Women's American ORT Names Exec. Director Of District One

Susan Gellman has been named Executive Director of New England District One of Women's American ORT. Ms. Gellman supervises and coordinates all ORT activities throughout the District, which includes more than 7,000 ORT members in five regions and five chapters-at-large.

SUSAN GELLMAN

Originally from Milwaukee, Ms. Gellman received her bachelor's degree in Near Eastern and Judaic Studies from Brandeis University and a master's degree in Social Work from Columbia University. She is also an alumna of the Weiner Center for Jewish Communal Studies at the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies of New York.

Local Project Aids Quake Victims

Rabbi Sholom Strajcher, dean of the Providence Hebrew Day School, has introduced a special project in the school which he hopes will gain momentum in the Jewish Community of R.I.

The project called "Light a Candle For Your Fellow Man" is an appeal to parents to reduce the number of Chanukah gifts they normally distribute.

In their place the Rabbi is hopeful that the parents will consider making contributions to the disaster relief programs that have been established for the survivors of Italy's devastating earthquake.

Rabbi Strajcher also suggested that parents and children set aside additional funds to be contributed to various charities and to the State of Israel through the Jewish Federation of R.I.

Soviet Police Bar Scientists From Attending Seminars

MOSCOW — The police this week prevented scientists for the second time in a row from holding their regular Sunday Seminar, the private meeting for scientists who lost their research positions when denied exit visas after applying to emigrate.

Organized eight years ago to keep up the expertise and morale of these scientists, the seminar has been held in the apartment of Viktor and Irina Brailovsky, both mathematicians and activists in the Jewish emigration movement.

Brailovsky was arrested Nov. 13 on a charge of "defamation of the Soviet state and public order," and last week security police turned away the 20 or so scientists who came to the apartment for the seminar.

The scene was repeated this week, with three American correspondents also banned from entering the apartment. Uniformed policemen and plainclothesmen guarded the entrance to the building, and told the correspondents they could not enter because the building was being disinfected by sanitary workers to combat a "bedbugs" problem.

Israeli Minister Of Religious Affairs Indicted On Bribe-Taking Charge

JERUSALEM — The Minister of Religious Affairs was indicted this week on charges of receiving bribes from yeshivas in exchange for Government aid.

Aharon Abuhazira is the first Cabinet member ever indicted. Charges take effect after the Parliament lifts Abuhazira's immunity.

Abuhazira is expected to be pressured to resign. Justice Minister Moshe Nissim has said the religious minister should "take a leave."

Abuhazira's departure would not impair Prime Minister Menachem Begin's slim ruling margin because the religious minister would be able to continue to vote with the Government.

Israeli citizens do not seem to be holding the government or the religious party of which Abuhazira is a leading member responsible for the minister's wrongdoing.

Abuhazira, 42, is a member of a family of Moroccan Jews, and supporters have called him a victim of ethnic prejudice.

Israel's two Chief Rabbis, Ovadia Yosef and Shlomo Goren issued a controversial ruling during his proceedings: that persons who cooperated with the prosecution were violating Jewish law. Some newspapers and politicians denounced the ruling as an attempt to intimidate the chief prosecution witness, acting Mayor Yisrael Gottlieb of the Tel Aviv suburb of Bnei Brak.

Three instances of bribe-taking were specified in the indictment: when Abuhazira and his aide Moshe Gabbai had used Gottlieb to arrange for grants to and kickbacks from three religious institutions in Bnei Brak. The minister was accused of receiving payoffs from two of the three.

The indictment charges, first, that Gabbai received $9,000 after arranging for a grant of $20,000 and a loan of $40,000 to the Spinka yeshiva. In the second case, Abuhazira and Gabbai were charged with receiving about $10,000 for aiding the Vizhnitz Yeshiva by building a synagogue. And for a grant of $6,000 to the Society of Yemenite Jewish Heritage, the two men were charged with receiving a bribe of $2,000.

Sam Shlevin of Pawtucket (on left) was recently honored for his many years of service to the Anti-Defamation League and the Jewish community at the Annual Dinner Meeting of the New England Regional Board of the ADL of B'nai B'rith. The honor was presented by Herman Selya, (on right) area Vice-chairman of the Rhode Island ADL committee.

Peres Wins Majority Of Delegates To Labor Convention

TEL. AVIV. — Chairman of the Israeli Labor Party, Shimon Peres, has captured a majority of the delegates to the party convention that will nominate the Labor candidate to lead the next Israeli Government.

Peres' chief rival for the party leadership, former Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin, conceded that Peres won a majority in last week's polling, but refused to announce defeat in the election.

"Efforts to persuade delegates to vote for me will continue," said Rabin. "The decision will fall at the convention Dec. 18."

All factors, including public opinion polls, depict an overwhelming Labor Party victory in the next national elections. If this becomes the case, the party's nominee would receive a mandate from President Yitzhak Navon to form a new government.

The tenure of Prime Minister Menachem Begin's Likud Government will end in November next year, but Parliament may vote for dissolution and advance the national elections.

Peres, in a television interview said he had 70 to 80 percent of the 3,101 delegates to support him, while Rabin claimed 35 to 40 percent. Some delegates apparently vowed support to both factions.

zira and Gabbai were charged with receiving about $10,000 for aiding the Vizhnitz Yeshiva by building a synagogue. And for a grant of $6,000 to the Society of Yemenite Jewish Heritage, the two men were charged with receiving a bribe of $2,000.

USSR Slashing Jewish Emigration

JERUSALEM (JTA) — Only 524 Jews arrived in Vienna from the Soviet Union during the first three weeks of November, indicating another cutback in Soviet Jewish emigration.

If this rate continues the total for the month will be only 800, the lowest since last August when the Soviet passport offices were reportedly too busy with the Olympic Games in Moscow to issue emigration visas.

In September 1300 Jews emigrated and in October the figure was 1400. The decline in the November figures and the arrest Nov. 13 of Dr. Victor Brailovsky, the Moscow Jewish activist, has increased the fear of Soviet immigrants in Israel that the USSR might be shutting the door on emigration.

Link Between Emigration And Detente
Ruth Bar-On, an official of the Israel Public Council for Soviet Jewry, said today that there was a direct link between emigration and the state of detente. "Somehow the Jews are always a thermometer of the relations between East and West," she said. "I feel that they (the Soviets) intend to give a big blow to the whole emigration movement."

She said that the hope that the review conference on the Helsinki accords in Madrid would result in increased emigration has proven false. "This might be a way of telling the West that the Soviets do not care at all about their human rights grievances," she said.

Meanwhile, of the 524 Jews who reached Vienna this month only a quarter came to Israel. Activists here blame the high dropout rate for the weakening pressure on the Soviet Union.

U.S. Justice Department Drops Case Against Suspected Nazi War Criminal

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Justice Department has announced it will halt its efforts to revoke the citizenship of a Chicago man found by a Federal District judge to have hidden his alleged membership in the Gestapo in World War II.

The Government said newly discovered evidence had cast doubt on the judge's finding.

The Government will not seek a retrial of Frank Walus, 58, although he had told acquaintances and co-workers on several occasions that "he had been a Nazi agent and had committed acts of violence on innocent and defenseless Jews." Walus later denied these statements.

After reinvestigating the case, the Government said, it found no evidence to back charges made against Walus in January 1977.

The case was the only one of the Nazi war criminal cases in which a Federal district judge decided after a full trial in favor of the Government. Judge Julius J. Hoffman ordered Walus's naturalization certificate canceled in 1978, after a four-week non-jury trial.

The Government expressed regret to Walus and said he would be reimbursed for expenses incurred in defending himself, but not for attorneys' fees.

Walus said he was happy the case was over, but said his health and reputation had been damaged.

The criminal division of the Justice Department is still investigating 260 cases involving possible concealment of war crimes.

There are 18 cases in court, including that of Feodor Fedorenko before the Supreme Court.

Fedorenko has admitted serving as an armed guard at the Treblinka concentration camp in Poland, but said he did so involuntarily.

The Justice Department has closed 196 cases this year without filing charges.

In Walus's case, twelve witnesses, including six or seven from Israel, said they had seen Walus commit acts of brutality during the Nazi occupation of Kielce and Czestochowa in southern Poland.

Walus testified he lived in Poland only from 1932 to 1940, and then was forced to work in Germany as a farm laborer.

The U.S. Court of Appeals granted Walus's request for a new trial last February. The court said the judge had cut off challenges by the defense attorney to recollections by prosecution witnesses.

In addition, the court said, there were documents which backed Walus's account.

Terrorists Ambush School Bus

JERUSALEM (JTA) — Israeli forces clamped a total curfew on four Arab villages in the Samaria district of the West Bank last week in the aftermath of a terrorist ambush attack on a school bus carrying children from Kadumim to Elon Moreh, both Gush Emunim settlements.

There were no casualties among the nine children and other passengers aboard the bus but the driver and an armed civilian escort sustained slight injuries.

The driver was credited with saving the children when he ordered them to lie on the floor as machinegun bullets peppered the bus shattering windows.

Several bullets lodged in an orange crate behind which passengers crouched. The driver raced the bus away from the scene at top speed while the armed guard returned the fire.

In Washington, a State Department spokesman, asked to comment on the ambush, said: "My comment is the same as it has been on all of the other deplorable occasions. It is an act of violence which we think is deplorable and which we wish fervently would not happen. I don't think that's the way to solve the problems involved in that area in the world."

Record Number Of Women Studying For Rabbinate

NEW YORK (JTA) — A record total of 82 women are studying for the rabbinate in Reform and Reconstructionist seminaries during the current academic year, according to an annual Jewish Telegraphic Agency survey.

Four of the seven women who were ordained as Reform rabbis last June have been placed in pulpits. Two were placed in non-pulpit posts and one is seeking a position, the JTA was told.

Ordination of the seven women as Reform rabbis brought to 29 the total of Reform and Reconstructionist women rabbis ordained since 1972 when Sally Preisand was named by the Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion (HUC-JIR) as the first woman rabbi in America.

Five of the seven new women Reform rabbis were graduated in New York and two in the HUC-JIR school in Cincinnati, Ohio. The five ordained in New York are: Cathy Felix of Highland Park, Ill., now Assistant Chaplain at Brown University; Jean Friedman of Marblehead, Mass.; Debra Hachen of Cleveland Heights, Ohio; Judith Lewis of Rochester, N.Y.; and Mindy Portnoy of New Haven, Conn. The two ordained in Cincinnati are Aliza Wallin Berk of Encino, Calif.; and Ellen Jay Lewis of Westfield, N.J.

Three of the new Reform women rabbis were named assistant rabbis — Friedman at Holy Blossom Temple in Toronto; Rabbi Judith Lewis at Temple Sinai in Roslyn Heights, N.Y.; and Rabbi Ellen Jay Lewis at Temple Emanu-El in Dallas. Hachen was named rabbi of Congregation B'nai Shalom in Westboro, Mass.

Portnoy was named B'nai Brith Hillel director at the American University in Washington. Berk is seeking a position in San Jose, Calif., where her husband, Michael Berk, a fellow ordinee, is assistant rabbi of a congregation.

A belated appointment was disclosed to the JTA by Rabbi A. Stanley Dreyfus concerning his daughter, Rabbi Ellen Dreyfus of Chicago, who was ordained in June, 1979. She could not be placed during 1979 because she had married and became pregnant. She was placed during the past summer as the first Jewish chaplain at Doctors Hospital in New York City.

Candidates In Their Final Year

An HUC-JIR spokesman told the JTA that 13 Reform women candidates are in their final year and, barring unexpected complications, will become Reform rabbis in June, 1981.

The Reconstructionist Rabbinical College has four women in their final year of study who are expected to be named Reconstructionist rabbis next June.

If all women rabbinical candidates in their final year are graduated and ordained next June, the total ordained since 1972, under Reform and Reconstructionist auspices, will be 46.

The HUC-JIR spokesman reported that a total of 67 women are studying for the Reform rabbinate this academic year. A Reconstructionist spokesman reported that 15 women are studying for the rabbinate this year.

In the 1978-79 year, a record total of 75 women was enrolled in rabbinical studies: 62 Reform and 13 Reconstructionist. In the 1979-80 year, the total dropped slightly to 74: 62 Reform and 12 Reconstructionist. The record 82 women candidates studying this year comprises 67 Reform and 15 Reconstructionist students.

Commemorating The Miracle In The Temple of Jerusalem

by Chaim Casper

Tuesday evening, Dec. 2, marked the beginning this year of the Jewish holiday of Chanukah. The holiday concludes Wednesday, Dec. 10.

This minor holiday commemorates the miracle which occurred in 165 B.C.E. (Before the Common Era) when a small flask of oil, sufficient to burn for only one day in the candelabra in the Temple in Jerusalem, lasted instead for eight days.

The story of Chanukah began with the conquest of Palestine ca. 200 B.C.E. by the Seleucids, a Hellenistic dynasty and tribe. In 165 B.C.E., the religious and cultural persecutions by Antiochus IV (Epiphanes) of the Jewish people led to a revolt by Mattityahu Hashmonai and his five sons. Calling themselves the Maccabees (meaning the hammer), they fought fiercely and courageously against the better manned and better equipped Seleucid army.

In 165 B.C.E., the invaders had been pushed far enough back for the Jews to reenter the Temple. Discovering the Temple to be desecrated, the Jews immediately set about cleaning and purifying it. On the 25th day of the month of Kislev, the Temple was rededicated (in fact, chanukah in Hebrew means rededication on the 25th).

It was at the rededication ceremony that the miracle occurred. During the course of cleaning the Temple, only a one day supply of ritually fit oil was discovered. Since it would have taken 8 days to process more oil, a decision was made to light that oil so that the Temple candelabra would not remain unlit. A miracle occurred and the oil lasted eight days.

The Jewish sages decreed that the miracle should be publicized by the lighting of candles. One candle is lit for the first night, two the second etc., until eight candles corresponding to eight days have been lit.

The custom is to place the lit channukiyot (candelabra) in the window or doorway so that passersby may see the Jews publicizing the miracle. The publicizing of the miracle is an obligation for everyone in the family. Mother, father, and all the children are required to light their own channukiyah.

One of the stories relating to Chanukah is how Judith, the daughter of Mattityahu, also participated in the military campaign against the Seleucids. Because of her beauty, she was able to entice the Seleucid general into her home. There she fed him with dairy food until he was so stuffed that he fell asleep. She then killed him, news of which routed his army. The incident is recalled through the eating of dairy products (most notably latkes, or potato pancakes, which are served with sour cream or apple sauce) in this country.

One week after the conclusion of Chanukah is the fast day known as Asarah B'Teret, this year on Wednesday, Dec. 17. This fast day commemorates the day that the Babylonians began their siege of Jerusalem in 586 B.C.E. That siege led ultimately to the destruction of the First Temple and the Jewish State in the summer of that year. The fast (meaning the total cessation from all food and beverage) begins at 6:22 a.m. and concludes at 4:59 p.m. on Dec. 17.

Supreme Court Rules On Religion In School

By Ben Gallo

NEW YORK (JTA) — The conviction among many pundits that the U.S. Supreme Court reads election returns has been put into question by two post-election U.S. Supreme Court rulings on religious observances in public schools which are almost diametrically opposed.

In a case earlier this month, the Supreme Court let stand on Nov. 10 rulings by a federal district court and by a court of appeals which held it constitutionally permissible for a South Dakota public school to use guidelines for Christmas and other religious holiday observance in those schools.

In the other case, which the Supreme Court ruled unconstitutional on Nov. 17, the issue involved a Kentucky state law requiring the posting of a copy of the Ten Commandments in every public school classroom in the state.

In the first case, Florey vs. Sioux Falls (S.D.) School District, the American Jewish Congress and the American Civil Liberties Union filed a joint friend of the court brief for the hearing in the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals which upheld the lower court ruling.

Meaning of Sioux Falls Decision

Nathan Dershowitz, director of the AJ Congress Commission on Law and Social Action, said that the court action letting the practice in Sioux Falls schools continue did not mean that the Supreme Court had approved the Sioux Falls school practice.

However, he added, the Supreme Court's failure to review the case "will undoubtedly encourage other school districts to adopt these and similar rules."

Jewish organizations have consistently fought all religious observances in the public schools. Some political experts have suggested that most rightwing elements who contributed to Ronald Reagan's election victory strongly support prayer in public schools.

Although the ruling against the Kentucky law was a 5-4 decision, the language of the majority was unequivocal. Kentucky officials had sought to avoid constitutional conflicts by two actions.

Issue in Kentucky

In one, the officials had added to the law a requirement that the Ten Commandments be listed as serving as "the fundamental legal code of Western civilization and the common law of the United States." The Supreme Court held that the Ten Commandments is undeniably a sacred text of the Jewish and Christian faiths "and no legislative recitation of a supposed secular purpose can blind us to that fact." The ruling declared that "such an avowed secular purpose is not sufficient to avoid conflict with the First Amendment."

Kentucky officials also tried to avoid constitutional problems by requiring that copies of the Ten Commandments be paid for not with tax funds but with voluntary contributions to the state treasury. A group named the Kentucky Heritage Foundation collected more than $250,000 to buy 15,000 copies.

The Supreme Court held that arrangement did not matter because the posting of the copies was to take place "under the auspices" of the Kentucky Legislature.

The high court decision on Stone vs. Graham reversed a lower state court in Kentucky upholding the Ten Commandments posting law. The Kentucky Supreme Court divided 3-3 on the appeal. The effect of the even split legally was to affirm the lower court ruling.

The law had been challenged by a group of foes of various religious beliefs, including a Quaker, a rabbi and a non-believer, represented by the American Civil Liberties Union.

Response by Local School Boards

One response was a decision by the Board of Education in Waldwick, N.J. which diluted considerably an earlier policy of holding religious holiday observances in the schools. More than 100 people jammed the Waldwick High School, most of them to assail the revised policy and to threaten reprisals.

The issue has divided the mainly Christian residents of the Bergen County community, pitting Christians against Jews, Moslems and other residents, who believe religious themes have been overstressed in some Waldwick school programs.

Your Money's Worth

Helping Children Stay With Their Own Parents

— by Sylvia Porter

It has been traditional in the U.S. for state welfare agencies to try to help the children of troubled families by taking the children away from their parents and their homes. In the face of unanimous agreement among psychologists that removing a child from his/her home, even a "bad" one, causes serious psychological injury on its own, the federal government has encouraged the break-up of troubled families for the past 25 years and right to today.

But a big policy change may be ahead, due to the newly-enacted Adoption Assistance and Child Welfare Act of 1980 and a pending Supreme Court case.

The law's goal is to return the estimated 500,000 children now in foster care in this country to their families and if this is not possible, to help them quickly find adoptive homes. It will limit funds the states can spend on foster care.

At the same time, it will boost the funds available for programs to assist problem-burdened families — strained by poverty, joblessness, alcoholism, below-subsistence living conditions, and thereby prevent foster placement or lessen the time a child is away from his own family.

In direct contrast, federal law in the past has provided virtually unlimited funds for keeping children in foster homes while limiting money for counseling, job training and homemaker services that would make it easier for problem families to care for their own children themselves. And no aid at all has been provided to families willing to adopt a foster child.

In 1978, the average subsidy for a foster care child was nearly $4,000 a year and today it would be higher. It would be even greater if the child were handicapped, a member of a minority or a large family and therefore hard to place. Once a family agrees to adopt, these funds disappear.

Under the new law, current policy is sharply reversed. For the first time, families who adopt so-called "special needs" children will receive federal subsidies.

States will be required to place children in foster homes as close to their natural parents as possible. Protected will be the parents' rights to visit their children. And by 1983, states will be compelled to recognize parents' rights to keep their children from being removed from the home.

This is far from a superfluous, unnecessary safeguard. For as of now, many states have taken away from you (their parents) permanently if you're found to be "unfit to exercise parental duties;" "if you've failed to plan and provide adequately for the child;" or "if it is in the best interest and welfare of the child."

Now comes a Supreme Court decision, scheduled for this winter in a case called "Doe vs. Delaware." The highest court has been asked to decide if laws (such as the above) are unconstitutionally vague.

On the basis of such a statute, the Delaware court in 1976 cut off the rights of a couple known as "Doe" to any further contact with their five children, who then ranged in age from eight months to four years.

Lawyers for the Does contend that Delaware's law, similar to laws in many other states permitting the breaking-up of families, are so general, indefinite and brief that they actually invite abuse. And the abuse is so frequently in the mind of the observer only, an attorney familiar with the case told my associate Brooke Shearer, that it is impossible to justify the claim of harm to the children.

What is "abuse" to your neighbor may be merely a satisfyingly loud argument to the parents and just ordinary squabbling without any meaning to the children.

Often, children are taken away from their natural parents because social workers disapprove of the way the parents live, not because the children are in danger of being physically or emotionally harmed.

The states, attorneys for the Does claim, have a constitutional obligation to provide more precise standards before terminating parental rights.

This is the fundamental issue the Supreme Court is to decide. Should its vote be in favor of the parents, the combination of this and the clear goals of the new Adoption Assistance Act will have tremendous force on family law as it now exists in the U.S.

Drastic family law reform then will be on the way, with profound meaning in terms of the humanities as well as money.

Palestine Week Celebrated, But Subdued, At U.N.

UNITED NATIONS (JTA) — As a result of the continuing war between Iraq and Iran and the change of administrations in Washington, Palestine Week here, which began with the marking of Palestine Day last Friday, is likely to be subdued, if not overlooked altogether, according to diplomats and observers here.

"This is very bad timing for a Palestine celebration," one diplomat said. "For one thing, the prestige of the Palestine Liberation Organization has reached a new nadir as a result of the war between two Moslem countries that have adopted the Palestinian cause. For another, the Arab world is presently divided, as it has not been for a long time. The Arab states are in a state of confusion and disarray and the uncertainties concerning a new American Administration and its Mideast policy are only contributing to the confusion."

This is the third consecutive year that the United Nations will be celebrating Palestine Week. The celebration starts each year on Nov. 29, which is officially designated by the UN as Palestine Day. The Nov. 29 date was selected by the PLO because that was the day in 1947 when the UN voted to partition Palestine.

Debate On Palestinian Question Next Week

While some events will be ceremonial — including a special meeting of the General Assembly with speeches by Secretary General Kurt Waldheim and other UN officials; the opening of an exhibition depicting achievements and aspirations of the Palestinian people; and the screening of a film which was shown last year, "Palestinians Do Have Rights" — Palestine Week will continue with the General Assembly opening its annual debate on the "Palestinian Question."

Publication Devotes Issue To The Work Of Soviet Jewish Artists, Writers

NEW YORK — Twenty Soviet Jewish writers, artists, and photographers, all of whom emigrated to the United States within the past two years, were introduced to American publishers and editors at a reception last week, with the intent of providing contacts to help them pursue their professional careers in this country.

The reception was sponsored by Present Tense, the magazine of world Jewish affairs, published quarterly by the American Jewish Committee, and by AJC's Foreign Affairs Department. The current issue of Present Tense is entitled "The Saga of Soviet Jewry by Soviet Jews," and contains the work of many of these emigres.

The Soviet group included dramatists, screen writers, comedy writers, science writers, a professor of philosophy, novelists, journalists, film directors, photo journalists, graphic artists, and illustrators. Among the guests from the publishing world were chairmen and editors of major book houses and magazines as well as literary agents.

Murray Polner, editor of Present Tense, in his welcoming address, asserted that the "Soviet Jewish freedom movement has been one of the major non-violent resistance movements in modern times."

He said, despite harassment and persecution, more than a quarter of a million Soviet Jews had succeeded in leaving the Soviet Union in the past decade.

"One of the many blessings this emigration has brought to America, and indeed the Western world, is the tremendous creativity of Soviet artists and intellectuals. I predict that some day their originality and passion will shake the literary and cultural and thereby enhance the rights of all people living under left and right wing tyrannies," said Dr. Polner.

Explaining the rationale for devoting the autumn issue of Present Tense to the work of Soviet Jewish writers and artists, Dr. Polner said, "We wanted to give the emigres a forum for their essays, articles, poems, paintings, and photographs, which bear witness to their struggle to leave, as well as to the struggles of those who have not yet been able to break the hold of Soviet authorities. It is our urgent task to continue to support their valiant efforts to reach out for freedom."

Included among the stories and article in the magazine is an excerpt from an unpublished book titled "The Jewish Road," by Edward Topol. Mr. Topol, a dramatist and journalist in the USSR prior to his emigration to the West in 1978, describes the dehumanizing experience of leaving the Soviet Union in his article.

During the five-day debate, a litany of anti-Israel accusations is expected to be expressed by the majority of Third World and Communist nations delegates.

Nachman Shai, Israel's spokesman at the UN, told the Jewish Telegraphic Agency that Israel will participate in the debate, underscoring its position that a solution in the Mideast can be reached within the framework of Security Council Resolution 242 and the Camp David accords.

The Arab-Israeli conflict will continue to dominate the General Assembly's agenda for one week after the Palestinian debate concludes with a debate on the "Question of the Mideast."

Israel To Free Rabbi Kahane On Dec. 12

TEL AVIV — Military authorities in Israel have decided to reduce the nine-month prison sentence of Rabbi Meir Kahane and release him on Dec. 12, according to his lawyer.

Rabbi Kahane, the former head of the Jewish Defense League in the United States, has ended the 15-day hunger strike which began in protest of his imprisonment, said Rahamim Cohen, his lawyer.

Mr. Cohen said the release was unconditional and the rabbi has made no promises to curtail activities that resulted in his jail sentence.

In September, Rabbi Kahane was sentenced by a military court in Ramallah, in the occupied West Bank, to three months in jail for disturbing the peace. He had provoked Arab unrest by bringing petitions and armed followers to city halls in Nablus and Ramallah calling on the Mayors to recognize Israeli rule or move to an Arab country.

"You pay a duty for being deprived of your citizenship," he writes. "You pay in personal possessions and with bank savings, which they either forbid you to take out of the country or simply confiscate. You pay with your own work in pictures, manuscripts, sculptures, carvings and ceramic objects, work which until recently was not even recognized as art, which you were forbidden to exhibit, to publish, to circulate, or even to show to anyone. And now, suddenly, your work is valued at thousands of rubles that you, as the author, must pay them to 'export' your own creation."

The issue also contains a history and description of Jewish samizdat in the USSR. Samizdat, which means self-publishing, refers to written materials that would be considered treasonous by the government, and therefore, must be issued surreptitiously, usually in typewritten form, and circulated through underground channels.

A particularly poignant piece by Alexander Sirotnin, a Moscow-born actor, director, and writer, deals with those Soviet emigres who, finding it hard to adjust to life in the United States, yearn for the life they knew in Russia.

"Some long for Kiev, forgetting their own and others' misery there. Others dream about Leningrad, because what was bad is easily forgotten. We forget that we were sitting on a powder keg. We forget that at any time they could frame another Jewish doctor's case. They could declare mobilization, evacuation, expropriation, anything."

Sirotnin offers this advice to his fellow emigres:

"Fall in love with Forest Hills and Brighton Beach. Fall in love with velvety Manhattan. Fall in love with the night bridge across the universe. Fall in love with multicolored girls on multicolored streets. Fall in love with this great country. It is yours, it is for you. It has stretched out its hand. Stretch out yours."

Canada Will Oppose West Bank Settlement

MONTREAL (JTA) — Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau said in Cairo last week that Canada will continue to oppose Israeli settlement of the West Bank and the annexation of Jerusalem and will support the United Nations call for Israel's withdrawal from the occupied territories.

Trudeau also said that Canada would not recognize the Palestine Liberation Organization as long as that might jeopardize Canada's friendship with Israel.

Friends Of Miriam Honor Dr. Ezra Sharp

Friends of The Miriam Hospital, Muriel and Max Leach, recently paid tribute to their physician, Dr. Ezra A. Sharp, by purchasing a patient room at The Miriam Hospital in Dr. Sharp's honor.

The tribute, in grateful appreciation for the doctor's care and personal concern, is recognized on a plaque at the Hospital's room 453. The Miriam has been the beneficiary of a previous tribute to Dr. Sharp by Celia and Alexander Rumpel.

The doctor-patient relationship of Dr. Sharp and the Leach family began with Max's mother, one of Dr. Sharp's first patients. Max has followed his mother's choice of doctor and has been convinced, and is grateful, that her choice was an excellent one.

Dr. Sharp's patients are appreciative of both the knowledge he possesses as a physician and of his personal concern for their well-being.

Dr. Sharp is a graduate of Harvard University and the John Hopkins Medical School. Prior to coming to Providence to establish his medical practice, Dr. Sharp spent three years in a medical residency and one year in a fellowship at Yale Medical School.

Renewed Violence On West Bank

JERUSALEM (JTA) — Bir Zeit College on the West Bank reopened last week with a new outburst of violence by students protesting its week-long closure by the Military Government.

Youths took to the streets, stoning Israeli vehicles. Security forces, rushed to the scene, fired into the air and forced them back into the buildings. Soldiers surrounded the campus. By early afternoon, the Military Governor reportedly agreed to let the students leave but the name of each was taken down by the army.

The college was closed a week ago to enforce a ban on "Palestine Week," an annual campus event which the Israeli authorities considered nationalistic and provocative. The closure sparked a wave of unrest on the West Bank. Last week Israeli troops opened fire on demonstrators in Ramallah and El Bireh, wounding 11.

Heavy Elections Turnout

TEL AVIV (JTA) — An extraordinarily heavy turnout marked the Labor Party elections last week.

Four hours before the polls closed, more than 45 percent of the 260,000 eligible voters had cast their ballots for delegates to the party's convention early next year.

The intense rivalry between Labor Party chairman Shimon Peres and former Premier Yitzhak Rabin was believed responsible for the turnout.

Schindler's Charges Rejected By ADL, Falwell And Orthodox Rabbi

NEW YORK (JTA) — The Rev. Jerry Falwell, head of the Moral Majority, has rejected charges by Rabbi Alexander Schindler that rightwing religious fundamentalist groups foster the growth of anti-Semitism in the U.S. He called the assertion "false and absolutely without foundation."

At the same time, Rabbi Abraham Hecht, president of the Rabbinical Alliance of America, called Schindler's charge "both scurrilous and inane." He said, "As one who has met and cooperated with the Moral Majority I can safely state that the ominous threats created by Schindler's fantasy are totally unfounded and devoid of proof."

Schindler, president of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations (UAHC), referred to the "chilling power of the radical right" in an address in San Francisco last week where the UAHC Board was meeting.

He observed that it was "no coincidence that the rise of rightwing Christian fundamentalism has been accompanied by the most serious outbreak of anti-Semitism in America since the end of World War II."

Falwell, in a statement from his headquarters in Lynchburg, Va., said Schindler's assertion that "my activities in the Moral Majority movement have helped to create a climate which has led to anti-Semitic incidences in the United States" was "false and absolutely without foundation."

"I do not have to prove to Rabbi Schindler or anyone else of my longstanding friendship for the Jewish people in America and around the world, and my strong and continuing advocacy of the cause of Israel," Falwell said.

He noted that two weeks ago he received an award from Premier Menachem Begin of Israel "in recognition of many years of service to Israel and the Jewish people everywhere."

The award, from the Jabotinsky Foundation, was also given to 99 other prominent Americans. But one of the awardees, Sen. Frank Church (D. Idaho) refused to accept his because Falwell was one of the recipients. Sen. Carl Levin (D. Mich.) also criticized the award to Falwell.

Orthodox Leader Raps Schindler

In a blistering statement, Hecht asserted that, contrary to Schindler's view that the rightwing Christian groups are a disaster for America and the security of American Jewry, "these leaders are men of integrity, sharing many traditional beliefs of the Jewish people... values (which) have long ago been rejected out of hand by Schindler and his ilk."

Commenting on Schindler's view that there is a link between rightwing Christian groups and the increase in anti-Semitic acts, Hecht said "This equation is as valid as stating that inflation is caused by the affluence of the Jew." He added that Schir-der's "irreligious policies are a much greater threat to the existence and future of the Jewish people than any other religious group in America, past, present or future."

Schindler was also criticized by Nathan Perlmutter, national director of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, for "looking at the fundamentalists as a monolithic group." He said, "I respectfully remind Rabbi Schindler that the Soviet Union, the prime exporter of anti-Semitism, is neither Christian nor fundamentalist. There are good Christians and bad Christians, good Jews and bad Jews. To hear some of the talk lately we'd also have to say there are foolish Christians and foolish Jews."

Israel Keeping Tabs On Syrian Troops Along Jordan

TEL AVIV (JTA) — Israel is keeping a close watch on what it regards as a "significant" build-up of Syrian troops on the Jordanian border. While that development appears related exclusively to the growing tension between Syria and Jordan, Premier Menachem Begin considered it sufficiently important, as Defense Minister, to report the situation to the Knesset's Foreign Affairs and Security Committee last week.

The Syrian aim appeared to be to coerce Jordan into cancelling the Arab summit meeting. The meeting opened on schedule in Amman but with the absence of five rejectionist states — Syria, Lebanon, South Yemen, Libya and Algeria — and the Palestine Liberation Organization. Those countries opposed a summit meeting at this time because of the divisions in the Arab world arising from the Iraqi-Iranian war.

Jordan ignored the Syrian threat, apparently relying on its very strong armored corps and highly mobile army which are considered quite capable of repulsing any Syrian attack.

Nevertheless, Israeli military observers warned that while the Syrian troop concentrations are of a demonstrative nature, the situation could get out of hand. They recalled Syria's attempted invasion of Jordan in 1970 when King Hussein was battling Palestinian terrorists.

Military sources reported that Syrian units deployed facing Israel on the Golan Heights have been unusually quiet, indicating a signal from Damascus that Syria has no intention of moving against Israel.

It was learned, meanwhile, that Israel and the U.S. are exchanging views over the tension on the Syrian-Jordanian border and the large military concentrations on both sides. Skirmishes that may escalate out of control are considered a possibility. Deputy Defense Minister Mordechai Zipori and Gen. Abraham Tamir, chief of planning at General Headquarters, will leave for Washington shortly to reopen the strategic dialogue with the U.S. The Syrian-Jordanian border situation is expected to be discussed.

Hot Couture

Why do Bedouin desert dwellers invariably dress in black robes? Don't they know that white reflects heat while black absorbs it?

Tel Aviv scientist, Dr. Amiram Shkolnik, along with some colleagues from Harvard, has investigated this question and he's come up with some surprising answers. It turns out it doesn't matter what color the Bedouin wears. The secret is in the air pocket between the skin and the loose-flowing robe. Comparisons of skin temperatures of robed Bedouins, soldiers in khaki uniforms and tourists in tight-fitting shorts and blouses show that the old shepherd knows best how to beat the heat.

Begin Stops Israeli Arabs From Holding Pro-P.L.O. Conference

JERUSALEM — As part of an effort to curb Arab support for the Palestine Liberation Organization, Prime Minister Menachem Begin barred a group of leftist Israeli Arabs from holding a political conference to endorse the creation of the P.L.O.

On the same day this week, a Palestinian university president on the West Bank was arrested for not preventing a pro-P.L.O. conference among his students.

The New Communist Party had planned the meeting of Israeli Arabs for Saturday in Nazareth, inspired by an upsurge of Palestinian nationalism among the 637,000 Arabs who live in and are citizens of Israel.

The most outspoken of the nationalists identify with the Arabs on the West Bank, and have openly endorsed the P.L.O.

The Government has passed tough legislation to deal with these Arabs, restricted political activity and used strong police methods to restrict the movement of some Arab leaders.

The conference was scheduled in part to protest these Government measures, as well as to protest discrimination against Arabs.

The conference also was to have urged Israel to enter talks with the P.L.O. with the goal of establishing a Palestinian state, not to replace Israel, but to exist alongside it.

The Government has rejected the idea of talks with the P.L.O. because of its terrorist tactics and its refusal to recognize Israel.

The official explanation of the ban cited a June declaration by the organizers in which they identify with "the murderous organization called the P.L.O., whose clear goal is the liquidation of the state of Israel."

One Arab leader in Parliament called the ban "a threat . . . to the whole of Israeli society."

The West Bank educator arrested was Gabi Baramki, acting president of Bir Zeit University, reported to be under investigation for failing to block students' plans for a "Palestine Week" celebration of speeches, songs and slogans.

The university was closed by the army, setting off demonstrations during which 15 stone-throwing Arabs were shot and slightly wounded by Israeli troops.

Successful Investing Riding High With Reagan

by David R. Sargent

The explosively favorable reaction of the stock market to Ronald Reagan's victory reflects his determinedly pro-business bias. Wall Street obviously believes that business will get a better break under President Reagan than it has at any time since Eisenhower.

Mr. Reagan will not be able to change things overnight, bureaucracy and Congress being what they are, but he certainly can be a big help to the business community if he tries. He can work for more liberal depreciation schedules, lower taxes, and easier regulation. This would mean better earnings for industry in general.

If the new President also pushes for stronger defense and more energy development here at home, some obvious sectors of the business community will get even more of a push.

The following ten stocks are some of the most likely beneficiaries of the first conservative, business-minded Government the nation has had since 1960: Ex-Cell-O Corp., Lear Siegler, MAPCO, Marathon Oil, Martin Marietta, Moog, NL Industries, Ocean

Drilling & Exploration, Raytheon, and Sperry Corp. Any of these stocks may be purchased for good growth prospects in the 1980's.

Q — We have recently invested in Guardian Fund for growth until our retirement in 10-15 years. But I noticed that Forbes magazine gives Founders Special an "AA" rating and Guardian only "BB" for performance in up-and-down markets from 1968 to 1980. Should I switch? I am looking for a safe growth investment. A.K. Michigan

A — You do not want to take many risks with your retirement nest egg. Founders Special is a different type of fund, managed with a more speculative investor in mind, and its portfolio is heavily invested in small, lesser-known companies. Guardian is the better choice for a conservative growth-oriented investor like yourself. At any rate, for the five years from 1975 through 1979, Guardian achieved a higher performance than Founders Special, with a +175% change in net asset value, vs. Founders' +121%. Stay with this well-managed fund.

Jewish Scientist Elected President, Sciences Academy

by Joseph Polakoff

WASHINGTON — The phenomenal record of results in research and leadership in various branches of science by Jewish Americans — most recently exemplified by three winning Nobel Prizes this year in science along with another in economics among eight Americans receiving awards — is compounded by the selection by the prestigious National Academy of Sciences of a new president.

Frank Press, a distinguished geophysicist, has been nominated to be the academy's next president in succession to Philip Handler, world noted biochemist who will leave that office next July 1 after having served for 12 years, the maximum permitted by the academy's bylaws. Both are New Yorkers and identified with institutions in Israel.

The National Academy is an organization of 1324 distinguished scientists and engineers "concerned with the furtherance of science and its use for human welfare." Although the academy is not a government agency, it is called upon by its congressional charter of 1863 to serve as an official advisor to the Federal Government in matters of science and technology.

Press was nominated by the academy's governing council following a recommendation from a nominating committee chaired by Kenneth Pitzer, of the University of California at Berkeley. The academy's membership will complete a mail vote by Jan. 15.

Press, a member of the Academy since 1958, is presently President Carter's science advisor and director of the U.D. Office of Science and Technology Policy. He was appointed in 1977 while serving as professor and chairman of the Department of Earth and Planetary Sciences at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Now 55, Press was born in Brooklyn, N.Y., the son of the late Solomon and Dora Steinholtz Press, who had emigrated from Russia to New York in 1916. Trained at Columbia, Press taught at Columbia, California Institute of Technology, and MIT. His Federal Government service included the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency

Orthodox Rabbi Disavows Statement

Rabbi Sol Roth, President of the Rabbinical Council of America, which represents over one thousand Orthodox Rabbis in the United States and Canada, has sharply criticized Dr. Gershon Cohen regarding his statement on the ordination of women in the modern Orthodox movement.

Rabbi Roth stated: "The declaration of Dr. Gershon Cohen, Chancellor of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, to the effect that the ordination of women in the modern Orthodox movement is only a matter of time, is unfortunate and misguided."

Rabbi Roth further stated: "Dr. Cohen is not a spokesman for Orthodoxy and the commitment of Orthodox Rabbis to the Halacha is such that it is inconceivable that such a radical departure from Jewish tradition would be permitted."

and the National Science Foundation.

He also participated in the bilateral science agreement with the Soviet Union in the years 1970 to 76. He was a member for five years of the board of governors of the Weizmann Institute before resigning that and other private posts in 1977 upon becoming President Carter's advisor. He and his wife, the former Billie Kallick of St. Louis, have two children.

The outgoing Handler, born in New York in 1917, received his BS degree from the former College of the City of New York and his doctorate in biochemistry from Illinois. He served at Duke and George Washington Universities and the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission. Citations have been given him by scientific bodies in Great Britain, Germany, Japan, Switzerland, Mexico and Iran.

In 1971, Yeshiva University in New York conferred an honorary doctorate in science upon him. He is a member of the board of governors of Hebrew University in Jerusalem, which named him to membership in 1974. In 1973 he delivered the memorial lecture in Jerusalem for Aharon Katzir, the Israeli scientist and brother of Israel President Katzir. Hebrew University conferred an honorary doctorate upon him in 1971. He lectured in 1977 at the Technion in Israel.

In his long leadership of the National Academy, he initiated numerous calls on the Soviet Government to refrain from harassment of scientists, notably Andrei Sakharov, and allow those who wish to emigrate to do so. His efforts in this direction, coming at the height of the appeals in this country in the mid-'70s for Soviet Jewish emigration, were seen as contributing significantly towards alleviation of the plight of Soviet Jews and others.

An Alternative For Sinai Dwellers: Transplant Settlements

JERUSALEM (JTA) — Raanan Weitz, head of the Jewish Agency's Settlement Department, has proposed that the government transplant all settlements in northern Sinai across the border into Israel as an alternative to building new settlements for the settlers who must evacuate Sinai by the end of next year in compliance with the Israeli-Egyptian peace treaty.

Weitz brought his plan to the World Zionist Organization Executive which authorized him to present it to the Ministerial Settlement Committee. He argued that it was feasible to physically transport houses, yards, trees and green houses to new locations in the Shalom salient where the soil and climate are the same as in the Yamit and Raffiah regions of Sinai.

By so doing, he said the government would avoid the phenomenon of paying "ransom" money to the settlers in compensation for their property and avoid the cost of building new settlements from scratch.

So far no official body has endorsed Weitz's plan. It has encountered opposition from the Sinai settlers who are negotiating with the government for compensation. Representatives of Sadot, the oldest settlement, told Weitz he came too late. They said many settlers have already committed themselves to other projects after they evacuate the area.

Weitz drafted his proposal about two months ago and asked a team of experts, headed by Prof. Haim Finkel, to study the possibility of dismantling the settlements and reassembling them across the border. The experts reported that it was not only possible but could be done at 80 percent of the cost of building new settlements.

Weitz estimated the cost of moving Sadot at 20 million Shekels. But even as he outlined his plan to the WZO Executive, the Likud Knesset faction was discussing compensation. Only Finance Minister Yigal Hurwitz was opposed on grounds that the sums were far too generous and out of line with what the government could afford.

Madrid Conference Gets List Of Soviets Denied Exit Visas

MADRID — The United States has given the East-West Conference on human rights a list of complaints about Soviet restrictions on emigration.

A delegate from the Soviet Union, meanwhile, has suggested that a more relaxed international atmosphere would favor human rights in Eastern Europe.

Jerome J. Shestack, a lawyer from Philadelphia who served on the United Nations Human Rights Commission, listed cases of Jews, Armenians, Ukrainians, Lithuanians, Latvians, Estonians and others who have been denied permission to leave the Soviet Union to join relatives abroad, or who have suffered other forms of discrimination.

Shestack listed victims of violations of the 1975 Helsinki accords under review at the conference, including 15 Soviet and Eastern European citizens, from Andrei D. Sakharov, the banished physicist, to lesser-known activists.

The list reflected U.S. government policy as well as lobbying by ethnic groups in Madrid and the U.S.

In an unusual response from the floor, S.A. Kondrachev of the Soviet Union said the U.S. was dealing with dissidents who had criminal records.

Kondrachev, a general in the state security police, said in a prepared speech that there was a link between detente and the freer movement of people covered under the Helsinki accords.

Those who limit detente, Kondrachev said, are limiting the implementation of that section of the Helsinki accords.

Sabbatical For Rabbis, Scientists

JERUSALEM — A unique annual sabbatical program for rabbis and scientists, sponsored by the Institute for Science and Halacha in Jerusalem, has recently been announced by Dr. Dov Ehrlich, Chairman of the Institute.

The program is being planned with the particular needs and interests of the hundreds of Rabbis, scientists and academics from around the world who plan to spend their sabbatical leave in Israel.

According to Yossi Sharon, spokesman for the Institute and coordinator of the program, the novel element of this program is that the Institute will look after visitors with whom it has had no previous contact.

The Institute will offer a series of weekly lectures dealing with the "Encounter of Jewish Law and Modern Society," and will help arrange for the visitors to meet with their Israeli colleagues. Special tours of the country will be organized for participants and their families, and reliable information and assistance on housing accommodations, schools and community affairs will be available.

A special attraction will be a series of periodic meetings with leaders of Israeli religious, educational, political and economic life. This will enable participants to receive first-hand information on aspects of Israeli life from key decision makers in the country.

Additional information on the sabbatical year program may be obtained by contacting the Institute for Science and Halacha, 1 Hapigsa Street, Jerusalem, telephone (02) 424-880.

Gathering Of Holocaust Survivors Attracts Unprecedented Number Of Participants

NEW YORK, N.Y. — A massive contingent of American citizens, all survivors of the World War II Holocaust, is expected in Israel in June 1981 for the World Gathering of Jewish Holocaust Survivors.

The Gathering has attracted a tremendous amount of attention amongst Holocaust survivors worldwide and it is expected that over 20,000 Survivors, far more than original expectations, from Israel and around the world will participate.

The Gathering will be held under the patronage of Prime Minister Begin. The Gathering's joint chairpersons, both survivors, are American author Elie Wiesel and President of the European Parliament Simone Weil.

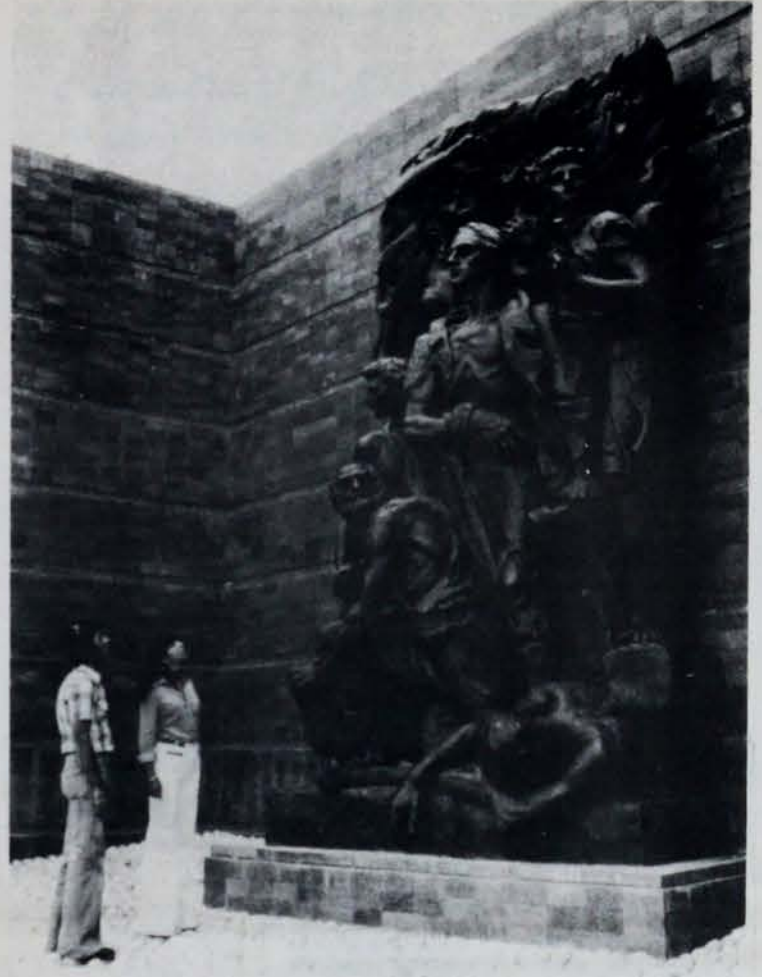

The aims of the organizers of the Gathering are to emphasize the significance and legacy of the Holocaust and to serve notice that the Holocaust must be neither forgotten nor repeated; to confirm the continuity and survival of the Jewish people as a whole, with the State of Israel as its focal point; and to create an opportunity for Survivors from around the world, once in a lifetime, to be with each other, their spouses, their children and grandchildren, to meet and share their common experiences of the past and their aspirations for the future.

During the Gathering's four days from June 15 through 18, there will be an inaugural mass meeting and memorial service at Jerusalem's Yad Vashem (Israel's Memorial to the Holocaust); a march of Survivors through the streets of Jerusalem to the Western Wall, and special events at the three Kibbutzim in Israel established by Holocaust

Survivors.

Participants are invited to place a memoir of their Holocaust experiences in the Yad Vashem archives and special seminars and programs will be arranged for the Survivors and their families.

Additional information on the Gathering may be obtained from Phyllis Walker at the Israel Government Tourism Administration, 350 Fifth Avenue, New York, New York 10118, tel: (212) 560-0622.

AT YAD VASHEM, Israel's Memorial to the Holocaust, this massive relief by sculptor Rappaport recalls the Warsaw Ghetto Uprising during World War II. Yad Vashem comprises a giant archive of the holocaust, museum, and stark memorial chamber whose floor contains six million tiny mosaic tiles through which are weaved the names of the Nazi extermination centers in Europe.

Jews, Catholics Under Attack At Recent Anti-Communist Congress

NEW YORK — Catholics and Jews came under attack at a recent anti-Communist congress held in Buenos Aires according to the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith.

Rabbi Morton M. Rosenthal, director of ADL's Latin American Affairs Department said, "elements of fascism, neo-Nazism and anti-Semitism were manifest" among the 200 delegates to the Fourth Congress of the Latin American Anti-Communist Confederation.

The Confederation met in early September and is an affiliate of the World Anti Communist League which, Rabbi Rosenthal said, has been penetrated by activists, financed by Saudi Arabians. The activists have joined forces with "diverse elements of the international ultraright" which are linked with Liberty Lobby, the Washington-based, ultraright and anti-Semitic organization led by Willis A. Carto, and to MSI, the principle neo-fascist party in Italy, said the rabbi.

He noted that the Argentine newspaper, La Prensa, reporting on the conference, said that an accredited delegate had told a Brazilian journalist, "the Jews are responsible for Marxist infiltration of the continent. . . the moment will soon come when we will exterminate all of them."

Rabbi Rosenthal said passage of a resolution denouncing Catholic clergy in Latin America came as a surprise to Argentine observers. The Congress called on Latin American governments to expel from their territories "all Marxist Jesuit, neo-colonizers."

The Jesuits were accused of organizing rural guerrilla movements under the pretext of evangelization, Rabbi Rosenthal said. During the conference, Lt. Col. Luis Canedo Reyes, an aide to the chief of staff of the Bolivian armed forces, urged that the Archbishop of La Paz, Jorge Manrique, be expelled because of opposition to the military junta which recently seized power in Bolivia.

The Congress also criticized President Carter for aiding Marxism through his human rights policy and hailed Argentine, Bolivia and other Latin American nations for their "courageous stand" against American "intimidation."

The strident tones of some of the resolutions and the statements by individual delegates apparently proved embarrassing to the government of Argentina, which hosted to Congress, Rabbi Rosenthal said. Although retired Argentine Gen. Carlos Suarez Mason presided at the opening session, he was not present at the press conference. Informed sources in Argentina said that the extreme statements made by some Congress delegates had not met with the approval of Argentine authorities.

Aiding Italy's Quake Victims: JDC To Contribute $30,000, B'nai B'rith To Give $1,000

NEW YORK (JTA) — Two major Jewish organizations have announced that they are making contributions to the victims of the earthquakes in Italy.

The American Joint Distribution Committee's president, Donald Robinson announced a contribution of $30,000 in its traditional role of representative of the American Jewish community for overseas relief.

B'nai B'rith International's president, Jack Spitzer, said his organization will contribute $1,000 and that additional funds will be forthcoming from B'nai B'rith subdivisions outside the United States.

Robinson, in his announcement, also said that the JDC was making itself available for members of the American Jewish community and others who wish to make donations. Monies received for this purpose will be added to the basic JDC contribution, he said adding that anyone wishing to donate should send funds to the American Joint Distribution Committee, Room 1914, 60 East 42nd Street, New York City, NY 10165.

Ralph Goldman, JDC executive vice president, said the JDC's office in Rome has been instructed to contact Italian government officials and to make the JDC's Rome office available to the relief effort. In addition, Goldman said, "we are acting in cooperation with HIAS to recruit volunteers from among the Soviet Jewish emigrants in Rome who are awaiting visas to the United States."

Help From Rome's Jewish Community
According to a cable received here from the JDC's Rome office, the Jewish community of Rome has sent three truckloads of blankets and clothing to the collection center in Naples, is making a contribution of three million Lira and started an effort within the community to raise a total of 19 million Lira. The JDC said no Italian Jewish institutions have been directly affected by the earthquakes which have taken several thousand lives and have left hundreds of thousands homeless.

Spitzer, who made the announcement of the B'nai B'rith effort from Hong Kong where he is on B'nai B'rith business, said the presentation of his organization's contribution will be made in Washington next week to the Italian Ambassador.

Israel Offers Aid To Quake Victims

TEL AVIV (JTA) — Israel's Red Mogen David has advised the Italian Red Cross that Israel is prepared to send medical crews and equipment to aid the victims of earthquakes in southern Italy where an estimated 400 people were killed and some 800 were injured.

Italian authorities reported damage in 29 cities and towns. The Red Mogen David said the medical aid can reach the stricken area within two days and that a number of medical teams have been alerted to go to Italy on short notice.

ADL Survey Reports On Editorial Reaction To The Paris Bombing

NEW YORK, NY — More than half the nation's 50 top circulation newspapers made no editorial comment on the Oct. 13 Paris synagogue bombing. The 22 which did comment were unanimous in denouncing the terrorist attack.

Editorial reaction to the bombing was the topic of the latest Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith "Big 50" press survey of the treatment of events which directly concern the Jewish community.

The findings were made public by Abraham H. Foxman, ADL's associate national director and head of its International Affairs Division.

Mr. Foxman said that the 22 newspapers sounded several themes in their comments. Among them were the following: anti-Semitism in France was not surprising considering French history from the Dreyfus affair in the 1890's to the cooperation of the vichy government with the Nazis during World War II; the Paris bombing was part of a broader pattern of terrorism in Europe and the rest of the world; the French government should be more vigorous in combatting neo-Nazis and terrorism; pro-Arab, anti-Israel attitudes of the French government may be contributing to anti-Semitism.

Some of the papers praised the French people for participating in a rally protesting the synagogue bombing. Three of the papers said that violent reprisals would only lead to more violence; one paper pointed out that violent reprisals were likely to follow in the absence of government action.

Decrying anti-Semitic violence not only in France but in the rest of the world, the Miami Herald said: "Violence by merchants of hatred is again on the upswing in France, the United States, Italy and elsewhere. This trend should disturb deeply anyone who knows the gruesome litany of man's awesome and historic potential for evil."

The Miami newspaper pointed to the random murders of blacks in the U.S. and the upsurge of Ku Klux Klan activity. "There events," it said, "are especially disturbing to Jews and blacks whose history has taught them how ready are some to persecute them."

The Kansas City Times declared that the Paris bombing "marks a general rise in anti-Semitism and terror in Western Europe," adding: "France appears to be the focal point for the new anti-Semitism. . . Great Britain and West Germany are shamed by numerous, active anti-Semitic groups. And the United States has its Ku Klux Klan, perhaps the most potentially dangerous organization of them all."

In a statement addressed to people on both sides of the Atlantic, the Chicago Tribune said: "The best way to fight neo-fascism, whether in Europe or in America, is the scrupulous adherence to the rule of law in a democratic society. When the law's integrity is compromised, either by corruption or by vigilantism, opportunities for neo-fascism are created."

Camel Milk: Sweet Taste And Nutrition To Combat Starvation

NEGEV — The food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations has awarded Dr. Rueven Yagil, a veterinarian-physiologist at the Center for Health Sciences, Ben-Gurion University of the Negev, a grant to draw up a comprehensive report on camel milk as an economically viable means to combat starvation and malnutrition in arid zones the world over.

Research by Yagil ex-chief veterinarian of the IDF Camel Corps, on the sweet tasting, low fat milk which lactating camels have in abundance, points to its use as an economically viable solution to the acute problems of starvation, malnutrition, and dehydration that plague draught stricken parts of the world.

Yagil maintains that camel milk is practically a complete food for a human child living in a hot, dry region. In fact, one lactating camel can sustain several families for weeks at a time, even if the camel itself is fasting. Obviously, a herd of camels could keep quite a lot of people alive.

"We came to the conclusion that these animals — which are superbly adapted to the desert, which can survive weeks without drinking water, which can change every physiological mechanism in the body to survive the lack of water and the lack of good vegetation — could be used in the areas of the world where people are dying today," Yagil explains.

"All other mammals," he continues, "except the camel, when exposed to heat, lack of water and lack of good fodder have a decline in milk production." So, precisely when the young animal needs more water and food, the mother is providing less.

"We examined the camels, kept them without water for two weeks, while continuing to milk them, then letting them drink as much as they wanted for one hour. Normally, camels will produce milk that has about 80 percent water with 4.5 percent fat. These camels kept without drinking water and before they have drunk, have 91 percent water in their milk and 1 percent fat, with an increased salt content as well.

"If we had to sit down and design what we would want to give a child living in an area that's hot and short of water, we would need a food that contained a lot of water, a lot of salt, little fat and good nutritional value." This is exactly what the camels produce under harsh, arid conditions, Yagil said.

His research has long attracted international attention but until now, political consideration have prevented him from traveling to international conferences held in countries hostile to Israel or meeting with Arab camel experts.

Yagil will shortly travel to FAO Headquarters in Rome to present his findings.

Israeli Given Life For Kidnap, Murder

TEL AVIV — An Israeli illustrator of children's books, 33-year-old Zvi Gur, was sentenced to life imprisonment for the kidnapping and murder of an 8-year-old boy last June.

A nationwide search was conducted after the discovery of the child's body. The boy, Oron Yarden, had been abducted from a shopping center parking lot. His parents, from an affluent Tel Aviv suburb of Savyon, paid a $42,000 ransom for his release.

The kidnapper took the ransom but did not release the boy. The body was found three weeks later buried in the sands near the seaside resort of Netanya.

Nazi Stands Trial

KIEL, WEST GERMANY — Former Nazi SS officer, 71-year-old Kurt Asche, went on trial last week and was charged with complicity in the deportation of 26,000 Belgian and French Jews to the Auschwitz death camp in Poland in World War II.

Asche, who served as a first lieutenant at the Brussels headquarters of the SS in 1942 and 1943, originally was to have been one of 11 to face charges. However, in the 18 years it has taken to bring the case to court, the other defendants have either died or have been deemed unfit to stand trial.

The trial was expected to be one of the last major war-crimes hearings held in West Germany.

Bridge

by Robert E. Starr

Today's hand should not have caused as much trouble as it did. I am certain that had the Declarers been playing it from the North hand instead of the South, they would all have made it with ease. However, the bidding went in such a way that South played the hand as Declarer every time and several went down. They should not go down in this hand.

West		North		East
♠ 94	♥ Q J 9 3	♠ A J 10 3	♥ A 7 4	♠ 8 6 5	♥ K 10 6 5 2
♦ A 9 3	♣ 10 8 7 2	♦ J 7 4	♥ A 9 5	♦ K Q 10	♥ J 4
		South
		♠ K Q 7 2	♥ 8	♦ 8 6 5 2	♣ K Q 6 3

South was Dealer, both sides vulnerable with this bidding:

1S	P	2S	P
3S	P	4S	End

Some Souths passed their Partner's raise. I feel with ten high card points plus a good fit in two suits, the South hand is definitely worth a try toward game. North, with a top minimum will accept the invitation with alacrity. The play should be the same no matter how many Spades the final contract is.

West leads the Heart Queen won in Dummy and right here is where those who failed went wrong. They hoped the Clubs would break evenly, I suppose, which would have given them their ten tricks. Playing the hand correctly they could have made their contract no matter how Clubs break and even make an overtrick should Clubs allow it. They drew Trumps immediately and went down.

I am quite sure that had North been Declarer instead of South the North players, not that they were all better than their partners, would have been able to look at the hand in a different aspect and therefore come up with a better line of play. Here is what I mean.

To make the hand all that has to be done is to ruff two Hearts in Declarer's hand before drawing Trumps. Some players cannot see this or have a revulsion against Ruffing in their own hand. But had the South hand been Dummy they would definitely have won trick one and immediately ruffed a Heart in that Dummy. They would then go to Dummy again to repeat the procedure and after that is finished there would be no problem getting to the other hand again to draw Trumps.

That same sequence of play can be followed here with the Dummy North. And after drawing Trumps, the Clubs still might split evenly to provide that overtrick. Of course, if Diamonds were led there could never be any overtrick but no lead could stop the making of the ten tricks. This is a type of Dummy Reversal but not in the true example of that situation. All that has to be done is play the hand as if the South hand is the Dummy. Most Dummy Reversals have one ruff in the long hand and pull Trumps with the shorter. In this case both hands have four Trumps.

Moral: Before starting to play a hand, try to project yourself bodily over to the other side of the table. You will be amazed at how differently you will see things from that side sometime which will change your entire approach to the hand.

Reason For Not Bombing Auschwitz

BONN (JTA) — A new West German book blames indifference among responsible Americans to the fate of the Jews as the reason Auschwitz was not bombed by the Allies during World War II.

The book, "Why Auschwitz Was Not Shelled?" is by Heiner Lichtenstein, a 48-year-old news editor of a Cologne radio station. Lichtenstein, who has followed dozens of Nazi trials in Germany for the past 20 years, is also the author of "Maidanek — An Account of a Trial."

Lichtenstein stresses that the Germans are alone guilty of the Holocaust. But he documents how the Allies missed a chance to save thousands of inmates in the infamous death camp.

Link Found: PLO And ALF

GENEVA (JTA) — A link between an "Armenian Liberation Front" and the Palestine Liberation Organization has surfaced in connection with the arrests of Syrian terrorists of Armenian origin who apparently were planning to bomb the main synagogue here.

Both were injured when explosives they were handling in their hotel room near the synagogue detonated prematurely. They are being held in prison pending trial. The suspects were described as a student who lived in Beirut and a 24-year-old woman who lived in the U.S. They admitted to having been recruited by the PLO in Beirut.

The so-called "Secret Army for the Liberation of Armenia" in Beirut published a warning that if the two were not released immediately, the group would strike at Swiss and Zionist targets around the world.

The communique charged that the pair were being tortured in the Geneva jail by the CIA and the Mossad, Israel's external intelligence agency, and that they had gone on a hunger strike. The suspects have denied being tortured and are not on a hunger strike.

Soviet-Born Scientist Fights For Recognition Of Mogen David

by Joseph Polakoff

WASHINGTON — A Russian-born scientist with a medical degree earned at the University of Berlin during the bitter years when Adolf Hitler's onslaught was mounting against Jews has taken up the long struggle to have the International Red Cross recognize Israel's Mogen David Adom.

Dr. Arien Harell, now 68 and a professor of endocrinology at Tel Aviv University, is president of Israel's counterpart of the Red Cross and Red Crescent societies in other countries. In America for a series of seminars and conferences in his medical field, he seeks with indefatigable zeal, as his predecessors, to engage support for Israel's membership in the International Red Cross.

The IRC will hold its quadrennial meeting in Manila in November 1981 when Israel's membership will again be proposed. In 1949, when it made its first application, it lost by one vote. At that time, the Eastern European bloc was split, some members abstaining. Every four years since then Israel has unsuccessfully sought membership in the face of opposition from the Arabs and their allies.

This year marks the 50th anniversary of Mogen David Adom, which was established during the British Mandate in Palestine. Harell noted, in an interview here, that in the past half-century, Israel's society has supplied aid to more than 50 countries, including Moslem and African nations which now shun Israel. Ironically, among them is Bangladesh, which last August introduced the resolution in the UN Security Council aimed at depriving Israel of Jerusalem as its capital.

"Last month," Harell said, "Mogen David Adom sent 200 pounds of medicine and first-aid kits to the Red Cross in Nepal to help earthquake victims. Five medical relief teams, helped by the Government of Israel and Israel's television network, went to aid refugees from Cambodia in Thailand. Israel's TV raised 50 million Israeli pounds for this purpose.

"Most Red Cross societies recognize Israel's international cooperation," Harell said. "There are strong personal ties between our society and Red Cross societies abroad — the West Europeans, Rumania's and especially with the American Red Cross." While in Washington, he was the guest of George Elsey, president of the American Red Cross.

In outlining the Mogen David Adom's services, both in Israel and abroad, Harell noted that at Tel Aviv University 40 medical students from America, mostly Jews, attend a program conducted jointly by TAU and New York University. The criteria for admission is the same as at NYU, he said.

Arab-Sponsored Resolutions Ineffectual Against Israel

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — The two Arab-sponsored resolutions approved by the United Nations last summer were aimed against Israel and had a Nov. 15 deadline. The deadline has passed and Israel remains intact.

A Security Council resolution called on U.N. members to take steps, possibly economic, to punish Israel for its annexation of the Arab Sector of Jerusalem.

The second General Assembly proposal urged the Council to consider a trade embargo unless Israel vacated all of the territory captured in the 1967 war.

Israel ignored both demands, both of which had the November deadline.

Tactics Must Change

Since the summer, however, two major events have forced Arabs to change their approach to Israel: Iraq invaded Iran and split the Arab world, and Ronald Reagan was elected President.

The division over the Iraq-Iran war makes it difficult to establish a coherent Arab strategy for Israel.

Reagan's victory also necessitates a new approach. Diplomats know any American administration will veto sanctions against Israel in the Council. Some strategists therefore suggest introducing a sanctions resolution, delaying a vote and seeing if the Reagan administration will bargain for something else. Any subsequent punishments against the Arabs would not take place until after Reagan's January inauguration.

Some Arab leaders say the threat of vetoes makes it useless for the Arabs to push their cause in the U.N.

One result of the resolutions was the symbolic departure of 13 embassies from Jerusalem to Tel Aviv. Next month's General Assembly session is expected to include many anti-Israel speeches and resolutions.

Knesset Backs Early Elections

JERUSALEM (JTA) — The Labor Alignment said last week that 52 Knesset members have endorsed a bill calling for the dissolution of the Knesset and early elections.

According to Moshe Shahal, chairman of the Labor Alignment caucus, two more MKs have promised their support bringing the measure to within seven votes of passage.

Shahal said the signatories represent the full political spectrum in parliament. They include, in addition to Labor, the Communist Party, Shinui, Sheli, Civil Rights Movement and the Independent Liberals, all parties at various distances to the left of center and the rightwing Tehiya. In addition, the bill was endorsed by former Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan and former Defense Minister Ezer Wezman, both now sitting in parliament as independents.

The same opposition bloc failed by only three votes last week to topple Premier Menachem Begin's coalition government on a no-confidence motion aimed at the government's economic policies.

The Labor Alignment intends to present another no-confidence motion next month if the consumer price index for November shows an increase at or around 11 percent as it did in October.

Breyers yogurt is not just all natural, it's all kosher, too.

In fact Breyers yogurt is so kosher the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations puts its  on every cup.

And just wait until you taste what's in every cup. Because Breyers is the creamy smooth, full of fruit yogurt. There's luscious strawberry, raspberry, black cherry, peach and lots of other favorite flavors. And don't forget, it's made with active yogurt cultures. You can pick up all the Breyers yogurt flavors in the popular 8 oz. size, and our plain yogurt is now available in 16 oz. and 32 oz. containers. Each one is 100% natural, with absolutely nothing artificial and absolutely no gelatin.

So when you're shopping for yogurt, look for the name with a tradition since 1866. Look for Breyers. In a word, it's Geshmak!

Aping The Grape

TEL AVIV — What looks like wine, tastes like wine, smells like wine, is grown on the vine and gives every sign of being wine — yet isn't wine? It's a new non-alcoholic wine just developed by Tel Aviv University scientists.

Why in the world would anyone want to apply all that research and development to produce a spiritless wine? Well, there are folks who must restrict their alcoholic intake for health of religious reasons, and for them, this new beverage should prove to be a boon to the palate and social life.
