Petition to NHTSA:

Talking a walk shouldn't be deadly!

Lifesaving automatic braking should be on all new vehicles.

I write in support of NHTSA's plans to require automatic emergency braking (AEB) features, including pedestrian (PAEB), in all new cars, SUVs, and trucks. It's crucial for our safety watchdog to make our roads safer for everyone and reduce the number of Americans killed and injured in car crashes.

NHTSA needs to hold automakers to the highest possible standards of AEB. These systems should be able to detect everyone on the road – regardless of whether it's day or night – and respond effectively to stop a collision with them, or at least make it much less severe. The technology is proven, it saves lives, and it's already required in other countries around the world. NHTSA should finalize the strongest possible requirements without delay.
