To

MISS M. LAVINIA CRITZ

You, dear friend, counselor and pilot,
Have steered many a craft through the storms and sunshine of "Seniordom."

In memory of the years spent in Roanoke High School—
Years filled to overflowing with service and inspiration for the students—

And mindful of the untiring efforts on behalf of our Senior Class
And for the unfailing interest shown since leaving the school,

We, the Class of 1919,

In an effort to express our appreciation
Of what you have meant to the upbuilding of High School

And the moulding of the lives of the Seniors

As they have passed through its doors

To enter the greater school, Life,

Lovingly dedicate this, the Tenth Volume

GREETINGS

The messenger from the rose brings love,
The messenger from the pansy brings thoughts,
But the messenger from the Jonquil,
Our Senior Class Flower,
Brings a cup full of "Luck—Best Sort."

As each of these flowers brings a message to you,
Our "Acorns of Nineteen" brings a message too:
Just now, as Easter chimes ring joyous rhymes,
And yellow jonquils you're plucking;
May "Nineteen Acorns" find you home
When at your door they're knocking.
Greetings to you, kind Welcomer
and Friend,

These Sincere Messengers will then extend;
A wish that our efforts and labors may lend
Some pleasure and fun
Which our "Spinner" has spun
From the threads of our thought
So long o'er wrought.

The grind of the time
Was not so sublime
While the Heights we attempted to climb
To hail to you these "Greetings true!"
But wait—let us whisper,
As would a spring zephyr:
'Be to 'Our Weaving' a little kind,
Be to our flaws a little blind."

ROANOKE HIGH SCHOOL

Evolution of High School

ROANOKE HIGH SCHOOL spent its first session (1891-92) in the Commerce street school building with Mr. J. P. Mauzy as principal. The only teachers which this school had at that time were Mr. Mauzy and Miss Cora M. Board. The twenty-three pupils who were enrolled at the beginning were all girls. During this year the enrollment increased to forty-four.

W. E. PARSONS, PRESENT PRINCIPAL

At the beginning of the second session (1892-93) a third instructor, Miss Zada K. Wyant, was added as teacher of English. The school enrollment increased so rapidly during this period that Commerce Street School was not large enough. So the High School was moved to "The Carriage Factory," on the corner of Church Avenue and Henry Street which had been fitted up for school purposes. It was here that the third session opened. The first diplomas were awarded to seven young ladies at the end of the session (1893-94).

In September, 1894, just one day before school was to open, the building with all records of the school was entirely destroyed by fire. The School Board was so energetic that not one day was lost and school opened next day in "The Smith Building," corner of Salem Avenue and Roanoke Street. The enrollment continued to grow. In 1897, a fourth instructor, Mr. E. R. Shank, was added. On May 19, 1898, the Academy of Music was used for the first time for commencement exercises.

In 1898, "The Smith Building" was sold and again High School was out in the cold. This time it went back to starting point, Commerce Street School. In 1898, Miss Zada K. Wyant resigned and Miss Dora Trent took her place.

In 1898, the present High School building was erected at the corner of Roanoke Street and Church Avenue and was dedicated on February 22, 1899, by Jr. O. U. A. M. At this time the Business Department was added with Mr. Thornton H. Lodge in charge. In 1900, Mr. Lodge resigned and Miss Jaynette Traynham then became the head of the Business Department. From 1901-1905, Mr. Harris Hart was principal. At this time Mr. S. G. Anspach and Miss Florence Williamson were added to the faculty. In 1900, the School Board allowed the principal to establish Literary Societies to meet after school hours. Also in 1901, the Chemical Department was put in and Mr. George W. Russell was placed in charge. On November 1, 1900, the principal requested the Board to give the school two bookcases for 100 books to be collected by the Literary Societies. Thus began the library. On February 1, 1902, Mr. George W. Russell died and Mr. Wm. O. Case was elected to fill the vacancy. Mr. Anspach resigned July 26, 1903, and Mr. J. R. Lake took his place. At this time the Modern Languages were introduced and Mr. A. G. Williams elected at the head. In September, 1903, the Board issued a warrant for $1,280.00 for improvements in High School and a room was added over the vestibule and the attic remodeled. Mr. D. W. Persinger was principal from 1905 to 1909 and Mr. B. Fitzpatrick was principal from 1909 to 1912. At this time High School was again enlarged by a new addition to the building—eight rooms including study hall.

It was during the principalship of Mr. D. E. McQuilkin (1912-1917) that Spanish was added to the regular High School course. In 1910, the first copy of "Acorns of Roanoke" was issued under the leadership and guidance of Mr. McQuilkin. It was likewise under the director, Mr. McQuilkin, that the Student Committee was organized. This body has done much in upholding the proper morale and ideals for the school. In 1912, the "Lee Junior High School" was built and it now houses the first year High School students.

When Mr. McQuilkin became City Superintendent in 1917, he was succeeded by Mr. W. E. Parsons as principal of the High School. This year, 1919, through the untiring efforts of Mr. Parsons and Miss Board, with the help of some members of the Senior Class, a course in Bible Study was put into the regular curriculum.

During this year the School Board decided that High School would be better off with a new name. So, henceforth, it is known as Jefferson High School.

At present, there are employed in the Senior High School twenty teachers with an enrollment of five hundred eight pupils. High School already has a record of which the citizens of Roanoke are proud. Every one is looking forward to that time in the near future when there will be built a new High School to meet the needs of the pupils and teachers. With this in view the prospects for the school's future are brighter than ever before.

No records were kept until 1900 and the following shows the increase in the enrollment since that date.

CLASS SONG

(To the tune of "Smiles")

Dear old Roanoke High
 We must leave you by and by
 Down the path of mystery our way
 We soon shall wend,
 Our old places here
 We now leave to you, pals dear,
 You may scramble while we ramble
 O'er life's wayward glen.

But four years ago
 We as rats came through the door
 Of old R. H., our Alma Mater,
 Stepping, oh, so slow,
 Now reluctance, grief,
 Optimism, sweet but brief,
 Fill us oft with joyful thoughts
 Entwined with sad relief.

CHORUS

We are leaving for a journey
 Yes, a journey o'er the sea
 Of enchantments and of disappointments
 Consolation and our liberty.
 We've come miles, oh, miles across a desert
 To the port for sailing o'er the deep
 And we bid you all farewell in parting
 With best wishes of luck, to keep.

CHORUS

There've been days that made us happy,
 There've been days that made us blue,
 When the old bell rang for examinations
 And the threats of teachers then came true;
 There've been days that foster tender mem'ries
 That old '19 class alone can see
 But the best of all is Graduation
 After days of toil and glee.

G. NOEL, '19.

Class Poem

---

Long, long ago, when High School began,
We all knew 'twas a means to an end.
The pupils studied with all their might
And passed on to us their quick insight.
They handed down the honor and fame
Which R. H. S. still bears on its name.
Those first young graduates of R. H. S.
Handed down to us only that which was best,
Years have crowned years since those early days.
Each pupil found success every one says.
They have worked and played,
And names they've made;
They had no limitations
Because of firm foundations.
Roanoke High is a school none defy,
Because those pupils built a reputation high:
The classes each year have lived up to the name,
And pupils, each and all, have done the same.
Until we come to the class of '19,
Which will be the best of all, I ween,
This year will surpass
Each R. H. S. class.
"For we've worked while we worked,
And played while we played,"
Our duty we never shirked,
So for this we're repaid.
Still I hope something I've learned
Because a rest all Seniors have earned
Before they begin on "Life's Long Way."
Then, in no one place they'll stay;
Some, themselves, will teachers be,
Others will marry an S. A. T. C.
Many will to college go,
And the rest will wander to and fro.
But all our thoughts will be the same,
When we recall R. H. S.'s name,
And we'll ne'er as yet
Those dear times forget
Because Roanoke High
Is the name we live by.

—Poet.

A Senior's Retrospection

TO-DAY, as we stand on the threshold of graduation, conscious of having obtained the first objective on the long road of education and yet, fully aware of the many more such objectives that remain to be achieved, we become reminiscent of our Senior year. And, as we think back, we appreciate that while we have not retained the fulness of mere scholarly knowledge, we have learned and applied permanent, practical lessons from experience. Our daily association with our classmates unconsciously strengthened and broadened our individual character by combining such traits as self-reliance, loyalty and sincerity with poise, self-confidence and optimism.

In our last year there has been exhibited a great spirit of coöperation, impelled, perhaps, by a desire for service but more probably by a realization that all too soon we should be separated and that we had better make the most of each golden minute.

Ours was a rare opportunity to witness the decline and fall of militaristic autocracy, and now to be able to see the dawn of peace in the near future. It is inevitable that we, as inmates of a world recently torn with war, suffering and death, should be affected in some degree. The Great War has opened new vistas—given us nobler and worthier ideals, a keener perception of life's purpose, and a broader conception of religion. Through our various war relief organizations we gained an understanding of the meaning of sacrifice, self-denial and affliction as well as the joy that comes from helping and working with our fellow men. We caught the true spirit of the glory of death for a righteous cause, of the unflinching belief in a future better life, and finally we were made heirs of everlasting principles and ideals for which the whole world bled. Because of this heritage our ideals were raised to a higher plane.

And, now, we begin to look forward to the accomplishment of our ideals. It may be that they will never be fully attained but in the very efforts put forth towards achievement, we confirm our gradually growing ability to surmount obstacles.

In after years we shall in all probability recall our High School days with a great deal of pleasure, not unmixed with a tinge of regret, but through all recollections the great outstanding fact will remain that our Senior year has fulfilled the promise of previous schooling and points onward to higher goals and nobler desires.

ARDIS DU BOIS, '19.

Mascot

JOSEPH JULIAN BAKER

"For an easy goer he has no equal."

Julian was one of us for the first three years of our history but enlisted in the S. A. T. C., at Roanoke College, at the beginning of his fourth year. He was mustered out of the service at mid-term and again joined us. His sterling qualities and unsurpassable joviality have won for him a host of friends. He is a proficient dancer and courtier; nevertheless, not averse to work. He has his pleasures and enjoys the frivolities of life, but can study if he finds he has to, to pass on an examination. (Ask Miss Carlisle.) He likes math in all its forms and has taken the entire course offered at High School. He expects to attend V. P. I. next year and we wish him much success and predict that if he tackles the tasks of life as he tackles his studies he will not only reside but will preside in the Hall of Fame. A. A.; J. L. S.; R. C.

ADA DORA ARTHUR

*"To know her is to love her,
Noble in thought and noble in deed."*

One must know Ada before they can love her, for her nature is deep. She has made a good record in high school, and among her fellow students. Her favorite study, Elocution, has been a great success. When some one needs a person to recite at any social affair, they always call on "Ada" and she is ever ready with a willing hand and helpful smile. Ada is very fond of friendly quarrels but somehow she never offends, for those lovely eyes heal fast. She thinks twice before speaking, but when her mind is once made up for the right it very seldom can be changed. Her greatest trouble is keeping up with her books. When you see some one with dark hair and large, dreamy blue eyes wandering around over the study hall, don't forget Ada has lost her books. She expects to enter West Hampton College next year, and the Class wishes that she reap a harvest great from years in duty spent. M. W. L. S.; A. A.; R. C.; Treas. M. W. L. S. '19; Pres. Bible Class; Pt. of H. 1.

SALLIE PHIPPS BARKSDALE

"Frank and independent; that's me all over."

Sallie, one of our most original and attractive girls, by her contagious laugh has won a host of friends both in school and out. Barksdale, as we all know, craves a good time 'n everything and is often seen jazzing down the halls even deigning to pass the traffic cop at the foot of the steps. When questioned as to her hilarity she timidly (?) replies—"Ooo, merci, me!" As captain of the Basket-Ball team she has gone through with flying colors. Just brimming over with school spirit she always does her share when it comes to rooting for R. H. S. Sallie's hands are always chap (ed) but it is an ill wind that blows nobody Good (win). This bashful (?), blushing (?) Sallie is rarely ever seen alone, but more often with Dean and Virginia Miss Board declares she can hear the laughter of these three pealing forth continually. So here is to Barksdale as she pursues knowledge down the Hall of Fame. A. A.; R. C.; G. C.; Capt. G. Bt. B.; S. C.; Joke Editor ACORNS, '19; V. P. Junior Class; V. P. A. A. '18-19; Chairman S. C.; Pts. of H. 2.

LOUIS HAYS BROWN

"Men of few words are the best men."

All hail to our Basket-Ball Manager of '19. Louis, though quiet, reserved and appearing to be afraid of the girls, is one of the biggest jokers in our Class. He has made a success as Basket-Ball Manager, just as everything else he attempts. He does not believe in over-exerting himself so he takes few subjects and does them well. We can say one thing very unusual for Louis; that is, as yet we have witnessed no effects of maiden bewitchings on his life. At present he has set out to be a professional loafer and we know whatever he attempts he will do well. Mgr. Bt. B., '19; A. A.; R. C.; Pt. of H. 5.

PAULINE STEPHENSON BARTLETT

*"Here's to her health, a maiden fair,
With deep blue eyes, and dark brown hair."*

This fair maid of Wasena is one of the prettiest girls of '19 Class, although we don't have to pay "two dollars down and two dollars a week." Pauline is one of those persons who possesses that unfathomed charm that has the power of a magnet. Those blue eyes will be the cause of somebody's "Waterloo." When it comes to studies Pauline is there, although she doesn't look like a scholar. Studies are quite over-shadowed by her love for pleasure. After this year the good old name of R. H. S. will be J. H. S., but the suggestion of R. H. S. will bring to the minds of the Class of '19 the name of Pauline. She has not decided where she will attend school after leaving R. H. S. We all wish her a brilliant success. M. W. L. S.; R. C.; A. A.

MABLE ELSIE BERGENDAHL

"Her air, her manner, all who saw admired."

Elsie is quite a genius for she is just naturally smart and always knows her lessons. This is proven by the fact that she has completed her high school course in three and one-half years. With her sunny smile, blue eyes and light hair, she is a very pretty and attractive girl. She has a lovable disposition that has made her extremely popular with all of her classmates. "Dot" seems not to give a hang about the boys, yet whenever Company D is mentioned you should see her start—wonder why? R. H. S. is losing an attractive girl when Elsie leaves for she is always brimming over with pep and enthusiasm in all the channels of high school life. A. A.; R. C.; G. C.

JOHN DABNEY CARR

*"He trudged along, unknowing what he sought,
And whistled as he went for lack of thought."*

This is "Johnny" all over, for he seems to laugh his way through school, but the remarkable thing is that he does it well. John is the smallest, jolliest and most generous boy in our Class. He always has an abundant supply of chewing gum especially in Chemistry Class!!! And if any one mentions "eats" around Johnny, cakes come forth as if by magic. Although he does not take an active part in athletics he is always on hand to root, and this goes a long way towards winning the game. Despite Johnny's love for fun, in mathematics his equal can hardly be found, and he is now diligently pursuing his fifth year of the subject, preparatory to becoming a distinguished chemical engineer. We, the Class of '19, wish him all the success in the world in his profession. J. L. S.; A. A.; R. C.; Sub. Mgr. ACORNS, '19; M. C.

VIRGINIA BOULDIN

"Shez soshubble ez a basket er kiltens."

Although good-natured she has her own opinions and is not afraid to stand by them. She is a friend to every one she meets here as well as elsewhere. Every morning as she calmly walks down Senior aisle, fifteen minutes after roll call, Mr. McDonald says, "Miss Bouldin, you're late." She makes the same remark to pupils and Faculty as well, "I am you know and I mean to tell you so." Virginia evidently likes French and is very often seen chatting with Professor Viaud. Not only does she excel in French, but as an essayist she lays Macaulay in the shade for they say she has "literary ability." Off at school (?) she intends to take English, French and Domestic Science and if then her burdens are too heavy, she will drop all but French (?)! Here's hoping she won't be swamped with work!!! R. C.; A. A.

MARY FERGUSON BOWERS

*"Her voice is ever soft, gentle and low,
An excellent thing in woman."*

Mary is quiet and reserved and just the kind of friend whom one appreciates. She is a conscientious student and has done good work in all her classes; even Shakespeare note-books never daunt her. She is always in a good humor and ready to help her classmates to solve a doubtful question. It is her calm way of doing things that has won her so many friends in the '19 Class who wish her the best that life affords. A. A.; R. C.

JOHN WILDER CURE, JR.

"A magnificent spectacle of human happiness."

John's face is as the sunshine and his laugh would cause the saddest to forget their sorrows. Those who are happy are made happier by his sparkling wit, although it is often teasing—"collective teasing," which has won for him many a "variegated square" which "some little girl" will one day make into a Quilt of Memory of the days at R. H. S. John has even nobler aspirations than these. He is a bright scholar although his bill for midnight oil never runs high. John is good in athletics. He likes dancing but prefers to reach his set goal in Basketball, Football and Track rather than be claimed victor by a certain blue-eyed miss. But with all his bad qualities (???) we feel sure that he will be successful in the business world and make some one a good partner for life. A. A.; R. C.; S. C.; Pres. A. A. '18-19; Bt. B. '17-18, '18-19; M. C.; Joke Editor ACORNS '19; Pts. of H. 5.

HELEN ELIZABETH BURKE

"A form more fair, a face more sweet, Ne'er has it been my lot to meet."

Helen, tall and graceful as a goddess, is one of the sweetest and most lovable girls in our Class and has a charm all her own belonging to no one else, which endears her to all with whom she comes in contact. Her two most unfortunate traits are sarcasm and indifference but these are forgotten in enumerating her sweet oddities. Helen is always ready for fun and good times, especially dancing and the movies. Strange to say she is one of the "big" eaters of the Class, which is proven whenever any eats are on hand. She is fond of sleeping and not even the terror of missing the train and being left by the crowd will arouse her for she is only heard to murmur, "Oh! let me alone." However, when the train which will bear her along the highway of life comes along she will be ready with her suitcase full of the heartiest good wishes of her Class for success and happiness all along her journey. G. C.; R. C.; A. A.

KATHERINE FLEMMING COLE

"Happy am I, from care I'm free, Why aren't they all contented like me?"

Kitty characterizes the Class of '19, her motto being "I can't be bothered." We have never seen her worried and she is always ready for fun and meanness. She would go serenely and happily on even if she were going to die the next day, and yet she is the best and most sympathetic person to whom to tell your troubles. And when it comes to school spirit she's "it" personified. She has never been known to study but she graduates with the Class of '19. 'Nuff said! She is a poet from way back yonder and rhymes just roll off her pen. It is said she can compete with the best of them in vamping the innocents. We would think the world off its hinges if Kitty were not laughing or telling something funny. Most people have their enemies but it is safe to say that every one in R. H. S. likes Kitty. Kitty expects to go to Farmville, and we all wish her great success as a "hen" school teacher. A. A.; R. C.; G. C.; Class Poet; Bt. B. '18-19; S. C.

JUNIUS CLAY DAVENPORT, JR.

"A man of many words, but of little thought."

We have now come to "Tubby," our most versatile arguer. He loves to dwell on such subjects as "Latin as a useless study," "Why women should not vote," "The pleasures of a working man" versus "School life," etc. The Senior Class seems to have great faith in his father as a banker, as we elected him our class treasurer. This he accepted, though reluctantly, as he says that he does not like "public offices" ?? This time last year "Tubby" scorned all females; now we never see him with less than two girls at a time. He has also learned to "shake a foot" which was at one time believed to be impossible. "Tubby" is, however, one of the most studious members of our Class, and success in all of his studies was the result. A naval officer is his ideal, but he is going to try a few years at V. M. I. before making his final decision as to his life's occupation. Treas. Class '19; M. C.; R. C.; A. A.; Pt. of H. I.

LOUISE FRANCES COLEMAN

*"This sweet girl is pretty and gay,
An ideal girl in every way,
The kind of a friend that is not found every day."*

What of Coleman the star guard of the Basket-Ball team? Well, just ask a certain little forward in Lynchburg whose fame suddenly had an eclipse when Louise arrived on the scene. But to us she is an ideal chum with a shy girlish manner. Louise is a great teaser but becomingly blushes when the tables are turned. Her only worry is the fear of stumping her toe as she advances for her diploma. But we who know her have little fear of this mishap. Her clear intellect combined with determination and a strong will makes it impossible for her to fail in anything. Louise especially likes to trip a "light fantastic toe" to the tune of "Waltz me Around Again Bill." She has won the blue ribbon on oil paintings and also "biscuits." Which road is she going to travel? On either she has the best wishes of her classmates and her chum Mary. A. A.; G. Bt. B.; Ath. Editor '19 ACORNS; M. W. L. S.; G. C.

THURNA VIVIAN COLEMAN

*"Her very frowns are sweeter far,
Than smiles of other maidens are."*

Although Thurna came in late she managed to make up her classes by her diligent study. Her sunny smiles and boisterous laugh were welcomed with joy in the halls of R. H. S. No wonder all who see Thurna bow before her shrine. Her raven locks and charming eyes would kindle fire in a heart of stone and they have played havoc with many of the nobler sex among her classmates. Thurna's heart lies elsewhere and we are undecided whether it is V. M. I. or Richmond College. We wish her success in whatever her decision may be. G. C.; R. C.; A. A.

FLAVIUS EUGENE DAVIS

"Of their own merits modest men are dumb."

Eugene, or "Gene" as he is called, is one of the best scholars in Roanoke High. Although he lived for a while in Norfolk and attended Maury High it is Roanoke—and Roanoke only—about which he brags. He is a regular shark in Math and Electricity, and if a teacher cannot work an example she looks for "Gene." We wish him success at Georgia Tech. next year, where he is planning to take up Electrical Engineering. R. C.; A. A.

ELIZABETH JENNINGS COMER

*"It's guid to be merry and wise,
It's guid to be honest and true."*

Elizabeth, tall, calm and dignified! How we envy her this poise and control as she serenely meets all the trials of a Senior, for come what may she never loses her temper. Whenever a squabble is begun immediately a yell goes up for "Jibby;" for that is a synonym for a square deal. Elizabeth could never be accused of straining her eyes or ruining her health over books; nevertheless she is an excellent student starring easily in Math. Since entering high school "Jibby" has taken an active interest in everything which tended to spread the fame of R. H. S., along both literary and athletic lines and especially are we proud of her in Basket-Ball as she made regular team the first time she went out. After graduating "Jibby" will continue her studies at R.-M. W. C., and the best wishes of the Class go with her always, for "Jibby," the all-round girl, will never be forgotten by her classmates. A. A.; R. C.; G. C.; M. W. L. S.; Sub. Mgr. ACORNS '19; Bt. B. '18-19; S. C.; Sec. M. W. L. S. '18; Pts. of H. 3.

FRANCES ARLINE CUTSHALL

*"A rare compound of oddity, frolic and fun,
Who relishes a joke and rejoices in a pun."*

Enter Arline, our versatile star, our song bird, a charmer of masculine hearts and the best little chum in the world. Her popularity is not limited but extends to old and young, both boys and girls. Does she believe in a good time? Well, "I'll say she does," in fact, she is the ringleader where any fun is going on. However, in spite of her love for fun, she delights in being efficient both in school work and housekeeping, for she is even now preparing to take the fatal "leap." Arline is the biggest talker in the class and never lacks the right word at the right time. She has not fully decided what college she will attend after leaving high school but with her ability she is sure to succeed and we know that she will be as popular among her future classmates as she has been in the Class of '19. Here's to you, little chum, may you have "un bon voyage" on the seas of higher education. M. W. L. S.; R. C.; A. A.; G. C.; Alumni Editor '19; S. C.; Treas. M. W. L. S. '18; Pt. of H. 1.

PAUL KREUGER DUDLEY

"Patient of toil, serene amidst alarms."

This is Paul, a diligent worker in school (also on punctured autos, Shakespeare note-book, etc.), advancing slow but sure toward his set goal, never forgetting a thing once learned. One knowing him finds he is full of rare wit, humor, skill and grace (especially in dancing?), but rarely exposes such talents in the presence of ladies. In fact Paul is impregnable to all the arts and whims of ladies and much prefers the rougher sex? ? ? Paul is full of school spirit and is always seen at the games; even journeying to Lynchburg twice with the teams. Although he has only been with us two years, he has endeared himself very much to the Seniors who all wish him a "bon voyage" o'er life's stormy sea. Paul does not know what he is going to be, but we think he will eventually be a bachelor. A. A.; R. C.; J. L. S.

MARGARET ANNE CARTER

*"She that was ever fair and never proud,
Had tongue at will and yet was never loud."*

Margaret is very quiet (?) in school, but a true friend. She has a serious, calm mood, but those who know her find they have one who participates in all the pleasures and joys of youth. If asked to help some one over the rocky paths of Math and English she replies, "Sure, if I know how." She has won many friends, particularly among the masculine gender. Asked what she intended to do, "Oh, mother says go to college," but Margaret seems to think that there are greater things in this life than going to college. However, the best wishes of the Class of '19 will follow her wherever she goes and in whatever she undertakes. M. W. L. S.; G. C.; A. A.; R. C.

MARY CHRISTINE DOLD

*"A rose of beauty we have here,
Reflecting blushes ever dear,
Enclosing virtue, grace and cheer."*

These words are indeed very befitting in Mary's case. It would be impossible to find fewer words which would express our impression of Mary as we have seen her in her four years with us. Through her gentle disposition and generous heart she has won a large place in the hearts of her classmates; nor has the Faculty failed to recognize her ability and pleasing manner. Mary has not shown very much enthusiasm in High School Athletics but just wait until V. P. I. appears on the scene and she becomes interested immediately. We do not know whether Mary is contemplating going away to school or not, but in whatever she undertakes the Class of '19 wish her the greatest success. R. C.; A. A.; S. C.

ALBERT ALLEN HAYES

*"Sweetest melodies
Are those that are by distance made more sweet."*

Albert is very quiet and unassuming. He does not go blustering around but quietly and with dignity. He never has a great deal to say, and this is said with the least possible dispatch. Albert being a reflective kind of person is never very "thick" with any one, but is a good friend to all who know him. He is kind at heart and ever ready to help a friend in need whether it be for a pencil or an entire theme. He is a great lover of poetry, admiring Wordsworth particularly. History, however, is his favorite study and he has made a good record in the history course at R. H. S. Albert intends to enter V. P. I. and take a scientific course after leaving us. He has a large future before him and we wish him every success. J. L. S.; A. A.; R. C.

MARY ANN DOUGLAS

*"A beautiful and happy girl
With steps as light as summer air,
Eyes glad with smiles and brow of pearl
And hair that's shadowed by many a careless curl."*

Mary is a good sport and witty as the day is long. If you hear a queer noise resembling a laugh don't be alarmed. It's only Mary's funny little giggle and the good part about that giggle is that it is contagious. Everybody likes Mary, girls and especially boys and we have a suspicion that she is a little partial to the boys, at least "a favored few." Mary has some few worries but least of all—her books. We don't see how she has gotten so far with so little studying, and any way here she is "a jolly, good Senior." She always has a good time and is sure to find fun and friends wherever she goes. Mary is a very promising young artist, but her other attractions are so great that we fear her career as an artist will not be long. So here's to "Sis," the best-looking girl in the class and the best chum in the world. Sec. A. A.; Bt. B.; G. C.; M. W. L. S.; Art Editor ACORNS '19; Pts. of H. 3.

ARDIS CATHERINE DuBOIS

"A maid to whom her work was all in all."

Ardis is truly devoted to her work. Whatever her task may be she does it diligently and in a matter-of-fact way that justifies admiration. When Ardis can be induced to real laughter it is delightful to hear. Even her performances on the ivory board do not surpass its melody. One thing about Ardis causes us to wonder, that is why she uses the expression "nice eyes" to describe the beauty of the human eyes. However, in the one year she has spent with us, having come from Staunton High School, we have found her a good friend and we, the Class of '19, will not soon forget her friendship at R. H. S. R. C.; M. W. L. S.

JOHN WILLIAM HAYES, JR.

*"Let the world slide, let the world go;
A fig for care, and a fig for woe;
If I can't pay why I can owe,
And death makes equal the high and low."*

William, better known as Bill, is one of the most optimistic of our members. Always cheerful and bright himself he keeps the entire class in good spirits. His laughs are infectious; in other words you can't stay with Bill and not be cheerful. Low grades never worry him; when he does get one he takes a good look and then—laughs! Bill seldom does anything so serious as study, but spends his study periods engaged in a "social call." Nevertheless, William has made a good record, especially in typewriting, being the first in R. H. S. to receive the Underwood Certificate. He has also been active in athletics, particularly Basket-Ball. We wish him success at V. P. I. where he goes after leaving us. J. L. S.; A. A.; R. C.; Bt. B. '19.

SYLVIA ALMA DUFFY

"Her glossy hair was clustered o'er a brow Bright with intelligence, fair and smooth."

Here is one of the quiet members of our class. "Sib" has only been with us a year, but in this time we have learned to love her. "Sib's" hair is no brighter than her intellect for she does not have to study hard to accomplish a great deal and come out on top. She has won the esteem of both the Faculty and fellow students and is always willing to help us over our stumbling blocks in "Virgil." Her love (?) for English is known throughout the class. Although "Sib" may seem a quiet demure maiden, when one knows her well they realize she is witty and she often gives us a lot of amusement by her dry humor and sarcasm. She expects to enter the portals of R.-M. W. C. and she carries with her the best wishes of the Class of '19. R. C.; A. A.

AURELIA THERESA DEDAKER

"She is good as she is fair, None—none on earth above her."

Aurelia, by her willingness to help her classmates o'er the stormy seas of education, has won for herself many friends and admirers. She is a very conscientious worker and stands well in all of her classes, especially in Shakespeare. Her chief occupation is telling jokes in the study hall where laughing and talking are positively forbidden. While we all knew her to be a great musical genius, still we did not know of her vocal ability until she surprised the class by giving them a selection from "King Lear." Aurelia will not say what she expects to do after her schooldays are over but we fear B. T. will decide for her. Whatever her calling may be we are sure she will succeed and we wish her much happiness. A. A.; R. C.

LEWIS ARTHUR HESTER

*"Born with success he seemed
With grace to win, with heart to hold."*

One can only look upon the bright side of life when near Lewis, as he is one of the jolliest and best natured fellows in our class. Lewis is an ardent admirer of athletics in all of its forms and is very popular among all members of the Senior Class, especially the girls. Although he is exceptionally studious, he is not so serious that he neglects fun, for wherever there is any fun or mischief going on Lewis is sure to be there. He has left an excellent record in the annals of old R. H. S. and we honestly believe that he has thoroughly enjoyed his high school life. Lewis seems extremely interested in electrical things, and it is in the field of electrical engineering that he expects to invest his life and we predict that with his grit, perseverance and determination success awaits him in his chosen profession. A. A.; R. C.; M. C.; J. L. S.; S. C.

FRANCES LUCILE GARRETT

"She is a mirror of fashion."

Here's to 'Cile the charmer, vamp and pal of R. H. S. Though this fair damsel has been with us only two short years, yet she is considered a friend by all who know her. 'Cile is an incessant giggler in times of play but when she studies, she is as serious as a judge. For this reason 'Cile shines in all her classes. In acting Shakespeare; 'Cile—Oh woe! let's don't think about it. Her forte is music but a close second is dancing. 'Cile expects to enter some northern school next year to study music and some day will rival Paderewski. If success follows her in her musical career as it has at R. H. S. then her future is bright indeed and as she follows this course the heartiest wishes of '19 go with her. 'Cile, we wish for you what you most want. R. C.; G. C.; A. A.; S. C.; Class Historian.

MARTHA MAE GOGGIN

*"A mind at peace with all below
A heart whose love is innocent."*

Although being at R. H. S. only two years Mae has won many friends through her sweet disposition, her quiet unassuming manner and her natural dignity. She is always ready for whatever turns up and if it were not for her procrastination regarding English note-books one would hardly be able to find a flaw in her nature. Her self-confidence ever asserts itself and will be valuable to her throughout her life. She has not yet decided upon her life work but the best wishes of the Class of '19 follow her in whatever course she pursues. A. A.; R. C.

EDGAR PEDIGO HOWARD

"It is safer to hear and take counsel than to give it."

The big chief or "Mummy," as he is commonly known about our halls is supposed to be descended from the original American, "The Red Man." He justly does them credit through his athletic records, and he has been the mainstay of the Football team for the past two years. As a Shakespearean critic Mummy ranks along with De Quincey and Lamb (?) and is second to none in his numerous love affairs. (This is not generally known as he has been unusually successful in fooling most of the ladies.) Edgar is also very warlike and upon the organization of the "Home Guard" he immediately joined them. (We still believe that there was a girl in the case.) His exploits in chemistry Lab are exceedingly brilliant as he usually sets everything on fire around him. Edgar is undecided as to what his life's work will be, but the '19 Class wish him all the success possible. R. C.; A. A.; F. B. '16-17-18; B. B. '18-19; Capt. F. B. '18; V. P. A. A. '18-19; M. C.; Assistant Mgr. ACORNS '19; Pt. of H. I.

MARGARET GRAVES

*"The fairest garden in her looks
And in her mind the wisest books."*

Although very modest and quiet one couldn't call Margaret shy because she laughs and has her fun along with the rest of us. But her lessons are never neglected and in the three and a half years that she has trod the halls of R. H. S. she has made an excellent record for herself, especially in Latin. Margaret is one of the sweetest girls of the '19 Class and her only fault, if it be a fault, is that she will hold to her own opinion though a whole world's against her. She has plenty of school spirit, too, and is always seen at the games rooting for the team. One wonders why Margaret is so fond of South Carolina until you see the letters that arrive bearing that post mark. The best wishes of her host of friends go with her in her quest for higher knowledge at Wilson College, where she and Kathryn expect to enter next year. A. A.; R. C.; G. C.; M. W. L. S.

MARY ELIZABETH GARLAND

"Talked of noble aims and high, Hinted of a future fine."

Mary has often been known to have burned the "midnight oil" in preparation for the fulfillment of these "noble aims," and one of her favorite morning greetings is "I went to bed early this morning." At present she is "infirm of purpose" concerning her life work but plans to be either an author, musician or business woman. From these high ambitions we may safely predict that whichever she chooses will be a success. Her genial, cheerful, sympathetic nature has endeared her to her daily associates and has won her many friends. One might infer from a casual acquaintance with Mary that she is usually quiet and although this may be true, yet it is also true that when she does speak or laugh it is with such sincerity and heartiness that one feels well repaid for her silence. R. C.; A. A.

WILLIAM LESTER LEAP

"All his faults are such that one likes him still better for them."

William, the assistant business manager of the ACORNS of '19, is a studious, useful and energetic boy. He always studies hard and strives for the best of everything; having finished his high school career in three and a half years. Bill is a very humorous and jolly old pal when he is with a crowd of boys, but he prefers the fairer sex. He especially likes those that Ar (e) len for some reason. He is a true supporter of old R. H. S. both in literary and athletic lines. Although he does not play on any team he always attends the games, especially the girls', where he can be seen rooting with all his might. We all wish William very much success at V. P. I. and later as a chemical engineer. A. A.; R. C.; Assistant Business Manager ACORNS '19; V. P. J. L. S. F. '18; M. C.; Pt. of H. I.

JANICE THEON HART

*"Her blue eyes sought the west afar,
For lovers love the western star."*

This little damsel with large blue eyes is an object of wonder when she starts talking for every one must cease until she has finished. She also has a capacity for eating that one so small rarely possesses and Theon's favorite pastime is devouring olive sandwiches in the cloakroom. When driving her "Olds" eight she is particular about the rate of speed, for she says, "One must not exped the seed limit." Theon is not an athlete but has plenty of school spirit and is always on hand to root for old R. H. S., particularly at the Lynchburg games. One who has not heard her sing has something to which to look forward, for when she begins all else is forgotten and we are lost in the rapture of the melody. Concerning her future, we shall not speak for it is undecided what it shall be after her college career, but here's to the best of luck. R. C.; G. C.

OTEY BROOKE HELM

*"Just a tiny little maiden with soft and silky hair,
With sweet, old-fashioned, winning, girlish ways;
And a heart full of yearning, and a mind brim full of learning."*

How we envy Otey's accurate mind! While we wander around hunting for an answer to a question she ups and hits the nail square on the head. And, too, she has helped a number of us over stumbling blocks, especially in Latin and Math. Otey's ambition is to have several degrees placed after her name, and she'll keep at a thing 'til it's done (as well as keep you at it too if you work with her). Coupling these facts together we find the secret; why her report card hardly knows a grade below ninety! Otey expects to go to Farmville next winter and has planned to become a teacher, but she says she hopes not for the rest of her life. By this we gather that she expects to follow another "Profession," but she didn't tell us what. Possibly a student at William and Mary can enlighten us or will it be "the Sailor Boy?" M. W. L. S.; A. A.; G. C.; R. C.

CARY ANNAS MOOMAW, JR.

"Not for self but for Country."

This is true of Cary for he left R. H. S. and volunteered in Uncle Sam's great army to see the sights in Berlin. It is rumored that "Bill" Hohenzollern heard of Cary's move and within two months had signed "The Papers" putting an end to the war and one of our hero's ambitions. Returning to school, he was received with a royal welcome for the young soldier is held in high esteem by all. The ladies having seen Cary perform on the Athletic field, and knowing a few of his numerous good qualities (and his one weakness) come to school with greater regularity (since his return) with more than lessons on their minds and blushes on their cheeks. Cary has shown great ability as an office-holder and a student. He can never be forgotten by us and we are sure that when he finishes W. and L. he will accomplish wonderful things in the business world. Luck to you, "old pal" of '19. B. B. '17-18-19; A. A.; V. P. A. A. '17-18; J. L. S.; V. P. J. L. S. '19; R. C.; Pts. of H. 2.

MARGARET MOORE HENDERSON

"The heart of honor and the tongue of truth."

Margaret is one of the most conscientious and studious girls in the class. She has won the admiration of both the Faculty and the student body. She ranks high in all her classes, especially Latin and no one can say that the high grades which always appear on her report are not deserved. She is always willing to help others. "Margaret, won't you help me read this Virgil?" Isn't that familiar? By this willingness to help others, and by her sunny disposition Margaret has won many friends at R. H. S. who join in wishing her success in whatever she undertakes. R. C.; A. A.

GRACE EMMA HENTY

*"She hath a tear for pity and a hand
Open as day for meeting charity."*

Grace is loved by all but she is a funny old girl. When we will, she won't and when we won't she will. But in spite of this only fault we can find, we know her to be kind, thoughtful and sympathetic. We enjoy her mischievousness as much as she does. She sure can slip one over on the teachers and can even eat peanuts in Miss Beebee's period. When Miss Jennings comes into the S. H. taking names she finds Grace with her head buried in her Bible appearing very studious and Miss Jennings "passes by on the other side." We will lose a true friend when Grace starts her long-desired purpose of school teaching. She has been a great help to us and we will never forget her. Whatever vocation she pursues her friends wish her great success for we feel confident that she will be a benefit and inspiration to all with whom she comes in contact as she goes down the "Long, Long Trail of Life." A. A.; R. C.

WILLIAM ELIJAH McCLANAHAN

*"With manners gentle, of affections mild,
In wit a man, simplicity a child."*

Elijah, as his name intimates, looks as though he were quite a Biblical sort of guy, but that is where the eye deceives for he is certainly the opposite though not so much as his "petite" brother. Elijah, though no one knows it, has quite a crush on a certain young lady in our Class. He is quite stubborn and one of our most illustrious teachers has said that she would like to take him across her knee and spank some of it out of him. Elijah is one of the most quiet members of our Class and up until the last year he has been thoroughly competent in his studies, but "flu" or love has demoralized him to a certain extent and he has decided to leave us and go to Episcopal High which disappoints us very much as we thought from his style that he would eventually land at Virginia. A. A.; Mgr. T. T.; Al. Editor ACORNS '19; R. C.; Pts. of H. 5.

ELIZABETH HARDIN HILL

*"Unthinking, idle, wild and young,
I laughed and danced and talked and sung."*

Elizabeth's motto is "Never do to-day what you can put off till to-morrow." We don't know when she studies because she always has time for mischief, still she is one of the few who never had to take an exam. She is always late but as all the teachers know that "she just couldn't get here on time," they don't even question her. Her favorite nickname is "Betty," though almost every one calls her Liz or Lu. If you see a dark-haired, talkative little piece of humanity racing up Senior row chewing gum you may know it is Lu. She is a star in English and Math and also in music. We all join in wishing her success in her musical career at Peabody. A. A.; R. C.; G. C.; Joke Editor ACORNS '19; S. C.

CAROLINE HAMPTON HOGE

*"Alack, there lies more peril in her eye
Than twenty of their swords."*

In the depth of Caroline's beautiful brown eyes we find a smile that like sunshine is shed on all with whom she meets and warms our heart with love for her. Her sunny disposition as well as her fondness for "tripping the light fantastic toe" have won for her many admirers. Caroline is certainly a wonderful dancer and is seen at all of the big affairs. She is noted for coming in late most every morning and saying, "Oh, I'm a wreck, don't know a thing." Caroline is very sympathetic and always ready to lend a helping hand. She has not said what she intends to do after leaving R. H. S. but we all know that her personality and general good qualities will always insure her true friends and success. A. A.; G. C.; R. C.

HARRY ENOCH NASH

"Sincere, true in heart and independent."

Uncle Sam, needing his services no longer, turned him back to R. H. S. from the S. A. T. C. at Hampden-Sidney where he proved himself an excellent soldier. Welcomed back by Miss Beebee and her (civics class) (???) he has gotten through only by diligent study. (??) Harry is famed about our halls for his musical inclinations and witty remarks. It is rumored that some day he expects to rival "Caruso." He is constantly breaking up Mac's class by his outbursts of wit or with "That's me all over, Mabel." Harry is a far off worshiper of the fair sex, having never fallen to the snare but the May bells (Mabel) will ring for him yet if he is not careful. The Class of '19 joins in wishing him much success in whatever he undertakes even if some (Mundy) he does fall for the fair sex. A. A.; R. C.; Pres. Junior Class '18; (G. C.) (? ?); S. C.; Pts. of H. 5.

CLARINDA ADALINE HOLCOMB

"Infinite riches in a little room."

Clarinda is one of the youngest girls in our class. Although she does not believe in burning the midnight oil, she always gets through some way. She is ever ready to help a friend in distress. Her hobby in school life is Chemistry, and she enters the class with a sigh of relief for her worries and fears are over. Clarinda is a good sport and is generally seen at the games where she is a good rooter. She expects to enter Harrisonburg next fall, where she will prepare herself for a teacher. Here's the best wishes of the Class of '19 to her in whatever she undertakes. A. A.; R. C.; G. C.; M. W. L. S.

LAURA LEANDER HARDY

"Her air, her manner, all who saw admired, Courteous though coy, and gentle though retired."

To know her is to love her and so Laura has a large circle of friends both in and out of R. H. S. She is a true friend to every one. What more beautiful could be said? For a friend is the most valuable thing in the world. Laura is always ready for a good time and lots of fun, and when a dance or social is given she is right there. Patience is also one of Laura's virtues or how could she sit and type-write and do office practice as she does when she knows she will not use it? Yes, certainly it's the "Service." Whatever she may undertake, however, we wish her success and happiness. A. A.; R. C.; Clerical Manager ACORNS '19.

CARROL BERNARD NEBLETTE

"Strong in will to strive, to seek, to find and not to yield."

Carrol is one of the literary geniuses of our class. Guided by his master mind and his large share of intellect he has climbed high into the Realms of Learning. He is full of buoyant enthusiasm and like Browning possesses courage and will power and is "one who never turns his back, but marches breast forward." On account of his executive ability and literary qualities he has held many places of honor in R. H. S. Carrol's favorite subjects are History and Literature but he masters all of them, and is finishing high school in three and a half years. Carrol is full of ambitions and aspirations, and guided by the Muses of Art we predict for him a brilliant career, full of honor and glory and a high place in the hearts of all. V. P. Bible Class spring and fall '18; S. C.; Treas. J. L. S. '18; Pres. J. L. S. '19; Pts. of H. 7.

MARGARET WALLACE JETT

*"Her step is light,
Her eyes are bright,
Her laughter cheers the world."*

Here's to Margaret!—One of the most attractive members of our class. We all love her and how can we help it—for few have the sweet disposition and attractive personality that she has. Margaret is very unselfish and is always ready and willing to help others. She is popular not only in school but in the outside world as well. Out of school Margaret spends a great deal of her time "flying" around in a big Cadillac. "Peggy" has many talents but her chief one is playing the piano. She expects to enter Peabody Conservatory and continue the study of music and we're sure that she will become a great genius some day. A. A.; G. C.; R. C.

MILDRED LEE JETT

*"Far may we search before we find
A heart so gentle and so kind."*

Mildred is a quiet, easy-going, never worrying person. During her four years within the portals of old R. H. S. she has won many friends with her keen wit, her good-natured smile and her ability to mix and with it all she is very popular. Her motto through high school has been "Ambition, the secret of success" and by the reports of the Faculty Mildred has lived up to her motto. Mildred has not said what she expects to do after leaving high school but having been a consistent worker with a clear head and cheerful disposition she is certain to continue this success through life. Mildred, the whole Class of '19 join in wishing you good luck through life. A. A.; G. C.; R. C.

VASCO ROOSEVELT PARRACK

"Good nature and good sense are usually good companions."

This is Vasco all over for by his diligence and perseverance he has reached his set goal in three and a half years. He is one of the very quiet and good-natured members of our class and we know very little of his personality for Vasco spends all of his time in studying because he is just naturally a star in every class. Vasco has not taken an active part in athletics but he never fails to appear at all the games and yell—why one would think Gabriel had turned loose his entire troupe. When we look over Vasco's high school record we know that success awaits him. Although we do not know what he will do in later years, this should not cause any one any fear for Vasco is perfectly capable of taking care of himself. A. A.; R. C.; J. L. S.

HAZEL LEE JEFFRIES

"As merry as the day is long."

Here's to Hazel, a girl loved by all her schoolmates through her four-years' high school career. She has one of the sunniest dispositions of any member of our class and is noted for her willingness to help others. If she has a temper we don't know it because she always has a smile for us. She's a good sport, full of mischief and ready to follow suit when her companions propose any kind of frolic. We do not know what she intends to do after leaving school but we do know that whatever it is her determination will make her succeed. So we bid her farewell, with our heartiest good wishes as she goes out into the world. A. A.; R. C.; G. C.

CLAUDINE PETTY KESLER

*"So well to know her own
That what she will to do or say
Seems wisest, virtuous, discreet, best."*

This "Tiny dear" is the truest of all little friends. If she has a favorite in the Senior Class we do not know who it is for "Deanie" shows interest in each of us and greets all in the same affable manner. Although Claudine is small in stature, she is great in mind. Her capacity for memorizing surpasses any in our class; her ability for debating is remarkable and she won the State Championship in reading. Whatever Claudine undertakes she puts her whole heart into it, thereby assuring success. How could the 'Nineteen Class have published an annual without the judgment and guidance of our little English star? 'Tis upon the top round of the "Ladder of Life" that we see our beloved classmate for "Success in the best" is her motto. S. C.; R. C.; A. A.; M. W. L. S.; G. C.; Lit. C.; V. P. M. W. L. S. '18; Pres. M. W. L. S. '18; Sec. R. C. '18-19; Junior Historian; Editor-in-Chief ACORNS '19; Pts. of H. 9.

GEORGE BUCKNER PETERS

"He had a heart to resolve, a head to contrive and a hand to execute."

"Buck" has been with us since we began as a class and the longer he is with us the higher he rises in our regard and the more he accomplishes. Now Buck is really about the best "accomplisher there is." A regular wizard in financial affairs. It is he who has conducted this volume of ACORNS and several athletic teams through their financial troubles. But Buck's abilities do not stop here for he himself is one of the shining lights in the Baseball world of our school. And as a dancer—does more to keep up the Terpsichorean art than any other person in school. In this short space we cannot really begin to tell of our appreciation of Buck, for to really appreciate him you must know him as he can only be excelled by himself. We all unite in wishing him the greatest success for in Buck you have hard, practical common sense rolled in with a sunny, good-natured disposition and what more could be desired in the making of a man? R. C.; A. A.; B. B. '16-17-18-19; Mgr. B. B. '19; F. B. Mgr. '18; Business Manager ACORNS '19; S. C.; Pts. of H. 10.

MABEL BOWER KERR

*"To know her is to love her,
Love but her and love forever."*

Behold! Whom have we here? Mabel, small in stature but in ability, in the opinion of her classmates, anything but small. A smiling countenance and a cheerful disposition are ever to be associated with her. Mabel is kind and always considerate of others. She has won the high esteem of the Faculty as well as of her classmates. When she wrings her hands and (Nash) es her teeth the whole Shakespeare class is stirred with her portrayal of "Katherine." And with it all she is a fine, true and lovable girl who is always ready to lend a helping hand. Mabel hasn't said what she expects to do after leaving high school but from all reports I think we shall find her next fall in a Western University. Good luck to you, Mabel, and may they learn to think as much of you there as we do here. A. A.; Alumni Editor '19 ACORNS; G. C.; R. C.

RUTH ALDEN LAVINDER

*"A dancing shape, an image gay,
To haunt, to startle and waylay."*

Here's to Ruth an all-round girl, just as full of life and fun as can be. She is always in for a good time and is especially fond of dancing. Ruth is very witty and keeps us laughing all the time. She is one of the most popular girls in our class, in fact everybody is crazy about her. She has an unlimited supply of admirers both here and in other places (especially Norfolk). Ruth is some conversationalist, she talks incessantly. Among her numerous virtues is her promptness (?) she just simply cannot be tardy. Next year she is going to study Domestic Science at Farmville and later at Pratt. We can only predict one future for any one who is as attractive as Ruth and who can cook in the bargain. We wish her all the success and happiness in the world in whatever she undertakes. M. W. L. S.; A. A.; G. C.; R. C.

PAUL E. PRICE

"Wit and wisdom are born with a man."

Paul, one of '19's most popular members, whose heroic motto "Speak first and then consider who heard you," has led him into untold trouble; but whose chivalrousness among ladies and courage among men has made him one of the truest of friends. Where Paul expects to continue his literary career after leaving old R. H. S. we do not know but we are sure that his happy disposition and wit will win for him as many friends as they have done in old R. H. S. Not only the Class of '19 but also R. H. S. send him forth with the "Best o' Luck" in his future career. A. A.; R. C.; J. L. S.; Junior Historian; M. C.

NANCY EMILY LUKENS

"My Nanie's charming, sweet an' young, Nae artfu' wiles to win ye, O!"

Nan's favorite pastime is expounding "theories" to her teachers and correcting her classmates, but she does it in an entertaining way. She is quite an original genius having taught Mr. Kelly many things hitherto unknown in algebra; and Lamb's Tales from Shakespeare have nothing on her write-ups in English. Her only care in life (now that she has fought her battles in "Hither Gaul") is irregular verbs. She is often heard to exclaim as she enters our holy (?) sanctuary of learning, "Why, I haven't cracked a book." Nevertheless she is graduating in three and a half years. Nan is admired and loved by all her classmates for her pleasing smile, ready wit and girlish ways. She intends to enter R.-M. W. C. and may she be as successful there as she has been in R. H. S. R. C.; A. A.

JULIA LOIS LYBROOK

*"Here is a spirit deep and crystal clear;
Calmly beneath her earnest face it lies,
Free without boldness, meek without fear."*

And so this is Julia at first sight—prim, peaceful, quiet and "stuck-up." Yet when you know her "sho' nough" you love her and you find deeply embosomed in her calm self a high temper which will creep to the surface when things don't exactly suit her artistic tastes. Yes, Julia is an artist too. She's especially fond of interior decorating and we are sure of her success after glancing at her scrapbook filled with her skillful designs. One page displaying a cozy library with a most comfortable window seat just large enough for two puzzles us. There is no doubt but that Julia, with her love for English (?), her artistic ability, together with all her unsurpassed qualities will end her life's career with as enviable a record as she has left at Roanoke High. A. A.; R. C.; G. C.

HARRY ROBERTSON REED

"Still constant is a wondrous excellence."

Harry or "Shorty," as he is better known to us, realizing the advantages of R. H. S. left his home in Knoxville, Tennessee, to enjoy these. Though he has been with us only a year we realize that we have one of the most congenial, best natured fellows in our class and in this very short while he has won his way into the hearts of his classmates. His friendliness, generosity and sincerity are a few of his admirable qualities that impress us. Harry is a movie fan, and he may often be seen in company with such celebrities as Theda Bara or Ham and Bud. His hobby is reading novels and he has been known to read several a day. He is full of ambition and expects to become an electrical engineer. We wish for him a bright and happy future and great success in this profession. A. A.; R. C.; J. L. S.

HELEN CLAIRE LAUGHON

*"She's full o' spirit and fun,
Her loyalty sure is fine;
How many a mile I would gladly run
To have her a friend of mine."*

When Helen looks from behind those big "specs" it isn't upon such an uninteresting world as you might think. She always smiles—for you see it shows her pretty teeth and brings out her dimples. Helen is chock-full of fun and is on the alert for all the gaiety that comes her way. She's a great talker and even McDonald agrees to this fact. One thing particularly peculiar about one so young is her fondness for studying ??? Fortunately, Helen has one of those master intellects that has carried her through high school on high average. She can be mean! or act most angelic, just however the mood may strike her. Helen's a good sport and is much sought as a friend. She intends to enter the business world but as we look into the future we see our old classmate in another sphere. A. A.; M. W. L. S.; G. C.; R. C.

THELMA LOUISE MARTIN

*"She is little, she is shy,
But there is mischief in her eyes—she's a flirt."*

Thelma came to us in September, 1918, and we owe our appreciation of her previous work to Mount Airy High. She has endeared herself to the hearts of her classmates and her smiling face has been a source of joy to many of the underclassmen. She is known by many names but "Billie" is probably most familiar to her. Thelma's popularity has followed her to Roanoke High and every one who claims her friendship has a jewel. She is a comfort and joy to all who come in touch with her and we know she will be successful in whatever vocation she chooses. At present her choice is vocal, and she carries with her the best wishes of the Class of '19. M. W. L. S.; R. C.; A. A.

JOHN MARSHALL REID

*"I am very fond of the company of ladies,
In fact I am a 'ladies' man."*

John Marshall, more familiarly known to us as "Bus," for the last few months has been "some guy" with the ladies. A dance twice a week and the movies in the meantime help out the cause. But somehow he finds time enough for studies to furnish old R. H. S. a most creditable scholar, even though given to making uncomplimentary remarks on English poetry. "Bus" has almost decided upon his future vocation by which to support the "one" of whom he dreams, by becoming an electrical engineer with the B. S., E. E. degrees attached to his cognomen. The field is large and presents the best of inducements, so we wish him great success in all the exploits into which he may venture. M. C.; A. A.; J. L. S.; R. C.; Art Editor ACORNS '19.

VICTORIA SARA CECELIA MARTIN

*"A sweet attractive kind of grace,
A full assurance given by looks,
Continual comfort in a face,
The lineaments of Gospel books."*

Victoria is one of those who has a pleasant smile for every one and a sweet disposition that has held our love and friendship through four years of high school. She is contemplating going off to school; as to where we do not know for "Vic" seems extremely interested in a soldier boy in France, but her main topic of conversation is always "Brother Fred." Any way we know she will succeed in whatever she attempts and we predict for her a successful future. The Senior Class extends to her most hearty wishes and Godspeed. A. A.; R. C.; M. W. L. S.

AILEE ANN MASON

*"Those about her
From her shall read the perfect ways of honor."*

Ailee! Who is she? Oh, yes, I remember her; she is that pretty little brown-haired girl who came to Roanoke High about three years ago. From where? Oh, yes, Rocky Mount. That is the way most of us know Ailee. But when one really knows her one discovers many admirable qualities hidden from the public eye. She is generous kind and a true friend to every one. In fact she is one of the gentlest and most popular girls of our class. Ailee is planning a business future, indeed she has already begun and with her straightforward character we predict an unusually bright future. She has the best wishes of the Class of '19 in the completion of her plans. R. C.; A. A.

FANNIE PEARL MATTOX

"Ah, why should life all labour be?"

Pearl is one who expects to leave the old Roanoke High this year having finished the course in three and a half years. We are sure she will be missed very much for there is always a smile for every one, except when the little fire spot has been touched by some one and then—woe unto them. Pearl never believes in missing a good time to worry over books. Her first remark when she enters the room is "Tell me something, I don't know a thing," but by some way, we have never been able to find out, the goal is reached. During the time she has been with us we have all learned to love her and many friends wish her much success in her future years. M. W. L. S.; G. C.; A. A.; R. C.

GLADYS AGNES MARSHALL

*"Gentle and true, simple and kind was she,
Noble of mien with gracious speech to all."*

Gladys is ever gentle and kind. Although at times quiet and reserved she is always ready for her share of fun, especially in study hall. There is one thing Gladys above all loves (?) to do—act the fool in Shakespeare Class. Gladys is such a girl whom one would appreciate and cherish as a sincere friend. If she possesses a fault she has left us in doubt. We cannot find one. Feeling sure of her success in whatever she undertakes we wish her much at Normal and a happy useful life ever after. R. C.; M. W. L. S.; A. A.

CLAUDINE FAY MAYHEW

*"Does she crave a good time 'n everything?
I say she does."*

Dean isn't what Miss Board would call "hilarious," but she can always appreciate a good joke and no matter where it is told a peal of laughter bursts forth. She is especially interested in French (?) since she got such a good start. Guess this will be her specialty off at school in later years (? ?). Dean is of a very sympathetic nature, which is called to our attention in Civics Class daily when that pathetic voice cries out, "M-i-s-t-e-r, Layman!" Although her wisdom teeth have all been extracted she is still able to hold on to five subjects and conceals her ignorance to a good advantage. All who know Dean love her as she is a good-natured pal and whatever course she pursues she has the best wishes of the '19 Class. A. A.; G. C.; R. C.

MARY ELIZABETH MASON

*"Far may we seek before we find
A heart so gentle and so kind."*

This verse is certainly typical of Mary because she is one of the sweetest and sincerest members of our class. This little dark-haired miss might be called quiet for she certainly believes in the old adage that silence is an excellent thing in woman because she isn't eternally chattering like most of her sex, but we know that when Mary opens her mouth to speak that she is going to say something worth hearing. We do not know what Mary's future life may be but the sincerest wishes of the '19 Class go with her. A. A.; R. C.; M. W. L. S.; G. C.

JOSEPHINE KATHRINE MINTER

"Good at a fight but better at a play."

"Joe" is very independent and a great believer in Woman's Rights. At class meetings she usually takes the floor first, impulsive and fearless to speak her mind. Her opinions are expressed in such a witty and original way that no one becomes offended at her barbed thrusts even though she usually comes out of these word battles wearing the laurel of the victor. "Joe" is always ready for a good time, bubbling over with fun and the joy of living and is the life of every crowd. Her merry laugh and happy face have won many friends, who will always hold her dear on their golden chain of Memory. Although "Much knowledge is wearisome to the flesh," fun-loving "Joe" has not been content to be a laggard in her studies but by "working when she works and playing when she plays," she has won for herself an enviable record. Joe hasn't decided upon her vocation after leaving school, but in whatever you undertake, little pal of '19, our best wish is that your pathway in life may be as bright and full of success as has been your stay in old "Roanoke Hi." A. A.; R. C.; G. C.; M. W. L. S.; V. P. G. C. '18-19; V. P. M. W. L. S. '18; Treas. R. C. '18-19; Pres. M. W. L. S. '19; Class Editor ACORNS '19; Lit. C.; Pts. of H. 10.

VIRGINIA LUCILLE MUNDY

"Hang Sorrow! Care will kill a cat; Therefore let's be merry."

Lucille is always ready for fun and a good time. She was never known to work diligently day by day, but when exams roll around she burns the midnight oil and always comes out on top. Lucille has the distinction of finishing school in three years but she says she can't understand how she did it. There is a mystery about Lucille—sh! sh! every morning she slips in about five minutes after the last bell. Lucille has a habit of dreaming in Civics Class—but she won't tell of whom she is dreaming—and when Mr. Layman calls on her she jumps and blushes prettily at being so suddenly called back to earth. Lucille expects to go to college but hasn't decided where. We know that wherever she goes she will always have the best wishes of every one at R. H. S. M. W. L. S.; R. C.; G. C.; A. A.; Bt. B. '18-19; Treas. Bible Class '19.

JOHN SIMMONS WELLFORD

"Born to give joy and bring peace to the world."

A humorist and singer of note, a brilliant student and an all-round boy—that's John. By his earnestness and conscientiousness John has made a lasting impression upon his fellow students as well as the Faculty as a boy of clean habits, sound judgment and deep convictions. John, having been with us only three and one-half years, has not taken an active part in the sports of R. H. S., but if you call mingling with the fair sex a sport he is right there with the goods. John expects to study for the ministry after leaving old Roanoke High and we predict for him a bright future crowned with laurels of success and happiness. A. A.; R. C.; S. C.; J. L. S.; Organization Editor '19 ACORNS.

EDNA ROBERTA MOORE

"She has a pair of eyes that speak of love 'n everything."

Roberta's eyes are wonderful and attracted our attention at first sight for although these were developed in Salem she had to come to Roanoke for them to be appreciated. Generally speaking one entering school in their Senior year seldom becomes a part of that class, but when Roberta came to old R. H. S. we all took notice for her lovable disposition and happy face made us welcome her into our midst. Roberta has us all wondering just how she can keep up her school work for her conversation never borders on school subjects but always about her dates. Anything concerning dates, dances and the movies interests her and we are still left to wonder if even the Exams at the end of the term will divert her mind. We do not know exactly what Roberta is planning to do in the future but the best wishes of the Class of '19 go with her. A. A.; R. C.; G. C.

GERTRUDE ELLIOTT NOELL

*"And her modest answer and graceful air
Show her wise and good as she is fair."*

To write a short sketch of the period of Gertrude's career spent among us is hard to do, for pages would be required in which to record the qualities of one so talented. Gertrude not only stars in English (in which she generally plays the role "leading lady") but in her other studies as well. Peep into Miss Jenning's grade book—it will tell the tale. Whenever a classmate wishes a passage in poetry interpreted or a prop. in Geometry explained, it's always—"Oh! let me ask Gertrude!" We find her ever ready and willing to do her best—and it is "best" too. Gertrude not only shows much depth of thought in interpreting poetry, but also in composing it—not the "school girl verse," but such as Shelley or Keats might value. "Nineteen's sincerest wishes to you—'Maid of Youth'; we remember and cherish what to us your life has meant. G. C.; A. A.; R. C.; M. W. L. S.

OTILIA IRVING OVERSTREET

*"I am in earnest; I will not equivocate; I will not excuse;
I will not retreat an inch; I will be heard!"*

Round as to figure, square as to ability, three-cornered as to intellect, smooth as to disposition, are the ingredients which go to make up one of the best, the truest and the most substantial girls in our class. When Lady Irving walks down Senior row we feel the air vibrate with importance. She is a bonnie lass with a wholesome light radiating from her deep brown eyes and she is a type which invariably draws from one the same conclusion—"She'll make some man a mighty fine wife." Irving is extremely romantic and always has "somethin' thrillin'" to tell. Despite her many "lovers' quarrels" (?) we think she's ever "Neren" closer to "John." Whatever her plans for the future may be—raising chickens on the farm or studying medicine, we wish her great success and prosperity. G. C.; A. A.; Sec. M. W. L. S. '17; Pres. G. C. '18-19; Joke Editor ACORNS '19; Pts. of H. 8.

BERNICE LUCILLE PETERS

"The glory of a firm capacious mind."

Lucille, one of the most attractive girls of our class, by her tenderness and gentleness of manner has won our hearts. 'Cile is a jolly good sport and is always ready for some mischief. When there is any place to go you may hear her say, "Oh! leave the lessons and let's go." It is a wonder how well she gets on in her studies. Lucille is a good student in all of her classes, especially English—sometimes hardly seeming human in using her imaginative powers; so far do they soar from our sights that when reading her essays or stories we feel ourselves traveling fast through an atmosphere of fancy into the world of Dreams. This little English star was unanimously chosen "Prophet of the 'Nineteen Class." 'Cile has not decided what she will do in the future; although she often talks of teaching we do not know whom? ? ? Dear old chum, we the Class of '19 wish you the greatest success possible in whatever you do. A. A.; R. C.; G. C.; M. W. L. S.; Sec. B. C.; Class Prophet.

COSA ELIZABETH REYNOLDS

"What strained touches rhetoric can lend."

Cosa is a care-free, happy-go-lucky girl—one always ready to help a struggling classmate. She never seems to worry over her lessons, but the grade book shows her great ability. Cosa's fondness for literature and skill in writing composition have won for her the praise of the English teachers—but not the study hall "keepers." She has never been known to occupy her pew in silence. This lucky "chatter-box" spends much of her time not only in writing essays but also in composing poetry—why one might think her a pupil of Keats! "Nineteen's" wishes accompany you, true friend, while climbing the ladder of poetic fame. A. A.; R. C.; M. W. L. S.; G. C.

PAUL REVERE SHEAHAN

"Golden opinions from all sorts of people has he."

Paul, during his years of toil (?) in high school has missed three entire fall terms. Because of this the Class of '18 suffered a big loss, but '18's loss was '19's gain. Each time Paul has returned the glad hand has been waiting for him, for with his return a good athlete and fine man is within the fold. In discussing the prospects for Baseball every year it is said, "to begin with there's Sheahan on first." Paul has also won distinction in Basket-Ball and Football. This fall he was in the army. The Kaiser heard he was coming so decided to surrender. Although he is not known to burn midnight oil he usually passes his subjects with credit. P. R. has a pleasing personality and always has his jokes along. His favorite expression is, "Well, I'll see you in the funny paper." He can "shake a foot" with the best, according to the ladies. Paul has held many offices which testify as to his ability and popularity. In fact he is well liked by all who know him. Have I not said enough? B. B. '15-16-17-18-19; Capt. '17-18; F. B. '17; Bt. B. '17-18-19; Capt. '19; Pres. A. A. '17-18; Treas. Junior Class '18; Chair. S. C.; J. L. S.; R. C.; Pts. of H. 6.

BERTHA MAY RUETER

*"What signifies the life o' man
If 'twere na for the lassies, O."*

This demure little lady has only been with us a part of her high school career but it took us just a little while to find her true place among us. She is one of our "Stars" in every class and her grades often dazzle the eyes of her fellow classmates. Talk about being happy!—You should have seen her on Peace Day with such a big bundle of morning papers and a face wreathed in smiles, but we were not a bit surprised as that was just a part of a wonderful game which she is playing—and diamonds are trumps! We did not wish Bertha to leave us but in spite of our protests "Young Lochinvar" swept down upon us and took her. They are now sailing in that silvery yacht of the dear, old Honeymoon. "May they have long lives of happiness, health and prosperity," is the wish of the '19 Class. R. C.; A. A.

DOROTHY FLORA STEWART

"With a jest on her tongue and a smile on her lips, She's bubbling with fun to her finger tips."

This is "Dotty" exactly, not only bubbling with fun but full of enthusiasm and "Pep" which she never fails to exhibit at the High School games. Wherever she goes her musical laugh is contagious. Her disposition and witty manner cannot be expressed in words but all those who know her count her friendship dear. When Dotty comes rushing in with, "I have an idea," prepare, for some fun is brewing. She is carefree and loses no sleep over her studies; however, she manages to come out on top. Dorothy expects to continue her pursuit of learning at R.-M. W. C. The very best wishes of the Class of '19 go with her for a happy and prosperous future. R. C.; G. C.; A. A.; M. W. L. S.; Organization Editor '19 ACORNS.

ESTELLE STANLEY

*"That though on pleasure she was bent
She had a frugal mind."*

Estelle is one of the best all-round girls in our class. She is a good student, splendid worker and "greatest giggler." Daily we hear that characteristic laughter echoing up the "Senior Row." Nobody looks around. Everybody says, "Here comes Estelle." Estelle is popular with everybody in our class, but especially with one. "Oh, George, now stop!" Isn't that familiar? Those who know Estelle at home can say that she is not only studious but very industrious. Without doubt this little "embodiment of energy" could begin (Saturday morning) with a home neglected since the days of Chivalry, and by evening it would be one fit in which to entertain King Arthur and his Knights of the Round Table. Estelle's knight didn't live in England in the sixth century he lives "just around the corner" in the twentieth century. Best luck to him and his "lady." The lady is a prize, may the knight prove worthy! M. W. L. S.; A. A.; R. C.; G. C.; Clerical Manager '19 ACORNS.

DOROTHY LOUISE TERRILL

*"Charms strike the eye
But merit wins the soul."*

Dorothy is a dainty little miss—a peculiar combination of quaint, old-fashioned modesty and modern coquettishness; of studiousness and frivolity. Her nickname, "Lemman," (old English for "sweet-heart") is appropriate only in its translated meaning. "Dot's" a true sport and whenever any fun is going on you're sure to find her there. We have never caught her in the act of flirting, but we have vague suspicions!! In her make-up there is that something that makes Dorothy a leader in whatever she undertakes—be it serious or frivolous—for she works when she works and plays when she plays. Although she has many admirers she is an excellent bluffer and keeps us all guessing as to where her heart lies. A. A.; M. W. L. S.; Treas. M. W. L. S. '18; G. C.; Sec. G. C. '18; R. C.; Pres. R. C. '19; S. C.; Literary Editor '19 ACORNS; Pts. of H. 9.

SARAH ELEANOR TIPLADY

"Our Nellie's the flower of 'em all."

Sarah Eleanor would not know herself by this dignified prænomen, for she is known to us as "Nellie." Some people may think that she is quiet but if you don't believe she can talk just get her started and you won't get a chance to put in a word sideways. She is always ready for fun and can laugh, my, how she laughs! (especially in Study Hall). Yet, with her sport, Nellie does not neglect her studies, as her grades show. She is a Math star, shown by the 100 received on Arithmetic exam. But the joy of her life is her music. She would rather practice five hours than study one, so she say. (Perhaps it is laziness, who can tell?) At any rate she plays beautifully and hopes to give her life to this lofty art. She is planning to continue her studies next year at St. Mary's and if she does as well as she has done at old R. H. S. we are sure that her college career will be a success. A. A.; M. W. L. S.; G. C.; R. C.

WALTER LEWIS YOUNG

"The secret of success is constancy to purpose."

Whatever Walter attempts, he puts into it determination and always comes out in triumph (except 3-A History). As a rule Walter knows his lessons but when he doesn't he puts up a line of talk that gets him through. His genuine upright qualities and unflinching good humor have given him a warm place in our hearts. He is an accomplished joke teller and public speaker, his ability in this art being shown by his success in the 1918 Declamation Contest. He possesses a wit that never fails and enjoys using it in the classroom. Walter is an all-round good fellow and is very popular among the students, especially the girls with whom he delights in "tripping the light fantastic toe." We can look into the future and picture Walter as being a progressive politician, making laws for "Virginia" (?). He has not decided which college he will attend but wherever he goes he has our best wishes for success. Pres. Class '19; J. L. S.; A. A.; R. C.; Pts. of H. 5.

EMMA COMER TINSLEY

*"As pure in thought as Angels are,
To know her was to love her."*

This is "Em" exactly, the same to every one. Wherever we chance to meet her she always greets us with a cheery smile and has a good word for all. This brown-eyed girl endears herself to each one with whom she comes in contact, by her lovely disposition, her charming personality, her fun and brilliancy of wit. But this charm is more than skin deep, for in depth of thought she possesses a mind far above the average. This has enabled her to accomplish much in all her studies during her four years' stay among us. "Em," your future lies before you—but from your past record we know that you will make good. After finishing your career at Hollins our heartiest good wishes will follow you as you sail the stormy seas of life in the uniform of the true-blue "Marinette." A. A.; G. C.; R. C.; S. C.; Sec. '18 Class; V. P. '19 Class; V. P. R. C. '18-'19; Literary Editor ACORNS '19; Pts. of H. 5.

LUCY HELEN THOMASON

*"Care to our coffin adds a nail no doubt,
And every smile so merry draws one out."*

Helen certainly lives this motto for she never believes in worrying about anything. She has enough care to be on the safe side. She always has a pleasant word and a cheery smile for every one and is especially easy to get along with "if he lets her have her own way." Helen is always ready for a good time but she likes for that time to come when few lessons are to be gotten up, but if necessary lessons may be left alone. One of her greatest delights is to initiate Rats. Whenever you see Helen you may know Pearl is not far behind. She is very fond of Miss R—d, who allows her and her friend Myrtle to have little feasts under the top of the desk—when she doesn't see them. Helen will be missed by her many friends and whatever course she takes we are sure she will make a success. M. W. L. S.; G. C.; A. A.; R. C.

EVELYN ELIZABETH URQUHART

"I am forever merry, witty and wise."

It is a well-known fact that Evelyn is one of the jolliest of the class, and she makes excellent use of her merry laughter. She is certainly noted for her giggle and the way she talks, which comes perfectly natural to her. She is ever ready to lend a helping hand to those in trouble over lessons and sometimes, though rarely, she needs help herself after a late night spent at a party or something like that to which she dearly loves to go. We know that Evelyn is especially fond of the "movies" and she always knows what is going on. Her plans for the future we do not know, but the class wishes her a fruitful career. G. C.; R. C.; A. A.

KATHRYN EAGLE WILLSON

*"To those who know thee not no words can paint,
To those who know thee, know all words are faint."*

Calm and sweet, Kathryn has traveled for three and one-half years down the placid stream of high school knowledge. The Class of '19 has learned that her motto is, "Begone, dull care, thou and I could never agree," because she is out for all the good times coming her way. But when exams roll around Kathryn always comes out on top. She has a wonderful imagination and her rich vocabulary and "flowery diction" startle all and carry us through the vista of her visions. In future years we expect to see Kathryn starring as Princess Kathryn in "King Henry V." During her school career she has won a multitude of friends and always she is laughing and talking with a crowd of boys and girls. She is very "frank" in expressing her fondness for "Prune (r)s." Kathryn has the best wishes of the '19 Class in whatever she may choose for her life work. A. A.; G. C.; R. C.; M. W. L. S.

MYRTLE LEONE WOOD

She's mistress of herself though China fall."

Since Myrtle has been at old R. H. S. all of us have liked her and know her to be good in her studies as well as interested in any mischief that comes along. Every morning just as the last bell rings Myrtle may generally be seen rushing up the aisle with her hat and coat still on and just in time for roll call. She goes around with a smile on her face most of the time and it is known that she does not tell her troubles to any one. Now there is one thing about Myrtle that worries us. Every afternoon we hear her say, "Girls, are you all going to the show?" We poor fellows who are broke have to sweetly answer, "No," while she goes off jingling her two bits in her pocket and makes a bee-line for the American. Myrtle says she may go into the business world for a while, but from what we can find out we fear she will soon give this up. However, we all wish her the best of luck wherever she may go. A. A.; R. C.; Clerical Editor '19 ACORNS.

VIRGINIA AGNES WILTSEE

"Multum in parvo."

Virginia is one of the most attractive, utterly stubborn, "true-blue," little girls in our class. She has many friends, whom she has won through her remarkable combination of good sense and mischief, and who are ready to fight for her to the last. She is especially adapted to Shakespearian parts and she greatly admires "Henry V." Some one has said she should be a dancing teacher. We can easily believe this! "Lemman" firmly adheres to the motto, "Better late than never," for it is rumored that only a certain prominent young man (need we name him?) has ever found her on time. So be it! To the victor belongs the spoils. She giggles all her cares away and always appears to be perfectly happy. May she have the brilliant success her high school reports predict for her when she enters Randolph-Macon, is the hearty wish of her '19 Class. R. C.; A. A.; G. C.; Treas. '18-19; Class Secretary '19; Literary Editor ACORNS '19; Pts. of H. 4.

LAURA KEENE WOOD

*"Though wisdom oft has sought me
I scorn'd the lore she brought me."*

Laura lives in a happy region of "come weal, come woe, I care not." She manages to progress, which is quite an accomplishment. Laura says she is going to be a nurse and we all wish her luck, but here's hoping she will never have to practice on us. We know her too well. She is always in a good humor except on the day when she has Chemistry tests. Of late her time has been divided between Chemistry and answering fat letters from France. Luck will attend her, for luck attends the person who dares. A. A.; R. C.

VIRGINIA CLEMENTINE BLOXTON

*"A creature not too bright or good
For human nature's daily food,"*

Virginia came to us last fall from Virginia Intermont. By her happy face and winning way she was not long in becoming a fast friend of the Senior class. Virginia is very fond of writing poetry. Do her inspirations come from the front of the Senior Row—by George! "I'll say they do!" Virginia is not only capable of making 97 on French examination but she also takes the lead in gym work. She would rather play basket-ball than eat olive sandwiches in study hall. She says little of her future but whatever vocation she might choose, here's luck to you, little friend. R. C.; Bt. B.

Senior Class History

*When we blooming novices to High School did come,
Prospects for us looked awfully glum;
Old R. H. S. in the days of 'sixteen
Indeed was a trying and fearful scene.*

*But soon this scene of horror shifted;
We found ourselves to Sophomores lifted
And when we were Juniors, so pert and wise,
Our importance, indeed, was hard to disguise.*

*But now we're above these things so "petite"
And have passed to loftier places more fit.
We are slowly unlocking the Gate of Life
In spite of the absence of our dear Miss Critz.*

*"Flu" failed to stop us on our march to success.
And we've produced famous people, you no doubt must confess;
Our heroes in basket-ball, football and track,
The vim and the pep did never lack.*

*We mustn't forget our Shakespeare class,
There was many a scold and many a laugh!
After watching Miss Heyward who showed us "how"
We all should be famous actors by now.*

*Our 'nineteen class had disadvantages threefold,
But these only tended our will to mold,
And as hoary Father Time moves swiftly on
We'll not forget High School and the days that are gone.*

*We've written this poem just to let you know
Things that have happened in the Senior Row;
Just to prove to you that saying true,
"You can always do what you will to do."*

HISTORIAN.

A Touch of Black Magic

I DRAW the wizard's circle upon the sands, and blue flames spring from its circumference. I describe an inner circle, and green flames come responsive to my words of Magic. I touch the common center of both with my wand and red flames, like adders' tongues, leap from the earth. Over these I place my caldron filled with the blood of a new killed deer and as it boils I speak my incantations and make my mystic signs and passes, watching the blood-red mist as it rises to meet the Spirits of the Air. I chant my conjurations as I learned them from the Great Key of Solomon and while I speak the ruddy fumes take human forms. Out of the dark, fathomless Past come a company of old friends. While the caldron boils, their cloud forms grow ever more distinct and definite, till at length I can trace their every feature. I see the color of their eyes. I discern the shades of their hair still glossy with the sheen of youth.

They and the events of their lives, their joys and sorrows, their virtues and sins, their hatreds, jealousies and loves—the seven numbers of the total sum of life—pass before me as in a panorama, moving when I bid them move, pausing when I bid them pause, speaking when I bid them speak and alas! fading back into the dim, gray limbo of the past long, long ere I would have them go. But hark! my radiant shades are about to speak. The play is about to begin.

My first scene is on a crowded city street. Throngs of people are hurrying in every direction but strange to say many of them seem to have one destination in view and pushed along by the crowd I, too, join the hurrying masses and turn my face toward the common "Mecca" of all. I had gone only a few steps when some one touched me on the shoulder and turning around I saw a young lady dressed in very "Mannish Style" swinging a light cane. I did not immediately recognize her, but soon remembered the trim little lady who formerly graced the halls of Roanoke High School and who was a member of the "Class of 1919," since recognized as the most illustrious which ever left old R. H. S. It was none other than Dorothy Terrill. I remember now that when the University of Virginia opened its doors to women she, Irving Overstreet, Mabel Kerr, Mae Goggin, Margaret Jett, Ardis Du Bois, Gertrude Noell, Margaret Graves, and Dorothy Stewart entered. The rest of these girls are now completing their studies in Europe, but Dorothy after spending several years in London has returned home. I was glad to learn from her that Bertha Reuter, who was the first in our class to inscribe her name on the book entitled "Marriage Licenses," is still living happily at Staunton. She told me of several other members of the Class of '19 whom she met in London, having been to France doing Reconstruction work. Among them were Louis Brown and Paul Sheahan who were chairmen of the two units which have become famous all over the world for their efficient and valuable aid in the building up of these war-desolated countries. Virginia Bouldin, Katherine Cole, Louise Coleman, Virginia Bloxton, Lucile Mundy, Mary Dold, Caroline Hoge, Victoria Martin, Pauline Bartlett, Ailie Mason, and Helen Burke. She also said that she had seen Walter Young "several times" in London where he is representing the American National Board of Civil Engineering.

She seemed surprised when she found that I had not heard of the wedding which had been the talk of high Society for the past six months and which was to take place that evening. I was rather surprised myself when I found that the bride and groom were my old school friends, Arline Cutshall, the world-famous prima donna, and William Leap, a well-known New York broker. I was glad that I happened to be in the city in time to witness the ceremony and we went on immediately to the church. We arrived rather early but the church was even then almost filled. However, we found a good seat and had plenty of time to look around. I was surprised to see so many old friends. On one of the front seats sat Thelma Martin, teacher of Æsthetic dancing in Washington. She seemed very much interested in the ceremony and after it was over was the first to offer congratulations to the happy pair. Near her, but a few seats back, were Otey Helm and Julia Lybrook. Julia studied in Italy for several years after leaving high school and is now one of the most famous artists of to-day. Otey has received a medal for especially fluent translations of Latin and has been offered the Chair of Latin and Greek at Vassar College. I do not think that she will accept it, for it rumored that she is about to embark on the stormy sea of Matrimony and we know that her voyage will be successful for her pilot had some experience on the seas during the great World War. Across from them sat Nancy Lukens, Head Mistress of Bryn Mawr College, and Laura Wood, instructor of English in the same School. Near the back was a group of very dignified looking ladies and gentlemen. They were pointed out to me as leaders in the movement for extending the school term to twelve months thus giving the pupils no time for "foolish frivolity consisting chiefly of dancing—a shameful waste of the energy given by the good God for the development of the mind"—this was their aim. I knew several of them—Lewis Hester, principal of the new half-million dollar Roanoke High School, and his assistant, Vasco Parrack, Eugene Davis, instructor in Physics, also Clarinda Holcomb, Grace Henty, Mildred Jett, Mary Mason, Ada Arthur, Sylvia Duffey, Mary Bowers, Margaret Henderson, Cosa Reynolds and Nellie Tiplady, teachers in the School.

The Class of 1919 also turned out several famous actresses. They were present and sat just across the aisle from us. They were Thurna Coleman, Ruth Lavinder, Roberta Moore, Theon Hart, Sallie Barksdale, Claudine Mayhew and Elizabeth Hill. There was another large group near the door representing the business women of the city. Among them were Helen Laughon, Laura Hardy, Pearl Mattox, Helen Thomason, Gladys Marshall, Elsie Bergendahl, Margaret Carter, Evelyn Urquhart, Mary Garland, Aurelia Dedaker, and Myrtle Wood. I also heard of several other members of the Class who are famous in the business world. Harry Reid who is general manager of the Railroad Offices of Washington, and the Hayes Brothers, famous all over the United States for their speed in stenographic work. I had been so busy looking around that I had not noticed who was sitting by me until this moment. I happened to glance around and who should be sitting there but Mary Douglas and George Peters. George is one of the greatest manufacturers in the United States. His business ability is unrivaled. Mary has won great renown as a portrait painter and she and Marshall Reid have studios in Paris which are the shrines of many youthful admirers just starting up the ladder of Fame which they have scaled so successfully. Mary told me she had just finished a portrait of Katherine Wilson who is now in San Juan, Porto Rico. Kathryn has become a society leader and queen of fashion in the West Indies where she has been making her home for the past few years. George said that he had only the day before received a letter from Edgar Howard who has a large ranch out West telling him that he was getting along fine and making money fast but that he was leaving for the East immediately, as he was anxious to see two of his old classmates who are now on the stage. They are now playing in New York and are considered the sensation of the season—Estelle Stanley and John Carr, the greatest comedians since Charlie Chaplin. Estelle's laugh is valued at a "million dollars a minute" and John is famous for his funny speeches.

Just then there was a great stir in the back of the Church; every one was turning around for the bridal party had entered the vestibule. Whispers filled the air: "There she is." "See, isn't she beautiful!" "White satin, duchesse lace, orange blossoms." "Was there ever such a bride—or groom?" (This from the young ladies.) "They say he's worth millions." "Marry him for his money?" "No, indeed, why they've been in love since they were school children together."

The strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March drew our attention again to the front and I recognized the organist immediately as Lucille Garrett who has become famous in the musical world. In fact, I knew the whole party, from the preacher, who was no other than John Wellford, to Harry Nash who rendered a beautiful vocal solo. Harry has become so famous that he now gets hundreds of letters every day from theater managers begging him to come to them for the next season. However, since a certain young lady left for France he has had no heart for song and it was only as a special favor to the bride that he agreed to give us such a rare treat to-day. The Maid of Honor was Claudine Kesler, a famous Chautauqua Lecturer. I need say nothing of her for the Kesler-Davenport debate is known wherever the yellow banner of Woman Suffrage flies to-day. The bridesmaids were Josephine Minter, who is the same old Joe in spite of the many degrees after her name and the fact that she holds a prominent place in the Court of Spain as American Translator; Emma Tinsley, who together with Virginia Wiltsee most ably represents Virginia in the United States Senate; and Elizabeth Comer, who has recently published a new Geometry giving sixty-nine ways to prove every proposition. The best man was Paul Dudley, a famous automobile manufacturer in Chicago. The ushers were John Cure, a farmer, good-natured, good-humored and fat"; Julian Baker, editor of the largest paper in Boston; Elijah McClanahan, a successful banker in Atlanta; Cary Moomaw, a prosperous business man in Richmond; and, last but not least, Paul Price and Carroll Neblette. Paul and Carroll have gone into partnership on a wonderful discovery which they made. They call it "Anti-Fat." In their advertisements Paul poses as "Before," and Carroll as "After," and in large letters are printed these words: "Look what it did for me."

When the pastor had given his blessing to the happy pair and dismissed them, I started forward to offer my congratulations when suddenly everything became dim. The church faded from my sight. There was no sound except the whispering of the wind in the trees and I was alone. The caldron still smoked over the dying embers but nothing was left of my vision save the scattered, gray ashes of memory.

THE PROPHET.

The Maid of Youth

I.

*She was just eighteen and free from care!
The purest flower, so rich and rare!
And she was young as she was fair
And myriads of lights twinkled in her hair
For she was the Maid of Youth!*

II.

*Her voice was so dreamy, just to hear!
Her lips and her cheeks were roses dear,
Her happy eyes ne'er had a fear
Of a cold bleak world so gloomy and drear;
For she was the Maid of Youth!*

III.

*For who is it old, and who is it young,
And who is it grown, and who that has run
His course in life to the setting of the Sun
And loves not the ways of the Happiest One,
The ways of the Maid of Youth?*

IV.

*Though my eyes be dim, and my hair be gray
May I still have a heart and a tongue to say,
"The mem'ry of my dream has ne'er passed away
It shines in my heart even this very day,
My dream of the Maid of Youth!"*

G. NOELL, '19.

“Do They? I’ll Say They Do!”

IT HAD been decided by the School Board that it would be more beneficial for Roanoke to turn R. H. S. into a Dance Hall.

It was nine o'clock when the Ball began. Miss Cure, the leader of the Jazz Band, commenced the music. Miss Bohannon played the piano, and Miss Funkhouser was the drummer. Miss Miller presided at the jews-harp and Miss Noell at the horn.

At the sound of “Oh, Helen,” Mr. Phelps made a dashing leap for Miss Board, but Mr. Turner, having been star player on the varsity football team, interposed and got there first. Mr. Phelps, undaunted, soon broke that up by slapping Mr. Turner on the back. This would have floored him had he not fallen into Miss Beebee’s arms, who was gliding across the floor with Mr. Parsons. Mr. Turner, a little nettled by his sojourn in Miss Beebee’s arms, picked himself up and made for Mr. Phelps. A fight ensued, in which Mr. Turner easily won, because Mr. Phelps had gotten some chewing gum on his dancing pumps (special at $1.49, reduced from $1.50) that had fallen from Miss Board’s rosy lips.

Miss Lovelace and Mr. McDonald jazzed serenely on (?) throughout the whole hubbub. They were easily the star dancers of the occasion.

Miss Carlisle, with her hands on her hips and a coquettish look in her eye, walked up to Miss Board and said, “Look here, kid, wha’d’ you mean by flirting with my sweetie? I ain’t no wall flower!”

Miss Reed and Miss Calfee had condescended to give a duo exhibition toe-dance. They looked very chic in their dainty frilled ballet costumes.

Miss Hayward, glancing at Miss Huff and Mr. Viaud, who were cheek-dancing, and at Miss Board, who was making smoke rings with a half-gone “Fatima,” had been blooming by the wall all the evening with Mr. Layman. She turned to him and said, “What is the twentieth century girl coming to?” Mr. Layman sadly shook his head.

JUNIOR CLASS

Junior History

MOTTO: "Let Mutt do it."

September 8, 1916.

*It was for us a dreary day,
 (Though there was sunshine others say)
 When with our shaking limbs aquake,
 We did our trembling way betake
 From R. I. S. so haughty and proud,
 To R. H. S. soon humbled and bowed:
 Some weary months we passed this way,
 Till finally Sophs we became one day.*

(Here the fickle Muse forsook me and I was left to complete this, the third Chapter of our history, in Prose.)

AFTER our first exams were over, those of us who had been faithful entered into our reward (if not rest), thereby becoming Sophs. As the cry of "Rats!" no longer awakened consternation in our breasts, we began to take great pleasure in approaching and loafing around the entrances to the noble (?) and commodious (?) edifice wherein the future great men and women of Roanoke were earnestly (?) pursuing elusive solutions to impossible Math problems, etc. Our Motto as Sophs was: "Spare (not) the rod and spoil (not) the Freshmen."

While Freshmen our only ambition was to become Sophs, and as Sophs we thought only of the time when we would be Juniors, and now being Juniors we think of the time when, like the present Class, we will be grave (?) and dignified (?) Seniors, all of which goes to prove what Byron says:

"The gaudy toy so fiercely sought, Hath lost its charm on being caught."

Our class has been well represented in Athletics this year, especially in Basket-ball and Football. In the former, we furnished two excellent players,

Masinter and Shockley, and in the latter, McClanahan and Brown gave material help towards winning the State Football Championship.

We are not only noted for our Athletic tendencies, but through the strenuous and untiring efforts of our President, Richard Redden, we have made a name for ourselves in a social way. It is also because of our President's work that we have inaugurated the "Junior Dramatic Club," the purpose of which is to give a competitive class play with the Seniors.

Never has there been joined in a single class the two attributes of quality and quantity in such profusion as in ours. Indeed we are considered the best class that the ex-R. H. S. has ever had or the J. H. S. will ever produce, with exception, perhaps, of the Class of '19 (?).

(To be continued in 1920.)

PAUL PRICE.

C. HOLCOMB—"Mr. McDonald, will Oxalic acid eat the bathtub?"

DUFFIELD MATSON—"What is propganda (propaganda)?"

SALLIE B.—"Husband of Mother Goose!"

KITTY COLE—"I went down to the ten cent store to buy something, but I had everything that cost five cents except soap and that cost six cents."

L. Hester meets Willie Leap in hall:

L. HESTER—"Willie, what girl will be selected as class beauty?"

WILLIE—"I will, of course!"

K. COLE—"Miss Bohannon hung half-way out of the window to see the fire wagon."

EMMA T.—"I bet she knows the fire-man."

MISS CARLISLE—"What was the result to Austria when Russia took so much of her land?"

C. THOMAS—"I reckon it made Austria Hungary!"

CLAUDINE M. (coming into the cloak room)—"My dress looks like it came out of the junkshop."

VIRGINIA B.—"That's nothing, mine looks like it came out of the hardware store!"

Pink and Pursuit

SAY, sis, that's an awfully good-looking girl in pink over there by the tea table. Who is she?" asked Tom Stewart of his sister, Eleanor.

"Well, brother," responded his sister, "there are exactly four girls in pink at the tea table, and if—"

"Oh, I say, sis, stop kidding! you know whom I mean—the one with the light hair."

"And three of them have light hair," she continued, teasingly.

"Oh, have a heart!" cried Tom, throwing up his hands in comic dismay.

"Well, if you want to know that badly—she is Emalina Wilson; but you have no chance, Tom, because every boy here is crazy about her and you are far from being the most attractive one here."

"Thanks, awfully, sis, for the compliment and the warning, but I'm hard struck. She's Emalina, 'My Gal,' all right," he ended gaily as he made his way to the tea table.

Emalina was a pretty girl, and she looked particularly pretty this afternoon in a dainty afternoon frock and picture hat. She was just the kind of a girl that looked pretty in pink and she knew it, too! She was the Class beauty, and for this reason she had been chosen to preside over the tea table at the Senior Tea given during graduation week on the college campus.

During the course of the afternoon, Tom was introduced to "her" and 'twas late before his sister could convince him that it was time for guests to leave.

"Just a minute, sis," was his reply to her remonstrances.

"Are you quite sure you haven't an engagement for to-morrow afternoon, Miss Wilson?"

"Why, no, I'm quite sure I have a date to-morrow afternoon," she answered, laughing at his crestfallen countenance. "If I'm not mistaken, a certain Mr. Stewart has asked me to drive with him in his new racer!"

"Good! He told me to tell you that he'd call at three."

"All right, at three, then; I'll be ready. Good-bye!"

* * * * *

Several days later Tom became the center of discussion at the Stewart home.

"The boy doesn't eat anything," complained his mother, "and he has developed some unusually nervous habits lately. I can't understand him!"

"The rascal," lovingly commented the father, "I can't get him interested in anything at the office and I'm on a particularly important case."

"Don't bother, daddy dear," interposed sis with an air of mystery. "The boy is head over heels in love!"

"In love!" hastily expostulated his mother. "Eleanor, what are you thinking of? How perfectly absurd!"

"Not at all, mamma. Hasn't he said anything about it to you? She's a girl at college, who really is a dear. Don't dare breathe this to brother, and please, for heaven's sake, don't question him!"

* * * * *

"Say, sis, who is that confounded little dude I saw Emalina with the other day?" asked Tom Stewart of his sister a certain Sunday afternoon. "She hasn't let me come near her for weeks, and I'm sick of it!"

"Dude! Why, you jealous thing! He's a perfectly lovely fellow. Emmy seems to be really fond of him, too. He's taken her to the Wayside Inn this afternoon for tea. Weeks, indeed! Then it must have been your twin brother I saw with her at the matinée yesterday."

"Oh, thanks for the information," returned Tom irritably. "But, I'm not jealous a bit, I'd have you know! I merely asked out of curiosity. What is it to me, anyway?"

"Oh, I beg your pardon! If you aren't jealous, and merely curious, perhaps I can tell you more. He's from her home town, and he's at least twenty years older than she! she told me last night (in a very confidential voice) that she simply adored old men, and—!"

Here she was interrupted by the slamming of two doors and the angry snort of an engine in the driveway.

"Oh, no, indeed, he isn't jealous a bit. How could I have misunderstood him so! Poor boy, I ought to tell him, but perhaps the shock will do him good!"

* * * * *

"Tom, what is the matter with you? You've been the grumpiest thing all evening; you've barely spoken a decent word to me!" complained Emalina to a very disconsolate looking Tom at the Graduation dance.

"I beg your pardon; I didn't mean to be rude, but I—I don't feel—er—exactly right—er—nothing serious you know but, oh,—" stammered Tom apologetically.

"I am awfully sorry, but please be real nice for a few minutes, because I want to introduce you to my father."

"Your father! I didn't know that he was here?"

"Oh, yes, he's been here for several days. There he comes through the side door now. Come on!"

"Emalina! here, wait a minute, please!" implored Tom grasping her hand and holding it fast in his own. "I—that your father? Why, I thought—"

"Yes, I know what you thought. Eleanor told me about it," laughingly interrupted Emalina.

"And your father is just the man that I've wanted to speak to for—well, ever since I met you!—and here he was all the time! For heaven's sake, hurry, Emalina—I'm anxious to meet him!" finished Tom with an "unmistakable" look.

Sophomore History

IN September, 1917, we entered our first year in High School. We had been Seniors at Junior High School! Of this we were quite aware for the "Powers that be" were continually telling us that we were in the highest class and, therefore, must set a good example for the lower grades in the school. At that time boys and girls were always coming over from High School (especially when they wanted money for the Athletic Association or the Annual) to inform us that we were as much a part of the High School as those in the higher grades. Didn't we feel big? But our heads were to be lowered and not gradually, by any means, but all in one day. That was the day we arrived at the High School building.

As this is supposed to be a History and history consists of plain facts—here is the plainest—we were treated dreadfully! The Sophomore girls needed a few hairpins so they "very politely" (??) took ours. The boys—well their reception was "warm" (??). So during the first and second years of our High School life we experienced both sides of the old saying, "Kings among dogs, and dogs among Kings." In our last year at the Junior High, we were looked up to, somewhat as kings, by the other pupils of the school; while in our second year we experienced sensations something like the latter part of the old saying.

However, after two weeks of arranging schedules we got down to work but this did not last long, for schools were closed on account of the "flu." With the exception of about two weeks' work, regular studies were not resumed until after Christmas holidays. The mid-year examinations showed how little knowledge we had really acquired but we did the best we could under such trying circumstances.

There are two things to which this class looks forward and they are: Greeting the rats that come from the Junior High School next year, and reigning supreme in the year 1921.

BARBARA HOGE.

“The Child is Father of the Man”

“WHY Petey, dear, what can be the trouble?” anxiously exclaimed his mother.

“O mother, I failed on Geometry exam. It made Mr. Phelps so mad he rolled his big eyes at me and said, ‘You may go to the of-ice and ob-tain a per-mit to en-ter a-gain this class.’ Oh! what must I do?”

“But nearly everybody was in trouble to-day. Ben and George, my best friends, were promenading down the hall, imitating one of the faculty, when suddenly Mr. Turner whirled around and came switching back toward them. He says Ben will be put out of our history class—no, didn’t touch George, for he’s Miss Carlisle’s pet. Oh! but I must stop. Forrest Miller and Sally Lovelace say I ought not to fuss about our instructors for we often ‘try them.’ If Forrest and Sally ever become teachers they will certainly be loved by their pupils. Then there’s Willie Parsons who is a good boy. Smart, too, but doesn’t act like he thinks he knows it all. Mother, why am I not like him?”

Rap! Rap!

“There! some one knocks!”

“Good afternoon, madam.”

“Good evening.”

“I, John S. McDonald, the solicitor of subscriptions for our approaching Annual, am before your charming personality this afternoon for the purpose of winning from you your kindest consideration of our ‘Acorns of Roanoke.’ This is a most noble volume. Speaking my incantations spontaneously from the chemical standpoint, it is one of the most illustrious ever produced by a student body.”

“Pardon me, young man, but at leisure hours I enrich my vocabulary by the use of a dictionary not by conversation with agents.”

Having thus viewed disappointment and defeat, “Mac” McDonald retraced his steps toward the High School building. Just as he turned the corner—

“Oh! hello there, Sully! You are looking mighty sweet and sprightly this afternoon. How goes the Annual?”

"Pretty good. I have just finished toasting the faculty a bit, didn't scorch them (as they do us) but just toasted a little. Listen to a few:

Here's to Miss Cora with mind so bright,
Who rivals addin' machines with all her might.

Here's to Miss Carlisle, a friend of the boys,
'Tho sometimes she treats them as if they were toys.

Here's to Mr. Turner, impartial and fair,
Gracefully he glides as he steps with care.

"That's great, Sully, who—"

"Wait a minute—this is best:

Here's to Mr. Layman, the student body pet,
In a race of—jokes, he wins, you bet!

Here's to Mrs. Smith, who lately did embark,
Upon a tranquil sea in Matrimonial Ark.

Here's to Professeur, who lately "est venu," Endowing R. H. S. "avec sens beaucoup."

Here's to McDonald, a faculty sample,
Sorry to say he's not Seniors' example.

Here's to Mr. Parsons, beloved and adored,
To save him from critics we'd jump over Board.

Here's to McQuilkin, who as a dog at bay,
Swiped our "School Turkey" on Thanksgiving Day.

"Sully, they are splendid! But where does Miss Hayward come in?"
"Oh, that reminds me! I wish you were in our English class. I'm simply crazy about Miss Hayward, but she tickles me sometimes. To-day she called us 'stupid,' 'inane,' says we 'take no pride in getting up our parts in Shakespeare,' so forth, so on."

"Pausing for a few seconds, she continued: 'We just as well call a spade a spade, and not a shovel. You show no appreciation of Macbeth, Hamlet, or any of the characters in these plays. I've made up my mind you've just got to put more time and thought on my assignments. You have no choice in the matter. You've got to do it! ! ! "

"Some pupils do not seem to appreciate her motive, but I feel it was all meant for our good," thoughtfully explained Sully. "She realizes that the thoughts and habits we form in childhood go with us thru life."

"Yes," replied "Mac," "your statement is very true. Each of our instructors plays an important part in the formation of our characters, for it is the young and tender years of our life that are spent in school under their influence."

This brings to my mind, the lesson of Wordsworth's beautiful poem, "The Ode on Intimations of Immortality:" As our characters are molded in childhood and youth so will they be in maturity. "The child is father of the man."

Freshman History

HISTORY repeats itself, and a class history is no exception to the rule. However, the history of the future class of '21 is, to us, the most important of all.

It would take too long to mention all our geniuses. The wisdom of the class is an accepted fact. We passed through the intermediate grades without particularly distinguishing ourselves, but in the freshman year several of our gifted members won an enviable reputation in history, science and literature. Up to this time we have no evidence that there exists among us a Pythagoras or Euclid.

The latter part of our freshman year was interrupted several times by the epidemic of influenza. Much time was lost, but undaunted by this we returned to school with renewed vigor. Mid-year exams—that period dark and dreaded by every freshman, came and passed. We bid farewell to “Junior Lee” and upon entering Jefferson High were joyfully hailed as “Rats.” It may be stated that we felt as if we were real rats in a real trap. Now our surroundings are no longer strange to us. We have learned to love them.

Our first year is completed and we are well advanced on our second. With such a beginning we expect some day to be “shining lights” of Jefferson High School, for “Well begun is half done.”

*I wish I were a genius,
I don't think it's fair;
If there wasn't such a thing as school,
Then I wouldn't care.*

*It's study, study every night
Way till half-past twelve,
It's into Geometry, Latin, French,
And such we have to delve.*

*Some folks say these are happy days,
The worst is yet to come,
I don't believe it, but if 'tis true
Then blame it! here, I'm done.*

A Student's Outlook

THE great four-year conflict out of which we have just emerged, involving so many nations of the entire world, however terrible it may have been, was not waged in vain.

In this age of irreverence and frivolity, the student—the boy and girl in high school,—has been led to view life from a different standpoint. It is no longer to him a mere span of a few years in which he may pursue his own selfish ambitions and pleasures—not this, but a most sacred trust.

The favorable conditions under which most of us live have blinded our eyes to the wants and needs of our brothers in distant lands. But the untold sufferings brought on by the World War have stirred our hearts to such a depth that we are forgetting self, thereby becoming broader and more unselfish in extending to them a helping hand. The student begins to realize as never before that life is a sacred trust and given to him that he may serve mankind. Can one doubt, in view of these facts, that students are becoming broader in mind, more ennobled in character and grasping the gospel idea of the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man, thereby fulfilling the law of love for one another?

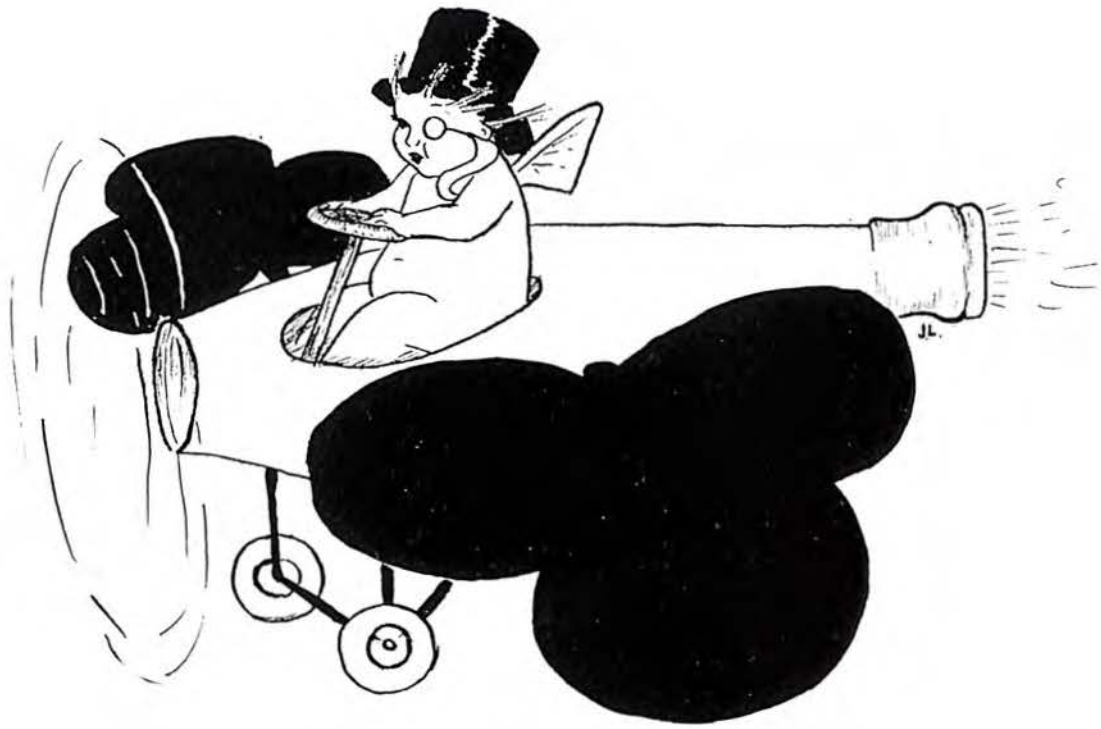

Thus, we are coming out from the towering threats of war into the clear sweet atmosphere of internationalism and brotherhood. We repeat that the costly lessons learned in the hard school of war have not been learned in vain. This, as nothing else, has awakened us to the realization of what an important place each and every one of us occupies in the world.

May we live up to the teaching of Eleanor H. Porter, that “each of us is just a small instrument in the great Orchestra of Life. We must see to it that we are always in tune, never drag or hit a false note, for then the harmony would not be complete.”

The High School student of to-day is Roanoke's citizen of to-morrow. The student's thoughts of to-day are the world's thoughts of to-morrow. Students! Let us do our part to preserve a national unity and practice a more catholic spirit which shall fill the future with a radiance and hope for which the world has so long been groping.

*“When the tide of opportunity has flowed out,
There is nowhere to float one's ship.”*

IN the Spring of 1918, High School organized the first Junior Red Cross Auxiliary in the schools of Roanoke. The officers were elected and the Red Cross flag was raised in the presence of the whole student body. The girls began at once to sew for the Belgian babies and both girls and boys took great interest in making scrap books for the soldiers. New officers were elected last Fall, and although the war has terminated, the whole school body is ready to assist in doing anything which the Red Cross Headquarters might ask of us. The entire school is represented in this organization with a one hundred per cent. membership. We carried on our campaigns in each classroom separately and Miss Lovelace's room has the honor of going "over the top" before any other class in both of the campaigns which we have waged. Members 464.

Senior Hike, October 5, 1918

The Senior Class takes a hike! My, what a time we did have! We left school in the early afternoon and started upon our journey up Mill Mountain. Although our hearts were light, our arms were burdened with good things to eat. We sure were a starved bunch of Seniors when we reached the top and it seemed that the fire would never burn. But it finally did, and now the feast was on. Miss Hayward, our charming chaperon, enjoyed a delicious cup of coffee that was made in a tin can and strained through a handkerchief. We had lost all our Senior dignity (?) coming up the mountain and as the gate leading into the tower was locked, we climbed over (tres facile) and went to the top. We descended the mountain in the soft light of the moon. "Romantic! that's us all over." We were not very talkative on our homeward journey. Each one lived in his own thoughts, the thought—of our notebooks that were due the next morning.

On Friday evening, February 14, 1919, the Juniors magnificently entertained the Seniors at a sumptuous banquet and dance immediately following. The banquet was served at the Y. M. C. A. It consisted of an excellent menu seasoned with "ripping good" jokes on the pupils and faculty and several thoroughly interesting talks by the guests of honor. It is needless to say it was immensely enjoyed by all. From here we went by automobile to the home of Miss Dorothy Pace in Wasena where we danced until twelve. Every one present, especially the Seniors, voted the evening a huge success.

As it Happens in Books

“OF all the disgusting, exasperating nonsense this is the limit,” exclaimed Lucile Clarke, as she slammed shut the latest popular novel and then threw it clear across the porch.

“What’s the matter, didn’t it end right?” calmly inquired her friend, Estelle Keffer, as she daintily picked her way through the chaotic jumble of porch chairs into the cosiest one, and lazily began nibbling candy from a plate at Lucile’s elbow.

“Of course it did, and they lived happily ever after. Did you ever know a story that didn’t?” retorted Lucile. “Estelle Keffer, will you tell me why every single story always ends happily with the hero saying, ‘He looked into her beautiful eyes and though it was the first glance, he knew that here stood the only girl in all the world for him. Her beautiful eyes looked into his, while the wind played hide-and-seek among the golden curls hanging in dainty ringlets around her face while her beautiful red mouth parted in a smile showing a row of pearly teeth.’ It’s not a bit true to real life and you know it. Things just don’t happen that way. Why don’t they ever write straight; red-headed, ugly, freckled girls like me for instance? I think it’s mean, so there.”

“Oh, I don’t know,” smilingly replied Estelle, as she knowingly raised her eyebrows.

“No, I guess not,” retorted Lucile, “any one who has as many love affairs to her credit as you, has no kick coming.”

“Well,” drawled Estelle, “seeing that the subject makes you so cross, suppose we change it. What are you going to wear to the College German to-night?” Not waiting for an answer she rambled on. “You know that handsome Richard Carter is going to be there. He’s just back from France and they say he’s just as handsome as a dream and—”

But she did not finish, for seeing a car going up the street, she called, “Oh, Tom, wait a minute,” and as he stopped, “Are you going my way?” she coquettishly asked. “No, but I will be delighted to,” he politely replied as he helped her into the car.

“Well, so long, Lucile, see you to-night,” she called back as they drove off together.

"Humph," grunted Lucile from the porch, "if that's the way it's done, excuse me."

Waiting until the last minute to dress as was her usual custom when her friends spent about two hours, Lucile was late that night for the dance and having dressed in a hurry she imagined that she looked a fright as she stood in the doorway of the Club House, in striking contrast to that homogeneous mass of floating colors, red, yellow, blue and green tulle dancing in and out among the frock coats.

But to Richard Carter, winner of the Croix de Guerre and other distinguished medals, just home from France, she looked like a beautiful French lily, slender and graceful as she stood silhouetted against the heavy velvet portières.

"Say, Jack," he exclaimed to a passing friend, "introduce me to her like a good sport."

"Her, who?" exclaimed Jack, "Dear old chap, there are approximately about two hundred girls here to-night and if you haven't met them all, it's neither your fault nor the girls' as they have tried hard enough. But if you will point out the lady of your choice, the main 'her' in your curriculum," he answered in mock seriousness, "I will be delighted to er—oh, introduce the lady in question."

"Well, if you must know definitely, the young lady standing in the doorway," he answered as he firmly steered Jack in that direction before he could reply.

"Miss Clark, allow me to introduce my friend and the lion of the evening. Lieutenant Carter, Miss Clark."

"Delighted to meet you," conventionally replied Dick as he bent over her hand, but neither were bothering with words as they stood looking at each other, totally oblivious to all else in the room save themselves.

"It's queer," said Dick, "but I feel as though I have known you before; have I?"

"No, I don't think so, Mr. Carter," shyly answered Lucile.

"Oh, well, anyway I know you now and am not going to let you ever forget me now that I have found you. I am going to stick around so much that there won't be any doubt in your mind about knowing me, 'determined, that's me all over'," he laughingly quoted from "Dere Mable," as he claimed her for the first of the many they had that night together. In fact so determined was he that he claimed every dance and the intermissions, much to the vexation and envy of the other girls.

Such a wonderful time was Lucile having that she imagined herself like Cinderella in the Fairy Tale and expected it all to vanish completely before her eyes.

Yet it seemed very real as she and Dick stood before her gate after the dance and Dick had just exacted a promise from her for a game of tennis in the morning and a ride in his long, yellow racer for the afternoon.

"You know I am a poor dejected soldier now, convalescing after suffering all the horrors of war and it's your patriotic duty to cheer me up," he answered as Lucile pretended to demur at the monopolization of so much of her time.

But as she went into the house and closed the door any one listening would have heard her murmur half aloud and half to herself, "It's real and just like it is in books."

RICHARD REDDEN—"Is Miss Jennings going to get married?"

MISS CURE—"What has that got to do with electricity?"

JOHN WELLFORD—"Why, it would be quite a shock."

WILMER PRICE (talking to Louis Hock while Miss Cure was explaining a difficult review problem the day before Exams.)—"I wish I had all that stuff in my head."

L. HOCK—"I don't."

WILLIE—"Why?"

LOUIS—"Because, there wouldn't be room for any Love."

Record

THE season of 1918 opened disastrously, most of the games being cancelled on account of the influenza epidemic but as the season wore on the schedule was renewed and a first-class team was turned out in spite of the fact that we had no coach and only two letter men were back. Our first game was played in Martinsville with the Martinsville High School, which proved an easy victim as shown by the one-sided score of 67 to 6. The next game was played on the home grounds with our old rival Chatham Training School, which we defeated by a score of 72 to 6. This is the largest score ever made by a High School team. The following Saturday the team, supported by a large number of local fans, journeyed to the Hilly City when they met the strong eleven of the Virginia Episcopal School. The first half ended with the score standing 0 to 0, but in the second half, owing to lack of a coach to hold the team together, we were scored on several times and the game ended 19 to 0. On Saturday, December 7th, the strong Lynchburg team arrived in the Magic City with high hopes, but were easily crushed by a score of 25 to 6. This ended our schedule but owing to Blacksburg's challenge for a game, we went to Blacksburg to play for the State Championship, but after splashing around in the mud and water for an hour, the game ended, neither team having gained any satisfaction as no one had scored. This only served to heighten the rivalry between the two schools, so on New Year's Day Blacksburg came here fully expecting to carry off the State Championship, but were sorely disappointed, returning home hanging on to the little end of a 7 to 0 score. This proved to be one of the most successful seasons in many years, having lost only one out of six games, which gave us the State Championship.

WE were able to schedule but five games this year owing to the influenza epidemic, and, although we won only one of the five games, our team really did better work than these scores indicate. Captain Sheahan was the only letter man back. The rest of the material being comparatively new, and having no coach to rouse this material into shape, we could not be expected to turn out a championship team.

In our first game with Lynchburg we held them to a low score and in our second game with Danville we defeated them; but after that everything went the other way. Danville beat us in a return game and Lynchburg and R.-M. A. defeated us by large scores.

Every man on the team played good ball and these defeats were brought about solely by the lack of a coach. It is hoped that in the future R. H. S. may have a coach for this branch of her athletics.

GIRLS' BASKET-BALL TEAM

I HAVE had a varied career and have traveled many miles. Both boys and girls have loved me, and many people have praised me. I have shared their sorrows and joys, for I was the real cause. Boys have said things to me, things that boys only can say. Girls have gently caressed me when I have pleased them. Many times have I fought, many times gained the victory, and have been cheered loudly. Other times, I have been tossed aside for another somewhat like me, for you must know that I reign only a part of each year. However, I am not forgotten by those who love me. My record is an enviable one, and is known far and wide. Do you know who I am?

I am an R. H. S. Basket-Ball.

IRVING OVERSTREET, '19.

Girls' Basket-Ball Team, 1918-19

THE TEAM

PLEASE do not think that this little opening paragraph is an apology, for it certainly is not—the girls on this team have nothing to be ashamed of in their basket-ball season. To outsiders, the season might appear to be a failure but to one who has experienced the trials and tribulations of any organization struggling to get along without a leader, will readily say that this team was not a failure but a great success. We did not have a coach, that is the beginning and end of our troubles. Some thought that we would find it difficult to obtain games, but I tell you—they were mistaken, every school in this State was proud to play Roanoke, why they even thought it an honor to be defeated by the "Magic City Team."

Our first game was with Bluefield and to tell a little secret—we had great hopes of winning that game until two days before it was to happen, when our star forward suddenly decided to have an attack of appendicitis—of course we don't blame her, but we did think the appendicitis should have waited until after our first game anyway. Those West Virginians evidently had the same hopes that we did, without the appendicitis, so they won the game. It was a hard-fought battle. Every "man" did her best. Miss Mundy was the lucky one, who made first goal for Roanoke.

MISS MUNDY THROWS THE FIRST GOAL

We are a mighty accommodating bunch of girls. Now that is not bragging, but just the honest truth. Blacksburg, who has been accustomed to play on the big V. P. I. floor with all those "kadets" to cheer them on, heard about the fame of Roanoke's team and they began to get nervous for they knew they wouldn't have a bit of chance on our little floor so they asked us to play them at the City Auditorium the same night that Blacksburg played U. N. C. We would rather lose the game than refuse them such a little favor, so we agreed, for we did feel sorry for those poor little Blacksburg girls. So they came, bringing with them their band and their "kadets." They felt right at home while we were very much at a disadvantage—never having practiced on so large a floor. The game certainly was an exciting one—the score at the end of the first half being 0 to 0—and what we lacked in goal shooting, we sure made up in pass work. Miss Stevens, the star of the occasion, made the first and last goal for Roanoke.

Charlottesville came to see us next, and that is the climax of our career. If Charlottesville was not the most skilled team we played it certainly was the roughest and the game was one continuous fight, and our forwards put the ball in the baskets more times than the opposing forwards and the result was a victory for "US." We sympathized with the Charlottesville players and did our best to make them forget their defeat. We liked the Charlottesville girls better than any teams we have played so far. All the players shone in this game. Our hopes rose, and we looked forward to our next game with Blacksburg with vengeance in our eyes.

We played Blacksburg there on Saturday night. Now Saturday night always was an unlucky time for us. No need to say that we were not "shaky" when we got on that big slick floor for we were, but when the whistle blew our strength returned and Stevens shot a goal. Gleaves, our "star" of all games, did great pass work, and Comer, our faithful stand-by, led Miss Alice Hoge a hard chase, but we are a plucky bunch and danced away all our grief after the game to the music of "The Last Chord Orchestra."

THE ONLY WAY MISS COLEMAN COULD KEEP UP WITH MISS KESLER AT BLACKSBURG

Our next two games were with Lynchburg and Charlottesville. Although we did not win the game with Lynchburg, the team did better work as a whole than in any other game, and we were very much encouraged when we started for Charlottesville the next morning. Our entire team did good work until the very end of the game, but Charlottesville must have been a little better for they carried off the colors, and we, for the second time, had to dance away our sorrows.

OUR LITTLE CENTER TERRY AT LAST MEETS HER SUPERIOR AT CHARLOTTESVILLE

"All's well that ends well." If that old saying holds true, our season was a great success, for it did end well. Our last game was played here with

Lynchburg. It was the most exciting game of the season, the score being 12 to 14 in favor of "R. H. S." Every player was at her best, Miss Stevens making the two goals the last two minutes of the game. We've changed our minds, we like the Lynchburg girls best now. They know how to take a defeat and so do we—from experience.

AFTER THE LYNCHBURG GAME: "HAPPY, THAT'S US ALL OVER."

HARRY NASH (looking at the Annual dummy)—"Isn't this blank verse beautiful!"

HARRY NASH—"Mary and I had a good time posing. Every time we got closer together. I want to keep on posing."

GEORGE PETERS—"If this Annual doesn't soon go to press, I'm going to 'kick the bucket'."

EMMA TINSLEY—"Do you think your feet will be able?"

GEORGE PETERS—"I think I'll take Emma Tinsley to the Annual Board dance to-night."

SENIOR—"Emma has a car."

GEORGE—"She's the girl for me. She'll save my feet."

The Senior colors are green and gold. A "certain boy" gives Emma the green ribbon and keeps for himself the gold. He then "ties the knot" of the green and gold. Looks at "Em." Emma in greatest excitement exclaims: "Oh! I see, I'm green and you're yellow!"

BASEBALL TEAM

Baseball

OUR season opened with a game with the Greenbrier Military Institute at Greenbrier. This was a fast game in which Greenbrier had the edge on us slightly, but in which we fought through the ninth inning. The final score being 3 to 2.

For our next game we journeyed to the City of Buchanan where we swamped the strong High School team to the tune of 12 to 2.

Martinsville arrived in Roanoke the following Saturday, supported by a number of rooters and a few Roanoke girls (?). We defeated this aggregation 13 to 0.

Wytheville was next on our list and when their first two men swatted out two base hits, we began to feel shaky. However, this was soon overcome, and we began to leave them behind, the game ending 14 to 1 in favor of Roanoke.

Our last game was with the Virginia Episcopal School at Lynchburg, where we were defeated by a 4 to 1 score.

This was a very successful season for our team in spite of the fact that only five games were secured. We defeated all of the High School teams which we played and made a very creditable showing among the prep schools. Much of the success of this team was due to the good work of Captain Sheahan.

Track Record

THE track team this year made an exceptionally good record for itself in spite of the fact that it was made up largely of new material. It was only possible to attend one meet which was held at the University of Virginia under the auspices of that institution. We carried off fifth place in this meet which gave us the State High School Championship, those placing before us being preparatory schools. Williamson was the outstanding point winner for Roanoke, making  $8\frac{1}{3}$  points. Our relay team composed of White, Goodwin, Foster, and Philpotts, also carried away the high school honors.

JOKES

JOKES

---

Science Class:

MRS. SMITH—"What is the highest form of animal life?"

CHARLIE GLEAVES—"A giraffe!"

Having basket-ball pictures taken for Annual:

MR. COLE—"I want all you girls now to look happy but Miss Gleaves, I want you to have a 'Teny' smile."

MISS H.—"What does 'courted death' mean?"

BUS REID—"Flirting with Oakey!"

WILLIE HAYES—"Who, Lucy?"

Virginia Wiltsee was absent:

MR. McDONALD—"Bus, why is Miss Wiltsee absent?"

Miss Hayward, doing police duty in Study Hall:

BRIGHT SENIOR—"Miss Hayward may I get Mr. Phelps in your place?"

MR. PARSONS—"I can switch the teachers around to suit myself."

SARAH ROBERTSON (to Elizabeth Hill)—"I wish he'd switch the teachers around to suit the pupils."

MR. McDONALD—"Why do you keep a film in the dark?"

VIRGINIA BLOXTON—"So it won't get in the light."

MR. McDONALD—"Why do we pour water on fire?"

JOHN CURE—"Because it's wet."

MRS. SMITH (arranging her roll)—"Are there any P's in here?"

"Yes'm. Price, Profit."

"Any Gaines?"

During the Flu epidemic children were excluded from the theatre. A young fellow took Judith Junkin to the Roanoke and when he went to buy the tickets, the ticket seller asked, "How old is the little child with you?"

MISS BEEBEE—"I thought every one at H. S. were perfect ladies and gentlemen until I came over."

Emma Tinsley enters a music store. The clerk comes up.

EMMA T.—"Have you 'Forgotten?'"

CLERK—"You?"

EMMA T.—"Oh, I don't want 'You,' I want 'Forgotten'."

Continuing her journey to a meat shop she says to the butcher—"Have you any brains?"

BUTCHER—"Yes, ma'am, I wouldn't be here if I didn't."

EMMA T.—"I want a half pound, please."

BUTCHER—"But madam, they're not for sale."

On entering a book store she says: "Have you any of Lamb's Tales?"

CLERK—"This is not the fur department."

MR. PARSONS (in S. H.)—"The only difference in the new schedule is a complete change! ! !"

MR. PARSONS (in Chapel)—"We will now sing 'Till We Meet Again'."

CHARLES GLEAVES—"How much have you cut my deportment this month?"

MRS. SMITH—"Oh, I didn't get a chance at it. By the time the other teachers finished with it, there wasn't any left for me to cut."

MR. LAYMAN, after calling Carter Sonn's name, remarked: "That's the first time I ever heard of any one being both a son and a daughter."

MISS CURE—"What is a conductor?"

PARROCK—"A nickel grabber."

MR. VIAUD—"Miss Coleman, where do you live?" (in French)

THURNA—"I live on Jefferson Street."

MR. VIAUD—"Oh! So you live on the streets?"

PUPIL—"Is studying working?"

TEACHER—"Yes."

PUPIL—"But nothing is moving."

TEACHER—"Yes, but ignorance is moved away and knowledge is substituted."

In French class:

MR. VIAUD—"Bonjour, Monsieur!"

SURFACE—"Bonjour, Mademoiselle!"

CAR. H.—"What is that pin you have on?"

LIZ. H.—"Oh, it is a memory pin."

CAR. H. (ignorantly)—"I never had heard that you were dead."

GEORGE PETERS—"I wish I was rich."

IRVING OVERSTREET—"So do I. Say, George, let's get rich together."

MRS. CREIGHTON (to a lady friend)—"William is getting to be quite a man now. His father let him have the front door key the other night and he stayed out until 8:30."

MR. McDONALD—"Harry, can you come to class the 7th period instead of the 6th?"

HARRY—"No, Sir."

MR. McDONALD—"Miss Kerr you will be able to come, will you not?"

MABEL—"Yes, Sir."

HARRY—"Say, Mr. McDonald, I forgot; I'll be there."

LUCILLE GARRETT—"Virginia, why are you interlacing that twine about your fingers?"

VIRGINIA WILTSEE—"Oh, nothing, just putting barbed wire around "No Man's Land."

MISS CURE (in Physics class)—"Give us an example of rays."

P. MORGAN—"Cabarets."

JOHN CURE, in Shakespeare class after having taken hold of a young lady's hand, exclaims, "Oh, I've forgotten where I was now."

When a girl entered the room with her eyes cast up, Bill Williamson was heard to say: "What part of heaven did you come from?"

MARY DOUGLAS (in Shakespeare class)—"Rosalind fled to the Garden of Eden."

TEACHER—"I'm tempted to give this class a written lesson."

KITTY COLE—"Well, yield not to temptation."

BRIGHT RAT—"Was Columbus a barber?"

TEACHER—"I don't know, why?"

RAT—"Well, his father was a wool comber."

MISS CARLISLE—"What is a cotter?"

A. GLEAVES—"One who mends cots."

SALLIE BARKSDALE, on being asked to take a spin: "We toil not neither do we spin."

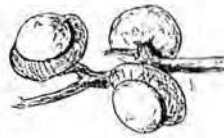

MISS HAYWARD, the day before Exams: "Now students, please come with clean heads."

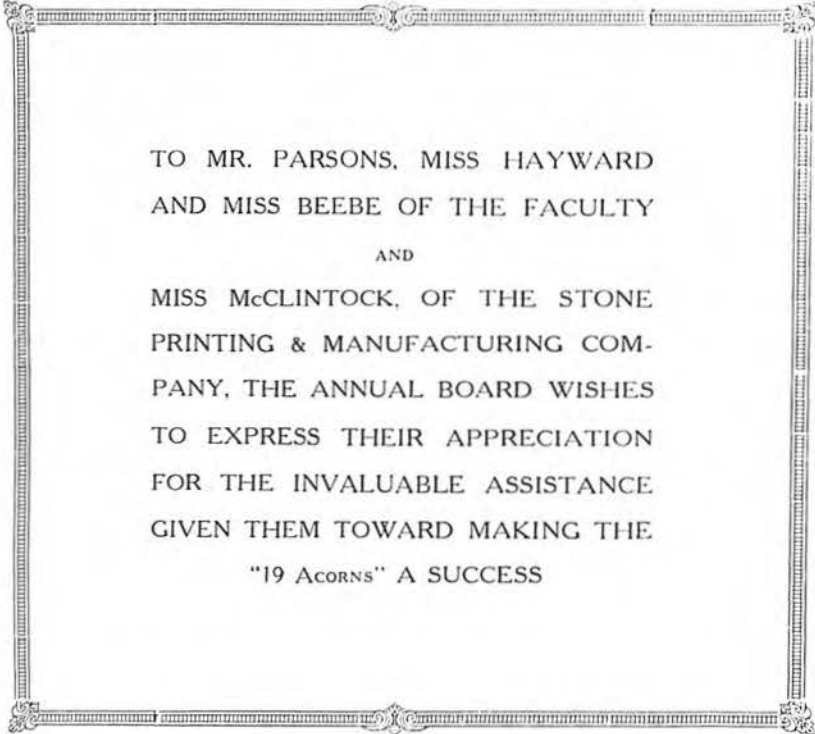

JOHN GODBEY—"What does Turkey Gin come from?"

MRS. SMITH—"Ask some one who knows. Go to Mr. Parsons."

MISS FUNKHOUSER (in Geometry class)—"Why have I such a big class this period?"

PUPILS—"Mr. Phelps has the other one."

*In a quest for Ads.
 These shoes were worn,
 And as Roanoke street pads
 They may be known.*

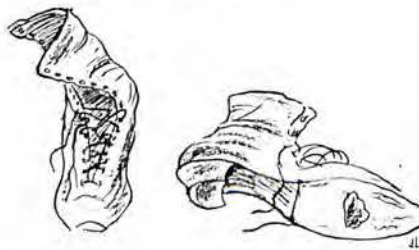

*'Twas the same story everywhere,
 "Money scarce, business poor."
 Each time the same—no variation there
 As stealthily we slid out the door.*

*So once more our weary feet
 The pavements would trace,
 A few Ads. to seek
 That success we might face.*

*The fight was hard, the marches dreary,
 A picture in your mind our struggle's drown
 As o'er the task we grew weary;
 But victory was our pawn.*

*And now that the battle is won,
 Do you think it anything small
 As over these pages you con
 To wear out shoes for an annual?*

In History class Mr. Layman was telling of the life of old England—"And it was a very easy life then, the slaves doing all the work."

SHOCKLEY—"I wouldn't have liked that, nothing to do all day."

"Don't be too sure about that," responded Mr. Layman, "you might have been one of the slaves."

EWIN PARSONS—"Pop, what is an echo?"

POP (with a look at Mrs. Parsons)—"An echo my son is the only thing that keeps a woman from having the last word."

MISS BEEBE—"Pruden, do you know your history?"

PRUDEN—"No, I cannot repeat a word of it."

MISS BEEBE—"Why?"

PRUDEN—"What is the use? I have always heard that history repeats itself."

WALTER YOUNG (at a turkey dinner) :

HOST—"What part of turkey do you like best?"

YOUNG—"Why—er—the Harem!"

Bus Reid had on some exceedingly loud socks one morning, and J. Davenport was casting envious eyes at them. Finally, he said: "Reid, those socks would make a nigger envious."

Discussing girls in 2B History class, E. Keffer said that a girl was not responsible for her actions when a good-looking man passed. "O Ernest," replied Miss Calfee, "you must be a lady killer."

Bob McClanahan was at a dance and had just finished his ice-cream when the hostess asked him to dance with a beautiful young dame who had no partner.

BOB—"Wait just a minute till I wipe this ice-cream off my mouth, I don't want to smear it on the young lady's face."

Getting Ahead!

This one did — This one didn't

Two High School graduates start out together, alike in appearance, personality, and prospects. The first realizes the need of special commercial training. The second says he will get his in the School of Experience. While one is struggling with the fundamentals of business as an apprentice at a small salary, the other is rapidly pushing himself ahead to a position of trust and responsibility.

We are on the threshold of a new educational era. Reconstruction will demand that you be competent to do the practical work of the nation. The war left the Business College standing in the forefront as the great exponent of practical and efficient vocational schooling.

DO YOU KNOW—

That scores of ambitious young men and women have defrayed their entire expenses through college by means of a Business Education?

That a knowledge of Shorthand and Typewriting will enable you to do your college work in a more satisfactory manner by getting lectures and addresses verbatim?

That you will have every advantage over the young man and woman who lacks this special knowledge?

THREE MONTHS FOR THE COST OF ONE

Roanoke High School graduates have a peculiar advantage as a result of having one of the leading business colleges of the country in their home town. They can attend the National Business College three months for what it costs an out-of-town student to attend one month. Business men frequently ask if we have a Roanoke High School graduate who has completed stenography or bookkeeping. They see in you a future manager or executive.

But remember that Shorthand, Touch Typewriting, Bookkeeping, Accounting, and Banking are the stepping-stones by which you are expected to reach these more responsible positions.

The Career Courses, as taught in this Institution, are approved by the United States Government Bureau of Education. These courses are also approved by business men everywhere who know and appreciate the services of competent and efficient assistants.

We want you to have a copy of our catalog and view book. It contains many valuable suggestions. It will tell you why thousands of young people with a National Business College training are "Getting Ahead." Write to-day for a copy, or call at the office and get it.

ROANOKE NATIONAL BUSINESS COLLEGE, Roanoke, Va.
