Business: The group's principal activities are to develop multiple proprietary gene delivery and gene expression systems and pegylation technologies and apply our preclinical and early clinical development expertise to create novel therapeutics and improved versions of currently marketed biopharmaceuticals. The group focuses on research, preclinical and early stage clinical development of products in several therapeutic areas including cardiovascular disorders, oncology, haematology and immunology. The group has three product platforms for the development of novel therapeutics namely the gene medicine, geneswitch(R) and dna vaccine platforms. The gene medicine platform includes a comprehensive array of proprietary nucleic acid delivery systems. Geneswitch(R) platform controls erythropoietin protein production from an injected gene by orally administered drug. Synthetic vaccine delivery systems provide consistent levels of gene expression and enhance efficiency of plasmid.

Business: The group's principal activity is designing, manufacturing and selling medical devices. Its core business consists of bipolar electrosurgical generators and related instrumentation based on its proprietary dualwave(tm) technology. The technology uses two waveforms to perform bipolar cutting of tissue and bipolar coagulation. It is designed to replace the systems in other surgical tools such as monopolar systems, lasers and conventional scalpels used in soft tissue surgery. The disposable instruments are used with the bipolar electrosurgical generators for hospital and office procedures in the field of neurosurgery, dentistry and plastic surgery. They are manufactured at the group's facilities in philadelphia and are marketed worldwide by codman and shurtleff inc and bident international llc. The group also manufactures titanium surgical mesh for repair of the skull and a natural dental preparation for healing and lessening post surgical discomfort.

Business: The group's principal activities are to design, manufacture and market devices that allow interventional cardiologists and radiologists to seal percutaneous access sites from blood clots. The group's products are the vascular solutions duett(tm) sealing device and the d-stat(tm) flowable hemostat. The vascular solutions duett enables cardiologists and radiologists to rapidly seal the puncture site after catheterization procedures such as angiography, angioplasty and stenting. The d-stat(tm) flowable hemostat enables interventional physicians to seal less-challenging access sites following the removal of sheaths and tubes used in a variety of procedures, such as hemodialysis, electrophysiology and radial arterial access procedures. The products are marketed in Norway, Italy, Austria, the United Kingdom, Ireland, Denmark, Switzerland, Finland, Sweden, Greece, Belgium, Spain, the Netherlands and Portugal.

Business: The group's principal activity is to design, manufacture, market and support ecep external counterpulsation system. The system is a microprocessor-based medical device for the non-invasive, outpatient treatment of patients with cardiovascular disease. The device is used in cases of angina, carcinogenic shock, acute myocardial infarction and most recently, congestive heart failure (CHF). It delivers a retrograde arterial pressure wave to the heart, increasing coronary perfusion and reducing ventricular after load. The therapy serves to increase circulation in areas of the heart with less than adequate blood supply and restores systemic vascular function. The products of the group are sold to treatment providers in the United States through a direct sales force.

Business: The group's principal activities are to provide geophysical services to the oil and gas industry worldwide. The group acquires, processes and interprets geophysical data and produces geophysical surveys that are either 2d or 3D images of the subsurface geology in the survey area. It also produces 4d surveys, which records fluid movement in the reservoir, by repeating specific 3D surveys over time. The geophysical technologies are used to identify new areas where subsurface conditions are favorable for the production of hydrocarbons, determine the size and structure for previously identified oil and gas fields and to optimize development and production of hydrocarbon reserves. The group operates in the United States, Canada, Latin America, Europe and Asia-Pacific countries.

Business: The primary activity of the group is production of oil and natural gas. They have offices in Netherland, Canada, France and Australia. Vermilions operations in France are focused in two core areas, the Paris Basin approximately 60km east of Paris and the Aquitaine Basin, located 90km southwest of Bordeaux. The company continues to actively drill in the Paris Basin, adding four wells in 2005 in the Champotran/La Torche field. Average production per well is approximately 180 barrels per day of light sweet crude. The group has drilled over thirty wells in this area since acquiring these assets in 1997 and has plans to drill three to five additional wells here in 2006. The Trust is also completing a new 2-D seismic program over this concession to further delineate the boundaries of this reservoir. Offshore southwest France in the Bay of Biscay, the company has completed a seismic program covering its Aquitaine Maritime exploration concession. Following the processing of this seismic, the Trust and its partner in this concession, Verenex Energy Inc., will be pursue potential farm-in candidates to drill on these world class targets. The group acquired production in the Netherlands in May 2004, the group has installed small diameter production tubing strings in sixteen wells to enhance the ability of these wells to unload fluids. These installations have stabilized the deliverability from these wells, eliminating the need to cycle production. This work has also added approximately 300 boe/d to the production base. The group has also worked toward improving the efficiency of surface gathering and processing facilities, and is installing a new compressor at Harlingen to replace a much larger, maintenance intensive unit. On October 21, 2005, the group announced an agreement to acquire its partner in this venture, providing the Trust with full control of over 100,000 acres of prospective lands and over 450 additional drilling locations. Production from these properties is expected to reach 2,600 boe/d in the first quarter of 2006 from approximately 85 wells. is planning to drill up to six pilot infill wells in the Drayton Valley area to determine the feasibility of downspacing the tight gas reservoirs in an area in which the Trust holds a significant land position. The group is also exploring means to optimize recoveries from its main oil producing field at Utikuma in the Slave Lake area.

Business: The group does not have an active operating business at the end of year 2002. On 13-Mar-2002, the group acquired certain property and equipment and a license to certain intellectual property to produce salmon caviar and salmon caviar-related products. In contemplation of the acquisition, the group incorporated a wholly owned subsidiary, golden caviar corp on 15-Feb-2002 to operate the caviar business. The processing and sale of caviar and caviar-related products was the group's primary business from late Mar 2002 until Jun 2002. The group terminated its involvement in the caviar business, returned remaining assets and settled liabilities of the caviar business, became inactive and began the search for new business opportunities.

Business: The group's principal activities are to develop asymmetric products and technology for the life sciences industry. The group has two main lines of products and services - proprietary chiral catalysts and chiral building blocks or client-defined molecules. The products are used in pharmaceuticals, producing fine chemicals other than pharmaceuticals - chiral molecules are used in flavors, fragrances, agrochemicals, animal health, food and feed additives (including vitamins) and nutraceuticals. It also develops and makes client-defined building blocks and drug candidate fragments, mainly in the chiral area, which develops new synthetic routes or optimizes existing ones and produce certain quantities of material for further processing at the clients' needs. The group has license to 13 United States patent applications.

Business: The group is engaged biopharmaceutical activities advancing a new generation of monoclonal antibody therapeutics designed to offer safer, more beneficial therapies for cancer patients. The company's Hybridomics, ImmunoMine, and UnLock platforms enable them to rapidly discover novel cancer drug targets and validate the potential of its monoclonal antibodies to deliver potent payloads directly to cancer cells. The group's fully integrated technology platform is based upon the isolation of human monoclonal antibodies from cancer patients and their subsequent development as Armed Antibodies, delivering cancer-killing payloads directly to cancer cells. The group's lead product candidate is Proxinium and several other product candidates are in pre-clinical development. Proxinium, a targeted therapeutic consisting of a proprietary antibody fragment conjugated with a cancer-killing payload. Proxinium targets a cell surface protein found on most head and neck cancers and has been designed to deliver a therapeutically potent anti-cancer payload directly to tumors, avoiding healthy, normal tissue. In February, 2005, the company announced that its lead drug candidate, Proxinium has been granted orphan drug designation from the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) for the treatment of advanced, recurrent head and neck cancer. The Canadian group's corporate head office recently relocated to Mississauga, Ontario and the GMP Manufacturing, research development and operations campus is located in Winnipeg, Canada.

Business: The company has discontinued its business of providing specialized industrial cleaning and other services to divisions and facilities of Fortune 500 companies and other substantial businesses engaged in heavy industry. Effective Jan 1999 substantially all of the assets of the company were sold to, and substantially all liabilities were assumed by, hydrochem industrial services, inc. The company's current operations consist only of the sale itself, distribution of the proceeds of the sale and other transactions related to winding down the operations of the company. The company will not have any business operations in the future other than those associated with the winding up and dissolution of the company, including the distribution of any escrow funds released to the company. Prior to 1999, services provided by the company generally involved the removal of industrial grime, deposits, wastes, encrustations or coatings from equipment and facilities.
