ROBERT F. SIBERT INFORMATIONAL BOOK AWARD

Twenty years of recognizing books that are “absolutely essential” to the education of children.

Most people know about the Caldecott or the Newbery Medals, awarded to children’s books authors or illustrators. Librarians and those more familiar with the publishing industry might also be aware of the Nebula Award, the Pura Belpré Award, or the Coretta Scott King Awards. What is less known is the Robert F. Sibert Informational Book Medal, which was named in honor of Robert F. Sibert, the former President of Bound to Stay Bound Books, Inc. (BTSB) in Jacksonville, Illinois. Robert distinguished himself within the American Library Association through his work in establishing standards for book binding—library binding in particular.

The medal is awarded annually to the author(s) and illustrator(s) of the most distinguished informational book published in the United States in English during the preceding year, with “informational book” being defined by the ALSC as: “those written and illustrated to present, organize and interpret documentable, factual material.” There are no limitations as to the character of the book, although poetry and traditional literature are not eligible. A committee of librarians decides the winner and any honor books, which are announced at the ALA Awards press conference during the midwinter meeting and honored at the ALA Annual Conference. When asked why an award specifically for informational books was chosen, Robert L. Sibert, Robert F’s son, said, “informational books are absolutely essential for school and public libraries as they help young people explore the world around them. It is only fitting that there be a library book award that encourages excellence in these types of books.” He further stated that “my father lived, breathed, and dreamed children’s books. I can’t think of a tribute he would have been prouder of than to have his name forever associated with the great authors who I know will win this award.”

The Sibert Medal is celebrating its twentieth anniversary this year, so let’s go back and look at some of the books that have won it. The first ever winner of the Sibert Medal was

Sir Walter Raleigh and the Quest for El Dorado, written by Marc Aronson and published in 2000 by Clarion Books but won the Sibert Medal in 2001. The honor books for that year were Pedro and Me: Friendship, Loss, and What I Learned by Judd Winick, My Season with Penguins: An Antarctic Journal by Sophie Webb, The Longitude Prize written by Joan Dash and illustrated by Dusan Petricic, and Blizzard! The Storm that Changed America by Jim Murphy. Ten years later, the 2011 winner was Kakapo Rescue: Saving the World’s Strangest Parrot, by Sy Montgomery with illustrations by Nic Bishop (Houghton Mifflin Harcourt, 2010). The honor books were Lafayette and the American Revolution by Russell Freedman, and Ballet for Martha: Making Appalachian Spring by Jan Greenberg and Sandra Jordan and illustrated by Brian Floca. Finally, this year’s books are some of the most varied yet, with the winner being Honeybee: The Busy Life of Apis Mellifera by Candace Fleming and illustrated by Eric Rohmann (Holiday House, 2020). The honor books this year were How We Got to the Moon: The People, Technology, and Daring Feats of Science Behind Humanity’s Greatest Adventure by John Rocco, Exquisite: The Poetry and Life of Gwendolyn Brooks by Suzanne Slade with illustrations from Cozbi A. Cabrera, and All Thirteen: The Incredible Cave Rescue of the Thai Boys’ Soccer Team by Christina Soontornvat. Two of this year’s Sibert Honor books also got honors in other categories: Exquisite was a Coretta Scott King Illustrator Honor book and All Thirteen was a Newbery Honor book. These and all other Sibert winner and honor books can be found on the ALSC website.

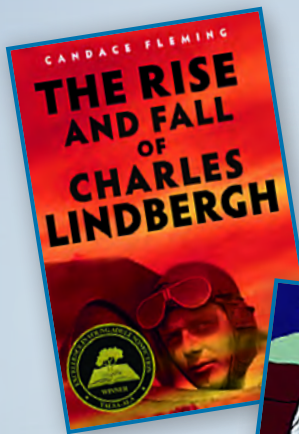

In short, the Robert F. Sibert Medal exists to honor a man who believed that libraries serve an important part in the education of children, and who wanted to create books that are as strong as the curiosity and enthusiasm with which children explore the world. BTSB looks forward to many more years of upholding that goal.

Bees and Cake: A Conversation with Candace Fleming and Eric Rohmann

By Rachel Worrell

Call hail the Queen of Nonfiction! Candace Fleming is the author of more than forty books for children and young adults, including nonfiction and fiction for older readers like The Rise and Fall of Charles Lindbergh and Aesop Elementary School books. She has also done picture books, including Go Sleep In Your Own Bed, illustrated by Lori Nichols, and Muncha! Muncha! Muncha!, illustrated by G. Brian Karas. Her partner is Eric Rohmann, who has published somewhat fewer—although no less amazing—books as illustrator, author, and sometimes both. He illustrated Bless This Mouse by Lois Lowry, and both wrote and illustrated Bone Dog, Caldecott Honor book Time Flies, and Caldecott Winner My Friend Rabbit. Eric has also done cover art for the three books in Phillip Pullman’s His Dark Materials series. Recently, however, the combined efforts of Candace and Eric are what has drawn the attention of readers (and, apparently, award committees). These include Strongheart: Wonder Dog of the Silver Screen, Sibert Honor winner Giant Squid, and this year’s Sibert Medal Winner Honeybee: The Busy Life of Apis Mellifera.

So, after Giant Squid won a Sibert Honor in 2017, did these two powerhouse creators expect that the newest nonfiction addition to their repertoire would also win awards? Turns out they didn’t. Candace says that she focuses on “the desire to craft something tangible out of [her] initial idea.” There is no thinking about what the book might do after publication, only on what they want the book to be. And it was never a question of who would do the illustrations for Honeybee, it was always going to be Eric, because he and Candace “conceived the project together. We were looking for a topic that would work as sort of a companion to Giant Squid.” After focusing on a creature so big and rare, it seems they wanted to bring attention to a much smaller and much more common creature.

GIANT SQUID

“After some discussion, we settled on Apis Mellifera—a glorious subject that would lend itself to glorious illustrations.” Eric adds that the creation of Giant Squid was different to that of Honeybee. Giant Squid was somewhat backwards (Eric created the illustrations before Candace ever had a storyline for them) but “Honeybee was a more traditional approach,” he says. “Candy wrote a story and I took up the brush when she had finished.”

With so much experience between the two of them, it’s easy to wonder whether they have a favorite genre to write or illustrate. But Candace says that “I don’t really have a preference. When I get an idea for a book, I start considering and tinkering.” Whether fiction or nonfiction, her analogy for writing is delicious, and rather apt. “I liken it to baking a cake,” she says. “In fiction, I’m pretty much allowed to whip up whatever I want... but with nonfiction, I’m expected to make something yummy out of ingredients that have already been chosen for me. It’s my job to examine those ingredients, consider them in fresh combinations, bake them in some surprising way. In-depth research provides the ingredients, but imagination makes the cake worth eating.”

Readers can expect more literary confections from these two soon. Keep your eyes open for Polar Bear, another nonfiction collaboration in the same vein as Giant Squid and Honeybee. Fans of The Rise and Fall of Charles Lindbergh will also be pleased, because Candace says that there will soon be “another YA nonfiction book that will be published in 2022. It’s true crime—a departure for me—called Murder Among Friends.” It will be based on the 1924 murder of 14-year-old Bobby Franks, perpetrated by Nathan Freudenthal Leopold, Jr. and Richard Albert Loeb, collectively known as Leopold and Loeb.

Living in a Story Buffet with Shannon and Dean Hale

Shannon and Dean Hale are well-known names in the world of children's books. Shannon is the best-selling, award-winning author of over thirty books for early readers, middle grade readers, young adults, and adults. She is the creator of the Books of Bayern series, Princess Academy series, Austenland and its sequel Midnight in Austenland, and the Real Friends graphic novel series. That's a lot for any one person to do, and yet she has done more with her husband, Dean. While he is sometimes her co-author, he's also a writer in his own right with the picture book Scapegoat, illustrated by Michael Slack.

If they can write separately, why collaborate? The answer is apparently simple: "We have more fun," Shannon says, and Dean agrees. The couple make frequent use of outlines to keep them both on the same page while a story is in the drafting stages, a process that means "things end up taking longer in the beginning, but it saves time in the long run." This has resulted in several fantastic projects, including the Princess in Black series and the Eisner-nominated graphic novel Rapunzel's Revenge, as well as its sequel, Calamity Jack. They might even one day do some new series involving side-characters from the Princess in Black series, such as The Goat Avenger or Princess Sneezewort and Sir Hogswell. Dean seems to have a soft spot for the monsters, saying that he has "stories in [his] head for all of the named characters and animals in Princess in Black. And the monsters. For sure the monsters." (Yes please, we would like a series featuring the monsters from Princess in Black.)

However, being authors and being a couple is not as easy as it might sound. There are things in their lives that both help and hinder the writing process. Shannon says "children have hindered the most. Four specific children who share our house and DNA." But she also says that the children "definitely inspire some of our best ideas." Dean adds that "having a genius writer that you are collaborating with AND that you know loves you is very helpful. It helps me get past that inner editor that wants to make everything perfect with the first word."

The publishing industry itself can be a daunting thing to deal with, but as veteran authors the Hales have some advice for anyone starting out, including things they wish they had known when they first began their writing journeys. "Everything is unpredictable," Shannon says. There are things that writers can't control—such as the reactions of the readers—once the book has been published, so as an author sometimes it's better to just focus on "writing what you most want to read." Dean looks at it from another angle: "It's a job, a lot like any other. You put in the hours and sometimes things work, sometimes things don't. You just keep going." Perseverance, it seems, is something they both agree is necessary to being an author (Shannon has kept numerous rejection letters and put them together into one scroll that is 60 feet long.)

The couple will soon have more for their readers, saying that "we always have more stories ideas than we can write." Keep an eye out for more graphic novels, novels, picture books, and "always more Princess in Black." The couple is "living in a story buffet," and it sounds like they're eager to add more literary dishes for their readers to dig into.

Opening a New Library?

The image shows a bright, modern library interior. A large curved wall features a wide window that looks out onto a parking lot with several cars, including a prominent red pickup truck. The room is furnished with dark wood shelving units arranged in a semi-circle. In the foreground, there are several colorful, modern chairs and tables. One table is purple and has some books and supplies on it. The floor is covered in a patterned carpet with circular motifs. The overall atmosphere is clean, bright, and inviting.

Teacher Guides available from BTSB

Curriculum aids and lesson plans available!

Every teacher guide we have is available as a free download at www.btsb.com. Look for "Download a Teacher's Guide" link in the book information or choose it on our advanced search page!

Promote titles with video clips!

Create playlists for open houses, promote upcoming titles, and help get students excited to read with dozens of free clips.

- What's included in video samples: Readings from the books, video trailers and previews, author interviews, and more!
- Playlists are available for both new book lists and previously-created ones.

How to search for titles with video previews:

- Using the BTSB Bookstore click on "Advanced" under the "Search" tab in the blue menu bar.
- Scroll down to the "Previews" section.
- Check to include only titles with video previews.

Collection Analysis Utilizing SmartSearch®

Use SmartSearch® Tool to create library book collections that are balanced, appropriate, and support the curriculum and intellectual needs of your students and your school.

The SmartSearch® Tool offers the most advanced book collection development currently available. You can upload and analyze your school's book collection, and then find the best books that you require for your specific library.

SmartSearch® Tool can be used to create a 5-year plan for developing a book collection that your students and school needs. It also has the tools for developing various charts and budgets to present to your school community to get the funding you will need to achieve your goals.

Once your collection is uploaded, you can search the BTBS database to find the books you need to balance your collection or to fit a specific budget.

Start using the SmartSearch® Tool by logging in to your BTBS Bookstore account – My Bookstore – Collections
