Safely view the solar eclipse

Submitted by Shannon Smith, CEA for Family and Consumer Sciences

Much of the state will be able to see parts of solar eclipse Monday, Aug. 21, with some areas of Western Kentucky experiencing a total solar eclipse. As you look to the skies, remember to take the proper precautions to protect your eyesight.

It is never safe to look directly at the sun unless you are in the region of a total solar eclipse. Glaring at the sun for any length of time may result in a serious eye injury in which the retina is damaged by the sun's radiation. In most cases, this condition, known as eclipse blindness, a victim's eyesight recovers, but some people have lost part or all of their vision.

Only a 70-mile-wide path roughly from Madisonville to Mayfield will be in a total solar eclipse on Aug. 21. If you are outside this area, you will need to wear eye protection when viewing the eclipse, and within the total solar eclipse area, you'll need eye protection until the moon completely covers the sun. While phases of the eclipse will last for at least two hours, the total solar eclipse will only last about two minutes and 40 seconds. You will need to put eye protection back on as the sun begins to poke out from behind the moon.

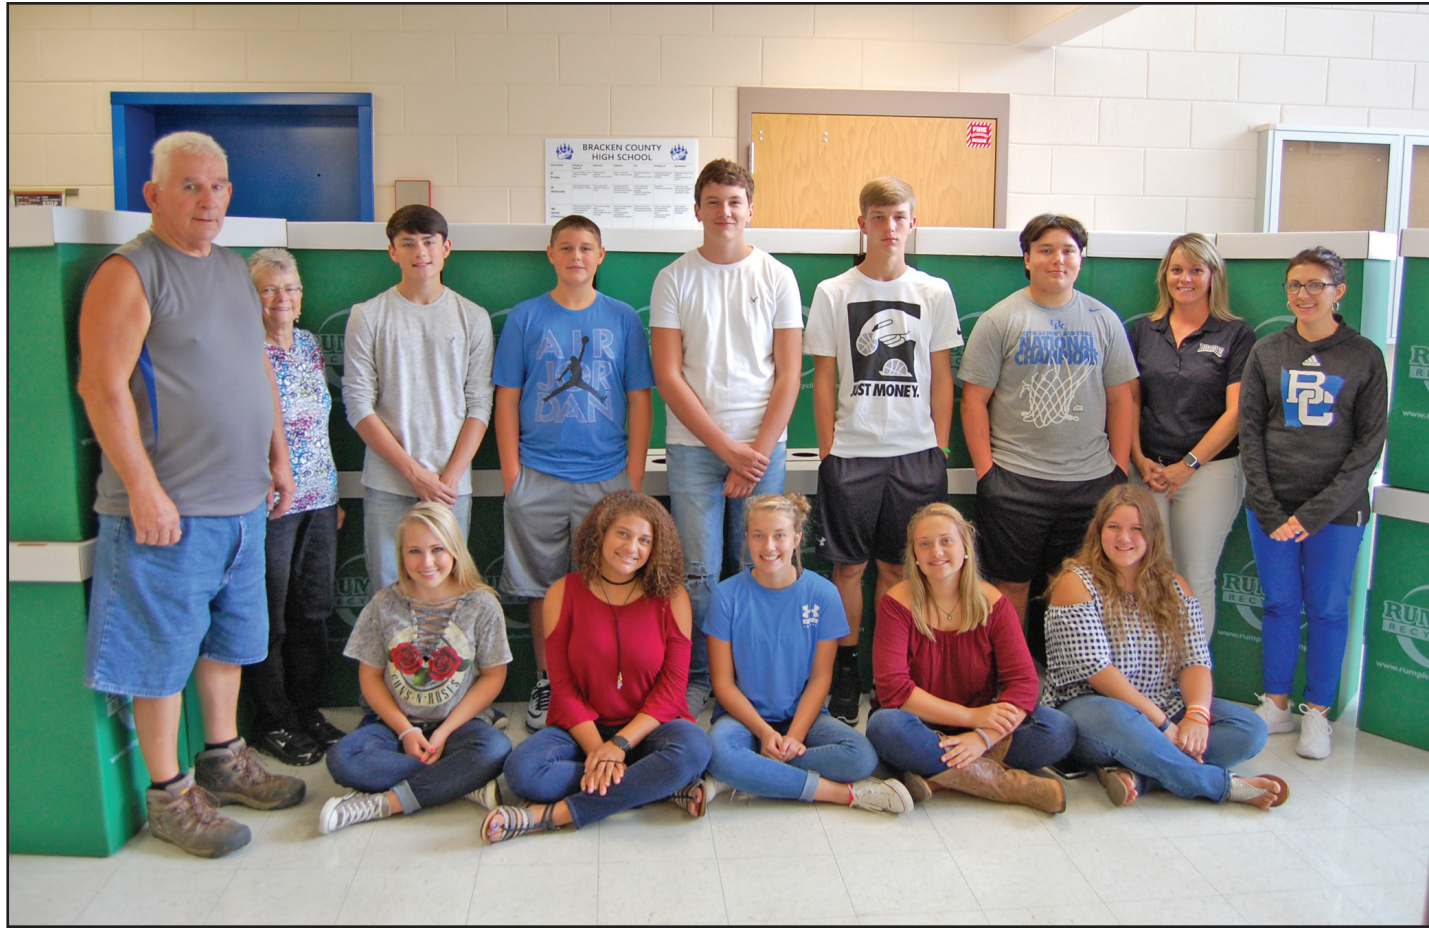

To safely look at the uneclipsed or partially eclipsed sun, you need to wear eclipse glasses that contain special purpose solar filters or handheld solar viewers that meet international standards. These glasses should be marked as meeting the international standard of ISO 12312-2 or ISO 12312-2:2015. Five manufacturers are certified to make these products. They are Rainbow Symphony, American Paper Optics, Thousand Oaks Optical, TSE 17 and Baader Planetarium. Even with these products, do not use them if they have scratches, tears or are coming loose from their frames as they will not provide adequate protection.

Sunglasses, no matter how dark, and homemade filters are not safe for viewing the sun. If you are photographing the event or viewing it through a telescope or binoculars, make sure your instrument has a solar filter attached to the lens. Otherwise, you will not get complete eye protection, even if you are wearing the appropriate eclipse glasses.

Educational programs of the Cooperative Extension Service serve all people regardless of economic or social status and will not discriminate on the basis of race, color, ethnic origin, national origin, creed, religion, political belief, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expressions, pregnancy, marital status, genetic information, age, veteran status, or physical or mental disability.

Beta Club begins recycling program at Bracken County High School

The Bracken County High School Beta Club has taken on a new project this school year. As members, we have started a recycling project within the school building where every classroom has a recycling box that students can use to help better the environment. Starting at the end of this week, Beta Club students will take a green recycling box to every teacher's classroom. Other Beta Club students will then do a collection of all the recycling and place it in the recycling receptacle outside. We are hoping our peers will become more aware of the recycling process and take the information they are learning in school home with them.

Shannon Kirk says, "Recycling is a big project that can help to better our community. We as Beta Club members want to do what we can to help our community."

Brooklyn Sumner reminds her peers, "There are lots of things you can do with recycled materials. You just have to be creative."

Augusta Christian Church News

by Wanda & Marlene Bruce Heller, Minister
 This Sunday was very warm and pretty. We are still on "Restoring A Broken Relationship" but this was the last Sunday for it. We must live in peace with others. Show people love and do something good for someone. Remember it is better to give than to receive. By the grace of God we are forgiven.

Our message was "Our Awesome God", Joshua 24-14-24.

Donna Osborne sang "Oh I Want To See Him". She is such a good singer and she gets better all the time.

Our mission: Evangelize the lost, edify the saved, and minister to those in need.

Opening prayer was by Jerry Zeigler. Closing prayer by Owen Shackelford.

Wednesday Night "Refresh" is 7 p.m. Bring your Bible and a friend.

We want to pray for the family of Betty McClanahan, family of Geneva Pollard, family of Patrick Hinson and the ones who are sick & hurting, Bill Montgomery, Terry Norris, the ones in the Armed Forces, and don't forget the ones going off to college.

Thoughts and Meditations from the Scriptures

WE KNOW THE GOOD WE OUGHT TO DO

Most of the time when we sin we are fully aware that we are doing so. We know what we ought to do but our selfish sinful nature leads us astray. We rationalize our sins by telling ourselves that no one is being hurt, or that no one will know, or that everyone acts this way. Driving over the speed limit is a good example of this. When we drive over the speed limit, we are usually aware of the fact and rationalize our bad driving behavior by telling ourselves we really aren't hurting anyone (even though we know the speed limit is set for reasons of public safety). Or we might tell ourselves that no one is going to catch us doing this, and everyone else seems to be going over the speed limit too. One who rationalizes these small or "venial" sins will probably find it easy to rationalize larger and more serious sins as well. We know the good we ought to do, we just don't want to do it. We should all make a more serious effort to do the right thing, all the time, and without rationalizing our lapses into sin. — Christopher Simon

"If anyone, then, knows the good they ought to do and doesn't do it, it is sin for them." — James 4:17 NIV

 We invite all to come and worship with our family of believers. Sunday services begin with Sunday School at 10 a.m., morning worship with Rev. Dan Black at 11 a.m. and Sunday night services are held at 7 p.m. Please join us for a wonderful time in the Lord.

This past Sunday morning Brother Black's message was taken from John 11:45-53 and titled "What Will You Do With Jesus?"

PRESBYTERIAN POTPOURRI

by Les Grooms, pastor Augusta Presbyterian
 Today we had our monthly business meeting where plans for the church are approved and discussed for the future. A financial statement was presented and reviewed. The Session, our administrative body, is made up of men and women elders.

Lynn Darnell was the liturgist and Susie Hargett led the singing. A beautiful special was sung by Shirley Gallenstein.

My message revolved around having a positive attitude toward life.

Our Soup Supper continues Monday night and this week is pasta night.

We are having more and more taking advantage of our Food Pantry. Last month we had 69 families and this month we are expecting about 90 families. We are getting a lot of fresh vegetables from the warehouse in Wilder. We also are offering more meat than previously. We usually have bread products and sometimes we have milk. We never know what will be available each week. Our Food Pantry is open on Tuesdays from 1 p.m. to about 2:30 p.m.

Come and join us at 10:45 on Sunday mornings.

 Church Picnic Day Sunday! What a blessing to have God in charge! Weather, food, fun, fellowship . . . Awesome!!!

These next few weeks maybe we should insert "The Hurting" into our mission statement, which is normally "Learning to love < > like Jesus". But where do we start? How about 1 Cor: Chapter 13 also known as the love chapter. If we don't have love for God, no matter what we do, it will fade away. Ron reminded us to stay in the Bible, remember how much God love us, and talk to God daily.

All Sunday evening programs resume Aug. 20.

Aug. 27 - we celebrate a miracle named Kayleigh Jefferson with a shower for her and her parents, Trev & Alex, immediately following service.

Sept. 8 - Women's Retreat at Camp Northward. Please register by Aug. 19. All women are encouraged to attend.

NEW LIFE FELLOWSHIP

Upcoming events: Aug. 27 - We will be ministering to the residents at the Bracken Co. Nursing & Rehab Center; Sept. 3 - New Life will be holding Sunday morning services at Heritage Days in Augusta at Appleman Park; Sept. 16 - Ladies Day out shopping in Dayton, OH and eating lunch afterwards. We will be leaving the church at 7 a.m.; Sept. 24 - Ron Taylor will be visiting with us and giving his testimony on his ministry with the Vietnam Veterans.

We were glad to see Russell and Sharon Groves at this past Wednesday evening service. Sharon is recovering from lung surgery.

We invite you to our services here at New Life. Our Wednesday evening meal begins at 6 p.m. and prayer service at 6:30 p.m. Kingdom Builders classes for all ages begin at 9:30 a.m. and praise and worship is at 10:30 a.m. Remember God loves you and so do we!

GREETINGS FROM ST. JAMES

by Caroline Jefferson
 On Friday, August 25, St. James Men's Group will be hosting a Fish Fry and all are cordially invited to join us from 5-7 PM for good food and great fellowship!

Very shortly parishioners will be receiving their tickets to sell for our major raffle that is normally associated with our July Ice Cream Social. Unforeseen delays resulted in the raffle being pushed back to November 3, but, who knows, it may start a whole new way of presenting the raffle! Tickets remain $1 each and the prizes are $1,000, a quilt, and three afghans! On the evening of Friday, November 3 the doors of the Parish Hall will open for St. James very first Quarter Auction! Refreshments can be purchased at that time along with paddles for the auction with bidding and the major raffle drawing to follow! Times will be announced in the near future, and we are looking forward to a fun evening with great items for you to win and maybe even take home $1,000! Of course, you need not be present to win any of the raffle prizes. Blessings to all for a beautiful week ahead!

Gov. Bevin Launches 'Message of Hope' Campaign as part of Don't Let Them Die Initiative

Governor Bevin's office will begin placing painted rocks around Kentucky in order to raise awareness for Kentucky's opioid epidemic and the "Don't Let Them Die" (DLTD) initiative.

"Though this promotion is intended to be encouraging and fun, it seeks to raise awareness across the Commonwealth about a tragically serious epidemic," said Amanda Stamper, Director of Communications. "Last year, 1,404 Kentuckians died as a result of an opioid overdose. Gov. Bevin is committed to providing the policies and resources necessary to ensure we eradicate this scourge."

Painted rock searches, a form of hide-and-go-seek, is a new, wildly popular trend. The concept is simple: volunteers paint and decorate rocks, then place them for others to find. When one finds a painted rock they can photograph themselves with it and then post the photo to their social media outlet of choice. Finders are encouraged to then hide the rock for others to find. The goal is not to find and keep the rocks, but to make continue placing them for others to discover.

The DLTD painted rock campaign will be promoted on the Governor's social media pages, including his new Instagram account. In addition to decorative art, these rocks will include a brief message of encouragement and hope, as well as the URL DontLetThemDie.com, a website providing information about opioids, treatment options, and the overdose antidote, naloxone. Rocks for this campaign will initially be hidden in the Frankfort, Lexington and Louisville areas but the Governor's office hopes to have rocks placed in all 120 Kentucky counties within two weeks.

The "Don't Let Them Die" theme encourages Kentuckians to recognize the inherent value of human life — even in the grip of addiction — and take proactive steps to support their friends, family and communities as they overcome this crisis. Kentuckians can help spread the word by painting and hiding their own rocks with DontLetThemDie.com painted on the back and sharing on social media using hashtag #DLTD.

St. Patrick School
Makes Plans to Open
Preschool This Year

St. Patrick School announced the establishment of a Montessori-based preschool classroom open for business beginning with the 2017-2018 academic year. With an intensive commitment of resources, St. Patrick School, a non-profit outreach ministry of St. Patrick Church, offers students a faith-based learning environment open to families of all denominations.

Director Bonnie Davis will employ a Montessori curriculum that emphasizes social and educational experience, complimented by manipulative activities supportive to self-motivated learning. There are also plans in the works to enhance the academic curriculum with fine arts offerings, including a Kindermusik program.

Fourteen (14) students are already registered for the upcoming school year. The preschool will feature a full-day, five-day-a-week academic program for 3- to 5-year-olds. If the demand stays strong, St. Patrick will expand the class size and hire additional staff. Interested families may contact the school at 606-564-5949 to request an application.

"This is just one of many initiatives to offer new and improved services to our community," said Fr. Jacob Straub. "Mr. Cooper and I share a long-term vision of growth for St. Patrick School and opening a preschool is a decisive first step in fulfilling that vision. We have much to celebrate today."

"This announcement provides relief to so many families who were caught off guard when Nativity Montessori closed about a month ago," said parent Kelli Nealey. "This new school will help fill the community need for a strong academic based preschool. My children are very anxious for school to start!"

About St. Patrick School: Founded in 1860, St. Patrick School is a non-profit, Roman Catholic, PK-12 college-preparatory, and parochial school. The St. Patrick School mission is to provide a well-rounded educational experience that produces men and women who model high academic standards, deep moral values, and strong personal character.

TRASH TALK
by: Mr. Recycle Bin & Ms. Pick-Up Litterbug
606-735-9960

Howdy Folks! School is in session and we are looking forward to working with the Beta Club at Bracken County High School who has adopted RECYCLING as their project this year! These young adults under the watchful eye of Mrs. Katie Cannon their club sponsor is looking forward to making a difference in their lives and many others! Through a series of phone calls (Mrs. Cannon called Mrs. Melanie Thornsbury who called us and we contacted Rumpke Municipal Account Development Specialist, Robin Klaber) the project began this past Friday, August 11! Ms. Klaber was able to obtain 32 recycling boxes for the group with one placed in each of the 32 high school classrooms. Beta Club members will have the responsibility of making sure the contents of the boxes are recycling and then will be emptying them into the school's recycling trailer! We are excited for this enthusiastic group and hope that their experiences will lead to a lifetime commitment of recycling and that they will pass this knowledge and commitment on to their children!

In our opinion recycling is important because of two main factors: 1) the natural resources we have on this earth are limited and 2) landfill space is limited! Unfortunately, we have become very much 'a throw-away' society. Products are not made to last a lifetime and cannot be repaired once they stop working. One example quickly comes to mind as childhood memories surface! Grandpa Jones was a barber and he used a straight razor to shave his customers as did many men of that era. Next came the razors with replaceable blades which were made to last a long time. Now we have the disposable razor that is meant to be used a few (?) times and tossed into the garbage to go to - where else but the landfill! Even with all our modern conveniences we are still stressed for time and are continually looking for ways to save it!

We 'kinda' got off track as we wanted to talk about the material that goes into the recycling trailer that should not! When we picked the trailer up at Milford on Friday it was obvious that we need the Beta Club to stand guard! There were pieces of vinyl siding, old fan parts, lots of Styrofoam in lots of boxes that were not flattened, plastic sheeting and bags of plastic bags among other things! We understand that plastic is plastic to some folks and it should all be recyclable, but that is just not the case for our area. Unfortunately, we do have to send items to landfills that in other areas are recyclable, but we need to limit, as much as possible, the amount of garbage that does get tossed. At our age we have learned that in anything, you do your best and pray for the rest! So for Bracken County, the best we can do is to accept plastics that have the #1 and #2 in the chasing arrows recycling symbol and know that future generations will take care of the rest!

Please don't forget about our C.U.B. Party with a random prize drawing of $100 for anyone who does an outdoor cleanup project and enters the contest! Anyone who participates in the road cleans through our office is eligible to enter, anyone who tackles an outdoor project at home can enter and even the little ones who help can enter! Drawing will be Friday, December 22!

Let's do our best to develop those wonderful habits of REFUSING to Litter, RECYCLING, REUSING and REDUCING to keep God's earth clean, green and beautiful! Be seein' you - Bin & Bug.

BRACKEN COUNTY CONSERVATION DISTRICT FISCAL YEAR 2017 ANNUAL REPORT

Soil Conservation Districts are governmental subdivisions of the state of Kentucky. Districts are created and authorized as a result of the 1940 Kentucky General Assembly passing enabling legislation KRS Chapter 262, which permitted local farmers to petition and establish conservation districts. In 1941, the first Kentucky conservation was organized.

The BCSCD is located at 218 Frankfort Street in Brooksville. In May of 2009, the Bracken County Soil District purchased their building, pictured above, to maintain a local presence in the county.

AGRICULTURAL DISTRICTS

In 1982, the Kentucky General Assembly set forth the agricultural district law. It is the policy of this law "to provide a means by which agricultural land may be protected and enhanced as a viable segment of the state's economy and as an important resource." The Conservation District Board of Supervisors acts as the administrative body for the agricultural districts. If land owners submit a petition, the conservation district board reviews it, notifies the fiscal court and other planning boards, and then submit their recommendations to the state soil and water commission.

COOPERATING AGENCIES

The Bracken County Conservation District is very fortunate to have cooperating agricultural agencies and businesses as a part of their ongoing program. These also play an important part in the lives of all landowners and farmers in Bracken County. The Conservation District sincerely thanks the following for their support: Natural Resources Conservation Service, Bracken County Fiscal Court, Farm Service Agency, Rural Economic, Community Development, Cooperative Extension Service, Division of Forestry, Department of Fish and Wildlife, Division of Conservation, Division of Water, The Bracken County News, Bracken County Road Department, Bracken County Solid Waste and the local banks: First National Bank of Brooksville, US Bank of Augusta and Citizens Deposit Bank.

The United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) prohibits discrimination in its programs on the basis of race, color, national origin, gender, religion, age, disability, political beliefs, sexual orientation, or marital or familial status.

PURPOSE

The Bracken County SCD was organized as the 36th such district in Kentucky on September 15, 1943. The district's objective is to provide assistance and guidance in wisely managing our natural resources, soil and water, for the continued use of present and future generations. Proper land use and curbing soil and water degradation are two of the district's many ongoing objectives. Through the district program, the public is made aware of these problems, their efforts and possible solutions.

INTRODUCTION

The Bracken Soil Conservation District assists individuals, groups, organizations, city, county and state governments with solving local problems relating to soil and water resources.

The District Board of Supervisors meets the first Tuesday of each month to review the annual plan of work and the long range conservation plan. Activities and services are carried out to promote soil and water conservation throughout the year. Technical services rendered to applicants are provided by the Natural Resources Conservation Service.

By written agreement with and at the request of the Board of Supervisors, the Natural Resources Conservation Service (formerly SCS) provides professionals to help plan and carry out the district's goals.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS:

YOUR CONSERVATION PLAN

If you have any questions about the 1985, 1990, 1996, 2002, 2008 or 2014 Farm Bills, we will be glad to assist you. The office is located on Frankfort Street in Brooksville and the phone number is 606-735-3256 ext. 3.

Make sure that you have a thorough understanding of what your conservation compliance plan calls for. Remember, sow a cover crop after harvest on all highly erodible tilled land by November 1st of each year.

The plan stays with the land. You must follow the existing plan or get a new plan if you buy or lease new land.

AVAILABLE EQUIPMENT

The Bracken County Conservation District has purchased two Great Plains no-till drills. The district also has two in-line bale wrappers. These are available for rent.

CONSERVATION DISTRICT ACTIVITIES

The Conservation District promotes and assists in the conservation of our natural resources by the following activities:

POSTER & ESSAY CONTESTS

The annual conservation poster and essay contests, sponsored by the Conservation District, The Louisville Courier Journal and Kentucky Farm Bureau, were very popular with local students. The theme for this year's contests was "Backyard Adventure: Exploring the trees in your hometown".

A total of 210 posters and 90 essays were entered by area students. Participating classrooms were honored with a pizza party compliments of the local banks. Sarah Quitter entered the 1st place poster. Delaney Bradford entered the 1st place essay.

WATER QUALITY/WATERSHEDS

The Conservation District has watershed maps available. The new website to complete water quality plans is <http://www.uky.edu/bac/awqp>.

EROSION CONTROL

The Conservation District encourages farmers to use conservation practices to control erosion on cropland, hayland and pastureland. Such practices include minimum or no-till plantings, contouring, stripcropping and adequate livestock watering systems. This is done through the Natural Resources Conservation Service Offices by the news media, articles, field days and through farm planning.

CONSERVATION FARM PLANS:

The 1985, 1990, 1996, 2002, 2008 and 2014 Farm Bills have placed much emphasis on farm planning and erosion control. The Conservation District and the Natural Resources Conservation Service continue to provide landowners' solutions in planning and establishing approved soil conservation measures for their land. A soil conservation plan for producers (tobacco, corn, etc.) is necessary to remain eligible for U.S.D.A. benefits.

STATE & AREA MEETINGS

The Area 5 Spring Meeting was held in March at Pendleton County. The State Meeting was held July 9-11 in Louisville, KY.

SCHOOL INVOLVED ACTIVITIES

The Bracken County Conservation District in conjunction with other local agencies moved the annual Safety Day into the school where safety topics were discussed and students received t-shirts and goody bags.

The Conservation District works closely with the county's school districts to offer numerous school involvement activities.

Each Year the Conservation District promotes Earth Day! Tree seedlings are distributed to all 4th grade students each spring. Earth Day T-shirts have been presented to all 3rd grade students to emphasize the importance of conservation of our natural resources.

Auction to benefit Augusta College Echo Hall a huge success

Staging girls!

Augusta College Echo Hall Association had another successful fundraiser to raise money to rescue the Augusta College boarding house.

It was an old-fashioned auction of items donated for the purpose of helping the association save Echo Hall. Augusta's talented Leah Frederick was the auctioneer and Ginni Mohrfield Sullivan and Jackie Hopkins were the organizers of the event.

One member even brought home-made ice cream - the berry was the best according to the young visitors.

ACEHA appreciate all the bidders and want them to know what a huge success the event was.

Prediabetes Prevention Campaign

As part of the 52 Weeks of Public Health campaign, the Kentucky Department of Public Health (DPH) within the Cabinet of Health and Family Services (CHFS) highlights a new national campaign to bring awareness about prediabetes.

New national data just released from CDC noted that 84 million American adults (more than 1 in 3) have prediabetes, which is a condition in which blood glucose (sugar) levels are high, but not high enough yet to be classified as type 2 diabetes. People with prediabetes have increased risks to their long-term health, including developing type 2 diabetes, heart attack, and stroke. According to the CDC, nearly 90 percent of people with prediabetes are not aware they have the condition. In Kentucky, it is estimated that more than 1.1 million Kentucky adults have prediabetes.

Janice Haile, a registered nurse and certified Diabetes Educator with the Kentucky Diabetes Prevention and Control Program (KDPCP) within the DPH was excited to hear that the CDC recently shared new prediabetes messages to help get the word out about what can be done to prevent or delay type 2 diabetes.

"A third of those with prediabetes will develop type 2 diabetes within 5 years unless, they, and their healthcare team, address this issue. The good news is there is something we can do once we know a person has prediabetes," said Janice Haile.

The National Diabetes Prevention Program (National DPP), a lifestyle change program recognized through the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, has been proven to cut the risk of developing type 2 diabetes by half in those who have prediabetes. Studies show that losing just 5 to 7 percent of body weight, by eating healthier and increasing physical activity, can help prevent or delay type 2 diabetes (for a person who weighs 200 pounds, that's about 10 to 15 pounds).

Ms. Haile also said, "The KDPCP has been working with the Kentucky Diabetes Network, the University of Louisville, the University of Kentucky, the Kentucky Coordinating Body of the American Association of Diabetes Educators (AADE), the American Diabetes Association (ADA) and other partners to increase awareness and testing for prediabetes. These diabetes advocates are banding together to encourage Kentuckians to take the first step by visiting DoIHavePrediabetes.org to take the 1-minute risk test. If a person finds out they are at risk for prediabetes, then they will need to speak with their healthcare professional to confirm their diagnosis."

To find out about DPP in your community, visit the Kentucky Diabetes Resource Directory at <https://prd.chfs.ky.gov/KYDiabetesResources/> (search the category for Diabetes Prevention Program / DPP Organizations) or the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention at <http://www.cdc.gov/diabetes/prevention/index.html>.

Throughout the planned 52 Weeks of Public Health promotion, DPH will spotlight a specific public health issue. Additional information about the campaign is available on the DPH website: <http://chfs.ky.gov/dph/default.htm> and will be posted on the CHFS Facebook page: <http://www.facebook.com/kychfs> where Kentuckians are encouraged to like and share posts among their networks of friends.

The following health and safety tips are from the American Academy of Pediatrics (AAP).

knows about the bullying can watch out for your child's safety and well being when you cannot be there.

Bracken starts new year with new faces

Working in a farm successor as part of a retirement plan

By Wyatt Fraas,
Center for Rural Affairs

Are you one of the many farmers without an identified farm successor? Purdue University says that's around 75 percent, and about half expect nonfamily members to take over. A gradual shift of responsibilities and ownership, plus an extended mentoring period, can help ensure the continued success of the farm business.

After checking out a candidate's experience and references, a short trial period with paid labor can be a good step. This probationary period can help both of you assess how well you work together, how your daily priorities match up, and how you deal with setbacks.

A phased transition plan can follow, based on the goals and capabilities of you and your successor. Responsibilities for farm decisions and management can be shifted gradually or by specific enterprises. Critical elements may be held for later, while new enterprises conceived by the new farmer could be her or his full responsibility and ownership right away.

A written transition plan can ensure that timing and responsibilities are clear. A five-year plan for major progress will tell you if it's working.

A new farmer will benefit from your knowledge of your land and from your experience in the business. Remaining a minority partner or a mentor gives access to your valuable advice. However, there are no guarantees of the farm business surviving the transfer, or indeed, from any year to the next under your control. You

Kirk named Athletic Director at Augusta Independent

Rebecca Arnold has stepped down as the school's Athletic Director after serving in the position for the last five years. Arnold also serves as the FRYSC Coordinator. In the coming year, she will take on additional responsibility in the district as she takes on the role of Community Education Director. Replacing Arnold as Athletic Director will be Brian Kirk, effective July 1, 2017.

Kirk, who is starting his third year at Augusta Independent, also serves as the school's health and P.E. teacher and the boys' varsity basketball coach. During his time in the district, he has assisted with various operations within the athletic department.

Coach Kirk came to Augusta in July of 2015 following a three-year stint as head boys' basketball coach of the Burgin Bulldogs. Prior to that, he served as an assistant coach for Knox County Central for two years. His experience also includes two years as the middle school coach at Barbourville Independent.

A 2004 graduate of Augusta High School, Kirk was the all-time leading scorer when he graduated. Following high school, Kirk continued his education and playing career at Union College, earning a basketball scholarship. He then received his Master's of Arts in Teaching Degree for Health and Physical Education from Morehead State University.

Sticklen promoted to Security Supervisor at Fifth Third Center

Fred Sticklen has been promoted to security supervisor (3rd shift) at Fifth Third Center, Fountain Square, downtown Cincinnati.

Fred has been with G4S / Fifth Third four months as a Custom Protection Officer (CPO). This CPO program is tailored to veterans with qualifying DOD experience. G4S is a globally recognized security company operating in six continents and over 100 countries.

Fred is in charge of his security officers who patrol all of Fountain Square, Fifth Third tower, several surrounding buildings including all Fifth Third tenants. Fred recently received CPO of the month award for action taken in assisting CPD in locating and apprehending an individual reportedly wanting to kill himself with a gun.

Fred says security is heightened during the night time. That's the case for most any large cities. Working alongside CPD, CFD and local EMS is essential to the success of securing Fifth Third employees, customers and property. Fountain Square seems to be a small city in of itself. Fifth Third tenants range from several restaurants, shops, bars and even a brewery. Third shift experiences the typical patrol challenges for security officers ranging from drunken/disorderly, overdoses, fights, thefts, drug dealing and the increasing pan handling and homeless. During free festivities on the square there are upwards of 2500 people making crowd control a priority.

Fred relocated his family from Hampton Roads, VA in summer of 2015 after serving 22 years in the Navy and 18 years as a defense contractor. He joined wife, Sherry, and son, Jack, in spring of 2016. They reside in Lenoxburg.

Video alerts deaf and hard of hearing on watching the upcoming solar eclipse safely

The Kentucky Commission on the Deaf and Hard of Hearing (KCDHH) has created a video that alerts deaf and hard of hearing citizens on how to watch the August 21 solar eclipse safely. According to KCDHH Executive Director Virginia L. Moore, the video has received national attention, receiving over 57,000 views on Facebook and 1,400 shares.

"This is an exciting time for all of Kentucky's citizens," said Moore. "We just want to ensure that deaf and hard of hearing citizens are well informed about this event and take all necessary precautions to protect their vision as they enjoy this historic eclipse."

During the video, a narrator provides information on the eclipse and instructions on viewing it safely in American Sign Language.

"We don't want to damage the sense (eyesight) that we rely so heavily on," the narrator says. "With that in mind, you should know that there are special solar glasses that will protect your eyes while you view the solar eclipse. You can find these glasses in various local stores."

The video goes on to explain how to identify if the solar eclipse viewing glasses are genuine, and how to identify if they have been damaged.

You can view the post on the KCDHH Facebook page at www.facebook.com/KCDHH/ or go to the website, www.kcdhh.ky.gov/, click on the "Vlog" tab and watch the Solar Eclipse 2017 video.

Living large: Freddy Farm Bureau celebrates his 60th year at the Kentucky State Fair

A trip to the Kentucky State Fair is incomplete without a visit to everyone's larger-than-life, denim-clad friend, Freddy Farm Bureau. August 17-27 Freddy returns to his favorite people-watching spot on the front porch of Freedom Hall, sitting tall on his traditional stack of hay bales - and he's eager to visit with friends both new and old.

To celebrate his 60th consecutive year at the State Fair, Freddy will debut new duds as he puts his 18-foot tall frame, extensive farm knowledge and family-friendly banter on display from 9am-8pm daily. As even the casual passerby can imagine, it takes a big man to handle the duties given to Freddy. The good news for Kentucky Farm Bureau's biggest member is that it seems like he was custom-made for telling the story of agriculture. While he's certainly the tallest person in the state never recruited to play basketball, he has always been a huge ambassador for sharing the farmer's story, representing more than 475,000 Farm Bureau member families in the state of Kentucky.

Over the years Freddy Farm Bureau has used his extra-large dose of southern charm to win the hearts of fairgoers and he has even become an unofficial meeting place for many. Freddy talks to and takes pictures with thousands of people each year as they stand by his white picket fence waiting for friends and family to arrive. Whether fairgoers are visiting Freddy Farm Bureau for the very first time or simply reminiscing about their childhood talks to the big man with the never ending smile, they'll want to save a few minutes of their State Fair schedule to see him this year.

Anyone wishing to keep up with Freddy year-round or wanting take in the State Fair from an elevated point of view can also "Like" Freddy Farm Bureau's Facebook page or "Follow" him on Twitter (@FreddyFB) and Instagram(@freddyfarmbureau).

Epizootic Hemorrhagic Disease Reported in Kentucky Deer

Disease not transferrable to humans or pets

Epizootic Hemorrhagic Disease has been reported in white-tailed deer in several east Kentucky counties. The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources received confirmation from the Georgia-based Southeastern Cooperative Wildlife Disease Study Wednesday morning of a Kentucky deer with a strain of the disease.

"Epizootic Hemorrhagic Disease is not transmittable to people or pets," Dr. Iga Stasiak, state wildlife veterinarian for Kentucky Fish and Wildlife. "However, we always recommend that hunters avoid eating venison from deer that were obviously sick."

Epizootic Hemorrhagic Disease (EHD) is a viral disease transmitted to deer through the bite of a midge or gnat. The disease has been present in the United States for more than 60 years. Kentucky Fish and Wildlife receives and confirms EHD deer mortalities sporadically, with a small number of mortalities each year. Larger outbreaks tend occur every 5-7 years. Outbreaks cease at the first frost, which kills the biting bugs.

Gabe Jenkins, big game coordinator for Kentucky Fish and Wildlife, said small outbreaks of EHD also have been reported in the mountainous areas of Tennessee, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Virginia. Kentucky Fish and Wildlife is receiving a growing number of suspected cases.

"We're monitoring this situation closely," Jenkins said. "If we receive little rain between now and the first frost, the numbers could increase because deer are drawn to water. Midges breed along mud banks, so drought would concentrate the deer around larger bodies of water and make them more susceptible to infection."

Deer can exhibit signs of illness within 24 to 72 hours after receiving a bite from an infected midge. Infected deer may appear sluggish and unresponsive to humans. EHD causes dehydration and fever in deer, which causes the animals to seek water. Infected deer are often found dead near bodies of water. Kentucky last had significant outbreaks of EHD in 2007 and 2012.

Anyone who finds a sick deer or a deer they suspect may have died from EHD is encouraged to report the finding to the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. The department staffs a toll-free number weekdays from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. (Eastern). The number is 1-800-858-1549.

Reports can also be emailed to info.center@ky.gov. Reports should include your name, contact information, county and date the deer was found, number of deer found and whether the deer is sick or recently deceased.

The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources is also urging hunters to report any observations of deer that appear to have died of natural causes.

EHD primarily affects white-tailed deer and is most noticeable during the late summer and early fall (August to October). For more information on this disease, visit the Kentucky Fish and Wildlife website at fw.ky.gov and search under the keyword, "EHD."

Novice Showmen working hard at the 163rd Germantown Fair

Every Grand Champion Livestock Exhibitor started out as a novice showman. With daily dedication to their animals and learning from coaches and other exhibitors, they learn how to properly handle their animal. Through 4-H and FFA they are given the chance to pass on what they've learned to those younger than them.

This year's Novice Livestock Showmanship Contest was held on Thursday morning, August 3rd. Some of the Bracken County exhibitors during the Novice Livestock Showmanship Contest can be seen below.

Katie Gifford-Zornes of Kate's Photography again took pictures for each livestock division. She graciously provides each showman with a picture of them showing one of their animals at the fair. Other images from the Livestock Show and Sale are available for viewing, by contacting Katie's Photography, Katie Gifford-Zornes at 859-473-0705.
