Pay-to-play? Kiss dollars away

Families of Livonia school district students may have to dig into their wallets a bit deeper if they want their youngsters to take part in sports or extracurricular programs. The proposed fee is much higher than earlier announced.

By Marie Chestney Staff Writer

It didn't take long for the Livonia school district's new "pay-to-play" sports activity fee to jump from $100 to $140 per sport for high school students. Official news of the new fee, expected to be approved Monday by the Livonia

Board of Education, should hit local mailboxes this week via a letter from school official Kenneth Watson Jr.

The district serves the northern section of Westland with high school students attending Churchill or Franklin.

The letter corrects information contained in an earlier unofficial letter mailed from the city's three high schools which pegged the fee at $100.

For those parents who haven't followed the school district's budget deliberations this year, news of the new feemay come as a shock. Both high school and middle school students will now pay for activities that in past years have been free.

For high schoolers, the fee is $140 per sports activity and $100 for such activities as forensics and marching band.

For middle school students, the fee is $100 per activity. Westland students in those grades attend Frost or Emerson Schools.

"For students in a lot of activities, that is a healthy sum of money," Watson said. "And there's nothing to suggest in the news coming from Lansing that this won't continue to get worse."

When they approved a $100 activity fee in early July, Livonia school trustees warned that the fee could go higher during the district's second round of budget cuts.

13-year-old to pedal in pledge of thanks

ART ENANUELE/STATE PHOTOGRAPHER

Practice run: Eric Donahue, 13, rides his new bike daily to prepare for a 300-mile trek that he hopes to make to benefit children, like himself, who have life-threatening illnesses.

By DARRELL CLEM

When he was a first grader, Eric Donahue made a wish to go to Disney World, and it came true.

Now, at age 13, the Westland boy wants to help another youngster live out a dream.

Donahue made his wish after doctors in 1985 removed the bulk of a life-threatening tumor from his brain. He was 6 years old.

The wish was granted by the Makea-Wish Foundation of Michigan, dedicated to fulfilling the dreams of children who aren't expected to live to see their 18th birthday.

To show his appreciation, Donahue plans to join a three-day, 300 mile bicycle ride Aug. 14 to benefit the non-profit foundation. He has already received $635 in pledges for the Wisha-Mile 300 tour that will begin at the Mackinac Bridge and end in Northwilla.

He has been given a new, bright blue 21-speed Trek 930 bicycle paid for by D&D Bike Shop of Westland and The Bicycle Doctor of Farmington Hills — that he's been riding 40 miles a day to prepare for the event.

On a recent sunny afternoon, Donahue sat with his mother, Gerri, a Livonia school district bus driver, on the rear deck of their Anita Court home, northeast of Ann Arbor Trail and Hubbard. His father, John, a supervisor for Commercial Carriers, a car-hauling company, hadn't yet come home from work.

Donahue talked about his illness, his hobbles, his hopes and — of course — girls.

"Everywhere I go I meet a girl," he said, smiling and tilting his head sideways in a shy fashion that belies his outgoing personality. He's ready to meet more girls this fall when he enters the eighth grade at Emerson Middle School, in the Westland portion of the Livonia school district.

At age 6, the first signs of Donahue's illness emerged when he began having migraine headaches. A first-grader then, his condition worsened when he awoke one morning and his left eye had crossed.

In October 1985, doctors at Children's Hospital removed most of his brain tumor, but he was rendered blind in his left eye. Subsequent radiation treatments damaged his pitu-

Trial awaits father accused of raping son

By Darrell Clem Staff Writer

A Westland man has been ordered to stand trial on charges of raping his 10-year-old son.

Bert Wood, charged with two counts of first-degree criminal sexual conduct, has been bound over to Detroit Recorder's Court for trial amid accusations he sexually penetrated his son.

If convicted, Wood, 34, could face a maximum sentence of life in prison. He has pleaded not guilty to the charges,

On Thursday, Wood appeared in Westland 18th District Court for a preliminary examination to determine if he should stand trial. He waived the hearing, in a move that averted testimony and automatically sent his case to Recorder's Court.

Wood's son, prepared to testify, sat in the courtroom Thursday with his mother. Wood turned to glance at them shortly before authoritles led him from the courtroom to a holding cell at the conclusion of Thursday's court proceedings.

The defendant remains jailed on a $20,000 cash bond. He is scheduled to be arraigned on tho charges on Aug. 13 in Recorder's Court.

Wood has been accused of soxually penetrating his son twice last October, Westland police Sgt. Laura Moore said. The incidents were alleged to have occurred at the family's Alpena Court residence, in the Norwayne neighborhood in south Westland.

However, authorities were only recently notified of the alleged molestings, Moore said.

The son remained quiet for several months because he felt safe after his father was imprisoned - shortly after the alleged incidents occurred - for an unrelated unarmed robbery charge, Moore said.

But the boy made his accusations public only after the father was recently moved from prison to a halfway house and came home for a visit, the sergeant

"This kid is terrified of his father," she said.

Man faces trial in armed robbery

By Darrell Clem Stapp Writer

A 22-year old man accused of robbing a Westland party store and threatening to kill the 71year-old clerk has been ordered to stand trial for armed robbety.

Shannon Scott Mettle of Canton Township could face a maximum sentence of life in prison if convicted in the July 17 robbery of Ted & Paula's party store at Newburgh and Palmer.

Police have accused Mettie of wrapping a broken muffler tail pipe in a white plastic bag and pretending he had a shotgun during an 11:40 p.m. robbery in which a man escaped with $131 in cash and $20 in food stamps.

Mettie appeared Thursday in Westland 18th District Court for a preliminary examination to determine if prosecutors had enough evidence for the case to go to trial.

However, he voluntarily waived the hearing and was automatically bound over for trial in Detroit Recorder's Court, where he is scheduled to be arraigned Aug. 13 on the charges.

During an earlier arraignment in 18th District Court, a plea of not guilty was entered for Mettie. He remains in the county jail on a $20,000

During the robbery, a man came into the store carrying what appeared to be a sawed-off shotgun wrapped in plastic, pointed it at the clerk and then pushed him to the floor, police said.

The intruder tried unsuccessfully to open the cash register, then threatened to kill the clerk unless he opened the register, according to a police report prepared by Sgt. Mark Stobbe. The clerk at first refused but, fearing for his life, eventually obeyed, he told police. The intruder then took the entire cash drawer and fled. from the store; police said.

Shortly after midnight, Westland police saw a) suspect who matched the intruder's description; at a public telephone near Newburgh and Glenwood, and began pursuit.

Police found the suspect moments later, lying: along a fence in thick brush in an attempt to conceal himself, according to court records. The officers retrieved the money and food stamps.

The suspect told police he had robbed the store, in part, because he has a crack cocaine habit, according to court records. The man also told police he didn't intend to hurt anyone, the records show.

The plastic-covered tail pipe was found behind Ted & Paula's store on the morning after the robbery, police said.

Woman injured in head-on crash

By DARRELL CLEM

A 40-year-old Westland woman, believed to be drunk, was injured Thursday night when she drove her car into a lane of oncoming traffic on Venoy Road and struck two vehicles - one of them head-on, police said.

The woman, who suffered the only serious injuries in the 10:35 p.m. accident, was listed in good condition Friday at the University of Michigan Hospital, Westland police officer James Dexter said.

The woman is recovering from apparent head injuries.

An investigation showed that the woman had begun driving erratically on Venoy just north of Hazelwood, where she swerved into a deep ditch but then managed to drive out of it - apparently at a high rate of speed, Dexter said.

The woman then continued north on Venoy until she crossed into the path of two southbound vehicles, hit the first car head-on, spun around and then clipped a second car, he said.

A 30-year-old Westland man who drove the first car, a 1988 Dodge Daytona, was treated and released at Annapolis Hospital. A 25-yearold Westland woman who drove the second car, a 1989 Plymouth, escaped injury, Dexter said.

The suspected drunken driver's car and the first car she struck were both virtually demolished, he said, though the third driver's car received only minor damages.

During an inquiry Friday afternoon. Dexter learned that the suspected drunken driver was listed in good condition in the hospital.

"She's talking. She knows she was in an accident," he said. He had not yet had an opportunity to talk with her.

The woman's name was not being released Friday by police, because she is expected to face charges possibly as early as this week. On Friday, police were awaiting the results of blood-alcohol tests.

Police weren't yet prepared to estimate how fast she was driving, but Dexter indicated she would've had to have been speeding to go into the ditch on Venoy and come out of it with ease, continuing north.

It appears police had ruled out that she might have fallen asleep.

"It's not like she fell asleep because somehow she was able to miraculously get out of that ditch," which contained a lot of water, Dexter said.

Police have about six witnesses to the accident, but had not yet received their statements on Friday. The investigation will continue this itary gland, halting his growth. Even today, he depends on a synthetic growth hormone that he injects daily into his thighs.

Doctors continue to monitor what remains of the brain tumor. Donahue knows it will probably begin to grow again someday, but he doesn't know when. When it does, it's possible he could have more surgery and go on with his life.

When doctors removed the tumor, they put a shunt in his head and, as a result, told him he can't play hockey or football - two of his favorite sports.

But he can play basketball and bowl, and he's won trophies for both. They decorate his room, along with his cap collection, a lava lamp, sports pennants, a bunk bed, and war souvenirs that his father brought home from the Vietnam War and that his grandfather handed down from World War II.

Donahue was close to his grandfather, who was never told that Donahue had a brain tumor. Sadly, his grandfather died on the same day of Donahue's surgery.

Make-a-Wish agency

Donahue's mother still gets chills when she recalls that, even though the grandfather didn't know about the brain tumor, he told a relative on his dying bed that, "Eric is going to be OK."

Donahue's family still isn't certain how Make-a-Wish learned of his illness, but he received a letter after Christmas of 1986 asking him to make a wish.

"I had wanted to go to Disney World before I even went in the hospital," he said. He and his parents made the trip in the summer of '86. His only sibling, Megan, now 9, was too young and stayed behind with relatives.

"That trip gave me a boost," Donahue recalls. "I liked seeing all of the Disney characters. I still like them.'

He rode his first rollercoaster and also got to visit such sites as Sea World and the Epcot Center, It's a trip that's still vivid in his memory. That's why he wants to join the Wish-a-Mile bicycle tour, even if he can't endure the entire 300 miles.

"I'm going to try," he said.

His determination isn't easily dismissed. If he wants something, he works for it. To support his expensive hobby of collecting remotecontrol core he delivers the West. land Observer.

Liked by customers

His customers, such as a senior citizens couple that plays Nintendo games, have grown fond of him. He often challenges the senior couple to a game while on his route. It's Donahue's style to make the most of life. He earns "A" and "B" grades in school, and made the honor roll last year. He has been elected to serve this fall on Emerson's student council executive board.

 His musical interests range from Guns 'N' Roses to rap. He likes movies ranging from comedy to action packed films such as "Termi-But his most pressing interest for now is the Wish-a-Mile tour, in which he will be among 150 bicyclists. He feels lucky to participate at age 13, because Make-a-Wish usually asks that the cyclists be 18 years old.

"I think they're letting him do it because he's a wish kid," his mother said.

YMCA benefit's golfers in the green

Wet benefit: The rain didn't stop golfer Pam Shaw from taking part in the YMCA's annual benefit Thursday. Looking on are Joelle Shaw, Glenn Shaw and Peggy Farrell.

The Wayne-Westland Family YMCA raised a record $5,000 Thursday in its fifth annual golf benefit which was marred by a steady rain.

The record 76 golfers who took part were twice that 'of last year's number, said Tom Taylor, who cochaired the event with Tom Brown.

The event held at the Fellows Greek golf course in Canton Township concluded with a steak dinner for the participants.

Y officials named the benefit in memory of Michael Sonk, who died last Sept. 16, to mark his countlesshours of time donated to the organization. On hand were son Tom and daughter Cheryl. Trophies were awarded to Mack Mayfield for being closest to the pin; Forrest Tomason and Cheryl Sonk for having the lowest scores; Peggy Farrell and Joe Price for having the longest_drives, and the Orchard Papke Engineering Co., Livonia, for having the lowest team score.

Taylor said 26 companies sponsored holes which helped boost the proceeds raised for the Invest in Youth campaign, which provides children from lowincome families to take part in the Y's programs.

The $100 fee came in response to the first round, when the district had to cut $7.2 million from its 1992-93 budget.

The higher, $140 fee for high schoolers comes on the heels of a second, $1.6 million cut from the $101 million budget.

The fee is based on the number of students who participated in sports and activities last year - 4,900.

Watson expects the new fee will lead to a drop in participation this year. If that happens, the district will be forced to dig into its meager rainy day fund of about $113,000 to offset any loss.

Booster clubs, already knee-high in lund-raising activities, are not lilies who are eligible for free or reexpected to greet the new fee with any enthusiasm.

"They raise a lot of money already, and there's only so many craft shows, golf outings and fertilizer sales that they can have," Watson said. "There's not a bottomless pit of money out there.

Karen Holmes, Livonia PTA Council president, said the new fee might ignite more residents into getting involved in the fight to change the way education is funded in Lansing.

"Parents have to realize that the current way of funding education isn't working," Holmes said. "Maybe the more parents get upset, the more they'll get involved."

Students from lower-income famduced lunch programs won't have to pay the fee.

'For students in a lot of activities, that is a healthy sum of money. And there's nothing to Kenneth Watson Jr.

The fee applies to all school activities in which academic credit is not earned.

Thus, middle school students involved in drama or the school newspaper won't pay the fee since both classes are linked to credit courses, Watson said.

Fees are due one week following the beginning of practice.

No fee will be charged for activities closely linked to the curriculum, such as student government, hobby or academic clubs, Watson

The district will make refunds if an activity is canceled because not enough students join, Watson said.

District wants city to pay for security -

By Mary Rodrique Staff Writer

A Livonia school district committee is recommending the city of Livonia provide security before Bentloy Center's basketball courts, the site of a spring-shooting which left one man critically injured, are reopened.

"Neighbors had complained in the past about the added noise and traffic. The shooting was a catalyst for reopening the issue," said Jack Kirksey, director of community education for the district which serves the northern section of Westland.

"A good number have called and said they don't want the courts reopened without some control. We're at a little bit of a stalemate in the absence of a response."

Kirksey served as chairman of a special committee created in the aftermath of the shooting, which closed the popular twin courts in May.

The committee, whose members included community leaders and citizens, presented its recommendation to school Superintendent Joseph Marinelli. Marinelli in turn sent letters to Livonia Mayor Robert Bennett and the city council proposing the city shoulder the cost of security.

The Livonia council began a two week hiatus on Monday without official comment on the Bentley situation. Councilman Dale Jurcisin said the committee's response wasn't surprising. "The incident was unfortunate. It could've happened anywhere," he said. "The city wants to send a message to the community," said

Jurcisin, a committee member. "My guess is a police reserve officer will be assigned there. hours will be restricted to 10 n.m. signs will be posted prohibiting the use of alcohol. "Frankly we don't expect problems except for the usual competitive hollering. We've had a 25 year run of good basketball games there."

Both the school district and the city are facing tough budgets this year.

Jurcisin favors a city/school cost split.

"There is a number of ways we could do it," he said. "We're only talking a few thousand dollars for the whole summer. Spree could make a donation of money. It's a recreation event and it made more profit than ever this Kirksey says the school budget is "totally decimated. The district is in the midst of massive layoffs and cuts."

"We see this as a recreational facility on school grounds. We're reluctant to reopen without supervision. If the city can provide supervision, we can provide maintenance."

Bennett was out of town and unavailable for comment.

Damon Bailes was shot in the head last May 11 when a week old dispute between Bailes and another man erupted in gunfire on the Bentley basketball courts. He was left paralyzed.

Tyrone Arvell Swint, 20, of Detroit, was charged with one count of assault with intent to commit murder and one count of possession of a firearm during the commission of a felony.

Verbal blows fly in county sheriff's race

Kevin Kelley might have thought he was in a street fight at Central Michigan University 14 years ago, but it's nothing compared with the street fight this year's Wavne County Sheriff's primary has been.

Kelley, incumbent Sheriff Robert Ficano and county Executive Edward McNamara issued a flurry of verbal punches and counterpunches in the closing days of the hotly contested campaign.

The action included Kelley's acknowledgement he had been arrested and booked on a charge of resisting arrest, later changed to assault and battery, as CMU student in September 1978.

acknowledged "accidentally striking" a police officer who attempted to break up a fight between himself and another student.

Film director takes a shot in state

By Casky Hans Staff Writer

Those who have devoted their lives to months of hard work on a Michigan film project believe Velko Milosevich of Farmington Hills could be the country's next, big film

The 26-year-old graduate film student from the University of Southern California has gathered a team of 35 from around the country to develop and film his own script called "The Paraclete."

It's the story of a Detroit cop, an ex-Navy SEAL commando, who is tormented by a ghost in his past: the memory of killing his brother when they were children. The script has a unique, cultural flavor, with a Serbian influence in traditional dancing, religion and in everyday Milosevich describes the film, which he is also directing, as "a psycho-thriller."

'Some days we wake up and say, 'Why are we doing this?'" he said. "It's kind of autobiographical," "I'm doing it to show people what's inside my head - to blow them away.'

From the basement of the Milosevich home on Lyncrost in the Hills, Velko, his sister and associate producer Tanya Milosevich, producer Maureen Stanton-Leveque, and others are working the phones trying to get corporate and private funding for their project, which is set to be filmed this fall in the Detroit area. A number of people from the Michigan film community have also offered their help, including Roger White in special effects, Nancy Clervi in casting and Lon Stratton as director of photography.

The writer-director prides himself on not having a traditional, trendy Hollywood style, but admires some of Hollywoods biggest names including Stanley Kubrick and Francis Ford Coppola,

said the Orchard Lake St. Mary's graduate about his film. "You can't help but put a bit of yourself into

The project is Velko's graduate thesis, a 35mm film which will be shot entirely on location in Michigan, with some scenes scheduled for various locations in Dearborn and at Nikola's Restaurant, a familyowned business in Southfield.

She said the team has gone out of the way to involve Michigan college students to help them get experience and college credit, as well.

Stanton-Leveque, a Chicago native whose husband is living miles away in Washington, D.C., has dedicated herself to staying in Farmington Hills to produce the film.

"I haven't seen that many students who stand apart from others - he did," said Stanton-Leveque, who is also a graduate student at USC's School of Cinema/Television. "Most people are excited to take part in it."

Roach's 'Lane' is his life

It has taken Archie Roach a long time to come to grips with his life. But he has in the understated collection of songs on his "Charcoal Lane" LP. Through his recordings, he has found he was not the only Aborigine child taken from his parents at the age of 3.

By Larry O'Connor Staff Writer

Through a collection of understated folk and country styled songs, Archie Roach has made a definitive statement about sorrow and anger and the power of music to heal those festering emotions.

More so, Roach's "Charcoal Lane" LP is a harrowing story of a person's life torn asunder. Taken away from his Aboriginal family at 3 and passed around to several foster homes during his youth in an overall attempt to meld his people into the white Australia way of life. At 14, a long-lost sisters writes to tell him his natural mother has died.

Older, he's left to grapple with his own lack of identity. Unanswered questions ulcerate into rage and self-destruction.

Along this ruinous path, he lives destitute on the streets, he drinks

"I couldn't talk to people about things -- not even my wife," said Roach, 37, whose 1990 album is an autobiographical sketch. "My uncle knew I played guitar and I had written some songs. He told me to go home and write about my experiences."

The result is "Charcoal Lane," which has been hailed in Australia for its call for human rights and bringing a heightened awareness to the Aborigine cause.

Stripped away of the pain, though, there's an underpinning of hope in songs such as "Took the Children Away" that gives the LP a universal appeal.

In a resonant, heartfelt voice Roach tells the ordeal of what he and several Aborigine children encountered in a chilling government fore." sponsored assimilation program that lasted until 1964.

Look at life: Archie Roach, singer/songwriter and an Aborigine, tells of his life torn asunder in his native Australia through a collection of understated folk and country styled songs in his "Charcoal Lane" LP.

The song concludes with the lyric, "One sweet day, all the children came back/ . . . Back where their hearts grow strong/Back where they all belong."

The plaintive folk song received an Australian Human Rights with what has happened to him.

"At first, I thought it was myself and a few other people that it had happened to and it was an isolated incident," said Roach, who is married and is, ironically, a foster parent to several children. "A lot of people have been coming up to me and telling me how it happened to them. People as old as my grandparents were taken away from their families as children.

"It shocked me . . . I didn't realize this was happening until I started singing the songs on this album. Nobody ever talked about it bediscovering Roach's bountiful musical talents. He's quick to clarify he's not an Aborigine singer/ songwriter but a singer/songwriter who is an Aborigine.

They are now. So, too, are people

Citing people like Jimmie Dale Gilmore and Hank Williams as inspirations, Roach has always been award, but it is testament of enamored with the country artist's Roach's attempt to come to terms ability to tell a poignant story in a song. He played in a country type band for awhile, performing cover songs before venturing out on his

> He expresses a familiar country refrain in "Charcoal Lane," a number depicting his own battle with alcoholism ("And we'd stagger home, all alone/And the next day we'd do it again/Have a reviver in Charcoal

Homelessness is aptly captured in the singular observation "Down City streets I would roam, used my fingers as a comb" in the number "Down City Streets," which was written by his wife Ruby Taylor. "I think he's got a tremendously soulful voice that bridges between the black and white type of voice ...," said Dave Brogren of Bire mingham, who promotes folk performances as part of the La Casa Folk Music Series. "There's not a lot of performers who can do that nowadays."

In Roach's voice is hurt, the kind of pain that finds itself only to be released through music. There's also that sense of being lost in things that can never be explained. But it's in his music, ironically, where Roach has finally found him-

"In our culture, singing is healing," he said. "We believe the earth is created through singing.

"People are becoming more aware. There's hope. The children are coming back.

Archie Roach will perform 8:30-10:30 p.m. Friday, Aug. 7, at Alvin's, 5756 Cass, Detroit Admission is free. For information, call 832-2355.

Sonic Youth does it again with Dirty "Dirty," Sonic

O'CONNOR

Youth: Fiends, these Sonic Youth people. They lure you unsuspectingly into dark corners under the pretense of bassist Kim Gordon's seductively sardonic vocals or serenading sound shenanigans put forth by guitarists Lee Renaldo and Thurston Moore (as in the beauteous "Theresa's Sound-world").

Lulled into a false sense of security, Sonic Youth proceed to bludgeon the ear with a dissonant, pounding aural assault to leave one coiled in the fetal position. But you love every minute of it.

"Dirty" is about drone, feedback and other majestic manipulations of sound but its also speaks to such topical subjects as sexual harassment in the workplace ("Swimsuit Issue"), despair on the street ("100%" and "On the Strip") and teen angst ("Youth Against Fascism") in a cogent manner.

As with their previous releases "Daydream Nation" and "Goo" (not to mention the "Whitey Album" under the name Ciccone toxicating. Starting out on a primi-Youth), caustic sarcasm festers throughout this 15-song, 59-minute urban cacophony. Their obsession with the obsessive — be it with pop icons such as Marilyn Monroe in "Sugar Kane" or primal lust in "Wish Fulfillment" - makes Sonic Youth sound like willful voyagers to life's seediest scenery.

But it's when these often disdainful images are unceremoniously framed by a continual edgy and mesmerizing sound that makes us listen, and thus, and continues to make Sonic Youth a great band. (DGC, 9130 Sunset Blvd., Los Angeles 90069)

"Psycholum," Falling Joys: After a rather lackluster opening with a pair of turgid, guitar-blasted: numbers, the Falling Joys quickly recoup and further enhance their reputation as one of Australia's finer new musical exports.

Songs on the band's second album range from grand musical statements to delicate, introspective pieces. Vocalist Suzie Higgio captivates, using breathless harmonies to entice while evoking a hybrid sense of melancholy that seems to be rooted in many of her songs. ('If nothing's ventured/ there's nothing to write about"-"Ending or Beginning")

But a moody pop diva? Hardly.

"A Winter's Tale" perhaps offers the best showcase for Higgle's vocal capabilities, exalting a joyful story of love in full bloom.

The guitar-invoked splendor of songs such as "Psycholum" is intive, electric charge, the number explodes into a rapture of shimmering guitar fragments. Brilliant, and certainly one the high points of the 12song release.

(Nettwerk/IRS, 3939 Lankershim Blvd , Universal City, Calif., 91604)

"Sleep," Antenna: Sad, but true, the Blake Babies are no more. The three members have wasted little time in mourning. Instead, vocalist Juliana Hatfield has promptly released her stunning debut album, "Hey Babe" and John Strohm has went about assembling his new outfit, Antenna.

On this four-song CD release, featuring former Blake drummer Freda Love on one cut, "All I Need," Strohm aptly rekindles many of the taut guitar pop pieces that the Blake Babics cultivated in their short, storied career. As a vocalist, though, Strohm only manages to meander along.

(Mammoth Records, Carr Mill, 2nd Floor, Carrboro, N.C. 27510)

"Blow Up," Deep Jimi and the Zep Creams: Eschewing such things as melody and lyrical purpose, this New York-based hard rock conglomeration of guys named Siggi, Thor, Bjorn and Julius plunder and pander to the primal urges in all of us on this four-song CD recorded live at CBGB's. The highlight is a protracted blues guitar number, "Waiting for My Time," Though "Live at Leeds" this isn't.

Suffy' cleverly blends vampires with Valley Girls

JOHN

Garth, stars of the mega-hit "Wayne's World," make a film like "Buffy the Vampire Slayer" possible. star totally excellent.

And in many ways I'd have to agree. The self-consciously campy blend of "Valley Girl" meets "Lost Boys" hits the right vein with audiences who just want to have fun at a summer movie.

As the movie opens, Buffy (Kristy Swanson) spends her life with friends at the mall. Her ambitions consist of graduating from high school, marrying actor Christian Slater, and becoming a "buyer," primarily because she likes the job

The no brain antics of Wayne and "Like why do I have to know where El Salvador is." she complains to her equally vacuous friends after a bad test grade. "As if I'm ever going to Spain anyway."

The movie is packed with dumb-blonde jokes like If they were reviewing the film, they'd this, but it also has respect for its lead character, who find the story and its nubile young, reluctantly heeds her calling as vampire slayer when mentor Donald Sutherland comes on the scene.

> Director Fran Ruhel Kuzul brings the horror film full circle. She doesn't feel compelled to heap on the blood and guts and teenage sex. It's like one of those 1960s horror movies, done incredibly tongue in cheek, where respected actors appear in cameos as a lark.

> Aside from Sutherland, dressed in a baggy brown suit that has followed him from the Dark Ages to what the movie calls "The Lite Ages," there are also star turns by Rutger Hauer and Paul Reubens as the vampire king and his henchman.

Reubens, now using his real name after PeeWee Herman's forced retirement, is almost unrecognizable with long stringy hair and vampire fange. This is the kind of role PeeWee would have loved to play - funny and also frightening.

He also delivers one of the movie's goofiest lines, when he sends his band of vampires after a victim who refuses to roll over and die: "Kill him - a lot."

Luke Perry, heartthrob on TV's "90210," is surprisingly likable as Pike, the rebel teenager who joins Buffy's crusade. He doesn't travel the obvious James Dean road, combing his hair very unfashionably onto his forehead.

Though straightforwardly directed, "Buffy" has some unique set pieces, including a scary scene after hours at a float-building factory. Parade creations take on lives of their own as Buffy waits to dispatch her next vam-

Probably the best thing about "Buffy the Vampire Slayer" is that it doesn't apologize for its silliness. Turn your mind off and you'll have a great time.

It's Buffy: Kristy Swanson is Buffy, a high school cheerleader who falls in love with Pike (Luke Perry) after she discovers she has been chosen by fate to slay vampires in "Buffy the Vampire Slayer." The movie also stars Donald Sutherland, Rutger Hauer and Paul Reubens.

When it comes to parties, this one was nothing '2 Die 4's

as a music journalist. I finally got to go to one of those big deal major label record release parties. And I'm going to tell . you what it was like.

As it turned out, my being invited had nothing to do with with being a music writer - some friends from Tower Records got the invite and let me tag along. You get your perks when Driving to the event, the Tower folks told about record parties of the past - the generous spreads of lood, hanging out with Iggy Pop. eating lunch with Queen's Brian

After two years May and chatting with David Bowie.

The featured guests at this particular party were not quite as illustrious as that. In fact, I had never heard of them. It was an English outfit who goes by the name of 2 Die 4 (that's "To Die For" in standard English).

The event was held in a sports and bar complex in Mount Clemens. It was one of those places with miniature golf, bungee jumping, go carts and several bars, in case you overexert yourself playing too many video games.

We went upstairs to the private bar they had rented for the occasion and stood around uncomfortably for a few minutes while we worked out a game plan.

Deciding that eating dinner would be a good thing to do, we checked out the buffet table and found a generous spread of Cheetos, potato chips and, presumably the main course, cheese and crackers.

Overhead, several video screens were playing 2 Die 4's video over and over again. The video featured the band bungee jumping in some parts of the song and playing their instruments in other parts. It would have been a good introduction to the band except the sound was turned off and what you could hear instead was a DJ, loudly playing Bob Seger tunes. To this day, I still have no idea what 2 Die 4 actuallysounds like.

While enjoying some Cheetos I glanced around the room looking for someone who might be a musician. No one had the telltale signs of long hair or leather clothing. I did notice that I didn't know anyone. It was Eventually, a record guy came up to us. The stereotype is that record company folks are a strange lot - I believe the slang term for them is' "record company weasels." This guy did nothing to dispel the stereo-

In a misguided attempt to appear "with it" and sexy, he wore a pair of painfully tight-looking bands. He kept slapping the Tower people on the back and was the type of guy who calls everyone "babe."___

While talking, he scanned the room for better people to talk to and, eventually, this direct descendant of Herb Tarlick found some thankfully - and left to "mingle."

Then, the moment we'd been waiting for arrived. The members of sort of like being at a high school 2 Die 4 set themselves up at a table party at somebody else's 'high to meet their public. Their public dutifully formed a long line to chat with the guys and get their auto-

Autograph seekers got a chance to establish deep, personal rapport with the band in the 30 seconds it took to sign "Best, Wishes, Fred" or "Love Ya Emily."

The band members broke the conversational ice with questions along the lines of "How ya doing?" Most of the fans were "fine."

I went and played a game of pool, because and this may be the biggest mistake of my life - I seriously doubted the future value of an autographed 2 Die 4 photo.

After the line had ended, the band members stood up and sort of huddled together for a while. They looked young and uncomfortable.

Everyone eventually gathered for photo shoots. The way it worked was the staff of a record store would. go stand by the band, wrap their arms around them chummin smile, then be whisked away after the shot. I got in the Tower shoe and now own a picture of myself ap? pearing to be pals with the band.

Finally, the party broke up, We; went and played miniature golf. 34

The wisdom behind these type of parties is that once you have personal contact with the band, you will follow their career eagerly and give them good word of mouth. Pertahaps it's true. If I ever do see their bungee-jumping video on MTV maybe I will talk up the band, and casually mention my "friendship" with them, showing the photo for Thope I won't.

Naturally, Tilly and Lowe connect. It's a relationship that develops slowly and apparently as a natural progression. Both are good at developing an emotional connection between the pair, if not necessarily a strong physical chemistry.

The only truly nice guy around seems to be a clean-scrubbed local cop, played by Doug Savant, who has been carrying a torch for Tilly since they were kids. He tries hard with her but she isn't interested. When she learns he became a police officer and didn't go to law school, she minimizes him completely with

It's also about the working people who also live in the town and the different set of standards by which the wealthy live. It's about what people will do when motivated by greed for money or sex or love.

The plot has plenty of twists and some surprises, some romance and not a lot of overt violence. People aren't always what them seem to be and don't always do what is expected. This isn't one of those thrillers that insults your intelligence by giving you a false scare, a moment of relief and then has the killer hop out of the closet. The people that seem to be running the show aren't necessarily in control.

These candidates are best

oters will select party nominees for several Wayne County races, nominate Republican candidates for the U.S. House of Representatives and state House, select judi cial candidates from the non-partisan ballot and decide county and community college millage proposals.

Over the last few weeks, we have presented information on the candidates and issues and have made our recommendations.

Following is a recap of our endorsements in various primaries:

- U.S. House: In the new 13th District, the best choice in the Republican primary is state Sen. R. Robert Geake to face unopposed U.S. Rep. William Ford in the fall.
- State House: Steve Cabrera is the best candidate to oppose Rep. Justine Barns in the fall. Barns, a Democrat, is unopposed.
- County Clerk: The winner in November will succeed longtime clerk James Killeen, who is retiring.

In the Democratic race, we recommend Ed Wilson, director of elections for the City of Detroit. If elected, we believe he will run an efficient, service-oriented office rather than a polit-

On the Republican side, we recommend Linda Chuhran, the former Canton Township clerk.

• Sheriff: The incumbent Wayne County sheriff has taken a lot of shots during this year's Democratic Party primary, some of them deserved, but we still believe Robert Ficano is the best choice in the hotly contested race.

Never a favorite of the law enforcement community, Ficano nonetheless possesses a philosophy more law enforcement professionals should adopt: That law enforcement is as much about prevention as apprehension

Prosecutor: Wayne County Prosecutor

John O'Hair has been one of the county's most effective and respected elected officials, keeping himself apart from the infighting that often marks county politics.

We urge voters to support John O'Hair for prosecutor Tuesday.

• Circuit Court: Voters have a solid field of candidates from which to select three judges to the Wayne County Circuit Court (the 3rd judicial circuit).

In this nonpartisan race, we recommend Denise Page Hood, Jeanne Stemplen and Robert Ziolkowski. Voters should also pay attention to John W. Callahan.

Page Hood and Ziolkowski are clearly outstanding in this race. Both currently serve in Recorder's Court.

Stempien, an attorney in private practice and a former school teacher, is chairwoman of the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees. Her 12 years of experience litigating a variety of cases have prepared her for the complex cases of the circuit court bench.

Callahan, a former Livonian, has some 20 years of experience as a litigator. He is bright, articulate and thoughtful. We were impressed by the depth and breadth of his background.

- Millage: Wayne County's poorest residents need help, but the proposed 0.5-mill tax increase on the Aug. 4 primary ballot is no solution. We urge a no vote on the tax question. County officials should continue lobbying Gov. John Engler — or at least other, more sympathetic Lansing Republicans — to restore money for social services in Wayne County.
- College millage: The portion of the city in the Wayne-Westland school district will vote on a proposed 1-mill tax increase for the Wayne County Community College. The Observer urges a no vote.

In this race we recommend Cynthia Stephens and George Ward.

Stephens, judge of the Wayne County Circuit Court since 1985, gets high marks from her peers in the area of scholarship and fairness.

A graduate of the University of Michigan and Emory Law School, Stephens has a wide range of legal and judicial experience that will benefit the court.

The depth and breadth of Ward's 26 years of experience in the law and public service make him a solid choice.

A graduate of the University of Michigan Law School, Ward has 20 years experience in civil law and for the last six years has been chief assistant Wayne County Prosecutor.

The reform-minded Ward has given much thought to the operation of the court, and we believe can have an impact on the operation of the court.

In this race, voters should also consider Helene White and Edward J. Plawecki.

White has been a judge for the last 111/2 years. An intelligent, articulate and hardworking jurist, she is well-prepared for a seat on the appeals court.

Plawecki gets high marks for his judicial temperament and his approach to following the law rather than legislating from the bench. A thoughtful, intelligent man, he served capably as a former vice chairman of the Wayne County Commission.

In this race, we recommend Nancy Diehl and Nicholas Tsalis.

Diehl, an assistant prosecuting attorney in charge of the child abuse unit, has demonstrated how the system can be effective. She received high marks from her peers in the legal community and will be an effective judge. Tsalis has experience in all three major areas ol probate court activity.

The son of a Greek immigrant, Tsalis has strong convictions about the rights of working men and women and their children.

His diverse experience and a commitment to fairness and due process along with his demonstrated record of community service make him a solid choice on Tuesday.

Michigan Court of Appeals opinion in the vehicle checklane case? Comfortable with court's declsion. While drunk driving is a major problem calling for vigorous remedies, it was reasonable for the Court to have ruled that a roving roadblock, which produced only one arrest but of 126 citizens stopped, thereby disturbing 125 law-abiding citizens, violated the Michigan Constitution.

2. What is your experience practicing in the court for which you are running?

I am not in private practice. I have been a trial judge for 111/4 years, and am familiar with the substance, procedures, and practical realities of the kinds of cases coming before the Court of Appeals. I have handled a large number of appeals from district courts and administrative agen-

3. Do you consider yourself a strict constructionist or a judicial activist?

Neither. Judicial activists inject personal/political agendas into decisional process to change law notwithstanding framers' intent. Strict constructionists adhere to rigid literal construction elevating form over substance.

Proper balance: Recognize that framers intended/expected judicial interpretation/extrapolation; process should be gulded by framers' intent, not judge's personal social policy views.

probably will not stand - because the Michigan Supreme Court has previously held that the scope and reach of the state's "search and seizure clause" is no different from that of the federal constitution.

2. What is your experience practicing in the court for which you are running?

I have won cases in appellate courts from the Michigan Supreme Court to the 10th Circuit in Denver to the Tax Court of the United States. I would estimate I have handled 50-60 cases in the Court of Appeals over the years.

3. Do you consider yourself a strict constructionist or a judicial activist?

I do not believe "strict constructionist" and "judicial activist" are the only two alternatives.

I believe the principles arising from the text of the constitution have to be applied to new circumstances, but I do not believe that judges should be so "activist" that their rulings are little more than substitution of their preferred outcomes for those democratically enacted by the Legislature.

There is a sense in which I do consider myself an "activist." I believe our appellate judges should work both harder and smarter. Despite being backlogged, the Court of Appeals still takes summers off from hearing cases, still encourages frivolous appeals, and still refuses to use differentiated case management techniques. In insisting on those administrative reforms, I'd be most activist.

Loridas

8. Do you consider yourself a strict constructionist or a judi-'qlal activist?

Constructionist. An appellate judge's responsibility is to apply/ interpret existing law. The primary purpose of the Court of Appeals is to correct errors of law made by the trial court. Judges should judge, not legislate and thus preserve the separation of power of government, as intended by our nation's founders.

5 candidates vie for seat on county probate court

By Wayne Peal Staff Writer

Family values is more than 'a catchy slogan for candidates running for Wayne County Probate Court - it's the essence of the job? · While inobate court handles a va-. riety of topics, including estates and mental competency hearings, the new judge will most likely be assigned to juvenile law.

Five candidates will appear on the primary ballot: Nancy Diehl of Detroit, Cathie Maher of Canton, Robert McClinton of Detroit, Kathryne O'Grady of Grosse Pointe Park and Nicholas Tsalis of Allen

The top two vote getters will compete in the fall.

Diehl, director of the county prosecutor's child abuse unit, is the perceived front runner, at least to listen to other candidates.

Several candidates have commented on Diehl's lack of experience before the probate bench.

Diehl, however, points to her record in family law, including coauthoring two nationally-recognized booklets designed to ease the fears of young children about appearing and testifying in court.

Bar association rates judicial candidates

The public advisory committee of the Detroit Bar Association has rated judicial candidates for contested elections in Wayne County for the August primary and November election.

The committee, consists entirely of altorneys who practice in Detroit and Wayne County courts.

Ratings are based on an interview and a questionnaire returned by each candidate.

Five candidates received no rating because they did not participate in the process.

Ratings are: outstanding, well. qualified, qualified or not qualified.

"A rating refers only to a candidate's qualifications for the position of judge in the court that the candidate is seeking in the election, stressed Barbara J. Rom, cochair of the public advisory committee, and a partner in the law firm of Pepper, Hamilton & Scheetz.

"The ratings reflect the collective judgment of the attorneys who participated in the rating process and do not refer in any way to a candidate's ability as a practicing attorney," Rom added.

"In the case of a sitting judge seeking election to a higher court, the rating is the committee's opinion of that candidate's ability for the position he or she is seeking,' said Rom.

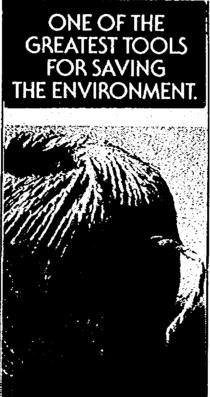

For the 17th District Court in Redford (one vacancy): Paul Arthur Bernier, qualified; Andrew J. Dillon, not qualified; Jeffrey D. Kangas, no rating; Janet Austin Keenan, no rating, Karen Khalil, qualified; Ingrid V. Kubilus, to be rated; Richard A. Mastaw, qualified; and Patrick J. McDonald, qualified.

For Wayne County Probate Court (one vacancy) Nancy Diehl, qualified; Cathie B. Maher, qualified; Robert L. McClinton, qualified; Kathryne O'Grady, qualified; and Nicholas J. Tsalis, qualified.

For Wayne County Circuit Court (3rd Judicial Circuit) (three vacancies): Thomas James Beck, qualified; Joseph V. Brennan, qualified; John William Callahan, qualified; Robert Costello, not qualified; Kathleen T. Donahue, qualified; Diane Marie Hathaway, not qualified; Denise Page Hood, outstanding; Daniel P. Ryan, qualified; Jeanne Stempien, well qualified; Brian R. Sullivan, qualified; Deborah Thomas, qualified; and Robert L. Ziolkowski, outstanding.

Where you can find your 'Blueberry Hill'

Summers in Michigan mean sun, fun and the arrival of mouthwatering summer sweet fruit and vegetables. Michigan is known for it's U-pick farms offering suburban farmers everything from U-pick strawberries and thubarb in the spring right straight through apples and pumpkins in the late fall.

Needless to say, we are a little-too late for strawberries and rhubarb and a little too early for apples and pumpkins but this week hearalds the start of the National Blueberry festival in gorgeous South Haven, Mich., just a hop, skip and a jump from the Grand Rapids-Muskegon area.

Picking blueberries

Whereas the west side of the state will be picking their hearts out with fresh, mouth-watering blueberries, Observer & Eccentric readers won't have to drive very far because there happens to be one of the best U-pick blueberry farms right in our own backyard.

Sandy Acres Blueberry farm, owned and operated by Margaret and Joe Agius in Belleville offers the upicker over 1,000 blueberry bushes that, weather permitting, should be loaded with sweet, scrumptious blueberries just waiting to be picked.

The Agius' have owned and operated Sandy Acres for the past five years. Margaret says "blueberry prices haven't changed a penny in the last five years where a pound of the luscious fruits can be had for only 90 cents."

Sandy Acres is open Tuesday through Sunday (closed Monday) 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. (10 a.m. on Sunday). When I called Friday, the berries weren't quite ripe. Angius said "We need some sunshine." They should be ready sometime this week. Call before you go. They're located at 38093 Judd Road in Belleville just four miles south of I-94. Call (313) 753-9969.

Having never picked fresh blueberries, I questioned the Agius' on the recommended necessities. They suggest that you come comfortably dressed for the weather (by the way, they're closed on rainy days) and wear comfortable shoes. Sandy Acres has tall bushes and "most of the time" you won't even have to bend over to reap their harvest.

It was almost 63 years ago that the blueberry industry began in Michigan. Because the earliest commercial planting of blueberries in Midland, Mich. in 1924 ended in failure, it was believed that Michigan was too cold for the cultivated blueberry.

Due to the persistence of the late Stanley Johnston who believed that the moderate climate and highly acidic soil of the southwestern Michigan shores would be ideal for blueberry production, the blueberry industry has thrived.

Today, there are more than 750 members in seven states and one foreign country who are members of the Michigan Blueberry Growers Association claiming to be the largest producer and marketer of cultivated blueberries in the world.

Storing blueberries

In addition to being available anywhere from upick fresh to frozen or canned, fresh blueberries are usually available in most markets from July through September. Look for berries that are ripe, have good blueish purple color, and be sure to discard any that are bruised of spoiled. Once washed and sorted, blueberries will keep in the refrigerator for up to 10 days.

I prefer to keep mine in a small colander in the crisper drawer for optimum results. Blueberries are best when handled gently as they do have a tendency to smash easily.

They can easily be frozen and kept for year round enjoyment. Simply wash the berries and drain well in a colander. They can be frozen with or without sugar and/or syrup in either plastic freezer type bags or covered food containers.

A pound of blueberries can be frozen in a syrup mixture of three cups sugar to one quart-water-Plain blueberries are best for pies and other cooked dishes. Needless to say, they are also delectable in jams and

Blueberry stains

There aren't a lot of negatives when it comes to blueberries but one that certainly comes to mind is cleaning blueberry stains. On countertops, cutting boards and dishes, Heloise suggests treating the stain with lemon juice and then a light application of baking sods. Rubbing the baking sods gently with the lemon Juice will usually do the trick.

When it comes to treating clothes, check first for colorfastness and wash with bleach or a bleach alter-

If you are hand picking blueberries, it's always recommended that you wear protective gloves but again, the lemon-julce and baking soda alternative mentioned above usually will auffice.

Welcome to the culinary arts kitchen at Schoolcrast College in Livonia where the chefs are practicing for the Culinary Olympics.

In early October, teams of chefs and individuals from 32 nations will coverge on Frankfurt, Germany for the competition. The event, called World Culinary Art salon, is held every four years, always in Frankfurt.

"We have been practicing for two years, and we have competed several times," said Mario Etemad of Rochester Hills, captain of Michigan's team. "We're ready to go."

Like their atheletic counterparts, Culinary Olympians dream of capturing a coveted medal.

"You have to be a strong, productive chef," said Gabriel of Plymouth, a certified master chef. "Presentation is very important - second to taste."

Michigan's team includes working chefs, culinary-arts instructors and apprentices. Renowned local chefs serve as advisers.

Etemad, 36, is executive chef at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Pontiac. Asteam captain, Etemad assigns tasks and handles other duties in addition to being a competing chef. He also works closely with team manager Daniel Hugelier, a Schoolcraft culinary-arts instructor and certified master chef.

Contestants must prepare platters of festive cold food, appetizers, full-course luncheons and formal dinners. Food is prepared on-site, using ingredients either brought from home or purchased in Germany.

The team will showcase Michigan specialities, such as morel mushrooms, game meats such as pheasant, trout and dried cherries.

Elaborate desserts will be prepared. Pastry chefs will prepare platters of petit-fours and tea biscuits. Team member

Joseph Decker, an instructor at Schoolcraft College, is scheduled to create a marzipan confection themed to a boy's eighth birthday celebration.

Dishes prepared at the international event will influence food preparation trends, Gabriel said.

Carol Haskins was living in New York and thinking about going to nursing school when her father was diagnosed with cancer.

She came home to help run the family's restaurant, Buck's in Detroit, and stayed until her mother sold it 10 years later.

"I found cooking was in my blood," said Haskins, executive chef at the Townsend Hotel in Birmingham.

"I plunged right in. I had no prior knowledge of cooking when I came to help out at the restaurant. My mom would say 'this is how you do it.' We made everything from scratch, soups, stews. I learned on the job."

After the restaurant was sold, Haskins went to work at numerous area restaurants including the Village Club. The Money Tree, Tweeny's, and was assistant director of dining services at St. John's Hospital in Detroit.

She's been at the Townsend Hotel since it opened nearly five years ago. Haskins has continued her culinary training on the lob, and by attending classes at Schoolcraft College, Oakland Community College and the Culinary Institute in Hyde Park, New York. Continental culsine is her specialty.

Herbs to add flavor to summer-fresh vegetables

AP — This time of year, I like to reap the rewards of my garden by serving fresh vegetables and herbs together. Besides the seasoning, allmy summer fresh vegetables need is a dab of butter.

Should you be lucky enough to grow your own herbs, just run to the garden to pluck a few of your choice. Otherwise, reach for your stockpile of dried herbs and spices.

Whether you're using fresh or dried, you'll taste them more if you cut them up first. For fresh herbs. . first remove the stems, then put the leaves in a measuring cup or custard cup. Holding your kitchen shears upright, snip away until you have the amount you need. For dried herbs, put the herb in the palm of one hand and crush it with your free fingers.

Dried herbs are more concentrated in flavor than fresh. A good rule of thumb is to use one-third as much dried herb as you would use of the fresh herb.

To season enough vegetables for four people, start with one teaspoon of fresh, snipped herb, or 1/4 teaspoon of crushed, dried herb. Taste, then add a little more if you prefer a stronger flavor. Here are a few ideas for matching vegetables and season-

Kitchen creations ward off 'I'm bored blues' for kids

In the summer, the days are long - sometimes too long for energetic youngsters. A rainy afternoon or a restless rut can be rough going for kids and parents alike.

So plan ahead! One place to begin. is your kitchen. Though the kitchen' isn't usually thought of as a "play" room, it can provide plenty of opportunity for good times with good friends.

Kellogg Kitchens recommends a "Treat Meet," where a group of two to six children can create colorful, tasty treats to share. For example, string red lace licorice with Kellogg's Fruit Loops cereal to make necklaces and bracelets.

These ideas are suitable for children 10 and older. Children under 10 should be supervised.

"Paella's family name is Valenciana" which means it is a regional dish for the community of Valencia by the Meditteranian Sea," they wrote. "There are many kinds of Puella - vegetable, oven, seafood, and so forth. None of them contain sausage.

Spain's national dishes more extensively found are "Spanish Omelet" (potato omelet) and Jamon serrano

"In the spirit of the 500 years since Columbus brought the Spanish language to the Americas, we would like to offer you the recipe for Spanish Omelet for your readers to try and enjoy," they wrote. "It is a hearty meal which serves four hungry people."

SPANISH OMELET

Five eggs six average potatoes 1/2 onion pinch of salt ofive oil

1 cup raisins

Cut the potatoes into small slices and the onions into small pieces. Fry the potatoes and the onion in an excellent olive oil until the pota toes become a golden color. Beat eggs as for a normal omelet. Add all the ingredients into a big frying pan and fry the ingredients until the mixture hardens but still is soft.

The students, who hail from throughout Spain, added that the schedule for meals in Spain is breakfast, 7-9 a.m., lunch, 2-3:30 p.m, and dinner, 9-11 p.m.

"Tapas (snack foods which include various bean salads, stewedchieken or rabbit, grilled chunks of mountain ham, meat balls, various hot or cold fish dishes, pickled vegetables, olives, omelets, and pastries) are not served at 6:30 p.m.," they wrote. "You can go for tapas on Saturdays and Sundays during the daytime when we go to certain bars where tapas are served just before Junch. Tapas are also served on Priday and Saturday evenings where one visits bars where the tapas may substitute for a formal dinner." Betty Crocker tip of the week: An unopened canned ham can be refrigerated for up to six months. After you open ham, wrap it tightly, refrigerate and use within seven days if it hasn't been sliced or three days if it has been sliced.

Pine Ridge Winery respects French traditions

"The first time I tasted wine was 1967, at a banquet during the pre-Olympic ski trials in Europe," said Pine Ridge's owner and former U.S. ski team member Gary Andrus. "I didn't know anything about wine because I was raised as a Mormon and being a top-flight skiler was more important to me than anything else at that time. I was completely amazed that wine was so commonplace at the European dinner täble."

Now you know the genesis of Andrus' love affair with wine. Curosity elevated quickly to the passionate level, and by harvest time, Andrus was in Europe working as a grape picker for several Bordeaux chateaux including the renowned Ducru-Beaucaillou and Lynch-Bages.

Future ski travels took Andrus to Switzerland, the Rhone Valley and Germany where he was fascinated with the steep hillside vineyards. While his romance with wine was growing, Andrus' affection for skiing prevailed. Armed with an MBA, he opened three ski shops in California and became one of the developers of the Copper Mountain ski area in Colorado. Because of the seasonal nature of the ski industry, he spent the summers of 1975, 1976, and 1977 working in several Bordeaux wine cellars. "My French winemaking experience taught me that you have to respect traditions," Andrus said. "All the tastings proved to me that to have consistency from vintage to vintage, it's vitally necessary to control the source of grapes. That's the greatest fault in California today. Many wineries do not have consistent grape sources to allow definition of a recognizable winery style. "I first came to understand French wines; now it's a natural focus for me. However, after my first trip to the Napa Valley in 1969, I became aware of the potential of the region. If it weren't for the Copper Mountain project, I would have purchased some Napa Valley land in 1971. As things evolved. I had to postpone that purchase until 1978."

In addition to the initial purchase of one of the oldest chardonnay vineyards in the Napa Valley, Pine Ridge owns or manages vincyards in the Stags Leap District and the areas of Oak Knoll, Rutherford, and Diamond Mountain.

Andrus believes that the main

focus of the California wine industry in the late 1970s and early 1980s. was trying to figure out how to make clean, quality wine.

"Now, there's a second revolution," Andrus contends. "It's in the vineyard. Virtually every piece of Napa Valley land is planted. We're not trying to pioneer new areas and we're taking a good look at what the French are doing with chardonnay and cabernet sauvignon and merlot in their vineyards." In the winery, barrel and malolactic fermentation as well as sur lie aging techniques are employed for the production of chardonnay. Only Burgundian French cooperate is

"Proper barrel aging enhances the creamy, mouthfilling character of chardonnay and makes the wine rounder at lower alcohol levels," said Andrus. "The taste of yeast is another complexity level in the wine that adds depth of flavors and additional nuances to the bouquet."

Cabernet sauvignon and merlot production of the Pine Ridge is heavily influenced by Bordeaux winemaking traditions. A fan of cabert franc, Andrus blends this variety in all his cabernet releases.

Andrus recently announced declassification of all 1988 Cabernet Sauvignon and most of the 1989. He believes that the quality was not there to offer it under the Pine Ridge label.

"I don't want to make massive, tannic, hillside wines. L'also don't want to make wines so delicate that there's no interest," Andrus concludes. "I'm looking for balanced elegance and finesse. Wine should have a soft entry in the mouth, but show rich flavor complexities and a lengthy finish like fine Burgundy and Bordeaux wines."

Wine Selections of the Week

The 1990 Pine Ridge Chardonnay, Knollside Cuvee ($16.50) carries a perfect balance of tropical fruit and flavor complexity derived from barrel fermentation in Burgundiancoopered French oak puncheons and barrels. A full mouth impression stems from malolactic fermentation and sur lies aging. One of the best from this winery. 1989 Pine Ridge Merlot ($18) sports solid black cherry fruit with intriguing dusty and chalky nuances. Depthful palate fruit is complemented by well-managed tannins. Eminently ageable wine in a Pomerol style.

Lose the blues in Chicago, the heart of the midwest

hen the country goes in search of itself it often lands in the Midwest where beige flatness seems closer to essential truth and where Chicago, the region's capital, is the primordial blg city, all-granite and brawn and broad, noisy boulevards.

Without the veneer of Hollywood or Broadway it is perhaps the most frankly American of big American cities, surrounded by suburbs and cornfields, proud of its skyscrapers and bratwursts.

At heart Chicago is a journeyman's town with no time for pretension. But if it is an efficient workhorse, it is also a beautiful one. Frank Lloyd Wright, Ludwig Mies van der Rohe and many others have made it a living museum of archi-

What to do

At the first hint of summer sun, swimsuit-clad Chicagoans can, be seen wrapped in towels and carrying beach chairs past the office buildings and boutiques of Michigan Avenue, past Chanel and Armani and Henri Bendel. There, the Grant Park Symphony Orchestra, led by such conductors Sarah Caldwell and Michael Morgan, presents anything from Bernstein to Debussy at the park's Petrillo Music Shell at Columbus Drive and Jackson Boulevard.

Marketing music: Opera buffs love Met shop

By Everett Potter Special Writer

For opera buffs — and people buying gifts for them-the-closestplace to heaven on earth is The Metropolitan Op: era Shop in New

"There is nothing like it anywhere in the United States," said Greg Stauver, the shop's retail manager. It is filled with opera memorabilia, photographs, compact discs, videotapes and opera glasses. The store is in a bright, airy space tucked into a corner of the Metropolitan Opera House - "the Met" - at Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts on Manhattan's Upper West Side. The non-profit opera shop and its sister operations, The Performing Arts Shop and The Gallery at Lincoln Center, are operated by The Metropolitan Opera Association. They do business all year, not just during opera season, which is September to April.

"We're open from 10 in the morning right through the second intermission at 10 at night," Stauver says. "In fact, we probably do half our business between 8 and 10 every night. On Saturdays you can't shoehorn a person in here."

Much of the merchandise is commissioned for the shop itself.

"Perhaps one in 10 opera lovers" uses opera glasses," said Stauver. The shop carries the Tasco brand in prices ranging from $95 to $185.

As for opera glasses made of mother-of-pearl and gold, Stauver says "they're more to be seen with, not to see with." But the shop stocks a handsome pair for $125.

"We've had a lot of requests for lorgnettes as well," he says, referring to the classic opera glasses mounted on a handle. "We found some and we'll have them for next season.'

The shop carries collectibles too, such as a hand-painted majolica statue of Violetta, the heroine of Verdi's "La Traviata." The statues are made in an edition of 500 and cach one sells for $98.

There is also a large selection of autographed vintage photos, letters and manuscripts, including a signed black-and-white photo of soprano Maria Callas, framed with the program for her performance in "Tosca" at the Met on Feb. 28, 1958. It costs $750.

For the budget-minded, there's the opera game Triviata for $29.95; bath towels depicting a scene from "Aida" or "Madame Butterfly" for $26.95; and mugs decorated with scenes from such operas as "Carmen" and "Der Rosenkavalier" for $11.95.

Walter's returns to Johnstown

Walter's Appliance, thirdplace finisher during the regular season, beat second-place Delwal to win the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League playoffs.

By Brad Emons Staff Writer

It's time to gas up the vans. Walter's Appliance is headed for the All-American Amateur Baseball Association Tournament, which opens Aug. 10 in Johnstown, Pa.

Manager Mike Keller's squad bounced back from an opening-round defeat to capture the Livonia Collegiate Baseball crown, 9-7, against Delwal in Saturday's finals at Ford Field. (Delwal beat Walter's in last Tuesday's opener,

"We did a heck of a job coming from the hole," said Keller, whose team reached the AAABA tourney in 1989. "We played sloppy defense during the early part of the game, but we hung in there and came together when we needed to. We showed some guts."

Right-handed pitcher Lou McKaig (Madonna University) provided a clutch job in relief, holding Delwal scoreless over the final 51/3 innings.

"Mike Coleman (the starter) was not doing a bad job, but at that point we needed a different look because we just didn't play any defense behind him," Keller said.

Walter's, ironically, jumped out to a 3-0 advantage on Craig Overaitis' threerun homer in the first inning, but Delwal opened up a 7-3 lead after four innings, scoring a pair of unearned runs to go along with RBI safeties from Tom Kretschmer (solo homer) Noah Bremen, Bill McCaig and Chad Chapman.

Walter's got three back in the sixth on a double by Overaitis, a triple by Jason Gabel, a single by Eric Stover and a double by Chris White.

Walter's took the lead for keeps with three more in the seventh.

Base thlevery: Joe Brusseau of Walter's Appliance slides safely into second as Little Caesars shortstop Dave Roman blocks the throw during Friday's Livonia Collegiate Baseball League playoffs.

Kevin Young singled and LCBL batting champ Paul Pirronello walked, setting the stage for Gabel, who unloaded a two run triple. Stover then squeezed home Gabel with a bunt.

Delwal loses 1st

Timeley hitting carried Walter's past Delwal in Friday's 7.4 triumph.

Delwal, which had won its first two playoff games, appeared headed for a sweep after jumping out to a 3-0 lead thanks to Bremen's RBI single in the first, followed by Billy Hardy's two-run single in the third.

But Walter's tied it in the bottom of the third on Overaitis' clutch three-run triple to left field.

Second baseman Joe Brusseau then sent Delwal starter Mark Temple to the bench with a two-run homer in the.

Walter's added another run in the of the seventh when Bremen scored on a wild pitch.

But Walter's reliever Sean Henkel, a Livonia Stevenson High product who plays for Madonna University, came to pitch the final 2% innings to earn his second save of the night. Right-hander Steve Ross gained the victory.

Walter's added an insurance run in the seventh when Pirronello singled and later scored on Jeff Schaffer's sin-

Caesars eliminated

LCBL regular-season champ Little Caesars was ousted from double elimination play by Walter's in Friday's opener, 7-6.

Caesars led 4-2 through six innings before Walter's rallied for five runs in uncorked a wild pitch, but catcher Eric the top of the seventh.

sixth on Jeff Pendell's RBI single, but Caesars starter Brandon Endicott on Delwal cut the deficit to 6.4 in the top singles by Schaffer and Brusseau, coupled with a hit batsman, McKaig.

Pendell brought home one run on a groundout and Young put Walter's ahead for good with a two-run double. Pirronello, who finished with four RBI on the game, capped the five-run outburst with a two-run double. Caesars made bids in the eighth and ninth to erase the 7-4 deficit, but had a pair of runners thrown out each inning to end threats. Lefty Bryan Pfeisser went the first eight innings to pick up the victory for Walter's, but needed relief help from Henkel in the ninth.

Caesars pulled to within a run in the ninth when Jerry-Shippe walked and later scored on Aaron Mach's triple. Mach then scored on a wild pitch, but Dave Roman was thrown out at the plate trying to score from third. Henkel Stover recovered the ball in time to nail Walter's loaded the bases against the sliding Roman at home for the final

Fire up Chips!

Observerland players key for CMU

By C.J. RISAK STAFF WRITER

There are so many ways to dissect Central Michigan's '91 football season, it would surprise no one if the returning Chippewas were emotionally twisted. On the positive side, they lost but one game last year, bettering their mark from the previous year, when they traveled to the California Bowl.

But on the negative side, four of their games ended in ties - which, fittingly, tied an NCAA record.

Another negative: CMU did not make a return trip to the Cal Bowl. And there are no bowls for the Mid-American Conference's runner-up.

But the biggest positive came in a -non-league game last Sept. 14. The Chips were in East Lansing that day, and they recorded one of the season's biggest upsets, beating Michigan State

. It was, to say the least, a thrill. "It gave me a big thrill just playing there," sald Tim Wojcik, the Chips' fullback said Nettie. from Redford (St. Agatha). "By the time the warm up was over, I was out of breath."

The experience of winning in Spartan Stadium was something no Chip will forget. "It's right up there," admitted Bryant Satterlee, the Westland John Glenn grad who's slated to start at inside linebacker for CMU.

Part of the satisfaction came from friendships. As Mike Nettie, the Chips' all-MAC defensive tackle from Livonia (Stevenson), explained, there are a lot of people on both sides of the ball who know each other well.

Starting for MSU on the offensive line are Jeff Graham, from John Glenn, and Toby Heaton, from Plymouth (Redford Catholic Central). Nettle spent a lot of time with Heaton working out this summer.

But the conversation between weightlifting sets never led to goading. "I'm not into that, adding fuel to the fire,"

Satterlee and Wojcik agreed. "I'm not going to rub it in," said Satterlee, who together with CMU teammate Chris Schesser played with Graham at Glenn. He knows the Chips have a return engagement at MSU Sept. 12. "They'll be ready for us this year."

Wojcik added: "This will be a grudge match."

But CMU has other concerns entering the '92 campaign. Graduated are starting quarterback Jeff Bender (1,754 yards passing, 11 touchdowns) and the MAC's leading rusher, tailback Billy Smith (1,440 yards). Those holes won't easily be filled.

Wojcik hopes he can partially fill one of them. Although he started all 11 games last year at fullback, he carried the ball just 11 times (for 24 yards). That's what the fullback does at Central," he said. "Block." At 6-foot-1 and 215 pounds, Wojcik is a bit small for that tole. But CMU

Stevenson grad

coach Herb Deromedi has nothing but praise for his junior fullback, calling him one of the team's most underrated

Actually, Wojcik doesn't mind his role. "To tell the truth, I love it," he said. "It's like playing linebacker on offense - you get to hit people." Now he'd like to do the same thing with the ball. "Nettie told me to forget making moves and just hit people," said Wojcik. The 6.2, 230-pound Satterlee, a fourth-year junior, is happy to get his shot at starting. And he knows what's

Mulcahy back as Stevenson coach

BY BRAD EMONS

Livonia Stevenson High believes in recycling. It has a new hockey coach, but it's an old familiar

Matt Mulcahy, who coached the Spartans 1985-89, returns behind the bench, replacing Paul Ferguson, who resigned last spring after three seasons. Mulcahy's new work schedule at Ford Motor Co., where he is manager of the Warranty Parts Return Center in Plymouth, enabled him to return to prep

"There's much less travel involved in my job now during key periods of the season," said Mulcahy, who posted a 71-22-7 record previously at Stevenson. "It's not a lot of travel, but I'm doing it now in October and May instead of winter time.

"I'm looking forward to it (coaching again). I've been playing some old-timer hockey and refereeing. I haven't been completely out of it, just in another capacity."

The new Stevenson coach plans to retain Perguson's former assistant Mike Harris, and would like to have goalie coach Phil Bryant back as well. Mulcahy said that Ron Hartmus, his former assistant, would also likely return.

Mulcahy had a very successful four years during his first stint at Stevenson.

Under his guidance, the Spartans won three Suburban High School Hockey League crowns in four years with a record of 51-2-3. During the 1986-87 season, Mulcahy's team reached the state Class A semifinals, losing to eventual champion Albena, 4-3, He produced several outstanding players during his tenure at Stevenson, including Rob Tustian, former Michigan Tech captain now playing in the International Hockey League, and son Matt Mulcahy, a senior at Kent State (Ohio) where he has led the Golden Flashes the past two years in scoring.

"We're pleased as punch to get him back," Stevenson athletic director Roger Frayer said, "but Paul Ferguson did a great job, too. He won the league and kept us in the high tradition that we've been accustomed to at Stevenson."

In three seasons, Ferguson posted an overall record of 40.26.6.

Last spring, the Spartans won the Suburban circuit and reached the Class A regional finals last spring before bowing out to state champ Birmingham Brother Rice.

Several key players, however, graduated from Stevenson's 18-4-2 souad.

"I wish I had some of those kids back from last year," Mulcahy said. "But we have about eight coming back. We have a lot of good kids like Scott Johnson, Doug Gulau and Ryan Gusick.

"We need a goalie, and know we have one in school, it's just a matter of getting them out to play.

"I think kids are pretty much the same, regardless of the year. The names just change."

Bentley cage courts need police presence

Rainy summer thoughts:

If everybody is worried about the cost of paying for security, if and when the Bentley outdoor basketball courts reopen, the simple solution is to have our Livonia Police become more visible during. routine patrols.

Perhaps one of the men in blue could even participate in a pickup game or two, just to let the players know they're around.

Instead of posting signs which read "No basketball," maybe something more appropriate like "No guns allowed."

The hottest sports action in Livonia seems to be at the two sand (beach) volleyball courts at Veterans Park (near the Y). The place is jammed at all hours of the day. Bet those guys can settle disputes without guns.

Proprietors offer deal at pre-inflation cost

been awhile like a decade or two.

In August, local bowling centers will be running a promotion that theý've ' been doing for several years entitled, "The Good OI" Days.'

As part of this campaign, most local proprietors will turn back the clock and roll back the prices to 50 cents per game. In addition, there will be discounted items at the snack bar.

This promotion is the brainchild of the Bowling Proprietors Association and has several benefits.

It allows those who have never bowled a chance to try the sport, it gives league bowlers a chance to polish their skills, and it's an opportunity for the bowling centers to test their equipment.

Most bowling centers are running the campaign Aug. 9-16. Rates may vary from one house to the next.

• Last week, the first National Team Challenge took place at Cherry Hill Lanes.

A unique feature was the Baker Scoring System. For those who are not familiar, the Baker System is like a batting order in baseball.

The leadoff bowler rolls the first and sixth frames, the second bowler rolls the second and seventh frames, and so forth.

This is really good for team bowling because individual records never appear. If you happened to watch PASS last Wednesday, this tournament aired right after the Detroit Tiger-Chicago White Sox baseball Nettie (6-3, 275) is a big part of it. As a junior, he recorded nine sacks and 84 tackles. Scheffer (6.0, 270) played in every game last season, finishing with 27 tackles, three of them for losses.

They should help make Satterlee's job easier, although Satterlee isn't about to get too comfortable. "I put pressure on myself, knowing I want to play my best," he said.

The defense may have to carry CMU early in the season. And hopefully, it'll carry them to something better than four ties.

"Well, they're better than losses," said Satterlee. "But I'd rather have the wins.

"In our hearts, we knew we were a good team (last year). But we didn't prove anything. I think this year we have something to prove."

One place they'll have nothing to prove is MSU. There's been no bragging - yet. Said Satterlee: "Well, maybe if we beat 'em again this year, I will."

If CMU wins at East Lansing and can convert a few ties into victories, they may extend their season a few more weeks and finish it at the inaugural Las Vegas Bowl.
