CHAIRMAN'S LETTER

NORWICH a small university, but its size belies the diverse and vibrant culture it has fostered.

From undergraduate civilians and aspiring officers to postgraduate active duty military and online learners, our student body encompasses all walks of life. Our undergraduate students currently hail from 40 states and 20 countries, and we are always welcoming new students and faculty into the Norwich family.

We are proud of the good work our students and alumni are doing, the progress each is making in their chosen fields, and the respect they are earning for themselves and the University. It is particularly noteworthy that in the opening week of school, the Northfield Police reached out to the Norwich Community during Hurricane Irene and asked members of Norwich's Mountain Cold Weather/Rescue Team to help evacuate local residents affected by the storm. This is precisely the sort of representation and outreach I've grown to expect from members of the Norwich family.

As our University continues to evolve, not only does its diversity increase, but also its ability to have a positive impact on the world around it. In a globalized world, Norwich is truly becoming a global university.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

IN 1819, CAPTAIN ALDEN PARTRIDGE FOUNDED The American Literary, Scientific and Military Academy on the principles of experiential learning, resulting in educational opportunities based on a “learn-while-doing” model rather than a “learn-and-then-do” model. Our students, following the Norwich guiding value of being “dedicated to learning, emphasizing teamwork, leadership, creativity, and critical thinking,” embody Captain Partridge’s philosophy. Following are several examples of this guiding value in action.

Ben Kinsley, a sophomore political science major, worked as an intern for Vermont Lt. Gov. Brian Dubie in his bid for governor of Vermont. Ben’s duties ranged from making phone calls and collecting data to dealing with the logistics of the candidate’s public appearances, giving Ben a unique insight into the political process. He plans to pursue a career in Vermont politics following graduation.

Last semester, a team of three Norwich students completed a senior thesis involving miniature satellites. Funded by a grant from NASA, mechanical engineering majors Matt Wagner and Robert Martin, and electrical and computer engineering major Chakrit Chantamit, collaborated with student teams from UVM and VTC to improve the design of CubeSats—miniature satellites the size of a softball. The Norwich students were charged with researching and developing camera technology and software options that would enable the satellites to leave the earth’s orbit, with the ultimate goal of sending one to the moon.

Environmental science majors Chris Barber and Brian Demers helped Norwich professor Richard Dunn examine the natural erosion of the banks of the Dog River. Working with the Northfield Conservation Commission, Chris and Brian explored green solutions to stabilizing the local river’s destructive path. In addition to surveying the river using a computer drafting program, the students created a plan to slow the channel water, with the goal of decelerating the erosion process.

Whether embarking on a career in the military, public office, academia, or business, Norwich students, through experiential learning, leave the Hill prepared to lead our Republic. Your financial support helps realize Alden Partridge’s vision of developing enlightened and useful citizen-soldiers.

As you review this report, I hope you will take a moment to reflect upon how your Norwich education and values have impacted you, and consider how you might impact the students at our great University.

Norwich forever!

Richard W. Schneider, RADM, USCGR (RET.)
PRESIDENT, Norwich University

THE PARTRIDGE SOCIETY MEMBERSHIP

The mission of the Partridge Society is to encourage alumni, parents, and friends of Norwich University to help the University achieve its financial goals and to formally recognize those who do so. There are four categories of Partridge Society membership: Annual Members contribute annual gifts of $1,000 or more during the University's fiscal year; Lifetime Members, Generals and Chairman's Diamond Club Members have cumulative giving of $20,000 or more; Garrison Associates Members have consecutive giving for five or more years; and members of the 1819 Circle have made a planned or deferred gift to the University.

The following list acknowledges and celebrates gifts received and memberships granted between June 1, 2010 and May 31, 2011. Gifts received and memberships granted after May 31, 2011 will appear in the FY2011–2012 Annual Report.

Creating a Legacy

Gift Planning is the process of making the most of your charitable gift while considering your own financial needs. For some, this type of planning helps them discover what should be given, rather than how much. For others, gift planning addresses complex income and estate tax issues involving the transfer of wealth. Regardless of your personal and charitable goals, consider devoting a little time to learning more about the planned giving vehicles described here. A little time can yield surprising results.

PLANNED GIFTS FOR TODAY

Charitable Gift Annuity In exchange for your irrevocable gift of cash, low-yielding CD's, stocks, bonds, or mutual funds, Norwich will pay one or two people a high fixed, guaranteed income for life starting today. Alternatively, you can postpone your income start date with a deferred charitable gift annuity. Both options provide a charitable income tax deduction.

Charitable Remainder Trust In exchange for your irrevocable gift of cash, low-yielding CD's, stocks, bonds, mutual funds, or unwanted real estate, this trust provides one or more people with income for life and a charitable income tax deduction. Your income amount is based on a preset percentage of trust assets, so annual income will vary with investment performance.

Real Estate There are many ways to make a gift of real estate to Norwich, the simplest being an outright gift. Once ownership of a home or land is transferred to Norwich, the property is sold and the proceeds used to support Norwich's future. Donors receive a charitable income tax deduction for the fair market value of the property.

PLANNED GIFTS FOR TOMORROW

Bequests Including Norwich in your will or trust is a simple way to leave a lasting legacy. There are no complicated tax rules to follow, and you maintain control of your assets during your lifetime. You may gift a specific dollar amount or a percentage of your estate. Example: I hereby bequeath [$X, Y%, or the remainder of my estate] to Norwich University of Northfield, Vermont.

Beneficiary Arrangements Naming Norwich as the full or partial beneficiary of your life insurance policies or retirement accounts allows you to establish a future gift while maintaining control of these assets during your lifetime. This approach also relieves your heirs of any income and estate tax due on retirement accounts, which could cost up to 80 percent of the account value.

Life Insurance You may transfer ownership of an existing cash value life insurance policy to Norwich and receive a charitable income tax deduction for its current value. Norwich could then choose to surrender the policy for its cash value or accept tax deductible gifts from you to pay future policy premiums.

The Future is Now: Summer Research Fellowship Feeds Creativity

CRACKING CODE comes naturally to Nicole Chrusciel, a waiflike Norwich sophomore who opts for black shredded t-shirts when not in her Corps of Cadets' uniform. But unlike a ne'er-do-well computer hacker intent on wreaking havoc, the 19-year-old computer security and information assurance major from New Britain, Conn., uses her powers for good.

Motivated to help people like her aging grandparents and another relative struggling with medical issues, she's using her mechanical and technical skills to design and create a secure, handheld device that dispenses prescription medication to patients.

Inspired by one of Professor Jeremy Hansen's lectures on the topic of implantable medical devices, Chrusciel's imagination began to roam.

"It all sounded so futuristic. I wondered if there would be an easier way to manage medication," she says.

Chrusciel worked with Hansen to create a proposal for a $4,000 Norwich summer research fellowship to investigate and create a prototype of a RAPTAR-PPD—remote access, one-time password, tamper-resistant device for portable prescription dispensing.

"[Nicole] is really passionate about a lot of things," says Hansen "She's got a lot of ideas and is willing to go work out what she needs to do."

The size of a deck of playing cards, the device would hold pill cartridges that could be inserted by a pharmacist. Information concerning dosages and side effects would be programmed into the machine, and a timer would dispense the pills at pre-designated times.

In order to access the machine, patients would scan their fingerprints and enter a pass code. A GPS tracker would keep the device on record in case of theft or loss.

Nicole Chrusciel tests a portable, programmable prescription medication dispenser.

While there are other medication dispensing devices on the market, none are as compact and secure as the one Chrusciel hopes to create.

"When people who are not super tech-savvy say this is a great idea, I know something is there," says Hansen.

During the 10 weeks of her summer research fellowship, Chrusciel interviewed pharmacists and hospital employees, talked to experts at Nokia Corporation, attended a conference at Carnegie Mellon, and pieced together a rough prototype of the device, which she and Hansen are hoping to patent.

Her fellowship is one of 19 funded in 2011 with a combination of endowed and external funds. An essential component of Norwich founder Alden Partridge's vision and his belief in the value of experiential learning, these grants allow students to use hands-on research to come to their own understanding and knowledge of a subject.

Chrusciel, who is attending Norwich on an Army ROTC scholarship and hopes to commission in Intelligence, looks forward to the possibility of further funding and seeing her futuristic vision become part of the perfect code.

NORWICH VALUES IN ACTION

Star Corps: Putting Norwich on the (Celestial) Map

IN THE not-too-distant future, a little piece of Norwich will be orbiting the Earth.

Students in the David Crawford School of Engineering are part of a team creating a satellite that will be launched as early as March. A collaborative effort that includes Vermont Technical College, Saint Michael's, and UVM, their objective is to produce a CubeSat: a small, cube-shaped satellite.

Norwich's involvement began in January of 2010. Since then, three or four students per semester have been putting their skills to work with Danner Friend, Associate Professor of Mechanical Engineering, and Jacques Beneat, Associate Professor of Electrical and Computer Engineering.

Friend describes how the program—which is being funded by the Vermont Space Grant Consortium—is able to provide a low-cost method of space exploration. “The satellite's small size makes delivery into space easier and more economical, and it utilizes Commercial-Off-The-Shelf (COTS) technology instead of components uniquely designed and created for the space program,” Friend says.

Norwich students and faculty are currently developing components that can be integrated with the Goddard Enhanced Onboard Navigation System (GEONS) developed by NASA. If they are successful, the CubeSat will be able to identify vectors from the satellite to nearby objects, with the ultimate goal of sending a CubeSat to the Moon.

Developed 12 years ago by California Polytechnic State University and the Stanford University Space Development Laboratory, 40 CubeSats have been successfully launched. None, however, have left the Earth's orbit, potentially making the Vermont CubeSat Lunar Lander Project the first. Before that can happen, the unit must be able to navigate independently of any terrestrial contact. That is where the Norwich engineers come in. They will incorporate a camera with the hardware and software necessary to function with GEONS as an autonomous on-board navigation system.

Phase I of the project is a one-liter CubeSat scheduled for launch in March 2012. Included as secondary payload on the Falcon 9 rocket, it will be released at an altitude of 325 kilometers, staying in Low Earth Orbit for about 50 days before returning to the atmosphere. The purpose of this phase is to test the navigation system for use in Phase II: a three-liter CubeSat comprised of three, one-liter cubes with self-propulsion capability. Once in orbit around the Earth, it will begin spiraling outward until reaches the Moon's orbital path. The overall journey is estimated to take about a year, culminating in a Moon orbit and eventual lunar landing.

The attraction of the CubeSat is that, due to its small size, it provides a low-cost method of space exploration. and many projects utilize Commercial-Off-The-Shelf (COTS) technology, instead of the great expense inherent in designing and creating unique components for the space program.

Bearing the Torch Update

FUNDRAISING REPORT

Thanks to the generosity of alumni and friends, Norwich has made significant strides toward achieving several of the goals set forth in Bearing the Torch. With the midpoint of our fundraising timeline behind us, however, much work remains. Below is a listing of prioritized needs.

THE TOP THREE PRIORITIES

CAPITAL PROJECTS: $6,400,000

- ◆ A campus landmark for nearly a century, Sabine Field is used by only one sports team on a handful of days each fall. With the installation of synthetic turf, lights, and stadium seating, Sabine Field will be available to multiple teams and the Corps of Cadets throughout the fall, winter, and spring seasons: $5,200,000
- ◆ Physical fitness and outdoor challenges comprise an essential element of the Norwich experience. Thanks to the generosity of Larry Costa '80, the University is creating the SFC John Shaw Center, a four-season network of hiking, snowshoeing, and mountain-biking trails on the former ski hill: $1,200,000

UNRESTRICTED: $7,800,000

- ◆ Applied to areas of critical need, these gifts provide an important source of funding for operating expenses. This allows Norwich to minimize tuition increases, thus helping it to remain competitive in the higher ed marketplace.

STUDENT LIFE PROGRAMS: $2,000,000

- ◆ Access to a wide range of co-curricular activities is critical to improving retention. The University will invest more funds in student clubs, residential life, and specialty units, including Drill Team, Cavalry, Band, and Artillery: $1,500,000
- ◆ Norwich has created a Leadership Enhancement and Development Program (LEAD), which will be delivered to all sophomore Corps, civilian, and commuter students: $500,000

TOTALS FOR BEARING THE TORCH: $20,200,000

OTHER CRITICAL NEEDS

ACADEMIC PROGRAMS: $2,000,000

Build It and They Will Come

LARRY COSTA '80 AND THE SFC JOHN SHAW OUTDOOR CENTER

LARRY COSTA'S MAIN REASON for attending Norwich was Mountain and Cold Weather Company (MCW). In fact, so important was MCW to his plans that he never even applied to another school. Four years later, however, Norwich had taught him much more than outdoor survival skills—it had prepared him to lead.

After a 12-year Army career which took him around the world, Costa felt the time had come to transfer his leadership experience to the world of business: he founded Worldwide Language Resources (WWLR), a global company that provides language-based services and personnel—in the form of interpreters, linguists, cultural advisors, and intelligence analysts—to government agencies and private corporations.

Today, WWLR provides translators and interpreters to U.S. Special Forces the world over, and was recently awarded the Afghanistan Military Postal contract.

At a certain point in his career, Costa came to understand the part that his Norwich education and training had played in his success. “I didn’t appreciate the school while I was there,” he says, “but later I realized what it gave me. Norwich started me on that path.”

Reflecting on the changes to campus since graduating more than 30 years ago, Costa says he appreciates what the president and trustees have done with the school and their efforts to make Norwich the world class university it is today.

“Look at the world, at the way things change” he states. “We are in a different century and need to focus on the future. President Schneider has done a phenomenal job.”

That attitude, and the values Costa shares with Norwich, led to his decision to spring a surprise on the president at Homecoming last year. At the Class of 1980 banquet—the 30th reunion for Costa and his classmates—he took the

As my senior year at Norwich comes to an end, I have learned a lot of important lessons. One of the most important is helping others. I hope that I can help someone in the future the way you have helped me.

— Cadet Ryan J. Moore '11

I might have had to settle for a school with less of a reputation for the sole reason that it was more affordable. Selfless donors are vital to Norwich and help keep this institution going strong. — ZACH BYAM '12

BEING A STUDENT AT NORWICH UNIVERSITY HAS GIVEN ME THE CONFIDENCE TO BELIEVE IN MYSELF AND THE COURAGE TO TRY NEW ADVENTURES.

LARRY COSTA '80

microphone and, with the president standing by, announced his pledge to fund the entire Bearing the Torch project of creating an outdoor recreation center on the old ski hill.

"I was thunderstruck!" says President Schneider. "When someone grabs the microphone at an event, I tend to worry 'Uh oh, what's coming?' but I never expected that!"

Costa had only one stipulation attached to his $1.4 million pledge: the naming opportunity. Normally a university likes to name a capital building project in honor of the donor, as a way to recognize and celebrate their generosity. Instead, Costa has requested that the outdoor center be named for his late friend and mentor, John Shaw.

"Naturally I told him to consider it done," says President Schneider.

Sergeant First Class John Shaw, USA (Ret.) was one of the instructors of the Mountain and Cold Weather Company when Costa was a student. "John had such an effect on MCW," Costa says. "Of my class, three of us went into Special Forces," emulating John Shaw's branch of service. "He had leadership skills, he was someone that people liked ... always mentoring, always talking, always helping ... he opened his home to everybody, very approachable, very welcoming ..."

Such was the impression SFC Shaw made on Larry Costa that he was named godfather to Costa's son Mark, and the two maintained a close friendship until John's passing. "John was a friend and I don't want my friend forgotten."

Thanks to Costa's inspiration, when future classes of Norwich's Mountain and Cold Weather Company train—or students mountain-bike and townspeople hike or snowshoe—on the trails of the SFC John Shaw Outdoor Center, they will know his name, and they will understand the impact of putting values into action.

For Nancy and me, it is always about the students. Leaving a planned gift to the University is just another way we can help future generations of students achieve their dreams at Norwich.

— Professor Gerard LaVarnway

Tuition paid by today's students covers only 76 percent of the actual cost. Where does the other 24 percent come from? Various sources, including people like us!

— BRAD AND RENEE GREASON '50

Norwich prepares the future leaders of our nation. For this reason, I am proud to support the University by establishing a charitable gift annuity.

— Alan Weiss, FRIEND

I DONATE EACH YEAR TO THE JOHN GODFREY '66 SCHOLARSHIP FUND BECAUSE I WANT TO REMEMBER MY CLASSMATE WHO WAS LOST IN VIETNAM ... IT IS IMPORTANT TO SUPPORT HIGHER EDUCATION, ESPECIALLY NORWICH, WHERE I RECEIVED A VERY GOOD EDUCATION, LEARNED PRINCIPLES OF SELF-DISCIPLINE, AND MADE LIFELONG FRIENDS.

Year-End Gift Ideas

As we approach the year's end, please remember that your charitable giving must be completed by December 31 for you to support the University AND receive a 2011 tax deduction.

IRA CHARITABLE ROLLOVER

Over age 70½? You may gift up to $100,000 from your IRA directly to NU. The distribution is not taxable and qualifies toward your required minimum distribution. This incredible tax incentive ends this year.

SECURITIES

Gifts of stock, bonds, or mutual funds can be made electronically or by transferring paper certificates. By giving securities that have grown in value, you avoid capital gains tax.

CHARITABLE GIFT ANNUITY

In exchange for your gift of cash, low-yielding CDs, stocks, bonds, or mutual funds, Norwich will pay one or two people a high, fixed, guaranteed income for life starting today.

BEQUESTS

Including Norwich in your will or trust means no complicated tax rules to follow, plus you maintain control of your assets during your lifetime. You may gift either a dollar amount or a percentage of your estate. Example: I hereby bequeath [$X, Y%, or the remainder of my estate] to Norwich University of Northfield, Vermont.

BENEFICIARY ARRANGEMENTS

Naming Norwich as a beneficiary of life insurance policies or retirement accounts lets you establish a future gift while maintaining control of these assets during your lifetime, and relieves your heirs of any income and estate tax due on retirement accounts, which could cost up to 80% of the account value!
