*“I shall not waste my days

A CITY OF SPLENDOR

One Country, two Systems

Macao lives off of the gaming and hospitality industries, which have exponentially expanded since the liberalization of the gaming industry in 2001, when Macao welcomed in foreign gaming operators. The Special Administrative Region, like its neighbour Hong Kong, operates under the oversight of Mainland China but has its own government, judicial system and currency. With virtually no unemployment and strong fiscal surpluses, Macao evolved from a fishing and trade hub, to a textile and fireworks manufacturing center, to its current reliance on the gaming industry. Gaming in Macao is divided between VIP play and mass-market, with the principal game being Baccarat.

World Heritage City Centre

The city center holds 21 UNESCO-protected buildings and squares, named the Historic Center of Macao, for their unique architectural, cultural and historical value. Its cuisine includes a variety of Portuguese recipes created with local ingredients, as well as mixtures of recipes from former Portuguese settlements including Goa, India and former African colonies – known as Macanese food.

The local population is predominantly comprised of Macao Chinese, Macanese – those of Portuguese and Chinese heritage, Portuguese and Southeast Asian nationalities, with an increased Western presence since the gaming liberalization.

Macao has a rich history, ranging from battles and races to fortune and economic resilience. Here are some of the memorable moments.

1500s PORTUGUESE ARRIVAL ▶ Portuguese merchant explorers arrive on the beach next to A-Ma Temple, earning the city its name.

1800s RUINS OF ST. PAUL'S ▶ A fire and typhoon destroy the Cathedral and College of St. Paul, leaving only the façade behind.

1968 CASINO LISBOA OPENS ▶ Stanley Ho's STDN, the company that held the casino monopoly until 2001, opens the Casino Lisboa.

1999 HANDOVER ▶ 422 years of Portuguese occupancy come to an end as the Portuguese flag is lowered December 19th.

1600s BATTLE OF MACAO ▶ A Dutch invasion of Macau is thwarted by local forces, despite the city's fort being only partially constructed.

1954 1ST GRAND PRIX ▶ 15 entrants, all motor enthusiasts, participate in a four-hour, 51-lap race around the Guia circuit.

1995 MACAO INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT ▶ Opened in November of 1995, the 24-hour airport handles long haul flights with up to 650,000 passengers.

2001 GAMING LIBERALIZATION ▶ City opens up to foreign gaming operators – with three concessions to Galaxy, SJM and Wynn Resorts.

“Love is a fire that burns unseen.”

- Luis de Camões – Portuguese Poet
In Macao: 1500s

UNESCO WORLD HERITAGE

Subscribed into the UNESCO World Heritage List in 2005, Macao’s geographical location as well as its architectural, scientific, artistic and technological mixtures between Eastern and Western cultures give the city a visible historical profile, easily seen through its major monuments and areas.

1. CASA GARDEN

▶ Home to the Orient Foundation, it was built in 1770 for Portuguese merchant Manuel Pereira and later rented out to the East India Company.

3. LILAU SQUARE

▶ A local saying says those who drink from the fountain, located in one of the first Portuguese residential segments of Macao, never forget the city.

5. MANDARIN HOUSE

▶ Traditional residence compound of literary figure Zheng Guanying, the compound features both Western and Chinese elements and plays host to various performances and events.

2. SENADO SQUARE

▶ The square facing the former senate building – Leal Senado – is framed by neo-classical buildings and is the hub of events and tourism in the city.

4. DOM PEDRO V THEATRE

▶ First Western-style theatre in China and built in 1860, the theatre seats 300. The theatre serves as a venue for high-profile local events and performances.

6. MOUNT FORTRESS

▶ Formerly the city’s main defense, the fortress was equipped with canons and barracks, and located next to the Ruins of St. Paul’s.

GET OUT AND EXPLORE

The city has an array of activities and experiences to take advantage of. From cuisine that ranges from Michelin-starred restaurants to catered local delicacies, to UNESCO heritage, unique shows, architecture, temples, cultural festivals, skyscrapers and a bustling nightlife. There’s something for the adrenaline seeker, the anthropologist, the deal closer and the gourmand. Most places are friendly for large groups, although it is best to ensure transportation to and from venues as limited parking and traffic buildups, like in any urban area, can occur.

1. WORLD HERITAGE

▶ The iconic Ruins of St. Paul’s, Rua de Felicidade (Happiness Street), A-Ma Temple, Mandarin’s House and Guia Lighthouse are top and iconic landmarks of the city, which are picture-perfect for lasting memories. All are located on the Macao Peninsula, in the Historic Center, and are UNESCO classified.

2. TAIPA AND COLOANE VILLAGE

▶ Taipa Village has everything from Portuguese architecture to views over the Cotai strip. It is full of restaurants, typical sweet meats and candies, bars and souvenir shops. Coloane Village holds temples, old colonial buildings and remnants of the city’s fishing past as well as egg tarts and outdoor restaurants.

3. DINING IN TAIPA OR COTAI

▶ Both areas hold a large variety of cuisines, though Taipa restaurants tend to have limited capacity for large groups (not over 40) whereas Cotai can handle larger capacities. Taipa holds more ethnic cuisines - Japanese, Portuguese, Western, Korean, French – while Cotai has more mixtures - including buffets and international restaurant chains.

4. TEAM BUILDING

▶ From outdoor race-oriented competition and beach-based activities; to indoor games and puzzle-oriented tasks - a wide selection of activities is available to choose from. All venues are within range of food and beverage options, often times within the same property.

5. MACAO TOWER

▶ Sporting a bungee jump, a walking area around the tower, 233 meters up, and a rotating restaurant and observation deck, the venue is ideal for large groups, with meeting facilities and F&B options. The surrounding lakes and view across the harbour are beautiful from morning to night.

6. SHOWS AND NIGHTLIFE

▶ A number of shows and club venues are available, differing in size and decoration. Ranging from a water-based show, The House Of Dancing Water and a Magic Show, cultural and music performances, as well as an array of nightclubs - open until early in the morning, venues can be rented and tickets bought for after-work or during-work fun.

The city is bursting with excitement from bright lights to picturesque alleyways. There’s something for everyone!

MACAU GRAND PRIX

"The hardest track in the world" – so say the world's racing legends about the Guia circuit of the Macau Grand Prix. The 6.2-kilometer circuit was first raced in 1954 by a group of 15 motor enthusiasts with the race since evolving into a multi-category competition renowned worldwide for testing the abilities of drivers from Formula 3 and GT to Touring cars and Motorcycles.

Hosted by the Macau Grand Prix Organizing Committee, the event is a hit with motor enthusiasts, visitors to the city, and locals alike. Viewable from across the city, the most popular stand is located on the Lisboa corner - a tight corner at the end of a straightaway prone to pile-ups and thrilling maneuvers. An additional two stands – the Reservoir Stand and the Grand Stand – provide sitting room for watching the on-average four-day event.

Burning rubber

The Guia Circuit passes by some of the city's most famous landmarks and its hairpin turns, twisting across the city's coast, mountain ridges and city center thrilling audiences worldwide with drivers' skill and daring. Celebrating its 60th anniversary in 2013 and with the Motorcycle Grand Prix entering its 5th decade in 2016, the race continues to grow its following, with over 80,000 spectators at the event.

Local champion André Couto took home the trophy for the Formula 3 in 2000, joining a list of champions of the races including Michael Schumacher, Ayrton Senna and eight-time winner of the Motorcycle Grand Prix – Michael Rutter.

Macao proved to be a central location and the local community including government body IPIM supported this program in every way possible. We remain grateful to our hosts in Macao, especially our partners at MISE - Macau Meetings, Incentives and Special Events Association without whom this would not have been possible. We look forward to returning to Macao in the future for another CIS (Certified Incentive Specialist) program and to further collaboration for building a strong MICE community of incentive professionals there.

I love Macao as a destination and I have held events there for many years. The location is vibrant and modern yet has a wonderful history to balance that busy city feel. The hotels are fabulous and it is one of very few places you can achieve large events with many breakouts, without using a convention center, and have everyone under one roof or several interconnecting properties.

The CWT Globalink Annual Conference held in Macao in 2014 was a memorable experience for all our delegates and their families. Macao has all the basics of an ideal events destination: upscale integrated resorts providing world-class facilities, professional services, exclusive event venues and entertainment options for huge group sizes organizing week long conferences. With Macao's historic center under the UNESCO World Cultural Heritage list, it underscored the rich cultural wealth which spanned over the centuries.

We chose Macao because there are only a small number of locations that could actually handle the size of our audience and the complexity of getting 1,200 people into a Main Tent and then 30-40 people in meeting of different configurations. In terms of the overall experience, I have to say, our event was professionally and attentively handled – from accommodation, to food and beverage and to the meeting space management. We've been amazingly happy with the service we have received. We would definitely bring future programs back.

*CEO

The meetings industry has watched as Macao has grown into one of the world's most dynamic and capable business events cities. Macao now offers an astonishing array of modern, high quality hotels and venues. The scale of its development and transformation over the past 10 years makes it an Asian leader in terms of new product. It has a capacity and appeal that few cities can match and all in a compact, easy to navigate destination.
