Business: The group's principal activities are to develop and market nanocrystalline materials. Nanocrystalline materials generally are made of particles that are less than 100 nanometers (billionths of a meter) in diameter. When the structural features are sized between individual molecules and bulk materials, the range of about 10 to 100 nanometers, the objects display physical attributes different from those found in bulk materials. Thus nanomaterials enable to enhance material properties and devise functions beyond those normally found in a material. The products consist of coated materials and uncoated materials. Coated material includes ingredients for sunscreens and uncoated materials includes ingredients for personal care applications, anti-fungal aids, automotive catalytic converters and abrasion-resistant flooring. E products are sold to domestic and international markets. Its largest customer is basf corporation.

Business: The group's principal activity is to develop and sell electronic devices for the location services market. The group is a development stage company. The products are made from several dozen or more semiconductor chips mounted on small boards and sold as complete products. These products are designed to provide the product user with information regarding the unit's current location. Some of the products report this information back to central locations and people or objects in the field can be tracked as they move from place to place. Many of the location products use global positioning systems technology commonly referred to as gps technology. Prior to 2002 the group was into research and development.

Business: The group's principal activity is to provide a portfolio of technologies and expertise for pharmaceutical partners to improve drug. The technologies are designed to improve either the performance of a drug molecule or how the drug is delivered. The group operates in three technology platforms. Advanced pegylation technology is designed to enhance the efficacy and performance of most drug classes including macromolecules such as peptides and proteins along with small molecules and other drugs. Pulmonary technology enables the efficient and reproducible deep lung delivery of particles and greater lung deposition in a single breath. Supercritical fluid technology uses substances such as carbon dioxide at elevated temperatures and pressures as non-solvents to control the formation of powder particles for a wide variety of chemical substances. The group has international operations in the United Kingdom and other European countries.

Business: The group's principal activity is to develop products for targeted delivery of anti-cancer agents, including radiopharmaceuticals, to tumor sites. The group's product strtm (skeletal targeted radiotherapy) is developed to treat multiple myeloma, a cancer of the body's antibody-producing cells originating in the bone marrow. This reduces exposure of healthy tissues other than bone to the potentially toxic effects of the radiation. The group's str product consists of a bone-seeking molecule called dotmp, which deposits the radioactive substance, holmium-166, in the skeleton. The operations are carried on in the United States.

Business: The group's principal activities are to offer cremation services and products related to cremation services. The group markets and administers pre-need and at-need cremation services in the states of California, Florida, Iowa, New York, Oregon, Colorado and Washington. Pre-need program is designed to eliminate as much of the emotional and financial burden as possible for the individuals' heirs and successors. Pre-need program allows individuals to pre-arrange simple and basic cremation services at a guaranteed fixed price by entering into a pre-need contract. At-need program provides a full range of cremation services and merchandise and care for all aspects of the deceased's cremation needs according to the decisions and plans of the decedent's heirs, including service planning, optional services for scattering remains, and delivery of ashes to family members.

Business: The group's principal activity is to provide voice over Internet protocol (voip) telephony products and services. It's products and services are marketed through three units: international communications services, domestic retail services and broadband telephony solutions. It's largest customers are located in Middle East, Asia and Latin America. The international communications services unit markets international long distance solutions utilizing voip technology. The domestic retail services unit sells voip minutes via both disposable and rechargeable calling cards primarily to consumers in the United States. The broadband telephony solutions unit provides cable operators with a fully outsourced end-to-end telecommunications solution utilizing existing high speed cable data networks and access into consumers' homes provided by the cable operator via cable modems.

Business: The company's principal activities are to acquire, develop, license and protect intellectual property. The products are designed to prevent unauthorized access to critical information residing on networked servers, desktops and laptops. The company's cyberwallplus family of security software combines the benefits of firewall and intrusion detection technology. It completed the sale of its cyberwallplus technology and related intellectual property in may 2003. On 18-Nov-2003, it acquired a portfolio of telecommunications and data networking patents (the 'patent portfolio'). The patent portfolio consists of six patents issued by the U.S. Patent office that relate to various telecommunications and data networking technologies. It provides the transmission of audio, video and data over computer and telephony networks and the delivery of power over ethernet network. The company is currently pursuing licensing opportunities related to its patent portfolio technologies.

Business: The company's principal activity is the development of drugs. The company is in the development stages and is conducting clinical evaluation and regulatory approval of neuroscience drugs. Its strategy is to in-license and develop early-stage and later-stage drug candidates that target major medical needs and can be commercialized. Currently, the company has two product candidates: memantine and xerecept (TM). Memantine is an orally dosed compound that helps in restoring the function of impaired neurons. Xerecept is applied for the treatment of brain swelling due to brain tumors. The company seeks partnerships with pharmaceutical and biotechnology companies to complete development and marketing of its product candidates. On 15-Jul-2004, the company acquired empire pharmaceuticals inc.

Business: The group's principal activity is to develop new content telecommunications technologies. The group operates in two segments: telecommunications and entertainment. The telecommunications segment develops semiconductor technology that allows data to be transmitted at greater speeds over longer distances using regular copper telephone wire. Its technology is designed to increase the capacity of the copper telephone network, allowing telephone companies to provide enhanced video, data and voice services over the existing copper telecommunications infrastructure. The entertainment segment produces motion pictures, films and videos. Artisan pictures distribute the films mainly in the United States and Canada.

Business: The group's principal activity is to conduct research and develop a technology known as glycosylated cystatins and non-glycosylated cystatins. Cystatins are proteins that tightly bind and inhibit the harmful effects of cysteine proteases. Cysteine proteases, also known as cysteine proteases, actively degrade proteins and detrimentally affect human health by facilitating diseases and food spoilage. Glycosylated cystatin enhances activity and stability against heating and proteolysis. Non-glycosylated cystatin only enhances activity and stability and not against heating and proteolysis. Proteolysis is the process by which to degrade protein or peptides by hydrolyzing the peptide bond. The group is a development stage company.

Business: The group's principal activity is to provide computer network and management solutions via satellite communication. The group has two products: ossi comsecure(c) and ossi satscure(c) surveillance system. The comsecure(c) controller is designed to give a global network enterprise full control of all traffic, devices and subscribers within an ip network. It breaks the network processing bottleneck and increases total performance. The satscure(c) surveillance system can use a variety of communication channels such as isdn, ip, pstn (public switched telephone networks), inmarsat satphones (64 kbps) and gsm phones (9.6 kbps) to transfer and remotely control video, audio, alarm/sensor and data between two units at different locations. On 24-Nov-2003, the group acquired orion security services inc. During the year the group sold its tobacco operations to American Indian cigco, llc.

Business: The group's principal activities are to distribute gas, transport containerized freight in the bahamas and Caribbean region and provide energy related products and services. The group also provides natural gas storage and transmission-related services to marketers, other gas distribution companies and electric power-generation facilities. The operations are carried on in three segments: gas distribution; shipping and other energy ventures. The gas distribution segment serves nearly 2 million customers in a service territory that covers most of the northern third of Illinois, excluding the city of Chicago. The shipping segment transports containerized freight between east coast of the United States and Canada to the Caribbean region. Other energy ventures provide products and services that meet customers' energy needs.

Anti-counterfeiting and anti-diversion technologies have the ability to print invisibly on certain areas of a document. This technology is marketed under the trademark copimark(tm). The company's rub & reveal(R) system permits the invisible printing of an authenticating symbol or code that can be revealed by rubbing a fingernail over the printed area. Document security products include a line of burgundy colored papers that deter photocopying and transmission by facsimile. It offers user defined, pre-printed forms selective nocopi(tm), several inks that impede photocopying by color copiers colorloc(r). In addition, it distributes pantograph security paper copi-alert. In 2003, the group developed removable dyes under the name rub-n-color. Products of the group are marketed in the United States and Europe.

Business: The company's principal activity is to provide consulting services in connection with product development for various pharmaceutical companies. The company also develops novel application drug delivery systems for marketed prescription and over-the-counter therapeutics. The company's delivery systems are lingual sprays capsules which enables drug absorption through the oral mucosa and more rapid absorption into the bloodstream. The delivery of a therapeutic agent through the oral mucosa leads to a faster onset of action and avoids degradation in the gastrointestinal tract and liver.

Business: The group's principal activity is to supply carbon dioxide to retail establishments for use in the carbonation and dispensing of fountain beverages. The group installs stationary bulk carbon dioxide system on the customer's site and also provides routine filling of the system with bulk carbon dioxide. Bulk carbon dioxide involves delivery of carbon dioxide in its liquid form, which is then converted to gaseous form, the necessary ingredient for beverage carbonation. The group currently has 108 service locations and approximately 82,000 bulk and high-pressure carbon dioxide customers in 45 states, providing bulk carbon dioxide systems ranging from 300 to 600 lbs. The group markets these products under the trademark nuco2 (r). The group's customers include major national and regional restaurant and convenience store chains, movie theater operators, theme parks, resorts and sports venues.

Business: The group's principal activity is to provide a comprehensive weight management program, consisting of support for dieters and a pre-packaged food program. Online support for dieters include individualized diet and exercise plans, online counselling, support groups, bulletin boards and chat rooms. The group also provides relevant information on diet, nutrition, exercise and well being, provided on the Web site and in a weekly newsletter. The group's program allows members to participate conveniently and privately from their own homes or offices. The group currently offers menu customization from over 100 food selections, which have been developed under the guidance of its team of registered nutritionists. The group's pre-packaged foods are now sold to weight loss program participants through the Internet, qvc, independent distributors and the remaining franchised weight loss centers.

Business: The group's principal activities are to develop and market clinically substantiated proprietary nutritional products. It operates in two segments, nutritional products and pharmaceutical products while the products are categorized as ingredients and consumer products. Ingredients are proprietary essential trace elements, sold to vitamin and nutritional supplement manufacturers, wholesalers and consumers. They include the chromax (TM) chromium picolinate, a form of the trace mineral chromium. The group is also developing forms of other minerals such as calcium taurate, arginine silicate, magnesium taurate and others. Consumer products consist of applications for the proprietary ingredients. Lite bites(R) is the primary brand of the line and is sold on the qvc television network.

Business: The group's principal activity is to design, develop and market products for the surgical treatment of spine disorders. The group's principal product offering includes a minimally invasive surgical platform called maximum access surgery (mas), as well as classic fusion products. Mas combines three of its current product offerings-neurovision, a proprietary software-driven nerve avoidance system, maxcess, a split blade-design minimally invasive surgical system and specialized implants-that collectively minimize soft tissue disruption during spine surgery. It provides a surgeon with enhanced visibility and access to the spine for fusion. The group's also offers a portfolio of classic fusion products, including spine allografts and spine implants such as rods, plates and screws that are necessary for a variety of spine surgery procedures. The group became publicly held on 12-May-2004.

Business: The group's principal activity is to develop, produce and distribute components that combine giant magnetoresistance(gmr) materials with integrated circuits. The products of the group include sensors, isolators and magnetoresistive computer memory technology ("mram"). Sensors are combined with integrated circuits deposited in layers to form magnetic field. Isolators eliminate ground noise in communication and are commonly used in communication networks. Magnetoresistive computer memory technology is a nonvolatile memory where the data is stored in the magnetism of thin films of iron, nickel and cobalt and then recovered through the magnetoresistive properties.
