneous, and may be reduced to the following classes.

1. Masculine in the singular, and neuter in the plural.

Avernus, a lake in Campania, hell.	Mænälus, a hill in Arcadia.
Dindýmus, a hill in Phrygia.	Pangæus, a promontory in Thrace.
Ismärus, a hill in Thrace.	Tænärus, a promontory in Laconia.
Massicus, a hill in Campania, famous for excellent wines.	Tartärus, hell.
	Taýgëtus, a hill in Laconia.

Thus, Averna, Avernörum; Dindýma, -örum, &c. These are thought by some to be properly adjectives, having mons understood in the singular, and juga or cacumina, or the like, in the plural.

2. Masc. in the sing. and in the plur. masc. and neuter.

Jöcus, a jest, pl. joci and joca; löcus, a place, pl. loci and loca. When we speak of passages in a book, or topics in a discourse, loci only is used.

3. Feminine in the singular, and neuter in the plural.

Carbäsus, a sail, pl. carbäsa; Pergämus, the citadel of Troy, pl. Pergäma.

4. Neuter in the singular, and masculine in the plural.

Cælum, pl. cæli, heaven; Elysiüm, pl. Elysi, the Elysian fields; Argos, pl. Argi, a city in Greece.

5. Neuter in the sing. in the plur. masc. or neuter.

Rastrum, a rake, pl. rastri and rastra; frænum, a bridle, pl. fræni and fræna.

6. Neuter in the singular, and feminine in the plural.

Dêlicium, a delight, pl. deliciæ; ëpühüm, a banquet, pl. ëpühæ; balneum, a bath, pl. balneæ and balnea.

Heteroclites.

Nouns which vary in declension are called heteroclites; as, vas, väs, a vessel, pl. väsa, vasörum; jügërum, jugëri, an acre, pl. jügëra, jugërum, jugeribus, which has likewise sometimes jugëris, and jugëre, in the singular, from the obsolete jugus, or juger.

In double nouns, both nouns are declined when combined in the nominative case; as,

Respublica, a commonwealth, fem.

Singular.		Plural.
N.	respublica,	N.	respublicæ,
G.	reipublicæ,	G.	rerumpublicarum,
D.	reipublicæ,	D.	rebuspublicis,
A.	republicam,	A.	respublicas,
V.	respublica,	V.	respublicæ,
A.	republicâ.	A.	rebuspublicis.

Jusjurandum, an oath, neut.

Singular.		Plural.
N.	jusjurandum,	N.	jurajuranda,
G.	jurisjurandi,	G.	jurumjurandorum,*
D.	jurijurando,	D.	juribusjurandis,
A.	jusjurandum,	A.	jurajuranda,
V.	jusjurandum,	V.	jurajuranda,
A.	jurejurando.	A.	juribusjurandis.

If a nominative is combined with some other case, then the nominative only is declined; as,

Paterfamilias, a master of a family, masc.

N.	paterfamilias,
G.	patrisfamilias,
D.	patrifamilias,
A.	patremfamilias,
V.	paterfamilias,
A.	patrefamilias.

Some nouns are both of the second and third declension; as,

N.	G.	D.	A.	V.	Ab.
Orpheus,	ei,	eo,	{ eum, }	—	eo; 2d Declen.
	eos,	ei,	{ or eon, }	eu,	—; 3d Declen.

N.	G.	D.	A.	V.	Ab.
Œdîpus,	i,	o,	um,	—	o; 2d Declen.
	œdis,	œdi,	œdem,	u,	œde; 3d Declen.

N.	G.	D.	A.	V.	Ab.
Achilleus,	ei,	eo,	—	eu,	eo; 2d Declen.
Achilles,	{ lis, or }	li,	{ lem, }	{ les, }	le; 3d Declen.
	{ læos, }		{ or len, }	{ or le, }

* The Gen. Dat. and Abl. plural are not used.

Some nouns are of peculiar declension.

Singular.	Singular.	Plural.

A. bovem,	A. boves,
V. bos,	V. boves,
A. bove.	A. bobus, or bubus.

II. DEFECTIVE NOUNS.

Nouns are defective, either in cases or in number.

Nouns are defective in cases different ways.

1. Some are altogether indeclinable, and therefore called aptōta;* as, pondo, a pound or pounds; fas, right; nēfas, wrong; sināpi, mustard; māne, the morning; as, clarum mane. Pers. A mane ad vespēram. Plant. Multo mane, &c.; cepe, an onion; gausdpe, a rough coat, &c.; all of them neuter. We may rank among indeclinable nouns, any word put for a noun; as, velle suum, for sua voluntas, his own inclination. Pers. Istud crus, for iste crastinus dies, that to-morrow. Mart. O magnum Græcorum, the Omēga, or the large O of the Greeks. Infidus est compositum ex in et fidus; infidus is compounded of in and fidus.

To these add foreign or barbarous names; that is, names which are neither Greek nor Latin; as, Jeb, Elisabet, Jerusalem, &c.

2. Some are used only in one case, and therefore called mōnoptōta; as, inquies, want of rest, in the nominative sing.;

dicis, and nauci, in the genit. sing.; thus, dicis grattā, for form's sake; res nauci, a thing of no value; inficias, and incta, or inctas, in the acc. plural; thus, ire inficias, to deny; ad inctas redactus, reduced to a strait or nonplus; ingrātius, in the ablative plural, in spite of one: and these ablatives singular; noctu, in the night-time; diu, interdiu, in the day-time; promptu, in readiness; nātu, by birth; injussu, without command or leave; ergō, for the sake; as, ergō illius. Virg. Ambāge, f. with a winding or a tedious story; compēde, f. with a fetter; casse, m. with a net; Plur. ambāges, -ibus; compēdes, -ium, -ibus; casses, -ium.

3. Some are used in two cases only, and therefore called

* From πτόσις, a case, and a privative; gen. aptōtōrum.

diptōta; as, nēcesse, or -um, necessity; vōlūpe or vōlup, pleasure; instar, likeness, bigness; astu, a town; hir, the palm of the hand; in the nom. and acc. singular: vesper, m. vespere, or -eri, the evening; siremps, sirempse, the same, all alike; in the nom. and abl. sing.: spontis, f. sponte, of its own accord; impētis, m. impēte, force; verbēris, n. verbēre, a stripe; in the gen. and abl. sing.: vepre, m. vepre, a briar; in the acc. and abl. sing.: the last two entire in the plur.; vepres, -um, or -ium, &c.; verbēra, verbērum, verberibus, &c.; repetundārum, abl. repetundis, sc. pecuniis, money unjustly taken in the time of one's office, extortion; suppētiae, nom. plur. suppētias, in the acc. help; infēria, infērias, sacrifices to the dead.

4. Several nouns are only used in three cases, and therefore called triptōta; as, prēci, precem, prece, f. a prayer, from prex, which is not used: in the plural it is entire; preces, precum, precibus, &c.

Fēminis, genit. from the obsolete femen, the thigh; in the stat. and abl. sing. femina, and -e; in the nom. acc. and voc. plur. femina. Dica, a process, acc. sing. dicam, pl. dicas; tantundem, nom. and acc. tantidem, genit. even as much. Several nouns in the plural want the genitive, dative, and ablative; as, hiems, rus, thus, mētus, mel, far, and nouns of the fifth declension; except res, dies, and perhaps species, entire.

To this class of defective nouns may be added these neuters; mēlos, a song; mēle, songs; ēpos, a heroic poem; cācoēthes, an evil custom; cēte, whales; Tempe, plur. a beautiful vale in Thessaly, &c. used only in the nom. acc. and voc.; also grātes, f. thanks; which wants the singular.

5. The following nouns want the nominative, and of consequence the vocative; and therefore are called tetraptōta:

Vicis, f. of the place or stead of another; pecūdis, f. of a beast; sordis, f. of filth; ditōnis, f. of dominion, power; ōpis, f. of help. Of these pecūdis and sordis have the plural entire; ditōnis wants it altogether; vicis is not used in the genitive plural; ōpis, in the plural, generally signifies wealth or power, seldom help. To these add nex, slaughter; daps, a dish of meat; and fruz, corn; hardly used in the nominative singular, but in the plural mostly entire.

6. Some nouns only want one case, and are called pentaptōta;

Thus, fax, fel, glos, labes, lux, os, (the mouth); pax, pix, proles, pus, ros, soboles, and sol, want the genitive plural. Chaos, n. a confused mass, wants the genit. sing. and the plural entirely; dat. sing. chao. So sātias, i. e. satiētās, a glut or fill of any thing. Situs, a situation, nastiness, of the fourth decl. wants the genit. and perhaps the dat. sing. also the gen. dat. and abl. plur.

Of nouns defective in Number there are various sorts.

1. Several nouns want the plural from the nature of the things which they express. Such are the names of virtues and vices, of arts, herbs, metals, liquors, different kinds of corn, most abstract nouns, &c.; as, justitia, justice; ambitus, ambition; astus, cunning; mūsica, music; āpium, parsley; argentum, silver; aurum, gold; lac, milk; tritĭcum, wheat; hordeum, barley; āvēna, oats; jūventus, youth, &c. But of these we find several sometimes used in the plural.

III. REDUNDANT NOUNS.

Nouns are redundant in different ways: 1. In termination only; as, arbos and arbor, a tree. 2. In declension only; as, laurus, genit. lauri and laurûs, a laurel tree; sêquester, -tri, or -tris, a mediator. 3. Only in gender; as, hic or hoc vulgus, the rabble. 4. In termination, gender, and declension; as, æther, -ëris, masc. and athra, -a, fem. the sky. 8. Several nouns in the same declension are differently varied; as, tigris, -is or -idis, a tiger; to which may be added nouns which have the same signification in different numbers; as, Fidëna, -a; or Fidënaë, -ârûm, the name of a city.

The most numerous class of redundant nouns consists of those which express the same meaning by different terminations; as, menda, -a; and mendum, -i, a fault; cassis, -idis, and cassida, -de, a helmet. So,

Note. The nouns which are called variable and defective, seem originally to have been redundant; thus, väsä, -örum, properly comes from vasum, and not from vas; but custom, which gives laws to all languages, has dropt the singular, and retained the plural; and so of others.

DIVISION OF NOUNS ACCORDING TO THEIR SIGNIFICATION AND DERIVATION.

1. A substantive which signifies many in the singular number, is called a collective noun; as, pöpulus, a people; exercitus, an army.

2. A substantive derived from another substantive proper, signifying one's extraction, is called a patronymic noun; as,

Priäpidës, the son of Priämus; Æëtias, the daughter of Æëtes; Nërinë, the daughter of Nereus. Patronymics are generally derived from the name of the father; but the poets, by whom they are chiefly used, derive them also from the grandfather, or from some other remarkable person of the family; sometimes likewise from the founder of a nation or people; as, Æäcides, the son, grandson, great-grandson, or one of the posterity of Æäcus; Römülidæ, the Romans, from their first king Romulus.

Patronymic names of men end in des; of women, in is, as, or ne. Those in des and ne are of the first declension, and those in is and as, of the third; as, Priamides, -da, &c.; pl. -dæ, -dārum, &c.; Nērīne, -es; Tyndāris, -īdis or -īdos; Æētias, -ādis, &c.

3. A noun derived from a substantive proper, signifying one's country, is called a patrial or gentile noun; as,

Tros, Trois, a man born at Troy; Troas, -ddis, a woman born at Troy. Sicūlus, -i, a Sicilian man; Sicēlis, -īdis, a Sicilian woman; so, Mācēdo, -ōnis, Arpinas, -ātis, a man born in Macedonia, at Arpinum; from Troja, Sicilia, Macedonia, Arpinum. But patrials for the most part are to be considered as adjectives, having a substantive understood; as, Rōmānus, Athēniensis, &c.

4. A substantive derived from an adjective, expressing simply the quality of the adjective, without regard to the thing in which the quality exists, is called an abstract; as, justitia, justice; bōnitas, goodness; dulcēdo, sweetness; from justus, just; bonus, good; dulcis, sweet.

The adjectives from which these abstracts come are called concretes; because, besides the quality, they also suppose something to which it belongs. Abstracts commonly end in a, as, or do, and are very numerous, being derived from most adjectives in the Latin tongue.

5. A substantive derived from another substantive, signifying a diminution or lessening of its signification, is called a diminutive; as, libellus, a little book; chartūla, a little paper; opusculum, a little work; corculum, a little heart; reticulum, a small net; scabellum, a small form; lapillus, a little stone; cultellus, a little knife; pagella, a little page: from liber, charta, opus, cor, rēte, scamnum, lapis, culter, pagina. Several diminutives are sometimes formed from the same primitive; as, from puer, puerulus, puellus, puellulus; from cista, cistula, cistella, cistellula; from hōmo, hōmuncio, hōmunculus. Diminutives for the most part end in lus, la, lum, and are generally of the same gender with their primitives.

When the signification of the primitive is increased, it is called an amplificative, and ends in o; as, capitō, -ōnis, having a large head: so, nāso, lābeo, bucco, having a large nose, lips, cheeks.

6. A substantive derived from a verb is called a verbal noun; as, āmor, love; doctrīna, learning; from āmo, and dōceo. Verbal nouns are very numerous, and commonly end in io, or, us, and ura; as, lectio, a lesson; āmātor, a lover; luctus, grief; creātūra, a creature.

ADJECTIVE.

An Adjective is a word added to a substantive, to express its quality; as, durus, hard; mollis, soft.*

Adjectives in Latin are varied by gender, number, and case, to agree with substantives in all these accidents.†

Adjectives are varied like three substantives of the same termination and declension.

All adjectives are either of the first and second declension, or of the third only.

Adjectives of three terminations are of the first and second declension; but adjectives of one or two terminations are of the third.

Exc. The following adjectives, though they have three terminations, are of the third declension:

Acer, sharp.	Céléber, famous.	Pēdester, on foot.
Alācer, cheerful.	Cēler, swift. [a horse.]	Sāluber, wholesome.
Campester, belonging to a plain.	Equester, belonging to	Sylvester, woody.
	Pāluster, marshy.	Vólucer, swift.

Rule for the Gender of Adjectives.

In adjectives of three terminations, the first is masc., the second fem., and the third neut. In those of two terminations, the first is masc. and fem., and the second neut. Adjectives of one termination are of all genders.

ADJECTIVES OF THE FIRST AND SECOND DECLENSION.

Bōnus, masc. bona, fem. bonum, neut. good.

Acidus, sour, tart.	Æmūlus, vying with.	Altus, high.
Acutus, sharp.	Æquus, equal, just.	Amarus, bitter.
Adultērīnus, counterfeit.	Ahēnus, of brass.	Amœnus, pleasant.

* We know things by their qualities only. Every quality must belong to some subject. An adjective therefore always implies a substantive expressed or understood, and cannot make full sense without it.

† An adjective properly has neither genders, numbers, nor cases; but certain terminations answering to the gender, number, and case of the substantive with which it is joined.

Uter, utrius, either, whether of the two .	Utervis, -triusvis, } the two
Neuter, -trius, neither .

Alterūter, the one or the other, alterutrius, alterutri, and sometimes alterius utrius, altēri utri, &c.

These adjectives, except tōtus, are called partitives; and seem to resemble, in their signification as well as declension, what are called pronominal adjectives. In ancient writers we find them declined like bonus.

Obs. 2. To decline an adjective properly, it should always be joined with a substantive in the different genders; as, bonus liber, a good book; bona penna, a good pen; bonum sedile, a good seat. But as the adjective in Latin is often found without its substantive joined with it, we therefore, in declining bonus, for instance, commonly say bonus, a good man, understanding vir, or homo; bona, a good woman, understanding famīna; and bonum, a good thing, understanding negotium.

In this manner all comparatives are declined.

In like manner ālācer or alacris, cēler or celēris, and the other adjectives included in the exception on page 66 ; which form exceptions also to the rule for the gender of adjectives on that page, having in the nom. and voc. sing. two terminations for the masculine.

RULES.

1. Adjectives of the third declension have e or i in the ablative singular : but if the neuter be in e, the ablative has i only.

2. The genitive plural ends in ium, and the neuter of the nominative, accusative, and vocative, in ia : except comparatives, which have um and a.

EXCEPTIONS.

Exc. 1. Dives, hospes, sospes, sūperstes, jūvénis, sēnex, and pauper, have e only in the ablative singular, and consequently um in the genitive plural.

Exc. 2. The following have also e in the abl. singular, and um, not ium, in the genit. plural. Compos, -ōtis, master of, that has obtained his desire ; impos, -ōtis, unable ; inops, -ōpis, poor ; supplex, -icis, suppliant, humble ; uber, -ēris, fertile ; consors, -tis, sharing, a partner, dēgēner, -ēris, degenerate or degenerating ; vigil, watchful ; pūber, -ēris, of age, marriageable ; and cēler. Also compounds in ceps, sex, pes, and corpor ; as, particeps, partaking of ; artifex, -icis, cunning, an artist ; bipes, -pēdis, two-footed ; bicorpor, -ōris, two-bodied, &c. All these have seldom the neut. sing. and almost never the neut. plural in the nominative and accusative. To which add mēmōr, mindful, which has mēmōri and mēmōrum : also, dēsēs, rēsēs, hēbes, perpes, tērēs, concōlor, verstcōlor, which likewise for the most part want the genitive plural.

Exc. 3. Par, equal, has only pāri : but its compounds have either e or i ; as, compāre or -ri. Vetus, old, has vetēra and vetērum.

Plus, more, has only the neuter gender in the singular, and is thus declined :

Singular.	Plural.
N. plus,	N. plūres, plūra & plūria,
G. plūris,	G. plūrium,
D. —	D. plūrībus,
A. plus,	A. plūres, plūra & plūria,
V. —	V. —
A. plūre, or -i.	A. plūrībus.

Its compound, complūres, has no singular.

Exc. 4. Exspes, hopeless; and pōtis, -e, able, are only used in the nominative. Potis has also sometimes potis in the neuter.

REMARKS.

1. Comparatives, and adjectives in ns, have e more frequently than i; and participles in the ablative called absolute have generally e; as, Tiberio regnante, not regnanti, in the reign of Tiberius.

2. Adjectives joined with substantives neuter for the most part have i, as, victrici ferro, not victrice.

3. Different words are sometimes used to express the different genders; as, victor, victorious, for the masc. victrix, for the fem. Victrix, in the plural, has likewise the neuter gender; thus, victrices, victricia: so, ultor, and ultrix, revengeful. Victrix is also neuter in the singular.

4. Several adjectives compounded of clivus, frænum, bacillum, arma, jūgum, limus, somnus, and animus, end in is or us; and therefore are either of the first and second declension, or of the third; as, declivis, -e, and declivus, -a, -um, steep; imbécillis, and imbécillus, weak; semisomnis, and semisomnus, half asleep; exanimis, and exanimus, lifeless. But several of them do not admit of this variation; thus we say, magnānimus, flexānimus, effrænus, levisomnus; not magnānimis, &c. On the contrary, we say, pusillānimis, injūgis, illūmis, insomnis, exsomnis; not pusillānimus, &c. So, semianimis, inermis, sublimis, acclivis, declivis, proclivis; rarely semianimus, &c.

5. Adjectives derived from nouns are called denominatives; as, cordātus, mōrātus, cælestis, adāmantinus, corpōrētus, agrestis, cæstivus, &c.; from cor, mos, cælum, adāmas, &c.

Those which diminish the signification of their primitives, are called diminutives; as, micellus, parvulus, seriusculus, &c. Those which signify a great deal of a thing, are called amplificatives, and end in osus, or entus; as, vinosus, vinolentus, much given to wine; opērosus, laborious; plumbosus, full of lead; nodosus, knotty, full of knots; corpulentus, corpulent, &c. Some end in tus; as, auritus, having long or large ears; nasutus, having a large nose; litteratus, learned, &c.

6. An adjective derived from a substantive, or from another adjective, signifying possession or property, is called a possessive adjective; as,

Scoticus, pāternus, herilis, aliēnus, of or belonging to Scotland, a father, a master, another; from Scotia, pater, herus, and alius.

7. Adjectives derived from verbs are called verbals; as, amabilis, amiable; capax, capable; docilis, teachable; from amo, capio, doceo.

8. When participles become adjectives, they are called participials; as, sapiens, wise; acutus, sharp; disertus, eloquent.

Of these many also become substantives; as, adolescens, animans, rudens, serpens, advocātus, sponsus, natus, legātus; sponsa, nata, seriu, sc. corōna, a garland; prætecta, sc. vestis; debitum, decretum, præceptum, satum, tectum, votum, &c.

9. Adjectives derived from adverbs are called adverbials ; as, hodiernus, from hodie ; crastinus, from cras ; binus, from bis, &c. There are also adjectives derived from prepositions ; as, contrarius, from contra ; anticus, from ante ; posticus, from post.

NUMERAL ADJECTIVES.

Adjectives which signify number, are divided into four classes, Cardinal, Ordinal, Distributive, and Multiplicative.

1. The Cardinal or Principal numbers are :

Unus,	one.	1.	I.
Duo,	two.	2.	II.
Tres,	three.	3.	III.
Quatuor,	four.	4.	IV.
Quinque,	five.	5.	V.
Sex,	six.	6.	VI.
Septem,	seven.	7.	VII.

Quatuordecim,	fourteen.	14.	XIV.
Quindecim,	fifteen.	15.	XV.
Sexdecim,	sixteen.	16.	XVI.
Septendecim,	seventeen.	17.	XVII.
Octodecim,	eighteen.	18.	XVIII.
Novemdecim,	nineteen.	19.	XIX.
Viginti,	twenty.	20.	XX.
Viginti unus, or } Unus et viginti, }	twenty-one.	21.	XXI.
Viginti duo, or } Duo et viginti, }	twenty-two.	22.	XXII.
Triginta,	thirty.	30.	XXX.
Quadrāginta,	forty.	40.	XL.
Quinquaginta,	fifty.	50.	L.
Sexaginta,	sixty.	60.	LX.

Octoginta,	eighty.	80.	LXXX.
Nonaginta,	ninety.	90.	XC.
Centum,	a hundred.	100.	C.
Ducenti, -æ, -a,	two hundred.	200.	CC.

Trecenti, -æ, -a,	three hundred.	300.	CCC.
Quadringenti,	four hundred.	400.	CCCC.
Quingenti,	five hundred.	500.	D.
Sexcenti,	six hundred.	600.	DC.
Septingenti,	seven hundred.	700.	DCC.
Octingenti,	eight hundred.	800.	DCCC.
Nongenti,	nine hundred.	900.	DCCCC.
Mille,	a thousand.	1,000.	M.
Duo millia, or	} two thousand.	2,000.	MM.
Bis mille,
Decem millia, or	} ten thousand.	10,000.	XM.
Decies mille,
Viginti millia, or	} twenty thousand.	20,000.	XXM.
Vicies mille,

A thousand was originally marked thus, CIO. which in latter times was contracted into M. Five hundred was marked thus, IO. or, by contraction, D.

The annexing of O. to IO. makes its value ten times greater; thus, IOO. marks five thousand; and IOOO. fifty thousand.

The prefixing of C. together with the annexing of O. to the number CIO. makes its value ten times greater; thus, CCIOO. denotes ten thousand; and CCCIOOO. a hundred thousand. The ancient Romans, according to Pliny, proceeded no farther in this method of notation. If they had occasion to express a larger number, they did it by repetition; thus, CCCIOOO. CCCIOOO. signified two hundred thousand, &c.

We sometimes find thousands expressed by a straight line drawn over the top of the numeral letters; thus, $\overline{\text{III}}$. denotes three thousand; $\overline{\text{X}}$. ten thousand.

The cardinal numbers, except unus and mille, want the singular.

Unus is not used in the plural, except when joined with a substantive which wants the singular; as, in unis adibus, in one house. Terent. Eun. ii. 3. 75. Unæ nuptiæ. Id. Andr. iv. 1. 51. In una mænia convenère. Sallust. Cat. 6. or when several particulars are considered as one whole; as, una vestimenta, one suit of clothes. Cic. Flacc. 29.

Duo and tres are thus declined :

Plural.			Plural.
N. duo,	duæ,	duo,	N. tres,		tria,
G. duōrum,	duārum,	duōrum,	G. trium,
D. duōbus,	duābus,	duōbus,	D. tribus,
A. duos or duo,	duas,	duo,	A. tres,		tria,
V. duo,	duæ,	duo,	V. tres,		tria,
A. duōbus,	duābus,	duōbus.	A. tribus.

In the same manner with duo, decline ambo, both.

All the cardinal numbers from quatuor to centum, including them both, are indeclinable; and from centum to mille, are declined like the plural of bonus; thus, ducenti, -tæ, -ta; ducentōrum, -tārum, -tōrum, &c.

Mille is used either as a substantive or adjective; when taken substantively it is indeclinable in the singular number, and in the plural has millia, millium, millibus, &c.

Mille, an adjective, is commonly indeclinable, and, to express more than one thousand, has the numeral adverbs joined with it; thus, mille homīnes, a thousand men; mille homīnum, of a thousand men, &c. Bis mille homīnes, two thousand men; ter mille homīnes, &c. But with mille, a substantive, we say, mille homīnum, a thousand men; duo millia homīnum, tria millia, quatuor millia, centum or centēna millia homīnum; decies centēna millia, a million; vicies centēna millia, two millions, &c.

2. The Ordinal numbers are, primus, first; secundus, second, &c.; declined like bonus.

3. The Distributive are, singūli, one by one; binī, two by two, or by twos, &c.; declined like the plural of bonus.

4. The Multiplicative numbers are simplex, simple; duplex, double, or two-fold; triplex, triple, or three-fold; quadruplex, four-fold, &c.; all of them declined like felix; thus, simplex, -icis, &c.

The interrogative words to which these numerals answer, are quot, quōtus, quōtēni, quōties, and quōtuplex.

Quot, how many? is indeclinable: So tot, so many; tōtīdem, just so many; quotquot, quotcumque, how many soever; aliquot, some.

The following Table contains a list of the Ordinal and Distributive Numbers, together with the Numeral Adverbs, which are often joined with the Numeral Adjectives.

To the numeral adjectives may be added such as express division, proportion, time, weight, &c.; as, bipartitus, tripartitus, &c.; duplus, triplus, &c.; bimus, trimus, &c.; biennis, triennis, &c.; bimestris, trimestris, &c.; bilibris, trilibris, &c.; binarius, ternarius, &c.; which last are applied to the number of any kind of things whatever; as, versus senarius, a verse of six feet; denarius nummus, a coin of ten asses; octogenarius senex, an old man eighty years old; grex centenarius, a flock of an hundred, &c.

COMPARISON OF ADJECTIVES.

The comparison of adjectives expresses the quality in different degrees; as, durus, hard; durior, harder; durissimus, hardest.

Those adjectives only are compared, whose signification admits the distinction of more and less.

The degrees of comparison are three, the Positive, Comparative, and Superlative.

The Positive seems improperly to be called a degree. It simply signifies the quality; as, durus, hard; and serves only as a foundation for the other degrees. By it we express the relation of equality; as, he is as tall as I.

The Comparative expresses a greater degree of the quality, and has always a reference to a less degree of the same; as, durior, harder; sapientior, wiser.

The Superlative expresses the quality carried to the greatest degree; as, durissimus, hardest; sapientissimus, wisest.

FORMATION OF THE DEGREES.

The comparative degree is formed from the first case of the positive ending in i, by adding the syllable or, for the masculine and feminine, and us, for the neuter. The superlative is formed from the same case, by adding ssimus; thus, altus, high; gen. alti, by adding or, we have the comparative altior, for the masc. and fem.; and by adding us, altius, for the neut.; higher: so, by adding ssimus to the gen. alti, we have the superlative altissimus, -a, -um. So, mitis, meek, gen. mitis, dative miti; mitior, -us, meeker; mitissimus, -a, -um, meekest.

If the positive end in er, the superlative is formed from the nominative by adding rimus; as, pauper, poor; pauperrimus, poorest.

The comparative is always of the third declension; the superlative of the first and second; as, altus, altior, altissimus; alta, altior, altissima; altum, altius, altissimum; gen. alti, altioris, altissimi, &c.

IRREGULAR AND DEFECTIVE COMPARISON.

1. Bönus,	mélior,	optímus,	good,	better,	best.
Mälus,	pejor,	pessímus,	bad,	worse,	worst.
Magnus,	major,	maxímus,	great,	greater,	greatest.
Parvus,	mīnor,	mīnīmus,	small,	less,	least.
Multus,	—	plūrīmus,	much,	more,	most.

Fem. Multa, plurīma; neut. multum, plus, plurīmum; plur. multi, plures, plurīmi; multæ, plures, plurīmæ, &c.

In several of these, both in English and Latin, the comparative and superlative seem to be formed from some other adjective, which in the positive has fallen into disuse; in others, the regular form is contracted; as, maxímus, for magnissímus; worst, for worstest.

2. These five have their superlative in līmus :

Facīlis, facilior, facillīmus, easy. Imbecīllis, imbecīllior, imbecīllīmus,
Gracīlis, gracīllior, gracīllīmus, lean. weak.
Hūmīlis, humīllior, humīllīmus, low. Sīmīlis, simīllior, simīllīmus, like.

3. The following adjectives have regular comparatives, but form the superlative differently :

Cīter, cīterior, cītīmus, near, &c. Māturus, -ior, maturrīmus or matu-
Exter, -erior, extīmus or extrēmus, hind.
outward. Sūpērus, -rior, suprēmus or sum-
Infērus, -ior, infīmus or īmus, below. mus, high.
Intērus, intērior, intīmus, inward. Vētus, vētērior, vēterrīmus, old.

4. Compounds in dīcus, lōquus, fīcus, and vōlus, have entīor, and entīssīmus; as, mālēdīcus, railing; mālēdicentīor, maledīcentīssīmus: So, magnīlōquus, one that boasteth; bēnēfīcus, beneficent; mālēvōlus, malevolent; mīrīfīcus, wonderful; -entīor, -entīssīmus or mīrīfīcīssīmus. Nēquam, indeclinable, worthless, vicious, has nēquīor, nequīssīmus.

There are a great many adjectives, which, though capable of having their signification increased, yet either want one of the degrees of comparison, or are not compared at all.

1. The following adjectives are not used in the positive :

Dētērior, worse, deterrīmus. Prōpīor, nearer, proxīmus,
Ocīor, swīfter, ocīssīmus. nearest or next.
Prior, former, prīmus. Ultērior, farther, ultīmus.

2. The following want the comparative .

Inclýtus, inclýtissimus , re-nowned .	Növus, novissimus , new .
Mëritus, meritissimus , deserving .	Nüpërus, nuperrimus , late .
	Par, pärrissimus , equal .
	Säcer, sacerrimus , sacred .

3. The following want the superlative :

Adölescens, adolescencior , young .	Opïmus, opimior , rich .
Diüturnus, diuturnior , lasting .	Prönus, pronior , inclined downwards .
Ingens, ingencior , huge .	Sätur, satürrior , full .
Jüvënis, junior , young .	Sënex, senior , old .

To supply the superlative of jüvënis, or adölescens, we say minïmus natu, the youngest; and of senex, maxïmus natu, the oldest.

Most adjectives in ilis, älis, and bilis, also want the superlative; as, civilis, civilior, civil; rëgälis, regalior, regal; flëbilis, -ior, lamentable. So, juvencilis, youthful; exilis, small, &c.

To these add several others of different terminations. Thus arcämus, -ior, secret; declivis, -ior, bending downwards; longinquus, -ior, far off; propinquus, -ior, near.

Antërior, former; sëquior, worse; sätior, better. are only found in the comparative.

4. Many adjectives are not compared at all; such are those compounded with nouns or verbs; as, versicölor, of divers colours; pestifer, poisonous: also adjectives in us pure, in ivus, ivus, ivus, orus, or ivus, and diminutives; as, dübïus, doubtful; vöcuus, empty; fügïtivus, that flieth away; mätürïnus, early; cänörus, shrill; lëgitïmus, lawful; tënellus, somewhat tender; majuscülus, &c.; together with a great many others of various terminations; as, almus, gracious; præcox, -öcis, soon or early ripe; mïrus, egënus, läcer, mëmor, sospes, &c.

This defect of comparison is supplied by putting the adverb magis before the adjective, for the comparative degree; and valde or maxime for the superlative; thus, egënus, needy, magis egënus, more needy; valde or maxime egënus, very, or most needy. Which form of comparison is also used in those adjectives which are regularly compared.

PRONOUN.

A Pronoun is a word which stands instead of a noun.*

The simple pronouns in Latin are eighteen; ëgo, tu, sui;

* Thus, I stands for the name of the person who speaks; thou, for the name of the person addressed.

Pronouns serve to point out objects, whose names we either do not know, or do not want to mention. They also serve to shorten discourse, and prevent the too frequent repetition of the same word; thus, instead of saying, When Cæsar had conquered Gaul, Cæsar turned Cæsar's arms against Cæsar's country, we say, When Cæsar had conquered Gaul, he turned his arms against his country.

ille, ipse, iste, hic, is, quis, qui; meus, tuus, suus, noster, vester; nostras, vestras, and cujas.

Three of them are substantives, ëgo, tu, sui; the other fifteen are adjectives.

Obs. 1. Ego wants the vocative, because one cannot call upon himself, except as a second person; thus, we cannot say, O ego, O I; O nos, O we.

Obs. 2. Mihi in the dative is sometimes by the poets contracted into mi.

Obs. 3. The genitive plural of ëgo was anciently nostrorum and nostrarum; of tu, vestrorum and vestrarum, which were afterwards contracted into nostrum and vestrum.

We commonly use nostrum and vestrum after partitives, numerals, comparatives, or superlatives; and nostrî and vestri after other words.

The English substantive pronouns, he, she, it, are expressed in Latin by these pronominal adjectives, ille, iste, hic, or is; as,

Ille, for the masc. illa, for the fem. illud, for the neuter, that: or ille, he; illa, she; illud, it or that: thus,

Ipse, he himself, ipsa, she herself, ipsum, itself; and iste, ista, istud, are declined like ille; only ipse, has ipsum in the nom. acc. and voc. sing. neut.

Ipse is often joined to ego, tu, sui; and has in Latin the same force with self in English, when joined with a possessive pronoun; as ego ipse, I myself.

The other pronouns are derivatives, coming from ego, tu, and sui. Meus, my or mine; tuus, thy or thine; suus, his own, her own, its own, their own; are declined like bonus, -a, -um; and noster, our; vester, your; like pulcher, -chra, -chrum, of the first and second declension; noster, -tra, -trum.

Nostras, of our country; vestras, of your country; cujas, of what or which country; are declined like felix, of the third declension: gen. nostrâtis, dat. nostrâti, &c.

Pronouns as well as nouns, that signify things which cannot be addressed or called upon, want the vocative.

Meus has mi, and sometimes meus, in the voc. sing. masc.

The relative qui has frequently qui in the ablative, and that, which is remarkable, in all genders and numbers.

Qui is sometimes used for quis: and instead of cujus, the gen. of quis, we find an adjective pronoun, cujus, -a, -um.

Simple pronouns, with respect to their significations, are divided into the following classes:

1. Demonstratives, which point out any person or thing present, or as if present: Ego, tu, hic, iste, and sometimes ille, is, ipse.
2. Relatives, which refer to something going before: ille, ipse, iste, hic, is, qui.
3. Possessives, which signify possession: meus, tuus, suus, noster, vester.
4. Patrials or Gentiles, which signify one's country: nostras, vestras, cujas.
5. Interrogatives, by which we ask a question: quis? cujas? When they do not ask a question, they are called Indefinites, like other words of the same nature.
6. Reciprocals, which again call back or represent the same object to the mind: sui and suus.

COMPOUND PRONOUNS.

Pronouns are compounded variously:

1. With other pronouns; as, isthic, isthæc, isthoc, isthuc, or istuc. Acc. Isthunc, isthanc, isthoc, or isthue. Abl. Isthoc, isthac, isthoc. Nom. and acc. plur. neut. isthæc, of iste and hic. So illic, of ille and hic.

2. With some other parts of speech ; as, hujusmodi, cujusmodi, &c. mecum, tecum, secum, nobiscum, vobiscum, quocum, or quicum, and quibuscum : eccum, eccam ; eccos, eccas, and sometimes ecca in the nom. sing. of ecce and is. So ellum, of ecce and ille.

3. With some syllable added ; as, tute of tu and te, used only in the nom. egomet, tutemet, suimet, through all the cases, thus, meimet, tuimet, &c. of ego, tu, sui, and met. Instead of tumet in the nom. we say, tutemet : Hiccine, hœccine, &c. in all the cases that end in c : of hic and cine : Medpte, tuapte, suapte, nostrapte, vestrapte, in the ablat. fem. and sometimes meopte, tuopte, &c. of meus, &c. and pte : hicce, hœcce, hocce ; hujusce, hisce, hosce ; of hic and ce : whence hujuscemodi, ejuscemodi, cujuscemodi. So, IDEM, the same, compounded of is and dem, which is thus declined :

Singular.

N. idem,	eãdem,	ïdem,
G.	ejusdem,
D.	eïdem,
A. eundem,	eandem,	ïdem,
V. idem,	eãdem,	ïdem,
A. eõdem,	eãdem,	eõdem.

Plural.

N. iidem,	eãdem,	eãdem,
G. eorundem,	earundem,	eorundem,
D.	eïsdem, or iisdem,
A. eosdem,	easdem,	eãdem,
V. iidem,	eãdem,	eãdem,
A.	eïsdem, or iisdem.

The pronouns which we find most frequently compounded, are quis and qui.

Quis in composition is sometimes the first, sometimes the last, and sometimes likewise the middle part of the word compounded ; but qui is always the first.

1. The compounds of quis, in which it is put first, are quisnam, who ? quispiam, quisquam, any one ; quisque, every one ; quisquis, whosoever ; which are thus declined :

Nom.	Gen.	Dat.
Quisnam, quenam, quodnam or quidnam ;	cujusnam ;	cuinam ;
Quispiam, quæpiam, quodpiam or quidpiam ;	cujuspiam ;	cuipiam ;
Quisquam, quæquam, quodquam or quidquam ;	cujusquam ;	cuiquam ;
Quisque, quæque, quodque or quidque ;	cujusque ;	cuique ;
Quisquis, ——— quidquid or quicquid ;	cujuscujus ;	cuiqui.

And so in the other cases according to the simple quis. But quisquis has not the fem. at all, and the neuter only in the nominative and accusative. Quisquam has also quicquam for quidquam ; accusative, quenquam, without the feminine. The plural is scarcely used.

2. The compounds of quis, in which quis is put last, have qua in the nom. sing. fem. ; and in the nominative and accusative plur. neut. as, aliquis, some ; equis, who ? of et and quis ; also, nequis, siquis, nemquis which for the most part are read separately ; thus, ne quis, si quis, num quis. They are thus declined :

Nom.			Gen.	Dat.
Aliquis,	aliqua,	aliquod	or aliquid ;	alicujus ;	alicui ;
Ecquis, ecqua	or ecquæ,	ecquod	or ecquid ;	eccujus ;	eccui ;
Si quis,	si qua,	si quod	or si quid ;	si cuius ;	si cui ;
Ne quis,	ne qua,	ne quod	or ne quid ;	ne cuius ;	ne cui ;
Num quis,	num qua,	num quod	or num quid ;	num cujus ;	num cui.

3. The compounds which have quis in the middle, are, ecquisnam, who ? unusquisque, gen. unuscujusque, every one. The former is used only in the nom. sing. and the latter wants the plural.

4. The compounds of qui are quicumque, whosoever ; quidam, some ; quilibet, quisvis, any one, whom you please ; which are thus declined

Nom.			Gen.	Dat.
Quicumque,	quæcunq̄ue,	quodcunq̄ue ;	cujuscunq̄ue ;	cuicunq̄ue ;
Quidam,	quædam,	quoddam	or quiddam ;	cujusdam ;	cuidam ;
Quilibet,	quælibet,	quodlibet	or quidlibet ;	cujuslibet ;	cuilibet ;
Quisvis,	quævis,	quodvis	or quidvis ;	cujusvis ;	cuisvis.

Obs. 1. All these compounds have seldom or never queis, but quibus, in their dat. and abl. plur. ; thus, aliquibus, &c.

Obs. 2. Quis, and its compounds, in comic writers, have sometimes quis in the feminine gender.

Obs. 3. Quidam has quendam, quandam, quoddam or quiddam, in the acc. sing. and quorundam, quærundam, quorundam, in the genitive plural, a being put instead of m, for the better sound.

Obs. 4. Quod, with its compounds, aliquod, quodvis, quoddam, &c. are used, when they agree with a substantive in the same case ; quid, with its compounds, aliquid, quidvis, &c. for the most part have either no substantive expressed, or govern one in the genitive. For this reason, they are by some reckoned substantives.

Obs. 5. Aliquis and Quidam may be thus distinguished ; the former denotes a person or thing indeterminately ; the latter, determinately.

Obs. 6. Uter refers to two, and is therefore joined to comparatives.

Obs. 7. Quis may refer to many, and is therefore joined with superlatives.

Obs. 8. Hic and Ille are often found to refer to two words going before them. Hic usually to the latter ; Ille to the former.

Obs. 9. As demonstratives, Hic refers to the person nearest to me ; Iste to the person nearest to you ; Ille to any intermediate person.

Obs. 10. Ille denotes honour ; Iste, contempt ; as, ille vir ; iste homo.

Obs. 11. Tuus is used when we speak to one ; as, Summe, Coriolâne, in tuis castris captiva an mater ? Vester, when we speak to more than one ; as, Cives, miseremini celi vestri.

Obs. 12. Alter is in general applied to one of two ; Alius to one of many.

VERB.*

A verb is a word which expresses what is affirmed of things; as, The boy reads. The sun shines. The man loves.

Or, A verb is that part of speech which signifies to be, to do, or to suffer.

Verbs, with respect to their signification, are divided into three different classes, Active, Passive, and Neuter; because we consider things either as acting, or being acted upon; or as neither acting, nor being acted upon; but simply existing, or existing in a certain state or condition, as in a state of motion or rest; &c.

1. An Active verb expresses an action, and necessarily supposes an agent, and an object acted upon; as, amāre, to love; amo te, I love thee.

2. A verb Passive expresses a passion or suffering, or the receiving of an action; and necessarily implies an object acted upon, and an agent, by which it is acted upon; as, amāri, to be loved; tu amāris a me, thou art loved by me.

3. A Neuter verb properly expresses neither action nor passion, but simply the being, state, or condition of things; as, dormio, I sleep; sedeo, I sit.

The verb is also called Transitive, when the action passes over to the object, or has an effect on some other thing; as, scribo litēras, I write letters: but when the action is confined within the agent, and passes not over to any object, it is called Intransitive; as, ambūlo, I walk; curro, I run; which are likewise called Neuter verbs. Many verbs in Latin and English are used both in a transitive and in an intransitive or neuter sense; as, sistere, to stop; incipere, to begin; durare, to endure, or to harden, &c.

* It is called a Verb or Word by way of eminence, because it is the most essential word in a sentence, without which the other parts of speech can form no complete sense. Thus, the diligent boy reads his lesson with care, is a perfect sentence; but if we take away the affirmation, or the word reads, it is rendered imperfect, or rather becomes no sentence at all; thus, the diligent boy his lesson with care.

A verb therefore may be thus distinguished from any other part of speech: Whatever word expresses an affirmation, or assertion, is a verb; or thus, Whatever word, with a substantive noun or pronoun before or after it, makes full sense, is a verb; as, stones fall, I walk, walk thou. Here fall and walk are verbs, because they contain an affirmation; but when we say, a long walk, a dangerous fall, there is no affirmation expressed; and the same words walk and fall become substantives or nouns. We often find likewise in Latin the same word used as a verb, and also as some other part of speech; thus, amor, -oris, love, a substantive; and amor, I am loved, a verb.

Verbs which simply signify being are likewise called Substantive verbs; as, esse, or existere, to be, or to exist. The notion of existence is implied in the signification of every verb; thus, I love, may be resolved into I am loving.

When the meaning of a verb is expressed without any affirmation, or in such a form as to be joined to a substantive noun, partaking thereby of the nature of an adjective, it is called a Participle; as, amans, loving; amatus, loved. But when it has the form of a substantive, it is called a Gerund, or a Supine; as, amandum, loving; amatum, to love; amatu, to love, or to be loved.

A verb is varied or declined by Voices, Modes, Tenses, Numbers, and Persons.

There are two voices; the Active and Passive.

The modes are four; Indicative, Subjunctive, Imperative, and Infinitive.

The tenses are five; the Present, the Preter-imperfect, the Preter-perfect, the Preter-pluperfect, and the Future.

The numbers are two; Singular and Plural.

The persons are three; First, Second, and Third.

1. Voice expresses the different circumstances in which we consider an object; whether as acting, or being acted upon. The Active voice signifies action; as, amo, I love; the Passive, suffering, or being the object of an action; as, amor, I am loved.

2. Modes or moods are the various manners of expressing the signification of the verb.

The Indicative declares or affirms positively; as, amo, I love; amābo, I shall or will love; or asks a question; as, an tu amas? dost thou love?

The Subjunctive is usually joined to some other verb, and cannot make a full meaning by itself; as, si me obsecrē, redibō, if he entreat me, I will return. Ter.

The Imperative commands, exhorts, or entreats; as, ama, love thou.

The Infinitive simply expresses the signification of the verb, without limiting it to any person or number; as, amāre, to love.

3. Tenses or Times express the time when any thing is supposed to be, to act, or to suffer.

Time in general is divided into three parts, the present, past, and future.

Past time is expressed three different ways. When we speak of a thing, which was doing, but not finished at some former time, we use the Preter-imperfect, or past time not completed; as, scribēbam, I was writing.

When we speak of a thing now finished, we use the Preter-perfect, or past time completed; as, scripsi, I wrote, or have written.

When we speak of a thing finished at or before some past time, we use the Preter-plusperfect, or past time more than completed; as, scripsēram, I had written.

Future time is expressed two different ways. A thing may be considered either as simply about to be done, or as actually finished, at some future time; as, scribam, I shall write, or, I shall [then] be writing; scripsēro, I shall have written.

4. Number marks how many we suppose to be, to act, or to suffer.

5. Person shows to what the meaning of the verb is applied, whether to the person speaking, to the person addressed, or to some other person or thing.

Verbs have two numbers and three persons, to agree with substantive nouns and pronouns in these respects: for a verb properly hath neither numbers nor persons, but certain terminations answering to the person and number of its nominative.

A verb is properly said to be conjugated, when all its parts are properly classed, or, as it were, yoked together, according to Voice, Mode, Tense, Number, and Person.

THE DIFFERENT CONJUGATIONS.

Conjugation is the regular distribution of the various parts of verbs, according to the different voices, modes, tenses, numbers, and persons.

There are four conjugations of verbs in Latin; distinguished by the vowel preceding re of the infinitive mode.

The first conjugation makes āre long; as, Amāre.

The second conjugation makes ēre long; as, Docēre.

The third conjugation makes ēre short; as, Legere.

The fourth conjugation makes īre long; as, Audire.

Except dāre, to give, which has ā short, and also its compounds; thus Circumdāre, to surround; circumdāmus, -dātis, -dābam, -dābo, &c.

The different conjugations are likewise distinguished from one another by the different terminations of the following tenses:

Observe. Verbs in io of the third conjugation have iunt in the third person plur. of the present indic. active, and iantur in the passive; and so in the imperative, iunto and iuntor. In the imperfect and future of the indicative they have always the terminations of the fourth conjugation, iēbam and iam; iēbar and iar, &c.

The terminations of the other tenses are the same through all the Conjugations. Thus,

These Tenses, in the Passive Voice, are formed by the Participle Perfect, and the auxiliary verb sum, which is also used to express the Future of the Infinitive Active.

SUM is an irregular verb, and thus conjugated :

* Shall and will are always employed to express future time.

Will, in the first person singular and plural, promises or threatens ; in the second and third persons, only foretells : shall, on the contrary, in the first person, simply foretells ; in the second and third persons, promises, commands, or threatens. But the contrary of this holds, when we ask a question ; thus, " I shall go," " you will go ;" express event only ; but " will you go ?" imports intention ; and " shall I go ?" refers to the will of another.

Obs. 1. The personal pronouns, which in English are, for the most part, added to the verb, in Latin are commonly understood ; because the several persons are sufficiently distinguished from one another by the different terminations of the verb, though the persons themselves be not expressed. The learner, however, at first may be accustomed to join them with the verb ; thus, ego sum, I am ; tu es, thou art, or you are ; ille est, he is ; nos sumus, we are ; &c. So ego amo, I love ; tu amas, thou lovest, or you love ; ille amat, he loveth or loves ; nos amamus, we love ; &c.

Obs. 2. In the second person singular in English, we commonly use the plural form, except in solemn discourse ; as, tu es, thou art, or much oftener, you are ; tu eras, thou wast, or you were ; tu sis, thou mayest be, or you may be ; &c. So, tu amas, thou lovest, or you love ; tu amabas, thou lovedst, or you loved ; &c.

FORMATION OF VERBS.

There are four principal parts of a verb, from which all the rest are formed ; namely, O of the present, I of the perfect indicative, RE of the infinitive, and UM of the supine.* A verb is commonly said to be conjugated when only these parts are mentioned, because from them all the rest are derived.

The first person of the Present indicative is called the Theme, or the Root of the verb ; because from it the other three principal parts are formed.

All the letters which come before -āre, -ēre, -ēre, or -ire, of the infinitive, are called radical letters, because they always remain the same. By putting these before the terminations, all the parts of any regular verb may be readily formed, except the compound tenses.

* 1. From o are formed am and em.
 2. From i ; ram, rim, ro, sse, and ssem.
 3. U, us, and rus, are formed from um.
 4. All other parts from re do come.

FORMATION OF THE TENSES IN THE ACTIVE VOICE.

Indicative Mode.

The Imperfect is formed from the present by changing o, in the first conjugation, into ābam; as, am-o, -ābam; in the second, into bam; as, doc-eo, -ēbam; in the third and fourth, into ēbam; as, leg-o, -ēbam; audi-o, -ēbam.

The Pluperfect is formed from the perfect by changing i into eram; as, amāv-i, -eram; docu-i, -eram.

The Future is formed from the present by changing o, in the first conjugation, into ābo; as, am-o, -ābo; in the second, into bo; as, doc-eo, -ēbo; in the third and fourth into am; as, leg-o, -am; audi-o, -am.

Subjunctive Mode.

The Present is formed from the present indicative by changing o, in the first conjugation, into em; as, am-o, -em; in the second, third, and fourth, into am; as, doce-o, -am; leg-o, -am; audi-o, -am.

The Imperfect is formed from the present infinitive by adding m; as, amāre, amārem.

The Perfect is formed from the perfect indicative by changing i into erim; as, amāv-i, -erim.

The Pluperfect is formed from the perfect indicative by changing i into issem; as, amāv-i, -issem.

The Future is formed from the perfect indicative by changing i into ero; as, amāv-i, -ero.

Imperative Mode.

The Present is formed from the present infinitive by taking away re; as, amare, ama; docere, doce.

Infinitive Mode.

The Present is formed from the present indicative by changing o, in the first conjugation, into āre; as, am-o, -āre; in the second and fourth into re; as, doce-o, -re; audi-o, -re; in the third by changing o or io into ere; as, leg-o, -ere; cap-io, -ere.

The Future is formed from the supine, by changing m into rus and adding esse or fuisse; as, amatu-m, -rus, esse or fuisse amatūrus.

The Perfect is formed from the perfect indicative by changing i into isse; as, amāv-i, -isse.

The Gerunds are formed from the participle present by changing s into dum, dī, and do.

The Participle Present is formed from the present indicative by changing o, in the first conjugation, into ans; as, am-o,

-ans; in the second, into as; as, doce-o, -ns; in the third and fourth, into ens; as, lego, -ens; audi-o, ens.

The Participle Future is formed from the Supine by changing m into rus; as, amatu-m, -rus.

FORMATION OF TENSES IN THE PASSIVE VOICE.

The tenses of the Indicative and Subjunctive modes are formed from those of the active that end in o, by adding r; or from those that end in m, by changing m into r; as, amo, amem; amor, amer.

The Perfect and Pluperfect Indicative, and the Perfect, Pluperfect, and Future Subjunctive, are composed of the perfect participle declined with the tenses of the verb sum.

The Imperative is the same as the infinitive active.

The Infinitive Present is formed from the active by changing e in the first, second, and fourth conjugations, into i; as, amār-e, amar-i; docēr-e, docēri; audār-e, audāri; and in the third, ēre, into i; as, leg-ēre, legi.

The Infinitive Future is composed of the former supine and iri;* as, amātum iri.

The Perfect participle is formed from the former supine by changing m into s; as, amātum, amātus.

The Future Participle is formed from the present active by changing s into ds; as, amans, amandus.

SIGNIFICATION OF THE TENSES IN THE VARIOUS MODES.

The tenses formed from the present of the indicative or infinitive, signify in general the continuance of an action or passion, or represent them as present at some particular time; the other tenses express an action or passion completed; but not always so absolutely, as entirely to exclude the continuance of the same action or passion; thus, Amo, I love; do love, or am loving; amābam, I loved, did love, or was loving, &c.

Amāvi, I loved, did love, or have loved, that is, have done with loving, &c.

In like manner, in the passive voice; Amor, I am loved, I am in loving, or in being loved, &c.

Past time in the passive voice is expressed several different ways, by means of the auxiliary verb sum, and the participle perfect; thus:

Indicative Mode.

Perfect. Amātus sum, I am, or have been loved, or oftener, I was loved.

Amātus fui, I have been loved, or I was loved.

Pluperfect. Amātus eram, I was, or had been loved.

Amātus fuēram, I had been loved.

Subjunctive Mode.

Perfect. Amātus sim, I may be, or may have been loved.

Amātus fuērim, I may have been loved.

* Iri is the infinitive passive of eo.

Pluperfect. Amātus essent, I might, could, would, or should be, or have been loved.

Amātus fuisset, I might, could, would, or should have been loved; or I had been loved.

Future. Amātus fuero, I shall have been loved.

The verb sum is also employed to express future time in the indicative mode, both active and passive; thus:

Amāturus sum, I am about to love, I am to love, I am going to love, or I will love. We chiefly use this form, when some purpose or intention is signified.

Amātus ero, I shall be loved.

Obs. 1. The participles amātus and amāturus are put before the auxiliary verb, because we commonly find them so placed in the classics.

Obs. 2. In these compound tenses the learner should be taught to vary the participle like an adjective noun, according to the gender and number of the different substantives to which it is applied; thus, amātus est, he is or was loved, when applied to a man; amāta est, she was loved, when applied to a woman; amātum est, it was loved, when applied to a thing; amāti sunt, they were loved, when applied to men, &c. The connecting of syntax, so far as is necessary, with the inflection of nouns and verbs, seems to be the most proper method of teaching both.

Obs. 3. The past time and participle perfect in English are taken in different meanings, according to the different tenses in Latin which they are used to express. Thus, "I loved," when put for amābam, is taken in a sense different from what it has when put for amāvi; so amor, and amātus sum, I am loved; amābar and amātus eram, I was loved; amer, and amātus sim, &c. In the one, loved is taken in a present, in the other, in a past sense. This ambiguity arises from the defective nature of the English verb.

Obs. 4. The tenses of the subjunctive mode may be variously rendered, according to their connexion with the other parts of a sentence. They are often expressed in English as the same tenses of the indicative, and sometimes one tense is apparently put for another.

Thus, Quasi intelligant, qualis sit, As if they understood, what kind of person he is. Cic. In factis jurasse putes, You would think, &c. Ov. Elūgar an sileam? Shall I speak out, or be silent? Nec vos arguērim, Teucri, for arguam. Virg. Si quid te fugerit, ego perierim, for peribo. Ter. Hunc ego si potui tantum sperare dolorem; Et perferre, soror, potero: for potuissem and possem. Virg. Singula quid referam? Why should I mention every thing? Id. Prediceres mihi, You should have told me before hand. Ter. At tu dictis, Albane, moneres, Ought to have stood to your word. Virg. Citius credidērim, I should sooner believe. Juv. Haustrit ensis, The sword would have destroyed. Virg. Fuerint irāti, Grant or suppose they were angry. Si id fecisset, If he did or should do that. Cic. The same promiscuous use of the tenses seems also to take place sometimes in the indicative and infinitive; and the indicative to be put for the subjunctive; as, Animus meminisse horret, luctūque refugit, for refugit. Virg. Fuerat melius, for fuisset. Id. Invidiæ dilapsa erat, for fuisset. Sall. Quamdiu in portum venis? for venisti. Plaut. Quam mox nauigo Ephesum, for navigabo. Id. Tu si hic sis, aliter sentias. Ter. for esses and sentires. Cato affirmat, se vivo, illum non triumphare, for triumphaturum esse. Cic. Persuadet Castico, ut occuparet, for occupet. Cæs.

Obs. 5. The future of the subjunctive, and also of the indicative, is often rendered by the present of the subjunctive in English; as, nisi hoc faciet, or fecerit, unless he do this. Ter.

Obs. 6. Instead of the imperative we often use the present of the subjunctive; as, valeas, farewell; huc venias, come hither, &c. And also the future both of the indicative and subjunctive; as, non occides, do not kill; ne feceris, do not do; valēbis, meque amābis, farewell, and love me. Cic.

The present time and the preter-imperfect of the infinitive are both expressed under the same form. All the varieties of past and future time are expressed by the other two tenses. But in order properly to exemplify the tenses of the infinitive mode, we must put an accusative, and some other verb before each of them; thus:

Dicit me scribere; he says that I write, do write, or am writing.

Dixit me scribere; he said that I wrote, did write, or was writing.

Dicit me scripsisse; he says that I wrote, did write, or have written.

Dixit me scripsisse; he said that I had written.

Dicit me scripturum esse; he says that I will write.

Dixit nos scripturos esse; he said that we would write.

Dicit nos scripturos fuisse; he says that we would have written.

Dicit litteras scribi; he says that letters are written, writing, or in writing.

Dixit litteras scribi; he said that letters were writing, or written.

Dicit litteras scriptas esse; he says that letters are, or were written.

Dixit litteras scriptas fuisse; he says that letters have been written.

Dixit litteras scriptas fuisse; he said that letters had been written.

Dicit litteras scriptum iri; he says that letters will be written.

Dixit litteras scriptum iri; he said that letters would be written.

The future, scriptum iri, is made up of the former supine, and the infinitive passive of the verb eo, and therefore never admits of any variation.

The future of the infinitive is sometimes expressed by a periphrasis, or circumlocution; thus, scio fore or futurum esse ut scribant,—ut littera scribantur; I know that they will write,—that letters will be written. Scivi fore or futurum esse ut scriberent,—ut littera scriberentur; I knew that they would write, &c. Scivi futurum fuisse ut littera scriberentur, I knew that letters would have been written. This form is necessary in verbs which want the supine.

Obs. 7. The different tenses, when joined with any expediency or necessity, are thus expressed:

Scribendum est mihi, puero, nobis, &c. litteras; I, the boy, we, &c. must write letters.

Scribendum fuit mihi, puero, nobis, &c. I must have written, &c.

Scribendum erit mihi; I shall be obliged to write.

Scio scribendum esse mihi litteras; I know that I must write letters.

—scribendum fuisse mihi;—that I must have written.

Dixit scribendum fore mihi; he said that I should be obliged to write.

Or with the participle in du:

Littera sunt scribenda mihi, puero, hominibus, &c. or, a me, puero, &c. letters are to be, or must be written by me, by the boy, by men, &c.; So, littera scribenda erant, fuerunt, erunt, &c. Si littera scribenda sint, essent, forent, &c. Scio litteras scribendas esse; I know that letters are to be, or must be written. Scivi litteras scribendas fuisse; I knew that letters ought to have been, or must have been written.

FORMATION OF THE PRETERITE AND SUPINE.

GENERAL RULES.

1. Compound and simple verbs form the preterite and supine in the same manner; as,

Voco, vocāvi, vocātum, to call; so, revoco, revocāvi, revocātum, to recall.

Exc. 1. When the simple verb in the preterite doubles the first syllable of the present, the compounds lose the former syllable; as, pello, pēpūli, to beat; repello, rēpūli, never repēpūli, to beat back. But the compounds of do, sto, disco, and posco, follow the general rule; thus, ēdisco, ēdidici, to get by heart; dēposco, dēpōposci, to demand: so, præcurro, præcūcurri; rēpungo, rēpūpūgi.

Exc. 2. Compounds which change a of the simple verb into i, have e in the supine: as, facio, fēcī, factum, to make; perficio, perfēcī, perfectum, to perfect. But compound verbs ending in do and go; also the compounds of habeo, placeo, sapio, salio, and statuo, observe the general rule.

2. Verbs which want the preterite, want likewise the supine.

DEPONENT AND COMMON VERBS.

A deponent verb is that which, under a passive form, has an active or neuter signification; as, Lōquor, I speak; mōrior, I die.

A common verb, under a passive form, has either an active or passive signification; as, Crimānor, I accuse, or I am accused.

Most deponent verbs of old were the same with common verbs. They are called Deponent, because they have laid aside the passive sense.

Deponent and common verbs form the participle perfect in the same manner as if they had the active voice; thus, Lātor, letāri, letātus, to rejoice; vēreor, vērēri, verītus, to fear; fungor, fungi, functus, to discharge an office; pōtior, pōtīri, pōtītus, to enjoy, to be master of.

The learner should be taught to go through all the parts of deponent and common verbs, by proper examples in the several conjugations; thus, Letor, of the first conjugation, like amor :

Indicative Mode.

But properly there are only six; nolo and malo being compounds of volo.

SUM has already been conjugated. After the same manner are formed its compounds, ad-, ab-, de-, inter-, ob-, præ-, sub-, super-sum, and inum, which wants the preterite; thus, adsum, adfui, adesse, &c.

PROSUM, to do good, has a d where sum begins with e.

The compounds of Eo are conjugated after the same manner; ad-, ab-, ex-, cō-, in-, inter-, ob-, rēd-, sub-, p̄r-, pr̄e-, ante-, pr̄od-eo; only in the perfect, and the tenses formed from it, they are usually contracted; thus, Ad eo, adii, seldom adivi, aditum, adire, to go to; perf. Adii, adiisti, or adisti &c. aditram, adierit &c. So likewise VENEO, venii, —, to be sold, (compounded of venum and eo.) But AMBIO, -vi, -itum, -ire, to surround, is a regular verb of the fourth conjugation.

Eo, like other neuter verbs, is often rendered in English under a passive form; thus, it, he is going; ivit, he is gone; ivērat, he was gone; ivērit, he may be gone, or shall be gone. So, vēnit, he is coming; vēnit, he has come; vēnerat, he was come, &c. In the passive voice these verbs for the most part are only used impersonally; as, itur ab illo, he is going; ventum est ab illis, they are come. We find some of the compounds of eo, however, used personally; as, pericula adeuntur, are undergone. Cic. Libri sibyllini aditi sunt, were looked into. Liv. Flumen pedibus transiri potest. Cæs. Inimicitia subeantur. Cic.

QUEO, I can, and NEQUEO, I cannot, are conjugated the same way as eo; only they want the imperative and the gerunds; and the participles are seldom used.

Obs. 1. Most part of the above verbs are made irregular by contraction. Thus, nolo is contracted for non volo; malo for magis volo; fero, fers, fert, &c. for feris, ferit, &c. Feror, ferris or ferre, fertur, for fer-reris, &c.

Obs. 2. The imperatives of dico, düco, and fäcio, are contracted in the same manner with fer: thus we say, dic, duc, fac; instead of däce, düce, fäce. But these often occur likewise in the regular form.

Factu.

The compounds of fäcio which retain a, have also fio in the passive, and fac in the imperative active; as, calefacio, to warm, calefio, calefac: but those which change a into i, form the passive regularly, and have fice in the imperative; as, conficio, confice; conficior, confici, confectus. We find, however, confit, it is done, and confieri; desit, it is wanting; infit, he begins.

To irregular verbs may properly be subjoined what are commonly called NEUTER PASSIVE Verbs, which, like fio, form the preterite tenses according to the passive voice, and the rest in the active. These are, söleo, solëre, solitus, to use; audeo, audëre, ausus, to dare; gaudeo, gäudëre, gävisus, to rejoice; fido, fidëre, fisus, to trust. So, confido, to trust; and diffido, to distrust; which also have confidi, and diffidi. Some add mæreo, mæreëre, mæstus, to be sad; but mæstus is generally reckoned an adjective. We likewise say jurātus sum and cenātus sum, for jurāvī and cenāvī, but these may also be taken in a passive sense.

To these may be referred verbs wholly active in their termination, and passive in their signification; as, vapūlo, -āvī, -ātum, to be beaten or whipped; vēneo, to be sold; exūlo, to be banished, &c.

DEFECTIVE VERBS.

Verbs are called Defective, which are not used in certain tenses, numbers, and persons.

These three, ōdi, cæpi, and mēmīni, are only used in the preterite tenses; and therefore are called Preteritive Verbs; though they have sometimes likewise a present signification; thus,

Odi, I hate, or have hated, odēram, odērīm, odissem, odēro, odisse. Participles, osus, osūrus; exōsus, perōsus.

Cæpi, I begin, or have begun, cæpēram, -ērīm, -issem, -ēro, -isse. Supine, cæptu. Participles, cæptus, cæpturus.

Mēmīni, I remember, or have remembered, meminēram, -ērīm, -issem, -ēro, -isse. Imperative, memento, mementōte.

Instead of odi, we sometimes say, osus sum: and always exōsus, perōsus sum, and not exōdi, perōdi. We say, opus cæpit fieri, or cæptum est.

To these some add nōvi, because it frequently has the signification of the present I know, as well as, I have known, though it comes from nosco, which is complete.

Fūro, to be mad, dor, to be given, and for, to speak, as also der and fer, are not used in the first person singular; thus we say, daris, datur; but never dor.

Of verbs which want many of their chief parts, the following most frequently occur: Aio, I say; inquam, I say; fōrem, I should be; ausim, contracted for ausus sim, I dare; faxim, I'll see to it, or I will do it; ave and salve, save you, hail, good-morrow: cedo, tell thou, or give me; quæso, I pray.

Most of the other Defective verbs are but single words, and rarely to be found, but among the poets : as, infir, he begins ; defir, it is wanting. Some are compounded of a verb and the conjunction si ; as, sis, for si vis, if thou wilt ; sultis, for si vultis ; sodes, for si audes ; equivalent to quæso, I pray ; capis, for cape si vis.

IMPERSONAL VERBS.

A verb is called Impersonal, which has only the terminations of the third person singular, but does not admit any person or nominative before it.

Impersonal verbs, in English, have before them the neuter pronoun it, which is not considered as a person ; thus, delectat, it delights ; dæcet, it becomes ; contingit, it happens ; evēnit, it happens :

PER.	Delectāvisse.	Decuisse.	Contigisse.	Evenisse.

Most Latin verbs may be used impersonally in the passive voice, especially Neuter and Intransitive verbs, which otherwise have no passive ; as, pugnātur, fāvētur, curritur, vēntur ; from pugno, to fight ; faveo, to favour ; curro, to run ; venio, to come :

Ind. PR.	Pugnātur,	Fāvētur,	Curritur,	Vēntur,
IMP.	Pugnābātur,	Fāvebātur,	Currebātur,	Veniebātur,

PER. Pugnatum esse.	Fautum esse.	Cursum esse.	Ventum esse.
FUT. Pugnatum iri.	Fautum iri.	Cursum iri.	Ventum iri.

Obs. 1. Impersonal verbs are scarcely used in the imperative; but instead of that we use the subjunctive; as, delectet, let it delight; &c. nor in the supines, participles, or gerunds, except a few; as, penitens, -dum, -dus, &c. Indūci ad pudendum et pigendum. Cic. In the preterite tenses of the passive voice, the participle perfect is always put in the neuter gender.

Obs. 2. Grammarians reckon only ten real impersonal verbs, and all in the second conjugation; dēcet, it becomes; pēnitēt, it repents; opōrēt, it behoves; miserēt, it pities; piget, it irketh; pūdet, it shameth; licet, it is lawful; libet or lūbet, it pleaseth; tēdet, it wearieith; liquet, it appears. Of which the following have a double preterite; miseruit, or miserum est; piget, piguī, or pigitum est; pudet, pudivit, or pudivitum est; licet, licuit, or licitum est; libet, libuit, or libitum est; tēdet, tēdūit, tēsum est, oftener pertēsum est. But many other verbs are used impersonally in all the conjugations.

In the first, Jūvat, spectat, vācat, stat, constat, præstat, restat, &c.

In the second, Appāret, attinet, pertinet, dēbet, dōlet, nōcet, lātet, liquet, pātet, plācet, displīcet, sēdet, sōlet, &c.

In the third, Accidit, incipit, desinit, sufficit, &c.

In the fourth, Convēnit, expēdit, &c.

Also, irregular verbs, Est, obest, prōdest, pōtest, intērest, supērat; fit, præterit, nēquit, and nequitur, subit, confert, refert, &c.

Obs. 3. Under impersonal verbs may be comprehended those which express the operations or appearances of nature; as, Fulgurat, fulminat, tōnat, grandinat, gēlat, pluit, ningit, lucescit, advesperascit, &c.

Obs. 4. Impersonal verbs are applied to any person or number, by putting that which stands before other verbs, after the impersonals, in the cases which they govern; as, placet mihi, tibi, illi, it pleases me, thee, him; or I please, thou pleasest, &c. pugnatur a me, a te, ab illo, I fight, thou fightest, he fighteth, &c. So, Curritur, venitur a me, a te, &c. I run, thou runnest, &c. Favetur tibi a me, Thou art favoured by me, or I favour thee, &c.

Obs. 5. Verbs are used personally or impersonally, according to the particular meaning which they express, or the different import of the words with which they are joined: thus, we can say, ego placeo tibi, I please you; but we cannot say, si places audire, if you please to hear, but si placet tibi audire. So we can say, multa homini contingunt, many things happen to a man; but instead of ego contigi esse domi, we must either say, me contigit esse domi, or mihī contigit esse domi, I happened to be at home. The proper and elegant use of Impersonal verbs can only be acquired by practice.

REDUNDANT VERBS.

Those are called Redundant Verbs, which have different forms to express the same sense: thus, assentio and assentior, to agree; fabrico and fabricor, to frame; mereo and mereor, to deserve, &c. These verbs, however, under the passive form have likewise a passive signification.

Several verbs are used in different conjugations.

1. Some are usually of the first conjugation, and rarely of the third; as, lavo, lavas, lavāre; and lavo, lavas, lavāre, to wash.

2. Some are usually of the second, and rarely of the third; as,

Ferveo, ferves; and fervo, fervis, to boil.

Fulgeo, fulges; and fulgo, fulgis, to shine.

Strideo, strides; and strido, stridis, to make a hissing noise, to creak.

Tueor, tuēris, and tuor, tuēris, to defend.

To these add tergeo, terges; and tergo, tergis, to wipe, which are equally common.

3. Some are commonly of the third conjugation, and rarely of the fourth; as,

Fodio, fodis, fodere, and fodio, fodis, fodire, to dig.

Sallo, sallis, sallere, and sallio, sallis, sallire, to salt.

Arcesso, -is, arcessere, and arcessio, arcessire, to send for.

Morior, morēris, mori, and morior, moriris, moriri, to die.

So, Orior, orēris, and orior, oriris, oriri, to rise.

Potior, potēris, and potior, potiris, potiri, to enjoy.

There is likewise a verb, which is usually of the second conjugation, and more rarely of the fourth, namely, cio, cīs, ciere; and cio, cis, cire, to rouse; whence, accire and accitus.

To these we may add the verb EDO, to eat, which, though regularly formed, also agrees in several of its parts with sum; thus,

Ind.^o-Pres. Edo, edis or es, edit or est; — editis or estis —

Subj. Imperf. Edērem or essem, edēres or esses, &c.

Imp. Edē or es, edito or esto; edito or este; editote or estote

Inf. Pres. Edere or esse.

Passive Ind. Pres. Editur or estur.

It may not be improper here to subjoin a list of those verbs which resemble one another in some of their parts, though they differ in signification. Of these some agree in the present, some in the preterite, and others in the supine.

I. The following agree in the present, but are differently conjugated:

Aggēro, -as, to heap up.

Appello, -as, to call.

Compello, -as, to address.

Colligo, -as, to bind.

Consterno, -as, to astonish.

Effēro, -as, to enrage.

Fundo, -as, to found.

Mando, -as, to command.

Obsēro, -as, to lock.

Volo, -as, to fly.

Aggēro, -is, to bring together.

Appello, -is, to drive to, to arrive

Compello, -is, to drive together.

Colligo, -is, to gather together.

Consterno, -is, to strew.

Effēro, -fers, to bring out.

Fundo, -is, to pour out.

Mando, -is, to chew.

Obsēro, -is, to beset.

Volo, vis, to will.

Of this class some have a different quantity; as,

Cōlo, -as, to strain.

Dico, -as, to dedicate.

Edūco, -as, to train up.

Lēgo, -as, to send on an embassy.

Vādo, -as, to wade.

Cōlo, -is, to till.

Dico, -is, to say.

Edūco, -is, to lead forth.

Lēgo, -is, to read.

Cresco, crēvi, to grow.	Cerno, crēvi, to see.
Frigeo, frixi, to be cold.	Frigo, frixi, to fry.

3. The following agree in the supine :

Vinco, victum, to overcome.	Vivo, victum, to live.

THE OBSOLETE CONJUGATION.

This chiefly occurs in old writers, and only in particular conjugations and tenses.

1. The ancient Latins made the imperfect of the indicative active of the fourth conjugation in IBAM without the e; as, audiēbam, scībam, for audiēbam, scībam.

2. In the future of the indicative of the fourth conjugation, they used IBO in the active, and ībor in the passive voice; as, dormitō, dormitōr, for dormiam, dormiar.

3. The present of the subjunctive anciently ended in IM; as, edim for edam; duim for dem.

4. The perfect of the subjunctive active sometimes occurs in SSIM, and the future in SSO; as, levassim, levasso, for levavērim, levavēro; capssim, capso, for cepērim, cepēro. Hence the future of the infinitive was formed in ASSERE; as, levassere, for levaturus esse.

5. In the second person of the present of the imperative passive, we find MLNO in the singular, and mnor in the plural; as, famīno, for fare; and progrēdimnōr, for progrēdimni.

6. The syllable ER was frequently added to the present of the infinitive passive; as, fariēr, for fari; dicier, for dici.

7. The participles of the future time active, and perfect passive, when joined with the verb esse, were sometimes used as indeclinable; thus, credo inimicos dictūrum esse, for dictūros. Cic. Cohortes ad me missum facias, for missas. Cic. ad Attic. viii. 12.

DERIVATION AND COMPOSITION OF VERBS.

I. Verbs are derived either from nouns or from other verbs.

Verbs derived from nouns are called Denominative;

as, Cæno, to sup; laudo, to praise; fraudo, to defraud; lapido, to throw stones; opēror, to work; frumentor, to forage; lignor, to gather fuel; &c. from cæna, laus, fraus, &c. But when they express imitation or resemblance, they are called Imitative; as, Patrisso, Gracor, bubūto, cornitor, &c. I imitate or resemble my father, a Grecian, an owl, a crow, &c. from pater, Græcus, bubo, cornix.

Of those derived from other verbs, the following chiefly deserve attention; namely, Frequentatives, Inceptives, and Desideratives.

1. FREQUENTATIVES express frequency of action, and are all of the first conjugation. They are formed from the last supine, by changing itū into itō, in verbs of the first conjugation; and by changing u into o, in verbs of the other three conjugations; as, clamo, to cry, clamitō, to cry frequently; terreo, terrō; verto, verso; dormio, dormitō.

In like manner, Deponent verbs form Frequentatives in or; as, minor, to threaten; minitor, to threaten frequently.

Some are formed in an irregular manner; as, nato from no; noscito, from nosco; scitor, or rather sciscitor, from scio; pavito, from paveo, sector, from sequor; loquitōr, from loquor. So, queritō, funditō, agitō, fruitō, &c.

From Frequentative verbs are also formed other Frequentatives; as, curro, curso, cursitō; pello, pulso, pulsitō, or by contraction pulto; cipio, capto, capitō; cano, cantō, cantitō; defendo, defenso, defensitō; dico, dicto, dictitō; gero, gesto, gestitō; jacio, jacto, jactitō; venio, vento, ventitō; mutio, musso, (for mutitō), musstitō, &c.

Verbs of this kind do not always express frequency of action. Many of them have much the same sense with their primitives, or express the meaning more strongly.

2. INCEPTIVE Verbs mark the beginning or continued increase of any thing. They are formed from the second person singular of the present of the indicative, by adding co: as, caleo, to be hot, cales, calesco, to grow hot. So in the other conjugations, labasco, from labo; tremisco, from tremo; obdormisco, from obdormio. Hisco, from hio, is contracted for hiasco. Inceptives are likewise formed from substantives and adjectives; as, puerasco, from puer; dulcesco, from dulcis; juvenesco, from juvénis.

All Inceptives are neuter verbs, and of the third conjugation. They want both the preterite and supine; unless very rarely, when they borrow them from their primitives.

3. DESIDERATIVE Verbs signify a desire or intention of doing a thing. They are formed from the latter supine by adding rio, and shortening the u; as, cenâtûrio, I desire to sup, from cenâtû. They are all of the fourth conjugation; and want both preterite and supine, except these three, esûrio, -ivi, -itum, to desire to eat; partûrio, -ivi, —, to be in travail; nuptûrio, -ivi, —, to desire to be married.

There are a few verbs in LLO, which are called DIMINUTIVE; as, cantillo, sorbillo, -âre, I sing, I sup a little. To these some add albico, and candico, -are, to be or to grow whitish; also, nigrîco, foedîco, and vellico. Some verbs in SSO are called Intensive; as, Capesso, facesso, petesso, or patisso, I take, I do, I seek earnestly.

II. Verbs are compounded with nouns, with other verbs, with adverbs, and chiefly with prepositions. Many of the simple verbs are not in use; as, Fûto, fendo, specio, gruo, &c. The component parts usually remain entire. Sometimes a letter is added; as, prodeo, for pro-eo; or taken away; as, asporto, omitto, trado, pejêro, pergo, debeo, præbeo, &c. for absporto, obmitto, transdo, perjûro, perrêgo, dehibeo, præhibeo, &c. So, demo, promo, sumo, of de, pro, sub, and emo, which anciently signified, to take, or to take away. Often the vowel or diphthong of the simple verb, and the last consonant of the preposition is changed; as, damno, condemnno; calco, concalco; ludo, colludo; audio, obedio, &c. Affero, aufero, collaudo, implico, &c. for adfero, abfero, conlaudo, implico, &c.

PARTICIPLE.

A Participle is a kind of Adjective formed from a verb, which in its signification implies time.

It is so called, because it partakes both of an adjective and of a verb, having, in Latin, gender and declension from the one, time and signification from the other, and number from both.

Participles in Latin are declined like adjectives; and their signification is various, according to the nature of the verbs from which they come; only participles in dus, are always passive, and import not so much future time, as obligation or necessity.

Latin verbs have four Participles, the present and future active; as, Amans, loving; amaturus, about to love; and the perfect and future passive; as, amatus, loved; amandus, to be loved.

The Latins have not a participle perfect in the active, nor a participle present in the passive voice; which defect must be supplied by a circumlocution. Thus, to express the perfect participle active in English, we use a conjunction, and the pluperfect of the subjunctive in Latin, or some other tense, according to its connexion with the other words of a sentence; as, he having loved; quum amavisset, &c.

Neuter verbs have commonly but two Participles; as, Sedens, sessurus; stans, staturus.

From some Neuter verbs are formed Participles of the perfect tense; as, Erratus, festinatus, juratus, laboratus, vigilatus, cessatus, suddtus, triumphatus, regnatus, decursus, destitus, emeritus, emersus, obitus, placitus, successus, occasus, &c. and also of the future in dus; as, Jurandus, vigilandus, regnandus, carendus, dormiendus, erubescendus, &c. Neuter passive verbs are equally various. Veneo has no participle: Fido, only fidens and fisus; soleo, solens, and solitus; vapulo, vapulans, and vapulaturus; Gaudeo, gaudens, gavisus, and gavisurus; Audeo, audens, ausus, ausurus, audendus. Ausus is used both in an active and passive sense; as, Ausi omnes immane nefas, ausoque potiti. Virg. Æn. vi. 624.

Deponent and Common verbs have commonly four Participles; as, Loquens, speaking; locuturus, about to speak; locutus, having spoken; loquendus, to be spoken. Dignans, vouchsafing; dignaturus, about to vouchsafe; dignatus, having vouchsafed, being vouchsafed, or having been vouchsafed; dignandus, to be vouchsafed. Many participles of the perfect tense from Deponent verbs have both an active and passive sense; as, Abominatus, conditus, confessus, adortus, amplexus, blanditas, largitus, mentitus, oblitus, testatus, veneratus, &c.

There are several Participles, compounded with in, signifying not, the verbs of which do not admit of such composition; as,

Inscius, insprians, indicens for non dicens, inoptians and necoptians, immrens; Illasus, impransus, inconsultus, incustoditus, immetatus, impunitus, imparatus, incomitatus, incomptus, indemnatu, indotatus, incorruptus, interritus, and imperterritus, intestatus, inausus, inopinatus, insultus, incensus for non census, not registered; infectus for non factus; invisus for non visus; indictus for non dictus, &c. There is a different incensus from incendo; infectus from inficio; invisus from invideo; indictus from indico, &c.

If from the signification of a Participle we take away time, it becomes an adjective, and admits the degrees of comparison; as,

Amans, loving, amantior, amantissimus; doctus, learned, doctior, doctissimus: or a substantive; as, Præfectus, a commander or governor; consónans, f. sc. littera, a consonant; contínens, f. sc. terra, a continent; confluens, m. a place where two rivers run together; oriens, m. sc. sol, the east; occidens, m. the west; dictum, a saying; scriptum, &c.

There are many words in ATUS, ITUS, and UTUS, which, although resembling participles, are reckoned adjectives, because they come from nouns, and not from verbs; as, alatus, barbatus, cordatus, caudatus, cristatus, auritus, pellitus, turritus; astutus, cornutus, nasutus, &c. winged, bearded, discreet, &c. But auratus, aratus, argentatus, ferratus, plumbeatus, gypsatus, calceatus, clypeatus, galeatus, tunicatus, larvatus, palliatus, lymphatus, purpuratus, prætextatus, &c. covered with gold, brass, silver, &c. are accounted participles, because they are supposed to come from obsolete verbs. So perhaps calamistratus, frizzled, crisped, or curled, crinitus, having long hair, peritus, skilled, &c.

There is a kind of Verbal adjectives in BUNDUS, formed from the imperfect of the indicative, which very much resemble Participles in their signification, but generally express the meaning of the verb more fully, or denote an abundance or great deal of the action; as, vitabundus, the same with valde vitans, avoiding much. Sal. Jug. 60. and 101. Liv. xxv. 13. So, errabundus, ludibundus, populabundus, moribundus, &c.

Gerunds and Supines.

GERUNDS are participial words, which bear the signification of the verb from which they are formed; and are declined like a neuter noun of the second declension, through all the cases of the singular number, except the vocative.

There are, both in Latin and English, substantives derived from the verb, which so much resemble the Gerund in their signification, that frequently they may be substituted in its place. They are generally used, however, in a more undetermined sense than the Gerund, and in English have the article always prefixed to them. Thus, with the Gerund, Delector legendo Ciceronem, I am delighted with reading Cicero. But with the substantive, Delector lectione Ciceronis, I am delighted with the reading of Cicero.

The Gerund and Future Participle of verbs in io, and some others, often take u instead of e; as, faciundum, -di, -do, -dus; experiundum, potiundum, gerundum, petundum, ducundum, &c. for faciendum, &c.

SUPINES have much the same signification with Gerunds; and may be indifferently applied to any person or number.

They agree in termination with nouns of the fourth declension, having only the accusative and ablative cases.

The former Supine is commonly used in an active, and the latter in a passive sense, but sometimes the contrary; as, coc-tum non vapulatum, ductum conductus fui, i. e. ut vapularem, or verberarer, to be beaten. Plaut.

ADVERB.

An adverb is an indeclinable part of speech, added to a verb, adjective, or other adverb, to express some circumstance, quality, or manner of their signification.

DERIVATION, COMPARISON, AND COMPOSITION OF ADVERBS.

Adverbs are derived, 1. from Substantives, and end commonly in TIM or TUS; as, Partim, partly, by parts; nominatim, by name; generatim, by kinds, generally; speciatim, vicatim, gregatim; radicitus, from the root, &c. 2. From adjectives: and these are by far the most numerous. Such as come from Adjectives of the first and second declension usually end in E; as, liberè, freely; plenè, fully: some in O, UM, and TER; as, falsò, tantùm, gratitèr: a few in A, ITUS, and IM; as, rectà, antiqùitè, privatim. Some are used two or three ways; as, primum, or -ò; purè, -iter; certè, -ò; caute, -tim; humanè, -iter, -itus; publicè, publicitèr, &c. Adverbs from Adjectives of the third declension commonly end in TER, seldom in E; as, turpiter, felicitèr, acritèr, paritèr; facilè, repente: one in O, omnino. The neuter of Adjectives is sometimes taken adverbially; as, recens natus, for recenter; perfidum ridens, for perfidè, Hor. multa reluctans, for multùm or valdè, Virg. So in English we say, to speak loud, high, &c. for loudly, highly, &c. In many cases a substantive is understood; as, primò, sc. loco: optatò advenis, sc. tempore; hàc, sc. vià, &c.

3. From each of the pronominal adjectives, ille, iste, hic, is, idem, &c. are formed adverbs, which express all the circumstances of place; as, from ILLE, illuc, illuc, illorsum, illinc, and illac. So from QUIS, ubi, quo, quorsum, unde, and quò: also of time; thus, quando, quamdiu, &c.

4. From verbs and participles; as, cæsìm, with the edge; punctim, with the point; strictim, closely; from cædo, pungo, stringo amantèr, properanter, dubitanter; distinctè, emendatè; meritò, inopinatò; &c. But these last are thought to be in the ablative, having ex understood.

5. From prepositions; as, intus, intro, from in; clanculum, from clam; subtus, from sub, &c.

Adverbs derived from adjectives are commonly compared like their primitives. The positive generally ends in e, or ter; as, durè, facilè, acriter: the comparative, in ius; as, durius, facilius, acrius: the superlative, in ime; as, durissimè, facillimè, acerrimè.

If the comparison of the adjective be irregular or defective, the comparison of the adverb is so too; as, benè, melius, optimè; malè, pejùs, pessime; parùm, minus, minimè, & -um; multum, plus, plurimum; prope, propius, proximè; ocysus, ocysissime; prius, primò, -um; nuper, nuperimè; novè, & noviter, novissimè; meritò, meritissimò, &c. Those adverbs also are compared whose primitives are obsolete; as, sæpe, sæpius, sæpissimè; penitus, penitius, penitissimè; satis, satius; secus, secius, &c. Magis, maximè; and potius, potissimum, want the positive.

Adverbs are variously compounded with all the different parts of speech; thus, postridie, magnopère, maximopère, summopère, tantopère, multimodis, omnimodis, quomodo, quare; of postèro die, magno opère, &c. Illicet, scilicet, videlicet, of ire, scire, vidère, licet; illico, of in loco; quorsum, of quo versum; comminus, hand to hand, of cum or con and manus; eminus, at a distance, of e and manus; quorsum, of quo versum; denuo, anew, of de novo; quin, why not, but, of qui ne; cur, of cui rei; pedetentim, step by step, as it were, of pedem tendendo; perendie, for perempto die; nimirum, of ne, i. e. non, and mirum; antea, postea, præterea, &c. of ante and ea, &c. Ubivis, quovis, undelibet, quousque, sicut, sicuti, velut, veluti, destuper, insuper, quamobrem, &c. of ubi and vis, &c. nudiustertius, of nunc dies tertius; identidem, of idem et idem; impraesentidrum, i. e. in tempore rerum præsentium, &c.

Obs. 1. The Adverb is not an essential part of speech. It only serves to express shortly, in one word, what must otherwise have required two or more; as, sapienter, wisely, for cum sapientiâ; hic, for in hoc loco; semper, for in omni tempore; semel, for unâ vice; bis, for duâbus vicibus; Mehercule, for Hercules me juvet, &c.

Obs. 2. Some adverbs of time, place, and order, are frequently used the one for the other; as, ubi, where, or when; inde, from that place, from that time, after that, next; hactenus, hitherto, thus far, with respect to place, time, or order, &c.

Obs. 3. Some adverbs of time are either past, present, or future; as, jam, already, now, by and by; olim, long ago, some time, hereafter. Some adverbs of place are equally various; thus, esse peregrè, to be abroad; ire peregrè, to go abroad; redire peregre, to return from abroad.

Obs. 4. Interrogative adverbs of time and place doubled, or compounded with cunque, answer to the English adjection soever; as, ubiubi, or ubicunque, wheresoever; quoquò, quòcunque, whithersoever, &c. The same holds also in interrogative words; as, quotquot, or quotcunque, how many soever; quantusquantus, or quantuscunque, how great soever; ut, or utcunque, however or howsoever, &c.

PREPOSITION.

A Preposition is an indeclinable word, which shows the relation of one thing to another.

There are twenty-eight prepositions in Latin, which govern the accusative; that is, have an accusative after them.

Ad,	To.	Infra,	Beneath.
Apud,	At.	Juxta,	Nigh to.
Ante,	Before.	Ob,	For.
Adversus, } Adversum, }	Against, towards.	Propter,	For, hard by.
Contra,	Against.	Per,	By, through.
Cis, } Citra, }	On this side.	Præter,	Besides, except.
Circa, } Circum, }	About.	Pænes,	In the power of.
Erga,	Towards.	Post,	After.
Extra,	Without.	Põne,	Bèhind.
Inter,	Between, among.	Sécus,	By, along.
Intra,	Within.	Sécundum;	According to.
		Supra,	Above. [side.
		Trans,	On the farther
		Ultra,	Beyond.

The Prepositions which govern the ablative are fifteen; namely:

A, } Ab, } Abs, }	From or by.	De,	Of, concerning.
Absque,	Without.	E, }	Of, out of.
Cum,	With.	Ex, }
Clam,	{ Without the know- ledge of.	Pro,	For.
Cõram,	{ Before, in the pre- sence of.	Præ,	Before.
		Palam,	{ With the knowledge of.
		Sine,	Without.
		Tenus,	Up to, as far as.

These four govern sometimes the accusative, and sometimes the ablative.

In, In, into. Sub, Under. Süper, Above. Subter, Beneath.

Obs. 1. Prepositions are so called, because they are generally placed before the word with which they are joined. Some, however, are put after; as, cum, when joined with me, te, se, and sometimes with quo, qui, and quibus: thus, mecum, tecum, &c. Tenus is always placed after; as, mento tenus, up to the chin. So likewise are versus and usque; and ward, in English; as, toward, eastward, &c.

Obs. 2. Prepositions, both in English and Latin, are often compounded with other parts of speech, particularly with verbs; as, subire, to undergo. In English, they are frequently put after verbs; as, to go in, to go out, to look to, &c.

Prepositions are also sometimes compounded together; as, Ex adversus eum locum. Cic. Ex adversum Athenas. C. Nep. In ante diem quartum Kalendârum Decembris distulit, i. e. usque in eum diem. Cic. Supplicatio indicta est ex ante diem quintum idus Octob. i. e. ab eo die. Liv. Ex ante pridie Idus Septembris. Plin. But prepositions compounded together commonly become adverbs or conjunctions; as, propālam, profusus, insuper, &c.

Obs. 3. Prepositions in composition usually retain their primitive signification; as, adeo, to go to: præpono, to place before. But from this there are several exceptions. 1. IN, joined with adjectives generally denotes privation; as, infidus, unfaithful: but when joined with verbs, increases their signification; as, induro, to harden greatly. In some words it has two contrary senses; as, invocatus, called upon, or not called upon. So, infranatus, immutatus, insuetus, impensus, inhumatus, intentatus, &c. 2. PER commonly increases the signification; as, Percarus, perceler, percōmis, percuriosus, perdifficilis, perelégans, pergratus, pergravis, perhospitalis, perillustris, perletus, &c. very dear, very swift, &c. 3. PRÆ sometimes increases; as, Præclarus, prædives, prædulcis, prædurus, præpinguis, prævalidus; prævaleo, præpolleo; and also Ex; as, Exclāmo, exaggero, exaugeo, excalefacio, extenuo, exhilaro; but ex sometimes denotes privation; as, Ersanguis, bloodless, pale: excors, exantmis, -mo, &c. 4. SUB often diminishes; as, Subalbidus, subabsurdus, subamarus, subdulcis, subgrandis, subgravis, subniger; &c. a little white or whitish, &c. DE often signifies downward; as, Decido, decurro, degravo, despicio, delabor: sometimes increases; as, deamor, demitror; and sometimes expresses privation; as, Demens, decolor, deformis, &c.

Obs. 4. There are five or six syllables, namely, am, di or dis, re, se, con, which are commonly called Inseparable Prepositions, because they are only to be found in compound words: however, they generally add something to the signification of the words with which they are compounded; thus,

Am ,	round about.	} as,	Ambio ,	to surround.
Di ,	} asunder.		Divello ,	to pull asunder.
Dis ,			Distrāho ,	to draw asunder.
Re ,	again.		Rēlēgo ,	to read again.
Se ,	aside, or apart.		Sēpono ,	to lay aside.
Con ,	together.		Concreasco ,	to grow together.

INTERJECTION.

An Interjection is an indeclinable word thrown in between the parts of a sentence, to express some passion or emotion of the mind.

Some Interjections are natural sounds, and common to all languages; as, Oh! Ah!

Interjections express in one word a whole sentence, and thus fitly represent the quickness of the passions.

The different passions have commonly different words to express them; thus,

1. JOY; as, evax! hey, brave, lo!
2. GRIEF; as, ah, hei, heu, cheu! ah, alas, woe is me!
3. WONDER; as, papa! O strange! va! hah!
4. PRAISE; as, euge! well done!
5. AVERSION; as, apāge! away, begone, avaunt, off, fie, tush!

6. EXCLAIMING ; as, Oh, proh! O!
7. SURPRISE or FEAR ; as, atat! ha, aha!
8. IMPRECATION ; as, væ! woe, pox on't!
9. LAUGHTER ; as, ha, ha, he!
10. SILENCING ; as, au, 'st, paz! silence, hush, 'st!
11. CALLING ; as, aho, chödum, io, ho! soho, ho, O!
12. DERISION ; as, hui! away with!
13. ATTENTION ; as, hem! ha!

Some interjections denote several different passions ; thus, Vah is used to express joy, and sorrow, and wonder, &c.

Adjectives of the neuter gender are sometimes used for interjections ; as, Malum! with a mischief! Infandum! O shame! fy, fy! Miserum! O wretched! Nefas! O the villany!

CONJUNCTION.

A conjunction is an indeclinable word, which serves to join sentences together.

Thus, "You and I and the boy read Virgil," is one sentence made up of these three, by the conjunction and, twice employed ; I read Virgil; You read Virgil; The boy reads Virgil. In like manner, "You and I read Virgil, but the boy reads Ovid," is one sentence, made up of three, by the conjunctions and and but.

Conjunctions, according to their different meaning, are divided into the following classes :

1. COPULATIVE ; as, et, at, atque, que, and ; etiam, quodque, item, also ; cum, tum, both, and. Also their contraries, nec, neque, neu, neve, neither, nor.

2. DISJUNCTIVE ; as, aut, ve, vel, seu, sive, either, or.

3. CONCESSIVE ; as, etsi, etiãmsi, tametsi, licet, quanquam, quamvis, though, although, albeit.

4. ADVERSATIVE ; as, sed, verum, autem, et, ast, atqui, but ; tamen, attãmen, veruntãmen, verumenimvëro, yet, notwithstanding, nevertheless.

5. CAUSAL ; as, nam, namque, enim, for ; quia, quippe, quoniam, because ; quod, that, because.

6. ILLATIVE or RATIONAL ; as, ergo, ideo, igitur, idcirco, itãque, therefore ; quapropter, quocirca, wherefore ; proinde, therefore ; cum, quum, seeing, since ; quandoquidem, forasmuch as.

7. FINAL or PERFECTIVE ; as, ut, uti; that, to the end that.

8. CONDITIONAL ; as, si, sin, if ; dum, modo, dummodo, provided, upon condition that ; siquidem, if indeed.

9. EXCEPTIVE or RESTRICTIVE ; as, ni, nisi, unless, except.

10. DIMINUTIVE ; as, saltem, certe, at least.

11. SUSPENSIVE or DUBITATIVE ; as, an, anne, num, whether ; ne, annon, whether, not ; necne, or not.

12. EXPLETIVE ; as, autem, vero, now, truly ; quidem, equidem, indeed.

13. ORDINATIVE ; as, deinde, thereafter ; denique, finally ; insuper, moreover ; cãterum, moreover, but, however.

14. DECLARATIVE ; as, videlicet, scilicet, nempe, nimirum, &c. to wit, namely.

Obs. 1. The same words, as they are taken in different views, are both adverbs and conjunctions. Thus, an, anne, &c. are either interrog- ative adverbs ; as, An scribit? Does he write? or, suspensive conjunctions ; as, Nescio an scribat, I know not if he writes.

Obs. 2. Some conjunctions, according to their natural order, stand first in a sentence ; as, Ac, atque, nec, neque, aut, vel, sive, at, sed, verum, nam, quandoquidem, quocirca, quare, sin, siquidem, præterquam, &c. ; some stand in the second place ; as, Autem, vero, quoque, quidem, enim ; and some may indifferently be put either first or second ; as, Etiam, equidem, licet, quamvis, quanquam, tamen, attamen, namque, quod, quia, quoniam, quippe, utpote, ut, uti, ergo, ideo, igitur, idcirco, itaque, proinde, propterea, si, ni, nisi, &c.

Hence arose the division of them into Prepositive, Subjunctive, and Common. To the subjunctive may be added these three, que, ve, ne, which are always joined to some other word, and are called Enclitics ; because, when put after a long syllable, they make the accent incline to that syllable ; as in the following verse, Indoctusque pilæ, discive, trochæve, quiescit. 'Horat.

But when these enclitic conjunctions come after a short vowel, they do not affect its pronunciation ; thus,

Arbuteos fetus, montanæque fragæ legébant. Ovid.

SYNTAX,

OR

CONSTRUCTION OF WORDS IN SENTENCES.

SENTENCES.

A SENTENCE is any thought of the mind expressed by two or more words put together; as, I read. The boy reads Virgil.

That part of grammar, which teaches to put words rightly together in sentences, is called Syntax or Construction.

Words in sentences have a twofold relation to one another; namely, that of Concord or Agreement; and that of Government or Influence.

Concord, is when one word agrees with another in some accidents; as, in gender, number, person, or case.

Government, is when one word requires another to be put in a certain case, or mode.

GENERAL PRINCIPLES OF SYNTAX.

1. In every sentence there must be a verb and a nominative expressed or understood.

2. Every adjective must have a substantive expressed or understood.

3. All the cases of Latin nouns, except the nominative and vocative, must be governed by some other word.

4. The genitive is governed by a substantive noun expressed or understood: or by a verbal adjective.

5. The dative is governed by adjectives and verbs.

6. The accusative is governed by an active verb, or by a preposition; or is placed before the infinitive.

7. The vocative stands by itself, or has an interjection joined with it.

8. The ablative is governed by a preposition expressed or understood.

9. The infinitive is governed by some verb or adjective.

All Sentences are either SIMPLE or COMPOUND.

Syntax therefore may be divided into two parts, according to the general division of sentences.

SIMPLE SENTENCES.

A simple sentence is that which has but one nominative, and one finite verb; that is, a verb in the indicative, subjunctive, or imperative mode.

In a simple sentence, there is only one Subject and one Attribute.

The SUBJECT is the word which marks the person or thing spoken of.

The ATTRIBUTE expresses what we affirm concerning the subject; as,

The boy reads his lesson. Here, "the boy," is the Subject of discourse, or the person spoken of: "reads his lesson," is the Attribute, or what we affirm concerning the subject. The diligent boy reads his lesson carefully at home. Here we have still the same subject, "the boy," marked by the character of "diligent," added to it; and the same attribute, "reads his lesson," with the circumstances of manner and place subjoined, "carefully," "at home."

CONCORD.

The following words agree together in sentences. 1. A substantive with a substantive. 2. An adjective with a substantive. 3. A verb with a nominative.

1. Agreement of one Substantive with another.

RULE I. Substantives signifying the same thing agree in case; as,

Cicero orator, Cicero the orator; Cicerōnis oratoris, Of Cicero the orator. Urbs Athēnae, The city Athens; Urbis Athēnārum, Of the city Athens.

2. Agreement of an Adjective with a Substantive.

II. An Adjective agrees with a Substantive in gender, number, and case; as,

Bonus vir , a good man;	Boni viri , good men.
Femina casta , a chaste woman;	Feminae castae , chaste women.
Dulce pomum , a sweet apple;	Dulcia poma , sweet apples.

And so through all the cases and degrees of comparison.

This rule applies also to adjective pronouns, and to participles;

as, Meus liber, my book; ager colendus, a field to be tilled; Plur. Mei libri, agri colendi, &c.

Obs. 1. The substantive is frequently understood, or its place supplied by an infinitive; and then the adjective is put in the neuter gender; as, triste, sc. negotium, a sad thing. Virg.; Tuum scire, the same with tua scientia, thy knowledge. Pers. We sometimes, however, find the substantive understood in the feminine; as, Non posteriōres feram, sup. partes. Ter.

Obs. 2. An adjective often supplies the place of a substantive; as, Certus amicus, a sure friend; Bona ferina, good venison; Summum bonum, the chief good: Homo being understood to amicus, caro to ferina, and negotium to bonum. A substantive is sometimes used as an adjective; as, incõla turba vocant, the inhabitants. Ovid. Fast. 3, 582.

Obs. 3. These adjectives, primus, medius, ultimus, extrẽmus, infimus, inus, summus, suprẽmus, reliquus, cetẽra, usually signify the first part, the middle part, &c. of any thing; as, Media nox, the middle part of the night; Summa arbor, the highest part of a tree.

Obs. 4. Whether the adjective or substantive ought to be placed first in Latin, no certain rule can be given. Only if the substantive be a monosyllable, and the adjective a polysyllable, the substantive is elegantly put first; as, vir clarissimus, res prastantissima; &c.

3. Agreement of a Verb with a Nominative.

III. A Verb agrees with its Nominative in number and person; as,

Ego lego, I read; Nos legimus, We read.
Tu scribis, Thou writest or you write; Vos scribitis, Ye or you write.
Præceptor docet, The master teaches; Præceptores docent, Masters teach.
 And so through all the modes, tenses, and numbers.

Obs. 1. Ego and nos are of the first person; tu and vos, of the second person; ille and all other words, of the third. The nominative of the first and second person in Latin is seldom expressed, unless for the sake of emphasis or distinction; as, Tu es patrõnus, tu pater. Ter. Tu legis, ego scribo.

Obs. 2. An infinitive, or some part of a sentence, often supplies the place of a nominative; as, Mentiri est turpe, to lie is base; Diu non perlitatum tenuit dictatorem; the sacrifice, not being attended with favourable omens, detained the dictator for a long time. Liv. 7, 8. Sometimes the neuter pronoun id or illud is added, to express the meaning more strongly; as, Facere quæ libet, id est esse regem. Sallust.

Obs. 3. The infinitive mode often supplies the place of the third person of the imperfect of the indicative; as, Milites fugere, the soldiers fled, for fugiẽbant, or fugere cepẽrunt. Invidere omnes mihi, for invidẽbant.

Obs. 4. A collective noun may be joined with a verb either of the singular or of the plural number; as, Multitudo stat, or stant; the multitude stands, or stand.

A collective noun, when joined with a verb singular, expresses many considered as one whole; but when joined with a verb plural, signifies many separately, or as individuals. Hence if an adjective or participle be subjoined to the verb, when of the singular number, they will agree both in gender and number with the collective noun; but if the verb be plural, the adjective or participle will be plural also, and of the same gender with the individuals of which the collective noun is composed; as, Pars erant cæsis Pars obnixæ trudunt, sc. formicæ. Virg. Æn. iv. 406. Magna pars raptae, sc. virgines. Liv. 1, 9. Sometimes, however, though more rarely, the adjective is thus used in the singular; as, Pars ardens. Virg. Æn. vii. 624.

Accusative before the Infinitive.

IV. The infinitive mode has an accusative before it; as,

Gaudeo te valère, I am glad that you are well.

Obs. 1. The particle that in English, is the sign of the accusative before the infinitive in Latin, when it comes between two verbs, without expressing intention or design. Sometimes the particle is omitted; as, Aiunt regem adventare, They say the king is coming, that being understood.

Obs. 2. The accusative before the infinitive always depends upon some other verb, commonly on a neuter or substantive verb; but seldom on a verb taken in an active sense.

Obs. 3. The infinitive, with the accusative before it, seems sometimes to supply the place of a nominative; as, Turpe est militem fugere, That a soldier should fly is a shameful thing.

Obs. 4. The infinitive esse or fuisse, must frequently be supplied, especially after participles; as, Hostium exercitum cæsum fustumque cognovi. Cic. Sometimes both the accusative and infinitive are understood; as, Pollicitus suscepturum, scil. me esse. Ter.

Obs. 5. The infinitive may frequently be otherwise rendered by the conjunctions, quod, ut, ne, or quin; as, Gaudeo te valère, i. e. quod valeas, or propter tuam bonam valetudinem: Jubeo vos bene sperare, or ut bene speretis; Prohibeo eum exire, or ne exeat: Non dubito eum fecisse, or much better, quin fecerit. Scio quod filius amet. Plaut. for filium amare. Miror, si potuit, for eum potuisse. Cic. Nemo dubitat, ut populus Romæ omnes virtute superaret, for populum Romanum superasse. Nep. Ex animi sententiâ juro, ut ego rempublicam non deseram, for me non deserturum esse. Liv. xxii. 53.

The same Case after a Verb as before it.

V. Any Verb may have the same Case after it as before it, when both words refer to the same thing; as,

Ego sum discipulus,	I am a scholar.
Tu vocaris Joannes,	You are named John.
Illa incedit regina,	She walks as a queen.
Scio illum haberi sapientem,	I know that he is esteemed wise.
Scio vos esse discipulos,	- I know that you are scholars.

So Redeo iratus, jaceo supplex; Evadent digni, they will become worthy; Rempublicam defendi adolescens; nolo esse longus, I am unwilling to be tedious; Malim videri timidus, quam parum prudens. Cic. Non licet mihi esse negligenti. Cic. Natura dedit omnibus esse beatiss. Claud. Cupio me esse clementem; cupio non putari mendacem; Vult esse medicum, sc. se, He wishes to be neuter. Cic. Disce esse pater; Hoc est esse patrem? sc. cum. Ter. Id est, dominum, non imperatorem esse. Sallust.

Obs. 1. This rule implies nothing else but the agreement of an adjective with a substantive, or of one substantive with another; for those words in a sentence which refer to the same object, must always agree together, how much soever disjointed.

Obs. 2. The verbs which most frequently have the same case after them as before them, are:

1. Substantive and neuter verbs; as, Sum, fio, forem, and existo; eo, venio, sto, sedeo, evado, jaceo, fugio, &c.

2. The passive of verbs of naming, judging, &c. as, Dicor, appellor, vocor, nominor, nuncupor; to which add, videor, existimor, creor, constituor, salutor, designor, &c.

These and other like verbs, admit after them only the nominative, accusative, or dative. When they have before them the genitive, they have after them an accusative; as, Intèrest omnium esse bonos, scil. se, it is the interest of all to be good. In some cases we can use either the nom. or accus. promiscuously; as, Cupio dici doctus or doctum, sc. me dici; Cupio esse clemens, non putari mendax; vult esse medicus.

Obs. 3. When any of the above verbs are placed between two nominatives of different numbers, they commonly agree in number with the former; as, Dos est decem talenta, Her dowry is ten talents. Ter. Omnia pontus erunt. Ovid. But sometimes with the latter; as, Amantium iræ amoris integratio est, The quarrels of lovers is a renewal of love. Ter. So when an adjective is applied to two substantives of different genders, it commonly agrees in gender with that substantive which is most the subject of discourse; as, Opptidum est appellatum Posidonia. Plin. Sometimes, however, the adjective agrees with the nearer substantive; as, Non omnis error stultitia est dicenda. Cic.

Obs. 4. When the infinitive of any verb, particularly the substantive verb esse, has the dative before it, governed by an Impersonal verb, or any other word, it may have after it either the dative or the accusative; as, Licet mihi esse beato, I may be happy; or, licet mihi esse beatum, me being understood; thus, licet mihi (me) esse beatum. The dative before esse is often to be supplied; as, Licet esse beatum. One may be happy, scil. alicui, or homini.

Obs. 5. The poets use certain forms of expression, which are not to be imitated in prose; as, Rettulit Ajax Jovis esse pronæpos, for se esse pronæpôtém. Ovid. Met. xii. 141. Cum patris sapiens emendatusque vocari, for te vocari sapientem, &c. Horat. Ep. 1. 16. 30. Acceptum refèro veribus esse nocens. Ovid. Tutumque putavit jam bonus esse socer. Lucan.

GOVERNMENT.

I. THE GOVERNMENT OF SUBSTANTIVES.

VI. One Substantive governs another in the genitive, (when the latter Substantive signifies a different thing from the former;) as,

Amor Dei, The love of God. Lex naturæ, The law of nature.
Domus Cæsaris, The house of Cæsar, or Cæsar's house.

Obs. 1. When one substantive is governed by another in the genitive, it expresses in general the relation of property or possession, and therefore is often elegantly turned into a possessive adjective; as, Domus patris, or paterna, a father's house; Filius heri or herilis, a master's son: and among the poets, Labor Herculeus, for Herculis; Ensis Evandrius, for Evandri.

Obs. 2. When the substantive noun in the genitive signifies a person, it may be taken either in an active or a passive sense; thus, Amor Dei, The love of God, either means the love of God towards us, or our love towards him: So caritas patris, signifies either the affection of a father to his children, or theirs to him. But often the substantive can only be taken either in an active or in a passive sense: thus, Timor Dei, always implies Deus timetur; and Providentia Dei, Deus providet. So, caritas ipsius soli, affection to the very soil. Liv. ii. 1.

Obs. 3. Both the former and latter substantive are sometimes to be understood; as, Hectōris Andromæche, scil. uzor; Ventum est ad Vestæ, scil. ædem or templum; Ventum est tria millia, scil. passuum; three miles.

Obs. 4. We find the dative often used after a verb for the genitive, particularly among the poets; as, cui corpus porrigitur, whose body is extended. Virg. Æn. vi. 596.

Obs. 5. Some substantives are joined with certain prepositions; as, Amicitia, inimicitia, pax, cum aliquo; Amor in, vel erga, aliquem; Gædium de re; Cura de aliquo; Mentio illius, vel de illo; Quies ab armis; Fumus ex incendiis; Prædator ex sociis, for sociorum. Sall. &c.

Obs. 6. The genitive in Latin is often rendered in English by several other particles besides of; as, Descensus Averni, the descent to Àvernus; Prudentia juris, skill in the law.

SUBSTANTIVE PRONOUNS are governed in the genitive like substantive nouns; as, pars mei, a part of me.

So also adjective pronouns, when used as substantives, or having a noun understood; as, Liber ejus, illius, hujus, &c. The book of him, or his book, sc. hominis: The book of her, or her book, sc. feminae. Libri eorum, or eorum, their books; Cujus liber, the book of whom, or whose book; Quorum libri, whose books, &c. But we always say, meus liber, not mei; pater noster, not nostri; sum jus, not sui.

When a passive sense is expressed, we use mei, tui, sui, nostri, vestri, nostrum, vestrum; but we use their possessives when an active sense is expressed; as, Amor mei, The love of me, that is, The love wherewith I am loved; Amor meus, My love, that is, the love wherewith I love. We find, however, the possessives sometimes used passively, and their primi tives taken actively; as, Odium tuum, Hatred of thee. Ter. Phorm. v. 8. 27. Labor mei, My labour. Plaut.

The possessives meus, tuus, suus, noster, vester, have sometimes nouns, pronouns, and participles after them in the genitive, as, Pectus tuum hominis simplicis. Cic. Phil. ii. 43. Noster duorum eventus. Liv. Tuum ipsius studium. Cic. Mea scripta, timentis, &c. Hor. Solius meum peccatum corrigi non potest. Cic. Id maxime quemque decet, quod est cujusque suum maxime. Id.

The reciprocals SUI and SUUS are used, when the action of the verb is reflected as it were, upon the nominative; as, Cato interfecit se, Miles defendit suam vitam: Dicit se scripturum esse. We find, however, is or ille sometimes used in examples of this kind; as, Deum agnoscimus ex operibus ejus. Cic. Persuadent Rauracis, ut una cum is proficiscantur, for una secum. Cæs.

VII. If the latter Substantive have an Adjective of praise or dispraise joined with it, they may be put in the genitive or ablative; as,

Vir summæ prudentiæ, or summâ prudentiâ, A man of great wisdom.

Puer probæ indolis, or probâ indole, A boy of a good disposition.

Obs. 1. The ablative here is not properly governed by the foregoing substantive, but by some preposition understood; as, cum, de, ex, in, &c. Thus, Vir summâ prudentiâ is the same with vir cum summâ prudentiâ.

Obs. 2. In some phrases the genitive is only used; as, Magni formica laboris, the laborious ant; Vir imi subsellii, homo minimi pretii, a person of the lowest rank. Homo nullius stipendii, a man of no experience in war. Sallust. Non multi cibi hospitem accipies, sed multi joci. Cic. Ager trium jugerum. In others only the ablative; as, Es bono animo, Be of good courage. Mirâ sum alacritate ad litigandum. Cic. Capite aperto est, His head is bare; obvoluto, covered. Capite et supercilio semper est rasis. Id. Mulier magno natu. Liv. Sometimes both are used in the same sentence; as, Adolescens, eximâ spe, summâ virtutis. Cic. The ablative more frequently occurs in prose than the genitive.

Obs. 3. Sometimes the adjective agrees in case with the former substantive, and then the latter substantive is put in the ablative: thus, we say, either, Vir præstantis ingenii, or præstanti ingenio; or, Vir præstans ingenio, and sometimes præstans ingenii. Among the poets the latter substantive is frequently put in the accusative by a Greek construction, secundum, or quod ad being understood by the figure commonly called Synecdôche; as, Miles fractus membra, i. e. fractus secundum or quod ad membra, or habens membra fracta. Horat. Os humerosque deo similis. Virg.

Adjectives taken as Substantives.

VIII. An adjective in the neuter gender without a substantive governs the genitive; as,

Multum pecunia, Much money. Quid rei est? What is the matter?

Obs. 1. This manner of expression is more elegant than Multa pecunia, and therefore is much used by the best writers; as, Plus eloquen- tia, minus sapientiæ, tantum fidei, id negotii; Quicquid erat patrum, reos diceres. Liv. Id loci; Ad hoc etatis. Sallust.

Obs. 2. The adjectives which thus govern the genitive like substantives, generally signify quantity; as, multum, plus, plurimum, tantum, quantum, minus, minimum, &c. To which add, hoc, illud, istud, id, quid, aliquid, quidvis, quiddam, &c. Plus and quid almost always govern the genitive, and therefore by some are thought to be substantives.

Obs. 3. Nihil, and these neuter pronouns quid, aliquid, &c. elegantly govern neuter adjectives of the first and second declension in the genitive; as, nihil sinceri, no sincerity; but seldom govern in this manner adjectives of the third declension, particularly those which end in is and e; as, Nequid hostile timeant, not hostilis: we find, however, quicquid civilis. Liv. v. 3.

Obs. 4. Plural adjectives of the neuter gender also govern the genitive, commonly the genitive plural; as, Angusta viarum, Opæca locorum, Telluris operta, loca being understood. So, Amara curarum, acuta belli, sc. negotia. Horat. An adjective, indeed, of any gender may have a genitive after it, with a substantive understood; as, Amicus Cæsaris, Patria Ulyssis, &c.

Opus and Usus.

IX. Opus and Usus, signifying need, require the ablative; as,

Est opus pecuniâ, There is need of money; Usus viribus, Need of strength.

Obs. 1. Opus and usus are substantive nouns, and do not govern the ablative of themselves, but by some preposition, as pro or the like, understood. They sometimes also, although more rarely, govern the genitive; as, Lectiõnis opus est. Quinct. Opæra usus est. Liv.

Obs. 2. Opus is often construed like an indeclinable adjective; as, Dux nobis opus est. We need a general. Cic. Dices nummos mihi opus esse. Id. Nobis exempla opus sunt. Id.

Obs. 3. Opus is elegantly joined with the perfect participle; as, Opus maturato, Need of haste; Opus consulto, Need of deliberation; Quo facto usus est? Ter. The participle has sometimes a substantive joined with it; as, Mihi opus fuit Hirtio convento, It behoved me to meet with Hirtius. Cic.

Obs. 4. Opus is sometimes joined with the infinitive, or the subjunctive with ut; as, Siquid forte, sit, quod opus sit sciri. Cic. Nunc tibi opus est, agram ut te adsimiles. Plaut. Sive opus est imperitare equis. Horat. It is often placed absolutely, i. e. without depending on any other word; as, sic opus est; si opus sit, &c.

II. THE GOVERNMENT OF ADJECTIVES.

1. Adjectives governing the Genitive.

X. Verbal adjectives, or such as imply an operation of the mind, govern the genitive; as,

Avidus gloriæ, Desirous of glory. Ignarus fraudis, Ignorant of fraud. Memor beneficiõrum, Mindful of favours.

To this rule belong, I. Verbal adjectives in AX: as, capax, edax, ferax, tenax, pertinax, &c. and certain participial adjectives in NS and TUS; as, amans, appetens, cupiens, insolens, sciens; consultus, doctus, expertus, insuetus, insolitus, &c. II. Adjectives expressing various affections of the mind; 1. Desire, as, avarus, cupidus, studiosus, &c. 2. Knowledge, ignorance, and doubting; as, callidus, certus, certior, conscius, gnarus, peritus, prudens, &c. Ignarus, incertus, inscius, imprudens, imperitus, immemor, rudis: ambiguus, dubius, suspensus, &c. 3. Care and diligence, and the contrary; as, anxius, curiosus, sollicitus, providus, diligens; incuriosus, securus, negligens, &c. 4. Fear and confidence; as, formidolosus, pavidus, timidus, trepidus; impavidus, interritus, intrepidus. 5. Guilt and innocence; as, noxius, reus, suspectus, compertus; innoxius, innocens, insons.

To these add many adjectives of various significations; as, ager animi; ardens, audax, aversus, diversus, egregius, erectus, falsus, felix, fessus, furens, ingens, integer, letus, prestans animi; modicus voti; interper vitæ; seri studiorum. Hor. But we say, ager pedibus, ardens in cupiditatibus, prestans doctrinæ, modicus cultu; Letus negotio, de re, or propter rem, &c. and never ager pedum, &c.

Obs. 1. Verbals in NS are used both as adjectives and participles; thus, patiens algoris, able to bear cold; and patiens algorem, actually bearing cold. So, amans virtutis and amans virtutem; doctus grammaticæ, skilled in grammar; doctus grammaticam, one who has learned it.

Obs. 2. Many of these adjectives vary their construction; as, avidus in pecuniis. Cic. Avidior ad rem. Ter. Jure consultus & peritus, or juris. Cic. Rudis literarum, in jure civili. Cic. Rudis arte, ad mala. Ovid. Doctus Latine, Latinis literis. Cic. Assuetus labore, in omnia. Liv. Mensæ herili. Virg. Insuetus moribus Romanis, in the dat. Liv. Laboris, ad onera portanda. Cæs. Desuetus bello et triumphis, in the dat. or abl. rather than the dat. Virg. Anxius, sollicitus, securus, de re aliqua, diligens, in, ad, de. Cic. Negligens in aliquem, in or de re: Reus de vi, criminibus. Cic. Certior factus de re, rather than rei. Cic.

Obs. 3. The genitive after these adjectives is thought to be governed by causâ, in re, or in negotio, or some such word understood; as, Cupidus laudis, i. e. causâ or in re laudis, desirous of praise, that is, on account of, or in the matter of praise. But many of the adjectives themselves may be supposed to contain in their own signification the force of a substantive; thus, studiosus pecuniæ, fond of money, is the same with habens studium pecuniæ, having a fondness for money.

XI. Partitives, and words placed partitively, comparatives, superlatives, interrogatives, and some numerals, govern the genitive plural; as,

Aliquis philosophorum,
Senior fratrum,
Doctissimus Romanorum,

Some one of the philosophers.
The elder of the brothers.
The most learned of the Romans.

Quis nostrum ?Una musarum,Octāvus sapientū,

Which of us ?

One of the muses.

The eighth of the wise men.

Adjectives are called Partitives, or are said to be placed partitively, when they signify a part of any number of persons or things, having after them in English, of or among; as, alius, nullus, solus, &c. quis and qui, with their compounds: also Comparatives, Superlatives, and some Numerals; as, unus, duo, tres; primus, secundus, &c. To these add multi, pauci, plerique, medius.

Obs. 1. Partitives, &c. agree in gender with the substantive which they have after them in the genitive; but when there are two substantives of different genders, the partitive, &c. rather agrees with the former; as, Indus fumum maximus. Cic. Rarely with the latter; as, Delphinus animalium velocissimum. Plin. The genitive here is governed by ex numero, or by the same substantive understood in the singular number; as, Nulla sororum, scil. soror, or ex numero sororum.

Obs. 2. Partitives, &c. are often otherwise construed with the prepositions de, e, ex, or in; as, Unus de fratribus; or by the poets, with ante or inter; as, Pulcherrimus ante omnes, for omnium. Virg. Primus inter omnes. Id.

Obs. 3. Partitives, &c. govern collective nouns in the genitive singular, and are of the same gender with the individuals of which the collective noun is composed; as, Vir fortissimus nostræ civitatis. Cic. Maximus stirpis. Liv. Ultimos orbis Britannos. Horat. Od. i. 35, 29.

Obs. 4. Comparatives are used, when we speak of two; Superlatives when we speak of more than two; as, Major fratrum, The elder of the brothers, meaning two; Maximus fratrum, The eldest of the brothers, meaning more than two. In like manner, uter, alter, neuter, are applied with regard to two; quis, unus, alius, nullus, with regard to three or more; as, Uter vestrum, Whether or which of you two, Quis vestrum, Which of you three; but these are sometimes taken promiscuously, the one for the other.

2. Adjectives governing the Dative.

XII. Adjectives signifying profit or disprofit, likeness or unlikeness, &c. govern the dative; as,

Utilis bello,Perniciosus reipublicæ,Similis patri,

Profitable for war.

Hurtful to the commonwealth.

Like to his father.

Or thus, Any adjective may govern the dative in Latin, which has the signs TO or FOR after it in English.

To this rule belong;

1. Adjectives of profit or disprofit; as, Benignus, bonus, commodus, felix, fructuosus, prosper, saluber.—Calamitosus, damnosus, dirus, exitiosus, funestus, incommodus, malus, noxius, perniciosus, pestifer.

2. Of pleasure or pain; as, Acceptus, dulcis, gratus, gratiosus, jucundus, lætus, suavis.—Acerbus, amarus, insuavis, injucundus, ingratus, molestus, tristis.

3. Of friendship or hatred; as, Addictus, æquus, amicus, benevõlus, blandus, carus, deditus, fidus, fidelis, lenis, mitis, propitiu.—Adversus, æmulus, asper, crudelis, contrarius, infensus, infestus, infidus, immittis, inimicus, iniquus, invidus, invidus, iratus, odiõsus, suspectus, trux.

4. Of clearness or obscurity; as, Apertus, certus, compertus, conspicuus, manifestus, notus, perspicuus.—Ambiguus, dubius, ignõtus, incertus, obscurus.

5. Of nearness; as, Finitimur, propior, proximus, propinquus, socius, vicinus.

6. Of fitness or unfitness; as, Aptus, appositus, accommodatus, habilis, idoneus, opportunus.—Ineptus, inhabilis, importunus, inconveniens.

7. Of ease or difficulty; as, Facilis, levis, obvius, pervius.—Difficilis, arduus, gravis, laboriõsus, periculõsus, invidus. To these add such as signify propensity or readiness; as, Pronus, proclivis, propensus, promptus, paratus.

8. Of equality or inequality; as, Æqualis, æquævus, par, compar, suppar.—Inequalis, impar, dispar, discors. Also of likeness or unlikeness; as, Similis, æmulus, geminus.—Dissimilis, absõnus, aliõnus, diversus, discolor.

9. Several adjectives compounded with CON; as, Cognatus, concolor, concors, confinis, congruus, consanguineus, consentaneus, consõnus, conveniens, contiguus, continuus, continens, contiguous; as, Mari ær continens est. Cic.

To these add many other adjectives of various significations; as, obnoxius, subjectus, supplex, credulus, absurdus, decõrus, deformis, præsto, indecl. at hand, secundus, &c.—particularly

Verbals in BILIS and DUS govern the dative; as,

Amandus or amabilis omnibus, To be loved by all men.

So Mors est terribilis malis; Optabilis omnibus pax; Adhibenda est nobis diligentia. Cic. Semel omnibus calcanda est via lethi. Hor. Also some participles of the perfect tense; as, Bella matribus detestata, hated by. Hor.

Verbals in DUS are often construed with the prep. a; as, Deus est venerandus et colendus a nobis. Cic. Perfect participles are usually so; as, Mors Crassi est a multis deflata, rather than multis deflata. Cic. A te invitatus, rogatus, proditus, &c. hardly ever tibi.

Obs. 1. The dative is properly not governed by adjectives, nor by any other part of speech; but put after them, to express the object to which their signification refers.

The particle to in English is often to be supplied; as, Similis patri, Like his father, to being understood.

Obs. 2. Substantives have likewise sometimes a dative after them; as, Ille est pater, dux, or filius mihi, He is father, leader, or son to me; so, Præsidium reis, decus amicis, &c. Hor. Exitium pecõri. Virg. Virtutibus hostis. Cic.

Obs. 3. The following adjectives have sometimes the dative after them, and sometimes the genitive; Affinis, similis, communis, par, proprius, finitimur, fidus, conterminus, superstes, conscius, æqualis, contrarius, and adversus; as, Similis tibi, or tui Superstes patri, or patris; Consciūs faciendri, or faciendris. Consciūs and some others frequently govern both the genitive and dative; as, Mens sibi conscia recti. We say, Similes, dissimiles, pares, dispares, equales, communes, inter se: Par & communis cum aliquo. Civitas secum ipsa discors; discordes ad alia. Liv.

Obs. 4. Adjectives signifying usefulness, or fitness, and the contrary, have after them the dative or the accusative with a preposition; as,

Utilis, inutilis, aptus, ineptus, accommodatus, idoneus, habilis, inhabilis, opportunus, conveniens, &c. alicui rei, or ad aliquid. Many other adjectives governing the dative are likewise construed with prepositions; as, attentus questitis. Hor. Attentus ad rem. Ter.

Obs. 5. Of adjectives which denote friendship or hatred, or any other affection of the mind towards any one. I. Some are usually construed with the dative only; as, Affabilis, arrogans, asper, carus, difficilis, fidelis, invisus, iratus, offensus, suspectus, alicui. II. Some with the preposition IN and the accusative; as, Acerbus, animatus, beneficus, gratus, injurius, liberalis, mendax, misericors, officiosus, pius, impius, prolixus, severus, sordidus, torvus, vehemens, in aliquem. III. Some either with the dative, or with the accus. and the preposition IN, ERGA, or ADVERSUS, going before; as, Contumax, criminosus, durus, exortabilis, gravis, hospitalis, implacabilis, (and perhaps also inexorabilis & intolerabilis) iniquus, savus, alicui or in aliquem. Benevolus, benignus, molestus, alicui or erga aliquem. Mitis, comis; in, or erga aliquem and alicui. Perulcaz adversus aliquem. Crudelis, in aliquem, seldom alicui. Amicus, amulus, infensus, infestus, alicui, seldom in aliquem. Gratus alicui, or in, erga, adversus aliquem. We say amicus alicui or amicus; but oftener ab aliquo, and sometimes aliquo without the preposition.

AUDIENS is construed with two datives; as, Regi dicto audiens erat, he was obedient to the king; not regis; Dicto audiens fuit jussis magistratum. Nep. Nobis dicto audientes sunt, not dictis. Cic.

Obs. 6. Adjectives signifying motion or tendency to a thing, have usually after them the accusative with the preposition ad or in, seldom the dative; as,

Promus, propensus, proclivis, celer, tardus, piger, &c. ad iram, or in iram.

Obs. 7. Propior and proximus, in imitation of their primitive prope, often govern the accusative; as, Propior montem, scil. ad. Sall. Proximus finem. Liv.

Obs. 8. IDEM sometimes has the dative, chiefly in the poets; as, Innotum qui servat, idem facit occidenti. Hor. Jupiter omnibus idem. Virg. Eadem illis censemus. Cic. But in prose we commonly find, idem, qui, et, ac, atque, and also ut, cum; as, Peripatetici, quondam idem erant qui Academic. Cic. Est animus erga te, idem ac fuit. Ter. Diānam et Lunam eandem esse putant. Cic. Idem faciunt, ut, &c. In eodem loco mecum. Cic. But it would be improper to say of the same person or thing under different names, idem cum; as, Luna eodem est cum Diāna.

We likewise say, alius, ac, atque, or et; and sometimes similis & par.

3. Adjectives governing the Ablative.

XIII. These adjectives, dignus, indignus, contentus, præditus, captus, and fretus; also natus, satus, ortus, editus, and the like, govern the ablative; as,

Dignus honore, Worthy of honour. Captus oculis, Blind. [strength. Contentus parvo, Content with little. Fretus viribus, Trusting to his Præditus virtute, Endued with virtue. Ortus regibus, Descended of kings.

So generatus, creatus, cretus, prognatus, oriundus, procreatus regibus.

Obs. 1. The ablative after these adjectives is governed by some preposition understood; as, Contentus parvo, scil. cum; Fretus viribus, scil. in, &c. Sometimes the preposition is expressed; as, Ortus ex concubina. Sallust. Editus de nymphâ. Ovid.

Obs. 2. Dignus, indignus, and contentus, have sometimes the genitive after them; as, dignus avorum. Virg. So Macte esto or macti estote virtutis or virtute, Increase in virtue, or Go on and prosper; Jubere macte virtute esse, sc. te. Liv. ii. 12. In the last example macte seems to be used adverbially.

4. Adjectives governing the Genitive or Ablative.

XIV. Adjectives of plenty or want govern the genitive or ablative; as,

Plenus iræ or irâ, Full of anger, Inops rationis or ratione, Void of reason.

So Non inopes temporis, sed prodigi sumus. Sen. Lentulus non verbis inops. Cic. Dei plena sunt omnia. Cic. Maxima quæque domus servis est plena superbis. Juv. Res est solliciti plena timoris amor. Ovid. Amor et melle et felle est fecundissimus. Plaut. Fecunda virorum paupertas fugitur. Lucan. Omnium consiliorum ejus particeps. Curt. Homo ratione particeps. Cic. Nihil insidiis vacuum. Id. Vacuas cædis habets manus. Ovid

Some of these adjectives are construed, 1. with the genitive only; as, Benignus, exsors, impos, impotens, irritus, liberalis, munificus, prælargus.

2. With the ablative only; Beatus, differtus, frugifer, mutilus, tentus, distentus, tumidus, turgidus.

3. With the genitive more frequently; Compos, consors, egenus, ex hæres, expers, fertilis, indigus, parcus, pauper, prodigus, sterilis.

4. With the ablative more frequently; Abundans, cassus, extorris, fatus, frequens, gravis, gravidus, jejunus, liber, locuples, nudus, oneratus, onustus, orbis, pollens, solutus, truncus, viduus, and captus.

6. With a preposition; as, Copiosus, firmus, paratus, imparatus, inops, instructus, a re aliquâ; for quod ad rem aliquam attinet, in or with respect to any thing. Extorris ab solo patrio, banished; Orba ab optimatibus concio. Liv. So pauper, tenuis, fecundus, modicus, parcus, in re aliquâ. Immunitis, inanis, liber, nudus, solutus, vacuus, a re aliquâ. Potens ad rem, & in re.

III. THE GOVERNMENT OF VERBS

§ 1. VERBS GOVERNING ONLY ONE CASE.

1. Verbs which govern the Genitive.

XV. Sum, when it signifies possession, property, or duty, governs the genitive ; as,

Est regis, It belongs to the king ; It is the part or property of a king.

So Insipientis est dicere, Non putaram, It is the part or property of a fool, &c. Militum est suo duci parere. It is the part or duty of soldiers, &c. Laudare se vani, vituperare stulti est. Sen. Homīnis est errare ; Arrogantis est negligere quid de se quisque sentiat. Cic. Pecus est Melibæi. Virg. Hæc sunt hominis. Ter. Pauperis est numerare pecus. Ovid. Temeritas est florentis ætatis, prudencia senectutis. Cic.

¶ Meum, tuum, suum, nostrum, vestrum, are excepted ; as,

Tuum est, It is your duty. Scio tuum esse, I know that it is your duty.

Obs. 1. These possessive pronouns are used in the neuter gender instead of their substantives, mei, tui, sui, nostrī, vestri. Other possessives are also construed in this manner ; as, Est regium, est humanum, the same with est regis, est hominis. Et facere et pati fortia, Romanum est. Liv. ii. 12.

Obs. 2. Here some substantive must be understood ; as, officium, munus, res, negotium, opus, &c. which are sometimes expressed ; as, Munus est principum ; Tuum est hoc munus. Cic. Neutiquam officium liberi esse hominis puto. Ter. In some cases the preceding substantive may be repeated ; as, Hic liber est (liber) fratris. In like manner, some substantive must be supplied in such expressions as these ; Ea sunt modo gloriosa, neque patrandi belli, scil. causa or facta. Sall. Nihil tam æquanda libertatis est, for ad æquandam libertatem pertinet. Liv.

Obs. 3. We say, Hoc est tuum munus, or tui muneris ; So mos est or fuit, or moris, or in more. Cic.

XVI. Miserëor, miseresco, and satägo, govern the genitive ; as,

Miserere civium tuorum,

Pity your countrymen.

Satägit rerum suarum,

{ He has his hands full at home, or has { enough to do about his own affairs.

Obs. 1. Several other verbs among the poets govern the genitive by a Greek construction, particularly such as signify some affection of the mind ; as, Ango, decipior, desipio, discrucior, excrucio, fallo & fallor, fastidio, invideo, lætor, miror, pendeo, studeo, vereor ; as, Ne angas te animi. Plaut. Labörum decipitur. Hor. Discrucior animi. Ter. Pendet mihi animus, pendeo animi vel animo ; but we always say, Pendemus animis, not animorum, are in suspense. Cic. Justitiæ prius mirer. Virg. In like manner, Abstineo, desino, desisto, quiesco, regno : likewise, adipiscor, condico, credo, frustror, furo, laudo, libero, levo, participo, prohibeo as, Abstinento irarum; Desine querelarum; Regnavit populorum. Hor. Desistere pugnae. Virg. Quarum rerum condixit. Liv.

But all these verbs are for the most part differently construed; thus, Angor, desipio, discrucior, fallor, animo. Hoc animum meum excruciat. Fastidio, miror, vereor, aliquem, or aliquid. Lator aliquid re. Some of them are joined with the infinitive; or with quod, ut, ne, and the subjunctive.

In like manner we usually say, Desino aliquid, & ab aliquo, to give over; Desisto incepto, de negotio, ab illa mente; Quiesco a labore; Regnare in equitibus, oppidis, &c. in. Cic. Per urbes. Virg. Adipisci id; Frustrari in re; Furere de aliquo. Cic.

Obs. 2. The genitive after verbs, in the same manner as after adjectives, is governed by some substantive understood. This substantive is different according to the different meaning of the verbs; thus, Misereor fratris, scil. causâ; Angor animi, scil. dolore or anxietate.

2. Verbs governing the Dative.

XVII. Any verb may govern the dative in Latin, which has the signs TO or FOR after it in English; as,

Finis venit imperio, An end has come to the empire. Liv.
Animus redit hostibus, Courage returns to the enemy. Id.
Tibi seris, tibi metis, You sow for yourself, you reap for yourself. Plaut.

So, Non nobis solum nati sumus. Cic. Multa male eveniunt bonis. Id. Sol lucet etiam sceleratis. Sen. Hæret latèri lethalis arundo. Virg.

But as the dative after verbs in Latin is not always rendered in English by to or for; nor are these particles always the sign of the dative in Latin, it will be necessary to be more particular.

I. Sum and its compounds govern the dative (except possum); as,

Præfuit exercitui, He commanded the army.
Adfuit precibus, He was present at prayers.

¶ EST taken for Habeo, to have, governs the dative of a person; as,

Est mihi liber, A book is to me, that is, I have a book.
Sunt mihi libri, Books are to me, i. e. I have books.
Dico libros esse mihi, I say that I have books.

This is more frequently used than habeo librum; habeo libros. In like manner DEEST instead of careo; as, Liber deest mihi, I want a book; Libri desunt mihi; Scio libros deesse mihi, &c.

II. Verbs compounded with SATIS, BENE, and MALE, govern the dative; as,

Satisfacio, satisdo, benefacio, benedico, benevolo, malefacio, maledico, tibi, &c.

III. Many verbs compounded with these ten prepositions,

AD, ANTE, CON, IN, INTER, OB, POST, PRÆ, SUB, and SUPER, govern the dative; as,

1. Accedo, accresco, accumbo, acquiesco, adno, adnato, adequito, adhæreo, adsto, adstipulor, advolvor, affulgeo, allabor, allaboro, annuo, appareo, applaudo, appropinquo, arrideo, aspiro, assentior, assideo, assisto, assuesco, assurgo.

2. Antecello, anteeo, antesto, anteverto.

3. Colludo, concino, consûno, convivo.

4. Incumbo, indormio, indubito, inhio, ingemisco, inhæreo, insideo, in-sideor, insto, insisto, insûdo, insulto, invigilo, illacrymo, illudo, immineo, pravaleo, præverto.

9. Succedo, succumbo, sufficio, suffragor, subresco, suboleo, subjacio, subrêpo.

10. Supervenio, supercurro, supersto. But most verbs compounded with SUPER govern the accusative.

IV. Verbs govern the dative, which signify,

1. To profit or hurt; as,

Proficio, prosum, placeo, commodo, prospicio, caveo, metuo, timeo, con-sûlo, for prospicio. Likewise, Noceo, officio, incommodo, displiceo, insidior.

2. To favour or assist, and the contrary; as,

Faveo, gratulor, gratificor, grator, ignosco, indulgeo, parco, adulor, plaudo, blandior, lenocinor, palpior, assentor, subparasitor. Likewise,
Auxilior, adminiculor, subvenio, succurro, patrocinor, medeor, medicor, opitulor. Likewise, Derogo, detraho, invidéo, æmulor.

præstolor, prævaricor; recipio, to promise; renuncio; respondeo, to answer or satisfy; tempêro, studeo; vaco, to apply; convicior.*

Exc. Jubeo, juvo, lædo, and offendo, govern the accusative.

* Obs. 1. Verbs governing the dative only are either neuter verbs, or of a neuter signification. Active verbs governing the dative have also an accusative expressed or understood.

Obs. 2. Most verbs governing the dative only have been enumerated, because there are a great many verbs compounded with prepositions, which do not govern the dative, but are otherwise construed; and still more signifying advantage or disadvantage, &c. which govern the accusative; as, Levo, erigo, alo, nutrio, amo, diligo, vevo, crucio, aversor, &c. aliquem, not alicui.

Obs. 3. Many of these verbs are variously construed; particularly such as are compounded with a preposition; as,

To these may be added verbs, which chiefly among the poets govern the dative, but in prose are usually construed with a preposition; as,

1. Contendo, certo, bello, pugna, concurro, cæco, alicui, for cum aliquo;

2. Distare, dissentire, discrepare, dissidere, differre rei alicui, for a re aliquo.

We also say, Contendant, pugnant, distant, &c. inter se; and contendere, pugnare contra, & adversus aliquem.

Obs. 4. Many verbs vary both their signification and construction; as, Timeo, metuo, formido, horreo tibi, de te, & pro te, I am afraid for you, or for your safety; but timeo, horreo te, or a te, I fear or dread you as an enemy: So, Consûlo, prospicio, caveo tibi, I consult, or provide for your safety; but consûlo te, I ask your advice; prospicio hoc, I foresee this: Studere aliquid, to desire; alicui, to favour; alicui rei, rem, & in re, to apply to a thing. Eo, vado, curro, propèro, festino, pergo, fugio, tendo, vergo, inclino, &c. ad locum, rem, or hominem. Sometimes, however, in the poets, they are construed with the dative: as, It clamor celo, for ad celum. Virg.

3. Verbs governing the Accusative.

XVIII. A Verb signifying actively governs the accusative; as,

Amare Deum, Love God. Reverere parentes, Reverence your parents.

Obs. 1. Neuter verbs also govern the accusative, when the noun after them has a signification similar to their own;

as, Ire iter or viam; Pugnare pugnam or prælium; Currere cursum; Cunere canalem; Vivere vitam; Ludere ludum; Sequi sectam; Somniare somnium, &c. Or when they are taken in a metaphorical sense; as, Coridon ardebat Alexin, scil. propter, i. e. vehementer amabat. Virg. Currimus æquor, scil. per. Cic. Or when they have a kind of active sense; as, Clamare aliquem nomine. Virg. Callere jura; Mætere mortem; Horret iratum mare. Hor.

Sometimes, instead of the accusative, neuter verbs have an ablative; as, Ire itinere; dolere dolore, vicem ejus; gaudere gaudio; mori or obire morte; vivere vita; ardet virgine. Horat. Iudere aleam, or -â; manere, pluerè, rorare, stillare, sudare, aliquid or aliquo. Erubescere jura. Virg. origine. Tacit. equo vehi. Curt.

Obs. 4. The accusative is often understood; Tun proa avertit, sc. se. Virg. Flumina precipitant, sc. se. Id. Quicumque intenderat, sc. se, turned or directed himself. Sall. Obiit, sc. mortem. Ter. Cum faciam vitulum, sc. sacra. Virg. Or its place supplied by an infinitive or part of a sentence; as, Reddes dulce loqui, reddes ridere decorum; for dulcem sermonem, decorum risum. Hor.

XIX. Recordor, memini, reminiscor, and obliviscor, govern the accusative or genitive; as,

Recordor lectionis, or lectionem,
Obliviscor injuriae or injuriam,

Obs. 2. Memini, when it signifies to make mention, is joined with the genitive, or the ablative with the preposition de; as, Memini alicujus, or de aliquo. So, recordor, when it signifies to recollect; as, Velim scire ecquid, de te recordere. Cic.

4. Verbs governing the Ablative.

XX. Verbs of plenty and scarceness for the most part govern the ablative; as,

XXI. Utor, abutor, fruor, fungor, potior, vescor, govern the ablative; as,

Utur fraude, He uses deceit. Abutur libris, He abuses books.

To these add, gaudeo, creor, nascor, fido, vivo, victito, consto; laboro, for male me habeo, to be ill; pascor, epulor, mitor, &c.

Obs. 1. Potior often governs the genitive; as, Potiri urbis. Sall. And we always say, Potiri rerum, to possess the chief command, never rebus; imperio being understood.

Obs. 2. Potior, fungor, vescor, epulor, and pascor, sometimes have an accusative; as, Potiri urbem. Cic. Officia fungi. Ter. Munera fungi. Tac. Pascuntur silvas. Virg. And in ancient writers utor, abutor, and fruor; as, Uti consilium. Plaut. Opëram abutitur. Ter. Depasco and depascor always take an accusative; as, Depascitur artus. Virg.

§ 2. VERBS GOVERNING TWO CASES.

1. Verbs governing two Datives.

XXII. Sum used instead of affëro (to bring) governs two datives, the one of a person, and the other of a thing; as,

Est mihi voluptati, It is, or brings, a pleasure to me.

Two datives are also put after habeo, do, verto, relinquo, tribuo, fore, duco, and some others; as,

Ducitur honori tibi, It is reckoned an honour to you. Id vertitur mihi vitio, I am blamed for that. So, Misit mihi muneri; Dedit mihi dono; Habet sibi laudi; Ventre, occurrere auxilio alicui. Liv.

Obs. 1. Instead of the dative, we often use the nominative, or the accusative; as, Est exitum pecori, for exitio; Dare aliquid alicui donum, or dono; Dare filiam ei nuptam, or nuptui. When dare and other active verbs have two datives after them, they likewise govern an accusative either expressed or understood; as, Dare crimini ei, sc. id.

Obs. 2. The dative of the person is often to be supplied; as, Est exemplo, indicio, presidio, usui, &c. scil. mihi, alicui, hominibus, or some such word. So, ponere, opponere pignori, sc. alicui, to pledge. Canere receptui, sc. suis militibus, to sound a retreat; Habere curam questui, odio, voluptati, religioni, studio, ludibrio, despiciatui, &c. sc. sibi.

Obs. 3. To this rule belong forms of naming; as, Est mihi nomen Alexandro, my name is Alexander; or with the nominative, Est mihi nomen Alexander; or more rarely with the genitive, Est mihi nomen Alexandri.

2. Verbs governing the Accusative and the Genitive.

XXIII. Verbs of accusing, condemning, acquitting, and admonishing, govern the accusative of a person with the genitive of a thing; as,

Arguit me furti,	He accuses me of theft.
Meipsum inertiae condemno,	I condemn myself of laziness.
Illum homicidii absolvunt,	They acquit him of manslaughter.
Monet me officii,	He admonishes me of my duty.

Verbs of accusing are, Accuso, ago, appello, arcesso, inquero, arguo, defero, insimulo, postulo, alligo, astringo; of condemning, Damno, condemno, infāmo, noto; of acquitting, Absolvo, libĕro, purgo: of admonishing, Moneo, admoneo, commonefacio.

Obs. 1. Verbs of accusing and admonishing, instead of the genitive, frequently have after them an ablative, with the preposition de; as, Monĕre aliquem officii, or de officio; Accusāre aliquem furti, or de furto. De ti condemnāti sunt. Cic.

Obs. 2. Crimen and caput are put either in the genitive or ablative; but in the ablative usually without a preposition; as, Damnāre, postulāre, absolvĕre eum criminis, or capitis; and crimine, or capite; also Absolvo me peccāto. Liv. And we always say, Plectĕre, punire aliquem capite, and not capitis, to punish one capitally, or with death.

Obs. 3. Many verbs of accusing, &c. are not construed with the acc. of a person, and the gen. of a thing, but the contrary: thus we say, Culpo, reprehendo, taxo, tradūco, vitupĕro, calumnior, crimīnor, excūso, &c. avaritiam alicujus, and not aliquem avaritiæ. We sometimes also find accūso, incūso, &c. construed in this manner; as, Accusāre inertiam adolescentium, for adolescentes inertiae. Cic. Culpum arguo. Liv. We say, Agĕre cum aliquo furti, rather than aliquem, to accuse one of theft. Cic.

Obs. 4. Verbs of accusing and admonishing sometimes govern two accusatives, when joined with hoc, illud, istud, id, unum, multa, &c. as, Moneo, accūso, te illud. We seldom find, however, Errōrem te moneo, but errōris or de errōre; except in old writers, as Plautus.

XXIV. Verbs of valuing, with the accusative, govern such genitives as these, magni, parvi, nihili; as,

Æstimo te magni,

I value you much.

Verbs of valuing are, Æstimo, existimo, duco, facio, habeo, pendo, puto, taxo. They govern several other genitives; as, tanti, quanti, pluris, majōris, minōris, minimi, plurimi, maximi, nauci, pili, assis, nihili, teruncii, hujus.

Obs. 1. Æstimo sometimes governs the ablative; as, Æstimo te magno, permagno, parvo, scil. pretio: and also nihtlo. We likewise say, Pro nihilo habeo, puto, duco.

Obs. 2. Æqui and boni are put in the genitive after facio and consūlo; as, Hoc consūlo boni, æqui bonique facio, I take this in good part.

Obs. 3. The genitive after all these verbs is governed by some substantive understood; as, Arguĕre aliquem furti, scil. de crimine furti; Æstimo rem magni, scil. pretii, or pro re magni pretii: Consūlo boni, i. e. statuo or censeo esse factum, or munus boni viri, or animi; Monĕre aliquem officii, i. e. officii causā, or de re or negotio officii.

3. Verbs governing the Accusative and the Dative.

XXV. Verbs of comparing, giving, declaring, and taking away, govern the accusative and dative; as,

Compāro Virgiliū Homĕro,
Suum cuique tribuĕto,
Narras fabulā surdo,
Eripuit me morti,

I compare Virgil to Homer.
Give every one his own.
You tell a story to a deaf man.
He rescued me from death.

Or,--ANY ACTIVE VERB MAY GOVERN THE ACCUSATIVE AND THE DATIVE (when, together with the object of the action, we express the person or thing with relation to which it is exerted); as,

Legam lectiōnem tibi, I will read the lesson to you. Emit librum mihi, He bought a book for me. Sic vos non vobis fertis arātra boves. Virg. Paupertas sæpe suadet mala hominibus, advises men to do bad things. Plaut. Imperāre pecuniam, frumentum, naves, arma aliquibus, to order them to furnish. Cæs.

Obs. 1. Verbs of comparing and taking away, together with some others, are often construed with a preposition; as, Commārāre unam rem cum aliā, & ad aliā, or comparāre res inter se: Erripuit me morti, morte, a or ex morte: Mittēre epistolam alicui, or ad aliquem: Intendēre telum alicui, or in aliquem: Incidēre aeri, in æs, or in ære; and so in many others.

Obs. 2. Several verbs governing the dative and accusative, are construed differently; as,

Circumdāre mænia oppido, or oppidum mænibus, to surround a city with walls.

Intercludēre commedūm alicui, or aliquem commedū, to intercept one's provisions.

Donāre, prohibēre rem alicui, or aliquem re, to give one a present, to hinder one from a thing.

Mactāre hostiam Deo, or Deum hostiā, to sacrifice.

Impertire salutem alicui, or aliquem salutē, to salute one.

Interdixit Galliam Romānis, or Romānos Galliā, he debarred the Romans from Gaul.

Induēre, exuēre vestem sibi, or se veste, to put on, to put off one's clothes.

Levāre dolōrem alicui; dolōrem alicujus: aliquem dolōre, to ease one's distress.

Mināri aliquid alicui, or sometimes alicui aliquo. Cic. to threaten one with any thing; Cæsāri gladio. Sall.

Gratūlor tibi hanc rem, hac re, in, pro. & de hac re, I congratulate you on this. Mettus Tullo devictos hostes gratulātur. Liv.

Restituēre alicui sanitātem, or aliquem sanitāti, to restore to health.

Aspergēre labem alicui, or aliquem labe, to put an affront on one; aram sanguine. Litāre Deum sacris, & sacra Deo, to sacrifice.

Excusāre se alicui, & apud aliquem, de re; valetudinē ei.

Exprobrāre vitium ei, or in eo, & upbraid.

Occupāre pecuniam alicui, & apud aliquem, i. e. pecuniam fanōri locāre, to place at interest. Cic.

Opponēre se morti, & ad mortem. Renunciāre id ei, & ad eum, to tell.

Obs. 3. Verbs signifying motion or tendency to a thing, instead of the dative, have an accusative after them, with the preposition ad; as,

Porto, fero, lego, -as, præ-ripito, tollo, traho, duco, verto, incito, suscito; also, hortor, and invito, voco, provoco, animo, stimulo, conformo, laccio; thus, Ad laudem milites hortātur; Ad prætorem hominem trahit. Cic. But after several of these verbs, we also find the dative; as, Inferre Deos Latio, for in Latium. Virg. Invitāre aliquem: hospitio. or in hospitium. Cic.

Obs. 4. The accusative is sometimes understood; as, Nubère alicui, scil. se; Cedère alicui, scil. locum; Detrahère alicui, scil. laudem; Ignoscère alicui, scil. culpam. And in English the particle to is often omitted; as, Dedit mihi librum, He gave me a book, for to me.

4. Verbs governing two Accusatives.

XXVI. Verbs of asking and teaching govern two accusatives, the one of a person, and the other of a thing; as,

Poscimus te pacem,	We beg peace of thee.
Docuit me grammaticam,	He taught me grammar.

1. Verbs of asking, which govern two accusatives, are Rogo, oro, exoro, obsecro, precor, posco, reposco, flagito, &c. Of teaching, Doceo, edoceo, dedoceo, erudio.

Obs. 1. Celo likewise governs two accusatives; as, Celavit me hanc rem, He concealed this matter from me; or otherwise, celavit hanc rem mihi, or celavit me de hac re.

Obs. 2. Verbs of asking and teaching are often construed with a preposition; as, Rogare rem ab aliquo; Docere aliquem de re, to inform; but we do not say, docere aliquem de grammatica, but grammaticam, to teach. And we always say, with a preposition, Peto, exigo a or abs te; Percontor, scitor, sciscitor, ex or a te or te without the preposition; Interrogo, consulto te de re; Ut facias te obsecro; Exorat pacem divum, for divos. Virg. Instruo, instituo, formo, informo aliquem artibus, in the abl. without a prep. Imbuo eum artibus, in or ab artibus. Also, instruo ad rem or in re, ignorantiam alicujus. Erudire aliquem artes, de or in re, ad rem. Formare ad studium, mentem studiis, studia ejus.

Obs. 3. The accusative of the thing is not properly governed by the verb, but by quod ad or secundum understood.

5. Verbs governing the Accusative and the Ablative.

XXVII. Verbs of loading, binding, clothing, depriving, and some others, govern the accusative and the ablative; as,

Onerat naves auro,	He loads the ships with gold.
---------------------------	-------------------------------

Verbs of loading are, Onero, cumulo, premo, opprimo, obruo. Of unloading, levo, exonero, &c. Of binding, astringo, ligo, alligo, devincio, impedio, irretio, illaqueo, &c. Of loosing, solvo, exsolvo, libero, laxo, expedio, &c. Of depriving, privo, nudo, orbo, spolio, fraudo, emungo. Of clothing, vestio, amicio, induo, cingo, tego, velo, corono, & calceo. Of unclothing, exuo, discingo, &c.

Obs. 1. The preposition, by which the ablative is governed after these verbs, is sometimes expressed; as, Solvere aliquem ex catenis. Cic. Sometimes the ablative is to be supplied; as, Complet naves, sc. viris, mans the ships. Virg.

Obs. 2. Several of these verbs likewise govern the genitive; as, Adolescentem suae temeritatis implet. Liv. And also vary their construction; as, Induit, exuit, se vestibus, or vestes sibi.

THE CONSTRUCTION OF PASSIVE VERBS.

XXVIII. When a verb in the active voice governs two cases, in the passive it retains the latter case ; as,

Accūsor furti,	I am accused of theft.
Virgilius comparātur Homēro,	Virgil is compared to Homer.
Doceor grammaticam,	I am taught grammar.
Navis onerātur auro,	The ship is loaded with gold.

So, Scio homines accusatum iri furti;—Eos ereptum iri morti, morte, a or ex morte;—pueros doctum iri grammaticam;—rem celatum iri mihi, or me; me celatum iri de re, &c.

Sometimes the active has three cases, and then the passive has the two last cases ; as, Habetur ludibrio iis.

Obs. 1. Passive verbs are commonly construed with the ablative and the preposition a ; as,

Tu laudaris a me, which is equivalent to Ego laudo te. Virtus diligitur a nobis; Nos diligimus virtutem. Gaudeo meum factum probari a te, or te probare meum factum: And so, almost all active verbs. Neuter and deponent verbs also admit this preposition ; as, Mars a sole collucet. Cic. Phalaris non a paucis interit. Id. So, Cadere ab hoste; Cessare a praelis; Mori ab ense; Pati furari aliquid ab aliquo, &c. Also, Ventre ab hostibus, to be sold ; Vapulare ab aliquo, Exulare ab urbe. Thus likewise many active verbs ; as, Sumere, petere, tollere, pellere, expectare, emere, &c. ab aliquo.

The prep. is sometimes understood after passive verbs ; as, Deseror conjuge. Ovid. Desertus suis, sc. a. Tacit. Tabula distinguitur unda qui navigat, sc. ab unda, is kept from the water by a plank. Juvenal.

The preposition PER is also used in the same sense with A ; as, Per me defensa est publica, or a me; Per me restitutus; Per me or a me factum est. Cic. But PER commonly marks the instrument, and A the principal efficient cause ; as, Res agitur per creditores, a rege, sc. a rege vel a legato ejus. Cic. Fam. i. 1.

Obs. 2. Passive verbs sometimes govern the dative, especially among the poets ; as, Neque cernitur ulli, for ab ullo. Virg. Vix audior ulli. Ovid. Scriberis Vario, for a Vario. Hor. Honesta bonis viris quaeruntur, for a viris. Cic. VIDEOR, to seem, always governs the dative ; as, Vidēris mihi, You seem to me : but we commonly say, Vidēris a me, You are seen by me ; although not always ; as, Nulla tuarum audita mihi, neque visa sororum, for a me. Virg.

Obs. 3. Induor, amicio, cingor, accingor, also exuor, and discingor, are often construed with the accusative, particularly among the poets, though we do not find them governing two accusatives in the active voice ; as, Induitur vestem or veste.

Obs. 4. Neuter verbs are for the most part only used impersonally in the passive voice ; unless when they are joined with a noun of a similar signification to their own ; as, Pugna pugnata est. Cic. Bellum militabitur. Horat. Passive impersonal verbs are most commonly applied either to a multitude, or to an individual taken indefinitely ; as, Statur, fletur, curritur, vivitur, ventur, &c. a vobis, ab illis, &c. We are standing, weeping, &c. Bene potest vivi a me, or ab aliquo: I or any person may live well. Provisum est nobis optime a Deo; Reclamatum est ab omnibus, all cried out against it. Cic.

They also govern the same cases as when used personally; as, Ut majoribus natu assurgatur, ut supplicum misereatur. Cic. Except the accusative: for in these phrases, Itur Athenas, pugnatum est biduum, dormitur totam noctem, the accusative is not governed by the verb, but by the prepositions ad and per understood. We find, however, Tota mihi dormitur hyems; Noctes vigilantur amara; Oceanus raris ab orbe nostro navibus aditur. Tacit.

THE CONSTRUCTION OF IMPERSONAL VERBS.

XXIX. An Impersonal Verb governs the dative;

as,

Expedit reipublicæ,

It is profitable for the state.

Verbs which in the active voice govern only the dative, are used impersonally in the passive, and likewise govern the dative; as,

Favetur mihi, I am favoured, and not Ego favoreor. So, Noctetur mihi, imperatur mihi, &c. We find, however, Hæc ego procurare imperor; Ego cur invideor, for imperatur, invidetur mihi. Hor.

Obs. 1. These verbs, Potest, capit, incipit, desinit, debet, and solet, are used impersonally, when joined with impersonal verbs; as,

Non potest credi tibi, You cannot be believed; Mihi non potest noceri, I cannot be hurt; Negat jucundè posse vivi sine virtute. Cic. Per virtutem potest iri ad astra. Aliorum laudi et gloriæ invideri solet. The praise and glory of others use to be envied. Id. Neque a fortissimis in-firmissimo genèri resisti posse. Sallust.

Obs. 2. Various verbs are used both personally and impersonally; as, Venit in mentem mihi hæc res, or de hac re, or hujus rei, scilicet, memoria; This thing came into my mind. Est curæ mihi hæc res, or de hac re. Doleo or dolet mihi, id factum esse.

Obs. 3. The neuter pronoun it is always joined with impersonal verbs in English; as, It rains, it shines, &c. And in the Latin an infinitive is commonly subjoined to impersonal verbs, or the subjunctive with ut, forming a part of a sentence which may be supposed to supply the place of a nominative; as, Nobis non licet peccare, the same with peccatum; Omnibus bonis expedit rempublicam esse salvam, i. e. Salus reipublicæ expedit omnibus bonis. Cic. Accidit, evenit, contingit, ut ibi essemus. These nominatives, hoc, illud, id, idem, quod, &c. are sometimes joined to impersonal verbs; as, idem mihi licet. Cic. Eadem licent. Catull.

Obs. 4. The dative is often understood; as, Faciatur quod libet, sc. sibi, Ter. Stat casus renovare omnes, sc. mihi, I am resolved. Virg.

EXC. I. REFERT and INTEREST govern the genitive; as,

Refert patris, It concerns my father. Intèrest omnium, It is the interest of all.

¶ But mea, tua, sua, nostra, vestra, are put in the accusative plural neuter; as,

Non mea refert, It does not concern me.

Obs. 1. Some think mea, tua, sua, &c. to be in the ablat. sing. fem. We say either cujus intèrest, and quorum intèrest; or cujus intèrest, from cujus, -a, -um.

Obs. 2. Refert and intèrest are often joined with these nominatives, Id, hoc, illud, quid, quod, nihil, &c. also with common nouns; and with these genitives, Tanti, quanti, magni, permagni, parvi, pluris; as, Hoc parvi refert; Illud mea magni intèrest. Cic. Usque adeo magni refert studium. Lucret. Incessus in gravidâ refert. Plin.

They are frequently construed with these adverbs, Tantum, quantum, multum, plus, plurimum, infinitum, parum, maximè, vehementer, minimè, &c. as, Faciam, quod maximè reipublicæ interesse judicâbo. Cic. Sometimes instead of the genit. they take the accus. with the prep. ad; as, Quid id ad me, aut ad meam rem refert, Persæ quid rerum gerant? Of what importance is it? &c. Plaut. Magni ad honorem nostrum intèrest. Cic.: rarely the dative; as, Dic quid refert intra naturæ fines viventi, &c. Hor. Sometimes they are placed absolutely; as, Magnopère intèrest opprimi Dolabellam, it is of great importance. Cic. Permultum intèrest, qualis primus aditus sit. Id. Adeone est fundata leviter fides, ut ubi sim, quam qui sim, magis refert. Liv. Plurimum enim intererit, quibus artibus, aut quibus hunc tu moribus instituas. Juv.

Obs. 3. The genitive after refert and intèrest, is governed by some substantive understood, with which the possessives mea, tua, sua, &c. likewise agree: as, Intèrest Ciceronis, i. e. est inter negotia Ciceronis: Refert patris, i. e. refert se hæc res ad negotia patris: So, intèrest mea, est inter negotia mea.

EXC. II. These five, MISERET, PŒNITET, PUDET, TÆDET, and PIGET, govern the accusative of a person with the genitive of a thing; as,

Miseret me tui, I pity you. Tædet me vita, I am weary of life.
Pœnitet me peccati, I repent of my sin. Pudet me culpa, I am ashamed of my fault.

Obs. 1. The genitive here is properly governed either by negotium understood, or by some other substantive of a signification similar to that of the verb with which it is joined; as, Miseret me tui, that is, negotium or miseratio tui miseret me.

Obs. 2. An infinitive or some part of a sentence may supply the place of the genitive; as, Pœnitet me peccasse, or quod peccaverim. The accusative is frequently understood; as, Scellèrum si bene pœnitet, scil. nos. Horat.

Obs. 3. Miseret, pœnitet, &c. are sometimes used personally, especially when joined with these nominatives, hoc, id, quod, &c. as, Ipsi sui miseret. Lucr. Nonne hæc te pudet. Ter. Nihil, quod pœnitere possit, facias, for cujus te pœnitere possit. Cic.

We sometimes find miseret joined with two accusatives; as, Menedæmi vicem miseret me, scil. secundum or quod ad. Ter.

Obs. 4. The proterites of miseret, pudet, tædet, and piget, when used in the passive form, govern the same cases with the active; as, Mise- ritum est me tuorum fortunarum. Ter. We likewise find, miserescit and miseretur used impersonally; as, Miserescit me tui. Ter.; Miseretur te fratrum; Neque me tui, neque tuorum liberorum misereri potest. Cic.

EXC. III. DECET, DELECTAT, JUVAT, and OPORTET, govern the accusative of a person, with the infinitive; as,

*Delectat me studere,
Non decet te risari,*

It delights me to study.
It does not become you to scold.

Obs. 1. These verbs are sometimes used personally; as, Parrum parva decet. Hor. Est aliquid, quod non oporteat, etiamsi liceat. Cic. Hæc facta ab illo oportebant. Ter.

Obs. 2. Decet is sometimes construed with the dative; as, Ita nobis decet. Ter.

Obs. 3. Oportet is elegantly joined with the subjunctive mode, ut being understood; as, Sibi quisque consulat oportet. Cic. Or with the perfect participle, esse or fuisse being understood; as, Communicatum oportuit; mansum oportuit; Adolescenti morem gestum oportuit, The young man should have been humoured. Ter.

Obs. 4. Fallit, fugit, præterit, latet, when used impersonally, also govern the accusative with the infinitive; as, In lege nullâ esse ejusmodi caput, non te fallit; De Dionysio fugit me ad te antea scribere. Cic.

NOTE. Attinet, pertinet, & spectat, are construed with ad; Ad rempublicam pertinet, me conservari. Cic. And so personally, Ille ad me attinet, belongs. Ter. Res ad arma spectat, looks, points. Cic.

THE CONSTRUCTION OF THE INFINITIVE.

XXX. One verb governs another in the infinitive; as,

Cupio discere,

I desire to learn.

Obs. 1. The infinitive is often governed by adjectives; as, Horatius est dignus legi. Quinctil. And it sometimes depends on a substantive; as, Tempus equum fumantia solvere colla. Virg.

Obs. 2. The word governing the infinitive is sometimes understood; as, Mene incepto desistere victam, scil. decet, or par est. Virg. Videre est, one may see. Dicere non est, scil. copia, or facultas. Horat. And sometimes the infinitive itself is to be supplied; as, Socratem fidebus docuit, scil. cantare. Cic. So, Discere, scire, fidebus.

Obs. 3. The infinitive was not improperly called by the ancients Nomen verbi, the name or noun of the verb; because it is both joined with an adjective like a substantive; as, Velle suum cuique est, Every one has a will of his own: and it likewise supplies the place of a noun, not only in the nominative, but also in all the oblique cases; as, 1. In the nominative, Latrocinari, fraudare turpe est. Cic. Didicisse fideliter artes emollit mores. Ovid. 2. In the genitive, Peritus cantare, for cantandi or cantis. Virg. 3. In the dative, Paratus servire, for servituti. Sall. 4. In the accusative, Da mihi fallere, for artem fallendi. Horat. Quod faciam superest, præter amare, nihil. Ovid. 5. In the vocative, O videre nostrum, ut non sentientibus effluis! for vita nostra. 6. In the ablative, Dignus amari, for amare, or qui ametur. Virg.

Obs. 4. Instead of the infinitive, a different construction is often used after verbs of doubting, willing, ordering, fearing, hoping; in short, after any verb which has a relation to futurity; as, Dubitât ita facere, or more frequently, an, num, or utrum ita facturus sit; Dubitâvit an faceret necne; Non dubitô quin fecerit. Vis me facere, or ut faciam. Metuit tangi, or ne tangatur. Spero te venturum esse, or fore ut venias. Nunquam putâvi fore ut ad te supplex ventrem. Cic. Estimâbant futurum fuisse ut oppidum amitteretur. Cæs.

Obs. 5. To, which in English is the sign of the infinitive, in Latin may often be rendered otherwise than by the infinitive; as, I am sent to complain, Mittor questum, or ut querar, &c. Ready to hear, Promptus ad audiendum; Time to read, Tempus legendi; Fit to swim, Aptus natando; Easy to say, Facile dictu; I am to write, Scripturus sum; A house to let, or more properly, to be let, Domus locanda; He was left to guard the city, Relictus est ut tueretur urbem.

THE CONSTRUCTION OF PARTICIPLES, GERUNDS, AND SUPINES.

XXXI. Participles, Gerunds, and Supines, govern the case of their own verbs; as,

Amans virtutem, Loving virtue. Carens fraude, Wanting guile

Obs. 1. Passive Participles often govern the dative, particularly when they are used as adjectives; as,

Suspectus mihi, Suspected by me; Suspectiores regibus. Sall. Invisus mihi; hated by me, or hateful to me; In dies invisior. Suet. Occulta, et multis non invisâ solum, sed etiam inaudita sacra, unseen. Cic.

EXOSUS, PEROSUS, and often also PERTESUS, govern the accusative; as, Tædas exosa jugales. Ovid. Plebs consulum nomen haud secus quam regum perosa erat. Liv. Pertesus ignaviam suam; semet ipse, displeased with. Suet. vitam, weary of. Justin. levitatis. Cic.

Verbals in BUNDUS govern the case of their own verbs; as, Gratulationundus patriæ. Just. Vitabundus castra hostium. Liv. So sometimes also nouns; as, Justitia est obtemperatio scriptis legibus. Cic. Insidia consuli. Sall. Domum reditiois spe sublata. Cæs. Spectatio ludos. Plaut.

Obs. 2. These verbs, do, reddo, volo, curo, facio, habeo, comperio, with the perfect participle, form a periphrasis, similar to what we use in English; as, Compertum habeo, for compèri, I have found. Sall. Effectum dabo, for efficiam; Inventum tibi curabo, et adductum tuum Pamphilum, i. e. invenium et adducam. Ter. Sometimes the gerund is used with ad; as, Tradere ei gentes diripiendas, or ad diripiendum. Cic. Rogo, accipio, do aliquid utendum, or ad utendum; Misit mihi librum legendum, or ad legendum, &c.

Obs. 3. These verbs, curo, habeo, mando, loco, conducô, do, tribuo, mitto, &c. are elegantly construed with the participle in du, instead of the infinitive; as, Funus faciendum curavi, for fieri, or ut fieret; Columnas edificandas locavi. Cic.

THE CONSTRUCTION OF GERUNDS.

XXXII. Gerunds are construed like substantive nouns ; as,

Studendum est mihi, I must study. Aptus studendo, Fit for studying.
Tempus studendi, Time of study. Scio studendum esse mihi, I know that I must study.

But more particularly :

I. The Gerund in DUM with the verb est governs the dative ; as,

Legendum est mihi, I must read. Moriendum est omnibus, All must die. So, Scio legendum esse mihi ; moriendum esse omnibus, &c.

Obs. 1. This gerund always imports obligation or necessity ; and may be resolved into oportet, neccesse est, or the like, and the infinitive or the subjunctive, with the conjunction ut ; as, Omnibus est moriendum, or Omnibus necesse est mori, or ut moriantur ; or Necesse est ut omnes moriantur. Consulendum est tibi a me, I must consult for your good ; for Oportet ut consulam tibi. Cic.

Obs. 2. The dative is often understood ; as, Orandum est, ut sit mens sana in corpore sano, sc. tibi. Juv. Hic vincendum, aut moriendum, milites, est, sc. vobis. Liv. Deliberandum est deo, quod statuendum est semel, sc. tibi or aliqui. P. Syr.

II. The gerund in DI is governed by substantives or adjectives ; as, Tempus legendi, Time of reading. Cupidus discendi, Desirous of learning.

Obs. This gerund is sometimes construed with the genitive plural ; as, Facultas agrorum condonandi, for agros. Cic. Copia spectandi comædiarum, for comædias. Ter. But chiefly with pronouns ; as, In castra venerunt sui purgandi causâ. Cæs. Vestri adhortandi causâ. Liv. Ejus videndi cupidus, sc. famînæ. Ter. The gerund here is supposed to govern the genitive like a substantive noun.

III. The gerund in DO of the dative case is governed by adjectives signifying usefulness or fitness ; as,

Charta utilis scribendo, Paper useful for writing.

Obs. 1. Sometimes the adjective is understood ; as, Non est solvendo, scil. par, or habilis, He is not able to pay. Cic.

Obs. 2. This gerund is sometimes governed also by verbs ; as, Adesse scribendo. Cic. Aptat habendo ensem, for wearing. Virg. Is finis censendo factus est. Liv.

IV. The gerund in DUM of the accusative case is governed by the prepositions ad or inter ; as,

Promptus ad audiendum, Ready to hear.
Attentus inter docendum, Attentive in time of teaching.

Obs. This gerund is also governed by some other prepositions ; as, Ante domandum. Virg. Ob absolvendum. Cic. Circa movendum. Quinctil.

Or it depends on some verb going before, and then with the verb esse governs the dative case; as, Scio moriendum esse omnibus, I know that all must die. Esse is often understood.

V. The gerund in DO of the ablative case is governed by the prepositions a, ab, de, e, ex, or in; as,

Pena a peccando absterret, Punishment frightens from sinning.

* Or without a preposition, as the ablative of manner or cause; as,

Memoria excolendo augetur, The memory is improved by exercising it.
Defessus sum ambulando, I am wearied with walking.

Obs. The gerund in its nature very much resembles the infinitive. Hence the one is frequently put for the other; as, Est tempus legendi, or legere: only the gerund is never joined with an adjective, and is sometimes taken in a passive sense; as, Cum Tisidium vocaretur ad imperandum, i. e. ut ipsi imperetur, to receive orders. Sall. Nunc ades ad imperandum, vel ad parendum potius; sic enim antiqui loquebantur. Cic. i. e. ut tibi imperetur. Urit videndo, i. e. dum videtur. Virg.

Gerunds turned into Participles in dus.

XXXVI. Gerunds governing the accusative are elegantly turned into participles in dus, which, like adjectives, agree with their substantives in gender, number and case; as,

By the Gerund.	}	or more frequently	By the Participle or Gerundive.
Petendum est mihi pacem,			Pax est petenda mihi.
Tempus petendi pacem,			Tempus petendae pacis —
Ad petendum pacem,			Ad petendam pacem.
A petendo pacem,			A petendâ pace.

— Obs. 1. In changing gerunds into participles in dus, the participle and the substantive are always to be put in the same case in which the gerund was; as,

Genitive; Iniusta sunt consilia urbis delendae, civium trucidandorum, nominis Romani extinguendi. Cic.

Dat. Perpetiundo labori idoneus. Colum. Capessendae reipublicae habilis. Tac. Area firma templis ac porticibus sustinendis. Liv. Oneri ferendo est, sc. aptus or habilis. Ovid. Natus miseris ferendis. Ter. Litteris dandis vigilare. Cic. Locum oppido condendo capere. Liv.

Acc. and Abl. Ad defendendam Romam ab oppugnanda Capua duces Romanos abstrahere. Liv. Orationem Latinam legendis nostris efficiis pleniorum. Cic.

Obs. 2. The gerunds of verbs, which do not govern the accusative, are never changed into the participle, except those of medeor, utor, abutor, frutor, fungor, and potior; as, Spes potiundi urbe, or potiundae urbis: but we always say, Cupidus subveniendi tibi, and never tui.

THE CONSTRUCTION OF SUPINES.

1. The Supine in um.

XXXVII. The supine in um is put after a verb of motion ; as,

Abiit deambulatum, He hath gone to walk.

So, Ducere cohortes praedatum. Liv. Nunc venis irrisum dominum ? Quod in rem tuam optimum factu arbitror, te id admonitum venio. Plaut.

Obs. 1. The supine in um is elegantly joined with the verb eo, to express the signification of any verb more strongly ; as, It se perditum, the same with id agit, or operam dat, ut se perdat, He is bent on his own destruction. Ter. This supine with iri, taken impersonally, supplies the place of the infinitive passive ; as, An credebas illam sine tua opera iri deductum domum ? Which may be thus resolved ; An credebas iri (a te or ab aliquo) deductum (i. e. ad deducendum) illam domum. Ter. The supine here may be considered as a verbal substantive governing the accusative, like the gerund.

Obs. 2. The supine in um is put after other verbs besides verbs of motion ; as, Dedit filiam nuptum ; Cantatum provocemus. Ter. Revocatus defensum patriam ; Divisit copias hiematum. Nep.

Obs. 3. The meaning of this supine may be expressed by several other parts of the verb ; as, Venit oratum opem: or, 1. Venit opem orandi causa, or opis orandae. 2. Venit ad orandum opem, or ad orandam opem. 3. Venit opi orandae. 4. Venit opem oraturus. 5. Venit qui, or ut opem oret. 6. Venit opem orare. But the third and the last of these are seldom used.

2. The Supine in u.

XXXVIII. The supine in u is put after an adjective noun ; as,

Facile dictu, Easy to tell, or to be told.

So, Nihil dictu sedum, visuque, haec limina tangat, intra qua puer est. Juv. Difficilis res est inventu verus amicus ; Fas or nefas est dictu ; Opus est scitu. Cic.

Obs. 1. The supine in u, being used in a passive sense, hardly ever governs any case. It is sometimes, especially in old writers, put after verbs of motion ; as, Nunc obsonatu redeo, from getting provisions. Plaut. Primus cubitu surgat (villicus), from bed, postrumus cubitum eat. Cato.

Obs. 2. This supine may be rendered by the infinitive or gerund with the preposition ad ; as, Difficile cognitu, cognosci, or ad cognoscendum ; Res facilis ad credendum. Cic.

Obs. 3. The supines, being nothing else but verbal nouns of the fourth declension, used only in the accusative and ablative singular, are governed in these cases by prepositions understood ; the supine in um by the preposition ad, and the supine in u by the preposition in.

THE CONSTRUCTION OF INDECLINABLE WORDS.

I. THE CONSTRUCTION OF ADVERBS.

XXXIX. Adverbs qualify verbs, participles, adjectives, and other adverbs ; as,

Bene scribit, He writes well. Fortiter pugnans, Fighting bravely.
Serous egregie fidelis, A slave remarkably faithful. Satis bene, Well enough.

Obs. 1. Adverbs sometimes likewise qualify substantives ; as,

Homærus planè orator : plane noster, verè Metellus. Cic. So Hodie mane, cras mane, heri mane ; hodie vespèri, &c. tam mane, tam vespère.

Obs. 2. The adverb, for the most part in Latin, and always in English, is placed near to the word which it qualifies or affects.

Obs. 3. Two negatives, both in Latin and English, are equivalent to an affirmative ; as,

Nec non senserunt, Nor did they not perceive, i. e. et senserunt, and they did perceive ; Non poteram non exanimâri metu. Cic. So, non sum nescius, i. e. scio. Cic. Or. 1, 11. haud nihil est, i. e. est aliquid. Ter. Eun. 4, 2, 13. nonnulli, i. e. aliqui ; nonnunquam, i. e. aliquando ; non nemo, i. e. quidam ; nemo non, i. e. quilibet, &c. Examples, however, of the contrary of this occur in good authors, both Latin and English. Thus, in imitation of the Greeks, two negatives sometimes make a stronger negation : Neque ego haud committam, ut, si quid peccatum siet, (te) fecisse dicas de meâ sententiâ, I will not cause, that, &c. Plaut. Bacch. 4, 9, 114. Jura, te non nociturum homini hæc de re nemini, for nulli homini. Id. Mil. 5, 1, 18, cf. Epid. 4, 1, 6. & 5, 1, 57. Nolle successum, non Patribus, non Consulibus, They did not wish success either to the Patricians, or the Consuls. Liv. 2, 45. So, nihil iste nec ausus, nec potuit. Virg. Æ. 9, 428, add. Virg. E. 4, 53. & 5, 53. Ter. Eun. 5, 9, 47. Heaut. 1, 1, 11. Nullius rei neque præ, neque maniceps factus est. Nep. 25, 6.

But what chiefly deserves attention in Adverbs, is the degree of comparison and the mode with which they are joined. 1. Apprimè, admòdum, vehementer, maxime, perquam, valde, oppidè, &c. and per in composition, are usually joined to the positive ; as, Utrique nostrum gratum admòdum feceris, You will do what is very agreeable to both of us. Cic. perquam puerile, very childish ; oppidè pauci, very few ; perfacile est, &c. In like manner, Parum, multum, nimium, tantum, quantum, aliquantum ; as, In rebus apertissimis, nimium longi sumus ; parum firmus, multum bonus. Cic. Adverbs in um are sometimes also joined to comparatives ; as, Forma viri aliquantum amplior humanâ. Liv.

QUAM is joined to the positive or superlative in different senses ; as, Quam difficile est ! How difficult it is ! Quam crudelis, or Ut crudelis est ! How cruel he is ! Flens quam familiariter, very familiarly. Ter. So, quam severe, very severely. Cic. Quam latè, very widely. Cæs. Tam multa quam, &c. as many things as, &c. Quam maximas potest copias armat, as great as possible. Sall. Quam maximas gratias agit, quam primum, quam sapientimè. Cic. Quam quisque pessimè fecit, tam maxime tutus est. Sall.

FACILE, for haud dubiè, undoubtedly, clearly, is joined to superlatives or words of a similar meaning ; as, Facile doctissimus, facile princeps, or precipuus. LONGÈ, to comparatives or superlatives, rarely to the positive ; as, Longè eloquentissimus Plato. Cic. Peditibus longè melior Lycus. Virg.

2. CUM, when, is construed with the indicative or subjunctive, oftener with the latter ; DUM, whilst, or how long, with the indicative ; as, Dum hæc aguntur ; Egrèto, dum anima est, spes esse dicitur. Cic. Donec eris felix, multos numerabis amicos. Ovid. DUM and DONEC, for usquè dum, until, sometimes with the indicative, and sometimes with the subjunctive; as, Opperior, dum ista cognosco. Cic. Haud desinam, donec perfectero. Ter. So, QUOAD, for quamdiu, quantum, quatenus, as long, as much, as far as; thus, Quoad Catilina fuit in urbe; Quoad tibi æquum videbitur; quoad possem & liceret; quoad progrædi poterit amentia. Cic. But QUOAD, until, often with the subjunctive; as, Thessalonice esse statueram, quoad aliquid ad me scriberes. Cic. but not always; Non faciam finem rogandi, quoad nunciatum erit te fecisse. Cic. The pronoun ejus, with facere or fiæri, is elegantly added to quoad; as quoad ejus facere poteris; Quoad ejus fieri possit. Cic. Ejus is thought to be here governed by aliquid or some such word understood. Quoad corpus, quoad animam, for secundum, or quod attinet ad corpus or animam, as to the body or soul, is esteemed by the best grammarians not to be good Latin.

3. POSTQUAM OR POSTEAQUAM, after, is usually joined with the indic., ANTEQUAM, PRIUSQUAM, before: SIMUL, SIMULAC, SIMUL ATQUE, SIMUL UT, as soon as; UBI, when, sometimes with the indic. and sometimes with the subj.; as, Antequam dico or dicam. Cic. Simulac persensit. Virg. Simul ut videro Curionem. Cic. Hæc ubi dicta dedit. Liv. Ubi semel quis perjuraverit, ei credi postea non oportet. Cic. So, NÆ, truly; as, Næ ego homo sum infelix. Ter. Næ tu, si id fecisses, melius famæ consulisses. Cic. But NÆ, not, with the imperative, or more elegantly with the subjunctive; as, Ne jura. Plaut. Ne post confæras culpam in me. Ter. Ne tot annorum felicitatem in unius horæ dedæris discrimen. Liv.

4. QUASI, CEU, TANQUAM, PERINDE, when they denote resemblance, are joined with the indicative; Fuit olim, quasi ego sum, senex. Plaut. Adversi rupto ceu quondam turbine venti confligunt. Virg. Hæc omnia perinde sunt, ut aguntur. But when used ironically, they have the subjunctive; as, Quasi de verbo, non de re laboretur. Cic.

5. UTINAM, O SI, UT for utinam, I wish, take the subjunctive; as, Utinam ea res ei voluptati sit. Cic. O mihi præteritos referat si Jupiter annos. Virg. Ut illum dii deaque perdant. Ter.

6. UT, when, or after, takes the indicative; as, Ut discessit, venit, &c. ¶ Also, for quæm, or quomodo, how! as, Ut valet! Ut falsus animi est! Ut sæpe summa ingenia in occulto latent! Plaut. ¶ Or when it simply denotes resemblance; as, Ut tute es, ita omnes censes esse. Plaut. ¶ In this sense it sometimes has the subjunctive; as, Ut sementem feceris, ita metes. Cic.

7. QUIN, for cur non, takes the indic. as, Quin continetis vocem indicem stultitiæ vestræ? Cic. ¶ For imo, nay or but, the indic. or imperat. as, Quin est paratum argentum; quin tu hoc audi. Ter. ¶ For ut non, qui, quæ, quod non, or quo minus, the Subjunctive; as, Nulla tam facilis res, quin difficilis fiet, quum invitus facias. Ter. Nemo est, quin mallet; Facere non possum, quin ad te mittam, I cannot help sending; Nihil abest, quin sim miserimus. Cic.

THE GOVERNMENT OF ADVERBS.

XL. Some adverbs of time, place, and quantity, govern the genitive; as,

Pridiè ejus dièi,
Ubique gentium,
Satis est verborum,

The day before that day
Every where.
There is enough of words.

1. Adverbs of time governing the genit. are, Interea, postea, inde, tunc; as, Interea loci, in the mean time; postea loci, afterwards; inde loci, then; tunc temporis, at that time. 2. Of place, Ubi and quo, with their compounds, ubique, ubicunque, ubiuis, ubiubi, &c. Also, Eo, huc, hucinc, inde, usquam, nusquam, longe, ibidem; as, Ubi, quo, quovis, &c. also, usquam, nusquam, unde terrarum, or gentium; longe gentium; ibidem loci, ad audacie, vecordie, miseriarum, &c. to that pitch of boldness, madness, misery, &c. 3. Of quantity, Abundè, affatim, largiter, nimis, satis, parum, minimè; as, Abundè gloriæ, affatim divitiarum, largiter auri, satis eloquentiæ, sapientiæ parum est illi or habet, He has enough of glory, riches, &c. Minimè gentium, by no means.

Some add ergo and instar; as, Ergo virtutis, for the sake of virtue. Cic. Instar montis, like a mountain. Virg. But these are properly nouns.

Obs. 1. These adverbs are thought to govern the genitive, because they imply in themselves the force of a substantive; as, Potentia gloriæ, quo abundè adeptus, the same with abundantiam gloriæ: or res, locus, or negotium, and a preposition, may be understood; as, Interea loci, i. e. inter ea negotia loci; Ubi terrarum, for in quo loco terrarum.

Obs. 2. We usually say, pridiè, postridiè, ejus dièi, seldom diem; but pridiè, postridiè Kalendas, Nonas, Idus, ludos Apollinæres, natâlem ejus, absolutiõnem ejus, &c. rarely Kalendârum, &c.

Obs. 3. En and ecce are construed either with the nominative or accusative; as,

En hostis, or hostem; Ecce miserum hominem. Cic. Sometimes a dative is added; as, Ecce tibi Strato. Ter. Ecce duas (scil. aras,) tibi, Daphni. Virg. In like manner is construed hem put for ecce; as, Hem tibi Davum. Ter. But in all these examples some verb must be understood.

XLI. Some derivative adverbs govern the case of their primitives; as,

Omnium optimè loquitur,
Convenienter naturæ,
Venit obviam ei,
Proximè castris or castra,

He speaks the best of all.
Agreeably to nature.
He came to meet him.
Next the camp.

entem versus, towards the east. But in these ad is understood; which we find sometimes expressed; as, Prope ad annum.

Pro occiso relictus est. Cic.

PRÆ se pugionem tulit, before; speciem præ se boni viri fert, pretends to be. Ter. præ lacrymis non possum scribere, for, because of; illum præ me contempai, in comparison of: So the adv. præut; as, præut hujus rabies quæ dabit. Ter.

PALAM populo, omnibus, before, with the knowledge of.

SINE labore, without; sine ullâ causâ, pompâ, molestiâ, querelâ, impensâ, &c.; homo sine re, fide, spe, fortunâ, sede, &c. Cic.

Capulo TENUS, up to the hilt.

Tenus is construed with the genitive plural, when the word wants the sing.; as, Cumârûm tenus, as far as Cumæ: or when we speak of things, of which we have by nature only two;

as, Oculôrum, aurium, narium, labrôrum, lumbôrum, crurum tenus, up to. We also find Corcyræ tenus, & ostiis tenus. Liv. Colchis tenus. Flor. Pectoribus tenus. Ovid.

To prepositions governing the abl. is commonly added

PROCUL:

as, Procul domo, far from home; but here a is understood, which is also often expressed; as, Procul a patriâ. Virg. Procul ab ostentatione. Quinct. Culpa est procul a me. Ter.

3. PREPOSITIONS GOVERNING THE ACC. AND ABL.

XLIV. The prepositions in, sub, super, and subter, govern the accusative, when motion to a place is signified; but when motion or rest in a place is signified, in and sub govern the ablative, super and subter either the accusative or ablative.

IN, when it signifies into, governs the accusative; when it signifies in or among, it governs the ablative; as,

IN urbem ire, into; amor in patriam, in te benignus, towards; in lucem, until day; in eam sententiam, to that purpose, on that head; in rem tuam est, for your advantage; in utramque partem disputare, on both sides, for and against; litara in nomen, on. Cic. potestas in filium, over; in aliquem dicere, against; mirum in modum, after; in pedes stare, in aurem dormire, on; in os laudare, to, before; in or inter patres lectus, into the number of; in vulgus probari, spargere, &c. among; crescit in dies, in singulos dies, omnes in dies, every day; in diem postërum, proximum, decimum, against; in diem vivere, to live from hand to mouth, not to think of to-morrow; Est in diem, will happen sometime after. Ter. Induciæ in duos menses datæ, in hunc diem, annum, &c. for; Ternis assibus in pedem, or in singulos pedes, transëgit, He bargained for three shillings a foot, or for every foot; So in jugërum, militem, capita, naves, &c. In medimna singula, H. S. quinos denos dedisti. Cic.

IN portu navigo, in tempore, in; esse in potestate or in potestatem, honore or honorem, mente or mentem: in manu or manibus esse; habere, tenere, in one's power, on hand; in amicis, among; in oculis, before; Occisus est in provinciam, for in provincia. Sall. In pueritiâ, adolescentiâ, senectute, absentia, for puer or puëri, when a boy or boys, &c. Hoc in tempore. Nep. In loco fratris diligere, for ut fratrem. Ter.

SUB terras ibit imago, sub aspectum cadit, under; sub ipsum funus, near, just before. Hor. sub lucem, ortum lucis, noctem, vespëram, brumam, i. e. incipiente luce, &c. at the dawn of day, &c.; sub idem tempus, about; sub eas literas recitatæ sunt tux, sub festos dies, after. Cic.

SUB muro, rege, pedibus, &c. under; sub urbe, near. Ter. sub eâ conditione or -em, on or with.

SUPER Numidiam, above, beyond; super ripas, upon; super hæc; super morbum etiam fames affixit, besides. Liv. super arbore, fronde super viridi, upon; super hæc re scribere, his accensa super, concerning; alii super alios trucidantur. Liv. Super cenam, super vinum & epulas, for inter, during. Curt. Nec super ipse suâ molitur laude laborem, for. Virg.

SUBTER terram or terrâ, under.

Obs. 1. When prepositions do not govern a case, they are reckoned adverbs.

Such are Ante, circa, clam, coram, contra, infra, intra, juxta, palam, pone, post, propter, secus, subter, super, supra, ultra. But in most of these the case seems to be implied in the sense; as, Longo post tempore venit, sc. post id tempus. Adversus, juxta, propter, secus, secundum, & clam, are by some thought to be always adverbs, having a preposition understood when they govern a case. So other adverbs also are construed with the acc. or abl.; as, Intus cellam, for intra. Liv. Intus templo divum, sc. in. Virg. Simul his, sc. cum. Hor.

Obs. 2. A and E are only put before consonants; AB and EX, usually before vowels, and sometimes also before consonants; as,

A patre, e regione; ab initio, ab rege; ex urbe, ex parte; abs before q and t; as, abs te, abs quivis homine. Ter. Some phrases are used only with e; as, e longinquo, e regione, e vestigio, e re meâ est, &c. Some only with ex; as, Ex compacto, ex tempore, magnâ ex parte, &c.

Obs. 3. Prepositions are often understood; as, Devenere locos, scil. ad; It portis, sc. ex. Virg. Nunc id prodeco, scil. ob or propter. Ter. Maria aspera juro, scil. per. Virg. Ut se loco movere non possent, scil. e or de. Cæs. Vina promens dolio, scil. ex. Hor. Quid illo facias? Quid me fiet, sc. de. Ter. And so in English, Show me the book; Get us some paper, that is, to me, for me. We sometimes find the word to which the preposition refers, suppressed; as, Circum Concordiæ, sc. adem. Sall. Round St. Paul's, namely, church; Campum Stellatæm divisit extra sortem ad viginti millibus, civium, i. e. civium millibus ad viginti millia. Suet. But this is most frequently the case after prepositions in composition; thus, Emittere servum, scil. manu. Plaut. Evomere virus, scil. ore. Cic. Educere copias, scil. castris. Cæs.

XLV. A preposition in composition often governs the same case, as when it stands by itself; as,

Adeamus scholam,
Ezeamus scholâ,

Let us go to the school.
Let us go out of the school.

Obs. 1. The preposition with which the verb is compounded, is often repeated; as, Adire ad scholam; Exire ex scholâ; Adgrèdi aliquid, or ad aliquid; ingrèdi orationem, or in orationem; inducere animum, & in animum; evadere undis & ex undis; decedere de suo jure, decedere viâ or de viâ; expellere, ejicere, exterminare, extrudere, exturbare urbe, & ex urbe. Some do not repeat the preposition; as, Affari, allôqui, allatrare aliquem, not ad aliquem. So, Alluere urbem; accollere flumen; circumvenire aliquem; præterire injuriam; abdicare se magistratû, (also, abdicare magistratûm;) transducere exercitum fluvium, &c. Others are only construed with the preposition; as, Accurrere ad aliquem, adhortari ad aliquid, incidere in morbum, avocare a studiis, avertere ab inepto, &c.

Some admit other prepositions; as, Abire, demigrare loco; & a, de, ex loco; abstrahere aliquem, a, de, or e conspectu; Desistere sententiâ, a or de sententiâ; Excidere manibus, de or e manibus, &c.

Obs. 2. Some verbs compounded with e or ex govern either the ablative or accusative; as, Egrèdi urbe, or urbem, sc. extra; egrèdi extra vallum. Nep. Evadere insidiis or insidias. Patrios excedere muros. Lucan. Sceleratâ excedere terrâ. Virg. Elâbi ex manibus; elâbi pugnam aut vincula. Tac.

Obs. 3. This rule does not take place, unless when the preposition may be disjoined from the verb, and put before the noun by itself; as, Allôquor patrem, or loquor ad patrem.

III. THE CONSTRUCTION OF INTERJECTIONS.

XLVI. The interjections, O, heu, and proh, are construed with the nominative, accusative, or vocative; as,

O vir bonus or bone! O good man! Heu me miserum! Ah wretched me!

So, O vir fortis atque amicus! Ter. Heu vanitas humana! Plin. Heu miserande puer! Virg. O præclarum custodem ovium (ut aiunt) lupum! Cic.

XLVII. Hei and væ govern the dative; as,

Hei mihi! Ah me! Væ vobis! Wo to you!

Obs. 1. Heus and ohe are joined only with the vocative; as, Heus Syre. Ter. Ohe libelle! Martial. Proh or pro, ah, vah, hem, have generally either the accusative or vocative; as, Proh hominum fidem! Ter. Proh Sancte Jupiter! Cic. Hem astutias! Ter.

Obs. 2. Interjections cannot properly have either concord or government. They are only mere sounds excited by passion, and have no just connexion with any other part of a sentence. Whatever case, therefore is joined with them, must depend on some other word understood, except the vocative, which is always placed absolutely; thus, Heu me miserum! stands for Heu! quàm me miserum sentio! Hei mihi! for Hei! malum est mihi! Proh dolor! for Proh! quantus est dolor! and so in other examples.

THE CONSTRUCTION OF CIRCUMSTANCES.

The circumstances, which in Latin are expressed in different cases, are, 1. The Price of a thing. 2. The Cause, Manner, and Instrument. 3. Place. 4. Measure and Distance. 5. Time.

1. PRICE.

XLVIII. The price of a thing is put in the ablative; as,

Emi librum duobus assibus,	I bought a book for two shillings.
Constitit talento,	It cost a talent.

So, Asse carum est; vile viginti minis, auro vendit, &c. Nocet empta dolore voluptas. Hor. Spem pretio non emam. Ter. Plurimi auro veneunt honores. Ovid.

¶ These genitives, tanti, quanti, pluris, minoris, are excepted; as,

Quanti constitit, How much cost it? Asse et pluris, A shilling and more

Obs. 1. When the substantive is added, they are put in the ablative; as, parvo pretio, impenso pretio vendere. Cic.

Obs. 2. Magno, permagno, parvo, paululo, minimo, plurimo, are often used without the substantive; as, Permagno constitit, scil. pretio. Cic. Heu quanto regnis nox stetit una tuis? Ovid. Fast. ii. 812. We also say, Emi care, carius, carissimè; bene, melius, optimè; male, pejus, vilius, vilissimè; valdè, care æstimas: Emit domum prope dimidio carius, quàm æstimabat. Cic.

Obs. 3. The ablative of price is properly governed by the preposition pro understood, which is likewise sometimes expressed; as, Dum pro argenteis decem aureus unus valeret. Liv.

2. MANNER AND CAUSE.

XLIX. The cause, manner, and instrument are put in the ablative; as,

Palleo metu,	I am pale for fear.
Fecit suo more,	He did it after his own way.
Scribo calamo,	I write with a pen.

So, Ardet dolore; pallescere culpa; astuere dubitatione; gestire voluptate or secundis rebus: Confectus morbo; affectus beneficiis, gravissimo supplicio, insignis pietate; deterior licentia: Pietate filius, consiliis pater, amore frater; hence, Rex Dei gratia: Paritur paz bello. Nep. Procedere lento gradu; Acceptus regio apparatu: Nullo sono convertitur annus.

Juv. Jam veniet tacito curva senecta pede. Ovid. Percutere securi, defendere saxis, configere sagittis, &c.

Obs. 1. The ablative is here governed by some preposition understood. Before the manner and cause, the preposition is sometimes expressed; as, De more matrum locuta est. Virg. Magno cum metu; Hæc de causâ: Præ mærore, formidine, &c. But hardly ever before the instrument; as, Vulnerare aliquem gladio, not cum gladio; unless among the poets, who sometimes add a or ab; as, Trajectus ab ense. Ovid.

Obs. 2. When any thing is said to be in company with another, it is called the ablative of CONCOMITANCY, and has the preposition cum usually added; as, Obsedit curiam cum gladiis: Ingressus est cum gladio. Cic.

Obs. 3. Under this rule are comprehended several other circumstances, as the matter of which any thing is made, and what is called by grammarians the ADJUNCT, that is, a noun in the ablative joined to a verb or adjective, to express the character or quality of the person or thing spoken of; as, Capitolium saxo quadrato constructum. Liv. Floruit acuminis ingenii. Cic. Pollet opibus, valet armis, viget memoriâ, famâ nobilis, &c. Eger pedibus. When we express the matter of which any thing is made, the preposition is usually added; as, Templum de marmore, scdum marmoris; Poculum ex auro factum. Cic.

3. PLACE.

The circumstances of place may be reduced to four particulars. 1. The place where, or in which. 2. The place whither, or to which. 3. The place whence, or from which. 4. The place by, or through which.

AT or IN a place is put in the genitive; unless the noun be of the third declension, or of the plural number, and then it is expressed in the ablative.

TO a place is put in the accusative; FROM or BY a place in the ablative.

1. The place WHERE.

L. When the place where, or in which, is spoken of, the name of a town is put in the genitive; as,

Vixit Romæ,	He lived at Rome.
Mortuus est Londini,	He died at London.

¶ But if the name of a town be of the third declension or plural number, it is expressed in the ablative; as,

Habitat Carthagine,	He dwells at Carthage.
Studuit Parisiis,	He studied at Paris.

Obs. 1. When a thing is said to be done, not in the place itself, but in its neighbourhood or near it, we always use the preposition ad or apud; as, Ad or apud Trojam, At or near Troy.

Obs. 2. The name of a town, when put in the ablative, is here governed by the preposition in understood; but if it be in the genitive, we must supply in urbe, or in oppido. Hence, when the name of a town is joined with an adjective or common noun, the preposition is generally expressed: thus, we do not say, Natus est Romæ urbis celebris: but either Romæ in celebri urbe, or in Româ celebri urbe; or in Româ celebri urbe, or sometimes Romæ celebri urbe. In like manner we usually say, Habitat in urbe Carthagine, with the preposition. We likewise find Habitat Carthagini, which is sometimes the termination of the ablative, when the question is made by ubi? Thus, At ego aio hoc fieri in Græciâ, et Carthagini. Plaut. Cas. Prol. 71. Fuere Sicyôni jamdiu Dionysia, the feasts of Bacchus were some time ago celebrated at Sicyon. Id. Cist. 1, 3, 8, cf. Ps. 4, 2, 38. Neglectum Anxuri præsidium. Liv. 5, 8. Convento Antonio Tiburi, having met with Anthony at Tibur. Cic. Att. 16. 3. Nulla Lacedæmoni tam est nobilis vidua, quæ non ad scenam eat mercède conducta. Nep. Præf. Tiburi genitus. Suet. Cal. 8. add. Id. Claud. 34.—Sometimes, though more rarely, names of towns in the first and second declension are found in the ablative; as, Rex Tyro decedit, for Tyri. Justin. 18, 4. Eadem die, quâ in Italiâ pugnatum est, et Corintho, et Athenis, et Lacedæmone nunciata est victoria. Id. 20, 3, f. Add. Vitruv. 3, 2, 7. Præf. 8, 3.

2. The Place WHITHER.

LI. When the place whither, or to which, is spoken of, the name of a town is put in the accusative; as,

Venit Romam,	He came to Rome.
Profectus est Athénas,	He went to Athens.

Obs. 1. We find the dative also used among the poets, but more seldom; as, Carthagini nuncios mittam. Horat.

Obs. 2. Names of towns are sometimes put in the accusative, after verbs of telling and giving, where motion to a place is implied; as, Romam erat nunciatum, The report was carried to Rome. Liv. Hæc nunciant domum Albani. Id. Messanam litteras dedit. Cic.

3. The Place WHENCE.

LII. When the place whence, or from which, or the place by or through which, is spoken of, the name of a town is put in the ablative; as,

Discessit Corintho,	He departed from Corinth.
Laodiceâ iter faciebat,	He went through Laodicea.

When motion by or through a place is signified, the preposition per is commonly used; as, Per Thebas iter fecit. Nep.

Domus and Rus.

LIII. Domus and rus are construed the same way as names of towns; as,

Manet domi,	He stays at home.
Domum revertitur,	He returns home.
Domo accessitus sum,	I am called from home.

Vivit rure, or more frequently ruri, He lives in the country.
Rediit rure, He is returned from the country.
Abiit rus, He is gone to the country.

Obs. 1. Humi, militiæ, and belli, are likewise construed in the genitive, as names of towns; thus,

Domus et militiæ, or belli, At home and abroad. Jacet humi, He lies on the ground.

Obs. 2. When Domus is joined with an adjective, we commonly use a preposition; as, In domo paternâ, not domi paternæ: So, Ad domum paternam: Ex domo paternâ. Unless when it is joined with these possessives, Meus, tuus, suus, noster, vester, regius, and aliénus; as, Domus mea vixit. Cic. Tusc. 5, 39, 4. Apud eum sic fui, tanquam domi meæ. Cic. Fam. 13, 69. Nonne mavis sine pericûlo domi tuæ esse, quàm cum pericûlo aliénæ. ib. 4, 7. Me domo meâ expulistis, Cn. Pompeium domum suam compulistis. Cis. Pis. 7. Alius alium domos suas involtant. Sall. Jug. 66. add. Liv. 2, 7. Aurum atque argentum, et alia, quæ prima ducuntur, domum regiam comportant. Sall. Jug. 76.—RUS and rure in the sing. joined with an adj. are found without a preposition; as, appropinquante vespère, equum conscendit, et rus urbânium contendit, sc. ad. Justin. 31, 2; quantumque apud lapidem suburbâno rure substiterat. Tac. Ann. 15, 60.—but never rura in the plural; as, ubi dilapsi domos, et in rura vestra eritis. Liv. 39, 16.

Obs. 3. When domus has another substantive in the genitive after it, the preposition is sometimes used, and sometimes not; as, Deprehensus est domi, domo, or in domo Cæsâris.

LIV. To names of countries, provinces, and all other places, except towns, the preposition is commonly added; as,

When the question is made by,

Ubi? Natus in Italiâ, in Latio, in urbe, &c.

Quo? Abiit in Italiam, in Lattum, in or ad urbem, &c.

Unde? Rediit ex Italiâ, e Latio, ex urbe, &c.

Qua? Transit per Italiam, per Lattum, per urbem, &c.

Obs. 1. A preposition is often added to names of towns; as, In Româ, for Romæ; ad Romam, ex Româ, &c.

Peto always governs the accusative as an active verb, without a preposition; as, Petivit Egyptum, He went to Egypt.

Obs. 2. Names of countries, provinces, &c. are sometimes construed without the preposition, like names of towns: as, Pompeius Cypri visus est. Cæsar. Creta jussit considere Apollo. Virg. Non Lybia, for in Lybiâ; non ante Tyro, for Tyri. Id. Æn. iv. 36. Venit Sardiniam. Cic. Romæ, Numidiaque facinora ejus membrat, for et in Numidiâ. Sall.

4. MEASURE AND DISTANCE.

LV. Measure or distance is put in the accusative, and sometimes in the ablative; as,

Murus est decem pedes altus,

The wall is ten feet high.

Urbs distat triginta millia, or tri- } The city is thirty miles distant.
ginta millibus passuum, }
Iter, or itinere unius diei, } One day's journey.

Obs. 1 The accusative or ablative of measure is put after adjectives and verbs of dimension; as, Longus, latus, crassus, profundus, and altus: Patet, porrigitur, eminet, &c. The names of measure are, pes, cubitus, ulna, passus, digitus, an inch; palmus, a span, an hand-breadth, &c. The accusative or ablative of distance is used only after verbs which express motion or distance; as, Eo, curro, absum, disto, &c. The accusative is governed by ad or per understood, and the ablative by a or ab.

Obs. 2. When we express the measure of more things than one, we commonly use the distributive number; as, Muri sunt denos pedes alti, and sometimes denam pedem, for denorum, in the genitive, ad mensuram being understood. But the genitive is only used to express the measure of things in the plural number.

Obs. 3. When we express the distance of a place where any thing is done, we commonly use the ablative; or the accusative with the preposition ad; as, Sex millibus passuum ab urbe conëdit, or ad sex millia passuum. Cæs. Ad quintum milliarium, or milliäre, conëdit. Cic. Ad quintum lapidem. Nep.

Obs. 4. The excess or difference of measure and distance is put in the ablative; as,

Hoc lignum exëdit illud digito. Toto vertice supra est. Virg. Britannię longitudo ejus latitudinem ducentis quadraginta milliariis superat.

5. TIME.

LVI. Time when is put in the ablative; as,

Venit herã tertid, He came at three o'clock.

¶ Time how long is put in the accusative or ablative, but oftener in the accusative; as,

Mansit paucos dies, He staid a few days.
Sex mensibus abfuit, He was away six months.

Obs. 1. When we speak of any precise time, it is put in the ablative; but when continuance of time is expressed, it is put for the most part in the accusative.

Obs. 2. All the circumstances of time are often expressed with a preposition; as, In presentid, or in presenti, acil. tempore; in or ad presens; Per decem annos; Surgunt de nocte; ad horam destinatã; Intra annum; Per idem tempus, ad Kalendas soluturos ait. Suet. The preposition ad or circa is sometimes suppressed, as in these expressions, hoc, illud, id, isthuc, atãtis, tempõris, hora, &c. for hãc atãte, hoc tempõre, &c. And ante or some other word: as, Annos natus unum & viginti, sc. ante. Siculi quotannis tributa confërunt, sc. tot annis, quot or quotquot sunt. Cic. Prope diem, sc. ad, soon; Oppidum paucis diebus, quibus eo ventum est, expugnatum, sc. post eos dies Cæs. Ante diem tertium Kalendas Maius accèpi tuas litéras, for die tertio ante. Cic. Qui dies futurus esset in ante diem octavum Kalendas Novembris. Id. Exante diem quintum Kal. Octob. Liv. Lacedæmonii septingentos jam annos amplius unis moribus et nunquam mutatis legibus vivunt, sc. quam per. Cic. We find Primum stipendium meruit annorum decem septemque, sc. Atticus; for septendécim annos natus, seventeen years old. Nép.

Obs. 3. The adverb ABHINC, which is commonly used with respect to past time, is joined with the accusative or ablative without a preposition; as, factum est abhinc bisennio, or biennium, It was done two years ago. So likewise are post and ante; as, Paucos post annos but here, se or id may be understood.

COMPOUND SENTENCES.

A compound sentence is that which has more than one nominative, or one finite verb.

A compound sentence is made up of two or more simple sentences or phrases, and is commonly called a Period.

The parts of which a compound sentence consists, are called Members or Clauses.

In every compound sentence there are either several subjects and one attribute, or several attributes and one subject, or both several subjects and several attributes; that is, there are either several nominatives applied to the same verb, or several verbs applied to the same nominative, or both.

Every verb marks a judgment or attribute, and every attribute must have a subject. There must, therefore, be in every sentence or period, as many propositions as there are verbs of a finite mode.

Sentences are compounded by means of relatives and conjunctions; as,

Happy is the man who loveth religion, and practiseth virtue.

THE CONSTRUCTION OF RELATIVES.

LVII. The relative Qui, Quæ, Quod, agrees with the antecedent in gender, number, and person; and is construed through all the cases, as the antecedent would be in its place; as,

Singular.		Plural.
Vir qui,	The man who.	Viri qui.
Femina quæ,	The woman who.	Feminae quæ.
Negotium quod,	The thing which.	Negotia quæ.
Ego qui scribo,	I who write.	Nos qui scribimus
Tu qui scribis,	Thou who writest.	Vos qui scribitis.
Vir qui scribit,	The man who writes.	Viri qui scribunt.
Mulier quæ scribit,	The woman who writes.	Mulieres quæ scribunt.

Singular.		Plural.
Animal quod currit,	The animal which runs.	Animalia quæ currunt.
Vir quem vidi,	The man whom I saw.	Viri quos vidi.
Mulier quam vidi,	The woman whom I saw.	Mulieres quas vidi.
Animal quod vidi,	The animal which I saw.	Animalia quæ vidi.
Vir cui parat,	The man whom he obeys.	Viri quibus parat.
Vir cui est similis,	The man to whom he is like.	Viri quibus est similis.
Vir a quo,	The man by whom.	Viri a quibus.
Mulier ad quam,	The woman to whom.	Mulieres ad quas.
Vir cujus opus est,	The man whose work it is.	Viri quorum opus est.
Vir quem misereor,	} The man whom I pity.
cujus misereor, or miseresco,
cujus me miseret,
cujus or cuja interest, &c. whose interest it is, &c.

If no nominative come between the relative and the verb, the relative will be the nominative to the verb.

But if a nominative come between the relative and the verb, the relative will be of that case, which the verb or noun following, or the preposition going before, usually govern.

Thus the construction of the relative requires an acquaintance with most of the foregoing rules of syntax, and may serve as an exercise on all of them.

Obs. 1. The relative must always have an antecedent expressed or understood, and therefore may be considered as an adjective placed between two cases of the same substantive, of which the one is always expressed, generally the former; as,

Vir qui (vir) legit; vir quem (virum) amo: Sometimes the latter; as, Quam quisque nôrit artem, in hâc (arte) se exercent. Cic. Eunuchum, quem dedisti nobis, quas turbas dedit. Ter. sc. Eunuchus. Sometimes both cases are expressed; as, Erant omnino duo itinera, quibus itineribus domo exte possent. Cæs. Sometimes, though more rarely, both cases are omitted; as, Sunt, quos genus hoc minimè juvat, for sunt homines, quos homines, &c. Hor.

Obs. 2. When the relative is placed between two substantives of different genders, it may agree in gender with either of them, though most commonly with the former; as,

Vultus quem dixere chaos. Ovid. Est locus in carcere, quod Tullianum appellatur. Sall. Animal, quem vocamus hominem. Cic. Cogito id quod res est. Ter. If a part of a sentence be the antecedent, the relative is always put in the neuter gender; as, Pompeius se affixit, quod mihi est summo dolore, scil. Pompeium se affligere. Cic. Sometimes the relative does not agree in gender with the antecedent, but with some synonymous word implied; as, Scelus qui, for scelestus. Ter. Abundantia eorum rerum, quæ mortales prima putant, scil. negotia. Sall. Vel virtus tua me vel vicinitas, quod ego in aliqua parte amicitiae puto, facit ut te moneam, scil. negotium. Ter. In omni Africa, qui agebant; for in omnibus Afris. Sallust. Jug. 89. Non diffidentia futuri, qua imperavisset, for quod. Ib. 100.

Obs. 3. When the relative comes after two words of different persons, it agrees with the first or second person rather than the third; as, Ego sum vir, qui facio, scarcely facit. In English it sometimes agrees with either; as, I am the man, who make, or maketh. But when once the person of the relative is fixed, it ought to be continued through the rest of the sentence; thus it is proper to say, "I am the man, who takes care of your interest," but if I add, "at the expense of my own," it would be improper. It ought either to be "his own," or "who take." In like manner, we may say, "I thank you who gave, who did love," &c. But it is improper to say, "I thank thee, who gave, who did love:" it should be, "who gavest, who didst love." In no part of English syntax are inaccuracies committed more frequently than in this. Beginners are particularly apt to fall into them, in turning Latin into English. The reason of it seems to be our applying thou or you, thy or your, promiscuously, to express the second person singular, whereas the Latins almost always expressed it by tu and tuus.

Obs. 4. The antecedent is often implied in a possessive adjective; as, Omnes laudare fortunas meas, qui habere gnatum tali ingenio præditum. Ter. Sometimes the antecedent must be drawn from the sense of the foregoing words; as, Carne pluit, quem imbrem aves rapuisse feruntur; i. e. pluit imbrem carne, quem imbrem, &c. Liv. Si tempus est ullum jure hominis necandi, que multa sunt, scil. tempora. Cic.

Obs. 5. The relative is sometimes entirely omitted; as, Urbs antiqua fuit: Tyrî tenuere colônî, scil. quam or eam. Virg. Or, if once expressed, is afterwards omitted, so that it must be supplied in a different case; as, Bocchus cum peditibus, quos filius ejus adduxerat, neque in priore pugna adfuerant, Românos invadunt: for quique in priore pugna non adfuerant. Sall. In English the relative is often omitted, where in Latin it must be expressed; as, The letter I wrote, for the letter which I wrote; The man I love, to wit, whom. But this omission of the relative is generally improper, particularly in serious discourse.

Obs. 6. The case of the relative sometimes seems to depend on that of the antecedent; as, Cum aliquid agas eorum, quorum consulisti, for que consulisti agere, or quorum aliquid agere consulisti. Cic. Restitue in quem me accepisti locum, for in locum, in quo, Ter. And. iv. 1. 58. But such examples rarely occur.

Obs. 7. The adjective pronouns, ille, ipse, iste, hic, is, and idem, in their construction, resemble that of the relative qui; as, Liber ejus, His or her book; Vita eorum, Their life, when applied to men; Vita earum, Their life, when applied to women. By the improper use of these pronouns in English, the meaning of sentences is often rendered obscure.

Obs. 8. The interrogative or indefinite adjectives, qualis, quantus, quotus, &c. are also sometimes construed like relatives; as, Facies est, qualem decet esse sororum. Ovid. But these have commonly other adjectives either expressed or understood, which answer to them; as, Tanta est multitudo, quantum urbs capere potest: and are often applied to different substantives; as, Quales sunt cives, talis est civitas. Cic.

Obs. 9. The relative who in English is applied only to persons, and which to things and irrational animals; but formerly which was likewise applied to persons; as, Our Father, which art in heaven: and whose, the genitive of who, is also used sometimes, though perhaps improperly, for of which. That is used indifferently for persons and things. What, when not joined with a substantive, is only applied to things, and includes both the antecedent and the relative, being the same with that which, or the thing which; as, That is what he wanted; that is, the thing which he wanted.

Obs. 10. The Latin relative often cannot be translated literally into English, on account of the different idioms of the two languages; as, Quod cum ita esset, When that was so; not, Which when it was so, because then there would be two nominatives to the verb was, which is improper. Sometimes the accusative of the relative in Latin must be rendered by the nominative in English; as, Quem dicunt me esse? Who do they say that I am? not whom. Quem dicunt adventare? Who do they say is coming?

Obs. 11. As the relative is always connected with a different verb from the antecedent, it is usually construed with the subjunctive mode, unless when the meaning of the verb is expressed positively; as, Audire cupio, quæ legēris, I want to hear, what you have read; that is, what perhaps or probably you may have read; Audire cupio, quæ legisti, I want to hear, what you (actually or in fact) have read.

To the construction of the Relative may be subjoined that of the ANSWER TO A QUESTION.

The answer is commonly put in the same case with the question; as,

Quæ vocare? Geta, sc. vocor. Quid quæris? Librum, sc. quæro. Quotid horâ venisti? Sextâ. Sometimes the construction is varied; as, Cujus est liber? Meus, not mei. Quanti emptus est? Decem assibus. Damnatuse es furti? Imo alio crimine. Often the answer is made by other parts of speech than nouns; as, Quid agitur? Statur, sc. a me, a nobis. Quis fecit? Nescio: Aiunt Petrum fecisse. Quomodo vales? Bene, malè. Scripsistine? Scripsi, ita, etiam, immo, &c. An vidisti? Non vidi, non, minime, &c. Chærea tuam vestem detrazit tibi? Factum. Et cæ est indutus? Factum. Ter. Most of the Rules of Syntax may thus be exemplified in the form of questions and answers.

THE CONSTRUCTION OF CONJUNCTIONS.

LVIII. The conjunctions, et, ac, atque, nec, neque, aut, vel, and some others, couple similar cases and modes; as,

*Honora patrem et matrem,
Nec legat nec scribit,*

Honour father and mother.
He neither reads nor writes.

Obs. 1. To this rule belong particularly the copulative and disjunctive conjunctions; as likewise, quàm, nisi, præter- quam, an; and also adverbs of likeness; as, ceu, tanquam, quasi, ut, &c. as,

Nullum præmium a vobis postulo, præterquam hujus diæ memoriam. Cic. Gloria virtutem tanquam umbra sequitur. Id.

Obs. 2. These conjunctions properly connect the different members of a sentence together, and are hardly ever applied to single words, unless when some other word is understood. Hence, if the construction of the sentence be varied, different cases and modes may be coupled together; as,

Intèrest meæ et reipublicæ; Constitit asse et pluris; Sive es Romæ, sive in Epïro; Decius cum se devovèret, et in mediam aciem irruëbat. Cic. Vir magni ingenii summæque industriâ; Neque per vim, neque insidiis. Sall. Tecum habita, & nôris, quàm sit tibi curta supellex. Pers.

Obs. 3. When et, aut, vel, sive, or nec, are joined to different members of the same sentence, without connecting it particularly to any former sentence, the first et, is rendered in English by both or likewise; aut or vel, by either; the first sive, by whether; and the first nec, by neither; as,

Et legit, et scribit; so, tum legit, tum scribit; or cum legit, tum scribit, He both reads and writes; Sive legit, sive scribit, Whether he reads or writes; Jacere quæ vera, quæ falsa; Increpare quæ consules ipsos, quæ exercitum, to upbraid both the consuls and the army. Liv.

LIX. Two or more substantives singular coupled by a conjunction, (as, et, ac, atque, &c.) have an adjective, verb, or relative plural; as,

Petrus et Joannes, qui sunt docti, Peter and John, who are learned.

Obs. 1. If the substantives be of different persons, the verb plural must agree with the first person rather than the second, and with the second rather than the third; as, Si tu et Tullia valëtis, ego et Cicëro valëmus, If you and Tullia are well, I and Cicero are well. Cic. In English the person speaking usually puts himself last; thus, You and I read; Cicero and I are well; but in Latin the person who speaks is generally put first; thus, Ego et tu legimus.

Obs. 2. If the substantives are of different genders, the adjective or relative plural must agree with the masculine rather than the feminine or neuter: as, Pater et mater, qui sunt mortui; but this is only applicable to beings which may have life. The person is sometimes implied; as, Athenarum et Cratippi, ad quos, &c. Propter summam doctôris auctoritatem et urbis, quorum alter, &c. Cic. Where Athênæ & urbs are put for the learned men of Athens. So in substantives ; as, Ad Ptolemaeum Cleopatramque reges legāti missi, i. e. the king and queen. Liv.

Obs. 3. If the substantives signify things without life, the adjective or relative plural must be put in the neuter gender ; as, Divitiæ, decus, gloria, in oculis sita sunt. Sall.

The same holds, if any of the substantives signify a thing without life ; because when we apply a quality or join an adjective to several substantives of different genders, we must reduce the substantives to some certain class, under which they may all be comprehended, that is, to what is called their Genus. Now the Genus or class, which comprehends under it both persons and things, is that of substances or beings in general, which are neither masculine nor feminine. To express this, the Latin grammarians use the word Negotia.

Obs. 4. The adjective or verb frequently agrees with the nearest substantive or nominative, and is understood to the rest ; as,

Et ego et Cicero meus flagitabit. Cic. Sociis et regè recepto. Virg. Et ego in culpâ sum, et tu, Both I am in the fault, and you ; or, Et ego et tu es in culpâ, Both I and you are in the fault. Nihil hic nisi carmina, desunt ; or nihil hic deest nisi carmina. Omnia, quibus turbâri solita erat civitas, domi discordia, foris bellum exortum ; Duo millia et quadringenti casi. Liv. This construction is most usual, when the different substantives resemble one another in sense ; as, Mens, ratio, et consilium, in senibus est, Understanding, reason, and prudence is in old men. Quibus ipse metus ante Larem proprium vescor, for vescimur. Horat.

Obs. 5. The plural is sometimes used after the preposition cum put for et ; as,

Remo cum fratre Quirinus jura dabunt. Virg. The conjunction is frequently understood ; as, Dum ætas, metus, magister prohibebant. Ter. Frons, oculi, vultus sæpe mentiuntur. Cic.

The different examples comprehended under this rule are commonly referred to the figure Syllepsis.

LX. The conjunctions, ut, quo, licet, ne, utinam, and dummodo, are for the most part joined to the subjunctive mode ; as,

Lego ut discam,	I read that I may learn.
Utinam sapires,	I wish you were wise.

Obs. 1. All interrogatives, when placed indefinitely, have after them the subjunctive mode.

Whether they be adjectives, as, Quantus, qualis, quotus, quotuplex, uter ; Pronouns, as, quis & cujus : Adverbs, as, Ubi, quo, unde, qua, quorsum, quamdiu, quamdiudum, quampridem, quoties, cur, quare, quamobrem, dum, utrum, quomodo, qui, ut, quàm, quantopere ; or Conjunctions, as, ne, an, anne, annon : Thus, Quis est ? Who is it ? Nescio quis sit ; I do not know whq it is. An venturus est ? Nescio, dubito, an venturus sit. Vides ut alta stet nive candidum Soracte? Hor. But these words are sometimes joined with the indicative; as, Scio quid ego. Plaut. Haud scio, an amat. Ter. Vide avaritia quid facit. Id. Vides quàm turpe est. Cic.

¶ In like manner the relative QUI in a continued discourse; as, Nihil est quod Deus efficere non possit. Quis est, qui utilia fugiat? Cic. Or when joined with QUIPPE or УТОПЕ; Neque Antonius procul aberrat, ut pôte qui sequeretur, &c. Sall. But these are sometimes, although more rarely, joined with the indicative. So, est qui, sunt qui, est quando or ubi, &c. are joined with the indicative or subjunctive.

NOTE. Haud scio an recte dixerim, is the same with dico, affirmo. Cic.

Obs. 2. When any thing doubtful or contingent is signified, conjunctions and indefinites are usually construed with the subjunctive; but when a more absolute or determinate sense is expressed, with the indicative mode; as, If he is to do it; Although he was rich, &c.

Obs. 3. ETSI, TAMETSI, and TAMENETSI, QUANQUAM, in the beginning of a sentence, have the indicative; but elsewhere they also take the subjunctive; ETIAMSI and QUAMVIS commonly have the subjunctive, and UT, although, always has it; as, Ut quæras, non reperis. Cic. QUONIAM, QUANDO, QUANDOQUIDEM, are usually construed with the indicative; SI, SIN, NE, NISI, SIQUIDEM, QUOD, and QUIA, sometimes with the indicative, and sometimes with the subjunctive. DUM, for dummodo, provided, has always the subjunctive; as, Odèrint dum metuant. Cic. And QUIPPE, for nam, always the indicative; as, Quippe vector fatis.

Obs. 4. Some conjunctions have their correspondent conjunctions belonging to them; so that, in the following member of the sentence, the latter answers to the former: thus, when etsi, tametsi, or quamvis, although, are used in the former member of a sentence, tamen, yet or nevertheless, generally answers to them in the latter. In like manner, Tam,—quam; Adeo or ita,—ut: in English, As,—as, or so; as, Etsi sit liberalis, tamen non est profusus, Although he be liberal, yet he is not profuse. So priùs or antè,—quàm. In some of these, however, we find the latter conjunction sometimes omitted, particularly in English.

Obs. 5. The conjunction ut is elegantly omitted after these verbs, Volo, nolo, malo, rogo, precor, censeo, suadeo, licet, oportet, necesse est, and the like; and likewise after these imperatives, Sine, fac, or facito; as, Ducas volo hodie uxorem; Nolo mentiàre; Fac cogites. Ter. In like manner ne is commonly omitted after cave; as, Cave facias. Cic. Post is also sometimes understood; thus, Die octavo, quam creatus erat. Liv. 4. 47, scil. post. And so in English, See you do it; I beg you would come to me, scil. that.

Obs. 6. Ut and Quòd are thus distinguished: ut denotes the final cause, and is commonly used with regard to something future; quod marks the efficient or impulsive cause, and is generally used concerning the event or thing done; as, Lego ut discam, I read that I may learn; Gaudeo quod legi, I am glad that or because I have read. Ut is likewise used after these intensive words, as they are called, Adeo, ita, sic, tam, talis, tantus, tot, &c.

Obs. 7. After the verbs timeo, vereor, and the like, ut is taken in a negative sense for ne non, and ne in an affirmative sense; as,

Timeo ne faciat, I fear he will do it: Timeo ut faciat, I fear he will not do it. Id paves ne ducas tu illam, tu autem ut ducas. Ter. Ut sis vitâlis, metuo. Hor. Timeo ut frater vivat, will not live;—ne frater moriatur, will die. But in some few examples they seem to have a contrary meaning.

THE CONSTRUCTION OF COMPARATIVES.

LXI. The comparative degree governs the ablative, (when it can be translated by than); as,

Dulcior melle, sweeter than honey. Præstantior auro, better than gold.

Obs. 1. The positive with the adverb magis, likewise governs the ablative; as, Magis dilecta luce. Virg.

The ablative is here governed by the preposition præ understood, which is sometimes expressed; as, Fortior præ cæteris. We find the comparative also construed with other prepositions; as, immanior ante omnes. Virg.

Obs. 2. The comparative degree may likewise be construed with the conjunction quàm, and then, instead of the ablative, the noun is to be put in whatever case the sense requires; as,

Dulcior quàm mel, scil. est. Amo te magis quàm illum, I love you more than him, that is, quàm amo illum, than I love him. Amo te magis quàm ille, I love you more than he, i. e. quàm ille amat, than he loves. Plus datur a me quàm illo, sc. ab.

Obs. 3. The conjunction quàm is often elegantly suppressed after amplius and plus; as, Vulnerantur amplius sexcenti. scil. quàm. Cæs. Plus quingentos colaphos infrégit mihi, He has laid on me more than five hundred blows. Ter. Castra ab urbe haud plus quingue millia passuum locant, sc. quàm. Liv.

Quàm is sometimes elegantly placed between two comparatives; as, Triumphus clarior quàm gratior. Liv. Or the prep. pro is added; as, Prælium atrocius, quàm pro número pugnantium editur. Liv.

The comparative is sometimes joined with these ablatives, opiniône, spe, æquo, justo, dicto; as,

Credibili opinione major. Cic. Credibili fortior. Ovid, Fast. iii. 618. Gravius equo. Sall. Dicto citius. Virg. Majora credibili tullmus. Liv. They are often understood; as, Liberius vivebat, sc. justo, too freely. Nepos. 2. 1.

Nihil is sometimes elegantly used for nemo or nulli; as,

Nihil vidi quidquam latius, for neminem. Ter. Crasso nihil perfectius. Cic. Asperius nihil est humili, cum surgit in altum. So, quid nobis laboriosius, for quis, &c. Cic. We say, inferior patre nulla re, or quam pater. The comparative is sometimes repeated, or joined with an adverb; as, Magis magisque, plus plusque, minus minusque, carior cariorque; Quotidie plus, indies magis, semper candidior candidiorque, &c.

Obs. 4. The relation of equality or sameness is likewise expressed by conjunctions; as, Est tam doctus quam ego, He is as learned as I. Animus erga te idem est ac fuit. Ac and atque are sometimes, though more rarely, used after comparatives; as, Nihil est magis verum atque hoc. Ter.

Obs. 5. The excess or defect of measure is put in the ablative after comparatives; and the sign in English is by, expressed or understood; (or more shortly, the difference of measure is put in the ablative;) as,

Est decem digitis altior quam frater, He is ten inches taller than his brother, or by ten inches. Altèro tanto major est fratre, i. e. duplo major, He is as big again as his brother, or twice as big. Sesquipède minor, a foot and a half less; Altèro tanto, aut sesquimajor, as big again, or a half bigger. Cic. Ter tanto pejor est; Bis tanto amici sunt inter se, quam prius. Plant. Quingies tanto amplius, quam quantum licitum sit, civitatibus imperavit, five times more. Cic. To this may be added many other ablatives, which are joined with the comparative, to increase its force; as, Tanto, quanto, quo, eo, hoc, multo, paulo, nimio, &c. thus, Quo plus habent, eo plus cupiunt, The more they have, the more they desire. Quanto melior, tanto felicior, The better, the happier. Quoque minor spes est, hoc magis ille cupit. Ovid, Fast. ii. 766. We frequently find multo, tanto, quanto, also joined with superlatives; Multo pulcherrimam eam habetimus. Sall. Multoque id maximum fuit. Liv.

THE ABLATIVE ABSOLUTE.

LXII. A Substantive and a participle are put in the ablative, when their case depends on no other word; as,

Sole oriente, fugiunt tenebræ,	} The sun rising, or while the sun riseth, darkness flies away.
Opère peracto, ludemus,

So, Dominante libidine, temperantiæ nullus est locus; Nihil amicitia præstabilius est, exceptâ virtute; Oppressâ libertate patriæ, nihil est quod speremus amplius; Nobilium vitâ victaque mutâto, mores mutâri civitatum puto. Cic. Parumper silentium et quies fuit, nec Etruscis, nisi cogentur, pugnam inituris, et dictatore arcem Romanam respectante, ac ab auguribus, simul aves ritè admisissent, ex composito tolleretur signum.

Liv. Bellæ, depositis clypeo paulisper et hastâ, Mars ades. Ovid, Fast. iii. 1.

Obs. 1. This ablative is called Absolute, because it does not depend upon any other word in the sentence.

For if the substantive with which the participle is joined, be either the nominative to some following verb, or be governed by any word going before, then this rule does not take place; the ablative absolute is never used, unless when different persons or things are spoken of; as, Milites, hostibus victis, redierunt. The soldiers, having conquered the enemy, returned. Hostibus victis, may be rendered in English several different ways, according to the meaning of the sentence with which it is joined; thus, 1. The enemy conquered, or being conquered: 2. When or after the enemy is or was conquered: 3. By conquering the enemy: 4. Upon the defeat of the enemy, &c.

Obs. 2. The perfect participles of deponent verbs are not used in the ablative absolute; as, Cicero locutus hæc consedit, never, his locutis. The participles of common verbs may either agree in case with the substantive before them, like the participles of deponent verbs, or may be put in the ablative absolute, like the participles of passive verbs; as, Romani adepti libertatem floruerunt; or Romani, libertate adeptâ, floruerunt. But as the participles of common verbs are seldom taken in a passive sense, we therefore rarely find them used in the ablative absolute.

Obs. 3. The participle existente or existentibus is frequently understood; as, Cæsare duce, scil. existente. His consulibus, scil. existentibus. Invitâ Minervâ, sc. existente, against the grain; Crassâ Minervâ, without learning. Hor. Magistrâ ac duce naturâ; vivis fratribus; te hortatore; Cæsare impulsore, &c. Sometimes the substantive must be supplied; as, Nondum comperto, quam regionem hostes petissent, i. e. cum nondum compertum esset. Liv. Tum demum palam facto, sc. negotio. Id. Excepto quod non simul esses, cætera letus. Hor. Parto quod avêbas. Id. In such examples negotio must be understood, or the rest of the sentence considered as the substantive, which perhaps is more proper. Thus we find a verb supply the place of a substantive; as, Vale dicto, having said farewell. Ovid.

Obs. 4. We sometimes find a substantive plural joined with a participle singular; as, Nobis presente. Plaut. Absente nobis. Ter. We also find the ablative absolute, when it refers to the same person with the nominative to the verb; as, me duce, ad hunc voti finem, me milite, veni. Ovid. Amor. ii. 12. 12. Latos fecit se consule fastos. Lucan. v. 384. Populo spectante fieri credam, quicquid me conscio faciam. Senec. de Vit. Beat. c. 20. But examples of this construction rarely occur.

Obs. 5. The ablative called absolute is governed by some preposition understood; as, a, ab, cum, sub, or in. We find the preposition sometimes expressed; as, Cum diis juvantibus. Liv. The nominative likewise seems sometimes to be used absolutely; as, Perniciôsâ libidinè paulisper usus, infirmitas naturæ accusâtur. Sall. Jug. 1.

Obs. 6. The ablative absolute may be rendered several different ways; thus, Superbo regnante, is the same with cum, dum, or quando Superbus regnâbat. Opère peracto, is the same with Post opus peractum, or Cum opus est peractum. The present participle, when used in the ablative absolute, commonly ends in e.

Obs. 7. When a substantive is joined with a participle, in English, independently on the rest of the sentence, it is expressed in the nominative; as, Illo descendente, He descending. But this manner of speech is seldom used except in poetry.

II. FIGURES OF SYNTAX.

A Figure is a manner of speaking different from the ordinary and plain way, used for the sake of beauty or force.

The figures of Syntax or Construction may be reduced to these three, Ellipsis, Pleonasm, and Hyperbäton.

The two first respect the constituent part of a sentence; the last respects only the arrangement of the words.

1. ELLIPSIS.

ELLIPSIS is the want of one or more words to complete the sense; as, Aiunt, ferunt, dicunt, perhábent, scil. homínes. Abérant bidui, sc. iter or itinére. Quíd multa? sc. dicam.

When a conjunction is to be supplied, the figure is called ASYNDĒTON; as, Deus optímus maximus, sc. et.

To this figure may be reduced most of those irregularities in Syntax, as they are called, which are variously classed by grammarians, under the names of ENALLÄGE, i. e. the changing of words and their accidents, or the putting of one word for another; ANTIPTÖSIS, i. e. the putting of one case for another; HELLĒNISM or GRÆCISM, i. e. imitating the construction of the Greeks; SYNĒSIS, i. e. referring the construction, not to the grammatical gender or number of the word, but to the sense, &c.; thus, Samnitium duo millia cæsi, is, Duo millia (homínium) Samnitium (fuérunt homínes) cæsi. Liv. So Servitia immemöres.

When a writer frequently uses the Ellipsis, his style is said to be elliptical or concise.

2. PLEONASM.

PLEÖNASM is the addition of a word more than is absolutely necessary to express the sense; as, Video oculis, I see with my eyes. Sic ore locüta est, Thus she spoke with her mouth. Virg.

When a conjunction is used apparently redundant, the figure is called POLYSYNDĒTON; as, Unà Eurusque Notusque ruunt. Virg.

When that which is in reality one, is so expressed as if there were two, the figure is called HENDIÄDYS; as, Patëris libämus et auro, for aureis patëris. Virg.

When several words are used to express one thing, the figure is called PERIPHRAÏSIS; as, Urbs Troja, for Troja. Virg. Res voluptätum, for voluptätes. Plaut.

3. HYPERBATON.

HYPERBATON is the transgression of that order or arrangement of words, which is commonly used in any language. It is chiefly to be met with among the poets. The various sorts into which it is divided, are Anaströphe, Hystëron protëron, Hypalläge, Synchësis, Tmesis, and Parenthësis.

1. ANASTRÖPHE is an inversion of words, or the placing of that word last which should be first; as, Italian contra; His accensa super; Spemque metumque inter dubii; for contra Italian, super his, inter spem, &c. Virg. Terram sol facit are, for are-facit. Lucret.

2. HYSTËRON PROTËRON is the placing in the former part of the sentence that which, according to the sense, should be in the latter; as, Valet atque vivit, for vivit atque valet. Ter.

3. HYPALLÄGE is an exchanging of cases; as, Dare classibus austros, for dare classes austris. Virg.

4. SYNCHËSIS is a confused and intricate arrangement of words; as, Saxa vocant Itali mediis qua in fluctibus aras; for Qua saxa in mediis fluctibus Itali vocant aras. Virg. This occurs particularly in violent passion; as, Per tibi ego hunc juro fortem castumque cruorem. Ovid. Fast. ii. 841.

5. TMESIS is the division of a compound word, and the interposing of other words betwixt its parts; as, Septem subjecta triöni gens, for Septentriöni. Virg. Qua meo cumque animo libitum est facere, for quacunque. Ter.

6. PARENTHËSIS is the inserting of a member into the body of a sentence, which is neither necessary to the sense, nor at all affects the construction; as, Tityre, dum redeo, (brevis est via,) pasce capellas. Virg.

III. ANALYSIS AND TRANSLATION.

The difficulty of translating either from English into Latin, or from Latin into English, arises in a great measure from the different arrangement of words, which takes place in the two languages.

In Latin the various terminations of nouns, and the inflection of adjectives and verbs, point out the relation of one word to another, in whatever order they are placed. But in English the agreement and government of words can only be determined from the particular part of the sentence in which they stand. Thus in Latin, we can either say, Alexander vicit Da- vicit, or Darium vicit Alexander, or Alexander Darium vicit, or Darium Alexander vicit; and in each instance the sense is equally obvious: but in English we can only say, Alexander conquered Darius. This variety of arrangement in Latin gives it a great advantage over the English, not only in point of energy and vivacity of expression, but also in point of harmony. We sometimes, indeed, for the sake of variety and force, imitate in English the inversion of words which takes place in Latin; as, Him the Eternal hurl'd. Milton. Whom ye ignorantly worship, him declare I unto you. But this is chiefly to be used in poetry.

With regard to the proper order of words to be observed in translating from English into Latin, the only certain rule which can be given, is to imitate the CLASSICS.

The order of words in sentences is said to be either simple or artificial; or, as it is otherwise expressed, either natural or oratorical.

The Simple or Natural order is, when the words of a sentence are placed one after another, according to the natural order of syntax.

Artificial or Oratorical order is, when words are so arranged, as to render them most striking, or most agreeable to the ear.

All Latin writers use an arrangement of words, which appears to us more or less artificial, because different from our own, although to them it was as natural as ours is to us. In order, therefore, to render any Latin author into English, we must first reduce the words in Latin to the order of English, which is called the Analysis, or Resolution of sentences. It is only practice that can teach one to do this with readiness. However, to a beginner, the observation of the following rule may be of advantage.

Take first the words which serve to introduce the sentence, or show its dependence on what went before; next the nominative, together with the words which it agrees with or governs; then, the verb and adverbs joined with it; and lastly, the cases which the verb governs, together with the circumstances subjoined, to the end of the sentence; supplying through the whole the words which are understood.

If the sentence is compound, it must be resolved into the several sentences of which it is made up; as,

Valo igitur, mi Cicero, tibi que persuade esse te quidem mihi carissimum; sed multo fore caridrem, si talibus monumentis præceptisque lætaberis. Cic. Off. lib. 3. fin.

Farewell then, my Cicero, and assure yourself that you are indeed very dear to me; but shall be much dearer, if you shall take delight in such writings and instructions.

This compound sentence may be resolved into these five simple sentences; 1. Igitur, mi (fili) Cicero, (tu) vale: 2. et (tu) persuade tibi (ipsi) te esse quidem (filium) carissimum mihi: 3. sed (tu) persuade tibi ipsi te fore (filium) caridrem (mihi in) multo (negotio): 4. si (tu) letabere talibus monumentis: 5. et (si tu letabere talibus) praeceptis.

1. Fare (you) well then, my (son) Cicero: 2. and assure (you) yourself that you are indeed (a son) very dear to me: 3. but (assure you yourself that you) shall be (a son) much dearer (to me): 4. if you shall take delight in such writings: 5. and (if you shall take delight in such) instructions.

It may not be improper here to exemplify Analogical Analysis, as it is called, or the analysis of words, from the foregoing sentence, Vale igitur, &c. thus,

Vale, scil. tu; Fare (thou) well: second person singular of the imperative mode, active voice, from the neuter verb, valeo, valere, valui, valitum, to be in health, of the second conjugation, not used in the passive. Vale agrees in the second person singular with the nominative tu, by the third rule of syntax.

Igitur, then, therefore; a conjunction, importing some inference drawn from what went before.

Mi, voc. sing. masc. of the adjective pronoun, meus, -a, -um, my; derived from the substantive pronoun Ego, agreeing with Cicero, by Rule 2. Cicero, voc. sing. from the nominative Cicero, -onis, a proper noun of the third declension.

Et, and; a copulative conjunction, which connects the verb persuade with the verb vale, by Rule 59. We turn que into et, because que never stands by itself.

Persuade, scil. tu, persuade thou; second person singular of the imperative active, from the verb persua-deo, -dere, -si, -sum, to persuade; compounded of the preposition per, and sua-deo, -si, -sum, to advise: used impersonally in the passive; thus, Persuadetur mihi, I am persuaded; seldom or never Ego persuadeor. We say however, in the third person, Hoc persuadetur mihi, I am persuaded of this.

Tibi, dat. sing. of the personal pronoun tu, thou; governed by persuade, according to Rule 17. Te, accusative sing. of tu, put before esse, according to Rule 4.

Esse, present of infinitive, from the substantive verb sum, esse, fui, to be.

Quidem, indeed; an adverb, joined with carissimum or esse.

Carissimum, accusative sing. masc. from carissimus, -a, -um, very dear, dearest, superlative degree of the adjective carus, -a, -um, dear: Comparative degree, carior, carius, dearer, more dear; agreeing with te or filium understood, by Rule 2. and put in the accusative by Rule 5.

Mihi, to me; dat. sing. of the substantive pronoun Ego, I; governed by carissimum, by Rule 12.

Sed, but; an adversative conjunction, joining esse and fore.

Fore, the same with esse futurum, to be, or to be about to be, infinitive of the defective verb forem, -res, -ret, &c. governed in the same manner with the foregoing esse, thus, te fore, Rule 4. or thus, esse sed fore. See Rule 59.

Multo, scil. negotio, ablat. sing. neut. of the adjective multus, -a, -um, much, put in the ablative, according to Observation 5. Rule 61. But multo here may be taken adverbially in the same manner with much in English.

Curiorem, accus. sing. masc. from curior, -us, the comparative of curus, as before: agreeing with te or filium understood. Rule 2, or Rule 5.

Si, if; a conditional conjunction, joined either with the indicative mode, or with the subjunctive, according to the sense, but oftener with the latter. See Rule 60. Obs. 2.

Letabere, thou shalt rejoice; second person singular of the future of the indicative, from the deponent verb letor, letatus, letari, to rejoice: Future, letabor, -aberis or -abere, -abitur, &c.

Talibus, ablat. plur. neut. of the adjective talis, tale, such; agreeing with monumentis, the ablat. plur. of the substantive noun monumentum, -ti, neut. a monument or writing; of the second declension; derived from moneo, -ere, -ui, -atum, to admonish; here put in the ablative, according to Rule 49. Et, a copulative conjunction, as before.

Præceptis, a substantive noun in the ablative plural, from the nominative præceptum, -ti, neut. a precept, an instruction; derived from præcipio, -cipere, -cēpi, -ceptum, to instruct, to order, compounded of the preposition præ, before, and the verb capio, capere, cēpi, captum, to take. The ā of the simple is changed into i short; thus præcipio, præcipis, &c.

The learner may in like manner be taught to analyze the words in English, and, in doing so, to mark the different idioms of the two languages.

To this may be subjoined a Praxis, or Exercise, on all the different parts of grammar, particularly with regard to the inflexion of nouns and verbs, in the form of questions, such as these, Of Cicero? Cicerōnis. With Cicero? Cicerōne. A dear son? Carus filius. Of a dear son? Cari filii. O my dear son? Mi or meus care fili. Of dearer sons? Cariōrum filiōrum, &c.

Of thee? or of you? Tui. With thee or you? Te. Of you? Vestrūm or vestri. With you? Vobis.

They shall persuade? Persuadēbunt. I can persuade? Persuadeam, or much more frequently possum persuadere. They are persuaded? Persuadētur, or persuadum est illis; according to the time expressed. He is to persuade? Est persuasurus. He will be persuaded? Persuadēbitur, or persuāsum erit illi. He cannot be persuaded? Non potest persuadēri illi. I know that he cannot be persuaded? Scio non posse persuadēri illi. That he will be persuaded? Ei persuāsum iri, &c.

When a learner first begins to translate from the Latin, he should keep as strictly to the literal meaning of the words as the different idioms of the two languages will permit. But after he has made farther progress, something more will be requisite. He should then be accustomed, as much as possible, to transfuse the beauties of an author from the one language into the other. For this purpose it will be necessary that he be acquainted, not only with the idioms of the two languages, but also with the different kinds of style adapted to different sorts of composition, and to different subjects; together with the various turns of thought and expression which writers employ, or what are called the figures of words and of thought; or the Figures of Rhetoric.

IV. DIFFERENT KINDS OF STYLE.

The kinds of Style (genēra dicendī) are commonly reckoned three; the low, (humīle, submissum, tenue;) the middle, (mediū, temperātum, ornātum, florīdum;) and the sublime, (sublime, grande.)

But besides these, there are various other characters of style; as, the diffuse and concise; the feeble and nervous; the simple and affected, &c.

There are different kinds of style adapted to different subjects, and to different kinds of composition; the style of the Pulpit, of the Bar, and of Popular Assemblies; the style of History, and of its various branches, Annals, Memoirs or Commentaries, and Lives; the style of Philosophy, of Dialogue or Colloquial discourse, of Epistles, and Romance, &c.

There is also a style peculiar to certain writers, called their Manner; as, the style of Cicero, of Livy, of Sallust, &c.

But what deserves particular attention is, the difference between the style of poetry and of prose. As the poets in a manner paint what they describe, they employ various epithets, repetitions, and turns of expression, which are not admitted in prose.

The first virtue of style (virtus oratiōnis) is perspicuity, or that it be easily understood. This requires, in the choice of the words, 1. Purity, in opposition to barbarous, obsolete, or new-coined words, and to errors in Syntax: 2. Propriety, or the selection of the best expressions, in opposition to vulgarisms or low expressions: 3. Precision, in opposition to superfluity of words, or a loose style.

The things chiefly to be attended to in the structure of a sentence, or in the disposition of its parts, are, 1. Clearness, in opposition to ambiguity and obscurity: 2. Unity and Strength, in opposition to an unconnected, intricate, and feeble sentence: 3. Harmony, or a musical arrangement, in opposition to harshness of sound.

The most common defects of style (vitia oratiōnis) are distinguished by various names:

1. A BARBARISM is the using of a foreign or strange word; as, croftus, for agellus; rigorōsus, for rigidus or sevērus; alterāre, for mutāre, &c. Or, a transgression of the rules of Orthography, Etymology, or Prosody ; as, cārus, for curus ; stavi, for steti ; tibicen, for tibicen.

2. A SOLĒCISM is a transgression of the rules of Syntax ; as, Dicit libros lectos iri, for lectum iri : We was walking, for we were. A barbarism may consist in one word, but a solecism requires several words.

3. An IDIŌTISM is the using of a manner of expression peculiar to one language in another ; as an Anglicism in Latin, thus, I am to write, Ego sum scribere, for ego sum scripturus ; It is I, Est ego, for Ego sum : Or a Latinism in English, thus, Est sapientior me, He is wiser than me ; for than I ; Quem dicunt me esse ? Whom do they say that I am ? for who, &c.

4. TAUTOLŌGY is a useless repetition of the same words, or of the same sense in different words.

5. BOMBAST is the using of high sounding words without meaning, or upon a trifling occasion.

6. AMPHIBOLŌGY is when, by the ambiguity of the construction, the meaning may be taken in two different senses ; as in the answer of the oracle to Pyrrhus, Aio te, Æacide, Romānos vincere posse. But the English is not so liable to this as the Latin.

V. FIGURES OF RHETORIC.

Certain modes of speech are termed Figurative, because they convey our meaning under a borrowed form, or in a particular dress.

Figures (figūræ or schemāta) are of two kinds ; figures of words (figūræ verbōrum,) and figures of thought (figūræ sentiārum.) The former are properly called Tropes ; and if the word be changed, the figure is lost.

1. TROPEs, OR FIGURES OF WORDS.

A Trope (conversio) is an elegant turning of a word from its proper signification.

Tropes take their rise partly from the barrenness of language, but more from the influence of the imagination and passions. They are founded on the relation which one object bears to another, chiefly that of resemblance or similitude.

The principal tropes are the Metāphor, Metonymy, Synecdōche, and Irōny.

1. METĀPHOR (translatio) is when a word is transferred from that to which it properly belongs, to express something to which it is only applied from similitude or resemblance; as, a hard heart; a soft temper; he bridles his anger; a joyful crop; ridet ager, the field smiles, &c. A metaphor is nothing else but a short comparison.

We likewise call that a metaphor, when we substitute one object in the place of another, on account of the close resemblance between them; as when, instead of youth, we say, the morning or spring-time of life; or when, in speaking of a family connected with a common parent, we use the expressions which properly belong to a tree, whose trunk and branches are connected with a common root. When this allusion is carried on through several sentences, or through a whole discourse, and the principal subject kept out of view, so that it can only be discovered by its resemblance to the subject described, it is called an ALLEGORY. An example of this we have in Horace, book I. ode 14. where the republic is described under the allusion of a ship.

An ALLEGORY is only a continued metaphor. This figure is much the same with the Parable, which so often occurs in the sacred scriptures; and with the Fable, such as those of Æsop. The Ænigma or Riddle is also considered as a species of the Allegory; as likewise are many Proverbs (Proverbia or Adagia;) thus, In silvâ ligna ferre. Horat.

Metaphors are improper when they are taken from low objects; when they are forced or far fetched; when they are mixed or too far pursued; and when they have not a natural and sensible resemblance; or are not adapted to the subject of discourse, or to the kind of composition, whether poetry or prose.

When a word is very much turned from its proper signification, the figure is called Catachrêsis (abusio;) as, a leaf of paper, of gold, &c.; the empire flourished; parricida, for any murderer. Vir gregis ipse caper. Virg. Altum œdificant caput. Juv. Hunc vobis deridendum propino, for trado. Ter. Eurus per Sicûlas equitavit undas. Hor.

When a word is taken in two senses in the same phrase, the one proper and the other metaphorical, it is said to be done by Syllepsis, (comprehensio;) as, Galatæa thymo mihi dulcior Hyblæ. Virg. Ego Sardôis videar tibi amarior herbis. Id.

2. METONYMY (mutatio nominis) is the putting of one name for another. In which sense it includes all other tropes; but it is commonly restricted to the following particulars:

1. When the cause is put for the effect; or the author for his works; as Bona labôres, for corn; Mars, for war; Ceres, for grain or bread; Bacchus, for wine. Virg. Cicero, Virgil, and Horace, for their works.

2. When the effect is put for the cause; as, Pallida mors, pale death, because it makes pale; atra cura, &c.

3. The container for what is contained, and sometimes the contrary; as, Hausit patëram, for vinum. Virg. He loves his bottle, for his drink.

4. The sign for the thing signified; as, The crown, for royal authority; palma or laurus, for victory; Cedant arma toga, that is, as Cicero himself explains it, bellum concēdat paci.

5. An abstract for the concrete ; as, Scelus, for scelestus. Ter. Audacia, for audax. Cic. Vires, for strong men. Hor.

6. The parts of the body for certain passions or sentiments, which were supposed to reside in them ; thus, cor, for wisdom or address ; as, habet cor ; vir cordātus, a man of sense. Plaut. But with us the heart is put for courage or affection, and the head for wisdom ; thus, a stout heart, a warm heart.

When we put what follows to express what goes before, or the contrary, this form of expression is called Metalepsis, (transmutatio ;) thus, desiderāri, to be desired or regretted, for to be dead, lost, or absent : So, Fuimus Troes, & ingens gloria Dardania, i. e. are no more. Virg. Æn. ii. 325.

3. SYNECDÖCHE (comprehensio or conceptio) is a trope by which a word is made to signify more or less than in its proper sense ; as,

1. When a genus is put for a species, or a whole for a part, and the contrary ; thus, Mortāles, for homīnes ; summa arbor, for summa pars arbōris ; tectum, the roof, for the whole house. Virg.

2. When a singular is put for a plural, and the contrary ; thus, Hostis, miles, pedes, eques, for hostes, &c.

3. When the materials are put for the things made of them ; as, Æs or argentum, for money ; æra, for vases of brass, trumpets, arms, &c. ; ferrum, for a sword.

When a common name is put for a proper name, or the contrary, the figure is called Antonomasia (pronominatiō ;) as the Philosopher, for Aristotle ; the Orator, for Demosthenes or Cicero ; the Poet, for Homer or Virgil ; the Wise man, for Solomon.

An Antonomasia is often made by a Periphrāsis ; as, Pelōpis parens, for Tantālus ; Anīti reus, for Socrātes ; Trojāni belli scriptor, for Homērus ; Chirōnis alumnus, for Achilles ; Potor Rhodāni, for Gallus. Hor. sometimes with the noun added ; as, Fatālis et incestus iudex, famōsus hospes, for Paris. Hor.

4. IRÖNY is when one means the contrary of what is said ; as, when we say of a bad poet, He is a Virgil ; or of a profligate person, Tertius e cælo cecidit Cato.

When any thing is said by way of bitter raillery, or in an insulting manner, it is called a SARCASM ; as, Satia te sanguine, Cyre. Justin. Hesperiam metire jacens. Virg.

When an affirmation is expressed in a negative form, it is called LITÔTES; as, He is no fool, for he is a man of sense; Non humilis mulier, for nobilis or superba.

When a word has a meaning contrary to its original sense, this contrariety is called ANTIPHŔĀSIS; as, auri sacra fames, for execrabilis. Virg. Pontus Euxini falso nomine dictus, i. e. hospitālis. Ovid.

When any thing sad or offensive is expressed in more gentle terms, the figure is called EUPHEMISMUS; as, Vitā functus, for mortuus; conclamāre suos, to give up for lost. Liv. Valeant, for abeant; mactāre or ferire, for occidēre; Fecērunt id servi Milōnis, quod suos quisque servos in tali re facere voluisset, i. e. Clodium interfecerunt. Cic. This figure is often the same with the Periphrāsis.

The PERIPHŔĀSIS, or Circumlocution, is when several words are employed to express what might be expressed in fewer. This is done either from necessity, as in translating from one language into another; or to explain what is obscure, as in definitions; or for the sake of ornament, particularly in poetry, as in the descriptions of evening and morning, &c.

When, after explaining an obscure word or sentence by a periphrasis, one enlarges on the thought of the author, the figure is called a Paraphrase.

When a word imitates the sound of the thing signified, this imitation is called Onomatopœia, (nominis fictio;) as, the whistling of winds, purling of streams, buzz and hum of insects, hiss of serpents, &c. But this figure is not properly a trope.

It is sometimes difficult to ascertain to which of the above-mentioned tropes certain expressions ought to be referred. But in such cases minute exactness is needless. It is sufficient to know in general, that the expression is figurative.

There are a great many tropes peculiar to every language, which cannot be literally expressed in any other. These, therefore, if possible, must be rendered by other figurative expressions equivalent: and if this cannot be done, their meaning should be conveyed in simple language; thus, Interiōre notā Falerni, with a glass of old Falernian wine: Ad umbilicum ducere, to bring to a conclusion. Horat. These, and other such figurative expressions, cannot be properly explained without understanding the particular customs to which they refer.

2. REPETITION OF WORDS.

Various repetitions of words are employed for the sake of elegance or force, and are therefore also called Figures of words. Rhetoricians have distinguished them by different names, according to the part of the sentence in which they take place.

When the same word is repeated in the beginning of any member of a sentence, it is called ANAPHŌRA; as, Nihilne te nocturnum presidium palatii, nihil urbis vigiliæ, &c. Cic. Te dulcis conjux, te solo in littore secum, Te veniente die, te decedente canebat. Virg.

When the repetition is made in the end of the member, it is called EPISTRŌPHE, or Conversio; as, Pænos Populus Romæ justitiæ vicit, armis vicit, liberalitate vicit. Cic. Sometimes both the former occur in the same sentence, and then it is called SYMPLOCE, or Complexio; as, Quis legem tulit? Nullus. Quis, &c. Nullus. Cic.

When the same word is repeated in the beginning of the first clause of a sentence, and in the end of the latter, it is called EPANALEPSIS; as, Vidimus victoriam tuam præliorum exitu terminatam; gladium vaginæ vacuum in urbe non vidimus. Cic. pro Marcello.

The reverse of the former is called ANADIPLOSIS, or Reduplicatio; as, Hic tamen vivit: vivit! imo in senatum venit. Cic.

When that, which is placed first in the foregoing member, is repeated last in the following, and the contrary, it is called EPANŌDOS, or Regressio; as, Crudelis tu quoque mater; Crudelis mater magis an puer improbus ille? Improbis ille puer, crudelis tu quoque mater. Virg.

The passionate repetition of the same word in any part of a sentence, is called EPIZEUXIS; as, Excitate, excitate eum ab inferis. Cic. Fuit, fuit ista virtus, &c. Id. Me, me, adsum qui feci, in me convertite ferrum. Virg. Bella, horrida bella. Id. Ibimus, ibimus. Hor.

When we proceed from one thing to another, so as to connect by the same word the subsequent part of a sentence with the preceding, it is called CLIMAX, or Gradatio; as, Africano virtutem industria, virtus gloriam, gloria æmulos comparavit. Cic.

When the same word is repeated in various cases, moods, genders, numbers, &c. it is called POLYPTŌTON; as, Pleni sunt omnes libri, plena sapientium voces, plena exemplorum vetustas. Cic. Littora littoribus contraria, fluctibus undas impræcor, arma armis. Virg.

To this is usually referred what is called SYNONYMIA, or the using of words of the same import, to express a thing more strongly; as, Non feram, non patiar, non sinam. Cic. Promitto, recipio, spondeo. Id. And also EXPOSITIO, which repeats the same thought in different lights.

When a word is repeated the same in sound, but not in sense, it is called ANTANACLASIS; as, Amari jucundum est, si curètur ne quid insit amari. Cic. But this is reckoned a defect in style, rather than a beauty. Nearly allied to this figure is the PARONOMASIA, or Agnominatio, when the words only resemble one another in sound; as, Civem bonarum artium, bonarum partium; Consul pravo animo & parvo: de oratore arator factus. Cic. Amantes sunt amentes. Ter. This is also called a PUN.

When two or more words are joined in any part of a sentence in the same cases or tenses, it is called HOMOIOPTŌTON, i. e. similiter cadens; as, Pollet auctoritate, circumfuit opibus, abundat amicis. Cic. If the words have only a similar termination, it is called HOMOIOTELEUTON, i. e. similiter desinens: as, Non ejusdem est facere fortiter, & vivere temperanter. Cic.

3. FIGURES OF THOUGHT.

It is not easy to reduce figures of thought to distinct classes, because the same figure is employed for several different purposes. The principal are the Hyperbôle, Prosopopœia, Apostrophé, Simîle, Antithêsis, &c.

1. HYPERBÔLE is the magnifying of a thing above the truth; as, when Virgil, speaking of Polyphêmus, says, Ipse arduus, atque pulsat sidera. So, Contracta pisces aquora sentiunt. Hor. When an object is diminished below the truth, it is called Tapeinôsis. The use of extravagant Hyperboles forms what is called Bombast.

2. PROSOPOPŒIA, or Personification, is a figure by which we ascribe life, sentiments, or actions, to inanimate beings, or to abstract qualities; as, Quæ (patria) tecum, Catilina, sic agit, &c. Cic. Virtus sumit aut ponit secures. Hor. Arbore nunc aquas culpante. Id.

3. APOSTRÔPHE, or Address, is when the speaker breaks off from the series of his discourse, and addresses himself to some person present or absent, living or dead, or to inanimate nature, as if endowed with sense and reason. This figure is nearly allied to the former, and therefore often joined with it, as, Trojæque nunc stares, Priamique arx alta maneres. Virg.

4. SIMÏLE, or Comparison, is a figure by which one thing is illustrated or heightened by comparing it to another: as, Alexander was as bold as a lion.

5. ANTITHÊSIS, or Opposition, is a figure by which things contrary or different are contrasted, to make them appear in the most striking light; as, Hannibal was cunning, but Fabius was cautious. Cæsar beneficiis ac munificentiâ magnus habebatur, integritate vita Cato, &c. Sall. Cat. 54.

6. INTERROGATION, (Græc. Erotêsis,) is a figure whereby we do not simply ask a question, but express some strong feeling or affection of the mind in that form; as, Quousque tandem, &c. Cic. Creditis auctos hostes? Virg. Heu! quæ me aquora possunt accipere. Id. Sometimes an answer is returned, in which case it is called Subjectio; as, Quid ergo? audacissimus ego ex omnibus? minime. Cic. Nearly allied to this is Expostulation, when a person pleads with offenders to return to their duty.

7. EXCLAMATION (Ecphonēsis) is a sudden expression of some passion or emotion; as, O nomen dulce libertātis, &c. Cic. O tempōra, O mores! Id. O patria! O Divūm domus Illūm! &c. Virg.

8. DESCRIPTION, or Imagery, (Hypotypōsis), is the painting of any thing in a lively manner, as if done before our eyes. Hence it is also called Vision; as, Videor mihi hanc urbem vidēre, &c. Cic. in Cat. iv. 6. Vidēre magnos jam videor duces, Non indecōro pulvĕre sordīdos. Hor. Here a change of tense is often used, as the present for the past, and conjunctions omitted, &c. Virg. xi. 637, &c.

9. EMPHĀSIS is a particular stress of voice laid on some word in a sentence; as Hannībal peto pacem. Liv. Proh! Jupiter ibit hic! i. e. Æneas. Virg.

10. EPANORTHŌSIS, or Correction, is the recalling or correcting by the speaker of what he last said; as, Filiūm habui, ah! quid dixi habēre me? imō habui. Ter.

11. PARALEPSIS, or Omission, is the pretending to omit, or pass by, what one at the same time declares.

12. APARITHMĒSIS, or Enumeration, is the branching out into several parts of what might be expressed in fewer words.

13. SYNATHROISMUS, or Coacervatio, is the crowding of many particulars together; as,

—Faces in castra tulissem,
Implēssemque foros flammis, natumque, patremque
Cum genere extinxēm, memet super ipsa dedissem. Virg.

14. INCREMENTUM, or CLIMAX in sense, is the rising of one member above another to the highest; as, Facinus est vincire civem Romānum, scelus verberāre, parricidium necāre. Cic.

When all the circumstances of an object or action are artfully exaggerated, it is called AUXESIS, or Amplification. But this is properly not one figure, but the skilful employment of several, chiefly of the Simile and the Climax.

15. TRANSITION (Metabāsis) is an abrupt introduction of a speech; or the passing of a writer suddenly from one subject to another; as, Hor. Od. ii. 13. 13. In strong passion, a change of person is sometimes used; as, Virg. Æn. iv. 365, &c. xi. 406, &c.

16. SUSPENSIO, or Sustentatio, is the keeping of the mind of the hearer long in suspense; to which the Latin inversion of words is often made subservient.

17. CONCESSIO is the yielding of one thing to obtain another; as, Sit fur, sit sacrilĕgus, &c. at est bonus imperātor. Cic. in Verrem v. 1.

PROLEPSIS, Prevention or Anticipation, is the starting and answering of an objection.

ANACONŌSIS, or Communication, is when the speaker deliberates with the judges or hearers; which is also called Diaporesis or Addubitatio.

LICENTIA, or the pretending to assume more freedom than is proper, is used for the sake of admonishing, rebuking, and also flattering; as, Vide quam non reformidem, &c. Cic. pro Ligario.

APOSIOPĒSIS, or Concealment, leaves the sense incomplete; as, Quos ego — sed præstat motos componere fluctus. Virg.

18. SENTENTIA (Gnome) a sentiment, is a general maxim concerning life or manners, which is expressed in various forms; as, Otium sine litēris mors est. Seneca. Adeò in tenēris assuescere multum est. Virg. Probitas laudatur et alget; Misera est magni custodia censūs; Nobilitas sola est atque unica virtus. Juv.

As most of these figures are used by orators, and some of them only in certain parts of their speeches, it will be proper for the learner to know the parts into which a regular, formal oration is commonly divided. These are, 1. The Introduction, the Exordium, or Proæmium, to gain the good will and attention of the hearers: 2. The Narration or Explication: 3. The argumentative part, which includes Confirmation or proof, and Confutation, or refuting the objections and arguments of an adversary. The sources from which arguments are drawn are called Loci, topics; and are either intrinsic or extrinsic; common or peculiar. 4. The Peroration, Epilogue, or Conclusion

PROSODY.

1. PROSODY is that part of grammar which teaches the proper accent and quantity of syllables, the right pronunciation of words, and the structure of verses.

2. Accent is a peculiar stress of the voice on some syllable in a word, to distinguish it from the others.

3. The quantity of a syllable is the space of time used in pronouncing it.

4. Syllables, with respect to their quantity, are either long, short, or common.

5. A long syllable in pronouncing requires double the time of a short one; as, tēndĕrĕ.

6. A syllable that is sometimes long, and sometimes short, is common; as the second syllable in volucris.

7. A vowel is said to be long or short by nature, which is always so by custom, or by the use of the poets.

8. In polysyllables, or long words, the last syllable except one is called the Penultima, or, by contraction, the Penult; and the last syllable except two, the Antepenultima, or Antepenult.

9. When the quantity of a syllable is not fixed by some particular rule, it is said to be long or short by authority; that is, according to the usage of the poets. Thus le in lĕgo is said to be short by authority, because it is always made short by the Latin poets.

In most Latin words of one or two syllables, according to our manner of pronouncing, we can hardly distinguish by the ear a long syllable from a short. Thus le in lĕgo and lĕgt seem to be sounded equally long; but when we pronounce them in composition, the difference is obvious; thus, perlĕgo, perlĕgi; relĕgo, -ĕre; relĕgo, -ĕre, &c.

RULES FOR THE QUANTITY.

The rules of quantity are either General or Special. The former apply to all syllables, the latter only to some certain syllables.

GENERAL RULES.

I. A vowel before another vowel is short; as, Mēus, alius: so nihil; h in verse being considered only as a breathing. In like manner in English, create, behave.

Exc. 1. I is long in fio, fiēbam, &c. unless when followed by r; as, fiēri, fiērem; thus,

Omnia jam fiant, fiēri quæ posse negābam. Ovid.

Exc. 2. E, having an i before and after it, in the fifth declension, is long; as, speciēi. So is the first syllable in æer, dius, êheu, and the penultima in aulai, terrai, &c. in Pompēi Cāi, and such like words; but we sometimes find Pompei in two syllables, Hoꝝ, Od. ii. 7.5.

Exc. 3. The first syllable in ohe and Diāna is common; so likewise is the penult of genitives in ius; as, illius, unius, ullius, nullius, &c. to be read long in prose. Alius, in the genit. is always long, as being contracted for alius; alterius, short.

In Greek words, when a vowel comes before another, no certain rule concerning its quantity can be given:

Sometimes it is short: as, Danæ, Idæa, Sophiā, Symphonīa, Simōis, Hyādes, Phæon, Deucalion, Pygmalion, Thebais, &c.

Often it is long: as, Lycæon, Machæon, Didymæon; Amphion, Arion, Ixion, Pandion; Nais, Lais, Achæa; Briseis, Cadmeis; Latous & Latois, Myrtous, Nerētus, Priamētus; Achelōus, Minōus; Archelaus, Menelaus, Amphiaræus; Æneas, Penëus, Epëus, Acrisionëus, Adamantëus, Phœbeus, Gigantëus; Darius, Basilius, Eugenius, Bacchius; Cassiopëa, Cæsarëa, Chæronëa, Cytherëa, Galatëa, Laodicëa, Medëa, Panthëa, Penelopëa; Clio, Enyō, Elegia, Iphigenia, Alexandria, Thalia, Antiochia. idololatria, litania, politia, &c. Læertes, Dëiphobus, Dëianira, Tröes heröes, &c.

Sometimes it is common: as, Chorea, platea, Malea, Nereides, canopeum, Orion, Geryon, Eos, eöus, &c. So in foreign words, Michael, Israel, Raphael, Abraham, &c.

The accusative of nouns in eus is usually short; as, Orphëa, Salmonëa, Capharëa, &c. but sometimes long; as, Idomenëa, Ilionëa. Virg. Instead of Elegia, Cytherëa, we find Elegëa, Cythërëa. Ovid. But the quantity of Greek words cannot properly be understood without the knowledge of Greek.

In English, a vowel before another is also sometimes lengthened; as æce, idæa.

II. A vowel before two consonants, or before a double consonant, is long (by position, as it is called;) as, ārma, fāllo, āxis, gāza, mājor; the compounds of jugum excepted; as, bījūgus, quadrijūgus, &c.

When the foregoing word ends in a short vowel, and the following begins with two consonants or a double one, that vowel is sometimes lengthened by position; as,

Ferte citi flammās, date velā, scandite muros. Virg.

A short vowel at the end of a word, when followed by a word beginning with sc, sp, sq, st, is usually lengthened.

π A vowel before a mute and a liquid is common; as the middle syllable in volucris, tenebræ; thus,

Et primò similis volūcri, mox vera volūcris. Ovid.

Nox tenēbras profert, Phæbus fugat inde tenēbras. Id.

But in prose these words are pronounced short. So peragro, pharetra, podagra, chiragra, celebris, latebræ, &c.

To make this rule hold, three things are requisite. 1. The vowel must be naturally short; 2. the mute must go before the liquid; and, 3. be in the same syllable with it. Thus a in patris is made common in verse, because a in pater is naturally short, or always so by custom: but a in matris, acris, is always long, because long by nature or custom in mater and acer. In like manner the penult in salūbris, ambulācrum, is always long; because they are derived from salus, salūtis, and ambulātum. So a in arte, abluo, &c. is long by position, because the mute and the liquid are in different syllables.

L and r only are considered as liquids in Latin words; m and n do not take place except in Greek words.

III. A contracted syllable is long; as, Nil, for nihil; mī, for mihi; cōgo, for coāgo; alius, for alius; tībīcen, for tibiūcen; īt, for iit; sōdes, for si audes; nōlo, for non volo; bīgæ, for bijūgæ; scilicet, for scire licet, &c.

IV. A diphthong is always long; as, Aurum, Cæsar, Eubæa, &c. Only præ in composition before a vowel is commonly short; as, præire, præustus; thus,

Nec totâ tamen ille prior præeunte carinâ. Virg. Æ. 5, 186.

Stipitibus duris agitur sudibusque præustis. Ib. 7, 524.

But it is sometimes lengthened; as,

— cum vacuus domino præiret Arion. Theb. 6, 519.

SPECIAL RULES.

I. FIRST AND MIDDLE SYLLABLES.

Preterites and Supines of two syllables.

V. Preterites of two syllables lengthen the former syllable; as, Vēni, vīdi, vīci.

Except bībi, scīdi from scindo, fīdi from findo, tūli, dēdi, and stēti, which are shortened.

VI. Supines of two syllables lengthen the former syllable; as, Vīsum, cāsum, mōtum.

INCREASE OF NOUNS.

A noun is said to increase, when it has more syllables in any of the oblique cases than in the nominative; as, rex, rēgis; sermo, sermōnis; interpres, interpretis. Here re, mo, pre, is each called the increase or crement, and so through all the other cases. The last syllable is never esteemed a crement.

Some nouns have a double increase, that is, increase by more syllables than one; as, iter, itinēris; anceps, ancipitis.

A noun in the plural is said to increase, when in any case it has more syllables than the genitive singular; as, gener, genēri, genērōrum; regibus, sermonibus, &c.

Except nouns of the first, fourth, and fifth declensions, which do not increase in the singular number, unless when one vowel comes before another; as, fructus, fructūi; res, rēi; and falls under Rule I. These nouns are considered as increasing in the plural, and come under Rule IX.

INCREASE OF VERBS.

A verb is said to increase, when any part has more syllables than the second person singular of the present of the indicative active; as, amas, amāmus, where the second syllable ma is the increase or crement: for the last syllable is never called by that name.

A verb often increases by several syllables; as, amas, amābānti; in which case it is said to have a first, second, or third increase.

All the other exceptions from this rule are marked in the formation of the verb.

The first or middle syllables of words which do not come under any of the foregoing rules, are said to be long or short by authority; and their quantity can only be discovered from the usage of the poets, which is the most certain of all rules.

Remarks on the Quantity of the Penult of Words.

II. COMPOUNDS.

XXI. Compounds follow the quantity of the simple words which compose them; as,

Dēdūco, of dē and dūco. So prōfēro, antēfēro, consōlor, dēnōto, dēpecūlor, deprāvo, despēro, despūmo, desquāmo, ēnōdo, ērūdio, exsūdo, ezāro, expāveo, incēro, inhūmo, investigo, pragrāvo, pranāto, rēgēlo, appāro, appāreo, concāvus, pragrānis, dēsōlo, suffōco & suffōco; diffīdit from diffīndo, and diffīdit from diffīdo; indīco, -āre, and indīco, -ēre; permānet from permāneo, and permānet from permāno; effōdit in the present, and effōdit in the perfect; so, exēdit and exēdit; devēnit and devēnit; devēnimus and devēnimus; reperīmus and reperīmus; effūgit and effūgit, &c.

The change of a vowel or diphthong in the compound does not alter the quantity; as, incīdo, from in and cādo; incīdo, from in and cādo; suffōco, from sub and fauz, faucis. Unless the letter following make it fall under some general rule ; as, admitto, percēllo, dēoscūlor, prōhibeo.

Exc. Agnātum, cognātum, dējēro, pējēro, innūba, promūba, maledīcus, veridīcus, nihīlum, semisōpitus ; from nōtus, jūro, nūbo, dīco, hīlum, and sōpio ; ambitus, a participle from ambio, is long ; but the substantives ambitus and ambitio are short. Connubium has the second syllable common.

Obs. 1. The preposition PRO in Greek words, for ante, before, is short ; as, prōphēta, prōlōgus : PRO in Latin words is long ; as, prōdo, prōmitto, &c. but it is short in the following words : prōfundus, prōfugio, prōfūgus, prōnēpos, prōnep̄tis, prōfestus, prōfāri, prōfiteor, prōfānus, prōfecto, prōcella, prōtervus, and prōpāgo, a lineage ; pro in prōpāgo, a vine-stock, or shoot, is long. Pro in the following words is doubtful ; propāgo, to propagate ; propino, profundo, propello, propulso, procūro, and Proserpina.

Obs. 2. The inseparable prepositions SE and DI are long ; as, sēpāro, dīvello ; except dīrimo, dīsertus. Re is short ; as, rēmīto, rēfēro : except in the impersonal verb rēfert, compounded of res and fero.

Obs. 3. I and O, in the end of the former compounding word, are usually shortened ; as, Capricornus, omnīpōtens, agrīcōla, signīfico, bīformis, alīger, Trīvia, tubīcen, vaticīnor, archītectus, bimēter, trimēter, &c. duōdēcim, hōdie, sacrōsanctus, Arctōphylax, Argōnauta, bibliōthēca, philōsōphus, &c. But from each of these there are many exceptions. Thus i is long when it is varied by cases ; as, quīdam, quōvis, tantīdem, eīdem, &c. And when the compounding words may be taken separately ; as, ludīmagister, lucrifacio, sīgnīs, &c. —or when a contraction is made by Crasis or Syncōpe ; as, trīgā, for trijūgā ; īlicet, for ire licet, &c. —So in the compounds of dies, as, bīduum, trīduum, merīdies, prīdie, postrīdie ; but the second syllable is sometimes shortened in quotīdie & quotīdīanus. Idem in the masc. is long, (in the neuter short ;) also ubīque, ibīdem. But in ubīvis and ubīcunq̄ue, the i is doubtful.

O is lengthened in the compounds of intro, retro, contro, and quando ; as, intrōdūco, intrōmitto, retrocēdo, retrogrādus, contrōversus, contrōversia, quandōque, quandōcunq̄ue ; but quandōquīdem has the second syllable short. O is also long in aliōquin, caterōquin, utrōbīque : So likewise in Greek words, written with a large o, or ω $\mu\acute{\epsilon}\gamma\alpha$; as, geōmetra, Minōtaurus, lagōpus.

Obs. 4. A in the former compounding part of a word is long ; as, quāre, quāpropter, quācūque; Sē, trādo, trādūco, trāno, for transno, &c. Eādem is short, except in the abl. sing. eādem.

E is short; as, nēfas, nēfastus, nēfandus, nēfarius, nēque, nēqueo; trēdecim, trēcenti, ēquidem, sēlibra, valēdico, madēfacio, tepēfacio, patēfacio, &c. hujuscēmōdi, ejuscēmōdi—Except sēdecim, sēmōdius, nēquis, nēquam, nēquītia, nēquando, nēmo, erēdo, mēmet, mēcum, tēcum, sēcum; venēficus, vidēlicet.

U also is short; as, dūcenti, dūpondium; quadrūpes, centūplum, Trojūgēna, cornūpēta; but jūdico is long.—Y likewise in Greek words is short; as, Poljgdōrus, Poljgdāmas, Poljphēmus, Dorjphōrus.

VERSE.

A VERSE is a certain number of long and short syllables disposed according to rule.

It is so called, because when the number of syllables requisite is completed, we always turn back to the beginning of a new line.

The parts into which we divide a verse, to see if it have its just number of syllables, are called Feet.

A verse is divided into different feet, both to ascertain its measure or number of syllables, and to regulate its pronunciation.

FEET.

Poetic feet are either of two, three, or four syllables. When a single syllable is taken by itself, it is called a Cæsura, which is commonly a long syllable.

1. Feet of two Syllables.

Spondēus, consists of two long; as, ōmnēs,

Pyrrhichius, two short; as, dēus.

Iambus, a short and a long; as, āmāns.

Trochæus or Chorēus, a long and a short; as, sērvūs.

2. Feet of three Syllables.

Dactylus, a long and two short; as, scribēre.

Anapæstus, two short and a long; as, pīētās.

Amphimæcer, a long, a short, and a long; as, chārītās.

Tribrächys, three short; as, dōmīnūs.

The following are not so much used :

Molossus, dēlectānt.

Amphibrächys, hōnōrē.

Bacchius, dōlōrēs.

Antibacchius, pellantūr.

Dispondēus,

Dijambus,

Choriambus,

Dichorēus,

Antispastus,

Ionīcus minor,

Ionīcus major,

ōrātōrēs.

dmāntās.

pōntificēs.

Cāntillēnā.

Alēxāndēr.

prōpērābānt.

sālcāribās.

3. Feet of four Syllables.

Proceleusmaticus, hōmīnībūs.

Pæon primus,	temporibus.	Epitritus primus,	vôluptâtes.
Pæon secundus,	pôtentiâ.	Epitritus secundus,	pénitentiâs.
Pæon tertius,	animâtiâs.	Epitritus tertius,	discordiâs.
Pæon quartus,	céléritâs.	Epitritus quartus,	fortunâtiâs.

SCANNING.

The measuring of verse, or the resolving of it into the several feet of which it is composed, is called Scanning.

When a verse has just the number of feet requisite, it is called Versus Acatalectus or Acatalecticus, an Acatalectic verse: if a syllable be wanting, it is called Catalecticus; if there be a syllable too much, Hypercatalecticus, or Hypermeter.

The ascertaining whether the verse be complete, defective, or redundant, is called Depositio or Clausula.

DIFFERENT KINDS OF VERSE.

1. HEXAMETER.

The Hexameter or heroic verse consists of six feet. Of these the fifth is a dactyle, and the sixth a spondee; all the rest may be either dactyles or spondees; as,

Ludêrê | quæ vél- | lêm câlâ- | mō pēr- | misit â- | grêstî. Virg.
 Infân- | dûm Rê- | gînâ jû- | bês rênô- | vâré dô- | lôrêm. Id.

A regular Hexameter line cannot have more than seventeen syllables, or fewer than thirteen.

Sometimes a spondee is found in the fifth place, whence the verse is called Spondæic; as,

Carâ Dê- | um sôbô- | lês mâ- | gnûm Jôvis | Incrê- | mētum. Virg.

This verse is used, when any thing grave, slow, large, sad, or the like, is expressed. It commonly has a dactyle in the fourth place, and a word of four syllables in the end.

Sometimes there remains a superfluous syllable at the end. But this syllable must either terminate in a vowel, or in the consonant m, with a vowel before it; so as to be joined with the following verse, which in the present case must always begin with a vowel; as,

Omnîâ | Mêrcûrî- | ô simî- | lis vō- | cémquê cō- | lôrêmque.
 Et flavos crines—

Those Hexameter verses sound best, which have dactyles and spondees alternately; as,

Ludere, quæ vellem, calamo permisit agresti. Virg.
 Pinguis et ingratus premeretur caseus urbi. Id.

Or which have more dactyles than spondees; as,

Tityre, tu patula recubans sub tegmine fagi. Virg.

It is esteemed a great beauty in a hexameter verse, when, by the use of dactyles and spondees, the sound is adapted to the sense; as,

Quadrupedante putrem sonitu quatit ungula campum. Virg.

Illi inter sese magnâ vi brachia tollunt. Id.

Monstrum horrendum, informe, ingens, cui lumen ademptum. Id.

Accipiunt inimicum imbrem, rimisque fatiscunt. Id.

But what deserves particular attention, in scanning hexameter verse, is the CÆSURA.

Cæsura is when, after a foot is completed, there remains a syllable at the end of a word to begin a new foot; as,

At ré-ginâ grâ-vi jam-dudum, &c.

The cæsura is variously named, according to the different parts of the hexameter verse in which it is found. When it comes after the first foot, or falls on the third half-foot, it is called by a Greek name, Triemimëris: when on the fifth half-foot, or the syllable after the second foot, it is called Penthemimëris: when it happens on the first syllable of the fourth foot, or the seventh half-foot, it is called Hepthemimëris: and when on the ninth half-foot, or the first syllable of the fifth foot, it is called Enneëmimëris.

All these different species of the cæsura sometimes occur in the same verse; as,

Illè læ-tus nivè-am môl-li fûl-tus hÿâ-cinthô. Virg.

But the most common and beautiful cæsura is the pen-thëmim; on which some lay a particular accent or stress of the voice, in reading a hexameter verse thus composed; whence they call it the cæsural pause; as,

Tityre, dum rede-O, brevis est via, pasce capellas. Virg.

When the cæsura falls on a syllable naturally short, it renders it long; as, the last syllable of fultus in the foregoing example.

The chief melody of a hexameter verse in a great measure depends on the proper disposition of the cæsura. Without this, a line consisting of the number of feet requisite will be little else than mere prose; as,

Rômæ mœniâ terrûlt Impigër Hannibâl armis. Ennius.

The ancient Romans, in pronouncing verse, paid a particular attention to its melody. They observed not only the quantity and accent of the several syllables, but also the different stops and pauses which the particular turn of the verse required. In modern times we do not fully perceive the melody of Latin verse, because we have now lost the just pronunciation of that language, the people of every country pronouncing it in a manner similar to their own. In reading Latin verse, therefore, we are directed by the same rules which take place with respect to English verse, as has been before observed.

The tone of the voice ought to be chiefly regulated by the sense. All the words should be pronounced fully; and the cadence of the verse ought only to be observed, so far as it corresponds with the natural expression of the words. At the end of each line there should be no fall of the voice, unless the sense requires it; but a small pause, half of that which we usually make at a comma.

2. PENTAMETER.

The Pentameter verse consists of five feet. Of these the two first are either dactyles or spondees; the third, always a spondee; and the fourth and fifth, an anapæstus; as,

Nātu- | ræ sēquī- | tūr sē- | mīnā quis- | quē sūæ. Propert.
Cārmīnī- | būs vī- | vēs tēm- | pūs in om- | nē mēis. Ovid.

But this verse is more properly divided into two hemisticks or halves; the former of which consists of two feet, either dactyles or spondees, and a cæsūra; the latter, always of two dactyles and another cæsūra; thus,

Nātu- | ræ sēquī- | tūr | sēmīnā | quisquē sū- } s.
Cārmīnī- | būs vī- | vēs | tēmpūs in | omnē mē- | is.

The Pentameter usually ends with a dissyllable, but sometimes also with a polysyllable.

3. ASCLEPIADEAN.

The Asclepiadæan verse consists of four feet; namely, a spondee, twice a choriambus, and a pyrrhichius; as,

But this verse may be more properly measured thus: In the first place, a spondee; in the second, a dactyle; then a cæsūra; and after that two dactyles; thus,

Mæcæ- | nās ātā- | vīs | ēdītē | rēgībūs.

4. GLYCONIAN.

* The Glyconian verse has three feet, a spondee, a choriambus, and a pyrrhichius; as,

Nāvīs | quæ tībī crē- | dītūm. Hor. Od. 1, 3, 5.

Or it may be divided into a spondee and two dactyles; thus,

Nāvīs | quæ tībī | crēdītūm.

5. SAPPHIC AND ADONIAN.

The Sapphic verse has five feet, viz. a trochee, a spondee, a dactyle, and two trochees; thus,

Intē- | gēr vi- | tæ, scëlē- | risquē | pārdūs. Hor. Od. 1, 22, 1.

An Adonian, or Adonic verse consists only of a dactyle and a spondee; as,

Juplītēr | argēt. Hor. ibid. v. 20.

6. PHERECRATIAN.

The Pherecratian verse consists of three feet, a spondee, a dactyle, and a spondee; thus,

Nigrīs | æquōrā | vēntīs. Hor. Od. 1, 5, 7.

7. PHALEUCIAN.

The Phaleucian verse consists of five feet, namely, a spondee, a dactyle, and three trochees; as,

Summūm | nēc mētū- | as dī- | ém, nēc | optēs. Martial. 10, 47. f.

8. THE GREATER ALCAIC.

The greater Alcæic, called likewise Dactylic, consists of four feet, a spondee or iambus, iambus and cæsūra, then two dactyles; as,

Virtūs | rēpūl- | sēs | nēcīā | sōrdīdēs
Inta- | mīnā- | tīs | fulgēt hō- | nōrībūs. Hor. Od. 3, 2, 17.

9. ARCHILOCHIAN.

The Archilochian Iambic verse consists of four feet. In the first and third place, it has either a spondee or an iambus; in the second and fourth, always an iambus; and in the end, a cæsūra; as,

Nēc sū- | mīt, aut | pōnīt | sēcū- | rēs. Hor. ibid.

10. THE LESSER ALCAIC.

The lesser Dactylic Alcæic consists of four feet, namely, two dactyles and two trochees; as,

Arbltrī- | ō pōpū- | lārīs | aūræ. Ibid.

Of the above kinds of verse, the first two take their names from the number of feet of which they consist. All the rest derive their names from those by whom they were either first invented, or frequently used.

There are several other kinds of verse, which are named from the feet by which they are most commonly measured; such as the dactylic, trochæic, anapestic, and iambic. The last of these is most frequently used.

11. IAMBIC.

Of Iambic verse there are two kinds. The one consists of four feet, and is called by a Greek name Dimëter; the other consists of six feet, and is called Trimëter. The reason of these names is, that among the Greeks two feet were considered only as one measure in iambic verse; whereas the Latins measured it by single feet, and therefore called the dimëter quaternarius, and the trimëter senarius.

Originally this kind of verse was purely iambic, i. e. 'admitted of no other feet but the iambus; thus,

Dimëter, Inâr- | sît æ- | stûö- | sîûs. Hor.

Trimëter, Süis | ét I- | psâ Rö- | mâ vi- | ribûs | rûlt. Id.

But afterwards, both for the sake of ease and variety, different feet were admitted into the uneven or odd places; that is, in the first, third, and fifth places, instead of an iambus, they used a spondee, a dactyle, or an anapæstus, and sometimes a tribrächys. We also find a tribrächys in the even places, i. e. in the second place, and in the fourth; for the last foot must always be an iambus; thus,

Dimëter, Cånldf- | ä trac- | tävit | dâpës. Hor.

Trimëter, Quóquö | scélës- | tí rûl- | tîs aut | cûr dëx- | tîrls. Id.

Pävidûm- | quë lëpö- | r' aut ad- | vënäm | läquëö | grûëm. Id.

Alltî- | bûs ät- | quë cånî- | bûs hómî- | cid' Hæc- | törem. Id.

In comic writers we sometimes find an iambic verse consisting of eight feet, therefore called Tetramëter or Octonarius.

FIGURES IN SCANNING.

The several changes made upon words, to adapt them to the verse, are called Figures in Scanning. The chief of these are the Synalæpha, Ecthlipsis, Synæresis, Dierësis, Systöle, and Diastöle.

1. SYNALÆPHA is the cutting off of a vowel or diphthong, when the next word begins with a vowel; as, to be scanned thus,

Conticuere omnes, intentique ora tenebant. Virg.

Cönticü- | ær' öm- | nës In- | tëntî- | qu' örâ tē- | nēbant.

The Synalæpha is sometimes neglected; and seldom takes place in the interjections, ô, heu, ah, proh, vœ, vah, hei; as,

O pater, ô hominum, Divâmque æterna potestas. Virg.

Long vowels and diphthongs, when not cut off, are sometimes shortened; as,

Insulæ Ionio in magno, quas dira Celæno. Virg.

Credimus? an, qui amant, ipsi sibi somnia fingunt. Id.

Victor apud rapidum Simoënta sub Ilio alto. Id.

Ter sunt conati imponere Pelio Ossam. Id.

Glauco et Panopææ, et Inoo Melicertæ. Id.

2. ECTHLIPSIS is the cutting off of m, with the vowel before it, in the end of a word, because the following word begins with a vowel; as,

O curas hominum! O quantum est in rebus inane! Pers.

thus,

O cū- | rās hōmī- | n', ô quān- | t' est in | rébūs in- | anē.

Sometimes the Synalæpha and Ecthlipsis are found at the end of the verse; as,

Sternitur infelix alieno vulnere, cœlumque

Adspicit, et dulces moriens reminiscitur Argos. Virg.

Jamque iter emensi, turres ac tecta Latinorum

Ardua cernebant juvenes, murosque subibant. Id.

These verses are called Hypermetri, because a syllable remains to be carried to the beginning of the next line; thus, qu' Adspicit; r' Ardua.

3. SYNÆRĒSIS is the contraction of two syllables into one, which is likewise called Crasis; as, Phæthon for Phaëthon. So eī in Thesei, Orphei, deinde, Pompei; uī in huic, cui; œī in proinde; ēâ in aureâ; thus,

Notus amor Phædræ, nota est injuria Thesei. Ovid.

Proinde tona eloquio, solitum tibi—Virg.

Filius huic contrâ, torquet qui sidera mundi. Id.

Aureâ percussum virgâ, versumque venenis. Id.

So in antêhac, eadem, alvearia, deest, deërit, vehêmens, anteit, eodem, alveo, graveolentis, omnia, semianimis, semihomo, fluviorum, totius, promontorium, &c. as,

Unâ eâdemque viâ sanguis animusque sequuntur. Virg.

Seu lento fuerint alvearia vimine texta. Id.

Divitis uber agri, Trojæque opulentia deerit. Virg.

Vehemens et liquidus puroque simillimus amni. Hor.

Te semper anteit dira necessitas. Alcaic. Hor. Od. 1, 35, 17.

Uno eodemque igni, sic nostro Daphnis amore. Virg.

Cum refluit campis, et jam se condidit alveo. Virg.
 Inde ubi venere ad fauces grævolentis Averni. Id.
 Bis patrias cecidère manus: quin protinus omnia. Id.
 Cædit semianimis Rutulorum calcibus arva. Id.
 Semihominis Caci facies quam dira tenebat. Id.
 Fluviorum rex Eridanus, camposque per omnes. Id.
 Magnanimosque duces, totiusque ex ordine gentis. Id.
 Inde legit Capreas, promontoriumque Minervæ. Ovid.

To this figure may be referred the changing of i and u into j and v, or pronouncing them in the same syllable with the following vowel; as, in genoa, tenvis, arjêtat, tenria, abjête, pitvîta, parjetibus, Nasidjênus; for genua, tennis, &c.; as,

Propterea quia corpus aquæ naturaque tenvis. Lucr.
 Genva labant, gelido concrevit frigore sanguis. Virg.
 Arjetat in portas et duros objice postes. Id.
 Velleraque ut foliis depectant tenvia Seres. Id.
 Ædificant, sectâque intexunt abjete costas. Id.
 Præcipuè sanus, nisi cum pitvita molesta est. Hor.
 Parjetibusque premunt aretis, et quatuor addunt. Virg.
 Ut Nasidjeni juvit te cœna beati? Hor.

4. DIÆRËSIS divides one syllable into two; as, aulai, for aulæ; Troïa, for Trojæ; Persêus, for Perseus; milîus, for milous; solûit, for solvit; volûit, for volvit; aquâ, sûetus, sûasit, Sûevos, relanguit, reliquas, for aquæ, suetus, &c.; as,

Aulai in medio libabant pocula Bacchi. Virg.
 Stamina non ulli dissoltenda Deo. Pentam. Tibullus.
 Debuerant fuses evoltuisse suos. Id. Ovid.
 Quæ calidum faciunt aquæ tactum atque vaporem. Lucr.
 Cum mihi non tantum furesquæ feræque stietæ. Hor.
 Atque alios alii inrident, Veneremque sudent. Lucr.
 Fundat ab extremo flavos Aquilone Sævos. Lucan.
 Imposito fratři moribunda relanguit ore. Ovid.
 Reliquas tamen esse vias in mente patentes. Lucr.

5. SYSTÖLE makes a long syllable short; as, the penult in tulêrunt; thus,

Matri longa decem tulêrunt fastidia menses. Virg. E. 4. 61.

6. DIASTÖLE makes a short syllable long; as, the last syllable of amor in the following verse:

Considant, si tantus amôr, et mœnia condant. Virg. Æ. 11. 323.

To the above may be added the following, which, though chiefly used by the poets, often occur in prose; and are called

FIGURES OF DICTION.

1. *Prosthesis prefixes a letter or syllable; as, gnavus for navus. In Latin there are but few examples of this, but in Greek they abound; as, ἔειπες for εἶπες, ἄρωρα for ᾠρα.

2. Epenthesis† inserts something in the middle; as, rettūlit for retūlit, μαχρόσάμνος for μαχρόσάμνος.

3. Paragoge‡ adds to the end; as, dicier for dici, ταυτονι for ταῦτον.

4. Aphaerēsis§ takes away from the beginning; as, conia for ciconia. Of this, also, examples are rare in Latin, but frequent in Greek; as, ἦ for ἔφη. ll. 1. 219.

5. Syncöpe|| takes out something from the middle; as, peccāsse for peccavisse, ἔσαν for ἔβησαν.

6. Apocöpe¶ takes from the end; as, pecūli for peculii, δῶ for δῶμα. ll. 1. 426.

7. *Metathēsis transposes letters; as, pistris for pristis, ἔδαρκον for ἔδαρκον, 2. a. of δέξω.

8. Antithēsis†† changes one letter for another; as, faciundum for faciendum, ollī for illī, ζύν for σύν.

DIFFERENT KINDS OF POEMS.

Any work composed in versè is called a Poem, (Poēma or Carmen.)

Poems are called by various names, from their subject, their form, the manner of treating the subject, and their style.

1. A poem on the celebration of a marriage is called an EPITHALMIUM; on a mournful subject, an ELEGY or LAMENTATION; in praise of the Supreme Being, a HYMN; in praise of any person or thing, a PANEGYRIC or ENCONIUM; on the vices of any one, a SATIRE or INVECTIVE; a poem to be inscribed on a tomb, an ÉPITAPH, &c.

2. A short poem, adapted to the lyre or harp, is called an ODE, whence such compositions are called Lyric poems: a poem in the form of a letter is called an EPISTLE; a short witty poem, playing on the fancies or conceits which arise from any subject, is called an ÉPIGRAM; as those of Catullus and Martial. A sharp, unexpected, lively turn of wit in the end of an epigram is called its Point. A poem expressing

* Πρόσθεσις, adjectio; προστίθημι, addo, to prefix.

† Ἐπένησις, insertio; ἐπιτίθημι, insero in medium, to insert.

‡ Παραγωγή, productio; παράγω, produco, to lengthen out.

§ Ἀφαίρεσις, ablatio; ἀφαιρέω, aufero, to take away.

|| Συγκόπη, from συγκόπτω, conciō, to cut out.

¶ Ἀποκοπή, amputatio; ἀποκόπτω, amputo, to cut off.

 Μετάθεσις, transpositio, the change of places.

†† From ἀντί, instead of, and τίθημι, to place.

the moral of any device or picture, is called an EMBLEM. A poem containing an obscure question to be explained, is called an ÆNIGMA or RIDDLE.

When a character is described so that the first letters of each verse, and sometimes the middle and final letters, express the name of the person or thing described, it is called an ACROSTIC; as the following on our Saviour:

I nter cuncta micans I gniti sidera cæl I,
 E xpellit tenebras E toto Phæbus ut orb E;
 S ic cæcas removet JESVS caliginis umbra S,
 V ivificansque simul V ero præcordia mot V,
 S olem justitiæ S ese probat esse beati S.

3. From the manner of treating a subject, a poem is either Exegetic, Dramatic, or Mixt.

The Exegetic, where the poet always speaks himself, is of three kinds, Historical, Didactic, or Instructive, (as the Satire or Epistle;) and Descriptive.

Of the Dramatic, the chief kinds are COMEDY, representing the actions of ordinary life, generally with a happy issue; and TRAGEDY, representing the actions and distresses of illustrious personages, commonly with an unhappy issue; to which may be added Pastoral Poems, or BUCOLICS, representing the actions and conversations of shepherds; as most of the eclogues of Virgil.

The Mixt kind is where the poet sometimes speaks in his own person, and sometimes makes other characters to speak. Of this kind is chiefly the EPIC or HEROIC poem, which treats of some one great transaction of some great, illustrious person, with its various circumstances; as the wrath of Achilles in the Iliad of Homer; the settlement of Æneas in Italy in the Æneid of Virgil; the fall of man in the Paradise Lost of Milton, &c.

4. The style of poetry, as of prose, is of three kinds, the simple, ornate, and sublime.

COMBINATION OF VERSES IN POEMS.

In long poems there is commonly but one kind of verse used. Thus Virgil, Lucretius, Horace in his Satires and Epistles, Ovid in his Metamorphoses, Lucan, Silius Italicus, Valerius Flaccus, Juvenal, &c. always use the Hexameter verse: Plautus, Terence, and other writers of Comedy, generally use the Iambic, and sometimes the Trochaic. It is chiefly in shorter poems, particularly those which are called Lyric poems, as the Odes of Horace and the Psalms of Buchanan, that various kinds of verse are combined.

A poem, which has only one kind of verse, is called by a Greek name, MONOCOLON, sc. poëma or carmen; or MONOCŌLOS, sc. ode; that which has two kinds, DICOLON; and that which has three kinds of verse, TRICOLON.

If the same sort of verse return after the second line, it is called DICŌLON DISTRŌPHON;* as when a single Pentamēter is alternately placed after an HEXAMĒTER; which is named Elegiac verse, (carmen Elegiācum,) because it was first applied to mournful subjects; thus,

Flebilis indignos, Elegēia, solve capillos;
Ah! nimis ex vero, nunc tibi nomen erit. Ovid.

This kind of verse is used by Ovid in all his other works except the Metamorphoses; and also for the most part by Tibullus, Propertius, &c.

When a poem consists of two kinds of verse, and after three lines returns to the first, it is called Dicōlon Tristrōphon; when after four lines, Dicōlon Tetrastrōphon; as,

Auream quisquis mediocritatem
Diligit, tutus caret obsoleti
Sordibus tecti; caret invidendā Sobrius aulā. Horat.

When a poem consists of three kinds of verse, and after three lines always returns to the first, it is called Tricōlon Tristrōphon; but if it returns after four lines, it is called Tricōlon Tetrastrōphon; as, when after two greater dactylic Alcaic verses are subjoined an Archilochian iambic and a lesser dactylic Alcaic, which is named Carmen Horatiānum, or Horatian verse, because it is frequently used by Horace; thus,

Virtus recludens immeritis mori
Cælum, negatā tentat iter viā;
Cætusque vulgares, et udam
Spernit humum fugiente pennā.

THE VARIOUS COMBINATIONS OF THE DIFFERENT METRES USED BY HORACE.

HORACE uses twenty different species of metre, combining them in nineteen different ways, and of course forming nineteen different stanzas. These are as follow, arranged according to the order of preference given them by the poet:—

No 1. The stanza of four lines. The first two are greater Alcaic,† measured thus: a spondee or iambus, an iambus with a cæsūra, then two dactyles; as,

Vidēs ūt altā stēt nivē candidūm.

| | | |

* A Strophe or Stanza includes as many lines as are necessary to show all the different kinds of measure in an ode. It is called Strophe, which in Greek literally means a turning, because at the end of it, you turn back to the same kind of verse with which you began.

† From Alcæus, a famous poet of Lesbos, whom Horace frequently celebrates.

The third line is Archilochian,* measured thus: the first and third feet are spondees or iambs; the second and fourth, iambs, with a cæsura remaining; as,

Silvæ laborantēs gēlūque.

The fourth line is lesser Alcaic, measured by two dactyles and two trochees; as,

Flamīnā cōstitērīnt iūcto.

This is called the HORATIAN STANZA, because Horace delighted in it above all others. More than one third of his odes are in this stanza.

No. 2. The stanza of four lines. The first three lines are Sapphic,† measured by a trochee, spondee, dactyle, and then two trochees; as,

Jam sātis tērris nivīs atquē diræ.

The fourth line is Adonic, consisting of a dactyle and spondee; as,

Terrāit urbēm.

No. 3. The stanza of two lines. The first is Glyconic,‡ measured by a spondee, choriambus, and pyrrhichius; as,

Sic tē Divā pōtēns Cypri.

The second is Asclepiadēan,§ consisting of a spondee, two choriambi, and a pyrrhichius; as,

Sic frātrēs Hēlēnæ lucidā sidēra.

Or thus,

Sic frātrēs Hēlēnæ lucidā sidēra.

No. 4. The stanza of two lines. The first has six iambs, the second has four. But sometimes a spondee, dactyle, anapæst, or tribrachys, is admitted into the odd places; that is, in the first, third, and fifth. A tribrachys is also found in the even places. The first ten epodes are in this stanza.

No. 5. The stanza of four lines; three Asclepiads and one Glyconic. See No. 3.

* Invented by Archilochus, a poet of Paros.

† Invented by Sappho, the celebrated poetess of Lesbos.

‡ From Glycon, the inventor.

§ From Asclepias, the inventor.

No. 6. The stanza of four lines. The first two are Asclepiadæan, the third is Pherecratian, consisting of a spondee, dactyle, and spondee; as,

Gratō Pyrrhā sūb antrō.

The fourth line is Glyconic, No. 3.

No. 7. The stanza of one line. Asclepiadæan, measured by a spondee, two choriambi, and a pyrrhichius; as,

Mæcenas atavis editē rēgibus.

No. 8. The stanza of two lines. A hexameter, and the last four feet of a hexameter; as,

Laudabunt alii clarā Rhodōn aut Mitylēnēn.

Aut Ephesum bimariāsvē Cōrinthi.

No. 9. The stanza of one line, measured by a spondee, three choriambi, and a pyrrhichius; as,

Tu nē quaestōris scirē nefas quēm mihi quēm tibi.

No. 10. The stanza of two lines. The first is hexameter; the second has four iambs, and sometimes spondees, &c. in the odd places.

No. 11. The stanza of one line, containing six iambs, or other feet in the odd places.

No. 12. The stanza of two lines. The first is measured by a choriambus and bacchius; the second, by three choriambi and a bacchius.

Lydīa dic pēr omnēs,

Tē Dēos orō Sybārin cūr prōpērēs amandō.

Observe, however, in the second line, that the first choriambus is imperfect, having its third syllable long instead of short.*

No. 13. The stanza of two lines; the first line hexameter, the second containing six iambs, admitting other feet in the odd places.

* Attilius, a learned grammarian, remarks, that Horace was guilty of this error from being inexpert in this kind of measure, and that, having once begun it, he chose to persevere in it to the end. Some, however, call the first foot an Epuritus, others divide it into a trochee and spondee.

No. 14. The stanza of two lines; the first a hexameter, the second has two dactyles and a cæsura; as,

Arboribusquæ cœmæ.

No. 15. The stanza of three lines. The first is a hexameter; the second has four iambi, admitting spondees in the odd places; and the third line has two dactyles and a cæsura, as in the preceding No.

No. 16. The stanza of three lines; the first having six iambi, and the third having four, admitting spondees, &c. as before; the middle line has two dactyles and a cæsura.

No. 17. The stanza of two lines. The first line contains seven feet, of which the first four are either dactyles or spondees; the last three are trochees; as,

Solvitur acris hiems grata vicè veris et Favoni.

The second line has five iambi and a remaining syllable, admitting spondees as before; as,

Trahuntquæ siccas machinæ cærinas.

No. 18. The stanza of two lines. The first has three iambi, preceded by a long syllable; as,

Nôn sât nêque' atrêum.

The second line has five iambi and a cæsura, admitting spondees in the odd places.

No. 19. The stanza of three lines. The first two contain three ionics; the third contains four; as,

Misérarum' est nêque' îmôri dârê ludum.

APPENDIX.

Of Punctuation ; Capitals ; Abbreviations ; Division of the Roman Months ; Tables of Roman Coins, Weights, and Measures ; Golden, Silver, and Brazen Ages of Roman Literature.

THE different divisions of discourse are marked by certain characters called Points.

The points employed for this purpose are the Comma (,), Semicolon (;), Colon (:), Period, Punctum, or full stop (.)

Their names are taken from the different parts of the sentence which they are employed to distinguish.

The Period is a whole sentence complete by itself. The Colon, or member, is a chief constructive part, or greater division of a sentence. The Semicolon, or half member, is a less constructive part, or subdivision, of a sentence or member. The Comma, or segment, is the least constructive part of a sentence, in this way of considering it ; for the next subdivision of a sentence would be the resolution of it into Phrases and Words.

To these points may be added the Semiperiod, or less point, followed by a small letter. But this is of much the same use with the Colon, and occurs only in Latin books.

A simple sentence admits only of a full point at the end ; because its general meaning cannot be distinguished into parts. It is only in compound sentences that all the different points are to be found.

Points likewise express the different pauses which should be observed in a just pronunciation of discourse. The precise duration of each pause, or note, cannot be defined. It varies according to the different subjects of discourse, and the different turns of human passion and thought. The period requires a pause in duration double of the colon ; the colon double of the semicolon ; and the semicolon double of the comma.

There are other points, which, together with a certain pause, also denote a different modulation of the voice in correspondence with the sense. These are the Interrogation point (?), the Exclamation or Admiration point (!), and the Parenthēsis (). The first two generally mark an elevation of the voice, and a pause equal to that of a semicolon, a colon, or a period, as the sense requires. The Parenthēsis usually requires a moderate depression of the voice, with a pause somewhat greater than a comma. But these rules are liable to many exceptions.

The modulation of the voice in reading, and the various pauses, must always be regulated by the sense.

Besides the points, there are several other marks made use of in books, to denote references and different distinctions, or to point out something remarkable or defective, &c. These are, the Apoströphe ('); Asterisk (*); Hyphen (-); Obelisk (†); Double Obelisk (‡); Parallel Lines (||); Paragraph (¶); Section (§); Quotation (""); Crotchets []; Brace { }; Ellipsis (... or —); Caret (^); which last is only used in writing.

References are often marked by letters and figures.

Capitals or large letters, are used at the beginning of sentences, of verses, and of proper names. Some use them at the beginning of every substantive noun. Adjectives, verbs, and other parts of speech, unless they be emphatical, commonly begin with a small letter.

Capitals, with a point after them, are often put for whole words; thus, A. marks Aulus, C. Caius, D. Decius, or Decimus, L. Lucius, M. Marcus, P. Publius, Q. Quintus, or Quinctius, T. Titus. So F. stands for Filius, and N. for Nepos; as M. F. Marci Filius, M. N. Marci Nepos. In like manner, P. C. marks Patres Conscripti; S. C. Senātus Consultum; P. R. Populus Romanus; S. P. Q. R. Senātus Populusque Romanus; U. C. Urbs Condita; S. P. D. Salutem plurimam dicit; D. D. D. Dat, dicat, dedicat; D. D. C. Q. Dat, dicat, consecratque; H. S. written corruptly for L. L. S. Sestertius, equal in value to two pounds of brass and a half; the two pounds being marked by L. L. Libra, Libra, and the half by S. Semis. So, in modern books, A. D. marks Anno Domini, A. M. Artium Magister, Master of Arts; M. D. Medicina Doctor; * LL. D. Legum Doctor; N. B. Nota bene, &c.

Sometimes a small letter or two is added to the capital; as, Etc. Et cætera; Ap. Appius; Cn. Cneius; Op. Opiter; Sp. Spurius; Ti. Tiberius; Sex. Sextus; Cos. Consul; Coss. Consules; Imp. Imperator; Imp. Imperatores.

In like manner, in English, Esq. Esquire; Dr. Debtor or Doctor; Acct. Account; MS. Manuscript; MSS. Manuscripts; Do. Ditto; Rt. Hon. Right Honourable, &c.

Small letters are likewise often put as abbreviations of a word; as, i. e. id est; h. e. hoc est, that is; e. g. exempli gratiâ, for example; v. g. verbi gratiâ.

* Two capitals in this way denote the plural number; as, L. D. Legis Doctor; LL. D. Legum Doctor.

Division of the Roman Months.

The Romans divided their months into three parts, by Kalends*, Nones, and Ides. The first day of every month was called the Kalends; the fifth day was called the Nones; and the thirteenth day was called the Ides; except in the months of March, May, July, and October, in which the nones fell upon the seventh day, and the ides on the fifteenth.

In reckoning the days of their months, they counted backwards. Thus, the first day of January was marked Kalendis Januariis or Januarii, or, by contraction, Kal. Jan. The last day of December, Pridie Kalendas Januarias, or Januarii, scil. ante. The day before that, or the 30th day of December, Tertio Kal. Jan. scil. die ante; or Ante diem tertium Kal. Jan. The twenty-ninth day of December, Quarto Kal. Jan. And so on, till they came back to the thirteenth day of December, or to the ides, which were marked Idibus Decembris, or Decembris: the day before the ides, Pridie Idus Dec. scil. ante: the day before that, Tertio Id. Dec. and so back to the nones, or the fifth day of the month, which was marked Nonis Decembris, or Decembris: the day before the nones, Pridie Non. Dec. &c. and thus through all the months of the year.

JUNIUS, APRILIS, SEPTEMQUE, NOVEMQUE tricenos;
Unum plus reliqui; FEBRUUS tenet octo viginti;
At si bissextus fuerit, superadditur unus.
Tu primam mensis lucem dic esse kalendas.
Sex MAIUS, nonas OCTOBER, JULIUS, et MARS,
Quatuor at reliqui; dabit idus quilibet octo.
Omnes post idus luces dic esse kalendas,
Nomen sortiri debent a mense sequenti.

Thus, the 14th day of April, June, September, and November, was marked XVIII. Kal. of the following month; the 15th, XVII. Kal. &c. The 14th day of January, August, and December, XIX. Kal. &c. So the 16th day of March, May, July, and October, was marked XVII. Kal. &c. And the 14th day of February, XVI. Kal. Martii or Martias. The names of all the months are used as Substantives or Adjectives, except Aprilis, which is used only as a Substantive.

In Leap year, that is, when February has twenty-nine days, which happens every fourth year, both the 24th and the 25th days of that month were marked, Sexto Kalendas Martii, or Martias; and hence this year is called Bissextilis.

* Kalends, or Calends, is derived from Calo, -are, to call. In the infancy of Rome, a priest summoned the people together in the Capitol, on the first day of the month, or of the new moon, and called over the days that intervened between that and the Nones. In later times the Fasti, or Calendar, used to be put up in public places.

The Nones [Nones] are so called, because they are nine days from the Ides. Ides, [Idus] from the obsolete verb Iduare, to divide, because they divide the month nearly equally.

The Romans, counting in the day on which they dated, called the second day before the Kalends, Nones or Ides, tertio, and so on. And, as the Kalends are not the last day of the current month, but the first day of the month following; we must take this additional day into consideration in accommodating our calendar to their dates; according to the following method:

RULE. Add one to the number of the Nones and Ides, and two to the number of days in the month for the Kalends; then subtract the number of the day: e. g. to find the Roman date of the 21st July; to 31, add 2, = 33; from this take 21, the day of the month, and the remainder, 12, is the Roman date, 12mo. Kal. Aug.

THE
WITH REFERENCE TO THE PURITY OF THE LANGUAGE.

THE golden age is generally computed from the time of the second Punic war to the latter end of the reign of Augustus Cæsar, and comprehends the oldest authors in the Latin tongue now extant, excepting the fragments of Livius Andronîcus; though, for a considerable time after the commencement of this period, the language was but yet forming, and by gradual improvements afterwards arrived at its most perfect state under Augustus.

The silver age is reckoned to have commenced on the death of Augustus, and continued to the end of Trajan's reign.

The brazen age began at the death of Trajan, and lasted till the time that Rome was taken by the Goths, about four hundred and ten years after the birth of Christ.

The iron age commenced from the sacking of Rome above-mentioned; after which, the purity and beauty of the Latin tongue declined very much, and many base words were introduced into the language, especially by the ecclesiastical and medical writers, the use of which ought to be carefully avoided by all persons studious of writing in a good Latin style; the surest way of obtaining which is carefully to read, make observations upon, and imitate, the purest Latin writers, especially those who come the nearest to Cicero, to whose valuable writings this language is very much indebted.

THE LATIN WRITERS,

Arranged according to the Ages in which they flourished.

The golden age begins at the time of the second Punic war, and extends to the latter end of the reign of Augustus; extending from the 514th to the 767th year after the foundation of Rome, or the 14th year of our Lord.

These authors are ranked among the writers of the golden age, but rather on account of their antiquity than their elegance. Their writings contain much wisdom and instruction, but are often deficient in the qualities of a finished style.

The Romans usually computed sums of money by sestertii, or sestertia. Sestertium is the name of a sum, not of a coin. When a numeral adjective is joined with sestertii, it means just so many sesterces; thus, decem sestertii = ten sesterces: but when it is joined with sestertia, it means so many thousand sestertii; thus, decem sestertia = 10,000 sesterces.

* These numbers show how many of each denomination it takes to make one of the next following, nearly.

† Quadrans signifies a quarter of the as; triens, a third; teruncius, three unciae of brass, (12 of which made an as,) or a silver coin of that value; libella, a diminutive of libra, being equivalent to the as, which originally weighed a pound; sembella, semi-libella; sestertius, semis tertius, or three asses less a half (after the Greek idiom ἡμισιόν τρίτον, for δύο ἡμισιόν); quinarius, five asses, called also victoriatus, from the image of Victory, its usual device; denarius, ten asses.

If a numeral adjective of another case is joined with the genitive plural, it denotes so many thousand; as, decem sestertium, 10,000 sestertii. If a numeral adverb is joined, it denotes so many hundred thousand; as, decies sestertium, ten hundred thousand sestertii. If the numeral adverb stands by itself, the signification is the same.

The cyāthus corresponded, in use and size, nearly to our wine glass.

ADDITIONAL REMARKS ON ROMAN MONEY.

In the preceding tables of money the authority of Dr. Adam, as given in his "Roman Antiquities," has been followed. And perhaps no one could in general be followed with more safety. But on some few points he differs from writers of great respectability. Forcellinus and Eckhel agree in resolving HS, not into LLS, but into IIS; that is, two asses and a half; giving the letters or lines II their usual numerical power. - This solution seems much more satisfactory than the former, and is supported by strong probabilities. We find, for example, on ancient coins, HVIR, for DUUMVIR; and an X, standing for ten, has sometimes a mark drawn across it thus, $\frac{v}{\lambda}$; as it is frequently found on the denarius, where it evidently stands for ten asses.

The following account of the Roman mode of reckoning by sesterces is taken from a treatise on the subject by Mr. Raper, in the Philosophical Transactions, vol. LXI.

“The Romans reckoned by Asses before they coined silver, after which they kept their accounts in Sesterces. The word Sestertius is an adjective, and signifies two and a half of any substantive to which it refers. In money matters its substantive is either As, or pondus; and Sestertius As is two Asses and a half; Sestertium pondus, two pondëra and a half [of silver], or 250 Denarii.

“When the Denarius passed for ten Asses, the Sesterce of $2\frac{1}{2}$ Asses was a quarter of it; and the Romans continued to keep their accounts in these Sesterces long after the Denarius passed for sixteen Asses; till, growing rich, they found it more convenient to reckon by quarters of the Denarius, which they called Nummi, and used the words Nummus and Sestertius, indifferently, as synonymous terms, and sometimes both together, as, Sestertius nummus; in which case, the word Sestertius, having lost its original signification, was used as a substantive; for Sestertius nummus was not two Nummi and a half, but a single Nummus of four Asses.

“They called any sum under 2000 Sesterces so many Sesterti, in the masculine gender; 2000 Sesterces they called duo or btia Sestertia, in the neuter; so many quarters making 500 Denarii, which was twice the Sestertium; and they said dena vicëna, &c. Sestertia, till the sum amounted to a thousand Sestertia, which was a million of Sesterces. But, to avoid ambiguity, they did not use the neuter Sestertium in the singular number, when the whole sum amounted to no more than 1000 Sesterces, or one Sestertium.

“They called a million of Sesterces Decies nummum, or Decies Sestertium, for Decies centëna millia nummorum, or Sestertiörum (in the masculine gender), omitting centëna millia, for the sake of brevity; they likewise called the same sum Decies Sestertium (in the neuter gender), for Decies centies Sestertium, omitting Centies for the reason above-mentioned; or simply Decies, omitting centëna millia Sestertium or centies Sestertium; and with the numeral adverbs Decies, Vicies, Centies, Millies, and the like, either centēna millia, or centies, was always understood."

The learned, while they agree as to the substance of the foregoing rules, and arrive at the same results in applying them to sums of money mentioned in the classics, yet differ widely with respect to the grammatical construction of the word sestertius. Forcellinus* contends, that sestertium is always the contracted genitive plural of the masculine sestertius; that the use of sestertia in the neuter, is confined to the poets, who form the word, by a metaplasm, for the sake of the metre; and that, where it is found in printed editions of prose writers, it has been arbitrarily substituted for the sign HS in the original manuscript, which sign stands in every such instance for sestertiūm, the genitive plural of sestertius.

Eckhel† considers the numeral adverbs decies, &c. as taking the nature of neuter substantives, as in the expressions hoc decies, decies plenum, &c. which occur in ancient authors; and since sestertius is in its nature an adjective (e. g. sestertius pes, sestertius nummus), he regards decies sestertium, decies plenum, &c. as phrases of similar construction. Hence we find the adjective sestertius varied through almost all the cases, as in the following examples: Decem arbusculārum umbram tricies sestertii summā compenses. Val. Max., Bis et vicies millies sestertium donationibus Nero effuderat. Tac. Sexagies sestertio margaritam mercātus es. Sueton.

TO BE LEARNED BY BEGINNERS.

RULE I. CONSTRUE the nominative case first (with the words thereto belonging, if any;) then the verb; then the word or words governed of the verb; lastly the preposition, (if any,) with the word depending on it.

II. A genitive case is usually construed after another noun, or a verbal adjective.

III. An infinitive mode is generally construed after another verb, or a participle.

IV. An adjective or participle, if no other word depend on it, must be construed before its substantive.

V. If an adjective or participle govern a word after it, it must be construed after its substantive.

VI. In an ablative absolute, construe the participle or adjective last, i. e. after the substantive or word with which it agrees.

VII. If two adjectives or participles agree with the same substantive, they must not be construed one before, and the other after that substantive; but either both before, by Rule IV. or both after, by Rule V.

VIII. Let the relative and its clause be construed as soon as possible after the antecedent.

* The following Rules are from Lyne's Latin Primer.

IX. Certain adverbs and conjunctions are construed before the nominative case and verb ; i. e. they are construed first in their own clause or sentence : so is the relative qui ; and so are quis the interrogative, quantus, quicunque, and such like words, (with their accompaniments,) in whatever case.

X. When a question is asked, construe the nominative case (unless it be the interrogative quis, quotus, quantus, uter, &c.) after the verb, or else between the English verb and its auxiliary, expressing the auxiliary first.

XI. After the verb sum, a verb passive, and a verb neuter, a nominative case is sometimes construed ; but then there is usually another nominative case, expressed or implied, to come before.

XII. An adverb is not to be construed with a substantive, but rather with a verb, or an adjective, or participle.

XIII. After a preposition, constantly look for an accusative, or ablative case.

XIV. The word governed must be construed after (generally immediately after) that word which governs it ; except such words as Rule IX. specifies ; and even they must be construed after prepositions.

XV. When in a sentence there is no finite verb, but only an infinitive, with a nominative case, expressed or understood, construe such an infinitive like an indicative, or some other finite mode, the nominative being construed in its proper place.

XVI. When there occur an accusative case and an infinitive mode, quod or ut being left out, construe the accusative first, with the word that before it, because it is there virtually a nominative, and should therefore, with its adjuncts, be construed like a nominative before the verb.

XVII. Words in apposition must be construed as near to each other as possible.

XVIII. All correspondent words must be construed as near to each other as possible.

XIX. Generally construe every word in any clause you have entered on after the nominative case, before you proceed to another clause; beginning each clause, as you pass from one to another, with the nominative case and verb, if there be such in it, and finishing it according to Rule I.

XX. An oblique case, unless it be an adjunct to the nominative, should be construed after the verb; and when more obliques than one depend on the same word, construe accusatives before datives, datives before ablatives, and genitives immediately after the words which govern them.

XXI. When sum is put for habeo, the English nominative is expressed in Latin by a dative, and the accusative by a nominative: in this case construe the dative first, like a nominative; then the verb, as if declined from habeo; and then the nominative after the verb, like an accusative.

XXII. By a very common ellipsis, the verb sum may be understood in any mode or tense; when it is so, it must be supplied in construing, as the sense requires.

XXIII. By a most elegant ellipsis, any finite verb may be understood, and inferred by reflection from another verb of like import, actually expressed within the period.

XXIV. Adjectives are often elegantly used as adverbs; and are then joined with verbs in the construction, and rendered adverbially.

THE POSITION OF WORDS IN LATIN COMPOSITION.

THE great mystery of the position of words in the Latin tongue lies principally in these two points, viz.

1. That the word governed be placed before the word which governs it.

2. That the word agreeing be placed after the word with which it agrees.

These two may be termed the maxims of position ; and from them result various rules, which may be conveniently divided into two classes, viz.

1. Rules resulting from the government of words.

2. Rules resulting from the agreement of words.

To which add a third class, viz.

3. Miscellaneous rules, not reducible to either of the two classes foregoing.

RULES OF POSITION.

CLASS I.

RULES RESULTING FROM THE GOVERNMENT OF WORDS.

RULE I. A VERB in the infinitive mode (if it be governed) is usually placed before the word which governs it.

II. A noun in an oblique case is commonly placed before the word which governs it ; whether that word be a verb, or another noun-substantive, adjective, or participle.

III. Dependent clauses, as well as single words, are placed before the principal finite verb, on which such clauses do mainly depend.

IV. The finite verb is commonly placed last in its own clause.

V. Prepositions usually precede the cases governed by them.

CLASS II.

RULES RESULTING FROM THE AGREEMENT OF WORDS.

VI. First Concord. The finite verb is usually placed after its nominative case, sometimes at the distance of many words.

VII. Second Concord. The adjective or participle is commonly placed after the substantive with which it agrees.

VIII. Third Concord. The relative is commonly placed after the antecedent with which it agrees.

IX. Third Concord. The relative is placed as near to the antecedent as possible.

CLASS III.

MISCELLANEOUS RULES.

X. Adverbs. Adverbs are placed before rather than after the words to which they belong.

XI. Adverbs. Adverbs are in general placed immediately before the words to which they belong ; no extraneous words coming between.

XII. Igitur, autem, enim, etiam, are very seldom placed first in a clause or sentence. The enclitics, que, ne, ve, are never placed first.

XIII. Tamen is very often, and elegantly placed after the first, second, or third word of the clause in which it stands.

XIV. Connected words should go together; that is, they may not be separated from one another by words that are extraneous, and have no relation to them.

XV. Cadence. The cadence, or concluding part of a clause or sentence, should very seldom consist of mono-syllables.

XVI. So far as other rules and perspicuity will allow, in the arrangement and choice of words, when the foregoing ends with a vowel, let the next begin with a consonant; and vice versa.

XVII. In general a redundancy of short words must be avoided.

XVIII. In general a redundancy of long words must be avoided.

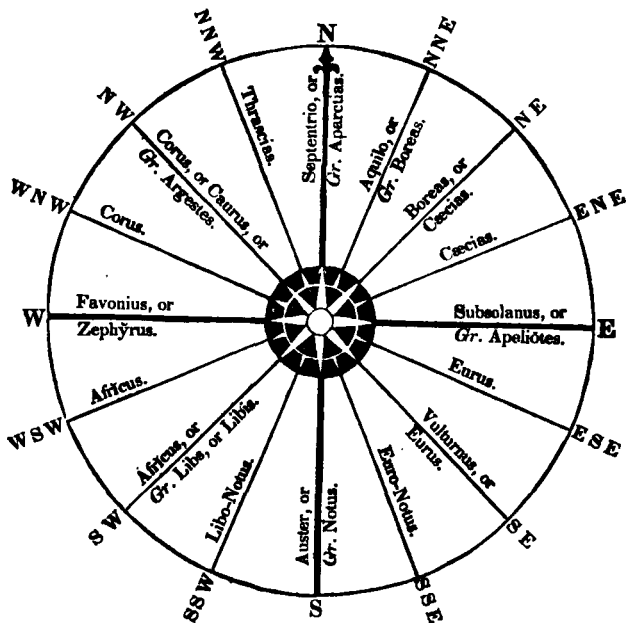

XIX. In general there must be no redundancy of long measures.

XX. In general there must be no redundancy of short measures.

XXI. The last syllables of the foregoing word must not be the same as the first syllables of the word following.

XXII. Many words, which bear the same quantity, which begin alike or end alike, or which have the same characteristic letter in declension or conjugation, (many such words,) may not come together.

THE ANCIENT NAMES OF THE VARIOUS WINDS.

HILLIARD, GRAY, LITTLE, AND WILKINS

HAVE RECENTLY PUBLISHED,

VIRGIL, for the Use of Schools, with English Notes, a Key for Scanning the most difficult Verses, and Questions on the Subjects of the Text and the Notes, with a copious Index; by B. A. GOULD, Principal of the Public Latin School of Boston.

EXTRACTS FROM THE NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW, FOR JULY, 1836.

"We have the utmost confidence in the correctness of the text of the edition of Virgil now before us."—"We have discovered no typographical error, and no inconsistency in the orthography."

"The notes are various in their kind; and not among the least frequent or useful are those of a philological character. The editor will not be accused of superfluity or prolixity in this part of his work; and his reasons for brevity are such as every person of similar experience will accept without hesitation."—"We rejoice to find this edition of Virgil excluding the order of construction or the interpretation, which has so long disfigured our school Virgil and other Latin Poets."

It is found by experience, that boys, taught to study without the artificial aid of interpretations, or of orders of construction, never feel the want of them, and read Horace and Juvenal with as much facility as they do Cicero and Tacitus.

This work is published on a fine paper, and a beautiful type, and is altogether far superior to any other edition of Virgil in use in our schools.

Also, by the same Editor, SELECTIONS FROM OVID, with English Notes and Questions.

Likewise, [in press,] HORACE, with English Notes, for the Use of Schools and Colleges on the same plan with the Virgil and Ovid, and by the same Editor.
