Gray-Nicolls was formed in the 1940s with the merging of H.J.Gray and Sons, a racket and bat maker who famously supplied King Edward VII and the independent cricket bat manufacturer L.J. Nicolls.

Later acquiring other famous brands including Wainwrights and Shaw & Shrewsbury, Gray-Nicolls became the much larger company which we know today.

During the 1950s and 60s the brand went from strength to strength, and at one stage each of the captains from the five test playing countries; Ted Dexter, Richie Benaud, Frank Worrell, John Reid, Trevor Goddard were using a Gray-Nicolls bat.

The 1970s saw Gray-Nicolls become the first bat manufacturer to introduce coloured labels as well as their iconic, trend-setting red flash.

In 1974 the company broke new ground with the introduction of the revolutionary Scoop bat. With the company growing exponentially and attracting global appeal, Gray-Nicolls opened a new factory in Melbourne.

Capable of producing some of sport's leading innovations, Gray-Nicolls is responsible for the revolutionary "Steel Spring" and the first shoulderless "Superlite" bat. It has also produced well-known and much loved bats including the Dynadrive, Sabre and Millennium.

Over the years many famous names including David Gower, Robin Smith, David Boon, Javed Miandad, Sunil Gavaskar and Jeff Dujon have chosen Gray-Nicolls. In 1994, Brian Lara used a Gray-Nicolls Scoop 2000 when he scored the highest ever first class score of 501 not out, and his then test record score of 375.

As we entered the new millennium, more runs were scored by cricketers using a Gray-Nicolls bat than any other brand during the 2003 Cricket World Cup, including the Australian legends Matthew Hayden and Andrew Symonds.

From 2006, the most iconic player on the international stage to use the brand has been former England captain Sir Alastair Cook. Cook went from scoring a century on debut for England in Nagpur to becoming England's record Test run scorer, amassing over 12,000 in his career.

Still owned and controlled by the Gray family, the cricket bat factory is still based in Robertsbridge today where all makers are trained to maintain the exacting standards customers expect from Gray-Nicolls.

THE LEGEND

The Legend. A title with a lot to live up to, but one that truly befits this bat's prodigious reputation at the pinnacle of the game.

The latest iteration of our most historic mark has been designed with two simple tenets in mind: the bringing together of aesthetic beauty and uncompromised performance.

The application of precision branding which is laser-etched on to the bat encapsulates the high quality and provenance of the Legend mark while the handcrafted blade, with its concaved profile and mid-swell, makes for a remarkably well-balanced bat with the lightest of pick-ups. This is a truly stunning marriage of form and function, to compliment the stroke play of the game's most stylish hitters.

Unassuming class and technological excellence place the Legend range at the zenith of the Gray-Nicolls collection, with kit that will be sure to place your game centre stage.

Mr Consistent. That's James Hildreth. Somerset's evergreen middle order batsman is a man for all seasons. A classy accumulator of runs in first-class cricket, Hildreth can turn it on in white ball formats to stake a claim as the best player to never play for England.

Now over 15 years into a career that has yielded more runs than most players could dream of, the man from Milton Keynes is looking to cross the generations as cricket moves into another new era. What does he make of the upcoming Hundred?

"First of all, it's really exciting to have a new format of cricket coming in" Hildreth said, as we interviewed him at his home ground of Taunton. "To be honest, no one knows how it's going to go. No one has played it. It's not an international format, but look at T20 and how that's evolved. I don't think anyone could have foreseen how that would evolve and the effect it would have on 50 over and Test cricket, and how people are now playing in that format. The variations of shots that have come in since T20 started has changed the game massively in all formats."

Back in 2003, Hildreth made 9 and 0 on his first-class debut. Since then he has gone on to score 25,000 runs for his county with comparisons made between him and Sir Alastair Cook.

"Me and Cookie go back a long way. We used to go to the England Under 15 camps at Lilleshall at the time and we used to pick him up enroute. Seeing how his career has progressed is such an amazing thing to watch. He's such a great guy and he shows the characteristics he has now when he was 15 years old. It was really obvious he had this steely determination and certain technique that he would just go back to relentlessly - it's just great to see him evolve in the way he has done and become our best ever Test batsman."

Hildreth was Gray-Nicolls highest professional run scorer in 2018, earning him the GN Golden Gloves award. But what are his aims at the start of a new season?

"My goal, every year now, is to win the Championship with Somerset, that's the main thing I want to do and we're getting close. We were second last year, and from a team point of view that's where we want to be. Personally, with 14 games now you've got to look into four figures, over a thousand runs. Getting a thousand runs last year was great, but you want to be the top run scorer in the country. You've got to keep challenging yourself against your peers and ultimately, get more runs than anyone else."

With his all-round game and his desire to keep improving, squeezing every last drop from his career, you wouldn't bet against Hildy lifting the County Championship before he's done.

THE POWERSPOT

THE ULTIMATE IMPACT

Returning once again for 2020, The Powerspot is a bat which was made famous by the likes of David Gower, Michael Atherton and a square-cutting Robin Smith, features the iconic blue Powerspot, designed to give the ultimate impact when the ball is struck in the middle of the bat.

The former England captain, Michael Atherton, used a Powerspot for most of his Gray-Nicolls career. "I can't really remember using anything other than a Powerspot" said Atherton. "Maybe right at the end of my career, but it was Powerspot from the word go and then pretty much throughout."

And his inspiration for choosing to use the Powerspot? The institution that is David Gower. "I chose Gray-Nicolls because Gower used them. Although he played a bit before me, we overlapped a little and he used the Powerspot, so that's why I chose to use it too."

The new bat promises a fantastic pick-up, with rounded edges and even weight distribution. Hit the ball out of the Powerspot and you can be sure to leave bowlers feeling the heat and fielders chasing dust.

Yet again another Gray-Nicolls icon has returned to the world stage and is sure to be a hit with generations old and new.

MAAX

ABILITY

It's the bat that tore it up in the Big Bash that fans on this side of the world have been calling for. Fresh out of the hands of some of the world's most destructive cricketers, we are delighted to finally bring you the Maax.

Delivered in striking green colourway, the Maax promises an in-your-face look, and an uncompromising approach to the game. When you walk to the wicket with the Maax, opposition bowlers will know that they are in for a troubled afternoon.

Two of the world's best are currently using the Maax to great effect. Chris Lynn, the pioneer of Lynn-sanity, has destroyed attacks across the globe with the green machine, turning cricket balls into mulch and bowler's dreams into living nightmares.

The other Maax man is the star of New Zealand cricket, Kane Williamson. Kane moved into the Maax for the 2019 Cricket World Cup as he bids to lead New Zealand to glory for the first time. A different player to Lynn, Williamson's uncanny ability to score runs in all conditions and styles will only be aided by the Maax's incredible power-hitting ability.

If you are in the market for standing out in 2020, the Maax bat has got to be for you - it's not for the faint hearted.

Sam Billings talks:

The Hundred

I think it will be a really good format, obviously something completely different, a new concept, which I think the playing group as a whole is really looking forward to giving a go. I don't think it will be that much different to T20, but tactically it will differ greatly with the different rules and overs etc so I'm looking forward to trying it.

It's hard to say whether it will have as big an impact as T20, I think T20 singlehandedly changed the landscape of cricket and has obviously fed into the different countries around the world - you see it's arguably the most popular format of the game now. It's not that dissimilar to T20 so it will have a different type of impact on the game.

The IPL

The IPL is the biggest tournament in the world, as everyone can see, and you learn more and more every single year. I was very lucky to be at Chennai this last two years, the best franchise I've ever played with - it really is an amazing organisation and the experienced players that we've got - Dhoni, Jadeja, Raina, Watson, Du Plessis, the names really do keep on going. Just the experience to feed off, how calm each of them stay in the pressure moments and consistently perform. None better than MS Dhoni, he stays calm when the pressure is on. He has his way of doing it and stays very strong to his method. That's probably the biggest learning I've taken, is work out your method and stay true to that.

Advice to youngsters

Enjoy the game. I think certainly as professional cricketers we get sucked into it being a job sometimes, so you have to keep a smile on your face and enjoy every single day. But also work hard and work smart. If you want to get to the top you have to put the hard work in. Not just with your batting and bowling but your fitness, your fielding and all the bits that don't necessarily come naturally. I think that's a real key thing - do things you don't necessarily want to do and keep pushing yourself.

The return of one of our most prodigious progenies, and the latest addition to a bat family steeped in the brand's history, the 'Oblivion Stealth' is back to reprise it's role as the sharpest blade in the Gray-Nicolls range.

Shaped and contoured for quick hand speed, but with minimal concaving and an explosive mid-to-low swell, the Oblivion allows the craftsman of the game to go to work without compromising power. Whether hitting the boundary or surgically dissecting the field, you can head to the middle confident that the Stealth is a force to be reckoned with in all formats of the game.

True to it's ancestry, the Oblivion sports a slick set of chrome stickers, with a repeat pattern of hexagons that sweep elegantly down the blade, exaggerating the sublime characteristics of the profile and enhancing the bat's sense of purpose.

The latest iteration of this iconic family places it as the link between the Gray-Nicolls' Classic and Test ranges, with a stylish collection of softs that are sure to set both standards, and pulses racing.

POWERBOY INTERVIEW PHIL SALT

Phil Salt talks:

How do you prepare differently for red ball and white ball cricket?

I focus on my basics as much as I can, switching formats for me is mainly a mental thing. It's all about reminding yourself what you need to do early on in your innings. For example, you can afford to take up more dots in 50 over cricket than you can in T20 but in T20 you look to go harder earlier on in the innings. You always have more time than you think so it's important to remind yourself of that when switching back to the longer formats.

What do you think is the most important asset for a batter in the shortest forms of the game?

I think power is obviously a massively important thing to have in the shorter forms and you see the best batters in the world clear the ropes so consistently these days. The versatility and tactical nous of how you see some of the world's best like AB de Villiers play with that extra man in the ring is also a huge asset if you've got that in your game.

Will The Hundred revolutionise batting just as the T20 did?

I think The Hundred is going to be really interesting to see how people go about it and what sort of tactics will be used as a batter with the whole 5/10 ball over thing. I played in the T10 over the winter and the less balls you're going to have in a game of cricket the more explosive you're going to have to be and the less margin for error you're going to have as a batter.

How did your experience in the PSL help you? What did you learn?

I learnt loads in the PSL, both on and off the pitch. Spending time around the world's best and getting to pick their brains is something that I found invaluable. The conditions were so different and I got to play in roles which I'd never done before like batting in the middle order in T20 cricket, so I had to learn quickly. It was even more pleasing to put in a couple of performances contributing to good wins. I got a great idea of where my game and skills need to be if I want to be successful.

TECHNICAL EXCELLENCE & DYNAMIC AESTHETICS

A full profiled bat with a dynamic low swell and dramatically feathered toe, combined with the mark's synonymous long exaggerated bow, make for a powerful blade with a beguilingly light pick-up. Armed with this annihilative arsenal, the game's most prolific players can step onto the front foot with a confidence to match the gear.

Styled to evoke the flowing lines and timeless colours of the original Powerbow, the 'Inferno' brings this most enduring of Gray-Nicolls' marks up to date with an incendiary aesthetic that will reduce the competition to ashes: tongues of ferocious fluorescent flame lick their way from the toe of the bat upward and along the spine, showcasing the exaggerated contouring of the blade. A bold mix of black, yellow and red give the bat a touch of flare, and a punch which underlines the pyrotechnical characteristics of the Powerbow Inferno.

This fusion of technical excellence and dynamic aesthetics run through the family as a whole, with equipment that will enable you to take your performance to the next level, in a style that demands attention.

It's always a good time to be a sportsman at the start of a new era. Whether that be the IPL, the Premier League, or the upcoming Hundred, new tournaments mean new opportunities. So when you're a young sportsman, whose skills are perfectly set up for making you a star in this new competition, there is an amazing opportunity in front of you.

That is exactly the chance that the young Warwickshire star Ed Pollock has when The Hundred launches in 2020. The much discussed new format of cricket has polarised the sport, with some saying it's unnecessary, while others see it as a great opportunity to evolve the game further. Pollock, 24, sees it very much as the latter.

"I'm very excited. It's another new format we've come up with in this country, another new way to push the boundaries and how good people can be. The skills of bowlers, the skills of batsmen, and every part of this game, the more we can push it to the limit the better. It's going to be great to be a part of and great to watch. I've managed to play in the pilot matches that came up and they were great to be a part of. It will help bring a new audience in while maintaining the current audience, it sounds like we are getting big stars to join in. It's another chance for everyone to put their skills on show."

The Hundred will all be about hitting big sixes. Strike rates will go up, and the team that can clear the rope most often will be out in front. One of the primary aims of this new format is to bring in a new, younger audience to the game of cricket, offering them the chance to see innovative shots that they'll want to copy immediately. So what does Ed give as his key piece of advice for a junior looking to add to their shot repertoire?

"Practice! You might get a few weird looks in the nets trying to smash the ball out of the park over long-on, but it's like any shot - the only way to get better is to practice it."

With a pronounced high-middle, full-profile and intimidating edges, the Shockwave is a bat that will allow the game's most destructive players to both stand and deliver.

Jagged graphics frame the blade's imposing swell, and highlight the potential force that dwells within. When unleashed, the story of this violent release of energy is told in the stickers themselves, with a fractured pattern radiating out from the epicentre of the sweet-spot in tones of blue that cut through the design with a cold and unforgiving fury.

These fractures are consolidated into a repeat pattern that runs across the family, and sets the Shockwave apart as a brand to instil adrenaline fuelled confidence into a batsman and fear in both the opposition and ball alike.

2020 sees the launch of an exciting new Gray-Nicolls concept, designed to reduce wastage in our factories. For the first time ever, we will be using discarded materials to create a brand new collection that promises to get pulses racing - allow us to introduce: Off-Cuts.

Off-Cuts is exactly as the name suggests, a range of batting gloves that have been made from the leftover material of old products. A piece of sweatband here, a bit of padding there, and suddenly we have created a new collection of products for you to enjoy, without the need to source new materials.

Not only is the Off-Cuts Collection great from a sustainability point of view, but for cricketers everywhere, they come with the promise of a completely unique glove for every customer. As we are recycling old material, we can't plan for every glove to look completely uniform. Some Off-Cuts could be green, pink, yellow, orange or all four - we just don't know! If you like your cricket gear loud, these will be the gloves for you.

By embracing this new collection you'll also benefit on price, but with zero compromise in terms of quality. The adult batting glove in the range will be Prestige level, while the junior is created to the Academy specification.

As the world looks for ways to be more sustainable, we at Gray-Nicolls know we have a role to play too. The Off-Cuts Collection is just one step in making our goals a reality.

2020 will see a major shift towards the shorter formats of cricket, with The Hundred joining the T20 Blast in the English calendar. Ben Foakes talks us through how the long and shorter forms of the game differ for keepers.

"The biggest difference between keeping in first-class cricket and T20 is the wobble that the red ball creates. Some bowlers get quite extreme wobble after the bat, so almost all of my training is trying to deal with that. Also, with day three and four pitches foot holes wear. I try to do a lot of practice to sharpen my reactions, using spring boards to try and have a better chance of getting the balls that spit out of the rough. T20 keeping is different in the sense that the white ball doesn't really move, and pitches are generally fresh so there's no real spin. One of the challenges is batters moving around in front of you and waving bats around."

If playing Test cricket is traditional fair for a Wicketkeeper, then the thrills and spills of T20 is a veritable smorgasbord. What are the biggest challenges that wicketkeepers face in the shortest version of the game?

"In T20 the hardest thing is when you're standing up and batters are switch hitting or ramping and you lose sight of the ball. You have to try and stay calm and try to find it again. It can also be tough because in T20 you can have a lot of ideas, but because of the time constraints it can be difficult to get a message to the captain or bowler."

Looking ahead to The Hundred, does Foakes think there'll be any further innovations for wicketkeeping - what can wicketkeepers do to take that role even further?

"I think it could go one of two ways. Either because there are less balls, teams may not feel they need for as much batting, so the emphasis on a specialist keeper may come back and affect games that way. Or sides may see it as less balls to catch and go down the route of batters that keep being used more for runs rather than keeping."

Fortunately for Ben Foakes, he can do both.

While Gray-Nicolls might be synonymous with cricket bats, up and down the country it is teamwear that gives the brand perhaps the greatest visibility.

From county professionals to Sunday village teams, Gray-Nicolls represents all levels on the field, with a fantastic selection of on-field and training gear. All our clothing is engineered with players in mind providing a modern, athletic fit, which is desired by professional cricketers of today, or a more relaxed fit for casual players.

Gray-Nicolls now boasts teamwear partnerships with two counties in England, Durham and Worcestershire, while we have also entered the international game in recent years too, with the iconic Netherlands orange jersey now made by Gray-Nicolls.

In 2019, Scotland also joined forces with Gray-Nicolls to produce their teamwear collection at both junior and senior level. Cricket Scotland Commercial Director Paul Macari said "Gray-Nicolls have established themselves as a market leader and are able to offer us a solution covering international playing kit, replica clothing, cricket equipment and merchandise."

The athletic fit of our playing whites offers modern players the look they desire, without compromising their performance. Both the Pro Performance Shirt and Trousers offer wicking and moisture management materials to ensure comfort when the heat is on.

Ed Barnard, Worcestershire all-rounder, is pleased with the collection. "Yeah I love it" he said of it. "I think the lads have all really enjoyed having it too. They're really enjoying the fit of them, especially the whites and I think they're really enjoying the new modern fit that comes with that."

Gray-Nicolls are proud that international teams and first-class counties trust the brand to supply their clothing. We continue to develop our range based on their feedback along with that of our customers, ensuring we bring the best possible products to market.

When heading out to the middle your attention needs to be focused entirely upon your game. Any distractions, large or small, could prove the difference between getting set, or getting out. Concerns about your safety and comfort will only serve to undermine your preparation, which is why we at Gray-Nicolls take the upmost care when engineering our protective equipment.

Thanks to the efforts of our tenacious team of designers, and in collaboration with professional players from around the globe, we have developed a range of helmets to suit all ages, formats, and playing levels, so that you can head to the crease with confidence, in style.

Trusted by the biggest names in cricket, our 2020 range sees a continuation of the 'Atomic' and 'Players' helmets, as worn by Alastair Cook, Kane Williamson, Shaun Marsh and Shadab Khan at Test Match Level. Additionally, and in order to deliver the most contemporary protection possible, we are proud to introduce three new helmets to this years collection: the 'Ultimate', the 'Ultimate 360' and the 'Atomic 360'.

Conceived with the classic stroke-player in mind, the Ultimate helmet boasts an elegantly contoured grille with an ergonomically designed jaw-line that provides unrivalled comfort for the batter, with a shell that does not compromise on comfort, and protection.

In the case of the Ultimate 360 these design principles have been pushed even further with anthropometrically informed, contoured steel wings, that project around the back of the helmet to provide unparalleled jaw, ear and neck protection for the game's most dynamic hitters.

Not to be outdone, this new technology has been developed simultaneously with the much-trusted Atomic helmet, ensuring that the Atomic 360 will inspire confidence at the crease in all levels of competition.

Safety in cricket continues to be of paramount importance to us, and every item we produce will perform against the appropriate level of stress. With peace of mind taken care of, you can focus on what matters. Performing at your best.

2020 sees the dawn of a new era in cricket, and at Gray-Nicolls we are introducing a new concept that will bring cricket at all levels closer together: PowerPlay.

We recognised the need to make cricket easier to access. The need for too much equipment can prevent youngsters from taking up the sport, so PowerPlay is designed to bridge that gap.

PowerPlay sees the introduction of a new set of junior products that make playing the game easier. The range features a plastic cricket bat with a slightly wider face, an easy to carry ball and bat set, and a striking black and red set of stumps that matches the rest of the range.

Not only will PowerPlay cater to young players taking up the game for the first time, but adult cricketers will also be able to get in on the action. To compliment the arrival of The Hundred - the new format of the game where power hitting is essential.

At the professional level of the game, our Gray-Nicolls ambassadors will be fighting it out for the PowerPlay Player of the Month and Season awards. Replacing the Golden Glove, the monthly winner will earn a pair of PowerPlay Prestige Gloves, and the overall winner will earn their place in the new Gray-Nicolls PowerPlay trading card pack.

New PowerPlay Trading Cards will be sent out with all junior products purchased online from Gray-Nicolls.co.uk. Featuring some of crickets biggest and best known stars including Kane Williamson, Jonny Bairstow and Shadab Khan, the cards will generate a huge buzz at junior sessions as kids look to complete their set.

This season, the Power is in your hands.

ABOUT SIZING

Sizing inconsistencies can be attributed to a number of factors and vary according to the different fabrics and cuts in our range. Our Teamwear collection is available in four fits across the entire apparel line. Each is designed to meet different needs for movement, protection and versatility depending on the activity.

HOW TO FIND YOUR SIZE

The Clothing size chart is set up in a table. One axis will lay out the size, and the other will be the measurements in inches and centimetres. Look at the row/columns that best correspond with your measurements and you'll be able to identify your size.

IF YOU ARE IN BETWEEN TWO SIZES

It's up to you. If you like a tight fit? Go for the smaller size. Love a loose fit? Go for a slightly larger size.

HOW TO MEASURE YOUR BODY FOR CLOTHING SIZES

Chest: Place one end of the tape measure at the fullest part of your bust and wrap it around your body to get the measurement, keeping the tape parallel to the floor.

Waist: Place one end of the tape measure at your natural waist, you want to find the narrowest part of your waist. Don't go up too far or too low to get an accurate measurement. Don't hold the tape too tight or your clothing will be hard to move in.

Hips: Stand with your legs together and measure the fullest part of your hips. Be sure to go over your bottom as well. It might be challenging to keep the tape consistently level when you do it alone.

Inside leg: The inseam is the distance of your inside leg measuring from the top of your inner thigh to your ankle. It is easiest to measure the inseam based on a well-fitting pair of pants. Measure from the crotch to the cuff on the inside seam of the leg. The number of inches, to the nearest 1/2", is the inseam length. It's best to measure your inseam with a pair of shoes on so that you can ensure the hem hits at the right point on your shoe.

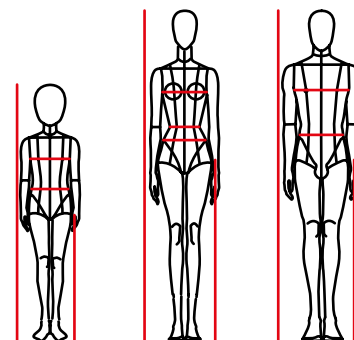

FIT TYPES

LOOSE FIT: A roomier and relaxed fit, styles might have a longer length than a standard fit.

STANDARD FIT: Not too tight, not too loose. Standard fitting apparel will fit over mid-layers without restricting movement.

SLIM FIT: Athletic fit, close to the body, allows the use of a baselayer when required. Ergonomically designed, performs with the body and doesn't restrict movement.

TIGHT FIT: Garment will fit the body like a second skin.
