House foes feud over spendi

The state House campaign is heating up with challenger Cabrera claiming Rep. Barns spent $120,000 for re-election. An angry Barns replied that the figure is $36,000. She refuses to take part in any debate until he apologizes.

Candidate profiles, 3A

By DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

State Rep. Justine Barns has accused her Republican rival, Steve Cabrera, of campaign lies for claiming that she spent $120,000 on her 1990 re-election bid.

Barns, a Westland Democrat seeking a sixth two-year term, criticized her GOP challenger for campaign literature in which he implied she received - and spent - huge sums of money from special interest groups.

Barns has called Cabrera's claims absolutely ridiculous" and pointed to campaign expense reports indicating that she spent just $36,045 on her last re-election bid - less than a third of what he said she spent.

During interviews with the two candidates, Cabrera said his campaign staff had arrived at the $120,000 figure.

"I'll have to look into it," he said. adding that his staff conducted its own research.

That prompted Barns to respond by asking, "What kind of research?"

that he wants to explain the $120,000 in an open debate with Barns, and he has issued a challenge to her:

"But Barns' spokeswoman, Eileen DeHart, confirmed Tuesday that Barns has refused to accept Cabrera's offer until he apologizes for what Barns considers outright lies.

"Until he makes a public apology, we cannot go forward with a debate,' DeHart said.

Mayor: No appeal of ruling

By Darrell Clem > Staff Writer

Mayor Robert Thomas said he won't oppose an arbitrator's decision to give Westland firefighters a 16-percent wage increase over four years and a reduced work week

The ruling, which is expected to cost the city $1.8 million, has raised fears that a 10-percent reduction in

Even so, Thomas disclosed during Monday's city council meeting that his administration won't oppose arbitrator George Brannick's ruling that handed a victory to the 70-member Westland Firefighters Association Local 1279.

"We're going to live by the arbitrator's ruling," Thomas said.

Still, some council members have indicated that - unlike the mayor they haven't dismissed the possibility of mounting an appeal. The council is expected to discuss the controversial issue during a special study session as early as Monday night.

black Wayne man have become the dents charged with ethnic intimidation under a 2-year-old Westland ordinance.

The two were charged in separate incidents.

The white woman, Diane Bagchi, 45, was charged with ethnic intimida-

Court records indicated the white woman called the black woman "a n-want black people near her property. The black woman, a 25-year-old

A pretrial hearing on a charge of ethnic intimidation has been scheduled for Bagchi on Nov. 11 in district court. The alleged incident occurred at 11:50 a.m. July 22.

If convicted of the misdemeanor, Bagchi could face a maximum penalty of 90 days in jail and a $500 fine.

Police cooperation among 4 cities nets results

By DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

Call it a suburban conspiracy. Police officers from four cities Westland, Garden City, Wayne and Inkster - have formed a five-man Metro Street Enforcement Team (MSET) to combat drug sales, sex crimes, break-ins, assaults, robberies and other crimes.

Housed in the new Garden City police station, the team has made arrests in nine felonies and four misdemeanors since it started its work

Last week, the team raided a house on Globe in the Newburgh-Ford area in Westland and seized 15 pounds of suspected marijuana that officers believe was grown in Kentucky and brought here to sell.

The team also found pot plants growing several feet tall in the back yard.

A Westland brother and sister and the sister's boyfriend were arrested during the evening raid Sept. 29 and charged with possession of marijuana. In court, officers indicated the defendants intended to sell it.

MSET officers hope such busts will begin to curb the area's drug trade. And they believe their four-city approach will bring more results, because drug sales and other crimes cross city boundaries.

In the marijuana case, officers arrested Clyde Strong, 19, his sister Katrina, 22, and her boyfriend, Douglas Thompson, 28. All three were arraigned on drug charges Thursday before 18th District Judge C. Charles Bokos.

The Strongs and Thompson stood mute, and pleas of not guilty were entered on their behalf. They have been ordered to return to court Oct. 15 for a hearing to determine if they should stand trial on the charges.

If convicted, each defendant could face a maximum penalty of four years in prison and a $2,000 fine. All three have been released from custody on a $10,000 personal bond. None of the three has a prior criminal record.

The Sept. 29 raid is one of many that officers hope to make in coming weeks and months as part of MSET. Westland police Sgt. Tommy Vaughn is in charge of the team and receives help from four officers representing Westland, Garden City, Wayne and Inkster.

Halloween party

The historic Wayne Theater will be the site of a "haunted theater" and "post-mortem party" Friday night. For the next two weeks, the theater will be open to the public as a Halloween attraction for youngsters and their parents. The theater will be open 7-11 p.m. Monday-Thursday and 7 p.m. to midnight Friday-Sunday, Oct. 10-31. Admission is $4 for adults and $2.50 for children. Proceeds will be used to restore the theater, which was built for vaudeville productions nearly 70 years ago. The Oct. 9 benefit, sponsored by the Detroit Producers Association and the Palace Theatre Co., has many Westland residents involved in the restoration project. Admission is $10 for members and $12 for non-members.

Cabrera, meanwhile, is hoping that voters in the heavily Demo-

The second alleged incident occurred four days later at the Quo Vadis movie theater on Wayne Road, north of Warren. Court records indicated a 21-year-old black man shouted racial slurs at two white women and threatened

The black man, Eric Keith Toomer of Wayne, pleaded no contest on Sept. 29 to a charge of ethnic intimidation. Appearing before 18th District Judge C. Charles Bokos, Toomer was placed on probation for one year, ordered to stay away from the Quo Vadis and forced to enroll in an assaultive behavior program.

Toomer remains free on a $5,000 personal bond. If he violates the court order, he could be jailed.

Court records indicated that Toomer, talking loudly to a female companion at the Quo Vadis, became angry when asked by two white women to be quiet. The white women included a 27year-old off-duty Westland police officer and a 44-year-old Novi woman.

According to court records, Toomer called the police officer 'a white bitch" and warned that 'there was going to be another an apparent Detroit incident," reference to racial unrest.

Toomer then followed the women out of the theater, pushed one of them, threatened to shoot the police officer and told her that he would "kick and beat her white ass." court records said.

Golf course, crossing guard contracts OK'd

The Westland City Council has agreed to extend contracts with a quasi-governmental corporation to operate the city golf course and crossing guard program through June 30 of next year.

The contracts with the Municipal Service Bureau totaled $145,000 for operating the golf course on Merriman, south of Cherry Hill, and $45,000 for the crossing guard program.

The council took the action during a meeting Monday, but rejected spending an additional $8,400 for repairing the main building at the golf course. The building needs siding replaced and repairs to its heating and cooling system.

But the council decided against the siding repairs after it was learned that bids had been sought by the MSB, instead of the city

Pair battles for 18th District House seat

Barns says she knows system

Justine Barns takes nothing for cially her re-elec-

Election Even though she's a Westland Democrat in the predominantly Democratic 18th District, she's fighting hard to convince voters to give her a sixth two-year term instead of GOP challenger Steven Cabrera.

Barns appears confident that her years in the state House have taught her how to get things done. She emphasized that she knows how the system works, and she said she knows how to make it work for her constituents.

Barns has quickly dismissed her opponent's support for term limitations. If voters are tired of her, she said, they have the choice of voting her out of office or — in more extreme cases — recalling Barns also stressed that legislators not seeking re-election often become lame ducks, unable to score on the political front.

"You have very little voice when you're not running for reelection," she said.

Barns, 67, spoke about issues ranging from school finances to the state economy to abortion to teacher strikes during an interview with the Observer.

On abortion, Barns is prochoice. Though she said she would never counsel anyone to have an abortion, she said she doesn't believe she has the right to tell them it's not a choice they can make.

Barns said she prefers planned parenthood, though she said she's realistic enough to know that many pregnancies will never be

On the economy, Barns noted that she has sponsored two early retirement bills for state employees that saved the state millions of dollars - money that led to more efficiency.

She also supports greater educational efforts for a better workforce and noted that industry, too, must take some responsibility for helping to maintain a stable economy. She singled out the General Motors Willow Run plant in Ypsilanti, saying GM helped to create Ypsilanti and should now feel some dedication to it.

She also supports enterprise zones - both residential and industrial — to try to restore the

On school finances, Barns voted for the concept of the "Robin Hood" bill that tried to balance the inequities among school districts, but she voted against the bill when the final wording

On teacher strikes, Barns said walkouts "should be the last tool, but sometimes that's the only tool that teachers have to be heard.'

She said both sides should be in constant negotiations to try to avoid strikes like the recent Detroit strike.

On crime, Barns supports tighter penalties for criminals who commit violent acts against vulnerable people, such as the elderly or the handicapped.

On other issues, Barns also said she supports environmental measures such as one in which homeowners and businesses could receive tax breaks if they demonstate that they have become more energy-efficient.

Cabrera stresses need for change knows he has an uphill battle to unseat 10-year incumbent state Rep. Justine Barns in the heavily Demo-cratic 18th District.

But he believes it can be done. Cabrera, a Michigan National Bank sales and real estate division employee, has sharply attacked Barns' legislative record and called for new leadership in the 18th District, which includes Westland and two Canton Township precincts.

Cabrera, 33 and a Westland resident, described himself as having the ability to build consensus and to become a catalyst for positive change. And he has some definite ideas about changes he'd like to see in the state House.

Endorsed by the Michigan Right to Life organization, Cabrera easily won the GOP primary against law clerk Richard Delonis and now faces Barns, who's seeking her sixth two-year term.

The two candidates recently talked with the Observer about issues such as the state economy. school finances, teacher strikes and abortion, among others.

Cabrera voiced support for the "cut-and-cap" plan that would slash school property taxes and limit their increases, saying it would put $6.5 billion into taxpayers' pockets and boost consumer confidence.

hard hit not only by high taxes, but also by unemployment, Cabrera said, and the cut-and-cap plan could begin to reverse the problem. With lower taxes, businesses would more likely expand a move that could improve the employment picture, he said.

To improve education, Cabrera called for seeking equity among districts by bringing together the 'best minds" from education, business and government to find solutions.

"I'd like to be a part of that," he

Cabrera favors more spending on education, but also supports more accountability among teachers and students. He has said he doesn't favor the "Robin Hood" method of taking money from wealthier districts and giving it to poorer ones. And he has endorsed schools of choice as an incentive to improving education.

On the issue of teacher strikes. Cabrera upheld teachers' right to walk off the job, but said they should remain at work as long as 'good faith negotiations" continue at the bargaining table.

To prohibit strikes would give school administrations an unequal balance of power, he said.

In other areas, Cabrera also called for welfare reform, though he didn't call for sweeping cuts.

"We want to be there for people who need a bridge - a second chance for people to get out of a difficulty," he said. But he doesn't support continued welfare

Cabrera also called for legislative term limitations, saying many potentially great government leaders are being shut out of a system that has favored incumbents and the status quo.

The challenger cited crime as another of his concerns and said he favors capital punishment and parole reforms. Victims often have fewer rights than criminals,

Fourth Friday count shows slight enrollment increase

By LEONARD POGER EDITOR

The numbers are up for the Wayne-Westland school district, meaning that the continuing 20year drop in student enrollment may have ended.

The school district's adminis tration reported this week that the official "fourth Friday" enrollment count showed a slight increase of 21 more students since last October, the first since 1986 and only the second in the last two decades.

Better yet, the enrollment figures, used to determine state aid payments, reported Oct. 2 show there are 266 more students than the administration projected earlier this year.

While that means more state revenues, it also means extra costs because the district will have to hire nine additional teachers to handle the additional students.

The fourth Friday figures show that 15,399 were enrolled in the district, only 21 more than the same day last year.

Gary Dell, the administration's executive director for information services, welcomed the higher-than-expected enrollments. While he admitted he didn't have documentation, Dell theorized that some of the increase may be the result of teachers' strikes in nearby districts and more families with school-aged children moving into Wayne-

On the junior high level, Stevenson, 946, and Marshall, 911, remain the largest schools. The others are Franklin, 870, and Adams, 767. Stevenson and Marshall gained over the earlier projections while the other two schools reported enrollments that virtually the same as the previous

Area libraries to bolt from WOLF

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW STAFF WRITER

Ticked off because of poor service and unequal representation, seven libraries in Wayne and Oakland counties have picked up their football and gone home, so

The libraries — in Canton, Farmington, Rochester, Southfield, Birmingham, Bloomfield Township and Independence Township — are leaving the Wayne Oakland Library Federation and forming their own library cooperative called Metro Net.

But the seceding libraries will stay with WOLF until Metro Net . goes on line, probably in October 1993, and service is not expected to be interrupted.

The 14-year-old WOLF provides library services to all the libraries in Wayne and Oakland counties except Detroit, Highland Park, Troy and Dearborn. The main benefit to library users is that they can check out books throughout the system, as opposed to just books in their home library. WOLF also does computerized tracking of books, orders books for its members and provides computer terminals to libraries.

"Those of us joining Metro Net don't need all of WOLF services like the computer networking and consulting services for buying and programming," said Canton library director Jean Tabor. "Yet, we ultimately pay for those services. We want a cooperative that is scaled down."

Metro Net will ostensibly be scaled down at least in terms of the money sucked up from member libraries.

While WOLF takes two-thirds of the member libraries' annual state aid (about $47,000 in Southfield's case), Metro Net would require just one-third, said Southfield library director Doug Zykowski.

WOLF co-interim director

Doug Whitaker said that WOLF's $1.5 million in state aid (funneled through the member libraries) would fall to $1.2 million if the dissatisfied libraries leave.

That loss of money, Whitaker said, would translate to a loss of services for libraries remaining in WOLF. Should that occur, it may convince more libraries (like the big ones in Livonia and Redford) to leave WOLF for Metro Net which has the welcome mat out for any other area library that wants to join it.

Metro Net will theoretically be cheaper to run than WOLF and more responsive to the individual needs of member libraries, largely because representation on the Metro Net board will be based on population.

Among the raps on WOLF is that libraries serving large populations don't get any more say on the nine-member WOLF board (one vote) than little libraries serving a couple of thousand people. In a sense, the little libraries (if they band together) can control. WOLF policy and often do, Zy-kowski said. The 15 big libraries in WOLF's 58-library system don't like that because their state aid makes up about 50 percent of WOLF's state aid. Zykowski: called it "taxation without representation."

At a pow wow Wednesday, WOLF officials offered the dissaturated fibraries an additional representative on the WOLF board and help in getting their computers interconnected.

But that's not enough, Zy-kowski said. "(The WOLF) offers didn't carry enough substance. Both sides agreed to start thinking about coexisting with each other. We think the dispute process should be avoided."

The participants agreed to meet again Oct. 26, but only to work out ways that WOLF and Metro Net might cooperate.

High court rule change could end automatic appeal

BY TIM RICHARD STAFF WRITER

Michigan shouldn't have to amend its constitution to keep felons who pleaded guilty from tying up the Court of Appeals, says an assistant Wayne County prosecutor.

"We should just petition the" Supreme Court to correct an error in a 1977 case," said George E. Ward, chief assistant to Prosecutor John O'Hair.

Ward, of Plymouth Township, was an unsuccessful candidate for the Court of Appeals in August, He opposed allowing automatic appeals in guilty plea cases.

State Senate Republicans this week are soliciting O'Hair and Ward to help change the minds of Democrats who helped defeat a resolution to put a constitutional amendment on the ballot. Senatora voted 21-14 in favor of the proposal but needed 26 votes (twothirds) to put a propsal on the 994 ballot.

he problem is that about one-fourth of the 12,000 cases heard by the Court of Appeals are filed by prison inmates who pleaded

Nuisance cases

Most judges and law enforcement people see these appeals as nuisances and a drain on the system. Prosecutors' staffs must write 35-page rebuttal briefs. The Court of Appeals usually finds the felon's appeal totally without merit and rarely overturns a lower court decision, even for re-sen-

"There are less than a handful of reversals," said Senate Judiciary Committee chair William Van Regenmorter, R-Jenison, author of the constitutional amendment. It would permit convicts to appeal only by leave (permission) of the court, ending the long list of automatic appeals.

"I'm a little worried about theses changes, knowing the qualty of those who had input," said Sen. Jack Faxon, D Farmington Hills, who voted against it. Faxon is the only legislator who served on the Constitutional Convention in 1961-2. Faxon cited the late Richard Van Dusen of Birmingham. Professor Harold Norris and William D. Cudlip.

All area Republicans voted for Van Regenmorter's proposal except David Honigman of West Bloomfield who missed the vote.

There is not one word in that portion of the (constitutional convention) record to suggest that an appeal of right was intended to follow even when there is no trial.'

George Ward

All area Democrats voted against... Van Regenmorter immediately asked for a reconsideration vote. After the session, he told this newspaper he would seek the Wayne prosecutor's help in turning around Senate Democrats.

Faulty ruling

But Ward, who favors eliminating automatic appeals in guilty plea cases, said the change is un-

He cited the 1977 case of People vs. Smith. In it, the state Supreme Court held that, even though a convict pleaded guilty and waive his rights, he couldn't waive his right to appeal.

Ward called the high court's decision "superficial," saying it represented a poor reading of the Constitutional Convention record. "There is not one word in that portion of the (constitutional convention) record to suggest that an appeal of right was intended to follow even when there is no trial," he said.

He said the high court's fourparagraph ruling "is sinking the Appeals Court's docket." The second highest court has a two-year backlog of cases. The Court of Appeals began life with nine judges, now has 24, is seeking 16 more and says it has work for 80.

Ward said he may seek an interpretation through a State Bar commission but was unsure he could get the votes.

The disputed words in the present constitution are in Art. 8 Sec. 20: "In every criminal prosecution, the accused shall have the right to a speedy and public trial by an impartial jury. . . to have an appeal as a matter of right; and as provided by law, when the trial court so orders, to have such reasonable assistance as may be necessary to perfect and prosecute an appeal.

The Van Regenmorter proposal is one of many anti-crime bills the Senate is working on this week. The House adjourned Thursday until after the Nov. 3

Area Realtors support Proposal C

The 2,400-member Western Wayne Oakland County Association of Realtors is urging voter support for Proposal C, the "Cut and Cap" property tax provision on ballots this November.

Michigan property taxes are among the highest in the nation and continue to serve as a strong deterrent against increased home ownership," said Ruth Clevers, president of the group in announcing the support.

"High levels of owner-occupied" housing is the most potent stabilizing force any community can have. Government must do more to assure opportunity for all residents to build a sound base in their selected home communities and this proposal is a step in the right direction," she said.

Passage of Proposal C would limit annual assessment increases on all parcels of property, including homes, to 3 percent or the rate of inflation, whichever is less. It would cut school operating taxes by 30 percent over the five year period with the state reimbursing school districts dollar for dollar for the cost of the property tax

Clevers said that, when fully implemented, the proposed tax cut would annually put more than $2 billion back in the hands of Michigan taxpayers.

"Each year they will have millions more to invest, spend or save, all of which will serve to boost the overall state economy," she stated. "Our state's high tax image discourages location of new business and industry here and that means fewer jobs and higher unemployment rolls. Lower property taxes will serve as an incentive for greater investment in Michigan both by new firms and those already located here and create improved opportunities for all residents," Clevers said.

"From the homeowners point of view, placing a cap on assessments is particularly important." Clevers said. "It would prevent property taxes from reflecting inflated and unforeseen current property values, that remain unrealized unless the property is sold. People who own or purchase homes will not find that these unrealized capital gains keep resulting in annual tax liabilities which can easily exceed their ability to

"All too often, we are seeing cases of homeowners being forced to sell because their incomes cannot stand the strain of mounting property tax bills, owners must be given assurance that unexpected increases in property taxes will not destroy their right to the enjoyment of owning their homes and erode their ability to make a major investment in their future.

She said that increased voter control of property taxes would help spur more first-time buyers to seek home-ownership and open the way for sold properties to move others up the housing ladder. She pointed out that growth in the real estate market has long been a noted factor in bringing the nation and Michigan out of economic difficulties.

Board (WWOCAR) members are located in more than 30 other communities in Wayne and Oakland counties. Clevers also serves as president of the 4.500-member Metro MLS, the state's largestmultiple listing service.

State lawmakers gridlocked on assisted suicide

BY TIM RICHARD STAFF WRITER

Assisted suicide will continue to be legal in Michigan as state lawmakers gridlocked again on a life-and-death issue.

A House subcommittee on death and dying this week took no action on the Senate-passed bill to make assisted suicide a four: year felony. That bill was designed to "put Kevorkian's lights out," in the words of its sponsor, Sen. Fred Dillingham, R-Fowler-al Oak pathologist who has assisted five suicides in recent years, sitting silently in the audience, a panel headed by Rep. Lyn Jondahl, D-Okemos, decided to move two other bills:

Auditing firm: school finances get top marks

The auditing firm which reviews the Wayne-Westland school district's books said the business manager achieved an "almost unbelievable" accomplishment in reporting actual spending being only a few dollars off the budget developed a year earlier.

By Leonard Poger

The Wayne-Westland school district's finances received a top grade from its auditing firm Monday night.

The firm's comments prompted new Superintendent Larry Thomas to reflect at the end of the two-hour presentation that the district has suffered in past years because of its poor financial credibility.

A representative of the Plante & Moran auditing firm not only praised the district's finances for the past fiscal year, but complimented Randy Liepa, business manager, for having $85.1 million in income almost on target with his budgeted figures.

That's almost unbelievable," said Joseph Wentrack, a partner in the auditing firm. He added that in his 27 years of auditing school districts, Liepa's performance of being off just $45,000 from his budgeted income is "one of the best performances I've Wentrack said the variance between the budgeted income and actual numbers was just one-half of 1 per-

In pointing out Liepa's accomplishments, Wentrack said that school budgeting is difficult for several reasons: the state aid formula isn't adopted by the state Legislature on a timely basis and the annual "fourth Friday" enrollment count used to determine the level of state aid isn't known for the first month of the school year.

Wentrack, whose praise for Liepa was echoed by Thomas, added that the business manager's "act will be hard to follow" next year.

Liepa, previously the number two person in the business department, was-promoted in mid-1991 to business manager.

In other audit highlights, the district's reserves rose slightly to nearly $6.9 million for the fiscal year that ended June 30. That represents 8 percent of the general fund budget, within the 5-10-percent figure the auditing firm recommends to clients, Wentrack said.

The administration said last month that part of the reserves will be used to pay for employee pay raises this year.

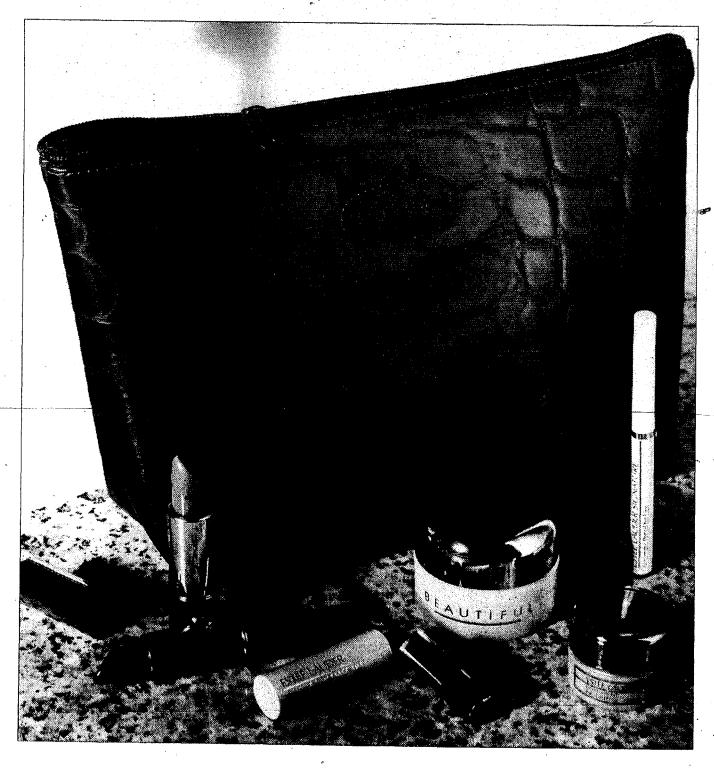

In the overall presentation, the auditing firm reported that the district spent $82.1 million last year, or $3.1 million less than it received.

Wentrack and auditing team partner Thomas Doyle told the board that it spends 61 percent of its budget on instruction, 22 percent on support business expenses and 7 percent on support administrative services — about the same as other school districts.

In other highlights of the annual financial review, the firm said that the district's per-pupil spending for 1990-91 fiscal year was $4,616, or slightly under the Wayne County average of $4,689.

Reiterating past comments, the firm noted that Wayne-Westland is still dependent on the state for much of its income. The district has a property tax base of $70,000 per pupil Nearby districts that receive little state aid have much bigger property tax bases: Dearborn ($209,000 per pupil); Livonia ($171,000), Plymouth-Canton ($128,000) and Romulus ($117,000).

Local spending on per-pupil basis is $4,945 in the district, compared to $6,196 in Livonia; $5,840 in Dearborn; $5,544 in Garden City and $4,674 in Plymouth-Canton.

State House

Rep. Barns merits re-election tate Rep. Justine Barns has served her House district well for 10 years and deserves to be re-elected Nov. 3.

A former Westland City Councilwoman, Barns clearly knows her way around the Lansing legislative machine and has been effective in representing her Westland constitu-

Although her local office in City Hall was recently closed, she has maintained her visibility throughout the district.

On the issues, Barns has been effective in the key issues facing local residents, particularly helping porer school districts get more money from the state and supporting issues that help senior citizens.

In the new 18th House District, Barns is running for a sixth two year term, facing a strong challenge from Republican nominee Steve Ca-

Over the years, Barns has championed the cause of the Wayne-Westland district in fighting for more state money. She has shown she has the energy and ability to use her seniority where it counts.

Observing her in action over the years and during recent interviews, it's clear that Barns is the better choice on the Nov. 3 ballot.

Rep. Keith deserves new term tate Rep. William Keith is the best choice on the Nov. 3 ballot in the new 17th House district which includes the southeast section of Westland.

Keith, a Garden City Democrat seeking his 11th two-year term in the House, has been in the Michigan House of Representatives for 20 years. During that time, he has had much success due to his hard work. He wields a lot of clout as chairman of the important House Education Committee.

Keith has specific positions on important state issues. He is obviously well-informed about policy matters and knows how to use his influence in school finance-related legislation.

Keith, like state Rep. Justine Barns, knows his way around the Lansing machine in order to get things done for his constituents.

The Observer's one reservation stems from what he calls his primary residence. Legally, he lists the Garden City address on his driver's license and voter registration records. But it's clear that his home in suburban Lansing is his primary home.

Other legislators rent an apartment, mobile home or a sleeping room in Lansing to avoid freeway trips in winter months or lengthy trips

If re-elected next month, the Observer suggests Keith maintain his political credibility and dignity and drop the residency charade.

Revoke officeholders with 'B' e must revamp the system of privilege that supports a very expensive and inefficient government.

Let's return to a "citizen-legislator" form of government, one that is more responsive to our needs and one that provides the opportunity for more to serve.

Vote yes on Proposal B. Recent revelations about the dangers of allowing incumbents to make a career in Washington or Lansing mandate term limitations.

The nation's founding fathers envisioned a government of "citizen-legislators," people who would serve their nation.

They should "return home and mix with the people," said Roger Sherman, a Rhode Island delegate to the U.S. Constitutional Convention.

Sherman saw that if representatives stayed too long at the seat of power, "they would acquire the habits of the place" and lose touch with those who elected them. Sherman was

Our representatives on both the state and national level have become career politicians who are far too removed from their constituents.

And because of the advantages incumbents have in keeping their names in the public eye and building a campaign war chest that few challengers can match, they are almost assured of re-election.

Despite a massive federal deficit, our elected representatives have continued to spend money we don't have in order to ensure their popularity at home — and get re-elected.

And if voter turnout is an indication, recent elections have not inspired participation in a democracy where the issue of who runs the government is truly at stake.

Our government has become stagnant. The same dreary ideas are dragged through the legislative process by the same tired bunch. We need new ideas from a continuing stream of private

Three western states have taken steps to limit the terms of elected officials, and Michigan could join them.

California and Oklahoma have passed laws limiting terms of state office holders. Colorado has adopted a law that also limits the terms of the state's representatives to the U.S. House and Senate.

The Colorado model is the one before Michigan voters. The proposal would limit U.S. senators to two terms in a 24-year period, U.S. representatives to three terms in a 12-year period, state representatives to three terms, state senators to two terms and the governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state and attorney general to two terms.

Precedent exists. The 22nd Amendment. ratified in 1951, limits the president to two terms.

f I hear another thing on sex harrassment I'll scream. Now the ACLU protects flag burning, pornography and breaking the law with lack of law enforcement. If you don't believe me, then try to drive 45 mph in a construction zone. Thursday when I drove out to Flat Rock on I-275 the sign said "construction zone 45 mph.

Every damn vehicle passed me at 65 and faster. One person cut me off and nearly hit me. He blew his horn and waved his hand at me with a half victory salute.

On the Navy Tailhook deal, this looks like the good old ACLU at work again. I noticed that the officers that resigned were white men. At a Califorina school, a teacher involved in sex charges got off scot-free.

With the fruitcake life-styles of Hollywood they should be ashamed. Give me a break, the other day when I got home and put on the TV here was a contest of about 10 naked women with women judging them. Prevention worth the cost he Aug. 31 article in the Livonia Observer about the S.A.F.E. program made my blood boil. The S.A.F.E. program is the only place some kids can go for help.

I was born and raised in Livonia. I know at least four different people who went to Livonia schools who were sexually abused, a countless number of kids whose parents were alcoholics and two kids who committed suicide.

We immunize our children to prevent illness. That's preventive medicine. Well that is exactly what the S.A.F.E.program is, preventive medicine. Even if it can help only a few children, it is worth every penny. It may save their lives.

Community papers are different ewspapers like this one are called "community newspapers" by folks in the news

We're not like the big daily newspapers such as the Detroit Free Press and Lansing State Journal, which try to cover the nation, the world, Michigan and the region. Nor are we like the TV stations, which try to do the same thing using the medium of television rather than print.

Community newspapers are rooted in the local home towns they serve. They try to cover whatever goes on there, from the city council meetings to the 50th wedding anniversary of that nice couple down the street.

We try to be part of the community we serve. Often we have our office in town. We like to hire editors and reporters who live in the community. We believe that we can practice community journalism with a combination of objectivity and fairness and also a sense of responsibility to the community we serve and to our neighbors who often appear in our news stories.

This is hard to do. In fact, I think community journalism is the toughest kind, if only because lots of the people you run in to every day know just as much about the story you wrote as you do. And when you make a mistake, it's easy for them to charge into your office and chew you out face to face.

Here's an example of how we try to our job, contributed by Phil Sherman, editor of our newspaper in West Bloomfield. It describes the way we covered the dramatic murder of a local resident and the aftermath.

The young children of the victim testified at the trial of the accused. The presiding judge asked the media not to take their pictures.

Sherman wrote: "We saw no gain by putting a little boy and girl through such scrutiny after they had just watched their father die. We reported the story thoroughly without diving into the gruesome, sensationalistic tone the other media took, particularly when they snuck out to the side door of the courtroom and tried to snap pictures of the children.

PHILIP POWER

"At the funeral, which took place in a church," Sherman went on, "several news organizations tried to go inside. We did, too, and the person leading the services asked us to leave, which we did - quietly and peacefully.

"That's in contrast to the television camera team that was forcibly thrown out of the church for standing its ground, and the other camera team that caused the widow to break down crying when they chased her out to the hearse after the service."

Sherman concludes: "Through all this; we still managed to cover the story but in a kind, thoughtful manner.'

"We ALWAYS consider the human angle when approaching a story, and ask ourselves if we would want someone covering our lives the way we plan to cover their lives. If the answer is yes, we go ahead. If the answer is no, we scrap the plan and come back with a more sensitive approach.

Sure, as community journalists we make our share of mistakes, some of them pretty bad. But we try our darndest to live up to the difficult standard of being both journalist and member of the community we serve.

And when we do our jobs as well and as sensitively as Phil Sherman and his staff, there's nothing that can compare.

Phil Power is chairman of the company that owns this newspaper.

POINTS OF VIEW

He found the new world but cannot find respect

hris, we have to talk.

I mean this coming Monday isn't just Columbus Day, it's the 500th anniversary of your arrival in the New World.

Even though you came no closer to Metro Detroit than a beach in the Bahamas, you'd still think there'd be some kind of commotion.

Jeez, people went gaga over the Bitentennial back in '76.A few years later, they even started sprouting foam

Oh, Chris: No wonder you're such a sourpuss. The 500th anniversary of your big event is approaching and local reaction is, to put it mildly, underwhelmrubber headdresses in commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the Statue of Liberty.

No such luck for you, Chris.

Let me tell you about my own voyage to find some 500th anniversary Columbus Day spirit.

It started at the mall. Doing a little research, I went to the B. Dalton at Twelve Oaks. They had Schwarzkopf, Madonna, even Calvin and Hobbes. But nothing about you. No new books. No magazine covers. Nothing.

Hey, that's okay. You're still a cultural hero, right? And what befits a cultural hero most? That's right. A Tshirt. Thought I wear something spiffy to your big party.

So I went across the corridor to the T-shirt place. They've got the usual dead celebs — Elvis, James Dean, Marilyn. They've got Wile E. Coyote. They've got Calvin and Hobbes (Chris, you've got to get their agent.)

The salesgirl was nice as pie. "We don't have Columbus," she said. "But we have a shirt with an Old World

I know. That Amerigo Vespucci guy again. I remember the night, that tropical bar, the rum, how you teld me how much you hated that guy. Can't say I blame you, either. How this mapmaker gets two great big continents named for him while you, the famous Christopher Columbus, only get the home of the Buckeyes and the Medellin drug cartel—well, it's just not fair.

WAYNE PE

Then it starts to dawn on me, the way you've been abused, even in your own lifetime, there might not even be a party

To my relief, there's a Columbus Day committee right on 7 Mile, in Detroit. Bad news, though. Their phone number is a fax. So I fax. (It's a 20th Century version of a message in a bottle). And I wait. And wait.

Then, I get another idea. Who brought us the Bicentennial? Who brought us Miss Liberty's birthday bash — Corporate America!

Surely, they'll come through for you. First stop, the Columbus Steel Drum Co. in Pontiac. This has to be a winner. You discovered the Bahamas. They play those steel drums.

"No", the woman said, "we aren't doing anything special."

Undaunted, I try again. How about the Columbus Line, in Livonia? "We're a steamship line," the receptionist said, buoying my spirits with visions of boats loaded with bananas headed back to the Continent. "But I don't think we're doing anything for Columbus Day. It's been pretty low key in recent years."

Truth to tell, Chris, your reputation isn't what it used to be.

You did some pretty masty things in your lifetime, and even America's schoolchildren are starting to get wind of them.

"Controversy surrounds Columbus because of his perceived exploitation of natives," said John Telford, educational columnist and retired Rochester Schools administrator. "Some say he discovered America and others say it was already discovered when he arrived here.

"There are those who say Columbus dabbled in the slave trade. Some call him a hero and some call him a villain. But in celebrating Columbus year and Columbus day, he is recognized as a great explorer."

Hear that world: A GREAT EXPLORER.

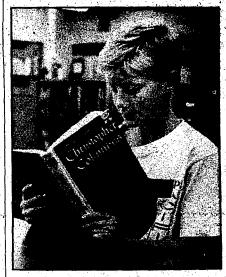

I see you, Chris, storming up on the beach, waving your arms and bellowing like a vintage Animal House-era John Belushi.

"Oh sure, the Declaration of Independence gets a big birthday blowout. So does the Statue of Liberty. I should get a big party, too. But nooooo!

"I'm not important. I'm only the guy who opened the way for all you European types to come over here. Without me, you'd all be piggy-backed on top of the other, looking for a place to park your Opal. But don't thank me."

It's all right, Chris. It's all right.
It's your party, you can cry if you want to:

Big wheels turn backs on need for open housing

ecently I was the keynote speaker at the Oakland County Center for Open Housing's third annual session, which was well-attended by many enthusiastic supporters. Some of them approached me after my speech and asked me to come and speak elsewhere

However, I couldn't help but note the absence of many invited real estate people and governmental and corporate reps who most needed to be there to hear how racial integration can rekindle the economic recovery of Detroit and its suburbs. Of particular concern was the conspicuous absence of some big bankers who have been approached by the open housing center for funding, and the lack of real estate representation from my home community of Rochester Hills, whose Board of Realtors has declined to endorse the center's mission

Commendably, that North Oakland County community's City Council has endorsed that mission.

There were other realities and corporations which weren't represented at the session.

Now Chrysler has devastatingly deserted Highland Park. AT&T has announced a pending and highly symbolic county line division. One western Wayne County school district's assistant superintendent has warned me my multiracial staffing stipulations are "too hot" for that city's board of education. The feds have instigated a split of Wayne from Oakland County into primary metro statistical/economic areas and gerrymandered voting districts by race. Also, the Oakland County Commissioners have rejected their own task force's balanced recommendations for combating urban sprawl.

In the midst of all this, I confess to feeling like an increasingly lone Don Quixote. I know the people at the open housing center sometimes do, too.

Windmills can knock us to the ground, but they can lift us to the skies if we grab them tightly and hold on properly. The Oakland County Center for Open Housing is one of the few organizations anywhere that is grabbing tight and holding on properly to the vital mission of racial integration, which it pursues with the tornado tenacity of Cervantes' legendary knight.

The center keeps coming back, tilting its lance at its 61 target communities and their resident businesses and corporations, stubbornly refusing to be put off with pretty promises.

John Telford, a Rochester Hills resident, most recently was assistant superintendent in the Rochester School District. He previously was executive director for secondary education in the Plymouth Canton district.

Business group backs 5 area candidates

Five western Wayne County candidates for the Michigan State House of Representatives have been endorsed by the Small Business Association of Michigan's (SBAM) Small Biz Political Action Committee. The incumbents endorsed include: Rep. Richard Young, D-Dearborn Heights, whose district includes Redford Township and a small section of eastern Livonia: William Keith, D-Garden City, whose district includes Garden City and part of Inkster and Westland and Lyn Bankes, R-Livonia, whose district includes Redford Township and part of Livonia.

Also endorsed were Jerry Vorva, R-Plymouth, who is unopposed in the general election, and Deborah Whyman, a Republican from Canton Township who is challenging incumbent Rep. James Kosteva, a Democrat, in the 21st District. Vorva's district includes part of Livonia and the Plymouth and Northville areas.

No endorsement was made in the 18th District in which incumbent Justine Barns, D-Westland, is being challenged by Republican Steve Cabrera.

The PAC endorsements were based on voting records on key business issues — capital acquisition deduction, single business tax, inheritance tax and health care reform — and candidates' written responses to a survey developed by the Small Business Association.

"These are the candidates who, in our judgment, care most about creating jobs and jump-starting Michigan's economy," said Barry Cargill, SMAM vice president of government relations.

The Small Biz PAC is the political arm of SBAM, a bi-partisan trade association that represents more than 5,600 businesses across the state. More than 85 percent of SBAM's members have 25 or fewer employees.

Modified voc ed bill wins House approval

A bill to link industry to vocational education won 82-15 approval in the state House of Representatives.

"The shortage of skilled workers is no longer a future possibility but a very real fact," said the sponsor, Rep. William Keith, D-Garden City.

The bill goes to the Senate. It won House approval only after Keith watered it down to eliminate a required 200 days of schooling a year and other costs to local school districts.

All area lawmakers voted for it except Rep. Gordon Sparks, R-

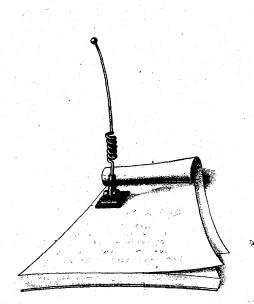

Troy. He joined House minority leader Paul Hillegonds of Holland and several out-state Republicans in opposing it.

The bill would set up a 15member panel of industrialists, labor union leaders, educators and state department heads to determine what skills are needed in the labor force.

"Michigan has a choice to make," Keith said. "Either we build our economy and educational system around high-skill and high-wage jobs or risk the economic future of our families.

Peters fails to qualify

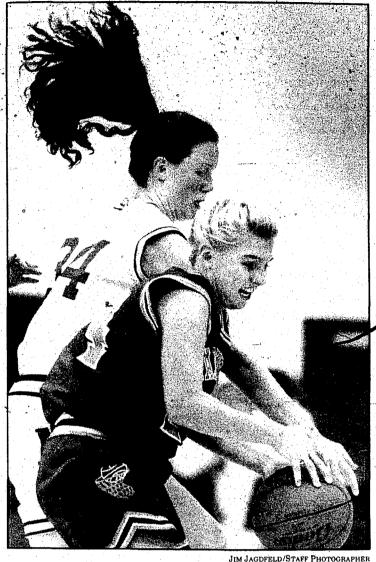

Despite a drive of 323 yards, 27 inches, Livonian Rob Peters missed the second-round semifinal cut at the 1992 Chrysler National Long Drive Championship, held over the weekend at the Boca Raton (Fla.) Resort and Club.

Monte Scheinblum, 25, of LaQuinta, Calif., won the 18th annual event, picking up a first-place prize of $18,000 and a new Chrysler Concorde. He finished second a year ago.

Peters, a Stevenson High product, missed the 18-player semifinal round by three spots. He was one of 32 qualifiers from across the country to qualify for the finals.

More than 9,000 entries competed in the event, which began with district play in May.

Patriots rule Western side

It will be Livonia Franklin versus Farmington next week for the Western Lakes Activities Association championship. Franklin clinched the Western Division with a 3-1 victory Wednesday over Walled Lake Western.

Livonia Franklin added another chapter to its already storybook boys soccer season Wednesday, defeating host Walled Lake Western, 3-1, to earn a berth in the Western Lakes Activities Association championship,

The league is considered by many to be the toughest high school conference in the state.

The Patriots, who had never won more than eight games in a season, let alone a title, captured the Western Division crown outright with a 4-0-1 record, one point shead of 4-1-0 Plymouth Canton

Franklin will meet another upstart, Farmington, the surprise Lakes Division champion, for WLAA supremacy in a matchup tentatively set for either at 5 p.m. Tuesday or Wednesday at Franklin.

The kids are very happy and very excited," said Franklin coach Frantz Lamarre, whose team is 12-2-2 overall and 7-1-2 in all WLAA games. "They now realize with ha ork you can. accomplish somethin, :his.

Mike Schmidt scored a pair of firsthalf goals on assists from Richard Burnette and Guillermo Cazares to propel the Patriots to a 2-0 advan-

Jason Buelow then added his teamleading 11th goal of the year on an assist from David Binkiewicz to give the Patriots a commanding three-goal advantage.

Goalie Jason Emero's bid for his sixth shutout of the year was erased with 8:30 remaining when Bill Herman scored after being awarded a penalty kick.

"Walled Lake Western came out very determined," Lamarre said. "They had nothing to lose, and they played with a lot of heart.

"But tonight we played a much better brand of soccer than we've played all year. We made a lot of good plays.'

Pats tie Churchill

On Monday, host Franklin and city rival Churchill battled to a scoreless draw in a key Western Division bat-

The Chargers, who finished 2-1-2 in divisional play, carried the action most of the first half, but couldn't get on the board.

Franklin got moving offensively in the second half, but couldn't convert as Churchill goalie Kal Kaliszewski (six saves) recorded his 10th shutout of the year.

"We moved the ball well, but we missed a few scoring opportunities by shooting too high," said Churchill coach Mark Mason, whose team is 8-3-3 overall.

Shamrocks eye Rice in annual battle

By DAN O'MEARA and BRAD EMONS STAFF WRITERS

Those Observer guys didn't look so smart Saturday — the day of upsets in Western Lakes Activities Association football.

Northville, Plymouth Canton and Walled Lake Central surprised the experts and cast doubt on their prognosticating fact, it was something like "When Welsh Eyes Are Smiling" after going 11-4 and gaining ground in the prediction contest.

Dan O'Meara says it's too early to push the panic button following a 10-5 performance that saw him slip to 53-21 overall. Emons leads with a 55-19 record.

FRIDAY'S GAMES (all times 7:30 p.m.)

Lutheren Fast at Clarenceville: The records might give a different impression, but this isn't an easy game to predict. East is 4-1 and the Trojans 2-3. They've played one common opponent: Lutheran West. Clarenceville lost 20-14 to the Leopards, East 28-0. The Eagles have played Ligett, Hamtramck, Harper Woods and Lutheran North but nobody as good as St. Clement or Cranbrook — the other teams to beat the Trojans. PICK: Emons likes the Livonians, but O'Meara favors Farm. Harrison at Liv. Churchill: It's been 20 years since the Hawks (0-3, 2-3) last suffered three consecutive defeats. Harrison, which opened in 1970, had its only losing season in 1972 when it finished 3-6. Coach John Herrington said he believes the Hawks will rebound and 'play some good football," but he's still waiting for the improvement he and his staff anticipated. The Chargers (0-3, 0-5) were the first Western Division team to beat Harrison in 1983 and one of only two until this year. Churchill also hopes to end a losing streak but was scoreless in its last three. PICK: The U.S.S. Herrington plugs the hole in its bow:

Liv. Franklin at Ply. Canton: Franklin (2-1, 4-1) suffered its first loss Saturday while Canton (1-2, 1-4) got its first win. After losing to co-leader Northville and with a big game against Walled Lake Western coming up, Franklin can't afford another division loss. Canton's season took a positive turn in a 23-15 win over Harrison - Its first ever. Coach Bob Khoenle's decision to start sophomore quarterback Brett Elledge was reminiscent of an identical move four years ago. The Chiefs were 0-4 then, too, when sophomore QB Karl Wukle got his first start. He passed for 199 yards and twotouchdowns a's Canton upset Northville 21-15. The Chiefs finished 3-6 in 1988 and had two winning seasons after that with Wukie leading the offense. PICK: The Patriots win with defense.

Brad Emons wasn't singing an denly, Central (2-1, 3-2) looks pretty good after beating North Farmington 26-21 last week. That victory also made the Vikings contenders in the Lakes Division, however er unrealistic the prospect of winning the title. Stevenson (1-2, 1-4) got its first win at the expense of winless Farmington, 10-6. With the exception of Westland Glenn, the Spartans have been close in all their games and should be good competition for the upstart Vikings. PICK: Central wins its third straight.

N. Farmington at Wald. Glenn: The Glenn express keeps gaining momentum, and the Rockets (3-0, 5-0) haven't allowed a point in their last three games against Lakes Division teams. The schedule keeps getting tougher for Glenn, and now it faces its best opponent yet in the Raiders (2-1, 3-2). The Rockets can expect a fired-up North team eager to rebound from its loss to Walled Lake Central. It's a must-win game for the Raiders if they're to stay in the division race and keep their playoff hopes alive. PICK: The Rockets stay unbeaten.

Garden City at Redford Union: This promises to be one of the better GC-RU matchups in several years. Both are 1-1in the Northwest Suburban League and 3-2 overall. Each teams need a win to stay in the NSL race. Their only common opponent (Edsel Ford) defeated Garden City 34-0 and Redford Union 21-14. In this case, don't put too much stock in those scores. PICK: RU wins a close one.

Wayne Memorial at Belleville: Wayne has been a hard team to figure, but it appears the Zebras are headed in the right direction. After starting 0-2, Wayne (3-1, 3-2) has won its last three in the Wolverine A Conference. The last two were wins over respectable foes - Wyandotte and Lincoln Park. Belleville (2-2, 3-2) has long been a dormat in the WAC but has a good squad this year. The Tigers only lost 14-7 last week to first-place Fordson, a team the Zebras have yet to play. PICK: Emons switches and takes Believille; O'Meara switches and picks Wayne.

SATURDAY'S GAMES (all times 1 p.m. unless noted)

Lutheran N'west at Luth. Westland: The Lutheran schools again present a di-

and Westland (1-4) have played three common opponents, all with similar scores. The Warriors have generated little offense this year. In a 45-8 loss to Cranbrook last week, Steve Faith accounted for all eight points on a 41-yard touchdown run followed by the two-point conversion pass from Andy Manthei. PICK: The Warriors prevail, O'Meara says, but Emons flies Northwest.

D.H. Annapolis at Red. Thurston: How about those Eagles? Thurston is 3-1 in the Tri-River League and 4-1 overall. The Eagles will try to win their fourth consecutive game against the winless Cougars (0-4, 0-5). Relying on comparative scores can be a dangerous business, but consider this: Thurston beat Crestwood 16-6: Annapolis lost to Crestwood 35-0. PICK: The Eagles soar.

Ply. Salem at Farmington: The Rocks (1-2, 2-3) have lost two straight and been shut out each time, but they got the Lakes heavyweights (North and Glenn) out of the way. After some big losses early to powerful teams, Farmington (0-3, 0-5) has been close in its last two. We've seen enough surprises in the WLAA to think the Falcons can make a game of it PICK: Salem casts a spell on Farmington.

Bishop Borgess at Det. Benedictine: In defense of winless Borgess, the Spartans (0-2, 0-5) have played five excellent opponents; however, they offered little opposition in any of those games. Benedictine (2-1, 3-2) hasn't played the schedule Borgess has and, compared to the others, can be considered the easiest opponent yet for the Spartans. PICK: The Ravens keep Borgess winless.

St. Agatha vs. Waterford Our Ladv. 7:30 p.m. at RU's Kraft Fleid: The Aggies (4-1) are 2-0 in the Catholic League Section and two games ahead of the Lakers (3-2), who lost their last two to St. Clement and Ann Arbor Richard. St. Agatha has won four straight since losing the opener to Thurston. The Aggles are the defending division champs and need a win to keep pace with state-ranked St. Clement. PICK: The Aggles are O'Meara's pick, but Emons foresees a Lakes victory.

SUNDAY'S GAME

Redford CC vs. Brother Rice, 2 p.m. at Pontiac Wiener Stadium: The Shamrocks (1-0, 5-0) can't afford a letdown after their big win over DePorres in which they ended the Eagles' string of four shutouts, 15-6. But CC is used to playing big games on back-to-back weekends, we can assume the Shamrocks will be as peaked to play their arch rival as they were DePorres. Rice (1-0, 4-1) is having another good year, but are the Warriors strong enough to stand up to CC, which has an offensive line bigger than some college teams? PICKI CC bruises the Rice Brothers.

Lady Ocelots win own Invite

Because Schoolcraft College was the host team, the road to a title at last weekend's second annual Schoolcraft College Volleyball Invitational was intentionally difficult. The Ocelots had to play four matches on Friday, the shortest of the two days, while six of the other seven teams played just three. ·

There weren't many easy opponents, either. Three of SC's seven best-of-three matches went the full three games; in four games, the Ocelots were forced into overtime before posting a win.

But when it was all over, SC had something its coach, Tom Teeters, thought unlikely - a tournament championship.

The Ocelots won all seven of their matches, edging Mott CC, which lost twice and finished second. Elgin CC (Ill.) also lost twice, but finished third because it lost to Mott.

Belleville CC (Ill.) was fourth, Kankakee (Ill.) took fifth, Parkland (III.) was sixth, McHenry (Ill.) placed seventh and Lake Michigan was eighth.

"The weekend was characterized by tremendous comebacks by Schoolcraft," said Teeters, whose team improved to 19-2-2 overall, with a 16-1-2 mark against junior college teams. "They did amaze me. I would have been satisfied with a 5-2 record, considering the caliber of competition.

"But we won all the close matches. They were really pushing the stress envelope.'

SC opened the tournament on Friday with a three-set win over Mott, 15-10, 10-15, 15-6. The Ocelots then defeated Parkland 17-15, 15-3; Belleville 10-15, 15-7, 16-14; and McHenry 15-2, 15-7.

The final-game win over Belleville, and the first-game win over Parkland, were examples of what was to come. SC trailed Belleville 14-13, with Belleville twice serving for the match, and the Ocelots were behind 13-8 in the opening game against Parkland before ral-

On Saturday, SC outlasted Kankakee 4-15, 16-14, 15-6; knocked off Elgin, at the time also unbeaten in the tournament, 15-12. 17-15; and finished by ripping Lake Michigan 15-6, 15-5.

In the match against Kankakee, the Ocelots were again on the brink of a loss. Trailing 14-11, Janine Sproul rallied them, serving five-straight points - including three aces. Before she stepped in to serve, however, SC had to turn away three match points for Kankakee.

'We were so consistent, and that made it much harder for the other teams," said Teeters, who also praised his assistant coaches, Alicia Love and Chris Paciero. We exceeded my expectations.

Nancy Ehlert was one of many standouts for SC, collecting 56 kills and 102 assists-to-kills in the tournament. Julie Wood led the Ocelot attackers with 77 kills; she also had seven blocks. Erica Edwards had 42 kills and 11 blocks and Dani Sheehy totaled 40 kills and 13 blocks.

Sproul finished with 11 service aces and 41 digs. Jennifer Damphousse paced the SC defense with 102 digs and eight blocks, while Shannon Capstick got 46 digs. Tracia Clendenen added 83 assists-to-kills and seven service

Crusaders can'tstop Northwood

The trip was hardly worth it. Madonna University's volleyball team was hoping for something like last year, when the Lady Crusaders entertained Northwood Institute and thumped the Northwomen to win the NAIA District 23 regular season title.

It was not to be. It was their turn to travel to Midland this year for the pivotal showdown, and it was their turn to absorb a pounding: 15-2, 15-6, 15-10 Tuesday.

The win clinched the district title for Northwood, which is 16-5 overall and finishes 7-0 in the district. The loss was Madonna's third-straight, dropping the Crusaders to 21-6 overall, 3-1 in the district.

"They played their best match of the year, according to their coach, Kevin Fagan," said Madonna coach Jerry Abraham after returning Tuesday. 'And we played our worst, for no obvious reason. I don't understand why. But we got beat by a better team tonight.

"It would have been difficult to beat them tonight. They mixed up their attack and kept us off-balance. We could never get any momentum.

Abraham admitted his team is "in a lull, and I don't know why. We're just playing tired.' Last weekend, Madonna won its first four matches at the Tiffin University Classic in Tiffin, Ohio, but lost in the semifinals to West Virginia

Wesleyan, a team the Crusad. ers had beaten earlier in the tournament. They followed that with another loss in the consolation finals to place fourth.

Against Northwood, Dana Finley led the way with 14 kills and 10 digs. Elena Oparka and Tonia Smith each had eight kills, with Smith adding 13 digs, and Mazie Pilut totaled 28 assists-to-kills. Maureen Paulin had nine digs.

But Madonna, which relies on the power of hitters Smith, Finley and Oparka, had just a .175 kill average as a team.

"If we get them again (in the district tournament, which Northwood will host), it'll be a different match. But tonight, Northwood was the better team, definitely."

There was some good news for Madonna. For the secondstraight week, a Crusader was named district player of the week. Smith earned the honors this time; last week, the 5-foot-9 senior outside hitter from Walled Lake Central collected 88 kills (with a .424 kill average), 14 service aces, 67 digs. three solo blocks and 14 block assists in eight matches. Madonna was 6-2 for the week.

The week before Smith was honored, Oparka was the district selection.

Brawl ends SC-EMU match early

For the second time in a month. on-field violence caused the cancellation of a soccer match.

On Sept. 20, Oakland University and Grand Canyon players brawled at OU. Five players were subsequently red-carded and the match was ruled over at that juncture, just 44 seconds short of becoming official (70 minutes must be completed).

Last Saturday at Schoolcraft College, EMU's Jay Berrisford allegedly attacked SC's Andy Cosenza. As at OU, benches emptied. Three players were red-carded: Berrisford, Cosenza and Dominic Vella, who pulled Berrisford off Cosenza.

The game was halted by referee Tom Bellioti at that point, with just 60 minutes completed. SC was leading, 2-0, on goals by Vella 20 minutes into the first half and a penalty kick by Cosenza, after a hand ball call against the Eagles' Jason Carmine, five minutes lat-

"I think Eastern took exception to the fact they were being taken said SC by a two-year school," coach Van Dimitriou. "Needless to say, I wasn't happy with the way the game ended, but I was happy with the way our kids played. This was a first in my tenure at Schoolcraft, as far as not being able to finish a game."

Dimitriou thought a play earlier in the match, in which SC defender Jack Abate collided with EMU's Otis Vakratsis and injured him, may have set the stage for the later eruption. "My directive to our players is, if there's trouble, go out and surround our kids and protect them," said Dimitriou. "But no swinging."

Dimitriou added that he could see problems developing between Cosenza and Berrisford and had Nate Stovall waiting for a stoppage in play to sub for Consenza. But the fight started before Stovall got in.

Because of the red cards, SC was forced to play Sunday against the visiting Butler University junior varsity without Vella and Cosenza. Also, Abate suffered a thigh bruise and Greg Wolters had the flu, sidelining both.

The result: a 2-1 loss, SC's first of the season.

Butler scored twice in the first half, both following restarts. The Ocelots got their only goal 15 minutes into the second half from Aaron Simpson, converting a Sean Ryan pass.

SC, now 6-1-1 overall, had other chances. Matt Lividini, playing his third match after returning from a hamstring pull, had two ideal chances in each half but couldn't convert. Brian Hauman also misfired on a wide-open shot at an empty net in the first half.

■ SC WOMEN'S SOCCER

The winless streak continued for the Lady Ocelots, but it wasn't as painful.

SC hasn't won a match since the season-opener. Last Wednesday's (Sept. 30) game against University of Michigan extended that streak, but at least it wasn't a loss. The two teams tied, 1-1, in Ann Arbor.

The Wolverines scored first, following a free kick in the first half. SC tied it before halftime, with Jamie Alex netting the ball out of a scramble in front of the goal following an Amy Krajewski corner kick.

"Our players went for it real hard," said SC coach Nick O'Shea. "That caused a scramble and Alex scored.'

That type of play pleased O'Shea; he and assistant coach Dawn Gabriel have been preaching more aggressive play around the goal to team members.

SC has now gone nine games without a win. The Lady Ocelots are 1-7-2.

Unbeaten Country Day invades Spartans' turf

By Brad Emons Staff Writer

It's no ordinary non-league matchup when state boys soccer powers Livonia Stevenson and Detroit Country Day School of Birmingham square off.

The two programs have 10 state: championships between them -

DCD, five-time defending Class B-C-D champions and one title away from a national record, invade the Spartans' home turf beginning at 6:15 p.m. Friday.

This will be a good indication. of where we stand going into the (state) playoffs and there's nothing better than playing Country Day," said third-year Stevenson coach Walt Barrett, who guided the Spartans to the 1991 state Class A crown. "Just about every player on their team is an ODP (Olympic Development) player. They have a lot of talent.'

The Yellow Jackets, 14-0-1 overall, are led by center-forward Adam Hunter, last year's leading scorer, and freshman Andre Ware (no relation to the Lions' quarterback), who had eight goals in six games since cracking the starting lineup.

Stevenson enters the matchup 8-2-3 after Monday's 6-1 victory at North Farmington.

Doug Nash, Nick Deren, Arthur Knack, Steve Williford, Dan Colosimo and Jeff Thomas each scored goals for the winners. (Senior Marcus Geiger had the lone goal for North, now 1-9-1.)

Adam Pichler added two assists, while Williford, Andrew Foley, Mike Sneyd and Nash added one each for the Spartans.

Sandi Schutte was first over-all Saturday, leading Livonia Franklin to Belleville Invitational girls cross country title.

Blazers' title hopes hurt by Marian's 52-49 win

By Neal Zipser Staff Writer

As Tara Overaitis' desperation three-pointer clanged off the rim Tuesday, Livonia Ladywood's chances of winning the Catholic League Central Division may have fallen with it.

The host Blazers rallied from a 14-point deficit only to come up short against Birmingham Marian, 52-49.

Marian, meanwhile, enhanced its hopes of winning its second straight division crown.

With the win, the Mustangs, who are ranked No. 4 in Class A, improved to 9-1 overall and 3-0 in the league. The Blazers, who were ranked No. 7 in Class A and coming off a 59-45 loss last week at Harper Woods Regina, fell to 9-2 overall and 2-2 in the

Everybody else in the league has one loss, and Ladywood has two," said Marian coach Mary Lillie-Ciccerone said. "We're sitting pretty, but we still haven't played Farmington Mercy

It was Lillie-Ciccerone who was sitting comfortably on the bench for most of the game until Ladywood turned a 32-18 thirdquarter deficit into a 47-46 lead with 1:50 remaining in regulation.

"I like to relax on the bench and be leading by 20 points,' Lillie-Ciccerone said: "But that doesn't happen in this league. There are too many good teams.

"We played so well until we got tentative on offense and stopped-looking to score. Meanwhile, they got aggressive and caught up."

Two free throws by senior center Tara Walsh and four free throws by senior guard Stephanie Storen in the final 1:14 staved off Ladywood.

Storen, who finished with a team-high 14 points and seven rebounds, enjoyed being at the free throw line in the game's final seconds but would have preferred a wider margin of victory.

"I don't like close games," Storen said. "But if it comes down to it, I like the pressure.

They were big free throws. Ladywood trailed 39-25 with 3:00 left in the third quarter when the Blazers made their move. Two Overaitis free throws and a three-point play by Mary Jo Kelly (12 points) closed the gap to nine.

Overaits, a sophomore guard who finished with a game-high 22 points, scored six of Ladywood's first eight points of the fourth quarter to close Marian's lead to 46-42 with 3:38 left.

"Tara was ungodly," Lillie-Ciccerone said. "She doesn't play like a sophomore,"

'It's unfortunate a sophomore has to be the leader when we have five seniors on the team," Ladywood coach Ed Kavanaugh

The Mustangs' advantage was cut to one after three free

On Marian's next possession, Ladywood's Melissa Campeau stole a tipped pass and fed senior guard Tracy Prybylski, who laid the ball in to give Ladywood a 47-46 lead with 1:50 left — its first lead since the game's first basket.

Walsh, who finished with 13 points and was nine for 10 at the free throw line, calmly sank two free throws to give Marian a one-point lead with 1:14 remaining. .

Julie Storen then stole a Ladywood pass and immediately passed to her older sister, who was fouled. Stephanie Storen missed the second. Storen hustled after her miss and was fouled again. This time she made both free throws and the Mustangs went up by four, made the first free throw but

Campaeu banked in a short jumper to cut the score to 51-49.

Jen Jalaba was fouled and missed the front end of her oneand-one opportunity, but once again, Storen jumped on the rebound and was fouled with six seconds remaining.

Storen made her first free throw and missed the second. Overaitis grabbed the rebound. sped down court and threw up a running three-point attempt that banged off the back of the rim as the buzzer sounded.

Natural symbols boost community pride gan map I enjoy looking at the different state symbols. Our state bird, the robin, is pictured on the map, along with our state tree (white pine), state fish (brook trout) state stone and gem (Petoskey stone and green stone, respectively) and state flower (apple blossom). And now we also have a state soil, the Kal kaska profile. Recognition of these subjects does not afford them any extra protection, but it does make people aware of their presence. State symbols are great topics for teach-

■ Because of their wide ranging use, I would suggest to city governments that they adapt symbols to help draw attention to the natural diversity within each community.

ers to use in discussing the state of Michigan.

Enhancing awareness of natural things is a beneficial part of anyone's education. It helps to make people aware of the diversity of life and natural objects we have in the state or the country.

For the past tew years there has been a campaign to designate the monaich butterfly as the national insect. It would highlight at least one insect and provide the opportunity for teachers and people to learn more about the monarch. By the way the bald eagle is not our national bird, it is our national symbol

Showcasing a particular plant, animal or natural object can precipitate discussion about them, they can be used as symbols in parades, accents for stationary, or any number of things.

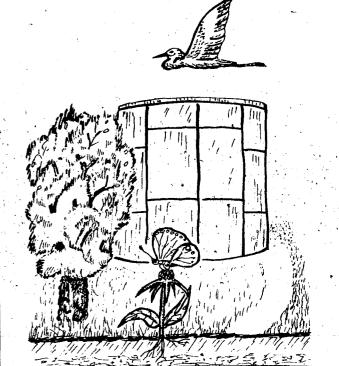

Because of their wide ranging use I would suggest to city governments that they adapt, symbols to help draw attention to the natural diversity within each community.

West Bloomfield and Farmington Hills already have established effectively. If communities already have these symbols then I would suggest using them in more ways so that they make people aware of their presence.

A community vote for a community bird, flower, tree, insect, mammal, amphibian, reptile, rock, and even soil, would help make people aware of natural subjects right close to home. Though a city or township soil may sound extreme, if you think of it as the foundation upon which the plants grow, and the types of plants growing will determine the types of insects in the area, which in turn determines the types of birds in the area, then a soil is not so insignificant.

City/township symbols would help to localize the significance of the interconnectedness of the natural world.

Tim Nowicki is a naturalist with the Independence Oaks County Park in Oakland County.

Symbols: Cities and townships could help localize the significance of he interconnectedness of nature.

We'd certainly like to sell you a new Saturn, but...

Thanks to the hundreds of people who recently purchased Saturns, we've essentially run out of cars.

For those of you still in the market for apparently one of the most popular American-made automobiles, we have a limited number of new Saturns scheduled for delivery soon.

If this were a standard sort of car ad, Saturn would now offer some incredible incentives to anyone willing to come in and put down a deposit on one of the "limited number" of Saturns arriving early next month. But then, that's not the way Saturn does business.

You won't find the usual high-pressure tactics on the showroom floor. Or the wheeling and dealing behind the scenes. But what you will find is a no-hassle environment, a good value and a solid automobile.

The very reason we can't keep enough Saturns on hand to satisfy the demand. To experience the Saturn difference for yourself, stop by and see one of the last Saturns we're holding onto SATURN until the next shipment arrives.

You can't miss the Saturn store. It's the one without a parking lot full of new cars in front of it.

'Music Man' combines old, new

It's a familiar favorite for many, but Michigan Opera Theatre's production of "The Music Man" will be a new chapter for some veteran performers, including an award-winning barbershop quartet. They'll be excited by the challenge, and more than ready.

"The Music Man" will open at the Fisher Theatre Friday, Oct. 16 at 7 p.m. For tickets, call (313)874-SING.

By BILL COUTANT

When Michigan Opera Theatre's production of "The Music Man" opens Friday, some veteran performers will probably feel like they're starting all over.

These singers and hoofers aren't the feint of heart, mind you, but they are feeling some of the excitment that comes with performing a work for the first time, albeit a musical that is as American as, well, Iowa.

"This is the first really dramatic musical for us," says Lee Hanson, a Birmingham native and bass singer with the barbershop quartet "Stay Tuned."

But like most MOT performers, Hanson and his group are hardly newcomers to the stage. "Stay Tuned," which has performed at vocal competitions bosts members who have been with other groups as well. Hanson, who along with his wife owns a Port Huron radio station, has performed nationally and internationally with barbershop quartets for more than 30 years.

We're used to performing in front of an audience," he said. "But this is kind of a challenge. And this is just the right show for us. We (Hanson and other "Stay Tuned" members Dennis Gore, Brian Kaufman and Bruce Lamarte) talked about doing this because we knew it would be a real commitment. If say, it would have been "Oklahoma," we wouldn't have been interested."

So how hard could it be for these performers to sing some of the best known show tunes of American the-

"The show has a lot of history," he said. "The "Buffalo Bills" did it on broadway and in the movie. They had their own style. And we have ours. So we really want to do it in our style." Hanson says singing on stage at the Fisher Theatre will require a somewhat different technique.

You have to be sure not to stress the vowels too much," he said. "You've got to emphasize some consonants so the audience can hear the words distinctly and yet we have to stay with our style. It's tricky.'

"Stay Tuned" beat out several other area quartets to earn its part. And the group will get a lot of work during the show, singing backup much of the time when they aren't the featured performers.

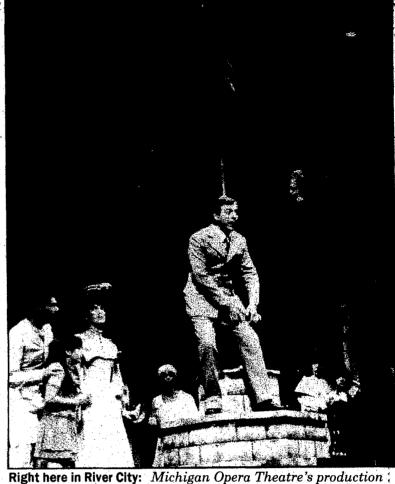

Although Chicago native Amy Dolan Malaney will be performing in her third Music Man, it will be in a new role, the character Maud Duncop.

Malaney, who lives in Farmington Hills, has impressive stage credentials, with experience in both New York and Chicago. She was a cast member in the broadway hit "Do Black Patent Leather Shoes Really Reflect Up?" and can be heard on the soundtrack.

But with her husband's transfer and the birth of two children, now ages 1 and 2, Malaney will have been away from the stage for four years. She has continued to teach voice, but she is excited about her return to the

"I had never gone more than a year without performing since the age of 12," Malaney said. "Now it's been four years since I've performed. I've always thought that I'd return to performing, but not this soon.

"It's going to be a really fun, character part, and it's a smaller role (than Marion, the town librarian and female lead)," she said. "This is per-of "The Music Man" will give some area performers a chance to show off their proven talents. The popular musical opens Friday at the Fisher Theatre.

John Franklin Hopkins, a Westland resident and Livonia Churchill graduate, loves the challenge of dancing in the popular musical. And, thanks to choreographer Mary Jan Houdina, Hopkins will be well-prepared.

"She is really working us hard," said the Wayne State University vocal performance major. "But that really helps because the dancing (for "The Music Man") is really fast.

These performers know the value of long rehearsals and hard work. But they'll experience some of the same excitement that any new performer would on opening night.

"I think if you don't feel some nerves, something's wrong," Hanson

"The Shunn-

ing," making its U.S. premiere at

Trinity House in Livonia, is a

ing drama that is a Germanic Mennonite communi- Loewen (Mike Stevens), the new ty like the one in which he was raised.

"Shunning" is the practice of forbidding community interaction to someone who has questioned or violated community standards. While the practice is well-known among Mennonites and other strict religious sects, the play is intended to make the audience think about other, perhaps more subtle ways in which shunning is practiced in our larger society.
In the tight-knit Mennonite community, Peter Neufeld (Dan Millen) has made the mistake of voicing aloud his doubts about the existence of hell: The more pressure that is put on him by minister, the more Peter stubbornly refuses to renounce his doubts. His stubbornness is then interpreted as a matter of pride, an even greater sin to the Men-

Despite the urgings of his devoted wife, Helen (Christine Allen) and concerned brother Johann (Dan Zelazny) of Plymouth, Peter holds steadfast and is officially shunned by the rest of the community.

Even his wife may have only limited contact with him. To save

Peter's soul and protect the integrity of the church community, his life is made a living hell.

Friesen captures the flavor and rhythm of the Mennonite community's German origins, and the cast does a fine job with the light

The author's style is tedious, however, because so much of the play is told through monologues, and the character's thoughts often ramble far afield from the central action. The play is most powerful when the characters are allowed Millen is very good at showing Peter's anguish in his isolation. Allen is convincingly distraught, torn between her love for her husband, and her obedient devotion to her church. Stevens is appropriately pompous as the selfrighteous Loewen.

Zelazny's appealing grin and mischievous eyes help make Johann the most interesting character. He's a man who doesn't mind bending a few rules, but has the good sense to keep it to him-

Joann points out that while the Mennonites are perceived as universally dour, there are as many diverse personalities among them as in society at large.

Early in the play the author includes an ironic reminder that the Mennonites themselves were once persecuted for holding beliefs that differed from the predominant ones of the day. In the program notes, director Jeffrey Hedeen reminds the viewer that racism, bigotry, peer pressure or treating an AIDS victim like a leper are also forms of shunning that can be physically and mentally violent.

Audience gives Burns a warm welcome

tle fumbling for keys at valet parking, everything was as it should be at. opening night for George Burns Theatre for the Performing Arts - perfect.

George Burns was like prince charming, bringing new life to the theater on the corner of Plymouth and Farmington Roads which months ago was. closed, and left for dead with weeds growing in the parking lot.

It was very much alive Oct. 2 when Florence Henderson, known by most as Carol Brady of the Brady Bunch, stepped out on the stage in a gorgeous gown and sang "Welcome to My World."

Florence sang a gamit of songs from Broadway show tunes like "The Sound of Music," to country the show.

favorites like "Crazy," and even some rock and roll — "Forever Young," in honor of George Burns.

She told stories, talked about Ker "Country Kitchen," show now in its seventh season on the Nashville Network, and reminisced about the Brady Bunch which aired from 1969 to 1974.

Henderson did a wonderful job entertaining the audience which was filled with the same kind of expectations one feels on New Year's Eve. She didn't disappoint. A very proud Stuart Gorelick, president of Center Stage Productions, Inc., owner and producer of the George Burns Theatre for the Performing Arts, presented her with a huge bouquet of red roses.

Ray Borden of DePalma's on Plymouth Road in Livonia is still grinning, and telling everyone about the visit Florence Henderson paid to the restaurant after "It was really nice, I sang to her. She's really down to earth, that's what impressed me the most," said Borden. "She's a nice person."

I predict star-gazing will become a new sport at area restaurants.

It was magic when Burns, now 96 stepped out on stage. Everyone stood and applauded before he even had a chance to say a word. 'It's the first time I ever got a standing ovation before the show," he said laughing.

Burns showed everyone he still has a lot of life in him. He sang, danced a little, told wonderful stories and lots of great one-liners like - "You-can't help getting older, but you don't have to be old." It was a performance few in the audience will forget.

If you haven't been to the 1,400 theater in a while, you'll be pleasantly surprised. Peterhansrea, the Birmingham design firm led by

Oct. 4 was the anniversary of an event that stunned the world. On this day in 1957, thirty-five years ago, the Soviet Union launched Sputnik. This satellite had no scientific value whatsoever, but the political implications were enormous. All Sputnik did was transmit "beeps" as it orbited the earth. The quest for space led directly to miniaturization and computers that permeate nearly every level of our lives, from health care to automobiles, to cellular technology, to satellite broadcasting, well, the list is nearly endless, and volumes (both pro and con) have been written on the subject of

BUSINESS Talking Coupons come to market

■ Advances in technology have permitted electronic couponing. An entrepreneur is betting that shoppers will prefer a more direct approach than waiting for coupons to come to-

BY DOUG FUNKE STAFF WRITER

Coupons by telephone? How? Why?

It's a new, relatively simple advertising concept with excellent potential, maintains Thomas A. Webb, who recently introduced Talking Coupons in Farmington and Farmington Hills.

For a monthly fee, business people record specials or discounts into a computerized telephone answering system. A four-color glossy pamphlet listing all the advertisers is mailed to targeted households.

Consumers telephone a central local number to get into the directory, then dial the code of the specific business they need. They hear a recording, jot down the information on blank detachable coupons in the pamphlet, then go to the business for the transaction.

For an extra fee, businesses can add an automatic call forwarding option so that a consumer can be transferred directly after getting coupon information.

The concept grew and evolved as I became familiar with phone equip-ment," Webb said. "Over time in talking with other people and listening to ideas, we put it together. Five years ago, this was impossible. The technology wasn't there.'

Variation on a theme

Webb figures that advertising messages get lost when dozens of coupons arrive in a single direct mailing.

"Consumers like coupons," he said. "Eighty percent nationally use them." Usually what comes into the home is one envelope with loose sheets. You sort through them and throw some away. Ninety-three percent of paper coupons are thrown away.

"People don't like clutter. They don't like the fact that coupons expire. They don't like having to wait for mailers to come each month," Webb said.

"Here, they save one pamphlet and save them all. It's designed to fit into a lady's purse. It's designed to be put on a visor in a car with a car phone. I see them magnetized on a refrigerator door, on a bulletin board near a tele phone," he said.

Merchants would like the Talking

Coupons because messages could be changed at a moment's notice to reflect changing business conditions. Also, Webb figures that his pamphlet could be distributed cheaper than other direct mailings and would more likely remain in the house. Webb's rate card shows a one-time computer set-up fee of $125 and a monthly fee of $75, discounted to $70 per month for a six-month buy and $65 monthly for 12 months for busi-

He promises delivery of the pamphlet/directories to at least 15,000 houses every other month

Wait-and-see attitude

Fifty-five merchants in Farmington and Farmington Hills signed up for the initial mailing last month. But many who got discounts as Webb launches the system are taking a wait-and-see attitude.

Harry Qashat, owner of Major Video, figured he had little to lose with the deal Webb offered to give it a shot for a month. But that's about as long as he'll go without results.

K mart reported profits of $284 million on sales of $17.4 billion through the first six months of this year, Knauer said. The retailer paid a dividend of 23 cents per share last quarter.

Social screens more popular

GM, U.S. travel odd, parallel paths

gadfly Ross Perot got his 30 minutes of fame the other night and I have to confess that he had my attention, but not for the reason you might guess.

Presidential

Mainly, he had the instincts of a good reporter, which is to say he had a sharp focus on the problems, but not much in the way of a solution. This is, of course, the same kind of flurry he made during his short stay at GM, harping about quality and efficiency, then leaving them with a phone system that still doesn't work.

Still, there is an odd parallel between GM today and the U.S. government, in the sense that they both are mammoth bureaucracies with loads of unproductive overhead, stymied by entrenched interests that defend their turf with the ferocity of a Los Angeles street gang.

Perot pointed out that currently there is only one American farmer for each federal employe in the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

At GM today, for every guy actually bolting a car together there are six or seven milling about on breaks, in executive suites, laid off or retired.

Perot's story about the Department of Agriculture leads up to a tale about a guy alone in his office, crying. How come? 'My farmer died,' he says.

At GM these days, sometimes guy left still working, and fire him. it seems like they find the one market share away from the likes of Fiat, Volkswagen and Renault in a market protected against the Japanese.

Frankly, I think competing with Toyota in the U.S. is a little tougher.

Both the government and GM are plagued with excess capacity. In the case of the government, this has resulted from the unexpected demise of the Soviet Union, plus the sudden substitution of fax machines for the U.S. Post Office.

In the auto business, 'excess capacity' is mainly a polite way of saying nobody is buying your

There is, of course, a fundamental difference here, since in the auto business cutting socalled 'excess capacity' is another way of saying you are giving up, whereas having a problem. with excess capacity in the military means you won.

A key issue in the campaign is health care. Likewise at GM, where they are just as confused to do about it.

Having no control over the price, GM tries to cut its cost, slicing benefits to reduce its own payroll costs.

Curiously, GM cut the benefits for future employes the most, who will eventually find themselves working to pay for retirement benefits current GM management voted themselves and those currently employed.

This, of course, is modeled after the U.S. social security sys-

The main hope for GM is that despite its problems it still is one of the largest repositories of industrial and technological capabilities in the world. The sheer size of the place makes it an economic entity all by itself, and its healthy revival could well be the spark that leads to a much broader based recovery.

That, of course, would be good for both GM and good for the country. I don't think it was Perot that said that, but somebody did.

Fred Beyer, owner of Mancino's Pizza, said he had about six Talking Coupons "cashed" the first week after they hit the neighbor-

'It intrigued me," he said of the concept. "It was a different approach of getting the message out to consumers. The cost per unit was extremely reasonable.

"It's got to generate, bottom line, about $300 in sales per month to cover advertising, food and labor costs," Beyer said. "If I don't do that, it's not doing the

Beyer said he's had varying degrees of success using cable TV (lousy), direct mail coupons, school newspapers, movie guides and neighborhood fliers (great). He conceded skepticism at first but is willing to try Talking Coupons for six months.

Maria Katz, owner of Young's Cleaners, said she didn't even want to give it a shot until Webb offered her a free trial. Not a single call came in the first week, she Keith Becker, manager of Ruben's Rueben restaurant, also bit on a discount to try Talking Coupons. He's had some inquiries

"It's a neat idea," he said. "I think it's something that can work. It will take time. With elaborate telephone systems now, you can do almost anything.

Becker said he spends $250 eight times a year to include a coupon in a direct mailing packet. He's anxious to see what happens with telephone coupons.

'The way the economy is, I'm really limiting advertising dol-lars," he said. "I may keep both. I may go with one or the other."

Forces shopper to act

Lynn Liddle, a vice president at Valassis Inserts in Livonia, a major coupon manufacturer, sees a couple of potential problems with Talking Coupons.

For one, individual coupons better portray individual products and create incentives to buy than a directory, she said.

"I don't know how many people will take the time to go through the listing, then make a call," she added. "On the other hand, if you have a coupon, you can just put it in your purse.

'It's looking for a twist to bring the concept into the electronic age," she said. "That part is clev-

Webb chose Farmington as his first market because it's upscale and readily reachable from other communities without incurring a telephone toll charge.

His next entry will be Livonia or Bloomfield/West Bloomfield, probably this month. Within a year he hopes to be in 15 suburban markets including Plymouth/ Canton, Southfield, and Redford and parts of Detroit.

"We're not going to the buyer and be bold and say, 'Drop every-thing and come with us,' " Webb "People as they see how the product works probably will cut back on paper coupons.

The trick is to get merchants to continue advertising as their consumer base gradually grows.

We won't be making money until they (merchants) have made it first," Webb said.

Election prompts reassessment of nation's priorities election close, there is an uneasiness among the American people. There are many things we want to believe about nation. These begin at home. We want to believe that we still have one of the best educational systems, one that prepares our children for a productive and good life. We want to believe that the painful social problems of our time will be addressed.

We are not a people who like to see persons unemployed, begging on the streets. We are not a people who want to see a widening gulf separate rich and poor. We Americans are a people who would like to help other people upon this planet solve their pressing needs.

Most of us are not sure why we are so uneasy. Things are wrong and we are not exactly sure why. As Columbus Day and the November election near, we need to. be clear about the cause of our discontent.

First, we are uneasy about leaders who lie to us. All kinds of leaders have lied to us, including presidents. We as Americans are not convinced that ethics and truth need to be sacrificed because someone believes we are threatened by some other power.

Sometimes leaders make promises they know they cannot fulfill. Yet deception has become a way of life in government. Religious people in particular are uneasy with lies. Yet we need to distinguish between personal issues and leadership policies that seek to deceive the people. Remember the "patriot missile" claims. Now we know that not 90 percent of them destroyed incoming missiles in the Gulf War, but 9 percent. There are hundreds of other such

Second, political leaders speak about cutting government and government spending. No one gives us a plan to convert the nation from one with a primary focus upon the military. Almost two-thirds of the government works for the military and CIA.

For two generations, our leaders have assumed that the Cold War would go on forever. The War in Vietnam was a child of the Cold War mentality. It destroyed the war on poverty and President Johnson. "See," people could claim, "the war on poverty doesn't work." Job training and poverty programs could not work because of the focus upon and the cost of a

Americans are not sure why we are uneasy but we know it has something to do with massive expenditures on wars and getting ready for more wars. Americans do realize that there is work to be done at home. Our roads, bridges, schools, medical services and cities are in trouble. We know the money went somewhere.

No one has pointed out to us that we lost the Cold War. It is true that the Soviet Union collapsed. Yet we spent ourselves to exhaustion. We still do not have an adequate plan to cut the military and convert to a peacetime, economy.

Germany is the only country that won the Cold War. They have a reunited nation. They have the most robust economy in Europe. They will dominate the largest unified market of 320 million people. One writer has called the European Community the new German Empire.

Third, we Americans are uneasy about the national debt. We are not quite sure how this all happened. We are told by our national leaders that our government is too large. They fail to tell us that our military is the hungry animal eating everything else up. It is still hungry and it is still eat-

An American historian has likened the Cold War to a demolition derby. Russia and her satellites and the U.S. and our satellites wasted ourselves in this competition.

The prophets of old remind us that God will judge those who destroy others. The Soviet Union and the United States together spent $1.5 billion a day on the arms race. Does this help explain the national debt? Does this explain how many tens of millions of people have died in the Third World because the rich would not and could not aid them?

Some historians doubt that our nation will ever recover-from the costs of the Cold War. Now God will make us pay the price. If we are willing to give up imperial notions of power over the entire world we may heal and recover. If we have a plan to convert our nation to a non-military based economy, we may heal and recover. If we demand truth from our leaders, we may heal and recover.

For some, Columbus Day is a celebration of a simplistic idea.

This man is said to have discov ered America. The truth is that the encounter of Europe with the Americas was both a stimulating and a tragic event. Tens of millions of native people died, largely from European diseases. Slavery, was expanded with terrible results for all. The carnage of the Civil War resulted. The Empire of Spain is gone. We must not rest easy with the idea of an American Empire, regardless of the reason-

Some suggest that the free trade agreements are truly pieces of a plan for American dominance over Canada and Mexico. We the people do not desire or want an empire.

It has taken us 500 years to begin to understand the cost of the empire of Spain in the New World. Columbus was only the messenger of the ambitions of the king and queen.

Election time is a time for thought and perception. It is a time when we need to ask what is God's passionate desire for the nation and for the world?

Attorneys still sorting out school aid case preme Court ruling provides another piece in the complicated puzzle of how much money the state should give school districts, lawyers said late last week as they waded through the 85-page deci-

One of the Legislature's top experts on school finance, Sen. Dan DeGrow, R-Port Huron, said the ruling was encouraging for those backing equity in school funding.

The 4-3 ruling of the deeply diyided court focused on how the Headlee Amendment to the state Constitution affects school fund-

Among other things, that amendment requires the state to keep up its share of funding for mandated programs. The amendment sets the state's share at the percentage that was in place when it was adopted by voters in 1978.

That means each school district — even the wealthier ones must get a fair share of state money for mandated programs, the court ruled.

The state had argued that the amendment applied to total state-wide figures. The lawsuit was filed in 1990 by taxpayers in 51 school districts. They contended the amendment was designed to preserve the state funding level on a district-by-district basis.

In its ruling released Sept. 29, the high court said the statewide average of state spending on mandated programs should be applied to each district.

However, the court also decided that Social Security payments were required by federal law and weren't covered by the Headlee Amendment. The state now gives school districts more than $400 million a year to make those payments, with roughly a third going to the wealthier districts.

DeGrow said that part made the ruling "a good decision for equity," although it was too early to tell what the ruling's total impact would be.

"The key line in the whole long opinion was that Social Security payments aren't covered by Headlee," he said. "What that means is we don't have to pay Social Security to the rich districts or anybody.

DeGrow said that over the past two years, the Legislature has moved to trim the Social Security payment's for wealthier districts and use that money to narrow the spending gap between the rich and poor districts.

The high court's ruling clears the way for the Legislature to phase out those payments, De-Grow said. The $140 million or so involved for the wealthier districts would be a strong step toward evening out that funding,

Dennis Pollard, the attorney for the taxpayers, said that would violate the spirit of the Headlee Amendment. He added the Social Security question wasn't quite

That's because the state and federal government agreed in the 1950s that Michigan school employees would be part of the Social Security system, but school districts didn't make that choice.

"The Michigan situation is the result of a contract being entered into between the state and federal government and that's never changed," he said.
Pollard said a related case he's handling began in 1980 and there still hasn't been a final decision on that one. He said it was disappointing that such cases had to be filed in the first place.

"These cases are being brought just to get compliance with the constitution," he said.

The Legislature and the governor have "done nothing to try and comply with it," Pollard said. "I think it's really a sad commentary on the system of government.'

Michigan kids sought to take national math exam

Two University of Michigan-Flint professors are seeking junior high and middle school math teachers, administrators, and parents who are interested in having their students in grades eight or below partici-pate in the eighth annual American Junior High School Mathematics Examination on Thursday, Nov. 19.

Registration deadline is Octo-

The professors, Kristina Hansen and Matthew Wyneken, are Michigan coordinators for the exam, which is designed to promote interest in mathematics and develop problem-solving

The exam, which takes 40 minutes and involves 25 multiple-choice questions, can be given during a regularly scheduled class period.

Participating schools will receive complete results of their students, performances, award pins and certificates, and separate national and state reports of the results and awards.

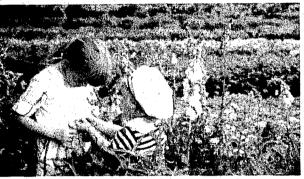

The exam is sponsored by every key mathematical organization in the country, including the National Council of Teach ers of Mathematics. The National Association of Secondary School Principals has placed the exam on its Advisory List of Contests and Activities for 1992-93.

Last year, nearly a quarter million students participated nationally, including 11,500 students from 157 schools in Michigan, ranking Michigan third in total registrants.

CREATIVE LIVING

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1992

Artists to showcase talents in Our Town

y day, Russ Bloomfield earns a living as a mechanical engineer at BASF, a Wyandotte-based chemical company. By night and weekends, the lifelong Livonia resident turns to the paintbrush — the light of his life.

He's hooked on charcoal pastels and their gritty texture but he dabbles in acrylics and oils, too. Bloomfield's passion for art sprouted when he "was knee-high. Before I could write, I was drawing," the 1987 Livonia Stevenson High School graduate said.

He works for two hours a night and countless hours on weekends in his home studio. But even when he's not painting, he's thinking art. "It's frustrating when you can't always do art when you want to or when you want to but the emotion just Bloomfield is one of 26 Observerland artists taking part in Our Town, the seventh annual juried art exhibition and sale 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Oct. 22-25 at The Community House, 380 S. Bates, Birmingham.

The display of Michigan fine art will feature 250 artists exhibiting 349 pieces of two- and three-dimensional artwork. Admission is free.

'Certain works of unique authority deserved to be singled out," said the juror, famed architectural sculptor and art critic Glen Michaels of Troy. "My overall impression was that of a feast of works inspired by excitement over color, unique images and worlds of fantasy.'

In his second appearance in Our Town, Bloomfield will show "U.S. Postal Stamp," a riveting portrait collage. "It's a charcoal pastel with a little bit of colored pencil. The title gets to the core of the picture in a roundabout way.'

Splashes of impressionism

Bloomfield describes his art as realistic collage with splashes of impressionistic color. His canvas radiates with vignettes of people he knows in everyday situations.

Bloomfield's public exposure has been limited largely to juried shows the last two years in Birmingham and Rochester although in 1984 he designed a Christmas card for the Michigan Association of Emotionally Disturbed Children.

"I don't think anything gets emotion across like the arts," Bloomfield said. "What's enticing about the arts is that they've been around since before ships, cars, the stock market. They get to the core of being a human being."

His greatest reward as an artist: when his artwork spurs someone else to feel what he feels.

"I feel I have a technical means to do that," he said. "But I'm still struggling to get across what I want to get across. Too often I labor over a piece, then look at it and realize it's not going where I necessarily want it. That's frustrating, but it's comforting to know at least it's going in a direction.

Turning to realism

This marks Plymouth watercolorist Toni Stevens' third straight year in Our Town. She'll show "Petunias I," an impressionistic still life.

"It was one of the first pieces I did 2½ years ago, after retiring as an elementary teacher in Wayne-Westland schools. And the funny thing is, I don't paint that way anymore. I've been working more realistically lately.

Life, movement and color are keystones of "Petunias I.'

"It exudes a feeling I like," said Stevens, who has studied at the Visual Arts Association of Livonia and the Birmingham Bloomfield Art As-

Last year, in VAAL's spring 1991 show, she won the Grumbacher best use of color medal for "Cosmic Agitations," a realistic view of three clip-on neckties on a wire hanger. This year, she took first place for a portrait of a model in the Palette & Brush Club's spring show at the BBAA. Her themes typically tackle portraits ("I'm fascinated by faces") and still lifes ("I love flowers")

Whatever her theme, "color is very important," she said. "I like bright, lively, in-depth color." Nowadays, she uses a brush, instead of the pouring technique, to apply many layers of color to rougher-finish paper. "The colors settle in the different hills and valleys of the paper and become juxtaposed. With white from the paper somewhat visible through the layers, you get a lot of depth and sparkle. Stevens, who earned a bachelor of fine arts degree from Syracuse University in 1947, finds contact with art instructors and other artists critical to improving her work. "You can't work in a vac-

Art Deco toys brim with nostalgia

A new art exhibit at Madonna University, "Art Deco Toys," reflects a way of life in the '20s and '30s. The exhibit is part of a 7,000-piece collection owned by Lawrence Scripps Wilkinson and the Detroit Antique Toy Museum.

"It's fun. It's entertaining. It brings out the child in all of us," said Ralph Glenn, who chairs the university's art department.

"It's our second show in three years. With the interest in toys and the excitement over anything from the '20s and '30s, Art Deco is of importance to people now." One of the toys in the exhibit is a 1930 red metal scooter decorated with white stripes. "The white striping was to make it streamlined futuristic," Glenn said. "Art Deco style was introduced at the Museum of Decorative Arts earlier in the century. Frank Lloyd Wright used those lines in his architecture.

Art Deco spotlighted surface decorations, the use of geometric patterns and modern materials of the machine age - chrome, steel, glass, aluminum — anything that glittered or sparkled.

Frank Pettis of Redford Township looks for a creative edge in choosing subjects for his photographs. His embellished color photograph of the Heidelberg Project and its creator, Detroit artist Tyree Guyton, was awarded Best of Show as well as first place in the Ameteur Division of the Michigan State Fair Fine Arts Exhibit Aug. 28 to Sept. 7 at the Fair-grounds in Detroit.

"I'm excited. It meant a lot-for me to win over porcelain, paintings and sculptures in the show - and this was my first time. I never entered anything before," Pettis said.

For a long time, Pettis had wanted to include an image of Detroit's history in his photography portfolio when he discovered Guyton's work.

The Heidelberg Project, assembled with found objects, turned an eastside Detroit neighborhood, consisting of abandoned and decayed houses, into a work of art.

"My friends kept telling me about the Heidelberg Project. They told me you gotta see it. I went over there and couldn't believe my eyes, what Tyree had done, the incredible col-' Pettis said.

Once he took the photograph, Pettis started brainstorming.

"I thought, 'How can I make it different?' I went to Frank's and found all these miniatures, tires, street signs, baby dolls, chairs and sinks. I added them to the photograph, then framed it all," Pettis said. "I wanted to preserve the memory of Heidelberg.

The artwork will cost $5,000 and is the first of several to be commissioned. The contract states a completion time of early 1993.

The artwork will be six feet deep of two or three panels. The material will be rayon and alu-

Gunzel has written two books: "Creating Original Porcelain Dolls" and "The Art of Making Wax Dolls."

Her 1990 Premier Collection featured a limited edition of 500 pieces in porcelain and a limited edition of 2,000 in vinyl, all signed and numbered with a certificate of authenticity.

To commemorate her second anniversary with Alexander Doll Co., she created "Courtney and Friends," a limited edition set of 1,000.

A porcelain doll, Courtney carries her friends, classic hard plastic dolls first introduced by Alexander in 1936.

Her nine new vinyl dolls are a limited production collection ranging in size from 24 to 16 inches. This year, Irish and Meredith are featured with German-blown glass eyes. Each doll is wearing an outfit designed by Hildegard and are introduced for the first time wearing shoes and tights. Their human hair wigs frame each handpainted face.

Gunzel has won creation awards from both Dolls Magazine and Doll Reader.

A white enamel electric stove, accented with bright red handles, bears the brand name, Prosperity. Another toy, a wind-up car from 1939 with Charlie McCarthy and Mortimer Snerd inside, bears the slogan, "We'll Mow You Down."

"The toys are toys that everyday children played with," said Mary Niman, Detroit Antique Toy Museum, director of operations and curator of Art Deco "They mirror what was going on in the 1920s and 1930s. If you went to Europe or China, you took a ship."

Niman held up a ship crafted of wood. A steam liner, the Normandie, was a biscuit tin.

'Cars are fun because it's something people see all around them. The metal used in these is better than the metal used in your car," Niman said.

Art Deco celebrated the speed of the automobile. A car trailer from 1935 mimics the body style of the car pulling it.

Pointing to a white ambulance from 1935, Niman said, "This is a co. homegrown toy from Wyandotte Toys, made in Wyandotte. Back lifestyle," Niman said. "Art Deco

A paperboard dollhouse boasts no cutting and no pasting on its packaging. "The wraparound windows is a typical style in Art Deco architecture," Glenn said.

"Not all toys from the '20s and 30s were Art Deco. There were some that were more Victorian. Art Deco toys were the ones that stressed what's modern and new and innovative," Niman said.

The Detroit Historical Museum recently opened the new Detroit Antique Toy Museum Gallery, a $600,000 exhibit space where the Lawrence Scripps Wilkinson toy collection is showcased. Wilkinson is from Grosse Pointe Farms.

Toys from the 7,000-piece Detroit Antique Toy Museum were first exhibited in the late '70s. This is the fourth stop for Art Deco Toys, the traveling exhibition that has delighted visitors in Detroit, Miami and San Francis-

That was one of the pieces that, if you were to do an overview of the entire show, caught your eye immediately," said Barbara Moline, fine arts exhibit coordinator.

Pettis began searching for im-

Gaining a foothold

Good photographs need solid foundations all good relationships are built a solid foundation. In photography, the same often holds Today, I'm going to talk about a smart way to add strength and impact to your photographs by a technique I call "adding foundation to your shots.' It's easy to do, and you'll be pleasantly surprised at the difference in your finished prints.

By "foundation," I'm referring to foreground objects that add a basis or footing to your composi-For example, a dazzling sunset settling on the lake will produce a stirring shot, but it will be much stronger if you include a bit of shoreline or that gnarled piece of driftwood as a "foundation."

The distant, snow-capped mountain sure looks dramatic, but don't you think an improvement would be made if you were to add that pile of boulders in the foreground?

The old fishing cove is indeed charming, but how about making your shot even better by including some fishing boats or a bit of netting as a foundation?

Adding a basis to your scenic photographs is like adding footing and support to a structure. Your pictures will be aesthetically more pleasing and will also help to show a scale of reference. Oftentimes a foundation will help to "complete" your photo by giving more information to the viewer.

The most important way you can add foundation to your pictures is to slow down and really "look." Carefully study your subject and analyze its surroundings. Ask yourself, "How best can I enhance the subject and show it in its best light? What complements

Remember that in adding a foundation to your photograph you must pay particular attention to depth-of-field. You'll ruin what otherwise may have been a dynamic picture by having the foreground out of focus

Use your depth-of-field scale on the lens barrel and your depth-offield preview to make sure everything is going to be sharp. You may want to favor your wide angle lens not only to get more in the only at the reception but as much composition but to obtain even greater depth-of-field in your and we believe structural damage is occurring as a result of the planes fly-thing, can be done about that? The developer never pointed out to us the potential problems inherent with the location of our condominium until after we had signed a purchase agreement and it became binding.

First, I would explore any political remedies that you may have with the municipality in which your condominium is located to exert whatever pressure is necessary on the airport facility, the airlines or the governmental agency operating the airport to attempt to readjust the flight patterns of the airplanes, to the extent allowable.

Secondly, I would consider what alternatives you may have against the developer in connection with possible misrepresentations incident to the condition of your condominium.

Third, I would consider what recourse you might have for what may be a "taking" of your property by the airlines or municipal authority regulating or administering the airport. In that regard, I would consult with an attorney experienced in real estate or condemnation.

Unbeknownst to us, our management company also owns a landscaping and snow removal service, which was the lowest project out for bids. One of the other landscape contractors has advised the board that it believes the bidding process was unfair. He also suggested that our management company's landscaping contractor was intentionally low-balling the bid to drive his company out of business. What are my responsibilities as a board member in this situation?

First, the management company should have disclosed to you voluntarily any proprietary interest that it or its principals have in any contractor with whom the association does business. That provision should be expressly set forth in the management agreement between the association and the management company.

If you have reason to believe that the management company has abused its prerogatives in regard to its fiduciary relationship to the association, you should bring that matter to the attention of the board and obtain a legal opinion from counsel who is independent of any ties to the management company.

It may be that your management company has breached its fiduciary duties and is squeezing out the other contractors which, in effect, could result in anti-trust complications for your management company. Also, your association may be being deprived of the best contractor at a fair price. Robert M. Can you (safely) dig it?

Homeowners scurrying to start their fall landscaping are reminded by Consumers Power to check for underground utility lines to prevent personal injury and damage to the lines.

Free staking of all participating underground utilities and assistance when work is performed near overhead power lines will be provided when homeowners call MISS DIG three days in advance

The toll-free number, 1-800-482-7171, is available 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. MISS DIG is a statewide, one-call construction safety and utility damage prevention program operated jointly by more than 600 Michigan utilities and municipalities.

Through August, Consumer's Power Metro Region repaired more than 160 residential natural gas services that were broken by homeowners during construction or excavation projects.

Now the housing market is recognizing it.

Ron Harwood, president of Illuminating Concepts in Farmington Hills, knows a thing or two about light. Harwood has made a name for himself for his work as a lighting designer on such big-name commercial projMeadowbrook Music Theater Gardens, Detroit Institute of Arts, Ringling Brothers, Barnum & Bailey Retail Store, Warner Brothers Retail. Store, and Walt Disney World.

But it is in residential lighting that he is seeing some of his greatest growth, he said.

In places like Los Angeles and New York, lighting designers work side by side with architects, Harwood said.

"People are still mystified by the whole process," Harwood said. Lighting highlights and hides, adds excitement, and creates illusions about space and shape.

Growing importance

Harwood speculated that the reason lighting is becoming a more important part of design is that American values are subtley changing.

"Americans are beginning to feel the same way about their homes as they've felt in Europe for a thousand years," he said.

In the 1950s, it was enough to have a room with a $2 light fixture because people never intended to stay in a home. But in Europe, generations of families live in the same homes. They become not only a living space, but monuments to a family's history. Homes must be durable, they must be adaptive, they must be showplaces, he said.

Harwood estimated that roughly a quarter of his business today results from residential construction.

Making the transition

"Residential lighting is the most demanding of all lighting design,' Harwood said. With a commercial customer, function and appearance are important, but when someone is building a house, the object isn't to appeal to many, but one.

The responsibility aspect is the same for a home as it is for Raleigh-Durham International Airport," he said. Harwood said his commercial lighting success has enabled him to succeed in residential lighting design. And, he added, his experience in residential design has helped improve his approach to commercial design. The homeowner has a lot of personal dreams built into his house.' he continued. "Where they live is a reflection of themselves.

Designing a house is a team effort, and a lighting designer is brought on as part of the team. "The owner has the vision, the architect takes the vision and develops it, the interior designer interprets the vision, and the lighting designer interprets the ideas of all three.

The economic horizon brightened a bit for building contractors and subcontractors in Michigan through the first six months of this year, according to a survey of their professional association.

That bodes well for builders and suppliers who depend on plans from which to construct.

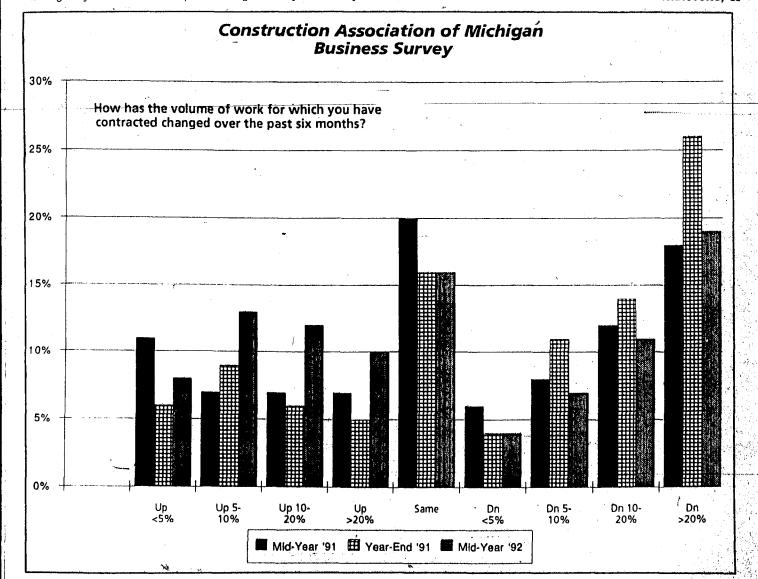

The design profession tells us they're starting to get busy. That's always a first sign of things to come," said Curt E. Hacias, CAM president.

Susan Winton Feinberg, interior designer with Walter Herz Interiors in Birmingham, said good lighting is important to the success of a project.

"It's not just lighting, it's mathematics," she said. "Correct lighting is a science.

"If it's done well, you will notice the difference.

"Most of the time. I do my own lighting design. But if there's an unusual room, high ceilings or a specific mood I want, a lighting designer is important.

Feinberg said normal lighting fixtures and ideas do not work in all circumstances. When a homeowner is looking for a showplace. and not just a residence, a lighting designer can play a crucial role in the development team.

"It would be like putting on a play without a lighting man.

More simply, "he helps to instill drama," Lubin said.

Architects do their own lighting design on most projects, but with the evolution of lighting theory and technology, it is becoming more of a specialty, he said. Of course, not everyone needs a lighting designer.

But when a client wants to go one step further - and is willing to spend the money - the lighting designer can make a differ-

"It's a matter of convincing the client it's worth it," he said.

Lubin said he doesn't think lighting designers will play a key role in all house designs, although some multiple-residential condominium and apartment projects will use a lighting designer particularly on landscaping - to add drama.

Obvious benefits

One of the benefits derived from being involved in commercial work is the experience of working in difficult situations. In commercial lighting design, the trick is to make something work in a place not designed with lighting in mind.

Much of what the designer learns in commercial settings can be translated when he has more control - like in the design of a custom house.

Another big plus, he said, is Illuminating Concepts has more direct access to the latest materials and design concept. "Lighting manufacturers have paid little attention to residential market."

As a commercial lighting designer, he has the ability and wherewithal to not only test and manipulate commercial lighting products, he can also transfer that knowledge and product to residential use.

Working in residential has been a benefit for his work in commercial design. "Because (house buyers)- are so demanding, it keeps my staff well tuned.'

While the average person may not be attuned to the latest in lighting theory, he knows what he likes. Harwood said. By working with house buyers, he has discovered many nuances that can be used in commercial projects.

"A sighted person's perception of their environment is (paramount) to how people relate to their environment.'

A lot of the growth in lighting design can be attributed to the media. Movie, television and magazines touting the good life have brought the importance of lighting to the masses.

Those images are the result of hours of painstaking design by professionals, he said.

"The quality of imagery (people are exposed to) has gone up, and it's become a standard," he said. People point to these images when trying to explain what they want in their own designs, he

That was down from a sharply revised 607,000 a month earlier when they actually rose Analysts had been expecting new house sales to increase about 3 percent in August. They had risen 1.5 percent in May and 4.9 percent in June after falling for three straight months. The August decline was the steepest since sales plunged 11.5 percent in March.

Still, sales of new houses for the first eight months of 1992 were 18 percent above those of the same period last year, when the housing industry was coming out of the recession.

The median price of a new house rose 2.5 percent in August, to $121,000. The median means half of the houses cost more and half cost less.

Regionally, sales plunged 19.5 percent in the West, to a 140,000 seasonally adjusted annual rate. That was the steepest drop since a 23.5 percent decline last May.

Sales fell 5.2 percent in the South, to a 238,000 rate.

Windows galore

Rich in windows and skylights, the Covington is designed to allow as much natural light as possible in every room of the house. Even the covered porch has three skylights, and the garage has three large windows.

The vaulted dining room and living room are the brightest of the formal rooms at the back of the house. Wide multi-paned windows span most of the rear-facing wall, and six skylights provide extra illumination.

The entryway also has a lofty vaulted ceiling, brightened by two skylights. A small bathroom is just inside the front door, close to the pass-through utility room.

The library, to the immediate right of the front door, can be used as a home office or as a private sitting room for the master suite. Luxury amenities in the master bathroom include an oversized shower, a garden tub with space for tropical plants in the tub alcove, and sky-lit twin basins in the vanity outside the bathroom. The sleeping area is vaulted and has a security system, a large walk-in closet and a private deck, enclosed by a wall.

EARTHA DEYAMPERT

Just say yes to safety for our children

Each year approximately one child in four will suffer a household injury serious enough to require medical attention, according to former Surgeon General C. Everett Koop. And about 80-90 percent of these injuries are preventable.

Other than fire, which is the number one killer of young children in home accidents, there are other potential hazards lurking behind the doors, r waiting boldly to happen right under your nose Since the home is an exploring playground for most toddlers and young children, it is essential that parents and caregivers, take charge, making every effort to childproof "home, sweet home."

Toddlers are naturally curious and can be looked at as "little trouble magnets," innocently discovering and carving out boundaries, usually the ones off-limits, where most toddlers have gone before. These youngsters will keep the most safety conscience parent or care-giver on his or her toes by showing up at even the most sacred nook, cranny and corners of the home.

According to theorist Jean Piaget, who studied child developmental stages and children's cognitive thought process for more than a half century, children are at the "sensorimotor" stage of development. This means they learn with their bodies not with their heads.

Their not very safety-oriented nor are they objective, concrete thinkers. Therefore, start the child-proofing process in your home by looking at each room individually:

The bathroom

Keep a safety knob cover on the bathroom door, or just simply close the door. The rattling of the door handle as a young child twists and turns to open can alert an adult before that special esca-

Once their in the bathroom, you can bet the toilet will be the main attraction, since water play is a favorite activity for most children. Keep the toilet lid down, or better yet, install a safety latch.

Close shower doors and avoid leaving standing water in the bath tub for long periods of time. Have you ever heard or read somewhere that you can drown in a small amount of water? Over a recent three-year period, 67 children drowned in cleaning buckets and bath tubs, according to the Consumer Safety Commission. The smallest amount of water, too, can cause a child to choke to death if swallowed incorrectly.

Shampoos, soaps, detergents and other similar products, placed conveniently on the bath tub ledge should be removed out of the reach of children, especially toddlers.

Also, secure items stored in the lower cabinets as well as on the top medicine shelves which are especially interesting to the "inspecting" preschooler, or the "eye spy" older child. As a reminder to the newly independent three-year-old preschooler, try labeling the faucet handles with a blue happy face for cold and red for hot.

The bedroom

The bedroom is full of trinkets and treasures. What toddlers view as rich treasures may cause serious medical attention and even death. Competency plus in reducing the risk of accidents is a must for all parents and adults who work with young children.

The crystal perfume bottles sitting on the edge of the dresser, with it most alluring scent, can be accidently consumed by a child, not to mention sprayed or rubbed in the eyes. Jewelry pieces and other small items can cause choking and or stran-

Cósmetics, such as hair sprays, facial and hand products, nail polish and remover, are all culprits in the bedroom. Moreover, tranquilizers, sleeping pills, aspirin and other medication that look and sometimes taste like candy treats should be kept out of reach. In addition, plastic bags used to cover clothes just back from the cleaner left on the bed can result in a child being suffocated.

Safety precautions should also be made when purchasing cribs and playpens. Crib rails should be no more than 2% inches apart with the mattress fitting the crib. Children under the age of 12 months shouldn't be allowed to sleep on an adultsized bed. Between 1985 and December 1990, 250 children died sleeping on adult-sized beds because they were entrapped in the oversized covers or under or between the pillows, according to the National Consumer Safety Report.

Derek Einhorn, 21, from West Bloomfield diligently takes notes on a fresh spiral notebook. Which wouldn't look out of the ordinary on a typical afternoon in a university classroom, except for what the senior English major happens to be jotting down for his own benefit Rather, he's devising ways to rouse people his age out to vote.

The group Einhorn belongs is Just Vote, one of several non-partisan campus organizations trying to accomplish such a goal through registration, education and getting people out to the polls on

Along with nine other students, Einhorn sees his efforts as a civic

"It's important because, as people say, we're going to be the ones running this country," said Einhorn, who is a graduate of West Bloomfield High. "Also, it sends a message to our leaders now -- that we are an important part of the population.'

Important, yes, but politically active? Think again.

Statistics indicate people between 18-35 traditionally vote less than those older. The trend is expected to continue in this election, according to pollsters.

A Times Mirror poll, quoted in U.S. News & World Report, predicts only 28 percent of those 35 and younger eligible are likely to vote for president this year.

Weaned on MTV and raised in the conservative clover of the Reagan years, the 18-29 age population is one said to be saturated in cynicism and rampant in mistrust toward the political system.
They've been told to expect less than their parents.

Thus, they have seemingly accepted the idea that they are unable to change the status quo.

"Young people expect a lot more out of government than any other age group," said Gregory Markus, a political science professor at U-M. "But they have the lowest voter turnout of any age group by far. They pay taxes . . . and expect services from the gov-

'The notion there is something more to (political participation) than just paying taxes hasn't been put across to younger people."

With such a dire outlook, people tend to write off the post-babyboomers as less effective in affecting change. But not all is gloom.

Markus says studies indicate political participation among college students - who tend to fall into the 18-24 age group -- is as high or higher than in the campus protest era of the '60s and '70s.

"It just may take different forms, and not be as dramatic,'

Newcomers make time for Moms and tots trip

With all the talk about family values these days, Kim Jenkins knows that simply spending time together means a great deal.

"Definitely. Children aren't small all that long, and you need to do as much as you can with them, said Jenkins, Canton Newcomers Club vice presi-

She and her daughters, Brianna, almost 3, and Andrea, 6 months, participated in a club get-together, a Moms and Tots group trip to Plymouth Orchards on Monday, Sept. 28.

"This is what we need to do with our children Take time out to do things like the cider mill," said Jenkins, a Canton resident who works part time in human resources at Hudson's/Westland. "They just provide a nice program for the kids."

About 35 moms and children participated in the cider mill trip. The group heard a brief explanation of how apples grow and of the rules of the orchard, then headed out into the sunshine for some applepicking and a wagon ride.

The morning included an opportunity to visit with the farm animals at Plymouth Orchards. Kids and their moms enjoyed cider and doughnuts before heading home.

Dawn Giombetti of Canton, another Moms and Tots member, decided to make the short trip to Plymouth Orchards with her sons, Dennis, 4, and Dylan, 18 months.

"It's an opportunity for us to get out of the house with our children and visit with other mothers," said Giombetti. Her family moved to Canton from Massachusetts one year ago, and she's found the Canton Newcomers Club has provided a great way to get acquainted with her new community. "It was a perfect opportunity, really, to get involved. That's exactly the reason I joined New-

The gala was a preview to the retailer's 19-day Italia '92 celebration, showcasing Italian influences in fashionable apparel, footwear, accessories and creative objects for the home.

A supporter of the symphony, Jacobson's also used the evening to promote the Livonia Symphony Orchestra and recognize the efforts of its maestro, Francesco Di-

More than 150 people sampled Italian food and beverages and watched a parade of Italian fashions during the evening, that Livonia Symphony Society president Ken Kelsey described as a "Gettting to Know You" night for the community.

This is a great opportunity to bring the orchestra out into the community and let the community get a feel for the orchestra,' Kelsey said. "Jacobson's has been a patron of the symphony and asked us to be involved; anytime we can, we do it gladly.'

DiBlasi has been with the orchestra since it began 18 years ago. Trained at Julliard, DiBlasi has performed with the New York City and Metropolitan Operas, American Symphony Orchestra and Detroit Symphony Oreches-

The symphony got its start as the Oakway Symphony, reflecting its ties with Wayne and Oakland counties. The orchestra was taken on and renamed the Livonia Symphony Orchestra several years ago when several communities dropped out to form their own

"I really didn't think it would take this long (to be a first rate orchestra) but when Livonia grabbed us up three years ago, I knew we were on our way," said DiBlasa. "Every concert is first class this year: it's a true coming of age for the symphony.

Ticket sales and grants and foundations pay the salaries of the musicians who perform in the Churchil High School auditorium and perform chamber concerts at the Civic Center Library.

It was the job of Maurin and Wang to answer questions about the symphony's concert schedule and sell tickets. There were few takers, but that didn't bother the twosome.

Wang got involved with the symphony through its youth program. His daughter played violin. Maurin and her husband Peter are longtime volunteers. While she was promoting tickets, he was serving champagne.

"You have to be versatile," Maurin said.

And versatile was what DiBlasi was, rearranging his evening schedule to be there for a presentation from 'surprise" State Rep. Lyn Bankes, R-Livonia. A humble DiBlasi was called on stage to accept a proclamation, signed by Bankes and Gov. John Engler, and received assurances from the former that she's still working on getting funding for the orchestra from the Michigan Council for the Arts.

This is something you have to do for the city of Livonia," DiBlasi said of his work with the sym-"Now we have a town identity that makes grants and foundation money accessible.'

Michelle Dube, 19, of Birmingham finds herself in similar situations at Eastern Michigan Uni-

"I try to tell people the more people in our age group who vote it helps," said Dube, a 1991 grad-uate of Birmingham Seaholm. "In the past, people in our age ground haven't voted because they don't

Political activism in others, such as Greg Shannon, 18, of Livonia have been partly influenced, ironically enough, by MTV and some reck'n'roll bands which have stressed the importance of

"They (U2) were very prochoice, and pro-Clinton. You could see that at during the concert," he said. "I asked a lot of people what they thought about it afterward and they didn't think rock stars should be doing that.

Control is the keyword in today's analysis. Our writer feels the need to be in control of feelings and judgments at all times. She is not given to emotional scenes nor snap judgments. Ask the average church member, "Why should God take you into heaven?" Most answers will boast of some good WORK that person has done, such as: repenting, believing, confessing or being baptized. The Bible says. "For by GRACE are ye saved...NOT OF WORKS, lest any man should boast (Eph. 2:8-9). Come and join with us in glorifying the God who saves sinners by His free and sovereign grace abant from any human works.

Sharing time: In Lithuania to help with religious seminars, David Kasbow of Livonia (wearing the white hat) posed with some of his students at Thakai : Castle in the southern part of that country.

In CIS, the people are the story

By DAVID KASBOW SPECIAL WRITER

Beets, I have always hated beets! And there they were, a whole plateful staring up at me, my first meal in the newly formed Commonwealth of Independent States. Well, almost in the CIS. Actually, I was aboard an Aeroflot plane, leaving Helsinki for Simferopol.

Not even on the ground and already I was confronted by my pledge that I would love these people and not complain about anything. That was January. Now in August, after my second trip, I can honestly say I like beets, the main reason being that they remind me of the great people I've met and worked with.

The mission on both trips was to hold seminars for high school and college students on religion, ethics and values. In January, I was in the Crimea. In August in was in Lithuania.

Of all the striking points of this culture, one has to start with the character of these people. They are so much like us in their sense of humor and use of logic, but at the same time they are so differ-

This is not the West. They use their last names first, count on the abacus, think in terms of the group instead of the individual and lived under a monarchy for 1,000 years like the Asians.

But, unlike anything I've seen in Asia, they are crazy about America and Americans. I took out my wallet once to show some pictures, and they dissected everything. They were fascinated by credit cards, bank cards, the phone card, blood donor card, Social Security card, insurance card and driver license.

Intense interest

The interest is intense. They

■ The interest is intense. They watch everything, how you walk, what kind watch you have, what kind of pants, shirt and ties.

watch everything: how you walk, what kind watch you have, what kind of pants, shirt and ties. It got so that I told them just focusing on the things we have will not make them happy or improve their country.

It was surprising to realize that in many ways they are better than us. They have a kind of innocence that is so lacking in American young people. They don't have the drugs and pornography; their happiness comes from relationships not material things.

I also had to admit that when compared to American students. they were better. Their English was fluent, their subjects were physics and molecular biology and such. We had two students of architecture who could speak four languages. At our evenings of entertainment, they would play piano or violin or sing Russian classical pieces.

Their questions about religion are sincere and deep. I've never had an American student ask me to compare Kant's view of God to Jesus. Their interest in religion is strong, partially because it was banned and is a kind of political statement. But for others there is a sincere desire to find direction for their lives.

A few students in our seminars had some kind of religious teaching as they grew up. We were very moved by their stories. A common is centered around the 'babushka,'' the grandmother, who kept a Bible hidden and would teach her grandchildren for an American-style vacation, about God in spite of such teaching being prohibited. These women were God's secret weapon through the 70 years of communist rule. They are the bridge between their Christian past and the present.

The interest in God is there, but for most it is very difficult to experience spiritual reality. For these students even to close their eyes and reflect on some peaceful scene was a new experience.

Our seminars were mostly 7and 10-days long. The first goal was to love them, lift them up and put some joy in their lives. We poured out everything. Beyond the lectures on the Bible, we had entertainment, sports, contests, outings, discussions and singing. They love to sing. After we sang our hearts out in the day's program, they would continue until lights out. We had American songs, and they added their traditional Russian and Ukrainian fa-

The seven days for them were really a thawing-out period. It is a new beginning for them, and I feel, a very bright one.

Foundation has cause for applause

Hearty congratulations were served along with the food during the Canton Community Foundation breakfast celebration.

The annual "Cause for Applause" get-together was held Wednesday, Sept. 23, at Geneva plause' Presbyterian Church in Canton. It included the presentation of a clock to the Rev. William Myers, immediate past president of the foundation.

"I thought I was always on time," Myers said, adding that he enjoyed his time on the foundation's board of directors: "It was truly an honor and high point of my life. I just stand in awe of the commitment from people like yourselves.

Without such widespread community support, the foundation wouldn't be able to provide programming in the arts, human services and other areas. "The foundation wouldn't exist and there would be no awards to give," said

The breakfast celebration was the fourth such annual get-together, the first having been held at Fellows Creek Golf Club. "We announced what was thought to be a radical departure for community foundations," said William Joyner, executive director.

The foundation provides educational scholarships and grants to students. Its Canton Economic Club luncheon series has brought a number of high-profile speakers to the community.

Counseling is provided through Canton Family Services, with the assistance of Family Service of Detroit and Wayne County and of Catholic Social Services of Wayne County. Northwestern Community Services takes some referrals for clients Canton Family Services isn't able to help, Joyner

A number of area businesspeople, public officials and residents who've assisted with foundation programs and activities were recognized during the breakfast. The Team 100 fund-raising effort, which began in early September and will continue into October, has raised $76,000 of the $100,000

"You've been a major part of making that happen," Joyner said, thanking donors and members of the three teams working on the project. "The Community Foundation has benefited as a direct result of your efforts.

"We're not about checks," he added. "We're about getting people involved in a community that's in its infancy.

Canton Township Clerk Loren Bennett thanked hard-working volunteers "who will take so much time out of their busy schedules to accomplish the kind of things the foundation accomplishes.

Current foundation president Phyllis Redfern also thanked the volunteers for taking time to help; the foundation was founded on the belief it should be all-inclusive, representing all parts of the community, she said.

We are proof that the sum of the parts is greater than the

Do-it-yourself buffs push consumer rights

BY SUE BUCK

here's a gladiator in the area — a consumer gladiator.

Many years ago, Joe Gagnon, now president of the Garden City Chamber of Commerce, received that name from a Detroit daily newspaper.

The name stuck

Since then, Gagnon has worked overtime trying to educate the public. He's a consultant to Detroit's consumer affairs director and hosts a radio talk show "The Appliance and Consumer Doctor" (WCAR-AM, 1090, Garden City, and WAAM-AM (1600), Ann Arbor)

Gagnon has assisted many consumers in small claims court cases. He prefers to teach people how to fix their own appliances.

Gagnon gives the following tips:

- Ask lots of questions before you deal with a business. If you're not satisfied with the responses or the attitude of the salesperson, don't conduct business there.
- Make inquiries with the local chamber of commerce, the Better Business Bureau and the Attorney General's office. Ask the business for references.
- Ask family and friends which companies they have used.
 Word of mouth advertising is still the best method of expanding a business.
 - Don't use telephone book advertising as a bible on ethics.
- Some ads placed in newspapers are "come-on" ads with lowball pricing designed to bring you in. Use care when dealing with advertised prices because the cheapest price is not always the best buy.

Gagnon, president of Carmack Appliance & Service Co. in Garden City, estimates that consumers have a 1-in-3 chance of being cheated on appliance repairs.

He's finishing a 300-400-page book he expects to be in bookstores by Christmas. The book, expected to be published by Master Handyman Press in Royal Oak, will focus on the appliance industry in general. Topics include dealer structure, advertising methods, telephone book advertising, product failures unknown to the world, and product maintenance and repair.

"It's a book that Ralph Nader should have written," Gagnon

Gagnon's not the only author on the do-it-yourself book scene. For nine years, Glenn Haege has hosted "Ask the Handyman" on WXYT-AM (1270), Southfield, 8 a.m to noon Saturday and Sunday.

If you have a do-it-yourself question, Haege's got the answer. His 166-page book, "Fix it Fast & Easy," is a treasure trove of answers

Haege also includes a tip from Gagnon in his book: Tip No. 108—"What's the Best Way to Clear the Drain Hole in the Back of my Frost-Free Refrigerator?"

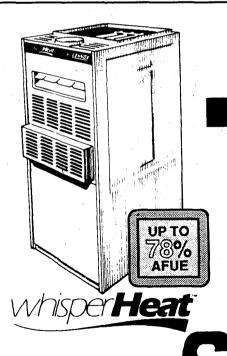

Haege's book is constructed to further aid the do-it-yourselfer.

"The binding is a special 'Lay-Flat' binding called Otabind," Haege said. "The technology is newly imported from Europe. This special binding makes it so that the book will never close on you in the middle of a project. Just press down and the book will stay open.

"The pages are extra thick so you won't tear them in the middle of a job. The type is big so that if it's a hot day and your glasses keep falling off, most of you will still be able to follow the directions. The tips have been laid out so that you almost never have to turn a page in the middle of a tip once you start a project."

'Consumer Gladiator': Joe Gagnon, a consumer protection advocate, hosts "The Appliance and Consumer Doctor" on McLean Hunter cablevision in Garden City.

Keep up furnace to cool down fuel bill

BY SUE BUCK STAFF WRITER uying a new energy-efficient furnace is not the only way to save energy and cut heating costs.

Upkeep through annual heating and cooling inspections to maintain high-energy efficiency also is recommended by area heating contractors.

But beware of telemarketers who claim they will clean and inspect your furnace for $19.95, said Fred Angell, service manager for S & M Heating Sales in Southfield.

"It's a come-on," Angell said. "There's no way possible."

Both Angell and Deb Dodd, a public information specialist with Consumers Power, which also does cleaning and inspections, quoted estimates at $50 and $49, respectively. Mich Con customers can get the same for heating only at $28; after 4 p.m. and Saturday service calls are available for $42, said Bob Sirkle; field service operations director.

"Common sense dictates that if you have a $60,000 truck with $30,000 worth of material, you can't make a service call that cheaply," Angell said.

Disreputable heating contractors use low prices to get in the house, then either charge the customer for an exorbitant amount of parts or recommend buying a new furnace entirely, Angell said

"It's like an operation," he said. "Always get a second opinion. Call the city and get a reference.

Sirkle and Dodd recommend calling the Better Business Bureau. "Be suspicious of anyone calling or leaving a handbill," Sirkle said.

Some homeowners elect to install a new thermostat to save energy dollars

Digital setback thermostats allow the homeowner to set a different temperature for morning, afternoon, evening and night. The settings can be different for a two-day weekend as compared to weekdays. Savings can amount to 10 percent for each 10 degrees the heat is set back, according to the White Rodgers thermostat manufacturing company

For instance, setting the thermostat back from 70 to 60 degrees for eight hours every day can reduce the monthly fuel bill by 10 percent.

This kind of savings will soon pay for the thermostat itself, which costs about $200 installed, said Tom Leckie, vicepresident of Bergstrom's Inc., a Livoniabased heating, plumbing and air conditioning supplier.

Two-person working households cansave even more by setting back the temperature for two consecutive eight-hour periods, with about 20 percent savings

For air conditioning, a set-up of five degrees — from 75 to 80 degrees — for eight hours each day can result in a 12 to 14 percent saving.

A 10-degree set-up can result in savings of 19-22 percent, according to Honeywell, Inc. another thermostat maker.

These thermostats can be installed with new or existing furnaces.

Sometimes, something simple; like dust, can affect a thermostat's performance, Angell said.

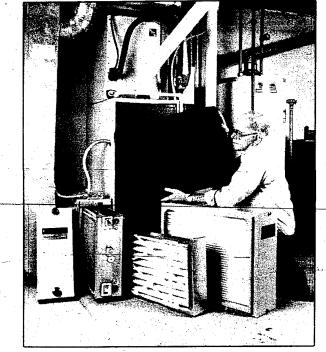

With computer-age furnaces that light hemselves and automatically control heat levels for cost efficiency, the only weak link left in the system is the human who is supposed to clean the filter.

Dirty air filters are the top cause of furnace,complaints today.

The old top problem — "The pilot is out and it won't light" - has been virtually eliminated by the new electronic ignition systems.

Dirty filters slow down the air flow and prevent the house from heating sufficiently, which also puts a strain on the blower motor.

Although the average life of a furnace is 15 to 20 years, a blower motor typically

only lasts about seven, said heating and furnace expert Don Ritenour of Bergstrom's

With dirty filters, the motor life can be considerably less. "And it usually burns out on one of the coldest nights of the winter since that's when your furnace has to work the hardest," Ritenour said.

In addition, if the house has central air conditioning, the evaporator coils in the furnace can become clogged with dust if filters aren't kept clean.

Ritenour recommends cleaning or changing furnace filters at least every two months during the heating and cooling season. Angell recommends that electronic air cleaners be cleaned once a month, especially if an asthmatic resides in the house.

Filters come in three basic types:

- Throwaways These are the cheapest to buy, just a dollar or two each, depending on size, but are the most ex pensive in the long run. Ritenour recommends buying four or six at a time, so you don't have to run to the store for a new filter each time.
 - Washables These cost slightly more, $5 to $7, depending on size, but are more convenient because you don't have to run to the store for a replacement They also eliminate the waste factor of throwaways.

• Paper media - These cost $30 to $35 each but are more efficient at collecting dust than the throwaways and washables. They fit into a filter frame, which cost $300 to $350 to install in the fur-

• Electronic - Although costing $500 to $600, these are a must for allergy sufferers. They use electronically charged wires to collect the fine dust and pollen from the air as well as containing washable filters to collect the larger dust particles. In many cases, with a doctor's prescription, the cost can be deducted on your income tax.

A non-electronic air cleaner also is available for about $275 installed. These don't require frequent washings like the electronic air cleaner. To maintain, you just install a new $32 cartridge filter an nually, Angell said.

"Too many companies have lost the idea of what service is," Angell said.

Spruce up windows while saving energy

BY BRIAN ALEXANDER SPECIAL WRITER

indows are probably the most often overlooked feature of a home. After all, every househas windows and aren't all windows

Not by a long shot.

It may be tough to get all worked up about windows but windows have undergone something of a revolution in the last 20 years and are improving all the time.

Not only can replacing your old windows completely after the interior and ex terior look of your home, they also can offer major saving enhancements.

Perhaps your house was built before 1940. If you have double-hung windows. you may not be able to open them.

If you can, you may find them difficult to operate because the interior balances of the windows are two sandcast lead weights attached to the windows by a rope stretched over a pulley.

Many times, these old ropes have broken, making it impossible to keep a window open.

Your windows work fine? Good. Check out the window structure, especially its exterior. Old windows were made of wood and wood alone. Wood rots.

Wood also expands and contracts with heat and cold, leaving spaces between the window assembly and walls. That translates into loss of hot or cold-air and higher utility bills.

Even if your old windows are in perfect order, consider the opportunities for adding more windows to bring light and air into your home or new design elements in rooms like bathrooms or bedrooms

New windows

These days, you can create bay windows, window walls, windows in the roof. a door of windows, a corner of windows, just about anything you can imagine.

Usually, new and replacement windows come in two types wood and alumi num. Both have their advantages but most new wood windows are better than aluminum. They look better, they insulate better and they just feel better.

Their main drawback when compared to aluminum windows is their cost. They are sometimes twice as expensive as aluminum. Wood windows from makers such as Andersen, Pella, Pozzi and Marvin come equipped with a variety of vinvl coatings that make them virtually immune to rot or wear. The coatings are on the exterior portions of the windows. The interior is normally left bare so the consumer can paint or finish it as he or she chooses.

These new windows have much better insulating properties. They come in single, double and triple glazes. Some offer special "E-glass" (low emissivity) designed to reduce heating bills in winter and air conditioning bills in summer.

Tom Pulliam, vice president of Pella Windows in West Bloomfield, advises homeowners to study their needs and discuss what features they want.

Novice customers should look at product quality," Pulliam said. "On windows that are wood, they should look at craftsmanship. Lines should be neat, clean and put together well."

Wood should not be finger-jointed or patched on the interior, Pulliam added.

Consumers, he said, also may opt for aluminum-clad windows that are mainte-nance free. Quality of the hardware and weatherstripping should be studied.

If you refuse to replace your old windows, then consider buying low-E films Several firms, including 3M and Courtaids Performance Films, make these adhesive films that have the optical clarity of glass and attach directly to existing There's another option that has been popular since "Miami Vice" aired on television: glass block.

Architects and makers love these things. No wonder. They are relatively inexpensive, yet they impart a rich look. They are especially useful in contemporary houses made with stucco exteriors.

Glass block is often used around bathtubs and showers to create a light-filled interior space that's opaque to an outside viewer. Sometimes they are used as accents around entry ways and in stairwells to admit light. And because they are made of two pieces of glass sealed in the middle, they are very energy efficient.

Skylights

Perhaps the most innovative use of windows is in the roof and near the ceiling. Roof windows, or skylights, can make a small space look large and infuse huge amounts of light into formerly dark areas. Clerestory windows add light and architectural interest.

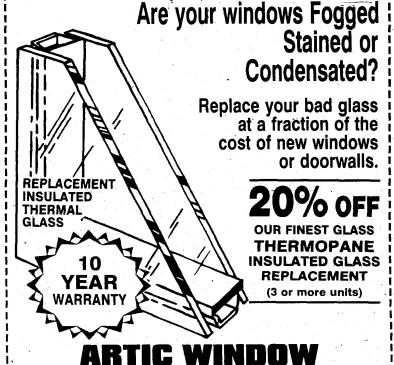

What we used to call skylights, those translucent bubbles attached to the roof, have almost disappeared. Newer models are more like windows for the roof.

While there are many advantages to roof windows there also are some draw hacks.

Installing them is complicated. If there is space between the roof and ceiling, a light tunnel must be built to admit the light into the living spaces. Roof windows, especially those above crawl space es, should also be vented to prevent beat

Lic. #2104021004 We Also Do On-Site Doorwall Repairs

Yes, you can outwit leaky roof syndrome

oof leaks are one of the worst emergency home repairs. While repairs need to be done outside, leaks are generally only noticed during bad weather.

One course of action is to use pots, pans, buckets, etc., to catch the water and then wait for the weather to improve. That, however, is not the best approach. You need to locate the source of the leak while it's still raining. If you wait until everything has dried up, you might look forever for the source of that drip.

If possible, look on the underside of the roof (from the attic, for example) for the spot where the water is going through the ceiling. This point of entry is rarely directly over the dripping, but mark the spot so you have a starting point later.

Follow the drip (or wetness) to what appears to be its source. Look for water stains on rafters and, in the daylight, for pinpricks of light in the roof. Take a very careful look around anything that goes through the roof (chimney stack or vent pipe). Areas where two roof slopes meet, such as valleys, dormers and ridgers, deserve special attention. When you think you have found the source, mark it.

At this point, all you may be able to do is find the source. If the problem is so bad it needs immediate attention, staple, tack or nail a sheet of plastic or building paper over the damage. Weigh the risk of venturing onto a wet and possibly windy roof against the potential water damage very carefully.

Once the weather has improved, get on the roof and look for the source of the problem. The way to locate it on the outside is by driving a thin nail up through the roof from the spot you marked inside

The most likely places for leaks to develop occur where asphalt or wood shingles appear cracked or worn, or where states and tile is broken or even missing. Take a careful look at all places where there is flashing (the metal seams around objects protruding through the roof), such as chimneys. Also examine areas where different roof slopes meet or where skylights exist.

Small leaks often found around flashed areas can be fixed with a liberal application of roofing tar or sometimes more neatly with caulk squeezed from a caulking gun.

Shingles that are torn, cracked or missing can often be made leakproof by sliding a piece of flashing up underneath nailing it in place and then covering the nail holes and edges of the flashing with roofing tar. Force the flashing up with a block of wood. You may need to do this on several adjacent courses.

Repairs that involve more than applications of roofing tar can become complicated and are probably best left to professionals. The same is true for repairs in which the shingles are excessively worn, cracked, lacking their gravel coating or, if wooden, covered in moss or split. Asphalt and wood shingles do not last forever. Their deterioration and replacement is eventually unavoidable. Although slate and tile are considerably more expensive, they will last much longer.

Everyday items aid clean-up

BY SUE BUCK STAFF WRITER

ou've poured Worcestershire sauce on your favorite steak many times; now dribble some sauce on a much-loved piece of brass to polish it.

Hidden within our shelves and cupboards, lurking in our refrigerators, everyday kitchen items can find other uses throughout every room in the house.

It didn't take Chef Larry Janes, an Observer & Eccentric food columnist, long recently to research additional uses for many items.

Begin with that grungy ceramic tile. It will sparkle with a simple recipe: onequarter cup baking soda, one-half cup white vinegar and one cup ammonia.

white vinegar and one cup ammonia.
"But it's not a keeper," Janes said. "It can't be stored. You need to use it soon."

Don't throw out that old, flat cola drink. Pour a cup into the the toilet and let it soak for one-half hour to clean it. The bowl will even impress the Tidy Bowl man.

Have your kids gone sticker crazy? The popular childhood hobby often results in stickers stuck in the wrong place — like wood tables and doors. "Vegetable oil will remove paper stickers stuck on tables," Janes said.

Leftover liquid tea also is good for cleaning varnished furniture, Janes said. Ice cubes, put in place and allowed to melt, will remove the indentation that furniture makes on the carpet, he said.

Oops, did you drop a raw egg while you were putting the groceries away? Don't fret. "Cover the egg with salt and let it sit for 15 minutes," Janes said. "You'll be able to sweep it up."

Still another Janes recipe keeps drains running free: mix one cup baking soda, one cup table salt and one-quarter cup cream of tartar.

"Store this in a clean jar marked
'Cleaner'", Janes said. "To use, pour one-quarter cup in the drain and add of cup boiling water."

And don't forget septic tanks. To keep them running freely, mix two envelopes of dry yeast, one pound of brown sugar and four cups of warm (not hot) water. "Allow to rest until foamy, then flush down the toilet." Janes said.

E FURNITURE ZONES

One affordable way to refresh an interior is to rearrange the furniture. Make a living room flexible by creating different areas, such as chairs grouped cozily around a fireplace and a rug for kids to lounge on while they watch television.

M NEW LIFE

Refinishing isn't the only way to give old furniture ew life. Consider the different roles furniture can play. An old hureau can go from a bedroom to the liv ing room for extra storage; a chaise lounge brought indoors and dressed up with indoor-quality cushions and pillows can serve as a comfortable place to read.

SMALL DETAILS

Don't overlook small touches that can perk up a room. Consider painting doorknobs soft gold, using decorative switchplates and highlighting beloved photographs with distinctive frames.

■ DESIGN DICTUM

Every industry has its own slang and interior designers have their lingo, too. "Cactus and coyote" refers to mass-marketed Southwestern furniture. Mass marketed country style is "duck and basket." Design that looks great but is unreliable is called "Alfa Romeo." By the same token, "Volvo" design is like the car, sturdy but staid.

E LOW INCOME, LOW RISK

Contrary to common belief, lenders are finding that low-income borrowers aren't necessarily a had credit risk. In fact. lending programs-designed for low-in come neighborhoods experience a lower rate of default that standard loans in more affluent communities.

M OWNERSHIP AMBITIONS

Owning a home is still the American Dream. In a recent survey, people said they would rather buy a home than retire 10 years early by a 3-1 ratio. People also are willing to commute farther to work if it means buying a home instead of rent-hen housepaint blisters, peels, cracks, flakes or mildews, the tendency is to blame the paint instead of the painter.

Painting know-how increases longevity

More often than not, the painter is responsible, not for being a bad painter, but for being unaware of or ignoring the source of the problems.

Professional painters and paint company researchers know moisture is the worst paint enemy. Homeowners needs to battle this aggressor when doing their own painting.

The interior of the average home produces a large amount of moisture throughout the year. During winter, that moisture plays the greatest havoc on ex-terior painted walls. Moisture accumulates on the inside of the walls, where it's eventually drawn through to the outside by the sun's heat. Moisture on wood siding and the paint covering it spell trou-

To combat the negative effects of moisture, first find the source. Depending upon your particular circumstances, it could be improper venting, water leaking from the roof gutters or plumbing, or rain getting into siding through seams and gaps around doors and windows.

After locating the source of moisture, eliminate it by sealing up all cracks. openings and leaks. Provide proper ventilation by installing roof or wall-mounted ventilator ducts and fans in moistureproducing areas. Vent tubes or under-lap vents can help relieve the moisture buildup in a wall. Using a vapor-proof paint on interior walls also can help.

With the moisture problem solved, it's time to take a look at the second paint enemy: poor surface preparation.

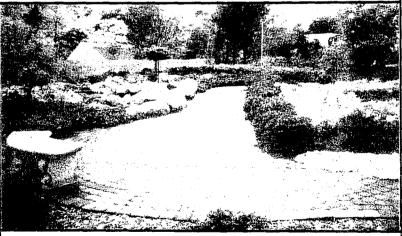

Lack of proper priming, applying new paint over chipped, cracked or chalked paint, or a heavy build-up of old paint is a guarantee that problems will soon follow. Applying a second or third coat of paint before the previous coat completel dries also can lead to trouble.

Begin all painting jobs by properly priming wood and metal surfaces. If the old paint is damaged, use a scraper, paint remover or power sander to remove all loose paint.

Then, either feather edge the remaining paint areas or use a filler or caulking to smooth the surface before priming. If you intend to give your house a second coat of paint, be sure to wait until the first coat has had plenty of time to dry The improved appearance of your home and the money saved by a paint job that lasts are well worth the extra effort

Buyer beware — Don't become victim of fraud

on't call us, we'll call you.

That should be the refrain of every homeowner whose doorstep has been darkened by an uninvited salesperson or was invaded by his counterpart, who intrudes via telephone at the dinner hour, police say

That kind of sales pitch usually ends up padding the seller's pockets but selling the consumer short.

'It's the annual rite of spring when everybody gets ripped off," said Garden City police officer Harold Penxa, who has spoken to both crime prevention and law enforcement groups about unscrupulous salespeople.

"If it seems too good to be true, it probably is," Penxa said. "There's no such thing as a free lunch."

Metro-Detroit police have seen it all. They say that red flags should go up every time a door-to-door salesperson ar-

Some scams keep recurring. Two common scams involve driveway sealing and the "water department rebate." The latter has been around for about 30 years Penxa said.

In the first scenario, driveway "sealers" are in the neighborhood and ingly low price. The only trouble is, before long, and always after the "sealers" have left, the driveway begins to peel.

When approached, always ask for identification, get a second opinion and call the police, if suspicious. Do this even if the salespeople look professional, wear work uniforms and tote clipboards.

The group most vulnerable are senior citizens. "They hang on to their money," Penxa said.

Children of the 1920s and 1930s, many elderly are still extremely frugal, distrust banks and store large quantities of monev in their home, Penxa said.

Thieves know this. But how do thieves target their victims?

Penxa wondered the same thing. Not long ago, in a controlled environment at outhern Michigan Prison near Jackson, Penxa questioned these slick con artists.

They look for cultural signs," Penxa said. "They have ways to spot their targets. They (thieves) are pretty good social scientists

Among many clues that thieves look for in spotting the elderly: fruit trees in the front yard, a lamp in the center of th picture window, painted rocks, painted

Police departments do their best to educate. But even that isn't enough. There's always a segment of the population that prevs on another.

In the water department scam, a pair of workmen come to the door and tell the elderly they were overcharged $50 on their last water bill. Unfortunately, they_ only have a $100 bill and ask if the person has change. The elderly person goes to the cash reserve while the con team

Next, the con artists try to divert attention. One goes down to the basement to look at pipes, instructing the elderly to watch for bubbles in the stream of water coming from the kitchen sink.

While one con artist goes down to inspect the pipes and starts banging away downstairs, the other con man goes to the cash reserve, sometimes a safe, and "cleans out" the homeowner.

Unfortunately, only 50 percent of the elderly file formal police reports after this happens. "They're afraid that their family will call them incompetent," Penxa

Police estimate that while this scam is sporadic, there has been a decrease in the last seven years.

In 85 percent of these water department scams, the thieves average $500-$2,000 per victim. Sometimes the offender gets as much as $3,500, Penxa said.

Every season has its opportunists, Haege says, whether it's the driveway sealers or the roofers.

Another often preved-upon group is the newly widowed. Shady businessmen closely study obituaries and take advantage of the situation, Haege said.

Add creature comforts to bathroom amenities ot long ago, the bathroom was considered a mundane part of the American home.

The "necessary room," as it originally was called, usually contained no more than a toilet, sink and bathtub, Homeowners never spent more time than was necessary in these basic, boxlike rooms.

These days, however, the rules have changed. In the '90s, spaciousness, style and attention to detail are the hallmarks of many of today's bathroom designs.

These rooms frequently are devoted more to leisure and comfort because home buyers want a private place to es-

Douglas Buster, director of home design and development for a Midwest home builder, says the larger master bathroom plays an increasingly prominent role in today's double-income households, where a husband and wife must simultaneously prepare for work. And parents also have found they want bathrooms separate from their children's.

Master bathrooms contained within lavish bedroom suites incorporate such sought-after amenities as sitdown areas to apply makeup, separate showers and enclosed toilets to offer a sense of roomi ness and privacy. Long, double-bowl vanities often are raised 31/2 to four inches above the norm to bring the sink area closer to its users

"We carefully design each bathroom to fully utilize all available space," Buster said. "Today's larger master bathrooms are no longer centered around the bath itself. Most of the master bathrooms in Elegance no longer is restricted to formal rooms, such as a living room or dining room, in the home. An abundance of marble, ceramic tile and glass in the master bathroom transform a "necessary" room into an extras room.

In many of today's home designs, skylights, standard windows and transom windows over tubs are prominent features in the master bath, allowing natural light to flood the room. Also, a wide use of extended mirrors creates not only more reflected light but also the impression of more space.

Many homeowners create comfortable atmospheres with large built-in, fiberglass garden tubs or whirlpool tubs to soak in after a hard day's work or play. Fiberglass tubs are not only economical, they come in many styles and colors and can match perfectly just about any room.

"Home buyers simply are no longer content with conventional washrooms," Buster said.

Play it smart when doing it yourself

BY MIKE DALE SPECIAL WRITER

he notion of building something yourself is frightening to most people, until it's demystified.

Homeowners once reluctant to install a garage door opener are remodeling entire homes, room by room. Warehouses, lumberyards and tool rental companies are feeding the do-it-yourself home remodeling trend with plenty of good advice.

Many national home center chains, such as Home Depot and Builders Square, offer classes for customers on the installation of ceiling tile and linoleum, how to patch holes in walls, repair a dripping faucet, build a deck or landscape a lot. Do-it-yourselfers also can get assistance in an ample supply of books, magazines and instructional videos found in local stores.

Computer-aided design programs are being adapted by some home centers to help consumers plan a new kitchen or deck. They also work with local contractors in marketing and installing fencing, doors, vinyl siding, replacement windows, screen enclosures, roofing, storage systems and home security operations.

But home improvement experts advise that the novice remodeler shouldn't tackle major structural renovations — room additions, new exterior siding or a kitchen makeover — without first consulting a professional.

The time is right for remodeling, according to the National Association of Home Builders. It's forecasting growth in home values to be 5 percent to 8 percent annually for the rest of the decade.

Some home improvements are financially smart, say analysts, because they bring a near-full return on initial investment.

An example: Owners who sink $20,000 into major kitchen repairs (new appliances, floor, cabinets and increased space) recoup 98 percent of their investment in five to 10 years. Minorkitch, en repairs should give 100 percent return when the house sells.

when the nouse sells.

Major bathroom makeovers return 98 percent of money invested, and replacing rooms, insulation and fireplaces all give a 60 percent return on your original outlay.

There are a number of ways to finance a remodel. Not all sources are right for every project, so choose carefully. You might think about:

- Refinancing your first mortgage.
- Getting a fixed-term second mortgage.
- Securing a home improvement loan, qualifying for home-equity lines of credit.
- Getting an unsecured personal loan.
- Using personal savings.
- Borrowing against insurance and pension funds, like a 401K plan.

Makeovers within the four walls of your home are appropriate when your objective is not more space, but better

In larger homes, for example, it's often possible to combine a series of small rooms to create larger, lighter spaces that are better-suited to modern living.

Adding on is preferable when you have the square footage you need, but it's in the wrong place. But before getting too excited about expansion, check local building codes and and ordinances. Additions may be limited by setback requirements, height limitations or zoning.

And don't forget to increase the limits on your homeowner's insurance, which will mean higher premiums, once the renovation is complete.

Beyond simple home maintenance projects, there are many home-improvement'projects easily managed by homeowners who are handy. Three of the most popular do-it-yourself projects are painting, maintaining garage doors and installing redwood decks.

In the car-culture 1990s, garage doors continue to dominate the facade of many homes, so it's important that they are maintained. Wood doors require regular scraping and refinishing. Steel, aluminum and vinyl doors are low-maintenance alternatives that are easy to install with ready-made kits.

Adding a redwood deck is right behind kitchens and bathrooms as a remodel favorite

Some tips from the California Redwood Association: plan a deck that reflects the style of your house; mix and match deck stains to complement the colors of your house; design your deck for entertaining by incorporating built-in benches; anticipate cooking and dining with a built-in grill or a cabinet/service counter, and note the orientation of your deck to the sun (some families enjoy shade; others prefer sunshine).

The secret to successful painting is preparation; painting is the easy part. Be sure to remove old finishes before adding new coats of paint. Chemical strippers soften and dissolve old finishes. Heat guns make old paint blister and bubble: Power sanders scratch away tough surfaces.

Exteriors should be painted in three colors: a basic field color for siding or brick, a trim color for borders or windows, and an accent color for shutters. Interiors are best left to softer shades. Bare walls, ceilings, floors and furniture are good candidates for more creative, stencil techniques.

Other popular at-home tasks include waterproofing concrete walkways, installing a fireplace mantel and water-saving toilets, repairing leaky pipes, and replacing old-fashioned two-slot electrical outlets with the grounded, three-slot receptacles now required for many appliances.

Large-scale structural renovations — such as room additions may require hiring a contractor.

Hiring someone in the field can be intimidating. But these tips should make the process smoother:

- Check all of a contractor's referenc-
- Verify that the contractor is licensed. Ask him if he has liability insurance.
- Take note of the contractor's personality. If he has a shop, visit it.
- Check the Better Business Business Bureau office for complaints filed against him.
- Beware of hiring the lowest bidder.
 And get everything, even estimates, in writing.

Equip toolbox with essentials

BY MIKE DALE SPECIAL WRITER

Having proper tools makes home improvement projects go smoother. Needed tools vary from task to task, but every handyman must have the basics:

- A ladder.
- A putty knife.
- A circular saw for cutting across the grain of wood, a hack saw for cutting metals and a keyhole saw to cut circular openings.
- An electric drill.
- A block plane to shave wood (it's handy for trimming door edges).
- A hammer, vice grip pliers, a ratchet wrench and a set of open-ended wrenches,
- An assortment of screwdrivers, both hand and power driven.
- Safety goggles and a dust mask.

 Many other tools can be bought for certain jobs. Home repair manuals and your home improvement store may recommend buying specific tools for such projects. Heed their advice.

Perhaps some of the pricier tools could be borrowed from a friend or acquaintance rather than purchased outright.

from building up in attics. These factors add cost

Replacing windows is no easy task for average do-it-yourselfers. Unless you've done it before, hire a carpenter to install

Some windows will come to match the opening if the old windows were a standard size and some will require the opening to be slightly enlarged or reduced. If you are placing windows where there was no old opening, the help of a carpenter is even more critical.

When it is necessary to use extra pieces of lumber in the opening apart from the wood included in the window assem bly, the carpenter should be sure to use treated wood.

Place insulation in any areas around the window where gaps occur. Also be sure the carpenter generously caulks the window where it meets the exterior wall to seal it against weather.

Window treatments

Window treatments are also changing, mostly for the better.

While the traditional draperies, valances and sheers are still appropriate in many settings, especially formally decorated homes, there are a host of new op-

Hunter Douglas's Duette Division makes a new product called Duette Chinoise, a pleated shade that looks something like woven silk and pulls up or down. There are a variety of other pleated woven window treatments and shades available from several manufacturers.

One other interesting product is called Silhouette, a cross between a sheer sheath and miniblinds. In this case, the miniblinds are fabric slats placed between two layers of sheer fabric.

For a look that's a little more hightech, try using a basic miniblind frame, with the thin slats removed and replaced with clear or colored acrylic tubes. You can make these yourself for very little Staff writer Susan Buck contributed to this report.

New homes to grow

New homes in the 21st Century will be bigger (about 2.500 square feet), but on smaller lots.

Kitchens and closets will be bigger. Media rooms, exercise areas and home offices will be common; so will three-car garages, according to the National Association of Home Builders.
