Introduction

Welcome to the most recent edition of the international studbook for Grevy's zebra 2017. I would like to take this opportunity to thank all the colleagues who continue to provide cooperation and support, be it on data sharing, population management or conservation. It all serves to support this beautiful equid species for the long term.

Please allow a few minutes to have a look at the international studbook for Grevy's zebra 2017, in particular the information on animals registered for your institution and the latest update on conservation in the field.

PLEASE, WOULD ALL REGISTRARS (HOLDERS AND OWNERS) ENTER THE PERMANENT STUDBOOK NUMBERS IN THEIR RECORDS TO MAKE FUTURE COMMUNICATION ABOUT INDIVIDUAL ANIMALS EASIER. THANK YOU!

Ex-situ Population:

The total number of Grevy's Zebra in zoological organisations on 31st December 2017 was 197.309.0 (506) in 111 institutions in 28 countries. This breaks down as follows:

Africa	3.0.0 (3); 1 institution
Asia	12.11.0 (23); 10 institutions
Europe	104.175.0 (279); 57 institutions
C. America	0.0.0 (0); 0 institutions (1 institution no longer holds GZ, the other has been made LTF)
N. America	76.121.0 (197); 42 institutions
S. America	2.2.0 (4); 1 institution

Annual breakdown of births and deaths during 2017:

World wide 2017

Total births reported: 20.19.4 (43)

Total deaths reported: 15.15.4 (34)

The Grevy's zebra conservation projects are supported, and, often, made possible by the continued funding and support of the global zoo community, in particular Grevy's zebra holding institutions in Europe and North America. The following pages provide an overview of the most recent developments. Thank you also to Anne-Marie Gordon (GZT) for her help with this overview.

Grevy's zebra conservation work has not been easy over the last year in Kenya. Northern Kenya has experienced one of the worst droughts in decades, pushing both wildlife and people to their limits. This drought has further complicated conservation operations by causing unrest across Laikipia and Samburu as some livestock herders have illegally occupied protected areas, leading to tragic loss of life as Kenyan security forces have attempted to restore order. Further security concerns hampered efforts in the run up to the national election in August and again in October 2017. Despite occasional flare ups of violence in some areas, the communities and partners we support and work with continue to remain positive and much has been achieved and maintained. We are delighted to share some of those accomplishments with you, the global zoo community. The following pages provide an overview of the most recent developments. Thank you also to Anne-Marie Gordon (Grevy's Zebra Trust) for her contributions.

National Activities

Ethiopia

Following Kenya's example, conservation action for Grevy's zebra as well as two other equid species (African wild ass and Burchell's zebra) is finally gaining greater prominence in Ethiopia. A workshop was convened by the Ethiopian Wildlife Conservation Authority (EWCA) and IUCN/SSC Equid Specialist Group (ESG) in Addis Ababa on 12-13 December 2016. More than 20 participants from government, NGOs, universities, technical aid agencies and local communities attended the workshop. Zeke Davidson from Marwell Wildlife, and Belinda Low Mackey from GZT, (both members of the GZTC) travelled from Kenya to provide their expertise.

The workshop was facilitated by Dr David Mallon, member of the IUCN Species Conservation Planning Sub-committee, and member of ESG. Following a status review and analysis of threats, the participants developed the first draft of an Ethiopian National Equid Action Plan for 2017-2026. The plan is currently being finalised and we hope to see it published soon.

Kenya

National Conservation and Management Strategy for Grevy's zebra in Kenya

The Kenyan Conservation Strategy document has guided and monitored all Grevy's zebra conservation activities since it was first produced in 2007, and was due a review and update. On the 26 and 27 January 2017 KWS convened a meeting of stakeholders at the Mpala Research Centre, Laikipia, to review the current version and produce the third edition for 2017-2027. The meeting included conservation NGOs (Northern Rangelands Trust, Lewa Wildlife Conservancy, Grevy's Zebra Trust, Marwell Wildlife, Samburu Trust), community conservancies, research institutions (Mpala and Princeton University) and community representatives from Laikipia, Wamba and El Barta (Pic.2)

The Vision and Goal of the strategy remain unchanged - (see KWS, 2008 and 2012) and the strategic objectives were not altered, but an additional objective was added to incorporate the new emphasis on Grevy's zebra population growth.

Several models for the strategy revision were produced, and they mostly revolve around maintaining conservation activities in response to the ongoing threats to Grevy's. In addition, the review proposed an increase in the level of engagement with county government and key development players. This aims to ensure that the GZTC has support for activities designed to mitigate the effects of inevitable changes brought about by development, human population growth and climate change.

National Survey of Grevy's zebra/Great Grevy Rally

The 2016 Great Grevy Rally (GGR) was a resounding success, delivering vital population information simultaneously across the range in Kenya and engaging a broad range of people in citizen science. The GGR has provided much impetus for the targeted approach to area-specific conservation activities defined in the National Strategy. The GGR estimated 2,350 Grevy's zebra in Kenya, and showed that their population was stable and sustainable.

Please see the report of the 2016 GGR (Berger-Wolf et al., 2016) available here: <http://www.laikipia.org/wp-content/uploads/2016/09/Great-Grevys-Rally-2016-Report-FINAL.pdf>

However, since this survey was carried out there has been a devastating drought across much of the Grevy's zebra's range, which has exacerbated tribal conflicts and led to illegal occupation of numerous protected areas and increased wildlife poaching. The results of GGR are vital for local governments, who are mandated and committed to conserving their wildlife, and are taking actions to mitigate the threats to this endangered species. Having robust baseline population estimates and distributions from the GGR, as well as ongoing surveys across the species range will allow the Technical Committee to assess the impacts of both drought and tribal conflicts.

On the 27th and 28th January 2018 the Grevy's Zebra Technical Committee (GZTC) hosted the second national Rally for Grevy's zebra. The two-day photographic census monitored the status and health of the endangered and iconic Grevy's zebra in northern and central Kenya, where over 90% of the global population is found. In an exciting development the 2018 GGR also included reticulated giraffe. This species was assessed as Vulnerable to extinction by the IUCN Red List in 2016, and shares much of Grevy's zebra's range. This addition will add greater strength to the overall assessment of priority species in Kenya. This will not detract from our Grevy's census goals in any way and we are thrilled to be able to leverage more information for the conservation of another great African species from the Grevy's zebra conservation platform.

It is too early to report on results of this survey as the analysis is still ongoing, so we will provide those in the 2019 studbook edition.

Drought Response and Supplementary Feeding

In 2017, Northern Kenya was once again in the grip of a prolonged drought with devastating effects to humans and wildlife alike. The long-term degradation of habitat has reached a point where these ecosystems have almost no ability to recover from further impacts. This means that with every drought wildlife is increasingly impacted by depleting resources. Grasslands have dried up and strong winds were blowing. Seasonal rivers and shallow wells had also dried up.

Not only did the short rains fail between December 2016 and January 2017 but the long rains of March to June 2017 also stayed away in the north of Kenya. A severe drop in zebra body condition was recorded and by autumn 2017 more than 100 animals including lactating mares and foals had perished. Several poaching events were also recorded as people desperate for food turned to wildlife – a new emerging threat to Grevy's zebra in these dire times and an unexpected consequence of climate change in the region.

In response to the drought, the Grevy's Zebra Trust called for the GZTC emergency protocol to be activated and implemented the supplementary feeding program aided and supported by many in-country and international partners and donors. Thanks to the real-time observations provided by the GZT teams in the field, the provision of hay was well-timed, as the majority of Grevy's zebra had not lost body condition yet. Six hay monitors were employed by GZT and 13 feeding sites were established in El Barta, Wamba and Laisamis. The feeding effort then shifted as the grazing available in these three aforementioned areas improved, while conditions deteriorated significantly in Shaba, Samburu and Buffalo Springs National Reserves (Map 1). Three feeding sites were established within the reserves, targeting the most vulnerable members of the herd, the lactating females, to give them and their foals the best chance of surviving until the much-anticipated rainy season arrived.

As well as active support for the hay storage and distribution in the assigned areas (Pic.6), Marwell's Peace Through Wildlife coordinator, Enrita Lesolyia, and her scouts held meetings with communities in the area to get their support for this activity (Pic.7). She explained that Grevy's zebra and their survival are essential to the communities since all the employment and development support in this area are linked to conservation, and asked them to cooperate and spread the word to other herders in the bush not to steal, but to guard the hay.

Over 3,500 bales of hay were fed to Grevy's zebra during the supplementary feeding program. Other wildlife, such as Beisa oryx, elephant and waterbuck (Pic.5), also benefited from this additional food source.

Conservation Biologists monitored the uptake of feed using camera trapping and a local scout network to understand how best to deploy this vital resource and the impact on all wildlife.

Marwell Wildlife Activities

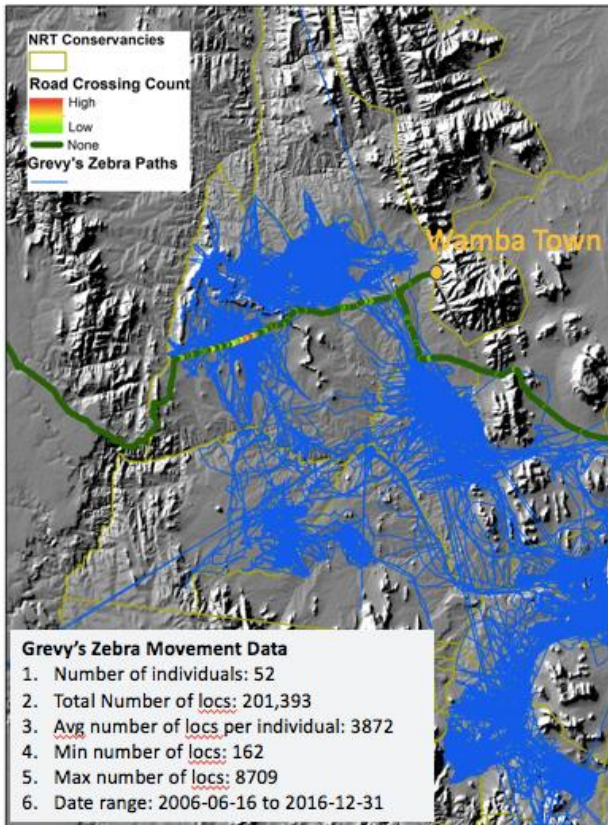

Digital Stripe Pattern Identification Database

This pioneering system compares each photo to others in the existing database to determine if the Grevy's zebra in the picture has been previously recorded or is a new entry. Once identified, new entries are then added to the database. To date over 27 thousand images have been uploaded, with a process that has required over 370 million image comparisons (Hiby, pers. comm., 2017). The developer of the stripe ID database software, Lex Hiby, database manager Lizbeth Mate, and Zeke Davidson, Marwell's Kenya Programme Manager, have begun the task of analysing and writing up the data of the last decade. They are investigating survival rates, population sizes, abundance, subpopulations and their interchanges and movement patterns.

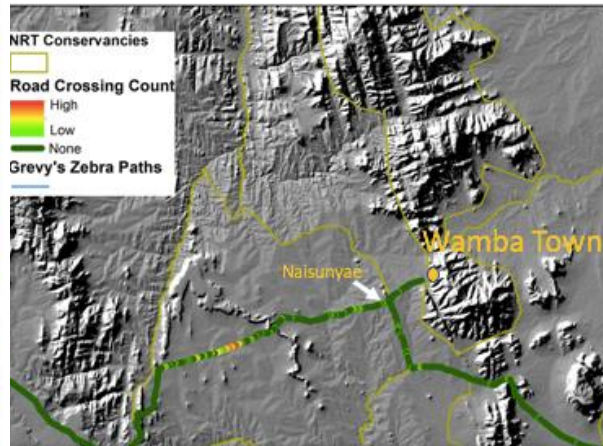

Early indications are that survival of both adults and foals is high, and that the sampled areas have stable or increasing populations. These preliminary findings agree with the recent IUCN assessment and will provide a baseline from which to compare future surveys. With improvements to identification programs, rigorous data collection, identification and analysis, community involvement and citizen science are all adding weight to the effort. As a multi-stakeholder tool with many contributing partners it is a strong collaborative catalyst for conservation and one of our most important tools across all projects.

Grevy's Zebra Collaring

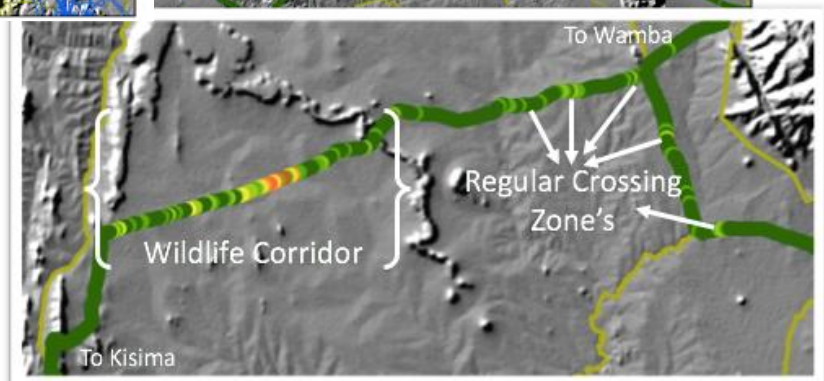

The value of Grevy's zebra movement data from GPS collars has been demonstrated once more in our study area, where they have proved instrumental in informing national and county level development strategies. This year we were able to produce strong recommendations for the upgrading of a rural road in the Wamba zone of the Grevy's zebra management areas. In collaboration with Save the Elephants (STE) we used a track density analysis tool (Wittemeyer unpublished), to pinpoint sensitive crossing points along the road's route (Maps 2-4). The county government is going to implement mitigation strategies along these sections of the road in order to limit the risk of road mortalities to all wildlife, including Grevy's zebra.

In a long awaited launch event, Dr. Zeke Davidson (Marwell Wildlife) was able to participate with the National Task Force in the publication of the National Wildlife Corridor Management Plan (Ojwang' et al., 2017) (Pics 8&9). This document has been in development since 2012 and the Grevy's zebra collar data have formed a major component contributing to the mapping and gazettement of Kenya's wildlife corridors.

Pics 8&9: Launch event. Zeke Davidson shaking hands with Ben Okita from STE © Marwell

As previously reported, a suite of measurements and biological samples are collected during collaring operations, providing another source of data for the investigation of population health and prevalence of disease. Results of analysis of blood samples taken during collaring, reveal that there is a high prevalence of Equine Herpes Virus (EHV 9) in the wild population. However, no cases of the disease have been detected, suggesting that if animals are healthy and unchallenged by environmental stress, the disease does not manifest. A peer reviewed publication of these findings has been prepared by Louise Guevara, Kolmården Zoo's veterinarian, and submitted for publication in 2018.

These more recent results show again the importance of the collaring data to a wide variety of projects and even national decision making. Together with the stripe identification work, this project has a top priority in the long-term conservation of the wild, free ranging populations of the species.

The Northern Kenya Grevy's Zebra Project (NKGZP) Peace and Conservation for Grevy's zebra in Northern Kenya

The key focus for this project is on communities sharing landscape and resources with wildlife for the NKGZP. The project currently employs a total of 19 scouts in the field, six of whom are women. The Marwell scout team plays a vital role in spearheading conservation activities in the region, acting as local ambassadors as well as collecting data on Grevy's zebra and other wildlife. The communities expressly appreciate their involvement in the conservation work as it provides employment opportunities for men and women alike as well as expanded education for the children (Pic.10). Importantly, as long-term custodians of these ecosystems, they clearly understand the needs for sustainable approaches to wildlife management and value species including Grevy's zebra.

Smart phones equipped with CyberTracker software have been deployed to facilitate wildlife tracking, as these provide an easy to use means of collecting data, particularly in communities with low literacy rates. All scouts attended a weeklong training course to ensure their familiarity with smart phones and camera traps resulting in high quality observational data.

In addition to our female scouts, Marwell have trained two women (Pic.11) to set up and maintain camera traps in the Gatap and Sarima areas where we have installed four extra camera traps to widen our monitoring network. Initial photo analysis for the Sarima area showed, surprisingly, no Grevy's zebra during November and December, but hyenas, black jackals, gazelles and birds were recorded. By January, however, there were no wildlife sightings at all. This could be due to increased disturbance from human activities around the Lake Turkana Wind Power project. The team will move the majority of traps to another priority location to be determined based on gaps in our maps.

The project puts great importance on the inclusion of women. While in the field, Enrita Lesoloyia, our Peace through Wildlife coordinator, and our team of scouts provide training in bead work to women. This aims to empower the women to participate in economic activity, helps them sustain themselves and their families, and will hopefully encourage other women to come on board and join their colleagues in peace and wildlife activity.

In 2015 a new collaborative working group for conservation education in Northern Kenya was formed. Enrita, a former teacher herself, is now a member of the Northern Kenya Conservation Education Working Group (NKCEWG). This group aims to promote wildlife education and awareness to school children in Northern Kenya. In a recent meeting all partner organisations discussed their needs for education and decided to agree on one common curriculum as well as to share education resources to streamline school training and avoid any duplication.

Apart from formal education, Enrita has begun to run wildlife camps for children aged between 10-14years (similar to the GZT activities in the area they work in, see below). Most children have negative feelings towards wildlife and believe that it poses danger and should be killed when sighted. Interestingly, this is contrary to our findings amongst the adult members of communities in Northern Kenya who displayed a common positive attitude toward wildlife (Parker et al., 2017). We have a concern that there is a generational gap developing between parents who grew up with abundant wildlife and their children who see so little of it today. We hope that these camps will expose children to wildlife conservation and protection through wildlife lessons, camping activities, field trips and patrols, exchange programmes, and natural encounters with wildlife. The aim is to prepare and inspire the children to be the next generation of park wardens, wildlife biologists, future conservationists and wildlife ambassadors. In addition we hope this kid's camp will be fun filled experience for the children and a precious moment to socialise across the different tribes and form a social foundation for friendship and promotion of peace, thus enhancing peace through wildlife.

Data Collection Training: SMART and Cyber Tracker

As briefly mentioned in last year's studbook (Langenhorst, 2017) members of the various scout teams are increasingly using the SMART tool (a spatial monitoring and reporting tool developed by the SMART Conservation Partnership, see: <http://smartconservationtools.org/smart-partnership/>) for digital data capture across many of the conservatories. Lizbeth Njeri Mate, Marwell, is a SMART Trainer and has implemented a bespoke database for GZT 2016, and one for the Milgis Trust in 2017.

Enrita, team leader in the NKGZP, has now also been trained as a SMART trainer and is providing regular sessions for all Marwell scouts, to improve their data collection skills (Pics 12&13).

Following discussions between Grevy's Zebra Trust, Marwell Wildlife, and Zoological Society of London (ZSL) it was decided to move all GZT Ambassadors (one group of GZT scouts) from paper based data collection to mobile based data collection.

Pic.12&13 LH: Enrita during training with Loltepes scouts Ngoida & Mzee Lekadaa; RH: Enrita and Mzee Nabuin and Akiru in Sarima learning how to operate the CyberTracker application © Marwell

The integration and harmonisation of GZT, Milgis Trust and NKGZP (Marwell) scout data platforms has been discussed. These three organisations will join the expanding network of organisations, including Lewa Wildlife Conservancy, The Ngare Ndare Forest Trust, Mount Kenya Trust, Loisaba and Borana Conservancies, which uses SMART and Cybertracker tools, allowing an extensive area of Northern Kenya to be systematically monitored in the same way.

Grevy's Zebra Trust Activities

Grevy's Zebra Ambassadors and Peace

The GZT's Grevy's Zebra Ambassador Program has as its main goal the enhancement and promotion of community-based conservation and protection of Grevy's zebra and other wildlife in El Barta, Northern Kenya. Since it operates in a relatively volatile region where ethnic rivalries flare up, the program has also focused heavily on peace-building since 2014.

Sixteen Grevy's Zebra Ambassadors have continued to conduct foot patrols to monitor and protect the Grevy's zebra population in El Barta. A total of 2,073 Grevy's zebra sightings were recorded from January through October 2017, with a population demographic of 9% juveniles, 18% foals and 73% adults. The foal-juvenile proportion of 27% indicates a surprisingly healthy population, despite the drought conditions. The Grevy's Zebra Ambassadors also carried out 20 community meetings during 2017, reaching an average of 128 people at each meeting. All meetings touched on peace, conservation, wildlife and community security, and grazing and settlement plans.

GZT recruited two new Ambassadors, Ltpalira Lengees and Kawanga Lesaana, to patrol in Waso Rongai, bringing the number of operational areas in El Barta to nine. Two joint patrols took place in El Barta with GZT's conservancy partners. Rikapo Lentiyo, our El Barta Regional Coordinator, also carried out a joint security patrol to assess the distribution of Grevy's zebra and livestock concentrations in the area during September after scattered rains, when the threat of poaching was high.

To support the Ambassadors, the El Barta Conservation Council (ECC) was established in 2014. This group of elders, warriors and women (Pic.14) are responsible for creating awareness within their communities on conservation, peace and law enforcement. Both the Ambassadors and the ECC members are trained in Conservation Conflict Transformation (CCT). In 2017, the ECC members conducted 12 meetings attended collectively by more than 1,000 participants, where they discussed movement and settlements, planned grazing and water management.

The ECC reported 21 incidents where they used CCT skills to mediate conflict in 2017, and they are often called upon by local chiefs to assist with public meetings. In addition, there was a 69% reduction in wildlife poaching in El Barta in 2017, despite the drought conditions experienced and the associated rise in ethnic rivalries.

Pic. 14: Some of the women members of the ECC © GZT

GZT held the "We Are One" Peace Festival with the Samburu and Turkana to promote peace and stability through shared identity experiences. More than 20 years of ethnic conflict has led to poverty and loss of life, as well as wildlife declines in the region. The three-day festival took place in December 2017 with 300 community members from 14 villages, and senior officials from both national and county government attending. Participants took part in dancing, story-telling, discussions and oath ceremonies, all aimed at celebrating "Oneness".

The GZT El Barta Regional Coordinator conducted two community workshops and two community film nights involving 211 women, elders and scouts. From these workshops a core group comprised of elders, women and warriors was elected to take forward their community action plan. Rikapo also conducted follow up with four other existing core groups. These communities had implemented settlement plans, including migrants in their efforts, moved settlements out of Grevy's zebra corridors, stopped the use of gunshots to scare wildlife, removed fencing around two dams to allow wildlife access and set aside dry-season grazing areas.

Grevy's Zebra Scout Program

The Scout Program operates in the Wamba Region of Northern Kenya in partnership with community wildlife conservancies. The Grevy's Zebra Scouts (19 women and 11 men) collect long-term data on Grevy's zebra and foster positive attitudes towards the species. Analysis of Scout data provides us with an index of the demography of, and trends in the Grevy's zebra population, indicating whether the population is stable, increasing or declining. This highlights the importance of the Scouts' work as citizen scientists for long-term endangered species monitoring. The Scouts worked hard during the prolonged drought of 2017 to monitor the health of the Grevy's zebra, providing us with valuable data on body condition, mortalities and movements, which helped us to better target our management actions, such as the supplementary feeding effort.

The Scouts also conduct community outreach sessions, engaging elders, women, warriors, children and local leaders in conservation discussions. The topics covered during these meetings include Grevy's zebra access to water, planned grazing, security and wildlife, and the impact of sand harvesting. The Scouts emphasize the importance of tolerance and co-existence with all wildlife, not just with Grevy's zebra.

A total of 4,996 Grevy's zebra sightings were recorded from January through October 2017, with an average herd size of 3.18. The sex ratio was 1.5 females to males, with a population demographic of 70% adults, 10% juveniles and 19% foals. The combined foal-juvenile proportion of 30% is surprisingly healthy. Herd size was low but is indicative of the drought conditions which forced Grevy's zebra to disperse within community areas to find scarce resources.

In 2017, GZT employed a young Turkana man called John Abura as a Grevy's Zebra Scout in the area of Attan, south of Buffalo Springs National Reserve where poaching of Grevy's zebra by Turkana herders has been on the rise. John has been instrumental in connecting with his fellow warriors and working to stop the poaching.

In recognition of her incredible 15-year career in Grevy's zebra conservation, Ngeeti Lempate, known as Mama Grevy by her community and the GZT team (Pic.15) , won the 2017 Disney Conservation Hero Award and was the only woman in Africa to win the award this year. In addition, Andrew Letura, GZT's Wamba Regional Coordinator and supervisor of the Grevy's Zebra Scout Program, won the Houston Zoo Wildlife Warrior award for his efforts to promote women in conservation and his tireless efforts to save Grevy's zebra.

Nkirreten Project: Empowering women and keeping girls in school

This project was named the Nkirreten Project (Nkirreten referring to women's undergarments) by the Grevy's Zebra Scout women and their community peers, who have been trained to make reusable sanitary pads for sale to community members and schools. Many girls are forced to drop out of school as a result of their monthly cycle because they have no sanitary protection - this project keeps girls in school, gives women and girls in the community an environmentally-friendly hygienic option during their cycle, and provides additional income to the women making the pads. The pads are zebra-striped to ensure that the benefits of this project are associated directly with Grevy's zebra. The Nkirreten Project is going from strength to strength, with the recent construction of a new building for the project, where the ladies can work protected from the elements, and where we can safely store our materials and completed pads (Pic.16). Most schools in the Wamba region have now been visited to create awareness of this initiative, with some schools participating in the testing of the pads, providing useful feedback on the design. Successful Grevy's zebra conservation is inextricably tied to the livelihoods of the people living with the zebras. By investing in improving the livelihoods of women and their communities, we strengthen their intrinsic connection to the Grevy's zebra.

Grevy's Zebra Warriors and Camel Patrols

GZT is working to conserve one of the most important yet least protected populations of Grevy's zebra in Laisamis, northern Kenya. This population has been prioritized for conservation investment in Kenya's national Grevy's Zebra Conservation and Management Strategy. Key threats affecting the species in this region include limited access to water during the dry season, loss of grazing habitat, lethal mud flats caused by flooding of the Milgis River and sporadic poaching.

GZT's Grevy's Zebra Warrior Program was established in 2012 as a response to the above threats. The program employs ten Warriors who monitor the species and conduct community outreach to raise conservation awareness. In 2015, the Warrior Program expanded to include geo-referenced photographic data collection and the use of camels to access remote lava plateaus to account for the shifting distribution of Grevy's zebra during the dry season. In 2017, the Warriors were trained in the use of SMART by our partners at the Zoological Society of London (Pic.17). Using this software will ultimately increase the effectiveness of our conservation management through enhanced monitoring and analysis.

As a result of the drought, the Grevy's Zebra Warriors conducted more camel patrols during the year, accessing the dry season grazing zones that Grevy's zebra inhabit. In 2017, there were 121 camel patrol days compared to 42 in 2016.

The Grevy's Zebra Warriors collected data on 2,543 Grevy's zebra through 437 encounters with the species during the camel patrols. The age class of the Grevy's zebra observed reveals a relatively healthy, stable age structure with juveniles and foals comprising a combined 28% of the population. This is an excellent result given the challenging environmental conditions that the Grevy's zebra have faced, and suggests that our management interventions were successful in increasing the survival rate of foals and juveniles during drought.

Securing and Restoring Vital Resources for Grevy's Zebra

The Grevy's zebra range lies in arid to semi-arid habitat and permanent water is a limited resource. Ever more frequently occurring droughts as well as human development are altering the availability and access of water for wildlife further, and in some cases are making water less available to Grevy's zebra. This is a threat to the survival of foals as lactating mothers are forced to travel further between grazing areas and water points. In one case we have measured an increase in commuting distance of over 20Km. Foals are unable to commute over long distances and lactating females are forced to drink every day to maintain their milk. Foals will therefore perish as their mother's milk supplies deplete and cannot sustain the weakened animals in these long commutes.

GZT manages dry season water access to alleviate the stress on Grevy's zebra and ensure they have access throughout the dry season. Twelve critical Grevy's zebra water points in Laisamis, Wamba and El Barta were managed by GZT in 2017 to increase water availability to Grevy's zebra. Camera traps placed at some of these water points reveal that high numbers of Grevy's zebra accessed the water points, while hyenas were also frequently recorded. This intervention significantly improves the chances of survival for Grevy's zebra populations in water-scarce areas, and also helps other wildlife. Access to water is managed in three ways:

- Construction of dedicated drinking troughs and pans for wildlife at existing water sources
- Digging shallow wells in dry season river beds for exclusive wildlife use
- Filling temporary troughs at wells that are too deep for Grevy's zebra to access

GZT also engages Water Monitors from the local community to manage these water points on a daily basis and monitor utilisation. In areas that are more remote, camera traps are deployed to capture drinking activity (Pic.18).

Pic. 18: Grevy's zebra drinking from GZT-managed Suyian water point © GZT.

Grevy's Zebra Mortality

In 2017 GZT recorded a more than 5% loss of Kenya's Grevy's zebra population with a total of 121 Grevy's zebra found dead during the course of the year. This mortality only includes GZT's area of operation and not Laikipia or Lewa. The leading cause of death was disease and drought (57%) followed by predation (12%), poaching (10%), vehicle collisions on the A2 (7%), cross-fire (3%), injury (2%), drowning in a flood (1%) and falling into a gully (1%). 7% of deaths had unknown causes. In terms of location, Wamba had the most mortalities (72%), followed by El Barta (16%) and Laisamis (12%).

Healing Rangelands & the Grass Guardians

In 2017, GZT continued to work on building capacity within six community conservancies, under the leadership of Peter Lalampaa, our Rangelands Manager. The scope of work was then revised to focus more intensively on three conservancies only – Westgate, Kalama and Oldonyiro. Activities included training of conservancy boards, village-based committees, the protection of dry season grazing areas, planning grazing during the November rains, clearing Acacia reficiens and working on strengthening governance of rangelands (Pic.19).

Pic. 19: Training a village-based committee in Oldonyiro Conservancy © GZT

Due to the drought and lack of rain, it was difficult to achieve tangible results; however, we are optimistic that if rains are adequate in 2018, there will be significant recovery in the targeted areas.

Lkirammat Nkujit, or the 'Grass Guardians' is a club, composed of children from Westgate Conservancy, whose goal is to conserve the grass in their rangelands. Rangelands are impacted mainly by herding practices and, given that many herders are in fact children, it was critical to include this demographic in our conservation work. The Grass Guardians club (Pic.20) was established in August 2016, and its 32 members are composed equally of girls and boys of both herder and school-going children.

GZT held its annual meeting with the Grass Guardians in December, where the club members reported back on their activities over the past year. The members have formed new lokerens (small livestock enclosures) and have concentrated on creating awareness amongst the community on conservation issues. Some of the Grass Guardians have been successful in stopping hunting of wildlife, such as dik dik, by local children in their area, while others have helped to get illegal settlements moved. Plans for 2018 include recruiting new members to the club and better management of lokerens and planned grazing.

The club members also took part in the Safari to Samburu in December, along with 10 other children from Samburu North. As well as interacting with children from a different area and sharing new experiences with them, the Grass Guardians were able to talk to the school children about relevant environmental issues and the solutions they are implementing.

Environmental Education

Successful environmental outreach requires broad connections at many levels, and action by children is one of the most effective ways to initiate change in the behaviour of adults.

Our school outreach program aims to increase knowledge about Grevy's zebra and the environment as a whole and how students can help conserve the species, in an interactive and fun manner. Our Warrior, Ambassador and Scout programs all have a school outreach component, and we aim to visit three schools in each program.

Each school receives two visits a year. First school visits involve theoretical lessons where the children are taught about Grevy's zebra, their ecology and ways that they can support conservation efforts. The second school visits are more practical and involve drawings and group discussions to evaluate the children's understanding. In 2017, close to 900 school children were engaged in environmental outreach activities by GZT.

Safari to Samburu

Through our community workshops and schools visits, it was realized that local children have little understanding of wildlife, as much of it has disappeared from their areas. Wildlife has suffered from increased poaching due to a rise in illegal firearms, using wildlife for food during livestock raids, using wildlife for target shooting, and being killed by stray bullets during livestock raids.

GZT has therefore initiated a “Safari to Samburu”, which gives children from Samburu North, where wildlife is in low numbers and nervous, the opportunity to experience areas where diverse and abundant wildlife is more habituated (Pic.21). It is also an opportunity to build trust and friendship between the children from two different ethnic groups – the Samburu and Turkana.

The safari typically involves ten Samburu and Turkana children from two different schools, who are brought to the GZT field camp in Westgate community conservancy. Here they have the opportunity to interact with children from the Grass Guardians, as well as the Grevy’s Zebra Scholarship girls, and they are able to share different knowledge and learn from each other.

Over three days, the group learns more about wildlife, in particular Grevy’s zebra, through presentations from the GZT team and game drives in the Bufflao Springs and Samburu National Reserves.

It is often the first time the children get to see certain species, such as crocodiles and water buck, as well as such a diversity of species that no longer occur in their home areas as they have been extirpated as a result of poaching.

At the end of the three days, the children discuss in groups what they have learnt and what messages they will be taking home to their families and peers about their experiences and wildlife conservation.

Grevy’s Zebra Scholarships

We award secondary school scholarships to promising students from communities that host Grevy’s zebra populations. The pastoral communities of northern Kenya are economically marginalized and this type of support to the education of their children is highly valued; it builds the capacity of the future generation and is a major catalyst in changing attitudes towards wildlife.

In 2017, five young girls were selected by the Grevy’s Zebra Trust to receive bursaries to further their secondary school education (Pic.22). Mercy, Rosalyn, Philomena, Nataly and Irene all received places at St Theresa’s Secondary Boarding School in Wamba and have excelled during their first year of studies. In addition, GZT is sponsoring a young student, Ben Elipan from Baragoi, through secondary school at Ndururumo High School in Laikipia. Ben is an orphan who scored very highly in his KCPE exams. He is currently in Form 1 and is doing very well at his new school.

Supporting Exams

The Grevy's Zebra Trust supports the printing of mock exams every year for school children in Grade 10. The aim of this initiative is to help the children practice their exams and allow their teachers to identify subjects that need further tuition, thus increasing their success in passing their Kenya Certificate of Primary Education (KCPE).

FOR QUESTIONS ON ANY OF THE ABOVE, PLEASE CONTACT ME AND I WILL EITHER PROVIDE INFORMATION DIRECTLY OR APPROPRIATE CONTACT DETAILS.

We would like to acknowledge all those organisations and private individuals who worked for and supported Grevy's zebra conservation in 2017:

Explanations

All animals registered in the studbook have been issued with a unique studbook number. These numbers allow access to specimen information as well as genetic and demographic analysis for population management.

The regularity of contact (or the lack of contact) with holding institutions, is constantly monitored. If no information has been given for an individual for a considerable time and all efforts to receive information from an institution prove to be fruitless, all animals for this holder will be listed as "lost to follow up" and be removed from the published studbook.

Breeder Numbers (see example below): with the advanced options of recording and analysing information in ZIMS, breeder numbers will no longer be issued for new animals as this will only add unnecessary work for the registrars and the studbook keeper.

Studbook numbers have been issued to all animals, even if stillborn or aborted. Please make sure you report even stillbirths and abortions to the studbook as such data inform about the reproductive history of the parent animals and may prove useful for future research projects.

Identification problems:

The problem of identification can occur in those collections where animals are run as a large herd in such a way that the dams of foals are not identifiable. In these cases "MULT" is used to indicate that the individual "Sire" or "Dam" are not known, but the overall group from which the parent animals derive are known.

Death and Post Mortem:

Upon the death of an animal, please provide a copy of the Post Mortem Report or a short statement of the cause of death to the Studbook Keeper at Marwell Wildlife, so that any trends of diseases or other problems affecting the survival of the Grevys in captivity can be identified.

Studbook Legend

Stud#:	Animal's permanent studbook number. Studbook numbers may not always be assigned chronologically, due to animals being recorded as they become known to the Studbook Keeper.
Sex:	M for male, m for castrated male, F for female, cont if contracepted, neut if neutered, U for unknown sex
Birth Date:	Animal's birth date. A tilde mark, '~', before a date indicates that it is approximate. '??' indicates that the date is unknown.
Sire and Dam:	Studbook numbers for the animal's sire and dam. 'UNK' if unknown. 'MULT' if several candidates have been identified. 'WILD' if the sire or dam was considered to be wildcaught - this animal is a founder.
Location:	The institution holding the animal at the time. If the animal is no longer traceable by the Studbook Keeper, 'ltf' (lost-to-followup) will appear to the right of the last known location.
Date:	The date on which the event occurred. A tilde mark, '~', before a date indicates that it is approximate. '??' indicates that the date is unknown.
Local ID:	The identification assigned by the specimen's location, often its ISIS number, house number, or occasionally house name.
Event:	Capture, Birth, Transfer, Loan, Ownership change, Death or Release
Identifiers:	House Name, Transponder, Tag/Band, Tattoo, Notch
