At Marcal, we've been committed to environmental sustainability since the 1950s, long before it was expected. We recognized, early on, the importance of protecting our planet for current and future generations.

Please forgive us, but we love talking about our Structured Sheet Technology and how the entire Transcend Family can help you change your business.

Marcal is proud to be a part of the solution.

Structured Sheet Technology

At Marcal, we've been committed to sustain-ability since the 1950's. Long before it was expected, we recognized the importance of protecting our planet for current and future generations.

We are dedicated to making a positive impact on the environment by providing high-quality paper products while minimizing our ecological footprint and contributing to a healthier planet.

Eco-Friendly Products

We take pride in offering a wide range of eco-friendly paper products, including recy-cled paper towels, tissues, and napkins. These products are made from recycled materials to reduce the need for virgin resources and mini-mize waste.

Reduced Carbon Footprint

All of Marcal manufacturing processes are designed for energy efficiency, and we are actively working to decrease our greenhouse gas emissions through innovative technology.
Our Structured Sheet Technology offers a 41% reduction of greenhouse gas emissions when compared to premium TAD paper products.

Waste Reduction

We implement waste reduction strategies at every level of our operations. Our goal is to minimize waste in production, distribution, and packaging, aiming for a zero-waste future.

NTT

-41%

*Compared to Through-Air Drying (TAD) technology through independent audit. For details please see www.marcalpaper.com/sustainability.

| Aspect	NTT	TAD
Process	NTT process involves using a textured belt and a shoe press to create a higher density web, and remove water from the sheet	TAD process uses a textured fabric and a through air drying method to produce a paper product
Emissions Efficiency	Typically produces lower air/GHG emissions because it uses less energy compared to traditional papermaking processes	Requires more energy for drying than other papermaking processes. Which may contribute to higher GHG emissions and energy use.

When you see either of the two below graphics on your products or cartons, you can be sure you are making a sensible choice to help protect the future of our planet.

In fact, we're so committed to this initiative, that we had ourselves audited to ensure we are doing all we can to make a positive impact on our planet.
