

THE NORTHVILLE RECORD.

Vol. XXV, No. 38.

NORTHVILLE, MICH., FRIDAY, MAY 4, 1894.

$1.00 per year, in advance.

Around the Country.

Prof. M. L. Smith of South Lyon has resigned.

Farming is banking a heap on a Detroit electric railroad.

Milk thieves are the latest production at Fowlerville. They should be skimmed out of town.

The Orion Review has a Town Corner's correspondent, a lady we judge, who bids fair to yet rank with Geo. W. Peck or Bill Nye.

Besides having his neighbors' hens pecking up his new made garden all of Editor Bloomer's family have got the measles, not excepting the office cat, at Farmington.

Geo. Prior of Milford whose whereabouts has been a mystery prior to last week has turned out all right again. George had simply been over to South Lyon and got lost.

Under the head of "Bargain Column" the Newygo Democrat warns all trespassers against bathing in the Kritzer pond. It might be a bar gain did they bathe at the hotel.

The F&M company will present a $25 prize to the station agent who will get his station and premises in the best shape by fall. Agent Lake might capture it by cleaning out the mill pond.

The Wayne Tidings is the latest launch in the newspaper line at Wayne. The editor announces his paper is published solely that he may earn a living and not "to fill a long felt want." Many a publisher earns a living that he never gets.

One of the bright school column editors at Carleton grinds out the following: "Backward, turn backward, oh time in your flight; bring up our parents here just for a sight, let them but gaze at the dirt on the wall, and bring us new paper that will cover it all."

Del Browning of the Dundee Ledger and Miss Myrtle Slayton a well known and favorite Dundee girl surprised everybody by getting married last Saturday night. To appease the ire of all the parents, the young couple promise to never let the occurrence happen again.

Indications are that Milford will have no saloons the coming year and the Holly Advertiser prophesies there will be more cases of "jim jams" in that town than was ever dreamed of. Horatio. Holly tried it once and therefore the Advertiser knows what it's talking about.

Orion people with blood in their eyes are looking for the fellow who threw two pails of water on the rat-trap depot roof one day last week thereby putting out the nicely started fire which in time would have systematically disinfected it. If there are any worse looking old sheils of passenger stations on the Michigan Central road than Orion they are as yet unknown.

The Flat Rock Herald referring to insurance rates says: "Promising a reduction, and neglect to keep that promise, seems to be a common failing of insurance companies." One of our local agents here informs the RECORD that when an organized fire department is in control of our fire protection the insurance companies will reduce their rates and not till then.

The Holly Advertiser asserts we lied about the Holly farmer and the "can't hook." Now we know just what we are talking about and it actually occurred. The farmer's name is Smith and he lives on the Ortonville road 'bout three miles nor'east o' Holly. The hired man's name was Denny. The Advertiser can now retract or take his chances on getting licked.

The Fenton Independent has entered upon its 27th year. The Independent is a model newspaper and its editor (Jennings junior) is the handsomest benedick in the Michigan Press Association. Jennings says it's "Vol. 26, No. 1" but everybody knows it's 27. Jennings has forgot his name and age both since we took him over to the world's fair with us last summer.

In digging at the Ann Arbor water works station, last week, a piece of strap rail, many feet down, was brought to the surface. It was the steady contention of Wendell Phillips that the prehistoric ancients possessed the railroad and the telegraph. That they had the railroad this piece of strap rail witnesses, while the discovery of hoopskirts at the bottom of old wells, proves the use of wire at a remote period in the past, and strongly infers the telegraph. We think ourselves the smartest generation ever on the earth, when in fact we may be the laughing stock of antiquity's ghosts. —Adrian Press.

A Request to the Public.

With the return of decoration day our minds are carried back with sorrowful remembrance to the dark days in our country's history when the black pall of mourning hung so heavily over a weeping people, that the bitter cup seemed filled alone with blood and tears, because of the thousands of noble lives sacrificed on the nation's altar. To all those who passed through those times that tried men's souls and especially to the Grand Army these thoughts come with added force and significance and they feel that it is a day of solemnity and sorrow rather than a day of hilarity and mirth. Therefore the Grand Army Post do earnestly call upon the young men of Northville and vicinity, out of the respect they bear for the living soldiers as well as the dead and their friends, to kindly refrain from investigating any base ball or other games on that day.

By Order of Committee.

Still Another!

Deputy Supreme Chief Ranger Henry L. Harrison, instituted a court of Foresters here Wednesday evening and installed the following as officers: C. D. H. C. R.; J. A. Dubuar; C. R., C. L. Dubuar; V. C. R., C. C. Chadwick; R. S., W. F. Lyon; F. S., L. A. Babbitt; Treas., W. G. Yerkes; S. W., H. A. Bovee; J. W., A. D. Brooks; S. B., C. C. Blackburn; J. B., F. A. Sutherland; P. C. R., Chas. R. Stevens; Chaplin, C. A. Hutton; Physician, J. M. Burgess.

This court starts out under most favorable circumstances, officered by good men and a fine membership of some twenty two of our best citizens. This order seems to possess very desirable insurance features, being backed by nearly one million dollars of reserve fund.

Mr. Harrison goes from here to Plymouth where he hopes to extend to the people there the advantages of the order.

A NICE RIPE PLUM.

Yet Only Two Northville People Sought to Pluck It.

At a special meeting of the town board held here Saturday night the census enumerators were appointed. C. F. Bennett of Plymouth gets the chiefship and his assistants are E. J. Burr of that same place, P. King Ambler and B. G. Webster of this place.

This is a soft snap, lasting probably two weeks, paying $2.50 per day for ten hours work, yet it is a remarkable fact that Mr. Ambler and Mr. Webster were the only two applicants from this end of the town.

The board also appointed three "black knot" commissioners: W. P. Johnson Northville, Carmon Roof Salem, E. J. Bradner Plymouth. Cherry and plum trees are becoming alarmingly diseased with this plague and township boards are taking action on it all over the state. When complaint is made and the owners neglect to remove same these commissioners will perform the operation at the proprietors expense. They are allowed $2 per day or $1 for half a day for services rendered. Their authority extends to yellows in peach trees as well as the black knot. These commissioners are scattered to the three winds of the town and will investigate all cases where notification is sent.

Why not, indeed?

When the Royal Baking Powder makes finer and more wholesome food at a less cost, which every housekeeper familiar with it will affirm, why not discard altogether the old-fashioned methods of soda and sour milk, or home-made mixture of cream of tartar and soda, or the cheaper and inferior baking powders, and use it exclusively?

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 105 WALL ST., NEW-YORK.

Cashiers in the stores of Smyrna, Turkey, receive an average salary of $14 per week. The regular salary of the superintendent of a Cuban sugar plantation is $100 a month.

Station laborers on the German railroads are required to be on duty from 5:30 a. m. to 10:30 p. m. seven days in the week.

It is claimed that the laborers in every occupation are paid from two to five times as much in the United States as in any country in Europe.

A street sign that interests people is the carving of the ornamental work on the fronts of buildings in course of construction. Stone carvers get from $4.50 to $5.50 a day for eight hours' work. They are expert workmen.

A charter has been issued to the Bluefield electric railway company, composed of Philadelphia capitalists. The company proposes to build an electric railway about twenty miles in length to connect six towns in the Bluefield coal region of West Virginia.

Mrs. Alex. Robertson, of Half Rock, Mercer Co., Mo., writes: "For twenty years, I suffered with womb disease and most of the time I was in constant pain which rendered life a great burden. I cannot express what I suffered. I had eight doctors and all the medicine I had from them failed—the one after the other.

I was nervous, cold hands and feet, palpitation, headache, backache, constipation, leucorrhoea and no appetite, with bearing-down pains. I got so weak I could not walk around. I had to keep my bed, thinking I would never get any better.

One day my husband got one of your little books and read it to me. He said there was nothing doing me any good. I said I would try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I did try it. After the first few weeks my appetite was better; I was able to sit up in bed.

I wrote to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, at Buffalo, N. Y., and described my case; they sent me a book on woman's diseases. I read carefully and followed the directions as near as I could and took the medicine for two years. With the blessing of God and your medicines, I am entirely cured. That was three years ago.

Yours truly, Mrs. Alex. Robertson.

"Favorite Prescription" is a positive cure for the most complicated and obstinate cases of leucorrhoea, excessive flowing, painful menstruation, irregular suppressions, and irregularities, prolapsus, or falling of the womb, weak back, "female weakness," anteversion, retroversion, bearing-down sensations, chronic constipation, inflammation and ulceration of the womb, inflammation, pain and tenderness in ovaries, accompanied with "internal heat."

The Book (168 pages, illustrated) referred to above, is sent sealed secure from observation in plain envelope for ten cents in stamps, to pay postage. Write for it. The Book points out the means of successful Home Treatment for all the peculiar weaknesses and distressing diseases incident to women. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y.

Yours truly, Mary J. Tanner.

NORTHVILLE LOCALS.

Did you ever think how queer it is that as summer days advance and man puts off his winter clothes the dog puts on his pants?

Don't miss Frank Tucker at the opera house Monday evening.

Goodfellow & Co. have repainted the inside of Gorton & Co's. store.

"Dutch" measles, if you know what that is, are having a run in Northville.

Paper tires for bicycles are announced as being among the new things about to be introduced.

Enjoy the latest songs and dances, Baby Johnson, and jovial Frank Tucker at the opera house Monday evening.

If a lady wishes to change her last year's bonnet into a this year's style all that is necessary is to run it through a wringer and there you have it.

The Northville ball club downed the MMA club at Orchard Lake Saturday to the tune of 11 to 8. German and Leet were the Northville battery.

C. E. Smith, the grocer, has added a line of crockery to his stock. A. W. Reed has done likewise and T. G. Richardson has put in a carpet department.

The band benefit will take place at the opera house Monday evening May 14. Watch for the programs and small bills. It will be a hummer—the entertainment.

If you have any complaint regarding black knot on cherry or plum trees to make notify the commissioners. Their names will be found in another column of this issue.

The eighteen months old child of John Raymond of North Center street died Friday morning. The funeral occurred Saturday afternoon conducted by Rev. P. R. Parrish.

Among other of Northville-Detroit visitors on the train Tuesday was noted a landlord, a merchant, a milliner, a banker, a detective, a doctor, an undertaker, a minister and an editor.

The reading by Mrs. Preston at the Baptist church Tuesday evening was very pleasing. The vocal selections by Mrs. Randolph-Long were no small factor in the interesting program.

We notice that clergymen about the country are preaching a sermon on "If Christ came to" their town. Suppose our local pastors take up the theme. Let's see how really bad or good we are in Northville.

It is noted that last year's issue of postage stamps was in round numbers four thousand million. The postal cards used during the same period if placed end to end would put a paper girle around the earth more than a dozen times.

Next Sunday evening the services on the Pilgrim's Progress begin at the Presbyterian church. Each sermon will be illustrated with large paintings. Topic: (1) Leaving the city of destruction. The morning topic is "The Kingdom of God." Seats free.

The funeral of Charles Barnhart occurred at the Methodist church Sunday afternoon, Rev. P. R. Parrish officiating. Mr. Barnhart was thirty-four years of age. He had been ill for some years. He leaves a wife and three small children in limited circumstances.

A new game for evening parties is announced as follows: All the young ladies bring photos of themselves taken when they were babies, or at least when they were children. These are arranged in a row and the young man who can identify the greater number receives a prize.

There was an unusually large crowd out to the band concert, and ice cream social which followed at the WCTU hall, Saturday night. The net receipts presented to the band was $8.20. This amount would have been swelled to a much larger proportion had not the cream given out long ere the pocket books of the people were flattened.

There will be a graphophone entertainment at the WCTU hall next Wednesday evening. Mr. Bennett has exchanged his other machine and now has a much larger and more satisfactory instrument as well as a complete new program. This chance to hear this wonderful machine should be improved. Proceeds for benefit of the poor.

This is said to be the year for the appearance of the seventeen-year locusts. They may be expected about the last days of this month as an advance guard. They will be in full force by the middle of June and will gradually diminish towards the middle of July. They seldom do much harm therefore there is no cause for special alarm.

It is observed with much regret that there is an inclination among bicycle riders to lean forward more than ever this season. In fact some of them almost lie down to their work. Next thing we know they will be kicking backward, resembling a person swimming rather than riding. If the fool-kicker would only attend to his business this obscurity would soon be done away with.

I wish to say that the report that I was one of Geo. Cook's bail goers last week is false. J. L. BROOKS. wlp

Following letters are advertised at the post office this week: Miss Grace Conroy. Mr. Jac Schaffer. C. A. DOWNER P. M.

Frank Tucker, Michigan's popular comedian, will be at the opera house Monday May 7 in "The Gold King." Children 70 cents; general admission 20 cents; reserved seats 30 cents, on sale at Hueston's.

The service at the Methodist church next Sabbath a. m. will be in the nature of a baptismal service. All probationers expected to be present to take or renew their baptismal vows. Another illustrated sermon will be given in the evening, subject: "The Timid Seeker," enforced by three large paintings. Evening services at 6:30 p. m. and 7:30 p. m. hereafter. Rev. Seth Reed preached a magnificent sermon last Sabbath morning on "Prophecy."

The saying is that the proof of the pudding is in the eating, so Mr. Belding's second class in Shakespeare proves how thoroughly the first effort was enjoyed. Monday night the class began the study of Julius Caesar. Mr. Belding gave a short talk on Shakespeare and an introduction to the play to be studied. Then followed the reading with comments, explanations and criticism by the leader. The class now numbers about forty and has become so large that they will hereafter meet in the library.

Mrs. M. M. Weeks, state lecturer of the WCTU, has been secured to give two lectures for the young. These lectures are illustrated with charts and are very interesting and instructive. Mrs. Weeks has given these lectures in many of the largest cities in the United States, four months in New York and in some of the largest churches in Chicago. She comes recommended by the state and national committees. Her dates for Northville are May 14 and 15. Tickets ten and fifteen cents. Hear her at the WCTU hall.

Following is not at all original nor does it refer to Northville. We simply put it in to "fill up." A blank spot right here in the paper would have looked awful bad, don't you know: "A child is born, physician attends and receives his fee. The editor writes up the event and receives o. The child reaches manhood's estate. Is married; the minister receives his fee. The editor writes it up and receives o. Time passes on the man dies; the physician, the minister, the undertaker receive their fees. The editor writes it up and receives o. The chances are that the babe, the groom, the dead man took more papers than he could read and never subscribed or contributed one cent to his local paper."

As the years roll on, the grim messenger summons from the ranks, one by one, the comrades who have marched elbow to elbow in defense of our country's unity. In the past year over three hundred of the true and faithful defenders have been added to those who have gone before to that bourne from which no traveler returns. Mere eulogy is as a waxen flower that melts in the hand that fondly grasps it; but true eulogy is a living flower, rooted alike in earth and sun. It is the duty of every loyal American citizen to lay aside their toils on memorial day and pay just tribute to those brave men who laid down their lives for their country. So let it be done in Northville on the 30th day of this month.

Frank Tucker and his splendid comedy company will appear at the Northville opera house Monday evening, May 7, in a magnificent production of "The Gold King," a drama of intense humor interest in four acts. Mr. Tucker's company this year is the best with which he has ever been surrounded and boasts among other clever performers the greatest child actress and dancer on the American stage, little five year old "Baby Johnson." All manner of fancy dances are executed by her with the ease and grace of older and experienced performers and she will appear in a number of her most difficult efforts here. Mr. Tucker himself improves as the seasons roll by and as "Jack" in the "Gold King" he has one of the greatest parts he has ever played. The prices for the engagement are 10, 20 and 30 cents.

REMOVED—Dr. M. A. Patterson has removed to the residence formerly occupied by D. B. Northrop, corner Dunlap and Wing street.

"It's the early bird that gets the worm." As we've so long been taught. But remember, please, my bustling friends, it's the early worm that's caught.

Don't forget the mother's meeting, which was postponed this week, at the WCTU hall next Wednesday afternoon. Subject "Our Boys." All are cordially invited.

T. G. Richardson has made a striking improvement in the looks of the front of his store by removing the big iron post which has done duty these many years and substituting steel beams overhead in its stead.

We have received many compliments from our best people for the way in which we treated a certain article of scandal in last week's issue. We have also received many uncomplimentary kicks from many for not publishing the matter. And so it goes.

Following is not original at all but we believe there are times when even our local clergy would endorse the words: "Before the steward takes up the collection," said the preacher the other night says an exchange, "I would like to make a few remarks. There are over two hundred persons counting sinners and saints, crooked and straight, big and little, male and female, not including crying babies. If each person here thinks my sermon worth the price of a glass of beer or a nickle cigar, five red tenths of a dime let them pay that amount. If each person pays a nickle it would make a total of $10 this evening. This repeated every week in the year would pay my salary. A sermon that isn't worth five cents isn't worth coming to hear, and a person that will beat the Lord, the preacher or the printer, is a goat of odor the most odoriferous."

The "On to Washington" address delivered by Rev. Belding Sunday evening was strikingly patriotic and interesting and should have a place alongside of that delivered by Prof. Shazor at the opera house a few weeks ago. Mr. Belding handled our politicians at Washington and the hoodlers of Wall street without gloves. The latter place he said had become the capital of the United States instead of Washington. He thought it as creditable for the laboring men of this country to march on to Washington with their petitions as for the money kings of Wall street to ride there in special trains with theirs. He spoke in denouncing terms of the laws regarding pauper and criminal immigration to our shore. "These ignorant off-scourings of foreign countries who are unable to write, read or even understand" he said, "are given a right to vote and take part in the government of this country while the educated women of America, though amenable to all laws and taxation as is the sterner sex, is given no voice in the matter at all." The address was listened to with close attention and certainly every word deserves careful thought by every intelligent person.

MICHIGAN NEWS.

NEWS IN BRIEF FROM THE TWO PENINSULAS.

The Odd Fellows of Michigan Celebrate in Many Places the Seventy-Fifth Anniversary of the Founding of the Order.

The seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of Odd Fellowship in America was fittingly celebrated by the fourteen lodges of that order in Detroit.

The Odd Fellows of Grand Lodge, Odd Bluff, Flushing, Fenton and Cornwala, with the two lodges of Owosso, celebrated the 75th anniversary at Owosso.

St. Louis. Nearly a thousand Odd Fellows were in St. Louis to celebrate the 75th anniversary of their order.

Charlotte. The local lodge celebrated the 75th anniversary of the order by initiating 52 new members.

Dundee. Monroe association I O O F. celebrated here. The parade, with three bands, showed that Monroe, South Rockwood, Trenton Flat Rock, Carleton, Maybee, Ottawa Lake, Bessfield, Deerfield, Tecumseh, Milan, Adrian and Wyandotte lodges were represented.

Kalamazoo. The three local Odd Fellows lodges, with a membership of 800, celebrated the anniversary with a public entertainment.

Detroit did honor to Gov John T. Rich of the state of Michigan. The occasion was the governor's levee, the annual social function of the Detroit Light Guard.

When the governor and his handsome corps of assistants, the members of his staff, appeared at 9 o'clock, the band struck up "Hail to the Chief" and the party arranged themselves as per program in parlors A and B.

At 10 o'clock the party filed into the dancing room in pairs, the governor and Col. Henry M. Duffield leading, followed by Gov. Jerome A. Ransom, Rich, Gea and Mr. Alger, Dr. and Mrs. W. G. Henry and the officers of the staff, with ladies.

The five-year-old daughter of Fred J. Beaman, a Jackson playwright, has been sick several days. Doctors at first said she had scarlet fever, but Dr. Z. W. Waldron decided that the child had small-pox.

John Rule was killed in Osceola by being struck by a slip while oiling rollers in the shaft. He leaves six children.

George Lemleis killed himself at Jackson by taking ratpoison. He was a widower, and had been out of work some time.

Coldwater police raided a gambling hell and confiscated all the paraphernalia. Five men were arrested and heavily fined.

None of the coal miners at Jackson or Sebawing are out on strike. The mines are paying the standard scale and the workmen are satisfied.

The interior of the opera house at Ludington was destroyed by fire. It had been newly decorated and rebuilt. The loss amounts to about $1,200.

MICHIGAN MINERS STARVING.

Nearly 1,000 miners paraded the streets of Iron Mountain, demanding bread or work and great excitement prevailed. Business men fear that their places will be looted, but the sign appear to be good natured.

Walter Battice, of the Sac and Fox tribe, and his wife, the daughter of Makosahote, chief of the tribe, have been divorced.

James W. Wood, who absconded from Marshall some time ago with $5,000 belonging to the A. O. U. W. lodge, of which he was state treasurer, has been found in Mexico.

THE COMMONWEALERS.

COPS CORRALLED COXEY AT THE CAPITOL.

The General Tried to Speak From the Steps of the Capitol Building, but Was Called Down—Other Leaders Arrested—News of Other Divisions of the Army.

Washington is besieged. "General" Coxe and his godd roads army of the commonweal arrived at their mecca and went into camp at the Brightwood Driving Park.

The encampment had very much the appearance of a country circus and the scene was certainly picturesque and interested the thousands of city people greatly.

On the morning of the day appointed for the demonstration by the commonweal army and the speech by "Gen" Coxe, the army arose bright and early.

The feature of the whole parade was Miss Mammie Coxe on a white prancing steed in the role of Goddess of Peace.

When the head of the procession reached the point where they were to turn toward the capitol a solid front of mounted police headed them off.

Before the army leaders fully realized it they were marching up a street away from the capitol.

There was a hurried consultation between Coxe, Browne and Jones, of Philadelphia.

Coxe sprang to the heavy stone piling which surrounds the foliage of the east front of the capitol grounds.

KNOWLEDGE.

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers, and permanently curing constipation.

It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

THE NEWS RESUME.

The Vaughan Library at Ashland, Wis., has been destroyed by fire. Loss, $150,000.

Cable from Lisbon: During 24 hours there were 104 cases and three deaths from cholera reported here.

Dr. Joseph E. Stubbs, who has since 1886 been the president of Baldwin university at Berea, O., has resigned, and will accept the presidency of the state university at Nevada.

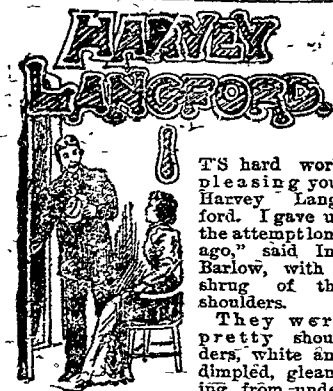

Washington: Representative O'Neill, of Missouri, has introduced a bill to protect free labor from the injurious effects of convict labor by confining the sale of the products of the latter class of labor to the state where produced.

FROM EVERYWHERE.

The Italian laborers of Akron, O., have banded together in an attempt to secure recognition of their rights by the city. They will demand the privilege of working on the streets, unmolested, for the same wages that will be paid Americans.

While sixteen colliers were, descending a shaft leading to a mine at Bois du Lack, in the Mons district in Belgium, the cable broke, precipitating the whole party to the ground. Thirteen of the miners were killed, and the remaining three severely injured.

It's hard work pleasing you, Harvey Langford. I gave up the attempt long ago," said Ina Barlow, with a shrug of the shoulders. They were pretty shoulders, white and dimpled, gleaming from under the dainty muslin dress; but the shrug was undeniable, and followed up by a toss of the head and a pout of the red lips.

"I should not suppose one could judge of the difficulty attending an untried task," retorted the young man. "You know well enough what would please me, Ina, and you are so fully aware that you constantly pursue the opposite path. Will Strong and Joe Dering are good enough fellows in their way; but for all that, you need not reserve all your smiles for them. Let them know how matters stand between us."

"And how is that?" interrupted the girl, with a quick flash of her eye. "Ina, didn't you give me your promise a month ago?" And the young man's honest brown eyes looked steadily into hers.

"I told you when you got to be over-seeer at the mines I would think about it. There's plenty of time, between now and then for me to change my mind—if, indeed, it has ever been made up. At all events, frowns and fault-finding won't make me any the more eager for the day to arrive."

"Ah, darling, when that hour comes, the frowns will have been chased away forever. Come, dear, tell me if you love me just a little. Perhaps I am unreasonable, but I can't help it, Ina. When I see you with other men, and you seem so cold and indifferent to me, I feel as though I could kill them and snatch you away where my eye but mine could dwell on your beauty. There, dear, I must leave you. Say good night, and give me a corner in your dreams."

The girl's eyes had softened now. The bright, young mouth quivered, and the full, red lips were raised to meet the warm, glowing lips her lover left upon them.

"I do love you, Harvey," she whispered. "If you would only not be so cross."

"I know it, dear," he answered. And gathering her in his arms, as though she had been a feather, he pressed another kiss upon the chestnut-crowned head, and then went out into the night.

Though but a rustic beauty, whose views of life were bounded by the village horizon she had grown up a willful, petted thing with her feet as carefully guarded from the rough paths as any high-born lady in the land.

Admiration was to her what the dew is to the flower, and it was little wonder that oftentimes Harvey Langford's heart grew still with honest dread, or that he longed for the day to come when he would gather this wild flower to his breast.

The present overseer of the mine was growing old and unfitted for his post. With the new year a change was to be made, and words the principal had dropped into his ear had given

"I am ready," he said and in his eyes shone a calm determination, a quiet fearlessness, which showed, though he fully appreciated the danger, he would not falter.

"Harvey," whispered a voice in his ear, and falling back a step he turned to see the fair beauty of the girl he had once so madly loved.

"Well, what do you want?" he questioned roughly. "To look once more upon your work ere I go to my doom?"

"No, Harvey," the sweet, young voice faltered; "to beg you, for my sake, not to go. I have suffered so, Harvey. Let me tell you how. It was not as you supposed. Will Strong had asked me to marry him, and I—I had told him I could not, because—because of my love for you, and when I said that, he told me you were a good, brave fellow, and since I could not care for him, he only hoped I might be happy, and then, Harvey, he begged me just to give him one kiss to take with him into his new life, and so I—"

"Gave it—yes, I saw it all. A well-told story, Ina Barlow—a story you may whisper in my dead ears when they bring, an hour hence, perhaps, my lifeless body from the mine." And, with a harsh laugh, he pushed away the little hand laid so pleadingly upon his arm. "Stand back, men; I am ready." And in another moment the descending shaft hid him from their sight.

Minutes passed, which to those waiting seemed endless hours. The smoke came up in thick, hot gusts, and an awful silence fell upon all. Still came no sign from those shut from their sight of whose fearful danger the low, rumbling sound and dense smoke gave proof.

awful chasm, which seemed to swallow up all in its vast yawning mouth, a green burst from the lips of those present—a groan, followed by a cheer, as Harvey Langford's form appeared again in sight and one by one the miners followed. In that fearful peril which he had but just escaped, a sweet young voice seemed to echo in his ear, a dim wonderment to pierce his brain as to whether its ring of truth were real, a wild desire to look again upon her face and read therein the secret; but in vain he searched to find her beauty. The chestnut-crowned head was nowhere to be seen, when, in rough whispers, from mouth to mouth passed the knowledge of her death and his quick ear caught it.

"Cowards!" burst from his white lips. "You would let a woman do this thing!"

"She said she went to save the man she loved," spoke one.

And in Harvey Langford's eyes there shone such joy as hid the misery there written, while on his lips uprose a wild prayer, as once again he plunged from their sight. Lying where she had fallen, like a lily blown from its stem, white and senseless, he picked her up and bore her to the shaft. Many strong arms came to the rescue; but the cheers fell on dull, lifeless ears, and for a while they thought death had claimed them both. But life held too much promise, and when, scarcely three months later, the new overseer of the mine claimed his bride, distrust had vanished from both their hearts; and, while kind and cheering wishes fell like hail upon them, in Harvey Langford's simple, quiet words, "My wife, as they stood upon the threshold of their new home, sounded the thanksgiving of a life.

The Wake Woke Him to Life. The particulars of an extraordinary case of trance, which was mistaken for death, are published by the Irish Times. A young man, aged 22, named Garrigan, living at Ballinacree, near Oldcastle, was believed to have died. He had been ailing for some time, and all the appearances of death were shown, so that no doubt of his decease was entertained. The usual wake preparatory to burial was begun, and a number of neighbors had arrived at the house to share the right watches. Suddenly signs of animation were observed in the apparently lifeless body. Five minutes later it was clear that the young man had been in a trance and was on the way to recovering his senses. The occurrence created a great sensation. Many of those present fled from the house and would not return. All were deeply moved and the scene for some time was one of intense excitement.

Her Chief Characteristic. By some means a mother and daughter managed to gain access to Paderewski's sanctum. The mother was proud of her daughter, and the daughter had aspirations. She desired Paderewski's opinion of her skill. Paderewski listened, or appeared to, while the mother beat time approvingly. At last, with a final crash, the girl rose from the stool, and the mother flushed with pleasure. "Tell me," she whispered to the artist—"tell me in confidence. What do you think of her?" Amably the artist rubbed his hands together. "I think she must be very charitable." "Charitable? Charitable!" "Yes," Paderewski sweetly repeated, "charitable. Surely she letteth not her left hand know what her right hand doeth."—Argonaut.

Height of Man in the Year 4000 A. D. De Moreau, the French statistician, has been figuring on the gradual diminution of height in the human family with some astonishing results. He finds that in the year 1611 the average height of man was 1.75 meters, or about 5 feet 9 inches. In 1790 it was 5 feet 5 inches. In 1820, 5 feet 3 inches. At the present time it is but 5 feet 3 1/4 inches. From these figures it is easy to deduce the rate of regular and gradual decline in human stature. Figuring both ways from the present we find that the height of man "in the beginning" was 16 feet 9 inches, and that the average man of the year 4000 A. D. will be less than 15 inches high.—St. Louis Republic.

Authors in a Bad Way. Authorship and book publishing are in a bad way in France according to a number of experts who have been figuring on the situation. It is said by M. Albert Cim, and corroborated by other experts, that there are scarcely six novelists in France who can count on receiving equal to or above 10,000 francs a year for their literary work. An examination of the books of a prominent publisher of Paris showed that two-thirds of the accounts opened for works of fiction, verse, travel, domestic economy and military science showed considerable losses. A volume of reasons are offered in explanation of the situation, but the facts are admitted.

The Silk-Spinning Spider. Investigation is being made as to the silk spider of Madagascar, with the object of creating a new industry. A single female spider gave a French missionary 3,000 yards of fine silken thread recently in twenty-seven days. Small textures woven by these spiders are used by the natives of Madagascar for fastening flowers on sunshades and for other purposes.

The Japanese Lichen. A project is on foot to introduce into the United States the edible lichen of Japan. It is gathered off the granite rocks in the Japanese mountains and contains large quantities of starch and other gelatinous substances.

SOLDIERS. Our ranks are growing thinner Every year. And Death is still a winner Every year. Yet still must stick together, Like the toughest kind of weather, And in any kind of weather, Every year.

Our comrades have departed And left us broken-hearted Every year. But still with fondly greet us, And they must earnestly entreat us, To come, that they may meet us, Every year.

We are growing old and lonely Every year. We have no elections only, Every year. That we bid for this great Nation On many a field and station, And with any kind of nation, Every year.

Many people may forget us Every year, And sometimes may fret us Every year. Yet, while onward we are drifting Our souls with hope are lifting, To heavenly scenes still waiting, Every year.

So we still must do our duty Every year. And incline to Love and Beauty Every year. While the sun that waves above us, And the little ones that love us, Shall cherish and bewail us, Every year.

In the Maytime of the flowers, Every year. We shall live in golden hours Every year. And our deeds be sung in story Down the ages growing hoary, With a blaze of living glory, Every year. —Col. John A. Joyce CHAPTER VII. My engagement with Edith was broken off that evening. I had not the slightest hope of recovering the lost diamond; and when I told Sir Edmund my reasons for despairing, he did not attempt to conceal his satisfaction with regard to my determination.

"A man should never be dependent on his wife. It must necessarily be a source of humiliation to him; and no man suffers humiliation without in time losing his own self-respect. That will never, I hope, be your loss, Bernard. Poor girl, it will be a great grief to her; for though she has known you but a little while, she has found in you a great deal to admire and love, and her affection is so tenacious that I doubt if she will ever cease to love you."

I have purposely abstained from dwelling upon my love affairs, for if I entered into them at all, my feelings would lead me to dilate upon the delights of my brief wooing, to the exclusion of graver matters which form the subject of this story. For the same reason I shall pass over the bitter grief of our parting. I will only say that Edith's last words awakened courage in my sinking heart.

I could form no satisfactory theory with regard to the Great Hesper robbery, but I was disposed to regard Van Hoesck as the least culpable agent concerned in it.

It is impossible to tell how the robbery affected this mysterious man. As I have said, during the investigation he sat perfectly motionless and perfectly silent. His face wore the inscrutable expression of a death-mask.

Sir Edmund had no sympathy with him after learning from me the particulars relating to the adventures of the morning.

When we entered the library from the dining-room, where our interview had taken place, we found Van Hoesck sitting where we had left him. "I have ordered the carriage to be at the door in half an hour. Mr. Van Hoesck," said the baronet. "Be good enough to make your arrangements for departure by that time."

Van Hoesck inclined his head. "I shall be glad if you will redeem your I O U at an early date," the baronet added sternly.

Van Hoesck put his hand in his pocket, drew out a purse, and extended it. I took it, seeing the baronet's repugnance, and placed it on the table.

I accompanied Van Hoesck to Southampton. Neither of us spoke on the way—indeed, I had not heard a word pass his lips since we parted in the early morning.

I took a room for him at a hotel, and when the servant who led us to it was gone, I said— "I am going to leave you, Van Hoesck."

A gesture of indifference was his only reply. "Have you nothing to say—no explanation to offer?" I asked.

"What do you mean?"—speak plainly," he said.

"I saw you discussing with Brace what should be done with the case that held the diamond before he secreted it."

"If you knew that we were discussing that, you know all. It is useless to make an explanation that you would not believe. I have nothing to say."

He groped his way to a chair and threw himself into it. "I put a packet of notes on the table, and told him that if he had need of further help he might write to me, addressing his letters to the care of Sir Edmund. Then I left him."

I had a vague idea of purchasing a partnership in some business where I could find active employment, and with that view I took lodgings in London, and began to look about me. I had been engaged in this pursuit about a week when I received a letter from Sir Edmund.

"I enclose," he wrote, "a cutting from one of the weekly papers. Vine growing, as it is here described, seems to be the very thing that should suit a man of your disposition and taste; it would suit me, if I were thirty years younger than I am. As it is, nothing would please me better than to see you a prosperous fruit farmer."

That Edith might have something to look forward to, I have proposed that our next summer holiday trip should be to San Diego. She thinks she would find California hotels insupportable. Perhaps you will be able to offer something more acceptable than hotel accommodations. In any case, my dear fellow, you can give me no more acceptable testimony of your affection than in availing yourself freely and fully of my pecuniary assistance."

The cutting referred to vine-growing and fruit-culture in Southern California; but before I read a line of it I had made up my mind to be at San Diego to receive Edith and her father in the summer.

CHAPTER XIII. Fortune favored me; before I had been twenty-four hours in San Diego, I learned that one of the best fruit farms in the state was to be sold. It lay in Elysium valley, about twenty miles back from San Diego city, and was the property of Colonel Hinks. On hearing this, I hired a horse at once, and rode to the estate. The road ran between irregular plantations of lemons, citrons, oranges, and other fruits that perfumed the air, the higher slopes were covered with vines. In the distance before me were the snow-capped peaks of the Sierra Nevada, and turning in my saddle as I ascended the gentle rise on which the house stood, my eyes were dazzled with the beauty of San Diego bay.

The house was large and well-built in the Italian style—a style not unsuited to that unclouded sky, and the surrounding scenery. The view from the helveders was incredibly beautiful, and indeed justified the high-sounding name given to the valley it overlooked.

"That is a house worthy of Edith," I thought. "Oh, that it were mine to offer her!"

It would be time wasted to enter into my business transactions with Colonel Hinks. Suffice it to say that my ardent wish was realized, and that in less than a month from my arriving in San Diego I entered into possession of the beautiful property. Doubtless it was a hazardous undertaking for one who knew nothing whatever of the business; but what hazard is so great for a man whose object is to win the woman he loves? That the money I invested was not my own did not lessen the risk I ran, but increased it; for, unless I could show a reasonable probability of repaying Sir Edmund's loan, I could not demand Edith's hand.

Early in November I received a letter from Sir Edmund. Among other things, he wrote— "The robbery is still a mystery—to me it is a greater mystery than ever. Van Hoesck has taken lodgings in the village. I have met him twice in the woods, a wild, despicable object, and, indeed, pitiable, if one may doubt his complicity in the robbery. Once he was upon his hands and knees, groping among the ferns, as if he expected to find there the lost diamond; but he chooses the night for these expeditions—probably because he is then less open to observation. The keepers tell me that he passes the whole night, and every night in this hopeless search. Why on earth should he do this, if he and Brace got possession of the diamond, as we suppose?"

In a postscript he added— "Mr. Furnival, dating from Haxell's hotel, London, wrote asking me for your address. I replied that you were at San Diego, California."

The news with regard to Van Hoesck did not add greatly to the mystery in which this strange man was already involved; but the postscript was a new source of perplexity to me. I knew no one of the name of Furnival; I could not recollect having spoken to any one of Sir Edmund's while I was in London.

How, then, could this Mr. Furnival have known where to apply for my address? I expected a letter from him to clear up this matter, but no letter came.

A few days later I received a letter addressed to me at Monkton Abbey, and re-addressed in Sir Edmund's hand. Turning to the signature I found it was from Brace. It was dated October 15th, Petersburg, Nevada county. The Judge then was in California, within a day's journey of me. I was not surprised at this, knowing his partiality for the state, but it was irconcilable with the supposition that he and Van Hoesck had the diamond. He wrote thus—

"I write these lines far to show where I am located, and likewise that I have not sunk off like a thief in the night to hide my life under a bushel. If things mint no farther than they was in the direction of clearing up what's become of the Great Hesper, they ain't anyways no backarder."

"I ain't no use promising without you are got it right inter yer to perform, but I will allow that I ain't gone to chuck up the cards before I've made you shake my hand and acknowledge I've played square. The Kid is frettin, and things in general is not lively with your partner."

"I did not reply to this letter. I heard again from Sir Edmund at the end of November. His letter was dated the 27th. He felicitated me heartily upon the purchase I had made, and added the warmest wishes for my success.

Overcoats. The first king of England who appeared in a surcoat on his great seal is John. There has been a story invented to account for its appearing about the time of the crusades. It is said that the intense heat of the sun shining on the bright armor caused the Christian knights who went to the relief of the holy sepulchre to devise this garment as a means of protecting themselves from its full power. Others say it was to keep the armor from rusting in wet weather, but most probably it was more by way of ornamentation that it was adopted. At this time the long bow, though used, had not become the national weapon that it did in after years, and the cross-bow was the more frequently seen.

Snips Change Their Habits. Newspaper naturalists report a change of habit among snipe in that they no longer follow the Atlantic coast indentations in their southern flights, but, departing from the British provinces, fly out at sea, barely skirting the extreme end of Cape Cod or Nantucket, unless driven shoreward by stress of weather. From Nantucket they pass out of sight of land until they reach their feeding grounds on the North Carolina sounds, where snipe shooting is still enjoyed in its pristine vigor.

A Dreadful Thought. "Perhaps," said the man who tries to be philosophic, "it is just as well that the lives of great men cannot be prolonged so as to enable them to witness all the fruits of their endeavors."

"Possibly."

"No possibly about it. Just imagine Ben Franklin having to live in a city full of trolley cars!"

HE BORE HER TO THE SHAFT.

him the hope he was to be the successor. He could make for Ina then a home such as she left, only glorified by their mutual love, and as he wends his way homeward his breath comes short and thick in thinking of that time.

Another month rolled by, and Harvey Langford spent his days in a strange alternation of joyful hope and jealous anger, though latterly the former was slowly dying out. Ina began to treat him with suspicious coldness. She no longer bore allusion to the fulfillment of her promise, and her smiles grew more frequent to others as they lessened to him. He was pacing up the long lane leading to her door on one fine October afternoon, revolving many bitter thoughts and determining to make to Ina one last appeal, when, turning a bend in the road, he saw two figures a short distance ahead. There was no mistaking the straight young figure, with the pretty hat coquetishly placed upon the night-curls; but the man's heart beat thick and fast, as in the tall, manly form at her side he recognized Will Strong.

No wonder she had grown cold and hard, when she held secret meetings with this man. He could hear no spoken word between them, but he saw that the girl's head was bent low, one little foot tapping the dust and her ungloved hand clasped within those of her companion. He was

NOVI.

J. J. Smith is home again.
Miss Nettie Marshall Sundayed with friends here.
Miss Della Banks is the teacher in the Flint district.
Miss Aggie McCrumb is visiting in Plymouth this week.
Mr. and Mrs. Dan Durfee spent Sunday at Farmington.
Mrs. Lee Wooster who has been sick for some time is better.
Mrs. Toncray who has been sick for so long is slowly improving.
Mrs. Sarah Cudworth has gone to Okemos to spend the summer.
Hortense Seldon received as a present a brand new tricycle this week.
We are glad to say that Jas. Monroe and son Orlando are both able to be out again.
May 18 Rev. McIntosh will open the doors of the church to receive the class of probationers.
Mr. and Mrs. Dennis started Wednesday for West Superior, Wis., to spend some time with their daughter there.
The annual meeting of stockholders of the Novi burial association will be held at the town hall on Monday, May 14 at three o'clock.
Next Sunday evening there will be quarterly meeting services at the Methodist church. Presiding Elder Bigelow will be present.
Mrs. B. C. Taylor, Mrs. Nicholson, Mrs. Lillie Leavenworth and Miss Lillian Tingle attended the WCTU convention at Milford last week.
Rev. J. S. Boyden filled the desk at the Baptist church last Sunday night. He came to Novi Friday, but was away to his work again on Monday morning.
There is a bad place in the sidewalk east of the run which should be repaired. One person fell through last Sunday evening but luckily received only a few bruises.
A. L. Benjamin who has been very ill for some time past was able to be brought to his home in Novi Monday. Mrs. Harron of South Lyon, his wife's sister, is taking care of him.
Peach, cherry and plum trees are all loaded with blossoms in spite of the dismal prognostications of a month or two ago. Time enough yet, however, for Jack Frost to get in some bad work.
Fifteen or sixteen carloads of coal have been side tracked at Novi for some time as the result of a breakdown. Now is the time for some enterprising citizen to lay in a supply for next winter. The evenings are dark at present.
Our school teacher Miss Wallace had her school observe May day. Clara Johnson was chosen as queen and Willie Tingle as crown-bearer. The school room was nicely decorated with flowers and the exercises were nice. Miss Wallace is a good teacher and we know the scholars all like her by the way they try to fix up the grounds to please her.
Mrs. J. S. Boyden with her little son and Miss Jessie Boyden are visiting friends in this vicinity. Several enjoyable teas have been given to give Mrs. Boyden's many friends here opportunities for enjoying her society and the young people have tried to make Miss Boyden's stay equally pleasant. The family will soon settle in their old home at Kalamazoo.
The "devil" was on our streets one day last week. He put on lots of style, even rode a bicycle, which was something new for the "devil" to do. They generally go on foot. We do not think it was old "Nick" himself as he hailed from Northville and was trying to find some one who didn't take the Record but after traveling to and fro and up and down we think he found out that Novi don't need much looking after in that line for everybody takes it here.

The True Story of the "Novi Strike."

My friend, you hear somebody tell
"Bout dot strike dot other day
Mit dose beoples called der "Sons of Rest"
Vats been meenn up our way?
Vell, der I tells you all dot news
If you von't refer tell,
If dose fellers all gits mad mit me,
You know they shoost rase—vell.
Now I don't know vat they would do
But don't you tell von word
Und I'll shoott visper in dot ear
Of yours shoost vat I heard.
You know dot pov vat starts dot club
Vich his front side name vas Pat?
Vell it takes dose folks von great long time
To find vot he vas at.
Because, in shoost a little vile
He cuts von awful caper!
He writes down all der tings they do
Und puts him in der baper.
Und so they votes dot. Pat must hang
They say he haf no hope
But Pat he haf von great big lot
Vot yankees call "sgit soap."
He makes them tink dot all vas right
Und so they leaves him go.
Und then he haf up mit his sleeve
To see vat they don't know.
Pimepy dot time vas coming close
Vat ve call lection day,
Ven Sons of Rest count shoost so much
Mit men vat refer play.
So Pat he says to all der "Sons!"
"You efenn von they meet—
"Now poys you all shoost vote for Doc,
"Maybe more you gets to eat!"
"You know ve're most all publicans
Und so dose men will be
Dead shure ve're gon to vote for them
Und how'll they know? Dye see?"
"So ve'll be solit mit poth sides;
Vichever side shall vin,
Be it publicans or sinners
They'll tink ve helped 'em in."
So all der poys says dot vas right
Und swear they refer tell
Vile dose sinners vink und haf a lot
Und tink t'vas very vell.
Und ven der lection day vas past
Und the sinners they vas peat,
Dose Sons go round und haf und say:
"Vell, don't ve hick 'em neat?"
So all vas fery smooth und nice
Der poys feels fine und gay
Cause folks don't know vat they haf done
Und nobody can forsay.
But ven they tink dot all vas safe,
Dot baper comes to town—
Dot Northville Record vere dot Pat
Haf got dot all put down!
Und then dot air vas fery plue
Arout dot Noft street,
Und all der Sons vas makin steps
To dot place vere they meet.
Und Pat vas brought before dot lodge
Fore he could run away
Und all vas swear he got to die
Pefore another day.
His brayers und tears be all no us
No more times he can go
Und tell dot baper everyting
Vat folks don't ought to know.
Shoost then dot Son vat vas name "Grease"
He clump up mit his feet
He holler out "Dot vas too goot!
Dot killin vas too sweet!"
"Dot hangin vas not fery pad
It vas oler in vona cherk
Shoost fire him out mit our goot lodge
Und make him go to work."
Und then von yell vas made so big
Dot all der folks aront
They tink dot Coxey's army
Vas come to take der town.
"Yes, dot vas it" und it vas done
Poor Pat he haf to go
But ven he meets mit them no more
"They fint t'vas fery slow."
Und so dose Sons vas all cler out,
It vas so lonesome like
Und dot mine friend vas shoost der truth
About dot Noft strike.
