Defense attorney Charles Campbell said he will appeal Crawford's second-degree murder conviction in the killing of Shirley Ann Harris, 28.

"Maybe now we can go on with our lives," said Jerry Massey, Harris' brother.

'We expected him to get a lot of (prison) time. The case was mostly circumstantial evidence but there was so much of it," Massey said in the corridor as several family members and friends of Harris left the

Crawford was charged with open murder for strangling Harris with a piece of clothesline at the home they shared in the 2000 block of Steiber.

THE COURT heard testimony from a dozen witnesses, including Terri Smirnow of Plymouth, who was also involved in a romantic relationship with Crawford at the time of the killing.

Smirnow testified that Crawford left her home with two companions earlier that evening and then told her about the incident in a 4 a.m. telephone conversation.

City rejects condo project

By Tedd Schneider staff writer

Citing continued environmental concerns, the Westland City Council Monday rejected for the second time in three months a proposed condominium project bordering the William P. Holliday nature preserve.

The council voted 4-3 to deny a Planned Unit Development (PUD) for Kime Brothers Homes of Westland to build 50 detached condominiums east of John Hix and west of Warren Road.

Developer Curtis Kime had revised_plans_for_the_proposed project after the council rejected it

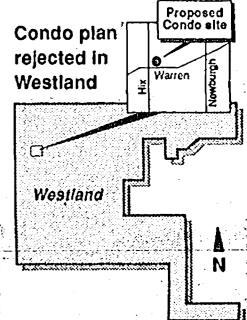

Kime refused to comment on the matter Tuesday. After the July vote the developer said he would "seriously consider" legal action against

The new site plan called for 12 fewer homes on larger lots and included five acres of wetland to be maintained in an agreement with the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

But concerns about development encroaching into the city's few remaining natural areas were voiced idents who spoke out against the project.

OTHER OBJECTIONS included a lack of notification on the second vote for nearby homeowners (which wasn't required) and Mayor Robert Thomas' 1989 campaign promise to advocate "controlled development" in Westland.

Thomas recommended approval

"This is a wildlife corridor, I still maintain that," said Jack Smiley, founder of the Holliday Nature Preserve Association. "(The area) provides a diversity of habitats."

In July and again Monday, Smiley said wildlife and flowers on the property would be irreparably harmed by the complex, despite the DNR approval. He said animals livby council members and several res- - ing on the 17.6-acre site immediatelysouth of the nature preserve included foxes, deer and amphibians.

"It hasn't even been a year (since Thomas' election) and now all of a sudden the last, biggest open parcel of land in the city is going to be chopped up for condominiums," said resident Michael Rintz.

Councilman Charles Pickering called the proposed development an

Teachers face possible strike vote Oct. 29

ART EMANUELE/stalf photographer

By Tedd Schnelder staff writer

Barring an 11th-hour agreement, Wayne-Westland teachers will meet Monday, Oct. 29 to vote on a possible strike, their union president said Tuesday.

William Reece, Wayne-Westland Education Association president, said the union could present any of three recommendations to 1,050 full- and part-time teachers who have been working without a contract since Aug. 27: Authorize a walkout

• Approve working this year without a contract while negotiations continue • Set a new timetable for reaching an agree-

Reece said he had no idea at this point what the union's bargaining committee would recommend. "Hopefully, we can get something accomplished (in negotiations) by then," he Both union and school officials reported progress in contract talks last week. Additional sessions were scheduled for Tuesday, Wednesday and today.

Reece characterized last week's talks as

-"HOPEFULLY, WE can reach agreements on some of the non-economic issues and get them off the table by the end of the week," he said Tuesday. Tom Syitkovich, associate superintendent for administration, also said recent sessions have been positive and both sides are working toward closure on a number of issues.

Salary and major fringe benefits haven't been a focus of talks up until now.

But Reece said Tuesday that although the union was "willing to be flexible" on pay raises, a pay freeze was "out of the question." "We just don't think that it's warranted," the union president said.

Superintendent Dennis O'Neill has maintained that the financially-strapped school district - which cut programs this fall - has no money for raises.

The union has been pressing for another millage election, a proposal school board members said they would only agree to if teachers reached a tentative agreement by Oct. 1.

Woman claims sex bias in football post denial

By Todd Schnelder staff writer

Margaret Zoltowski says she knows as much about football and possibly more about coaching than any of the five Wayne Memorial High School assistant coaches hired in May 1989.

But because she is a woman, Zoltowski says she "wasn't taken seriously" as a candidate for one of the assistants' lobs.

The Franklin Junior High special education teacher Friday filed a lawauit in Wayne County Circuit Court charging that Wayne-Westland Community Schools violated state sex discrimination laws when the district filled those jobs with five male applicants.

The suit has been assigned to Judge Michael Stacey. No trial date has been set.

"I can't imagine what else it was (other than discrimination)," Zoltowski sald Monday. "They only asked me very generic questions, nothing about football or my knowledge of the sport."

"THIS IS obviously a gross act of discrimination," said Peter Bundarin, Zoltówski's attorney. "Relating to the people they picked, you have to come back and say she would ter developing blases and prejudices,"

Ayyash said he respects incumbent Thomas Smith and that "he's done a good job as judge." But voters shouldn't be averse to making a change, he said.

THE MOST important qualities for a district judge are patience and a thorough knowledge of the law and court procedures, Ayyash said. Dis-trict courts are "the only avenue" for small civil cases, he said. .

"You have to remember that at the district level the people you encounter aren't just litigants, but people of the community. A judge must be able to listen to people, to deal with people who don't always have much knowledge about the law.

"He shouldn't shut them off." Too many district judges "ignore" court procedure, leading to inequitable decisions and crowded dockets, he said.

AYYASH SAID he had some difficulties with the city's decision to end plea bargain agreements for ordinance violations, a policy that drew public criticism earlier this month from Chief Judge Gail McKnight.

"Obviously, making a city policy is within their (elected officials') rights.

"I guess where I have a problem is when city officials - who are nonlawyers - start to impose their will on the prosecutor. That's not proper. "(Prosecution on violations) has, in my experience, been at the city attorney's discretion." Dropping plea bargain agreements could "end up costing thousands of dollars" and lead to unnecessary jury trials, Ayyash said.

AYYASH SPENT 18 months as assistant district attorney for the 35th

District Court (Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Canton Township, Northville. Northville Township), he said. During that time he worked on a special project with Judge James N. Garber to help clear cases outstanding for 30 months or more, he said.

He earned his law degree from Cooley Law School, Lansing, in 1986, after graduating from Michigan State University in 1983 with a backelor's degree in psychology and criminal justice, Ayyash said.

At Cooley, he served as vice president and then president of the Student Bar Association.

Haunted houses open for scary season

A silent, nameless monster stands motionless next to directional signs, posted outside a Halloween haunted house.

A backyard graveyard has one of its "residents" missing from his coffin home.

The scary season is here.

The Westland Jaycees and the Wayne-Westland Family Y, which serves Garden City, are operating their annual Halloween haunted houses between now and Oct. 31.

Starting tonight, the Y will have its haunted house open 6:30-10:30 p.m. weeknights and 6:30-11:30 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays.

The house will be open today and continue through Sunday and Thursday through Wednesday, Oct. 25-31. Admission is $2.50.

The Jaycees' haunted house will again be on the north side of Ford between Wayne Road and Newburgh, opposite Westland City Hall.

The Y's house will be in its barn on the east side of Wayne Road, one block south of Cherry Hill.

The Y will also hold a special Halloween party for youngsters between 6 and 12 Saturday, Oct. 27, at the Y's activities building.

There will be swimming, spooky food, costumes and judging, face painting, and a visit to the haunted house. The fun will start at 4 p.m. and end at 9 p.m.

There is a charge of $5 for Y members and $10 for non-members.

THE JAYCEES will have their house open 7-11 p.m. Sundays through Wednesdays and 7 p.m. to midnight Fridays and Saturdays. The ghosts and goblins will have Thursdays off.

Admission is $4 for adults and $3 for children and senior citizens.

The service chapter said proceeds will be used to help support a local food basket program, local and national charities, and community improvement.

Both groups use the haunted houses to raise money for their operations and community service pro-

Adam Moran and Erika Parsons thought they were safely out of the haunted house, but little did they know that a monster (really Ed Wransky) with a chainsaw (minus the chain) was chasing them from the rear of the Jaycees house.

Band director has new beat

While most guys dreamed of playing on the football team or basketball team when they were in high school, Norman Logan wanted to be a part of the band. Today he's more than a member, he's an instructor. The former 17-year band director and music teacher at Westland's John Glenn High School has a new adults up to West Branch for Band Camp back in the earlier part of the summer," he said. "It was a week filled with fun because the kids were great and had a lot of energy."

The members of the marching band at camp ranged in grades from 9-12. "There were all types of different ability levels," he said. "It was neat because the kids not only got to play music, but also had some social events that they got involved in."

WHEN ASKED if any odd things happened at camp, Logan laughed and said "but of course."

He said on one particular day some canoes "magically appeared in the girls bathroom."

He also said one of the nicer moments came when he got to take one of the students out for a special dinner.

About what he wants to do differently at Farmington High this year, he said, "I want to get some more spirit into the school."

That is nothing new for Logan who helped continue the Rocket Marching Band tradition at Glenn.

"It seems lately that the band only played until half time during the football season. Just because they weren't winning, they left the field. I want them to stay, have a good time and have some spirit." LOGAN, born in Dearborn, gradu-

"I love music and followed in my father's footsteps, but when it comes time to relax, I don't want to have anything to do with music " " Id.

Something's cooking with these students

By Janice Brunson staff writer

With an eye on gold, a team of select Schoolcraft College students is busy honing a winning technique for upcoming World Cup competition in Luxembourg.

The medium: cuisine. The particlpants: four culinary arts students. The challenge: genuine American fare, tastefully and artfully prepared.

"Functional, edible art work," reflective of traditional autumn foods is the goal, said master chef Jeff Gabrief of the proposed entries in two areas of student competition, the five-course-meal and platter-for-

Gabriel, an award-winning chef who manages Schoolcraft's American Harvest gourmet restaurant is preparing the team for competition, assisted by Schoolcraft executive chef Mary Brady who is serving as team captain.

Students, each selected from earlier qualifying cook-offs for culinary know-how, artistic flair and the ability to work with others, are Shawn Loving, Kim Larson, Don Bargo and Pam Ford.

"Lots of preparation. Lots of hours," Gabriel said, referring to the intense effort required in preparing for the competition.

"THIS IS A DIFFERENT kind of art," Gabriel said. "You have to have commitment and be very strong mentally and physically. You might be up two to three days without sleep. Food has to be ready at a cer-

Chef Brady, former owner of Diamond Jim Brady's in Southfield, estimates she will spend 350 hours in preparation and countless sleepless nights.

"I had nightmares all night," she said, after researching garnish suggestions for Loving's cold platter entry. Loving will be judged on the difficulty in preparation and sophistication of the end product.

Brady carefully researches possible recipes, drawing on her experience as a chef. She also scans photos of former award-winning entries and magazines.

In addition, she is creating an autumn picnic theme, using oysters, miniature mousse and molded bavarians or flavored mousse.

"Judges look for sound cooking skills, taking an idea and carrying it 10 steps further. Take an apple and see what you can come up with," she said of the intensely creative chal-

Larson, 33, an Oakland County caterer who is in her second year of studies in the Schoolcraft culinary program, is at the "apple" stage of planning. Competing in the fivecourse competition, she is just now defining a menu.

"I'm leaning toward lighter fare, less calories, pure and natural food. Not a lot of cream sauces," she said.

BARGO, 20, WHO commutes to Schoolcraft from Ann Arbor, is a step further along. He has planned a "hunter's delight," drawing on braised rabbit leg, duck consomme fresh trout and crayfish.

"It's Midwestern regional cuisine with a fall emphasis. We're in fall. You naturally think of different game," he said.

Ford, 26, of Plymouth, is drawing on success at Olympic culinary competition last year in Singapore. She

Her fondness of game accounts for an entree of smoked partridge with braised leg. A creamy salad dressing is, she said, balanced by a dessert of molded peach sorbet that "looks like glass. It's beautiful."

Of the hundreds of hours of preparation, Ford said: "It's a month out of life. I figure I'll just do it."

Bargo said he finds little spare time after "juggling school, work (as a cook) and training."

A primary component in training is continual practice. Each serving must be prepared and critiqued three times.

Purchase price agreement reached for area seminary

By Tom Henderson staff writer

The president of a Maryland company said Tuesday that his firm has agreed on a purchase price with the Archdiocesa of Detroit for the St. John Provincial Seminary in . northwestern Wayne County, but will wait until spring to close on the John Erickson, president of Retirement and Health Services Corp. of Baltimore, said that engineers will study the building's infrastructure and take soil samples over the winter and, barring any problems, the company will then close on the property, at Sheldon and Five Mile in Plymouth Township.

If, for example, we found out there was a hazardous waste probiem or a major structural problem, we might not proceed," said Erickson. 'But barring anything unforeseen, we will close in the spring . . . We're real excited and aggressive about moving forward."

He said his company soon would open up offices in the area to study the building's infrastructure and conduct marketing research.

The seminary buildings and 35 acres, not including the golf course, were listed for $7.5 million. Retirement and Health Services officials had said earlier they were not interested in buying the course. All 175 acres, including the golf course, were listed at $20 million.

Neither Erickson nor a spokesman for the archdiocese would divulge the price.

The township assesses the site, not counting the golf course, at $3 million, which means it evaluates the market value at $6 million. That

ERICKSON SAID "we're moving into the technical phase. That work will go on through the winter and we hope to close in the spring and have some product on the market by the end of the year . . . "That would be the most optimistic forecast - that if everything goes right, we could be open after Christmas, maybe even just before Christmas.'

Erickson said his engineers would be testing such things as the plumbing and the steam lines. "One of the things we'll be deciding is whether to keep the steam plant or convert it," he said.

In addition to improvements or changes in the infrastructure, renovation would include creating apartment units to house about 1,000 residents. The rooms that had been used to house seminarians are much too small to be used commercially.

Erickson said preliminary work the company hoped to do over the winter includes reports and paperwork necessary for state approval and for township rezoning.

Ron Hawkins was on a golf course when his heart stopped beating in 1988 and last weekend he was on a golf course to celebrate techniques that saved his life.

Hawkins, one of 12 Michigan residents involved in the 1990 U.S. Transplant Games Oct. 5-8 in Indianapolis, Ind., spent his time golfing and mingling. "It was a chance to get together

"The bottom line is that we can't bury organs," Hawkins said. "We have to recycle them for people who need them for life. We can't just throw them away."

The transplant games came on the heels of the recent announcement that two Americans won the 1990 Nobel Prize in medicine or physiology. Joseph E. Murray, 71, discovered how to treat the problem of tissue rejection when organs are transplanted, and E. Donald Thomas, 70, diminished the severe reaction that grafts cause in recipients.

chairman calls for better job skills training

By Emory Daniels staff writer

Michigan and the nation must do a better job of equipping its youth for the workplace to have a chance of successfully competing in the global

That was the message brought to a western Wayne County Rotary Monday by Philip H. Power, board chairman of Suburban Communications Corp., parent company of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, and a Democratic candidate for the University of Michigan Board of Regents on the Nov. 6 ballot.

Before introducing his "Certificate of Opportunity" approach as part of the solution, Power shared findings of the national Commission on the Skills of the American Workforce, of which he is a member.

The American economy from World War II to 1973 grew at an average of 3 percent a year in productivity, he said, but from 1973 to the present it has experienced productivity growth of only 1 percent annually on average.

Two other major shifts in the workforce noted was a large influx of women and a 12 percent decline in real family income since 1969.

The Commission on the Skills of the American Workforce when it conducted a survey and received its findings was surprised to learn that 85 percent of American employers reported they were getting the skills needed from their new hires because they had lowered the skills required, Power said.

UPON FURTHER examination, Power said the pattern that emerged is that American industry is accepting low-skilled workers and paying low wages when international competition calls for an employment strategy of high skills-high wages.

On a whole, American businesses have reacted to international competition by hammering at labor costs, lowering the skills required of particular jobs, and displacing workers with machinery or equipment, Power said, "This strategy to lower costs has resulted in low skills, low wages.

"The problem with this strategy is that America cannot pay wages low enough to compete. Mexico can pay la can pay lower wages than Mexico, India can underpay Guatamala all the way down to Bangladesh."

The low-skills, low-wages strategy is an adaptation of business to the fact the school system is not producing graduates with sufficient skills, said Powers.

The major problem is that America'a major competitors - Japan, Germany, France, Italy - have adopted a high-skills, high-wages posture that has led to higher productivity and a favorable balance of trade for these countries, he said.

Another problem is that American high school. business only invests $30 billion a year in training, Power added, of which $27 billion is spent by only one-half percent of all U.S. employ-lower wages than the U.S., Gyatama- ers. Of the amount spent on training, success in school on achievement of 80 percent is invested in management and only 20 percent in workers. "We have formed a habit of tolerating badly trained people coming out of high school and we have a habit of not spending money on training."

THE K-12 public school system is designed to train students to go to college and does a good job at that task, he said. But the educational system does a poor job in equipping the 50 percent of graduates who directly enter the work force after

'We relate success in high school to behavior that is needed to succeed in college."

America's major competitors base job-related skills and require students to pass examinations testing those skills before graduating, Power said.

"American students are the most over-tested and under-examined of all students. Our tests are designed to separate auccesses from failure instead of examining for defined skills that are required."

To change emphasis, Power said he has recommended to Gov. Blanchard and the Job Training Council an examination approach in which business defines the skills necessary, those skills are taught, exams measure whether those skills are acquired, and students who pass those exams then receive a Certificate of Opportunity.

TO THE CITIZENS OF THE LIVONIA PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Michigan law requires that each year the school district must publish a financial statement which is a composite of our annual audit. In compliance with the law, this information is offered to our citizens in an effort to keep our community fully informed of our fiscal operations and our use of the public's resources.

Every effort has been made by the Board of Education and the staff to control expenditures so that all available dollars may be earmarked for the education of children.

The Board of Education has been able to continue many of the fine opportunities that have been available to the students in the Livenia Public School District. This has been possible because of the history of support the community has given to the Livenia Public Schools and the cooperation of our employee organizations. Even though the report focuses primarily on the financial activities of the district, we must never lose sight of the fact that these dollars ultimately translate into educational opportunities for students.

The accompanying figures cover the full scope of the fiscal operations of the school district for the school year 1989-90. An audit report is available for review by any interested citizen. If you have questions concerning any part of the attached report, or you would care to see a copy of the audit, please feel free to contact the Pinance Office of the Livonia Public Schools, telephone 523-9119.

Ford sees solid ground for re-election bid

By Wayno Peal staff writer

Rep. William Ford sees nothing but solid ground ahead on his way to a 14th consecutive term in the U.S. House.

But challenger Burl Adkins hears rumblings.

The Nov. 6 election marks the second meeting between the two, though an Adkins win would be considered a political earthquake.

Ford, D.Taylor, has represented the 15th District — including southern Livonia, Westland, Garden City and Canton — since 1965. Bolstered by a large campaign budget and the power of incumbency, Ford is a heavy favorite.

Ford, who took nearly 64 percent of the vote in winning the election two years ago, has an added incentive this time.

The 63-year-old congressman will become chairman of the powerful House Committee on Education and Labor upon re-election.

Adkins, 39, a Southgate businessman, would wield no such clout as a congressional freshman. He has yet to muster much more than token support from his own party.

NONETHELESS, THE GOP challenger sees widespread discontent with Washington insiders - and depicts Ford as the ultimate insider.

"People are tired of business as usual in Washington, they want a change," Adkins said.

Libertarian party candidate David Hunt of Ypsilanti is also on the ballot, but isn't campaigning heavily and is considered an extreme long shot. In 1988, the Libertarian nominee took less than 1 percent of the 15th District vote. No third party candidate has captured a Michigan seat in the U.S. House since 1914.

"it's tough for a thrid party to win, but we're looking at building credibility over the long term," said Hunt, a Ypsilanti computer programmer.

There's no question Adkins would represent a major change from the incumbent.

THE CHALLENGER has adopted a "no new taxes" stance that, he said, wouldn't even be swayed by President George Bush.

"Every time people start talking about the deficit they talk about raising taxes," Adkins said. "Instead, they should be talking about cutting spending."

Adkins also favors a variety of conservative-inspired budget measures, including a balanced budget amendment and line item veto for the president.

In addition, Adkins favors eliminating the tax advantages he believes foreign companies enjoy when doing business in the United States. Adkins has been an outspoken critic of tax breaks awarded the Mazda Motors plant in Flat Rock and has made the issue a focal point in each of his campaigns.

Rather than raise taxes, Adkins said, the federal government should freeze spending.

At the same, time he depicts Ford as a "1960s liberal professional politician" out of touch with current political reality.

THE INCUMBENT, however, said it's the conservative budget-cutters who are out of touch.

Ford favors new taxes ("you or by cutting school lunches."- budget. "There's not much left to cut." he said. "You're not going to balance the budget by cutting Social Security betcha") as a means of balancing the Raising taxes, he said, represents the honest way out of the nation's budget mess.

"They're talking about raising postage, but that's not right, either," said Ford, current chairman of the House Committee on Post Office and Civil Service.

"Raising postage to improve service is one thing. Raising it to pay off the federal budget deficit is something else."

BLAME FOR the nation's budget woes should fall to conservatives, Ford said, not liberals.

"For years, Ronald Reagan was living on a credit card," he said. "Now, it's time to pay the bills."

the recently rejected budget summit agreement - in part because it would have increased gasoline taxes.

Libertarian Party candidate Hunt would favor drastle spending cuts.

"Our philosphy is that governemtn should only be responsible for essential services," he said Hunt.

ADKINS AND FORD also differ sharply on education issues. There, Adkins adopts the Reaganlike philosophy that government isn't the solution, it's the problem. "If you ask Bill Ford there isn't a problem but our test scores are dropping and it's getting harder for employers to find qualified people,"

Adkins said. If the federal government should

CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

Despite that, Ford voted against be doing anything for education, he said, it should be promoting schools of choice within local districts and competence testing for students, teachers and administrators.

> Ford, cool to all those ideas, believes the federal government could be doing more by spending more.

> He points with pride to the "2plus-2" vocation education program he sponsored.

> The program combines two years of high school voc ed with two years in community colleges or trade schools. Up to $200 million in federal money is available to get the program started, Ford said.

BOTH CANDIDATES said they support deployment of U.S. troops in the Middle East, though with reser-

Adkins said the U.S. should press its allies into doing more - even allowing Japan and Germany to send troops overseas for the first time since World War II.

Ford — who called Iraqi leader Saddam Husseih "a madman" — believes the United States should look for short-term solutions, rather than a long-term military engagement.

"I don't think the American public would support a prolonged war," he

Among the candidates, Hunt was boldest in his criticism of U.S. miltiary operations in the Persian Gulf. "We favor getting the hell out," he said. "The only reason we're paying more for gas right now is the threat of war. End the war-mongering and the price will go back down." CAMPAIGN POSITIONS aside.

Ford goes into the race with a decided financial edge against his main. challenger.

Two years ago, Ford spent nearly? $235,000 on the race, according to Congressional Quarterly Magazine, compared with just under $8,000 for; Adkins. A similar spending gap is expected this time, especially because the state GOP has yet to make a firm commitment to Adkins.

"That's something I'm really disappointed about," he said.

Ford said he's fit and ready to continue his congressional tenure.

Adkins, meantime, is pressing for federal legislation that would limit; incumbents' terms.

"We need to shorten the time leg-: islators stay in Washington," he said. : On Nov. 6, he'll get his chance.

State will expand pilot project on AIDS insurance

AP — Michigan plans to expand statewide a pilot project that saves state money on AIDS treatments by paying patients' private insurance premiums before they end up on Federal law allows employees who lose their jobs due to illness and disability to continue their insurance for several months at their own expense. For AIDS patients who can't afford that and are in danger of ending up on Medicald, the state pays the insurance bill.

"The savings are significant," said Rep. David Hollister, D-Lansing, who developed the program.

Candidates vie for probate seat

Szymanski, member of an Oakland County law firm, is stressing his greater experience as an attorney.

Both seek a six-year seat on the. probate bench. Voters will choose between the two in the Tuesday, Nov. 6 general election.

Unlike the county's other probate race - where Patricia Campbell is taking on William Leo Cahalan Jr. - neither candidate has an edge in name recognition.

Though the winner will await case assignment by Chief Probate Judge Freddle Burton Jr., both candidates expect to handle estate and mental competency cases — leaving juve-nile law to the winner of the Campbell-Cahalan race. (That race was profiled in the Sept. 13 Observer.)

Not surprisingly, both candidates are stressing their experience in estate and mental health cases.

In her current job, Hathaway heads the Macomb Prosecutor's drug forfeiture division. But before becoming an attorney, she spent nearly a decade as a radiologic technologist at Henry Ford Hospital, Detroit. At the same time, she received a real estate license and conducted classes in real estate law.

Szymanki, however, points to his eight years as practicing attorney compared with Hathaway's three and higher rating from the Detroit Bar Association.

The Detroit Bar rated Szymanski "well qualified" and Hathaway "not qualified". Szymanski received a "Preferred and Well Qualifed" rating from Civic Searchlight, an independent agency that evaluates all area political candidates. Hathaway, who was unable to attend the Civic Searchlight interview, was not rated by the agency.

If elected, Szymanski would work toward increasing public awareness of probate court and its activities.

"I feel a probate judge can be a vital asset to the community, but you can't do it by just sitting in your courtroom all day, you have to go out and meet with civic groups," he

Eastern Europe considered a boom market

By Janice Brunson staff writer

Eastern Europe, including the Soviet Union, is the world's newest market, according to international trade experts who will participate in an upcoming live teleconference at Schoolcraft College.

With economic opportunity in Michigan on the wane, the news of promising new markets in Yugoslavia, Hungary and the Soviet Union is good, according to John Chichester of Schoolcraft's business development center.

But beware, cautioned Edward Christie, an adviser on U.S. export. strategy for the International Trade. is president of PCRM Associates Inc. Administration in Detroit who is facilitating conference questions between local participants gathered in Schoolcraft's library and European trade experts positioned abroad.

"While there are a great number exporters, not the uninitiated," Christie said, adding conversion of soft currencies like the Polish zloty or Russian ruble into such hard currencies as the U.S. dollar, British pound or Swiss franc is the major challenge of the moment.

"You are not going over there and sell a load of T-shirts and make a lot of money. You might get rid of the T-shirts, but not for a lot of money," Christie added.

Keesee said there is also investment opportunity in "one-off" transactions, single-venture projects such as the refurbishing of a manufactur-"YES AND NO," said trade ing plant. But, "In the short run, there is probably a better market for small consumer goods. The citizenry is crying for quality goods." But there is "a dearth of hard cash," he added.

The bottom line, "in our perception there is no real money to be made for three to five years," Keesee said.

Business people with connections already established in eastern Eutope have a decided advantage, Christie concluded.

House upholds arts funding area members of Congress were liam Broomfield, R-Birmingham. recorded on major roll call votes in the week ending Oct. 12. HOUSE:

Funding The Aris' - By a vote of 175 for and 249 against, the House rejected a conservative-sponsored crackdown on National Endowment of the Arts funding of sexually explicit artworks. The House later passed legislation (HR 4825) authorizing $175 million in fiscal 1991 for the endowment. The bill increased federal scrutiny of artists receiving public money but left questions of obscenity to the courts.

The rejected amendment sought, in part, to deny funding of projects that depict sexual conduct such as masturbation and sado-masochistic abuse or which tear down a religion.

Sponsor Dana Rohrabacher, R-Calif., said "when it comes to federal tax dollars, we have a right to set a standard. . . .'

Oponnent Peter Kostmyer, D-Pa., said "this amendment is brought to you by the book-burners in the country and in the Congress."

A yes vote was to keep taxpayers' money from funding from sexually explicit art.

Voting yes were Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, Dennis Hertel, D-Harper

To Uphold Textile Veto - By a vote of 275 for and 152 against, the House fell short of the two-thirds majority needed to overturn President Bush's veto of a bill limiting the growth of textile and apparel imports to one percent annually. The measure (HR 4328) also sought to freeze non-rubber footwear imports at 1989 levels. Canada and Israel would be exempted from the bill.

Supporters said the bill would protect jobs and factories against unfair foreign competition, while opponents said it would mask industry inefficiencies and raise retail prices.

A yes vote was to protect the domestic textile, apparel and non-rubber footwear industries.

Voting yes were Hertel, William Ford and Levin. Voting no were Pursell and Broomfield.

Budget Plan — By a vote of 250 for and 164 against, the House approved a blueprint for tax increases and spending restraint that would reduce the deficit by about $40 billion in fiscal 1991 and $500 billion between 1991-95. Later approved by the Senate (below), the measure (H Con Res 310) is the new vehicle for ending strife over the federal budget. It replaced the fiscal agreement partisan legislative leaders that met defeat on Capitol Hill Oct. 5.

While keeping the broad outline of the rejected plan, the new measure gives congressional committees more leeway to determine the taxes to be raised and spending to be curbed. With President Bush staying mostly on the sidelines, and Democrats in charge of congressional committees, final details are expected to be more favorable to Democratic lawmakers and their constituencies than was the rejected blueprint.

A yes vote supported the budget resolution.

Voting yes were Hertel, William Ford and Levin. Voting no were Pursell and Broomfield.

SENATE:

Budget Blueprint - By a vote of 66 for and 33 against, the Senate followed the House's lead (above) and adopted a long-term deficit cutting plan (H Con Res 310) designed to slow or halt the federal government's fiscal slide. By shaving the payroll tax rate by about one percent, the bill would gradually dry up Social Security trust fund surpluses. Supporters said the "pay as you go" approach would reaffirm that the trust funds are for those who pay into them and not for general deficit reduction.

Sponsor' Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., complained Social Security contributions are "being used as general revenue, something never contemplated by the creators of the Social Security system. . . . "

Oponnent Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, said the amendment "knocks out. . .at least $150 billion in revenues" anticipated over five years as part of the $500 billion deficit-reduction plan.

A yes vote was to move ahead on a bill making changes in Social Security including a cut in payroll taxes.

Voting yes from Michigan were Levin and Riegle.

Spending Bill — By a vote of 91 for and 7 against, the Senate sent to conference with the House a bill (HR 5021) appropriating $19.3 billion in fiscal 1991 for the federal judiciary, departments of Commerce, Justice and State and related agencies such as the U.S. Information Agency and U.S. Civil Rights Commission. This was an increase of about 12 percent over the comparable 1990 appropriations bill.

Bad timing

Ken Barnhill: hard to replace

ENNETH BARNHILL, who announced last week his resignation from the Wayne-Westland school board, is right on target in admitting that his timing

Barnhill, whose resignation is effective Oct. 23, is leaving because he plans later this month to move to Northville, making him ineligible to continue serving on the board of education.

His reference to "lousy timing" was based on the school board and Wayne-Westland Education Association at a crucial stage in the contract negotiations.

Barnhill also took the occasion of his resignation to reflect on the deterioration of the school district in recent years through erosion of the curriculum.

Reflecting on Barnhill's service of 51/4 years on the board, he added a large degree of business-like attitude while maintaining sensitivity to programs and services directly affecting stu-

But the outgoing board member made it clear that he hopes that the remaining board members can reach a fair and affordable contract with the local teachers' union.

While Barnhill's service is almost history, the board is moving ahead to organize its selection process for picking a successor.

AS WE have said in past years, it's a difficult time to be on any board of education of an informula school district.

Other in-formula districts are on the verge of suing the state of Michigan because of the inequities of the state aid formula.

At the same time, employee unions are getting tougher at the negotiating table. Homeowners are also getting tougher at the millage rate increase this year.

While Kenneth Barnhill will be missed, the board of education must elect a replacement who will be effective in all areas of school district policy.

It's not easy being a Wayne-Westland school board member.

But there is a challenge for persons who are interested in applying to the board for the upcoming vacancy created by Barnhill's resigna-

The board has set 5 p.m. Friday, Oct. 26, as the deadline for candidates to file applications. The board said it will start interviewing candidates the following week.

When there was a board vacancy nearly a year ago, the board interviewed all 17 candidates before appointing Leonard Posey to replace Terri Reighard Johnson, who resigned after winning a Westland city council seat.

WE HOPE the person who is appointed will have the same skills and sensitivity as Barnhill, whose term will expire June 30, 1993.

In interviewing candidates in the next few weeks, the board should ideally look for someone who has also has an open mind on school-issues, including contract negotiations with employees' unions, no hidden agendas, an ability to grasp issues, and communicate clearly and honestly with all parts of the school community.

Barnhill will be missed for his contributions to the school board.

We hope that the remaining six board memballot box with local voters twice rejecting a bers will pick a successor that will serve the district effectively.

Opening of files is welcomed

OLICE STATE activities through surveillance, harassment and intimidation are something that all democracy-loving Americans rightfully should abhor.

And while we usually associate these tactics with totalitarian governments, we know that for many years in Michigan, federal, state and local law enforcement agencies used these distasteful tactics against those who had beliefs divergent from the established powers.

Much of this activity took place in the 1960s and 1970s when police skulked around political rallies, anti-Vietnam war rallies, rock concerts and theater parties to spy on those expressing their constitutionally protected opinions.

The Michigan State Police long ago came clean and began Red Squad files. As of this year, the Detroit Police Department also is obliged to release files.

The files often were used to hinder people seeking employment in certain professions. And often, through shoddy police work, non-participating bystanders were earmarked when their car license numbers were recorded by police.

If you suspect you may have been victimized, write to the Red Squad Notification and Distribution Compliance Program, 800 Palms Building, Detroit, MI 48201 or call 961-7010. Inquiries must be made before Aug. 10, 1991.

Councilman a crybaby?

Poor Ken Mehl! Just because he is getting equal treatment as the other citizens of Westland, he's crying "harassment." What a crybaby.

As president pro-tem of Westland's City Council, he should be setting an example to the rest of the community. The fact that his bar has received several citations due to zoning violations is a disgrace.

I applaud Mayor Thomas' efforts to tidy up Westland. I was most pleased when I read about his new, hardline treatment for "eyesore" violators. Mr. Mehl owes the mayor, as well as the citizens he supposedly represents, an apology.

Get your establisment cleaned up and quit complaining, Mr. Mehl. You would be better served spending your time taking care of city business instead of whining about how badly you are being treated.

MENTAL ILLNESS AWARE-NESS Week was Oct. 7-13.

Most of would have ignored it, but Scott Bryant didn't let us. Scott, 23, of Lathrup Village, who suffered from a mental illness, bought a gun and shot himself. His, funeral was Oct. 8.

His parents, Shirley Bryant, community relations director of Birmingham schools, and her former husband, Gary Bryant of Milford, have resolved that Scott's death will not be meaningless, that some good may come of all that pain.

"He was just in unbearable pain." said Gary Bryant.

"He would talk about this very logically. He saw his life had no hope and no future," Shirley Bryant said.

Society was of little help to Scott and his family - who never had a clear path to follow. They got varied diagnoses from doctors; were hampered by the legal and insurance systems which should have helped them; and never found a proper living facility.

Unfortunately, theirs is not an isolated story: These comments were released by the State Alliance for the Mentally III of Michigan nearly a year ago in a survey of its membership:

"There is very little help for us or him."

"It's a nightmare."

"NO ADVICE is ever given on how to handle a crisis with our son."

"If our son makes it, it won't be because of the mental health system, the neighborhood was so dangerous. in Michigan. It will be because I'm stubborn and won't give up on him."

The survey was sent to Thomas Watkins, director of the Michigan Department of Mental Health, asking for improvements in services to persons with serious mental at 537-1963 at the Wayne County illnesses.

It's not like substance abuse when there is a clear role for education and prevention. Mental. illness, which is widely received as chemically-based, can rarely be prevented any more than diabetes or multiple sclerosis. Money needs to be allocated at the federal level for research into the origins and treatment of the mentally ill — and at the state and county level for the direction, care and protective housing they and their families so desperately require.

WEALTHY OAKLAND COUNTY has long waiting lists for the few beds that are available. For instance, Community Mental Health lists only 24 residential care beds for adults with mental illness who need supervision but can be helped to function in the community.

Former Birmingham Superintendent Roger Garvelink ended up having to ship a mentally ill son across the state to a Grand Rapids facility. The Bryants, who first counted themselves lucky to qualify for a Wayne County half-way house, ended up bringing their son home because

We can't let those whose lives have been touched by mental illness go it alone. Call Dolores Howell at 557-6440 at the Oakland County chapter of the Alliance for the Mentally III of Michigan or Louise Skrip Suburban West chapter to see what you can do.

In an interview this past summer, Dr. James Graves, former head of the Oakland County Community illness is still much more mysterious and needs need is for small, homelike facilities rehabilitation. . .there's less stigma connected with physical handicaps."

The truth is: Scott Bryant was once no different from your son or mine. He had loving parents, and his own abilities and dreams. He had no control over what happened to him - he only knew he couldn't live with

It's time to treat Santa Claus like a dog

YOU HEAR THEM so often lately. Phrases like "ethnic diversity," "multi-cultural," "pluralistic soci-

Pledges to "secularize traditional religious celebrations" in order to be "sensitive" to "students from a variety of cultural backgrounds."

Last year we read a lot about the "controversial" holiday policy in the Rochester School District. And after discussions and meetings that seemed to go on ad infinitum, a spokesman for the district remarked that finally "the entire community is more aware of multi-cultural issues."

Just recently Birmingham schools put together a proposed religion policy to try to avoid the kind of angry reactions that occurred last year after an administrative decision to prohibit Christian holiday traditions like Christmas gift exchanges, Santa Claus decorations, etc. The whole issue, of course, is to be sensitive to children from other cultures and religions.

Now the Walled Lake School District is drafting new policy guidelines addressing such issues as school-sponsored prayer, religious displays and performances, worship services and the distribution of sectarian literature. The policy is "really needed now," a spokeswoman for the schools said, "because the district has become so multi-cultural, and we are serving people of so many religious faiths.

AND IT ISN'T just happening here. In Madison, Wis., the school board ruled that public schools cannot teach about or celebrate religlous holidays nor display decorations associated with such holidays. The ruling was based on a 23-page staff document that addressed the issue of how schools can treat religious holidays within a curriculum designed for students from a variety of cultural backgrounds.

bration," Easter is "Spring Celebration" and Halloween is the "fall costume party."

"It's recognition of the value of other viewpoints and other cultures . . . an acceptance of multi-cultural backgrounds and the value of that," the school principal said. The message seems to be that no where, no way, no how do we want to impose our beliefs and traditions on anyone who does not come from the same heritage that we do: And that may not be such a bad thing.

Then I read about the dog-eating

REP. SAL ROCCÁ, D-Sterling Heights, has introduced a bill in the state Legislature that would make eating dogs and cats a misdemeanor punishable by up to 90 days in jail, a $2,000 fine and 500 hours of community service.

The bill apparently is a response to some complaints filed with the Michigan Humane Society that people have been stealing pets off the street and eating them.

A spokeswoman for the society And in Glenwood Springs, Colo., said the cases aren't documented, Christmas (in the elementary school, but officials suspect a few immiat least) is now called "Winler Cele- grants from some southeast Asian countries where dog meat is considered a delicacy may be the culprits.

So what, you may ask, does this have to do with school holiday policies? Just this:

In discussing his bill and the immigrants suspected of dog-eating, Rocca said: "Eating cats and dogs is part of their culture. It's not repulsive or obnoxious to them, it's acceptable. But it's not an acceptable practice in our society to kill and eat household pets. We make laws based on our standards, our culture, and as a matter of public policy, it should be prohibited."

So that's what it takes. We'll throw Santa in the dumpster, we'll give the Easter bunny the heave-ho and we'll scratch Halloween right off the calendar in the name of cultural diver-

But serve up a fricasee of Fido, and you'd better be prepared for a dose of American cultural chauvinism. We're not that sensitive.

Schools of choice gaining momentum

Q: We and some of our friends want to put our children in a private school but don't have the money to do so. Do you ever see parents given the choice of the school they want and some money from education to help pay for the schooling?

A: It's happening in Wisconsin and 14 other states are considering the school of choice option.

The Wisconsin plan will grant $2,500 in state money for each student. This type of financial assistance isn't popular with public school administrators or teacher unlons.

The Wisconsin plan was pushed by State Rep. Polly Williams, a black Democrat who has fought to get 1,000 academically eligible inner city children into private, non-religious schools. She believes private school are safer and more educationally challenging than the inner city schools these children are attending. When Williams visited Washington she was scorned by the educational establishment, the NAACP and teacher unions who want her program killed. It will take money out the public school coffers. Leading conservative legislators greeted Polly like a Mother Teresa.

Of the liberal democrats, Don Lambro, a nationally syndicated po-litical analyst said, "Senator Ted Kennedy, who professes such compassion for poor minorities, has ignored her efforts."

Is this an opportunity for black families to choose an educational setting where knives and guns are not the focus, where teachers work in a stress free environment? Or is this a conspiracy to destroy public education?

Are moderate citizens beginning to say, "Maybe a little competition for our public schools is healthy"?

Could this happen in Michigan? Look at the home schooling movement. Years ago, parents who kept kids home were hauled into court; some went to jail. Today, a parent can fill out a few forms at the local Intermediate School District, follow periodic basic skills test and keep them home. That is a School of Choice — the home.

On a local level is the Open Enrollment movement which allows parents to select the school they want in their district. Is Open Enrollment a part of the old "stepping stone" theory of evolution leading to a private Schools of Choice for parents? I don't know.

If parents receive cash to put their kids in a private school, there will be schools opening all over the place a few great, some good but many an entrepreneur's dream of the quick buck.

If it hadn't been for a story that appeared in the magazine 18 months age, 14 local swimmers, their coach and a cadre of parents wouldn't be getting ready to spend Christmas vacation in the Netherlands.

It's not quite the Olympics, but competing in the fifth annual KLM International Friendship Meet in Maastricht, the Netherlands, is close enough to the real thing to get the swimmers excited. No more fund-raisers, just a fall training schedule so they're at their peak in late December.

"We thought it would be wonderful for our kids," said Marilyn Ditchkoff, whose 16-year-old daughter, Tara, will be competing in the meet. "They'll get so much out of this that I don't think we (parents) realize how much."

About 40 swimmers from throughout the country will be meeting in Chicago Dec. 26 for the trip to Europe. They will return Jan. 2. The teenagers will be representing the United States at the meet, but not as the U.S. swim team. The Spartan Club members make up the largest contingent among the American

WLQV talk show offers help over the airwaves

By Janico Brunson staff writer

On a commercial flight from Detroit to Los Angeles several years ago, the idea for a unique radio talk show crystalized in the mind of Al Cohol, the pen name for Livonia's newest radio talk host.

"I was 38,000 feet closer to God than normal when the idea came to me," Cohol sald with a laugh, recalling the flight. "By the time we landed, I had the name and the format."

Since late May, Cohol has broad-cast "Addictions," a weekly after-noon show aired over WLQV (1500 AM), a Christian station with studios in Livonia.

Aimed at people suffering from addiction to alcohol and drugs, food, shopping or gambling, Cohol's stated vision is "promoting togetherness between addicts."

Originally scheduled 2-3 p.m. each Saturday, the show was given an adits debut because of listener re-

Dear Ms. Green,

Approximately one year ago, I mailed you a request to have my handwriting analyzed. I always read your column with interest but there was a short time last fall when we were without a paper carrier. Therefore, I could have missed my analysis, if it was published.

I am extremely curious to see what my writing portrays about me! I would really appreciate an analysis. Thank you.

Lessig, 16, Livonia Churchill; Amy Balog, 15, Livonia Stevenson; Jane Seldelman, 16, Plymouth-Salem; Craig Steshetz, 15, Plymouth-Canton; Matt Tertel, 17, Plymoùth-Canton; Matt Martin, 15, Westland John Glenn; Jennifer O'Flynn, 16, Novi; and Mary May, 15, Novi.

Also heading overseas are Katie Martin, 13, of Westland; Robbin Tenglin, 17, of Dearborn; Jason Fisher, 14, of Northville; Drew Sopha, 14, of Farmington; and Lisa Butzlaff, 15, of Allen Park.

Also making the trip will the man who is a "builder of dreams and helps pave paths to those dreams," Dave Segraves, the Spartans' head coach. Like his swimmers, he is "looking forward to it."

"IT'S THE FIRST time I've taken a team to Europe," Segraves said. "I've had teams compete in many parts of the U.S. but this is a first for me. I'm looking forward to the meet, the friendship and the fun."

As swim meets go, the KLM Friendship Meet Isn't a "biggie." Ranking, such as swimming competively at the senior national level, isn't a criteria for competing. The meet by competitive standards is a sprint designed to cover the ability levels of all swimmers who will be competing.

Many of the Spartan swimmers who are going are long distance swimmers. As a result coach Dave Segraves is beginning the serious part of their training. The emphasis is on starts and turns.

The training will continue until about 10 days before the meet, when Segraves will reduce the work load so he brings his swimmers "into the meet rested and at their peak."

Segraves has been the club's head coach for eight years and has built up the organization from a low of 30 swimmers to more than 140. According to Ditchkoff, his "whole life is these klds."

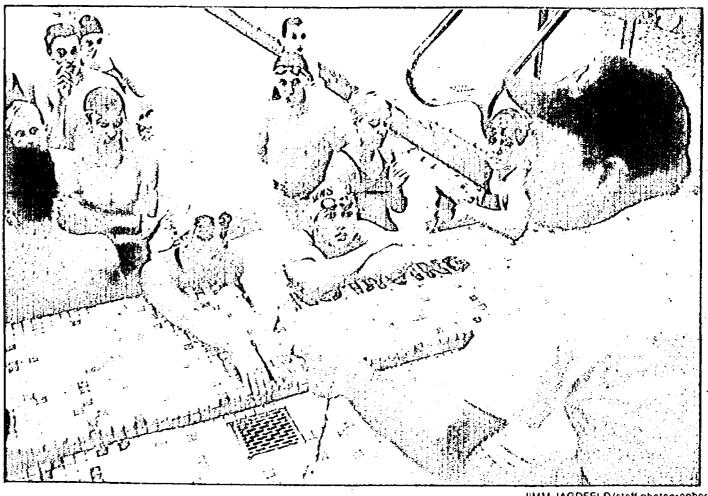

"He lives, eats and breathes for these kids," she said. A modest Segraves admits that he "wants to take every kid that comes into this program and build their self-esteem and take them as far as they can go."

"I take pride in helping in that process," he said. "I think swimming is a medium through which you teach kids about life.'

DURING THE summer, the Spartans utilize Livonia's outdoor pools, but with the advent of colder weather, practice has moved to the three high school swimming pools in Livonia: Practices are planned around the high school swim team schedules.

One of Segraves' dreams is to get one or both of the city's outdoor pools enclosed so his swimmers "could get all they practice time they needed."

And while Segraves is putting his swimmers through their paces at the Stevenson High School pool, parents like Ditchkoff are working on getting together goodwill bags - bags filled with Livonia and Michigan pins, Tiger baseball caps, books on Washington, D.C., and the like - that the swimmers can "trade or give away to their new international friends."

Church grows in faith and size

By Julia Brown staff writer

Worshipers at the church, on North Territorial in Plymouth Township, have finished a two-year building project. They're relieved that the work is done.

"Such a program tests greatly your patience as well as your tolerance, mandates that you recognize that the building doesn't make a church," said the Rev. John Grenfell Jr., senior pastor. "I think there's been a sense of exhilaration. I think another reaction has been deep gratitude."

Church members appreciate the fact that the new part of the building blends so well with the older been through a building program, so the sense of relief is still a very big part of the accomplishment. When Grenfell was co-pastor at St. Matthew's United Methodist Church in Livonia, he was involved in a building project.

THE ADDITION at the Plymouth church is extensive, and includes a new sanctuary with seating capacity of 640 to 670. The old sanctuary seated about 320.

"We have a new library, which is a very lovely facility," the pastor said. There's a new choir room and a fellowship hall, "which increases greatly the opportunity for people attending dinners and fellowship events."

The fellowship hall used to be the sanctuary. The addition also includes a new parlor, a kitchen and office space. New office facilities memorial garden is included in an outdoor courtyard at the church, and is between the old and new sanctuaries. The garden will allow for interment of ashes.

Church members realized a few years ago that it was time to expand. The church has 1,300 to 1,400 members and is on a site of about 15 acres.

'We had membership growth. The area's growing. I think that is a factor," Grenfell said. It got to the point where worshipers at the earlier Sunday service were seated in the narthex area just outside the rear of the sanctuary.

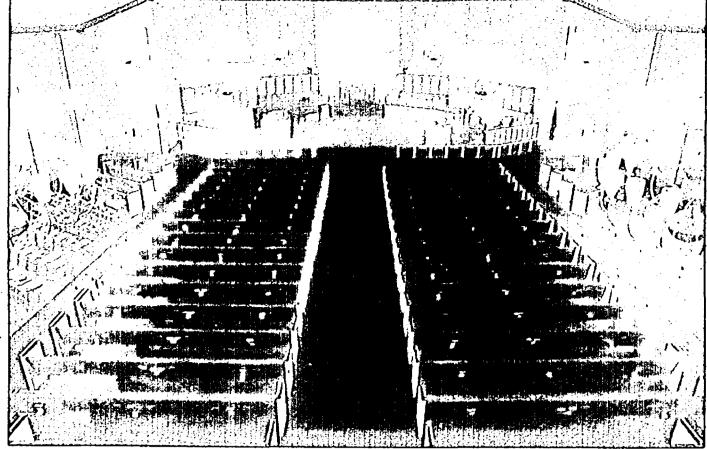

"We should have probably done it two years sooner," he said.

CHURCH LEADERS have emphasized participation of laypeople in the ministry, and that's helped to boost membership. Outreach services are extensive at the church, and include support of such local agencies as Growth Works and Straight, along with involvement in missions projects elsewhere in the United States and worldwide.

"Its focus is on other people," he

The old church included about 20,000 square feet. The new facility's much larger, about 60,000 square feet, although that includes about 16,000 square feet in the basement that's not really useable right now, due to the lack of an elevator for handicapped access.

The cost of the project is about $3.2 million, not including a new pipe organ. Worshipers have raised money for the building project and the pipe organ. They still need to raise about $70,000 out of a total of

T.H. Marsh Construction Co. of Livonia was the general contractor for the project. Architects were Lindhout Associates, also of Livo-

Worship services, weddings, funerals and other functions were held at the church throughout the two years.

"We've had our trials." Grenfell said. "We never lost a sanctuary."

ON PALM SUNDAY this spring. worshipers moved into the new sanctuary. They began worship in the old sanctuary and moved into the new one while singing.

The new facility provides greater flexibility for programming, he said. In addition to church functions, a number of community events are held at the church. The Plymouth Community Chorus rehearses at the church and many groups meet at First United Meth-

Worshipers are celebrating the work's completion. There's a bit of tidying up to do and some work in the kitchen, but most things are done, Grenfell said.

Consecration services were held Sunday, Oct. 14, and were led by Bishop Dwight Loder of Columbus, Ohio, former bishop of the Detroit conference of the United Methodist Church.

Worship services Sunday, Oct. 21, will include dedication of memorials. That includes hymn books, chandeliers in the sanctuary, sconces for wall lighting, "different things of this nature that were brought through monies donated in memory of loved ones."

Dr. Sam Stout will preach at the 9 a.m. service this Sunday and the Rev. Hugh White will preach at 11:15 a.m. Both are former pastors at the First United Methodist Church of Plymouth.

An open house will be 3-5 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 21, and will include tours of the new facility. The laying of the cornerstone will take place that afternoon.

There will also be a "fellowship fair," and those attending will learn about various activities within the church. Refreshments will be served. The public may attend.

First United Methodist Church is at 45201 N. Territorial, west of Sheldon in Plumouth Township. For information on this Sunday's open house, call 453-5280.

So-called paradise frequently illusory I recently came across a whimsical anecdote based on the fantasy of a contemporary Sage. He dreamed that Hell burned down and was utterly consumed. The Celestial Council met in urgent session to decide on a course of action. There was, of course, the logical suggestion that another Hell be built. But one of the angels disagreed: "As long as there was an Eternal Inferno, it had to be, but it is not right to build a new one." "But," said Satan, "we must have a Hell for those who deserve it. We would undermine the principles of justice otherwise." Both protagonists found some support within the council. Neither side would yield and an impasse was reached.

FINALLY, ONE of the wisest in the group proposed a compromise. He pointed out another related problem. Paradise was decrepit and in bad need of repair. A committee had already begun plans for a modernized facility. Therefore, let the old Paradise become the new Hell.

This suggestion was unanimously accepted since no one objected to the building of a new Paradise. Heaven found the answer to its own vexing problem.

This fable teaches a far-reaching truth. Events of recent years have demonstrated beyond doubt that many a "paradise" which required fulfillment of the program of a party or movement turned out to be a verl-among the downtrodden everywhere a hope that Paradise had been found.

Once the greed for wealth was vanguished, mankind would usher in a new era of justice and equality. With the demise of Capitalism, the state would wither away and people would live in amity and brotherhood without the necessity of governmental control.

AS THE YEARS passed, an incalculable record of subjugation, suffering and death revealed the bitter reality of Communism. The disintegration of the Communist empire demonstrates how the hoped-for Heaven of yesterday is the Hell-of today. A new Heaven has to be built.

There were other illusory Paradises. At the beginning of the 20th century, mankind looked to science as a savior. The laboratory scientist rubbed Aladdin's lamp and a genie produced the airplane, radio, television set, satellite, computer, organ transplants - a world was being created in which all would lead lives of carefree ease amid material plenty. Sex isn't always result of an office 'love affair'

The vast chasm between men and women, believed by some to be bridged only when a sexual relationship develops may not be so wide af-

A team of University of Michigan School of Business Administrationn researchers has found that men and women can develop "non-sexual love affairs" on the job and that these associations usually benefit both the couple and the organization.

In the survey of 1,050 managers, 22 percent reported involvement in non-sexual love relationships, four times more than the 5 percent who reported sexual involvement.

The research team, headed by Robert Quinn, assistant professor of organizational behavior and human resource management defined two types of male-female relationships, both deeper emotionally than a platonic affair, a traditional friendship or a mentorship.

In both types, the U-M researcher said, an intense emotional bond develops, characterized by "mutual respect, support, open communication and the feeling that the two form a couple." What the U-M researchers called an Agape (pronounced aw-GAW-pee) or altruistic relationship is more like a deep friendship not defined by gender. The Agape couple deeply trust each other; respect each other's strengths, abilities, beliefs and values; and communicate freely.

A STRONG sexual energy distinguishes the "Eros relationship" from-Agape. Men and women in Eros relationships "have all the feelings of a romance," Quinn said.

"They feel excitement, infatuation, and hear all the bells and whistles of lovers," he said.

Yet in neither relationship do participants engage in sexual activity. Agape couples refrain from sexual intimacy because of other moral commitments - to their marriages, for example, or to a sense of ethics. Eros couples, Quinn sald, stay away from sex because of fear - fear of rejection, or ruining the relationship or fear of company policies.

Individuals involved in both kinds of relationships experience greater personal payoffs in terms of their job than they would from a casual friendship, said Sharon Lobel, visiting assistant professor at the U-M Business School.

couple's co-workers, Quinn noted. "WHEN CO-WORKERS perceive an intimate relationship, they assume the couple is involved sexually," he said. "This can cause reactions because others believe the rewards of the relationship are distributed unevenly - pillow talk, secrets, constant support at staff meetings - and the others can't compete with the currency being exchanged."

Quinn suspects a turning point in close male-female relationships occurs if the couple discuss their mutual attraction.

This may strengthen their rela-"tionship," he said."They are taking a higher moral stand and gaining selfrespect. They can trust each other more while honoring their commitments."

Agape relationship offers some benefits. The more intense the feeling for a co-worker, the better the relationship with the spouse, said doctoral candidate Andrea Warfield, the third member of the research team.

"Having greater motivation, confidence and satisfaction at work makes a person happier at home and that is good for the spouse," she said.

The opposite is true for the Eros relationship. The more intense the "chemistry," the lower the emotional intimacy with the spouse, Lobel said. Although it isn't a "huge finding," it did show that for Eros relationships, the feeling at home falls off somewhat, she explained.

EVEN THOUGH the individuals and indirectly the organization benefit, Quinn is reluctant to advise companies to encourage non-sexual love relationships.

"These relationships do exist, and we know from previous research that managers have a hard time dealing with them," he said. "Most managers tend to ignore them. My advice is if they have a negative impact on the organization, the manager has to make a judgment."

Nevertheless, the U-M researchers believe that as more women join the work force, non-sexual love relations will become more prevalent.

"More women on the job will add a new element to the work place," Lobel; said. "Men compartmentalize their lives more, but this is not so easy for women. Maybe the goal for us is to be who we are wherever we are and not confine our intimacy needs just to the home."

Year round, people can be spotted fishing in the waterways

Bay.

Georgian Bay Fish haven is a 'great catch' for fall

By John Castle special writer

Canadian gasoline prices are outrageous. The currency exchange gap keeps narrowing. But Ontario remains a vacation bargain. With her scenic charms close by, she's tailor-made for the budgetminded weekend traveler.

One of her most picturesque areas is the south shore of Georgian Bay, only 250 miles from metropolitan Detroit.

For years the shoreline has been one of Canada's best-kept secrets. But it's starting to catch on. Condos sprout where fishing camps once stood. Fast food chains crowd the shoreline. The new is replacing the old, but Georgian Bay still has enough rustic charm to go around.

ABOUT TWICE a year, we get Georgian on our mind. The urge hit us again this fall. Why not take a weekend trip to Owen Sound, prowl the Georgian Bay shoreline for a full day, then go back home to Birmingham? Why not?

We gassed up and had breakfast at Port Huron before crossing the Blue Water Bridge into Canada. We got travel literature and exchanged our money ($1.12 Canadian for $1 U.S.) at the Tourist Information Center in Sarnia.

Traveling northeast over nearly deserted country roads, we jig-jogged across Ontario farmland, for four hours. At lunchtime we pulled into the Journey's End motel in Owen Sound.

WITH 20,000 residents, Owen Sound is the largest city on Georgian Bay. It edges a natural harbor and nestles between the cliffs of the Niagara Escarpment. The Syndenham River crashes over the Inglis Falls at nearby Rockford and then meanders quietly through town.

Flanking the Syndenham inside the city is Harrison Park. Its 100 acres boasts tennis courts, wading and swimming pools, play and camp grounds, mini golf, paddle boats, walking and ski trails, and a picturesque inn.

While we were there, a band of joggers flashed by on the last lap of a 3K race. Under the bridge, fishermen stood in ankle-deep water casting bait ineffectually at huge salmon thrashing upstream to spawn.

Anglers are everywhere, but Owen Sound is more than a fishing town. It has museums, modern motels and malls, and a good selection of family ethnic eateries. The Palace, a downtown Chiness restaurant, offers a dinner buffet. The sweet and sour pork melts in your mouth.

WE SPENT, the first afternoon rubbernecking in Owen Sound. After a good night's sleep, we had eggs over easy and thick slices of homemade toasted bread at Smitty's in the Heritage Place Mall. The restaurant was crowded with locals, it's that good.

After breakfast, we took scenic Route 26 along the west shore of the Sound to Wiarton, gateway to the Bruce Peninsula. The Bruce juts 100 miles northward, separating Georgian Bay from Lake Huron. A wilderness trail follows its rocky spine.

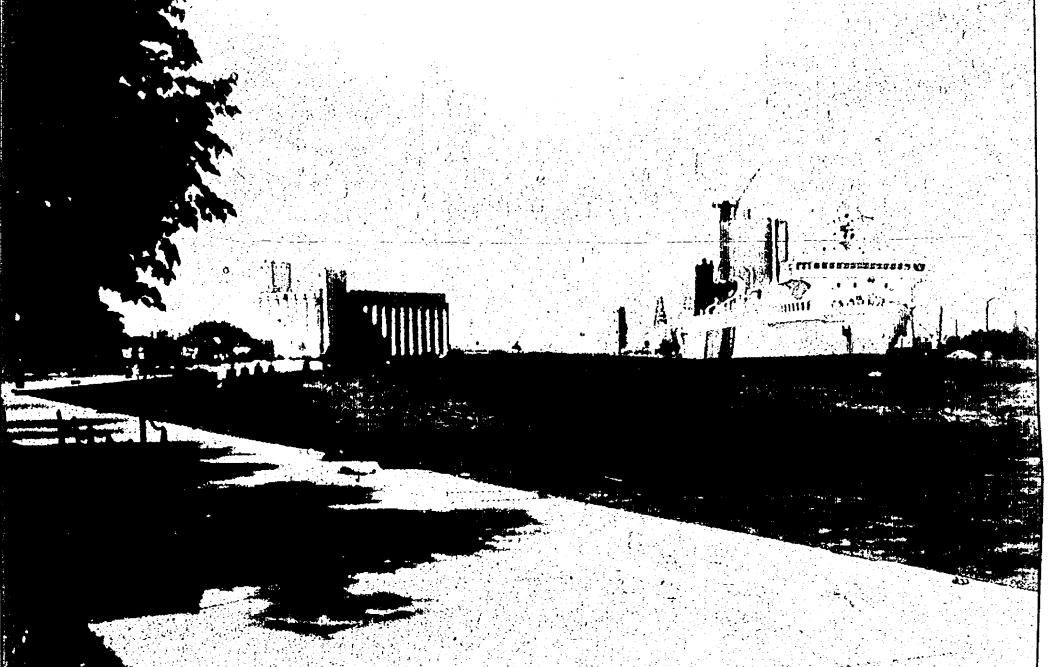

The Bruce Peninsula is a paradise for bird watchers, with more than 170 species. On one trip, a large gaudy bird flashed across the road in front of us. Later we identified the strange bird as a rare pileated woodpecker.

There wasn't much time to explore the Peninsula's 500 miles of shoreline. We had to return to Owen Sound for lunch. Afterward, we would drive eastward_along Georgian Bay, passing through? Meaford, Thornbury and Craigleith to Colling-

Ned Fogle, Recreational Fisheries Specialist for the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, also mixes his fishing enthuslasm with words of caution. "You can run into stormy weather on the big lakes in late fall, and it can even be dangerous to fish from the end of a pier if the waves are high." He also wants to caution ice fishermen against thin ice early and late in the season - it can be good fishing but dangerous territory.

COLLINGWOOD WAS the last stop that afternoon. Once one of Canada's largest ship building centers, it now is experiencing a tourist and vacationer boom. Several years ago, you had a hard time finding a restaurant in town. Now you can hardly walk a block without passing one.

As we drove through Collingwood, passing by the Blue Mountain Pottery store and other familiar landmarks, we had mixed feelings. The Little Red Hen Restaurant was gone. So was the giant cradle with the hull of a Great Lakes freighter nestling in it. Instead, the harbor was almost deserted, except for a small public dock and a yacht club.

At the time we felt cheated. Modern development had stolen our treasure. No longer would we be able to stroll through downtown Collingwood on a Saturday morning with only a handful of pedestrians at our side. No longer could we wander along silent Blue Mountain trails or watch the evening sun sink into the Bay with only seagulis for company.

But as we returned to Birmingham the next-day, our attitude softened. We never really owned Georgian Bay. We just happened to discover her early. She doesn't belong to anyone. Georgian Bay is there for everyone to enjoy.

For more information about Inland, the Blue Mountains provide Georgian Bay, call Ontario Travel day through Friday.

> John Castle is a freelance writer from Birmingham

To go fishing:

Americans 18 years and older need a non-resident Ontario fishing license to fish Georgian Bay. It costs $34.50 for the season, $28.75 for 21 days, $16.25 for four days, all prices in Canadian money. Licenses are sold at most sporting goods stores and marinas.

Coho and chinook salmon fishing is open all year in Georgian Bay and connecting waterways. Rivermouth and rainbow brown trout fishing is open all year in the Pottawatomi and Syndenham rivers at Owen Sound, the Bighead River at Meaford and the Nottawasaga River at Wasaga Beach.

Fall fishing for rainbow and brown trout is extended to December in Thornbury if you fish from the city dam to Georgian Bay. Splake (speckled trout/lake trout hybrid) fishing ended Sept. 30 in Georgian Bay.

Solid base makes house search easier

"Things may come to those who wait, but only the things left by those who hustle." To be assured of a good financial future, one cannot sit back and wait for things to happen but must instead plan and make things happen.

This month's couple, John Wilcox, 31, and Beth Parks, 28, have been married five years and live in Redford with their 1-year-old son. Although young, John and Beth are not just waiting for things to happen but instead are already formulating plans and goals. Two of their major goals are buying a new house within the next year and preparing for their future.

John, an engineer with an auto supplier, earns $28,000. Although his job is secure, he has changed jobs three times in the last five years. Beth is a computer programmer at a local hospital and earns $20,000. John and Beth already have a number of financial strengths that include: Two steady incomes; d Home ownership;

o Few debts:

• Solid cash reserve;

• Plenty of time to reach their long-term goals.

John and Beth purchased their home five years ago shortly after their marriage. The home has increased in value during that time and their equity above the mortgage is about $31,000. They are now looking for a new home in the Livonia area and plan to spend approximately $125,000. One of John's major questions in buying the house is, "Should we put as much as possible down on our new home?"

Their savings, together with the equity they would receive from the sale of their current home, would result in approximately $51,000 for a down payment.

In general, we believe they should not put all of their assets into home equity because it becomes an illiquid investment, and they forego the flexibility of having available cash reserves. In the event of an illness or if Beth decided to stay home for a period of time after having a second child, they would have no reserves to fall back on.

WE WOULD suggest they choose a down payment of 20 to 30 percent, depending on their comfort level with the resulting monthly mortgage payment. If they make the 30 percent down payment, they should ask about the possibility of a tax escrow waiver, which would allow them to pay their taxes themselves. They would then have the use of the money throughout the year rather than making a monthly payment to a tax escrow account under the mortgage?

In keeping with their goals of purchasing a new home, Beth asks: "When we buy a new home, should be choose a fixed or a variable rate mortgage?"

Again, we can only generalize, but our strong preference is for a fixed rate mortgage, especially if John and Beth plan to remain in the new house for more than three years and if they are able to obtain a mortgage rate below 10 percent. With a variable rate loan, there is simply too much risk from a substantial increase in interest rates. If they obtain a fixed rate and interest rates decline significantly, they can always refinance to lock in lower interest rates. The cost of the refinancing is usually a small price to pay for eliminating the risk of a variable rate mortgage.

One gap in the financial planning for John and Beth is that they have done no estate planning. While in their-case, sophisticated planning, including trusts, might not be necessary, serious consideration should be given to executing a will. Generally, all of the property under such a will would go to the spouse and, if the spouse does not survive, to children. But the will also states a person's preference for guardians, and normally provides for a "final takers," that is, the person or persons who will inherit property in the event that the spouse and children do not survive. As assets increase or as family changes occur, estate planning should be looked at more frequently to determine if any other techniques can be used to minimize probate and inheritance and estate

The other primary goal for John and Beth is to provide for their future. As we said, they are young and have a number of years to reach this long-term goal. But it appears they are largely responsible for their own financial security at retirement. Hospitals are not generally known for their generous pension benefits, and John has changed jobs too frequently to be vested in any retirement plan. Clearly they should begin a longterm savings plan to reach their retirement goal.

Beth has been contributing $200 per month to a tax-sheltered annuity almost from the very beginning of her employment. We would strongly encourage her to continue this and gradually increase this as her salary increases. We would also suggest that John attempt to put 10 percent of his income into a long-term savings plan. If his employers offers a 401(k) plan, this would be an excellent place to save. If not, John should gradually build to this 10 percent level in other investment assets such as stocks and mutual funds. Keep in mind that because of their other goals, they may not be able to reach these savings goals immediately but should strive for it as soon as possible.

ANOTHER AREA of financial weakness is inadequate insurance coverage. John and Beth each only have group term insurance through their employers, with John having $28,000 of group term benefit and Beth having a $10,000 benefit. This is clearly a major gap in their financial safety net. One of their biggest financial strengths is their earning power over the next 30 to 35 years. Certainly the financial stability of the family could be in real jeopardy if either John or Beth passed away. We would suggest that each of them have a minimum of $250,000 additional coverage, perhaps using a term insurance policy for cost savings.

Neither John nor Beth currently have long-term disability insurance coverage. John does have coverage with his employer that protects him for six months, then ter-

Financial Strengths:

- Two steady incomes
- Own their home
- Few debts
- Solid cash reserves ☐ Time to reach their long-term goals

Financial Weaknesses:

■ Inadequate life, disability, and liability insurance. No wills or estate plan.

 Minimal company benefits beyond health insurance.

■ No savings started for educational funding.

Beth may want to consider starting minates. Certainly, a disability might be more lengthy than six months, which would cause severe financial hardship again on the family. This would especially be a problem if Beth and John have another child and Beth is unable to work full time. They should investigate long-term disability coverage protection with their insurance. Finally, John and Beth currently have minimum liability coverage under their auto and howmeowner's policies. This should be immediately raised to $100,000 per person/$300,000 per occurrence. The increased costs will be minimal, and if they should ever be sued, the higher limits could well be needed. They might want to add an umbrella rider policy to their homeowner's policy to protect against additional liability. If cash is available, John and a modest savings program for their son's education. Zero coupon bonds maturing at the time of their son's high school graduation or a regular investment of $100 into a stock mutual fund might be appropriate avenues to pursue this.

> MOST COMPANIES will need to gain the assistance of an international marketing firm to translate its standards and goals into a form palatable to Europeans, Hamilton-Lit-

Developing a marketing presence is critical if U.S. goods and services are to be successful in capturing significant parts of the market, Hamilton-Little said.

Entering the European market is healthler than exporting because European countries are already showing signs of protectionism, said David Eberly, a partner with Andover Capital Inc.

Extensive-exporting-could-resultin resentment of foreign products and companies, just as the growing flow of foreign goods has caused resentment in this country, he said.

"THERE ARE also advantages a. company can take when operating there," he said.

Favorable labor rates, worthwhile material costs from local suppliers as well as an improved relationship with local customers all make running an enterprise in Europe more attractive.

A thorough knowledge of the prevailing business environment indicates which businesses will succeed in Europe, Hamilton-Little said.

"By way of example, people don't realize East Germans bought upwards of 150,000 used cars last year," he sald. The East German appetite for cars has made it virtually impossible to buy used cars in other parts of Europe, he said. "WHAT DOES that say? It says there is a huge market for aftermarket materials," Hamilton-Little sald. There will be a great need for car parts and accessories ranging from the necessary to the frivolous.

Now is best time to invest in Europe

"Every automotive-related company in Europe is in East Germany right now and the U.S. XYZ company that builds widgets ought to be there as well."

Eberly of Andover Capital said although the barriers between east and west are crumbling, business must still differentiate between the two.

"Western Europe has very American tastes," he said.

OPPORTUNITIES IN western Europe lie in exploiting the existing consumer market and the coming European economic community.

"The common market gives western Europe a consumer base roughly the size of the U.S. and Japan combined," Eberly said.

Therefore, the services industry rather than manufacturing may offer more of an opportunity, he said, although there will still be opportunities for manufacturing technology and product manufacturing.

Eastern Europe is less westernized and therefore needs the basic economic components that westerners take for granted, Eberly said.

"Eastern Europe's economy is . about to go through a radical transformation.'

Building trades, communications, transportation and heavy building opportunities will be great as Eastern Europe strives to become more "west-like," he said.

Southeast Michigan companies, with their emphasis on heavy manufacturing, should especially look to Eastern Europe, Eberly said.

NOW IS also the time to get in because other European countries especially Germany — will be trying to take advantage of the situation as well, Eberly said.

"Germany will be a dominant power but right now it is preoccupied with digesting (what was once) East Germany.

"There's a sense of urgency," he Potential investors must contend with Asian companies, which will no doubt be looking hungrily at the European market, and competitors from this country as well, he said. But not everyone should invest in Europe, Eberly said. Companies must put their own house in order before going abroad.

Cellular telephone gobbles up automotive writer

I never thought of myself as the cellular phone type. There is something about a cellular phone that makes you think the guy has some kind of big deal going, particularly when he is kind of leaning with his elbow out the window and holds the phone about chin high, nodding like he just closed on a contract worth about 10 grand up front.

Some of my best friends have cellular phones, which is no great endorsement, since some of my friends have something less-than-sterling characters.

Salesmen, mainly, either insurance or small pieces of machinery, which means they can bore you with stories about how much their cellular phone bill is on top of the storles about how much they make in com-

One of them sells cellular phones, which means he can drop big numbers about his cellular phone bill andhis commission on cellular phones at the same time. But I digress.

. I have held off on buying a cellular phone, despite driving about 50,000 miles a year, figuring you can always stop and use a pay phone anyway. Besides, it always looked a little dangerous, sort of like trying to watch TV while driving, and, frankly, the image was a little tacky, one step shy of a leisure suit.

I THINK I changed my mind when

auto talk Dan . McCosh

Angeles, and a gentlemen leaning a cellular phone, you just have to against the phone gave me a hard stare and sald, "I'm going to shoot you, right between the eyes.'

"I'm from Detroit," I replied, and he ran off. But after that, I figured you can't be too careful, so I went out and and someone from Cellular One or AT&T will stuff one in your hand along with a contract to sign up for phone service.

stand still for about three minutes

These two companies are competing so hard, they discount the phones to attract new customers, even give them away. It's the contract that you have to watch out for.

My suspicions were raised when the guy nicked both our arms and held them together to mix our blood before he would give me the phone.

Along with the phone, you get a couple of books that tell you all the codes that make it work, which means that along with trying to dial a phone while driving, you also are trying to read a book of instructions.

I have to apologize to the person who owns the house with my tire tracks across the front lawn, a side trip that resulted from my concentrating too long on page 12.

I QUICKLY GOT the hang of it, however. The modern phones even have code numbers to dial automatically, which is supposed to help your keep your eyes on the road.

That helps. It takes a while to get over shock of your first phone bill, since the contract you signed means you have to pay for both incoming and outgoing calls, plus extra charges for accidentally intercepted police dispatches.

But now I can lean back, put my left arm out the window and take mycalls, looking expansive and on the fast track.

"You know, you look like a jerk when you use that thing" is how my wife puts it.

Recession is headed our way

By 8id Mittra special writer

For some time my clients have been asking me if we are in a recession. My answer is: Not yet, but we will soon be there.

Take a look at the accompanying table. Even before the beginning of the Middle East oll crisis, the U.S. economy was headed toward a recession.

During the first quarter of 1990, the real GNP increased 1.7 percent, and the increase slowed to barely 1 percent during the second quarter. Now that the rising oil prices, escalating war costs and bigger budget deficits are imposing severe restraints on the economy, the forecast calls for no economic growth during the latter part of this year.

NOT EVERYONE shares my pessimism. Many analysts appear confident that there will be no recession and the economy will be heading north in 1991.

These economists base their predictions on three major assump-

Whether you accept these assumptions, you can't deny that we are facing serious economic problems stemming from uncertainties that surround us.

Prospect inactive customers when looking for more sales

Throughout this series, I have frequently made use of the term "current and potential customers" to identify two of the major target markets served by any business organization. But what about the forgotten "third" market - your firm's inactive customers?

Believe it or not, this market may represent your greatest opportunity for increased sales. Before spending time and money on promotional strategies to attract "current and potential customers" this year or next, you may want to focus on this potential business that's right under your nose.

RESEARCH CONDUCTED on the topic indicates that active customers become inactive when a business stops paying attention to them. A much-smaller percentage ceases dealing with organizations because of unresolved complaints or inferior products and services.

The data here suggests that customers should never be taken for granted if you expect them to remain loyal over the long term.

The first step in bringing your dead customers back to life is to identify who they are. Using your customer list as a guide, isolate those who have not done business with you as often as can reasonably focus: small business Mary DiPaolo

DEPENDING ON the nature of your business, customers may be considered inactive after as little as two weeks or as long as two years.

Prepare a letter to all of these inactive accounts. Let them know what is going on in your business and give them one or more good reasons to start buying from you again. It is, of course, vital to emphasize how valued these customers are to your company.

If you operate a retail business, don't make the mistake of sending out fliers or coupons in lieu of a letter. The same rule applies for business service firms that merely mail out newsletters or announcements to their inactive accounts.

These supplementary materials may be included with a letter, they but do nothing to prompt the reactivation process.

REMEMBER THAT the purpose of this first contact is to get your foot in the door so you can begin to rebuild your former relationship.

If an inactive customer does notrespond to your initial letter(s), trycalling him or her personally by phone. Ask why the individual or their organization has stopped dealing with your business.

If they mention a past conflict or: complaint, resolve it right away. Then you will be in a better position. to offer customer incentives that work for your business rather thanagainst it.

In general, it takes a minimum of :four contacts during a 30-day period. to re-establish your business identity. with inactive customers.

It takes approximately 60 days. and from four to six contacts before. these customers become active once.

Credit unions under attack by banking competitors

If profit oriented competitors in the financial services industry and their Washington lobbyists get their way, credit unions may become a thing of the past.

The ability of credit unions to satisfy the needs of their members has raised some hackles among bankers, who claim they are being unfairly hurt by credit union competition. Banking lobbyists are leveling unfounded attacks. on the nation's credit unions with the goal being to hamper the ability of credit unions to serve their members through unfavorable legislation in Washington.

Specifically, the banking industry is attacking credit unions for unsound business practices and calling for federal taxation of credit unions. Here are the facts:

The credit union system has been and continues to be strong and safe a track record that banks and thrifts can only look upon with envy.

Survey after survey indicates that credit union members are far more satisfied with their financial institutions than customers of banks or thrifts.

Congress in 1934 exempted credit unions from the federal corporate income tax in recognition of credit unions' unique nature as not-for-profit financial cooperatives. Given that the alternative to for-profit institutions.

non-profit, member-service nature of credit unions hasn't changed, there is no reason to change their tax exempt

The facts may be on the side of credit unions, but the banking effort may still succeed - unless credit union members act. Let your representatives in Washington know what you think. Write or phone your congressional representative and Michigan's two U.S. senators and tell them that your credit union is important to you, that you don't want Congress or the bankers tampering with the services you receive.

What's at stake? Credit union members are aware of the advantages credit unions offer in terms of fair earnings for savers and reasonable rates for borrowers. As memberowned, non-profit financial cooperatives, credit unions stand apart from other financial institutions in their unique commitment to service.

It's simple: At a bank, you're a customer, and the bottomline is profit for stockholders. At a credit union, you're a member, and the bottom line is service to you.

It is vital that credit unions continue to serve as a safeguard against financial monopoly by remaining a viable

Borrow and save with a 'common bond'

ings and loan? Why should you be a tion. credit union member instead of a bank customer?

These are good questions. When you know the answers, you'll see why a credit union is a good place to borrow and save.

First of all, a credit union is a notfor-profit organization and is not reguired to earn a profit for outside and improved services to members.

Secondly, a credit union can be easily described as a "cooperative bank." All credit union users are members,

When you open a savings account at a credit union, not only do you become a member, but an owner as well. As an owner, you have the right to attend annual meetings, vote for the board of directors and serve in any elected position. Directly or indirectly, you can help shape and control the institution that serves your financial needs.

As a credit union member, you'll often enjoy interest rates that are more favorable than a bank's. The members who set the credit union's interest rates use the services themselves, so they have a personal interest in establishing and maintianing competitive rates. As you can see, a credit union is guite different from a bank or savings and loan. Credit union borrowers and savers are members, not simply customers. They have a unique stake in "their" financial institution, and they share in its success.

Credit unions: a better deal in banking service

Credit unions have never played follow-the-leader.

Your credit union takes pride in being different from other financial institutions. The credit union is owned by you the member. You elect the volunteers who set the credit union's policies and oversee its operation. Because credit unions are non-profit cooperatives with a mission of service to their members, they can usually give you a better deal than you could get at other financial institutions.

But because of our success, our competition has redoubled its attacks on us, aided by a fragile, emotional financial climate.

We are witnessing increasing consolidation and homogenization in the financial services industry - the S&L industry is fading away and banks themselves are undergoing consolidation. In addition, foreign banks are moving into U.S. financial services.

The financial marketplace is becoming dominated by large institutions that look more and more like each other. Financial services are increasingly controlled by faceless people far away.

Your credit union will never be owned by outsiders. It will always be owned by you. But if our competitors succeed in rewriting credit union legislation, they will weaken your credit union and the entire Credit Union Sys-

All members are being asked to help in our grassroots effort to contact legislators to express our concern and to indicate that we like our credit unions just the way they are and don't want to give them up. Your credit union is working with its state and national organizations to fight the threat we face on the legislative front.

A TRADITION PRESERVING

Lawmakers from every state and district are feeling the political backlash from the nation's largest bailout of financial institutions. Because of the savings and loan crisis. Congress may soon consider a restructuring of the entire financial services community as part of a solution.

CREDIT UNIONS ARE WORTH PROTECTING

Even though they are not part of the S&L problem, the overhaul could sweep credit unions under the banking system, thus eliminating them as the only available notfor-profit alternative for millions of consumers who use financial services.

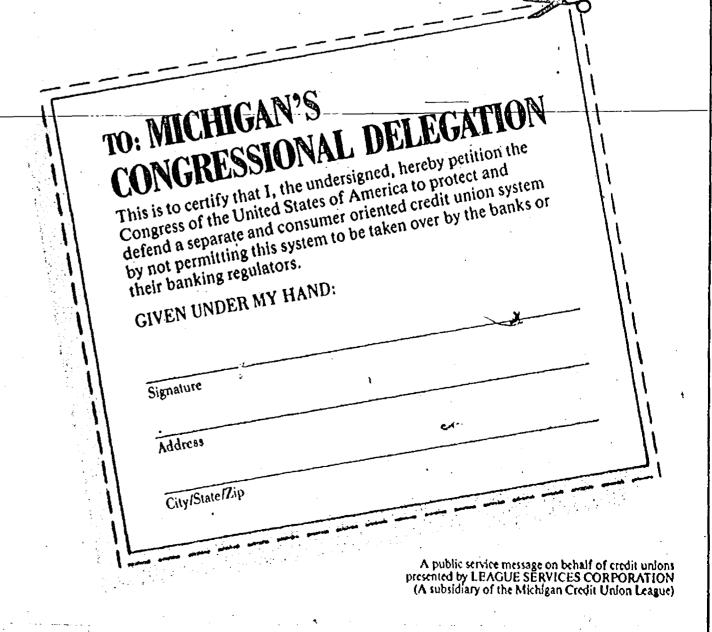

As true cooperative organizations that put people ahead of profit, credit unions are worth protecting. They urgently need your help. Please voice your support by completing the simple petition form below. All you have to do is sign your name, write in your address and mail it to:

Protect Credit Unions Michigan Credit Union League P.O. Box 5210 Detroit, MI 48235

We'll see that your petition is delivered directly to your representatives in Congress. Thank you.

In recent years, credit unions have begun moving beyond the traditional saving and lending services. Some now offer the most modern financial orders, credit and debit cards, automated teller machines (ATMs), home mortgage loans, and financial planning programs. *

LOANS. Everyone needs a loan at one time or another, and credit unions have traditionally been recognized as a good place to get one. Interest rates are typically as low or lower than those of other lenders, and it's often easier to get a loan at a credit union because consideration is given to the borrower's character and ability to repay, instead of just the collateral availservices available anywhere, such as able. Many credit unions also provide IRAs, certificates of deposit, money Loan Protection insurance at no additional cost. Is consumer credit a friend or foe?

If used properly, credit can help you enjoy a variety of goods and services without hurting your budget: Improperly used, it can leave you a long string of debts and overdue

There are many sources of credit, and they each offer something different. Credit is available from department stores, banks, finance companies, credit union and credit cards. The store where you buy that $499 TV may offer the following deal if you don't have the $499 in ready cash.

You pay for the TV in monthly installements of $31.85 each. After the 18th payment, the TV is yours free and clear. That's about a dollar a day - not bad. But is it really such a good deal after all?

If you pay $31.85 a month for 18 months, it works out to $573.30 in total payments for a $499 television. That means you are paying $74.30 (the difference) for the privilege of paying the store monthly instead of all at once. This is one form of credit, and the store is charging you $74.30 to use it. That works out to a true annual interest rate of 18.8 percent, which is approximately what you can expect to pay in interest on most installment credit plans offered by retail merchants.

Any lender is required by the Truth-In-Lending laws to quote you the TRUE ANNUAL INTEREST (also known as the Annual Percentage Rate) in a credit offer. This allows you to quickly determine which lender is offering the best rate.

When you borrow or use other forms of credit, do so only within your ability to repay. Otherwise you'll be stuck with monthly payments you can't afford, and some of the items you purchase on credit could be repossessed by the credi-

One factor which often determines your access to credit is your CREDIT RATING Your credit rating is determined by how well you pay your bills, how long you have lived at your present address, how long and where you have been employed, what you earn and other points regarding your financial dependability. Lenders usually want to know these things before extending credit. They can obtain your official credit rating by checking with a local credit bureau

Your credit rating will be stronger if you have a job, have lived at your current address for a few years, have paid your bills on time, have The rate is about the same or maintained a regular savings program at a local financial institution, and it generally ranges from 12-21 and have used credit previously.

Computers help make learning fun, exciting

The Rochester Community invading the first grade this year. Schools are nibbling around the edges of a grand experiment. The school board is examining ways to use computers and other advanced electronsic tools in a so-called Classroom of othe Future. The idea isn't to replace -teachers. It's to give them a whole slew of new tools to make learning texciting to a bunch of kids who don't pseem to get very excited about sit--ding for hours in a classroom.

... Now there's a revolutionary idea: .make learning exciting. I wish someone had thought of that when I was a kid. The fact is that in my experience kids and computers are about the most natural combination since Oreos and milk. Take the example of my two rug rats. Mike is a strapping young third grader and Michelle is puter instruction. I think we've got a problem there.

HERE'S ANOTHER one. I heard a group of people talking about this subject recently and one lady made the comment that she was sure that these computers were going to try to replace teachers. That's kinda cute. Computers trying. I think she gave the machines a bit more credit for independent action than they deserve

The fact is that if we take the natural combination of kids and computers, throw in a creative teacher, mix it up well with good classroom materials which the computer helps reinforce and, gosh, we might catch up to the educational systems of the rest of the world. Our kids might actually learn something . . . another radical concept. You know, as I think about it, they might even enjoy learning. That's almost too much to hope for.

The classroom of the future is an exciting concept when you realize what's involved. These tools I've been talking about are lots more than personal computers. They include video production, connection to the local cable TV system, links to satellites, hookups over TV channels to children in classrooms all over the world, and multimedia teaching programs that let students simulate the results of a theoretical process.

When was the last time youthought about applying some concept, for example, the design of a plane, to the real thing? The classroom of the future would let an engineering student design an airplane and simulate flying it by computer. If the design turned out to be a flop, the only thing that would get hurt would be the kid's grade. Of course the instructor still has to instruct. but the flight time is a lot safer.

THE CLASSROOM of the future is or BIX (pstephenson).

expensive. Even the people who want to create it don't know how expensive it really is. But I can tell you, boys and girls, it's worth every penny. Our kids are, whether we agree or not, going to grow up in a technical world. And if America is going to compete in tomorrow's economy, we'd better prepare ourkids right. And you know the really neat thing about it? The kids will absolutely love it. And that's the inside scoop!

UNFORTUNATELY, THESE DAYS, NOT ALL COUPLES END UP LIVING HAPPILY EVER AFTER.

25 PERCENT OF ALL MARRIAGES END IN DIVORCE.

While last year there were over 29,000 couples married in the tricounty area, there were also an astounding 16,000 divorces.

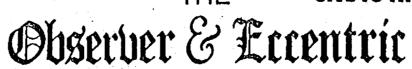

Now, more than ever, the United Way Torch Drive needs your donation to provide family counseling and support for thousands. Plus your contribution will aid more than 150 agencies that feed the hungry, conduct medical research, fight child abuse.

Please, this year, give generously to the United Way Torch Drive.

Before fairy-tale marriages become a thing of the past.

Give a little piece of your heart.

Michigan State Solicitation MICS 2123

Did you know that . . .

• A low total cholesterol level does not necessarily confer "immunity" to heart disease. Twenty percent of all heart attacks occur in people who have cholesterol levels that are under 200! These occur, almost invariably, in people with low HDL ("good" cholesterol) values, that is, below 40.

• According to a recent study, subjects who performed three 10minute exercise bouts each day showed the same improvement in heart-lung fitness as those who exercised for 30 minutes continuously. The investigators concluded that how long one exercises at one time is really less important than the total amount of activity we do in one day.

• Although some people claim that garlic lowers blood cholesterol and inhibits blood clotting, which reduces the risk of heart attack, there is no good scientific evidence to support this notion. Be assured, however, that a large consumption of garlic will almost certainly keep your friends and family at a distance.

• A just-published report showed that excessive carbon monoxide exposure markedly increased the frequency of potentially dangerous heart rhythm irregularities during exercise. Cardiac patients, in particular, were cautioned to avoid exerclsing in highly polluted air.

• The most common reaction to the symptoms of a heart attack is denial. This is unfortunate, since the greatest risk of death from a heart attack is within the first two hours after onset. When a heart attack is even suspected, the victim should obtain immediate medical attention.

• Most studies suggest that exercise in moderation does not have harmful effects on the fetus in physically fit women who are continuing regular exercise into their pregnancies. Physician approval, however, remains as the best guideline for in-dividual cases. A specific set of sanctioned exercise recommendations may be obtained by writing directly to The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, 600 Maryland Ave., SW, Suite 300, Washington, D.C.

Barry A. Franklin, Ph.D., is director of the Cardiac Rehabilitation and Exercise Laboratories, William Beaumont Hospital, Royal Oak, and associate professor of physiology, Wayne State University School of Medicine.

Despite rumors, there's no evidence garlic will ward off heart disease — but large quantities may ward off friends.

Spartans capture 2nd at WLAA meet

By Brad Emons staff writer

Farmington Harrison coach Bernie Goldstein hasn't lost his memory, but he forgot the last time his girls won a Western Lakes Activities Association tennis championship.

"It's been seven or eight years," he said. "I don't remember that far back, but I can tell you this felt very good."

The Hawks, who scored a point in in all seven flights, edged host Livonia Stevenson for the team title Tuesday by a single point, 17-16, gaining their first crown since 1984. Northville and surprising Walled Lake Central tied for third with 15 points each. See statistical sum-

Going into the meet, three teams had legitimate shots at the title. Three teams sported identical 10-1 dual meet records - Harrison, Stevenson and Northville.

Stevenson had beaten Harrison earlier in the year in a dual meet, 4-3, but the pivotal match which turned the tide in favor of the Hawks was Tuesday's No. 2 doubles final, where sophomores Kristi Cornwell and Melissa Prendergast avenged a loss to Stevenson's top seeds, the Bailey sisters, Karen and Lori, 6-1,

"WHEN THEY (the Bailey sisters) beat us before, Kristi and Melissa were playing for the first time this year," Goldstein said. "They weren't quite ready yet, but last Friday they went to the (Class B) regional finals and they're playing well together now."

Meanwhile, Stevenson coach George Croll was hopeful his team could gain the WLAA title after his team qualified for the state meet for first time since 1985. (The Class A. fourney starts Friday in Midland.)

AS EXPECTED, Harrison's Kori Davidson, the defending state (Class B) champ who hasn't lost a set in two years at No. 1 singles, won handily over Jackie Brown of Walled Lake Central in the final, 6-3, 6-1.

Another Harrison finalist was Lisa Tomle (No. 3 singles). She lost to top seed Stephanie Geelhood of Central, 6-1, 6-2, but picked up a three critical points in the process.

At No. 2 singles, Harrison's Merrilyn Onisko scored two points by reaching the semifinals. Winning the flight was Stevenson's Italian exchange student Chiara Granocchia, the top seed, who ran her record to 18-1 with a 6-2, 6-2 triumph over Central's Dee Geelhood. (Granocchia was a regional finalist.)

Central, which boasted a finalist in all four singles flights, took the No. 4 crown when Laura Banion upended Northville's Kavitha Sriraman, the top seed, 6-1, 6-3.

"Walled Lake Central helped us a lot in singles," Goldstein sald. "And of course we knew Kori would be an automatic four points. Lisa Tomle also reached the finals and that helped, but it was a team effort by

Rocks begin reign

By Dan O'Meara staff writer

Plymouth Salem made history in boys soccer Wednesday night and, for the time being, settled the question of who is No. 1 in Observerland. After years of being runner-up to

Livonia Stevenson in the Lakes Division, the Rocks got to the championship game this year and made it a clean sweep. Senior forward Andy Cosenza scored both goals as Salem defeated host Livonia Churchill 2-0 and won its first Western Lakes Activities Association title. "It's similar to the girls winning the state - it's the first time," Salem coach Ken Johnson said. "It was a goal from the beginning of the sea-

WITH THE victory, Salem upheld its No. 1 ranking in Observerland and improved its record to 15-1-1. The Rocks were rated No. 4 in the state this week.

Churchill, No. 2 in the area and state, suffered its first loss and stands at 11-1-2 overall.

The WLAA finalists could cross paths again next week in a district game Wednesday night at Churchill. The Rocks must beat Plymouth Canton and the Chargers get past Livonia Franklin in first-round games Monday for that to happen.

"For now it's nice (to be on top)," Johnson said. "I'd say on any given day Salem, Churchill or Stevenson could take anyone in the state."

Winning the league title was especlally gratifying, Johnson added, because the Rocks had to beat a fine team that forced Salem to make a vigilant defense of its goal.

The Chargers had the wind -- and it was fairly strong - at its back in the first half, and Churchill pressed the attack in Salem's end for the first 20 minutes.

"WE WERE in control quite a bit in the first half, but we weren't taking many shots," Churchill coach Mark Mason said. "In the second half, we were just off target or wide.

"We weren't able to free up Dominic Vella like we wanted. We were hoping to draw off the sweeper and work up the wing. But our halfbacks weren't getting the ball enough and it wasn't going through, so Dominic was double-teamed most of the night."

Salem's defense of Ryan Fitzpatrick, Jake Baker, Mait Lee and Chris Lajoy - termed The Iron Wall by Johnson - managed to hold off the Chargers with much help from the midfield until Salem could get something going.

The Rocks got a big lift when Cosenza scored his first goal just 1:23 before halftime. John Truskowski's corner kick was deflected to the other side where Cosenza drilled the rebound.

"I was left wide open," Cosenza said. "I saw the ball come down off the kid's head and put it right in there."

That enabled Salem, with the wind in its favor, to begin the second half holding the upper hand.

"IF WE HELD them 0-0 against the wind, I thought we'd take it," Johnson said. "It was tough. I was glad to get that first goal.

"We always want to win the toss and get the wind in the first half, because the other team sometimes gets tired defending. Or then you're too tired to use it in the second half."

Churchill thought it had scored the tying goal at 33:19 in the second half after Mike Gentile and Salem goalkeeper Derek Olson, who recorded his 10th shutout, went up for the ball simultaneously.

Gentile subsequently got behind Olson and knocked the ball into the net, but the goal was disallowed because Gentile was said to have interfered with the keeper. "That was a call I'd never heard before," Mason said. "Apparently, the keeper can't be challenged inside the goal box. "I've never heard of a player not being able to go up for the ball when the goalle goes for it. That's a new "THAT TAKES a lot of momentum out when you score a goal and was a big letdown." Cosenza, who leads the Rocks with 18 goals and 21 assists, scored again six minutes later.

have it taken back," he added. "It

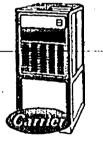

Lajoy dropped the ball behind the defense, and Cosenza, who was rushing toward the goal, had a wide open shot. The Chargers wanted an offsides call, but the referee ruled the ball was in the air before Cosenza ran through.

"Their goals were back-door plays, and we just didn't cover them correctly," Mason said. "We'll have to work on our back-post defense more and try to free up Dominic so he can go one-on-one."

theran Westland, which pulled away late to secure a 68-60 girls basketball win over visiting Rochester Hills Lutheran Northwest.

The Warriors, 10-4 overall and 2-2 in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference, led by three after three quarters and outscored the visitors, 20-15, in the fourth.

Kristen Strang added 12 points for Lutheran Westland, which lost earlier in the year at Northwest.

"It was very close the whole way," Lutheran Westland coach Kim Melton said. "We ran every chance we got and wore them out with the full-court press. We got a little revenge tonight. They're our rival and we never know what to expect."

Northwest jumped out to a 14-11 lead after one quarter, but Lutheran Westland outscored the visitors 25-17 in the second quarter for a $6-31 halftime lead.

Allison Guetzkow led three Northwest players in double figures with 19 points. Northwest is 11-3 overall and 2-3 in the MIAC.

WARREN BETHESDA 51, HURON VALLEY 37: Nicole List scored 10 points, including a trio of three-point field goals, but it couldn't produced a win Tuesday for host Westland Huron Valley.

Warren Bethesda outscored Huron Valley, 19-5, in the fourth quarter to pull away and improve to 3-1 in the MIAC.

Huron Valley fell to 5-8 overall and 2-3 in the league. Brett Bilberti led Bethesda with 15 points. Huron trailed, 26-20, at halftime, but tied the game at 32 by outscoring

Bethesda, 12-6, in the third quarter. FARMINGTON MERCY 66, LADYWOOD 54: Carrie Walton scored 22 points Tuesday to help Farmington Hills Mercy coach Larry Baker record an even more impressive statistic; his 300th career victory as Marlins coach. Mercy, 10-4 overall and 4-3 in the Catholic League's Central Division, led 31-23 at halftime and held on to beat the Blazers in the game played at Redford Catholic Central. The loss leaves Ladywood at 4-9 overall and 2-5 in the division.

The Blazers pulled to within five in the fourth quarter, but they didn't have enough to catch the Marlins, who lost their last two division games.

"The effort was there 100 percent," Ladywood coach Tonl

Stephanie Locke scored 27 points Tuesday for Lu- Gasparovic said. "We never gave up. We're young and taking our bumps and brulses right now," Senior forward Rebecca Willey led Ladywood with a teamhigh 22 points and teammate Mary Jo Kelly added 15. Kathleen Berrigan and Kathleen Gerigk contributed 10 points aplece to Mercy's attack.

Walton was the toughest Mercy player, however, adding 10 steals, seven rebounds and six assists to her all-around performance.

W.L. WESTERN 52, JOHN GLENN 51: Holly Miller's steal and layup with four seconds left Tuesday gave Walled Lake Western a one-point win over host Westland John Glenn in a Western Lakes Activities Association crossover

Dawn Godfrey scored a game-high 21 points and Miller had 19 for Western, which evened its WLAA record at 4-4. Cathy Mruk had 20 points and nine rebounds to lead Glenn, now 4-10 overall and 1-7 in the WLAA. Carrie Rachwal scored 11 points for Glenn, which led 19-14 after one quarter. PLYMOUTH SALEM 61, CHURCHILL 29: Chrissy Daly and Alyssa Belaire combined for 27 of Livonia

Churchill's 29 points Tuesday in a loss to one of the WLAA's leading contenders, Plymouth Salem. Churchill fell to 6-7 overall and 3-5 in the WLAA. Salem is 12-2 overall and 8-0 in league play. Daly had 16 points and Belaire 11 to lead Churchill. Cyndi Platter and Yolanda Jackson, a pair of sophomores, led Salem with 16 and 12 points, respectively.

MONROE 35, WAYNE MEMORIAL 32: Wayne Memorial dropped to 3-8 overall and 2-5 in the Wolverine A Conference, losing a heartbreaker at Monroe.

Michelle Ernst, a senior, led Wayne with 11 points. Wayne struggled after its best ballhandler, Lotten Holmgren, fouled out with four minutes remaining in the third

LUTHERAN EAST 73, CLARENCEVILLE 12: Kelly Probert had 12 points Tuesday as Harper Woods Lutheran East rolled to an easy Metro Conference win over host Livonia Clarenceville.

Clarenceville is 1-9 overall and 1-7 in the Metro. Lutheran East remained unbeaten in eight Metro games. Rhonda Saunders led Clarenceville with four points.

Contrary to popular belief, there was more than a football game going on Saturday in Ann Arbor.

Not far from the site of the Michlgan-Michigan State, Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard hosted its own cross country invitational, held at Buhr Park. In the girls competition, Lutheran Westland came away victorious in the nine-team Division II race, scoring 44 points.

T'S NECK-AND-NECK going into the home stretch.

Week No. 8 will probably make or break your friendly prognosticators, who are locked in a dead heat, each sporting identical 84-21 records after each posted 11-4 marks last week.

And unlike previous weeks, there are several pick'em-type games, starting with the Western Lakes Activitiès Association championship game (1 p.m. Saturday) when unbeaten Westland John Glenn goes to Farmington Harrison.

Week No. 8 also has post-season playoff implications.

Observerland teams still in the hunt for playoff berths include Glenn, Harrison, Plymouth Canton, Wayne Memorial, Redford Catholic Central, Plymouth Salem and Redford Bishop Borgess.

The final two weeks will determine who makes it and who does not. The winner of the Glenn-Harrison game will virtually be assured a spot in the state tournament.

Here is a closer look at this week's card.

> FRIDAY'S GAMES (all games at 7:30 p.m.)

Lutheran East at Liv. Clarenceville: The Trojans (4-3, 3-3) made a respectable showing last week against unbeaten Metro Conference leader Auburn Hills Avondale before losing 23-6. Quarterback Kendrick Harrington, who was keyed on, was held to 76 yards in 19 carries. This week, Harper Woods Lutheran East (3-4, 3-3) brings in tailback James Tubbs, who scored all 34 points in a 34-12 win last week over Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook. Tubbs, who rushed for 210 yards in 13 carries against the Cranes. has already topped the 1,000-mark and score 17 touchdowns. Picks: Emons takes Clarenceville, but O'Meara points toward the East.

Redford Union at Waterford Mott: This non-league game pits two teams with Identical 2-6 records. The Panthers are coming off a tough overtime loss to Woodhaven, while Mott couldn't hold a 20-19 halftime lead, losing to a good Pontiac Northern team, 37-26. Picks: RU can't make Mott into apple sauce.

Red. Thurston at D.H. Crestwood: The Eagles (2-5, 2-4), who moved the ball the previous two weeks, managed just 37 face more pressure than he's seen in quit total yards in a 24-0 loss to Tri-River some time. Picks: Emons says Glenn wins League leader Allen Park. Meanwhile, Dearborn Heights Crestwood dumped rival Annapolis, 24-7. Chuck Reynolds leads Crestwood's offense against Thurston's defense, led by Greg Sirlani and Steve Koss. Picks: Both prognosticators go with the home team:

the world going down to Monroe (3-4, 3-3). They can claim a share of the Wolverine A title and keep their state playoff hopes alive. Monroe is coming off a 28-22 loss to Belleville. Is an ambush awaiting Observerland's Cinderella story? Picks: Wayne's defense holds up.

N. Farmington at Ply. Canton: Can-North (4-3) play spoiler now after its hopes were dashed for a Class A state playoff berth? Two more Canton victories and the Chiefs will be in the playoffs. This is an even matchup on paper, but Canton (6-1) appears to have the momentum going. Picks: Stick with the Chlefs this week, both agree:

Ply. Salem at Northville: Another evenup encounter. Northville won the first meeting between the two teams, 21-14. Salem is coming on and could be primed for the upset. Northville quarterback Ryan Huzjak must be contained if the Rocks (5-2) are going to stay in the playoff hunt. Northville (5-2), a 24-21 loser last week to Canton, is playing at home. Picks: Emons rolls with the Rocks, but O'Meara likes Northville.

Farmington at Liv. Churchill: Both teams are searching for their first win, that's enough incentive right there. Churchill is low in numbers, while Farmington narrowly missed winning its first game of the season for first-year coach Bernie Call before getting nipped by Walled Lake Central, 14-13. Picks: Farmington puts one in the win column, both

Liv. Stevenson at Walled Lake Western (at W.L. Central): Stevenson (3-4) has gone scoreless for four straight games, while Western (1-6) is coming off a 35-0 loss to Farmington Harrison. Stevenson, a 41-0 loser last week to Glenn, should be able to match up physically with the Warriors. Picks: Stevenson pulls one out of the hat.

SATURDAY'S GAMES (all games at 1 p.m. unless noted)

Westland Glenn at Farm. Harrison: This will be the fourth straight meeting between the two schools for the WLAA title. Harrison has won the last two out of three. The series is tied at 2-2. Glenn quarterback Lawrence Scheffer may be forced to go to the air more than he's accustomed to, while Harrison quarterback Plamen Magdevski will more than likely in overtime, but O'Meara favors the Walled Lake Central at Liv. Franklin: The Patriots (2-5) got a much-needed shot in the arm last week by beating rival Churchill, 14-0, while Central (2-5) held on against Farmington by a point. Garrden City at Clarkston: The Cougars (3-4) have been in every ballgame this year with the exception of Ypsilanti Lincoln. Clarkston (5-2), however, might be the toughest opponent on GC's schedule this season. The Wolves, rated No. 7 last week in Class AA (Region I), pounded Waterford Kettering last week, 31-7, as quarterback Dugan Fife hit 13of-18 passes for 174 yards. Picks: Clarkston is too much for the Cougars.

N. Branch Weşleyan at Lutheran Westland: The Warriors (4-3) are looking to snap a two-game losing skid against North Branch Wesleyan, a team which gained a rare win last week against Rochester Hills Lutheran Northwest. Last year North Branch had to forfeit because of a lack of players. The school's enrollment is a meager 87. Picks: Lutheran Westland wins comfortably, both agree:

Redford CC vs. H.W. Notre Dame (7:30 p.m. at Liv. Clarenceville): Believe it or not, this is for the Catholic League's Central Division championship. Notre Dame (4-3, 2-1) is coming off a 23-16 overtime loss to Southgate Aguinas, white CC (5-2, 3-0) is primed for a rematch next week in the Silverdome against Detroit DePorres. Picks: CC is going to Pontiac and keeps its playoff hopes alive.

Bishop Borgess vs. Royal Oak Shrine (7:30 p.m. R.O. Kimball, 7:30 p.m.): The Spartans (5-2, 3-1) can gain a share of the Tri-Sectional Division title with a victory, while Shrine (3-4, 2-2) is coming off an 8-7 loss to Orchard Lake St. Mary's. It's not going to be an easy task for a Borgess team which must regroup defensively after a 36-30 loss last week to Saginaw Nouvel. Picks: Borgess gives coach Walt Bazylewicz a piece of the title.

SUNDAY'S GAME

Red. St. Agatha vs. St. Alphonsus (1 p.m. at Dearborn Fordson): A season filled with promise for the Aggles (1-6, 1-3) has gone sour. The Aggies are without quarterback Brian Kutch, who is gone for the season. They will probably start Brian Wilson at quarterback. But before it's all over, Wilson could be at fullback and sophomore John Goddard may be taking snaps from center. Winless St. Alphonsus, meanwhile, is seeking its first win of the season for coach Kurt Wentzel, a former Aggie assistant.

Redford Thurston's homecoming had just about everything you could ask for - colorful floats, pretty queens and plenty of enthusiastic fans.

But something was missing Saturday, most importantly a football victory by the home team, as visiting Allen Park, unbeaten and leaders of the Tri-River League, put'on an impressive passing display en route to a convincing 24-0 victory.

Quarterback Kent Sikora, a left-hander with a feathery touch, was the major obstacle in Thurston's path, completing nine of 16 passes for 214 yards and two touchdowns.

"He (Sikora) has a great arm," said opposing coach Bob Snell of Redford Thurston. "We did a fairly good job of shutting down their power running attack, but they had more weapons than we could handle. Their quarterback hurt us and their receivers made it tough. They're an impressive team, and they start 16 or so juniors."

On the opening play of the second quarter, Sikora hit Nick Kilburg with a 25-yard pass to the Thurston 4.

Jeff Sluss capped the 71-yard drive with a 1-yard dive. He kicked the extra point with 11:06 left in the half to make it 7-0 for the Jaguars.

With 51 seconds left in the half, Sikora hit a wideopen Jason Paulowski over the middle for a 36-yard touchdown strike. Sluss' extra point made it 14-0 at intermission. The drive covered 62 yards in five plays. It took just four plays and 2:15 to go 71 yards for the with Chris Prisby on a 59-yard TD pass. Sluss, who kicked the extra point, later added a 24yard field goal with 2:13 remaining in the third period to close out the scoring.

Allen Park racked up 334 yards total offense to Thurston's 37.

"We felt good about our offense coming in because we had moved the ball against Melvindale the week before," Snell said. "But offensively we laid an egg.

Their defense just stoned us. "They had much better speed and their getting to the ball was very impressive. We made quite a few assignment mistakes. Their penetration shut down our traps. We couldn't get outside. And when we went to throw, they pressured our quarterback (Paul Parsell)." Thurston had only 23 yards rushing in 27 attempts and connected only only one of eight passes for 14 yards.

"I'm not unhappy with our defense, but they wore us down with big plays," Snell said.

Linebacker Steve Koss led Thurston, now 2-5 overall and 2-4 in the league, with 10 tackles. Teammate Russ Tapley recorded three sacks.

The Shamrocks (5-2, 3-0) opened up a 14-0 first quarter lead on a 35-yard TD run by Jason Carr, followed by a 20-yard TD pass from Carr to Mike Grimes. CC made it 21-0 on the final play of the first half.

The Shamrocks turned a muffed field goal attempt into six points when placekicker Kerry Zavagnin, recovering a high snap from center, flipped a 7-yard TD pass to Dave Dominic. Brent Jenkins' third consecutive extra point made it 21-0.

In the third quarter, CC's Arshon Stewart scored on a 3-yard run, capping an 11-play, 59-yard drive.

U-D (1-6, 0-3) got on the board with eight seconds left in the quarter, but CC put it out of reach with 9:18 to go in the fourth period on a 2-yard scoring run by Gusoff, coming after Sylvester had recovered a Cubs fumble

WALDRON 22, LUTHERAN WESTLAND 20: Terry Runyan proved to be a workhorse Saturday as the visiting Spartans (2-5) upended Lutheran High Westland (4-3). Runyan, who rushed for 172 yards in 37 carries, opened the Lutheran Westland tied it at 6-6 when quarterback Jason Zielinski hit Matt Grams with an 11-yard pass. (The twopointer failed.)

Later in the period, Bill Wargo recovered a Waldron fumble and returned it 15 yards for a score. Zielinski hit Grams for the two-pointer to increase the lead to 14-6.

In the third quarter, Runyan scored on a 2-yard run and Randy Lawson teamed up with A.J. Emens on the two-pointer to knot the score at 14.

In the fourth quarter, Lawson threw an 8-yard TD pass to Runyan ran in the two-point conversion to give the Spartans

It was a defensive struggle all the way. The Crusaders scored the game's only pass from quarterback Phil Doherty to Bob Chapp. Agatha's biggest scoring chance came in the second quarter. After James Pierce recovered a St. Clement fumble, quarterback Brian Wilson's pass was intercepted at the Crusaders'

Schoolcraft impresses

Tom Teeters saw just what he was hoping to see last weekend. His Schoolcraft College volleyball team won six of seven matches to finish tied for first in the Jefferson County-(Mo.) College Tournament, which featured four of the top six teams in last year's National Junior College Athletic Association tournament, SC was one of those, and it appeared the Lady Ocelots were, ering Dade won the title last year near top form when they defeated last season's NJCAA champ, Miami-Dade, 13-15, 15-6, 15-7, and the '89-NJCAA runner-up, Barton County CC, 15-7, 7-15, 15-11.

Teeters, while not saying his team—things up, we'll improve.' played its best in the tournament, was impressed with its performances in these two matches. He called the Barton victory "our best match of the tournament. They were definitely the best team there."

Angeliette Love led the SC attack with 16 kills, Elena Oparka and Kari Domanski had 11 apiece, and Jenny Sproul contributed 64 assists-to-kills.

Friday's win over Barton, which followed a 15-8, 15-4 opening win over Southwestern (Mich.) CC, was a tournament highlight for SC; its final match of the day was not. The Lady Ocelots were dumped by the host Jefferson County team 15-13, 17-15.

THEY REBOUNDED on Saturday to win four consecutive matches. SC destroyed Johnson County (Kan.) CC 15-3, 15-1, and Illinois Central 16-14, 15-9. The first game win over Illinois Central came with a pair of rallies, as the Lady Ocelots battled back from 11-5 and 14-11 deficits.

Next came the match with Dade, and again SC was equal to the challenge. Love's 14 kills paced the attack; Oparka added 13. Sproul had 30 assists, Renea Bonser had two solo blocks and two block assists and Stephanie Jandasek contributed three service aces and six digs.

The Lady Ocelots concluded their tournament with a 15-5, 15-7 triumph over Lake Michigan CC. They finished 6-1, same as Jefferson and Barton. Dade was 4-3. SC's performance improved its NJCAA ranking to fourth.

The tournament also provided Teeters=and his players an idea of what to expect at the NJCAA tourney, should they get that far. Teeters' impression: It won't be easy to win the title.

"I know the competition is tougher fense.

volleyball

than last year," the SC coach said. "Barton's Improved, and Dade's better."

Which is saying something, considbut could do no better than 4-3 at the Jefferson tournament. Teeters also believes his team has not yet peaked.

"We're adding more difficult things," he said. "As we pick those

On Tuesday, SC swept visiting Oakland CC 15-8, 15-3, 15-1, with Oparka getting 10 kills and Love and Kari Domanski contributing six aplece. Bonser finished with two kills and three solo blocks. •

The win was SC's 50th consecutive Eastern Conference victory under Teeters. The Lady Ocelots, 25-3 overall and 6-0 this year, have never lost a conference match under Teeters.

MADONNA VOLLEYBALL: The Fighting Crusaders faced non-league foe Alma College Tuesday at Madonna and came away with a hardearned win, 15-13, 18-16, 13-15, 15-

The win came_after their secondplace finish at last weekend's University of Michigan-Dearborn Invitational. Madonna lost its opener to Aquinas, 15-11, 10-15, 15-11, 15-10, Friday, then rebounded for wins over University of Windsor (15-6, 15-11, 15-5), UM-D (15-5, 13-15, 15-7, 14-16, 15-6) and Central State (16-14, 15-3, 15-2).

Two Crusaders were named to the all-tournament team: Tonia Smith (from Walled Lake Central), who had 47 kills (a .385 kill average), and setter Penny Baker. Other tourney standouts for Madonna: Dana Hicks, 41 kills (.364); Melissa Mars, 27 kills (.301) and Evette Sluder and Stacey Girard, 20 kills each.

In the win over Alma, which improved Madonna's overall record to 27-14 (the Crusaders are 6-1 in NAIA District 23 play), Smith again excelled with 21 kills. Hicks had 17 kills and Girard 14. Baker again ran the offense to perfection, according to Madonna coach Jerry Abraham, while Jenny Sladewski (14 digs) and Val Perrone (12 digs) sparked the de-

Spartans win

Matt Grodzicki provided the spark Livonia Stevenson needed for its offense Monday, coming off the bench in the second half to score a hat trick in the Spartans' 8-0 boys soccer victory over visiting Ann Arbor Huron.

The junior forward scored all three of his goals during a 15-minute span.

"Matt reminded everyone at Stevenson of how the game was meant to be played," said coach Walt Barrett, whose team ran its overall record to 11-1-3.

The Spartans also got strong goalkeeping from senior Scott Plagenboef. Defenders Brian Mitchell, Scott Wiggins and Ryan Carriere also stood out.

COUNTRY DAY 3, REDFORD CC 0: Freshman Adam Hunter came off the bench in the first half to score a pair of goals, leading Country Day of Birmingham (11-3-3) to the non-league win Tuesday over visiting Redford Catholic Central (10-3-2).

"We got hammered today," said CC coach John Boots. "We didn't show up ready to play. On Saturday, CC trimmed host Ann Arbor Huron, 2-1, as Kerry Zavagnin and Dana Orsucci tallied goals for CC. Zavagnin's goal early in the second half broke a 1-1 deadlock.

FRANKLIN 5, N. FARMING-TON 1: On Monday, Livonia Franklin ran its overall record to 7-5-1 as Tim Seog scored a pair of goals.

Franklin scored three unanswered goals in the second half. Guillermo Cazares and Victor Rodopoulos each added a goal and an assist. Ken Spittler scored on a penalty shot. Todd Freeman also drew an assist. Goalie Brian Spittler allowed a first-half

Ocelot men kick Delta College

No one would blame Schoolcraft College's men's soccer team for being both angry and determined when it took the field against visiting Delta CC Saturday.

The Ocelots were coming off a disappointing 2-1 loss to Macomb CC, suffered three days earlier in a downpour that left the field soggy and rimmed with a five-foot wide, six-inch deep ditch of water. Any balls heading out of bounds never got there; they stopped dead, floating, waiting for opposing players to come splashing in after them.

It's rotten enough having to play in those conditions. Playing and losing doubles the agony.

On Saturday, those pent-up emotions surfaced against Delta. Which is one reason why the Ocelots trampled their Region 12 foes 6-0.

Even with a lopsided score - it was 2-0 at the half -SC coach Van Dimitriou wasn't entirely satisfied. "We wanted to work on a couple of things," he said. "Like controlling the ball and creating some opportunities. We did that, but we didn't convert like we should have."

Which means the final could have been even more lopsided. Among the missed chances was a penalty kick, soccer which forward Chris Crawford misfired on.

It hardly mattered in this game. SC got two goals from Jerry Staszel and single scores from Jeff Vandémergel, Shane Miliner, T.J. Flowers and Phil Todino. Scott Hauman was in goal for the shutout.

But even though this game's outcome was lopsided, the same cannot be assumed for the final region match against Lakeland CC at 1 p.m. Saturday at SC. A tie could cost the Ocelots a chance at a playoff for the Region 12 berth in the NJCAA Inter-regional Tournament.

As it now stands, SC and Macomb - currently tied for first - will meet on a neutral site, at a time and date to be determined, in a playoff for the regional title. The Ocelots are currently 8-1-1 overall and 6-1 in the region. Delta dipped to 1-6 with Saturday's defeat.

Women lose, tie one in St. Louis

A loss and a tie last weekend in St. Louis wasn't all the bad news for Schoolcraft College's women's soccer team. The Lady Ocelots also lost a pair of players.

Sophomore midfielder Donna O'Brien and freshman keeper LeAnn Adle were both suspended for two games by coach Nick O'Shea. O'Brien's suspension was termed a disciplinary action. Adle's was for academic reasons.

Both will be able to return before SC meets its next junior college competition, Oct. 27 in North Carolina. But it won't be easy without them. O'Shea's roster has just 13 names including O'Brien and Adle.

Which means SC tackled Siena Heights Wednesday and Western Michigan this Saturday with just 11 play-

The Lady Ocelots' shortcomings — namely in number of players, made worse by the absence of injured Cassie Ozog - were evident in St. Louis. At Meramec CC, SC jumped out to a 2-0 lead after just 10 minutes, then assist from Nikki Johnson; Sarah Hayes got the last, Cindy Bowman assisting.

Hayes' goal was also the last of the weekend for SC. The Lady Ocelots got caught on a couple of long free kicks that ended up as Meramec goals. But what hurt SC just as much was the extra playing time - two 15-minute overtimes. With a game against No. 1-ranked Florissant Valley CC scheduled the next day, the last thing the short-handed Lady Ocelots needed was a long game against Meramec. Their fatigue was evident in Sunday's 2-0

"It wasn't that bad the first day," said O'Shea. "But the second day . . . especially with Flo Valley not playing the day before. They were tired."

The weekend cost the Lady Ocelots in the national rankings. Now 5-2-3, they dropped from fourth to fifth. Meramec, 7-4-1, is now seventh, while Flo Valley maintained its grip on No. 1 with a 10-1-1 mark.

What's new? Hawks, Glenn to decide title

By Dan O'Meara staff writer .

The only question anybody need ask about Western Lakes Activities 'Association football these days is whether the championship game will be played at Harrison or John Glenn:

The Farmington Hills and Westland schools have so dominated their respective divisions they have a stranglehold on the WLAA final, which now provides the venue for their annual showdown.

The defending champion Hawks and Rockets will be the combatants once again Saturday, this being the fourth consecutive year (fifth in the last six) they have met to decide the

And this year's game, by the way, will be played at Harrison with kickoff set for 1 p.m.

But it's unlikely there will be a repeat of the 1988 contest - the last game played at Harrison - when the Hawks rolled over Glenn 45-7.

"THEY BEAT us fairly handily when they had Tony Boles," Harrison coach John Herrington said, referring to Glenn's 28-7, home-field yictory in 1985, "and we beat them with (Mill) Coleman, (Chad) Burgess and (Bryan) Wauldron.

"I see our teams as being very jequal. There are no stars like Coleman and Boles, so it should be a good, high school football game."

Glenn won't have to contend with Coleman, the star quarterback who led Harrison to wins over the Rockets the last two years, including a 23-15 victory at Glenn in 1989. Coleman is a scholarship player at Michigan

State now. Everybody in our league was happy to see that guy graduate," Glenn coach Chuck Gordon said. "At Harrison, the names change but they just keep rolling. Anybody who thinks because Mill is gone they've adisappeared is wrong. They're still a "Yery good football team."

Glenn, which beat Harrison 14-6 in their 1987 meeting, is 7-0 and ranked No. 6 in Class AA. Losing only to Detroit DePorres in the season opener, Harrison is 6-1 and rated No. 3 in Class BB.

The Rockets won the Lakes Division title and Harrison the Western Division crown for the ninth straight year with 5-0 records.

"WE WEREN'T sure just how talented we were (at the start of the season)," Gordon said. "If we get by North (Farmington) and (Plymouth) Salem, we knew we had an excellent chance to (be 7-0). That's the fun part of this team. We weren't expected to do that, and that's been very enjoy-

"I'm not sure we have any great players, but collectively everybody plays hard. They want to see the team do well; we're not dealing with any head cases or stuff like that."

Glenn and Harrison might be more evenly matched this year than in any of their four previous encounters. Indications are it could be à war in the trenches.

Besides the fact both run from the I-formation and employ the 52 defense, each features a ground-oriented attack made possible by strong offensive lines. But both also have capable passers, and sound defense remains a constant on both sides.

"I think the offensive line has been a big reason for our success," Herrington said. "They've got a lot of pride. Putting Gary (Devine) in behind them is really what's worked for us. For someone who is 5-5 and 160 pounds, he's really doing the Devine - with Dave Kennedy, Todd Lytwyniuk, Tony Shajeb, Jason Gloetzner, Dan Quirolo and Blazo Sarcevich blocking for him -- has rushed for nearly 900 yards and 17 touchdowns on 152 carries. Roy Granger has added another 291 yards and two TDs on the ground.

THE ROCKETS also rely primarily on their tailback, and they have two quality runners at that position.

John Ward leads the team with 697 yards and 11 touchdowns on 122 attempts, but Tad Quattlander is equally capable. Coming off a big game in which scored four TDs and rushed for 115 yards in Glenn's 41-0 defeat of Livonia Stevenson, Quattlander has 396 yards and eight TDs.

"Going into the season, we knew John would be solid," Gordon said. 'Quattlander was new to the program, and we could see he would be fine. But the question was how soon, and he's really made some progress, especially in the last month."

Zak Purdon, Sean O'Brien, Tony Prey, Vince Grieb, Mike Peterson Jason Hagelthorn comprise a 200-pound-plus line that allows Glenn to play power football.

"Our line is not as big as it has been," Gordon said. "We've been bigger the last couple years, but they have good strength, good feet and come off the ball.

"I think both teams are good up front. We're impressed with their line and size. But they always have good linemen, so that's no surprise to

"WHEN MILL was there, you knew there'd be some flare to what they were doing," he added, "but that back, Devine, is so dang tough and runs hard behind that line.'

Not only does Harrison have a new quarterback this year in senior Plamen Magdevski but so do the Rockets in senior Lawrence Scheffer, who also replaced an allstate predecessor in Eric Stover.

Magdevski is 39-of-69 passing for 643 yards and six TDs. Andy Smith makes an occasional relief appears ance and is 15-of-32 for 237 yards and two TDs.

Harrison's top receiver is junior. Greg Piscopink, who has caught 14 passes for 297 yards and three TDs. Other targets include tight end Sarcevich (8-109-1), wide receiver Granger (9-87-2) and upback Mike Pesci (9-69-0).

"The fact Mill is not there doesn't mean that passing attack is dead," Gordon said.

Scheffer, who has good size at 6-2 and 201, has completed 41 of 70 passes for 768 yards and seven TDs. His favorite receiver is Steve Fuller, who has 21 receptions for 406 yards and four TDs.

"Scheffer may be a little underrated," Herrington said. "We hadn't heard that much about him, but he has a strong arm and the same quick release as Stover. .

"YOU HAVE to be concerned about that, and you don't want Quattlander to get loose. He's like Gary Devine with good moves and speed."

"We've been very pleased with Lawrence," Gordon said. "We felt he had the potential to be an excellent quarterback. The key was how quickly he would progress, and he's done just fine."

Sarcevich, who is being recruited by all of the major collegiate powers, has 244 career tackles and needs 29 to become Harrison's all-time

He has 84 tackles this year, including a school record 25 against De-Porres. Pesci, the other inside linebacker, is the No. 2 tackler with 60 and Shaieb, Gloetzner, Vince Orsini and Dan Hight have more than 30 each.

"The defense has played well all year," Herrington said. "They've been strong against the run, and the secondary has improved.

"We got by Canton early when we were not a very good football team. We tried to do some things early (on offense) that we weren't capable of doing, and we went back to some of the basic things (using fewer receivers).'

Glenn linebacker Jason Gould leads the Rockets in tackles, and end Dave King and lineman Dave De-Mara are up there in numbers, too.

"They probably don't have the team speed of DePorres - but nobody does," said Herrington of the Rockets. "But they're so well coached and fundamentally sound you know they'll play real solid football."

Expectations are this Glenn-Harrison game should be another quality contest.

North grad authors controversial book

By Stove Kowalski staff writer

Bob Kourtakis remembers the first column he wrote as sports editor of North Farmington's student newspaper, The Northern Star.

"I wrote a column that said, 'Since there's a wrestling team at North, we should have a hockey team as well," said Kourtakis, a 1984 North graduate. "The wrestlers wanted to get me for a couple months. I learned that not everyone is going to like what you write. But as long as you do it honestly and as carefully as possible, then it's credible."

Perhaps that explains why he co-authored Behind the Green Curtain, The Sacrifices of Ethics and Academics in Michigan State Football's Rise to National Prominence. Kourtakis, a 1988 MSU graduate, and Stu Whitney, who graduated in '89 from MSU, completed the book in June. It is being sold on news stands for $14.95 throughout the state.

ALUMNI, FANS and MSU's athletic department aren't thrilled by the book, which contains eight chapters and 190 pages, and examines MSU football on the field and off. The book, published by Masters Press of Grand Rapids, covers many topies, including:

 Head coach George Perles' hypocrisy; • MSU's academic facade, including intimidation of professors by the Spartans' coaching staff;

• the student-athlete struggle;

• steroid abuse; and rampant lawlessness among the players.

All of which means that today, nearly eight years after he wrote that first column at The Northern Star. there's another segment of the population angry with Kourtakis.

Of course, those complaining about the book don't said. pay enough attention to the epilogue, which offers solutions to the problems mentioned in previous chapters.

"These people have thin skin," said Kourtakis, who covered MSU football from 1986-88 for The State News (MSU's student newspaper) and the Lansing State Journal. "The fan and coaching staff's reaction has been absolutely ridiculous. They don't care about the book or its findings, all they care about is that it makes MSU look bad — it ruins their tailgate parties and gin and tonics. College athletics is more than wins and losses, it's about nurturing and educating 100 athletes.

"All we were trying to do is write a book about how college sports should be. If we wanted to hurt MSU, we would have interviewed former athletes who were recruited by State and given money to go there."

KOURTAKIS, WHO works in Lansing at a public relations firm, said he avoids the East Lansing campus for fear of retaliation.

"I don't walk around East Lansing anymore, and I'm dead serious," he said. "My wife and I don't go to bars and restaurants anymore in East Lansing. We live in Okemos and work in Lansing. It's sad it has to come down to that, but there's a lot of sports fanatics out there. . . it's really gotten out of hand, all they want to see is the team beat Michigan and stay off probation." The book has drawn rave reviews from Rick Telander, Sports Illustrated's senior writer. Telander authored another book, The Hundred Yard Lie, which also detailed problems with big-time college football

The 24-year-old Kourtakis said he decided to write the book last October, while working as assistant sports editor for the Port Huron Times Herald.

Kourtakis, who was honored for writing the Best Sports Story in Gannett newspapers in 1989, resigned last January from the Times Herald to devote all his time to the book.

Whitney, who also covered MSU football for the State News and Lansing State Journal, currently works as a sports writer with the Argus Leader, in Sioux Falls, S.D.

"I came up with the idea after observation and reflection of what happened at State," Kourtakis said. "When I started covering the team I was 19 and in awe of covering a 'pro' team. But when I got older, I started realizing the priorities are all out of whack. I called Stu to see if he felt the same way, and he did."

KOURTAKIS IS NOT worried about possible legal action from MSU and former players, because he said he has at least two sources for each piece of testimony. 'We have notes that would stand up knee high," he Kourtakis has practiced fair journalism ever since his days at The Northern Star, according to Jerry Maxwell, North Farmington's baseball coach from '76-'84.

"The thing I admired about him was his honesty," said Maxwell. "The things I would tell him off the record he didn't put in the paper. He was always organized and always had a tape player with him."

Kourtakis, who said he already has been approached to write another book about a midwestern college program, said he wants back into sports writing. He knows, however, that working for the Lansing State Journal again is out of the question.

Two weeks ago, he interviewed with a paper in Champaign-Urbana, Ill.

"It would never be a possibility (to work at the State Journal)," he said. "I've burned way too big a bridge." But he doesn't regret it.

3 collaborators create behind-the-scenes musical

By Mary Jane Doorr special writer

OUGLAS BRAVERMAN has to admit he was skeptical when Jo Anne Lamun suggested he write the lyrics for a children's musical for the Peanut Butter Players.

"Children's theater — I was not impressed until I went down to the Players Club and saw one of their shows," Braverman said. "I am amazed at the professional quality of the performances of these children."

The idea for "Peter Pandemonium" was conceived in Lamun's Southfield home - at the kitchen table. Lamun wrote the book, Richard Berent composed the music and Braveman wrote the lyrics for the show, which continues every Saturday-Sunday through Dec. 16 at the Players Club in downtown Detroit.

Berent had collaborated with Braverman numerous times since they met through singer-actress Sheri Nichols in 1986. Together they have come up with countless songs for Nichols, Bess Bonnier and the Detroit Grand Prix. The Attic The-Cabaret" in 1987, and this year Michigan Opera Theatre Community Programs commissioned them to write another children's musical, "Cheering Up a Princess," for a state tour later this year.

"THIS SHOW IS a farce," said Lamun, over a cup of coffee in her kitchen. "It is goofy, playful, bouncy, appealing, satirical, and everyone lives happily ever after."

The one-hour, 20-minute show is about an inept children's theater group, Strawberry Jelly Players, putting on Peter Pan. But nothing goes as planned. The window does not open for Peter. Captain Hook's pants keep falling down. The flying apparatus is not installed for the first act and even Peter's shadow gets lost.

"It is a very difficult and fastpaced show," said Lamun. "Besides all the things which are supposed to go wrong, just like all live productions, other things go wrong too. So our actors have to be able to think on their feet."

In "Noises Off" fashion, the story ater commissioned their "Holiday is a play within a play. A double cast of 26 consists of all children, some playing adult roles. The show opened Sept. 15. Not only are the children singers, dancers and actors, but they also serve their audiences lunch before the show begins.

"When Jo Anne founded the group seven years ago, she knew most actors and actresses have to support themselves waiting tables. So she wanted to teach these children how to wait tables," Braverman added wittingly, "Today Broadway may be pricing itself out of the theater market but the Peanut Butter Players only cost $7 with lunch included."

MOST OF THE TRIO'S collaboration is over the telephone and by mail. Last week, as Braverman was returning from Paris, for the Southfield office of Renault where he buys American parts for the French cars, Richard Berent was leaving town as Sheri Nichols' accompanist for a tour of the Midwest.

"I work days. Richard works nights. When Jo Anne called me in New York about the love song 'He's a Grown-Up Now,' I quickly wrote some lyrics on an envelope and mailed a copy to Richard — the way Gilbert and Sullivan did."

The comparison is not quite accurate. This team gets along better than Gilbert and Sullivan.

"That is the way Richard wants it. I write the lyrics first and then he sets them to music.'

Braverman has an extraordinary facility with words. He can write lyrics sometimes in less than five minutes. He speaks fluent French, Russian (and English) and is strong in Spanish, all of which he learned in school on Long Island where he grew up, and at Adelphi. His comedy "Snowman" played Off-Broadway to good reviews in 1984.

Berent is also from New York but has a master's degree in conducting from the University of Michigan. He was a faculty member at the Wayne State University Dance Department for seven years until he became planist and music director for Nichols.

"JO ANNE HAD the magic words for me when she asked me to work with her on this show: 'Write me some music,' "Berent said.

The D&M cooperative opened in late September to provide a gallery where local artists could display their work, use private studios for painting and sketching, and be able to meet other artists to network.

"We want to be a center for artists," sald Sharon Dillenbeck, founder and one of two driving forces behind the studio.

She runs D&M with the help of associate director Joan Ther. Both are Canton Township residents. During the late September opening of the art studio and gallery, the drawings and paintings of 15 artists were showcased in a display that grabbed your full attention the moment you walked through the

"The cooperative gallery is new," Dillenbeck said, "but the studio has been in existence for five years

The D&M network of artists enables the studio to provide instruction, studio space, a gallery and commissioned artwork, such as portraits in oil, watercolor, pencil and pastel as well as logos, signs, advertisements and brochures.

Dillenbeck graduated from the Art Institute of Pittsburgh. She teaches art to eighth graders at Our Lady of Victory in Northville.

Within the community, Dillenbeck and Ther do "a lot of volunteer work bringing fine art to students through the 'Art Lady' program at local schools," Dillenbeck said.

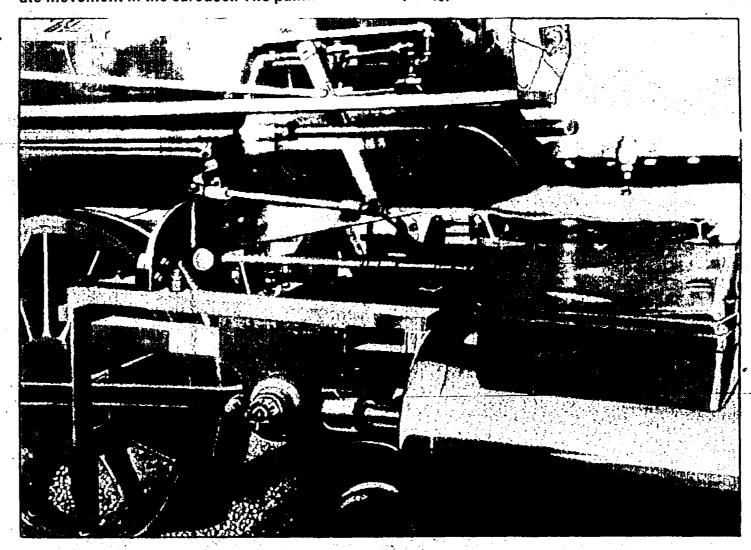

AS YOU enter the gallery, Dillenbeck's work is among the first you will see. Portraits of her daughter, in oil, pencil and watercolor, hang vertically as examples of the various mediums available for portraits that Dillenbeck is commissioned to cre-

Parental urging leads to symphony seat

Contrary to the thinking of children, parents are not always wrong when they order sons and daughters

Detroit Symphony Orchestra french horn player Corbin Wagner is living proof.

When he was a flith grader at Randolph Elementary School in Livonia, Wagner and his classmates were given cards on which they indicated whether or not they wanted to play an instrument.

"I brought it back and said I did not want to play a musical instru-(Edward Weiss) happened to be the elementary band instructor, so he called my mom and said, 'I think he should take a musical instrument. I think he would do real well at it."

So the senior Wagners let their parental authority be felt. "I didn't care at that point," Wagner said. "I was told to do it. I was just being an obedient son at that point." By that time, there were only two instruments up for grabs in the band. "So I said, 'Well, my neighbor plays trombone, so I'll take the french horn.' That's how it all started. Reluctantly, I was dragged into it."

WHEN WAGNER graduated from and my brothers."

ment," he said. "My plano teacher Livonia Stevenson High School in 1976, he had to choose between music or a more proletarian career. "I had a choice of going into an engineering school or going into music," he said. "I just thought (muslc) would be less work. I was fortunate enough to get a career out of it."

Fortunate yes, but talented, too. Wagner began playing with the DSO in the last semester of his University of Michigan college career.

"I took about 10 auditions and it turns out the one I won was in Detroit," he said. "It was a real blessing. God was watching out for me so I didn't have to leave my parents

The young french horn player joined the symphony just in time to go on the 1979 European tour, where, in Berlin, he saw something he'll never forget.

"We played all of our encores and they still kept cheering," Wagner said. "Finally our maestro, (Antal) Dorati, just pulled us off the stage. But that didn't stop them from clapping.

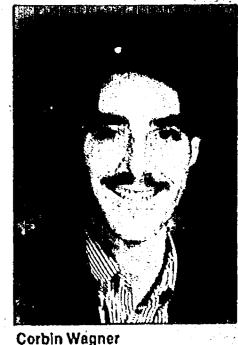

"So after several more minutes of this, Dorati walked back on stage with nothing but his woodwind players on, cleaning their instruments, and he took another bow and had these woodwind players stand. And that finally ended it."

INDEED, THE DSO was wildly successful everywhere it played in Europe. "The American orchestras play with a different style, a different sound than many of the European orchestras," Wagner said. "And (the audiences) really appreciate that. We always got rave reviews."

Recently, the DSO hired a new conductor, Neeme Jarvi, and Wagner couldn't be more pleased.

"(Jarvi) uses the orchestra as his own musical instrument," he said. "His ability to communicate through his baton and through his body motions is really refined, so you know

Common to ensemble members is the deeply rooted desire to make music, and making music is what they concentrate on during their upbeat rehearsals.

'I just enjoy making music and making others happy by doing so," says Carolyn Avery, by day Farmington-Hills Baptist Church secretary and by night principal second violinist with the Livonia Symphony.

THE HALLMARK of the Livonia, Plymouth and Redford symphony orchestras? By any standard, it's versatility. From humble beginnings, they've developed into sources of widely appealing concert entertainment from Beethoven to Broadway.

Composers span the musical spectrum. Rousing melodies range from classical to jazz to pops. Holiday fare includes Tchaikovsky's The Nutcracker and Handel's Messiah.

Guest performances often spotlight homegrown talent.

But the cultural chords of these hometown musicmakers don't stop

The festive musical adventures they offer are close to our homes, so there's no need to travel to Detroit or Ann Arbor for symphonic enjoyment. Programs vary but the orchestras' basic mission is to bring the classics to the people, and share the genius of composers like Bach.

THE ORCHESTRAS also provide an inexpensive way to introduce young people to live performances of high-quality music. And they're a terrific outlet for local performers Redford Music Trust Fund and the unable, for whatever reason, to make music full time.

Livonia's Frank DiBlasi, Redford's John Gajec and Plymouth's Russell Reed wave the local conductor's wands amid a backdrop of energy, commitment and credentials.

Unquestionably, there's a place for metropolitan as well as community symphonies.

There's never enough money in symphony-orchestra operating budgets. In Livonia, the budget weighs in at $100,000. Grants and fund-raising are keystones to survival. Local orchestra boosters include the Livonia Arts Commission, the Plymouth Symphony League.

Corporate sponsorships would be darn nice civic gestures for local businesses.

Make no mistake: The Livonia, Redford and Plymouth symphony orchestras rank among our community's most valued cultural assets. They say to prospective businesses and residents alike, "Here's a community that truly cares about its Joan Ther used transparent watercolor to create her "Irises." Shades of violet, from light to deep, compose the color scheme. She "took photographs of irises before designing the composition of the floral piece," she said.

ROY RINKE, a member of the cooperative, has several of his art pieces on exhibits in the D&M

Rinke worked for 41 years at The Detroit News as an illustrator. Now retired, Rinke said, his interest in the gallery keeps him active in art.

Rinke painted "Casey's Power" in varying tones of gray and white guouche. The composition is from a photograph he took in Tennessee of Casey Jones' engine. Rinke's realism is obtained with the counterpoint of lights and shadows, which give life to Casey's iron engine.

Julie Glordano, owner of J. Glordano Gallery in Northville, also is a member of the D&M cooperative. She has pencil sketches for sale in the D&M

Along with Dillenbeck, Ther, Rinke and Giordano, the D&M membership includes Edward Allen, Hugh Burley, Karen Clawson, James De Armond, Raiph Kelly, Dorothy Koliba, Rosemary Lee, Carol McCreedy, Yolanda Menchaca, Janice Sparks, Ruth Warnemuende, and Blade McClelland. All have art hung in the gallery. Prices for the art works range from $45-$900.

D&M Art Studio and Cooperative Gallery is at 710 Mill St., in the heart of Plymouth's Old Village. Any artists, or parents of aspiring artists can call Sharon Dillenbeck at 453-3710 or Joan Ther at 397-0562 for information on D&M art classes, studio time, co-op membership, or exhibiting or buying gallery art.

exactly what he means without him talking to you. That gives him the ability to change things at a concert that you never rehearsed. He keeps you on your toes.

"(Jarvi) is also the most active recording conductor there is right now. You'll no doubt see some regordings coming out of Detroit now. Otherwise, we'll lose him. Record or lose him."

As a french horn player, Wagner said his job is a bit tougher than that of a cellist or violinist.

"No one else plays your part," he said. "I play what's called the third horn and no one else plays those dotes but me. It's called a solo section because every time I play a note, it's heard.

"If I make the wrong note, everybody knows it. With string players, you have like eight, maybe as many as a dozen people playing the exact same part, so you're not going to no-tice if someone is a little bit off as quickly."

WAGNER, WHO still lives in Livonia, decided after the 1987 orchestra lockout to get his master's degree in music performance from the University of Michigan, "mainly for job security reasons," he said.

"So I have more options in case my ability to play is hampered. I at least have something to fall back

And talented as he is, the modest 32-year-old father of three won't necessarily spend the rest of his working life with orchestras.

"My faith in God is very important to me," he said. "I would gladly leave my job with the orchestra if TITES. YOU flew them as a child, but like the constantly changing wind that keeps them aloft, your interest soon turned to cars, fashlon, a career.

Kites are back now, at least for one area man, and they're more than a child's toy. At Madonna College, kites are art.

"Art That Files" is the brainchild of Madonna art instructor Ralph Glenn and kite builder and collector David Smith of Dearborn.

On display at Madonna through to look like." Nov. 2, the exhibit features kites from around the world as well as Smith's own designs.

HIGHLIGHTS INCLUDE a rare of 16 feet. handpainted kite from Japan, as well as an Oriental-style dragon kite built by Smith and more than 60 feet

Smith's favorite, the dragon kite, consists of 200 individual pieces of material and took nearly a month to complete:

"It was a real trick to sew something like that," Smith said. "You have no idea what it's actually going

Most of the upstairs in Smith's house is dedicated to sewing his kites. This is understandable, considering his largest kite has a wingspan

"SOMETIMES ON the blg kites, you need a huge area to sew in."

There are more than 25 kites on view in "Art That Flies," yet they represent only a small portion of Smith's collection, which he estimates at between 100 and 150.

Not quite half of them were designed and built by Smith himself, while the rest were either bought at "The Unique Place" (a kite specialty shop in Royal Oak) or ordered by

From a frog design to a dragonfly kite with wings that flutter and eyes that rotate in the wind, each kite is truly a work of art. Not only art, though, each kite in Smith's collection can and has been flown out-

SMITH'S DESIGNS are just as fascinating. Unlike kites of old that were made of paper and wood, Smith's creations are quite "high tech."

Using primarily nylon material and fiberglass tubing, Smith can design and build a kite for less than $30 that might cost $150 if bought in a

"There's a lot of work that goes into them."

Smith began building and flying his kites about eight years ago. He's no longer content with building kites that are merely functional.

"Lately when I'm making kites, I'm trying to get real 'arty.' I'm trying to make designs tractive."

This emphasis can be seen at the exhibit in his "star" kites, which display color patterns influenced by quilt-like designs.

A TRUE lover of the wind, Smith used to fly his kites as often as three or four times a week. Though his kite flying time has been restricted by his latest passion, windsurfing, he still manages to fly kites a few times a month.

Surprisingly to some, Smith flies his kites year round, including in winter.

"Winter is actually pretty good. The worst time of the year is the middle of the summer. The wind is prétty flaky."

Known to have as many as 10 to 15 kites in the air at once, Smith said we are actually in the middle of the best flying season.

"The best kite month is October."

WHEN ASKED how a 40-year-old man feels about his love for an activity once dominated by children, Smith said: "Even when I first started building my own kites as an adult, I felt a little odd going out to fly them. I've since gotten over that completely.

This modern butterfly kite, from India, boasts an all-over pattern, similar to the kind on silk saris, which Indian women wear.

The restaurant is staffed and operated by the Livonia college's culinary arts students.

Gourmet lunches vary daily and include Caesar salad prepared at tableside, grilled medallions of beef tenderloin with whiskey sauce and black beans, garden vegetable sandwich roulade with havarti cheese and a dessert tray.

VICKE BRETT and Susan Rosati have both taught watercolor painting at Schoolcraft College through the Continuing Education Services Division.

Brett's watercolors feature Micbigan landscapes and floral still lifes.

Whether working along the Lake Superior coastline or in her back yard, her work has a personal effect achieved by working on location. The paintings on display in the American Harvest Restaurant have a powerful, meditative quality.

Brett graduated from Wayne State University with master of arts and bachelor of fine arts degrees. She was the 1988 recipient of the Arts Foundation of Michigan first place award at the Michigan Water Color Exhibition.

Rosati earned a master of fine arts degree in watercolor painting from Eastern Michigan University and a master of arts degree in painting from the Center for Creative Studies, Detroit.

'Avenue of Dreams:' enthralling novel

FROM THE book beat:

• "Avenue of Dreams" by Lucy

Taylor. (454 pp., Signet, $4.95). Picture this: The book's cover is a deep purple, the title emblazoned in large, shiny letters. Above the title is ried, travel to America and come to a rosy-hued illustration of a young, red-lipped beauty bearing a vague resemblance to actress Brooke Shields, plus an ardent-looking couple in a rumpled bed — he, with the obligatory golden-brown tan; she, with the obligatory long, cascading

Cover blurbs call the book "a passion filled saga," hint of a "forbidden affair" therein, describe its heroine as "a proud beauty," tell of its hero's "courage and strength," and include some words about the "crushing blows" that befall its characters who "hungered for all that life and love somewhere, too. Plus a nervous could give."

Mmmmmm-hmmmmm.

I open the book and, with a sigh of trepidation, begin to read. Never judge a book by its cover.

I stayed up all night to finish this story of the Marcassas, an Italian immigrant couple who, newly marsettle in Detroit during the early days of the auto industry. "Avenue of Dreams" is that enthralling.

Okay, so the whole thing is a bit soapy and overdone here and there. Those "crushing blows" endured by the Marcassa family are so numerous and intense at times as to seem faintly ludicrous.

One child dies from typhoid, another is stillborn, still another is struck down by polio. A young woman falls in love with her half-brother (no, she doesn't know he's her halfbrother). There's an abortion in there breakdown, etc., etc.

than a bit predictable. The heroine's long-suffering mother is the usual poor-woman-who-is-a-near-saint-onearth type. The heroine, Chlara, is beautiful, smart and determined (of course). The hero, Michelle, is handsome, strong-minded, a bit stubborn, but ultimately good, kind and true

(of course). I still liked it.

Part of the reason why I enjoyed this book so much has to do with Lucy Taylor's striking ability to tell a story. With her lively prose, the novelist reaches out and sweeps you And the characters are also more up into this multi-generational saga I stayed up all night to finish this story of the Marcassas, an Italian immigrant couple who, newly married, travel to America and come to settle in Detroit during the early days of the auto industry.

from her opening sentence: "By nightfall, I will be engaged to a man I've yet to meet."

The smartly paced novel goes on from there, offering up one of the most vivid portraits of Detroit I've encountered in a long time (another reason for its strong appeal).

There are memorable scenes here of the auto plants, especially during days, when the unions struggled to come into their own, fighting the often-inhumane conditions that existed within the plants. (The Reuther brothers, Walter and Victor, figure prominently, along with Henry Ford and Harry Bennett, who make cameo appearances). Also memorable is Taylor's de-

the Depression and post-Depression tailed, carefully researched picture of Detroit during the Second World War (remember the prison camp at the State Fairgrounds?), the often tumultuous post-war years, and on in to the early '60s, on the eve of the disastrous events that would permanently change the Motor City area.

After recently signing a two-book contract, Taylor, who lives in Utica and is herself the daughter of Italian immigrants, is now at work on a sequel to "Avenue of Dreams," which will follow the younger members of the Marcassa family into the

In the meantime, this, her first novel, is in the hands of a film agent. Let's hope some astute producer' snaps it up right away. With its grand scope and its dramatic picture of an especially significant era in a great American city, it's a natural for the movies.

 Mark your calendars: Selected paintings of children's author/illustrator Hans Wilhelm ("The Trapp Family Book," "Tales From the Land Under My Table," "Blackberry Ink") will be exhibited Oct. 16 through Nov. 6 at the Elizabeth Stone Gallery in Birmingham. For more information, call 647-7040.

Station of Birmingham. He told me that in Texas, in January, frost covers pansies in the morning, but by noon they are in full glorious color.

A unique way to enjoy their beauty is to position four pansles around a tulip bulb; the pansies will provide immediate fall color and in the spring, the two flowers will bloom at the same time, then when the tulip has finished its show, the pansles will still provide color.

Many pansies will self-sow (you will notice the seedlings in the spring,) while others will grow from the established roots and be ready to Another idea is to plant pansles in a shallow "brushed bell" clay dish and enjoy them on the patio or deck. When cold weather arrives (the pot will need to be taken indoors,) replant that shallow container with paper-whites for additional use of the pot or turn it into a dish garden, using succulents and cacti.

The seedling is transferred into a three inch or larger pot and grown for another six weeks until it to become a bush, colorful, healthy plant ready for the garden. Quite an un; dertaking for one little seed.

Pansies provide immediate color. If they are spaced closely together much weeding can be eliminated.

At one time, moldings around windows did little more than cover the cracks between window frame and wall. Today, moldings serve to frame a window and make it more of a still life on the scenery outside.

Gustomize decor with own stencils

Stenciling is a relatively easy and nent marker and then cutting out the economical way to decorate a home -old or new.-

Whether you desire an authentic period look or a contemporary look, the possible combinations of design and color give you plenty of options from which to choose.

, Although it's common today for custom stencilers to unify a room using patterns from draperies and furniture, old-house owners, striving to recreate the past, will want to use stencils common to the period of their home.

Many of the stencils you'll find commercially are designed with the feel of colonial and country homes. Fortunately for old-house restorers, reproductions of stencils found in historical homes are also available.

In those rare instances when nothing you find seems appropriate, you can always make your own stencils. Sometimes patterned after old wallpaper or perhaps a design found carved in wood trim, homemade stencils are truly a unique way to decórate your rooms.

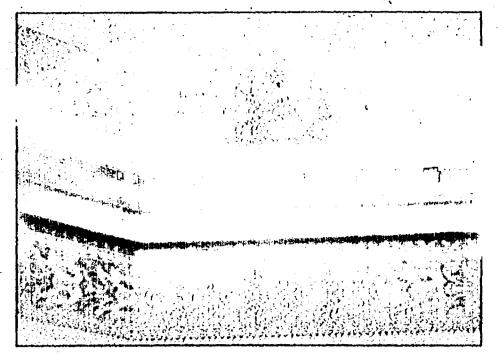

In its briefest form, creating your own stencil involves tracing the design onto Mylar film with a permadesign with a razor blade-type knife.

Surprisingly, stenciling is a very easy technique to learn. As far as materials go, you must use a stencil brush if you expect expert results. Choose a natural-bristled brush rather than a synthetic one: the synthetic bristles are too stiff.

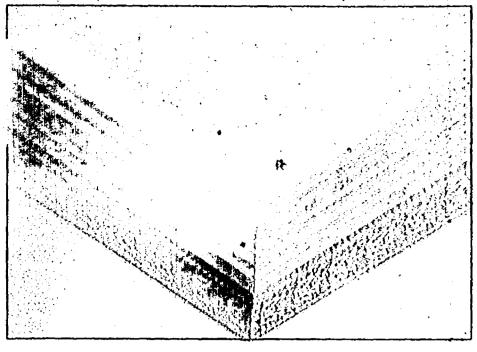

ALTHOUGH YOU can use waterbased paints, most experts use oilbased Japan paints. The main advantage Japan paints have is that they dry instantly, which eliminates the smudging that can result from moving a stencil over an area of still-wet

Also, the color quality of these oilbased paints is much superior. By nature, they provide the ability to shade and make the paint look old, something you can't do with most

Part of the magic of stenciling is that there really is nothing you can do that can't be fixed. Think of the wall as a gigantic blackboard. If you make a mistake, you just have to touch up the spot with a bit of paint and start over.

Moldings can take on many appearances and styles, including chair rails, which not only break up an otherwise plain wall, but also act as a base on which to build other decorative treatments, such as wallpaper borders.

A crown molding, which dresses up the wall and ceiling joint, is perhaps the most popular use of molding. Crown styles range in size and shape from the simple cove to the more ornate crowns with multiple grooves, peaks and carvings.

Architectural accents turn to interior wood moldings

By Gorald Frawley staff writer

For that little extra distinction wood trim and molding. A little strip will do 'ya.

And a big strip will do 'ya even

Finished carpentry like wood trim and molding - crowns, bases, walnscoting, casings, raised wood panels, bead, screen molding, chair rails, stops, and maybe even some custom pieces — adds flair, character and texture to a room, according to Rochester Hills interlor designer Chloan Smith.

"Everyone is interested in good architecture on the outside of the house, and now they're concerned about architecture on the inside," Smith said. "Molding is an architectural accent.

"The older homes always have wonderful molding because they had the old craftsman — finding those people today is the hard part."

Smith said since World War II most homes have been bereft of all but the most basic molding - and most of that molding served as a wall protector — as in the case of base moldings — or to join windows and doors to walls as in casings and stops, she said. "It (molding) kind of dropped out of site for a while because builders were trying to keep (costs) down," she said. "You'll see more and more molding in the more expensive homes, but not in the cheaper homes.'

SMITH SAID she has always been fond of wood molding and uses it in many of the homes she has done in Birmingham, Rochester, Bloomfield and the two homes she has done for Homearamas in recent years.

"They're part of all of the goodies that you do to a house to make it unique," she said. Pier Angeli, president of P&B Carpentry in Mount Clemens, said wood molding and trim is even being used as a selling point today. "Wood is back and it's here to stay.

"Molding always attracts people's attention," Angeli continued. P&B Carpentry, a finished carpentry and custom trim specialist that has done work throughout southeastern Michigan including work on several homes at the Brighton Homearama.

"If you could afford an oak room wouldn't you want one?" he asked. "Most people say definitely."
Builders and architects realize this, he said, and more model homes are being decked out with molding and trim work. People building custom homes are also looking for more finished carpentry, he said.

WOODWORK AND trim has become such an important component to homes that his company, which started nine years ago with just he and his brother, now has 20 to 30 carpenters working full time.

"In the finished woodwork trade, that's a lot of people."

At times, he has had as many as 70 people working for him, he said. "I could have three to four crews going six days a week. "Molding adds character — it gives a house a homey, warm feel," he said. "Just a little bit of fancy woodwork around the window dresses it up and makes a difference."

Angeli added that homes without trim work or wood molding have a sterile feeling that doesn't appeal to the average homeowner.

"We've started to mill a lot more custom molding, and we're using a lot more stock molding than we were using a couple of years ago. I expect in the next two years we'll be doing a lot more," Angeli said.

OAK MOLDING and molding accented with paint seems to be the most popular treatments, but poplar, cherry, and beech woods are also becoming increasingly common. Libraries and dining rooms are the two most common rooms for extensive molding work.

One of molding and trims' biggest appeals is that the home handyman can do a lot of basic things himself, so there's a huge market for trim work. "The middle class probably buys the most."

Angeli is also a vice president of Gemcraft Homes and president of Metro Mill, where he mills his own molding and trim work, and Shelby Stairs, which builds wood staircases.

Angeli said he hopes that carpenters - by buying in quantity and producing moldings and trim efficiently — can bring prices down enough to put more molding in median priced homes.

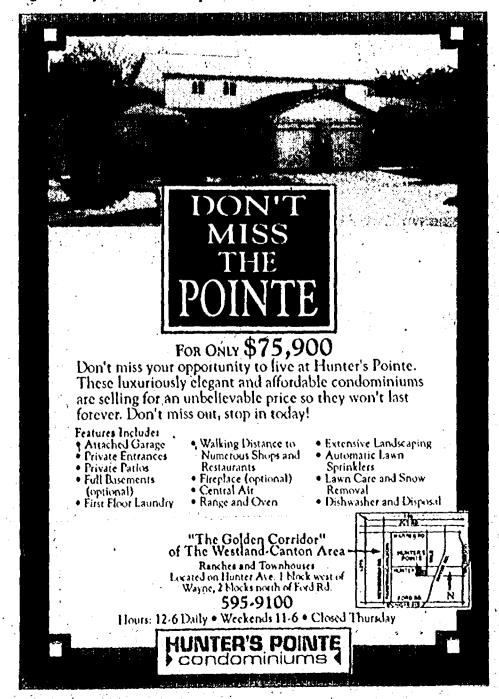

But wood molding and trim work isn't for everyone, he sald. With the exception of the Birmingham-Bloomfield area, most molding he installs is east of Rochester Hills,

"YOU WON'T see it on the west side as much because that's where you'll find the more contemporary architecture," he said. The traditional and country style architecture which molding and trim enhances the most - picks up again the further west one goes, he said.

"There's still a lot of traditional people out there - I'd say 80 percent of the people are," he said.

Even more modern homes can benefit from a splash of wood, interior designer Smith said.

Power tools demand respect during operation

It's hard to imagine many common home maintenance and improvement jobs without power tools.

But along with the ease and time saving that power tools provide, they also hold the danger of serious accidents. Since nearly all power tool accidents result from carelessness, it's crucial to be alert, use common sense and know how to operate the tools properly.

Here are some safety tips to follow when working with any power tool - large or small, stationary or illusion of light and space, add excitement to lifeless rooms and lull the senses with suggestions of rich textures.

Love of color predates the written word, as the ancient cave paintings of Lascaux, France, reveal.

⁴By 4500 B.C., the Egyptians were dying linen mummy cloths in deep indigo blue," says Lyn Peterson, adding tongue-in-cheek, "the first designer sheets." By the 17th century, the interior designer says, Sir Isaac Newton had established that the human eye can discern at least spectrum.

Despite man's longstanding affinity for color, few people know how to use it to enhance their homes. They they like, says Peterson. Their insecurity comes with trying to select the right shade and combine it with others.

Peterson, co-founder of the Motif Designs wallcovering and interior design firm, offers these color tips:

 Successful rooms usually center on tones from one dominant color family. Use a contrasting color only as an accent, and use it sparingly to avoid a patchwork effect. A co-

• Larger masses in the room sofas, draperies and cabinetry have a strong presence. Unless you want these to dominate, select restrained colors. •

A LIGHTER LOOK both Indoors and out is the trend, according to Ken Charbonneau of Benjamin Moore & Co., Montvale, N.J. Tolighten raw, wood floors, trim, doors, cabinets and furniture, Charbonneau suggests an oil-based stain in one of several pastel tints. It gives the excitement of color without masking the wood grain.

By controlling the amount of stain applied or by applying it, then wiping it off, it's possible to vary the ef-, fect. Experiment on a small area untll you get the look you want, says Charbonneau.

As the average American home gets smaller, families must learn to live in more modest spaces with little architectural interest. But small doesn't have to be boring.

ceilings that are the norm in today's housing market," she says.

Select a uniform color for the floors, preferably a light shade, says Sally Sirkin Lewis of Los Angeles. Wall-to-wall carpet makes a room appear larger than would several small scatter rugs.

Noel Jeffrey uses artwork to make a small space seem larger. "Hang a large mural or a painting that has depth," he says, "and you are fooled into thinking that you're looking into something. In effect, you are creating another dimension, a larger space," says the New York designer.

YOU CAN LIFT your color scheme from a favorite painting or lithograph in the room, says Los Angeles-based designer Barbara Brenner. "Splashes of color found in the art become the colors of accessories, pillows and window treatments," she says. "Don't be afraid to be daring with accent colors."

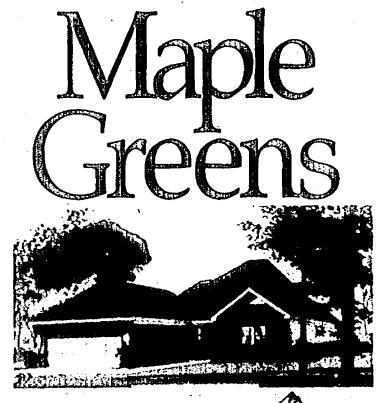

But if the artwork is both powerful and colorful — a David Hockney or Jackson Pollock, for example, she advises decorating in neutral colors to draw the eye directly to the damage a furniture finish, but fortunately most of this damage is easily repaired.

All that's required is some time and a minimum of materials and expense. In most cases, it's better to preserve and repair a finish than it is to replace it (strip it off and refinish it). It's amazing what a difference a thorough cleaning and repair job can make. Also, repairing instead of replacing a damaged finish preserves the character of a piece of

Most of the tools to make these repairs are available at your local paint store or home center.

The first step is to identify the finish used on the furniture being repaired. Ideally, you'll overcoat the repaired area with the same finish. Shellac, lacquer and varnish are common finishes. To identify them, apply a solvent to an inconspicuous area.

Start by applying denatured alcohol. Alcohol will readily dissolve shellac and it will slowly soften lacquer. Lacquer thinner will readily dissolve lacquer, and will soften shellac. It will cause varnish to swell, crinkle and lift.

Next, clean the surface using a soft cloth dampened with mineral spirits (also known as paint thinner) or commercial furniture cleaner. This re-

After cleaning, you may discover the damage is really just a light scuff. If so, you may be able to hide the scuff by applying paste wax or polish.

> YOU CAN ALSO hide a minor scratch by rubbing over it with a furniture wax pencil or by applying some liquid touchup solution. Both are available in a variety of wood colors. Touchup solution stains and overcoats in one step.

> Crazing and alligatoring describe a pattern of fine, irregular cracks in the finish usually caused by excessive heat or long exposure to sunlight.

Alligatored shellac or lacquer usually responds nicely to amalgamation (applying a solvent to partially dissolve the finish). Stroke on the solvent with a fine artist's brush until the finish softens and fills the cracks.

Let the finish reharden overnight, then buff over the repair with some paste wax. Amalgamation doesn't work on varnish, however. The condition can be lessened slightly by varnishing over the affected area.

Fill a gouge with wood filler, either premixed or a powder which is mixed with water.

With electricity, know what's hot, what's not

(AP) — The electrical system in my house is controlled by circult breakers. I was recently told to install a GFI circuit for my bathroom. Will this give me any more protection than the circuit breaker that already controls the bathroom outlet?

Yes, it will because they serve different functions. A circuit breaker or fuse will prevent a fire that's the result of excessively hot wires. This is done by automatically interrupting the circuit when the amperage it's carrying exceeds the capacity of the breaker or füse.

On the other hand, a GFI (Ground. Fault Interrupter) is designed to prevent fatal electric shock by interrupting the circuit whenever there's an imbalance in the current between "hot" and "neutral" lines. The GFI will open the circuit when the imbalance is as small as 5 milliamps. This is 1-3000th of the current needed to trip a breaker set for 15 amps. A GFI circuit interrupts the power within 1-40th of a second or less fast enough to prevent injury to anyone in normal health. At 50 milliamps (1-20th of an amp), it takes only 3 14 seconds for a person's pulse to stop.

It sounds as if your hot water is uses a tankless coll rather than an oil- or gas-fired tank-type water heater. The problem you describe is common in units where there's a mineral buildup on the inside of the coil. The lime encrustation greatly reduces the effective opening and, even when the pressure is good, reduces the water flow.

The minerals can usually be removed by an acid flush. This, however, is not recommended. The coil may be pitted and removing the encrustation could cause it to leak. Your best bet is to replace the tankless coil. Also, the water flow in the 14-inch pipe is slightly less than half the flow in your 31/2-inch supply pipe. The 14-inch pipe was probably installed to reduce the flow, which shortens the time needed for the water to reach the desired temperature. If cold water flows through the coil too rapidly, it would not absorb the required heat.

If after replacing the tankless coil swelling or shrinking of the doors' the hot-water flow is less than you edges or faces due to a change in desire, we suggest replacing your moisture content. Often, the top, bothot-water system with an oil-or gasfired, tank-type unit and replace the

Why are they starting to warp now? I don't use a humidifier but I do use the fireplace more than the original owner.

The warpage is the result of the tom or side edges are not painted and consequently tend to absorb or lose moisture faster than the painted sections. If the door faces have not been painted or varnished in 30 years, they too are more susceptible to changes in humidity. With flush doors that have a veneer face, sections of the joint between the facing and the edges sometimes open, exposing the interior to moisture change. Warpage results when the change is greater on one side of the door than the other.

If the interior doors are shut when the fireplace is in use, it's possible that the sides facing the fire will dry faster than the opposite side. Also, because of heat stratification in some homes, doors that are not properly sealed often warp near the top

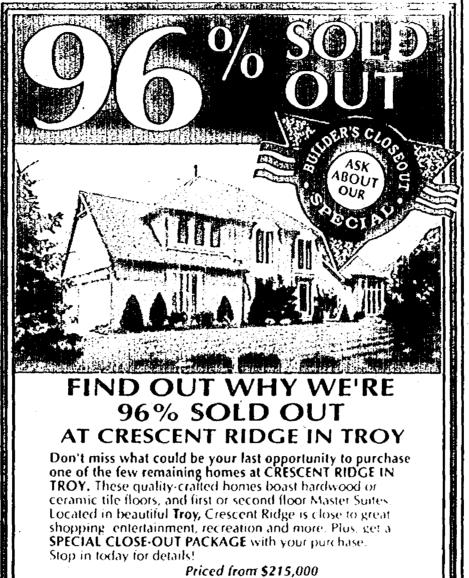

I have a chronic problem with cracking and peeling paint on the inside of windows and sills. How can I reduce the need to paint so frequent-

Many factors can contribute to paint failure on interior surfaces around windows. When windows are leaky, paint is subjected to damage from moisture. The tendency of moisture inside the house to evaporate through points of least resist-ance, like windows, causes extreme dryness on the surfaces. And sills have a higher exposure to the sun's rays than other surfaces: Installing storm windows, caulking windows tightly and installing window shades can reduce such weathering.

Paint can also fail when it's applied to a surface that's too glossy or

A handy guide to extension cords

Electrical extension cords are so useful and common that many people forget they can be dangerous.

In fact, some local electrical codes forbid their use. If the cord is wrong for the job or is improperly used, it can cause fire. The Consumer Product Safety Commission estimates that improperly used extension cords cause nearly 5,000 house lires each year.

Here are some do's and don'ts for choosing and using extension cords: o Consider an extension cord a temporary connection. Unplug it and store it after each use.

• If several devices are attached to one extension cord and used at the same time, there is a good chance the cord is overloaded.

• Most extension cords are marked with a rating in amperes (also called amps or simply abbreviated "A"). The appliance should not lexceed the cord's ampere rating. To obtain an electrical device's amperage, divide its wattage by 110. Then choose an extension cord with appropriate ampere rating. Generally, appliances that produce heat or cold space heaters, air conditioners, refrigerators, clothes dryers - have higher amperage than appliances that do mechanical tasks - food processors, clothes washers and vacuum cleaners.

• The wiring in electrical cords is also rated to help you when choosing extension cords. The lower the number, the larger the wire and the greater the amount of current it can safely carry.

A lamp-type cord usuarly contains No. 18 wire. Don't use it for any device which draws more than seven amps. Heavier-duty No.16, No.14, or even No.12 should be used for devices which draw higher amounts of

• An extension cord's length is also Important. A longer cord wastes current. If it is too long, the drop in current can reduce an appliance's efficiency. A No.18 lamp-type cord, for example, should never be more than 25 feet long.

• If you must use an extension cord-for a refrigerator, air conditioner or some other electrical unit that draws substantial amounts of current, it should be a heavy-duty three-wire cord.

• When working with any power tool — whether large or small, stationary or portable — use only a heavy duty, grounded, three-wire cord that is No. 14 or heavier.

• Extension cords should not cross traffic lanes or be used near water. If you must temporarily use an extension cord where there will be traffic, tape it to the floor to avoid tripping over it.

• Remove extension cords from an outlet by grasping the plug. If you pull it out by yanking on the cord, the wires may eventually tear loose, resulting in a shock or short circuit.

• You can tell if an extension cord is defective by examining it for frayed or cracked insulation or a damaged plug or receptacle. If the cord is damaged, it's better to replace it. If the plug is damaged, you can replace it with a new plug with the same or greater current-carrying capacity.
